i. is, or in the year preceding the commercial release of any new Windows Operating System Product was, distributed separately by Microsoft (or by an entity acquired by Microsoft) from a Windows Operating System Product;

ii. is similar to the functionality provided by a Non-Microsoft Middleware Product; and

iii. is Trademarked.

Functionality that Microsoft describes or markets as being part of a Microsoft Middleware Product (such as a service pack, upgrade, or bug fix for Internet Explorer), or that is a version of a Microsoft Middleware Product (such as Internet Explorer 5.5), shall be considered to be part of that Microsoft Middleware Product.

L. ''Microsoft Platform Software'' means (i) a Windows Operating System Product and/or (ii) a Microsoft Middleware Product.

M. ''Non-Microsoft Middleware'' means a non-Microsoft software product running on a Windows Operating System Product that exposes a range of functionality to ISVs through published APIs, and that could, if ported to or made interoperable with, a non-Microsoft Operating System, thereby make it easier for applications that rely in whole or in part on the functionality supplied by that software product to be ported to or run on that non-Microsoft Operating System.

N. ''Non-Microsoft Middleware Product'' means a non-Microsoft software product running on a Windows Operating System Product (i) that exposes a range of functionality to ISVs through published APIs, and that could, if ported to or made interoperable with, a non-Microsoft Operating System, thereby make it easier for applications that rely in whole or in part on the functionality supplied by that software product to be ported to or run on that non-Microsoft Operating System, and (ii) of which at least one million copies were distributed in the United States within the previous year.

O. ''OEM'' means an original equipment manufacturer of Personal Computers that is a licensee of a Windows Operating System Product.

P. ''Operating System'' means the software code that, inter alia, (i) controls the allocation and usage of hardware resources (such as the microprocessor and various peripheral devices) of a Personal Computer, (ii) provides a platform for developing applications by exposing functionality to ISVs through APIs, and (iii) supplies a user interface that enables users to access functionality of the operating system and in which they can run applications.

Q. ''Personal Computer'' means any computer configured so that its primary purpose is for use by one person at a time, that uses a video display and keyboard (whether or not that video display and keyboard is included) and that contains an Intel x86 compatible (or successor) microprocessor. Servers, television set top boxes, handheld computers, game consoles, telephones, pagers, and personal digital assistants are examples of products that are not Personal Computers within the meaning of this definition.

R. ''Timely Manner'' means at the time Microsoft first releases a beta test version of a Windows Operating System Product that is [distributed to] made available via an MSDN subscription offering or of which 150,000 or more beta [testers]copies are distributed.

S. ''Top-Level Window'' means a window displayed by a Windows Operating System Product that (a) has its own window controls, such as move, resize, close, minimize, and maximize, (b) can contain sub-windows, and (c) contains user interface elements under the control of at least one independent process.

T. ''Trademarked'' means distributed in commerce and identified as distributed by a name other than Microsoft® or Windows® that Microsoft has claimed as a trademark or service mark by (i) marking the name with trademark notices, such as ® or ™, in connection with a product distributed in the United States; (ii) filing an application for trademark protection for the name in the United States Patent and Trademark Office; or (iii) asserting the name as a trademark in the United States in a demand letter or lawsuit. Any product distributed under descriptive or generic terms or a name comprised of the Microsoft® or Windows® trademarks together with descriptive or generic terms shall not be Trademarked as that term is used in this Final Judgment. Microsoft hereby disclaims any trademark rights in such descriptive or generic terms apart from the Microsoft® or Windows® trademarks, and hereby abandons any such rights that it may acquire in the future.

U. ''Windows Operating System Product'' means the software code (as opposed to source code) distributed commercially by Microsoft for use with Personal Computers as Windows 2000 Professional, Windows XP Home, Windows XP Professional, and successors to the foregoing, including the Personal Computer versions of the products currently code named ''Longhorn'' and ''Blackcomb'' and their successors, including upgrades, bug fixes, service packs, etc. The software code that comprises a Windows Operating System Product shall be determined by Microsoft in its sole discretion.

VII. Further Elements

Jurisdiction is retained by this Court over this action and the parties thereto for the purpose of enabling either of the parties thereto to apply to this Court at any time for further orders and directions as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out or construe this Final Judgment, to modify or terminate any of its provisions, to enforce compliance, and to punish violations of its provisions.

VIII. Third Party Rights

Nothing in this Final Judgment is intended to confer upon any other persons any rights or remedies of any nature whatsoever hereunder or by reason of this Final Judgment.

Dorothy Fountain,

Deputy Director of Operations.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Antitrust Division

United States V. Microsoft Corporation

List of Individuals and Entities Submitting Public Comments

The United States hereby publishes a complete list of the names (as provided in the comment) of all individuals or entities submitting Tunney Act public comments on the Revised Proposed Final Judgment in the matter of United States v. Microsoft Corp., Civil Action No. 98–1232, pending in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia; the approximate number of pages of each comment; a unique tracking number assigned to each comment so that each comment may be located on the Department's website; and an index to the comments organized by six categories based primarily on the level of detail of the comment. The United States' response to the comments is being published concurrently with this list. To view the comments referenced herein and/or copies of the comments, please follow the instructions provided below.

Electronic copies of all comments identified herein are available on the Department of Justice's Web site at www.usdoj.gov/atr/cases/ms-comments.htm. Interested persons may also request CD–ROM(s) containing the full text of the comments by contacting the Department of Justice in Washington, D.C. at Antitrust Documents Group, 325 7th Street NW., Ste. 215 North, Washington, DC 20530, Telephone: (202) 514–2481, Fax: (202) 514–3763. The United States will provide free of charge one copy of this CD–ROM or set of CD–ROMs to each individual person and five copies to each library or other institution that requests it. The United States will provide, at cost, additional copies above these limits to individuals or institutions upon request.
