A BILL

To protect State and Federal courts' primary and inherent authority to regulate and oversee the legal profession by prohibiting Federal agencies from regulating licensed attorneys and law firms engaged in litigation activities, prohibiting opposing parties in legal actions from bringing private rights of action against such attorneys and law firms for their litigation activities, and for other purposes.

1       Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2       tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

1 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

2       This Act may be cited as the “Restoring Court Au-
3 thority Over Litigation Act of 2025”.

4 SEC. 2. FINDINGS; SENSE OF CONGRESS.

5       (a) IN GENERAL.—Congress finds the following:

6           (1) For many decades, attorneys engaged in the 7 practice of law have been regulated and disciplined 8 primarily by the highest court of the State in which 9 the attorney is licensed or admitted to practice, at-10 torney disciplinary agencies overseen by those 11 courts, and other State and Federal courts of com-
12 petent jurisdiction pursuant to the applicable stat-
13 utes, rules of civil procedure, and rules of profes-
14 sional conduct and disciplinary procedure duly 15 adopted in those jurisdictions, and not by Congress,
16 Federal agencies, or private litigants.

17           (2) State supreme courts have promulgated and 18 enforced extensive and effective regulations gov-
19 erning all aspects of the practice of law, including 20 admission requirements, strict attorney rules of pro-
21 fessional conduct, disciplinary rules, and litigation
22 procedural rules. In addition, Federal courts have 23 adopted local rules governing the conduct of attor-24 neys appearing before them. As a result, State and 25 Federal courts have extensive authority and tools to 26 address attorney misconduct that occurs during the

1 course of litigation before them, including monetary
2 sanctions, striking offending pleadings or other pa-
3 pers, or referring the matter to disciplinary authori-
4 ties, which could lead to a reprimand, censure, li-
5 cense suspension, disbarment, or other available dis-
6 ciplinary sanctions.

7 (3) Consistent with the longstanding principle 8 of judicial regulation and oversight of attorneys and 9 the legal profession, numerous Federal agencies have 10 included broad practice of law exclusions in major
11 rules, including the Federal Trade Commission’s
12 “Mortgage Assistance Relief Services” Rule issued
13 in November 2010 and the Department of Housing
14 and Urban Development’s “Secure and Fair En-15 forcement for Mortgage Licensing Act” Rule issued
16 in June 2011.

17 (4) Also consistent with the principle of judicial 18 regulation of attorneys and the legal profession,
19 Congress has generally declined to enact legislation
20 regulating the practice of law, including litigation
21 activities of attorneys.

22 (5) Congress has also incorporated broad prac-
23 tice of law exclusions into certain Federal statutes.
24 For example, section 1027(e) of the Consumer Fi-
25 nancial Protection Act of 2010 excludes most attorneys engaged in the practice of law from the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau’s regulatory and enforcement authority, while the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act of 1977 originally contained a complete exemption for attorneys engaged in the practice of law.

(6) Although Congress removed the complete attorney exemption from the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act in 1986 based in part on its belief that the revised Act would only apply to attorneys’ non-litigation collection activities and that State courts would continue to regulate attorneys’ litigation activities, the United States Supreme Court held in Heintz v. Jenkins, 514 U.S. 291 (1995), that attorneys could be subject to the Act even when they are engaged in litigation activities. As a result, many attorneys now are routinely sued for litigation activities in State court that are alleged to be technical violations of the Act, even when consumers suffer no harm.

(7) In each of its annual reports to Congress on the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act from 1998 through 2006, the Federal Trade Commission formally recommended that Congress reexamine and amend the definition of “debt collector” in the Act

1 to exempt “attorneys who pursue debtors solely 2 through litigation (or similar ‘legal’ practices).”

3 (8) In recent years, the Consumer Financial 4 Protection Bureau has also aggressively sought to 5 regulate attorneys’ collection activities, including 6 their litigation activities, despite the broad practice
7 of law exclusion in section 1027(e) of the Consumer
8 Financial Protection Act. The Bureau’s aggressive
9 actions could also lead to other Federal agencies
10 adopting rules or practices regulating attorneys’ liti-
11 gation activities in other types of court cases.

