MARYLAND.

(Population (1910), 1,295,346.)

SENATORS.

JOHN WALTER SMITH, Democrat, of Snow Hill, was born in that town February 5, 1845. His ancestors were among the first settlers of that part of the State, and his maternal grandfather, Judge William Whittington, was one of the early circuit judges of Maryland. His father, John Walter Smith, and his mother both died before he was 5 years old. He was educated at private schools and at Union Academy, and began his business career at the age of 18 years. He is engaged in the lumber business in Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina; is president of the First National Bank of Snow Hill, and is director in many business and financial institutions. He was elected to represent Worcester County in the Senate of Maryland in 1889, and was successively reelected in 1893 and 1897; was president of the State senate during the session of 1894; was nominated and elected to Congress from the first congressional district of Maryland in 1898; was elected governor of Maryland by over 12,000 plurality in 1899; served as governor from 1900 to 1904; was a delegate at large to the Democratic national convention held at Kansas City in 1900, to the St. Louis convention in 1904, the convention at Baltimore in 1912, and at St. Louis in 1916; was nominated by direct vote of the members of the Democratic Party of Maryland on November 5, 1907, by a plurality of 17,931, at the first primary election held in his State for United States Senator, to serve the term beginning March 4, 1909, and was thereafter elected United States Senator for that term by the general assembly of the State January 15, 1908. He was elected United States Senator at the same session of the Maryland Legislature, on March 24, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Hon. William Pinkney Whyte for the unexpired term ending March 3, 1909. At the senatorial primary election held throughout the whole State of Maryland on September 15, 1914, to elect delegates to the State convention to nominate a Democratic candidate for the Senate, Senator Smith defeated the opposing candidate in every county of the State and in every ward of Baltimore city—an unprecedented result. Every delegate to the State convention went with instructions from the people to vote for him, and he received a unanimous vote on the first ballot. At the ensuing general election on November 3, 1914, he defeated his Republican opponent by a plurality of over 15,000, and was thus nominated and reelected to succeed himself for the term which ends on March 3, 1921.

HENRY LEE MYERS, Democrat, of Hamilton, was born on a farm in Cooper County, Mo., October 9, 1862, son of Henry M. and Maria (Adams) Myers. His father was a native of Jefferson County, Va., and his mother's family was from Bourbon County, Ky. He grew to manhood on his father's farm; received an academic education; taught school and studied law; admitted to the bar and engaged in the practice of law in his native State. In 1893 he moved to Hamilton, Mont., and there engaged in the practice of law; has since lived there. In 1894 he was elected county attorney, and was reelected in 1896. In 1898 he was elected State senator. In 1907 he was appointed judge of the district court of the fourth judicial district of Montana for a partial term, and in 1908 was elected to the same position for a full term and was serving it when elected by the Montana Legislature March 2, 1911, United States Senator for a term beginning March 4, 1911. In 1912 he was a delegate to the Democratic national convention. In 1916 he was nominated, without opposition, by his party for a second term as United States Senator, and was elected. In 1896 he married Miss Nora Doran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Doran, of Hamilton, Mont. They have one child, Mary Annetta Myers, 19 years of age. His term will expire March 3, 1923.

THIRTEENTH DISTRICT.—COUNTIES: Archer, Baylor, Clay, Cooke, Denton, Jack, Montague, Throckmorton, Wichita, Wilbarger, Wise, and Young (12 counties). Population (1910), ——.

LUCIAN WALTON PARRISH, Democrat, was born at Van Alstyne, in Grayson County, Tex., on January 10, 1878, one of a family of nine children; his father was Jefferson C. Parrish and his mother's maiden name was Mattie Hannah; his parents located near Joy, in Clay County, Tex., in about the year 1887; the hardships of the frontier life together with the severe droughts incident to the early days of this section made it impossible for the parents of this subject to send their children away to school, and Mr. Parrish's early education was had in the public school of the Joy community; when about 18 years of age he went to work on a ranch at a small salary, where he spent about a year and a half; later he was educated at the Bowie public and the Denton State normal school, finishing with a seven-year course at the University of Texas, taking at the latter institution three degrees—bachelor of arts, master of arts, and bachelor of laws; during his university career he took an active part in student affairs, serving as president of the students' association, the highest honor in the gift of the student body; was captain of the football and track teams, and was awarded numerous medals for successful work in those fields; he was active in debate and oration, having the distinction of winning the $50 gold prize as the best individual debater in his last year; after leaving the university went to Henrietta, in Clay County, Tex., and formed a law partnership with Hon. William Wantland in July, 1909, and around this association a large legal business has been built up; he was married in September, 1912, to Miss Gladys Edwards, the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Edwards, and to them have been born two children, Mary Parrish, 5 years of age, and Lucian Walton Parrish, jr., 3 years of age; prior to entering the race for Congress he had never sought or held public office of emolument; he had, however, been active in public affairs, serving his community as chairman of the Democratic executive committee in his county, as president of the school board, as president of the Chamber of Commerce of Henrietta, and had held other like positions of trust; C. F. Spencer, of Montague County, and E. P. Haney, of Wichita County, were his opponents in the race for Congress, and both of them were seasoned politicians, Mr. Haney having represented 5 of the 12 counties in the congressional district in the Legislature of Texas and Mr. Spencer having been county attorney of Montague County, and at the time he entered the race was district judge of Denton, Montague, and Cooke Counties, and besides was reared in Wise County, giving him an extensive acquaintance in those four counties of the district, while Mr. Parrish was practically unknown in any of the eastern part of the district; with Mr. Spencer in the east and Mr. Haney in the west, all the political prophets were quite sure that Mr. Parrish had no chance to win; however, with characteristic determination, he made an untiring and vigorous campaign; in a Ford car he went day and night, speaking from one to four times a day, and reached practically every community in the 12 counties; when the result of the first primary was known Mr. Parrish was winner by 253 votes, with Mr. Spencer next highest man; the second primary was held about two weeks later, and in that contest Mr. Parrish won by about 1,700 votes.

[1] Until within recent years the appointment or election of a President pro tempore was held by the Senate to be for the occasion only, so that more than one appears in several sessions and in others none were chosen. Since Mar. 12, 1890, they have served until "the Senate otherwise ordered."

[2] The Constitution (Art. I, sec. 4) provided that the Congress should assemble Mar. 4, 1789, and thereafter "in every year * * * on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day." Up to and including May 20, 1820, 18 acts were passed providing for the meeting of Congress on other days in the year. Since that year Congress has met regularly on the first Monday in December. The first and second sessions of the First Congress were held in New York; subsequently, until the second session of the Sixth Congress, Philadelphia was the meeting place; since then Congress has convened in Washington.

[3] Elected to count the vote for President and Vice President, which was done Apr. 6, 1789, a quorum of the Senate then appearing for the first time. John Adams, Vice President, appeared Apr. 21, 1789, and took his seat as President of the Senate.

[4] Elected Speaker, vice Henry Clay, who resigned Jan. 19, 1814.

[5] Elected Speaker Nov. 15, 1820, vice Henry Clay, who resigned Oct. 28, 1820.

[6] Elected Speaker June 2, 1834, vice Andrew Stevenson, of Virginia, resigned.

THE CAPITOL BUILDING.

The Capitol is situated in latitude 38° 53′ 20.4″ north and longitude 77° 00′ 35.7″ west from Greenwich. It fronts east and stands on a plateau 88 feet above the level of the Potomac.

ORIGINAL BUILDING.

The southeast corner stone of the original building was laid on the 18th of September, 1793, by President Washington, with Masonic ceremonies. It is constructed of sandstone from quarries on Aquia Creek, Va. The original designs were prepared by Dr. William Thornton, and the work was done under the direction of Stephen H. Hallet, James Hoban, George Hadfield, and B. H. Latrobe, architects. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811. A wooden passageway connected them. On the 24th of August, 1814, the interior of both wings was destroyed by fire, set by the British. The damage to the building was immediately repaired. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced, under the architectural superintendence of Charles Bulfinch. The original building was finally completed in 1827. Its cost, including the grading of the grounds, alterations, and repairs, up to 1827, was $2,433,844.13.

EXTENSIONS.

The corner stone of the extensions was laid on the 4th of July, 1851, by President Fillmore, Daniel Webster officiating as orator. This work was prosecuted under the architectural direction of Thomas U. Walter till 1865, when he resigned, and it was completed under the supervision of Edward Clark. The material used in the walls is white marble from the quarries at Lee, Mass., and that in the columns from the quarries at Cockeysville, Md. The House extension was first occupied for legislative purposes December 16, 1857, and the Senate January 4, 1859.

The value of the Capitol Building and Grounds, October 14, 1911, is as follows: Building, $15,000,000; grounds, $10,400,000; total, $25,400,000.

DIMENSIONS OF THE BUILDING.

The entire length of the building from north to south is 751 feet 4 inches, and its greatest dimension from east to west 350 feet. The area covered by the building is 153,112 square feet.

DOME.

The Dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, covered with copper. This was replaced in 1856 by the present structure of cast iron. It was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,909,200 pounds.

The Dome is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, which is 19 feet 6 inches high and weighs 12,985 pounds. It was modeled by Crawford. The height of the Dome above the base line of the east front is 287 feet 5 inches. The height from the top of the balustrade of the building is 217 feet 11 inches. The greatest diameter at the base is 135 feet 5 inches.

The Rotunda is 97 feet 6 inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is 180 feet 3 inches.

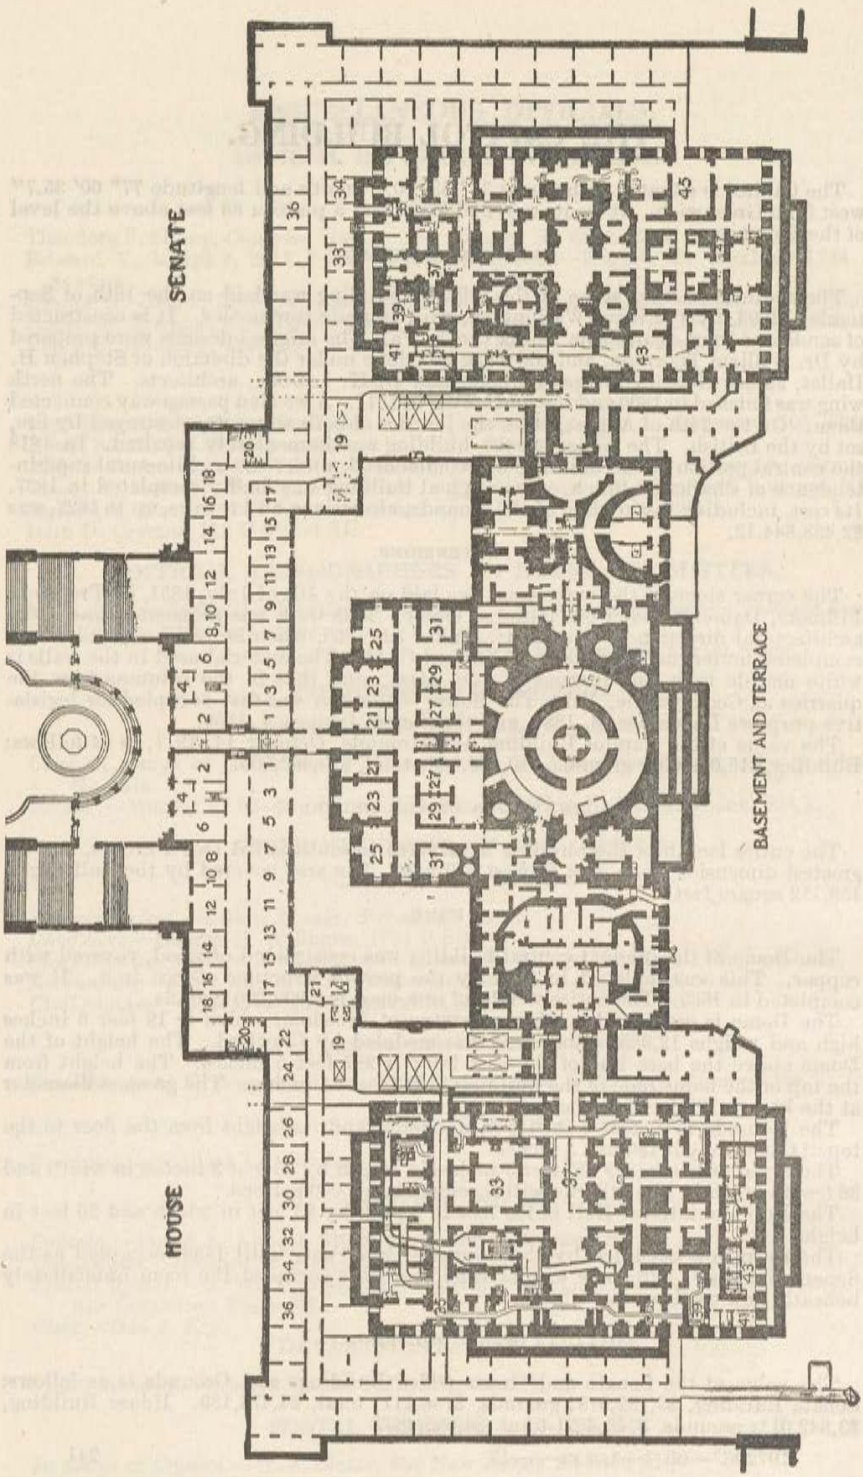

The Senate Chamber is 113 feet 3 inches in length by 80 feet 3 inches in width and 36 feet in height. The galleries will accommodate 1,000 persons.

The Representatives' Hall is 139 feet in length by 93 feet in width and 36 feet in height.

The room now occupied by the Supreme Court was, until 1859, occupied as the Senate Chamber. Previous to that time the court occupied the room immediately beneath, now used as a law library.

OFFICE BUILDINGS.

The value of the Senate and House Office Buildings and Grounds is as follows: Senate Building, $3,732,078; grounds, $746,111; total, $4,478,189. House Building, $3,342,011; grounds, $743,452; total, $4,085,463.

EXECUTIVE.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

(Pennsylvania Avenue, between Fifteenth and Seventeenth Streets. Phone, Main 6.)

WOODROW WILSON, President, was born at Staunton, Va., December 28, 1856, and is a son of the Rev. Joseph R. Wilson and Jessie Woodrow Wilson, the former a distinguished scholar and clergyman of the Presbyterian Church of the South. His father was a native of Ohio and his mother of Scotland, and his ancestry on both sides is Scotch-Irish. His boyhood days were spent in Augusta, Ga., at Columbia, S. C., and Wilmington, N. C., where he prepared for college with private tutors and at the schools of these places. His real educator, however, was his father, a scholar of high order, for some years professor of the Columbia (S. C.) Theological Seminary, and who closed his career as professor in the Southwestern Theological Seminary, at Clarksville, Tenn. In 1874 he entered Davidson College, North Carolina, remained one year, and in the fall of 1875 went to Princeton College, from which he was graduated in the class of 1879. Following his graduation he entered the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va., as a law student, and was graduated in 1881. For two years he practiced law at Atlanta, Ga. In 1883 to 1885 did graduate work at the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., in political economy and history; 1885 to 1888, professor of history and political economy at Bryn Mawr College, Pennsylvania; 1888 to 1890, professor in the same branches of science at Wesleyan University. In June, 1890, he was elected professor of jurisprudence and political economy at Princeton University. In 1895 the department was divided and he was assigned to the chair of jurisprudence. In 1897 he was promoted to the McCormick professorship of jurisprudence and politics. In 1902 he was elected president of the university, resigning both that office and his professorship in October, 1910, immediately after his nomination for governor of New Jersey, to which office he was elected November 8, 1910, by a plurality of 49,056 votes. He was married June 24, 1885, to Miss Ellen Louise Axson, of a distinguished family of Savannah, Ga. Mrs. Wilson died at the White House on August 6, 1914. The President has three daughters, Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre, and Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo. He is the author of the following works: Congressional Government, in 1885; The State-Elements of Historical and Practical Politics, in 1889; Division and Reunion, in 1893; An Old Master, and Other Political Essays, in 1893; Mere Literature and Other Essays, in 1896; Life of George Washington, in 1896; History of the American People, in 1902; and Constitutional Government in the United States, in 1908. He was married at Washington December 18, 1915, to Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, of that city.

JOSEPH P. TUMULTY, Secretary to the President (2649 Connecticut Avenue), was born in Jersey City May 5, 1879; attended St. Bridget's parochial school and subsequently entered St. Peter's College, Jersey City, from which he was graduated in 1899 with the degree of B. A.; admitted to the bar of New Jersey in 1902; practiced law in Jersey City. He was married in 1904 to Miss Mary Byrne, of Jersey City; they have six children, four girls and two boys. He served as a member of the New Jersey House of Assembly 1907–1910; in 1910 was appointed private secretary to Gov. Wilson and in 1912 clerk of the Supreme Court of New Jersey. He continued, however, to act as secretary to the governor until the governor resigned to become President. On March 4, 1913, he was appointed Secretary to the President.

OFFICIAL DUTIES.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.

SECRETARY OF STATE.

The Secretary of State is charged, under the direction of the President, with the duties appertaining to correspondence with the public ministers and the consuls of the United States, and with the representatives of foreign powers accredited to the United States; and to negotiations of whatever character relating to the foreign affairs of the United States. He is also the medium of correspondence between the President and the chief executives of the several States of the United States; he has the custody of the Great Seal of the United States, and countersigns and affixes such seal to all Executive proclamations, to various commissions, and to warrants for the extradition of fugitives from justice. He is regarded as the first in rank among the members of the Cabinet. He is also the custodian of the treaties made with foreign States, and of the laws of the United States. He grants and issues passports, and exequaturs to foreign consuls in the United States are issued through his office. He publishes the laws and resolutions of Congress, amendments to the Constitution, and proclamations declaring the admission of new States into the Union.

All appointments, removals, and transfers in the mints and assay offices are subject to his approval.

Tests of the weight and fineness of coins struck at the mints are made in the assay laboratory under his charge. He publishes quarterly an estimate of the value of the standard coins of foreign countries for customhouse and other public purposes. An annual report is prepared by the director, giving the operations of the mint service for the fiscal year, printed in the Finance Report of the Secretary of the Treasury, and giving the statistics of the production of the precious metals in the United States and the world for the calendar year.

COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY.

The Comptroller of the Treasury, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, prescribes the forms of keeping and rendering all public accounts except those relating to postal revenues and the expenditures therefrom. He is charged with the duty of revising accounts upon appeal from settlements made by the auditors. Upon the application of disbursing officers, the head of any executive department, or other independent establishment not under any of the executive departments, the comptroller is required to render his advance decision upon any question involving a payment to be made by them or under them, which decision, when rendered, governs the auditor and the comptroller in the settlement of the account involving the payment inquired about. He is required to approve, disapprove, or modify all decisions by auditors making an original construction or modifying an existing construction of statutes, and certify his action to the auditor whose duties are affected thereby. Under his direction the several auditors superintend the recovery of all debts finally certified by them, respectively, to be due the United States, except those arising under the Post Office Department. He superintends the preservation by the auditors of all accounts which have been finally adjusted by them, together with the vouchers and certificates relating to the same. He is required, on his own motion, when in the interests of the Government, to revise any account settled by any auditor. In any case where, in his opinion, the interests of the Government require, he may direct any of the auditors forthwith to audit and settle any particular account pending before the said auditor for settlement. It is his duty to countersign all warrants authorized by law to be signed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

MISCELLANEOUS BUREAUS.

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE.

The act approved August 14, 1912, changed the name of the Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service to the Public Health Service, and considerably increased its powers and functions. The bureau of the service at Washington comprises seven divisions, the operations of which are coordinated and are under the immediate supervision of the Surgeon General.

The Division of Scientific Research conducts the scientific investigations of the service. Intensive studies of diseases of man, including hookworm disease, malaria, pellagra, trachoma, typhoid fever, and tuberculosis, of school, mental, and industrial hygiene, of rural sanitation, of public health administration, of water supplies and sewage, and of coastal waters are carried on from special headquarters in the field in cooperation with State and local health authorities. Technical and purely laboratory studies are conducted at the Hygienic Laboratory in Washington, at special field laboratories, and at the leprosy investigation station in Hawaii. Information thus obtained is disseminated through publications, correspondence, lectures, and conferences with health authorities concerning the results of field studies in their jurisdictions. Through the division the department enforces the act of July 1, 1902, "to regulate the sale of viruses, serums, etc." The Surgeon General is required by law to call an annual conference of State and Territorial health authorities, and special conferences may also be called at any time. For advice in respect to scientific investigations he may convene the advisory board of the Hygienic Laboratory.

Through the Division of Foreign and Insular Quarantine and Immigration the Surgeon General enforces the national quarantine laws and prepares the regulations relating thereto. He has control of 44 Federal quarantine stations in the United States, and others in the Philippines, Hawaii, and Porto Rico, and supervises the medical officers detailed in the offices of the American consular officers at foreign ports to prevent the introduction of contagious or infectious diseases into the United States. Under section 17 of the act approved February 20, 1907, he has supervision over the medical officers engaged in the physical and mental examinations of all arriving aliens.

