SEC. 3. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds as follows:

(1) The population of racial and ethnic minorities is expected to increase over the next few decades, yet racial and ethnic minorities have the poorest health status and face substantial cultural, social, and economic barriers to obtaining quality health care.

(2) Health disparities are a function of not only access to health care, but also the social determinants of health—including the environment, the physical structure of communities, nutrition and food options, educational attainment, employment, race, ethnicity, sex, geography, language preference, immigrant or citizenship status, sexual orientation, gender identity, socioeconomic status, or disability status—that directly and indirectly affect the health, health care, and wellness of individuals and communities.
(3) By 2020, the Nation will face a shortage of health care providers and allied health workers and this shortage disproportionately affects health professional shortage areas where many racial and ethnic minority populations reside.

(4) All efforts to reduce health disparities and barriers to quality health services require better and more consistent data.

(5) A full range of culturally and linguistically appropriate health care and public health services must be available and accessible in every community.

(6) Racial and ethnic minorities and underserved populations must be included early and equitably in health reform innovations.

(7) Efforts to improve minority health have been limited by inadequate resources in funding, staffing, stewardship and accountability. Targeted investments that are focused on disparities elimination must be made in providing care and services that are community-based, including prevention and policies addressing social determinants of health.

(8) In 2011, the Department of Health and Human Services developed the HHS Action Plan to Reduce Racial and Ethnic Health Disparities and the National Stakeholder Strategy for Achieving Health Equity, two strategic plans that represent the country’s first coordinated roadmap to reducing health disparities. Along with the National Prevention Strategy and the National Health Care Quality Strategy, these comprehensive plans will work to increase the number of Americans who are healthy at every stage of life.

(9) The Department of Health and Human Services also developed other strategic planning documents to combat disease disparities with a high impact on minority populations including the National HIV/AIDS Strategy, and the Action Plan for the Prevention, Care and Treatment of Viral Hepatitis.

(10) The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, as amended by the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act, represents the biggest advancement for minority health in the last 40 years.

TITLE II—CULTURALLY AND LIN-

HEALTH CARE

SEC. 201. DEFINITIONS.

In this title, the definitions contained in section 3400 of the Public Health Service Act, as added by section 202, shall apply.

SEC. 202. AMENDMENT TO THE PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE ACT.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Effective communication is essential to meaningful access to quality physical and mental health care.

(2) Research indicates that the lack of appropriate language services creates languages barriers that result in increased risk of misdiagnosis, ineffective treatment plans and poor health outcomes for limited-English-proficient individuals and individuals with communication disabilities such as hearing, vision or print impairments.

(3) The number of limited-English-speaking residents in the United States who speak English less than very well and, therefore, cannot effectively communicate with health and social service providers continues to increase significantly.

(4) The responsibility to fund language services in the provision of health care and health care-related services to limited-English-proficient individuals and individuals with communication disabilities such as hearing, vision, or print impairments is a societal one that cannot fairly be visited solely upon the health care, public health or social services community.

(5) Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination based on the grounds of race, color or national origin by any entity receiving Federal financial assistance. In order to avoid discrimination on the grounds of national origin, all programs or activities administered by the Department must take adequate steps to ensure that their policies and procedures do not deny or have the effect of denying limited-English-proficient individuals with equal access to benefits and services for which such persons qualify.

(6) Linguistic diversity in the healthcare and health-care-related-services workforce is important for providing all patients the environment most conducive to positive health outcomes.

(7) All members of the health care and healthcare-related-services community should continue to educate their staff and constituents about limited-English proficient and disability communication issues and help them identify resources to improve access to quality care for limited-English-proficient individuals and individuals with communication disabilities such as hearing, vision, or print impairments.

(8) Access to English as a second language and sign language instructions is an important mechanism for ensuring effective communication and eliminating the language barriers that impede access to health care.

(9) Competent languages services in health care settings should be available as a matter of course.

TITLE IV—IMPROVEMENT OF HEALTH CARE SERVICES
Subtitle A—Health Empowerment Zones

SEC. 401. SHORT TITLE.
This subtitle may be cited as the “Health Empowerment Zone Act of 2011”.

SEC. 402. FINDINGS.
The Congress finds the following:

(1) Numerous studies and reports, including the National Healthcare Disparities Report and Unequal Treatment, the 2002 Institute of Medicine Report, document the extensiveness to which health disparities exist across the country.

(2) These studies have found that, on average, racial and ethnic minorities are disproportionately afflicted with chronic and acute conditions—such as cancer, diabetes, and hypertension—and suffer worse health outcomes, worse health status, and higher mortality rates than their White counterparts.

(3) Several recent studies also show that health disparities are a function of not only access to health care, but also the social determinants of health—including the environment, the physical structure of communities, nutrition and food options, educational attainment, employment, race, ethnicity, geography, and language preference—that directly and indirectly affect the health, health care, and wellness of individuals and communities.

(4) Integrally involving and fully supporting the communities most affected by health inequities in the assessment, planning, launch, and evaluation of health disparity elimination efforts is among the leading recommendations made to adequately address and ultimately reduce health disparities.

(5) Recommendations also include supporting the efforts of community stakeholders from a broad crosssection—including, but not limited to local businesses, local departments of commerce, education, labor, urban planning, and transportation, and community-based and other nonprofit organizations—to find areas of common ground around health disparity elimination and collaborate to improve the overall health and wellness of a community and its residents.

TITLE VII—ADDRESSING HIGH IMPACT MINORITY DISEASES

Subtitle A—Cancer

SEC. 701. LUNG CANCER MORTALITY REDUCTION.

(a) Short Title.—This section may be cited as the “Lung Cancer Mortality Reduction Act of 2011”.

(b) Findings.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Lung cancer is the leading cause of cancer death for both men and women, accounting for 28 percent of all cancer deaths.

(2) Lung cancer kills more people annually than breast cancer, prostate cancer, colon cancer, liver cancer, melanoma, and kidney cancer combined.

(3) Since the National Cancer Act of 1971 (Public Law 92–218; 85 Stat. 778), coordinated and comprehensive research has raised the 5-year survival rates for breast cancer to 88 percent, for prostate cancer to 99 percent, and for colon cancer to 64 percent.

(4) However, the 5-year survival rate for lung cancer is still only 15 percent and a similar coordinated and comprehensive research effort is required to achieve increases in lung cancer survivability rates.

(5) Sixty percent of lung cancer cases are now diagnosed nonsmokers or former smokers.

(6) Two-thirds of nonsmokers diagnosed with lung cancer are women.

(7) Certain minority populations, such as African-American males, have disproportionately high rates of lung cancer incidence and mortality, notwithstanding their similar smoking rate.

(8) Members of the baby boomer generation are entering their sixties, the most common age at which people develop lung cancer.

(9) Tobacco addiction and exposure to other lung cancer carcinogens such as Agent Orange and other herbicides and battlefield emissions are serious problems among military personnel and war veterans.