12 (9) These developments have undermined State
13 and Federal courts’ primary and inherent authority 14 to regulate and oversee attorneys engaged in the 15 practice of law by creating multiple conflicting sets
16 of rules and standards for attorneys, resulting in un-17 fair lawsuits against attorneys pursuing valid legal 18 claims for clients in court, increased attorney mal-19 practice insurance rates, difficulty in obtaining legal 20 representation, and reduced access to justice.

21 (10) On January 26, 2011, the Conference of 22 Chief Justices adopted Resolution 1 (“In Support of 23 Preserving Traditional State Court Regulation of 24 Lawyers and Opposing Expanded Federal Agency
25 Regulation of Lawyers and the Practice of Law”),

1 affirming that primary regulation and oversight of 2 attorneys and the legal profession should continue to 3 be vested in the State courts, not Federal agencies
4 or Congress, and that the courts are in the best po-
5 sition to fulfill that important function. The Resolu-
6 tion also expressed support for Congress and Fed-7 eral agencies' decisions to include broad practice of 8 law exclusions in certain Federal statutes and agen-
9 cy rules, and opposition to Federal legislation or 10 rules intended to establish or expand the Federal 11 regulatory jurisdiction of attorneys engaged in the 12 practice of law.

13 (11) While the activities constituting the prac-14 tice of law are determined by the State in which an 15 attorney is licensed or admitted to practice, litiga-16 tion activities in connection with a legal action in 17 State or Federal court are considered to be part of 18 the practice of law in every State.

19 (12) To protect and restore State and Federal 20 courts' primary and inherent authority to regulate 21 and oversee attorneys and the legal profession, Fed-22 eral legislation is needed to clarify that—

23 (A) attorneys engaged in litigation should 24 be regulated and disciplined exclusively by State 25 supreme courts, their attorney disciplinary

1 agencies, and other State and Federal courts of 2 competent jurisdiction;

3 (B) Federal agencies shall have no regu-
4 latory authority over litigation activities of at-5 torneys; and

6 (C) no party in a legal action shall have a
7 Federal private right of action against the op-
8 posing attorney for the attorney's litigation ac-
9 tivities.

10 (13) On February 5, 2020, the Conference of 11 Chief Justices also adopted a second Resolution 1, 12 entitled “In Support of Preserving the Courts’ Au-
13 thority to Regulate and Oversee Lawyers Engaged
14 in Litigation and Opposing Federal Agency Regula-
15 tion of Lawyers’ Litigation Activities”, which ex-16 pressed support for Federal legislation that would 17 implement the three proposed reforms described in 18 paragraph (12).

19 (14) On April 12, 2023, the Consumer Finan-20 cial Protection Bureau published its Statement of 21 Policy Regarding Prohibition on Abusive Acts or 22 Practices that explains its interpretation of those 23 prohibitions contained in the Consumer Financial 24 Protection Act of 2010 and the actions that pro-25 viders of consumer financial products or services, in-

1 including attorneys engaged in debt collection, must 2 take or avoid in order to comply with the Act. How-3 ever, by requiring attorneys representing creditors in 4 debt collection litigation to act in the interests of 5 consumers instead of the interests of their own cli-
6 ents, and by requiring attorneys to take other steps
7 inconsistent with their ethical duties, the Consumer
8 Financial Protection Bureau Statement of Policy di-9 rectly conflicts with the courts' well-established at-10 torney rules of professional conduct, attorney dis-11 ciplinary rules, and litigation procedural rules, thus 12 further undermining the courts' primary and inher-
13 ent authority to regulate and oversee attorneys en-
14 gaged in the practice of law.

15 (b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-16 gress that attorneys engaged in litigation activities should 17 be regulated and disciplined exclusively by the courts and 18 other authorities of the State in which the attorney is li-
19 censed or admitted to practice, attorney disciplinary agen-
20 cies overseen by those courts, and other State and Federal 21 courts of competent jurisdiction pursuant to the applicable
22 statutes, rules of civil procedure, and rules of professional 23 conduct and disciplinary procedure duly adopted in those 24 jurisdictions.
