LIBRARY REGULATIONS.

1. The use of the Library is free: (a) To all students in attendance at College. (b) To alumni of the College. (c) To persons officially connected with the College, and to members of their families.

2. Members of the third- and fourth-year classes can have out but three, and other persons but one, book at a time, except by permission of the Librarian.

3. Books must not be kept out more than two weeks.

4. Any one desiring a book that is drawn may record, in the Library, his name and the title of the book wanted, and he will be entitled to the book as soon as returned. If there is no application on record, a book may be once redrawn by the person returning it. The request for renewal must be made before the expiration of the first two weeks.

5. A fine of two cents a day shall be paid on each volume which is not returned according to the provisions of the preceding rules. Any one failing to return a book within one week after due will be deprived of the privilege of drawing books from the Library. Instructors needing books for class work, and postgraduate students upon recommendation of the instructor, may, by arrangement with the Librarian, draw such books for a term.

6. Volumes marked "BOOK OF REFERENCE" cannot be drawn.

7. Books, when returned, are to be left upon the Librarian's desk.

8. All damage to books must be reported to the Librarian.

NOTES

A vacancy exists in the Senate, caused by the death of Hon. Charles J. Hughes, jr., who died January 11, 1911, the Legislature of Colorado failing to elect his successor.

A vacancy exists in the House of Representatives, caused by the death of Hon. Edmond H. Madison, of the seventh Kansas district.

There is a vacancy in the Supreme Court of the United States, caused by the death of Hon. John Marshall Harlan. A vacancy also exists in the seventh judicial circuit, caused by the resignation of Hon. Peter S. Grosscup, circuit judge.

All Washington addresses in the Directory are northwest unless otherwise indicated.

HARRY ALDEN RICHARDSON, Republican, of Dover, was born in Camden, Del., January 1, 1853. At the age of 3 years his parents moved to Dover, where in the early part of his life he attended the schools of that town; later he attended school at East Greenwich, R. I. At the age of 16 years he returned to Dover, where he was given the choice by his father of preparing for a profession or of entering into business. He chose the latter, and at once proceeded to learn the trade of canner and packer, going into his father's establishment at Dover, and working his way up from the lowest position. Upon the death of the junior member of the firm, James W. Robbins, in 1876, he was taken into partnership by his father, the name of the firm, however, remaining unchanged at the request of Mr. Robbins. After the death of his father, in 1894, Mr. Richardson assumed entire control of the canning establishment, which he, with his sons, Alden B. and William W., has since managed. In 1890 he was nominated by the Republicans for the office of governor, but at that time the State was strongly Democratic and he was defeated. Since 1890 he has taken no active part in politics, though he has been voted for at each session of the legislature since 1895 for United States Senator. He was elected to the United States Senate in January, 1907, and his term of service will expire March 3, 1913.

On November 15, 1885, Mr. Ransdell was married to Miss Olive Irene Powell, of Lake Providence, La. They have no children. Since December, 1901, he has been a member of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors of the House of Representatives, and has devoted himself to legislation in regard to waterways, especially to that part of the Mississippi River between Cairo and the Gulf, with its great levee system. In 1905 Mr. Ransdell was one of the active leaders in reorganizing the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, and has been its president for several years. This congress is a voluntary organization, composed of individuals, commercial bodies, boards of trade, municipalities, and waterway associations from nearly every State in the Union. Its purpose is to arouse such a strong public sentiment that Congress shall be induced to adopt a broad, liberal, comprehensive policy toward all the Nation's waterways. It stands for a policy, not a project, and its slogan is, "An annual rivers and harbors bill carrying not less than fifty million dollars." Was elected to the Fifty-sixth Congress to fill the unexpired term of Hon. S. T. Baird, who died April 22, 1899, and to the Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth, and Sixty-first Congresses, and reelected to the Sixty-second Congress, receiving 4,255 votes, to 44 for E. RESIDENT COMMISSIONERS.

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

BENITO LEGARDA, of Manila, was born in Manila, September 27, 1853; was educated in the Jesuits' College and St. Thomas University of Manila, from the latter of which he received the degree of LL. B. He held some honorific positions during the Spanish régime; joined Aguinaldo when he landed in Cavite shortly after Admiral Dewey had destroyed the Spanish fleet, 1898; was a member of Aguinaldo's cabinet at Malolos and vice president of the Filipino congress; resigned these positions to return to Manila in December of the same year (1898); cooperated with live interest in the establishment of peace during and after the war between the Filipinos and Americans. On February 1, 1901, was appointed by President McKinley a member of the Philippine Commission, an office that he held until he was elected by the Philippine Legislature one of the Resident Commissioners of the Philippine Islands in the United States in November, 1907.

MANUEL L. QUEZON, Nationalist, of Tayabas, was born in Baler, Province of Tayabas, August 19, 1878; received his primary and secondary education in the College of San Juan de Letran, obtaining the degrees of bachelor of arts and expert land surveyor; studied law in the University of St. Thomas, and, having lost his parents, worked in order to graduate; was admitted to the Filipino bar in April, 1903. During the revolution was a major of the Philippine army, and was detailed, first, to Gen. Aguinaldo's staff and then as chief of staff of the general commanding the Department of Central Luzon. Under the American Government he held the office of prosecuting attorney for the Province of Mindoro, and was subsequently transferred to the Province of Tayabas with the same office; after a year in the latter Province he resigned and was elected provincial governor of Tayabas, holding this office from 1906 to July, 1907, when he also resigned to become a candidate for delegate to the Philippine Assembly from the first district of Tayabas and was elected. In the Philippine Assembly he was the floor leader of his party. On May 15, 1909, the Philippine Legislature elected him Resident Commissioner of the Philippine Islands in the United States to succeed Hon. Pablo Ocampo de Leon.

PORTO RICO

Population (1910), 1,118,012.

LUIS MUÑOZ RIVERA, Unionist, of San Juan, was born in the town of Barranquitas July 17, 1859, and educated in the public schools. Early in life he engaged in cigar manufacturing and general business. At the age of 20 his writings were already published by the most progressive papers of the country. At 30 he founded La Democracia, a daily newspaper in Ponce, for the purpose of opposing the Spanish colonial régime. This paper is still published by him in San Juan. From 1887 to 1897 he was constantly subjected to persecutions by the Government, because of his patriotic activities. In 1896 he was sent to Madrid as a special representative of his party, for the purpose of consummating an agreement with the Liberal Party of Spain for the establishment of home rule for Porto Rico. He founded the Liberal Party in 1897. During this year Queen Maria Christina decreed an ample system of self-government for the island, and he was appointed secretary of state, and subsequently president of the cabinet. When American sovereignty was declared in 1898 he was serving in this latter capacity. He then presented his resignation to Gen. Brooke, military governor, who declined to accept it, and he continued in the cabinet until 1899, when that system of self-government was changed by Gen. Henry, who succeeded Gen. Brooke. Then he came for the first time to Washington as the representative of his party and of the farming interests of the islands, in order to procure free-trade relations between the United States and Porto Rico. Returning to Porto Rico in 1900, he organized the Federal Party. One year later he came to New York and established The Puerto Rico Herald, which paper was published in that city for a period of four years. At the dissolution of the Federal Party in 1904, he organized the Unionist Party, of which he is still the leader. Three times he was chosen to the lower House of the Legislature in Porto Rico. In 1910 he was elected Resident Commissioner to Washington by about 105,000 votes, as against about 58,000 for his opponent. Mr. Rivera is married and has one son who is studying in New York City.

[1] Until within recent years the appointment or election of a President pro tempore was held by the Senate to be for the occasion only, so that more than one appears in several sessions and in others none were chosen. Since Mar. 12, 1890, they have served until "the Senate otherwise ordered."

[2] The Constitution (Art. I, sec. 4) provided that the Congress should assemble Mar. 4, 1789, and thereafter "in every year * * * on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day." Up to, and including, May 20, 1820, eighteen acts were passed providing for the meeting of Congress on other days in the year. Since that year Congress has met regularly on the first Monday in December. The first and second sessions of the First Congress were held in New York; subsequently, until the second session of the Sixth Congress, Philadelphia was the meeting place; since then Congress has convened in Washington.

[3] Elected to count the vote for President and Vice-President, which was done Apr. 6, 1789, a quorum of the Senate then appearing for the first time. John Adams, Vice President, appeared Apr. 21, 1789, and took his seat as President of the Senate.

[4] Elected Speaker, vice Henry Clay, who resigned Jan. 19, 1814.

[5] Elected Speaker Nov. 15, 1820, vice Henry Clay, who resigned Oct. 28, 1820.

[6] Elected Speaker June 2, 1834, vice Andrew Stevenson, of Virginia, resigned.

THE CAPITOL.

The Capitol is situated in latitude 38° 53′ 20.4″ north and longitude 77° 00′ 35.7″ west from Greenwich. It fronts east and stands on a plateau 88 feet above the level of the Potomac.

ORIGINAL BUILDING.

The southeast corner stone of the original building was laid on the 18th of September, 1793, by President Washington, with Masonic ceremonies. It is constructed of sandstone from quarries on Aquia Creek, Va. The original designs were prepared by Dr. William Thornton, and the work was done under the direction of Stephen H. Hallet, James Hoban, George Hadfield, and B. H. Latrobe, architects. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811. A wooden passageway connected them. On the 24th of August, 1814, the interior of both wings was destroyed by fire, set by the British. The damage to the building was immediately repaired. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced, under the architectural superintendence of Charles Bulfinch. The original building was finally completed in 1827. Its cost, including the grading of the grounds, alterations, and repairs, up to 1827, was $2,433,844.13.

EXTENSIONS.

The corner stone of the extensions was laid on the 4th of July, 1851, by President Fillmore, Daniel Webster officiating as orator. This work was prosecuted under the architectural direction of Thomas U. Walter till 1865, when he resigned, and it was completed under the supervision of Edward Clark. The material used in the walls is white marble from the quarries at Lee, Mass., and that in the columns from the quarries at Cockeysville, Md. These extensions were first occupied for legislative purposes January 4, 1859.

DIMENSIONS OF THE BUILDING.

The entire length of the building from north to south is 751 feet 4 inches, and its greatest dimension from east to west 350 feet. The area covered by the building is 153,112 square feet.

DOME.

The Dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, covered with copper. This was replaced in 1856 by the present structure of cast iron. It was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,909,200 pounds.

The Dome is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, which is 19 feet 6 inches high and weighs 14,985 pounds. It was modeled by Crawford. The height of the Dome above the base line of the east front is 287 feet 5 inches. The height from the top of the balustrade of the building is 217 feet 11 inches. The greatest diameter at the base is 135 feet 5 inches.

The Rotunda is 97 feet 6 inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is 180 feet 3 inches.

The Senate Chamber is 113 feet 3 inches in length by 80 feet 3 inches in width and 36 feet in height. The galleries will accommodate 1,000 persons.

The Representatives' Hall is 139 feet in length by 93 feet in width and 36 feet in height.

The room now occupied by the Supreme Court was, until 1859, occupied as the Senate Chamber. Previous to that time the court occupied the room immediately beneath, now used as a law library.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

(Capitol Hill. Phone, Main 2727.)

The Library of Congress was established in 1800, destroyed in 1814 by the burning of the Capitol, afterwards replenished by the purchase by Congress of the library of ex-President Jefferson, 6,760 volumes (cost, $23,950); in 1851, 35,000 volumes destroyed by fire; in 1852, partially replenished by an appropriation of $75,000; increased (1) by regular appropriations by Congress; (2) by deposits under the copyright law; (3) by gifts and exchanges; (4) by the exchanges of the Smithsonian Institution, the library of which (40,000 volumes) was, in 1866, deposited in the Library of Congress with the stipulation that future accessions should follow it. Sixty sets of Government publications are at the disposal of the Librarian of Congress for exchange, through the Smithsonian, with foreign Governments, and this number may be increased up to 100. Other special accessions have been: The Peter Force collection (22,529 volumes, 37,000 pamphlets) purchased, 1867, cost $100,000; the Count de Rochambeau collection (manuscript) purchased, 1883, cost $20,000; the Toner collection (24,484 volumes, numerous pamphlets), gift in 1882 of Dr. Joseph M. Toner.

Since the removal to the new building the Library has been enriched by a number of special collections. The Prints Division has received the Hubbard collection of engravings, gift in 1898 of Mrs. Gardiner G. Hubbard (her will (1909) stipulated that the income of a fund of $20,000 be applied to purchase of additional engravings); and the Noyes collection of original drawings, prints, and books of Japanese artists, gift in 1905 of Mr. Crosby S. Noyes. The Prints Division also has the custody of the Garrett collection of 19,113 prints; and the George Lothrop Bradley collection of 1,980 engravings, etc., which, in accordance with his will, is to come into the permanent possession of the Library, subject to the life interest of Mrs. Bradley. The accessions to the Manuscripts Division give it superiority over any other like depository in this country. It now possesses the papers of nine Presidents, namely, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Van Buren, Polk, Pierce, and Johnson. Of the papers of American statesmen and politicians there are those of Franklin, R. Morris, Hamilton, Van Buren, Duff Green, Washburne, Clayton, Chase, Crittenden, Lyman Trumbull, E. M. Stanton, John Sherman; of naval officers, Preble, John Paul Jones; of State papers, the papers of the Continental Congress; the House of Representatives collection; and in Colonial documentary history, the records of the Virginia Co., Spanish papers from New Mexico and Florida; Philippine and Guam documents. The papers of Chancellor Kent represent the judiciary. In commercial history there are the Ellis papers, 1805–1853, Bourne papers, 1776–1816; Galloway papers (early part of eighteenth century), letters of William Taylor (the latter part of the eighteenth century); of John White, cashier of the Bank of the United States at Baltimore. Here also are the papers of William Thornton and George Watterston, illustrating the history of the District of Columbia. The Stevens Index of MSS. in European archives relating to America, 1763–1783, comprising 180 volumes, giving titles of 161,000 documents, and the transcripts of 10,000 papers relating to the peace of 1783, in 37 large folio volumes, were bought in 1906. Here, also, are over 100,000 folios of transcripts of documents relating to American colonial history in the public archives of Great Britain. The Map Division has acquired the Kohl collection, the manuscript maps of Lord Howe, and many other manuscript maps, which make the collection extremely rich in original maps. The Weber library of Sanskrit literature (3,018 volumes, 1,002 pamphlets) and the Hattala library of Slavic literature (about 1,500 volumes) were bought in 1904.

In 1907 the Yudin collection of Russian works (80,000 volumes) and a Japanese collection (9,000 volumes) were added, and in 1908 the Huitfeldt-Kaas collection of Scandinavian literature containing about 5,000 volumes.

The John Boyd Thacher Collection of Incunabula, embracing 928 volumes, representing issues of 500 European presses prior to 1500, has been deposited in the Library by Mrs. Thacher for purposes of exhibit and consultation by investigators so long as the material remains in the possession of the Library.

The collection is now the largest on the Western Hemisphere and the third in the world. It comprised at the end of the fiscal year (June 30, 1911) about 1,891,729 printed books and pamphlets (including the law library of 144,889 volumes, which, while a division of the Library of Congress, still remains at the Capitol), 123,568 maps and charts, 557,010 pieces of music, and 336,966 photographs, prints, engravings, and lithographs. Of the printed books, probably one-sixth are duplicates not in use.

The Smithsonian deposit is strong in scientific works, and includes the largest assemblage of the transactions of learned societies which exists in this country.

In 1897 the main collection was removed from the Capitol to the building erected for it under the acts of Congress approved April 15, 1886, October 2, 1888, and March 2, 1889, at a cost of $6,347,000 (limit by law, $6,500,000) exclusive of the land, which cost $585,000. The architects who furnished the original designs were John L. Smithmeyer and Paul J. Pelz. By the act of October 2, 1888, before the foundations were laid, Thomas L. Casey, Chief of Engineers of the Army, was placed in charge of the construction of the building, and the architectural details were worked out by Paul J. Pelz and Edward P. Casey. Upon the death of Gen. Casey, in March, 1896, the entire charge of the construction devolved upon Bernard R. Green, Gen. Casey's assistant, and under his superintendence the building was completed in February, 1897; opened to the public November, 1897. The building occupies 3¾ acres upon a site 10 acres in extent at a distance of 1,270 feet east of the Capitol, and is the largest and most magnificent library building in the world. In the decorations, some 40 painters and sculptors are represented—all American citizens. The floor space is 326,195 square feet, or nearly 8 acres. The book stacks contain about 56 miles of shelving, affording space for 2,600,000 octavo volumes. The southeast interior court has been built over as a book stack, with capacity for 940,000 octavo volumes of books on 22 miles of shelves, and 84,000 volumes of newspapers on a similar length of shelves—22 miles.

