UTAH.

WILLIAM H. HOOPER, of Salt Lake City, was born in Dorchester County, on the eastern shore of Maryland, December 25, 1813; received a very limited common-school education; was early engaged in mercantile pursuits, but subsequently was commander of a steamer on the western rivers; was elected United States Senator under the State organization of Deseret, adopted by the people of Utah in 1862; was elected Delegate to the Thirty-sixth, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, and Forty-first Congresses, and was re-elected to the Forty-second Congress, receiving 21,656 votes against 1,444 votes for G. R. Maxwell, Republican.

WASHINGTON.

SELUCIUS GARFIELDE, of Olympia, was born in Shoreham, Vermont, December 8, 1822; removed to Kentucky in early life; finished his collegiate course at Augusta College; read law and was admitted to the bar; in 1849 was elected a member of the convention to revise the State constitution, and spent the following year in South American travel; emigrated to California in 1851, was elected a member of the Legislature of that State in 1852, and in 1853 was selected by that body to codify the laws of the State; returned to Kentucky in 1854; was a member of the Cincinnati National Convention in 1856, and an elector during that canvass; removed to Washington Territory in 1857, where he filled the position of receiver of public moneys to 1860; in 1861 he was nominated for Congress, but beaten by the secession wing of the Democratic party; was surveyor general from 1866 to 1869, when he was elected to the Forty-first Congress; and was re-elected to the Forty-second Congress as a Republican, receiving 3,469 votes against 2,734 votes for Mix, Democrat.

WYOMING.

WILLIAM T. JONES, of Cheyenne, was born at Corydon, Indiana, February 20, 1842; received an academic education, and afterward studied at the Miami University, Oxford, Ohio; studied law; served in the Union Army as lieutenant, captain, and major of the Seventeenth Indiana Volunteers; was Presidential elector for the Second District of Indiana in 1868; was appointed associate justice of the supreme court of Wyoming, April 6, 1869; and was elected to the Forty-second Congress as a Republican, receiving a majority of 227 votes over Colonel Wanless, Democrat.

THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol fronts the east, and stands on a plateau ninety feet above the level of the Potomac, in latitude $38^{\circ} 55' 48''$ north and longitude $77^{\circ} 1' 48''$ west from Greenwich.

The southeast corner-stone of the original building was laid on the 18th of September, 1793, by President Washington, aided by the Freemasons of Maryland. It was constructed of sand-stone from an island in Aquia Creek, Virginia, painted white, under the direction of B. S. Hallett, and afterward of B. H. Latrobe, architects. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811, a wooden passage-way connecting them. On the 24th of August, 1814, the interior of both wings was destroyed by British incendiaries, but they were immediately rebuilt. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced under the architectural superintendence of Charles Bulfinch, and the original building was finally completed in 1827. Its cost, including the grading of the grounds, alterations, and repairs, up to 1827, was $1,746,718 33.

The corner-stone of the extensions to the Capitol was laid on the 4th of July, 1851, by President Fillmore, Daniel Webster officiating as orator of the day. Thomas U. Walter was architect, and subsequently Edward Clark, under whose direction the work was completed in November, 1867. The material used for the extensions is white marble from the quarries at Lee, Massachusetts, with white marble columns from the quarries at Cockeysville, Maryland.

The dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, but was removed in 1856 to be replaced by the present stupendous structure of cast iron, which was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,009,200 pounds.

The main building is three hundred and fifty-two feet four inches long in front and one hundred and twenty-one feet six inches deep, with a portico one hundred and sixty feet wide, of twenty-four columns on the east, and a projection of eighty-three feet on the west, embracing a recessed portico of ten coupled columns. The extensions are placed at the north and south ends of the main building, with connecting corridors forty-four feet long by fifty-six feet wide, flanked by columns. Each extension is one hundred and forty-two feet eight inches in front, by two hundred and thirty-eight feet ten inches deep, with porticos of twenty-two columns each on their eastern fronts, and with porticos of ten columns on their ends and on their western fronts. The entire length of the building is seven hundred and fifty-one feet four inches, and the greatest depth, including porticos and steps, is three hundred and twenty-four feet. The area covered by the entire building is one hundred and fifty-three thousand one hundred and twelve square feet.

