These resources also fund the conduct of U.S. diplomatic policy through political and multilateral affairs, economic and social affairs, international budgetary and management affairs, and participation in and hosting various international conferences. Resources also fund the management of U.S. participation in arms control, nonproliferation, and disarmament negotiations and other verification and compliance activities, in addition to funds otherwise available for such purposes.

Public diplomacy efforts are currently being evaluated, particularly those activities that target the Muslim world, to assure that the programs are targeting these populations effectively.

Professional development and training.—The professional development and training activity is a continuous process by which the Department ensures that its professionals have the skills, experience, and judgment to fulfill its functions at all levels. Training programs are designed to provide employees with the specific functional area and language skills needed for the conduct of foreign relations in the Department and abroad.

Under the direction of the Secretary of State, the overall mission of the Bureau of Overseas Buildings Operations (OBO) is to provide U.S. Diplomatic and Consular Missions abroad with safe, secure, and functional facilities that support the foreign policy objectives of the United States. Specific program functions include: providing guidance to posts, the regional bureaus and other foreign affairs agencies on the renovation, construction and operations of facilities; providing expert space and facilities planning; managing and overseeing the design, construction, and renovation of mission facilities; incorporating security features into overseas and domestic facilities; ensuring the security of facilities during construction or renovation. In addition, OBO is responsible for establishing standards and policies for overseas housing, developing, in conjunction with posts, effective maintenance programs for post facilities, and monitoring and reporting the inventory of maintenance and backlog requirements. OBO also ensures the safety of the building occupants through the development of fire/life safety and accessibility compliance programs.

In 2009, the Department will collect charges for the fifth year of the five-year phase-in of the Capital Security Cost Sharing Program. The Capital Security Cost Sharing Program has two main goals: accelerating the construction of approximately 150 new safe, secure and functional embassy and consulate compounds over fourteen years (2005–2018), at a cost of approximately $17.5 billion, and providing an incentive for all United States Government agencies to right-size their presence overseas.

Consistent with the Federal Real Property President's Management Agenda (PMA) initiative, the objective of the Asset Management Program is to obtain the best use of diplomatic and consular properties overseas through sale of surplus or underutilized properties and reinvestment of the proceeds in properties that provide a greater return to the U.S. Government and/or improve the safety of mission personnel. In lieu of appropriated resources, OBO uses asset sales proceeds for long-term capital investment to minimize the growth of U.S. Government leasehold requirements (through property acquisition) or to address a high-priority need for new construction or fit-out of leased space.

This appropriation also provides for capital expenditures necessary to preserve, maintain, repair, and plan for buildings owned or leased by the Department of State overseas or in the United States, including the renovation of the Main State building where required.

This is a retirement fund for Locally Employed Staff (LES) employed by the Department of State and other Foreign Affairs agencies. The purpose of the fund is to accumulate and distribute U.S. Government contributions for end-of-service benefits for LES at overseas U.S. missions where it has been determined that participation in the local social security system is not in the public interest. The State Department determines which countries are eligible to participate in the fund. Upon separation, payments will be made from the fund as a lump sum paid directly to the employee.

This fund, authorized by sections 13 and 23 of the State Department Basic Authorities Act of 1956 (22 U.S.C. 2684), finances on a reimbursable basis, certain administrative services, such as printing and reproduction, editorial material, motor pool operations and dispatch agencies operations, inter-agency cooperative administrative support services, and expenses of carrying out the Foreign Missions Act, including any acquisitions of property under section 204(f) of the State Department Basic Authorities Act of 1956 (22 U.S.C. 4304(f)).

Using the Working Capital Fund, the International Cooperative Administrative Support Services (ICASS) program was fully implemented in 1998. ICASS restructures overseas administrative support activities to allow more decision-making and managerial participation by all participating agencies, more equitable cost distribution, and incentives for efficient provision of services. Under ICASS, each agency represented at an overseas post chooses the services it wishes to receive and pays a proportional share of the cost of those services. Working through inter-agency councils at each overseas post, all agencies have a say in determining post administrative budgets and defining service standards, as well as reviewing costs and vendor performance.

This appropriation provides the U.S. share of operating expenses for ten treaty-based international fisheries commissions and organizations, two international marine science organizations, one whaling commission, and the Antarctic Treaty Secretariat, as well as funding regional sea turtle conservation, and travel expenses of non-government U.S. commissioners and their advisors. These international fisheries and whaling commissions coordinate scientific studies of shared fish stocks and other living marine resources and establish common management measures to be implemented by member governments based on their results. Many also oversee the allocation of fishing rights to their members. In addition, the Great Lakes Fishery Commission carries out a program to eradicate the invasive, parasitic sea lamprey. The marine science organizations coordinate international research on valuable fisheries, oceanography, and marine ecosystems and the results are publicly disseminated and used to advise member governments on fisheries and marine science policy.

The first phase of the President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR) from 2004 to 2008, was the largest ever global public health initiative by a single country to fight the HIV/AIDS epidemic. In FY 2009, the second phase of PEPFAR will begin to fulfill the President's additional 5 year, $30 billion commitment to continue this fight against global HIV/AIDS.

