Sec. 201. Legislative recommendations of the Secretary.
Sec. 203. Definitions.
Sec. 204. Authorization of appropriations.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) On July 4, 1776, the Second Continental Congress unanimously declared the independence of the 13 colonies, and the achievement of peace was recognized as one of the highest duties of the new organization of free and independent States by declaring, “We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.”.

(2) The Constitution of the United States, in its preamble, further sets forth the insurance of the cause of peace in stating, “We the People of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity”.

(3) The United States has been at peace for only 21 entire years since its birth during the Revolutionary War. During the course of the 20th century, more than 100,000,000 people perished in wars. Many of our citizens today have never known a peaceful year in their lifetimes.

(4) Thus far in the 21st century, nearly 1,000,000 people have died in conflict and war. The United Nations reports that as of 2019 over 79.6 million people have fled their homes due to war, persecution and conflict. Since late 2001, the United States appropriated and was obligated to spend an estimated $6.4 trillion through Fiscal Year 2020 in budgetary costs related to and caused by post 9/11 wars and an additional minimum of $1 trillion to care for veterans of these wars for several decades.

(5) The physical, emotional, monetary, and other costs of violence are enormous, cut across all sectors of society in the United States, disproportionately impact people of color, and are interrelated. A World Health Organization report estimates that interpersonal violence within the United States costs approximately $300 billion annually, not including war-related costs. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reports one in four children experience some form of child abuse or neglect in their lifetimes; nearly one in four women report having experienced severe physical violence from an intimate partner; Native American women are sexually assaulted, murdered and disappeared at higher rates than other American women. There are 3.3 million reports of violence against children that result in foster care placements every year; 25 percent of kids in foster care experience PTSD, fewer than 3 percent earn a college degree; 20 percent become homeless after the age of 18; and only 50 percent will be employed by the age of 24. One in five high school students reported being bullied at school during 2017 and cyberbullying impacts many young people. Criminalization disproportionately impacts African Americans and other people of color, including high rates of school suspensions and expulsions and incarceration. African Americans are incarcerated at more than five times the rate of Whites. Suicide impacts young people in both affluent and non-affluent communities. In 2015, 17 percent of students considered attempting suicide. Suicide is the second leading cause of death among American Indian and Alaska Natives aged 10 to 34. Approximately 20 veterans a day commit suicide nationwide. About 14 young people die from homicides each day. Research shows victims of one form of violence are more likely to experience other forms of violence. A past history of violence, including domestic violence; use of alcohol or illegal drugs; being young and male; or a personal history of physical or sexual abuse or trauma, increases the risk of more violence, obesity, high-risk sexual behavior, depression, academic difficulties, school dropout and suicide.

(6) More people have died from guns in the United States since 1968 than on battlefields of all the wars in United States history. Every year 250,000 people are killed by gun violence around the world, a third of those in Brazil and the United States. Firearms are the second leading cause of death for American children and teens and the first leading cause of death for Black children and teens.
Every day 47 children and teens in the United States are shot and 96 Americans are killed by gun violence. During 2017 and 2018, there was one mass shooting almost every day in the United States.
Young people go to school wondering where to hide when a shooter enters their classroom. Each gun injury and fatality results in trauma to family members and loved ones.

(7) According to a report by the Institute of Economics and Peace, which measures the economic impact of violence and conflict to the global economy, the economic impact of violence to the global economy was $14.76 trillion in 2017. The report also found that the regional impact of violence in North America, 99 percent of which can be attributed to the United States, amounted to $2.73 trillion in 2017. If violence containment spending was reduced by 15 percent, the world would save $1.4 trillion, which would be the funding required to achieve the United Nations Millennium Development Goals of halving extreme poverty rates, ensuring healthy lives for all, halting the spread of HIV and AIDS, providing universal primary education, decent jobs, gender equality, promoting peaceful, inclusive and just societies, and more. Three percent of United States military spending could end starvation on earth.

(8) Peace is the essential prerequisite for the survival of humanity as we know it in the 21st century. Preventing violence and redirecting funds spent on the costs of violence free monies and resources to create conditions that are conducive to a culture of peace.

(9) Violence prevention is cost effective. For every dollar spent on violence prevention and peacebuilding, thousands of lives and dollars are saved. Research indicates that investing early to prevent conflicts from escalating into violent crises is, on average, 60 times more cost effective than intervening after violence erupts. The philosophy and techniques of nonviolence and the science of peacebuilding provide tools and techniques that can be applied not only at the levels of individual and community growth, but also within the Federal Government and at national and international levels.

