1ST SESSION

H. R. 4586

To establish a comprehensive strategy to support African and Caribbean diaspora engagement in development through reduced remittance costs, investment incentives, and institutional partnerships.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

JULY 22, 2025

Mrs. CHERFILUS-McCORMICK (for herself and Mr. JACKSON of Illinois) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and in addition to the Committees on Foreign Affairs, and Financial Services, for a period to be subsequently determined by the Speaker, in each case for consideration of such provisions as fall within the jurisdiction of the committee concerned

A BILL

To establish a comprehensive strategy to support African and Caribbean diaspora engagement in development through reduced remittance costs, investment incentives, and institutional partnerships.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “African Diaspora In-
5 vestment and Development Act” or the “AIDA”.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress finds the following:

3 (1) The United States is home to approximately 4 6,600,000 first generation African and Caribbean
5 immigrants, nested within a broader population of 6 46,000,000 African Americans, representing vast 7 economic, intellectual, and cultural capital, with 8 longstanding economic and cultural ties to their 9 countries of origin.

10 (2) Many members of these and other diaspora
11 and immigrant populations annually transmit to 12 their countries of origin or descent portions of their 13 incomes or other earnings—transfers known as re-14 mittances—that in the aggregate often are large and 15 significantly contribute to economic growth, develop-
16 ment, and human welfare in recipient countries.

17 (3) Remittances to Africa were estimated at 18 over $91,000,000,000 in 2023—transfers which sus-
19 tain families, fund education and healthcare, finance
20 small businesses, and fill gaps in national infrastruc-
21 ture.

22 (4) An estimated $19,499,000,000 was remitted
23 to the Caribbean in 2023, with those countries re-
24 ceiving billions in essential family and community
25 support.

1 (5) Sub-Saharan Africa remains the most ex-
2 pensive region for sending remittances, with average
3 costs of 7.73 percent to send $200 in Q1 2024. In 4 contrast, the average cost for Latin America and the 5 Caribbean is 5.97 percent.

6 (6) If the global average cost of remittances is 7 reduced to the Sustainable Development Goal target
8 of 3 percent, developing countries could save be-9 tween $5,000,000,000 and $32,000,000,000 annu-
10 ally and redirect such resources to international eco-
11 nomic growth and development investment.

12 (7) The global remittance market was valued at 13 $784,250,000,000 in 2022 and is projected to reach 14 $1,330,000,000,000 by 2032, creating significant 15 employment and economic activity across the finan-
16 cial services industry.

17 (8) As the Economist noted on April 24, 2025,
18 “Emigration from Africa will change the world”—
19 not as a threat, but as a mutual opportunity for 20 global growth, shared prosperity, and demographic 21 balance.

22 (9) Yet the United States lacks a coherent
23 framework to channel this economic power into for-24 mal investment, leaving diaspora members to oper-

1 ate in fragmented, uncoordinated environments with 2 limited access to incentives or protections.

3 (10) The future of United States-Africa rela-
4 tions does not rest solely on diplomatic summits or 5 state-to-state aid. It lies in the millions of quiet fi-
6 nancial acts made every month by diaspora citizens:
7 a tuition payment, a clinic donation, a loan to 8 launch a cousin's shop. These flows deserve the full 9 support of United States law and policy.

10 (11) By embracing the diaspora not only as 11 emotional kin but as strategic co-investors, this Act
12 positions the United States at the frontier of global 13 economic cooperation. It affirms that America's 14 strength abroad rests not only in its institutions—
15 but in the networks of commitment and capital held 16 by its people.

17 SEC. 3. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

18 It is the policy of the United States to—

19 (1) recognize African and Caribbean diaspora
20 communities as legitimate partners in United States
21 foreign economic policy, development assistance, and 22 national investment strategy;

23 (2) recognize the role of regional and country-
24 specific diasporas in cultural diplomacy, people-to-

1 people ties, and various diasporas' expanding con-
2 tribution to socioeconomic development;

3 (3) endeavor to reduce the cost of sending re-
4 mittances including through policies aimed at in-
5 creasing competition within the international finan-
6 cial transfers sub-sector and reducing related taxes
7 or other administrative costs and maximize their po-
8 tential to foster inclusive economic growth;

9 (4) safeguard the integrity and affordability of 10 remittance flows, including by prohibiting taxation
11 on personal remittances;

12 (5) promote financial inclusion and reduce 13 transaction costs through market competition,
14 fintech innovation, and diaspora-owned remittance
15 platforms;

16 (6) incentivize formal, productive investment in 17 diaspora countries of origin through targeted United 18 States tax policy, finance instruments, and legal 19 safeguards; and

20 (7) pursue the global Sustainable Development
21 Goal of reducing the average cost of remittances to 22 3 percent, especially for low-value transfers and 23 high-cost corridors, through market incentives, inno-
24 vation, and competition rather than price controls.