Through the Division of Domestic (Interstate) Quarantine is enforced section 3 of the act of February 15, 1893, relating to the prevention of the spread of contagious or infectious diseases from one State or Territory into another. This includes the suppression of epidemics and the sanitation of interstate carriers.

The Division of Sanitary Reports and Statistics collects and publishes information regarding the prevalence and geographic distribution of diseases dangerous to the public health in the United States and foreign countries. Court decisions, laws, regulations, and ordinances pertaining to the public health are compiled, digested, and published. Its publications contain articles on subjects relating to the public health. This division issues the Public Health Reports (weekly) and Supplements to, and Reprints from, the Public Health Reports.

Through the Division of Marine Hospitals and Relief professional care is taken of beneficiaries at 22 marine hospitals, 9 hospitals for the relief of War Risk Insurance patients, and 129 other relief stations. The beneficiaries include officers and crews of registered, enrolled, or licensed vessels of the United States and of the Coast Guard and Lighthouse Service; keepers and assistant keepers of lighthouses; civil employees injured while in the performance of their duty; discharged sick and disabled soldiers, sailors, and marines, Army and Navy nurses, patients of the War Risk Insurance Bureau; seamen employed on vessels of the Mississippi River Commission and of the Engineer Corps of the Army; keepers and surfmen of the Coast Guard; and employees of vessels of the Coast and Geodetic Survey. A purveying depot for the purchase and issuance of supplies is maintained at Washington. Physical examinations are made of members of the Coast Guard; for the detection of color blindness in masters, mates, and pilots; claimants under the War Risk Insurance Bureau; claimants under the Employees' Compensation Commission; applicants for vocational training by the Federal Board for Vocational Education; and applicants for positions in the classified civil service. The medical evidence of disability in claims for benefits against the Coast Guard is reviewed.

In the Division of Personnel and Accounts are kept the records of the officers and of the expenditures of the appropriations.

The Division of Venereal Diseases was created by act of Congress in July, 1918, "(1) to study and investigate the cause, treatment, and prevention of venereal diseases; (2) to cooperate with State boards or departments of health for the prevention and control of such diseases within the States; and (3) to control and prevent the spread of these diseases in interstate traffic." The division is organized to carry out the duties assigned to it by the act. Cooperative venereal disease clinics have been established in approximately 239 locations. At these clinics venereally infected persons are receiving modern scientific treatment and are controlled by laboratory methods. State boards of health are being cooperated with by the service in 43 States which have qualified to receive their share of allotments from the Chamberlain-Kahn funds. A comprehensive Nation-wide campaign for securing the necessary educational publicity regarding the seriousness of venereal diseases is being carried on. Hundreds of various agencies are cooperating with the Public Health Service in the extension of this work. Interstate quarantine regulations to prevent the spread of these diseases in interstate traffic have been promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

In addition to the foregoing activities, the Public Health Bureau issues a great number and variety of health publications, consisting of laboratory and technical bulletins, popular health pamphlets, publications for the assistance of health officers, and also posters, placards, and charts.

COAST GUARD.

The Commodore Commandant of the Coast Guard is charged by law with the administration of the Coast Guard, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury in time of peace and under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy in time of war. Headquarters are located at present in the Bond Building, Fourteenth Street and New York Avenue. The act of January 28, 1915, provided that the Coast Guard be created in lieu of the then existing Revenue-Cutter Service and the Life-Saving Service, and to be composed of those two organizations. It also provided that it shall constitute a part of the military forces of the United States, and shall operate under the Treasury Department in time of peace and operate as a part of the Navy, subject to the orders of the Secretary of the Navy, in time of war or when the President shall so direct.

In general, the duties of the Coast Guard may be classified as follows: Rendering assistance to vessels in distress and saving life and property; destruction or removal of wrecks, derelicts, and other floating dangers to navigation; extending medical aid to American vessels engaged in deep-sea fisheries; protection of the customs revenue; operating as a part of the Navy in time of war or when the President shall direct; enforcement of law and regulations governing anchorage of vessels in navigable waters; enforcement of law relating to quarantine and neutrality; suppression of mutinies on merchant vessels; enforcement of navigation and other laws governing merchant vessels and motor boats; enforcement of law to provide for safety of life on navigable waters during regattas and marine parades; protection of game and the seal and other fisheries in Alaska, etc.; enforcement of sponge-fishing laws.

To assist the Commodore Commandant in conducting the business of his office there are established at headquarters the following divisions:

Division of operations: Having cognizance of matters relating to the personnel and operations of the service.

Division of matériel: Having cognizance of matters relating to supplies, outfits, equipment, accounts, and the files.

Division of communications: Having cognizance of matters relating to the construction, repair, and operation of the coastal communication system and to other means of communication.

Division of construction and repair: Having cognizance of matters relating to the construction of and repairs to the hulls of vessels and boats, stations, wharves, and all other property.

Division of engineering: Having cognizance of matters relating to the construction of and repairs to the motive power of vessels and boats and the machinery of all other property.

Division of inspection: Having cognizance of matters relating to the inspection of vessels, stations, boats, and all other property.

Under the direction of the Commodore Commandant statistics are prepared regarding the loss of life and property on account of wrecked vessels in American waters. He is also required to acquaint himself, as far as practicable, with all means employed in foreign countries which may seem to affect advantageously the interests of the Coast Guard, and to cause to be properly investigated all plans, devices, and inventions for the improvement of life-saving apparatus for use at the stations which may appear to be meritorious and available.

SUPERVISING ARCHITECT.

Subject to the direction and approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, the duties performed by the Supervising Architect embrace the following: Securing cessions from States of jurisdiction over sites and the payment for the same; preparation of drawings, estimates, specifications, etc., for, and the superintendence of the work of, constructing, rebuilding, extending, or repairing public buildings; the care, maintenance, and repair of public buildings, the direction of the operating force in public buildings, and the supply of furniture, carpets, lighting fixtures, mechanical equipment, safes, and miscellaneous supplies for use of custodians' and engineers' forces in the care of public buildings.

GENERAL SUPPLY COMMITTEE.

The General Supply Committee was created by the act of June 17, 1910 (36 Stat., 531), in lieu of the Board of Awards provided for in section 3709 of the Revised Statutes as amended, and is composed of officers, one from each of the executive departments, designated by the head thereof. The Superintendent of Supplies, who is appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury, is ex officio secretary of the General Supply Committee, and he conducts all correspondence, supervises the preparation of all contracts, and performs such other duties as the Secretary of the Treasury may direct. It is the duty of the General Supply Committee to make an annual schedule of required miscellaneous supplies for the use of each of the executive departments and other Government establishments in Washington, to standardize such supplies, eliminating all unnecessary grades and varieties, and to solicit bids based upon formulas and specifications drawn up by such experts in the service of the Government as the committee may see fit to call upon, who shall render whatever assistance they may require, provided that the articles intended to be purchased in this manner shall be those in common use by or suitable to the ordinary needs of two or more such departments or establishments. Every purchase or drawing of such supplies from the contractor is immediately reported to said committee. No disbursing officer may be a member of the committee.

By the Executive order of December 3, 1918, and Treasury Department Regulations, dated December 10, 1918, the General Supply Committee has direct charge of the transfer and sale of surplus office material, supplies, and equipment in the hands of the executive departments and other establishments of the Government in the District of Columbia, and is required to keep a record of all material received and disposed of by it.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR.

SECRETARY OF WAR.

The Secretary of War is head of the War Department, and performs such duties as are required of him by law or may be enjoined upon him by the President concerning the military service.

He is charged by law with the supervision of all estimates of appropriations for the expenses of the department, including the Military Establishment; of all purchases of Army supplies; of all expenditures for the support, transportation, and maintenance of the Army, and of such expenditures of a civil nature as may be placed by Congress under his direction.

He also has supervision of the United States Military Academy at West Point and of military education in the Army, of the Board of Ordnance and Fortification, of the various battlefield commissions, and of the publication of the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion.

He has charge of all matters relating to national defense and seacoast fortifications, Army ordnance, river and harbor improvements, the prevention of obstruction to navigation, and the establishment of harbor lines; and all plans and locations of bridges authorized by Congress to be constructed over the navigable waters of the United States require his approval. He also has charge of the establishment or abandonment of military posts, and of all matters relating to leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR.

The Assistant Secretary has general charge of War Department administration and will act as Director of Munitions, and as Director of Munitions he will be responsible for procuring and furnishing the Army in the field the matériel required for its military operations, except that required for the air service, and to that end he will exercise such supervision, control, and direction as may be necessary over the activities of the department concerned in this task.

The Assistant Secretary exercises supervision and final authority over all expenditures for construction of all types at military camps, cantonments, and other reservations.

To the Assistant Secretary of War is assigned the general direction and supervision of all matters relating to rivers and harbors; bridges over navigable waters of the United States; leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department; inspections relating to the Military Establishment; recruiting service, discharges, commutation of rations, courts-martial, and other questions relating to enlisted men, including clemency cases and matters relating to prisoners at military prisons and penitentiaries.

He also has charge of routine matters relating to the militia; the promotion of rifle practice; the supervision of miscellaneous claims and accounts; matters relating to national cemeteries, boards of survey, open-market purchases, and medals of honor.

SECOND ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR.

(Position vacant.)

ASSISTANT AND CHIEF CLERK.

The Assistant and Chief Clerk of the War Department is the head of the Office of the Secretary of War, and as such has charge of the records and files, and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of that office, and is charged with the administrative action required by law to be taken in connection with the settlement of disbursing officers' accounts that do not relate to the different staff corps of the Army. By law he is authorized to sign such official papers and documents as the Secretary of War may direct; and, in pursuance of law, is designated to supervise the classification and compilation of all estimates of appropriations. He is authorized and directed by the Secretary of War to perform the duties assigned the Assistant Secretary of War during the temporary absence from the department of the Assistant Secretary; and he has general supervision of matters relating to civilian employees in and under the War Department; printing and binding and advertising for the War Department and the Army; appropriations for contingent expenses, stationery, rent of buildings; and the department's telegraph and telephone service; and performs such other duties as may be required by the Secretary of War.

GENERAL STAFF CORPS.

The General Staff Corps is organized under the provisions of the act of Congress approved February 14, 1903, as amended by the act of Congress approved June 3, 1916. Its principal duties are to prepare plans for the national defense and for the mobilization of the military forces in time of war; to investigate and report upon all questions affecting the efficiency of the Army and its state of preparation for military operations; to render professional aid and assistance to the Secretary of War; and to perform such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be from time to time prescribed by the President.

The Chief of Staff is the immediate adviser of the Secretary of War on all matters relating to the Military Establishment and is charged by the Secretary of War with the planning, development, and execution of the Army program. The Chief of Staff takes rank and precedence over all other officers of the Army, and by virtue of that position and by authority of and in the name of the Secretary of War he issues such orders as will insure that the policies of the War Department are harmoniously executed by the several corps, bureaus, and other agencies of the Military Establishment, and that the Army program is carried out speedily and efficiently.

The executive assistant to the Chief of Staff has charge of the Office of the Chief of Staff and acts for the Chief of Staff in his temporary absence. He is charged with the coordination of the work of the various divisions of the General Staff, with the collection of statistical information relative to troops and supplies for the use of the General Staff, and with the supervision of activities relating to the subject of military morale.

In order to perform as promptly and efficiently as possible the many duties of a supervising, coordinating, and informing character attendant upon the planning and carrying out of the Army program, the Chief of Staff has organized the General Staff into four main divisions under his direct control, each division being under an officer who is an assistant to the Chief of Staff and who has full power to act for the Secretary of War and for the Chief of Staff in all matters under his control.

These four divisions are as follows:

(a) The Military Intelligence Division: This division, which is under an officer designated as the Director of Military Intelligence, is charged with the collection, collation, and dissemination of military intelligence, both positive and negative. The Director of Military Intelligence is also Chief Military Censor.

(b) War Plans Division: This division, which is under an officer designated as the Director of the War Plans Division, is charged with the preparation of projects for national defense and of plans for the organization of the Army; with the supervision of research and inventions relating to war matériel; with the supervision of the training of the Army; with the preparation of legislation and regulations; and with the preparation of military historical records. The director of this division is president of the Army War College.

(c) The Operations Division: This division, which is under an officer designated as the Director of Operations, is charged with the mobilization of the Army; with the movement and disposition of troops; the appointment, promotion, transfer, and assignment of commissioned personnel; the determination of types and quantities of equipment and supplies; matters relating to the erection and construction of camps, cantonments, hospitals; and with the supervision of the procurement and supply of motor vehicles.

(d) The Purchase, Storage, and Traffic Division: This division, which is under an officer designated as the Director of Purchase, Storage, and Traffic, is charged with the supervision and coordination of the several bureaus and other agencies of the War Department in matters relating to the computation of requirements, procurement, transportation, storage and issue, and finance and accounting.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF COAST ARTILLERY.

The Chief of Coast Artillery is charged with the duty of keeping the Chief of Staff advised and informed as to the efficiency of the personnel and matériel of the Coast Artillery, and of initiating such measures relative thereto as, in the judgment of the Chief of Coast Artillery, shall tend to promote their efficiency. He is charged also with the duty of advising the chiefs of bureaus of the War Department of all matters relating to Coast Artillery matériel or personnel which the experience and observation of the Coast Artillery show to be of practical importance, of submitting recommendations as to the instruction of Coast Artillery officers and men, as to examinations for appointment and transfer of officers to the Coast Artillery Arm and for promotion therein, and as to the assignment of Coast Artillery officers to special duty and to Coast Artillery organizations and stations. He is charged also with the duty of providing organizations to man big guns and howitzers, motor-drawn or on railroad mounts, for duty with the American Expeditionary Forces; also organizations for antiaircraft guns, trench mortars, and ammunition trains for duty with these forces. He is a member of the Board of Ordnance and Fortification and is by law a member of the General Staff Corps.

MILITARY BUREAUS.

The chiefs of the military bureaus of the War Department are officers of the Regular Army of the United States and a part of the Military Establishment, viz:

The Adjutant General is charged with the duty of recording, authenticating, and communicating to troops and individuals in the military service all orders, instructions, and regulations issued by the Secretary of War through the Chief of Staff, or otherwise; of preparing and distributing commissions; of compiling and issuing the Army Register and the Army List and Directory; of consolidating the general returns of the Army; of arranging and preserving the reports of officers of the Army detailed to visit encampments of militia; of compiling and maintaining a list showing the names of officers of the Army on detached service; of managing the recruiting service, and of conducting correspondence concerning the military service generally, including such as pertains to military training camps, rifle practice, the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, and the Enlisted Reserve Corps. He is also vested with the government and control, under the direction of the Secretary of War, of the United States Disciplinary Barracks and its branches, and all offenders sent thereto for confinement and detention; and is charged with the duty of issuing and recording orders from the War Department remitting or mitigating sentences of general prisoners who have been discharged from the military service, or honorably restoring them to duty. The Adjutant General is vested by law with the charge, under the Secretary of War, "of the military and hospital records of the volunteer armies and the pension and other business of the War Department connected therewith"; of publishing War Department regulations, manuals, and miscellaneous documents pertaining to the military service and distributing to the Army such publications; of obtaining, compiling, and keeping continually up to date all obtainable information as to the names, ages, addresses, occupations, and qualifications for appointment as commissioned officers of the Army, in time of war or other emergency, of men of suitable ages who, by reason of having received military training in civilian educational institutions or elsewhere, may be regarded as qualified and available for appointment as such commissioned officers, and of issuing certificates of enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps. He also has charge of the records of the permanent Military Establishment and all business relating to pension, pay, bounty, and other matters pertaining to or based upon the military or medical histories of former officers or enlisted men, including the consideration of applications for the congressional medal of honor, the distinguished-service cross, and the distinguished-service medal; for the benefits of the act of Congress approved April 27, 1916, establishing the Army and Navy medal-of-honor roll; for certificates of military service, and certificates authorizing the purchase of campaign badges; and for removal of charges of desertion and the issue of discharge certificates to such soldiers finally charged with desertion as are entitled to relief under the terms of existing law. The archives of The Adjutant General's Office include all military records of the Revolutionary War in the possession of the General Government; the records of all organizations, officers, and enlisted men that have been in the military service of the United States since the Revolutionary War, including those pertaining to the volunteer forces and the National Guard while in the active service of the United States; the records of the movements and operations of troops; the medical and hospital records of the Army; all reports of physical examination of recruits and identification records; the records of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen, and Abandoned Lands; and a considerable collection of the Confederate records, including those pertaining to the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of the Confederate Government.

The Inspector General, with his assistants, inspects the United States Military Academy; the service schools; garrisoned posts and commands; camps of maneuver and instruction; staff offices at department headquarters; general hospitals; armories and arsenals; quartermaster, ordnance, medical, torpedo, signal, and engineer depots, recruit depots and recruiting stations; the disciplinary barracks and its branches; and military prisoners in United States penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kans.; ungarrisoned posts; national cemeteries; United States Army transports, cable boats, mine planters, and harbor boats; unserviceable property; money accounts of all disbursing officers of the Army; Soldiers' Home, District of Columbia, and the headquarters and 10 branches of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers; the National Guard as required by the act of June 3, 1916; also makes such special investigations as may be ordered, and assists in the annual tactical inspection of troops by department and brigade commanders, conducts the survey of business methods, War Department activities, and audits the report of the receipts and expenditures of the American National Red Cross.

The Judge Advocate General is the official legal adviser of the Secretary of War, the Chief of Staff, the War Department, and its several bureaus, and the entire Military Establishment. He passes upon the legal correctness of all military administration, all disciplinary actions, and all matters affecting the rights and mutual relationship of the personnel of the Army. It is his duty to advise the Commander in Chief and the Secretary of War upon all legal questions arising in the course of military administration and whether that administration is lawfully conducted. He furnishes all bureaus and offices of the department with legal advice, not only formally but also informally, where necessary. He is also at the head of the military judicial system. The judge advocate on the staff of the commander exercising general court-martial jurisdiction supervises disciplinary action in the first instance and the Office of the Judge Advocate General exercises supervisory power similar to a court of errors over all general court-martial jurisdictions throughout the Army.

The Quartermaster General, aided by assistants, provides transportation for the Army; also clothing and equipage, horses, mules, and wagons, vessels, forage, stationery; clothing and equipage for the militia; purchases subsistence supplies for issue as rations to troops, civil employee, etc.; subsistence of masters, officers, and crews of vessels of the Army transport service; meals for recruiting parties and applicants for enlistment, etc.; authorizes issue of soap, candles, etc.; supply of subsistence articles for authorized sales; supply of coffee roasters and cooking apparatus in the field; bake ovens and apparatus pertaining thereto; constructs necessary buildings, wharves, roads, and bridges at military posts, and repairs the same; furnishes water, heating and lighting apparatus; fuel for heating public buildings, operating vessels, etc.; pay of clerks, laborers, etc.; pay of officers and enlisted men of the Army, including staff corps and staff departments; pay of Porto Rico Regiment of Infantry and Philippine Scouts; pay of retired officers and retired enlisted men; commutation of quarters for commissioned officers, etc.; pay of dental surgeons, acting dental surgeons, contract surgeons; interest on soldiers' deposits, etc.

The Chief of the Construction Division is the executive and administrative head of the organization charged with all construction and maintenance work of the Army in the continental territory of the United States, Philippine Islands, Hawaiian Islands, Porto Rico, and the Canal Zone. The duties of this organization pertain to the surveying, and other necessary preliminary work on sites; preparation of plans; purchasing, selecting, and expediting of material; actual construction work; installation of equipment of all sorts; construction of roads, walks, wharves, sewer systems, and water systems; the maintenance and repair of all construction projects and the operation of public utilities at the same.

The Chief of the Motor Transport Corps is charged with the technical supervision of all motor vehicles; the design, operation, maintenance, and salvage of all motor vehicles and accounting for same; the establishment and operation of all motor transport garages, parks, depots, and repair shops; the procurement, organization, and technical training of Motor Transport Corps personnel.

The Surgeon General is the adviser of the War Department upon all medical and sanitary affairs of the Army. He has administrative control of the Medical Department; the designation of the stations of the commissioned personnel and civilian employees of the Medical Department, and the issuing of all orders and instructions relating to their professional duties; the recruitment, instruction, and control of the enlisted force of the Medical Department and of the Army Nurse Corps. The Army Medical Museum, the library of the Surgeon General's Office, and the general hospitals are under his direct control.

The Chief of Engineers commands the Corps of Engineers, which is charged with reconnoitering and surveying for military purposes, including the laying out of camps, the preparation of military maps of the United States and its possessions, including cooperation with other Government and private mapping agencies, and in field operations, of maps of the theater of operations, selection of sites, and formation of plans and estimates for military defenses, construction and repair of fortifications and their accessories, the installation of electric-power plants and electric-power cable connected with seacoast batteries, and furnishing the necessary electrical supplies connected therewith; planning and superintending of defensive or offensive works of troops in the field; examination of routes of communications for supplies and for military movements; construction and repair of military roads, railroads, and bridges; and military demolitions. In time of war, within the theater of operations, the Corps of Engineers has charge of the location, design, and construction of wharves, piers, landings, storehouses, hospitals, and other structures of general interest; and of the construction, maintenance, and repair of roads, ferries, bridges, and incidental structures; and of the construction, maintenance, and operation of railroads under military control, including the construction and operation of armored trains.

