Office of Congressional Directory, room 69, Maltby Building.
Phone, Capitol Branch 125.

WASHINGTON : GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE : 1913

NOTES.

There is but one vacancy in the House, caused by the death of Hon. George S. Legare, first South Carolina congressional district, who died January 31, 1913.

On pages 7 and 110 will be found, respectively, the biographies of Hon. William M. Kavanaugh and Hon. William R. Webb. Mr. Kavanaugh was elected to the Senate by the Arkansas Legislature January 29, 1913, to fill the unexpired term of the late Hon. Jeff Davis, ending March 3, 1913. Mr. Webb was elected to the Senate by the Tennessee Legislature January 24, 1913, to fill the unexpired term of the late Hon. Robert L. Taylor, ending March 3, 1913. Both elections occurred subsequent to the publication of the last issue of the Congressional Directory for the Sixty-second Congress, and the biographies are carried in this issue to make the records complete.

All Washington addresses in the Directory are northwest unless otherwise indicated.

Leland Stanford, and took his seat August 8, 1893. In January, 1895, having made a thorough canvass before the people of his State, he was elected by the legislature on the first ballot to fill the unexpired term. In the fall election of 1896 he was a candidate before the people of California for reelection, and received the indorsement of the Republican county conventions that comprised a majority of the senatorial and assembly districts in the State. When the legislature convened in joint convention (January, 1897) for the purpose of electing a United States Senator, he was reelected on the first ballot. In January, 1903, he was again reelected on the first ballot for the term of six years, receiving every vote of the Republican members of the legislature. His election was made unanimous on motion of a Democratic member of the legislature. Again, in 1909, he was reelected on the first ballot for another term of six years, receiving every Republican vote except two, and at the same time receiving Democratic support. At the time of his election in 1897, 1903, and 1909 he was absent from the State attending to his congressional duties in Washington. His term of service will expire March 3, 1915.

FIRST DISTRICT.—COUNTIES: Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder, Denver, Jefferson, Lake, Larimer, Logan, Morgan, Park, Phillips, Sedgwick, Washington, Weld, and Yuma (15 counties). Population (1910), 394,503.

GEORGE JOHN KINDEL, Democrat, of Denver, was born of German parents in Cincinnati, Ohio, March 2, 1855; education limited to parochial school and night high school; at age of 13 began work at $1.50 a week; at 16 began a four years' apprenticeship in upholstery and mattress making; shortly after journeymanship took the advice of Horace Greeley, went West, and in 1877 located in Denver; in 1878 established himself in the mattress and upholstery business, in which he has been engaged ever since, and which is now conducted by his son as the Kindel Bedding & Renovating Co.; was married to Miss Minnie A. Danner, of Cincinnati, in 1883, the issue of the union being three children, two of whom are now alive; since 1892 has been in the courts contesting the discriminative freight and express rates which prevail against Colorado; by this means was brought into politics; at the present time is holding a city supervisorship of Denver. Two years ago he ran for Congress on the Prohibition ticket, and in seven days' campaign received 17,000 votes. At the late election he ran as a progressive Democrat in the first district of Colorado and received 54,504 votes, running between 3,000 and 5,000 ahead of the national and State tickets, which proves conclusively that the people of Colorado are wideawake to the needs of fair and equitable transportation. Recently he perfected a parcel-post graduate which would reduce the rates on the whole one-sixth, besides simplifying and equalizing rates, at the same time making provision for the much-demanded increased maximum weight on a relative basis with that of European countries. Because the commercial organizations opposed him in his endeavors for fair transportation rates, he joined the Grangers, whose backing he has and whose interests he will endeavor to champion. He is a member of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress and an active member of the Young Men's Christian Association.

SENATORS.

JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS, Democrat, of Benton, R. F. D. 1, Miss., was born July 30, 1854, at Memphis, Tenn.; his mother having died, his father, who was colonel of the Twenty-seventh Tennessee Volunteers, Confederate States Army, being killed at Shiloh, and Memphis being threatened with capture by the Federal Army, his family removed to his mother's family homestead in Yazoo County, Miss.; received a fair education at private schools, the Kentucky Military Institute, near Frankfort, Ky., the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., the University of Virginia, and the University of Heidelberg, in Baden, Germany; subsequently studied law under Profs. Minor and Southall at the University of Virginia and in the office of Harris, McKisick & Turley in Memphis; in 1877 got license to practice in the courts of law and chancery of Shelby County, Tenn.; in December, 1878, moved to Yazoo City, Miss., where he engaged in the practice of his profession and the varied pursuits of a cotton planter; was a delegate to the Chicago convention which nominated Cleveland and Stevenson; served as temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention in 1904; was elected to the Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, and Fifty-ninth Congresses, and reelected to the Sixtieth Congress, receiving all the votes cast. He had no opposition either for renomination or election; was the candidate of his party for the office of Speaker in the Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, and Sixtieth Congresses. On August 1, 1907, Mr. Williams was chosen at a primary election to be the candidate of the Democratic Party for the United States Senate, and on January 23, 1908, elected by the legislature to succeed Hon. H. D. Money, and took his seat April 4, 1911. His term of service will expire March 3, 1917.

JAMES K. VARDAMAN, Democrat, of Jackson, Miss., was born in Jackson County, Tex., on July 26, 1861; his parents moved from Holmes County, Miss., to Texas in 1858; his father joined the Confederate Army and served four years; after the war the family returned to Mississippi and settled in Yalabusha County in 1868; young Vardaman was reared on the farm; at the age of 20 removed to Carrollton, Miss., and began the study of law in the office of Helm & Somerville; was admitted to the bar in the fall of 1881 and began the practice of law at Winona, Miss.; in connection with his law practice he edited the Winona Advance, a paper established by Senator H. D. Money; was married in Winona, Miss., to Mrs. Anna E. Robinson, May 31, 1884, and has a family of three sons and two daughters; in the winter of 1884 removed from Winona to Greenwood, Miss., where he practiced law and became the owner and editor of the Greenwood Enterprise; from his majority has been active in politics; was one of the first men in the South to take up the cause of W. J. Bryan, and has been an ardent, earnest supporter of the distinguished Nebraskan from that time to the present; was elected to the legislature from Leflore County in 1889, and reelected in 1891; was candidate for speaker in 1892, but was defeated; was elected speaker in 1894; was Democratic presidential elector from the State at large in 1892; was also presidential elector in 1896; was a candidate for governor in 1895 and was defeated; in 1896 established the Greenwood Commonwealth and was its editor until elected governor in 1903; volunteered as a private for the Spanish-American War in 1898 and was elected captain of a company organized at Water Valley, his old home, but on account of bitter antagonism to the then governor, A. J. McLaurin, whose official conduct Mr. Vardaman had criticized in his newspaper, Gov. McLaurin refused to commission him; the company became so incensed at this treatment that it threatened to withdraw from the regiment, but in a speech to the company he urged them to do their duty, remain true to the flag, and elect one of their members captain and go to the front; he then withdrew, and a few days thereafter was offered the senior captaincy of the Fifth United States Volunteers, organized at Columbus, Miss., which place he accepted, and as soon as the regiment was organized went with it to Santiago de Cuba, where he remained until May, 1899; not long after the regiment's arrival at Cuba he was promoted to the rank of major; returning to Mississippi in 1899 he entered the contest for governor and was again defeated, the nomination going to A. H. Longino, the result of the work of the old convention system then in vogue; four years later Mr. Vardaman was nominated and elected governor, the first nomination under the primary system, defeating his three opponents by a large majority; in 1907 was a candidate for the United States Senate, but was defeated by Hon. John Sharp Williams by a majority of 640 votes; in 1910 the death of Senator A. J. McLaurin caused a vacancy, and he was again a candidate before the legislature, but was defeated by a combination which has become notorious as the "secret caucus"; he appealed his case to the people, and in a contest remarkable for its bitterness, on August 1, 1911, defeated the secret-caucus choice, Leroy Percy, by 60,000 votes in a total vote of 133,000.

CHARLES MANLY STEDMAN, Democrat, of Greensboro, was born January 29, 1841, in Pittsboro, Chatham County; moved with his father's family to Fayetteville when he was 12 years of age. He was prepared for college at the Pittsboro Academy by Rev. Daniel McGilvary, afterwards missionary to Siam, and at the Donaldson Academy in Fayetteville by Rev. Daniel Johnson. He entered the University of North Carolina when he was 16 years of age, and graduated from that institution in 1861. When Mr. Buchanan, the President of the United States, visited the university in 1859 he was chosen by the Philanthropic Society as one of its orators for the occasion. He received his diploma, but before the commencement exercises, when he was to deliver the salutatory address, in response to the call for volunteers, he left the university and volunteered as a private in the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry Company, which was in the First North Carolina (or Bethel) Regiment. Upon the disbanding of this regiment he joined a company from Chatham County; was lieutenant, then captain, and afterwards its major. This company belonged to the Forty-fourth North Carolina Regiment. He served with Lee's army during the entire war; was three times wounded, and surrendered at Appomattox. He is one of the 12 soldiers who were engaged in the first battle at Bethel and who surrendered with Lee at Appomattox. SENATORS.

GEORGE EARLE CHAMBERLAIN, Democrat, of Portland, was born on a plantation near Natchez, Miss., January 1, 1854. His early education was obtained in private and later in the public schools of Natchez, which he attended until 1870. In the latter year he began work as a clerk in a general merchandise store in Natchez, holding this position until June, 1872, when he went to Lexington, Va., to attend Washington and Lee University, from which institution he graduated in the academic and law departments in June, 1876, receiving in the former the degree of A. B. and in the latter the degree of B. L. After graduation he returned home, where he remained for a short time, leaving there to take up his residence in Oregon, arriving there December 6, 1876. Since that time he has made Oregon his home. During a part of 1877 Mr. Chamberlain taught a country school in Linn County, Oreg., and in the latter part of that year was appointed deputy clerk of that county; this position he held until the summer of 1879, resigning to practice law at Albany. He was united in marriage to Miss Sallie N. Welch, of Natchez, Miss., May 21, 1879; seven children have been born of this marriage, six of whom are living, three of them being married. In 1880 Mr. Chamberlain was elected to the legislature, and in 1884 district attorney for the third judicial district, embracing the counties of Marion, Linn, Polk, Yamhill, and Tillamook, and served for a term of two years; in 1891 was appointed attorney general of the State of Oregon by the then governor, Hon. Sylvester Pennoyer, his term expiring in 1892, when he was nominated for the position by his party and elected; moving to Portland shortly thereafter he was nominated as district attorney for the fourth judicial district, embracing Multnomah County, and was elected for a term of four years; in 1902 was nominated as a candidate for governor; was elected for four years, and reelected to the same position in 1906; in 1908 he was nominated in the primaries for United States Senator on the Democratic ticket and elected over his opponent, H. M. Cake, the Republican candidate, and elected by the legislature of the State January 19, 1909, to the United States Senate, to succeed Hon. C. W. Fulton. Graham, Democrat, 3,037 for C. H. Abercrombie, Socialist, and 1,800 for George L. Cleaver, Prohibitionist.

THIRD DISTRICT.—COUNTY: Multnomah. Population (1910), 226,261.

WALTER LAFFERTY, Progressive Republican, of Portland, at present supporting the platform and organization in Congress of the Progressive Party because in his judgment it comes much nearer to representing the sentiments and aspirations of the rank and file of the Republican Party than does the platform enunciated by the last so-called Republican national convention, is the fifth of a family of eight children, having four sisters, Ora, Gussie, Rosa, and Roxa, and three brothers, Luther, Albert, and Rolla, all of whom, and both parents, Abraham M. and Helen (Kinney) Lafferty, are living, parts of the family now residing in each of the States of Missouri, Idaho, Washington, and Oregon; was raised in Pike County, Mo., on a farm, in which county his parents and all brothers and sisters were born, but was himself born on a farm near Farber, Audrain County, where his parents resided briefly; full name is Abraham Walter Lafferty, but has always been called Walter, and signs his name simply A. W. Lafferty; his father served in the Union Army, as did also his grandfather, George W. Kinney, who was born in Ohio; his mother's first cousin, Maj. Luther H. Cowan, Forty-fifth Illinois Infantry, was killed in battle before Vicksburg, May 22, 1863; both grandfathers served in Indian wars, his paternal grandfather being Lawson Lafferty, of North Carolina; his brother Rolla served in the provisional volunteers in the Philippines, enlisting when he was 17 and coming out with the rank of corporal; maternal grandmother was Mary Ann Gunn, of North Carolina, and his paternal grandmother was Hester Ann Martin, of Kentucky; his great grandmother Kinney was Eleanor Pierce; began studying law on the farm in Pike County; attended law department of the State university year 1895–96, and three years later received the degree LL. B. from that institution; was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of Missouri on examination June 5, 1896, five days before he was 21, and practiced law at Montgomery until December, 1904, during which time he served three years with the rank of captain in the Missouri National Guard and one term as prosecuting attorney; December, 1904, was appointed special agent of the General Land Office, and after brief preliminary instruction at Washington, D. C., was sent to Oregon, arriving at Portland March 20, 1905, where he has since resided; as special agent he took up the cause of the homesteaders, reporting that it was not the settler who was robbing the Government but the railroad companies and scrip applicants, and recommending more liberal treatment to settlers; resigned as special agent October 1, 1906, and reentered the private practice of law; as prosecuting attorney in Missouri he secured the first convictions ever had in that State for the offense of communicating quotations by wire for the purpose of gambling in grain, stocks, and provisions, putting more money in the treasury in fines than his salary amounted to, and under a law which had remained unenforced upon the statute books of that State for 40 years; in Oregon his principal case has been the prosecution which he started in 1907 against the Oregon & California Railroad Co., being the first suit ever brought to enforce the terms of the act of Congress which 40 years ago granted to that company nearly one-third of the lands in western Oregon, but upon the express provision that every acre of the lands should be sold by the company to actual settlers only, in quantities not greater than one quarter section to any one settler, and for prices not exceeding $2.50 per acre, which case is now pending in the United States court at Portland, and involves 2,300,000 acres of unsold lands still held by the company unaffected by the claims of any innocent purchasers, the Government having already realized $1,000,000 on a compromise concluded in 1913 with those who bought portions of the granted lands contrary to law prior to the institution of the suit, the compromise having been made by authority of the act of August 20, 1912, which was introduced by Mr. Lafferty, and if the 2,300,000 acres of unsold lands still held by the company shall be sold to settlers as sought by the prosecution started by Mr. Lafferty, or forfeited to the United States, as asked in the Government suit filed one year later, and then opened to settlement (and not put into a forest reserve), in either such case homes of 160 acres each for 15,000 families will thereby be provided in the most beautiful and picturesque portion of western Oregon; was elected to the Sixty-second Congress and reelected to the Sixty-third Congress as the nominee of both the Progressive and Republican Parties.

PORTO RICO.

(Population (1910), 1,118,012.)

LUIS MUÑOZ RIVERA, Unionist, of San Juan, was born in the town of Barranquitas July 17, 1859, and educated in the public schools. Early in life he engaged in cigar manufacturing and general business. At the age of 20 his writings were already published by the most progressive papers of the country. At 30 he founded La Democracia, a daily newspaper in Ponce, for the purpose of opposing the Spanish colonial régime. This paper is still published by him in San Juan. From 1887 to 1897 he was constantly subjected to persecutions by the Government, because of his patriotic activities. In 1896 he was sent to Madrid as a special representative of his party, for the purpose of consummating an agreement with the Liberal Party of Spain for the establishment of home rule for Porto Rico. He founded the Liberal Party in 1897. During this year Queen Maria Christina decreed an ample system of self-government for the island, and he was appointed secretary of state, and subsequently president of the cabinet. When American sovereignty was declared in 1898 he was serving in this latter capacity. He then presented his resignation to Gen. Brooke, military governor, who declined to accept it, and he continued in the cabinet until 1899, when that system of self-government was changed by Gen. Henry, who succeeded Gen. Brooke. Then he came for the first time to Washington as the representative of his party and of the farming interests of the islands, in order to procure free-trade relations between the United States and Porto Rico. Returning to Porto Rico in 1900, he organized the Federal Party. One year later he came to New York and established the Puerto Rico Herald, which paper was published in that city for a period of four years. At the dissolution of the Federal Party in 1904 he organized the Unionist Party, of which he is still the leader. Three times he was chosen to the lower house of the Legislature in Porto Rico. In 1910 he was elected Resident Commissioner to Washington by about 105,000 votes, as against about 58,000 for his opponent. Mr. Rivera is married and has one son who is studying in Georgetown College.

[1] Until within recent years the appointment or election of a President pro tempore was held by the Senate to be for the occasion only, so that more than one appears in several sessions and in others none were chosen. Since Mar. 12, 1890, they have served until "the Senate otherwise ordered."

[2] The Constitution (Art. I, sec. 4) provided that the Congress should assemble Mar. 4, 1789, and thereafter "in every year * * * on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day." Up to and including May 20, 1820, 18 acts were passed providing for the meeting of Congress on other days in the year. Since that year Congress has met regularly on the first Monday in December. The first and second sessions of the First Congress were held in New York; subsequently, until the second session of the Sixth Congress, Philadelphia was the meeting place; since then Congress has convened in Washington.

[3] Elected to count the vote for President and Vice President, which was done Apr. 6, 1789, a quorum of the Senate then appearing for the first time. John Adams, Vice President, appeared Apr. 21, 1789, and took his seat as President of the Senate.

THE CAPITOL BUILDING.

The Capitol is situated in latitude 38° 53′ 20.4″ north and longitude 77° 00′ 35.7″ west from Greenwich. It fronts east and stands on a plateau 88 feet above the level of the Potomac.

ORIGINAL BUILDING.

The southeast corner stone of the original building was laid on the 18th of September, 1793, by President Washington, with Masonic ceremonies. It is constructed of sandstone from quarries on Aquia Creek, Va. The original designs were prepared by Dr. William Thornton, and the work was done under the direction of Stephen H. Hallet, James Hoban, George Hadfield, and B. H. Latrobe, architects. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811. A wooden passageway connected them. On the 24th of August, 1814, the interior of both wings was destroyed by fire, set by the British. The damage to the building was immediately repaired. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced, under the architectural superintendence of Charles Bulfinch. The original building was finally completed in 1827. Its cost, including the grading of the grounds, alterations, and repairs. up to 1827. was $2,433,844.13.