The 2009 budget requests an additional $4.779 billion in the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative (GHAI) account for the fight against global AIDS. GHAI forms the bulk of PEPFAR funding ($6.0 billion in total) and is implemented by the Office of Global AIDS Coordinator in the State Department which partners with other agencies such as the US Agency for International Development and the Department of Health and Human Services. As of September 30, 2007, the President's Emergency Plan has supported antiretroviral treatment for more than 1.44 million men, women, and children through bilateral programs around the world. More than 1.3 million of those being supported live in Sub-Saharan Africa.

The Millennium Challenge Account (MCA) is a Presidential initiative to reduce poverty through growth in some of the poorest countries in the world, and the Millennium Challenge Corporation (MCC) is an independent U.S. government corporation established on January 23, 2004 to administer the MCA. MCC incentivizes policy reforms by rewarding only those countries that have already created the conditions for growth by ruling justly, investing in their people, and encouraging economic freedom, with a particular emphasis on anti-corruption. Recognizing that development is achieved by a country's own efforts, policies, and people, MCC gives selected countries the opportunity to identify their own priorities for achieving sustainable economic growth and poverty reduction. Countries develop their MCA proposals in broad consultation with their own society. MCC teams then work in partnership to help countries develop an MCA program which will advance reduction in poverty and sustainable economic growth. The MCA program is reflected in a Compact that defines responsibilities and insists on measurable results to ensure American foreign aid is used effectively. The Compact also describes how the country will govern and implement its MCA program, including how it will ensure financial accountability and transparent and fair procurement. MCC now has 16 approved Compacts with countries totalling $5.5 billion. In 2007, MCC restructured its organization to enhance the resources devoted to implementation of these Compacts and the achievement of its goals of economic growth and poverty reduction.

This account supports U.S. foreign policy objectives by providing economic assistance to allies and countries in transition to democracy, supporting Middle East peace negotiations, and financing economic stabilization programs, frequently in a multi-donor context. Key objectives include:

1) Supporting strategically significant friends and allies through assistance designed to increase the role of the private sector in the economy, reduce government controls over markets, enhance job creation, and improve economic growth.

2) Developing and strengthening institutions necessary for sustainable democracy. Typical areas of assistance include technical assistance to administer and monitor elections, capacity-building for non-governmental organizations, judicial training, and women's participation in politics. Assistance is also provided to support the transformation of the public sector to encourage democratic development, including training to improve public administration; promote decentralization; and strengthen local governments, parliaments, independent media and non-governmental organizations.

3) Strengthening the capacity to manage the human dimension of the transition to democracy and a market economy and to help sustain the neediest sectors of the population during the transition period.

This account also includes funding for alternative development programs in the Andean region of South America and Afghanistan.

This assistance provides grants for military education and training to military and civilian students from foreign countries. In addition to helping these countries move toward self-sufficiency in defending themselves, this program also exposes foreign students to American democratic values, particularly respect for civilian control of the military and for internationally recognized standards of individual and human rights.

Energy security and climate change are important priorities for the Administration. Therefore, President Bush proposed a major multilateral initiative to create a new international clean technology fund to help developing countries harness the power of clean energy technologies.

The proposed clean technology fund will address the growing problem of accelerating greenhouse gas emissions in major developing countries. According to the International Energy Agency, by 2030, global demand for energy will increase by over 50 percent, with almost three-quarters of this increase coming from developing countries. The fund will help ensure that developing countries deploy clean technology by helping to finance the additional cost of clean investments over dirtier alternatives.

The fund has three major objectives: first, to reduce emissions growth in major developing countries through accelerated deployment of clean technologies; second, to stimulate and leverage private sector investment in existing clean technologies; and third, to encourage developing countries to pursue environmentally sound policies to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. The Administration is working with major donor and developing countries to create a multilateral fund that will catalyze resources of the multilateral development banks and the private sector to create innovating financing instruments to spur clean technology investments in the major developing country emitters. The Administration proposes that the U.S., as a lead donor to the fund, contribute $400 million in 2009 as part of an overall contribution of $2 billion over 3 years. As part of this initiative, the Administration will submit authorizing legislation.

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD or World Bank) provides financing and technical assistance to support infrastructure investment and policy reform. IBRD operations are designed to promote sustainable economic growth, increase productivity growth, reduce poverty, and raise living standards, including through targeted investments in basic human needs, private-sector development, and core policy reforms.

During 2007, IBRD made new commitments of $12.8 billion and gross disbursements were approximately $11.05 billion. Since its establishment in 1945, IBRD has made loans totaling $433 billion. No request is being made for IBRD capital in 2009.

IBRD acts as trustee for the Global Environment Facility (GEF) Trust Fund. GEF provides partial funding for developing country projects designed to provide global environmental benefits by reducing international water pollution and ozone depletion, by promoting biodiversity and energy conservation, by reducing persistent organic pollutants, which are of particular concern in the northern United States, and by preventing and controlling desertification and deforestation. With its highly specific focus on global environmental issues, where both costs and benefits are shared across international borders, the GEF occupies an important niche in the system of international development institutions. Its basic mission is to support innovative and cost-effective pilot investments whose design and environmental benefits can be duplicated (and financed) elsewhere. Since its inception in 1991, the GEF has allocated over $6 billion in grants, leveraging over $20 billion in co-financing, to support more than 1,700 projects in over 160 countries.