(10) The United Nations recognizes that promotion of peace is vital for the full enjoyment of all human rights and the United Nations Declaration on the Right of Peoples to Peace mandates that preservation of the right to peace is a fundamental obligation of each country. In 1999, the United Nations adopted a Programme of Action on a Culture of Peace, stating that a culture of peace is an integral approach to preventing violence and violent conflicts, an alternative to the culture of war and vioience, and is based on education for peace, the promotion of sustainable economic and social development, respect for human rights, equality between women and men, democratic participation, tolerance, the free flow of information, and disarmament. The United Nations declared the years 2001 through 2010 an International Decade for a Culture of Peace and Non-Violence for the Children of the World, and the United Nations supports a culture of peace. In 2015, the United Nations adopted 17 sustainable development goals, including promotion of peaceful and inclusive societies which recognize the link between justice, human rights, and government based on the rule of law and peace.

(11) Peacebuilding is defined by the United Nations as a range of measures targeted to reduce the risk of lapsing or relapsing into conflict by strengthening national capacities at all levels for conflict management and to lay the foundations for sustainable peace and development. Peacebuilding is built upon research into the root causes of violence in the United States and the world, through promotion and promulgation of effective policies and programs that ameliorate those root causes of violence, and through providing all citizens, organizations, and governmental bodies with opportunities to learn about and practice the essential tools of nonviolent conflict resolution and peacebuilding.

(12) In 2000, the Earth Charter Commission released the Earth Charter, an international declaration of fundamental values and principles created to build a just, sustainable, and peaceful global society.
The preamble of the Earth Charter provides, “To move forward we must recognize that in the midst of a magnificent diversity of cultures and life forms we are one human family and one Earth community with a common destiny. We must join together to bring forth a sustainable global society founded on respect for nature, universal human rights, economic justice, and a culture of peace.”. Peacebuilding is working together with all countries to protect both life and land and hold the Earth in balance.

(13) Systemic racism is a significant driver of violence and key obstacle to peace in the United States. Confronting and uprooting systemic racism in America will require efforts by the Federal Government both to properly acknowledge, memorialize, and be a catalyst for progress toward permanently eliminating persistent racial inequities, including through a United States Commission on Truth, Racial Healing, and Transformation, and to develop material remedies for the institution of slavery, including through a United States Commission to Study and Develop Reparation Proposals for African-Americans.

TITLE I—ESTABLISHMENT OF DEPARTMENT OF PEACEBUILDING

SEC. 101. ESTABLISHMENT OF DEPARTMENT OF PEACEBUILDING.

(a) Establishment.—There is hereby established a Department of Peacebuilding, which shall—

(1) be within the executive branch of the Federal Government; and

(2) be dedicated to peacebuilding, peacemaking, and the study and promotion of conditions conducive to both domestic and international peace and a culture of peace.

(b) Secretary of Peacebuilding.—There shall be at the head of the Department a Secretary of Peacebuilding, who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

(e) Mission.—The Department shall—

(1) cultivate peace and peacebuilding as a strategic national policy objective;
(2) reduce and prevent violence in the United States and internationally through peacebuilding and effective nonviolent conflict resolution;

(3) strengthen nonmilitary means of peace-making;

(4) take a proactive, strategic approach in the development of field-tested best practices and policies that promote national and international conflict prevention, nonviolent intervention, mediation, peaceful resolution of conflict, and structured mediation of conflict;

(5) address matters both domestic and international in scope;

(6) address the interconnection of all life and the intersectionality of peace and justice, equality, health, healing, national security, education, the economy, rule of law, democracy, planetary survival, and other aspects of civil rights, civil liberties, and human rights;

(7) provide an institutional platform for the growing wealth of expertise in peacebuilding to dramatically reduce the national and global epidemic of violence;
(8) support local communities in finding, funding, replicating, and expanding programs to reduce and prevent violence;

(9) invest in nongovernmental organizations that have implemented successful initiatives to reduce and prevent violence, both internationally and domestically; and

(10) consult with other Federal agencies to apply and practice the science of peacebuilding in their respective fields of responsibility.