EXTENSIONS.

The corner stone of the extensions was laid on the 4th of July, 1851, by President Fillmore, Daniel Webster officiating as orator. This work was prosecuted under the architectural direction of Thomas U. Walter till 1865, when he resigned, and it was completed under the supervision of Edward Clark. The material used in the walls is white marble from the quarries at Lee, Mass., and that in the columns from the quarries at Cockeysville, Md. These extensions were first occupied for legislative purposes January 4, 1859.

The value of the Capitol Building and Grounds, October 14, 1911, is as follows: Building, $15,000,000; grounds, $10,400,000; total, $25,400,000.

DIMENSIONS OF THE BUILDING.

The entire length of the building from north to south is 751 feet 4 inches, and its greatest dimension from east to west 350 feet. The area covered by the building is 153,112 square feet.

DOME.

The Dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, covered with copper. This was replaced in 1856 by the present structure of cast iron. It was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,909,200 pounds.

The Dome is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, which is 19 feet 6 inches high and weighs 12,985 pounds. It was modeled by Crawford. The height of the Dome above the base line of the east front is 287 feet 5 inches. The height from the top of the balustrade of the building is 217 feet 11 inches. The greatest diameter at the base is 135 feet 5 inches.

The Rotunda is 97 feet 6 inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is 180 feet 3 inches.

The Senate Chamber is 113 feet 3 inches in length by 80 feet 3 inches in width and 36 feet in height. The galleries will accommodate 1,000 persons.

The Representatives' Hall is 139 feet in length by 93 feet in width and 36 feet in height.

The room now occupied by the Supreme Court was, until 1859, occupied as the Senate Chamber. Previous to that time the court occupied the room immediately beneath, now used as a law library.

OFFICE BUILDINGS.

The value of the Senate and House Office Buildings and Grounds is as follows: Senate Building, $3,732,078; grounds, $746,111; total, $4 478,189. House Building, $3,342,011; grounds, $743,452; total, $4,085,463.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS.

(Capitol Hill. Phone, Main 2727.)

The Library of Congress was established in 1800, destroyed in 1814 by the burning of the Capitol, afterwards replenished by the purchase by Congress of the library of ex-President Jefferson, 6,760 volumes (cost, $23,950); in 1851, 35,000 volumes destroyed by fire; in 1852, partially replenished by an appropriation of $75,000; increased (1) by regular appropriations by Congress; (2) by deposits under the copyright law; (3) by gifts and exchanges; (4) by the exchanges of the Smithsonian Institution, the library of which (40,000 volumes) was, in 1866, deposited in the Library of Congress with the stipulation that future accessions should follow it. One hundred sets of Government publications are at the disposal of the Librarian of Congress for exchange, through the Smithsonian, with foreign Governments, and from this source are received about 12,000 volumes annually.

The collection is now the largest on the Western Hemisphere and the third in the world. It comprised at the end of the fiscal year (June 30, 1912) about 2,012,393 printed books and pamphlets (including the law library of 151,944 volumes, which, while a division of the Library of Congress, still remains at the Capitol), 129,123 maps and charts, 591,632 pieces of music, and 349,745 photographs, prints, engravings, and lithographs. It includes various special collections eminent in their respective fields.

The collection of manuscripts, touching every period of American history, includes the papers of nine of the Presidents and the records of the Continental Congress, with numerous other important groups—political, military, naval, and commercial.

The Smithsonian deposit is strong in scientific works, and includes the largest assemblage of the transactions of learned societies which exists in this country.

In 1897 the main collection was removed from the Capitol to the building erected for it under the acts of Congress approved April 15, 1886, October 2, 1888, and March 2, 1889, at a cost of $6,347,000 (limit by law, $6,500,000) exclusive of the land, which cost $585,000. The architects who furnished the original designs were John L. Smithmeyer and Paul J. Pelz. By the act of October 2, 1888, before the foundations were laid, Thomas L. Casey, Chief of Engineers of the Army, was placed in charge of the construction of the building, and the architectural details were worked out by Paul J. Pelz and Edward P. Casey. Upon the death of Gen. Casey, in March, 1896, the entire charge of the construction devolved upon Bernard R. Green, Gen. Casey's assistant, and under his superintendence the building was completed in February, 1897; opened to the public November, 1897. The building occupies 3¾ acres, upon a site 10 acres in extent at a distance of 1,270 feet east of the Capitol, and is the largest and most magnificent library building in the world. In the decorations, some 40 painters and sculptors are represented—all American citizens. The floor space is 430,255 square feet, or nearly 10 acres.

The book stacks, including the new stack built over the southeast interior court, contain a total of about 100 miles of shelving, with capacity for 3,540,000 octavo volumes of books and 84,000 volumes of newspapers.

The Library is maintained by annual appropriations by Congress for various purposes, including the purchase of books. For the year 1912–13 these amounted to $587,905 (not including allotment for printing and binding, $202,000), as follows: $465,905 for services and contingent expenses (including the Copyright Office, and including also the care of the building); $98,000 for books and periodicals; $14,000 for fuel, supplies, and miscellaneous purposes; $10,000 for furniture, shelving, etc.

The Librarian of Congress and the Superintendent of the Library Building and Grounds are now appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate (act of 1897). The employees of the Library are appointed by the Librarian under the act of 1897, which provides that they shall be appointed "solely with reference to their fitness for their particular duties."

The President, Vice President, Senators, Representatives, and Delegates in Congress are entitled by statute to draw books for home use (though no books can be given out on the orders of Members in favor of those who are not Members). The same privilege is extended by statute to Justices of the Supreme Court, the heads of the executive departments, and certain other officials.

Interlibrary loans.—While not a lending library, but a reference library primarily and essentially, the Library of Congress maintains an interlibrary loan system, by which special service is rendered to scholarship by the lending of books to other libraries for the use of investigators engaged in serious research which it is not within the power or duty of the library in question to supply, and which, at the time, are not needed in Washington.

Library service.—Library proper, 250 employees; Copyright Office, 88; distribution of catalogue cards, 33; disbursement service and care of building and grounds, 123. Total, 494.

The publications issued by the Library are numerous and include:

Annual reports, showing the progress of the Library.

Bibliographies, exhaustive statements of the literature of certain subjects, e. g., Philippine Islands.

Reference lists, containing principal references to questions of current interest, e. g., trusts, subsidies, railroads.

Catalogues, lists of special collections in the Library of Congress, e. g., Hubbard collection of engravings, Washington MSS., John Paul Jones MSS., maps of America, newspapers.

Special publications on library methods, e. g., catalogue rules, classification, etc.

There is but a limited free distribution of publications. The reports and other administrative documents are sent to a large number of institutions, and, on request, to such inquirers as can not be reached or adequately served by them. Publications which are costly and permanent contributions to knowledge are priced and placed on sale with the superintendent of documents.

Copyright Office.—The Copyright Office is a distinct division of the Library of Congress and is located on the ground floor, south side; open 9 to 4.30. It is under the immediate charge of the Register of Copyrights, who, by the act of March 4, 1909, is authorized, "under the direction and supervision of the Librarian of Congress," to perform all the duties relating to copyrights. Copyright registration was transferred to the Librarian of Congress by the act of July 8, 1870. Of most articles copyrighted two copies, and of some one copy, must be deposited to perfect copyright. Books, maps, musical compositions, photographs, periodicals, and other articles so deposited, numbered, during the fiscal year 1911–12, 219,521 articles. Copyright fees applied and paid into the Treasury for the fiscal year 1911–12 amounted to $116,685.05.

Hours.—On week days (except legal holidays) the library building, main reading room, periodical reading room, and law library are open from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m.; other parts of the Library, from 9 a. m. to 4.30 p. m. On Sundays and certain legal holidays the building, main reading room, periodical reading room, division of prints, music division, and maps division, are open from 2 to 10 p. m., the Librarian's office and the office of the chief clerk from 2 to 6 p. m.

EXECUTIVE.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

(Pennsylvania Avenue, between Fifteenth and Seventeenth Streets. Phone, Main 6.)

WOODROW WILSON, President, was born at Staunton, Va., December 28, 1856, and is a son of the Rev. Joseph R. Wilson and Jessie Woodrow Wilson, the former a distinguished scholar and clergyman of the Presbyterian Church of the South. His father was a native of Ohio and his mother of Scotland, and his ancestry on both sides is Scotch-Irish. His boyhood days were spent in Augusta, Ga., at Columbia, S. C., and Wilmington, N. C., where he prepared for college with private tutors and at the schools of these places. His real educator, however, was his father, a scholar of high order, for some years professor of the Columbia (S. C.) Theological Seminary, and who closed his career as professor in the Southwestern Theological Seminary, at Clarksville, Tenn. In 1874 he entered Davidson College, North Carolina, remained one year, and in the fall of 1875 went to Princeton College, from which he was graduated in the class of 1879. Following his graduation he entered the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va., as a law student, and was graduated in 1881. For two years he practiced law at Atlanta, Ga. In 1883 to 1885 did graduate work at the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., in political economy and history; 1885 to 1888, professor of history and political economy at Bryn Mawr College, Pennsylvania; 1888 to 1890, professor in the same branches of science at Wesleyan University. In June, 1890, he was elected professor of jurisprudence and political economy at Princeton University. In 1895 the department was divided and he was assigned to the chair of jurisprudence. In 1897 he was promoted to the McCormick professorship of jurisprudence and politics. In 1902 he was elected president of the university, resigning both that office and his professorship in October, 1910, immediately after his nomination for governor of New Jersey, to which office he was elected November 8, 1910, by a plurality of 49,056 votes. He was married June 24, 1885, to Miss Ellen Louise Axsen, of a distinguished family of Savannah, Ga. They have three daughters, Misses Margaret Woodrow Wilson, Jessie Woodrow Wilson, and Eleanor Randolph Wilson. He is the author of the following works: Congressional Government, in 1885; The State-Elements of Historical and Practical Politics, in 1889; Division and Reunion, in 1893; An Old Master, and Other Political Essays, in 1893; Mere Literature and Other Essays, in 1896; Life of George Washington, in 1896; History of the American People, in 1902; and Constitutional Government in the United States, in 1908.

JOSEPH P. TUMULTY, Secretary to the President (2311 Calvert Street) was born in Jersey City May 5, 1879, and is a son of ex-Assemblyman Philip Tumulty; attended St. Bridget's parochial school in Jersey City, and subsequently entered St. Peter's College, Jersey City, from which he was graduated in 1899 with the degree of B. A.; studied law in the offices of Bedle, McGee & Bedle, and Gilbert Collins, ex justice supreme court, and was admitted to the bar of New Jersey in 1902; in 1904 entered into partnership with George E. Cutley, under the name of Tumulty & Cutley; is married and has six children, four girls and two boys; is connected with many political and social organizations; was a member of the New Jersey House of Assembly 1907–1910; in 1910 was appointed private secretary to Gov. Wilson, and in 1912 clerk of the Supreme Court of New Jersey; served as secretary to Gov. Wilson until he resigned to become President without compensation from the State.

Executive clerk.—Rudolph Forster, 3204 Seventeenth Street.
Chief clerk.—Thomas W. Brahany, The Northumberland.

THE PRESIDENT'S COMMISSION ON ECONOMY AND EFFICIENCY.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

(Seventeenth Street, south of Pennsylvania Avenue. Phone, Main 4510.)

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, of Lincoln, Nebr., Secretary of State (Calumet Place), was born March 19, 1860, at Salem, Ill., a son of Silas Lillard and Mariah Elizabeth (Jennings) Bryan; he was married October 1, 1884, to Mary Baird, daughter of John and Lovina Baird, of Perry, Ill.; they have three children, Mrs. R. B. Owen, of Eltham, Kent, England, William Jennings Bryan, jr., of Tucson, Ariz., and Mrs. Richard Hargreaves, of Lincoln, Nebr.; he was educated at Whipple Academy and Illinois College, Jacksonville, Ill.; at graduation was elected class orator and, having the highest rank in scholarship during the four years' course, delivered the valedictory; in the autumn of 1881 entered the Union College of Law at Chicago, spending his out-of-school hours in the office of ex-Senator Lyman Trumbull; began the practice of his profession in Jacksonville, Ill., July 4, 1883; removed to Lincoln, Nebr., October 1, 1887, and formed a law partnership with Hon. A. R. Talbot; he was the Democratic nominee for Congress in 1890, and although the district was normally Republican by a large majority, was elected by a plurality of over 7,000; was reelected by a plurality of 140 in a new district (the State having been reapportioned in 1891), which that year gave the Republican State ticket a plurality of 6,500; during his two terms in Congress he served upon the Ways and Means Committee, assisted in the preparation of the Wilson bill, and was a member of the subcommittee which drafted the income-tax portion of the bill; he was unanimously nominated by the Nebraska Democratic State convention in 1894 as its candidate for United States Senator; at the election Nebraska shared in the general landslide and chose a large Republican majority in the legislature, which elected Mr. Thurston to the Senate; on September 1, 1894, he became chief of the editorial staff of the Omaha World-Herald, and gave a portion of his time to this work until the national convention of 1896; was nominated for the Presidency by the Democratic National Convention of 1896 and also by the Populist and Silver Republican conventions of that year; after a hotly contested campaign, was defeated by Mr. McKinley; at the outbreak of the War with Spain he tendered his services to the President; subsequently, at the request of Gov. Holcomb, of Nebraska, he raised a regiment and was commissioned as colonel of the Third Nebraska Infantry; served therewith until the signing of the treaty of peace; was renominated for the Presidency by acclamation in the Democratic convention of 1900 (his nomination being again indorsed by the Populists and Silver Republicans), and was again defeated; established The Commoner, a weekly paper devoted to political science, political economy, and sociology, and still continues its publication; in 1905, with his wife and two younger children, made a tour of the world; was nominated for the Presidency by the Democratic national convention for the third time in 1908 and for the third time he met defeat; after election he resumed his lecturing and editorial work, devoting himself, as before, to the advocacy of the reforms which to him seemed desirable; was nominated as Secretary of State by President Wilson and confirmed and commissioned March 5, 1913.

REGISTRY DIVISION.

Letters and parcels may be registered at the main office from 12.01 a. m. Mondays until midnight Saturdays. On holidays the hours are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. The delivery window is open daily except Sundays from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. On holidays the hours are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m.

Matter may be registered at all stations during such hours as they are open.

Station No. 21 is located in the House Office Building.

The registry fee is 10 cents for each separate letter or parcel, in addition to the postage, either foreign or domestic, both postage and registry fee to be fully prepaid. The addition of a special-delivery stamp, or 10 cents in ordinary postage stamps, provided the article is indorsed "special delivery," will insure the immediate delivery, during special-delivery hours, of a registered article upon its arrival at the delivery office.

When an acknowledgment of delivery is desired, the envelope or wrapper of the registered article should be indorsed on the address side by the sender, "Receipt desired" or with words of similar import.

The sender of registered mail may restrict its delivery to the addressee by indorsing thereon, "Deliver to addressee only," except when addressed to certain public officials. The addressee may restrict delivery by filing at the delivery office directions in writing, stating to whom delivery should be made.

Registered mail not so restricted as to delivery may be delivered to any responsible person to whom the addressee's ordinary mail is customarily delivered.

All valuable letters and printed matter, as well as those the delivery of which is of importance to the sender, should be registered if sent in the mails. An indemnity, not to exceed $50, will be paid for the value of lost domestic first-class mail matter, $25 on third-class mail, and 50 francs ($10) in case of the loss of a registered article addressed to a country in the Universal Postal Union, under certain conditions. Letter carriers are required to accept for registration all matter presented to them when properly prepared.

Matter included in the domestic parcel post can not be registered.

Private and official matter is accepted for registration at the post offices of the Senate and House of Representatives. Franked matter may be registered to any post office in the United States, Canada, Cuba, Republic of Panama, and Mexico, upon the prepayment, by postage stamps affixed, of the registry fee.

Letters may be registered to any post office in the world upon the prepayment of 10 cents in addition to the regular postage.

DOMESTIC PARCEL POST.

Requirements and rates of postage on fourth-class matter.—Unsealed matter of the fourth class (parcel post), which embraces all mailable merchandise not exceeding in size 72 inches in length and girth combined, and not exceeding 11 pounds in weight, bearing the name and address of the sender, and prepared for mailing in such manner that the contents can be easily examined, is mailable at the main office and its branches and contract stations during the hours of business of the office or station, and at the rates of postage provided for in the following table:

(The rate of postage on fourth-class matter weighing not more than 4 ounces shall be 1 cent for each ounce or fraction of an ounce, regardless of distance; and on such matter in excess of 4 ounces in weight the rate shall be by the pound, as follows, the postage in all cases to be prepaid by distinctive parcel-post stamps affixed:)

OFFICIAL DUTIES.

SECRETARY OF STATE.

The Secretary of State is charged, under the direction of the President, with the duties appertaining to correspondence with the public ministers and the consuls of the United States, and with the representatives of foreign powers accredited to the United States; and to negotiations of whatever character relating to the foreign affairs of the United States. He is also the medium of correspondence between the President and the chief executives of the several States of the United States; he has the custody of the Great Seal of the United States, and countersigns and affixes such seal to all Executive proclamations, to various commissions, and to warrants for the extradition of fugitives from justice. He is regarded as the first in rank among the members of the Cabinet. He is also the custodian of the treaties made with foreign States, and of the laws of the United States. He grants and issues passports, and exequaturs to foreign consuls in the United States are issued through his office. He publishes the laws and resolutions of Congress, amendments to the Constitution, and proclamations declaring the admission of new States into the Union.

ASSISTANT SECRETARIES OF STATE.

The Assistant Secretary of State becomes the Acting Secretary of State in the absence of the Secretary. Under the organization of the department the Assistant Secretary, Second Assistant Secretary, and Third Assistant Secretary are charged with the immediate supervision of all correspondence with the diplomatic and consular officers, and are intrusted with the preparation of the correspondence upon any questions arising in the course of the public business that may be assigned to them by the Secretary.

DIRECTOR OF THE CONSULAR SERVICE.

The Director of the Consular Service is charged with the general supervision of the consular service and such other duties as may be assigned to him from time to time by the Secretary.

CHIEF CLERK.

The Chief Clerk has general supervision of the clerks and employees and of departmental matters; charge of the property of the department.