In 2006, donor governments agreed to the fourth replenishment of the GEF, pledging total resources of $3,130 million over four years. The U.S. commitment totals $320 million, to be paid in four equal installments of $80 million from 2007 through 2010. During the replenishment negotiations, the United States achieved important policy reforms to improve the GEF's overall effectiveness, particularly with regard to project quality, portfolio management, resource allocations, transparency, and anticorruption efforts. The 2009 request includes $80 million for the third installment of GEF–4. To date, the GEF has implemented the GEF–4 reforms as agreed.

The International Development Association (IDA) is a member of the World Bank Group and provides development financing on highly concessional terms and grant terms to the world's poorest nations. These countries are primarily in Sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia, but also in Latin America, Eastern Europe, and the former Soviet Union. IDA's primary goal is to help recipient countries achieve sustained economic growth and poverty reduction, and particularly to meet the exceptional development challenges faced by Africa within its broad commitment to support all the world's poor countries. IDA is the single largest source of multilateral lending extended on concessional terms to developing countries. Projects have to meet the same economic, financial, and environmental standards as other World Bank projects. IDA resources for new lending are provided primarily by new donor contributions through periodic replenishments, and are augmented by earnings and payments of existing loans.

During 2007, IDA made new commitments of $11.9 billion, the highest level in IDA's history. Since its establishment, IDA has made commitments totaling $181 billion. The largest regional share of IDA resources went to Africa, with 50 percent.

Under the fifteenth replenishment (IDA-15), IDA will provide total resources for prospective new commitments of $41.6 billion over the 2009–2011 period. Through the IDA-15 replenishment negotiations, U.S. leadership secured a number of commitments for reform of IDA, most importantly an expanded results measurement system which will increase the effectiveness of IDA's development projects and programs, improvements to the operational framework and financing arrangements for World Bank engagement in fragile/post-conflict states, specific measures to enhance debt management capacity building, continued use of grant financing for countries experiencing debt distress, and progress toward greater transparency.

IDA-15 will provide between 20–30 percent of its total resources to the world's poorest and debt vulnerable countries as grants. Grant eligibility will be determined on the basis of debt sustainability with 41 countries (out of 63 IDA-only eligible countries) receiving grants. Consistent with its IDA-15 commitment, IDA has also enhanced efforts to improve country debt management capacity, introduced disincentives to prevent grant and debt relief recipients from borrowing non-concessionally, and conducted extensive outreach among the multilateral development banks, donors, and external creditors to enhance the use of the joint World Bank-IMF Debt Sustainability Framework. IDA has also been working to improve the effectiveness of its operations and ensure development results on the ground. IDA's result-oriented approach includes: (1) country outcomes tracked by fourteen country outcome indicators, including indicators such as primary school completion rates and; (2) output indicators measuring IDA's contribution to country outcomes for specific outputs such as the number of teachers trained and facilities built. Over the duration of IDA-15, IDA will work to improve the quality of data for outcome and output indicators through efforts to build country statistical capacity and development of a standardized list of select indicators across four to five sectors in order to produce a more accurate indicative aggregation of sector-specific outputs. In addition, IDA will develop a better measure of private sector development as well as an indicator to measure the quality of public financial management in IDA countries. The 2009 Budget consists of $1.235 billion for the first of three scheduled installments under IDA15 and 42 million to pay a portion of outstanding U.S. arrears. The U.S. pledge is $3.705 billion over the next three years and is based on the reform commitments described above.

The Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency (MIGA) is a member of the World Bank Group. MIGA is designed to encourage the flow of foreign private investment to and among developing countries by issuing guarantees against noncommercial risks and carrying out investment promotion activities.

During World Bank fiscal year 2007, MIGA issued 29 guaranteed contracts, with a maximum aggregate contingent liability of $1.4 billion. Since MIGA's inception, estimated foreign direct investment facilitated totals more than $50 billion.

Negotiations of MIGA's first General Capital Increase (GCI) were completed in 1998. The United States committed to contribute a total of $30 million in paid-in capital and nearly $140 million in callable capital over three years. The agreement included commitments from MIGA on a range of policy issues of substantial importance to the United States, including environment, information disclosure, labor, and creation of an inspection function for greater accountability and transparency. In 2000, the Administration sought and received congressional authorization for our full participation in the MIGA GCI. The U.S. currently has outstanding arrears of $6.9 million.

No request is being made for MIGA for 2009.

The Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) promotes sustainable economic growth and productivity, poverty reduction, private sector development, and good governance in Latin America and the Caribbean through loans and technical assistance.

During 2007, IDB approved $8.9 billion in loans. Since its inception, the IDB has approved a total of $154 billion.

IDB provides financing through: 1) the Ordinary Capital window that lends at market-based rates; and, 2) the Fund for Special Operations (FSO), which provides financing on concessional terms to the region's poorest nations.

No request is being made for the IDB or FSO in 2009.

The Inter-American Investment Corporation (IIC), established in 1984, is a member of the Inter-American Development Bank Group, whose purpose is to promote development of private small and medium sized enterprises (SMEs) in Latin America and the Caribbean. It is a legally autonomous entity whose resources and management are separate from those of the Inter-American Development Bank itself. Through direct loans and equity investments in SMEs as well as through lending to private financial intermediaries, IIC helps SMEs in the region to access the medium/long-term capital necessary to start-up, expand, or modernize their operations.

During 2007, IIC approved 60 projects totaling $494.5 million. Since its inception, the IIC has approved 495 projects for a total amount of $3.08 billion.