The Library is maintained by annual appropriations by Congress for various purposes, including the purchase of books. For the year 1911–12 these amounted to $595,665 (not including allotment for printing and binding, $202,000), as follows: $457,665 for services and contingent expenses (including the Copyright Office, and including also the care of the building); $100,000 for books and periodicals (including $2,000 for new books for Supreme Court); $18,000 for fuel, supplies, and miscellaneous purposes; $20,000 for furniture, shelving, etc.

The Librarian of Congress and the Superintendent of the Library Building and Grounds are now appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate (act of 1897). The employees of the Library are appointed by the Librarian under the act of 1897, which provides that they shall be appointed "solely with reference to their fitness for their particular duties."

The President, Vice President, Senators, Representatives, and Delegates in Congress are entitled by statute to draw books for home use (though no books can be given out on the orders of Members in favor of those who are not Members). The same privilege is extended by statute to Justices of the Supreme Court, the heads of the Executive Departments, and certain other officials.

Inter-library loans.—While not a lending library, but a reference library primarily and essentially, the Library of Congress maintains an inter-library loan system, by which special service is rendered to scholarship by the lending of books to other libraries for the use of investigators engaged in serious research which it is not within the power or duty of the library in question to supply, and which, at the time, are not needed in Washington.

Library service.—Library proper, 248 employees; Copyright Office, 86; distribution of catalogue cards, 31; disbursement service and care of building and grounds, 121. Total, 486.

The publications issued by the Library are numerous and include:

Annual reports, showing the progress of the Library.

Bibliographies, exhaustive statements of the literature of certain subjects, e. g., Philippine Islands.

Reference lists, containing principal references to questions of current interest, e. g., trusts, subsidies, railroads.

Catalogues, lists of special collections in the Library of Congress, e. g., Hubbard collection of engravings, Washington MSS., John Paul Jones MSS., maps of America, newspapers.

Special publications on library methods, e. g., catalogue rules, classification, etc.

There is but a limited free distribution of publications. The reports and other administrative documents are sent to a large number of institutions, and, on request, to such inquirers as can not be reached or adequately served by them. Publications which are costly and permanent contributions to knowledge are priced and placed on sale with the superintendent of documents.

Copyright Office.—The Copyright Office is a distinct division of the Library of Congress and is located on the ground floor, south side; open 9 to 4.30. It is under the immediate charge of the Register of Copyrights, who, by the act of March 4, 1909, is authorized, "under the direction and supervision of the Librarian of Congress," to perform all the duties relating to copyrights. Copyright registration was transferred to the Librarian of Congress by the act of July 8, 1870. Of most articles copyrighted two copies, and of some one copy, must be deposited to perfect copyright. Books, maps, musical compositions, photographs, periodicals, and other articles so deposited numbered, during the fiscal year 1910–11, 209,227 articles. Copyright fees applied and paid into the Treasury for the fiscal year 1910–11 amounted to $109,913.95.

Hours.—On week days (except legal holidays) the Library Building, Main Reading Room, Periodical Reading Room, and Law Library are open from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.; other parts of the Library, from 9 a. m. to 4.30 p. m. On Sundays and certain legal holidays the Building, Main Reading Room, Periodical Reading Room, Division of Prints, and Music Division are open from 2 to 10 p. m., the Librarian's Office and the office of the Chief Clerk from 2 to 6 p. m.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

(Pennsylvania Avenue, between Fifteenth and Seventeenth Streets. Phone, Main 6.)

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT, President, was born September 15, 1857, at Cincinnati, Ohio, a son of Alphonso and Louise M. (Torrey) Taft. He was married at Cincinnati, June 19, 1886, to Helen Herron, daughter of John W. Herron, of Cincinnati; they have three children—two sons and one daughter. He was educated in the public schools of Cincinnati, including Woodward High School, where he graduated in 1874; at Yale University, graduating (1878) with degree B. A., being second, or salutatorian, in his class, and elected class orator. The same year he matriculated at the Cincinnati College of Law, graduating in 1880 with degree B. L., dividing first prize; was admitted to the bar of the supreme court of Ohio in May, 1880, becoming a law reporter of the Cincinnati Times, and subsequently of the Cincinnati Commercial. January, 1881, was appointed assistant prosecuting attorney, resigning in March, 1882, to become collector of internal revenue for the first district of Ohio. Resigned the following year to enter practice of the law and continued in practice until 1887, holding meantime, from January, 1885, the office of assistant county solicitor of Hamilton County. In March, 1887, Gov. Foraker appointed him judge of the superior court of Cincinnati to succeed Judson Harmon, resigned, and the following year he was elected to succeed himself for five years. Resigned, February, 1890, to accept appointment as Solicitor General of the United States at hands of President Harrison, being, in March, 1892, appointed a judge of the United States court for the sixth judicial circuit and ex officio member of circuit court of appeals. In 1896 he became professor and dean of the law department of the University of Cincinnati, resigning both the judgeship and deanship in March, 1900, to accept appointment by President McKinley as president of the United States Philippine Commission. On July 4, 1901, President McKinley appointed him first civil governor of the Philippine Islands. In November, 1901, turned over the office of governor to Vice Governor Wright, on account of illness, and returned to the United States to testify at congressional hearings on the Philippines. In 1902 visited Rome at the direction of President Roosevelt to confer with Pope Leo XIII regarding the purchase of so-called friar lands in the Philippines; reached a general basis for agreement with a committee of cardinals, and returned to the Philippines August, 1902, to resume office of civil governor. January, 1904, returned to United States to become Secretary of War in President Roosevelt's Cabinet, being appointed February 1. November-December, 1904, visited Panama to confer with Panamanian authorities relative to the government of the Canal Zone. In the summer of 1905 visited Philippine Islands on a tour of inspection, accompanied by a party of Senators and Representatives. September-October, 1906, visited Cuba in an endeavor to arrange peace, acting for short time as provisional governor. In 1907 visited Panama, Cuba, and Porto Rico to attend to various pending matters and look into conditions, and in fall of 1907 visited Philippine Islands for purpose of inaugurating the Philippine Assembly. June, 1908, was nominated by Republican national convention at Chicago for the Presidency, and elected, receiving 321 electoral votes to 162 for William J. Bryan. January-February, 1909, visited Canal Zone with a board of engineers. Received degree of LL. D. from Yale University, 1893; University of Pennsylvania, 1902; Harvard University, 1905; Miami University, 1905; University of Iowa, 1907; Wesleyan University, 1909. Has been president of the American Red Cross since 1905, and is a member of American Bar Association, National Geographic Society, Metropolitan, University, Chevy Chase, and Cosmos Clubs of Washington, and University Club of New York City, and others.

CHARLES DEWEY HILLES, Secretary to the President (2119 Connecticut Avenue), was born in Belmont County, Ohio, June 23, 1867, a son of Samuel Hilles and Elisabeth Lee Hilles; was graduated from the Barnesville High School in 1885, and entered an Academy at Oxford, Md.; appointed secretary to the superintendent of the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, Ohio, in 1888; was city editor of the Lancaster Gazette from 1890 until 1892; was appointed financial officer of the Boys' Industrial School by Gov. McKinley in 1892, and served as such until appointed superintendent by Gov. Nash in 1900; resigned in 1902 to become superintendent of the New York Juvenile Asylum; was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in April, 1909; appointed Secretary to the President April 4, 1911; married Dollie Bell Whiley, of Lancaster, Ohio, in 1896.

THE PRESIDENT'S COMMISSION ON ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY.

Chairman.—Frederick A. Cleveland, 3416 Thirty-fourth Street.
Commissioners:
William F. Willoughby, 1633 Newton Street.
Walter W. Warwick, 1539 I Street.
Frank J. Goodnow, The Wyoming.
Harvey S. Chase, The Cosmos Club.
Secretary.—Merritt O. Chance, Kensington, Md.

WHITE HOUSE RULES.

The following rules have been arranged for the conduct of business at the Executive Offices during the spring and summer of 1911:

The Cabinet will meet on Tuesdays and Fridays from 11 a. m. until 1 p. m.

Senators and Representatives having constituents whom they desire merely to present to the President will be received from 10 to 10.30 a. m., excepting on Cabinet days.

Senators and Representatives having business to transact will be received from 10.30 a. m. to 12 m., excepting on Cabinet days. In view of the pressure of the appointments at the Executive Offices during the congressional session it would greatly facilitate matters if the Senators and Members could telephone for an appointment before calling, as many will have first made appointments in this way, and those calling without appointment are therefore necessarily delayed in seeing the President.

Visitors having business with the President will be admitted from 12 m. to 1 p. m. daily, excepting Cabinet days, by appointments previously fixed.

The East Room will be open daily, Sundays excepted, for the inspection of visitors, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

CHARLES D. HILLES,
Secretary to the President.

OFFICE OF THE LAW CLERK.

Editing and indexing the laws, resolutions, public treaties, and proclamations for publication in the Statutes at Large.

SUPERINTENDENT OF BUILDING.

The superintendent of the State, War, and Navy Department Building is the executive officer of the commission created by Congress, consisting of the Secretaries of State, War, and Navy, for the government of this building. He has charge of, care, preservation, repairing, warming, ventilating, lighting, and cleaning of the building, grounds, and approaches, and disburses the special appropriations for this purpose; he has charge of all the employees of the building proper, and appoints them by direction of the Secretaries.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

The Secretary of the Treasury is charged by law with the management of the national finances. He prepares plans for the improvement of the revenue and for the support of the public credit; superintends the collection of the revenue, and directs the forms of keeping and rendering public accounts and of making returns; grants warrants for all moneys drawn from the Treasury in pursuance of appropriations made by law, and for the payment of moneys into the Treasury; and annually submits to Congress estimates of the probable revenues and disbursements of the Government. He also controls the construction and maintenance of public buildings; the coinage and printing of money; the administration of the Life-Saving, Revenue-Cutter, and the Public Health and Marine-Hospital branches of the public service, and furnishes generally such information as may be required by either branch of Congress on all matters pertaining to the foregoing.

ASSISTANT SECRETARIES OF THE TREASURY.

To the Assistant Secretary in charge of customs is assigned the general supervision of the Division of Customs and of all matters pertaining to the customs service.

To the Assistant Secretary in charge of fiscal bureaus is assigned the general supervision of all matters relating to the following bureaus, offices, and divisions: The Bureau of the Mint; the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; the Office of the Treasurer of the United States; the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency; the Office of the Comptroller of the Treasury; the Auditors of the several Departments; the Register of the Treasury; the Secret-Service Division; the Division of Public Moneys; the Division of Loans and Currency; the Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants; the Division of Printing and Stationery and the office of the disbursing clerk.

To the Assistant Secretary in charge of miscellaneous divisions of the Treasury Department is assigned the general supervision of matters relating to the following bureaus, and divisions: Internal Revenue, Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service, Supervising Architect, the selection of sites for public buildings, Revenue, Cutter Service, Life-Saving Service, Appointments, and the Bond Division.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk is the chief executive officer of the Secretary, and, under the direction of the Secretary and assistant secretaries, is charged with the enforcement of departmental regulations, general in their nature; is by law superintendent of the Treasury Building, and in addition superintends the Winder, Cox, and Butler Buildings; has direct charge of horses, wagons, etc., belonging to the department; the direction of engineers, machinists, watchmen, firemen, laborers, and other employees connected with the maintenance and protection of the Treasury Building and annexes; the expenditure of appropriations for contingent expenses; the disbursement of appropriations made for Government exhibits at various expositions; the supervision and general administration of purchases under the general supply committee; the custody of the records, files, and library of the Secretary's office; the custody of all sites for proposed public buildings in Washington; the checking of all mail relating to the personnel of the Treasury Department; the handling of requests for certified copies of official papers and the charge of all business of the Secretary's office unassigned.

SUPERVISING ARCHITECT.

Subject to the direction and approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, the duties performed by the Supervising Architect embrace the following: Securing cessions from States of jurisdiction over sites and the payment for the same; preparation of drawings, estimates, specifications, etc., for, and the superintendence of the work of, constructing, rebuilding, extending or repairing public buildings; securing plans for public buildings under the provisions of the act of February 20, 1893 (Tarsney Act); the care, maintenance, and repair of public buildings, and the supply of furniture, carpets, lighting fixtures, mechanical equipment, safes, and miscellaneous supplies for use of custodians' and engineers' forces in the care of public buildings.

COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY.

The Comptroller of the Treasury, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, prescribes the forms of keeping and rendering all public accounts except those relating to postal revenues and the expenditures therefrom. He is charged with the duty of revising accounts upon appeal from settlements made by the auditors. Upon the application of disbursing officers, the head of any executive department, or other independent establishment not under any of the executive departments, the comptroller is required to render his advance decision upon any question involving a payment to be made by them or under them, which decision, when rendered, governs the auditor and the comptroller in the settlement of the account involving the payment inquired about. He is required to approve, disapprove, or modify all decisions by auditors making an original construction or modifying an existing construction of statutes, and certify his action to the auditor whose duties are affected thereby. Under his direction the several auditors superintend the recovery of all debts finally certified by them, respectively, to be due the United States, except those arising under the Post Office Department. He superintends the preservation by the auditors of all accounts which have been finally adjusted by them, together with the vouchers and certificates relating to the same. He is required, on his own motion, when in the interests of the Government, to revise any account settled by any auditor. In any case where, in his opinion, the interests of the Government require, he may direct any of the auditors forthwith to audit and settle any particular account pending before the said auditor for settlement. It is his duty to countersign all warrants authorized by law to be signed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

AUDITOR FOR THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the Treasury Department receives and settles all accounts of the Department of the Treasury, including all accounts relating to the customs service, the public debt, internal revenue, Treasurer and assistant treasurers, mints and assay offices, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Revenue-Cutter Service, Life-Saving Service, Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service, public buildings, and Secret Service.

AUDITOR FOR THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the War Department receives and settles all accounts of the Department of War, including all accounts relating to the military establishment, armories and arsenals, national cemeteries, fortifications, public buildings and grounds under the Chief of Engineers, rivers and harbors, the Military Academy, and the Isthmian Canal Commission.

AUDITOR FOR THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the Interior Department receives and settles all accounts of the Department of the Interior, including all accounts relating to the protection, survey, and sale of public lands and the reclamation of arid public lands, the Geological Survey, Bureau of Mines, Army and Navy pensions, Indian affairs, Howard University, the Government Hospital for the Insane, the Columbia Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, the Patent Office, the Capitol and grounds, and the Hot Springs Reservation.

AUDITOR FOR THE NAVY DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the Navy Department receives and settles all accounts of the Department of the Navy, including all accounts relating to the naval establishment, Marine Corps, and the Naval Academy.

AUDITOR FOR THE STATE AND OTHER DEPARTMENTS.

The Auditor for the State and other Departments receives and settles all accounts of the Departments of State, Justice, Agriculture, and Commerce and Labor, including all accounts relating to the Diplomatic and Consular Service, the judiciary, the United States courts, judgments of the United States courts and of the Court of Claims relating to accounts settled in his office, together with the accounts of the Executive Office, Civil Service Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, District of Columbia, Court of Claims, Smithsonian Institution, Territorial governments, the Senate, the House of Representatives, the Public Printer, Library of Congress, Botanic Garden, and all boards, commissions, and establishments of the Government not within the jurisdiction of any of the executive departments.