The Corps of Engineers is also charged with the improvement of rivers and harbors; with matters arising under the laws for the protection and preservation of navigable waters, including the establishment of harbor lines, anchorage grounds, and rules and regulations therefor; the establishment of regulations for the use, administration, and navigation of the navigable waters of the United States, and for the navigation of streams on which the floating of loose timber and sack rafts is the principal method of navigation; also with the issuance of permits for the construction, alteration, maintenance, and operation of bridges, the granting of permits for structures or work in navigable waters; with the removal of wrecks and other obstructions to navigation; with questions pertaining to the supervision of the harbor of New York and adjacent waters to prevent obstructive and injurious deposits; with surveying and charting the Great Lakes, the natural navigable waters of the New York State canals, Lake Champlain, the Lake of the Woods, and other boundary and connecting waters between said lake and Lake Superior; with the preservation of Niagara Falls; with public buildings and grounds in the District of Columbia; with the water supply of Washington, D. C.; with the construction of monuments and memorials; with the construction of roads and bridges in the Crater Lake National Park; and with general supervision of the work of the Board of Road Commissioners for Alaska.

The Chief Signal Officer is charged with the direction of the Signal Corps of the Army and the control of the officers, enlisted men, and employees attached thereto; with the supervision of all military signal duties, and of books, papers, and devices connected therewith, including telegraph, telephone, and radio apparatus and the necessary meteorological instruments for use on target ranges and other military uses; the construction, repair, and operation of military telegraph lines and cables; and the duty of collecting and transmitting information for the Army by telegraph or otherwise, and all other duties usually pertaining to military signaling.

The Chief of Ordnance commands the Ordnance Department, the duties of which consist in providing, preserving, distributing, and accounting for every description of artillery, small arms, and all the munitions of war which may be required for the fortresses of the country, the armies in the field, and for the whole body of the militia of the Union. In these duties are comprised that of determining the general principles of construction and of prescribing in detail the models and forms of all military weapons employed in war. They comprise also the duty of prescribing the regulations for the proof and inspection of all these weapons, for maintaining uniformity and economy in their fabrication, for insuring their good quality, and for their preservation and distribution.

The Militia Bureau is vested with all administrative duties involving the organization, armament, instruction, equipment, discipline, training, inspection, and payment of the National Guard; the conduct of camps of instruction of the National Guard, and the administrative duties connected with the preparation of the National Guard for participation in field exercises and maneuvers of the Regular Army; the mobilization of the National Guard in time of peace; and all matters pertaining to the National Guard not in Federal service and the unorganized militia of the United States not herein generically enumerated which do not under existing laws, regulations, orders, or practice come within the jurisdiction of the General Staff or any division or bureau of the War Department, and which will not operate to divest any bureau or division of the War Department of duties now properly belonging to it.

The Director of Air Service is charged, under the direction of the Secretary of War, with the duty of procuring, by manufacture or purchase, maintaining, and operating all aircraft, aircraft engines, and aircraft equipment for the Army, including balloons and airplanes, all appliances and facilities necessary to the operation and maintenance of said aircraft, and signaling apparatus of any kind when installed on said aircraft; of establishing, maintaining, and operating all flying fields, aviation stations, repair and supply depots, etc.; of training and operating organizations, officers, enlisted men of the Air Service, and candidates for aviation service in matters pertaining to military aviation; with the supervision, control, and direction over the Bureau of Aircraft Production and the Division of Military Aeronautics—the Bureau of Aircraft Production and the Division of Military Aeronautics functioning only on matters in connection with the cancellation of contracts and with the approval or authority for funds.

To the Bureau of Insular Affairs, under the immediate direction of the Secretary of War, is assigned all matters pertaining to civil government in the island possessions of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the War Department, the Philippine Islands and Porto Rico being the only ones so subject at the present time. The bureau is also the repository of the civil records of the government of occupation of Cuba (Jan. 1, 1899, to May 20, 1902), and had assigned to it matters pertaining to the provisional government of Cuba (Sept. 29, 1906, to Jan. 28, 1909). It makes a comptroller's review of the receipts and expenditures of the Philippine and Porto Rican governments; attends to the purchase and shipment of supplies for those governments; has charge of appointments of persons in the United States to the civil service of the Philippines and Porto Rico and arranges their transportation. It gathers statistics of insular imports and exports, shipping and immigration, and issues semiannual summaries of the same. Under the convention of February 8, 1907, and the general regulations of the President of the United States issued thereunder, the bureau has immediate supervision and control of the Dominican receivership for the collection of customs revenues and payment of the interest and principal of the adjusted bonded indebtedness of the Dominican Republic, and in some respects acts as the agent in the United States of the receivership.

BOARD OF ENGINEERS FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS.

The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors is a permanent body created by the river and harbor act of June 13, 1902. To it are referred for consideration and recommendation all reports upon examinations and surveys provided for by Congress, and all projects or changes in projects for works of river and harbor improvement upon which report is desired by the Chief of Engineers, United States Army. It is further the duty of the board, upon request by the Committee on Commerce of the Senate, or by the Committee on Rivers and Harbors of the House of Representatives in the same manner, to examine and report through the Chief of Engineers upon any examinations, surveys, or projects for the improvement of rivers and harbors. In its investigations the board gives consideration to all engineering, commercial, navigation, and economic questions involved in determining the advisability of undertaking such improvements at the expense of the United States.

The disbursing clerk disburses from about 40 appropriations, under the direction of the Attorney General, including the salaries of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States and the judges of the other United States courts located in the District of Columbia; the salaries of the officials of the department proper, as well as the salaries and expenses of certain employees stationed in the field; the contingent expenses of the department; supplies for United States courts; and other special and miscellaneous appropriations. He is also authorized and directed by law to withhold and account for the income tax.

SUPERINTENDENT OF PRISONS.

The superintendent of prisons has charge, under the direction of the Attorney General, of all matters relating to United States prisons and prisoners, including the support of such prisoners in both State and Federal penitentiaries, in reform schools and in county jails. He has supervision over the construction work in progress at United States penal institutions.

The superintendent of prisons is president of the boards of parole for the United States penitentiaries and president of the boards of parole for United States prisoners in each State or county institution used for the confinement of United States prisoners.

APPOINTMENT CLERK

The appointment clerk has charge of all matters relating to applications, recommendations, and appointments, including certifications by the Civil Service Commission; conducts correspondence pertaining thereto; prepares nominations sent to the Senate; prepares commissions and appointments for the officers and employees of the department in Washington, and for United States judges, attorneys, and marshals and other officers under the department. He also compiles the Register of the Department of Justice and matter relating to that department for the Official Register of the United States.

ATTORNEY IN CHARGE OF PARDONS.

The attorney in charge of pardons takes charge of all applications for Executive clemency, except those in Army and Navy cases, these being referred to the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, respectively; of the briefing of the cases and the correspondence in relation to them.

ATTORNEY IN CHARGE OF TITLES.

The attorney in charge of titles prepares opinions upon the title to lands belonging to or sought to be acquired by the Government for public purposes and opinions upon all legal matters growing out of the same. He has charge of all proceedings to acquire land under eminent domain, and conducts all the correspondence relating to the above matters.

CHIEF OF THE DIVISION OF ACCOUNTS.

The Chief of the Division of Accounts has charge of the examination or audit of all accounts payable from appropriations for expenses of the Department of Justice and the courts of the United States; accounts of United States marshals, attorneys, clerks, and commissioners are examined, recorded, and transmitted to the auditor; while other accounts are recorded, audited, and transmitted to the disbursing clerk for payment under recent legislation.

Authorizations of court expenses, including items for office expenses and clerical assistants for clerks of United States courts; the approval of leases of court accommodations; and the advancement of funds to United States marshals; also matters relating to the appointment of office and field deputy marshals are in charge of the chief of this division.

Statistical information published in the annual report of the Attorney General showing the business transacted in the courts of the United States, bankruptcy statistics, and the various reports required by law pertaining to expenditures under appropriations for the courts are also compiled in this division.

General supervision of the examination of the offices and records of Federal court officials and general direction of the work of the examiners.

The chief of this division, jointly with the chief clerk of the department, as a committee, have charge of the assignment of space in Federal buildings for officers of the Department of Justice and the Federal courts.

CHIEF OF THE DIVISION OF INVESTIGATION.

The Chief of the Division of Investigation has general supervision of the investigation of offenses against the laws of the United States not otherwise specifically provided for by law, and directs the work of all special agents and accountants of the department whose compensation or expenses are paid from the appropriation "Detection and prosecution of crimes."

LIBRARIAN.

The librarian has general charge and supervision of the library. He is a member of the committee for the selection of books to be purchased for the library, directs the cataloguing, and cooperates generally in the service of the library.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The Postmaster General is the executive head of the Federal Postal Service. He appoints all officers and employees of the Post Office Department except the four Assistant Postmasters General and the purchasing agent, who are presidential appointees. With the exception of postmasters of the first, second, and third classes, who are likewise presidential appointees, he appoints all postmasters and all other officers and employees of the service at large. Subject to the approval of the President, he makes postal treaties with foreign Governments. He awards and executes contracts and directs the management of the Foreign Mail Service. He is the executive head of the Postal Savings System, and ex officio chairman of the board of trustees of that system. Under authority of a joint resolution of Congress dated July 16, 1918, the President assumed control over the telegraph and telephone systems of the United States for the duration of the war, the exercise of such jurisdiction being delegated to the Postmaster General by proclamation of the President July 22, 1918.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk of the Post Office Department is charged with the general superintendence and assignment of the clerical and subclerical forces of the department and the consideration of applications for leave of absence for such employees; the supervision of the preparation of estimates of appropriations for the departmental and postal service; of advertising; the supervision of requisitions upon the Treasury and the expenditure of the appropriations for the departmental service; the keeping of the journals and order books; the furnishing of stationery supplies for the departmental service; the consideration and signing of requisitions upon the Public Printer for the printing and binding required in the Postal Service and the department, and receiving, and inspecting on receipt, of blanks required in the Post Office Department; the supervision of the receipt and inspection of supplies for the Post Office Department and the Postal Service which are delivered in Washington; the preparation of contracts and general superintendence of the publication and distribution of the Official Postal Guide; the fixing of rates, subject to the approval of the Postmaster General, for the transmission of Government telegrams; the miscellaneous business correspondence of the Postmaster General's Office, and miscellaneous correspondence of the department not assigned to other offices; the care of the department and other buildings used in connection therewith, and of all furniture and public property therein; and the performance of such other duties as may be required by the Postmaster General. In addition to the duties prescribed above, the chief clerk of the department is required to give careful consideration to matters affecting the proper administration of civil-service laws and regulations, it being necessary for him to personally examine reports from the Civil Service Commission from time to time in order to keep thoroughly familiar with the provisions of the law and constant amendments of existing regulations and new regulations issued thereunder. Under the efficiency system obtaining in the Post Office Department, which provides for the payment of salaries according to character (or kind), quality, and quantity of work performed and for the elimination of inequalities and injustices and the faithful observance of the spirit and letter of the civil service, the chief clerk of the department is required to review the efficiency ratings of employees at frequent intervals and pass upon same before any changes in the status of employees are made. It is also necessary for the chief clerk to personally examine papers affecting discipline of employees.

SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

The Special Assistant to the Attorney General is charged with the duty of assisting in the defense of cases against the United States arising out of the transportation of the mails, and in other matters affecting the postal revenues. These include suits in the Federal courts involving claims of the railroads and other contractors for the carriage of the mails; the representation of the Postmaster General and the preparation and presentation of the department's cases in proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission for the determination by the commission of the basis for adjustment of railroad mail pay and the fixing of fair and reasonable rates for the transportation of the mails and for services in connection therewith by railroads and urban and interurban electric railway common carriers, and in other matters of petition by the Postmaster General to the commission; and the representation of the Postmaster General in hearings before the department on orders changing the mode of transporting periodical mail matter and in connection with reviews of such orders by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

Railway Mail Service.—Is charged with the supervision of the Railway Mail Service and railway postal clerks; prepares cases for the appointment, removal, promotion, and reduction of said clerks; conducts correspondence and issues orders relative to the moving of the mails on railroad trains; has charge of the dispatch and distribution of mail matter in railway postal cars and post offices; conducts the weighing of mails; and attends to all correspondence relative to these matters.

THIRD ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The Third Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions, to which are assigned the duties specified:

Finance.—The financial operations, including the collection and deposit of postal revenues; the distribution of postal funds among the several depositaries so as to equalize, as far as possible, receipts and expenditures in the same section; the payment by warrant of all accounts settled by the auditor; the receipt and disposition of all moneys coming directly to the department; and the keeping of books of account showing the fiscal operations of the postal and money-order services and the regulation of box rents and key deposits.

Stamps.—The supervision of the manufacture and issuance to postmasters of postage stamps, stamp books, stamped envelopes, newspaper wrappers, postal cards, and postal savings stamps and cards by the various contractors; and the keeping of the accounts and records of these transactions. The receipt and disposition of damaged and unsalable stamped paper returned by postmasters for redemption and credit. The issuance to postmasters for sale to the public of United States war savings certificate stamps, United States thrift stamps, and United States internal-revenue stamps, and the keeping of accounts in connection therewith.

Money orders.—The supervision and management of the money-order service, both domestic and international; the preparation of conventions for the exchange of money orders with foreign countries.

Registered mails.—The supervision and management of the registry, insurance, and collect-on-delivery services; the establishment and control of all registry dispatches and exchanges; the instruction of postmasters and the furnishing of information in relation to these matters; and the consideration of all claims for indemnity for injured or lost registered, insured, and C. O. D. mail.

Classification.—The general control of all business relating to the classification of domestic mail matter and the rates of postage thereon; the determination of the admissibility of publications to the second class of mail matter, their right to continue in that class, including the administration of the law requiring semiannual statements of their ownership, circulation, etc., and the instruction of postmasters relative thereto; also the use of penalty envelopes, the franking privilege, and the limit of weight and size of mail matter.

Postal savings.—The conduct and management of the administrative office of the postal savings system at Washington; the selection and designation of post offices as postal savings depository offices and the supervision of the business transacted at such offices; the management and investment of postal savings funds as the agent of the board of trustees; and the administrative examination of accounts of postmasters and other fiscal agents of the system.

FOURTH ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL.

The Fourth Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions, to which are assigned the duties specified:

Rural mails.—In this division all petitions for the establishment and extension of rural delivery service are received and examined, and, if accepted, prepared for investigation. Through it all orders pertaining to the extension or change of existing service or establishment of new service are issued; also all orders pertaining to the appointment and discipline of rural letter carriers and all other correspondence incident to these matters, including requirements with reference to rural mail boxes. This division also prepares all advertisements inviting proposals for star-route service (except in the Territory of Alaska), receives proposals, prepares awards for execution of all contracts, and prepares all orders for establishment of or change in star routes.

Equipment and supplies.—Is charged with the preparation of specifications for equipment and supplies for the Postal Service, and the duty of determining the needs of the service as to style and character thereof; the preparation of purchase requisitions therefor on the purchasing agent; the custody, transportation, and distribution of equipment and supplies, and the conduct of correspondence relative thereto; the keeping of a record of expenditures as charged to the respective appropriations; the preparation and revision of post-route maps and the supervision of their printing, issue, and distribution; the preparation of specifications for their manufacture, and the general care of stones and property in the department and in the possession of contractors; the making of rural-delivery maps, and the distribution of parcel-post maps and zone keys; the designing or adoption of such new equipment and supplies as may be deemed necessary, and the performance or direction of experimental and research work in connection therewith, as well as the examination and test of the mechanical features of devices; the supervision and operation of the equipment shops, and the keeping of records showing the cost of equipment and its operation and repair.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY.

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The Secretary of the Navy performs such duties as the President of the United States, who is Commander in Chief, may assign him, and has the general superintendence of construction, manning, armament, equipment, and employment of vessels of war.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy performs such duties in the Navy Department as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy or required by law.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk has general charge of the records and correspondence of the Secretary's office, and performs such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Secretary of the Navy.

OFFICE OF NAVAL OPERATIONS.

During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy the Chief of Naval Operations is next in succession to act as Secretary of the Navy. (Act Mar. 3, 1915.) The Chief of Naval Operations, while so serving as such Chief of Naval Operations, shall have the rank and title of admiral, to take rank next after the Admiral of the Navy. (Act Aug. 29, 1916.)

The Chief of Naval Operations, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with the operations of the fleet and with the preparation and readiness of plans for its use in war. (Act Mar. 3, 1915.) This includes the direction of the Naval War College, the Office of Naval Intelligence, the Office of Gunnery Exercises and Engineering Performances, the operation of the Radio Service and of other systems of communication, the operations of the Aeronautic Service, of Mines and Mining, of the Naval Defense Districts, Naval Militia, and of the Coast Guard when operating with the Navy; the direction of all strategic and tactical matters, organization, maneuvers, target practice, drills and exercises, and of the training of the fleet for war; and the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all tactics, drill books, signal codes, and cipher codes.

The Chief of Naval Operations is charged with the preparation, revision, and record of Regulations for the Government of the Navy, Naval Instructions, and General Orders. He advises the Secretary concerning the movements and operations of vessels of the Navy and prepares all orders issued by the Secretary in regard thereto, and keeps the records of service of all fleets, squadrons, and ships. He advises the Secretary in regard to the military features of all new ships and as to any proposed extensive alterations of a ship which will affect her military value, and all features which affect the military value of dry docks, including their location; also as to matters pertaining to fuel reservations and depots, the location of radio stations, reserves of ordnance and ammunition, fuel, stores, and other supplies of whatsoever nature, with a view to meeting effectively the demands of the fleet.

In preparing and maintaining in readiness plans for the use of the fleet in war he freely consults with and has the advice and assistance of the various bureaus, boards, and offices of the department, including the Marine Corps headquarters, in matters coming under their cognizance. After the approval of any given war plans by the Secretary it is the duty of the Chief of Naval Operations to assign to the bureaus, boards, and offices such parts thereof as may be needed for the intelligent carrying out of their respective duties in regard to such plans.

The Chief of Naval Operations is charged with matters pertaining to the operation of aircraft and aircraft stations. He has supervision of the training of officers and men in the Aeronautic Service.

The Chief of Naval Operations from time to time witnesses the operations of the fleet as an observer.

He has two principal senior assistants, officers not below the grade of captain, one as assistant for operations and the other as assistant for matériel.

He is ex officio a member of the General Board.

COMMUNICATION OFFICE.

The Communication Office, under the Director of Naval Communications, handles all the dispatch work of the Navy Department. Assistant communication officers are on watch in the Communication Office at all times, night and day.

OFFICE OF NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Office of Naval Intelligence is charged with the collection, classification, and dissemination of such technical information at home and abroad as will be useful to the Chief of Naval Operations and to the various bureaus of the Navy Department in the formulation of plans for war and in the development of personnel and matériel.

OFFICE OF GUNNERY EXERCISES AND ENGINEERING PERFORMANCES.

The Office of Gunnery Exercises and Engineering Performances is charged with the duties, under the Chief of Naval Operations, of formulating the orders for all forms of gunnery exercises and engineering performances, the preparation of all drill books and gunnery and engineering instructions, the collection, analyzing, and publication to the service of the results of gunnery exercises and engineering performances of the vessels of the fleets, the examination of reports of battle efficiency inspections, the award of prizes, trophies, and commendatory letters in connection therewith, all these exercises being for the purpose of training the fleet for war.

NAVAL COMMUNICATION SERVICE.

The Office of Director of Naval Communications is established under the Chief of Naval Operations. The Director of Naval Communications is charged with matters pertaining to the operation of naval radio stations ashore, and in addition is charged with the duties in connection with and is responsible for the efficient handling of all telegraph, telephone, and cable, and generally all dispatch work between the Navy Department and the fleet and throughout the naval service outside the fleet. In his administration of the foregoing he has general charge of the operation, organization, and administration of the Communication Service. He cooperates with officials designated by the Secretary of Commerce in reference to the proposed location of commercial radio stations, the licensing of operators, the control of the operation of commercial radio stations under the law, and the assignment of wave lengths for use by commercial stations which will comply with the law and prevent interference with the radio work of the Naval Communication Service. In war time he has charge of the administration of cable censorship.

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF NAVAL AVIATION.

The Office of the Director of Naval Aviation is charged with the duties, under the Chief of Naval Operations, of recommending and formulating the aviation activities of the Navy, and the training of the personnel required therefor.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The duties of the Bureau of Navigation comprise the issue, record, and enforcement of the orders of the secretary to the individual officers of the Navy; the training and education of line officers and of enlisted men (except of the Hospital Corps) at schools and stations and in vessels maintained for that purpose; the upkeep and operation of the Naval Academy, of technical schools for line officers, of the apprentice-seaman establishments, of schools for the technical education of enlisted men, and of the naval home at Philadelphia, Pa.; the upkeep and the payment of the operating expenses of the Naval War College; the enlistment, assignment to duty, and discharge of all enlisted persons.

(2) It has under its direction all rendezvous and receiving ships, and provides transportation for all enlisted persons under its cognizance.

(3) It establishes the complements of all ships in commission.