There is no request for new scheduled annual commitments for the IIC.

The Asian Development Bank (ADB) promotes broad-based sustainable economic growth and development, poverty alleviation, and cooperation in the Asia/Pacific region. ADB has two main financing windows: i) the ordinary capital resources window and ii) the Asian Development Fund (ADF) which lends at concessional rates to the region's poorest nations.

ADF resources are derived in part from donor contributions through periodic "replenishments." In the most recent replenishment, ADF-9, the United States successfully negotiated a comprehensive package of policy reforms and pledged $461 million over four years. Negotiations are currently ongoing for the next replenishment, ADF-10, expected to conclude in May 2008.

ADF-9 put in place a number of significant reform measures of high priority to the U.S. ADB has established a grant window for the first time, following the example of IDA and AFDF. During the ADF-9 period, grants are expected to reach as much as $1.55 billion, or 20% of total ADF-9 operations. ADB has increased the weight assigned to good governance and strong policy performance and implementation in the system used to allocate ADF resources to borrowing countries. Internal governance has become more transparent through improved information disclosure and public communication policies. ADB has launched a new Governance and Anti-Corruption Act Plan to improve anti-corruption efforts at the institutional and country levels, and significantly increased the resources available for anticorruption activities. ADB continues to be strongly engaged in Afghanistan and has substantially increased its assistance for private sector development.

ADB played an important role in coordinating and providing assistance for reconstruction in the Asian countries affected by the December 2004 tsunamis and in Pakistan after the October 2005 earthquake. ADB is also expected to provide assistance to Bangladesh after the typhoon in 2007. ADB recently launched a technical assistance initiative funded by the Regional Trade and Financial Security Initiative to enhance port security and combat money laundering and terrorist financing. ADB also provides assistance to help strengthen the legal, regulatory and implementation frameworks for anti-money laundering and counter terrorist financing efforts.

In 2007, ADB lent roughly $7.6 billion from its ordinary capital resources and extended an estimated $2.4 billion in ADF and technical assistance resources. Since its founding in 1966, ADB has committed approximately $130 billion in loans. In addition, ADB has made cumulative private sector loans, guarantees, and equity investments of over $8.4 billion. In 2007, ADB extended $1.3 billion in private sector assistance in the form of loans, equity investments, and guarantees.

In 2000, the United States made the final payment to ADB's fourth general capital increase. No request is being made for ADB in 2009.

The 2009 request for ADF is for $115.25 million in budget authority for the final of four scheduled contributions under ADF-9.

The African Development Bank group is composed of i) the African Development Bank (AFDB), which lends at prevailing rates, and ii) the African Development Fund (AFDF), which provides grants and concessional loans to the poorest African countries. In 2007, the AFDB approved 34 new projects and programs amounting to about $2.99 billion. Since its first operations in 1967, AFDB has financed 2,181 projects and programs amounting to about $36.08 billion.

AFDF approved $1.88 billion for 52 projects and programs in 2007. Since its first operations in 1974, cumulative AFDF financing totals an estimated 27.44 billion for 1,063 development projects and programs.

The 2009 request for the African Development Bank Group includes $156.055 million in budget authority for the first of three installments of the U.S. contribution to the eleventh replenishment (AFDF-11) covering the period 2009–2011.

In December 2007, the United States and other donor countries reached agreement on AFDF-11 which included a number of key U.S. policy objectives: 1) management for results agenda that emphasizes measures to strengthen the focus on delivering positive development results on the ground and the institutional management policies and procedures required to deliver them. A two-tiered results measurement framework is in place to measure, monitor, and report on outcomes and outputs at the country, regional and institutional levels; 2) maintaining the centrality of performance in the allocation of the Fund's resources while improving the implementation of the Performance Based Allocation (PBA) system; 3) enhanced engagement in fragile states through a new fragile states facility that will better address the needs or emerging opportunities in post-conflict and transition countries, such as Liberia; 4) scaling up the Funds regional operations, focusing on infrastructure projects that promote regional integration; and 5) greater support for governance issues at the regional, country, and sector levels, as well as in fragile states, in order to fight corruption, increase transparency, and improve accountability. Grants will continue to be extended to recipient countries based on their debt vulnerability. In 2007, grants were 26% of AFDF assistance.

The European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD) supports market-oriented economic reform and democratic pluralism through predominately private sector lending and investments in the nations of Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. The United States and other shareholders signed the articles of agreement of the EBRD on May 29, 1990, and the Bank officially began operating on April 15, 1991. In April 1996, shareholders approved a doubling of the EBRD's capital base from EUR 10 billion to EUR 20 billion (approximately $24 billion) which went into effect in April 1997.

As of October 31, 2007, approximately 72 percent of the Bank's portfolio was in the private sector. Since its inception, the EBRD has provided over $50 billion in financing for nearly 2,500 operations, contributing to investments in the region worth over $165 billion.

No request is being made for the EBRD for 2009.

The North American Development Bank (NADBank) provides financing for environmental infrastructure projects in the U.S.-Mexico border region. A portion of its capital also finances NAFTA-related community adjustments and investment projects in both countries. Under NADBank's charter, the United States and Mexico contributed equally to NADBank's capital $450 million in paid-in capital and $2.55 billion in callable capital. The final U.S. installment was appropriated in 1998, and there is no paid-in request for 2009.