AUDITOR FOR THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the Post Office Department receives and examines all accounts of the Office of the Postmaster General and of all bureaus and offices under his direction; all postal and money-order accounts of postmasters and foreign administrations; all accounts relating to the transportation of mails and to all other business within the jurisdiction of the Post Office Department; and certifies the balances arising thereon to the Postmaster General for accounts of the postal revenue and expenditures therefrom, and to the Secretary of the Treasury for other accounts. He also receives and examines reports and accounts of postmasters operating postal savings banks, and accounts for expenditures from the appropriation for continuing the establishment, maintenance, and extension of the postal savings depositories. He registers, charges, and countersigns the warrants upon the Treasury issued in liquidation of indebtedness; superintends the collecting of debts due the United States for the service of the Post Office Department and all penalties imposed; directs suits and all legal proceedings in civil actions; and takes all legal measures to enforce the payment of money due the United States for the service of the Post Office Department, and for this purpose has direct official relations with the Solicitor of the Treasury, Department of Justice. He receives and accepts, with the written consent of the Postmaster General, offers of compromise under sections 295 and 409, Revised Statutes.

TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Treasurer of the United States is charged with the receipt and disbursement of all public moneys that may be deposited in the Treasury at Washington and in the subtreasuries, and in the national-bank depositories; is redemption agent for national-bank notes; is trustee for bonds held to secure national-bank circulation and public deposits in national banks; is custodian of miscellaneous trust funds; is fiscal agent for paying interest on the public debt and for paying the land-purchase bonds of the Philippine Islands, principal and interest; is treasurer of the board of trustees of the postal savings system; and is ex officio commissioner of the sinking fund of the District of Columbia.

REGISTER OF THE TREASURY.

The Register of the Treasury signs all bonds of the United States, the bonds of the District of Columbia, the Philippine Islands, the city of Manila, the city of Cebu, and the Porto Rican gold loan, and keeps records showing the daily outstanding balances thereof. He examines, counts, and prepares for destruction the upper halves of all redeemed paper money, except national-bank notes, received from banks through the Office of the Treasurer of the United States for redemption, all paid interest coupons, and all other United States securities redeemed.

COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY.

The Comptroller of the Currency, under the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, has supervision of the national banks; the organization and examination of national banks; the preparation, issue, and redemption of their circulation; and the abstracting and consolidation of their reports of condition.

DIRECTOR OF THE MINT.

The Director of the Mint has general supervision of all the mints and assay offices of the United States. He prescribes the rules, to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, for the transaction of business at the mints and assay offices, receives daily reports of their operations, directs the coinage to be executed, reviews the accounts, authorizes all expenditures, superintends the annual settlements of the several institutions, and makes special examinations of them when deemed necessary. All appointments, removals, and transfers in the mints and assay offices are subject to his approval.

Tests of the weight and fineness of coins struck at the mints are made in the assay laboratory under his charge. He publishes quarterly an estimate of the value of the standard coins of foreign countries for customhouse and other public purposes. Two annual reports are prepared by the Director, one giving the operations of the mint service for the fiscal year, printed in the Finance Report of the Secretary of the Treasury, the other giving the statistics of the production of the precious metals for the calendar year.

COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE.

The Commissioner has general superintendence of the collection of all internal-revenue taxes, the enforcement of internal-revenue laws; employment of internal-revenue agents; compensation and duties of gaugers, storekeepers, and other subordinate officers; the preparation and distribution of stamps, instructions, regulations, forms, blanks, hydrometers, stationery, etc.

PUBLIC HEALTH AND MARINE-HOSPITAL SERVICE.

The act approved July 1, 1902, "An act to increase the efficiency and change the name of the United States Marine-Hospital Service," provides for a Bureau of Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service at Washington, comprised of seven divisions. The operations of these divisions are coordinated and are under the immediate supervision of the Surgeon General.

Through the Division of Scientific Research and Sanitation are conducted the scientific investigations of the Service and the operations of the Hygienic Laboratory at Washington, established for the investigation of contagious and infectious diseases and matters relating to the public health. The advisory board of the Hygienic Laboratory consists of eight scientists eminent in laboratory work in its relation to public health, detailed from other departments of the Government and appointed from endowed institutions. The board may be called into conference with the Surgeon General at any time, the meetings not to exceed ten days in any one fiscal year. The Surgeon General is required by law to call a conference of all

State and Territorial boards of health or quarantine authorities each year, the District of Columbia included, and special conferences when called for by not less than five of said authorities, and he is also authorized to call additional conferences when, in his opinion, the interests of public health demand it. He is charged with the enforcement of the act of July 1, 1902, "An act to regulate the sale of viruses, serums, toxins, and analogous products in the District of Columbia, to regulate interstate traffic in said articles, and for other purposes." He has supervision of special investigations upon leprosy, conducted in Hawaii under the act of July 1, 1905.

Through the Division of Foreign and Insular Quarantine and Immigration the Surgeon General enforces the national quarantine laws and prepares the regulations relating thereto. He has control of 44 Federal quarantine stations in the United States and others in the Philippines, Hawaii, and Porto Rico, and supervises the medical officers detailed in the offices of the American consular officers at foreign ports to prevent the introduction of contagious or infectious diseases into the United States. Under section 17 of the act approved February 20, 1907, he has supervision over the medical officers engaged in the physical and mental examinations of all arriving aliens.

Through the Division of Domestic (Interstate) Quarantine is enforced section 3 of the act of February 15, 1893, relating to the prevention of the spread of contagious or infectious diseases from one State or Territory into another. This includes the suppression of epidemics.

Through the Division of Sanitary Reports and Statistics there is collected information of the sanitary condition of foreign ports and places and ports and places within the United States, including the existence of epidemics. This information with morbidity and mortality statistics, domestic and foreign, are published in the weekly Public Health Reports and transmitted to State and municipal health officers and other sanitarians and to collectors of customs.

Through the Division of Marine Hospitals and Relief professional care is taken of sick and disabled seamen at 23 marine hospitals and 123 other relief stations. The beneficiaries include officers and crews of registered, enrolled, or licensed vessels of the United States and of the Revenue-Cutter Service and Lighthouse Service; seamen employed on vessels of the Mississippi River Commission and of the Engineer Corps of the Army; keepers and surfmen of the Life-Saving Service. A purveying depot for the purchase and issuance of supplies is maintained at Washington. Physical examinations of keepers and surfmen of the Life-Saving Service, of officers and seamen of the Revenue-Cutter Service, and the examinations for the detection of color-blindness in masters, mates, and pilots are conducted through this division.

In the Division of Personnel and Accounts are kept the records of the officers and of the expenditures of the appropriations.

Through the Miscellaneous Division the various Service publications are issued, including the annual reports, public health reports and reprints, public health bulletins, bulletins of the Hygienic Laboratory and Yellow Fever Institute, and the transactions of the annual conferences with State health authorities. The medical evidences of disability in claims for benefits against the Life-Saving Service are reviewed.

REVENUE-CUTTER SERVICE.

The Captain Commandant of the Revenue-Cutter Service is Chief of the Division of Revenue-Cutter Service and has charge, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, of the organization and government of the Revenue-Cutter Service.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing designs, engraves, prints, and finishes all of the securities and other similar work of the Government printed from steel plates, embracing United States notes, bonds, and certificates, national-bank notes, internal-revenue, postage, and customs stamps, Treasury drafts and checks, disbursing officers' checks, licenses, commissions, patent and pension certificates, and portraits authorized by law of deceased Members of Congress and other public officers.

GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT OF THE LIFE-SAVING SERVICE.

It is the duty of the general superintendent to supervise the organization and government of the employees of the service; to prepare and revise regulations therefor as may be necessary; to supervise the expenditure of all appropriations made for the support and maintenance of the Life-Saving Service; to examine the accounts of disbursements of the district superintendents, and to certify the same to the accounting officers of the Treasury Department; to examine the property returns of the keepers of the several stations, and see that all public property thereto belonging is properly accounted for; to acquaint himself, as far as practicable, with all means employed in foreign countries which may seem to advantageously affect the interest of the service, and to cause to be properly investigated all plans, devices, and inventions for the improvement of life-saving apparatus for use at the stations which may appear to be meritorious and available; to exercise supervision over the selection of sites for new stations the establishment of which may be authorized by law, or for old ones the removal of which may be made necessary by the encroachment of the sea or by other causes; to prepare and submit to the Secretary of the Treasury estimates for the support of the service; to collect and compile the statistics of marine disasters, as contemplated by the act of June 20, 1874, and to submit to the Secretary of the Treasury, for transmission to Congress, an annual report of the expenditures of the moneys appropriated for the maintenance of the Life-Saving Service and of the operations of said service during the year.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR.

SECRETARY OF WAR.

The Secretary of War is head of the War Department, and performs such duties as are required of him by law or may be enjoined upon him by the President concerning the military service.

He is charged by law with the supervision of all estimates of appropriations for the expenses of the department, including the military establishment; of all purchases of Army supplies; of all expenditures for the support, transportation, and maintenance of the Army, and of such expenditures of a civil nature as may be placed by Congress under his direction.

He also has supervision of the United States Military Academy at West Point and of military education in the Army, of the Board of Ordnance and Fortification, of the various battle-field commissions, and of the publication of the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion.

He has charge of all matters relating to national defense and seacoast fortifications, Army ordnance, river and harbor improvements, the prevention of obstruction to navigation, and the establishment of harbor lines; and all plans and locations of bridges authorized by Congress to be constructed over the navigable waters of the United States require his approval. He also has charge of the establishment or abandonment of military posts, and of all matters relating to leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR.

To the Assistant Secretary of War is assigned the general direction and supervision of all matters relating to rivers and harbors; bridges over navigable waters of the United States; leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department; inspections relating to the military establishment; recruiting service, discharges, commutation of rations, courts-martial, and other questions relating to enlisted men, including clemency cases and matters relating to prisoners at military prisons and penitentiaries.

He also has charge of all matters relating to the militia; the supervision of miscellaneous claims and accounts; matters relating to national cemeteries, boards of survey, open-market purchases, and medals of honor.

The Assistant Secretary of War is also vested with authority to decide all cases which do not involve questions of policy, the establishment or reversal of precedents, or matters of special or extraordinary importance.

ASSISTANT AND CHIEF CLERK.

The Assistant and Chief Clerk of the War Department is the head of the Office of the Secretary of War, and as such has charge of the records and files, and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of that office, and is charged with the administrative action required by law to be taken in connection with the settlement of disbursing officers' accounts that do not relate to the different staff corps of the Army. He has general supervision of matters relating to civilian employees in and under the War Department; printing and binding and advertising for the War Department and the Army; appropriations for contingent expenses, stationery, rent of buildings; and the department's telegraph and telephone service; and performs such other duties as may be required by the Secretary of War.

GENERAL STAFF.

The General Staff Corps was organized under the provisions of act of Congress approved February 14, 1903. Its principal duties are to prepare plans for the national defense and for the mobilization of the military forces in time of war; to investigate and report upon all questions affecting the efficiency of the Army and its state of preparation for military operations; to render professional aid and assistance to the Secretary of War and to general officers and other superior commanders and to act as their agents in informing and coordinating the action of all the different officers who are subject to the supervision of the Chief of Staff, and to perform such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be from time to time prescribed by the President.

The Chief of Staff, under direction of the President, or of the Secretary of War, under the direction of the President, has supervision of all troops of the line, of The Adjutant General's Department in matters pertaining to the command, discipline, or administration of the existing military establishment, and of the Inspector General's, Judge Advocate General's, Quartermaster's, Subsistence, Medical, Pay, and Ordnance Departments, the Corps of Engineers and the Signal Corps, and performs such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be assigned to him by the President. For purposes of administration the office of the Chief of Staff constitutes a supervising military bureau of the War Department. Duties formerly prescribed by statute for the Commanding General of the Army as a member of the Board of Ordnance and Fortification and of the Board of Commissioners of the Soldiers' Home are performed by the Chief of Staff or some other officer designated by the President.

DIVISION OF MILITIA AFFAIRS.

The Division of Militia Affairs is vested with the transaction of business pertaining to the organized and unorganized militia of the United States, its jurisdiction embracing all administrative duties involving the armament, equipment, discipline, training, education, and organization of the militia; the conduct of camps of instruction and participation in the field exercises and maneuvers of the Regular Army; the mobilization and relations of the militia to the Regular Army in time of peace; and all matters pertaining to the militia not herein generically enumerated which do not, under existing laws, regulations, orders, or practice, come within the jurisdiction of any other division or bureau of the War Department. It is the central office of record for all matters pertaining to the militia not in the military service of the United States.

MILITARY BUREAUS.

The chiefs of the military bureaus of the War Department are officers of the Regular Army of the United States and a part of the military establishment, viz:

The Adjutant General is charged with the duty of recording, authenticating, and communicating to troops and individuals in the military service all orders, instructions, and regulations issued by the Secretary of War through the Chief of Staff; of preparing and distributing commissions; of compiling and issuing the Army Register and the Army List and Directory; of consolidating the general returns of the Army; of arranging and preserving the reports of officers detailed to visit encampments of militia; of preparing the annual returns of the militia required by law to be submitted to Congress; of managing the recruiting service; and of recording and issuing orders from the War Department remitting or mitigating sentences of general prisoners who have been discharged from the military service. The Adjutant General is vested by law with the charge, under the Secretary of War, "of the military and hospital records of the volunteer armies and the pension and other business of the War Department connected therewith;" and of the publication and distribution of the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion. He also has charge of the historical records and business of the permanent military establishment, including all pension, pay, bounty, and other business pertaining to or based upon the military or medical histories of former officers or enlisted men. The archives of The Adjutant General's Office include all military records of the Revolutionary War; the records of all organizations, officers, and enlisted men that have been in the military service of the United States since the Revolutionary War; the records of the movements and operations of troops; the medical and hospital records of the Army; all reports of physical examination of recruits and all identification cards; the records of the Provost Marshal General's Bureau; the records of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen, and Abandoned Lands; the Confederate records, including those pertaining to the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of the Confederate Government.

The Inspector General, with his assistants, inspects all military commands and stations, the schools of application, the military department of all colleges and schools at which officers of the Army are detailed, all depots, rendezvous, armories, arsenals, fortifications, and public works of every kind under charge of or carried on by officers of the Army, and also the money accounts of all disbursing officers of the Army.

The Quartermaster General, aided by assistants, provides transportation for the Army; also clothing and equipage, horses, mules, and wagons, vessels, forage, stationery, and other miscellaneous quartermaster stores and property for the Army, and of clothing and equipage for the militia; constructs necessary buildings, wharves, roads, and bridges at military posts, and repairs the same; furnishes water, heating, and lighting apparatus: pays guides, spies, and interpreters; and is in charge of national cemeteries.

The Commissary General of Subsistence has administrative control of the Subsistence Department; the disbursement of its appropriations; the providing of rations and their issue to the Army; the purchase and distribution of articles authorized to be kept for sale to officers and enlisted men; the administrative examination of accounts of subsistence funds preliminary to their settlement by the proper accounting officers of the Treasury; and the examination and settlement of returns of subsistence supplies.

The Surgeon General has administrative control of the Medical Department; the disbursement of its appropriations; the designation of the stations of medical officers, and the issuing of all orders and instructions relating to their professional duties; the recruitment, instruction, and control of the Hospital Corps and of the Army Nurse Corps. He directs as to the selection, purchase, and distribution of the medical supplies of the Army. The Army Medical Museum, the library of the Surgeon General's Office, and the general hospitals are under his direct control.

The Paymaster General is charged with the payment of the officers and enlisted men of the Army and civil employees of the department; with furnishing funds to his officers and seeing that they duly account for the same, and with a preliminary examination of their accounts; also with the payment of allotments made by enlisted men of the Army for the benefit of their families.

The Chief of Engineers commands the Corps of Engineers, which is charged with all duties relating to construction and repair of fortifications, whether permanent or temporary; with all works of defense; with all military roads and bridges, and with such surveys as may be required for these objects, or the movement of armies in the field. It is also charged with the river and harbor improvements, with military and geographical explorations and surveys, with the survey of the lakes, and with any other engineer work specially assigned to the corps by acts of Congress or orders of the Secretary of War.

The Chief of Ordnance commands the Ordnance Department, the duties of which consist in providing, preserving, distributing, and accounting for every description of artillery, small arms, and all the munitions of war which may be required for the fortresses of the country, the armies in the field, and for the whole body of the militia of the Union. In these duties are comprised that of determining the general principles of construction and of prescribing in detail the models and forms of all military weapons employed in war. They comprise also the duty of prescribing the regulations for the proof and inspection of all these weapons, for maintaining uniformity and economy in their fabrication, for insuring their good quality, and for their preservation and distribution.