(4) It keeps the records of service of all officers and men, and prepares an annual Navy Register for publication, embodying therein data as to fleets, squadrons, and ships, which shall be furnished by the Chief of Naval Operations. To the end that it may be able to carry out the provisions of this paragraph, all communications to or from ships in commission relating to the personnel of such ships are forwarded through this bureau, whatever their origin.

(5) It is charged with all matters pertaining to applications for appointments and commissions in the Navy, and with the preparation of such appointments and commissions for signature.

(6) It is charged with the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all regulations governing uniform, and with the distribution of all orders and regulations of a general or circular character.

(7) Questions of naval discipline, rewards, and punishments are submitted by this bureau for the action of the Secretary of the Navy. The records of all general courts-martial and courts of inquiry involving the personnel of the Navy before final action are referred to this bureau for comment as to disciplinary features.

(8) It receives and brings to the attention of the Secretary of the Navy all applications from officers for duty or leave.

(9) It receives all reports of services performed by individual officers or men.

(10) It is charged with the enforcement of regulations and instructions regarding naval ceremonies and naval etiquette.

(11) It shall be charged with the upkeep and operation of the Hydrographic Office, the Naval Observatory, Nautical Almanac, and compass offices. It shall also have charge of all ocean and lake surveys, and ships' and crews' libraries; it shall defray the expenses of pilotage of all ships in commission.

(12) It shall be charged with the formation of the Naval Reserve and with all matters relating thereto.

NAVAL OBSERVATORY, BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The Naval Observatory, at Washington, D. C., and the Navy Chronometer Time Station, at the navy yard, Mare Island, Cal., furnish the country standard time each day both by telegraph and radio, and the adjacent oceans by radio, the former supplying that part of the country east of the Rocky Mountains and the latter that part west. The Naval Observatory supervises the outfits of instruments for the naval service and keeps up continuous fundamental observations of the heavenly bodies for the use of the Nautical Almanac Office, which prepares the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac and the American Nautical Almanac each year for the use of navigators, surveyors, and others requiring the positions and movements of the heavenly bodies.

HYDROGRAPHIC OFFICE, BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The Hydrographic Office is charged with marine surveys in foreign waters and with the collection and dissemination of hydrographic and navigational data; the preparation and printing of maps and charts relating to and required in navigation; the preparation of navigator's sailing directions or pilots, and manuals of instruction for the use of all vessels of the United States and for the benefit and use of navigators generally; the furnishing of the foregoing to the Navy and other public services; and their sale to the mercantile marine and the public at the cost of printing and paper.

BUREAU OF YARDS AND DOCKS.

The duties of the Bureau of Yards and Docks comprise all that relates to the design and construction of public works, such as dry docks, marine railways, building ways, harbor works, quay walls, piers, wharves, slips, dredging, landings, floating and stationary cranes, power plants, coaling plants; heating, lighting, telephone, water, sewer, and railroad systems; roads, walks, and grounds; bridges, radio towers, and all buildings, for whatever purpose needed, under the Navy and Marine Corps. It provides for the general maintenance of the same except at the naval proving ground, the naval torpedo stations, the naval training stations, the Naval Academy, the naval magazines, naval hospitals, and marine posts. It designs and makes the estimates for the public works after consulting as to their operating features with the bureau or office for whose use they are primarily intended. It has charge of all means of transportation, such as derricks, shears, locomotives, locomotive cranes, cars, motor trucks, and all vehicles, horses, teams, subsistence, and necessary operators and teamsters in the navy yards. It provides the furniture for all buildings except at the naval magazines, hospitals, the Naval Academy, and marine posts. It provides clerks for the office of the commandant, captain of the yard, and public works officer. In general, the work of the bureau is carried out by commissioned officers of the Corps of Civil Engineers, United States Navy, whose major duties comprise the construction and maintenance of the public works of the Navy.

BUREAU OF ORDNANCE.

The duties of the Bureau of Ordnance comprise all that relates to the upkeep, repair, and operation of the torpedo station, naval proving ground, and magazines on shore, to the manufacture of offensive and defensive arms and apparatus (including torpedoes and armor), all ammunition and war explosives. It requires for or manufactures all machinery, apparatus, equipment, material, and supplies required by or for use with the above.

It determines the interior dimensions of revolving turrets and their requirements as regards rotation.

As the work proceeds it inspects the installation of the permanent fixtures of the armament and its accessories on board ship, and the methods of stowing, handling, and transporting ammunition and torpedoes, all of which work must be performed to its satisfaction. It designs and constructs all turret ammunition hoists, determines the requirements of all ammunition hoists, and the method of construction of armories and ammunition rooms on shipboard, and, in conjunction with the Bureau of Construction and Repair, determines upon their location and that of all ammunition hoists outside of turrets. It installs all parts of the armament and its accessories which are not permanently attached to any portion of the structure of the hull, excepting turret guns, turret mounts, and ammunition hoists, and such other mounts as require simultaneous structural work in connection with installation or removal. It confers with the Bureau of Construction and Repair respecting the arrangements for centering the turrets and the character of the roller paths and their supports.

It has cognizance of all electrically operated ammunition hoists, rammers, and gun-elevating gear which are in turrets; of electric training and elevating gear for gun mounts not in turrets; of electrically operated air compressors for charging torpedoes; and of all range finders and battle order and range transmitters and indicators.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR.

The duties of the Bureau of Construction and Repair comprise the responsibility for the structural strength and stability of all ships built for the Navy; all that relates to designing, building, fitting, and repairing the hulls of ships, turrets, and electric turret-turning machinery, spars, capstans, windlasses, deck winches, boat cranes, steering gear, and hull ventilating apparatus (except portable fans); and, after consultation with the Bureau of Ordnance and according to the requirements thereof as determined by that bureau, the designing, construction, and installation of independent ammunition hoists, the same to conform to the requirements of the Bureau of Ordnance as to power, speed, and control, and the installation of the permanent fixtures of all other ammunition hoists and their appurtenances; placing and securing armor, placing and securing on board ship to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Ordnance the permanent fixtures of the armament and its accessories as manufactured and supplied by that bureau; installing the turret guns, turret mounts, and turret ammunition hoists, and such other mounts as require simultaneous structural work in connection with installation or removal.

It has charge of the docking of ships, and is charged with the operating and cleaning of dry docks.

It is responsible for the care and preservation of ships not in commission.

It has cognizance of electric launches and other boats supplied with electric motive power.

It has charge of the manufacture of anchors and cables; the supplying and fitting of rope, cordage, rigging, sails, awnings, and other canvas, and flags and bunting; it supplies, to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, galley ranges, steam cookers, and other permanent galley fittings, and installs and repairs the same.

It supplies and installs, in consultation with the Bureau of Steam Engineering, all voice tubes and means of mechanical signal communications.

BUREAU OF STEAM ENGINEERING.

The duties of the Bureau of Steam Engineering comprise all that relates to designing, building, fitting out, and repairing machinery used for the propulsion of naval ships; the steam pumps, steam heaters, distilling apparatus, refrigerating apparatus, all steam connections of ships, and the steam machinery necessary for actuating the apparatus by which turrets are turned.

It inspects all fuel for the fleet.

It has cognizance of the entire system of interior communications. It is specifically charged with the design, supply, installation, maintenance, and repair of all means of interior and exterior electric signal communications (except range finders and battle-order and range transmitters and indicators), and of all electrical appliances of whatsoever nature on board naval vessels, except motors and their controlling apparatus used to operate the machinery belonging to other bureaus.

It supplies and installs all conduit and molding or other means for carrying electric wiring, the plans for such installation being made after consultation with the Bureau of Construction and Repair and being subject to the approval of that bureau.

It has charge of the design, manufacture, installation, maintenance, repair, and operation of radio outfits on board ship and on shore and of the upkeep and payment of expenses, other than the pay of enlisted personnel, of operation of radio stations on shore.

It has charge of the design, manufacture, installation, maintenance, repair, and operation of aeroplane motors and propellers and their attachments.

It has supervision and control of the upkeep and operation of the Engineering Experiment Station.

It designs the various shops at navy yards and stations where its own work is executed, so far as their internal arrangements are concerned.

BUREAU OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall have charge of the upkeep and operation of all hospitals and of the force employed there; it shall advise with respect to all questions connected with hygiene and sanitation affecting the service, and to this end shall have opportunity for necessary inspection; it shall provide for physical examinations; it shall pass upon the competency, from a professional standpoint, of all men in the Hospital Corps for enlistment and promotion by means of examinations conducted under its supervision, or under forms prescribed by it; it shall have information as to the assignment and duties of all enlisted men of the Hospital Corps; it shall recommend to the Bureau of Navigation the complement of medical officers, dental officers, and Hospital Corps for hospital ships, and shall have power to appoint and remove all nurses in the Nurse Corps (female), subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Navy.

Except as otherwise provided for, the duties of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall include the upkeep and operation of medical supply depots, medical laboratories, naval hospitals, dispensaries, technical schools for the Medical and Hospital Corps, and the administration of the Nurse Corps (female) and of the Dental Corps.

It shall approve the design of hospital ships in so far as relates to their efficiency for the care of the sick and wounded.

It shall require for all supplies, medicines, and instruments used in the Medical Department of the Navy. It shall have control of the preparation, reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, and issue of all supplies of every kind used in the Medical Department for its own purposes.

BUREAU OF SUPPLIES AND ACCOUNTS.

The duties of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts comprise all that relates to the purchase, reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, shipment, and issue of all supplies for the Naval Establishment, and the keeping of property accounts for the same (except supplies for the Marine Corps); the procuring of provisions, clothing, and small stores, and material under the naval supply account. This fund, which is administered by the Paymaster General of the Navy, governs the charging, crediting, receipt, purchase, transfer, manufacture, repair, issue, and consumption of all stores for the Naval Establishment, except for a few items which are specifically exempted. The two naval clothing factories also come under his control. He procures all coal, oil, fuel, and gasoline for steamers' and ships' use, including its transportation, storage, and handling, and water for all purposes on board naval vessels and the loading of all collier and tank ships and also charters of merchant ships for transportation purposes. He has supervision over all that relates to the supply of funds for disbursing officers, payment for articles and services for which contract and agreement have been made, and the keeping of the money accounts of the Naval Establishment, including accounts of all manufacturing and operating expense at the navy yards and stations; and the preparation of estimates for the pay of all officers and enlisted men of the Navy.

The Paymaster General of the Navy also has supervision over the loading and cargoes of supply ships; the approval of requisitions for provisions, clothing, and ships' store stocks; the scrutiny and approval or disapproval of reports of surveys on provisions, clothing, and ships' store stocks; the compilation of memoranda for the information of officers of the Pay Corps; requisitions for all supplies for the Navy, shipments, allotments under S. and A. appropriations and allotments for ships under all appropriations; the preparation and issuance of allowance lists of ships for S. and A. material; the purchase of typewriters, adding machines, and mess equipment; the utilization and disposition of excess stock which has accumulated at various yards; the preparation and issue of the Standard Stock Catalog and the Index to Classification of Naval Stores; the upkeep of yard stock, including reserve stock and naval supply account stock, and the scrutiny of navy-yard plans of storehouses and plans of new ships, in so far as pertains to S. and A.

He is responsible for the purchase of all supplies for the Naval Establishment, including provisions and clothing; the preparation and issue of all standard Navy specifications, schedules of proposed purchases, and the preparation of contracts and bureau orders in connection with purchases; for the keeping of all of the property and money accounts of the Naval Establishment and the audit of all property returns from ships and stations, including naval supply account stores, ordnance stores, provisions, ships' stores and clothing, and other miscellaneous materials; has the direction of naval cost accounting, including industrial yard accounting systems, and the maintenance of records of expenditures by titles and accounts and plant and ship records.

OFFICE OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL.

The duties of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy are as follows: To revise and report upon the legal features of and to have recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, boards of investigation, inquest, and boards for the examination of officers for retirement and promotion in the naval service; to prepare charges and specifications for courts-martial, and the necessary orders convening courts-martial in cases where such courts are ordered by the Secretary of the Navy; to prepare court-martial orders promulgating the final action of the reviewing authority in court-martial cases; to prepare the necessary orders convening courts of inquiry in cases where such courts are ordered by the Secretary of the Navy, and boards for the examination of officers for promotion and retirement, for the examination of all candidates for appointment as officers in the naval service, other than midshipmen, and in the Naval Reserve Forces, and to conduct all official correspondence relating to such courts and boards. It is also the duty of the Judge Advocate General to examine and report upon all questions relating to rank and precedence, to promotions and retirements, and those relating to the validity of the proceedings in court-martial cases; all matters relating to the supervision and control of naval prisons and prisoners, including prisoners of war; the removal of the mark of desertion; the correction of records of service and reporting thereupon in the Regular or Volunteer Navy; certification of discharge in true name; pardons; bills and resolutions introduced in Congress relating to the personnel and referred to the department for report, and the drafting and interpretation of statutes relating to personnel; references to the Comptroller of the Treasury with regard to pay and allowances of the personnel; questions involving points of law concerning the personnel; proceedings in the civil courts in all cases concerning the personnel as such; and to conduct the correspondence respecting the foregoing duties, including the preparation for submission to the Attorney General of all questions relating to subjects coming under his own cognizance which the Secretary of the Navy may direct to be so referred. The study of international law is assigned to the Office of the Judge Advocate General. He shall examine and report upon questions of international law, as may be required.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR.

The duties of the solicitor comprise and relate to examination and report upon questions of law, including the drafting and interpretation of statutes, and matters submitted to the accounting officers not relating to the personnel; preparation of advertisements, proposals, and contracts; insurance; patents; the sufficiency and approval of official, contract, and other bonds and guaranties; proceedings in the civil courts by or against the Government or its officers in cases relating to material and not concerning the personnel as such; claims by or against the Government; questions submitted to the Attorney General, except such as are under the cognizance of the Judge Advocate General; bills and congressional resolutions and inquiries not relating to the personnel and not elsewhere assigned; the searching of titles, purchase, sale, transfer, and other questions affecting lands and buildings pertaining to the Navy; the care and preservation of all muniments of title to land acquired for naval uses; and the correspondence respecting the foregoing duties; and rendering opinion upon any matter or question of law referred to him by the Secretary or Assistant Secretary.

MAJOR GENERAL COMMANDANT OF THE MARINE CORPS.

The Major General Commandant of the Marine Corps is responsible to the Secretary of the Navy for the general efficiency and discipline of the corps; makes such distribution of officers and men for duty at the several shore stations as shall appear to him to be most advantageous for the interests of the service; furnishes detachments for vessels of the Navy according to the authorized scale of allowance; under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, issues orders for the movement of officers and troops, and such other orders and instructions for their guidance as may be necessary; and has charge and exercises general supervision and control of the recruiting service of the corps, and of the necessary expenses thereof, including the establishment of recruiting stations.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

The Secretary of the Interior is charged with the supervision of public business relating to patents for inventions, pensions and bounty lands, the public lands and surveys, the Indians, education, the Geological Survey, the Reclamation Service, the Bureau of Mines, national parks, the Capitol Building and Grounds, distribution of appropriations for agricultural and mechanical colleges in the States and Territories and certain hospitals and eleemosynary institutions in the District of Columbia. By authority of the President the Secretary of the Interior has general supervision over the work of constructing the Government railroad in the Territory of Alaska. He also exercises certain other powers and duties in relation to the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii.

FIRST ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

In the absence of the Secretary the First Assistant Secretary becomes Acting Secretary. He is especially charged with supervision of the business of the General Land Office, including cases appealed to the Secretary of the Interior from decisions of that bureau involving public lands; applications for easements or rights of way for reservoirs, ditches, railroads, telephone and power-transmission lines; selections of public lands under grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads and wagon roads, for reclamation, and for the benefit of educational and other public institutions, etc. National park matters and Indian affairs affecting the disposal of the public domain are under his supervision. He considers proposed legislation pertaining to matters under his supervision. From time to time duties in connection with the affairs of other bureaus of the department are assigned to him.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

The Assistant Secretary has general supervision over all matters concerning the Patent Office, the Pension Office (including appeals from the decisions of the Commissioner of Pensions), Indian Office matters, including those involving oil lands, and the Bureau of Education, the execution of contracts and the approval of vouchers covering expenditures of money for the eleemosynary institutions under the Department of the Interior in the District of Columbia (including St. Elizabeths Hospital), and various miscellaneous matters over which the department has jurisdiction. He also considers proposed legislation pertaining to matters under his supervision. Duties in connection with the affairs of other bureaus are assigned to him from time to time.

ASSISTANT TO THE SECRETARY.

This officer is charged with the general supervision of matters relating to the Reclamation Service, Bureau of Mines, and all matters relating to the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii. He is the direct representative of the Secretary of the Interior in matters pertaining to the construction, operation, and maintenance of the Alaska Railroad, and is authorized to receive, pass upon, approve, execute, or disapprove contracts, tariffs, regulations, vouchers, and other papers relating to the railroad. In addition, he considers proposed legislation pertaining to the activities under his supervision.

CHIEF CLERK.

As the chief executive officer of the department and the administrative head of the Office of the Secretary the chief clerk has supervision over the clerks and other employees of the department (including the watch, mechanical, and labor forces), enforces the general regulations of the department, and is superintendent of the several buildings occupied by the department. He also supervises the classification and compilation of all estimates of appropriations, and has general supervision of expenditures from appropriations for contingent expenses for the department, including stationery and postage on mail addressed to postal-union countries. The detailed work relating to corporate sureties on bonds, to eleemosynary institutions in the District of Columbia under the Department of the Interior, the Capitol Building and Grounds, the admission of attorneys and agents to practice and disbarments from practice, the office of the returns clerk, and miscellaneous matters is done in his office. During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretaries he may be designated by the Secretary to sign official papers and documents.

COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office is charged with the survey, management, and disposition of the public lands, the adjudication of conflicting claims relating thereto, the granting of railroad and other rights of way, easements, the issuance of patents for lands, and with furnishing certified copies of land patents and of records, plats, and papers on file in his office. In national forests he executes all laws relating to surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, reconveying, or patenting of public lands, and to the granting of rights of way amounting to easements.

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has charge of the Indian tribes of the United States (exclusive of Alaska), their education, lands, moneys, schools, purchase of supplies, and general welfare.

COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS.

The Commissioner of Pensions supervises the examination and adjudication of all claims arising under laws passed by Congress granting pensions on account of service in the Army or Navy rendered wholly prior to October 6, 1917; claims for reimbursement for the expenses of the last sickness and burial of deceased pensioners; and also claims for bounty-land warrants based upon military or naval service rendered prior to March 3, 1855.

COMMISSIONER OF PATENTS.

The Commissioner of Patents is charged with the administration of the patent laws, and supervision of all matters relating to the granting of letters patent for inventions, and the registration of trade-marks. He is by statute made the tribunal of last resort in the Patent Office, and has appellate jurisdiction in the trial of interference cases, of the patentability of inventions, and of registration of trade-marks.[1]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION.

The Commissioner of Education collects statistics and general information showing the condition and progress of education, advises State, county, and local school officers as to the administration and improvement of schools; issues an annual report, a bulletin in several numbers annually, and miscellaneous publications; has charge of the schools for the education of native children in Alaska; supervises the reindeer industry in Alaska; and administers the endowment fund for the support of colleges for the benefit of agriculture and mechanic arts. He has charge of the promotion of home gardening under school direction in cities and towns and is promoting the increased production of foodstuffs through the organization of the United States School Garden Army. He is a member of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, which has charge of the administration of the act of Congress providing Federal aid for vocational education in the several States.

DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Director of the Geological Survey is charged under direction of the Secretary of the Interior with classification of the public lands and the examination of the geologic structure, mineral resources, and mineral products of the national domain. In conformity with this authorization, the Geological Survey has been engaged in making a geologic map of the United States, involving both topographic and geologic surveys, in collecting annually the statistics of mineral production, and in conducting investigations relating to surface and underground waters.

[1] Appeals lie from his decisions to the United States Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

THE RECLAMATION SERVICE.

The Reclamation Service, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, is charged with the survey, construction, and operation of irrigation works in the arid States as authorized by the reclamation act of June 17, 1902, and amendments. The executive officer of the service is the director and chief engineer, who directs the work of investigating, building, operating, and maintaining the works; also the investigation throughout the United States of the reclamation of swamp and cut-over lands.

DIRECTOR OF THE BUREAU OF MINES.

The Director of the Bureau of Mines is charged with the investigations of the methods of mining, especially in relation to the safety of miners and the appliances best adapted to prevent accidents, the possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on, the treatment of ores and other mineral substances, the use of explosives and electricity, the prevention of accidents, and other inquiries and technological investigations pertinent to such industries. He also has charge of tests and analyses of coals, lignites, ores, and other mineral fuel substances belonging to or for the use of the United States, and has supervision over the mine inspector for Alaska; also the administration and enforcement of the act approved October 6, 1917, to prohibit the manufacture, distribution, storage, use, and possession in time of war of explosives, providing regulations for the safe manufacture, distribution, storage, use, and possession of the same. He is also charged, under the sundry civil act of July 1, 1918, with the establishment of Government fuel yards in the District of Columbia for the storage and distribution of fuel for the use of and delivery to all branches of the Federal service and the municipal government in the District of Columbia and such parts thereof as may be situated immediately without the District of Columbia.

DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL PARK SERVICE.

The Director of the National Park Service is charged with the duty of administering the national parks, the national monuments under the jurisdiction of the Interior Department, and the Hot Springs Reservation in Arkansas, including the maintenance, improvement, and protection of the parks, monuments, and reservation, and the control of the concessioners operating utilities therein for the care of visitors.

BOARD OF INDIAN COMMISSIONERS.

The Board of Indian Commissioners, created in 1869, is a body of unpaid citizens, appointed by the President, who maintain an office in Washington, for the expenses of which and of travel Congress appropriates. The board is not a bureau or division of any department, but is purposely kept reasonably independent and afforded opportunities for investigation in order that it may freely express an intelligent and impartial opinion concerning Indian legislation and administration. Its legal duties are to visit and inspect branches of the Indian Service, to cooperate with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in the purchase and inspection of Indian supplies, and to report to the Secretary of the Interior, to whom and to the President the board acts in an advisory capacity, with respect to plans of civilizing or dealing with the Indians.

ALASKAN ENGINEERING COMMISSION.

The Alaskan Engineering Commission was created under the act of March 12, 1914, which empowered, authorized, and directed the President to locate, construct, operate, or lease a railroad, or railroads, to connect the interior of Alaska with one or more of the open navigable ports on the coast. Authority was also granted to purchase existing railroads, to construct, maintain, and operate telegraph and telephone lines, and to make reservations of public lands in Alaska necessary for the purposes of the railroad.

For the execution of this work a commission of three engineers was appointed by the President to make the necessary surveys. They were directed to report to the Secretary of the Interior, under whom the President placed the general administration of the work. After the completion of the preliminary surveys, the President by Executive order selected the route for the railway from the coast to the interior, and continued the original commission of engineers in charge of the construction under the general supervision of the Secretary of the Interior.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

The Secretary of Agriculture is charged with the work of promoting agriculture in its broadest sense. He exercises general supervision and control over the affairs of the department and formulates and establishes the general policies to be pursued by its various branches and offices.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk has general supervision of clerks and employees; of the order of business of the department and of records of the Secretary's office; and of expenditures from appropriations for miscellaneous expenses, rents, etc. He is responsible for the enforcement of the general regulations of the department and is custodian of buildings.

SOLICITOR.

The Solicitor is the legal adviser of the Secretary and the heads of the several branches of the department. He directs and supervises all law work of the department.

OFFICE OF FARM MANAGEMENT.

This office studies the farmer's economic problems with a view to reducing costs and increasing profits through a better organization of the farm and a better adjustment of production to the demands of the market. Especial attention is given to cost of production, farm organization, farm finance, the geographical distribution of types of farming, the supply and use of labor, land utilization and land tenure, and farm life studies.

WEATHER BUREAU.

The Weather Bureau has charge of the forecasting of the weather; the issue and display of weather forecasts, and storm, cold-wave, frost, and flood warnings; the gauging and reporting of river stages; the maintenance and operation of the United States Weather Bureau telegraph and telephone lines; the collection and transmission of marine intelligence for the benefit of commerce and navigation; the reporting of temperature and rainfall conditions for agricultural interests; and the taking of such meteorological observations as may be necessary to determine and record the climatic conditions of the United States, including investigations in aerology in the aid of aviation, in seismology, and in volcanology.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY.

The Bureau of Animal Industry has charge of the work of the department relating to the live-stock industry. In general it deals with the investigation, control, and eradication of diseases of animals, the inspection and quarantine of live stock, the inspection of meat and meat food products, and with animal husbandry and dairying.

BUREAU OF PLANT INDUSTRY.

The Bureau of Plant Industry studies plant life in all its relations to agriculture. The scientific work of the bureau is divided into 33 distinct groups, over each of which is placed a scientifically trained officer, who reports directly to the chief and associate chief of the bureau. The work of the bureau is conducted on the project plan, the investigations under each of the offices being arranged by group projects consisting of closely related lines of work, which group projects are further divided into projects.

FOREST SERVICE.

The Forest Service administers the national forests; studies forest conditions and methods of forest utilization; investigates the mechanical and physical properties of woods and the processes employed in the manufacture of forest products; and gathers information concerning the needs of the various wood-using industries and the relation of forests to the public welfare generally.

BUREAU OF CHEMISTRY.

The Bureau of Chemistry is concerned with analytical work and investigation under the food and drugs act, questions of agricultural chemistry of public interest, and other chemical investigations referred to it by the Government.

BUREAU OF SOILS.

The Bureau of Soils investigates the relation of soils to climate and organic life; studies the texture and composition of soils in field and laboratory; maps the soils; studies the cause and means of preventing the rise of alkali in the soils of irrigated districts; the relations of soils to seepage and drainage conditions; and the fertilizer resources of the country.

BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY.

The Bureau of Entomology studies insects; experiments with the introduction of beneficial insects; makes tests with insecticides and insecticide machinery; and identifies insects sent in by inquirers.

BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Bureau of Biological Survey has charge of the work of the department relating to the control and conservation of wild birds and mammals and the investigation of their relation to agriculture. It studies their food habits and investigates methods of protecting beneficial species and controlling harmful ones; experiments in fur farming; controls injurious mammals in national forests and on other public domain; makes biological surveys of areas, studies the geographic distribution of wild animals and plants, and maps natural life zones; administers Federal laws relating to interstate commerce in birds and game; regulates the importation of foreign birds and mammals; administers the Federal migratory-bird treaty act; and supervises national mammal and bird reservations.

DIVISION OF ACCOUNTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

This division has charge of the disbursement of public funds appropriated for the Department of Agriculture.

PUBLICATION WORK.

Editorial.—The work of this section includes the editing of all manuscripts and their preparation for the printer. Information.—This office secures circulation in popular form of agricultural information. A Weekly News Letter is published, and the public press is furnished with agricultural facts taken from publications and official orders and from oral statements of specialists. Publications.—This division conducts all business of the department connected with the Government Printing Office and has general supervision of all printing, indexing, illustration, binding, and distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists.

BUREAU OF CROP ESTIMATES.

The Bureau of Crop Estimates is organized for the purpose of collecting, compiling, abstracting, analyzing, summarizing, and interpreting statistical data relating to agriculture. It publishes the Monthly Crop Report of the department, embodying current statistics relating to acreage, yield, condition and production of crops, numbers of live stock, and value of farm products. During certain seasons of the year it issues weekly and semimonthly Truck Crop Reports and special reports on the commercial production of apples, peaches, and other fruits. The field force comprises 42 field agents, who publish monthly crop reports for their respective territories, 12 crop specialists, and more than 200,000 voluntary reporters.

LIBRARY.

The department library contains 146,000 books and pamphlets, including an extensive collection on agriculture, a large and representative collection on the sciences related to agriculture, and a good collection of standard reference books. Periodicals currently received number 2,433. A dictionary catalogue is kept on cards, which number about 392,000. The librarian has charge of the foreign mailing lists.

STATES RELATIONS SERVICE.

The States Relations Service represents the Secretary of Agriculture in his relations with the State agricultural colleges and experiment stations, under the acts of Congress granting funds to these institutions for agricultural experiment stations and cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics, and in carrying out the provisions of acts of Congress making appropriations to this department for farmers' cooperative demonstration work, investigations relating to agricultural schools, farmers' institutes, and home economics, and the maintenance of agricultural experiment stations in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Guam.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC ROADS.

The Bureau of Public Roads administers the Federal aid road act, under which the Government cooperates with the States in improvement of post and national forest roads; studies systems of road management and methods of road building, improvement, and maintenance; details engineers to assist local officials in building model roads; ascertains the location, properties, and value of road materials; builds experimental roads to test substitutes for natural road materials; investigates the comparative effects of motor and horse traffic on roads; cooperates with colleges and experiment stations and with State highway officials; exhibits models showing types of roads, culverts, bridges, and road machines; and conducts irrigation and drainage investigations and studies other rural engineering problems.

BUREAU OF MARKETS.

The Bureau of Markets acquires and disseminates information regarding the marketing and distribution of farm and nonmanufactured food products. Its work is divided into four branches—investigational, demonstrational, service, and regulatory. Through its investigational work it obtains basic information of fundamental importance regarding marketing methods and conditions; and also regarding the standardization, transportation, and storage of agricultural products and methods used in their grading, handling, and packing; methods of accounting and business practice used by agencies engaged in marketing such products; the organization of rural communities for marketing or purchasing farm products or for the improvement of credit and social conditions; and the milling and baking qualities of grain for which standards have been established under the United States grain standards act. Demonstrational work is conducted regarding standardization, grading, packing, and shipping of commodities, the use of the accounting systems devised by the bureau, and other matters. In its service work the bureau issues reports giving information regarding the supply, commercial movement, disposition, and market prices of fruits and vegetables, live stock and meats, dairy and poultry products, grain, hay, feeds, and seeds, and regarding opportunities for American farm products in foreign countries. Reports are issued monthly showing the production of dairy products, the stocks of hides and skins, the consumption of wool, active and idle wool machinery, and cold-storage holdings of meats, fish, lard, butter, cheese, eggs, dressed poultry, apples, and other commodities. The supply of wool is reported upon quarterly, and stocks of hair and bristles semiannually. An inspection service on fruits and vegetables is now available at 163 markets. The inspectors engaged on this work investigate and certify to shippers the condition as to soundness of fruits, vegetables, and other food products when received at market. A market reporting service is conducted in many cities to give to consumers, growers, and distributors information in nontechnical form regarding supplies of food on city markets. Semiannual surveys are made to determine the location and ownership of the food supply of the Nation, and monthly reports are issued showing commercial stocks of grain, flour, and a number of miscellaneous food products. The bureau has charge of the distribution of nitrate of soda purchased by the Government for the use of farmers. Regulatory work is performed in connection with the enforcement of the United States cotton futures, grain standards, and standard basket acts, and in connection with the administration of the United States warehouse act. The chief of the bureau represents the Secretary of Agriculture in the execution of the duties prescribed under the President's proclamation of June 18, 1918, for enforcing regulations governing licensees operating in stockyards or handling or dealing in live or dead stock in or in connection with stockyards, and acts as liquidating officer of the wool section of the War Industries Board.

INSECTICIDE AND FUNGICIDE BOARD.

The Insecticide and Fungicide Board, created December 22, 1910, assists the Secretary of Agriculture in the enforcement of the insecticide act of 1910.

FEDERAL HORTICULTURAL BOARD.

The Federal Horticultural Board, created August 21, 1912, assists the Secretary of Agriculture in the enforcement of the plant quarantine act of August 20, 1912.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE.

The Secretary of Commerce is charged with the work of promoting the commerce of the United States and its mining, manufacturing, shipping, fishery, and transportation interests. His duties also comprise the administration of the Lighthouse Service and the aid and protection to shipping thereby; the taking of the census, and the collection and publication of statistical information connected therewith; the making of coast and geodetic surveys; the collecting of statistics relating to foreign and domestic commerce; the inspection of steamboats, and the enforcement of laws relating thereto for the protection of life and property; the supervision of the fisheries as administered by the Federal Government; the supervision and control of the Alaskan fur-seal, salmon, and other fisheries; the jurisdiction over merchant vessels, their registry, licensing, measurement, entry, clearance, transfers, movement of their cargoes and passengers, and laws relating thereto, and to seamen of the United States; the regulation of the enforcement and execution of the act of Congress relating to the equipment of ocean steamers with apparatus and operators for wireless communication; the custody, construction, maintenance, and application of standards of weights and measurements; the gathering and supplying of information regarding industries and markets for the fostering of manufacturing; and the formulation (in conjunction with the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Treasury) of regulations for the enforcement of the food and drugs act of 1906 and the insecticide act of 1910. He has power to call upon other departments for statistical data obtained by them.

For the proper accomplishment of any or all of the aforesaid work, it is by law provided that all duties performed, and all the powers and authority possessed or exercised, at the date of the creation of said department, by the head of any executive department in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service transferred to said department, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the Secretary of Commerce.

The act creating the Department of Labor, approved March 4, 1913, changed the name of the Department of Commerce and Labor to the Department of Commerce. Under the terms of this act the Bureau of Labor, Bureau of Immigration, Division of Naturalization, and Children's Bureau were detached from the Department of Commerce and Labor and organized as the new Department of Labor.

Upon the organization of the Federal Trade Commission, created by the act approved February 26, 1914, the Bureau of Corporations ceased to exist as a bureau of the Department of Commerce and became a part of the Federal Trade Commission, and all pending investigation and proceedings of the former bureau were taken over by the Federal Trade Commission.

It is his further duty to make such special investigations and furnish such information to the President or Congress as may be required by them on the foregoing subject matters, and to make annual reports to Congress upon the work of said department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE.

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. In the absence of the Secretary he acts as head of the department.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks and employees of the department; the enforcement of the general regulations of the department; the superintendency of all buildings occupied by the department in the District of Columbia other than those occupied by the Bureau of Fisheries, the Bureau of Standards, and the Coast and Geodetic Survey; the direction of the watchmen, engineers, mechanics, firemen, laborers, and other employees connected with the care and protection of the department's buildings other than those of the bureaus above mentioned; the supervision of the stock and shipping section of the department; the care of the horses and all vehicles employed; the general supervision of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and rent; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail; the custody of the department's seal and the records and files of the Secretary's Office; the answering of calls from Congress and elsewhere for copies of papers and records; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's Office not otherwise assigned.

107296°—66-1—1ST ED——23

DISBURSING CLERK.

The disbursing clerk is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Commerce to disbursing clerks and special disbursing agents charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of all items of appropriations. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation issued to officers of the department for official travel; the audit and payment of all vouchers and accounts submitted from the various offices, bureaus, and services of the department (except the Coast and Geodetic Survey and those services having special disbursing agents); and the general accounting of the department.

APPOINTMENT DIVISION.

The Chief of the Appointment Division is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the supervision of matters relating to appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, removals, and all other changes in the personnel, including applications for positions and recommendations concerning the same, and the correspondence connected therewith; the preparation and submission to the Secretary of all questions affecting the personnel of the department in its relations to the civil-service law and rules; the preparation of nominations sent to the Senate and of commissions and appointments of all officers and employees of the department; the preparation of official bonds; the compilation of statistics in regard to the personnel, including material for the Official Register, and the custody of oaths of office, records pertaining to official bonds, service records of officers and employees, correspondence and reports relating to the personnel, reports of bureau officers respecting the efficiency of employees, and records relating to leaves of absence.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS.

The Chief of the Division of Publications is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office; the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. He also keeps a record of all expenditures for the publishing work of the department and conducts the correspondence it entails.

DIVISION OF SUPPLIES.

Under the direction of the chief clerk the Chief of the Division of Supplies has personal supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department proper and for the services of the department outside of Washington, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriation for contingent expenses of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the annual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS.

The taking of the decennial census, which covers the subjects of population, agriculture, manufactures, mines and quarries (including oil and gas wells), and forestry and forest products, is the chief function of the bureau. During the years intervening between decennial censuses, statistics are collected at 10-year intervals in regard to dependent, defective, and delinquent classes; wealth, public indebtedness and expenditures, and taxation; religious bodies; and transportation by water. The census of agriculture not only forms a part of each decennial census, but is also to be taken in each mid-decennial year. The census of manufactures is likewise included in the decennial census, and in addition has been taken in each mid-decennial year; in the future, however, a biennial inquiry is to be made in regard to the products of manufacturing industries. The censuses of electric light and power plants, street and electric railways, and telephones and telegraphs are taken quinquennially. At biennial intervals the Official Register of the United States is compiled and published. Annual inquiries are made relating to births, deaths, finances of cities having over 30,000 inhabitants, "general" statistics of such cities, and finances of States. At quarterly intervals the bureau collects and publishes statistics as to stocks of leaf tobacco in the hands of manufacturers and dealers. At monthly intervals statistics relating to cotton supply, consumption, and distribution, and to cotton seed and its products, are published; and at approximately semimonthly intervals during the ginning season reports are issued showing the amounts of cotton ginned to specified dates. In addition to conducting the various inquiries specifically provided for by law, the Bureau of the Census from time to time makes such special and miscellaneous investigations as may be ordered by Congress, the President, or the Secretary of Commerce.

BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce is charged by law with the duty of "developing the various manufacturing industries of the United States and markets for their products at home and abroad, by gathering and publishing useful information, or by any other available method." In carrying out this function of gathering information advantage is taken of the relations of the bureau with many other branches of the Federal service.

Use is made especially of the Consular Service, through the Department of State, to obtain reports on the trade of foreign countries and opportunities for the sale abroad of articles produced in the United States. This material is edited in the bureau and distributed to the commercial public by means of the daily Commerce Reports and supplements thereto, and also by means of special bulletins and pamphlets and confidential circulars or letters.

The bureau directs the commercial attaché service in studies of foreign markets for American goods. The attachés are resident representatives abroad, who devote all their time to the study of commercial problems, and the results of their investigations are published in Commerce Reports or in monograph form. There are attachés at London, Paris, Petrograd, The Hague, Copenhagen, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Lima, Peking, Melbourne, and Tokyo.

The bureau is also equipped with a corps of special agents—trained experts in particular lines—who make detailed, specialized investigations that could not be made by nontechnical specialists, such as the commercial attachés and consuls. The reports of these agents are published in Commerce Reports or as monographs. A special staff at the bureau supervises this work.

In connection with its trade promotion work the bureau maintains a Division of Foreign Tariffs, where information in regard to customs tariffs and regulations of foreign countries is compiled in compliance with specific requests, as well as for publication in Commerce Reports and separate monographs. In addition to information in regard to foreign customs tariffs, the bureau also furnishes information regarding patent and trade-mark laws of foreign countries, consular regulations, treatment of commercial travelers and their samples, pure food and drug laws, embargoes, contraband, and similar restrictive measures.

Statistical information in regard to United States imports and exports is received by the bureau in monthly and quarterly returns from the collectors of customs, showing the articles imported and exported and the countries from which articles are imported and to which articles are exported. These statistics are printed first in the Monthly Summary of Foreign Commerce and widely distributed. Very detailed import statistics are published quarterly. Annual statistics of our foreign trade are published in detail in Commerce and Navigation of the United States. The research division handles the trade statistics of foreign countries, thus making concentration of work on United States and foreign trade statistics in the one bureau. The Statistical Abstract of the United States presents in condensed form statements regarding the commerce, production, industries, population, finance, etc., of the United States and a statement of the commerce of the principal foreign countries.

The distribution work of the bureau has been greatly facilitated by the establishment of district offices in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, San Francisco, and Seattle. These offices expedite the distribution of commercial information and establish closer relations between Government and private agencies interested in the extension of foreign trade. Arrangements have also been made with commercial organizations in other cities to establish cooperative branch offices, which will serve the same purposes as the bureau's own district offices. Such cooperative offices have been established in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Chattanooga, Portland (Oreg.), and Dayton.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS.

The functions of the Bureau of Standards are as follows: The custody of the standards; the comparison of the standards used in scientific investigations, engineering, manufacturing, commerce, and educational institutions with the standards adopted or recognized by the Government; the construction, when necessary, of standards, their multiples and subdivisions; the testing and calibration of standard measuring apparatus; the solution of problems which arise in connection with standards; the determination of physical constants and properties of materials, when such data are of great importance to scientific or manufacturing interests and are not to be obtained of sufficient accuracy elsewhere; and other investigations as authorized by Congress. The bureau is authorized to exercise its functions for the Government of the United States, for any State or municipal government within the United States, or for any scientific society, educational institution, firm, corporation, or individual within the United States engaged in manufacturing or other pursuits requiring the use of standards or standard measuring instruments. For all comparisons, calibrations, tests, or investigations, except those performed for the Government of the United States or State governments, a reasonable fee will be charged.

BUREAU OF FISHERIES.

The work of the Bureau of Fisheries comprises (1) the propagation of useful food fishes, including lobsters, oysters, and other shellfish, and their distribution to suitable waters; (2) the inquiry into the causes of decrease of food fishes in the lakes, rivers, and coast waters of the United States, the study of the waters of the coast and interior in the interest of fish culture, and the investigation of the fishing grounds of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts, with the view of determining their food resources and the development of the commercial fisheries; (3) the collection and compilation of the statistics of the fisheries and the study of their methods and relations; (4) the administration of the salmon fisheries of Alaska, the fur-seal herd on the Pribilof Islands, and the fur-bearing animals of Alaska.

BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES.

The United States Lighthouse Service is charged with the establishment and maintenance of aids to navigation, and with all equipment and work incident thereto, on the sea and lake coasts of the United States, and on the rivers of the United States so far as specifically authorized by law, and on the coasts of all other territory under the jurisdiction of the United States, with the exception of the Philippine Islands and Panama.

The bureau publishes Light Lists and Buoy Lists, giving information regarding all aids to navigation maintained by the Lighthouse Service; it also publishes each week, jointly with the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Notices to Mariners, giving the changes in lights, buoys, etc.

COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey is charged with the survey of the coasts of the United States and coasts under the jurisdiction thereof and the publication of charts covering said coasts. This includes base measure, triangulation, topography, and hydrography along said coasts; the survey of rivers to the head of tidewater or ship navigation; deep-sea soundings, temperature, and current observations along said coasts and throughout the Gulf and Japan streams; magnetic observations and researches, and the publication of maps showing the variations of terrestrial magnetism; gravity research; determination of heights; the determination of geographic positions by astronomic observations for latitude, longitude, and azimuth, and by triangulation, to furnish reference points for State surveys.

The results obtained are published in annual reports and in special publications; charts upon various scales, including sailing charts, general charts of the coast, and harbor charts; tide tables issued annually in advance; Coast Pilots, with sailing directions covering the navigable waters; Notices to Mariners (published jointly by Coast and Geodetic Survey and Bureau of Lighthouses), issued weekly and containing current information necessary for safe navigation; catalogues of charts and publications; and such other special publications as may be required to carry out the organic law governing the survey.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The Bureau of Navigation is charged with general superintendence of the commercial marine and merchant seamen of the United States, except so far as supervision is lodged with other officers of the Government. It is specially charged with the decision of all questions relating to the issue of registers, enrollments, and licenses of vessels and the filing of those documents, with the supervision of laws relating to the admeasurement, letters, and numbers of vessels, and with the final decision of questions concerning the collection and refund of tonnage taxes. It is empowered to change the names of vessels, and prepares annually a list of vessels of the United States. The commissioner also investigates the operation of the laws relative to navigation, and annually reports to the Secretary of Commerce such particulars as may in his judgment admit of improvement or require amendment.

In addition to the above statutory duties the bureau is charged, under direction of the Secretary of Commerce, with the enforcement, through collectors and surveyors of customs and radio inspectors, of the navigation and steamboat-inspection laws, and the laws governing radio communication, and the consideration of action to be taken on fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred under those laws; administrative examination of accounts of collectors, surveyors of customs, and shipping commissioners covering fines, penalties, and forfeitures; services to vessels; navigation fees; amounts collected on account of decease of passengers, tonnage-tax collections, refunds; shipment and discharge of seamen, etc.

STEAMBOAT-INSPECTION SERVICE.

The Steamboat-Inspection Service is charged with the duty of inspecting vessels, the licensing of the officers of vessels, and the administration of the laws relating to such vessels and their officers for the protection of life and property.

The Supervising Inspector General and the supervising inspectors constitute a board that meets annually at Washington and establishes regulations for carrying out the provisions of the steamboat-inspection laws.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

THE SECRETARY OF LABOR.

The Secretary of Labor is charged with the duty of fostering, promoting, and developing the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, improving their working conditions, and advancing their opportunities for profitable employment. He has power under the law to act as mediator and to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes whenever in his judgment the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done. He has authority to direct the collecting and collating of full and complete statistics of the conditions of labor and the products and distribution of the products of the same and to call upon other departments of the Government for statistical data and results obtained by them and to collate, arrange, and publish such statistical information so obtained in such manner as to him may seem wise. His duties also comprise the gathering and publication of information regarding labor interests and labor controversies in this and other countries; the supervision of the immigration of aliens, and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto, and to the exclusion of Chinese; the direction of the administration of the naturalization laws; the direction of the work of investigating all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life and to cause to be published such results of these investigations as he may deem wise and appropriate.

The law creating the Department of Labor provides that all duties performed and all power and authority possessed or exercised by the head of any executive department at the time of the passage of the said law, in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service by said act transferred to the Department of Labor, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties performed by and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, officer, office, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of an appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the head of the said Department of Labor. The Secretary of Labor is also given authority and directed to investigate and report to Congress a plan of coordination of the activities, duties, and powers of the office of the Secretary of Labor with the activities, duties, and powers of the present bureaus, commissions, and departments, so far as they relate to labor and its conditions, in order to harmonize and unify such activities, duties, and powers, with a view to additional legislation to further define the duties and powers of the Department of Labor, and to make such special investigations and reports to the President or Congress as may be required by them or which he may deem necessary, and to report annually to Congress upon the work of the Department of Labor.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF LABOR.

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. He becomes the Acting Secretary of Labor in the absence of the Secretary.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks and employees of the department; the enforcement of the general regulations of the department; the superintendency of all buildings occupied by the department in the District of Columbia; the general supervision of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and rents; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned.

DISBURSING CLERK.

The disbursing clerk is charged by the Secretary of Labor with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Labor to disbursing clerks and special disbursing agents charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of all items of appropriations. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation issued to officers of the department for official travel; the audit and payment of all vouchers and accounts submitted from the various offices, bureaus, and services of the department; the general accounting of the department; and the accounting for all naturalization receipts received under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906.

APPOINTMENT CLERK.

The appointment clerk has charge of all clerical work incident to appointments which are made under the jurisdiction of the department. He is also the custodian of oaths of office, bonds of officers, personnel files, and efficiency reports.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS AND SUPPLIES.

The Chief of the Division of Publications and Supplies is charged by the Secretary of Labor with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office; the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. All blank books and blank forms and the printed stationery of all kinds used by the bureaus and offices of the department in Washington and the various outside services of the department are in his custody and are supplied by him. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. He also keeps a record of all expenditures for the publishing work of the department and conducts the correspondence it entails. Under the direction of the chief clerk he has personal supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department proper and for the services of the department outside of Washington and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriation for contingent expenses of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the semiannual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the semiannual property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION.

The Bureau of Immigration is charged with the administration of the laws relating to immigration and of the Chinese-exclusion laws. It supervises all expenditures under the appropriation for "Expenses of regulating immigration." It causes alleged violations of the immigration, Chinese-exclusion, and alien contract-labor laws to be investigated, and when prosecution is deemed advisable submits evidence for that purpose to the proper United States district attorney.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYMENT SERVICE.

The purpose of the United States Employment Service is to foster, promote, and develop the welfare of the wage earners of the United States by so conserving and distributing their industrial activities as to improve their working conditions and advance their opportunities for profitable employment, in harmony with the general good, with the necessities of war, with the just interests of employers, and with the development in practice of the recognized principle of a common responsibility for production and a common interest in distribution.

BUREAU OF NATURALIZATION.

The act approved March 4, 1913, creating the Department of Labor, provided a Bureau of Naturalization, and that the Commissioner of Naturalization, or, in his absence, the Deputy Commissioner of Naturalization, shall be the administrative officer in charge of the Bureau of Naturalization and of the administration of the naturalization laws under the immediate direction of the Secretary of Labor. Under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906, naturalization jurisdiction was conferred upon approximately 3,500 United States and State courts. The duties of the Bureau of Naturalization are to supervise the work of these courts in naturalization matters, to require an accounting from the clerks of courts for all naturalization fees collected by them, examine and audit these accounts, deposit them in the Treasury of the United States through the disbursing clerk of the department, and render an accounting therefor quarterly to the Auditor for the State and Other Departments, to conduct all correspondence relating to naturalization, and, through its field officers located in various cities of the United States, to investigate the qualifications of the candidates for citizenship and represent the Government at the hearings of petitions for naturalization. In its administration of the naturalization laws the bureau obtains the cooperation of the public school authorities throughout the United States, receives reports therefrom of courses in citizenship instruction, and, acting as a clearing house of information on civic instruction, it disseminates the information received throughout the public-school system. It stimulates the preparation of candidates for citizenship for their new responsibilities by bringing them into contact at the earliest moment with the Americanizing influences of the public-school system, and, thereby, contributes to the elevation of citizenship standards. In the archives of the bureau are filed duplicates of all certificates of naturalization granted since September 26, 1906, as well as the preliminary papers of all candidates for citizenship filed since that date, averaging an annual receipt of approximately 450,000 naturalization papers.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics is charged with the duty of acquiring and diffusing among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and especially upon its relations to capital, the hours of labor, the earnings of laboring men and women, and the means of promoting their material, social, intellectual, and moral prosperity.

It is especially charged to investigate the causes of and facts relating to controversies and disputes between employers and employees as they may occur, and which may happen to interfere with the welfare of the people of the several States.

It is also authorized, by act of March 2, 1895, to publish a bulletin on the condition of labor in this and other countries, condensations of State and foreign labor reports, facts as to conditions of employment, and such other facts as may be deemed of value to the industrial interests of the United States. This bulletin is issued in a number of series, each dealing with a single subject or closely related group of subjects, and the bulletin is published at irregular intervals as matter becomes available for publication.

By the act to provide a government for the Territory of Hawaii, as amended, it is made the duty of the bureau to collect and present in quinquennial reports statistical details relating to all departments of labor in the Territory of Hawaii, especially those statistics which relate to the commercial, industrial, social, educational, and sanitary condition of the laboring classes.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU.

The act establishing the bureau provides that it shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life among all classes of our people, and shall especially investigate the questions of infant mortality, the birth rate, orphanage, juvenile courts, desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents, and diseases of children, employment, and legislation affecting children in the several States and Territories. The bureau is also empowered to publish the results of these investigations in such manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

The Public Printer has charge of and manages the Government Printing Office. Directly or through his principal officers he makes all purchases, disburses all money, appoints all officers and employees, wraps, mails, and dispatches publications for public distribution, and exercises general supervision over the affairs of the office.

The Deputy Public Printer acts as chairman of boards to examine and report on paper and material purchased, and also of a board of condemnation. He has supervision over the buildings and property and the care of the stores, and performs such other duties as are required of him by the Public Printer. In case of the death, resignation, absence, or sickness of the Public Printer he performs the duties of the Public Printer.

The chief clerk has direct charge of the personnel of the office, is charged with the detail of all matters in connection with appointments, promotions, or transfers, and has charge of the general correspondence and care of the files.

The purchasing agent has direct charge of all purchases; prepares all schedules of material and supplies and all proposals, and receives the bids; supervises the work of drawing contracts and orders for paper, material, machinery, and supplies; and acts as the legal adviser of the Public Printer in matters relating to the public printing and binding.

The accountant has charge of the keeping of the accounts of the Public Printer with the Treasury Department, of the accounts with the several allotments of the appropriation, of the time of employees, of the property records, prepares for the signature of the Public Printer pay rolls and vouchers requiring the payment of money, renders bills for work done, and keeps all other accounts.

The Congressional Record clerk has charge of the Congressional Record at the Capitol, and acts as the Public Printer's representative in furnishing information and estimates to Senators, Representatives, and Delegates.

The superintendent of work has direct charge of all the manufacturing divisions of the office.

The assistant superintendent of work (night) has immediate charge of the manufacturing divisions at night.

The foreman of printing and assistant superintendent of work (day) has immediate charge of the composing and foundry sections and branch printing offices. He also assists the superintendent of work in the supervision of the manufacturing divisions during the day.

The superintendent of documents has general supervision over the distribution of all public documents except those printed for the use of the two Houses of Congress and for the executive departments. He is required to prepare a comprehensive index of public documents and a consolidated index of congressional documents, and is authorized to sell at cost any public document in his charge the distribution of which is not specifically directed.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON PRINTING.

The Joint Committee on Printing, consisting of three Members of the Senate and three Members of the House of Representatives, was created by the act of August 3, 1846, and its principal duties are set forth in the printing act approved January 12, 1895. That act gave the committee authority "to remedy any neglect or delay in the public printing and binding." This authority was extended by section 11 of public act No. 314, Sixty-fifth Congress, empowering the committee "to adopt and employ such measures as, in its discretion, may be deemed necessary to remedy any neglect, delay, duplication, or waste in the public printing and binding and the distribution of Government publications."

The act of 1895 provides that the committee "shall have control of the arrangement and style of the Congressional Record, and, while providing that it shall be substantially a verbatim report of proceedings, shall take all needed action for the reduction of unnecessary bulk." The committee is also authorized to provide for the publication of an index to the Record. The Congressional Directory, addresses on deceased Senators and Members, the annual abridgment of messages and documents, statue proceedings, and similar publications are prepared under the direction of the committee. The superintendent of documents publishes the index of public documents upon a plan approved by the committee and indexes such single volumes as it shall direct.

The committee is directed by law to establish rules and regulations for the printing of documents and reports in two or more editions. Orders for subsequent editions after two years from date of original order must receive its approval. The committee directs whether extra copies of documents and reports shall be bound in paper or cloth, and prescribes the arrangement and binding of documents for depository libraries.

The cost of printing any document or report which can not be properly charged to any other appropriation may, upon order of the committee, be charged to the congressional allotment.

The committee may order additional copies printed of Government publications within a limit of $200 in cost in any one instance.

The act of 1895 also provides that the committee shall exercise the following functions in regard to the purchase of paper for the public printing and binding: Fix upon standards of quality, receive proposals and award contracts therefor, appoint a member of the board of paper inspection, determine differences of opinion as to quality, act upon defaults, and authorize open-market purchases.

The Public Printer is required by law to advertise for bids for material, other than paper, under the direction of the committee, and to make a return to it on all such contracts awarded by him. The committee may authorize the Public Printer to make certain open-market purchases of material, and, by resolution, it has required him to obtain its approval on all purchases of machinery and equipment in excess of $1,000 in any one instance.

Maps and illustration plates for Government publications are purchased under the direction of the committee whenever the probable cost exceeds $1,200; or, whenever the exigencies of the public service do not justify advertisement, the committee may authorize immediate contracts for lithographing and engraving.

Printing for the Patent Office is required by law to be done under such regulations and conditions as the committee may prescribe.

Section 11 of public act No. 314, Sixty-fifth Congress, requires all printing, binding, and blank-book work for the Government to be done at the Government Printing Office on and after July 1, 1919, except such classes of work as shall be deemed by the Joint Committee on Printing to be urgent or necessary to have done elsewhere than in the District of Columbia for the exclusive use of any field service outside of said District.

Section 11 of the same act also provides that no journal, magazine, periodical, or other similar publication shall be printed and issued by any branch or officer of the Government unless specifically authorized by Congress, but such publications as are now being printed without specific authority from Congress may, in the discretion of the Joint Committee on Printing, be continued until the close of the second session of the Sixty-sixth Congress.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

The Smithsonian Institution was created by act of Congress in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, an Englishman, who in 1826 bequeathed his fortune to the United States to found, at Washington, under the name of the "Smithsonian Institution," an establishment for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." The Institution is legally an establishment, having as its members the President of the United States, the Vice President, the Chief Justice, and the President's Cabinet. It is governed by a Board of Regents consisting of the Vice President, the Chief Justice, three Members of the United States Senate, three Members of the House of Representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of Congress. The Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution is its executive officer and the director of its activities.

Through the Hodgkins fund, the income of $100,000 of which is for the increase and diffusion of knowledge in regard to the nature and properties of atmospheric air in connection with the welfare of man, grants have been made, publications issued, and medals and prizes awarded.

The Institution, in cooperation with the Library of Congress, maintains a scientific library which numbers 260,000 volumes, consisting mainly of the transactions of learned societies and scientific periodicals.

UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM.

The United States National Museum is the depository of the national collections. It is especially rich in the natural history of America, including zoology, botany, geology, paleontology, archeology, and ethnology, and has extensive series relating to the arts and industries, the fine arts, and American history.

The National Gallery of Art contains the George P. Marsh collection of etchings, engravings, and books on art; the Charles L. Freer collection, comprising numerous paintings, etchings, etc., by Whistler and other American artists, and many examples of Japanese and Chinese art; the Harriet Lane Johnston collection, including a number of portraits by British masters; and the William T. Evans collection of paintings by contemporary American artists.

INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE SERVICE.

The International Exchange Service is the agency of the United States Government for the exchange of scientific, literary, and governmental publications with foreign Governments, institutions, and investigators. It receives and dispatches about 600,000 pounds of printed matter annually.

BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY.

The Bureau of American Ethnology is engaged in the collection and publication of information relating to the American Indians and the natives of Hawaii.

ASTROPHYSICAL OBSERVATORY.

The Astrophysical Observatory investigates solar radiation and other solar phenomena. The work of this observatory is carried on partly in Washington and partly at a station on Mount Wilson in California.

NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK.

The National Zoological Park has an area of 167 acres, and is located in the Rock Creek Valley, 2 miles north of the center of Washington. Its collection comprises about 1,500 animals.

INTERNATIONAL CATALOGUE OF SCIENTIFIC LITERATURE.

The International Catalogue of Scientific Literature publishes an annual classified index to the literature of science. The organization consists of a central bureau in London and 33 regional bureaus established in, and supported by, the principal countries of the world. That for the United States is supported by an annual appropriation from Congress, administered by the Smithsonian Institution.

THE PAN AMERICAN UNION.

(Formerly International Bureau of American Republics.)

The Pan American Union is the official international organization of the 21 Republics of the Western Hemisphere, founded and maintained by them for the purpose of exchanging mutually useful information and fostering commerce, intercourse, friendship, and peace. It is supported through their joint contributions, each nation annually paying that part of the budget of expenses which its population bears to the total population of all the Republics. Its general control reposes in a governing board made up of the diplomatic representatives in Washington of the 20 Latin-American Governments and the Secretary of State of the United States, the latter being ex officio chairman thereof. Its executive officers are a Director General and an Assistant Director, elected by the board. They in turn are assisted by a trained staff of editors, statisticians, compilers, trade experts, translators, librarians, and lecturers. It is strictly international in its scope, purpose, and control, and each nation has equal authority in its administration with each other nation. Its activities and facilities include the following: Publication in English, Spanish, Portuguese, and French of an illustrated monthly bulletin, which is a record of the progress of all the Republics; publication of handbooks, descriptive pamphlets, commercial statements, maps, and special reports relating to each country; correspondence covering all phases of Pan American activities; distribution of every variety of information helpful in the promotion of Pan American commerce, acquaintance, cooperation, and solidarity of interests. It also sets the date, selects the place of meeting, and prepares the programs for the regular Pan American conferences and is custodian of their archives. Its library, known as the Columbus Memorial Library, contains nearly 40,000 volumes, including the official publications, documents, and laws of all the Republics, together with 20,000 photographs, a large collection of maps, and 140,000 subject-index cards. Its reading room has upon its tables the representative magazines and newspapers of Latin America. Both are open to the public for consultation and study. It occupies and owns buildings and grounds facing Seventeenth Street between B and C Streets, overlooking Potomac Park on the south and the White House Park on the east. These buildings and grounds, representing an investment of $1,100,000, of which Mr. Andrew Carnegie contributed $850,000 and the American Republics $250,000, are dedicated forever to the use of the Pan American Union as an international organization. The Pan American Union was founded in 1890, under the name of the International Bureau of American Republics, in accordance with the action of the First Pan American Conference, held in Washington in 1889–90 and presided over by James G. Blaine, then Secretary of State. It was reorganized in 1907 by action of the Third Pan American Conference, held in Rio de Janeiro in 1906, and upon the initiative of Elihu Root, then Secretary of State. At the fourth conference, held at Buenos Aires in 1910, its name was changed from the International Bureau of American Republics to the Pan American Union. All communications should be addressed to the Director General Pan American Union, Washington, D. C.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

The original act to regulate commerce, approved February 4, 1887, provided for a commission consisting of five members. By various amendatory and supplementary enactments the powers of the commission have been increased and the scope of the regulating statute materially widened. Among the more important of these enactments are the acts of March 2, 1889; the Elkins Act, approved February 19, 1903; the Hepburn Act, approved June 29, 1906; the Mann-Elkins Act of June 18, 1910; and the acts of August 24, 1912, and May 29 and August 9, 1917. Under the act of June 29, 1906, the number of commissioners was increased to seven members, and by the act of August 9, 1917, to nine members.

The commission appoints a secretary, who is its chief administrative and executive officer, an assistant secretary, and such attorneys, examiners, special agents, and clerks as are necessary to the proper performance of its duties.

The act to regulate commerce applies to all common carriers engaged in the transportation of oil or other commodities, except water, and except natural or artificial gas, by means of pipe lines, or partly by pipe lines and partly by railroad, or partly by pipe lines and partly by water, and to telegraph, telephone, and cable companies (whether wire or wireless) engaged in sending messages from one State, Territory, or District of the United States to any other State, Territory, or District of the United States, or to any foreign country, and to common carriers engaged in interstate transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad (or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment); also to express companies and sleeping-car companies; and to bridges or ferries used or operated in connection with any railroad engaged in interstate transportation.

The act to regulate commerce requires all rates to be reasonable and just; prohibits undue or unreasonable preferences or advantages in transportation rates or facilities; prohibits the charging of a higher rate for a shorter than for a longer haul, over the same line, in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer haul, or the charging of any greater compensation as a through route than the aggregate of the intermediate rates subject to the act. It is provided, however, that the commission may, in special cases, after investigation, authorize carriers to charge less for longer than for shorter distances. The commission is authorized to require carriers to establish through routes and joint rates. The commission is also authorized to require carriers subject to the act to construct switch connections with lateral branch lines of railroads and private sidetracks. The act provides that where two or more through routes and through rates shall have been established shippers shall have the right to designate in writing via which of such through routes the property shall be transported to destination.

The commission has jurisdiction, upon complaint or in a proceeding instituted upon its own initiative, and after full hearing, to determine and prescribe reasonable rates, regulations, and practices; to award reparation to injured shippers; and to require carriers to cease and desist from unjust discrimination or undue or unreasonable preferences.

Carriers are required to publish and file all rates, rules, and regulations applying to interstate traffic, and are prohibited from engaging in interstate transportation unless such rates, rules, and regulations are published and filed. Severe penalties are provided in the statute for failure to observe the rates and regulations shown in the published tariffs.