NADBank finances environmental infrastructure projects that have been certified by the U.S.-Mexico Border Environmental Commission (BECC), an institution designed to assist States and local communities in coordinating border projects.

As of December 2007, NADBank had approved $335 million in loans for 49 projects and $84.56 million in grants for 31 projects. The Bank has also administered $525.3 million in EPA funded grants to 66 projects in Mexico and the United States. The total investment value of all the projects to which it provides or administers funding is approximately $2.7 billion.

In March 2002, President Bush and Mexican President Fox agreed to a set of proposals to improve the performance of NADBank and BECC in fulfilling their missions. These include measures to improve the affordability of NADBank financing, expand the geographic area of operations in Mexico, create a single Board of Directors for both institutions, and conduct a review of the project cycle.

The Multilateral Investment Fund (MIF), administered by the Inter-American Development Bank, provides grants and loans to support private-sector development and finance and labor sector reforms in Latin America and the Caribbean. Special consideration is given to reforms that encourage private foreign direct investment and promote privatization. Grants and loans are used for technical assistance to identify and resolve investment constraints, for investment in human capital, and for business infrastructure and development.

During 2007, MIF approved 127 projects totaling $134 million. Since its inception in 1992, MIF has approved 1,057 projects, of which the MIF contribution totaled more than $1.421 billion.

The United States made a commitment to MIF in 1992 amounting to $500 million. Negotiations were completed in early 2005 for the first replenishment of MIF with a United States commitment of $150 million to be paid in six equal annual installments. The United States achieved its key objectives in these negotiations: a strengthened commitment to measurable results, increasing efficiency, maintaining a focus on grants, allocating resources to maximize innovation, reforming Inter-American Development Bank procurement, and instituting a sunset clause. Grant funding will be about 75 percent of all funding approvals.

For 2009, $25 million is requested for the third installment of the replenishment.

The International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) was established in 1977 as a multilateral financial institution focused on promoting rural agricultural development in poorer countries. IFAD's specific mandate is to assist rural small-scale producers and subsistence farmers to increase their productivity and incomes, improve their nutritional levels, and help integrate them into larger markets.

The 2009 request is for $18 million, the final of three scheduled contributions under IFAD's seventh replenishment (IFAD-7). In December 2005, negotiations were concluded on IFAD-7 and the U.S. pledged a total of $54 million over the three-year replenishment period 2007-2009. The U.S. exercised leadership to achieve key objectives, including a time-bound and measurable action plan to address key findings of the independent external evaluation for increased effectiveness of IFAD operations (impact on poverty and food security); a strengthened performance-based allocation system including removing fixed regional allocations; a debt sustainability framework in line with that of the World Bank's International Development Association that will result in an increase in grant funding to countries; and increased transparency and anti-corruption measures. IFAD is implementing agreed IFAD-7 reforms on schedule.

This account provides technical assistance to other countries in support U.S. foreign policy objectives and in support of the responsibilities of the U.S. Treasury Department to formulate, conduct and coordinate the international financial policies of the United States. Technical assistance provided through this account facilitates key short- and medium-term reforms in the policy and management areas of budget, tax, government debt, financial institutions and financial enforcement.

The proposed appropriation will fund resident advisors, including program related administrative costs and intermittent experts in support of the resident advisors. This appropriation will permit continuation of the program in countries outside Central and Eastern Europe and the Former Soviet Union, including implementation of programs in Asia, Africa, the Greater Middle East and Central and Latin America, as well as continued technical assistance in anti-terrorism and anti-money laundering. The Treasury Department will continue to coordinate activities with international financial institutions and with USAID, the Department of State, and other relevant U.S. Government agencies when determining where its technical assistance program can have the greatest positive impact.

The Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria (Global Fund) account exists to obligate and disburse U.S. contributions to the Global Fund which come from appropriations within the Departments of Health and Human Services and State. President Bush launched and made the founding contribution of $200 million to the Global Fund in a Rose Garden event in May 2001. Other donors made financial commitments to the Fund prior to, during, and after the groundbreaking United Nations General Assembly Special Session on HIV/AIDS in June 2001, and the G8 Leaders Summit in Genoa, Italy in July of that year. The Global Fund became a non-profit foundation under Swiss law in January 2002, and held its first grant competition in April of that year.

The purpose of the Global Fund is to attract, manage, and disburse resources through a public-private partnership that make a sustainable and significant contribution to the reduction of infections, illness and death, thereby mitigating the impact caused by HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis and malaria in countries in need. The Global Fund pursues an integrated and balanced approach covering prevention, treatment, and care and support in dealing with these three diseases. The Global Fund seeks to establish a simplified, rapid, innovative process with efficient and effective disbursement mechanisms, minimizing transaction costs and operating in a transparent and accountable manner based on clearly defined responsibilities.

GLOBAL FUND TO FIGHT AIDS, TUBERCULOSIS AND MALARIA—

ities. The Global Fund makes use of existing international assistance mechanisms and health plans.

Approximately $17.9 billion has been pledged to the Global Fund thus far from industrialized and developing country governments, corporations, foundations, and private individual contributions. The U.S. is the largest donor to the Global Fund having pledged a total of $3.625 billion through 2008. The U.S. Government has provided a total of $2.5 billion through 2007. The 2009 request includes $300 million within the National Institutes of Allergy and Infectious Diseases account and $200 million within the Global HIV/AIDS Initiative account for the Global Fund.

