AN ACT

To establish the Emergency Trade Deficit Commission.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,
SECTION 1. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The United States has run persistent trade deficits since 1978, and many of such trade deficits since 2000 have been especially large.

(2) There appeared to be some improvements in the United States trade balance in 2009, but this was during a time of global economic crisis, and the reduction in the United States trade deficit appears to be attributable to a shrinking United States demand for imports rather than an increase in United States exports.

(3) Many of the trade deficits are structural—that is, with the same countries, year after year. In 2009, the United States continued to have significant merchandise trade deficits with the People’s Republic of China ($226.8 billion), the European Union ($60.5 billion), Japan ($44.7 billion), and Mexico ($47.5 billion), notwithstanding the overall decline in the United States trade deficit. In fact, in 2009, China accounted for 44 percent of the United States merchandise trade deficit.

(4) While the United States has one of the most open borders and economies in the world, the United States faces significant tariff and non tariff trade barriers with its trading partners.
(5) The causes and consequences of the United States trade deficit must be documented and recommendations must be developed to expeditiously address structural imbalances in the trade deficit.