(10) Significant and rapid improvements in lung cancer mortality can be expected through greater use and access to lung cancer screening tests for at-risk individuals.

(11) Additional strategies are necessary to further enhance the existing tests and therapies available to diagnose and treat lung cancer in the future.

Cancer Progress Review Group of the National Cancer Institute stated that funding for lung cancer research was “far below the levels characterized for other common malignancies and far out of proportion to its massive health impact”.

(13) The Report of the Lung Cancer Progress Review Group identified as its “highest priority” the creation of integrated, multidisciplinary, multi-institutional research consortia organized around the problem of lung cancer rather than around specific research disciplines.

(14) The United States must enhance its re-response to the issues raised in the Report of the Lung Cancer Progress Review Group, and this can be accomplished through the establishment of a coordinated effort designed to reduce the lung cancer mortality rate by 50 percent by 2015 and targeted funding to support this coordinated effort.
(c) Sense of Congress Concerning Investment in Lung Cancer Research.—It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) lung cancer mortality reduction should be made a national public health priority; and

(2) a comprehensive mortality reduction program coordinated by the Secretary of Health and Human Services is justified and necessary to adequately address and reduce lung cancer mortality.

(d) Lung Cancer Mortality Reduction Program.—

(1) In general.—Subpart 1 of part C of title IV of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 285 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"Sec. 417H. Lung Cancer Mortality Reduction Program.

on Minority Health and Health Disparities, and other members of the Lung Cancer Advisory Board established under section 546 of the Lung Cancer Mortality Reduction Act of 2011, shall implement a comprehensive program, to be known as the Lung Cancer Mortality Reduction Program, to achieve a reduction of at least 25 percent in the mortality rate of lung cancer by 2017.

“(C) the provision of funds to enable the National Institute of Biomedical Imaging and Bioengineering to expedite the development of computer assisted diagnostic, surgical, treatment, and drug-testing innovations to reduce lung cancer mortality, such as through expansion of the Institute’s Quantum Grant Program and Image-Guided Interventions programs; and “(D) the provision of funds to enable the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences to implement research programs relative to the lung cancer incidence.

“(2) With respect to the Food and Drug Administration—

“(A) activities under section 529 of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; and

“DRUGS RELATING TO LUNG CANCER

“SEC. 529. (a) IN GENERAL.—The provisions of this subchapter shall apply to a drug described in subsection (b) to the same extent and in the same manner as such provisions apply to a drug for a rare disease or condition.

morbidity and death from the disease, indicates that a patient may obtain more benefit than risk if treated with the drug”.

(4) CDC.—Title XV of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 300k et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“SEC. 1511. EARLY DISEASE RESEARCH AND MANAGEMENT PROGRAM.

(e) DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE AND THE DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS.—The Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall coordinate with the Secretary of Health and Human Services—

(1) in the development of the Lung Cancer Mortality Reduction Program under section 417H;

(2) in the implementation within the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs of an early detection and disease management research program for military personnel and veterans whose smoking history and exposure to carcinogens during active duty service has increased their risk for lung cancer; and
(3) in the implementation of coordinated care programs for military personnel and veterans diagnosed with lung cancer.

(f) LUNG CANCER ADVISORY BOARD.—

SEC. 702. EXPANDING PROSTATE CANCER RESEARCH, OUT-REACH, SCREENING, TESTING, ACCESS, AND TREATMENT EFFECTIVENESS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the "Prostate Research, Outreach, Screening, Testing, Access, and Treatment Effectiveness Act of 2011" or the "PROS-TATE Act".

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Prostate cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death among men.

(2) In 2010, more than 217,730 new patients were diagnosed with prostate cancer and more than 32,000 men died from this disease.

(3) Roughly 2,000,000 Americans are living with a diagnosis of prostate cancer and its consequences.

(4) While prostate cancer generally affects older individuals, younger men are also at risk for the disease, and when prostate cancer appears in early middle age it frequently takes on a more aggressive form.

(5) There are significant racial and ethnic disparities that demand attention, namely African-Americans have prostate cancer mortality rates that are more than double those in the White population.

(6) Underserved rural populations have higher rates of mortality compared to their urban counterparts, and innovative and cost-efficient methods to improve rural access to high quality care should take advantage of advances in telehealth to diagnose and treat prostate cancer when appropriate.

(7) Certain veterans populations may have nearly twice the incidence of prostate cancer as the general population of the United States.

(8) Urologists may constitute the specialists who diagnose and treat the vast majority of prostate cancer patients.

(9) Although much basic and translational research has been completed and much is currently known, there are still many unanswered questions. For example, it is not fully understood how much of known disparities are attributable to disease etiology, access to care, or education and awareness in the community.

(10) Causes of prostate cancer are not known. There is not good information regarding how to differentiate accurately, early on, between aggressive and indolent forms of the disease. As a result, there is significant overtreatment in prostate cancer.
There are no treatments that can durably arrest growth or cure prostate cancer once it has metasta-sized.

(11) A significant proportion (roughly 23 to 54 percent) of cases may be clinically indolent and “overdiagnosed”, resulting in significant overtreatment. More accurate tests will allow men and their families to face less physical, psychological, financial, and emotional trauma and billions of dollars could be saved in private and public health care systems in an area that has been identified by the Medicare program as one of eight high-volume, high-cost areas in the Resource Utilization Report program authorized by Congress under the Medicare Improvements

(12) Prostate cancer research and health care programs across Federal agencies should be coordinated to improve accountability and actively encourage the translation of research into practice, to identify and implement best practices, in order to foster an integrated and consistent focus on effective prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of this disease.

(c) Prostate Cancer Coordination and Education.—

(1) Interagency Prostate Cancer Coordination and Education Task Force.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this section, the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, in cooperation with the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Health and Human Services, shall establish an Interagency Prostate Cancer Coordination and Education Task Force (in this section referred to as the “Prostate Cancer Task Force”).

(2) Duties.—The Prostate Cancer Task Force shall—

(A) develop a summary of advances in prostate cancer research supported or conducted by Federal agencies relevant to the diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of prostate cancer, including psychosocial impairments related to prostate cancer treatment, and compile a list of best practices that warrant broader adoption in health care programs;
(B) consider establishing, and advocating for, a guidance to enable physicians to allow screening of men who are over age 74, on a case-by-case basis, taking into account quality of life and family history of prostate cancer;

(C) share and coordinate information on Federal research and health care program activities, including activities related to—

(i) determining how to improve research and health care programs, including psychosocial impairments related to prostate cancer treatment;

(ii) identifying any gaps in the overall research inventory and in health care programs;

(iii) identifying opportunities to promote translation of research into practice; and

(iv) maximizing the effects of Federal efforts by identifying opportunities for collaboration and leveraging of resources in research and health care programs that serve those susceptible to or diagnosed with prostate cancer;
(D) develop a comprehensive interagency strategy and advise relevant Federal agencies in the solicitation of proposals for collaborative, multidisciplinary research and health care programs, including proposals to evaluate factors that may be related to the etiology of prostate cancer, that would—