Debt Reduction. The Administration requests $141 million for debt restructuring programs, including $121 million for bilateral Heavily Indebted Poor Country (HIPC) and poorest country debt reduction, and HIPC Trust Fund programs and $20 million for the Tropical Forest Conservation Act program.

Multilateral Debt Reduction Programs for the Poorest. For the poorest countries, debt reduction provides an incentive to implement macro-economic and structural reforms necessary to improve economic performance and creditworthi-ness. Debt relief, economic reform and poverty reduction contribute to economic growth and social development, which can mean expanded opportunities for trade and investment for the United States. For the poorest and most heavily indebted countries, the United States will continue support for the Paris Club of official creditors and provide additional relief complementary to the enhanced HIPC Initiative. The Administration requests a total of $121 million in funding for the cost of debt restructuring programs including bilateral HIPC and poorest country debt reduction and the HIPC Trust Fund. The United States has pledged a total of $150 million to meet the additional financing needs of the HIPC Trust Fund consistent with the President's commitment at the 2002 G-8 Summit in Kananaskis, Canada, to fund a share of HIPC financing shortfalls. The United States contributed $74.6 million towards this pledge in fiscal year 2006.

Tropical Forest Debt Relief. The Tropical Forest Conservation Act (TFCA) received strong bipartisan support and was signed into law by the President in July, 1998. Modeled after the Enterprise for the Americas Initiative (EAI), P.L. 105-214, as amended, it allows the Administration to reduce outstanding concessional U.S. Agency for International Development and P.L. 480 debt stocks to support conservation of endangered tropical forests and promote economic reforms in eligible countries. Debt relief or buybacks in eligible countries will leverage payment of local currency resources to support programs to conserve tropical forests. TFCA debt reduction agreements have been concluded with twelve countries: Bangladesh, Belize, El Salvador, Peru, the Philippines, Colombia, Jamaica, Panama (two agreements), Paraguay, Guatemala, Botswana, and Costa Rica. In total, these agreements will generate over time more than $163 million to support forest conservation.

Development Assistance Programs. U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) uses these funds to promote transformational development in developing countries working in partnership with foreign governments, local private sector and non-governmental organizations, and public-private partnerships. These programs enable our foreign partners to implement the often difficult political, economic and other systemic changes that must occur to achieve sustainable development. These programs help a country become more self reliant by sustaining economic and social progress.

—Promoting economic growth: Funding supports trade and investment programs to increase the capacity of developing countries to participate effectively in the global trading system, comply with trade agreements, improve business climates, and raise productivity. Development Assistance programs also support economic reforms, help create new job opportunities, expand access to market information, improve the knowledge and skills of entrepreneurs and workers, and support robust agricultural and natural resource management programs.

—Ruling justly and democratically: Funding supports countries to strengthen their rule of law and respect for human rights, encourage open and competitive political processes, promote the development of a politically active civil society, and encourage more transparent and accountable government institutions.

—Investing in people: Funding helps to develop human capital through programs such as improved and expanded access to basic education, especially for girls and women, and higher education and training to expand the skilled human capital base that is needed for development.

Investing in people, addressing global issues and other special concerns, stabilizing fragile states, and promoting transformational development are all supported by funds from the Child Survival and Health account.

Child Survival and Health Programs include activities that promote family planning/reproductive health, child survival and maternal health, including the primary causes of morbidity and mortality, polio, micronutrients and iodine deficiency, as well as activities directed at vulnerable children, and reducing HIV transmission and the impact of the HIV/AIDS pandemic in developing countries. Funding is also requested to address the threat of other infectious diseases of major public health importance such as tuberculosis, malaria, to reduce antimicrobial resistance, and for surveillance. The 2009 request includes $300 million for the President's Malaria Initiative which will continue to operate in fifteen high-burden African countries. This is in addition to $85 million for focused malaria activities in other countries. The request also includes $50 million for programs of the U.S. Agency for International Development to respond to the threat of Avian Influenza.

This account provides funds to promote country-specific strategies that build on common, region-wide strategic goals, including economic restructuring, democratic transition, and social stabilization. Authorized Support for Assistance for Eastern Europe and the Baltic States (AEEB) programs concentrate on a) the development and strengthening of institutions and civic action necessary for sustainable democracy; b) the development of market economies and a strong private sector; and c) the improvement of the basic quality of life in selected areas.

AEEB assistance is now focused on Southeast Europe, with the single largest program designed for Kosovo. The United States is contributing to international efforts toward recovery from the conflict with Milosevic through building effective governance and a functioning economy in the successor states of the former Yugoslavia. While implementation of the Dayton Accords still requires significant, albeit diminishing, support in Bosnia, two wars in the region in recent years have demonstrated the need for a special effort to provide for peaceful cooperation among neighbors. The Stability Pact of Southeast Europe builds on the country programs in the Balkans to help stabilize the region as a whole and prepare for integration into the European and international mainstream.

This account provides funds for a program of assistance to the independent states that emerged from the former Soviet Union.

Programs are designed to consolidate the process of political and economic transition to market democracies, and to help address major socioeconomic dislocations where they occur during these transitions. Funds will support economic restructuring by helping to create conditions that encourage: trade and investment and private sector growth; improved government fiscal policy, revenue collection, and financial management; a market-oriented financial sector; and a more efficient energy sector and a cleaner environment. Funds will support democratic transitions by encouraging citizen participation, promoting independent media, establishing the rule of law, and strengthening local governments.