The dome is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, modeled by Crawford, which is nineteen feet six inches high, and which weighs 14,985 pounds. The height of the dome above the base-line of the east front is two hundred and eighty-seven feet eleven inches; the height from the top of the balustrade of the building is two hundred and seventeen feet eleven inches; and the greatest diameter at the base of the dome is one hundred and thirty-five feet five inches.

The rotunda is ninety-five feet six inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is one hundred and eighty feet three inches.

The Senate chamber is one hundred and twelve feet in length, by eighty-two feet in width, and thirty feet in height. Its galleries will accommodate one thousand persons.

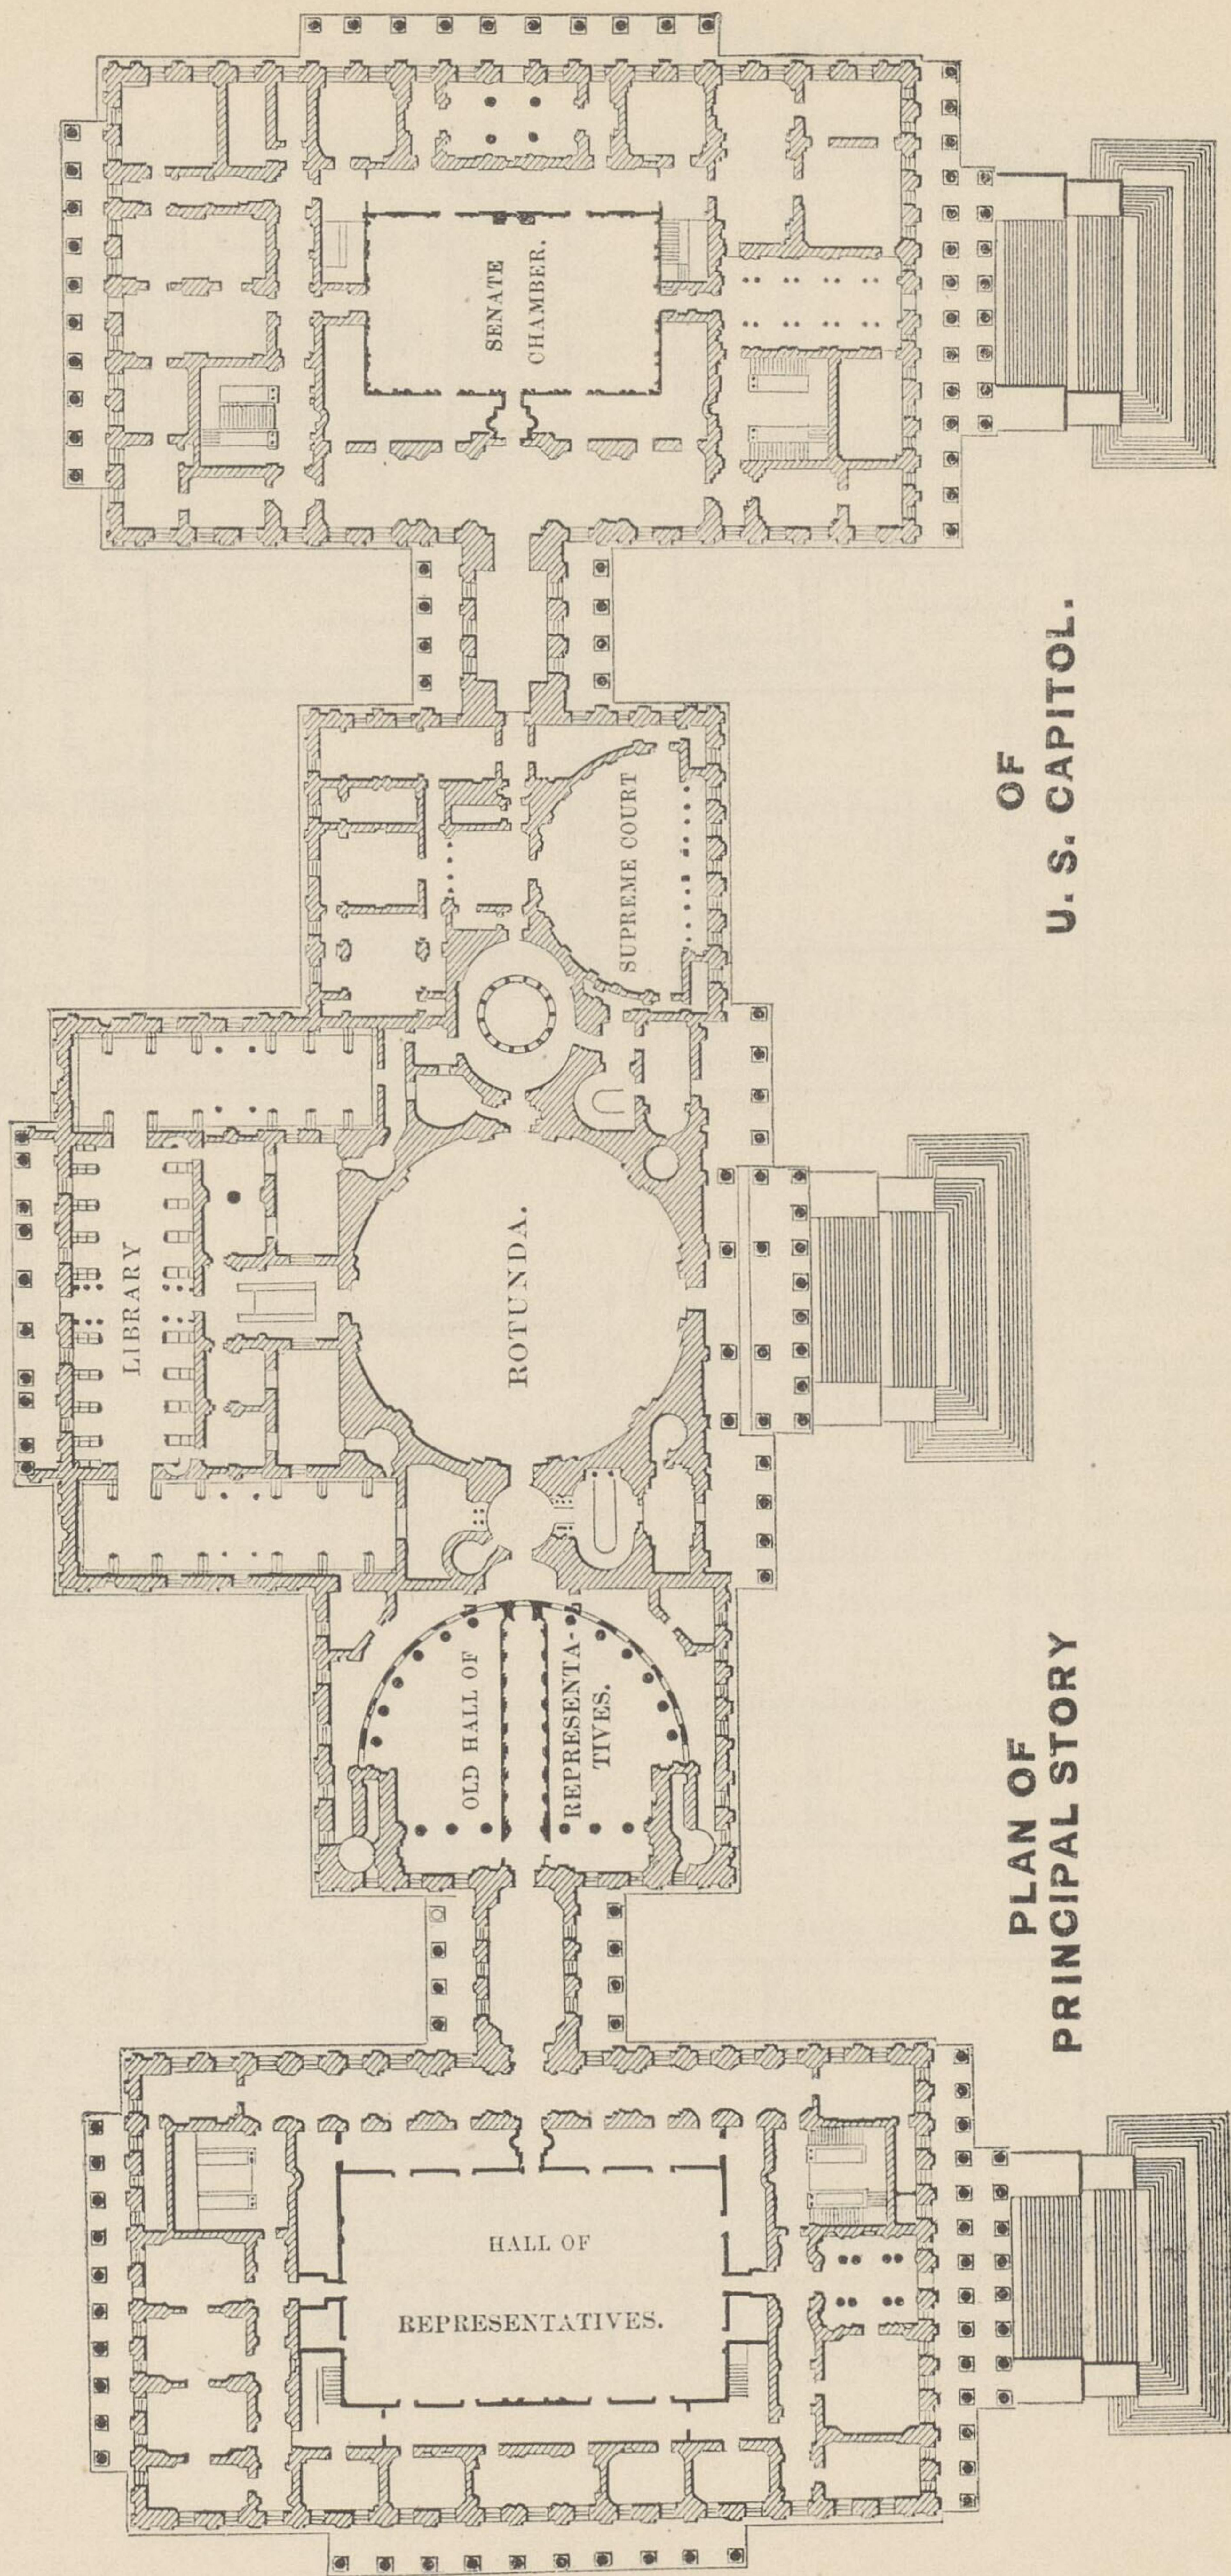

The Representatives' Hall is one hundred and thirty feet in length, by ninety-three feet in width, and thirty feet in height.

The Supreme Court room was occupied by the Senate until December, 1860, the court having previously occupied the room beneath, now used as a law library.

