5 portant base of knowledge and skills that can en-
6 courage life-long learning in related areas of national 7 interest, such as mathematics, science, and medicine.

8 “(4) Environmental education fosters awareness
9 of the natural and built environment, an under-
10 standing of complex environmental concepts, condi-
11 tions, and issues and provides all learners with the 12 skills to make an independent, informed analysis of 13 environmental issues.

14 “(5) Balanced and scientifically based environ-
15 mental education provides students of all ages with 16 the resources and the opportunities to explore be-17 yond the classroom and focuses learning on the 18 interdisciplinary nature of environmental issues and 19 conditions.

20 “(6) In attempting to improve public awareness
21 of environmental issues, the Government can best
22 assure that the available information is science-
23 based, balanced, and age-appropriate.”.