SEC. 102. RESPONSIBILITIES AND POWERS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall, on an ongoing basis—

(1) work proactively and interactively with each branch of the Federal Government on all policy matters relating to conditions of peace;

(2) call on the experience and expertise of individuals and seek participation in the development of policy from private, public, and nongovernmental organizations;

(3) monitor and analyze causative principles of conflict and make policy recommendations for developing conditions of peace and maintaining peaceful conduct;
(4) research effective violence reduction programs and promote and promulgate such programs within the Federal Government and society; and

(5) consult with private, public, and nongovernmental organizations to develop a metric model that provides the means to measure and report progress toward peace in the United States to the President, Congress, and the public, and issue reports on such progress annually with those reports to be available to the public on the website of the Department.

(b) DOMESTIC RESPONSIBILITIES.—The Secretary shall collaborate with governmental and nongovernmental organizations and individuals to promote personal and community security and peace by—

(1) developing new policies and supporting existing policies that effectively address personal and family violence, including suicide, domestic violence, spousal abuse, child abuse, and mistreatment of the elderly and others;

(2) creating new policies and programs and expanding existing policies and programs that effectively reduce drug and alcohol abuse;

(3) analyzing existing policies, employing successful, field-tested programs, and developing new approaches for dealing with the tools of violence, in-including handguns and assault weapons, especially among youth;

(4) developing new and expanding effective programs that address and ameliorate societal challenges such as school violence, gangs, police violence, hate crimes, economic injustice, human trafficking, racial or ethnic violence, violence against LGBTQ+ individuals, and police-community relations disputes;

(5) making policy recommendations to the Attorney General of the United States regarding civil rights and labor law;

(6) assisting in the establishment and funding of community-based violence prevention programs, including virtual violence prevention programs for at-home participation, violence prevention counseling and peer mediation in schools and via video conferences, and unarmed civilian peacekeeping and crisis mitigation at a local level;

(7) providing counseling and advocacy on behalf of individuals victimized by violence, including those with mental health;

(8) providing for public education programs and counseling strategies that promote acceptance and respect for the diversity of all individuals in the United States without regard to race, religion, creed, gender and gender identification, sexual orientation, age, ethnicity, national origin, class and economic status, and other perceived differences; and

(9) supporting local community initiatives that draw on neighborhood resources to create peace projects that facilitate the development of conflict resolution and healing of societal wounds such as patriarchy, racism, war, manifest destiny, and economic injustice to thereby inform and inspire national policy.

(c) INTERNATIONAL RESPONSIBILITIES.—The Secretary shall—

(1) advise the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of State on matters relating to national security, including the protection of human rights and the prevention of, amelioration of, and de-escalation of unarmed and armed international conflict;

(2) contribute to and participate in the development of training of all United States personnel who administer post-conflict reconstruction and demobilization in war-torn societies;

(3) sponsor national and regional conflict-prevention and dispute-resolution initiatives, create special task forces, and draw on local, regional, and national expertise to develop plans and programs for addressing the root sources and issues of conflict in troubled areas;

(4) develop violence prevention, amelioration and violence de-escalation training for the general public to provide tools and educate about peacebuilding skills and to promote sustainable peace, peacebuilding buy-in and peacebuilding awareness;

(5) counsel and advocate on behalf of women victimized by violence, including rape, situations leading up to conflict, conflicts, and post-conflict situations;

(6) counsel and advocate on behalf of victims of human trafficking both domestically and internationally and work to end the trafficking of human beings;

(7) provide for exchanges between the United States and other countries that endeavor to develop domestic and international peace-based initiatives;

(8) encourage the development of international sister city programs, pairing United States cities with cities around the world for artistic, cultural, economic, educational, and faith-based exchanges;

(9) establish and administer a budget designated for the training and deployment of unarmed civilian peacekeepers to participate in multinational nonviolent peacekeeping forces that may be conducted by civilian, governmental, or multilateral organizations;

(10) jointly with the Secretary of the Treasury, strengthen peace enforcement through hiring and training monitors and investigators to help with the enforcement of international arms embargoes;

(11) in consultation with the Secretary of State, bring together all stakeholders who are impacted by a conflict by facilitating peace summits where such stakeholders may gather under carefully prepared conditions to promote nonviolent communication and mutually beneficial solutions and to prevent future;

(12) submit to the President recommendations for reductions and elimination of weapons of mass destruction, and make annual reports to the President on the sale of arms from the United States to other countries, with an analysis of the impact of such sales on the defense of the United States, how such sales affect peace and security, and how reduction or cessation of such sales affect peace and security;
(13) in consultation with the Secretary of State, develop strategies for sustainability and management of the distribution of international funds;

(14) advise the Permanent Representative of the United States to the United Nations on matters pertaining to the United Nations Security Council;

(15) support the implementation of international peacebuilding strategies through a balanced use of peacebuilding, reconciliation, diplomacy, development, and defense with the goal of preventing and ending war and violence; and

(16) encourage all nations to create infrastructures for peace within their nations and among nations.