DIPLOMATIC BUREAU.

Diplomatic correspondence and miscellaneous correspondence relating thereto.

DIVISION OF LATIN AMERICAN AFFAIRS.

DIVISION OF FAR EASTERN AFFAIRS.

Diplomatic and consular correspondence, on matters other than those of an administrative character, in relation to Japan, China, and leased territories, Siberia, Hongkong, French Indo-China, Siam, Straits Settlements, Borneo, East Indies, India, and in general the Far East.

DIVISION OF NEAR EASTERN AFFAIRS.

Diplomatic and consular correspondence, on matters other than those of an administrative character, in relation to Germany, Austria-Hungary, Russia, Roumania, Servia, Bulgaria, Montenegro, Turkey, Greece, Italy, Abyssinia, Persia, Egypt, and colonies belonging to countries of this series.

DIVISION OF WESTERN EUROPEAN AFFAIRS.

Diplomatic and consular correspondence, on matters other than those of an administrative character, in relation to Great Britain (Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and British colonies not elsewhere enumerated), Portugal, Spain, France, Morocco, Belgium, the Kongo, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, the Netherlands, Luxemburg, Denmark, and Liberia.

CONSULAR BUREAU.

Consular correspondence and miscellaneous correspondence relating thereto.

BUREAU OF APPOINTMENTS.

Custody of the great seal and applications for office, and the preparations of commissions, exequaturs, warrants of extradition, Departmental Register, diplomatic and consular lists, and consular bonds; correspondence and other matters regarding entrance examinations for the foreign service.

BUREAU OF CITIZENSHIP.

Examination of applications for passports, issuance of passports and authentications; receiving and filing duplicates of evidence, registration, etc., under act of March 2, 1907, in reference to expatriation of citizens and their protection abroad; keeping of necessary records thereunder; conduct of correspondence in relation to the foregoing.

BUREAU OF INDEXES AND ARCHIVES.

Recording and indexing the general correspondence of the department; charge of the archives.

BUREAU OF ACCOUNTS.

Custody and disbursement of appropriations and indemnity funds, and correspondence relating thereto.

BUREAU OF ROLLS AND LIBRARY.

Custody of the rolls, treaties, etc.; promulgation of the laws, treaties, Executive orders and proclamations; care and superintendence of the library and public documents; care of papers relating to international commissions.

DIVISION OF INFORMATION.

The preparation and distribution to the foreign service of diplomatic, commercial, and other correspondence and documents important to their information upon foreign relations; editing "Foreign Relations" of the United States.

OFFICE OF THE LAW CLERK.

Editing and indexing the laws, resolutions, public treaties, and proclamations for publication in the Statutes at Large.

SUPERINTENDENT OF BUILDING.

The superintendent of the State, War, and Navy Department Building is the executive officer of the commission created by Congress, consisting of the Secretaries of State, War, and Navy, for the government of this building. He has charge of, care, preservation, repairing, warming, ventilating, lighting, and cleaning of the building, grounds, and approaches, and disburses the special appropriations for this purpose; he has charge of all the employees of the building proper, and appoints them by direction of the Secretaries.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

The Secretary of the Treasury is charged by law with the management of the national finances. He prepares plans for the improvement of the revenue and for the support of the public credit; superintends the collection of the revenue, and directs the forms of keeping and rendering public accounts and of making returns; grants warrants for all moneys drawn from the Treasury in pursuance of appropriations made by law, and for the payment of moneys into the Treasury; and annually submits to Congress estimates of the probable revenues and disbursements of the Government. He also controls the construction and maintenance of public buildings; the coinage and printing of money; the administration of the Life-Saving, Revenue-Cutter, and the Public Health branches of the public service, and furnishes generally such information as may be required by either branch of Congress on all matters pertaining to the foregoing.

ASSISTANT SECRETARIES OF THE TREASURY.

To the Assistant Secretary in charge of customs is assigned the general supervision of the Division of Customs and of all matters pertaining to the customs service.

To the Assistant Secretary in charge of fiscal bureaus is assigned the general supervision of all matters relating to the following bureaus, offices, and divisions: The Bureau of the Mint; the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; the Office of the Treasurer of the United States; the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency; the Office of the Comptroller of the Treasury; the Auditors of the several Departments; the Register of the Treasury; the Secret-Service Division; the Division of Public Moneys; the Division of Loans and Currency; the Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants; Bureau of Internal Revenue; the Division of Printing and Stationery; the Division of Mail and Files; and the office of the disbursing clerk.

To the Assistant Secretary in charge of miscellaneous divisions of the Treasury Department is assigned the general supervision of matters relating to the following bureaus and divisions: Public Health Service, Supervising Architect, the selection of sites for public buildings, Revenue-Cutter Service, Life-Saving Service, Appointments, and the Bond Division.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk is the chief executive officer of the Secretary, and, under the direction of the Secretary and assistant secretaries, is charged with the enforcement of departmental regulations, general in their nature; is by law superintendent of the Treasury Building, and in addition superintends the Winder, Cox, and Butler Buildings; has direct charge of horses, wagons, etc., belonging to the department; the direction of engineers, machinists, watchmen, firemen, laborers, and other employees connected with the maintenance and protection of the Treasury Building and annexes; the expenditure of appropriations for contingent expenses; the disbursement of appropriations made for Government exhibits at various expositions; the supervision and general administration of purchases under the general supply committee; the custody of the records, files, and library of the Secretary's office; the custody of all sites for proposed public buildings in Washington; the checking of all mail relating to the personnel of the Treasury Department; the handling of requests for certified copies of official papers and the charge of all business of the Secretary's office unassigned.

SUPERVISING ARCHITECT.

Subject to the direction and approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, the duties performed by the Supervising Architect embrace the following: Securing cessions from States of jurisdiction over sites and the payment for the same; preparation of drawings, estimates, specifications, etc., for, and the superintendence of the work of, constructing, rebuilding, extending or repairing public buildings; the care, maintenance, and repair of public buildings, and the supply of furniture, carpets, lighting fixtures, mechanical equipment, safes, and miscellaneous supplies for use of custodians' and engineers' forces in the care of public buildings.

COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY.

The Comptroller of the Treasury, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, prescribes the forms of keeping and rendering all public accounts except those relating to postal revenues and the expenditures therefrom. He is charged with the duty of revising accounts upon appeal from settlements made by the auditors. Upon the application of disbursing officers, the head of any executive department, or other independent establishment not under any of the executive departments, the comptroller is required to render his advance decision upon any question involving a payment to be made by them or under them, which decision, when rendered, governs the auditor and the comptroller in the settlement of the account involving the payment inquired about. He is required to approve, disapprove, or modify all decisions by auditors making an original construction or modifying an existing construction of statutes, and certify his action to the auditor whose duties are affected thereby. Under his direction the several auditors superintend the recovery of all debts finally certified by them, respectively, to be due the United States, except those arising under the Post Office Department. He superintends the preservation by the auditors of all accounts which have been finally adjusted by them, together with the vouchers and certificates relating to the same. He is required, on his own motion, when in the interests of the Government, to revise any account settled by any auditor. In any case where, in his opinion, the interests of the Government require, he may direct any of the auditors forthwith to audit and settle any particular account pending before the said auditor for settlement. It is his duty to countersign all warrants authorized by law to be signed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

AUDITOR FOR THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the Treasury Department receives and settles all accounts of the Department of the Treasury, including all accounts relating to the customs service, the public debt, internal revenue, Treasurer and assistant treasurers, mints and assay offices, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Revenue-Cutter Service, Life-Saving Service, Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service, public buildings, and Secret Service.

AUDITOR FOR THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the War Department receives and settles all accounts of the Department of War, including all accounts relating to the military establishment, armories and arsenals, national cemeteries, fortifications, public buildings and grounds under the Chief of Engineers, rivers and harbors, the Military Academy, and the Isthmian Canal Commission.

AUDITOR FOR THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the Interior Department receives and settles all accounts of the Department of the Interior, including all accounts relating to the protection, survey, and sale of public lands and the reclamation of arid public lands, the Geological Survey, Bureau of Mines, Army and Navy pensions, Indian affairs, Howard University, the Government Hospital for the Insane, the Columbia Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, the Patent Office, the Capitol and grounds, and the Hot Springs Reservation.

AUDITOR FOR THE NAVY DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the Navy Department receives and settles all accounts of the Department of the Navy, including all accounts relating to the Naval Establishment, Marine Corps, and the Naval Academy.

AUDITOR FOR THE STATE AND OTHER DEPARTMENTS.

The Auditor for the State and other Departments receives and settles all accounts of the Departments of State, Justice, Agriculture, Commerce, and Labor, including all accounts relating to the Diplomatic and Consular Service, the judiciary, the United States courts, judgments of the United States courts and of the Court of Claims relating to accounts settled in his office, together with the accounts of the Executive Office, Civil Service Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, District of Columbia, Court of Claims, Smithsonian Institution, Territorial governments, the Senate, the House of Representatives, the Public Printer, Library of Congress, Botanic Garden, and all boards, commissions, and establishments of the Government not within the jurisdiction of any of the executive departments.

AUDITOR FOR THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

The Auditor for the Post Office Department receives and examines all accounts of the office of the Postmaster General and of all bureaus and offices under his direction; all postal and money-order accounts of postmasters and foreign administrations; all accounts relating to the transportation of mails and to all other business within the jurisdiction of the Post Office Department; and certifies the balances arising thereon to the Postmaster General for accounts of the postal revenue and expenditures therefrom, and to the Secretary of the Treasury for other accounts. He also receives and examines reports and accounts of postmasters operating postal savings banks, and accounts for expenditures from the appropriation for continuing the establishment, maintenance, and extension of the postal savings depositories. He registers, charges, and countersigns the warrants upon the Treasury issued in liquidation of indebtedness; superintends the collecting of debts due the United States for the service of the Post Office Department and all penalties imposed; directs suits and all legal proceedings in civil actions; and takes all legal measures to enforce the payment of money due the United States for the service of the Post Office Department, and for this purpose has direct official relations with the Solicitor of the Treasury, Department of Justice. He receives and accepts, with the written consent of the Postmaster General, offers of compromise under sections 295 and 409, Revised Statutes. He is required to submit to the Secretary of the Treasury quarterly statements of postal receipts and expenditures and to report to the Postmaster General the financial condition of the Post Office Department at the close of each fiscal year.

TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Treasurer of the United States is charged with the receipt and disbursement of all public moneys that may be deposited in the Treasury at Washington and in the subtreasuries, and in the national-bank depositories; is redemption agent for national-bank notes; is trustee for bonds held to secure national-bank circulation and public deposits in national banks, and bonds held to secure postal savings in banks; is custodian of miscellaneous trust funds; is fiscal agent for paying interest on the public debt and for paying the land-purchase bonds of the Philippine Islands, principal and interest; is treasurer of the board of trustees of the postal savings system; and is ex officio commissioner of the sinking fund of the District of Columbia.

REGISTER OF THE TREASURY.

The Register of the Treasury signs all bonds of the United States, the bonds of the District of Columbia, the Philippine Islands, the city of Manila, the city of Cebu, and the Porto Rican gold loan, and keeps records showing the daily outstanding balances thereof. He examines, counts, and prepares for destruction the upper halves of all redeemed paper money, except national-bank notes, received from banks through the office of the Treasurer of the United States for redemption, all paid interest coupons, and all other United States securities redeemed; also, from the Treasurer of the United States, all paid interest checks.

COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY.

The Comptroller of the Currency, under the general direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, has supervision of the national banks; the organization and examination of national banks; the preparation, issue, and redemption of their circulation; and the abstracting and consolidation of their reports of condition.

DIRECTOR OF THE MINT.

The Director of the Mint has general supervision of all the mints and assay offices of the United States. He prescribes the rules, to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, for the transaction of business at the mints and assay offices, receives daily reports of their operations, directs the coinage to be executed, reviews the accounts, authorizes all expenditures, superintends the annual settlements of the several institutions, and makes special examinations of them when deemed necessary. All appointments, removals, and transfers in the mints and assay offices are subject to his approval.

Tests of the weight and fineness of coins struck at the mints are made in the assay laboratory under his charge. He publishes quarterly an estimate of the value of the standard coins of foreign countries for customhouse and other public purposes. An annual report is prepared by the Director, giving the operations of the mint service for the fiscal year, printed in the Finance Report of the Secretary of the Treasury, and giving the statistics of the production of the precious metals in the United States and the world for the calendar year.

COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE.

The commissioner has general superintendence of the collection of all internal-revenue taxes, the enforcement of internal-revenue laws; employment of internal-revenue agents; compensation and duties of gaugers, storekeepers, and other subordinate officers; the preparation and distribution of stamps, instructions, regulations, forms, blanks, hydrometers, stationery, etc.

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE.

The act approved August 14, 1912, changed the name of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service to the Public Health Service, and considerably increased its powers and functions. The bureau of the service at Washington comprises seven divisions, each under a commissioned officer. The operations of these divisions are coordinated, and are under the immediate supervision of the Surgeon General.

Through the Division of Scientific Research and Sanitation are conducted the scientific investigations of the service and the operations of the Hygienic Laboratory at Washington, established for the investigation of contagious and infectious diseases and matters relating to the public health. The advisory board of the Hygienic Laboratory consists of eight scientists eminent in laboratory work in its relation to public health, detailed from other departments of the Government and appointed from endowed institutions. The board may be called into conference with the Surgeon General at any time, the meetings not to exceed 10 days in any one fiscal year. The Surgeon General is required by law to call a conference of all State and Territorial boards of health or quarantine authorities each year, the District of Columbia included, and special conferences when called for by not less than five of said authorities, and he is also authorized to call additional conferences when, in his opinion, the interests of public health demand it. He is charged with the enforcement of the act of July 1, 1902, "An act to regulate the sale of viruses, serums, toxins, and analogous products in the District of Columbia, to regulate interstate traffic in said articles, and for other purposes." He has supervision of special investigations upon leprosy, conducted in Hawaii under the act of July 1, 1905.

Through the Division of Foreign and Insular Quarantine and Immigration the Surgeon General enforces the national quarantine laws and prepares the regulations relating thereto. He has control of 44 Federal quarantine stations in the United States and others in the Philippines, Hawaii, and Porto Rico, and supervises the medical officers detailed in the offices of the American consular officers at foreign ports to prevent the introduction of contagious or infectious diseases into the United States. Under section 17 of the act approved February 20, 1907, he has supervision over the medical officers engaged in the physical and mental examinations of all arriving aliens.

Through the Division of Domestic (Interstate) Quarantine is enforced section 3 of the act of February 15, 1893, relating to the prevention of the spread of contagious or infectious diseases from one State or Territory into another. This includes the suppression of epidemics.

Through the Division of Sanitary Reports and Statistics there is collected information of the sanitary condition of foreign ports and places and ports and places within the United States, including the existence of epidemics. This information with morbidity and mortality statistics, domestic and foreign, are published in the weekly Public Health Reports and transmitted to State and municipal health officers and other sanitarians and to collectors of customs.

Through the Division of Marine Hospitals and Relief professional care is taken of sick and disabled seamen at 23 marine hospitals and 123 other relief stations. The beneficiaries include officers and crews of registered, enrolled, or licensed vessels of the United States and of the Revenue-Cutter Service and Lighthouse Service; seamen employed on vessels of the Mississippi River Commission and of the Engineer Corps of the Army; keepers and surfmen of the Life-Saving Service. A purveying depot for the purchase and issuance of supplies is maintained at Washington. Physical examinations of keepers and surfmen of the Life-Saving Service, of officers and seamen of the Revenue-Cutter Service, and the examinations for the detection of color-blindness in masters, mates, and pilots are conducted through this division.

In the Division of Personnel and Accounts are kept the records of the officers and of the expenditures of the appropriations.

Through the Miscellaneous Division the various service publications are issued, including the annual reports, public health reports and reprints, public health bulletins, bulletins of the Hygienic Laboratory and Yellow Fever Institute, and the transactions of the annual conferences with State health authorities. The medical evidences of disability in claims for benefits against the Life-Saving Service are reviewed.

REVENUE-CUTTER SERVICE.

The captain commandant of the Revenue-Cutter Service is Chief of the Division of Revenue-Cutter Service and has charge, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, of the organization and government of the Revenue-Cutter Service.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing designs, engraves, prints, and finishes all of the securities and other similar work of the Government printed from steel plates, embracing United States notes, bonds, and certificates, national-bank notes, internal-revenue, postage, and custom stamps, Treasury drafts and checks, disbursing officers' checks, licenses, commissions, patent and pension certificates, and portraits authorized by law of deceased Members of Congress and other public officers.

GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT OF THE LIFE-SAVING SERVICE.

It is the duty of the general superintendent to supervise the organization and government of the employees of the service; to prepare and revise regulations therefor as may be necessary; to supervise the expenditure of all appropriations made for the support and maintenance of the Life-Saving Service; to examine the accounts of disbursements of the district superintendents, and to certify the same to the accounting officers of the Treasury Department; to examine the property returns of the keepers of the several stations, and see that all public property thereto belonging is properly accounted for; to acquaint himself, as far as practicable, with all means employed in foreign countries which may seem to advantageously affect the interest of the service, and to cause to be properly investigated all plans, devices, and inventions for the improvement of life-saving apparatus for use at the stations which may appear to be meritorious and available; to exercise supervision over the selection of sites for new stations the establishment of which may be authorized by law, or for old ones the removal of which may be made necessary by the encroachment of the sea or by other causes; to prepare and submit to the Secretary of the Treasury estimates for the support of the service; to collect and compile the statistics of marine disasters, as contemplated by the act of June 20, 1874, and to submit to the Secretary of the Treasury, for transmission to Congress, an annual report of the expenditures of the moneys appropriated for the maintenance of the Life-Saving Service and of the operations of said service during the year.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR.

SECRETARY OF WAR.

The Secretary of War is head of the War Department, and performs such duties as are required of him by law or may be enjoined upon him by the President concerning the military service.

He is charged by law with the supervision of all estimates of appropriations for the expenses of the department, including the military establishment; of all purchases of Army supplies; of all expenditures for the support, transportation, and maintenance of the Army, and of such expenditures of a civil nature as may be placed by Congress under his direction.