By the act of May 29, 1917, carriers are required to establish and enforce just and reasonable rules and regulations with respect to car service, and the commission is authorized after hearing to establish reasonable rules and regulations with respect thereto.

The commission may inquire into the management of the business of all common carriers subject to the provisions of the act to regulate commerce, and may prescribe the accounts, records, and memoranda which shall be kept by the carriers, which shall be open to examination by the commission through its authorized agents or examiners. Carriers are required to file annual reports with the commission, and such other reports as may from time to time be required.

By the act of June 18, 1910 (Mann-Elkins law), the jurisdiction of the commission was increased as to through routes and joint rates, freight classification, switch connections, long and short hauls, filing or rejection of rate schedules, investigations on own motion, determining reasonable rates, suspension of proposed rates, and other matters. This act also authorized the President to appoint a special commission to investigate questions pertaining to the issuance of railroad stocks and bonds.

By act approved August 24, 1912 (sec. 11), a new paragraph was added to section 5 of the act to regulate commerce, by which it is made unlawful after July 1, 1914, for any common carrier subject to the act to regulate commerce to own, lease, operate, control, or have any interest in any competing carrier by water. Jurisdiction is conferred upon the commission to determine questions of fact as to competition, after full hearing, on the application of any railroad company or other carrier, and to extend beyond July 1, 1914, the time during which such ownership or operation of vessels plying elsewhere than through the Panama Canal may continue, when it is found to be in the interest of the public and is of advantage to the convenience and commerce of the people, and not in restraint of competition.

At the same time section 6 of the act was amended by adding a new paragraph conferring upon the commission jurisdiction over transportation of property from point to point in the United States by rail and water, whether through the Panama Canal or otherwise, and not entirely within the limits of a single State, this jurisdiction, under certain conditions, including power to establish physical connection between lines of the rail catrier and the dock of the water carrier by directing the rail carrier to make such connection; to establish through routes and maximum joint rates over such rail and water lines, and to determine the conditions thereof; to establish proportional rates by rail to and from ports, and to determine to what traffic and in connection with what vessels and upon what terms and conditions such rates shall apply; and to require rail carriers entering into through routing arrangements with any water carrier to extend the privileges of such arrangements to other water carriers.

By the act approved March 1, 1913, amending the act to regulate commerce, the commission is directed to investigate, ascertain, and report the value of all the property owned or used by every common carrier subject to the provisions of the act.

Jurisdiction is conferred upon the commission to enforce certain provisions of the act approved October 15, 1914, to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies in so far as such provisions relate to carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce. The act prohibits, with certain exceptions, carriers from discriminating between purchasers in sales of commodities, and from making leases or sales of commodities and from acquiring stock or capital of other corporations engaged in commerce tending to substantially lessen competition or create a monopoly; makes it a felony for a president or other specified officers to misappropriate a carrier's funds; and as amended by act approved January 12, 1918, provides that, effective January 1, 1919, no carrier shall have dealings in securities or supplies, or contract for construction or maintenance to the amount of more than $50,000 in the aggregate in any one year, with another corporation or organization when, by reason of common officers or otherwise, there exists a community of interest between the carrier and such other corporation or organization, except as a result of free competitive bidding under regulations to be prescribed by the commission. The commission is further authorized to investigate violations of the act by carriers and to require the guilty parties to cease therefrom, and its findings of fact in such investigations shall be conclusive when supported by testimony.

The urgent deficiency appropriation act approved October 22, 1913, provided that the Commerce Court should be abolished from and after December 31, 1913, and that the jurisdiction theretofore vested in the Commerce Court under act approved June 18, 1910, be transferred to and vested in the several district courts of the United States.

The act approved March 4, 1915, which became effective June 2, 1915, as amended August 9, 1916, makes common carriers liable for all loss, damage, or injury to property caused by them, and forbids, with certain exceptions, limitations of liability.

The act of February 11, 1903, provides that suits in equity brought under the act to regulate commerce, wherein the United States is complainant, may be expedited and given precedence over other suits, and that appeals from the circuit court lie only to the Supreme Court. The act of February 19, 1903, commonly called the Elkins law, prohibits rebating, allows proceedings in the courts by injunction to restrain departures from published rates, and provides that cases prosecuted under the direction of the Attorney General in the name of the commission shall be included within the expediting act of February 11, 1903.

Under the act of August 7, 1888, all Government-aided railroad and telegraph companies are required to file certain reports and contracts with the commission, and it is the commission's duty to decide questions relating to the interchange of business between such Government-aided telegraph company and any connecting telegraph company. The act provides penalties for failure to comply with the act of the orders of the commission.

The act of March 2, 1893, known as the safety-appliance act, provides that railroad cars used in interstate commerce must be equipped with automatic couplers, and drawbars of a standard height for freight cars, and have grab irons or handholds in the ends and sides of each car; and that locomotive engines used in moving interstate traffic shall be equipped with a power driving-wheel brake and appliances for operating the train-brake system. The act directs the commission to lodge with the proper district attorneys information of such violations as may come to its knowledge. The act of March 2, 1903, amended this act so as to make its provisions apply to Territories and the District of Columbia, to all cases when couplers of whatever design are brought together, and to all locomotives, cars, and other equipment of any railroad engaged in interstate traffic, except logging cars and cars used upon street railways; and provides for a minimum number of air-braked cars in trains.

By act of April 14, 1910, the safety-appliance acts were supplemented so as to require railroads to equip their cars with sill steps, hand brakes, ladders, running boards, and roof handholds, and the commission was authorized to designate the number, dimensions, location, and manner of application of appliances.

By act of May 6, 1910, the prior accident-reports law was repealed and a new statute passed giving more power to the commission as to investigating accidents, and is more comprehensive than the former law.

The act of March 4, 1907, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is made unlawful to require or permit employees engaged in or connected with the movement of trains to be on duty more than a specified number of hours in any 24.

The act of May 30, 1908, directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to make regulations for the safe transportation of explosives by common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. A penalty is provided for violations of such regulations.

The act of May 30, 1908, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is provided that after a certain date no locomotive shall be used in moving interstate or foreign traffic, etc., not equipped with an ash pan which can be emptied without requiring a man to go under such locomotive. A penalty is provided for violations of this act.

The act of February 17, 1911, confers jurisdiction upon the commission to enforce certain provisions compelling railroad companies to equip their locomotives with safe and suitable boilers and appurtenances thereto.

By an amendatory act approved March 4, 1915, the powers of the commission to inspect and to prescribe standards of safety for locomotive boilers and appurtenances thereto was extended to include "all parts and appurtenances of the locomotive and tender."

The urgent deficiency appropriation act approved October 22, 1913, contains an appropriation of $25,000 to enable the commission to investigate and test block signals and appliances for the automatic control of railway trains and appliances or systems intended to promote the safety of railway operation, including experimental tests of such systems and appliances as shall be furnished, in completed shape, to the commission for investigation and test, free of cost to the Government, in accordance with the provisions of joint resolution approved June 30, 1906, and sundry civil appropriation act approved May 27, 1908. Provision was made in the sundry civil appropriation acts approved August 1, 1914, March 3, 1915, July 1, 1916, June 12, 1917, and July 1, 1918, for continuing the investigation and testing of these systems and appliances.

The act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department approved July 28, 1916, empowers the commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by railway common carriers and service connected therewith, prescribing the method by weight or space, or both, or otherwise.

The act making appropriations for the services of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, empowers the commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by urban and interurban electric railway common carriers.

The act making appropriations for the services of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, empowers the commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by urban and interurban electric railway common carriers.

The act known as the Federal control act, approved March 21, 1918, provides that the commission shall ascertain and certify to the President the average annual railway operating income, to be used by the President in making agreements for compensation for the use of the transportation systems of the country; that in case the amount of compensation is not adjusted, claims may be submitted to boards of referees appointed by the commission and the finding of such boards shall be a maximum of compensation which may be paid to the carriers; that the President in executing the Federal control act may avail himself of the advice, assistance, and cooperation of the commission, its members and its employees; that the President may initiate rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices by filing same with the commission; that the commission shall upon complaint enter upon a hearing and determine the justness and reasonableness of any rate, fare, charge, or regulation initiated by the President, taking into consideration the fact that the railroads are operated under unified control and such recommendations as the President may make as to the necessity of increasing railway revenues.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

The purpose of the civil-service act, as declared in its title, is "to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States." It provides for the appointment of three commissioners, not more than two of whom shall be adherents of the same political party, and makes it the duty of the commission to aid the President, as he may request, in preparing suitable rules for carrying the act into effect. The act requires that the rules shall provide, among other things, for open competitive examinations for testing the fitness of applicants for the classified service, the making of appointments from among those passing with highest grades, an apportionment of appointments in the departments at Washington among the States and Territories, a period of probation before absolute appointment, and the prohibition of the use of official authority to coerce the political action of any person or body. The act also provides for investigations touching the enforcement of the rules, and forbids, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, the solicitation by any person in the service of the United States of contributions to be used for political purposes from persons in such service, or the collection of such contributions by any person in a Government building.

The commission was organized on March 9, 1883. The first classification of the service applied to the departments at Washington and to post offices and customhouses having as many as 50 employees, embracing 13,294 employees. The commission then consisted of three commissioners, the chief examiner, secretary, stenographer, and messenger boy. On June 30, 1917, there were 517,805 officers and employees in the executive civil service, of which 326,899 held positions subject to competitive examination under the civil service rules. Examinations are held in the principal cities throughout the country through the agency of local boards of examiners, of which there are approximately 3,000. The members of these boards are detailed from other branches of the service. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1917, the commission examined 212,114 persons, and of this number 86,312 were appointed. The present force of the commission consists of 470 clerks and examiners and 50 custodian employees at Washington and 12 district secretaries, 35 clerks, and 5 examiners in the field service.

The commission also holds examinations in Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippine Islands. Under the rules, it is required to render all practicable assistance to the Philippine Civil Service Board.

Appointments of unskilled laborers in the departments at Washington and in the large cities are required to be made in accordance with regulations promulgated by the President, restricting appointments to applicants who are rated highest in physical condition. This system is outside the civil service act, and is auxiliary to the civil service rules.

CHIEF EXAMINER.

The chief examiner has supervision of the system of examinations and the procedure of examining boards. The Examining Division and the Application Division are under his supervision.

SECRETARY.

The secretary is the administrative officer of the commission and has charge of matters relating to the enforcement of the civil service act, rules, and regulations. The Appointment Division is under his supervision.

APPLICATION DIVISION.

Issues announcements of examinations; distributes information concerning examinations; receives and passes upon applications; prepares correspondence respecting admission to examinations; and supervises the holding of examinations by local civil service boards. It maintains a record of applications.

EXAMINING DIVISION.

Prepares examinations, rates the papers, issues notices of markings, and passes upon the qualifications of applicants.

APPOINTMENT DIVISION.

Maintains registers of eligibles and issues certifications for appointments; records appointments and changes in the personnel of the executive civil service, and maintains service records of all employees in the classified service; handles matters relating to reinstatements, transfers, promotions, and irregularities arising under the civil service law and rules and of Executive orders; and conducts the general correspondence of the commission, except that relating to applications and examinations.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION.

This bureau answers telephonic and personal inquiries regarding dates and places of examinations; supplies applications and other printed matter concerning the examinations; records the names and addresses of persons to be notified of future examinations; and gives general information concerning eligibility and prospects for appointment and relating to reinstatement, transfer, and promotion.

UNITED STATES BUREAU OF EFFICIENCY.

The duties of the Bureau of Efficiency are to establish and maintain a system of efficiency ratings for the executive departments in the District of Columbia; to investigate the needs of the several executive departments and independent establishments with respect to personnel, and to investigate duplication of statistical and other work and methods of business in the various branches of the Government service.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD.

Generally speaking, the functions of the board are to exercise a broad supervision over the affairs and conduct of 12 Federal reserve banks established in accordance with the terms of the Federal reserve act in different parts of the country and invested with authority to discount paper for member banks, issue Federal reserve notes to member banks, and perform the various banking functions described in the act itself. The board has full power to appoint its own staff of employees and officers and to regulate the conditions of their employment. Its support is derived from the several reserve banks from assessments levied by it half yearly pro rata. The board is responsible to Congress and reports annually to that body. Certain functions in connection with the national banking system are also assigned to it under the legislation, although the Comptroller of the Currency, who is a member of the board, exercises the same general administrative and supervisory authority over the national banks that has been in his hands in the past. It also passes upon applications under the Clayton Act as amended.

Some of the more important duties of the Federal Reserve Board are set forth in section 11 of the Federal reserve act, which provides that the Federal Reserve Board shall be authorized "to examine at its discretion the accounts, books, and affairs of each Federal reserve bank and of each member bank, and to require such statements and reports as it may deem necessary; to permit, or, on the affirmative vote of at least five members of the Reserve Board, to require Federal reserve banks to rediscount the discounted paper of other Federal reserve banks at rates of interest to be fixed by the Federal Reserve Board; to suspend for a period not exceeding 30 days, and from time to time to renew such suspension for periods not exceeding 15 days, any reserve requirement specified in this act; to supervise and regulate through the bureau under the charge of the Comptroller of the Currency the issue and retirement of Federal reserve notes, and to prescribe rules and regulations under which such notes may be delivered by the comptroller to the Federal reserve agents applying therefor; to add to the number of cities classified as reserve and central reserve cities under existing law in which national banking associations are subject to the reserve requirements set forth in section 20 of this act; to suspend or remove any officer or director of any Federal reserve bank, the cause of such removal to be forthwith communicated in writing by the Federal Reserve Board to the removed officer or director and to said bank; to require the writing off of doubtful or worthless assets upon the books and balance sheets of Federal reserve banks; to suspend, for the violation of any of the provisions of this act, the operations of any Federal reserve bank, to take possession thereof, administer the same during the period of suspension, and, when deemed advisable, to liquidate or reorganize such bank; to require bonds of Federal reserve agents; to exercise general supervision over said Federal reserve banks; to grant by special permit to national banks applying therefor, when not in contravention of State or local law, the right to exercise fiduciary powers."

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

"An act to create a Federal Trade Commission, to define its powers and duties, and for other purposes," approved September 26, 1914, provides for a commission consisting of five members. Further specific powers are conferred upon this commission by "An act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes" (commonly known as the Clayton Act), approved October 15, 1914.

INVESTIGATION, PUBLICITY, AND RECOMMENDATION.

The commission is authorized to require corporations subject to its jurisdiction to file annual or special reports, or both, in such form as may be prescribed by the commission, or written answers to specific questions regarding the organization and management of their business, or their relations to other corporations, partnerships, or individuals. Furthermore, the commission is authorized to classify such corporations, and to make rules and regulations for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the act. (Sec. 6, pars. b and g.)

The commission is given also a general power of investigation in respect to such corporations and their relations to other corporations, individuals, associations, and partnerships. (Sec. 6, par. a.)

Upon the direction of the President or either House of Congress, the commission is authorized to investigate and report concerning any alleged violations of the antitrust acts by any corporation. (Sec. 6, par. d.)

The commission is also authorized to investigate trade conditions in foreign countries with respect to combinations or other conditions affecting the foreign trade of the United States. (Sec. 6, par. h.)

Certain other functions of the commission combine with investigation the duty of making particular recommendations.

If, in any suit in equity brought by the Government under the antitrust acts, upon the conclusion of the testimony the court is of the opinion that the complainant is entitled to relief, it may refer the matter to the commission as a master in chancery to ascertain and report an appropriate form of decree. (Sec. 7.)

The commission is empowered, upon the application of the Attorney General, to investigate the business of any corporation alleged to be violating the antitrust acts, and to make recommendations for readjustment which shall bring it in harmony with the law. (Sec. 6, par. e.)

Whenever a final decree has been entered against any corporation in a suit to restrain violations of the antitrust acts, the commission is authorized to make an investigation of the manner in which the decree is carried out, and it is required to make such investigation upon the application of the Attorney General. In the latter case it is required to transmit a report of its findings and recommendations to the Attorney General, and may publish such report in its own discretion. (Sec 6, par. c.)

The commission is authorized to make public such portions of the information obtained by it in accordance with law as it shall deem expedient in the public interest, except trade secrets and the names of customers, and, further, to make annual and special reports to Congress with recommendations for legislation, and to provide for the publication of its reports and decisions. (Sec. 6, par. f.) It is specially provided (sec. 10) that any officer or employee of the commission who without its authority shall make public any information obtained shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be punishable by fine and imprisonment.

QUASI JUDICIAL FUNCTIONS.

Both the Trade Commission Act and the Clayton Act declare certain important rules of substantive law and direct the Federal Trade Commission to enforce these rules.

Unfair methods of competition.—In section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act itself the following very important provision of declarative law is stated: "That unfair methods of competition in commerce are hereby declared unlawful."

The act empowers and directs the commission to prevent persons, partnerships, and corporations, except banks and common carriers, from using such unfair methods of competition, and establishes the procedure by which this may be done.

In addition to the substantive provisions contained in the Federal Trade Commission Act with reference to unfair methods of competition, the Clayton Act contains certain prohibitions, the enforcement of which is confided to the Federal Trade Commission, as to corporations under its jurisdiction. The provisions of the law are very minute and only the broad features are specified herein.

Price discrimination.—Section 2 prohibits, in certain cases, price discrimination where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

Tying contracts.—Section 3 prohibits, in certain cases, so-called "tying contracts"—that is, contracts whereby, as a condition of sale or lease of commodities, the seller or lessor exacts from the purchaser or lessee an agreement that he shall not use or deal in other commodities except those furnished by the seller or lessor—where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

Holding companies.—Section 7 prohibits, in certain cases, so-called "holding companies," or the ownership by one company of the stock of another, where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition between the companies concerned or to restrain interstate commerce or tend to create a monopoly.

Interlocking directorates.—Section 8 provides that two years after the enactment of the law no person at the same time shall be a director in any two or more corporations engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, other than banks or common carriers, any one of which has more than $1,000,000 capital, surplus, and undivided profits, if they are or shall have been theretofore, by virtue of their business and location of operation, competitors, so that the elimination of competition by agreement between them would constitute a violation of any of the provisions of any of the antitrust laws.

Enforcement of the prohibitions of the Clayton Act.—The authority to enforce the foregoing provisions of the Clayton Act is vested in the Federal Trade Commission as to all corporations which come within its jurisdiction by section 11 of the said act.

PROCEDURE IN THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

Briefly stated, the procedure in the enforcement of these substantive rules of law declared in both the Federal Trade Commission Act and the Clayton Act, as recited above, is the following:

Whenever the commission has reason to believe that any person, etc., has been or is using any unfair methods of competition and that a proceeding by the commission would be to the public interest, or is violating or has violated any of the aforesaid provisions of the Clayton Act, it shall serve a complaint, with notice of a hearing, upon such person, etc., who shall have the right to appear and show cause why an order should not be made requiring the cessation of the violation of law charged. Other parties, for good cause shown, are allowed to intervene in the proceeding. On hearing had, if the commission shall be of opinion that a violation of law is shown, it shall serve an order on the person complained of to cease and desist. If such person fails to obey the order of the commission, the latter may apply to the circuit court of appeals to enforce the same, and file a transcript of the record in the case. The court shall then take jurisdiction of the proceedings and have power to affirm, modify, or set aside the order of the commission, but the findings of the commission as to facts, if supported by evidence, shall be conclusive. If the court permits additional evidence to be adduced it must be taken before the commission. The only review of the judgment and decree of the court is by writ of certiorari to the Supreme Court, as provided by law. Any party required to cease and desist from a violation of law may obtain a court review in a similar manner.

TRADING WITH THE ENEMY.

The powers conferred upon the President by section 10 of the trading with the enemy act were delegated by him to the Federal Trade Commission on October 12, 1917. In administering this section of the act the commission considers and takes final action upon applications of citizens of the United States for license under letters patent of the United States owned or controlled by enemies. If the action is favorable, the commission prescribes the term of the license, amount of royalty, and conditions of account and payment thereof. It may fix the prices on products made by the licensee when such products have to do with the health of the military and naval forces of the United States or the successful prosecution of the war. The commission, in cooperation with the Army and Navy patent board and the Commissioner of Patents, issues orders of secrecy which enjoin the publication of an invention where a disclosure thereof might be detrimental to the public safety or defense, endanger the successful prosecution of the war, or be of assistance to the enemy.

EXPORT TRADE.

Pursuant to the provisions of an act of Congress approved April 10, 1918, certain associations engaged in foreign trade are required to file with the commission their articles of association or contracts of association and other information. The commission is authorized, by said act, to conduct investigations into alleged violations of law on the part of such associations and to make recommendations for the readjustment of the business of associations violating the law, and to refer its findings to the Attorney General if such recommendations are not complied with.

COMPULSORY POWERS, PENALTIES, AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

In order to enable the commission to perform the duties imposed upon it, power to examine and copy records and to require by subpœna the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documentary evidence is conferred in section 9, and in section 10 the refusal to obey the subpœna or lawful requirements of the commission is made an offense punishable by fine and imprisonment.

Any member of the commission may sign subpœnas, and members of the commission or the examiners of the commission may administer oaths and receive evidence.