(i) result in innovative approaches to study emerging scientific opportunities or eliminate knowledge gaps in research to improve the prostate cancer research portfolio of the Federal Government;

(ii) outline key research questions, methodologies, and knowledge gaps; and

(iii) ensure consistent action, as outlined by section 402(b) of the Public Health Service Act;

(E) develop a coordinated message related to screening and treatment for prostate cancer to be reflected in educational and beneficiary materials for Federal health programs as such documents are updated; and

(F) not later than 2 years after the date of the establishment of the Prostate Cancer Task Force, submit to the Expert Advisory Panel to be reviewed and returned within 30 days, and then within 90 days submitted to Congress recommendations—

(i) regarding any appropriate changes to research and health care programs, including recommendations to improve the research portfolio of the Department of Veterans Affairs, Department of Defense, National Institutes of Health, and other Federal agencies to ensure that scientifically based strategic planning is implemented in support of research and health care program priorities;

(ii) designed to ensure that the research and health care programs and activities of the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Department of Defense, the Department of Health and Human Services, and other Federal agencies are free of unnecessary duplication;

(iii) regarding public participation in decisions relating to prostate cancer research and health care programs to increase the involvement of patient advocates, community organizations, and medical associations representing a broad geographical area;

(iv) on how to best disseminate information on prostate cancer research and progress achieved by health care programs;

(v) about how to expand partnerships between public entities, including Federal agencies, and private entities to encourage collaborative, cross-cutting research and health care delivery;

(vi) assessing any cost savings and efficiencies realized through the efforts identified and supported in this section and recommending expansion of those efforts that have proved most promising while also ensuring against any conflicts in directives from other congressional or statutory mandates or enabling statutes;

(vii) identifying key priority action items from among the recommendations; and

(viii) with respect to the level of funding needed by each agency to implement the recommendations contained in the report.
(3) MEMBERS OF THE PROSTATE CANCER TASK FORCE.—The Prostate Cancer Task Force described in subsection (a) shall be composed of representatives from such Federal agencies, as each Secretary determines necessary, to coordinate a uniform message relating to prostate cancer screening and treatment where appropriate, including representatives of the following:

(A) The Department of Veterans Affairs, including representatives of each relevant program areas of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

(B) The Prostate Cancer Research Program of the Congressionally Directed Medical Research Program of the Department of Defense.

(iii) The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services.

(iv) The Food and Drug Administration.

(v) The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

(vi) The Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality.

(vii) The Health Resources and Services Administration.

The Prostate Cancer Task Force shall appoint expert advisory panels, as determined appropriate, to provide input and concurrence from individuals and organizations from the medical, prostate cancer patient and advocate, research, and delivery communities with expertise in prostate cancer diagnosis, treatment, and research, including practicing urologists, primary care providers, and others and individuals with expertise in education and outreach to underserved populations affected by prostate cancer.

(5) Meetings.—The Prostate Cancer Task Force shall convene not less than twice a year, or more frequently as the Secretary determines to be appropriate.
(6) Submission of recommendations to Congress.—The Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall submit to Congress any recommendations submitted to the Secretary under paragraph (2)(E).

(7) Federal Advisory Committee Act.—

(A) In general.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), the Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App.) shall apply to the Prostate Cancer Task Force.

(B) Exception.—Section 14(a)(2)(B) of such Act (relating to the termination of advisory committees) shall not apply to the Prostate Cancer Task Force.

(8) Sunset date.—The Prostate Cancer Task Force shall terminate at the end of fiscal year 2016.

(d) Prostate Cancer Research.—

Subtitle B—Viral Hepatitis and Liver Cancer Control and Prevention

SEC. 711. VIRAL HEPATITIS AND LIVER CANCER CONTROL AND PREVENTION.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This subtitle may be cited as the “Viral Hepatitis and Liver Cancer Control and Prevention Act of 2011”.

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:
(1) Approximately 5,300,000 Americans are chronically infected with the hepatitis B virus (referred to in this section as “HBV”), the hepatitis C virus (referred to in this section as “HCV”), or both.

(2) In the United States, chronic HBV and HCV are the most common cause of liver cancer, one of the most lethal and fastest growing cancers in this country. It is the most common cause of chronic liver disease, liver cirrhosis, and the most common indication for liver transplantation. It is also a leading cause of death in Americans living with HIV/AIDS, many of whom are coinfected with chronic HBV, chronic HCV, or both. At least 15,000 deaths per year in the United States can be attributed to chronic HBV and HCV.

(3) According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (referred to in this section as the “CDC”), approximately 2 percent of the population of the United States is living with chronic HBV, chronic HCV, or both. The CDC has recognized HCV as the Nation’s most common chronic bloodborne virus infection and HBV as the deadliest vaccine-preventable disease.
(4) HBV is easily transmitted and is 100 times more infectious than HIV. According to the CDC, HBV is transmitted through percutaneous (i.e., puncture through the skin) or mucosal contact with infectious blood or body fluids. HCV is transmitted by percutaneous exposures to infectious blood.

(5) The CDC conservatively estimates that in 2008 approximately 18,000 Americans were newly infected with HCV and more than 38,000 Americans were newly infected with HBV.

(6) There were 6 outbreaks reported to CDC for investigation in 2008 related to health care acquired infection of HBV and HCV, potentially exposing more than 52,000 Americans to the viruses, in 2009–2010 there were 15 outbreaks in which more than 30,000 people were potentially exposed.

(7) Chronic HBV and chronic HCV usually do not cause symptoms early in the course of the disease, but after many years of a clinically “silent” phase, more than 50 percent of infected individuals will develop cirrhosis, end-stage liver disease, or liver cancer. Since most of those with chronic HBV and HCV are unaware of their infection, they do not know to take precautions to prevent the spread of their infection and can unknowingly exacerbate their own disease progression.

(8) HBV and HCV disproportionately affect certain populations in the United States. Although representing only 5 percent of the population, Asian-Americans and Pacific Islanders account for over half of the 1,400,000 domestic chronic HBV cases. Baby boomers (those born between 1946 and 1964) account for more than half of domestic chronic hepatitis C cases. In addition, African-Americans, Latin-Americans, and American Indian/Alaskan Natives are among the groups which have disproportionately high rates of HBV and/or HCV infections in the United States.

(9) For both chronic HBV and chronic HCV, behavioral changes can slow disease progression if diagnosis is made early. Early diagnosis, which is determined through simple blood tests, can reduce the risk of transmission and disease progression through education and vaccination of household members and other susceptible persons at risk.

(10) For those chronically infected with HBV or HCV, regular monitoring can lead to the early detection of liver cancer at a stage where cure is still possible. Liver cancer is the third deadliest cancer in the United States however, liver cancer has received little funding for research, prevention, or treatment.