He also has supervision of the United States Military Academy at West Point and of military education in the Army, of the Board of Ordnance and Fortification, of the various battle-field commissions, and of the publication of the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion.

He has charge of all matters relating to national defense and seacoast fortifications, Army ordnance, river and harbor improvements, the prevention of obstruction to navigation, and the establishment of harbor lines; and all plans and locations of bridges authorized by Congress to be constructed over the navigable waters of the United States require his approval. He also has charge of the establishment or abandonment of military posts, and of all matters relating to leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR.

To the Assistant Secretary of War is assigned the general direction and supervision of all matters relating to rivers and harbors; bridges over navigable waters of the United States; leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department; inspections relating to the military establishment; recruiting service, discharges, commutation of rations, courts-martial, and other questions relating to enlisted men, including clemency cases and matters relating to prisoners at military prisons and penitentiaries.

He also has charge of all matters relating to the militia; the supervision of miscellaneous claims and accounts; matters relating to national cemeteries, boards of survey, open-market purchases, and medals of honor.

The Assistant Secretary of War is also vested with authority to decide all cases which do not involve questions of policy, the establishment or reversal of precedents, or matters of special or extraordinary importance.

ASSISTANT AND CHIEF CLERK.

The Assistant and Chief Clerk of the War Department is the head of the Office of the Secretary of War, and as such has charge of the records and files, and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of that office, and is charged with the administrative action required by law to be taken in connection with the settlement of disbursing officers' accounts that do not relate to the different staff corps of the Army. He has general supervision of matters relating to civilian employees in and under the War Department; printing and binding and advertising for the War Department and the Army; appropriations for contingent expenses, stationery, rent of buildings; and the department's telegraph and telephone service; and performs such other duties as may be required by the Secretary of War.

GENERAL STAFF.

The General Staff Corps was organized under the provisions of act of Congress approved February 14, 1903. Its principal duties are to prepare plans for the national defense and for the mobilization of the military forces in time of war; to investigate and report upon all questions affecting the efficiency of the Army and its state of preparation for military operations; to render professional aid and assistance to the Secretary of War and to general officers and other superior commanders and to act as their agents in informing and coordinating the action of all the different officers who are subject to the supervision of the Chief of Staff, and to perform such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be from time to time prescribed by the President.

The Chief of Staff, under direction of the President, or of the Secretary of War, under the direction of the President, has supervision of all troops of the line, of The Adjutant General's Department in matters pertaining to the command, discipline, or administration of the existing military establishment, and of the Inspector General's, Judge Advocate General's, Medical and Ordnance Departments, the Quartermaster Corps, the Corps of Engineers, and the Signal Corps, and performs such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be assigned to him by the President. For purposes of administration the office of the Chief of Staff constitutes a supervising military bureau of the War Department. Duties formerly prescribed by statute for the Commanding General of the Army as a member of the Board of Ordnance and Fortification and of the Board of Commissioners of the Soldiers' Home are performed by the Chief of Staff or some other officer designated by the President.

DIVISION OF MILITIA AFFAIRS.

The Division of Militia Affairs is vested with the transaction of business pertaining to the organized and unorganized militia of the United States, its jurisdiction embracing all administrative duties involving the armament, equipment, discipline, training, education, and organization of the militia; the conduct of camps of instruction and participation in the field exercises and maneuvers of the Regular Army; the mobilization and relations of the militia to the Regular Army in time of peace; and all matters pertaining to the militia not herein generically enumerated which do not, under existing laws, regulations, orders, or practice, come within the jurisdiction of any other division or bureau of the War Department. It is the central office of record for all matters pertaining to the militia not in the military service of the United States.

MILITARY BUREAUS.

The chiefs of the military bureaus of the War Department are officers of the Regular Army of the United States and a part of the military establishment, viz:

The Adjutant General is charged with the duty of recording, authenticating, and communicating to troops and individuals in the military service all orders, instructions, and regulations issued by the Secretary of War through the Chief of Staff; of preparing and distributing commissions; of compiling and issuing the Army Register and the Army List and Directory; of consolidating the general returns of the Army; of arranging and preserving the reports of officers detailed to visit encampments of militia; of preparing the annual returns of the militia required by law to be submitted to Congress; of managing the recruiting service; and of recording and issuing orders from the War Department remitting or mitigating sentences of general prisoners who have been discharged from the military service. The Adjutant General is vested by law with the charge, under the Secretary of War, "of the military and hospital records of the Volunteer Armies and the pension and other business of the War Department connected therewith;" and of the publication and distribution of the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion. He also has charge of the historical records and business of the permanent military establishment, including all pension, pay, bounty, and other business pertaining to or based upon the military or medical histories of former officers or enlisted men. The archives of the Adjutant General's office include all military records of the Revolutionary War; the records of all organizations, officers, and enlisted men that have been in the military service of the United States since the Revolutionary War; the records of the movements and operations of troops; the medical and hospital records of the Army; all reports of physical examination of recruits and all identification cards; the records of the Provost Marshal General's Bureau; the records of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen, and Abandoned Lands; the Confederate records, including those pertaining to the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of the Confederate Government.

The chief of the Quartermaster's Corps, aided by assistants, provides transportation for the Army; also clothing and equipage, horses, mules, and wagons, vessels, forage, stationery, clothing and equipage for the militia; purchases subsistence supplies for issue as rations to troops, civil employees, etc.; subsistence of masters, officers, and crews of vessels of the Army transport service; meals for recruiting parties and applicants for enlistment, etc.; authorizes issue of soap, candles, etc.; supply of subsistence articles for authorized sales; supply of coffee roasters and cooking apparatus in the field; bake ovens and apparatus pertaining thereto; constructs necessary buildings, wharves, roads, and bridges at military posts and repairs the same; furnishes water, heating and lighting apparatus; fuel for heating public buildings, operating vessels, etc.; pay of clerks, laborers, etc.; pay of officers and enlisted men of the Army, including Staff Corps and staff departments; pay of Porto Rico Regiment of Infantry and Philippine Scouts; pay of retired officers and retired enlisted men; commutation of quarters for commissioned officers, etc.; pay of dental surgeons, acting dental surgeons, contract surgeons, pay clerks; interest on soldiers' deposits, etc.

The Surgeon General is the adviser of the War Department upon all medical and sanitary affairs of the Army. He has administrative control of the Medical Department; the disbursement of its appropriations; the designation of the stations of medical officers and dental officers, and the issuing of all orders and instructions relating to their professional duties; the recruitment, instruction, and control of the Hospital Corps and of the Army Nurse Corps. He directs as to the selection, purchase, and distribution of the medical supplies of the Army. The Army Medical Museum, the library of the Surgeon General's Office, medical supply depots, and the general hospitals are under his direct control.

The Chief of Engineers commands the Corps of Engineers, which is charged with all duties relating to construction and repair of fortifications, whether permanent or temporary; with all works of defense; with all military roads and bridges, and with such surveys as may be required for these objects, or the movement of armies in the field. It is also charged with the river and harbor improvements, with military and geographical explorations and surveys, with the survey of the lakes, and with any other engineer work specially assigned to the corps by acts of Congress or orders of the Secretary of War.

The Chief of Ordnance commands the Ordnance Department, the duties of which consist in providing, preserving, distributing, and accounting for every description of artillery, small arms, and all the munitions of war which may be required for the fortresses of the country, the armies in the field, and for the whole body of the militia of the Union. In these duties are comprised that of determining the general principles of construction and of prescribing in detail the models and forms of all military weapons employed in war. They comprise also the duty of prescribing the regulations for the proof and inspection of all these weapons, for maintaining uniformity and economy in their fabrication, for insuring their good quality, and for their preservation and distribution.

The Judge Advocate General is directed by law to "receive, review, and cause to be recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, and military commissions." He also furnishes the Secretary of War information and advice relating to lands under control of the War Department, and reports and opinions upon legal questions arising under the laws, regulations, and customs pertaining to the Army, and upon questions arising under the civil law; reports upon applications for clemency in the cases of military prisoners; examines and prepares legal papers relating to the erection of bridges over navigable waters; drafts bonds and examines those given to the United States by disbursing officers, colleges, and others; examines, revises, and drafts charges and specifications against officers and soldiers; and also drafts and examines deeds, contracts, licenses, leases, and legal paper generally.

The Chief Signal Officer is charged with the supervision of all military signal duties, and of books, papers, and devices connected therewith, including telegraph and telephone apparatus and the necessary meteorological instruments for use on target ranges and other military uses; the construction, repair, and operation of military telegraph lines and cables, and the duty of collecting and transmitting information for the Army by telegraph or otherwise, and all other duties usually pertaining to military signaling.

To the Bureau of Insular Affairs, under the immediate direction of the Secretary of War, is assigned all matters pertaining to civil government in the island possessions of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the War Department, the Philippine Islands and Porto Rico being the only ones so subject at the present time. The bureau is also the repository of the civil records of the government of occupation of Cuba (Jan. 1, 1899, to May 20, 1902) and had assigned to it matters pertaining to the provisional government of Cuba (Sept. 29, 1906, to Jan. 28, 1909). It prepares for publication executive documents relating to the Philippines and Porto Rico; makes a comptroller's review of the receipts and expenditures of the Philippine Government, attends to the purchase in the United States of supplies for that Government and arranges their shipment to Manila. It has charge of appointments of persons in the United States to the Philippine civil service and their transportation. It gathers statistics of insular imports and exports, shipping and immigration, and issues quarterly summaries of the same.

BOARD OF ENGINEERS FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS.

The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors is a permanent body created by the river and harbor act of June 13, 1902. To it are referred for consideration and recommendation all reports upon examinations and surveys provided for by Congress, and all projects or changes in projects for works of river and harbor improvement upon which report is desired by the Chief of Engineers, United States Army. It is further the duty of the board, upon request by the Committee on Commerce of the Senate, or by the Committee on Rivers and Harbors of the House of Representatives in the same manner, to examine and report through the Chief of Engineers upon any examinations, surveys, or projects for the improvement of rivers and harbors. In its investigations the board gives consideration to all engineering, commercial, navigation, and economic questions involved in determining the advisability of undertaking such improvements at the expense of the United States.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Attorney General is the head of the Department of Justice and the chief law officer of the Government. He represents the United States in matters involving legal questions; he gives his advice and opinion, when they are required by the President or by the heads of the other executive departments, on questions of law arising in the administration of their respective departments; he appears in the Supreme Court of the United States in cases of especial gravity and importance; he exercises a general superintendence and direction over United States attorneys and marshals in all judicial districts in the States and Territories; and he provides special counsel for the United States whenever required by any department of the Government.

SOLICITOR GENERAL.

The Solicitor General assists the Attorney General in the performance of his general duties, and by special provision of law, in case of a vacancy in the office of the Attorney General, or of his absence or disability, exercises all those duties. Under the direction of the Attorney General, he has general charge of the business of the Government in the Supreme Court of the United States, and is assisted in the conduct and argument of cases therein by the Assistant Attorneys General. He also, with the approval of the Attorney General, prepares opinions rendered to the President and the heads of the executive departments, and confers with and directs the law officers of the Government throughout the country in the performance of their duties. When the Attorney General so directs, any case in which the United States is interested, in any court of the United States, may be conducted and argued by the Solicitor General; and he may be sent by the Attorney General to attend to the interests of the United States in any State court, or elsewhere.

THE ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Assistant to the Attorney General has special charge of all suits and other matters arising under the Federal antitrust and interstate-commerce laws, and performs such other duties as may be required of him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEYS GENERAL.

The several Assistant Attorneys General assist the Attorney General in the performance of his duties. They assist in the argument of cases in the Supreme Court and in the preparation of legal opinions.

Four Assistant Attorneys General are located in the main department building at 1435 K Street, and, in addition to their general duties, particular subjects are assigned to them by the Attorney General for the transaction of business arising thereunder with United States attorneys, other departments, and private parties in interest.

The office of the Assistant Attorney General, including a number of assistant attorneys and clerks charged with defending suits in the Court of Claims, is located at 8 Jackson Place.

The Assistant Attorney General charged with the defense of Indian depredation claims is located in the Bond Building, at the corner of Fourteenth Street and New York Avenue.

The Assistant Attorney General in charge of the interests of the Government in all matters of reappraisement and classification of imported goods in litigation before the several boards of United States General Appraisers and the Court of Customs Appeals is located at 641 Washington Street, New York.

The Assistant Attorneys General and the solicitors for the several executive departments, under the provisions of sections 349–350, Revised Statutes, exercise their functions under the supervision and control of the Attorney General. They are the Assistant Attorney General for the Department of the Interior, the Solicitor for the Department of State, the Solicitor of the Treasury, the Solicitor of Internal Revenue, and the Solicitor of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL FOR THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT.

This Assistant Attorney General is the chief law officer of that department. When requested he advises the Secretary and Assistant Secretaries upon questions of law arising in the administration of the department. All appeals from the General Land Office are sent to his office for consideration. Oral arguments are heard by him in the more important cases, or by brief; and decisions are prepared under his supervision for the signature of the Secretary or First Assistant Secretary, as the case may be. The Assistant Attorney General is aided in this and his other work by a number of assistant attorneys.

SOLICITOR FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

The solicitor is the chief law officer of that department. He advises the Secretary and Assistant Secretaries upon questions of municipal and international law referred to him, passes upon claims of citizens of the United States against foreign Governments, claims of subjects or citizens of foreign Governments against the United States, and upon applications for the extradition of criminals. The assistant solicitor acts as solicitor in the absence of the latter, and in the division of the work of the office has general charge of extradition and citizenship matters.

SOLICITOR OF THE TREASURY.

The Solicitor of the Treasury is charged with the supervision of much of the litigation of the Government, and it is his duty to give necessary instructions to United States attorneys, marshals, and clerks of courts in matters and proceedings appertaining to the suits under his superintendence, and to require reports from such officers; to take cognizance of all frauds or attempted frauds upon the revenue (customs) and to exercise a general supervision over the measures for their prevention and detection and for the prosecution of persons charged with the commission thereof; to have charge of lands acquired by the United States in payment of debts (except internal revenue); to make recommendations on offers of compromise (except in post-office cases and in internal-revenue cases before judgment); to effect the release of property owned or held by the United States where it has been attached; to approve the bonds of United States assistant treasurers, collectors of internal revenue, and department disbursing clerks, and to examine all contracts of, and official bonds filed in, the Treasury Department; to issue distress warrants against delinquent collectors and other officers receiving public money, and disbursing officers and their sureties; to examine titles to life-saving station sites; and as the law officer of the Treasury Department to give legal advice to the Secretary and other officers of that department on matters arising therein.

SOLICITOR OF INTERNAL REVENUE.

A Solicitor of Internal Revenue was added to the Internal-Revenue Office corps by the act of July 13, 1866 (14 Stat., 170), but by the act of June 22, 1870 (16 Stat., 162), organizing the Department of Justice, the solicitor was formally transferred to that department. He is the law officer and legal adviser of the commissioner. The only duties of his of which mention is made by law are in connection with internal-revenue compromise cases, section 3229, Revised Statutes.

SOLICITOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

The solicitor is the chief law officer of that department. His duties are to act as legal adviser for the Secretary of Commerce and the chiefs of the various bureaus of said department; to prepare and examine all contracts and bonds entered into or required by the said department; and to render such legal services in connection with matters arising in the administrative work of the Department of Commerce as may be desired by the head of the department or required of him by the Attorney General.

SOLICITOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

The solicitor is the chief law officer of that department. His duties are to act as legal adviser for the Secretary of Labor and the chiefs of the various bureaus of said department; to prepare and examine all contracts and bonds entered into or required by said department; and to render such legal services in connection with matters arising in the administrative work of the Department of Labor as may be desired by the head of the department or required of him by the Attorney General.

THE PUBLIC LANDS DIVISION.

This division was created by the Attorney General November 16, 1909. To it are assigned all suits and proceedings concerning the enforcement of the public-land law, including suits or proceedings to set aside conveyances of allotted lands.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk, under the direction of the Attorney General, has general supervision of the clerks and employees; the consideration of applications for leave of absence; the direction of the force of laborers, charwomen, and watchmen; superintends all buildings occupied by the department in Washington; has charge of the horses, wagons, and carriages employed; has supervision of the Division of Mails and Files; the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department and the United States courts; the expenditure of the appropriations for contingent expenses and rents; supervision of the library; the consideration of requisitions upon the Public Printer for printing and binding; and supervision of the preparation of the annual report and the estimates of the department.

DISBURSING CLERK.

The disbursing clerk disburses funds from more than 50 appropriations under the direction of the Attorney General, including the salaries of the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, the judges of the other United States courts throughout the country, including the Territories; of the United States attorneys, marshals, and other court officials, and of the officials of the department proper; the contingent expenses of the department and other miscellaneous appropriations.

SUPERINTENDENT OF PRISONS.

The superintendent of prisons has charge, under the direction of the Attorney General, of all matters relating to United States prisons and prisoners, including the support of such prisoners in both State and Federal penitentiaries, in reform schools, and in county jails. He has supervision over the construction work in progress at United States penal institutions.

The superintendent of prisons is ex officio the president of the boards of parole for the United States penitentiaries and the president of the board of parole for United States prisoners in each State or county institution used for the confinement of United States prisoners.

APPOINTMENT CLERK.

The appointment clerk has charge of all matters relating to applications, recommendations, and appointments, including certifications by the Civil Service Commission; conducts correspondence pertaining thereto; perpares nominations sent to the Senate; prepares commissions and appointments for the officers and employees of the department in Washington, and for United States judges, attorneys, and marshals and other officers under the department. He also compiles the Register of the Department of Justice and matter relating to that department for the Official Register of the United States.

ATTORNEY IN CHARGE OF PARDONS.

The attorney in charge of pardons takes charge of all applications for Executive clemency, except those in Army and Navy cases, these being referred to the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, respectively; of the briefing of the cases and the correspondence in relation to them.

ATTORNEY IN CHARGE OF TITLES.

The attorney in charge of titles prepares opinions upon the title to lands belonging to or sought to be acquired by the Government for public purposes and opinions upon all legal matters growing out of the same. He has charge of all proceedings to acquire land under eminent domain, and conducts all the correspondence relating to the above matters.

DIVISION OF ACCOUNTS.

