Subtitle E—Other Provisions

SEC. 241. COMMISSION ON IMPROVING PATIENT DIRECTED HEALTH CARE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:
(1) In order to elevate the role of patient choices in the health care system, the American public must engage in an informed, national, public debate on how the current health care system empowers and informs health care decision-making, and what can be done to improve the likelihood patients receive the care they want and need.

(2) Research suggests that patients often do not receive the care they want. As a result, the end of life is associated with a substantial burden of suffering by the patient and negative health and financial consequences that extend to family members and society.

(3) Patients face a complex and fragmented health care system that may decrease the likelihood that health care choices are known and carried out. The health care system should embed principles that take into account patient wishes.

(4) Decisions concerning health care, including end-of-life issues, affect an increasing number of Americans.

(5) Medical advances are prolonging life expectancy in the United States both in acute life-threatening situations and protracted battles with illness.
