1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

TITLE III—MISCELLANEOUS

- Sec. 301. Deficit reduction.
- Sec. 302. Budgetary effects.

6 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

7 Congress finds that—

8 (1) gas prices have risen significantly largely in 9 response to unrest in north Africa and the Middle 10 East, unrest that speculators are capitalizing on to 11 increase oil futures prices and make huge profits;

12 (2) high gas prices are hurting the quality of 13 life of people of the United States, cutting into sav-
14 ings, and jeopardizing jobs and the economic recov-
15 ery of the United States;

1           (3) implementation of the regulatory reforms
2 enacted by Congress in the Dodd-Frank Wall Street
3 Reform and Consumer Protection Act (Public Law
4 111–203; 124 Stat. 1376) to prevent energy market 5 manipulation and control excessive speculation has 6 been delayed and has been threatened with funding
7 reductions in the House of Representatives;

8           (4) the United States is producing more oil
9 than any time in the last 13 years and companies 10 hold abundant inventories of oil, but the United 11 States is still importing more than 11,000,000 bar-
12 rels of oil per day and the Energy Information Ad-13 ministration projects that full production in all on-14 shore and offshore areas would reduce gas prices by 15 only 3 cents per gallon by 2030;

16           (5) domestic refining capacity now exceeds 17 United States demand for refined petroleum prod-
18 ucts, resulting in increased idle refinery capacity;

19           (6) oil companies are sitting idly on approxi-
20 mately 60,000,000 acres of leased Federal lands and 21 waters containing more than 11,000,000,000 barrels 22 of oil and 59,000,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural 23 gas;

24           (7) the United States possesses less than 2 per-25 cent of the proven oil reserves of the world, yet con-

1       sumes an unsustainable 25 percent of the oil produc-
2       tion of the world;

3               (8) the economy of the United States suffers 4       huge net losses in jobs and productivity from the 5       growing annual trade deficit in energy, due mainly 6       to the outflow of $250,000,000,000 or more to pay
7       for foreign oil;

8               (9) world oil prices have risen steadily since the 9       slow beginning of the global economic recovery and,
10       absent major efficiency or conservation improve-
11       ments or deployment of alternative fuels, those oil 12       prices are projected to remain well above $100 per 13       barrel or higher as world demand grows as China,
14       India and other countries industrialize;

15              (10) the oil production policies of cartel of the 16       Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries
17       (OPEC) are a large determinant of the world price
18       of oil, so the economy of the United States will be 19       affected by decisions of OPEC as long as the United 20       States depends on oil for a significant portion of the 21       energy consumption of the United States;

22              (11) the major oil companies have accumulated
23       more than $1,000,000,000,000 in net profits over 24       the last 10 years and collected more than 25       $40,000,000,000 in tax breaks during the same pe-

1 riod, but have invested negligible amounts of those 2 funds into research and development of the produc-
3 tion of clean and renewable fuels made in the United 4 States, leaving consumers with few if any choices at 5 the pump; and

6 (12) in the Energy Independence and Security 7 Act of 2007 (42 U.S.C. 17001 et seq.), Congress in-8 creased fuel economy standards for the first time in 9 30 years and established ambitious requirements for 10 domestic biofuels, actions that have reduced oil con-
11 sumption and reduced upward pressure on gas
12 prices.

13 SEC. 3. SENSE OF SENATE ON HIGH GAS PRICES.

14 It is the sense of the Senate that—

15 (1) the President and Administration should be 16 commended for recognizing the severity of high gas
17 prices and for taking appropriate actions to help re-
18 duce gas prices, including actions—

19 (A) to move forward with expeditious and 20 responsible domestic production in the Gulf of 21 Mexico and elsewhere;

22 (B) to form a Task Force led by the De-
23 partment of Justice to investigate and eliminate 24 oil and gas price gouging and market manipula-
25 tion;

1 (C) to establish a national oil savings goal
2 to cut imports by 33 percent by 2025;

3 (D) to call for 1,000,000 electric vehicles
4 to be on the road by 2015;

5 (E) to harmonize corporate average fuel
6 standards under section 32902 of title 49,
7 United States Code, (CAFE) and carbon pollu-
8 tion standards to achieve 1,800,000,000 barrels
9 in oil savings from new vehicles built before 10 2017, and working with stakeholders to in-11 crease those savings from future year vehicles;

12 (F) to establish the National Clean Fleets
13 Partnership and Green Fleet Initiative to re-
14 duce diesel and gasoline use in fleets by incor-
15 porating electric vehicles, alternative fuels like 16 natural gas, and efficiency measures; and

17 (G) to clarify and expand the use of E-15
18 fuel for new motor vehicles;

19 (2) Congress should take additional actions to 20 complement the efforts of the President, including 21 enacting provisions—

22 (A) to encourage diligent and responsible
23 development of domestic oil and gas resources
24 onshore and off-shore;

1 (B) to eliminate subsidies for major oil and 2 gas companies and use the savings to promote 3 research, development, and deployment of af-
4 fordable alternative fuels and vehicles;

5 (C) to give consumers more choices at the 6 pump and incentives for buying vehicles that 7 displace petroleum consumption; and

8 (D) to direct and fund the Commodity Fu-9 tures Trading Commission and the Federal 10 Trade Commission to rapidly implement the en-11 ergy consumer protection requirements of the 12 Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer
13 Protection Act (Public Law 111–203; 124 Stat.
14 1376);

15 (3) the Organization of the Petroleum Export-
16 ing Countries (OPEC) should contribute to the sta-17 bilization of world oil markets and prices and reduce 18 the burden of high gasoline prices borne by the con-
19 sumers in the United States by using existing idle
20 oil production capacity to compensate for any supply 21 shortages experienced in member countries; and

22 (4) the economic, environmental, and national 23 security of the United States depend on a sustained 24 effort to drastically reduce and eventually eliminate 25 the dependency of the United States on oil.

18   167(h)(5)(B)) to a foreign country or possession of 19   the United States for any period shall not be consid-
20   ered a tax—

10                  or possession were applicable to such dual 11                  capacity taxpayer.

12       Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to 9                   possession.

10                   “(B) EXCEPTIONS.—Such term shall not 11                   include a tax unless it has substantial applica-12                   tion, by its terms and in practice, to—

13                           “(i) persons who are not dual capacity 14                           taxpayers, and