The Division of Accounts examines accounts payable from judiciary appropriations, including accounts of United States marshals, attorneys, clerks, and commissioners; conducts the correspondence relatin gthereto; authorizes certain court expenses; supervises the advancing of funds to United States marshals; prepares certain data for the annual report; and compiles the estimates of appropriations.

CHIEF OF THE DIVISION OF INVESTIGATION.

The chief of the Division of Investigation has general supervision of the examination of the offices and records of the Federal court officials throughout the United States, and directs the work of all the examiners, special agents, and accountants of the department, whose compensation or expenses are paid from the appropriation "Detection and prosecution of crimes," and who are employed for the purpose of collecting evidence or of making investigations or examinations of any kind for this department or the officers thereof.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The Postmaster General is the executive head of the Federal postal service. He appoints all officers and employees of the Post Office Department except the four Assistant Postmasters General and the purchasing agent, who are Presidential appointees. With the exception of postmasters of the first, second, and third classes, who are likewise Presidential appointees, he appoints all postmasters and all other officers and employees of the service at large. Subject to the approval of the President, he makes postal treaties with foreign Governments. He awards and executes contracts and directs the management of the Foreign Mail Service. He is the executive head of the Postal Savings System and ex officio chairman of the board of trustees of that system.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk of the Post Office Department is charged with the general superintendence of the clerical force of the department; the supervision of the preparation of estimates for the departmental and postal service; the keeping of the journals and order books; the supervision of the advertising; the supervision of expenditure of the appropriations for the departmental service; the preparation of contracts for the publication of the Official Guide, compilation of matter therefor, and supervision of its publication and distribution; correspondence in regard to parcel post matters and miscellaneous business correspondence of the Postmaster General's office; the care of the department and other buildings rented in connection therewith, and of all the furniture and public property therein; also the direction of the force of laborers and charwomen, and general superintendence of the watchmen through the captain of the watch; and the performance of such other duties as may be required by the Postmaster General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL FOR THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

The Assistant Attorney General for the Post Office Department is the chief law officer of that department. He is charged with the duty of giving opinions to the Postmaster General and the heads of the several offices of the department upon questions of law arising upon the construction of the Postal Laws and Regulations, or otherwise, in the course of business in the postal service; with the consideration and submission (with advice) to the Postmaster General of all claims of postmasters for losses by fire, burglary, or other unavoidable casualty, and of all certifications by the Auditor for the Post Office Department of cases of proposed compromise of liabilities to the United States, and of the remission of fines, penalties, and forfeitures under the statutes; the keeping and preparation of all correspondence with the Department of Justice relating to prosecutions and suits affecting or arising out of the postal service; and with the consideration of applications for pardon for crimes committed against the postal laws which may be referred to the department; with the preparation and submission (with advice) to the Postmaster General of all appeals to him from the heads of the offices of the department depending upon questions of law; with the determining of questions as to the delivery of mail the ownership of which is in dispute; with the hearing and consideration of cases relating to lotteries and the misuse of the mails in furtherance of schemes to defraud the public; with the consideration of all questions relating to the mailability of alleged indecent, obscene, scurrilous, or defamatory matter; with the examining and, when necessary, drafting, of all contracts of the department; and with such other like duties as may from time be required by the Postmaster General.

PURCHASING AGENT.

The purchasing agent supervises the purchase of all supplies both for the Post Office Department proper and for all branches of the postal service. He reviews all requisitions and authorizations for supplies, and if proper honors the same. He passes upon the sufficiency and propriety of all specifications for proposals for supplies; prepares the advertisements and forms for proposals necessary to the making of contracts for supplies; reviews the reports of the committees on awards and recommends to the Postmaster General such action as in his judgment should be taken thereon.

CHIEF INSPECTOR.

The chief inspector supervises the work of post-office inspectors and of the division of post-office inspectors. To him is charged the consideration and adjustment of accounts of inspectors for salary and expenses, the preparation and issue of all cases for investigation, all matters relating to depredations upon the mails and losses therein, the custody of money and property collected or received by inspectors, and the restoration thereof to the proper parties or owners. To his office are referred all complaints of losses or irregularities in the mails and all reported violations of the postal laws.

FIRST ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The First Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions, to which are assigned the duties specified:

Postmasters' appointments.—The preparation of cases for the appointment of postmasters, and for the change of name of post offices; the recording of appointments of postmasters, the supervision of their bonding, the obtaining, recording, and filing of their oaths, and the issuing of their commissions; the consideration of charges and complaints against postmasters; the granting of leaves of absence to postmasters; the regulation of hours of business at post offices, and the handling of certain miscellaneous correspondence relating to postmasters and post offices.

Salaries and allowances.—The annual readjustment of presidential postmasters' salaries; the preparation of cases for allowances for clerk hire, rent, light, fuel, canceling machines, and miscellaneous items; the supervision and recording of the appointment, bonding, removal, and salaries of assistant postmasters and other post-office employees, except letter carriers; the fixing of the sites of presidential post offices; the establishment of postal stations; the execution of leases, and the regulation of box rents and key deposits.

The Second Assistant Postmaster General is charged with the general supervision of matters pertaining to the transportation of the domestic and foreign mails by means of railroads, electric and cable cars, screen wagons and pneumatic tubes in cities, steamboats, steamships, mail messengers, and by star routes in Alaska; and his bureau comprises five divisions with duties as hereinafter indicated.

Railway adjustments.—Has charge of the preparation of cases authorizing the transportation of mails by railroads; the establishment of railway postal car service and changes in existing service; prepares orders and instructions for the weighing of the mails on railroads; receives and tabulates the returns and computes basis of pay therefrom; prepares cases for adjustment of allowances to railroads for carrying the mails, and for postal cars; authorizes expenditures and credits for the weighing of the mails, and transportation by freight or express of postal cards, stamped envelopes, periodical mail matter, and mail equipment; examiners reports as to the performance of mail service by railroad companies; prepares orders for deductions for nonperformance of service and for imposition of fines for delinquencies; prepares statements of amounts found upon administrative examination to be due the companies for transportation of the mails and for railway post office car service, and forwards such statements to the Auditor for the Post Office Department for audit and certification for payment; and prepares all correspondence relative to these matters.

Miscellaneous transportation.—Has charge of the preparation of cases authorizing the transportation of mails by electric and cable cars, screen wagons, and pneumatic tubes in cities, and by mail messengers; also prepares advertisements inviting proposals for steamboat service, and all star service in the Territory of Alaska, and orders for awarding the contracts for such service and authorizing changes therein; examines reports as to the performance of mail service by contractors and carriers on the several classes of mail routes; prepares orders for deductions for nonperformance of service and for imposition of fines for delinquencies; prepares statements of amounts found upon administrative examination to be due the various public creditors for mail service, and forwards such statements to the Auditor for the Post Office Department for audit and certification for payment; and prepares all correspondence relative to these matters.

Foreign mails.—Is charged with the duty of arranging all details connected with the transportation of foreign mails; the preparation of postal conventions (except those relative to the money order system) and the regulations for their execution, as well as the consideration of the questions arising under them, and with the preparation of all correspondence relative thereto. Also has supervision of the ocean-mail service, including the adjustment of accounts with steamship companies for the transportation of mails to foreign countries.

Railway Mail Service.—Is charged with the supervision of the Railway Mail Service and railway postal clerks; prepares cases for the appointment, removal, promotion, and reduction of said clerks; conducts correspondence and issues orders relative to the moving of the mails on railroad trains; has charge of the dispatch and distribution of mail matter in railway postal cars and post offices; conducts the weighing of mails; and attends to all correspondence relative to these matters.

Equipment.—Is charged with the preparation of matters pertaining to the furnishing of mail bags, mail locks and keys, label cases, and mail-bag cord fasteners; the issuing of such articles for the use of the service, repairing of the same, the keeping of records and accounts pertaining thereto, and the preparation of correspondence incident to these duties.

THIRD ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The Third Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions:

Finance.—The financial operations, including the collection and deposit of postal revenues; the distribution of postal funds among the several subtreasuries so as to equalize, as far as possible, receipts and expenditures in the same section; the payment by warrant of all accounts settled by the auditor; the receipt and disposition of all moneys coming directly to the department; and the keeping of books of account showing the fiscal operations of the postal and money order services.

Stamps.—The supervision of the manufacture and issuance to postmasters of postage stamps, stamp books, stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers, postal cards, and postal savings stamps and cards by the various contractors; and the keeping of the accounts and records of these transactions.

Money orders.—The supervision and management of the money-order service, both domestic and international; the preparation of conventions for the exchange of money orders with foreign countries.

Registered mails.—The supervision and management of the registered-mail service; the establishment and control of all through registry exchanges; the instruction of all postmasters in registry matters; and the consideration of all claims for limited indemnity for lost registered matter.

Classification.—The general control of all business relating to the classification of domestic mail matter and the rates of postage thereon, including the determination of the admissibility of publications to the second class of mail matter and their right to continue in that class, the general supervision of those therein, and the instruction of postmasters relative thereto; also the use of penalty envelopes, the franking privilege, and the limit of weight of mail matter.

Redemption.—The receipt and disposition of damaged and unsalable stamped paper returned by postmasters for redemption and credit.

FOURTH ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The Fourth Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions:

Rural mails.—In this division all petitions for the establishment and extension of Rural Delivery Service are received and examined, and, if accepted, prepared for investigation. Through it all orders pertaining to the extension or change of existing service or establishment of new service are issued; also all orders pertaining to the appointment and discipline of rural letter carriers and all other correspondence incident to these matters, including requirements with reference to rural-mail boxes. This division also prepares all advertisements inviting proposals for star-route service (except in the Territory of Alaska), receives proposals, prepares awards for execution of all contracts, and prepares all orders for establishment of or change in star routes. All matters pertaining to the establishment, discontinuance, and change of site of post offices of the fourth class are also within the jurisdiction of this division.

Supplies.—Has custody of supplies for the postal service, and distributes the same upon proper requisition.

Dead letters.—Has charge of the treatment of all unmailable and undelivered mail matter which is sent to it for disposition; the enforcement of the prompt sending of such matter according to regulations; the duty of noting and correcting errors of postmasters connected with the delivery or withholding of mail matter, and the investigation, by correspondence, of complaints made with reference thereto; the verification and allowance of claims for credit by postmasters for postage-due stamps affixed to undelivered matter; the examination and forwarding or return of all letters which have failed of delivery; the inspection and return to the country of origin of undelivered foreign matter; recording and restoration to owners of letters and parcels which contain valuable inclosures; care and disposition of all money, negotiable paper, and other valuable articles found in undelivered matter and correspondence, both foreign and domestic, relating to these subjects.

Topography.—Has charge of the making, printing, and distribution of post-route maps, including the maps of the Rural Free Delivery Service.

DIRECTOR OF THE POSTAL SAVINGS SYSTEM.

The Director of the Postal Savings System, under the direction of the Postmaster General, has general supervision over postal savings depositories, the conduct of postal savings business at post offices, the correspondence and records of the department pertaining to the Postal Savings System, and the administrative examination of the postal savings accounts of postmasters and other agents accountable to the Postmaster General.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY.

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The Secretary of the Navy performs such duties as the President of the United States, who is Commander in Chief, may assign him, and has the general superintendence of construction, manning, armament, equipment, and employment of vessels of war.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy performs such duties in the Navy Department as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy or required by law.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk has general charge of the records and correspondence of the Secretary's office, and performs such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Secretary of the Navy.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The duties of the Bureau of Navigation comprise the issue, record, and enforcement of the orders of the Secretary to the individual officers of the Navy; the training and education of line officers and of enlisted men (except of the hospital corps) at schools and stations and in vessels maintained for that purpose; the supervision and control of the Naval Academy, technical schools for line officers, the apprentice seaman establishment, schools for the technical education of enlisted seamen, and the Naval Home at Philadelphia, Pa.; the maintenance and repair of the Naval War College; the enlistment, assignment to duty, and discharge of all enlisted persons and the preparation of estimates for the pay of all officers and enlisted men.

It is charged with all matters pertaining to the Naval Militia and naval districts and the operation of the radio service.

It has under its direction all rendezvous and receiving ships, and provides transportation for all enlisted persons under its cognizance.

It establishes the complements of all ships in commission.

It keeps the records of service of all officers and men, and prepares an annual Navy register for publication, embodying therein data as to fleets, squadrons, and ships furnished by the aid for operations.

It is charged with all matters pertaining to applications for appointments and commissions in the Navy and with the preparation of such appointments and commissions for signature.

It is charged with the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all regulations governing uniform, and with the distribution of all orders and regulations of a general or circular character.

Questions of naval discipline, rewards, and punishments are submitted by this bureau for the action of the Secretary of the Navy. The records of all general courts-martial and courts of inquiry involving the personnel of the Navy, before final action, are referred to this bureau for comment as to disciplinary features.

It receives and brings to the attention of the Secretary of the Navy all applications from officers for duty or leave.

It receives all reports of services performed by individual officers or men.

It is charged with the enforcement of regulations and instructions regarding naval ceremonies and naval etiquette.

It is charged with the upkeep and operation of the Hydrographic Office, the Naval Observatory, Nautical Almanac, and Compass Offices; with all that relates to the supply of ships with navigational outfits, including instruments, and with the maintenance and repair of the same; with the collection of foreign surveys; and with the publication and supply of charts, sailing directions, and nautical works, and the dissemination of nautical, hydrographic, and meteorological information to the Navy and mercantile marine. It shall also have charge of all ocean and lake surveys and ships' and crews' libraries; it shall defray the expenses of pilotage of all ships in commission.

BUREAU OF YARDS AND DOCKS.

The duties of the Bureau of Yards and Docks comprise all that relates to the design and construction of all docks (including dry docks), slips, wharves, piers, quay walls, and buildings of all kinds for whatever purpose needed under the Navy Department, and the maintenance of the same, except at the naval proving ground, the naval torpedo station, the naval training stations, the Naval War College, and the Naval Academy, and magazines outside of navy yards. It prepares the plans and makes the estimates for the above structures, after consulting with the chief of the bureau for whose use they are designed, as to their internal arrangement. It repairs and requires for furniture for all buildings in navy yards. It provides light and water for all buildings, or for whatever other purposes they may be needed in navy yards; and requires for all the fuel except that which is used by other bureaus. CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk is the chief executive officer of the department and the administrative head of the Office of the Secretary. He has supervision over the clerks and employees of the department, enforces the general regulations of the department, is superintendent of the buildings occupied by the department, and supervises all business relating to eleemosynary institutions in the District of Columbia and national parks and reservations. During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretaries he may be designated by the Secretary to sign official papers and documents.

COMMISSIONER OF PATENTS.

The Commissioner of Patents is charged with the administration of the patent laws, and supervision of all matters relating to the granting of letters patent for inventions, and the registration of trade-marks. He is by statute made the tribunal of last resort in the Patent Office, and has appellate jurisdiction in the trial of interference cases, of the patentability of inventions, and of registration of trade-marks.[1]

COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS.

The Commissioner of Pensions supervises the examination and adjudication of all claims arising under laws passed by Congress granting pensions on account of service in the Army or Navy; claims for reimbursement for the expenses of the last sickness and burial of deceased pensioners; and also claims for bounty-land warrants based upon military or naval service rendered prior to March 3, 1855.

COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office is charged with the survey, management, and disposition of the public lands, the adjudication of conflicting claims relating thereto, the granting of railroad and other rights of way, easements, the issuance of patents for lands, and with furnishing certified copies of land patents and of records, plats, and papers on file in his office. In national forests he executes all laws relating to surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, reconveying, or patenting of public lands, and to the granting of rights of way amounting to easements.

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has charge of the Indian tribes of the United States (exclusive of Alaska), their lands, moneys, schools, purchase of supplies, and general welfare.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION.

The Commissioner of Education collects statistics and general information showing the condition and progress of education, issues an annual report in two volumes, a bulletin in several numbers annually, and miscellaneous publications; has charge of the schools for the education of native children in Alaska; supervises the reindeer industry in Alaska, and administers the endowment fund for the support of colleges for the benefit of agriculture and mechanic arts.

DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Director of the Geological Survey is charged under direction of the Secretary of the Interior with classification of the public lands and the examination of the geologic structure, mineral resources, and mineral products of the national domain. In conformity with this authorization, the Geological Survey has been engaged in making a geologic map of the United States, involving both topographic and geologic surveys, in collecting annually the statistics of mineral production, and in conducting investigations relating to surface and underground waters.

DIRECTOR OF THE RECLAMATION SERVICE.

The Director of the Reclamation Service, under the personal supervision and direction of the Secretary, is charged with the survey, construction, and operation of the irrigation works in arid States, authorized by the act of June 17, 1902.

DIRECTOR OF THE BUREAU OF MINES.

The Director of the Bureau of Mines is charged with the investigations of the methods of mining, especially in relation to the safety of miners and the appliances best adapted to prevent accidents, the possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on, the treatment of ores and other mineral substances, the use of explosives and electricity, the prevention of accidents, and other inquiries and technological investigations pertinent to such industries. He also has charge of tests and analyses of coals, lignites, ores, and other mineral fuel substances belonging to or for the use of the United States, and has supervision over the mine inspector for Alaska.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

The Secretary exercises personal supervision of public business relating to the agricultural industry. He appoints all the officers and employees of the department with the exception of the Assistant Secretary and the Chief of the Weather Bureau, who are appointed by the President, and directs the management of all the bureaus, divisions, and offices embraced in the department. He exercises advisory supervision over agricultural experiment stations which receive aid from the National Treasury; has control of the quarantine stations for imported cattle, of interstate quarantine rendered necessary by sheep and cattle diseases, and of the inspection of cattle-carrying vessels; and directs the enforcement of the meat inspection and food and drugs laws under which the inspection of domestic and imported food products is carried on. He is charged with the duty of issuing rules and regulations for the protection, maintenance, and care of the National Forests. He also is charged with carrying into effect the laws prohibiting the transportation by interstate commerce of game killed in violation of local laws and excluding from importation certain noxious animals, and has authority to control the importation of other animals.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

The Assistant Secretary of Agriculture performs such duties as may be required by law or prescribed by the Secretary. He also becomes the Acting Secretary of Agriculture in the absence of the Secretary.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk has the general supervision of the clerks and employees; of the order of business, and of all expenditures from appropriations for contingent expenses, stationery, etc.; is responsible for the enforcement of the general regulations of the department, and is custodian of the buildings occupied by the Department of Agriculture.