(11) Treatment for chronic HCV can eradicate the disease in approximately 75 percent of those currently treated. The treatment of chronic HBV can effectively suppress viral replication in the overwhelming majority (>80%) of those treated thereby reducing the risk of transmission and progression to liver scarring or liver cancer even though a complete cure is much less common than for HCV.

(12) To combat the HBV and HCV epidemics in the United States, in May 2011, the Department of Health and Human Services released Combating the Silent Epidemic of Viral Hepatitis: Action Plan for the Prevention, Care & Treatment of Viral Hepatitis (hereafter referred to as the HHS Action Plan). The Institute of Medicine (IOM) of the National Academies 2010 reported on the Federal response to HBV and HCV titled: Hepatitis and Liver Cancer: A National Strategy for Prevention and Control of Hepatitis B and C. These recommendations and guidelines provide a framework for HBV and HCV prevention, education, control, research, and medical management programs.
The annual health care costs attributable to HBV and HCV in the United States are significant. For HBV, it is estimated to be approximately $1,000,000,000 to 2,000,000,000 ($1,000 to $2,000 per infected person). More than $1,000,000,000 is spent each year for HBV-related hospitalizations. The indirect costs of chronic HBV infection are harder to measure, but include reduced physical and emotional quality of life, reduced economic productivity, long-term disability, and premature death.

For HCV, medical costs for patients are expected to increase from $30,000,000,000 in 2009 to over $85,000,000,000 in 2024. Avoiding these costs by screening and diagnosing individuals earlier—and connecting them to appropriate treatment and care will save lives and critical health care dollars. Currently, without a comprehensive screening, testing and diagnosis program, most patients are diagnosed too late when they need a liver transplant costing at least $314,000 for uncomplicated cases or when they have liver cancer or end stage liver disease which costs $30,980 to $110,576 per hospital admission. As health care costs continue to grow, it is critical that the Federal Government invests in effective mechanisms to avoid documented cost drivers.
(14) According to the IOM report in 2010, chronic HBV and HCV infections cause substantial morbidity and mortality despite being preventable and treatable. Deficiencies in the implementation of established guidelines for the prevention, diagnosis, and medical management of chronic HBV and HCV infections perpetuate personal and economic burdens. Existing grants are not sufficient for the scale of the health burden presented by HBV and HCV.

(15) Screening and testing for HBV and HCV is aligned with the Healthy People 2020 goal; Increase immunization rates and reduce preventable infectious diseases. Awareness of disease and access to prevention and treatment remain essential components for reducing infectious disease transmission.

(16) Federal support is necessary to increase knowledge and awareness of HBV and HCV and to assist State and local prevention and control efforts in reducing the morbidity and mortality of these epidemics.

(c) Biennial Assessment of HHS Hepatitis B and Hepatitis C Prevention, Education, Research, and Medical Management Plan.—Title III of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 241 et seq.) is amended—
(1) by striking section 317N (42 U.S.C. 247b–15); and

Subtitle C—Acquired Bone Marrow Failure Diseases

SEC. 721. ACQUIRED BONE MARROW FAILURE DISEASES.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This subtitle may be cited as the “Bone Marrow Failure Disease Research and Treatment Act of 2011”.

(b) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds the following:

(1) Between 20,000 and 30,000 Americans are diagnosed each year with myelodysplastic syndromes, aplastic anemia, paroxysmal nocturnal hemoglobinuria, and other acquired bone marrow failure diseases.

(2) Acquired bone marrow failure diseases have a debilitating and often fatal impact on those diagnosed with these diseases.

(3) While some treatments for acquired bone marrow failure diseases can prolong and improve the quality of patients’ lives, there is no single cure for these diseases.

(4) The prevalence of acquired bone marrow failure diseases in the United States will continue to grow as the general public ages.

(5) Evidence exists suggesting that acquired bone marrow failure diseases occur more often in minority populations, particularly in Asian-American and Hispanic/Latin-American populations.

(6) The National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute and the National Cancer Institute have conducted important research into the causes of and treatments for acquired bone marrow failure diseases.

(7) The National Marrow Donor Program Registry has made significant contributions to the fight against bone marrow failure diseases by connecting millions of potential marrow donors with individuals and families suffering from these conditions.

(8) Despite these advances, a more comprehensive Federal strategic effort among numerous Federal agencies is needed to discover a cure for acquired bone marrow failure disorders.

(9) Greater Federal surveillance of acquired bone marrow failure diseases is needed to gain a better understanding of the causes of acquired bone marrow failure diseases.

(10) The Federal Government should increase its research support for and engage with public and private organizations in developing a comprehensive approach to combat and cure acquired bone marrow failure diseases.
(c) NATIONAL ACQUIRED BONE MARROW FAILURE DISEASE REGISTRY.—Part B of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 311 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 317W, as added, the following:

Subtitle E—HIV/AIDS

SEC. 741. FINDINGS.

The Congress finds the following:

(1) Over one million people are estimated to be living with HIV in the United States according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

(2) Annually there are over 17,000 deaths in people with an HIV diagnoses in 40 States and 5 dependent areas of the United States.

(3) The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that in 2009 there were approximately 48,100 people newly infected with HIV. Though this number seems to be staying relatively stable, the number of new infections is rapidly increasing among certain populations especially among young African-American men who have sex with men who had an overall 48 percent increase in new infections from 2006 to 2009.

(4) HIV disproportionately affects certain populations in the United States. Though African-Americans represent less than 13 percent of the population, African-Americans account for almost half (46 percent) of all people living with HIV in the United States. Men who have sex with men (MSM) make up approximately 2 percent of the population, but account for over half (53 percent) of individuals living with HIV and are the only risk group in which HIV infections continue to increase.

(6) Though American Indians/Alaska Natives represent less than 1 percent of the total number of HIV/AIDS cases, American Indians and Alaska Natives rank third in rates of HIV/AIDS diagnosis, after African-Americans and Latin-Americans.

(7) While Asian-Americans, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders HIV/AIDS cases account for approximately 1 percent of cases nationally, Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders were the only racial/ethnic groups with a statistically significant increase in new HIV diagnoses between 2001 and 2008.

(8) The limited data available on transgender individuals point to a disproportionate burden of HIV infection.

(9) Stigma and discrimination contribute to these disparities.

(10) For HIV, early detection and treatment can have huge effects. New research suggests that treatment of individuals not only slows disease progression, but can also greatly reduce the risk of transmission to other individuals.

(11) To combat the HIV epidemic in the United States, the National HIV/AIDS Strategy (NHAS) from the White House Office of National AIDS Policy provides a framework of increasing access to care, reducing new infections, and eliminating HIV-related health disparities. The vision of NHAS is “The United States will become a place where new HIV infections are rare and when they do occur, every person, regardless of age, gender, race/ethnicity, sexual orientation, gender identity, or socioeconomic circumstance, will have unfettered access to high quality, life extending care, free from stigma and discrimination.”.