(d) Membership of the Secretary of Peacebuilding on the National Security Council.—Section 101(c) of the National Security Act of 1947 (50 U.S.C. 3021(c)) is amended by inserting “the Secretary of Peacebuilding” after “Treasury”.

(e) Human Security Responsibilities.—The Secretary shall address and offer nonviolent conflict resolution strategies and suggest resources for unarmed civilian peacekeepers to the appropriate relevant parties on issues of human security if such security is threatened by conflict or crisis, whether such conflict or crisis is geographic, reli-1 religious, ethnic, gender-based, racial, or class-based in its or-2 igin, derives from economic concerns, health concerns or 3 is initiated through disputes concerning scarcity of natural 4 resources (such as water and energy resources), food, 5 health resources (such as life-saving medicine, medical and 6 protective equipment and supplies, including viral and bac-7 terial infection testing supplies and vaccines), trade, or cli-8 mate and environmental concerns.
9
(f) M EDIA-RELATED RESPONSIBILITIES.—Respect-10 ing the First Amendment to the Constitution of the 11 United States of America and the requirement for free and 12 independent media, the Secretary shall—13
   (1) seek assistance in the design and implemen-14 tation of nonviolent policies from media profes-15 sionals;
16
   (2) study the role of the media in the escalation 17 and de-escalation of conflict at domestic and inter-18 national levels, including the role of fear-inducing 19 and hate-inducing speech and actions, and making 20 the findings of such study public; and 21
   (3) make recommendations to professional 22 media organizations in order to provide opportuni-23 ties to increase media awareness of peacebuilding 24 initiatives.
(g) Educational Responsibilities.—The Secretary shall—

(1) consult with the United States Institute of Peace, the Department of Education and other concerned individuals and organizations and develop a peace education curriculum that includes studies of—

(A) the civil rights movement in the United States and throughout the world and human rights and liberties movements, with special emphasis on the role of nonviolence and how individual endeavor and involvement have contributed to advancements in peace and justice;

(B) underlying causes of violence and conditions of peace;

(C) practices that enhance peace and peacebuilding;

(D) the contributions to the United States of its diverse ethnicities, races, and religious communities;

(E) peace agreements and circumstances in which peaceful intervention has worked to stop conflict; and
(F) the patriarchal structure of society and the inherent violence of such structure in the shaping of relationships and institutions;

(2) in consultation with the Secretary of Education—

(A) commission and participate in the development of such curriculum and make such curriculum available to local school districts to enable the use of peace education objectives at pre-kindergarten schools, elementary schools, and secondary schools in the United States;

(B) support in early childhood, pre-kindergarten schools, elementary schools, secondary schools, and institutions of higher education a well-resourced, balanced education that includes math, environmental stewardship, science, English, history, ethnic studies, economics, justice, critical thinking, social studies, health, physical education, foreign languages, the arts, and music that will prepare students for success in a globally interconnected world; and

(C) offer incentives in the form of grants and training to encourage the development of State peace curricula and assist schools in applying for such grants and training;
(3) work with educators to equip students to become skilled in achieving peace through reflection, and facilitate instruction in the ways of peaceful conflict resolution;

(4) ensure that schools are nonviolence zones that provide a peaceful educational environment;

(5) create school and community cultures where students and staff do not feel threatened and are free from bullying and harassment by developing and implementing curricula in nonviolent conflict resolution education, mindfulness, and restorative practices for teachers, students, parents, the school community, and the community at large;

(6) maintain a public website to solicit and receive ideas for the development of peace from the wealth of the politically, socially, and culturally diverse public;

(7) proactively engage the critical thinking capabilities, including civic education on citizen duties to foster democratic principles, of students and teachers of pre-kindergarten schools, elementary schools, secondary schools, and institutions of higher education through the internet and other media and issue periodic reports concerning any submissions from such students and teachers;
(8) establish a Peace Academy that shall—

(A) be modeled after the military service academies; and

(B) provide a 4-year course of instruction in peace education, after which graduates will be required to serve 5 years in public service in programs dedicated to domestic or international nonviolent conflict resolution; and

(9) provide grants for peace studies departments in institutions of higher education throughout the United States.