SOLICITOR.

The solicitor acts as the legal adviser of the Secretary, and has charge of the preparation and supervision of all legal papers to which the department is a party, and of all communications to the Department of Justice and to the various officers thereof, including United States attorneys. He examines and approves, in advance of issue, all orders and regulations promulgated by the Secretary under statutory authority. He represents the department in all legal proceedings arising under the laws intrusted to the department for execution, and prosecutes applications for patents by employees of the department. His duties are performed under the immediate supervision of the Secretary.

APPOINTMENT CLERK.

The appointment clerk is charged by the Secretary with the decision of all questions affecting appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, details, furloughs, and removals in their relation to the civil-service law and regulations, and with the preparation of all papers necessitated thereby. He has charge of all correspondence of the department with the United States Civil Service Commission, and of all certificates and communications issued by that commission to the department, and deals with all questions affecting positions in the classified and in the unclassified service. He supervises the preparation of all documents to be submitted to the Secretary of Agriculture for his signature in making appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, furloughs, terminations, and removals in the force of the Department of Agriculture. He is the recorder and custodian of the oaths of office and personal reports of all persons appointed in the department, and of all reports of the several chiefs of bureaus, divisions, and offices respecting the efficiency of the several clerks and employees under their respective supervision in the department. He has the custody and use of the department seal.

SUPPLY DIVISION.

It is the duty of the Chief of the Supply Division to make all purchases of stationery and miscellaneous supplies and to issue the same, on requisitions, to the various bureaus and divisions of the department; to receive and send out all express and freight shipments, and to receive and dispose of, by sale or otherwise, all property turned in by the various bureaus and offices when it is of no further use to them.

WEATHER BUREAU.

The Chief of the Weather Bureau, under the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture, has charge of the forecasting of weather; the issue and display of weather forecasts and storm, cold wave, frost, and flood warnings for the benefit of agriculture, commerce, and navigation; the gauging and reporting of rivers; the maintenance and operation of Weather Bureau telegraph and telephone lines, and the collection and transmission of marine intelligence for the benefit of commerce and navigation; the reporting of temperature and rainfall conditions for the corn, wheat, cotton, sugar, rice, and other interests; the conducting of investigations in climatology and evaporation; the distribution of meteorological information in the interests of agriculture and commerce, and the taking of such meteorological observations as may be necessary to establish and record the climatic conditions of the United States or as are essential for the proper execution of the foregoing duties.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY.

The Bureau of Animal Industry conducts the inspection of animals, meats, and meat-food products under the act of Congress of June 30, 1906, and has charge of the inspection of import and export animals, the inspection of vessels for the transportation of export animals, and the quarantine stations for imported live stock; generally supervises the interstate movement of animals, and reports on the condition of and means of improving the animal industries of the country. It makes investigations as to the existence of dangerous communicable diseases of live stock, carries out measures for their control and eradication, and makes original scientific investigations as to the nature and prevention of such diseases. It makes investigations concerning the breeding and feeding of animals and in regard to dairy subjects, and supervises the manufacture of and interstate commerce in renovated butter.

BUREAU OF PLANT INDUSTRY.

The Bureau of Plant Industry studies plant life in all its relations to agriculture. It investigates the diseases of fruits and forest trees, truck crops, and other plants, and carries on field tests and demonstrations of their control and prevention. It studies the bacteriological problems connected with plant production and also the factors of plant nutrition. It is engaged in the improvement of crops by breeding and selection and the acclimatization and adaptation of new crops and varieties. It is encouraging the production of drug-producing crops, tea, and other special crops, and is studying the general physiological problems influencing the growth of plants. It is conducting a campaign for the eradication of poisonous plants, especially in the vast stock-grazing area of the West. It is investigating various technological problems in connection with crop production, particularly with reference to fiber and paper-producing plants and to the standardization and handling of cotton and grain. It is engaged in the study of various phases of economic botany and in the devising of methods for the improvement of forest-grazing areas. It is carrying on a propaganda in the interest of good seed for the farmer and the improvement in the quality of farm seeds. It is conducting extensive work in the breeding and testing of the principal field crops, such as the small grains, corn, cotton, tobacco, forage crops, and sugar-producing plants, with special reference to the improvement of these crops. It is engaged in the operation of testing stations in the semiarid regions for the cooperative investigation of the problems encountered in crop production under the conditions existing in those areas. The adaptation and breeding of crops is a special feature of this work, which also includes physical determinations of the factors influencing plant growth in those regions. The bureau is conducting farm-management investigations throughout the country to devise improved methods of farm management and farm practice. In connection with these investigations demonstration work is carried on in the Northern and Western States. In the South it is carrying on farmers' cooperative demonstration work, with special reference to the boll-weevil situation and its amelioration. It is conducting horticultural investigations, including the growing, handling, and marketing of truck and related crops, and maintains an experimental farm for this and other lines of the work of the bureau. It is engaged in investigations of the marketing, transportation, and storage of fruits and in the general upbuilding of the fruit industry. It maintains greenhouses and trial grounds for the work of plant propagation and improvement. It is engaged in the introduction of seeds and plants from foreign countries and in the operation of plant introduction and testing gardens to aid in the development of new plant industries. It is also engaged in the congressional distribution of seeds and plants, including drought-resistant field seeds.

FOREST SERVICE.

The Forest Service is charged with the administration of the national forests. It also gives practical advice in the conservative handling of National, State, and private forest lands, and in methods of utilizing forest products; investigates methods of forest planting, and gives practical advice to tree planters; studies commercially valuable trees to determine their best management and use; tests the strength and durability of construction timbers, railroad ties, and telephone poles, and methods of increasing their durability through seasoning and preservative treatment; in cooperation with the Bureau of the Census gathers statistics on forest products; investigates the control and prevention of forest fires, and other forest problems; and advises, when requested, concerning State legislation to encourage the holding and protecting of growing timber.

BUREAU OF CHEMISTRY.

The Bureau of Chemistry makes such investigations and analyses as pertain in general to the interests of agriculture, dealing with fertilizers and agricultural products. It investigates the composition and adulteration of foods and the composition of field products in relation to their nutritive value and to the constituents which they derive from the soil, fertilizers, and the air. Under the food and drugs act of June 30, 1906, it inspects the conditions of manufacture, transportation, and sale of food and drug products, collects samples, and examines the same for the purpose of determining whether such articles are adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the act. Under this law it also inspects imported food products and excludes from entry those injurious to health or which are falsely branded or labeled. It inspects food products exported to foreign countries where physical and chemical tests are required for such products. It cooperates with chemists engaged in State food work, especially with those appointed to make analyses in collaboration with this bureau in the enforcement of the food and drugs act. It also cooperates with the chemists of the agricultural experiment stations in all matters pertaining to the relations of chemistry to agricultural interests, and with the other scientific divisions of the department in all matters relating to chemistry, and conducts investigations of a chemical nature for other departments of the Government at the request of their respective Secretaries.

BUREAU OF SOILS.

The Bureau of Soils investigates soils in all their relations to climate and to organic life. It makes field investigations and prepares soil-survey maps showing the extent, distribution, and characteristic properties of all the important soil types found in various portions of the United States, and in its published reports suggests possible lines of improvement in the treatment, management, and use of these soils. It investigates and represents upon maps the distribution and concentration of alkali salts in soils of various portions of the arid regions. Through its laboratories it investigates the fundamental causes of the fertility or infertility of soils and the causes for low yields of crops. It also investigates the fertilizer resources of the country.

BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY.

The Bureau of Entomology obtains and disseminates information regarding injurious insects affecting field crops, fruits, small fruits, and truck crops, forests and forest products, and stored products; studies insects in relation to diseases of man and other animals and as animal parasites; experiments with the introduction of beneficial insects and with the fungous and other diseases of insects, and conducts experiments and tests with insecticides and insecticide machinery. It is further charged with investigations in apiculture. The information gained is disseminated in the form of reports, bulletins, and circulars. A good deal of museum work is done in connection with the Division of Insects of the National Museum, and insects are identified for experiment stations and other public institutions and private individuals.

BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Bureau of Biological Survey investigates the economic relations of birds and mammals, recommends measures for the preservation of beneficial and the destruction of injurious species, and has been charged with carrying into effect the provisions of the Federal laws for the importation and protection of birds and certain provisions of the game law of Alaska. It is intrusted with the care and maintenance of the National Bird Reservations and the National Bison Range, in charge of the Department of Agriculture. It also studies the geographic distribution of animals and plants and maps the natural life zones of the country.

DIVISION OF ACCOUNTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

The Division of Accounts and Disbursements examines, adjusts, and pays all accounts and claims against the department; decides questions involving the expenditure of public funds; prepares advertisements for all work and supplies not contracted for by the General Supply Committee of the Executive Departments; prepares letters of authority; writes, for the signature of the Secretary, all letters to the Treasury Department pertaining to fiscal matters; examines requisitions for the purchase of supplies; issues bills of lading and requests for passenger and for freight transportation; prepares the annual estimates of appropriations; prepares annual fiscal reports to Congress; and transacts all other business relating to the financial interests of the department.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS.

The Division of Publications is the publishing house of the Department of Agriculture. Its force comprises editors, proof readers, compilers, indexers, abstracters, artists, draftsmen, engravers, and photographers, together with clerks and laborers, engaged in transmitting to the Public Printer orders to mail publications in response to requests from Congressmen and the general public; keeping records of the distribution of the various publications, including individual accounts with Members of Congress, as well as supervising the maintenance of the mailing list of the various bureaus, offices, and divisions of the department; also the printing of circular letters and advance notices of judgment for the department on the duplicating system maintained in the document section; in receiving, storing, and distributing the publications delivered for departmental use; in assembling publications for binding; in writing addresses for other offices and divisions; in mailing circulars of inquiry and information, and press notices. This division is charged with (1) preparation and editing of manuscripts and indexing the publications of the department, including the Yearbook, annual reports, bulletins, etc.; (2) the preparation and supervision of printing and distribution of farmers' bulletins; (3) supervision and equitable assignment of the printing fund; (4) the general direction of expenditures under the statutory and divisional appropriations; (5) the supervision of the printing and binding done for the department; (6) the preparation of drawings for illustrations and of photographic work; (7) the correspondence relating to the distribution of department publications; (8) the preparation and distribution of official information and of advance notices of publications to agricultural writers and papers. The Division of Publications is the authorized medium of all official communications between the Department of Agriculture and the Government Printing Office.

BUREAU OF STATISTICS.

The Bureau of Statistics collects information as to crop areas, conditions, yields, values, and allied data, and the numbers, values, and status of farm animals, through corps of county and township correspondents, State agents, special field agents, and other agencies, and obtains similar information from foreign countries through consular, agricultural, and commercial authorities. It records, tabulates, and coordinates statistics of agricultural production, distribution, and consumption, the authorized data of governments, institutes, societies, boards of trade, and individual experts; and issues monthly crop reports for the information of the public. It investigates subjects pertaining to agricultural production and consumption, demand and supply, values, transportation, the conditions affecting them, and disseminates through printed reports and otherwise the information collected.

LIBRARY.

The librarian has charge of the department library, purchases all books and periodicals and supervises their arrangement and cataloguing; prepares for publication bibliographies of special subjects and a monthly bulletin containing current accessions to the library; also has charge of the foreign mailing lists for the department publications.

OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

The Office of Experiment Stations represents the department in its relations with the agricultural colleges and experiment stations, which are now in operation in all the States, and directly manages the experiment stations in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Guam. It seeks to promote the interests of agricultural education and investigation throughout the United States. It collects and disseminates general information regarding the colleges and stations, and publishes accounts of agricultural investigations at home and abroad. It reports upon the expenditures and work of the stations, and in general furnishes them with such advice and assistance as will best promote the purposes for which they were established. It investigates and reports upon the progress of farmers' institutes and agricultural schools in the several States, and aids in making such organizations more effective for the dissemination of the results of the work of the department and the stations. It is also charged with investigations on the nutritive value and economy of human foods and on irrigation and drainage, which are largely conducted in cooperation with the colleges and stations.

OFFICE OF PUBLIC ROADS.

The Office of Public Roads collects information in regard to systems of road management, investigates the best methods of road making and the best kinds of road-making materials throughout the United States, and furnishes expert advice on road construction, maintenance, and administration; investigates the chemical and physical character of road materials; cooperates with schools and colleges in highway engineering instruction; reports the results of its investigations and experiments; prepares and publishes bulletins; and cooperates with the Post Office Department in the improvement of public roads.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE.

The Secretary of Commerce is charged with the work of promoting the commerce of the United States and its mining, manufacturing, shipping, fishery, and transportation interests. His duties also comprise the investigation of the organization and management of corporations (excepting railroads) engaged in interstate commerce; the administration of the Lighthouse Service and the aid and protection to shipping thereby; the taking of the census, and the collection and publication of statistical information connected therewith; the making of coast and geodetic surveys; the collecting of statistics relating to foreign and domestic commerce; the inspection of steamboats, and the enforcement of laws relating thereto for the protection of life and property; the supervision of the fisheries as administered by the Federal Government; the supervision and control of the Alaskan fur-seal, salmon, and other fisheries; the jurisdiction over merchant vessels, their registry, licensing, measurement, entry, clearance, transfers, movement of their cargoes and passengers, and laws relating thereto, and to seamen of the United States; the regulation of the enforcement and execution of the act of Congress relating to the equipment of ocean steamers with apparatus and operators for wireless communication; the custody, construction, maintenance, and application of standards of weights and measurements; the gathering and supplying of information regarding industries and markets for the fostering of manufacturing; and the formulation (in conjunction with the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Treasury) of regulations for the enforcement of the food and drugs act of 1906 and the insecticide act of 1910. He has power to call upon other departments for statistical data obtained by them.

For the proper accomplishment of any or all of the aforesaid work, it is by law provided that all duties performed, and all the powers and authority possessed or exercised, at the date of the creation of said department, by the head of any executive department in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service transferred to said department, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the Secretary of Commerce.

The act creating the Department of Labor, approved March 4, 1913, changed the name of the Department of Commerce and Labor to the Department of Commerce. Under the terms of this act the Bureau of Labor, Bureau of Immigration, Division of Naturalization, and Children's Bureau were detached from the Department of Commerce and Labor and organized as the new Department of Labor.

It is his further duty to make such special investigations and furnish such information to the President or Congress as may be required by them on the foregoing subject matters and to make annual reports to Congress upon the work of said department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE.

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. In the absence of the Secretary he acts as head of the department.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks and employees of the department; the enforcement of the general regulations of the department; the superintendency of all buildings occupied by the department in the District of Columbia; the general supervision of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and rents; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned.

DISBURSING CLERK.

The disbursing clerk is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Commerce to disbursing clerks and special disbursing agents charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of all items of appropriations. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation issued to officers of the department for official travel; the audit and payment of all vouchers and accounts submitted from the various offices, bureaus, and services of the department (except the Coast and Geodetic Survey and those services having special disbursing agents); and the general accounting of the department.

APPOINTMENT DIVISION.

The chief of the Appointment Division is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the supervision of matters relating to appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, removals, and all other changes in the personnel, including applications for positions and recommendations concerning the same, and the correspondence connected therewith; the preparation and submission to the Secretary of all questions affecting the personnel of the department in its relations to the civil-service law and rules; the preparation of nominations sent to the Senate and of commissions and appointments of all officers and employees of the department; the preparation of official bonds; the compilation of statistics in regard to the personnel, including material for the Official Register, and the custody of oaths of office, records pertaining to official bonds, service records of officers and employees, correspondence and reports relating to the personnel, reports of bureau officers respecting the efficiency of employees, and records relating to leaves of absence.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS.

The Chief of the Division of Publications is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office; the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. All blank books and blank forms and the printed stationery of all kinds used by the bureaus and offices of the department in Washington and the various outside services of the department are in his custody and are supplied by him. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. He also keeps a record of all expenditures for the publishing work of the department and conducts the correspondence it entails.

DIVISION OF SUPPLIES.

Under the direction of the chief clerk the Chief of the Division of Supplies has personal supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department proper and for the services of the department outside of Washington, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriation for contingent expenses of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the semiannual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the semiannual property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS.

The Bureau of the Census is charged with the duty of taking the decennial censuses of the United States, of making certain other statistical investigations at regular intervals of years, and of collecting such special statistics as may be authorized by law from time to time. A census of manufactures is taken every five years, and the act providing for the Thirteenth Census requires a similar census of agriculture. The act establishing the permanent census bureau requires that, after the completion of the regular decennial census, the Director of the Census shall decennially collect statistics relative to the defective, dependent, and delinquent classes; crime, including judicial statistics pertaining thereto; social statistics of cities; public indebtedness, expenditures, and taxation; religious bodies; transportation by water, and express business; savings banks and other savings institutions, mortgage, loan, and similar institutions; and the fishing industry, in cooperation with the Bureau of Fisheries. Every five years statistics must be collected relating to street railways, electric light and power stations, and telephone and telegraph business. Annual statistics must be gathered relating to births and deaths in States and cities maintaining efficient registration systems; the financial and other statistics of cities having a population of 30,000 and over; the production and distribution of cotton, and forest products; and the quantity of leaf tobacco on hand.

BUREAU OF CORPORATIONS.

The Bureau of Corporations is authorized, under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce, to investigate the organization, conduct, and management of the business of any corporation, joint-stock company, or corporate combination engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, except common carriers subject to the interstate-commerce act; to gather such information and data as will enable the President to make recommendation to Congress for legislation for the regulation of interstate and foreign commerce; to report the data so collected to the President from time to time as he may require, and to make public such part of said information as the President may direct.

It is also the duty of the Bureau of Corporations, under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce, to gather, compile, publish, and supply useful information concerning corporations engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, including corporations engaged in insurance.

BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE.

It is the province and duty of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, under the direction of the Secretary, to foster, promote, and develop the various manufacturing industries of the United States, and markets for the same at home and abroad, by gathering and publishing all available and useful information concerning such industries and markets; and, through the Secretary of State, to gather and compile from the reports of consular officers and the reports transmitted by the commercial agents of the Department of Commerce such valuable and material information as will accomplish the objects indicated above.