The Judge Advocate General is directed by law to "receive, review, and cause to be recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, and military commissions." He also furnishes the Secretary of War information and advice relating to lands under control of the War Department, and reports and opinions upon legal questions arising under the laws, regulations, and customs pertaining to the Army, and upon questions arising under the civil law; reports upon applications for clemency in the cases of military prisoners; examines and prepares legal papers relating to the erection of bridges over navigable waters; drafts bonds, and examines those given to the United States by disbursing officers, colleges, and others; examines, revises, and drafts charges and specifications against officers and soldiers; and also drafts and examines deeds, contracts, licenses, leases, and legal papers generally.

The Chief Signal Officer is charged with the supervision of all military signal duties, and of books, papers, and devices connected therewith, including telegraph and telephone apparatus and the necessary meteorological instruments for use on target ranges and other military uses; the construction, repair, and operation of military telegraph lines and cables, and the duty of collecting and transmitting information for the Army by telegraph or otherwise, and all other duties usually pertaining to military signaling.

To the Bureau of Insular Affairs, under the immediate direction of the Secretary of War, is assigned all matters pertaining to civil government in the island possessions of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the War Department, the Philippine Islands and Porto Rico being the only ones so subject at the present time. The bureau is also the repository of the civil records of the government of occupation of Cuba (Jan. 1, 1899, to May 20, 1902) and had assigned to it matters pertaining to the provisional government of Cuba (Sept. 29, 1906, to Jan. 28, 1909). It prepares for publication executive documents relating to the Philippines and Porto Rico; makes a comptroller's review of the receipts and expenditures of the Philippine Government, attends to the purchase in the United States of supplies for that Government and arranges their shipment to Manila. It has charge of appointments of persons in the United States to the Philippine civil service and their transportation. It gathers statistics of insular imports and exports, shipping and immigration, and issues quarterly summaries of the same.

BOARD OF ENGINEERS FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS.

The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors is a permanent body created by the river and harbor act of June 13, 1902. To it are referred for consideration and recommendation all reports upon examinations and surveys provided for by Congress, and all projects or changes in projects for works of river and harbor improvement upon which report is desired by the Chief of Engineers, United States Army. It is further the duty of the board, upon request by the Committee on Commerce of the Senate, or by the Committee on Rivers and Harbors of the House of Representatives in the same manner to examine and report through the Chief of Engineers upon any examinations, surveys, or projects for the improvement of rivers and harbors. In its investigations the board gives consideration to all engineering, commercial, navigation, and economic questions involved in determining the advisability of undertaking such improvements at the expense of the United States.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Attorney General is the head of the Department of Justice and the chief law officer of the Government. He represents the United States in matters involving legal questions; he gives his advice and opinion, when they are required by the President or by the heads of the other executive departments, on questions of law arising in the administration of their respective departments; he appears in the Supreme Court of the United States in cases of especial gravity and importance; he exercises a general superintendence and direction over United States attorneys and marshals in all judicial districts in the States and Territories; and he provides special counsel for the United States whenever required by any department of the Government.

SOLICITOR GENERAL.

The Solicitor General assists the Attorney General in the performance of his general duties, and by special provision of law, in case of a vacancy in the Office of Attorney General, or of his absence or disability, exercises all those duties. Under the direction of the Attorney General, he has general charge of the business of the Government in the Supreme Court of the United States, and is assisted in the conduct and argument of cases therein by the Assistant Attorneys General. He also, with the approval of the Attorney General, prepares opinions rendered to the President and the heads of the executive departments, and confers with and directs the law officers of the Government throughout the country in the performance of their duties. When the Attorney General so directs, any case in which the United States is interested, in any court of the United States, may be conducted and argued by the Solicitor General; and he may be sent by the Attorney General to attend to the interests of the United States in any State court, or elsewhere.

THE ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Assistant to the Attorney General has special charge of all suits and other matters arising under the Federal antitrust and interstate commerce laws, and performs such other duties as may be required of him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEYS GENERAL.

The several Assistant Attorneys General assist the Attorney General in the performance of his duties. They assist in the argument of cases in the Supreme Court and in the preparation of legal opinions.

Three Assistant Attorneys General are located in the main department building at 1435 K street, and, in addition to their general duties, particular subjects are assigned to them by the Attorney General for the transaction of business arising thereunder with United States attorneys, other departments, and private parties in interest.

The office of the Assistant Attorney General, including a number of assistant attorneys and clerks charged with defending suits in the Court of Claims, is located at 8 Jackson Square.

The Assistant Attorney General charged with the defense of Indian depredation claims is located in the Bond Building, at the corner of Fourteenth Street and New York Avenue.

The Assistant Attorney General in charge of the interests of the Government in all matters of reappraisement and classification of imported goods in litigation before the several boards of United States General Appraisers and the Court of Customs Appeals is located at 641 Washington Street, New York.

The Assistant Attorneys General and the solicitors for the several executive departments, under the provisions of sections 349–350, Revised Statutes, exercise their functions under the supervision and control of the Attorney General. They are the Assistant Attorney General for the Department of the Interior, the Solicitor for the Department of State, the Solicitor of the Treasury, the Solicitor of Internal Revenue, and the Solicitor of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL FOR THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT.

This Assistant Attorney General is the chief law officer of that department. When requested he advises the Secretary and Assistant Secretaries upon questions of law arising in the administration of the department. All appeals from the General Land Office are sent to his office for consideration. Oral arguments are heard by him in the more important cases, or by brief; and decisions are prepared under his supervision for the signature of the Secretary or First Assistant Secretary, as the case may be. The Assistant Attorney General is aided in this and his other work by a number of assistant attorneys.

SOLICITOR FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

The solicitor is the chief law officer of that department. He advises the Secretary and Assistant Secretaries upon questions of municipal and international law referred to him, passes upon claims of citizens of the United States against foreign Governments, claims of subjects or citizens of foreign Governments against the United States, and upon applications for the extradition of criminals. The assistant solicitor acts as solicitor in the absence of the latter, and in the division of the work of the office has general charge of extradition and citizenship matters.

SOLICITOR OF THE TREASURY.

The Solicitor of the Treasury is charged with the supervision of much of the litigation of the Government, and it is his duty to give necessary instructions to United States attorneys, marshals, and clerks of courts in matters and proceedings appertaining to the suits under his superintendence, and to require reports from such officers; to take cognizance of all frauds or attempted frauds upon the revenue (customs) and to exercise a general supervision over the measures for their prevention and detection and for the prosecution of persons charged with the commission thereof; to have charge of lands acquired by the United States in payment of debts (except internal revenue); to make recommendations on offers of compromise (except in post-office cases and in internal-revenue cases before judgment); to effect the release of property owned or held by the United States where it has been attached; to approve the bonds of United States assistant treasurers, collectors of internal revenue, and department disbursing clerks, and to examine all contracts of, and official bonds filed in, the Treasury Department; to issue distress warrants against delinquent collectors and other officers receiving public money, and disbursing officers and their sureties; to examine titles to life-saving station sites; and as the law officer of the Treasury Department to give legal advice to the Secretary and other officers of that department on matters arising therein.

SOLICITOR OF INTERNAL REVENUE.

A Solicitor of Internal Revenue was added to the Internal-Revenue Office corps by the act of July 13, 1866 (14 Stat., 170), but by the act of June 22, 1870 (16 Stat., 162), organizing the Department of Justice, the solicitor was formally transferred to that department. He is the law officer and legal adviser of the commissioner. The only duties of his of which mention is made by law are in connection with internal-revenue compromise cases, section 3229, Revised Statutes.

SOLICITOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND LABOR.

The solicitor is the chief law officer of that department. His duties are to act as legal adviser for the Secretary of Commerce and Labor and the chiefs of the various bureaus of said department; to prepare and examine all contracts and bonds entered into or required by the said department; and to render such legal services in connection with matters arising in the administrative work of the Department of Commerce and Labor as may be required of him by the Attorney General.

THE PUBLIC LANDS DIVISION.

This division was created by the Attorney General, November 16, 1909. To it are assigned all suits and proceedings concerning the enforcement of the public-land law, including suits or proceedings to set aside conveyances of allotted lands.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk, under the direction of the Attorney General, has general supervision of the clerks and employees; the consideration of applications for leave of absence; the direction of the force of laborers, charwomen, and watchmen; superintends all buildings occupied by the department in Washington; has charge of the horses, wagons, and carriages employed; has supervision of the Division of Mails and Files; the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department and the United States courts; the expenditure of the appropriations for contingent expenses and rents; supervision of the library; the consideration of requisitions upon the Public Printer for printing and binding, and supervision of the preparation of the annual report and the estimates of the department.

DISBURSING CLERK.

The disbursing clerk disburses funds from more than 40 appropriations under the direction of the Attorney General, including the salaries of the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, the judges of the other United States courts throughout the country, including the Territories; of the United States attorneys, marshals, and other court officials, and of the officials of the department proper; the contingent expenses of the department and other miscellaneous appropriations.

SUPERINTENDENT OF PRISONS.

The superintendent of prisons has charge, under the direction of the Attorney General, of all matters relating to United States prisons and prisoners, including the support of such prisoners in both State and Federal penitentiaries, in reform schools, and in county jails. He has supervision over the construction work in progress at United States penal institutions.

The superintendent of prisons is ex officio the president of the boards of parole for the United States penitentiaries and the president of the board of parole for United States prisoners in each State or county institution used for the confinement of United States prisoners.

APPOINTMENT CLERK.

The appointment clerk has charge of all matters relating to applications, recommendations, and appointments, including certifications by the Civil Service Commission; conducts correspondence pertaining thereto; prepares nominations sent to the Senate; prepares commissions and appointments for the officers and employees of the department in Washington, and for United States judges, attorneys, and marshals and other officers under the department. He also compiles the Register of the Department of Justice and matter relating to that department for the Official Register of the United States.

ATTORNEY IN CHARGE OF PARDONS.

The attorney in charge of pardons takes charge of all applications for Executive clemency, except those in Army and Navy cases, these being referred to the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, respectively; of the briefing of the cases and the correspondence in relation to them.

ATTORNEY IN CHARGE OF TITLES.

The attorney in charge of titles prepares opinions upon the title to lands belonging to or sought to be acquired by the Government for public purposes and opinions upon all legal matters growing out of the same. He has charge of all proceedings to acquire land under eminent domain, and conducts all the correspondence relating to the above matters.

DIVISION OF ACCOUNTS.

The Division of Accounts examines accounts payable from judiciary appropriations, including accounts of United States marshals, attorneys, clerks, and commissioners; conducts the correspondence relating thereto; authorizes certain court expenses; supervises the advancing of funds to United States marshals; prepares certain data for the annual report, and compiles the estimates of appropriations.

CHIEF OF THE DIVISION OF INVESTIGATION.

The chief of the Division of Investigation has general supervision of the examination of the offices and records of the Federal court officials throughout the United States, and directs the work of all the examiners, special agents, and accountants of the department, whose compensation or expenses are paid from the appropriation "Detection and prosecution of crimes," and who are employed for the purpose of collecting evidence or of making investigations or examinations of any kind for this department or the officers thereof.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The Postmaster General is the executive head of the Federal postal service. He appoints all officers and employees of the Post Office Department except the four Assistant Postmasters General and the Purchasing Agent, who are Presidential appointees. With the exception of postmasters of the first, second, and third classes, who are likewise Presidential appointees, he appoints all postmasters and all other officers and employees of the service at large. Subject to the approval of the President, he makes postal treaties with foreign governments. He awards and executes contracts and directs the management of the foreign mail service. He is chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Postal Savings System.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk of the Post Office Department is charged with the general superintendence of the clerical force of the department; the supervision of the preparation of estimates for the departmental and postal service; the keeping of the journals and order books; the supervision of the advertising; the supervision of expenditure of the appropriations for the departmental service; the preparation of contracts for the publication of the Official Guide, compilation of matter therefor, and supervision of its publication and distribution; the miscellaneous business correspondence of the Postmaster General's Office; the care of the department and other buildings rented in connection therewith, and of all the furniture and public property therein; also the direction of the force of laborers and charwomen, and general superintendence of the watchmen through the captain of the watch; and the performance of such other duties as may be required by the Postmaster General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL FOR THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

The Assistant Attorney General for the Post Office Department is the chief law officer of that department. He is charged with the duty of giving opinions to the Postmaster General and the heads of the several offices of the department upon questions of law arising upon the construction of the Postal Laws and Regulations, or otherwise, in the course of business in the postal service; with the consideration and submission (with advice) to the Postmaster General of all claims of postmasters for losses by fire, burglary, or other unavoidable casualty, and of all certifications by the Auditor for the Post Office Department of cases of proposed compromise of liabilities to the United States, and of the remission of fines, penalties, and forfeitures under the statutes; the keeping and preparation of all correspondence with the Department of Justice relating to prosecutions and suits affecting or arising out of the postal service; and with the consideration of applications for pardon for crimes committed against the postal laws, which may be referred to the department; with the preparation and submission (with advice) to the Postmaster General of all appeals to him from the heads of the offices of the department depending upon questions of law; with the determining of questions as to the delivery of mail the ownership of which is in dispute; with the hearing and consideration of cases relating to lotteries and the misuse of the mails in furtherance of schemes to defraud the public; with the consideration of all questions relating to the mailability of alleged indecent, obscene, scurrilous, or defamatory matter; with the examining and, when necessary, drafting of all contracts of the department; and with such other like duties as may from time to time be required by the Postmaster General.

PURCHASING AGENT.

The purchasing agent supervises the purchase of all supplies both for the Post Office Department proper and for all branches of the postal service. He reviews all requisitions and authorizations for supplies, and if proper honors the same. He passes upon the sufficiency and propriety of all specifications for proposals; prepares and issues the advertisements and forms for proposals necessary to the making of contracts; reviews the reports of the committees on awards and recommends to the Postmaster General such action as in his judgment should be taken thereon.

CHIEF INSPECTOR.

The chief inspector supervises the work of post-office inspectors and of the division of post-office inspectors. To him is charged the consideration and adjustment of accounts of inspectors for salary and expenses, the preparation and issue of all cases for investigation, all matters relating to depredations upon the mails and losses therein, the custody of money and property collected or received by inspectors, and the restoration thereof to the proper parties or owners. To his office are referred all complaints of losses or irregularities in the mails and all reported violations of the postal laws.

FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The First Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions, to which are assigned the duties specified:

Postmasters' Appointments.—The preparation of cases for the appointment of postmasters, and for the establishment, discontinuance, and change of name of post offices, and change of site of fourth-class offices; the recording of appointments of postmasters, the supervision of their bonding, the obtaining, recording, and filing of their oaths, and the issuing of their commissions; the consideration of charges and complaints against postmasters; the granting of leaves of absence to postmasters; the regulation of hours of business at post offices, and the handling of certain miscellaneous correspondence relating to postmasters and post offices.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY.

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The Secretary of the Navy performs such duties as the President of the United States, who is Commander in Chief, may assign him, and has the general superintendence of construction, manning, armament, equipment, and employment of vessels of war.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy performs such duties in the Navy Department as shall be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy or may be required by law.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk has general charge of the records and correspondence of the Secretary's Office and performs such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Secretary of the Navy.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The duties of the Bureau of Navigation comprise the issue, record, and enforcement of the orders of the Secretary to the individual officers of the Navy; the training and education of line officers and of enlisted men (except of the hospital corps) at schools and stations and in vessels maintained for that purpose; the supervision and control of the Naval Academy, technical schools for line officers, the apprentice seaman establishment, schools for the technical education of enlisted seamen, and the Naval Home at Philadelphia, Pa.; the maintenance and repair of the Naval War College; the enlistment, assignment to duty, and discharge of all enlisted persons, and the preparation of estimates for the pay of all officers and enlisted men.

It has under its direction all rendezvous and receiving ships, and provides transportation for all enlisted persons under its cognizance.

It establishes the complements of all ships in commission.

It keeps the records of service of all officers and men, and prepares an annual Navy register for publication, embodying therein data as to fleets, squadrons, and ships furnished by the aid for operations.

It is charged with all matters pertaining to applications for appointments and commissions in the Navy and with the preparation of such appointments and commissions for signature.

It is charged with the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all regulations governing uniform, and with the distribution of all orders and regulations of a general or circular character.