SEC. 103. PRINCIPAL OFFICERS.

(a) UNDER SECRETARY OF PEACEBUILDING.—The President shall appoint an Under Secretary of Peacebuilding in the Department, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. During the absence or disability of the Secretary, or in the event of a vacancy in the office of the Secretary, the Under Secretary shall act as Secretary. The Secretary shall designate the order in which other officials of the Department shall act and perform the functions of the Secretary during the absence or disability of both the Secretary and Under Secretary or in the event of vacancies in both offices.

(b) ADDITIONAL POSITIONS.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—The President shall appoint in the Department, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate—

(A) an Assistant Secretary for Peace Education and Training;

(B) an Assistant Secretary for Domestic Peacebuilding Activities;

Economic Rights; and

(H) a General Counsel.

(2) ESTABLISHMENT OF INSPECTOR GENERAL OF THE DEPARTMENT OF PEACEBUILDING.—Section
App.) is amended—

(A) in paragraph (1), by inserting “Peacebuilding,” after “Homeland Security,”; and
(B) in paragraph (2), by inserting “Peacebuilding,” after “Homeland Security,”.

(3) ADDITIONAL OFFICERS.—The President shall appoint 4 additional officers in the Department, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The officers appointed under this paragraph shall perform such functions as the Secretary shall prescribe, including—

(A) congressional relations functions;

(B) public information functions, including providing, through the use of the latest technologies, useful information about peace and the work of the Department;

(C) management and budget functions;

and

(D) planning, evaluation, and policy development functions, including development of policies to promote the efficient and coordinated administration of the Department and its programs and encourage improvements in conflict resolution and violence prevention.

(4) DESCRIPTION OF FUNCTIONS.—In any case in which the President submits the name of an individual to the Senate for confirmation as an officer of the Department under this subsection, the President shall state the particular functions such indi-

(c) Authority of Secretary.—Each officer de-described in this section shall report directly to the Secretary and shall, in addition to any functions vested in or required to be delegated to such officer, perform such additional functions as the Secretary may prescribe.

SEC. 104. OFFICE OF PEACE EDUCATION AND TRAINING.

(a) In General.—There shall be in the Department an Office of Peace Education and Training, the head of which shall be the Assistant Secretary for Peace Education and Training. The Assistant Secretary for Peace Education and Training shall carry out those functions of the Department relating to the creation, encouragement, and impact of peace education and training at the pre-kindergarten, elementary, secondary, university, and postgraduate levels, and disseminate applicable policies and research in consultation with entities of the Department of Health and Human Services, including—

(1) the Administration for Children and Families;

(2) the Administration on Aging;

(3) the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention; and

(4) the National Institutes of Health.
(b) Peace Curriculum.—The Assistant Secretary of Peace Education and Training, in consultation with the Secretary of Education, the United States Institute of Peace, nongovernmental organizations, public institutions, peace and conflict studies programs of institutions of higher education, and Federal agencies that provide effective peace training materials and curricula, shall create and support the development and dissemination of effective peace curricula and supporting materials for distribution to the State educational agency in each State and territory of the United States and any other interested institutions.

Each peace curriculum shall include—

1. building communicative peace skills and nonviolent conflict resolution skills;
2. teaching and fostering compassion, empathy, mindfulness, kindness, acceptance, understanding, respect, inclusion, and forgiveness;
3. teaching about historical and contemporary events utilizing nonviolent and peacebuilding principles to promote a culture of peace and about individuals and organizations employing nonviolent and peacebuilding principles to improve society;
4. teaching about the benefits of a peaceful society, including economic, health, social, and scientific implications of peace; and
(5) promoting other objectives to increase the knowledge of peace processes.

(c) GRANTS.—The Assistant Secretary of Peace Education and Training shall—

(1) provide peace education grants to institutions of higher education for the creation and expansion of peace studies departments and the education and training of teachers in peace studies, violence prevention, peacebuilding, community building, and nonviolent conflict resolution skills; and

(2) establish a grant program to be known as the Community Peace Block Grant program under which the Secretary shall make grants to nonprofit organizations and nongovernmental organizations for the purposes of developing innovative school and neighborhood programs for nonviolent conflict resolution and creating local peacebuilding initiatives.

