A BILL

To authorize the Secretary of Education to make grants to promote the education of pregnant and parenting students.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Pregnant and Par-5 enting Students Access to Education Act of 2010”.

6 SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

7 (a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

1           (1) There are approximately 750,000 teen preg-
2 nancies and 400,000 teen births annually in the 3 United States.

4           (2) Overall, nearly 3 in 10 girls in the United 5 States will become pregnant at least once by age 20, 6 and teen pregnancy rates are now on the rise after 7 14 straight years of decline.

8           (3) A sexually active teen who does not use con-9 traceptives has a 90 percent chance of becoming 10 pregnant within a year.

11           (4) The teen pregnancy and birth rates in the 12 United States are higher than in any other Western 13 industrialized country.

14           (5) Some States currently collect data about the 15 pregnancy and parenting status of secondary school
16 students, but most do not, and there is no nation-17 wide data collection on this important dimension of 18 the student population.

19           (6) Many pregnant and parenting students face
20 significant barriers in enrolling, attending, and suc-
21 ceeding in school, including—

22                   (A) outright discrimination in violation of 23 title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972;

1 (B) stigmatization and being made to feel
2 unwelcome at school by administrators, teach-
3 ers, and peer students;

4 (C) failure of States, local educational 5 agencies, or schools to excuse students for pre-6 natal and postnatal health care appointments
7 and recovery;

8 (D) difficulty maintaining academic 9 progress while out of school leading up to or 10 following the birth of a child;

11 (E) juggling school work with parenting
12 responsibilities;

13 (F) lack of access to affordable quality 14 child care and transportation to and from the 15 child care arrangement and school, which can,
16 as a practical matter, make it virtually impos-
17 sible for a parenting student to attend school 18 regularly; and

19 (G) stereotypes that future opportunities
20 for postsecondary education or careers are lim-21 ited for pregnant and parenting students, which 22 can diminish students' motivation to stay en-
23 gaged in school.

24 (7) Overall, about 51 percent of teenaged moth-25 ers have a high school diploma by age 22 compared

1 to 89 percent of women who didn't have a teenaged
2 birth. Young teenaged mothers are even less likely to 3 graduate from high school. Fewer than four in ten 4 (38 percent) mothers who have a child before they 5 turn 18 have a high school diploma by age 22.

6 (8) Only 2 percent of all teenagers who have a 7 baby before age 18 ever graduate from college.

8 (9) Even if students manage to stay in school 9 while parenting one child, their risks of dropout are 10 substantially increased if they have a second or sub-11 sequent pregnancy.

12 (10) Studies of females and males who dropped
13 out of high school indicate that becoming a parent 14 played a role in their discontinuation of school, and 15 in many cases it played a major role.

16 (11) Since teen pregnancy and parenting are 17 significant risk factors for dropout, teen pregnancy
18 prevention can go a long way toward improving high 19 school graduation rates.

20 (12) Females who do not earn a high school di-21 ploma are especially likely to face severe economic 22 consequences—to be unemployed, to earn very low
23 wages, and to have to rely on public support pro-
24 grams—that significantly affect not only individual

1 students and their families, but also our national 2 economy as a whole.

3 (13) Studies of students who left school to care
4 for a family member or because they became a par-
5 ent demonstrate that they would have worked harder
6 to complete their secondary education if schools' ex-7 pectations of them had been higher and if they had 8 been provided the necessary support.

9 (14) Title IX of the Education Amendments of 10 1972 (20 U.S.C. 1681 et seq.) prohibits educational 11 institutions that receive Federal funding from dis-
12 criminating against pregnant and parenting stu-
13 dents, and its implementing regulations detail
14 schools' obligations to ensure that pregnant and par-
15 enting students have access to equal educational op-
16 portunities.

17 (15) Some local educational agencies are mak-
18 ing active efforts to engage and re-engage pregnant
19 and parenting youth in secondary education by im-
20 plementing voluntary programs that provide or ar-21 range academic and support services for them, in-22 cluding individualized graduation plans, flexible
23 scheduling, homebound instruction for extended ab-
24 sences, school-based child care, transportation assist-

1       ance, health and social service referrals, and parent
2       education courses.

3               (16) Federal financial assistance to local edu-
4       cational agencies to start or expand voluntary stu-
5       dent academic and support service programs and ini-
6       tiatives for pregnant and parenting students is im-
7       perative to helping these students prepare for ca-
8       reers and post-secondary education opportunities,
9       and care for their children without need for long-10      term public assistance.

11      (b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act are—

12              (1) to ensure that each pregnant and parenting
13      student has equal access to the same free, appro-
14      priate, high-quality public education that is provided
15      to other students;

16              (2) to improve high school graduation rates, ca-
17      reer-readiness, access to postsecondary educational 18      opportunities, and outcomes for pregnant and par-19      enting students and their children; and

20              (3) to assist each State and local educational 21      agency in improving its graduation rates and ful-
22      filling its responsibilities under title IX of the Edu-23      cation Amendments of 1972 (20 U.S.C. 1681 et 24      seq.) with respect to pregnant and parenting stu-
25      dents.

13          the State’s number of teenaged pregnancies com-
14          pared to the number of teenaged pregnancies nation-
15          ally, except that the minimum grant for a State

17          (4) SUPPLEMENT NOT SUPPLANT.—Grant
18          funds provided under paragraph (3) shall be used

20          sence of such Federal funds, be made available from