(12) Although the cost of education, treatment and care, and research are not inconsequential, they are substantially less than the annual health care cost attributable to HIV in the United States. The lifetime cost of HIV care and treatment in 2004 was estimated to be $405,000 to $648,000 dollars annually. Preventing 40,000 new infections in the United States each year would save $12.8 billion annually.

SEC. 747. ADDRESSING HIV/AIDS IN THE AFRICAN-AMERICAN COMMUNITY.

(a) Sense of Congress on National Black Clergy HIV/AIDS Awareness Sunday.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) there should be established a National Black Clergy HIV/AIDS Awareness Sunday on which the Congress and the President call on members of the Black clergy—

(A) to become involved at the local community level in HIV/AIDS testing, policy, and advocacy;
(B) to discuss the HIV/AIDS epidemic with their congregations and the community at-large; and

(C) to urge members of their congregations to reduce risk factors, practice safe sex and other preventive measures, be tested for HIV/AIDS, and seek care when appropriate; and

(2) an appropriate Sunday should be selected for this occasion.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS ON FEDERAL AGENCIES WITH RESPONSIBILITY FOR PREVENTING, TESTING FOR, AND TREATING HIV/AIDS.—It is the sense of Congress that all Federal agencies with a responsibility for preventing, testing for, and treating HIV/AIDS should—

(1) adopt policies for prevention, testing, and treatment that are consistent with the guidelines issued in 2006 by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, entitled “Revised Recommendations for HIV Testing of Adults, Adolescents, and Pregnant Women in Health-Care Settings”; and

(2) begin a systemic, aggressive approach to implementing voluntary, routine testing as part of all health exams, including in emergency rooms, clinics, and private physician offices.
(c) Sense of Congress on Federal Bureau of Prisons Procedures for Inmates With HIV.—It is the sense of Congress that the Federal Bureau of Prisons should implement procedures for—

1. voluntary HIV testing as a routine component of inmate care; and
2. referral to care as a routine component of release planning for inmates with HIV/AIDS, including referral to community-based care and faith-based institutions.

SEC. 748. NATIONAL BLACK CLERGY FOR THE ELIMINATION OF HIV/AIDS.

(a) Short Title.—This section may be cited as the “National Black Clergy for the Elimination of HIV/AIDS Act of 2011”.

(b) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

1. It has been estimated that more than 1,200,000 people in the United States are living with HIV/AIDS, and approximately 500,000 of them are Black. Blacks are 8 times more likely to have AIDS than their White counterparts. Within the Black community, the subpopulation most disproportionately impacted by HIV/AIDS is Black men who have sex with men (MSM) with prevalence rates twice those of White MSM. Black women account for the majority of new AIDS cases among women and are 23 times more likely to be living with AIDS than White women and 4 times more likely than Latinas.

(2) On October 7–8, 2007, 186 Black clergy, consisting of Baptist, COGIC, Methodist, Protestant, AME, and Pentecostal, together with, medical, policy, and AIDS leaders, were brought together by the National Black Leadership Commission on AIDS (NBLCA), the oldest and largest Black AIDS organization of its kind in America, hosted by Time Warner, Inc., with other foundation support, to participate in the National Black Clergy Conclave On HIV/AIDS Policy.

(3) The attendees included faith leaders across traditional, mega, and activist churches representing millions of congregants: the National Medical Association (NMA) representing 30,000 African-American physicians; the National Conference of Black Mayors; the National Caucus of Black State Legislators; and the Health Brain Trust of the Congressional Black Caucus and key African-American HIV/AIDS advocates from across the United States. This group developed a plan of action that has become the National Black Clergy for the Elimination of HIV/AIDS Act of 2011 to respond to the “on the ground” emergency in prevention, care, and treatment for AIDS in Black America.

(4) In August 2007, the NMA, the oldest and largest organization representing 30,000 African-American physicians, released a consensus report entitled “Addressing The HIV/AIDS Crisis In The African American Community: Fact, Fiction and Policy”; and specifically called on the next President of the United States to declare HIV/AIDS in African-American communities a public health emergency and worked with NBLCA to organize clergy to advocate for the specific needs of Black physicians, their patients, and those at risk in African-American communities; and have pledged to advocate and work with clergy to develop, execute, and implement these initiatives as a part of their rightful role of leadership in African-American communities and culture.

(5) The National Conference of Black Mayors has pledged to work with clergy, medical, and community leaders to develop and support these initiatives on a local level and to help them to continue to develop a policy agenda leading to the elimination of HIV/AIDS.
(6) The National Caucus of Black State Legislators pledged to take the initiatives herein to their body and develop plans of action for Black State Legislators to work with local clergy, health departments, and CBOs to adopt and implement these initiatives on a national level.

(7) At their April 2008 annual meeting, the National Policy Alliance (NPA), consisting of the Joint Center For Political and Economic Studies (secretariat) and the National Black Caucus of School Board Members, National Black Caucus of Local Elected Officials; the Judicial Council of the National Bar Association; the National Association of Black County Officials; Blacks in Government and the CBC; NCBM; WCM, voted unanimously to support, endorse, and encourage the passage of the National Black Clergy for the Elimination of HIV/AIDS Act of 2011 and to organize their respective members to endorse and support the passage of this bill.

(8) The World Conference of Black Mayors has ratified its support of these initiatives and legislation, and pledged to assist the clergy to take them internationally.
(9) The National Black Leadership Commission on AIDS, the Balm in Gilead, and the Black AIDS Institute have been recognized by the clergy for their tradition and history of service and will work with clergy to conduct community and policy development, linkages to local departments of health and other services, infrastructure development, education media, and fund development activities.

(10) Bishop T.D. Jakes of the Potters House in Dallas, Texas, and Rev. Calvin O. Butts of the Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem, New York, and chairman of the National Black Leadership Commission on AIDS have been recognized as the organizers of this group and will help guide and lead the development efforts of fellow clergy through this process.

(11) The National Conclave on HIV/AIDS for Black Clergy calls upon the President, Congress, and corporate America to declare the HIV/AIDS crisis in the African-American community a “public health emergency”.

(12) The Black clergy will aggressively seek to have every person under the sphere of their influence tested for HIV in order to know the person’s status.
(13) The Black clergy will promote HIV/AIDS awareness to ensure that all Black clergy serving in their denominations and other congregations are equipped to address issues related to this disease in a factual and scientifically sound manner.

(14) The Black clergy will use the ABC/D model as a behavioral guideline for prevention initiatives:

(A) A–Abstain.

(B) B–Be Faithful.

(C) C–Use Condoms.

(D) D–Don’t Engage in Risky Behaviors.

SEC. 749. REDUCING THE SPREAD OF SEXUALLY TRANSMITTED INFECTIONS IN CORRECTIONAL FACILITIES.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the “Justice for the Unprotected Against Sexually Transmitted Infections among the Confined and Exposed Act” or the “JUSTICE Act”.

(b) FINDINGS.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) According to the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS), 2,292,133 persons were incarcerated in the United States as of the end of 2009. Between 1998 and 2008, the number of persons incarcerated in Federal or State correctional facilities increased by an average of 2.4 percent per year. One in every 32 United States residents was on probation, in jail or prison, or on parole at the end of 2009.

