To amend the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act to improve the health and well-being of school children, and for other purposes.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

DECEMBER 16, 2009

Mr. FARR (for himself, Mr. PUTNAM, Ms. RICHARDSON, Mr. BLUMENAUER, Mr. KAGEN, Mr. MICHAUD, Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas, Mr. HINCHEY, Ms. MATSUI, Ms. WASSERMAN SCHULTZ, Mr. MORAN of Virginia, Mr. COSTA, Mr. SERRANO, Mr. COURTNEY, Ms. HIRONO, and Mrs. CAPPS) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Education and Labor, and in addition to the Committee on Agriculture, for a period to be subsequently determined by the Speaker, in each case for consideration of such provisions as fall within the jurisdiction of the committee concerned

A BILL

To amend the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act to improve the health and well-being of school children, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Children’s Fruit and 5 Vegetable Act of 2009”.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

2 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

3 (1) Children eat less than half of the daily
4 fruits and vegetables recommended for good health 5 by the 2005 Dietary Guidelines for Americans. To 6 meet those guidelines designed to promote the health
7 of children and to lower their risks of chronic dis-
8 ease and obesity, children need to double their fruit
9 and vegetable intake. According to the background
10 and purpose of those guidelines many specific dis-11 ease and conditions are linked to poor diet and that 12 nutrient supplements cannot replace a healthful diet.
13 The report notes that “an array of evidence points 14 to beneficial health effects” from the increased in-15 take of fruits and vegetables.

16 (2) Published analysis of the 2005 Dietary 17 Guidelines for Americans notes that increased in-18 takes of fruit, vegetables, are likely to have impor-
19 tant health benefits for most Americans. For this 20 reason, the Secretary of Agriculture should engage 21 in effective marketing, communications, and training 22 focused on sharing best practices that result in 23 school children eating more fruits and vegetables.

24 (3) Schools participating in the national school
25 lunch program established under the Richard B.
26 Russell National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1751

1 et seq.) or the school breakfast program established
2 under the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 (42 U.S.C.
3 1771, et seq.) are required to serve meals that are 4 consistent with the most recent Dietary Guidelines
5 for Americans published under section 301 of the 6 National Nutrition Monitoring and Related Research
7 Act of 1990 (7 U.S.C. 5341). However, Nutrition 8 Standards and Meal Requirements for the National 9 School Lunch Program and the School Breakfast
10 Program, have not been updated since 1995.

11 (4) Most schools participating in school meal
12 programs currently serve meals that contain fewer 13 fruits and vegetables than recommended by the Die-
14 tary Guidelines for Americans published in 2005
15 under section 301 of the National Nutrition Moni-
16 toring and Related Research Act of 1990 (7 U.S.C.
17 5341).

18 (5) The Institute of Medicine's publication enti-
19 tled School Meals: Building Blocks for Healthy Chil-20 dren Report (October 20, 2009), recommends that 21 (1) the amount of fruit served in school breakfast be 22 doubled to one cup, and (2) the amount of fruits
23 and vegetables in school lunch be doubled to one cup 24 of fruit and one cup of vegetables every day, and 25 that the variety of vegetables served be increased,

1 emphasizing dark green and orange vegetables. The 2 Institute of Medicine’s recommendations will align 3 the National School Breakfast and Lunch Programs
4 with the Dietary Guidelines for Americans published
5 in 2005 under section 301 of the National Nutrition
6 Monitoring and Related Research Act of 1990 (7
7 U.S.C. 5341) and promote children’s health. The In-8 stitute of Medicine’s report also recognizes that im-
9 proving the quality of school meals, such as adding 10 more fruits and vegetables, will require additional 11 cafeteria equipment, such as refrigeration, salad bar, 12 and fruit and vegetable bars.

13 (6) An important goal of the Federal school
14 lunch and breakfast programs should include im-
15 proving the eating habits of children so they can 16 meet recommendations set forth in the most recent 17 version of the Dietary Guidelines for Americans.