The bureau edits and publishes the Daily Consular and Trade Reports and reports of the commercial agents of the Department of Commerce containing current information in regard to trade conditions in foreign countries, opportunities for the extension of export and domestic trade, and information of the service of the Federal Government for the promotion of commerce. It also issues many special bulletins on various subjects of current commercial significance, a foreign trade directory, and an annual report entitled "Commercial Relations of the United States."

It is also charged with the duty of collating and publishing in the English language the tariffs of foreign countries and furnishing information to Congress and the Executive relative to customs laws and regulations of foreign countries.

The bureau also collects and publishes the statistics of our foreign commerce, embracing tables showing the imports and exports, respectively, by articles, countries, and customs districts; the transit trade inward and outward, by countries and by customs districts; imported commodities warehoused, withdrawn from, and remaining in warehouse; the imports of merchandise entered for consumption, showing quantity, value, rates of duty, and amounts of duty collected on each article or class of articles; the inward and outward movement of tonnage in our foreign trade and the countries whence entered and for which cleared, distinguishing the nationalities of the foreign vessels.

The Statistical Abstract of the United States, which is a condensation of statistical information collected by the various branches of the Government, is compiled and published by the bureau, as is also the Statistical Abstract of Foreign Countries, which shows imports into and exports from each country of the world, stated in United States currency, weights, and measures.

A monthly sailing-dates bulletin, showing sailing dates of vessels from the principal ports of the United States to the principal ports of the world, is compiled and published.

The bureau is further charged with the duty of making investigations into the various elements of cost of production at home and abroad in respect to articles subject to duty, comparative wages and cost of living, degree of control by business combinations, and effect on prices, when required to do so by the President or either House of Congress.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS.

The functions of the Bureau of Standards are as follows: The custody of the standards; the comparison of the standards used in scientific investigations, engineering, manufacturing, commerce, and educational institutions with the standards adopted or recognized by the Government; the construction, when necessary, of standards, their multiples and subdivisions; the testing and calibration of standard measuring apparatus; the solution of problems which arise in connection with standards; the determination of physical constants and properties of materials, when such data are of great importance to scientific or manufacturing interests and are not to be obtained of sufficient accuracy elsewhere; and other investigations as authorized by Congress. The bureau is authorized to exercise its functions for the Government of the United States, for any State or municipal government within the United States, or for any scientific society, educational institution, firm, corporation, or individual within the United States engaged in manufacturing or other pursuits requiring the use of standards or standard measuring instruments. For all comparisons, calibrations, tests, or investigations, except those performed for the Government of the United States or State governments, a reasonable fee will be charged.

BUREAU OF FISHERIES.

The work of the Bureau of Fisheries comprises (1) the propagation of useful food fishes, including lobsters, oysters, and other shellfish, and their distribution to suitable waters; (2) the inquiry into the causes of decrease of food fishes in the lakes, rivers, and coast waters of the United States, the study of the waters of the coast and interior in the interest of fish culture, and the investigation of the fishing grounds of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts, with the view of determining their food resources and the development of the commercial fisheries; (3) the collection and compilation of the statistics of the fisheries and the study of their methods and relations; (4) the administration of the salmon fisheries of Alaska, the fur-seal herd on the Pribilof Islands, and the fur-bearing animals of Alaska.

BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES.

The United States Lighthouse Service is charged with the establishment and maintenance of aids to navigation, and with all equipment and work incident thereto, on the sea and lake coasts of the United States, and on the rivers of the United States so far as specifically authorized by law, and on the coasts of all other territory under the jurisdiction of the United States, with the exception of the Philippine Islands and Panama.

The bureau publishes Light Lists and Buoy Lists, giving information regarding all aids to navigation maintained by the Lighthouse Service; it also publishes each week, jointly with the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Notices to Mariners, giving the changes in lights, buoys, etc.

COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey is charged with the survey of the coasts of the United States and coasts under the jurisdiction thereof and the publication of charts covering said coasts. This includes base measure, triangulation, topography, and hydrography along said coasts; the survey of rivers to the head of tidewater or ship navigation; deep-sea soundings, temperature, and current observations along said coasts and throughout the Gulf and Japan Streams; magnetic observations and researches, and the publication of maps showing the variations of terrestrial magnetism; gravity research; determination of heights; the determination of geographic positions by astronomic observations for latitude, longitude, and azimuth, and by triangulation, to furnish reference points for State surveys.

The results obtained are published in annual reports and in special publications; charts upon various scales, including sailing charts, general charts of the coast, and harbor charts; tide tables issued annually in advance; Coast Pilots, with sailing directions covering the navigable waters; Notices to Mariners (published jointly by Coast and Geodetic Survey and Bureau of Lighthouses), issued weekly and containing current information necessary for safe navigation; catalogues of charts and publications; and such other special publications as may be required to carry out the organic law governing the survey.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The Bureau of Navigation is charged with general superintendence of the commercial marine and merchant seamen of the United States, except so far as supervision is lodged with other officers of the Government. It is specially charged with the decision of all questions relating to the issue of registers, enrollments, and licenses of vessels and the filing of those documents, with the supervision of laws relating to the admeasurement, letters, and numbers of vessels, and with the final decision of questions concerning the collection and refund of tonnage taxes. It is empowered to change the names of vessels and prepares annually a list of vessels of the United States. The commissioner also investigates the operation of the laws relative to navigation, and annually reports to the Secretary of Commerce such particulars as may in his judgment admit of improvement or require amendment.

In addition to the above statutory duties the bureau is charged, under direction of the Secretary of Commerce, with the enforcement, through collectors and surveyors of customs and radio inspectors, of the navigation and steamboat-inspection laws, and the laws governing radio communication, and the consideration of action to be taken on fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred under those laws; administrative examination of accounts of collectors, surveyors of customs, and shipping commissioners covering fines, penalties, and forfeitures; services to vessels; navigation fees; amounts collected on account of decease of passengers, tonnage-tax collections, refunds; shipment and discharge of seamen, etc.

STEAMBOAT-INSPECTION SERVICE.

The Steamboat-Inspection Service is charged with the duty of inspecting steam vessels, the licensing of the officers of vessels, and the administration of the laws relating to such vessels and their officers for the protection of life and property.

The Supervising Inspector General and the supervising inspectors constitute a board that meets annually at Washington and establishes regulations for carrying out the provisions of the steamboat-inspection laws.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

THE SECRETARY OF LABOR.

The Secretary of Labor is charged with the duty of fostering, promoting, and developing the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, improving their working conditions, and advancing their opportunities for profitable employment. He has power under the law to act as mediator and to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes whenever in his judgment the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done. He has authority to direct the collecting and collating of full and complete statistics of the conditions of labor and the products and distribution of the products of the same and to call upon other departments of the Government for statistical data and results obtained by them and to collate, arrange, and publish such statistical information so obtained in such manner as to him may seem wise. His duties also comprise the gathering and publication of information regarding labor interests and labor controversies in this and other countries; the supervision of the administration of the act of Congress providing for the payment of compensation to artisans or laborers of the United States injured in the course of their employment; the supervision of the immigration of aliens, and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto, and to the exclusion of Chinese; the direction of the administration of the naturalization laws; the direction of the work of investigating all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life and to cause to be published such results of these investigations as he may deem wise and appropriate.

The law creating the Department of Labor provides that all duties performed and all power and authority possessed or exercised by the head of any executive department at the time of the passage of the said law, in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service by said act transferred to the Department of Labor, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties performed by and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, officer, office, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of an appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the head of the said Department of Labor. The Secretary of Labor is also given authority and directed to investigate and report to Congress a plan of coordination of the activities, duties, and powers of the office of the Secretary of Labor with the activities, duties, and powers of the present bureaus, commissions, and departments, so far as they relate to labor and its conditions, in order to harmonize and unify such activities, duties, and powers, with a view to further legislation to further define the duties and powers of the Department of Labor and to make such special investigations and reports to the President or Congress as may be required by them or which he may deem necessary, and to report annually to Congress upon the work of the Department of Labor.

BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION.

The Bureau of Immigration is charged with the administration of the laws relating to immigration and of the Chinese exclusion laws. It supervises all expenditures under the appropriation for "Expenses of regulating immigration." It causes alleged violations of the immigration, Chinese exclusion, and alien contract-labor laws to be investigated, and when prosecution is deemed advisable submits evidence for that purpose to the proper United States district attorney. It also has charge of distributing information to arriving aliens regarding desirable places of settlement, etc.

The division of information under this bureau gathers from all available sources information concerning the resources, products, and physical characteristics of the States and Territories. This information is made available to admitted aliens and others seeking homes or places of settlement.

BUREAU OF NATURALIZATION.

The act approved March 4, 1913, creating the Department of Labor, provided a Bureau of Naturalization and that the Commissioner of Naturalization, or, in his absence, the Deputy Commissioner of Naturalization, shall be the administrative officer in charge of the Bureau of Naturalization and of the administration of the naturalization laws under the immediate direction of the Secretary of Labor. Under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906, naturalization jurisdiction was conferred upon approximately 3,500 United States and State courts. The duties of the Bureau of Naturalization are to supervise the work of these courts in naturalization matters, to conduct all correspondence relating to naturalization, and, through its field officers located in various cities of the United States, to investigate the qualifications of the candidates for citizenship and represent the Government at the hearings of petitions for naturalization. In the archives of the bureau are filed duplicates of all certificates of naturalization granted since September 26, 1906, as well as the preliminary papers of all candidates for citizenship filed since that date, averaging an annual receipt of approximately 400,000 naturalization papers.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics is charged with the duty of acquiring and diffusing among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and especially upon its relations to capital, the hours of labor, the earnings of laboring men and women, and the means of promoting their material, social, intellectual, and moral prosperity.

It is especially charged to investigate the causes of and facts relating to controversies and disputes between employers and employees as they may occur, and which may happen to interfere with the welfare of the people of the several States.

It is also authorized, by act of March 2, 1895, to publish a bulletin on the condition of labor in this and other countries, condensations of State and foreign labor reports, facts as to conditions of employment, and such other facts as may be deemed of value to the industrial interests of the United States. This bulletin is issued in a number of series, each dealing with a single subject or closely related group of subjects, and the bulletin is published at irregular intervals as matter becomes available for publication.

By the act to provide a government for the Territory of Hawaii, as amended, it is made the duty of the bureau to collect and present in quinquennial reports statistical details relating to all departments of labor in the Territory of Hawaii, especially those statistics which relate to the commercial, industrial, social, educational, and sanitary condition of the laboring classes.

The administration of the act of May 30, 1908, granting to certain employees of the United States the right to receive from it compensation for injuries sustained in the course of their employment, is vested in the bureau by the act of March 4, 1913, creating the Department of Labor.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU.

The act establishing the bureau provides that it shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life among all classes of our people, and shall especially investigate the questions of infant mortality, the birth rate, orphanage, juvenile courts, desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents, and diseases of children, employment, and legislation affecting children in the several States and Territories. The bureau is also empowered to publish the results of these investigations in such manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor.

THE PAN AMERICAN UNION.

(Formerly International Bureau of American Republics.)

The Pan American Union (the new name given to the International Bureau of American Republics by the Fourth International American Conference, which met at Buneos Aires in July and August, 1910) was established under the recommendation of the First Pan American Conference, held in the city of Washington in 1889–90 for the purpose of developing and maintaining closer relations of commerce and friendship between the 21 Republics of the Western Hemisphere. It was reorganized by the Third and Fourth Pan American Conferences, held in Rio de Janeiro in 1906, and in Buenos Aires in 1910, respectively, and its scope widened by imposing many new and important duties. The Pan American Union regularly communicates with these Governments, and furnishes such information as it possesses or can obtain on a great variety of subjects to all of the Republics and to their officials and citizens. It is the custodian of the archives of the Pan American Conferences, and is especially charged with the performance of duties imposed upon it by these conferences. The Pan American Union is sustained by contributions from the American Republics in proportion to their population, and is governed by a board composed of their diplomatic representatives at Washington and the Secretary of State of the United States, who is ex officio its chairman. It is therefore strictly an international institution and not a subordinate bureau of any one government. Its chief executive officer is the Director General, elected by this governing board, each Government having one vote in his selection. It publishes an illustrated monthly bulletin containing information about the resources, commerce, and general progress of the American Republics, as well as maps and geographical sketches of these countries, handbooks of trade, travel, and description, and special reports on commerce, tariffs, improvements, concessions, new laws, etc. It also conducts a large correspondence not only with manufacturers and merchants in all countries looking to the extension of Pan-American trade, but with writers, travelers, scientists, students, and specialists, for the purpose of promoting general Pan American intercourse. Another and practical feature of the Pan American Union is the Columbus Memorial Library, which contains 30,000 volumes relating to the American Republics. The library and reading room, in which are also all the leading Latin-American newspapers and magazines, are open to visitors for consultation.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

The Public Printer has charge of and manages the Government Printing Office. Directly or through his principal officers he makes all purchases, disburses all money, appoints all officers and employees, wraps, mails, and dispatches publications for public distribution, and exercises general supervision over the affairs of the office.

The Deputy Public Printer acts as chairman of boards to examine and report on paper and material purchased, and also of a board of condemnation. He has supervision over the buildings and property and the care of the stores, and performs such other duties as are required of him by the Public Printer. In case of the death, resignation, absence, or sickness of the Public Printer he performs the duties of the Public Printer.

The Chief Clerk has direct charge of the personnel of the office, is charged with the detail of all matters in connection with appointments, promotions, or transfers, and has charge of the general correspondence and care of the files.

The Purchasing Agent has direct charge of all purchases; prepares all schedules of material and supplies and all proposals, and receives the bids; supervises the work of drawing contracts and orders for paper, material, machinery, and supplies; and acts as the legal adviser of the Public Printer in matters relating to the public printing and binding.

The Accountant has charge of the keeping of the accounts of the Public Printer with the Treasury Department, of the accounts with the several allotments of the appropriation, of the time of employees, of the property records, prepares for the signature of the Public Printer pay rolls and vouchers requiring the payment of money, renders bills for work done, and keeps all other accounts.

The Congressional Record Clerk has charge of the Congressional Record at the Capitol, and acts as the Public Printer's representative in furnishing information and estimates to Senators, Representatives, and Delegates.

The Superintendent of Work has direct charge of all the manufacturing divisions of the office.

The Assistant Superintendent of Work (night) has immediate charge of the manufacturing divisions at night.

The Foreman of Printing and Assistant Superintendent of Work (day) has immediate charge of the composing and foundry sections and branch printing offices. He also assists the Superintendent of Work in the supervision of the manufacturing division during the day.

The Superintendent of Documents has general supervision over the distribution of all public documents except those printed for the use of the two Houses of Congress and for the executive departments. He is required to prepare a comprehensive index of public documents and a consolidated index of congressional documents, and is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge the distribution of which is not specifically directed.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

The original act to regulate commerce, approved February 4, 1887, provided for a commission consisting of five members. By various amendatory and supplementary enactments the powers of the commission have been increased and the scope of the regulating statute materially widened. Among the more important of these enactments are the acts of March 2, 1889; the Elkins Act, approved February 19, 1903; the Hepburn Act, approved February 29, 1906; the Mann-Elkins Act of June 18, 1910; and the act of August 24, 1912. Under the act of June 29, 1906, the commission is now composed of seven members.

The act to regulate commerce applies to all common carriers engaged in the transportation of oil or other commodities, except water, and except natural or artificial gas, by means of pipe lines, or partly by pipe lines and partly by railroad, or partly by pipe lines and partly by water, and to telegraph, telephone, and cable companies (whether wire or wireless) engaged in sending messages from one State, Territory, or District of the United States to any other State, Territory, or District of the United States, or to any foreign country, and to common carriers engaged in interstate transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad (or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment); also to express companies and sleeping-car companies; and to bridges or ferries used or operated in connection with any railroad engaged in interstate transportation.

The act to regulate commerce requires all rates to be reasonable and just; prohibits preferential rates for transportation service performed under like circumstances and conditions; prohibits undue or unreasonable preferences or advantages in rates or facilities and the charging of a higher rate for a shorter than for a longer haul, over the same line, in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer haul. It is provided, however, that the commission may, in special cases, after investigation, authorize carriers to charge less for longer than for shorter distances. The commission is authorized to require carriers to establish through routes and joint rates. The commission is also authorized to require carriers subject to the act to construct switch connections with lateral branch lines of railroads and private sidetracks. The act provides that where two or more through routes and through rates shall have been established shippers shall have the right to designate in writing via which of such through routes the property shall be transported to destination.

The commission has jurisdiction, upon complaint or in a proceeding instituted upon its own initiative, and after full hearing, to determine and prescribe reasonable rates, regulations, and practices; to award reparation to injured shippers; and to require carriers to cease and desist from unjust discrimination or undue or unreasonable preferences.

Carriers are required to publish and file all rates, rules, and regulations applying to interstate traffic, and are prohibited from engaging in interstate transportation unless such rates, rules, and regulations are published and filed. Severe penalties are provided in the statute for failure to observe the rates and regulations shown in the published tariffs.

The commission may inquire into the management of the business of all common carriers subject to the provisions of the act to regulate commerce, and may prescribe the accounts, records, and memoranda which shall be kept by the carriers, which shall be open to examination by the commission through its authorized agents or examiners. Carriers are required to file annual reports with the commission, and such other reports as may from time to time be required.

The commission appoints a secretary, assistant secretary, and clerks, whose duties are not specifically defined by the act; and also appoints attorneys, examiners, directors, and special agents.

By amendment of June 18, 1910 (Mann-Elkins law), a Court of Commerce was created with jurisdiction to restrain or enforce orders of the commission. This court is composed of five judges selected from the circuit court judges of the United States, and the amendment contains specific provision as to jurisdiction and procedure. The jurisdiction of the commission is increased as to through routes and joint rates, freight classification, switch connections, long and short hauls, filing or rejection of rate schedules, investigations on own motion, making reasonable rates, suspension of proposed rates, and other matters. An important section authorized the President to appoint a special commission to investigate issuance of railroad stocks and bonds.

By act approved August 24, 1912 (sec. 11), a new paragraph was added to section 5 of the act to regulate commerce, by which it is made unlawful after July 1, 1914, for any common carrier subject to the act to regulate commerce to own, lease, operate, control, or have any interest in any competing carrier by water. Jurisdiction is conferred upon the commission to determine questions of fact as to competition, after full hearing, on the application of any railroad company or other carrier, and to extend beyond July 1, 1914, the time during which such ownership or operation of vessels plying elsewhere than through the Panama Canal may continue, when it is found to be in the interest of the public and is of advantage to the convenience and commerce of the people, and not in restraint of competition.