(2) As of 2009, 66.8 percent of incarcerated persons were racial or ethnic minorities. Based on current incarceration rates, BJS estimates that African-American males are 6 times more likely to be held in custody than White males, while Hispanic males are a little more than 2 times more likely to be held in custody. Across all age categories, African-American males were incarcerated at higher rates than Hispanic or White males.

(3) There is a disproportionately high rate of HIV/AIDS among incarcerated persons, especially among minorities. Approximately 25 percent of the HIV-positive population of the United States passes through correctional facilities each year. BJS has determined that the rate of confirmed AIDS cases is 2.4 times higher among incarcerated persons than in the general population. Minorities account for the majority of AIDS-related deaths among incarcerated persons, with African-American incarcerated persons 2.8 times more likely than White incarcerated persons and 1.4 times more likely than Hispanic incarcerated persons to die from AIDS-related causes. Nearly two-thirds of AIDS-related deaths are among Black, non-Hispanic males.

(4) Studies suggest that other sexually transmitted infections (STIs), such as gonorrhea, chlamydia, syphilis, genital herpes, viral hepatitis, and human papillomavirus, also exist at a higher rate among incarcerated persons than in the general population. For instance, researchers have estimated that the rate of hepatitis C (HCV) infection among incarcerated persons is somewhere between 8 and 20 times higher than that of the general population.

(5) Correctional facilities lack a uniform system of STI testing and reporting. Establishing a uniform data collection system would assist in developing and targeting counseling and treatment programs for incarcerated persons. Better developed and targeted programs may reduce the spread of STIs.

(6) Although Congress has acted to reduce the spread of sexual violence in correctional facilities by enacting the National Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) of 2003, BJS reported that approximately 4.4 percent of incarcerated persons in prisons and 3.1 percent of persons in jail reported experiencing one or more incidents of sexual victimization by another incarcerated person or correctional facility staff in the previous year.

(7) Approximately 95 percent of all incarcerated persons eventually return to society. According to one study, every year approximately 100,000 persons infected with both HIV and HCV are released from correctional facilities. These individuals comprise approximately 50 percent of all persons with both infections in the United States.

(8) According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), latex condoms, when used consistently and correctly, are highly effective in preventing the transmission of HIV. Latex condoms also reduce the risk of other STIs. Despite the effectiveness of condoms in reducing the spread of STIs, the Bureau of Prisons does not recommend their use in correctional facilities.

(9) The distribution of condoms in correctional facilities is currently legal in certain parts of the United States and the world. The States of Vermont and Mississippi and the District of Columbia allow condom distribution programs in their correctional facilities. The cities of New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington DC, and Philadelphia also allow condom distribution in their correctional facilities. However, these States and cities operate fewer than 1 percent of all correctional facilities.

(10) A 2007 report by the Massachusetts General Hospital Division of Infectious Diseases and the University of California, San Francisco, found that the proportion of European prison systems allowing condoms rose from 53 percent in 1989 to 81 percent in 1997. The same report also found that no prison system allowing the distribution of condoms had reversed their decision, and no prison system reported an increase in sexual activity among incarcerated persons as a result of a decision to allow condom distribution.

(11) In 2000 and 2001, researchers surveyed 300 incarcerated persons and 100 correctional officers at the Central Detention Facility, a correctional facility operated by the District of Columbia at which condoms are available. Researchers found that both incarcerated persons and correctional officers generally supported the condom distribution program and considered it to be important. Furthermore, the researchers determined that the program had not caused any major security infractions. In Canada, the Expert Committee on AIDS and Prisons surveyed more than 400 correctional officers in the Federal prison system of Canada in 1995 and reported that 82 percent of those responding indicated that the availability of condoms had created no problems at their facility.

(12) The American Public Health Association, the United Nations Joint Program on HIV/AIDS, and the World Health Organization have endorsed the effectiveness of condom distribution programs in correctional facilities.

(13) Many correctional facilities in the United States do not provide comprehensive testing and treatment programs to reduce the spread of STIs. According to BJS surveys from 2005, only 996 of the 1,821 Federal and State correctional facilities (i.e. 54.7 percent) provided HIV/AIDS counseling programs.

(14) Individuals who are enrolled in Medicaid prior to incarceration face a suspension of their benefits upon incarceration, and in some States a termination of their Medicaid eligibility. The Federal Government encourages States to automatically re-enroll incarcerated persons on Medicaid upon their release from a correctional facility, unless the State reaches a determination that the individual is no longer eligible for reasons other than their prior incarceration.

(15) Formerly incarcerated individuals who are newly released from correctional facilities often face delays in the resumption of their Medicaid benefits which may exacerbate any health issues which they face.

(16) Incarcerated individuals living with HIV/AIDS who are eligible for Medicaid would benefit from prompt and automatic enrollment upon their release in order to ensure their continued ability to access health services, including antiretroviral treatment.

(e) Authority To Allow Community Organizations To Provide STI Counseling, STI Prevention Education, and Sexual Barrier Protection Devices in Federal Correctional Facilities.—

(1) Directive to Attorney General.—Not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Attorney General shall direct the Bureau of Prisons to allow community organizations to distribute sexual barrier protection devices and to engage in STI counseling and STI prevention education in Federal correctional facilities. These activities shall be subject to all relevant Federal laws and regulations which govern visitation in correctional facilities.

(2) INFORMATION REQUIREMENT.—Any community organization permitted to distribute sexual barrier protection devices under paragraph (1) must ensure that the persons to whom the devices are distributed are informed about the proper use and disposal of sexual barrier protection devices in accordance with established public health practices. Any community organization conducting STI counseling or STI prevention education under paragraph (1) must offer comprehensive sexuality education.

(3) POSSESSION OF DEVICE PROTECTED.—No Federal correctional facility may, because of the possession or use of a sexual barrier protection device—

(A) take adverse action against an incarcerated person; or

(B) consider possession or use as evidence of prohibited activity for the purpose of any Federal correctional facility administrative proceeding.

(4) IMPLEMENTATION.—The Attorney General and Bureau of Prisons shall implement this section according to established public health practices in a manner that protects the health, safety, and privacy of incarcerated persons and of correctional facility staff.

(d) Sense of Congress Regarding Distribution of Sexual Barrier Protection Devices in State Prison Systems.—It is the sense of Congress that States should allow for the legal distribution of sexual barrier protection devices in State correctional facilities to reduce the prevalence and spread of STIs in those facilities.

(e) Automatic Reinstatement of Medicaid Benefits.—

(1) In general.—Section 1902(e) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396a(e)) is amended by adding at the end the following:

“(i) In general.—The State plan shall provide for the automatic enrollment or reinstatement of enrollment of an eligible individual if—

“(I) such individual is scheduled to be released from a public institution due to the completion of sentence, not less than 30 days prior to the scheduled date of the release; and “(II) such individual is to be released from a public institution on parole or on probation, as soon as possible after the date on which the determination to release such individual was made, and before the date such individual is released.