2009 program resources will be focused on: 1) enhancing local public and private institutional capacity as part of the comprehensive strategy to expand trade and investment, develop and strengthen small and medium enterprises, mobilize capital, reduce crime and corruption, and build viable civil societies; and 2) mitigating the social impact of political and economic transitions in order to broaden public support for needed reforms. Assistance to central governments will be highly selective.

Funding is also requested to consolidate democratic transitions in Ukraine and Georgia, as well as to support the anti-terrorism campaign and address regional stability issues.

The International Disaster Assistance (IDA) account provides funds for the management of humanitarian relief, rehabilitation, and transition to development assistance to foreign countries affected by natural and man-made disasters, and for disaster prevention, preparedness and mitigation. The request funds relief programs such as emergency health and nutrition interventions, provision of safe drinking water, and emergency shelters. This includes the purchase of commodities including temporary shelter, blankets, supplementary and therapeutic food, potable water, medical supplies, and agricultural rehabilitation aid, including seeds and hand tools. The majority of beneficiaries in man-made disasters and conflict are internally displaced persons (IDPs), a group made more vulnerable by their lack of recognized status. The request includes an estimated $115 million for humanitarian and post-conflict needs in Sudan.

The Administration is also requesting funds for USAID's per capita contribution to the Capital Security Cost Sharing Program (CSCS) administered by the Department of State Overseas Building Operations. The CSCS program is designed to accelerate the construction of secure, safe, functional facilities for all U.S. Government Personnel overseas.

The Office of Transition Initiatives (OTI) uses the Transition Initiatives account to address the opportunities and challenges facing conflict-prone countries and those making the transition from the initial crisis stage of a complex emergency to the path of sustainable development. OTI collaborates closely with the Department of State, the National Security Council, the Department of Defense, and USAID's regional bureaus in the selection of high foreign policy priority countries for OTI's transition assistance and in the design and monitoring of OTI programs. OTI's efforts to advance peace and stability include support for demobilization and reintegration of ex-combatants, community self-help programs that reduce tensions and promote grass-roots democratic media, and conflict resolution measures.

The Fund, authorized by section 635(m) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, finances on a reimbursable basis the costs associated with providing administrative support to other agencies under the International Cooperative Administrative Support Services (ICASS) program overseas. Under ICASS, each agency pays a proportional share of the cost of those services they have agreed to receive. Working through inter-agency councils at post, all agencies have a say in determining which services the USAID mission will provide, defining service standards, reviewing costs, and determining funding levels. The Fund is also used for deposit of rebates from the use of Federal credit cards, the deposits then being made available for start-up costs at new ICASS service provider missions and for technical support to missions currently providing services.

In 2009, the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) will use the Development Credit Authority (DCA) transfer authority to support DCA projects in every region of the globe and every economic sector targeted by USAID. DCA augments grant assistance by mobilizing private capital in developing countries for sustainable development projects. Credit assistance under DCA is principally intended for use where a development activity is financially viable, where borrowers are creditworthy, and where there is a true risk sharing with private lenders.

In 2009, the request for $21 million in DCA transfer authority will support financing of water and sanitation facilities. DCA will continue to support small and medium enterprises and infrastructure projects, and continue to promote the flow of credit to microfinance institutions, small and medium enterprises, agribusinesses, energy-efficiency projects, housing projects, and municipalities in USAID-assisted countries.

skills in the economic and social development of developing countries and emerging market economies. Its credit program is investment financing through loans and guaranteed loans.

As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, the Program Account records the subsidy costs associated with the direct loans obligated and loan guarantees committed in 1992 and beyond (including modifications of direct loans or loan guarantees that resulted from obligations or commitments in any year), as well as administrative expenses of this program. The subsidy amounts are estimated on a present value basis; the administrative expenses are estimated on a cash basis.

This account transfers funds to the operating expense account for the Peace Corps to finance upward adjustments of recorded obligations because of foreign currency fluctuations. Transfers are made as needed to meet disbursement requirements in excess of funds otherwise available for obligation adjustment. Net gains resulting from favorable exchange rates are returned to this appropriation and available for subsequent transfer when needed. The account is replenished through the utilization of a special transfer authority that allows the Peace Corps to withdraw unobligated balances from the operating expenses account from prior years as long as the authorized limit of $5 million is not exceeded at the time of the transfer.

The Inter-American Foundation (IAF) funds grassroots development initiatives designed by the organized poor in Latin America and the Caribbean. The IAF has carried out its mandate by responding with grant support to the most creative ideas for self-help received from grassroots groups and non-governmental organizations. The IAF uses objective indicators to gauge the results of its grants in improving the quality of life in poor communities and disseminates the experiences to a broad audience that includes private and public sector donors, development professionals, academics, and other interested parties. In 2009, the IAF will strive to leverage additional resources for its grant program from local governments, private sector, beneficiary populations, and other donors as well as through an IAF-initiated network of Latin American businesses and corporate foundations committed to funding grassroots development.

Development Grants.—Grants are awarded directly to non-governmental organizations in Latin America and the Caribbean to carry out development projects. In 2009, the IAF plans to award approximately 75 new grants and to supplement with additional funds approximately 20 grants awarded in previous years.