At the same time section 6 of the act was amended by adding a new paragraph conferring upon the commission jurisdiction over transportation of property from point to point in the United States by rail and water, whether through the Panama Canal or otherwise, and not entirely within the limits of a single State, this jurisdiction, under certain conditions, including power to establish physical connection between lines of the rail carrier and the dock of the water carrier by directing the rail carrier to make such connection; to establish through routes and maximum joint rates over such rail and water lines, and to determine the conditions thereof; to establish proportional rates by rail to and from ports, and to determine to what traffic and in connection with what vessels and upon what terms and conditions such rates shall apply; and to require rail carriers entering into through routing arrangements with any water carrier to extend the privileges of such arrangements to other water carriers.

By the act approved March 1, 1913, amending the act to regulate commerce, the commission is directed to investigate, ascertain, and report the value of all the property owned or used by every common carrier subject to the provisions of the act.

The act of February 11, 1903, provides that suits in equity brought under the act to regulate commerce, wherein the United States is complainant, may be expedited and given precedence over other suits, and that appeals from the circuit court lie only to the Supreme Court. The act of February 19, 1903, commonly called the Elkins law, prohibits rebating, allows proceedings in the courts by injunction to restrain departures from published rates, and provides that cases prosecuted under the direction of the Attorney General in the name of the commission shall be included within the expediting act of February 11, 1903.

Under the act of August 7, 1888, all Government-aided railroad and telegraph companies are required to file certain reports and contracts with the commission, and it is the commission's duty to decide questions relating to the interchange of business between such Government-aided telegraph company and any connecting telegraph company. The act provides penalties for failure to comply with the act or the orders of the commission.

The act of March 2, 1893, known as the "Safety Appliance Act," provides that railroad cars used in interstate commerce must be equipped with automatic couplers, and drawbars of a standard height for freight cars, and have grab irons or handholds in the ends and sides of each car; and that locomotive engines used in moving interstate traffic shall be equipped with a power driving-wheel brake and appliances for operating the train-brake system. The act directs the commission to lodge with the proper district attorneys information of such violations as may come to its knowledge. The act of March 2, 1903, amended this act so as to make its provisions apply to Territories and the District of Columbia, to all cases when couplers of whatever design are brought together, and to all locomotives, cars, and other equipment of any railroad engaged in interstate traffic, except logging cars and cars used upon street railways; and provides for a minimum number of air-braked cars in trains.

By act of April 14, 1910, the safety-appliance acts were supplemented so as to require railroads to equip their cars with sill steps, hand brakes, ladders, running boards, and roof handholds, and the commission was authorized to designate the number, dimensions, location, and manner of application of appliances.

The act of June 1, 1898, known as the arbitration act, directs the chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Commissioner of Labor to use their best efforts, by mediation and conciliation, to settle controversies between railway companies engaged in interstate commerce and their employees. By amendment of this act, March 4, 1911, any member of the commission, or of the Court of Commerce, may exercise the powers conferred upon the chairman of the commission with respect to such controversies.

By act of May 6, 1910, the prior accident-reports law was repealed and a new statute passed giving more power to the commission as to investigating accidents, and is more comprehensive than the former law.

The act of March 4, 1907, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is made unlawful to require or permit employees engaged in or connected with the movement of trains to be on duty more than a specified number of hours in any 24.

The act of May 23, 1908, by section 16 thereof, gives the Interstate Commerce Commission limited control over the street railroads in the District of Columbia.

The act of May 30, 1908, directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to make regulations for the safe transportation of explosives by common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. A penalty is provided for violations of such regulations.

The act of May 30, 1908, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is provided that after a certain date no locomotive shall be used in moving interstate or foreign traffic, etc., not equipped with an ash pan which can be emptied without requiring a man to go under such locomotive. A penalty is provided for violations of this act.

Public resolution No. 46, approved June 30, 1906, and the sundry civil appropriation act of May 27, 1908, direct the commission to investigate and report on the use and need of appliances intended to promote the safety of railway operation.

The act of March 3, 1909, authorizes the commission to prescribe the form of bookkeeping for District of Columbia gas and electric companies.

The act of February 17, 1911, confers jurisdiction upon the commission to enforce certain provisions compelling railroad companies to equip their locomotives with safe and suitable boilers and appurtenances thereto.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

The purpose of the civil-service act, as declared in its title, is "to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States." It provides for the appointment of three commissioners, not more than two of whom shall be adherents of the same political party, and makes it the duty of the commission to aid the President, as he may request, in preparing suitable rules for carrying the act into effect. The act requires that the rules shall provide, among other things, for open competitive examinations for testing the fitness of applicants for the classified service, the making of appointments from among those passing with highest grades, an apportionment of appointments in the departments at Washington among the States and Territories, a period of probation before absolute appointment, and the prohibition of the use of official authority to coerce the political action of any person or body. The act also provides for investigations touching the enforcement of the rules and forbids, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, the solicitation by any person in the service of the United States of contributions to be used for political purposes from persons in such service, or the collection of such contributions by any person in a Government building.

CLASSIFIED SERVICE.

There were 395,460 positions in the executive civil service on June 30, 1912, according to statistics based upon reports to the commission, of which 236,061 were classified subject to competitive examination under the civil-service rules. The number of classified positions was increased by about 20,000 by the classification of artisans in the navy-yard service under Executive order of December 7, 1912. Persons merely employed as laborers or workmen and persons nominated for confirmation by the Senate are exempted from the requirements of classification. Within these limits certain classes of positions are excepted from examination—among them, Indians in the Indian service, attorneys, pension examining surgeons, field deputy marshals, and a few employees whose duties are of an important confidential or fiduciary nature.

By an Executive order of October 15, 1912, the President classified all fourth-class post offices not before classified, the number being 36,236.

EXAMINATIONS.

Various examinations are held in every State and Territory at least twice a year. The examinations range in scope from technical, professional, or scientific subjects to those based wholly upon the physical condition and experience of the applicant, and in some cases do not require ability to read or write. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1912, 33,240 persons were appointed through examinations, including 12,807 navy-yard employees.

FILLING OF VACANCIES.

A vacancy is filled from among the three persons of the sex called for standing highest on the appropriate register, the order being determined by the relative rating, except that the names of persons preferred under section 1754, Revised Statutes, come before all others. Until the rating of all papers of an examination is completed the identity of no applicant is known. A vacancy may also be filled by promotion, reduction, transfer, or reinstatement.

VETERAN PREFERENCE.

Persons discharged from the military or naval service by reason of disability resulting from wounds or sickness incurred in the line of duty who receive a rating of at least 65 are certified first for appointment. All others are required to obtain a rating of 70 or more to become eligible. The rule barring reinstatement after a separation of one year does not apply to any person honorably discharged after service in the Civil War or the War with Spain, or his widow, or an Army nurse of either war.

ISTHMIAN CANAL COMMISSION EMPLOYEES.

The examination for employees of the Isthmian Canal Commission upon the Isthmus extend only to positions of clerk, bookkeeper, stenographer, typewriter, surgeon, physician, trained nurse, and draftsman.

PHILIPPINE CIVIL SERVICE.

Appointments to the insular civil service of the Philippines are made under an act passed by the Philippine Commission and rules promulgated by the governor of the islands. The municipal service of Manila is also classified and subject to the provisions of the act and rules, which are similar to those of the United States. The United States Civil Service Commission, under an Executive order, assists the Philippine board by conducting examinations in the United States for the Philippine service, and in all other practicable ways. These examinations are held only for positions for which competent natives can not be found, the natives being preferred for appointment.

The transfer is permissible, of classified employees who have served for three years, from the Philippine service to the Federal service.

CIVIL SERVICE IN PORTO RICO AND HAWAII.

The Federal positions in Porto Rico and Hawaii by act of Congress fall within the scope of the civil-service act and are filled in the same way as competitive positions in the United States. The competitive system does not extend to the insular and municipal positions of Hawaii, but such a system for Porto Rico became effective January 1, 1908.

UNCLASSIFIED LABORERS.

Appointments of unclassified laborers in the departments at Washington and in the large cities under Executive order are required to be made in accordance with regulations restricting appointment to applicants who are rated highest in physical condition. The system is outside the civil-service act and rules.

DEMAND FOR ELIGIBLES WITH CERTAIN QUALIFICATIONS.

There is an increasing demand for male clerks qualified as stenographers and typewriters, veterinarians, draftsmen of the various kinds, and for civil, mechanical, and electrical engineers; superintendents of construction, computers, and aids in the Coast and Geodetic Survey; also for teachers, matrons, seamstresses, farmers, and physicians in the Indian Service, and for railway mail clerks in most of the Western and some of the Gulf States.

Persons who become eligible in any of the examinations for positions outside of Washington, D. C., which are not apportioned, usually have a good chance of appointment. The same is true of those who pass examinations for apportioned positions if they are residents of States or Territories which have received less than their full share of appointments.

A manual containing all information needful to applicants is furnished by the Civil Service Commission upon request.

UNITED STATES GEOGRAPHIC BOARD.

By Executive order of August 10, 1906, the official title of the United States Board on Geographic Names was changed to United States Geographic Board and its duties enlarged.

The board passes on all unsettled questions concerning geographic names which arise in the departments, as well as determining, changing, and fixing place names within the United States and its insular possessions, and all names hereafter suggested by any officer of the Government shall be referred to the board before publication. The decisions of the board are to be accepted by all the departments of the Government as standard authority.

Advisory powers were granted the board concerning the preparation of maps compiled, or to be compiled, in the various offices and bureaus of the Government, with a special view to the avoidance of unnecessary duplications of work; and for the unification and improvement of the scales of maps, of the symbols and conventions used upon them, and of the methods of representing relief. Hereafter all such projects as are of importance shall be submitted to this board for advice before being undertaken.

GENERAL SUPPLY COMMITTEE.

The General Supply Committee was created in lieu of the board (Board of Awards) provided for in section 3709 of the Revised Statutes as amended, and is composed of officers, one from each of the executive departments, designated by the head thereof. Its duties are to make an annual schedule of required miscellaneous supplies for the use of each of said departments and other Government establishments in Washington, to standardize such supplies, eliminating all unnecessary grades and varieties, and to solicit bids based upon formulas and specifications drawn up by such experts in the service of the Government as the committee may see fit to call upon, who shall render whatever assistance they may require, provided that the articles intended to be purchased in this manner shall be those in common use by or suitable to the ordinary needs of two or more such departments or establishments. Every purchase or drawing of such supplies from the contractor is immediately reported to said committee. No disbursing officer may be a member of the committee.

BOARD OF INDIAN COMMISSIONERS.

The Board of Indian Commissioners, created in 1869, is a body of unpaid citizens, appointed by the President, who maintain an office in Washington for the expenses of which and of travel Congress appropriates. The board is not a bureau or division of any department, but is purposely kept reasonably independent and afforded opportunities for investigation in order that it may freely express an intelligent and impartial opinion concerning Indian legislation and administration. Its legal duties are to visit and inspect branches of the Indian Service, to cooperate with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in the purchase and inspection of Indian supplies, and to report to the Secretary of the Interior, to whom and to the President the board acts in an advisory capacity, with respect to plans of civilizing or dealing with the Indians.

COURT OF CLAIMS OF THE UNITED STATES.

This court was established by act of Congress February 24, 1855 (10 Stat. L., 612). It has general jurisdiction of all "claims founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, except for pensions, or upon any regulations of an executive department, or upon any contract, express or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect of which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States, either in a coust of law, equity, or admiralty, if the United States were suable, except claims growing out of the late Civil War and commonly known as war claims," and certain rejected claims.

It has jurisdiction also of claims of like character which may be referred to it by any executive department, involving disputed facts or controverted questions of law, where the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000, or where the decision will affect a class of cases or furnish a precedent for the future action of any executive department in the adjustment of a class of cases, or where any authority, right, privilege, or exemption is claimed or denied under the Constitution. In all the above-mentioned cases the court, when it finds for the claimant, may enter judgment against the United States, payable out of the Public Treasury. An appeal, only upon questions of law, lies to the Supreme Court on the part of the defendants in all cases, and on the part of the claimants when the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000. The findings of fact by the Court of Claims are final and not subject to review by the Supreme Court.

There is a statute of limitations which prevents parties from bringing actions on their own motion beyond six years after the cause of action accrued, but the departments may refer claims at any time if they were pending therein within the six years.

By section 151, Judicial Code (36 Stat. L., 1135), whenever any bill, except for a pension, is pending in either House of Congress providing for the payment of a claim against the United States, legal or equitable, or for a grant, gift, or bounty to any person, the House in which such bill is pending may, for the investigation and determination of facts, refer the same to the Court of Claims, which shall proceed with the same in accordance with such rules as it may adopt and report to such House the facts in the case and the amount, where the same can be liquidated, including any facts bearing upon the question whether there has been delay or laches in presenting such claim or applying for such grant, gift, or bounty, and any facts bearing upon the question whether the bar of any statute of limitation should be removed or which shall be claimed to excuse the claimant for not having resorted to any established legal remedy, together with such conclusions as shall be sufficient to inform Congress of the nature and character of the demand, either as a claim, legal or equitable, or as a gratuity against the United States, and the amount, if any, legally or equitably due from the United States to the claimant: Provided, however, That if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court upon the facts established that, under existing laws or the provisions of this chapter, the subject matter of the bill is such that it has jurisdiction to render judgment or decree thereon, it shall proceed to do so, giving to either party such further opportunity for hearing as in its judgment justice shall require, and it shall report its proceedings therein to the House of Congress by which the same was referred to said court.

By act of January 20, 1885 (23 Stat. L., 283, and 1 Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 471), Congress gave to the court jurisdiction over "claims to indemnity upon the French Government arising out of illegal captures, detentions, seizures, condemnations, and confiscations prior to the ratification of the convention between the United States and the French Republic concluded on the 30th day of September, 1800." The time of filing claims is limited to two years from the passage of the act, and all claims not presented within that time are forever barred. The court finds the facts and the law, and reports the same in each case to Congress.

By act of March 3, 1891, chapter 538 (26 Stat. L., 851, and Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 913), the court is vested with jurisdiction of certain Indian depredation claims.

The act of June 25, 1910, chapter 423 (36 Stat. L., 851–852), "An act to provide additional protection for owners of patents of the United States, and for other purposes," conferred a new jurisdiction.

There are five judges, who sit together in the hearing of cases, the concurrence of three of whom is necessary for the decision of any case.

The court sits at Washington, D. C., in the old Corcoran Art Building, Seventeenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, on the first Monday in December each year and continues into the following summer and until all cases ready for trial are disposed of. Cases may be commenced and entered at any time, whether the court be in session or not.

JUDICIARY.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

(In Capitol Building. Phones, marshal's office, Main 1; clerk's office, Main 3476.)

EDWARD DOUGLASS WHITE, Chief Justice of the United States, was born in the Parish of Lafourche, La., in November, 1845; was educated at Mount St. Mary's, near Emmitsburg, Md., at the Jesuit College in New Orleans, and at Georgetown (D. C.) ORIGIN AND FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

The District of Columbia was established under the authority and direction of acts of Congress approved July 16, 1790, and March 3, 1791, which were passed to give effect to a clause in the eighth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States, giving Congress the power—

"To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased, by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings."

The local government of the District of Columbia is a municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the territory which "was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States for the permanent seat of the Government of the United States."

This government is administered by a board of three commissioners having in general equal powers and duties.

Two of these commissioners, who must have been actual residents of the District for three years next before their appointment and have during that period claimed residence nowhere else, are appointed from civil life by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate of the United States for a term of three years each and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The other commissioner is detailed from time to time by the President of the United States from the Engineer Corps of the United States Army, and shall not be required to perform any other duty. This commissioner shall be selected from among the captains or officers of higher grade having served at least 15 years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army of the United States.

Three officers of the same corps, junior to said commissioner, may be detailed to assist him by the President of the United States.

The senior officer of the Corps of Engineers of the Army who shall for the time being be detailed to act as assistant (and in case of his absence from the District or disability, the junior officer so detailed) shall, in the event of the absence from the District or disability of the commissioner who shall for the time being be detailed from the Corps of Engineers, perform all the duties imposed by law upon said commissioner.

One of said commissioners shall be chosen president of the Board of Commissioners at their first meeting, and annually and whenever a vacancy shall occur thereafter.

The commissioners are in a general way vested with jurisdiction covering all the ordinary features of municipal government.

Congress has by sundry statutes empowered the commissioners to make building regulations; plumbing regulations; to make and enforce all such reasonable and usual police regulations as they may deem necessary for the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property within the District, and other regulations of a municipal nature.

RULES GOVERNING PRESS GALLERIES.

1. Persons desiring admission to the press galleries shall make application to the Speaker, as required by Rule XXXVI of the House of Representatives, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by Rule IV for the Regulation of the Senate Wing of the Capitol; and shall also state, in writing, for what paper or papers they are employed; and shall further state that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims pending before Congress or the departments, and will not become so engaged while allowed admission to the galleries; and that they are not in any sense the agents or representatives of persons or corporations having legislation before Congress, and will not become either while retaining their places in the galleries, and that they are not employed in an executive or legislative department, and will not become so employed while accepting the privileges of the galleries. Visiting journalists who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to the restrictions of this rule.

2. The applications required by above rule shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the Standing Committee of Correspondents, who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide telegraphic correspondents of reputable standing in their business, who represent daily newspapers, and not exceeding one seat shall be assigned to each paper; and it shall be the duty of the Standing Committee, at their discretion, to report violations of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker, or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and pending action thereon the offending correspondent shall be suspended.

3. Persons employed in the executive or legislative departments of the Government, and persons engaged in other occupations whose chief attention is not given to newspaper correspondence, shall not be entitled to admission to the Press Galleries; and the Press List in the Congressional Directory shall be a list only of telegraphic correspondents.

4. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to admission.

5. The galleries, subject to the approval of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the supervision and control of the Senate Committee on Rules, shall be under the control of the Standing Committee of Correspondents.

Approved:

CHAMP CLARK,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Approved by the Committee on Rules of the Senate.