Questions of naval discipline, rewards, and punishments are submitted by this bureau for the action of the Secretary of the Navy. The records of all general courts-martial and courts of inquiry involving the personnel of the Navy, before final action, are referred to this bureau for comment as to disciplinary features.

It receives and brings to the attention of the Secretary of the Navy all applications from officers for duty or leave.

It receives all reports of services performed by individual officers or men.

BUREAU OF YARDS AND DOCKS.

The duties of the Bureau of Yards and Docks comprise all that relates to the design, construction, and maintenance of all docks (including dry docks), slips, wharves, piers, quay walls, and buildings of all kinds for whatever purpose needed within the limits of navy yards and naval stations, except the naval proving ground, the naval torpedo station, the naval training stations, the Naval War College, and the Naval Academy, but not of magazines outside of navy yards nor of buildings for which it does not estimate. It prepares the plans and makes the estimates for the above structures, after consulting with the chief of the bureau for whose use they are designed, as to their internal arrangement. It repairs and requires for furniture for all buildings in navy yards. It provides light and water for all buildings, or for whatever other purposes they may be needed in navy yards; and requires for all the fuel except that which is used by other bureaus. It has charge of the construction, repair, maintenance, and operation of power plants at navy yards and naval stations. It has charge of the installation and maintenance of telephones within the limits of navy yards and naval stations. It has charge of all landings, derricks, shears, cranes, sewers, dredging, railway tracks, cars, wheels, trucks, all vehicles for use in the navy yards, grading, paving, walks, shade trees, inclosure walls and fences, ditching, reservoirs, cisterns, fire engines and apparatus, and requires for all material and articles necessary therefor. It provides watchmen, labor for cleaning navy yards and naval stations, except the naval proving ground, the powder factory, magazines, the naval torpedo station, the naval training stations, the Naval War College, and the Naval Academy, and for the protection of public property therein. It requires for the furniture, stationery, blank books and forms, and provides the clerical force, messengers, and laborers necessary for the offices of the commandant, captain, and civil engineer of navy yards, and defrays the cost of the same. It provides the horses and teams required for all purposes at navy yards, the subsistence and care of the same, and the necessary teamsters.

BUREAU OF ORDNANCE.

The duties of the Bureau of Ordnance comprise all that relates to the torpedo station, naval proving ground, and magazines on shore, to the manufacture of offensive and defensive arms and apparatus (including torpedoes), all ammunition and war explosives. It requires for or manufactures all machinery, apparatus, equipment, material, and supplies required by or for use with the above.

It determines the interior dimensions of revolving turrets and their requirements as regards rotation.

As the work proceeds it inspects the installation of the permanent fixtures of the armament and its accessories on board ship, and the methods of stowing, handling, and transporting ammunition and torpedoes, all of which work must be performed to its satisfaction. It designs, constructs, and determines the requirements of all ammunition hoists, and the method of construction of armories and ammunition rooms on shipboard, and, in conjunction with the Bureau of Construction and Repair, determines upon their location and that of ammunition hoists. It installs all parts of the armament and its accessories which are not permanently attached to any portion of the structure of the hull, excepting turret guns, turret mounts, and ammunition hoists, and such other mounts as require simultaneous structural work in connection with installation or removal. It confers with the Bureau of Construction and Repair respecting the arrangements for centering the turrets and the character of the roller paths and their supports.

It has cognizance of all electrically operated ammunition hoists, rammers, and gun-elevating gear which are in turrets; of electric training and elevating gear for gun mounts not in turrets; of electrically operated air compressors for charging torpedoes; and of all range finders and battle order and range transmitters and indicators.

It designs the various shops and buildings in which its work is executed at the navy yard, Washington, D. C., so far as their internal arrangements are concerned.

It designs, erects, and maintains all shops and buildings constructed for its own purposes outside the limits of navy yards and for which it may have estimated; and is charged with the preservation of the public property under its control.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR.

The duties of the Bureau of Construction and Repair comprise the responsibility for the structural strength and stability of all ships built for the Navy; all that relates to designing, building, fitting, and repairing the hulls of ships, turrets, and electric turret-turning machinery, spars, capstans, windlasses, deck winches, boat cranes, steering gear, and hull ventilating apparatus (except portable fans); and, after consultation with the Bureau of Ordnance and according to the requirements thereof as determined by that bureau, the designing, construction, and installation of independent ammunition hoists, the same to conform to the requirements of the Bureau of Ordnance as to power, speed, and control, and the installation of the permanent fixtures of all other ammunition hoists and their appurtenances; placing and securing armor, placing and securing on board ship to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Ordnance the permanent fixtures of the armament and its accessories as manufactured and supplied by that bureau; installing the turret guns, turret mounts, and turret ammunition hoists, and such other mounts as require simultaneous structural work in connection with installation or removal.

It has charge of the docking of ships and is charged with the operating and cleaning of dry docks.

It is responsible for the care and preservation of ships in ordinary.

It has cognizance of electric launches and other boats supplied with electric motive power.

It designs the slips and the various buildings and shops, so far as their internal arrangements are concerned, where its work is executed.

It has charge of the manufacture of anchors and cables; the supplying and fitting of rope, cordage, rigging, sails, awnings, and other canvas, and flags and bunting; it supplies, to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, galley ranges, steam cookers, and other permanent galley fittings, and installs and repairs the same.

It supplies and installs, in consultation with the Bureau of Steam Engineering, all voice tubes and means of mechanical signal communications.

BUREAU OF STEAM ENGINEERING.

The duties of the Bureau of Steam Engineering comprise all that relates to designing, building, fitting out, and repairing machinery, used for the propulsion of naval ships; the steam pumps, steam heaters, distilling apparatus, refrigerating apparatus, all steam connections of ships, and the steam machinery necessary for actuating the apparatus by which turrets are turned.

It has cognizance of the entire system of interior communications. It is specifically charged with the design, supply, installation, maintenance, and repair of all means of interior and exterior electric signal communications (except range finders and battle-order and range transmitters and indicators), and of all electrical appliances of whatsoever nature on board naval vessels, except motors and their controlling apparatus used to operate the machinery belonging to other bureaus.

It has charge of the design, manufacture, installation, maintenance, repair, and operation of wireless telegraph outfits on board ship and of wireless telegraph outfits and stations on shore.

It maintains and repairs coaling plants not at navy yards, and operates all mechanical coaling plants, whether at a navy yard or elsewhere. Such operation includes the providing of all labor and supplies connected with the handling of coal; it passes upon the operating features of all plans for the construction of such plants prepared by the Bureau of Yards and Docks; it inspects all coal for the fleet.

It has supervision and control of the Engineering Experiment Station.

It designs the various shops at navy yards and stations where its own work is executed, so far as their internal arrangements are concerned.

BUREAU OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery has control of all hospitals and of the force employed there, and it has the general direction of the internal organization and administration of hospital ships; it has advisory power with respect to all questions connected with hygiene and sanitation affecting the service and, to this end, opportunity for unobstructed inspection; it provides for all physical examinations; it passes upon the competency, from a professional standpoint, of all men in the Hospital Corps for enlistment and promotion by means of examinations conducted under its supervision, or under forms prescribed by it; it has information as to the assignment and duties of all enlisted men of the Hospital Corps, with opportunity to invite the attention of the department to any changes which may seem to be desirable; and has the power to appoint and remove all nurses in the Nurse Corps (female), subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Navy.

The duties of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery comprise all that relates to medical supply depots, medical laboratories, naval hospitals, hospital ships, dispensaries, and technical schools for the Medical and Hospital Corps, and the Nurse Corps (female). It requires for all supplies, medicines, and instruments used in the Medical Department of the Navy.

It approves the design of the various buildings erected within navy yards for its own purposes, so far as their internal arrangements are concerned and, after their completion, has control of the same.

It designs, erects, furnishes, and maintains all the buildings constructed for its own purposes outside the limits of navy yards, for which it may have estimated; and it approves, under the special instructions of the Secretary, the purchase, sale, and transfer of all land and buildings in connection therewith, and is charged with the preservation of the public property under its control.

It determines upon and requires for all the stores, stationery, blank books, forms, materials, instruments, means and appliances of every kind used in the Medical Department for its own purposes, and has control of their inspection, storage, and preparation.

BUREAU OF SUPPLIES AND ACCOUNTS.

The duties of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts comprise all that relates to the supply of funds for disbursing officers and the keeping of the money accounts of the Naval Establishment; the purchase, reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, shipment, and issue of all supplies, including coal and water, for the Naval Establishment, and the keeping of a proper system of accounts for the same, except supplies for the Marine Corps, and except the reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, and issue of medical supplies; the requiring for, preparing or manufacture of provisions, clothing, and small stores; and the keeping of the cost of manufacture at the various navy yards and stations.

OFFICE OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL.

The duties of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy are as follows: To revise and report upon the legal features of and have recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, boards of investigation, inquest, and boards for the examination of officers for retirement and promotion in the naval service; to prepare charges and specifications for courts-martial, and the necessary orders convening courts-martial, in cases where such courts are ordered by the Secretary of the Navy; to prepare general orders promulgating the final action of the reviewing authority in court-martial cases; to prepare the necessary orders convening courts of inquiry and boards for the examination of officers for promotion and retirement, and for the examination of candidates for appointment as commissioned officers in the Navy other than midshipmen, and to conduct all official correspondence relating to such courts and boards. It is also the duty of the judge advocate general to examine and report upon all questions relating to the construction of the regulations, to rank and precedence, to promotions, and retirements, and those relating to the validity of the proceedings in court-martial cases; all matters relating to the supervision and control of naval prisons and prisoners; the removal of the mark of desertion; the correction of records of service and reporting thereupon in the Regular or Volunteer Navy; certification of discharge in true name; pardons; bills and resolutions introduced in Congress relating to the personnel and referred to the Department for report, and the drafting and interpretation of statutes relating to the personnel; references to the Comptroller of the Treasury with regard to pay and allowances of the personnel; questions involving points of law concerning the personnel; and to conduct the correspondence respecting the foregoing duties, including the preparation for submission to the Attorney General of all questions relating to subjects coming under his own cognizance which the Secretary of the Navy may direct to be so referred.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR.

The duties of the solicitor comprise and relate to examination and report upon questions of law, including the drafting and interpretation of statutes, and matters submitted to the accounting officers not relating to the personnel; preparation of advertisements, proposals, and contracts for naval vessels; contracts for public works; insurance; patents; the sufficiency of official, contract, and other bonds and guaranties; the sale of condemned naval vessels; proceedings in the civil courts by or against the Government or its officers; claims by or against the Government; questions submitted to the Attorney General, except such as relate to questions of personnel; bills and congressional resolutions and inquiries not relating to the personnel and not elsewhere assigned; the searching of titles, purchase, sale, transfer, and other questions affecting lands and buildings pertaining to the Navy; the care and preservation of all muniments of title to land acquired for naval uses; and the correspondence respecting the foregoing duties; and rendering opinion upon any matter or question of law referred to him by the Secretary of the Navy.

COMMANDANT OF THE MARINE CORPS.

The Commandant of the Marine Corps is responsible to the Secretary of the Navy for the general efficiency and discipline of the corps; makes such distribution of officers and men for duty at the several shore stations as shall appear to him to be most advantageous for the interests of the service; furnishes detachments for vessels of the Navy, according to the authorized scale of allowance; under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, issues orders for the movement of officers and troops, and such other orders and instructions for their guidance as may be necessary; and has charge and exercises general supervision and control of the recruiting service of the corps, and of the necessary expenses thereof, including the establishment of recruiting stations.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

The Secretary of the Interior is charged with the supervision of public business relating to patents for inventions, pensions and bounty lands, the public lands and surveys, the Indians, education, the Geological Survey, Reclamation Service, the Bureau of Mines, national parks, distribution of appropriations for agricultural and mechanical colleges in the States and Territories, and the supervision of certain hospitals and eleemosynary institutions in the District of Columbia. He also exercises certain powers and duties in relation to the Territories of the United States.

FIRST ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

This officer performs such duties in connection with the matters over which the Secretary of the Interior has jurisdiction as that officer may prescribe or as may be required by law. His duties as a rule are in connection with matters concerning or coming from the General Land Office, the Indian Office, the Reclamation Service, the Geological Survey, the Bureau of Education, and the Bureau of Mines.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

This officer performs such duties in connection with the matters over which the Secretary of the Interior has jurisdiction as that officer may prescribe or may be required by law. His duties as a rule are in connection with matters concerning or coming from the Patent Office, the Pension Office, the national parks and reservations, the eleemosynary institutions of the District of Columbia, including the Government Hospital for the Insane, and various miscellaneous matters over which the department has jurisdiction.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk is the chief executive officer of the department and the administrative head of the Office of the Secretary. He has supervision over the clerks and employees of the department, enforces the general regulations of the department, is superintendent of the buildings occupied by the department, and supervises all business relating to eleemosynary institutions in the District of Columbia and national parks and reservations. During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretaries he may be designated by the Secretary to sign official papers and documents.

COMMISSIONER OF PATENTS.

The Commissioner of Patents is charged with the administration of the patent laws, and supervision of all matters relating to the granting of letters patent for inventions, and the registration of trade-marks. He is by statute made the tribunal of last resort in the Patent Office, and has appellate jurisdiction in the trial of interference cases, of the patentability of inventions, and of registration of trade-marks.[1]

COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS.

The Commissioner of Pensions supervises the examination and adjudication of all claims arising under laws passed by Congress granting pensions on account of service in the Army or Navy; claims for reimbursement for the expenses of the last sickness and burial of deceased pensioners; and also claims for bounty-land warrants based upon military or naval service rendered prior to March 3, 1855.

---

[1] Appeals lie from his decisions to the United States Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office is charged with the survey, management, and disposition of the public lands, the adjudication of conflicting claims relating thereto, the granting of railroad and other rights of way, easements, the issuance of patents for lands, and with furnishing certified copies of land patents and of records, plats, and papers on file in his office. In national forests he executes all laws relating to surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, reconveying, or patenting of public lands, and to the granting of rights of way amounting to easements.

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has charge of the Indian tribes of the United States (exclusive of Alaska)—their lands, moneys, schools, purchase of supplies, and general welfare.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION.

The Commissioner of Education collects statistics and general information showing the condition and progress of education, issues an annual report in two volumes, a bulletin in several numbers annually, and miscellaneous publications; has charge of the schools for the education of native children in Alaska; supervises the reindeer industry in Alaska, and administers the endowment fund for the support of colleges for the benefit of agriculture and mechanic arts.

DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Director of the Geological Survey is charged under direction of the Secretary of the Interior with classification of the public lands and the examination of the geologic structure, mineral resources, and mineral products of the national domain. In conformity with this authorization, the Geological Survey has been engaged in making a geologic map of the United States, involving both topographic and geologic surveys, in collecting annually the statistics of mineral production, and in conducting investigations relating to surface and underground waters.

DIRECTOR OF THE RECLAMATION SERVICE.

The Director of the Reclamation Service, under the personal supervision and direction of the Secretary, is charged with the survey, construction, and operation of the irrigation works in arid States, authorized by the act of June 17, 1902.

DIRECTOR OF THE BUREAU OF MINES.

The Director of the Bureau of Mines is charged with the investigations of the methods of mining, especially in relation to the safety of miners and the appliances best adapted to prevent accidents, the possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on, the treatment of ores and other mineral substances, the use of explosives and electricity, the prevention of accidents, and other inquiries and technological investigations pertinent to such industries. He also has charge of tests and analyses of coals, lignites, ores, and other mineral fuel substances belonging to or for the use of the United States, and has supervision over the mine inspectors for the Territories.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

The Secretary exercises personal supervision of public business relating to the agricultural industry. He appoints all the officers and employees of the department with the exception of the Assistant Secretary and the Chief of the Weather Bureau, who are appointed by the President, and directs the management of all the bureaus, divisions, offices, and the Forest Service, embraced in the department. He exercises advisory supervision over agricultural experiment stations, which receive aid from the National Treasury; has control of the quarantine stations for imported cattle, of interstate quarantine rendered necessary by sheep and cattle diseases, and of the inspection of cattle-carrying vessels; and directs the enforcement of the meat inspection and food and drugs laws under which the inspection of domestic and imported food products is carried on. He is charged with the duty of issuing rules and regulations for the protection, maintenance, and care of the National Forest Reserves. He also is charged with carrying into effect the laws prohibiting the transportation by interstate commerce of game killed in violation of local laws and excluding from importation certain noxious animals, and has authority to control the importation of other animals.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

The Assistant Secretary of Agriculture performs such duties as may be required by law or prescribed by the Secretary. He also becomes the Acting Secretary of Agriculture in the absence of the Secretary.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk has the general supervision of the clerks and employees; of the order of business, and of all expenditures from appropriations for contingent expenses, stationery, etc.; is responsible for the enforcement of the general regulations of the department; and is custodian of the buildings occupied by the Department of Agriculture.