SEC. 105. OFFICE OF DOMESTIC PEACEBUILDING ACTIVITIES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—There shall be in the Department an Office of Domestic Peacebuilding Activities, the head of which shall be the Assistant Secretary for Domestic Peacebuilding Activities. The Assistant Secretary for Domestic Peacebuilding Activities shall carry out those functions in the Department affecting domestic peace activities, including the development of policies that prevent domestic violence and that increase awareness about intervention and counseling on domestic violence and conflict.

(b) RESPONSIBILITIES.—The Assistant Secretary for Domestic Peacebuilding Activities shall—

(1) develop policy and disseminate best practices from the field for the treatment of drug and alcohol abuse;

(2) develop community-based strategies for celebrating diversity and promoting acceptance;

(3) develop new policies and build upon existing proven programs to prevent the school-to-prison pipeline by promoting restorative and conflict resolution practices at pre-kindergarten, elementary, secondary, university, and post graduate levels and in police academies, with funding for teacher, staff, student, and community training in nonviolence, restorative practices, conflict resolution, and diversity understanding and appreciation;

(4) develop new policies and build on existing proven programs—

(A) to assist in the prevention of hate, a culture of violence and domination, violence and crime, including the development of non-threatening, non-harassing community policing strategies, mindfulness, and conflict de-escalation training, and other peaceful settlement skills among police and other public safety officers;

(B) to assist in the re-entry into the community by individuals who have been incarcerated by providing trauma healing, including training in anger management, conflict resolution, peacebuilding skills, life skills, and educational and job skills;

(C) to assist in creating strong, happy, and healthy families, including supporting mental health services, domestic violence prevention, gang prevention, anti-bullying programs, animal cruelty prevention, substance abuse prevention, and the development of peaceful parenting skills;

(D) to promote peacebuilding and community-building and to provide restorative justice and restorative practice programs at all levels of the criminal justice system that bring together offenders, victims, and community members in an effort to repair the damage caused by criminal activity through accountability and rehabilitation;
(E) to develop violence prevention and violence de-escalation training for the general public to provide peacebuilding tools for all and to promote sustainable peace, peacebuilding buy-in, and peacebuilding awareness;

(F) to provide for training and deployment into neighborhoods of nonmilitary domestic conflict prevention and peacemaking personnel, including violence interrupters, community safety task force, and civilian community peacekeepers;

(G) to implement respectful, non-targeting, and non-harassing community-based policing to break down barriers between law enforcement officers and the people such officers serve; and

(H) to encourage and facilitate formation of locally and State-run and administered citizen’s boards to recommend any appropriate training as needed for working compassionately and effectively with local, regional, and State populations and to review and hold accountable actions of all local, regional, and State police and law enforcement departments in the United States;
(5) promote informal and cultural exchanges between individuals and groups of proximate neighborhoods and regions to encourage understanding and acceptance; and

(6) disseminate applicable policies and research in consultation with—

(A) the Department of Justice;

(B) the Department of Health and Human Services;

(C) the Department of State; and

(D) the Department of Education.

(c) GRANTS.—The Assistant Secretary for Domestic Peacebuilding Activities shall establish a grant program to be known as the Cultural Diplomacy for Peace grant program under which the Secretary shall make grants to pre-kindergarten schools, elementary schools, secondary schools, institutions of higher education, nonprofit organizations, and nongovernmental organizations for the purpose of developing domestic cultural exchanges, including exchanges relating to the arts, sports, science, and other academic disciplines, that promote diplomacy and cultural understanding between neighborhoods and members of such neighborhoods.
SEC. 106. OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL PEACEBUILDING ACTIVITIES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—There shall be in the Department an Office of International Peacebuilding Activities, the head of which shall be the Assistant Secretary for International Peacebuilding Activities. The Assistant Secretary for International Peacebuilding Activities shall carry out those functions in the Department affecting international peace activities.