18 (7) According to a University of California-Los 19 Angeles School of Public Health study published in 20 2007 (Public Health Nutrition 10:1490–1496) by 21 Dr. Wendelin Slusser, M.D., et al. and later con-
22 firmed by additional research presented by Dr.
23 Havinder Sareen, PhD, MPH to the Centers for 24 Disease Control and Prevention in February 2009, 25 children who have access to salad bars or fruit and

1 vegetable bars in their school cafeteria eat more
2 fruits and vegetables.

3 (8) According to the U.S. Department of Agri-4 culture only approximately 3 percent of fruits and 5 vegetables purchased for the school lunch program
6 through the Agricultural Marketing Services com-
7 modity purchase program are fresh. The Secretary
8 of Agriculture is piloting a fresh-cut sliced apple 9 program to test the feasibility of purchasing, under 10 authority of section 32 of Public Law 74–320, as 11 amended (7 U.S.C. 612c), a wide variety of fresh-
12 cut fruits and vegetables for school meal programs.
13 According to the Agricultural Marketing Service
14 press release from September 17, 2009, the fresh-15 cut sliced apple pilot program is a tremendous 16 achievement and is extraordinarily popular with 17 schools. The Secretary plans to expand the fresh-cut
18 apple program and pilot test a baby carrot program
19 during the Fall of 2009.

20 (9) The American Recovery and Reinvestment
21 Act of 2009 (ARRA) (Public Law 111–5) provided
22 a one time investment of $100 million for equipment 23 assistance to school food authorities participating in 24 the National School Lunch Program. This is the 25 first Federal infrastructure investment for cafeteria

1 equipment in 25 years. Total requests from schools
2 for cafeteria equipment through the ARRA exceeded 3 $650 million indicating a strong unmet need for 4 Federal support to help schools for equipment that 5 lends itself to improving the quality of school food
6 service meals that meet the Dietary Guidelines.

7 (10) The Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program
8 established under Section 19 of the Richard B. Rus-
9 sell National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1769a, et 10 seq.) has demonstrated successfully that children
11 like fresh fruits and vegetables and will increase 12 their consumption when a variety of high quality 13 fresh fruits and vegetables are available to them in 14 school.

15 (11) Policy initiatives, such as the Fresh Fruits
16 and Vegetable Program, which are designed to im-17 prove the school food environment and children's 18 eating habits, should be reinforced with training and 19 technical assistance for schools to improve program
20 effectiveness.

21 (b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this Act is to estab-
22 lish a national strategy to improve the nutritional quality 23 of school meals served by schools participating in the 24 school lunch program established under the Richard B.
25 Russell National School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1751 et

1 seq.) or the school breakfast program established under 2 established under the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 (42
3 U.S.C. 1771 et seq.) by increasing access to and consump-4 tion of fruits and vegetables by children enrolled in the 5 schools through—

6 (1) the promotion of the use of salad bars, or 7 fruit and vegetable bars, as a strategy to increase 8 children’s fruit and vegetable consumption;

9 (2) the expansion of the amount of fruits and 10 vegetables purchased by the Secretary of Agriculture
11 for use in school meals, emphasizing fruits and vege-
12 tables that are popular with students;

13 (3) effective training and technical assistance, 14 emphasizing best practices, that will—

15 (A) improve the implementation of the 16 Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program under sec-17 tion 19 of the Richard B. Russell National 18 School Lunch Act (42 U.S.C. 1769a); and

19 (B) increase the availability and consump-
20 tion of fruits and vegetables in school meals;

21 (4) infrastructure investment for purchasing
22 cafeteria equipment specifically targeted for increas-
23 ing access to fruits and vegetables and improve the 24 quality of school food service meals that meet the 25 most recent Dietary Guidelines for Americans pub-

1 lished under section 301 of the National Nutrition
2 Monitoring and Related Research Act of 1990 (7
3 U.S.C. 5341); and

4 (5) improving the quality of school meals.