SOLICITOR.

The solicitor acts as the legal adviser of the Secretary, and has charge of the preparation and supervision of all legal papers to which the department is a party, and of all communications to the Department of Justice and to the various officers thereof, including United States attorneys. He examines and approves, in advance of issue, all orders and regulations promulgated by the Secretary under statutory authority. He represents the department in all legal proceedings arising under the laws intrusted to the department for execution, and prosecutes applications for patents by employees of the department. His duties are performed under the immediate supervision of the Secretary.

APPOINTMENT CLERK.

The appointment clerk is charged by the Secretary with the decision of all questions affecting appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, details, furloughs, and removals in their relation to the civil-service law and regulations, and with the preparation of all papers necessitated thereby. He has charge of all correspondence of the department with the United States Civil Service Commission, and of all certificates and communications issued by that commission to the department, and deals with all questions affecting positions in the classified and in the unclassified service. He supervises the preparation of all documents to be submitted to the Secretary of Agriculture for his signature in making appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, furloughs, terminations, and removals in the force of the Department of Agriculture. He is the recorder and custodian of the oaths of office and personal reports of all persons appointed in the department, and of all reports of the several chiefs of bureaus, divisions, and offices respecting the efficiency of the several clerks and employees under their respective supervision in the department. He has the custody and use of the department seal.

SUPPLY DIVISION.

It is the duty of the Chief of the Supply Division to make all purchases of stationery and miscellaneous supplies and to issue the same, on requisitions, to the various bureaus and divisions of the department; to receive and send out all express and freight shipments; and to receive and dispose of, by sale or otherwise, all property turned in by the various bureaus and offices when it is of no further use to them.

WEATHER BUREAU.

The Chief of the Weather Bureau, under the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture, has charge of the forecasting of weather; the issue and display of weather forecasts and storm, cold-wave, frost, and flood warnings for the benefit of agriculture, commerce, and navigation; the gauging and reporting of rivers; the maintenance and operation of Weather Bureau telegraph and telephone lines, and the collection and transmission of marine intelligence for the benefit of commerce and navigation; the reporting of temperature and rainfall conditions for the corn, wheat, cotton, sugar, rice, and other interests; the conducting of investigations in climatology and evaporation; the distribution of meteorological information in the interests of agriculture and commerce, and the taking of such meteorological observations as may be necessary to establish and record the climatic conditions of the United States or as are essential for the proper execution of the foregoing duties.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY.

The Bureau of Animal Industry conducts the inspection of animals, meats, and meat-food products under the act of Congress of June 30, 1906, and has charge of the inspection of import and export animals, the inspection of vessels for the transportation of export animals, and the quarantine stations for imported live stock; generally supervises the interstate movement of animals, and reports on the condition and means of improving the animal industries of the country. It makes investigations as to the existence of dangerous communicable diseases of live stock, carries out the measures for their control and eradication, and makes original scientific investigations as to the nature and prevention of such diseases. It makes investigations concerning the breeding and feeding of animals and in regard to dairy subjects, and supervises the manufacture of and interstate commerce in renovated butter.

BUREAU OF PLANT INDUSTRY.

The Bureau of Plant Industry studies plant life in all its relations to agriculture. It investigates the diseases of fruit and forest trees, truck crops, and other plants, and carries on field tests and demonstrations of their control and prevention. It studies the bacteriological problems connected with plant production and also the factors of plant nutrition. It is engaged in the improvement of crops by breeding and selection and the acclimatization and adaptation of new crops and varieties. It is encouraging the production of drug-producing crops, tea, and other special crops, and is studying the general physiological problems influencing the growth of plants. It is conducting a campaign for the eradication of poisonous plants, especially in the vast stock-grazing areas of the West. It is investigating various technological problems in connection with crop production, particularly with reference to fiber and paper-producing plants and to the standardization and handling of cotton and grain. It is engaged in the study of various phases of economic botany and in the devising of methods for the improvement of forest grazing areas. It is carrying on a propaganda in the interest of good seed for the farmer and the improvement in the quality of farm seeds. It is conducting extensive work in the breeding and testing of our principal field crops, such as the small grains, corn, cotton, tobacco, forage crops, and sugar-producing plants, with special reference to the improvement of these crops. It is engaged in the operation of testing stations in the semiarid regions for the cooperative investigation of the problems encountered in crop production under the conditions existing in those areas. The adaptation and breeding of crops is a special feature of this work, which also includes physical determinations of the factors influencing plant growth in those regions. The bureau is conducting farm-management investigations throughout the country to devise improved methods of farm management and farm practice. In the South it is carrying on farmers' cooperative demonstration work, with special reference to the boll-weevil situation and its amelioration. It is conducting horticultural studies of garden crops and maintains an experimental farm for this and other lines of the work of the bureau. It is engaged in investigations of the marketing, transportation, and storage of fruits and in the general upbuilding of the fruit industry. It maintains greenhouses and trial grounds for the work of plant propagation and improvement. It is engaged in the introduction of seeds and plants from foreign countries and in the operation of plant introduction and testing gardens to aid in the development of new plant industries. It is also engaged in the congressional distribution of seeds and plants.

FOREST SERVICE.

The Forest Service is charged with the administration of the National Forests. It also gives practical advice in the conservative handling of National, State, and private forest lands, and in methods of utilizing forest products; investigates methods of forest planting, and gives practical advice to tree planters; studies commercially valuable trees to determine their best management and use; tests the strength and durability of construction timbers, railroad ties, and telephone poles, and methods of increasing their durability through seasoning and preservative treatment; in cooperation with the Bureau of the Census gathers statistics on forest products; investigates the control and prevention of forest fires, and other forest problems; and advises, when requested, concerning State legislation to encourage the holding and protecting of growing timber.

BUREAU OF CHEMISTRY.

The Bureau of Chemistry makes such investigations and analyses as pertain in general to the interests of agriculture, dealing with fertilizers and agricultural products. It investigates the composition and adulteration of foods and the composition of field products in relation to their nutritive value and to the constituents which they derive from the soil, fertilizers, and the air. Under the food and drugs act of June 30, 1906, it inspects the conditions of manufacture, transportation, and sale of food and drug products, collects samples, and examines the same for the purpose of determining whether such articles are adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the act. Under this law it also inspects imported food products and excludes from entry those injurious to health or which are falsely branded or labeled. It inspects food products exported to foreign countries where physical and chemical tests are required for such products. It cooperates with chemists engaged in State food work, especially with those appointed to make analyses in collaboration with this bureau in the enforcement of the food and drugs act. It also cooperates with the chemists of the agricultural experiment stations in all matters pertaining to the relations of chemistry to agricultural interests, and with the other scientific divisions of the department in all matters relating to chemistry, and conducts investigations of a chemical nature for other departments of the Government at the request of their respective secretaries.

BUREAU OF STATISTICS.

The Bureau of Statistics collects information as to crop areas, conditions, yields, values and allied data, and the numbers, values, and status of farm animals, through corps of county and township correspondents, State agents, special field agents, and other agencies, and obtains similar information from foreign countries through consular, agricultural, and commercial authorities. It records, tabulates, and coordinates statistics of agricultural production, distribution, and consumption, the authorized data of governments, institutes, societies, boards of trade, and individual experts; and issues monthly crop reports for the information of the public. It investigates subjects pertaining to agricultural production and consumption, demand and supply, values, transportation, the conditions affecting them, and disseminates through printed reports and otherwise the information collected.

BUREAU OF SOILS.

The Bureau of Soils investigates soils in all their relations to climate and to organic life. It makes field investigations and prepares soil-survey maps showing the extent, distribution, and characteristic properties of all the important soil types found in various portions of the United States, and in its published reports suggests possible lines of improvement in the treatment, management, and use of these soils. It investigates and represents upon maps the distribution and concentration of alkali salts in soils of various portions of the arid regions. Through its laboratories it investigates the fundamental causes of the fertility or infertility of soils and the causes for low yields of crops. It also investigates the causes of soil erosion and the effects of soil erosion upon the agricultural efficiency of soils and investigates the methods for protecting agricultural soils from destructive erosion.

BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY.

The Bureau of Entomology obtains and disseminates information regarding injurious insects affecting field crops, fruits, small fruits, and truck crops, forests and forest products, and stored products; studies insects in relation to diseases of man and other animals and as animal parasites; experiments with the introduction of beneficial insects and with the fungous and other diseases of insects, and conducts experiments and tests with insecticides and insecticide machinery. It is further charged with investigations in apiculture. The information gained is disseminated in the form of reports, bulletins, and circulars. A good deal of museum work is done in connection with the Division of Insects of the National Museum, and insects are identified for experiment stations and other public institutions and private individuals.

BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Bureau of Biological Survey investigates the economic relations of birds and mammals, recommends measures for the preservation of beneficial and the destruction of injurious species, and has been charged with carrying into effect the provisions of the Federal laws for the importation and protection of birds and certain provisions of the game law of Alaska. It is intrusted with the care and maintenance of the National Bird Reservations and the National Bison Range, in charge of the Department of Agriculture. It also studies the geographic distribution of animals and plants and maps the natural life zones of the country.

DIVISION OF ACCOUNTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

The Division of Accounts and Disbursements audits, adjusts, and pays all accounts and claims against the department; decides questions involving the expenditure of public funds; prepares advertisements for all work and supplies not contracted for by the General Supply Committee of the Executive Departments; prepares letters of authority; writes, for the signature of the Secretary, all letters to the Treasury Department pertaining to fiscal matters; examines and signs requisitions for the purchase of supplies; issues bills of lading and requests for passenger and for freight transportation; prepares the annual estimates of appropriations; prepares annual fiscal reports to Congress; and transacts all other business relating to the financial interests of the department.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS.

The Division of Publications is the publishing house of the Department of Agriculture. Its force comprises editors, proof readers, compilers, indexers, abstracters, artists, draftsmen, engravers, and photographers, together with clerks and laborers engaged in the distribution of publications. The division is charged with (1) preparation and editing of manuscripts and indexing the publications of the department, including the Yearbook, annual reports, bulletins, etc.; (2) the preparation, printing, and distribution of farmers' bulletins; (3) supervision and equitable assignment of the printing fund ($470,000); (4) the general direction of expenditures under the statutory and divisional appropriations; (5) the supervision of the printing and binding done for the department; (6) the preparation of drawings for illustrations, of wood engravings, and photographic work; (7) the distribution of department publications and all correspondence relating thereto; (8) the preparation and distribution of official information and of advance notices of publications to agricultural writers and papers. The Division of Publications is the authorized medium of all official communications between the Department of Agriculture and the Government Printing Office.

LIBRARY.

The librarian has charge of the department library, purchases all books and periodicals and supervises their arrangement and cataloguing; prepares for publication bibliographies of special subjects and a monthly bulletin containing current accessions to the library; also has charge of the foreign mailing lists of the department publications.

OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

The Office of Experiment Stations represents the department in its relations with the agricultural colleges and experiment stations, which are now in operation in all the States and Territories, and directly manages the experiment stations in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Guam. It seeks to promote the interests of agricultural education and investigation throughout the United States. It collects and disseminates general information regarding the colleges and stations, and publishes accounts of agricultural investigations at home and abroad. It reports upon the expenditures and work of the stations, and in general furnishes them with such advice and assistance as will best promote the purposes for which they were established. It investigates and reports upon the progress of the farmers' institutes and agricultural schools in the several States and Territories, and aids in making such organizations more effective for the dissemination of the results of the work of the department and the stations. It is also charged with investigations on the nutritive value and economy of human foods and on irrigation and drainage, which are largely conducted in cooperation with the colleges and stations.

OFFICE OF PUBLIC ROADS.

The Office of Public Roads collects information in regard to systems of road management, investigates the best methods of road making and the best kinds of road-making materials throughout the United States, and furnishes expert advice on road construction, maintenance, and administration; investigates the chemical and physical character of road materials; cooperates with schools and colleges in highway engineering instruction; reports the results of its investigations and experiments, and prepares and publishes bulletins and reports.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND LABOR.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE AND LABOR.

The Secretary of Commerce and Labor is charged with the work of promoting the commerce of the United States, and its mining, manufacturing, shipping, fishery, transportation, and labor interests. His duties also comprise the investigation of the organization and management of corporations (excepting railroads) engaged in interstate commerce; the gathering and publication of information regarding labor interests and labor controversies in this and other countries; the administration of the Lighthouse Service, and the aid and protection to shipping thereby; the taking of the census, and the collection and publication of statistical information connected therewith; the making of coast and geodetic surveys; the collecting of statistics relating to foreign and domestic commerce; the inspection of steamboats, and the enforcement of laws relating thereto for the protection of life and property; the supervision of the fisheries as administered by the Federal Government; the supervision and control of the Alaskan fur-seal, salmon, and other fisheries; the jurisdiction over merchant vessels, their registry, licensing, measurement, entry, clearance, transfers, movement of their cargoes and passengers, and laws relating thereto, and to seamen of the United States; the regulation of the enforcement and execution of the act of Congress relating to the equipment of ocean steamers with apparatus and operators for wireless communication; the supervision of the immigration of aliens, and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto, and to the exclusion of Chinese; the custody, construction, maintenance, and application of standards of weights and measurements; the gathering and supplying of information regarding industries and markets for the fostering of manufacturing; the administration of the act of Congress providing for the payment of compensation to artisans or laborers of the United States injured in the course of their employment; and the formulation (in conjunction with the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Treasury) of regulations for the enforcement of the food and drugs act of 1906 and the insecticide act of 1910. He has power to call upon other departments for statistical data obtained by them.

For the proper accomplishment of any or all of the aforesaid work, it is by law provided that all duties performed, and all the powers and authority possessed or exercised, at the date of the creation of said department, by the head of any executive department in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service transferred to said department, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

It is his further duty to make such special investigations and furnish such information to the President or Congress as may be required by them on the foregoing subject matters and to make annual reports to Congress upon the work of said department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE AND LABOR.

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the secretary or may be required by law. In the absence of the secretary he acts as head of the department.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks and employees of the department; the enforcement of the general regulations of the department; the superintendency of all buildings occupied by the department in the District of Columbia; the general supervision of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and rents; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned.

DISBURSING CLERK.

The disbursing clerk is charged by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Commerce and Labor to disbursing clerks, special disbursing agents, and officers of the Lighthouse Establishment charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of 325 items of appropriations; the administrative examination required by the department of all accounts submitted by bureau disbursing officers and agents. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation issued to officers of the department for official travel; the audit and payment of all vouchers and accounts submitted from the various offices, bureaus, and services of the department, excepting the Census Bureau and the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the general accounting of the department.

APPOINTMENT DIVISION.

The chief of the Appointment Division is charged by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor with the supervision of matters relating to appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, removals, and all other changes in the personnel, including applications for positions and recommendations concerning the same, and the correspondence connected therewith; the preparation and submission to the Secretary of all questions affecting the personnel of the department in its relations to the civil-service law and rules; the preparation of nominations sent to the Senate and of commissions and appointments of all officers and employees of the department; the preparation of official bonds; the compilation of statistics in regard to the personnel, including material for the Official Register, and the custody of oaths of office, records pertaining to official bonds, service records of officers and employees, correspondence and reports relating to the personnel, reports of bureau officers respecting the efficiency of employees, and records relating to leaves of absence.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS.

The chief of the Division of Publications is charged by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office, excepting that of the Bureau of the Census; the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, and the distribution of publications. All blank books and blank forms, and the printed stationery of all kinds used by the bureaus and offices of the department in Washington and the various outside services of the department are in his custody and are supplied by him. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. He also keeps a record of all expenditures for the publishing work of the department and conducts the correspondence it entails.

DIVISION OF SUPPLIES.