(b) RESPONSIBILITIES.—The Assistant Secretary for International Peacebuilding Activities shall—

(1) develop new programs and promote existing proven programs to—

(A) provide for the training and deployment of graduates of the Peace Academy established under section 102(g) and other non-military conflict prevention and peacemaking personnel;

(B) support national and regional conflict-prevention, de-escalation, and peaceful dispute-resolution initiatives in countries experiencing social, political, medical, or economic strife and among all nations;

(C) develop violence prevention, amelioration and de-escalation training for the general public to educate about peacebuilding skills and to promote sustainable peace, peacebuilding buy-in and peacebuilding awareness;

(D) provide training for the administration of post-conflict reconstruction and demobiliza-tion in war-torn societies;

(E) address root causes of violence;

(F) eradicate extreme hunger, infectious and other diseases, and poverty;

(G) eradicate genocide;

(H) achieve universal primary education;

(I) empower women and girls;

(J) eradicate human trafficking; and

(K) eradicate dehumanization and mistreatment of individuals;

(2) support the creation of a multinational non-vviolent peace force;

(3) provide for exchanges between individuals of the United States and other countries that are endeavoring to develop domestic and international peace-based initiatives; and

(4) disseminate applicable policies and research in consultation with—

(A) the Department of State;

(B) the Department of Labor;

(C) the Peace Corps; and
(D) the United States Institute of Peace.

(e) GRANTS.—The Assistant Secretary for International Peacebuilding Activities shall establish a grant program to be known as the International Cultural Diplomacy for Peace grant program under which the Secretary shall make grants to pre-kindergarten schools, elementary schools, secondary schools, institutions of higher education, nonprofit organizations, and nongovernmental organizations for the purpose of developing international cultural exchanges, including exchanges related to the arts, sports, science, and other academic disciplines, that promote diplomacy and cultural understanding between the United States and other countries.

(a) Establishment.—There is established a Federal Interagency Committee on Peace (in this section referred to as the “Committee”). The Committee shall—

(1) assist the Secretary in providing a mechanism to assure that the procedures and actions of the Department and other Federal agencies are fully coordinated; and

(2) study and make recommendations for assuring effective coordination of Federal programs, policies, and administrative practices affecting peace, peacebuilding and violence prevention, and wellness.

(b) Membership.—The Secretary shall appoint the members of the Committee.

SEC. 113. STAFF.

The Secretary may appoint and fix the compensation of such employees as may be necessary to carry out the functions of the Secretary and the Department. Except as otherwise provided by law, such employees shall be appointed in accordance with applicable laws and the compensation of such employees fixed in accordance with title 5, United States Code.

SEC. 114. CONSULTATION REQUIRED.

(a) Consultation in Cases of Conflict and Violence Prevention.—
(1) IN GENERAL.—In any case in which a conflict between the United States and any other government or entity is foreseeable, imminent, or occurring, the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of State shall consult with the Secretary of Peacebuilding concerning violence prevention, non-violent means of conflict resolution, and peacebuilding.

(2) DIPLOMATIC INITIATIVES.—In any case in which a conflict described in paragraph (1) is ongoing or recently concluded, the Secretary shall conduct an independent study of diplomatic initiatives undertaken by the United States and other parties to such conflict.

(3) INITIATIVE ASSESSMENT.—In any case in which a conflict described in paragraph (1) has recently concluded, the Secretary shall assess the effectiveness of any initiatives in ending such conflict.

(4) CONSULTATION PROCESS.—The Secretary shall establish a formal process of consultation in a timely manner with the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, and the National Security Council—

(A) prior to the initiation of policies or withdrawal of resources that may lead to violence and of any armed conflict between the United States and any other country; and

(B) for any matter involving—

(i) the use of Department of Defense personnel within the United States; or

(ii) the proposed or actual distribution of equipment of the Department of Defense to local or State law enforcement entities or to other individuals or entities.

(b) Consultation in Drafting Treaties and Agreements.—The head of each appropriate Federal agency shall consult with the Secretary in drafting treaties and peace agreements.

SEC. 115. COLLABORATION.

The Secretary shall, for the greatest effectiveness in promoting peace and peacebuilding, collaborate with other Federal agencies, applicable experts, nongovernmental organization stakeholders, appropriate non-profit organization stakeholders and State, Tribal, and local leaders and stakeholders regarding all related programs in all Federal agencies. The collaboration shall include and prioritize those who are most impacted by the programs for the purpose implementing or updating such programs and for the purpose of evaluating the effectiveness and impacts of such programs.
TITLE II—OTHER MATTERS