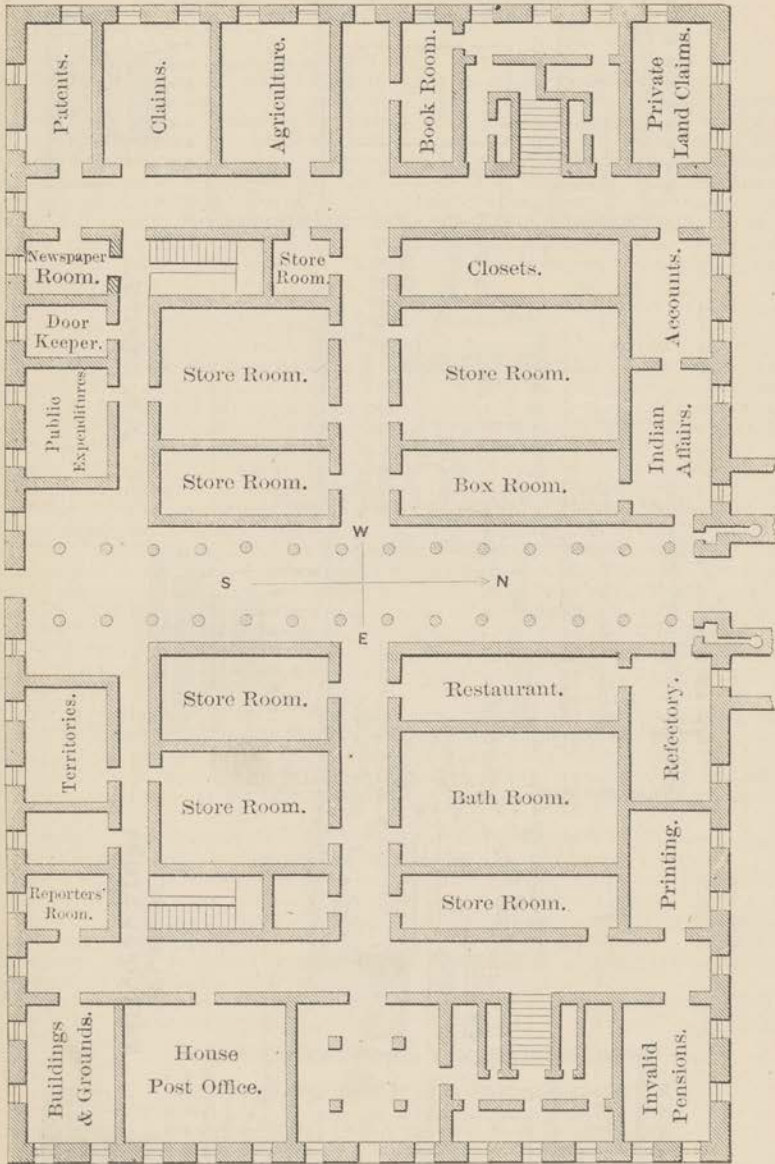

The Library of Congress was burned by the British in 1814, and was partially destroyed by an accidental fire in 1851. The present center hall was finished in 1853, and the wing halls were finished in 1867.

ARCHITECT OF THE CAPITOL.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF
SENATORS, REPRESENTATIVES, AND DELEGATES,

WITH THEIR HOME POST-OFFICES, AND RESIDENCES IN WASHINGTON.

[The * designates those whose wives accompany them; the § designates those whose daughters accompany them; the † designates those having other ladies with them.]

[The streets and avenues of Washington are now numbered on the "Philadelphia plan," starting north, south, east, and west from the base-lines, which run north and south, east and west, intersecting at the Capitol. Thus, in the northwest section of the city, the houses on any street designated by a letter, or on any avenue running east and west, which are between First and Second streets, are numbered between one and two hundred; those between Second and Third streets are numbered between two and three hundred, and so forth. On the streets designated by numbers, or on any avenue running north and south, the houses between A and B streets are numbered between one and two hundred; those between B and C streets are numbered between two and three hundred, and so forth. This system of numbering enables any one, with the aid of a map of the city, to determine the exact location of any house the number and street of which are given.]