“(ii) EXCEPTION.—If a State makes a determination that an individual is not eligible to be enrolled under the State plan—

“(I) on or before the date by which the individual would be enrolled under clause (i), such clause shall not apply to such individual; or

“(C) Treatment of continuous eligibility.—

“(i) Suspension for inmates.—Any period of continuous eligibility under this title shall be suspended on the date an individual enrolled under this title becomes an inmate of a public institution (except as a patient of a medical institution).

“(ii) Determination of remaining period.—Notwithstanding any changes to State law related to continuous eligibility during the time that an individual is an inmate of a public institution (except as a patient of a medical institution), subject to clause (iii), with respect to an eligible individual who was subject to a suspension under subclause (I), on the date that such individual is released from a public institution the suspension of continuous eligibility under such subclause shall be lifted for a period that is equal to the time remaining in the period of continuous eligibility for such individual on the date that such period was suspended under such subclause.

“(iii) EXCEPTION.—If a State makes a determination that an individual is not eligible to be enrolled under the State plan—

“(I) on or before the date that the suspension of continuous eligibility is lifted under clause (ii), such clause shall not apply to such individual; or “(II) after such date, the State may terminate the enrollment of such individual.

“(D) AUTOMATIC ENROLLMENT OR REINSTATEMENT OF ENROLLMENT DEFINED.—For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘automatic enrollment or reinstatement of enrollment’ means that the State determines eligibility for medical assistance under the State plan without a program application from, or on behalf of, the eligible individual, but an individual can only be automatically enrolled in the State Medicaid plan if the individual affirmatively consents to being enrolled through affirmation in writing, by telephone, orally, through electronic signature, or through any other means specified by the Secretary.

“(E) Eligible individual defined.—
For purposes of this paragraph, the term ‘eligi-inmate of a public institution (except as a patient in a medical institution)—

“(i) who was enrolled under the State plan for medical assistance immediately before becoming an inmate of such an institution; or

“(ii) is diagnosed with human immunodeficiency virus.”.

(2) Supplemental funding for state implementation of automatic reinstatement of Medicaid benefits.—

(A) In general.—Subject to paragraph (6), for each State for which the Secretary of Health and Human Services has approved an application under paragraph (3), the Federal matching payments (including payments based on the Federal medical assistance percentage) made to such State under section 1903 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1396b) shall be increased by 5.0 percentage points for payments to the State for the activities permitted under paragraph (2) for a period of one year.

(B) USE OF FUNDS.—A State may only use increased matching payments authorized under paragraph (1)—

(i) to strengthen the State’s enrollment and administrative resources for the purpose of improving processes for enrolling (or reinstating the enrollment of) eligible individuals (as such term is defined in section 1902(c)(15)(E) of the Social Security Act); and

(ii) the State has submitted an application to the Secretary that includes a plan for implementing the requirements of section 1902(e)(15) of the Social Security Act under the State’s amended State plan before the end of the 90-day period beginning on the date that the State receives increased matching payments under paragraph (1);

(iii) the State’s application meets the satisfaction of the Secretary; and

(iv) the State enters an agreement with the Secretary that states that—

(I) the State will only use the increased matching funds for the uses permitted under paragraph (2); and

(II) at the end of the period under paragraph (1), the State will submit to the Secretary, and make publicly available, a report that contains the information required under paragraph (4).

under subsections (f) and (g) of section 1108 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1308) shall each be increased by the necessary amount to allow for the increase in the Federal matching payments under paragraph (1), but only for the period under such paragraph for such State. In the case of such an increase for a territory, subsection (a)(1) of such section 1108 shall be ap-

(A) investigates and defines the causal links between all aspects of the built environment and the health of residents;

(B) examines—

(i) the extent of the impact of the built environment (including the various characteristics of the built environment) on the health of residents;

(ii) the variance in the health of residents by—

(I) location (such as inner cities, inner suburbs, and outer suburbs); and
(II) population subgroup (such as children, the elderly, the disadvantaged); or

(iii) the importance of the built environment to the total health of residents, which is the primary variable of interest from a public health perspective;

(C) is used to develop—

(i) measures to address health and the connection of health to the built environment; and

(ii) efforts to link the measures to travel and health databases; and

(D) distinguishes carefully between personal attitudes and choices and external influences on observed behavior to determine how much an observed association between the built environment and the health of residents, versus the lifestyle preferences of the people that choose to live in the neighborhood, reflects the physical characteristics of the neighborhood; and

(E)(i) identifies or develops effective intervention strategies to promote better health among residents with a focus on behavioral interventions and enhancements of the built environment that promote increased use by residents; and

(ii) in developing the intervention strategies under clause (i), ensures that the intervention strategies will reach out to high-risk populations, including racial and ethnic minorities and low-income urban and rural communities.

(4) PRIORITY.—In providing assistance under the grant program authorized under paragraph (2), the Secretary and the Administrator shall give priority to research that incorporates—

(A) minority-serving institutions as grantees;

(B) interdisciplinary approaches; or

(C) the expertise of the public health, physical activity, urban planning, and transportation research communities in the United States and abroad.

SEC. 1005. ENVIRONMENT AND PUBLIC HEALTH RESTORATION.

(a) FINDINGS.—

(1) GENERAL FINDINGS.—The Congress finds as follows:
(A) As human beings, we share our environment with a wide variety of habitats and ecosystems that nurture and sustain a diversity of species.

(B) The abundance of natural resources in our environment forms the basis for our economy and has greatly contributed to human development throughout history.

(C) The accelerated pace of human development over the last several hundred years has significantly impacted our natural environment and its resources, the health and diversity of plant and animal wildlife, the availability of critical habitats, the quality of our air and our water, and our global climate.

(D) The intervention of the Federal Government is necessary to minimize and mitigate human impact on the environment for the benefit of public health, to maintain air quality and water quality, to sustain the diversity of plants and animals, to combat global climate change, and to protect the environment.

(E) Laws and regulations in the United States have been created and promulgated to minimize and mitigate human impact on the environment for the benefit of public health, to maintain air quality and water quality, to sustain wildlife, and to protect the environment.

(G) Attempts to repeal or weaken key environmental safeguards pose dangers to the public health, air quality, water quality, wildlife, and the environment.

(2) FINDINGS ON CHANGES AND PROPOSED CHANGES IN LAW.—The Congress finds that, since 2001, the following changes and proposed changes to existing law or regulations have negatively impacted or will negatively impact the environment and public health:

(A) CLEAN WATER.—

(i) On May 9, 2002, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Army Corps of Engineers put forth a final rule that reconciled regulations implementing section 404 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act by redefining the term "fill material" and amending the definition of the term "discharge of fill material", reversing a 25-year-old regulation. The new rule fails to restrict the dumping of hardrock mining waste, construction debris, and other industrial wastes into rivers, streams, lakes, and wetlands. The rule further allows destructive mountaintop removal coal mining companies to dump waste into streams and lakes, polluting the surrounding natural habitat and poisoning plants and animals that depend on those water sources.