Under the direction of the chief clerk the chief of the division of supplies has personal supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department proper and for the services of the department outside of Washington, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriation for contingent expenses of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the semiannual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the semiannual property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF CORPORATIONS.

The Bureau of Corporations is authorized, under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, to investigate the organization, conduct, and management of the business of any corporation, joint stock company, or corporate combination engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, except common carriers subject to the interstate-commerce act; to gather such information and data as will enable the President to make recommendation to Congress for legislation for the regulation of interstate and foreign commerce; to report the data so collected to the President from time to time as he may require, and to make public such part of said information as the President may direct.

It is also the duty of the Bureau of Corporations, under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, to gather, compile, publish, and supply useful information concerning corporations engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, including corporations engaged in insurance.

BUREAU OF MANUFACTURES.

It is the province and duty of the Bureau of Manufactures, under the direction of the Secretary, to foster, promote, and develop the various manufacturing industries of the United States, and markets for the same at home and abroad, by gathering and publishing all available and useful information concerning such industries and markets; and, through the Secretary of State, to gather and compile from the reports of consular officers, and the reports transmitted by the commercial agents of the Department of Commerce and Labor such valuable and material information as will accomplish the objects indicated above.

The bureau edits and publishes the Daily Consular and Trade Reports and reports of the commercial agents of the Department of Commerce and Labor containing current information in regard to trade conditions in foreign countries, opportunities for the extension of export and domestic trade, and information of the service of the Federal Government for the promotion of commerce. It also issues many special bulletins on various subjects of current commercial significance, a foreign trade directory, and an annual report entitled "Commercial Relations of the United States." The bureau is also charged with the duty of collating and publishing in the English language the tariffs of foreign countries and furnishing information to Congress and the Exceutive relative to customs laws and regulations of foreign countries.

BUREAU OF LABOR.

The Bureau of Labor is charged with the duty of acquiring and diffusing among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and especially upon its relations to capital, the hours of labor, the earnings of laboring men and women, and the means of promoting their material, social, intellectual, and moral prosperity.

It is especially charged to investigate the causes of and facts relating to controversies and disputes between employers and employees as they may occur, and which may happen to interfere with the welfare of the people of the several States.

It is also authorized, by act of March 2, 1895, to publish a bulletin on the condition of labor in this and other countries, condensations of State and foreign labor reports, facts as to conditions of employment, and such other facts as may be deemed of value to the industrial interests of the United States. This bulletin is issued every other month.

By the act to provide a government for the Territory of Hawaii, as amended, it is made the duty of the bureau to collect and present in quinquennial reports statistical details relating to all departments of labor in the Territory of Hawaii, especially those statistics which relate to the commercial, industrial, social, educational, and sanitary condition of the laboring classes.

The Secretary of Commerce and Labor has delegated to the bureau, subject to his supervision, the administration of the act of May 30, 1908, granting to certain employees of the United States the right to receive from it compensation for injuries sustained in the course of their employment. Claims for compensation under the act are filed in the bureau, which is charged with their examination, the preparation of correspondence relative thereto, the investigation of doubtful claims, the issuing of blank forms, and other details connected with the administration of the law.

BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES.

The United States Lighthouse Service is charged with the establishment and maintenance of aids to navigation, and with all equipment and work incident thereto, on the sea and lake coasts of the United States, and on the rivers of the United States so far as specifically authorized by law, and on the coasts of all other territory under the jurisdiction of the United States, with the exception of the Philippine Islands and Panama.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS.

The Bureau of the Census is charged with the duty of taking the decennial censuses of the United States, of making certain other statistical investigations at regular intervals of years, and of collecting such special statistics as may be authorized by law from time to time. The Thirteenth Decennial Census (1910) proper covered the fields of population, agriculture, manufactures, and mines and quarries. In addition, in accordance with law, statistics were gathered relative to the number of each kind of live stock slaughtered for food purposes and of hides produced during the year, and regarding irrigation works throughout the United States. The act establishing the permanent census bureau requires that, after the completion of the regular decennial census, the Director of the Census shall decennially collect statistics relative to the defective, dependent, and delinquent classes; crime, including judicial statistics pertaining thereto; social statistics of cities; public indebtedness, expenditures, and taxation; religious bodies; transportation by water, and express business; savings banks and other savings institutions, mortgage, loan, and similar institutions; and the fishing industry, in cooperation with the Bureau of Fisheries. Every five years statistics must be collected relating to street railways, electric light and power stations, and telephone and telegraph business. Annual statistics must be gathered relating to births and deaths in States and cities maintaining efficient registration systems; the financial and other statistics of cities having a population of 30,000 and over; the production and distribution of cotton, and forest products.

COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey is charged with the survey of the coasts of the United States and coasts under the jurisdiction thereof and the publication of charts covering said coasts. This includes base measure, triangulation, topography, and hydrography along said coasts; the survey of rivers to the head of tidewater or ship navigation; deep-sea soundings, temperature, and current observations along said coasts and throughout the Gulf and Japan streams; magnetic observations and researches, and the publication of maps showing the variations of terrestrial magnetism; gravity research; determination of heights; the determination of geographic positions by astronomic observations for latitude, longitude, and azimuth, and by triangulation, to furnish reference points for State surveys.

The results obtained are published in annual reports, and in special publications; charts upon various scales, including sailing charts, general charts of the coast, and harbor charts; tide tables issued annually, in advance; Coast Pilots, with sailing directions covering the navigable waters; Notices to Mariners, issued monthly and containing current information necessary for safe navigation; catalogues of charts and publications, and such other special publications as may be required to carry out the organic law governing the survey.

BUREAU OF STATISTICS.

The Bureau of Statistics collects and publishes the statistics of our foreign commerce, embracing tables showing the imports and exports, respectively, by articles, countries, and customs districts; the transit trade inward and outward by countries and by customs districts; imported commodities warehoused, withdrawn from, and remaining in warehouse; the imports of merchandise entered for consumption, showing quantity, value, rates of duty, and amounts of duty collected on each article or class of articles; the inward and outward movement of tonnage in our foreign trade and the countries whence entered and for which cleared, distinguishing the nationalities of the foreign vessels; information in regard to the leading commercial movements in our internal commerce, among which are the commerce of the Great Lakes; the commercial movements between interior centers, at Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific seaports; shipments of coal and coke; ocean freight rates, etc.

The Statistical Abstract of the United States, which is a condensation of statistical information collected by the various branches of the Government, is compiled and published by the bureau, as is also the Statistical Abstract of Foreign Countries, which shows imports into and exports from each country of the world, stated in United States currency, weights, and measures.

The bureau also compiles and publishes a monthly sailing-dates bulletin showing sailing dates of vessels from the principal ports of the United States to the principal ports of the world.

STEAMBOAT-INSPECTION SERVICE.

The Steamboat-Inspection Service is charged with the duty of inspecting steam vessels, the licensing of the officers of vessels, and the administration of the laws relating to such vessels and their officers for the protection of life and property.

The Supervising Inspector General and the supervising inspectors constitute a board that meets annually at Washington and establishes regulations for carrying out the provisions of the steamboat-inspection laws.

BUREAU OF FISHERIES.

The work of the Bureau of Fisheries comprises (1) the propagation of useful food fishes, including lobsters, oysters, and other shellfish, and their distribution to suitable waters; (2) the inquiry into the causes of decrease of food fishes in the lakes, rivers, and coast waters of the United States, the study of the waters of the coast and interior in the interest of fish-culture, and the investigation of the fishing grounds of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts, with the view of determining their food resources and the development of the commercial fisheries; (3) the collection and compilation of the statistics of the fisheries and the study of their methods and relations. The bureau also has charge of the salmon fisheries of Alaska and of the fur-seal herds and other animals on the Pribilof Islands.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The Bureau of Navigation is charged with general superintendence of the commercial marine and merchant seamen of the United States, except so far as supervision is lodged with other officers of the Government. It is specially charged with the decision of all questions relating to the issue of registers, enrollments, and licenses of vessels and the filing of those documents, with the supervision of laws relating to the admeasurement, letters, and numbers of vessels, and with the final decision of questions concerning the collection and refund of tonnage taxes. It is empowered to change the names of vessels; prepares annually a list of vessels of the United States. The commissioner also investigates the operation of the laws relative to navigation, and annually reports to the Secretary of Commerce and Labor such particulars as may in his judgment admit of improvement or require amendment.

In addition to the above statutory duties the bureau is charged, under direction of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, with the enforcement, through collectors and surveyors of customs, of the navigation and steamboat-inspection laws and the consideration of action to be taken on fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred thereunder; administrative examination of accounts of collectors and surveyors of customs, covering fines, penalties, and forfeitures; services to vessels; navigation fees; amounts collected on account of deceased passengers; tonnage tax collections, refunds, etc.

BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION.

The Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization is charged with the administration of the laws relating to immigration and of the Chinese exclusion laws; also the naturalization laws. It supervises all expenditures under the appropriations for "Expenses of regulating immigration," "Enforcement of the Chinese exclusion act," and "Enforcement of the naturalization laws." It causes alleged violations of the immigration, Chinese exclusion, and alien contract-labor laws to be investigated, and when prosecution is deemed advisable submits evidence for that purpose to the proper United States district attorney. It also has charge of distributing information to arriving aliens regarding desirable places of settlement, etc.

The division of information under this bureau gathers from all available sources information concerning the resources, products, and physical characteristics of the States and Territories. This information is made available to admitted aliens and others seeking homes or places of settlement.

DIVISION OF NATURALIZATION.

By the act of June 29, 1906, Congress placed the control of all matters relating to the naturalization of aliens with the Secretary of Commerce and Labor. Under the provisions of this act jurisdiction was conferred upon approximately 3,500 United States and State courts. The duties of the Division of Naturalization are to supervise the work of the clerks of these courts in naturalization matters, to conduct all correspondence relating to naturalization, and, through its field officers located in various cities of the United States, to investigate the qualifications of the candidates for citizenship. In the archives of the division are filed duplicates of all certificates of naturalization granted since September 26, 1906, as well as the preliminary papers of all candidates for citizenship filed since that date, averaging an annual receipt of approximately 400,000 naturalization papers.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS.

The functions of the Bureau of Standards are as follows: The custody of the standards; the comparison of the standards used in scientific investigations, engineering, manufacturing, commerce, and educational institutions with the standards adopted or recognized by the Government; the construction, when necessary, of standards, their multiples and subdivisions; the testing and calibration of standard measuring apparatus; the solution of problems which arise in connection with standards; the determination of physical constants and properties of materials, when such data are of great importance to scientific or manufacturing interests and are not to be obtained of sufficient accuracy elsewhere. The bureau is authorized to exercise its functions for the Government of the United States, for any State or municipal government within the United States, or for any scientific society, educational institution, firm, corporation, or individual within the United States engaged in manufacturing or other pursuits requiring the use of standards or standard measuring instruments. For all comparisons, calibrations, tests, or investigations, except those performed for the Government of the United States or State governments, a reasonable fee will be charged.

THE PAN AMERICAN UNION.

(Formerly International Bureau of American Republics.)

The Pan American Union (the new name given to the International Bureau of American Republics by the Fourth International American Conference, which met at Buenos Aires in July and August, 1910) was established under the recommendation of the First Pan American Conference, held in the city of Washington in 1889–90 for the purpose of developing and maintaining closer relations of commerce and friendship between the twenty-one Republics of the Western Hemisphere. It was reorganized by the Third and Fourth Pan American Conferences, held in Rio de Janeiro in 1906, and in Buenos Aires in 1910, respectively, and its scope widened by imposing many new and important duties. The Pan American Union regularly communicates with these Governments, and furnishes such information as it possesses or can obtain on a great variety of subjects to all of the Republics and to their officials and citizens. It is the custodian of the archives of the Pan American Conferences, and is especially charged with the performance of duties imposed upon it by these conferences. The Pan American Union is sustained by contributions from the American Republics in proportion to their population, and is governed by a board composed of their diplomatic representatives at Washington, and the Secretary of State of the United States, who is ex officio its chairman. It is therefore strictly an international institution and not a subordinate bureau of any one government. Its chief executive officer is the Director General, elected by this governing board. It publishes a monthly bulletin containing the latest information respecting the resources, commerce, and general progress of the American Republics, as well as maps and geographical sketches of these countries, handbooks of trade, travel, and description, and special reports on commerce, tariffs, improvements, concessions, new laws, etc. It also conducts a large correspondence not only with manufacturers and merchants in all countries looking to the extension of Pan-American trade, but with writers, travelers, scientists, students, and specialists, for the purpose of promoting general Pan-American intercourse. Another and practical feature of the Pan American Union is the Columbus Memorial Library and reading room, which contains 22,000 volumes relating to the American Republics, together with their newspapers and magazines, and is open to visitors for consultation.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Under "An act to regulate commerce," approved February 4, 1887, as amended March 2, 1889, February 10, 1891, February 8, 1895, the "Elkins Act" of February 19, 1903, and the amending act approved June 29, 1906, the Interstate Commerce Commission is composed of seven members, each receiving a salary of $10,000 per annum. The regulating statutes apply to all common carriers engaged in the transportation of oil or other commodity, except water and except natural or artificial gas, by means of pipe lines, or partly by pipe line and partly by rail, or partly by pipe line and partly by water, and to common carriers engaged in the transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad (or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment). The statutes apply generally to interstate traffic, including import and domestic traffic, and also that which is carried wholly within any Territory of the United States. Only traffic transported wholly within a single State is excepted.

The commission has jurisdiction on complaint and after full hearing to determine and prescribe reasonable rates, regulations, and practices, and order reparation to injured shippers; to require any carriers to cease and desist from unjust discrimination or undue or unreasonable preference, and to institute and carry on proceedings for enforcement of the law. The commission may also inquire into the management of the business of all common carriers subject to the provisions of the regulating statutes, and it may prescribe the accounts, records, and memoranda which shall be kept by the carriers, and from time to time inspect the same. The carriers must file annual reports with the commission, and such other reports as may from time to time be required. Carriers failing to file and publish all rates and charges, as required by law, are prohibited from engaging in interstate transportation, and penalties are provided in the statute for failure on the part of carriers or of shippers to observe the rates specified in the published tariffs.

The commission appoints a secretary and clerks, whose duties are not specifically defined by the act; and also appoints attorneys, examiners, and special agents.

By amendment of June 18, 1910 ("Mann-Elkins law"), a Court of Commerce was created with jurisdiction to restrain or enforce orders of the commission. This court is composed of five judges selected from the circuit court judges of the United States, and the amendment contains specific provision as to jurisdiction and procedure. Telegraph, telephone, and cable companies are made subject to the commission. The jurisdiction of the commission is increased as to through routes and joint rates, freight classification, switch connections, long and short hauls, filing or rejection of rate schedules, investigations on own motion, making reasonable rates, suspension of proposed rates, and other matters. An important section authorizes the President to appoint a special commission to investigate issuance of railroad stocks and bonds.

The act of February 11, 1903, provides that suits in equity brought under the act to regulate commerce, wherein the United States is complainant, may be expedited and given precedence over other suits, and that appeals from the circuit court lie only to the Supreme Court. The act of February 19, 1903, commonly called the Elkins law, prohibits rebating, allows proceedings in the courts by injunction to restrain departures from published rates, and provides that cases prosecuted under the direction of the Attorney General in the name of the commission shall be included within the expediting act of February 11, 1903.

Under the act of August 7, 1888, all Government-aided railroad and telegraph companies are required to file certain reports and contracts with the commission, and it is the commission's duty to decide questions relating to the interchange of business between such Government-aided telegraph company and any connecting telegraph company. The act provides penalties for failure to comply with the act or the orders of the commission.

The act of March 2, 1893, known as the "Safety Appliance Act," provides that railroad cars used in interstate commerce must be equipped with automatic couplers, and drawbars of a standard height for freight cars, and have grab irons or handholds in the ends and sides of each car; and that locomotive engines used in moving interstate traffic shall be fitted with a power driving-wheel brake and appliances for operating the train-brake system. The act directs the commission to lodge with the proper district attorneys information of such violations as may come to its knowledge. The act of March 2, 1903, amended this act so as to make its provisions apply to Territories and the District of Columbia, to all cases when couplers of whatever design are brought together, and to all locomotives, cars, and other equipment of any railroad engaged in interstate traffic, except logging cars and cars used upon street railways; and provides for a minimum number of air-braked cars in trains.

