RESOLUTION

Expressing support for the recognition of April as National Foster Sibling Connections Month.

Whereas sibling relationships are among the most important bonds in human development, contributing to children's emotional stability and long-term well-being;

Whereas for children who experience abuse, neglect, or instability, sibling relationships often serve as their most consistent source of support and belonging;

Whereas, when children enter foster care, the preservation of sibling relationships is critical to maintaining permanency, reducing trauma, and driving successful outcomes;

Whereas it is estimated that approximately 53 to 80 percent of children in foster care are separated from at least 1 sibling;

Whereas research demonstrates that sibling separation in foster care is associated with increased placement instability, behavioral challenges, and adverse mental health outcomes;

Whereas current child welfare data systems often fail to accurately track sibling separations, particularly in cases involving adoption, resulting in a systemic undercounting of the scope and impact of this issue;

Whereas this data gap limits the ability of policymakers, practitioners, and advocates to understand and address the harms caused by sibling separation fully;

Whereas it is within the national and moral interest of the United States to make progress in ensuring that no child is separated from their siblings;

Whereas advocates across the United States are working to advance policies and practices that prioritize sibling placement, visitation, and lifelong connection; and

Whereas increased awareness of sibling separation in foster care would elevate the voices of foster care alumni and promote policies that prioritize maintaining and restoring sibling relationships: Now, therefore, be it