(ii) On February 12, 2003, the Environmental Protection Agency published the rule "National Pollutant Discharge Eliminnation System Permit Regulation and Effluent Limitation Guidelines and Standards for Concentrated Animal Feeding Operations”, new livestock waste regulations that aimed to control factory farm pollution but which would severely undermine existing protections under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. This regulation allows large-scale animal factories to foul the Nation’s waters with animal waste, allows livestock owners to draft their own pollution-management plans and avoid ground water monitoring, legalizes the discharge of contaminated runoff water rich in nitrogen, phosphorus, bacteria, and metals, and ensures that large factory farms are not held liable for the environmental damage they cause. In a 2005 Federal court decision (“Waterkeeper Alliance, et al. v. Environmental Protection Agency”, 399 F.3d 486 (2nd Cir. 2005)), major parts of the rule were upheld, others vacated, and still others remanded back to the EPA. On November 20, 2008, the Environmental Protection Agency published a revised final rule which undermines environmental protection provisions by removing mandatory permitting requirements and allowing large animal farms to self-certify the absence of pollutant discharge activity.

(iii) On March 19, 2003, the Environmental Protection Agency published a new rule regarding the Total Maximum Daily Load program of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act that regulates the maximum amount of a particular pollutant that can be present in a body of water and still meet water quality standards. The new rule withdrew the existing regulation put forth on July 13, 2000, and halted momentum in cleaning up polluted waterways throughout the Nation. By abandoning the existing rule, the Environmental Protection Agency is undermining the effectiveness of clean-up plans and is allowing States to avoid cleaning polluted waters entirely by dropping them from their clean-up lists.
Waterways play a crucial role in the lives of the people of the United States and are critical to the livelihood of fish and wildlife. The result of dropping the July 2000 rule is that the restoration of polluted rivers, shorelines, and lakes will be delayed, harming more fish and wildlife and worsening the quality of drinking water.

(iv) On December 2, 2008, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Army Corps of Engineers jointly issued a guidance document in the form of a legal memorandum, titled “Clean Water Act Jurisdiction Following the U.S. Supreme Court’s Decision in Rapanos v. United States & Carabell v. United States”. This new guidance dictates enforcement actions under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act and calls for a complicated “case-by-case” analysis to determine jurisdiction for waterways that do not flow all year. Such actions endanger small streams and wetlands that serve as important habitats for aquatic life, which play a fundamental role in safeguarding sources of clean drinking water and mitigate the risks and effects of floods and droughts. Further, the definition provided therein for “waters of the United States” is applicable to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act as a whole, potentially affecting programs that control industrial pollution and sewage levels, prevent oil spills, and set water quality standards for all waters in the United States protected under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

(B) FORESTS AND LAND MANAGEMENT.—

(i) On December 3, 2003, the President signed into law the Healthy Forests Restoration Act of 2003 (Public Law 108–148; 16 U.S.C. 6501 et seq.). Although the law attempts to reduce the risk of catastrophic forest fires, it provides a boon to timber companies by accelerating the aggressive thinning of backcountry forests that are far from at-risk communities. The law allows for increased logging of large, fire-resistant trees that are not in close proximity of homes and communities; it undermines critical protections for endangered species by exempting Federal land management agencies from consulting with the United States Fish and Wildlife Service before approving any action that could harm endangered plants or wildlife; and it limits public participation by reducing the number of environmental project reviews.

(ii) On April 21, 2008, the Department of Agriculture issued a Final Planning Rule and Record of Decision for National Forest System Land Management Planning. Similar to rules enacted by the Administration on January 5, 2005, later remanded back to the agency in Federal district court for violating the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, the Endangered Species Act of 1973, and the Administrative Procedure Act ("Citizens for Better Forestry v. United States Department of Agriculture", 481 F. Supp. 2d 1059 (N.D. Cal. 2007)), this revised rule eliminates strict forest planning standards established in 1982, and opens millions of acres of public lands to damaging and invasive logging, mining, and drilling operations. These regulations would reverse more than 20 years of protection for wildlife and national forests by removing the overall goal of ensuring ecological sustainability in managing the national forest system, weakening the National Forest Management Act of 1976, and effectively ending the review of forest management plans under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

(iii) On September 20, 2006, the District Court for the Northern District of California vacated the Protection of Inventoried Roadless Areas rule, enacted on May 13, 2005, which gave State Governors 18 months to petition the Federal Government to either restore the previous rule for their States, or submit a new management and development plan for national forest areas inventoried under the rule. Despite the enjoinment of the Administration’s 2005 rule, and the subsequent restoration of the original Roadless Area Conservation Rule, the U.S. Forest Service has continued to allow States to petition for a special rule under the authority of the Administrative Procedure Act, publishing a final special rule for Idaho on October 16, 2008. As a result, 58.5 million acres of wild national forests are still vulnerable to logging, road building, and other developments that may fragment natural habitats and negatively impact fish and wildlife.

(iv) On November 17, 2008, the Department of the Interior’s Bureau of Land Management (BLM) signed the Record of Decision (ROD) amending 12 resource management plans in Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming, opening 2,000,000 acres of public lands to commercial tar sands and oil shale exploration and development. On November 18, 2008, the BLM published a final rule for Oil Shale Management setting the policies and procedures for a commercial leasing program for the management of federally owned oil shale in those three States. Previously barred by a congressional moratorium on the commercial leasing regulations for oil shale until September 30, 2008, the development of oil shale on public lands poses a serious threat to land conservation, endangered and threatened species, and critical habitat. Domestic shale oil production allowed by these regulations is highly water and energy intensive, the impacts of which will intensify existing water scarcity in the arid Western Region and potentially degrade air and water quality for surrounding populations.

(C) SCIENTIFIC REVIEW.—On December 16, 2008, the United States Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration of the Department of Commerce jointly issued a new rule amending regulations governing interagency cooperation under section 7 of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (ESA). This rule undermines the intention of the ESA to protect species and the ecosystems upon which they depend by allowing Federal agencies to carry out, permit, or fund an action without proper environmental review and expert third-party consultation from Federal wildlife experts. Under this new rule, Federal agencies can unilaterally circumvent the formal review process, eliminating longstanding and scientifically grounded safeguards that serve to protect the biodiversity of our Nation’s ecosystems and avert harm to thousands of endangered and threatened species.

(b) STATEMENT OF POLICY.—It is the policy of the United States Government to work in conjunction with States, territories, tribal governments, international organizations, and foreign governments in order to act as a steward of the environment for the benefit of public health, to maintain air quality and water quality, to sus-tain the diversity of plant and animal species, to combat global climate change, and to protect the environment for future generations to enjoy.

VIRONMENTAL IMPACT OF REVISED RULES, REGULA-TIONS, LAWS, OR PROPOSED LAWS.—