By act of April 14, 1910, the safety-appliance acts were supplemented so as to require railroads to equip their cars with sill steps, hand brakes, ladders, running boards, and grab irons, and the commission was authorized to designate the number, dimensions, location, and manner of application of appliances.

The act of June 1, 1898, known as the arbitration act, directs the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Commissioner of Labor to use their best efforts, by mediation and conciliation, to settle controversies between railway companies engaged in interstate commerce and their employees.

By act of May 6, 1910, the prior accident-reports law was repealed and a new statute passed giving more power to the commission as to investigating accidents, and is more comprehensive than the former law.

The act of March 4, 1907, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is made unlawful to require or permit employees engaged in or connected with the movement of trains to be on duty more than a specified number of hours in any 24.

The act of May 23, 1908, by section 16 thereof, gives the Interstate Commerce Commission limited control over the street railroads in the District of Columbia.

The act of May 30, 1908, directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to make regulations for the safe transportation of explosives by common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. A penalty is provided for violations of such regulations.

The act of May 30, 1908, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is provided that after a certain date no locomotive shall be used in moving interstate or foreign traffic, etc., not equipped with an ash pan which can be emptied without requiring a man to go under such locomotive. A penalty is provided for violations of this act.

Public resolution No. 46, approved June 30, 1906, and the sundry civil appropriation act of May 27, 1908, direct the commission to investigate and report on the use and need of appliances intended to promote the safety of railway operation.

The act of March 3, 1909, authorizes the commission to prescribe the form of bookkeeping for District of Columbia gas and electric companies.

The act of February 17, 1911, confers jurisdiction upon the commission to enforce certain provisions compelling railroad companies to equip their locomotives with safe and suitable boilers and appurtenances thereto.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

The purpose of the civil-service act, as declared in its title, is "to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States." It provides for the appointment of three commissioners, not more than two of whom shall be adherents of the same political party, and makes it the duty of the commission to aid the President, as he may request, in preparing suitable rules for carrying the act into effect. The act requires that the rules shall provide, among other things, for open competitive examinations for testing the fitness of applicants for the classified service, the making of appointments from among those passing with highest grades, an apportionment of appointments in the departments at Washington among the States and Territories, a period of probation before absolute appointment, and the prohibition of the use of official authority to coerce the political action of any person or body. The act also provides for investigations touching the enforcement of the rules, and forbids, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, the solicitation by any person in the service of the United States of contributions to be used for political purposes from persons in such service, or the collection of such contributions by any person in a Government building.

CLASSIFIED SERVICE.

There were 391,350 positions in the executive civil service on June 30, 1911, according to statistics based upon reports to the commission, of which 227,657 were classified subject to competitive examination under the civil-service rules; 18,150 mechanics and laborers in navy yards carried heretofore as classified are unclassified according to an opinion of the Attorney General of July 6, 1909. Persons merely employed as laborers or workmen and persons nominated for confirmation by the Senate are exempted from the requirements of classification. Within these limits certain classes of positions are excepted from examination, among them being employees at post offices of the third and fourth classes, exclusive of postmasters of the fourth class in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan, who were made subject to examination under an Executive order approved November 30, 1908, Indians in the Indian service, attorneys, pension examining surgeons, field deputy marshals, and a few employees whose duties are of an important confidential or fiduciary nature.

EXAMINATIONS.

Various examinations are held in every State and Territory at least twice a year. The examinations range in scope from technical, professional, or scientific subjects to those based wholly upon the physical condition and experience of the applicant, and in some cases do not require ability to read or write. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1911, 105,024 persons were examined, of whom 70,159 passed and 23,295 were appointed.

FILLING OF VACANCIES.

A vacancy is filled from among the three persons of the sex called for standing highest on the appropriate register, the order being determined by the relative rating, except that the names of persons preferred under section 1754, Revised Statutes, come before all others. Until the rating of all papers of an examination is completed the identity of no applicant is known. A vacancy may also be filled by promotion, reduction, transfer, or reinstatement.

VETERAN PREFERENCE.

Persons discharged from the military or naval service by reason of disability resulting from wounds or sickness incurred in the line of duty who receive a rating of at least 65 are certified first for appointment. All others are required to obtain a rating of 70 or more to become eligible. The rule barring reinstatement after a separation of one year does not apply to any person honorably discharged after service in the Civil War or the War with Spain, or his widow, or an Army nurse of either war.

ISTHMIAN CANAL COMMISSION EMPLOYEES.

The examinations for employees of the Isthmian Canal Commission upon the Isthmus extend only to positions of clerk, bookkeeper, stenographer, typewriter, surgeon, physician, trained nurse, and draftsman.

PHILIPPINE CIVIL SERVICE.

Appointments to the insular civil service of the Philippines are made under an act passed by the Philippine Commission and rules promulgated by the governor of the islands. The municipal service of Manila is also classified and subject to the provisions of the act and rules, which are similar to those of the United States. The United States Civil Service Commission, under an Executive order, assists the Philippine Board by conducting examinations in the United States for the Philippine service and in all other practicable ways. These examinations are held only for positions for which competent natives can not be found, the natives being preferred for appointment.

The transfer is permissible, of classified employees who have served for three years, from the Philippine service to the Federal service.

CIVIL SERVICE IN PORTO RICO AND HAWAII.

The Federal positions in Porto Rico and Hawaii by act of Congress fall within the scope of the civil-service act and are filled in the same way as competitive positions in the United States. The competitive system does not extend to the insular and municipal positions of Hawaii, but such a system for Porto Rico became effective January 1, 1908.

UNCLASSIFIED LABORERS.

Appointments of unclassified laborers in the departments at Washington and in the large cities under executive order are required to be made in accordance with regulations restricting appointment to applicants who are rated highest in physical condition. The system is outside the civil-service act and rules.

DEMAND FOR ELIGIBLES WITH CERTAIN QUALIFICATIONS.

There is an increasing demand for male clerks qualified as stenographers and typewriters, veterinarians, draftsmen of the various kinds, and for civil, mechanical, and electrical engineers; superintendents of construction, computers, and aids in the Coast and Geodetic Survey; also for teachers, matrons, seamstresses, farmers, and physicians in the Indian Service, and for railway mail clerks in most of the Western and some of the Gulf States.

Persons who become eligible in any of the examinations for positions outside of Washington, D. C., which are not apportioned usually have a good chance of appointment. The same is true of those who pass examinations for apportioned positions if they are residents of States or Territories which have received less than their full share of appointments.

A manual containing all information needful to applicants is furnished by the Civil Service Commission upon request.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

The Public Printer has charge of and manages the Government Printing Office. Directly or through his principal officers he makes all purchases, disburses all money, appoints all officers and employees, and exercises general supervision over the affairs of the office.

The Deputy Public Printer acts as chairman of boards to examine and report on paper and material purchased, and also of a board of condemnation. He has supervision over the buildings and property, and the care of the stores, and performs such other duties as are required of him by the Public Printer. In case of the death, resignation, absence, or sickness of the Public Printer he performs the duties of the Public Printer.

The Chief Clerk has direct charge of the personnel of the office, is charged with the detail of all matters in connection with appointments, promotions, or transfers, and has charge of the general correspondence and the care of the files.

The Purchasing Agent has direct charge of all purchases; prepares all schedules of material, paper, and supplies and all proposals, and receives the bids; supervises the work of drawing contracts and orders for paper, material, machinery, and supplies; and acts as the legal adviser of the Public Printer in matters relating to the public printing and binding.

The Accountant has charge of the keeping of the accounts of the Public Printer with the Treasury Department, of the accounts with the several allotments of the appropriation, of the time of employees, of the property records, prepares for the signature of the Public Printer pay rolls and vouchers requiring the payment of money, renders bills for work done, and keeps all other accounts.

The Congressional Record Clerk has charge of the Congressional Record at the Capitol, and acts as the Public Printer's representative in furnishing information and estimates to Senators, Representatives, and Delegates.

The Superintendent of Work has direct charge of all the manufacturing divisions of the office.

The Assistant Superintendent of Work (night) has immediate charge of the manufacturing divisions at night.

The Foreman of Printing and Assistant Superintendent of Work (day) has immediate charge of the composing and foundry sections. He also assists the Superintendent of Work in the supervision of the manufacturing division during the day.

The Superintendent of Documents has general supervision over the distribution of all public documents except those printed for the use of the two Houses of Congress and for the executive departments. He is required to prepare a comprehensive index of public documents and a consolidated index of congressional documents, and is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge the distribution of which is not specifically directed.

UNITED STATES GEOGRAPHIC BOARD.

By Executive order of August 10, 1906, the official title of the United States Board on Geographic Names was changed to United States Geographic Board, and its duties enlarged.

The board passes on all unsettled questions concerning geographic names which arise in the departments, as well as determining, changing, and fixing place names within the United States and its insular possessions, and all names hereafter suggested by any officer of the Government shall be referred to the board before publication. The decisions of the board are to be accepted by all the departments of the Government as standard authority.

Advisory powers were granted the board concerning the preparation of maps compiled, or to be compiled, in the various offices and bureaus of the Government, with a special view to the avoidance of unnecessary duplications of work; and for the unification and improvement of the scales of maps, of the symbols and conventions used upon them, and of the methods of representing relief. Hereafter all such projects as are of importance shall be submitted to this board for advice before being undertaken.

COURT OF CLAIMS OF THE UNITED STATES.

This court was established by act of Congress February 24, 1855 (10 Stat. L., 612). It has general jurisdiction of all "claims founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, except for pensions, or upon any regulation of an executive department, or upon any contract, expressed or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect of which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States, either in a court of law, equity, or admiralty, if the United States were suable, except claims growing out of the late Civil War and commonly known as war claims," and certain rejected claims.

It has jurisdiction also of claims of like character which may be referred to it by any executive department, involving disputed facts or controverted questions of law, where the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000, or where the decision will affect a class of cases or furnish a precedent for the future action of any executive department in the adjustment of a class of cases, or where any authority, right, privilege, or exemption is claimed or denied under the Constitution. In all the above-mentioned cases the court, when it finds for the claimant, may enter judgment against the United States, payable out of the Public Treasury. An appeal, only upon questions of law, lies to the Supreme Court on the part of the defendants in all cases, and on the part of the claimants when the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000. The findings of fact by the Court of Claims are final and not subject to review by the Supreme Court.

By the act of March 3, 1883, chapter 116 (22 Stat. L., 485, and 1 Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 403), called the "Bowman Act," the head of an executive department may refer to the court any "claim or matter" pending in his department involving controverted questions of fact or law. The court is required to find the facts and its conclusions of law and to report the same to the department for its guidance and action. The same act authorizes either House of Congress or any of its committees to refer to the court any "claim or matter" involving the investigation and determination of facts, the court to find the facts and report the same to Congress for such action thereon as may there be determined. This act is extended by act of March 3, 1887, chapter 359 (24 Stat. L., 505, and 1 Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 559), and by the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. L., 837).

There is a statute of limitations which prevents parties from bringing actions on their own motion beyond six years after the cause of action accrued, but the departments may refer claims at any time if they were pending therein within the six years. The only limitation under the Bowman Act is that the court shall have no jurisdiction of any claim barred before the passage of the act by any then existing provision of law.

By act of January 20, 1885 (23 Stat. L., 283, and 1 Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 471), Congress gave to the court jurisdiction over "claims to indemnity upon the French Government arising out of illegal captures, detentions, seizures, condemnations, and confiscations prior to the ratification of the convention between the United States and the French Republic concluded on the 30th day of September, 1800."

15654°—62-2—IST ED——21

The time of filing claims is limited to two years from the passage of the act, and all claims not presented within that time are forever barred. The court finds the facts and the law, and reports the same in each case to Congress.

By act of March 3, 1891, chapter 538 (26 Stat. L., 851, and Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 913), the court is vested with jurisdiction of certain Indian depredation claims.

The Secretary of the Navy has referred to the court, under the act of March 3, 1887 (24 Stat. L., 505), all cases growing out of claims for bounty for war vessels captured or destroyed by the United States Navy during the late war with Spain, involving a consideration of every naval conflict that took place and the rights of all the officers and men engaged.

By the act of April 29, 1902 (31 Stat. L., 176), Congress conferred jurisdiction upon the court of all claims against the United States arising out of the payment of customs duties to the military authorities in the island of Porto Rico upon articles imported from the several States, with authority to render judgment against the United States with interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from date of payment of said duties to date of judgment, such claim to be filed within six months from the date of the passage of this act.

The act of June 25, 1910, chapter 423 (36 Stat L., 851–852), "An act to provide additional protection for owners of patents of the United States, and for other purposes," conferred a new jurisdiction.

There are five judges, who sit together in the hearing of cases, the concurrence of three of whom is necessary for the decision of any case.

The court sits at Washington, D. C., in the old Corcoran Art Building, Seventeenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, on the first Monday in December each year and continues into the following summer and until all cases ready for trial are disposed of. Cases may be commenced and entered at any time, whether the court be in session or not.

ORIGIN AND FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

The District of Columbia was established under the authority and direction of acts of Congress approved July 16, 1790, and March 3, 1791, which were passed to give effect to a clause in the eighth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States, giving Congress the power—

"To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased, by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings."

The local government of the District of Columbia is a municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the territory which "was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States for the permanent seat of the Government of the United States."

This government is administered by a board of three commissioners having in general equal powers and duties.

Two of these commissioners, who must have been actual residents of the District for three years next before their appointment and have during that period claimed residence nowhere else, are appointed from civil life by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate of the United States for a term of three years each and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The other commissioner is detailed from time to time by the President of the United States from the Engineer Corps of the United States Army, and shall not be required to perform any other duty. This commissioner shall be selected from among the captains or officers of higher grade having served at least fifteen years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army of the United States.

Three officers of the same corps, junior to said commissioner, may be detailed to assist him by the President of the United States.

The senior officer of the Corps of Engineers of the Army who shall for the time being be detailed to act as assistant (and in case of his absence from the District or disability, the junior officer so detailed) shall, in the event of the absence from the District or disability of the commissioner who shall for the time being be detailed from the Corps of Engineers, perform all the duties imposed by law upon said commissioner.

The salary of each of the commissioners is $5,000 per annum.

One of said commissioners shall be chosen president of the Board of Commissioners at their first meeting, and annually and whenever a vacancy shall occur thereafter.

The commissioners are in a general way vested with jurisdiction covering all the ordinary features of municipal government.

Congress has by sundry statutes empowered the commissioners to make building regulations; plumbing regulations; to make and enforce all such reasonable and usual police regulations as they may deem necessary for the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property within the District, and other regulations of a municipal nature.

RULES GOVERNING PRESS GALLERIES.

1. Persons desiring admission to the press galleries shall make application to the Speaker, as required by Rule XXXVI of the House of Representatives, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by Rule V for the Regulation of the Senate Wing of the Capitol; and shall also state, in writing, for what paper or papers they are employed; and shall further state that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims pending before Congress or the departments, and will not become so engaged while allowed admission to the galleries; and that they are not in any sense the agents or representatives of persons or corporations having legislation before Congress, and will not become either while retaining their places in the galleries, and that they are not employed in an executive or legislative department, and will not become so employed while accepting the privileges of the galleries. Visiting journalists who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to the restrictions of this rule.

2. The applications required by above rule shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the Standing Committee of Correspondents, who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide telegraphic correspondents of reputable standing in their business, who represent daily newspapers, and not exceeding one seat shall be assigned to each paper; and it shall be the duty of the Standing Committee, at their discretion, to report violations of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker, or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and pending action thereon the offending correspondent shall be suspended.

3. Persons employed in the executive or legislative departments of the Government, and persons engaged in other occupations whose chief attention is not given to newspaper correspondence, shall not be entitled to admission to the Press Galleries; and the Press List in the Congressional Directory shall be a list only of telegraphic correspondents.

4. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to admission.

5. The galleries, subject to the approval of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the supervision and control of the Senate Committee on Rules, shall be under the control of the Standing Committee of Correspondents.

Approved:

CHAMP CLARK,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Approved by the Committee on Rules of the Senate.

CHARLES S. ALBERT, Chairman,
JOHN E. MONK,
ROBERT M. GATES,
JOHN T. SUTER, Secretary,
Standing Committee of Correspondents.
