TITLE V—MISCELLANEOUS

SEC. 501. BORDER SECURITY AND ENFORCEMENT COORDINATION AND OPERATIONS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) As part of the creation of the Department of Homeland Security, section 442 of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 (Public Law 107–273) established a Bureau of Border Security and transferred into it all of the functions, programs, personnel, assets, and liabilities pertaining to the following programs: the Border Patrol; alien detention and removal; immigration-related intelligence, investigations, and enforcement activities; and immigration inspections at ports of entry.

(2) Title IV of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 (Public Law 107–273) also transferred to the new Department the United States Customs Service, as a distinct entity within the new Department, to further the Department’s border integrity mission.

(4) This plan merged the customs and immigration border inspection and patrol functions, along with agricultural inspections functions, into a new entity called United States Customs and Border Protection.

(5) The plan also combined the customs and immigration enforcement agents, as well as the Office of Detention and Removal Operations, the Office of Federal Protective Service, the Office of Federal Air Marshal Service, and the Office of Intelligence, into another new entity called United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement.

(6) The President’s January 30, 2003, reorganization plan did not explain the reasons for separating immigration inspection and border patrol functions from other immigration-related enforcement functions, or to combine immigration-related enforcement functions with customs and other functions, contrary to the design of the Bureau of Border Security as prescribed by the Congress in section 442 of the Homeland Security Act of 2002.
(7) United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement has faced major budgetary challenges that are, in part, attributable to the inexact division of resources upon the separation of immigration functions. These budget shortfalls have forced United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement to impose hiring freezes and to release aliens that otherwise should be detained. (b) REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 30 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Homeland Security shall review and evaluate the current organizational structure of the Department of Homeland Security established by the President’s January 30, 2003, reorganization plan and submit a report of findings and recommendations to the appropriate congressional committees (as defined in section 2 of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 (6 U.S.C. 101)).

(2) CONTENTS OF REPORT.—The report shall include—

(A) a description of the rationale for, and any benefits of, the current organizational division of United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement and United States Customs and Border Protection, with respect to the Department’s immigration and customs missions;

(B) a description of the organization, missions, operations, and policies of United States Customs and Border Protection and United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement, and areas of unnecessary overlap or operational gaps among and between these missions;

(C) a description of the rationale for, and any benefits of, the current organizational combination of immigration-related enforcement functions with customs and other functions;

(D) an analysis of alternative organizational structures that could provide a more effective way to deliver maximum efficiencies and mission success;

(E) a description of the current role of the Directorate of Border and Transportation Security with respect to providing adequate direction and oversight of the two agencies, and whether this management structure is still necessary;

(F) an analysis of whether the Federal Air Marshals and the Federal Protective Service are properly located within the Department within
United States Immigration and Customs Enforcement;

(G) the proper placement and functions of a specialized investigative and patrol unit operating at the southwest border on the Tohono O’odham Nation, known as the Shadow Wolves;

(H) the potential costs of reorganization, including financial, programmatic, and other costs, to the Department; and