Leveraging of Resources.—IAF grantees are required to contribute to their projects, encouraged to partner with local governments, and urged to mobilize funds to sustain their impact after the grant period. RedEAmerica, a network of the hemisphere's corporate foundations that have adopted the IAF's bottom-up approach, invests its funds in self-help programs. RedEAmerica members that are parties to the IAF cooperative agreements match IAF funding two-to-one; the entire network raises contributions from a variety of sources. Additionally, U.S. based migrant associations are joining the IAF to support grassroots development in their home communities.

Evaluations and Other Activities.—Each year the progress of all IAF grantees is routinely assessed and a sample of completed projects undergoes comprehensive evaluation. The IAF also produces and distributes regularly scheduled publications on its projects, on trends in development, and on other topics of interest to the development profession.

Program Management and Operation.—The IAF also manages resources that cover salaries and benefits, travel, reimbursable service agreements with other U.S. government agencies, rent, service contracts, and other support costs.

The African Development Foundation (ADF), a public corporation, is the only agency of the U.S. Government that directly invests in small, African-owned enterprises and community-based initiatives to alleviate poverty and promote sustainable development in Africa. Through its grant program, ADF provides Africans with the resources necessary to identify and solve their own problems. ADF relies on participatory development approaches that strengthen local capacity, foster ownership of development projects, and promote self-help and empowerment.

In 2009, ADF will provide grants to recipients in seventeen African countries, either directly to small, African-owned enterprises, small farmer and agricultural cooperatives, and grassroots groups or through nongovernmental mechanisms. These investments will be focused on entrepreneurs at the lower end of the economic and social spectrum in countries where ADF operates to promote the following two strategic goals:

1) Advance community-based, sustainable development and empowerment of the poor in Africa. ADF will promote micro- and small-enterprise and smallholder agricultural development to generate income and employment. ADF will increase participation of African-owned small enterprises and producer groups to promote economic development, including trade and investment.

2) Expand local capacity to promote and support grassroots, participatory development. ADF will build self-supporting, sustainable, local community development Partner Organizations that provide technical assistance and support to grassroots groups. ADF will develop and replicate new models for community reinvestment. ADF will continue to leverage additional funding through strategic partnerships with national and local governments, other donor agencies, and the local private sector. ADF will encourage African governments and other donors to increase utilization of grassroots development "practices."

As part of a general increase in the International Monetary Fund (IMF) quota resources, on November 17, 1998, the United States consented to an increase in its quota to SDR 37,149.3 million (about $52 billion at that time). The increase in the U.S. quota involves no net budget outlays. Similarly, use by the IMF of the quota commitment does not result in net budget outlays because the United States receives an increase in its international monetary reserves corresponding to any transfer of dollars under the U.S. quota subscription. The United States can use these interest-bearing reserves to meet a balance of payments financing need.

The General Arrangements to Borrow (GAB) were established in 1962 by 10 industrial countries, including the United States, as a means of supplementing the IMF's resources when needed to forestall or cope with an impairment of the international monetary system. GAB members agreed in early 1983 to increase their financial commitments to GAB from approximately SDR 6.3 billion to SDR 17 billion, with the U.S. share rising from $2.0 billion to approximately $6.4 billion.

In January 1997, the Executive Board of the IMF approved the creation of the New Arrangements to Borrow (NAB) to further supplement resources available to the IMF to forestall or cope with an impairment of the international monetary system or to deal with an exceptional situation that poses a threat to the stability of the system. NAB became effective on November 17, 1998. In 2007, twenty-six countries and institutions participated in NAB through a set of credit arrangements with the IMF totaling SDR 34 billion (about $48 billion on the date of establishment), of which the U.S. share is approximately SDR 6.6 billion (about $10.4 billion as of December 2007). Although GAB continues to exist, the sum of loans advanced under NAB and GAB cannot exceed SDR 34 billion. The sum of U.S. loans advanced under both arrangements cannot exceed the U.S. share of NAB.

Financing extended by the United States under GAB and NAB does not result in any net budget outlays because such financing results in an equivalent increase in U.S. international reserve assets in the form of a claim on the IMF.

During 1998 (July), the IMF made one call on GAB participants in support of an assistance program for Russia, of which the U.S. share was approximately $483 million. On December 15, 1998, the IMF made a call on NAB participants in support of an assistance program for Brazil, of which the U.S. share was approximately $860 million. GAB and NAB loans were paid back in full on March 11, 1999. Since 1999, no calls were made on GAB or NAB participants, and no loans were outstanding at the end of the fiscal year.

In December 2004 a devastating tsunami and earthquake affected a number of countries in southeast Asia. The United States responded with a quick infusion of emergency assistance, followed by funding for rehabilitation and reconstruction. Assistance provided in the supplemental was designed for rebuilding communities and infrastructure, helping individuals return to their original livelihood, training individuals, particularly women, to develop new skills, and supporting host government-led reconstruction and early warning/disaster preparedness effort. Funds were also used to reimburse other accounts obligated for relief and rehabilitation efforts in the immediate aftermath of the tsunami. The largest amounts of funding went to assistance for Indonesia and Sri Lanka, with smaller programs in India, Thailand, and the Maldives. Funds were also provided to support regional programs, such as development of an early warning and disaster preparedness system for the Indian Ocean and to support prevention and preparations against avian influenza.