In case of refusal to obey a subpœna the commission may invoke the aid of the courts of the United States, which may order compliance therewith, and on failure punish the delinquents for contempt. Moreover, upon application of the Attorney General, at the request of the commission, the courts have jurisdiction to issue writs of mandamus requiring any person or corporation to comply with the law or any order of the commission in pursuance thereof.

The commission is also authorized to take testimony by deposition.

No person is excused from testifying or producing evidence before the commission on the ground that it might tend to incriminate him or to subject him to penalty or forfeiture, but it is provided that no natural person shall be criminally prosecuted on account of any transaction concerning which he may testify or produce evidence, if furnished in obedience to a subpœna, except in case of perjury.

Penalties of fine and imprisonment are provided for those who neglect or refuse to answer any lawful inquiry in obedience to a subpœna or lawful requirement of the commission. Further, penalty of fine and imprisonment is provided for those who falsify records, fail to keep proper records, or refuse the commission lawful access to the same, and penalty of fine for corporations which delay to file such reports as the commission may lawfully require, such fines to be recoverable by the United States in a civil suit.

Relations of the commission to legislative, judicial, and other executive departments.—The Federal Trade Commission is organized in a manner similar to that of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and its relations to the legislative, judicial, and other executive departments of the Government are defined in the law.

Like the Interstate Commerce Commission, it is made independent of any of the other executive departments. In addition to the general executive direction reposed by the Constitution and laws in the President, this law provides specifically that the commission shall, at his direction, investigate alleged violations of the antitrust acts by any corporation. In this connection it may be noted that the President is authorized to direct the several departments and bureaus of the Government to furnish the commission, upon request, all records and information in their possession relating to any corporation subject to this act. The commission may also be called upon to perform certain of its functions at the request of the Attorney General, namely, in investigating the execution of decrees against trusts and in making investigations and recommendations for bringing corporations alleged to be violating the antitrust acts in harmony with the law.

The law provides that either House of Congress may direct the commission to investigate and report the facts relating to any alleged violation of the antitrust acts by any corporation. It is also provided that the commission shall have power to make annual and special reports to Congress and recommendations for additional legislation, as well as reports regarding its investigations into conditions in foreign countries affecting the trade of the United States.

More important, however, are the relations of the commission to the judicial department, which has jurisdiction to review and enforce its orders respecting unfair methods of competition or violations of sections 2, 3, 7, and 8 of the Clayton Act, and to which the commission must apply for the enforcement of its compulsory powers.

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD.

The act of Congress approved September 7, 1916, entitled "An act to establish a United States Shipping Board for the purpose of encouraging, developing, and creating a naval auxiliary and naval reserve and a merchant marine to meet the requirements of the commerce of the United States with its Territories and possessions and with foreign countries; to regulate carriers by water engaged in the foreign and interstate commerce of the United States, and for other purposes," provides, as a means of enforcing its provisions, for a board of five members, which is empowered to select its own secretary. The board also appoints such attorneys, naval architects, and special experts and examiners as it may find necessary to employ for the proper performance of its duties. All other employees are to be appointed in accordance with the civil-service law. It is an establishment independent of other departments of the Government, similar in this respect to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The board is authorized to construct and equip, or to purchase, lease, or charter, vessels suitable for use as naval auxiliaries in time of war, so far as the commercial requirements of the marine trade will permit, domestic yards to be given the preference in such construction, other things being equal; and may charter, lease, or sell such vessels to any citizen of the United States, under regulations to be approved by the President. The act also empowers the board during war or any national emergency, the existence of which may be declared by proclamation of the President, to regulate the transfer to aliens of vessels registered or enrolled and licensed under the laws of the United States, and further provides that no vessel registered or enrolled and licensed under the laws of the United States, or owned by any person a citizen of the United States, shall be sold to an alien or transferred to a foreign registry or flag without the vessel being first tendered to the board.

The board is authorized to organize one or more corporations, under the laws of the District of Columbia, for the purchase, operation, lease, charter, or sale of the vessels authorized to be constructed under the act, and places at the disposal of the board for this purpose a fund of $50,000,000, to be obtained by the sale of Panama Canal bonds. The existence of such corporation is limited specifically to five years from the close of the present European war, which date shall be proclaimed by proclamation of the President.

The board is authorized to make investigations as to the relative cost of constructing vessels at home and abroad, to examine the rules under which vessels are constructed at home and abroad, and to investigate matters relating to marine insurance and the classification and rating of vessels. It is also empowered to examine the navigation laws of the United States, and make such recommendations to Congress as it may deem best for the improvement and revision of such laws.

The act further provides for the regulation of the operations of common carriers in both interstate and foreign commerce, defines certain terms used in connection therewith, and provides penalties for the violation of its provisions. Carriers are required to file with the board copies of such agreements, or memorandums of oral understandings, as each may have with other carriers or persons subject to the act relating to the regulation of rates, pooling of earnings, number and character of sailings between various ports, the volume or character of traffic, etc. Certain conduct by carriers or other persons subject to the act is declared to be unlawful and punishable by penalties set forth in the act.

Sworn complaints setting forth violations of the act may be filed with the board by a common carrier by water or other person subject to the act, and a method is provided for the adjudication of such complaints.

The board is further empowered to investigate the action of foreign Governments with respect to privileges afforded and burdens imposed on vessels of the United States, and to make a report of the result of such investigations to the President, who is authorized to secure by diplomatic action equal privileges for United States vessels.

Methods of enforcing the orders of the board, whether for the performance of certain acts or for the payment of money awarded as damages by the board, are also provided.

The act expressly provides that the board does not have concurrent jurisdiction with the Interstate Commerce Commission over acts within the latter's power or jurisdiction, and that its provisions do not apply to intrastate commerce.

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized by the act to refuse clearance to any vessel whenever he has satisfactory evidence that the master, owner, or other officer of such vessel refuses or declines to accept cargo tendered for transportation to the destination of such vessel, or some intermediate port of call, together with the proper freight charges therefor, unless such refusal is based on certain named conditions.

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD EMERGENCY FLEET CORPORATION.

Section 11 of the act of Congress approved September 7, 1916, entitled "An act to establish a United States Shipping Board," authorizes the board to "form under the laws of the District of Columbia one or more corporations for the purchase, construction, equipment, lease, charter, maintenance, and operation of merchant vessels in the commerce of the United States."

Pursuant to this authority, the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, capitalized at $50,000,000, the limiting amount fixed by the shipping act, was incorporated April 16, 1917. The stock of the corporation is divided into shares of the par value of $100 each, and all the stock, except the qualifying shares of trustees, is owned by the United States Shipping Board.

The object for which the corporation was organized is stated in the articles of incorporation, as follows: "That the corporate name of this company shall be United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, and the object for which it is formed is the purchase, construction, equipment, lease, charter, maintenance, and operation of merchant vessels in the commerce of the United States, and in general to do and to perform every lawful act and thing necessary or expedient to be done or performed for the efficient and profitable conducting of said business, as authorized by the laws of Congress, and to have and to exercise all the powers conferred by the laws of the District of Columbia upon corporations under said subchapter four of the incorporation laws of the District of Columbia."

The general officers of the company consist of a president, a vice president, a treasurer, and a secretary, who are elected by a board of trustees, composed of seven members, who are chosen annually and a majority of whom are required to be citizens of the District of Columbia. There is also an executive committee of three members elected by the trustees, which is authorized during the interval between meetings to exercise all the powers of the board of trustees.

From the $50,000,000 obtained from the sale of the capital stock and subsequent appropriations made by Congress, the corporation is engaged in having wood, steel, composite, and concrete vessels for over-sea traffic constructed by contract, and is also having completed the steel ships, above 2,500 tons dead-weight capacity, which were requisitioned August 3, 1917.

Authority for the expenditure of the money appropriated by Congress for the construction and requisitioning of vessels was conferred by Executive order of July 11, 1917, by which the President directed that the Emergency Fleet Corporation shall have and exercise all power vested in him by the section entitled "Emergency shipping fund" of the act of Congress entitled "An act making appropriations to supply urgent deficiencies in appropriations for the Military and Naval Establishments on account of war expenses for the fiscal year ending June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and seventeen, and for other purposes," approved June 15, 1917, "in so far as applicable to and in furtherance of the construction of vessels, the purchase or requisitioning of vessels in process of construction, whether on the ways or already launched, or of contracts for the construction of such vessels, and the completion thereof, and all power and authority applicable to and in furtherance of the production, purchase, and requisitioning of materials for ship construction."

General organization.—The construction and requisition work is directed by the vice president in charge of ship production and the vice president in charge of administration and is composed of the following units: Contract division, industrial relations division, legal division, passenger transportation and housing division, shipyard plants division, ship construction division, supply and sales division, finance division, general office, cancellations and adjustments division, claims division, and plant-protection section.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS.

For the purpose of organization the country has been divided into districts, with district managers in supervisory control over shipyard activities. These are as follows:

New England district.—All shipyard plants in New England to Massachusetts-Rhode Island State line. Headquarters, Boston, Mass.

Northern Atlantic district.—All shipyards south of Massachusetts-Rhode Island State line and north of the Delaware River district on the Atlantic seaboard. Headquarters, New York City.

Delaware River district.—All steel-ship building plants on the Delaware River. Headquarters, Philadelphia, Pa.

Middle Atlantic district.—All shipbuilding plants on the Chesapeake Bay, and south to and including Wilmington, N. C. Headquarters, Baltimore, Md.

Southern district.—All shipbuilding plants on the Atlantic south of Wilmington, N. C., and Gulf plants to and including New Orleans. Headquarters, Jacksonville, Fla.

Gulf district.—All shipbuilding plants on the Gulf west of New Orleans. Headquarters, Houston, Tex.

Great Lakes district.—All shipbuilding plants on the Great Lakes. Headquarters, Cleveland, Ohio.

Northern Pacific district.—All shipbuilding plants in Washington and Oregon, excepting Coos Bay. Headquarters, Seattle, Wash.

Southern Pacific district.—All shipbuilding plants in California, and on Coos Bay, Oreg.

UNITED STATES RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION.

By proclamation of the President issued December 26, 1917, under authority of an act of Congress approved August 29, 1916, W. G. McAdoo, therein appointed Director General of Railroads, took possession and control at 12 o'clock noon on the 28th day of December, 1917, for accounting purposes effective January 1, 1918, "of each and every system of transportation and the appurtenances thereof located wholly or in part within the boundaries of the continental United States and consisting of railoads, and owned or controlled systems of coastwise and inland transportation, engaged in general transportation, whether operated by steam or by electric power, including also terminals, terminal companies, and terminal associations, sleeping and parlor cars, private cars, and private car lines, warehouses, telegraph and telephone lines, and all other equipment and appurtenances commonly used upon or operated as a part of such rail or combined rail and water systems of transportation."

The proclamation provides that until the director general should issue general or special orders to the contrary, the transportation lines to remain subject to all existing statutes and orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission and of the regulating commissions of the various States in which the different systems might be situated, and provides that—

"any orders, general or special, hereafter made by said director shall have paramount authority and be obeyed as such."

Electric street railway and interurban lines were by the proclamation exempted from Federal control.

The director general was authorized to enter into negotiations with the various companies taken over, looking to agreements for just compensation for the possession, use, and control of the respective properties on the basis of their average net operating income for the three-year period ending June 30, 1917.

Negotiations for the financing of the various transportation lines under the proclamation are made subject to the approval of the director general.

While the transportation lines are in the possession of the director general no attachment or other mesne process shall be levied on or against any of the property under Federal control; but suits may be brought and judgments rendered as hitherto until and except so far as said director general may, by general or special orders, otherwise determine.

The Federal control act to provide for the operation of said systems of transportation, and to fix the compensation to be paid to the carriers, was approved March 21, 1918, and follows generally the lines laid down by the proclamation.

The proclamation of March 29, 1918, authorizes the director general "to do and perform all and singular all acts and things and to exercise all and singular the powers and duties which in and by said Federal control act, or any other act in relation to the subject hereof, the President is authorized to do and perform."

UNITED STATES COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE.

The Council of National Defense is directed by the act creating it to nominate to the President, to be appointed by him, an advisory commission consisting of not more than seven persons, each of whom possesses special knowledge of some industry, public utility, or the development of some natural resource, or is otherwise specially qualified for the performance of such duties as shall come within their jurisdiction.

It is the duty of the Council of National Defense to supervise and direct investigations and make recommendations to the President and the heads of executive departments as to the location of railroads with reference to the frontier of the United States so as to render possible expeditious concentration of troops and supplies to points of defense; the coordination of military, industrial, and commercial purposes in the location of extensive highways and branch lines of railroad; the utilization of waterways; the mobilization of military and naval resources for defense; the increase of domestic production of articles and materials essential to the support of armies and of the people during the interruption of foreign commerce; the development of seagoing transportation; data as to amounts, location, methods and means of production, and availability of military supplies; the giving of information to producers and manufacturers as to the class of supplies needed by the military and other services of the Government, the requirements relating thereto, and the creation of relations which will render possible in time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of the resources of the Nation.

The Council of National Defense adopts rules and regulations for the conduct of its work, which rules and regulations are subject to the approval of the President, and it provides for the work of the advisory commission to the end that the special knowledge of such commission may be developed by suitable investigation, research, and inquiry and made available in conference and report for the use of the council; and the council may organize subordinate bodies for its assistance in special investigations, either by the employment of experts or by the creation of committees of specially qualified persons to serve without compensation, but to direct the investigations of experts so employed.

Reports are submitted by all subordinate bodies and by the advisory commission to the council, and from time to time the council reports to the President or to the heads of executive departments upon special inquiries or subjects appropriate thereto, and an annual report to the Congress shall be submitted through the President, including as full a statement of the activities of the council and the agencies subordinate to it as is consistent with the public interest, including an itemized account of the expenditures made by the council or authorized by it, in as full detail as the public interest will permit. State councils of defense, organized in 48 States, the District of Columbia, and Alaska, at the request of the Council of National Defense, act as the local representatives of the Council of National Defense to promote and coordinate the war activities in their several districts. and are now similarly engaged in readjustment and demobilization work.

WAR FINANCE CORPORATION.

The War Finance Corporation was originally created by act approved April 5, 1918, its board of directors to consist of the Secretary of the Treasury and four additional persons to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Its active life, excepting for the winding up of its affairs, was limited to six months after the termination of the war as fixed by the President's proclamation.

ORIGINAL POWERS OF THE CORPORATION.

The original purpose of the War Finance Corporation as so constituted and as so limited with reference to the time for the exercise of its powers, was the lending of financial assistance to persons, firms, corporations, or associations conducting business in the United States "whose operations shall be necessary or contributory to the prosecution of the war," such assistance to be extended only where the applicant is unable to obtain loans through ordinary banking channels. This financial assistance could be extended in either of two ways. First, it could be in the form of a direct loan by the War Finance Corporation to the applicant whose operations are necessary or contributory to the prosecution of the war, and secondly to bankers or trust companies in the United States who, after April 6, 1917, have or shall have made loans to such concerns. In either case the act provides for the relation which must exist between the valuation of the security and the face amount of the loan.

POWERS OF THE CORPORATION AS EXTENDED.

By act approved March 3, 1919, the powers of the corporation were extended to embrace an entirely new line of activity, namely, the promotion of the export trade of the United States. This is to be done in either of two ways. First, loans can be made for periods of not exceeding five years to any person, firm, corporation, or association engaged in the United States in the business of exporting therefrom domestic products to foreign countries, where the applicant is unable to obtain funds upon reasonable terms through banking channels, such advance to be made only for the purpose of assisting in the exportation of such products; the rate of interest to be not less than 1 per cent per annum in excess of the rate of discount for 90-day commercial paper prevailing at the time of such advance at the Federal reserve bank of the district in which the borrower is located. The second class of loans can be made to banks, bankers, or trust companies in the United States which make advances to any such person, firm, corporation, or association for the purpose of assisting in the exportation of domestic products to foreign countries, provided that such advance shall not exceed the amount remaining unpaid of the advance made by such bank, banker, or trust company to such exporter. The act provides that in connection with either class of loans the corporation shall require "full and adequate security by indorsement, guaranty, or otherwise," and that the aggregate of advances made by the corporation under its export power, remaining unpaid at any time, shall not exceed the sum of $1,000,000,000.

The War Finance Corporation was by this amendment of March 3, 1919, given power to make loans in furtherance of the export business up to one year after the termination of the war as fixed by proclamation of the President.

FINANCIAL RESOURCES OF THE CORPORATION.

The capital stock of the corporation under the act of April 5, 1918, was fixed at $500,000,000, all of it to be subscribed by the United States of America. On May 15, 1919, $350,000,000 had been paid in by the Secretary of the Treasury for stock of the corporation, the remaining $150,000,000 of stock subscription being subject to call by the corporation.

A further financial resource of the corporation consists of its power to issue and have outstanding at any one time its bonds in an amount aggregating not more than six times its paid-in capital, such bonds to mature not less than one nor more than five years from their respective dates of issue and to have a first and paramount lien upon all the assets of the corporation, which is prohibited from mortgaging or pledging at any time any of its assets. In pursuance of this power the corporation in April, 1919, issued by public sale $200,000,000 one-year 5 per cent bonds. The corporation has the power to employ its surplus in acquiring and owning, buying, selling, and dealing in bonds and obligations of the United States.

CAPITAL ISSUES COMMITTEE.

The Capital Issues Committee was created by Congress as an emergency war board on April 5, 1918, for the purpose of establishing Federal supervision over the use of investment capital in war time. It is authorized to investigate, pass upon, and determine whether the sale of any securities issued after the passage of the act is compatible with the national interest, the purpose being to conserve the limited supply of investment capital for the use of the Government and essential industry only during the war. The members of the committee were appointed by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate. They will hold office under statutory limitation until not more than six months after peace is signed in the war between the United States and Germany. Following the signing of the armistice, the committee voted to suspend its activities and adjourned on December 31, 1918, subject to call by the chairman.

UNITED STATES FOOD ADMINISTRATION.

An act approved August 10, 1917, entitled "An act to provide further for the national security and defense by encouraging the production, conserving the supply, and controlling the distribution of food products and fuel," recites: "That by reason of the existence of a state of war, it is essential to the national security and defense, for the successful prosecution of the war, and for the support and maintenance of the Army and Navy, to assure an adequate supply and equitable distribution, and to facilitate the movement of foods, feeds, fuel (including fuel oil and natural gas), and fertilizer and fertilizer ingredients, tools, utensils, implements, machinery, and equipment required for the actual production of foods, feeds, and fuel, hereafter in this act called necessaries; to prevent, locally or generally, scarcity, monopolization, hoarding, injurious speculation, manipulations, and private controls, affecting such supply, distribution, and movement; and to establish and maintain governmental control of such necessaries during the war."

Section 2 of this act authorizes the President to enter into voluntary agreements, to create and use any agency, to accept the services of any person without compensation, to cooperate with any agency or person, to utilize any department or agency of the Government.

Under the authority so conferred, the President, by an Executive order of August 10, 1917, created the United States Food Administration, and charged the United States Food Administrator with the duty of supervising, directing, and carrying into effect "the provisions of said act, and the powers and authorities therein given to the President, so far as the same apply to foods, feeds, and their derivative products."

As a war emergency organization, therefore, the Food Administration was founded by the President to carry out the following functions: (a) Administer portions of the food-control act which related to the regulation of food distribution. This was accomplished, to a considerable degree, in cooperation with the many trades of the country; (b) control of foreign distribution of food; (c) enter into such voluntary arrangements with producers, manufacturers, and others as would stabilize commerce, stimulate production, and to carry out the Government assurances to these ends; (d) cooperate with the Department of Agriculture in food productive policies to world purposes; (e) cooperate in the domestic and overseas transportation and distribution of foodstuffs with the Railway Administration and Shipping Board; (f) to control and arrange for our necessary food imports; (g) coordinate all import and export and Army and Navy buying of food so as to prevent chaotic marketing conditions; (h) cooperate with the American people in conservation of consumption.

Since the armistice the Food Administration has withdrawn as rapidly as possible its activities. With the declaration of peace the food-control act expires and the remaining organization of the Food Administration, if any exists at that time, will be disbanded.

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN.

The President has delegated to the Alien Property Custodian the following powers and duties under the trading with the enemy act:

The executive adminstration of all the provisions of section 7 (a), section 7 (c), and section 7 (d), including power to require reports and extend the time for filing the same, conferred upon the President by the provisions of section 7 (a) and including the power conferred upon the President by the provisions of section 7 (c), to require the conveyance, etc., to the Alien Property Custodian at such time and in such manner as he shall require, of any money or other properties owing to or belonging to or held for or on account of any enemy or ally of an enemy not holding a license granted under the provisions of the trading with the enemy act which, after investigation, said Alien Property Custodian shall determine is so owing, etc.

The Alien Property Custodian is required by the trading with the enemy act to deposit all moneys coming into his hands in the Treasury of the United States, to be invested by the Secretary of the Treasury in United States bonds or certificates of indebtedness. With respect to all other property the Alien Property Custodian has all the powers of a common-law trustee, and the further power of management and sale under the direction of the President. All moneys or properties after the end of the war will be disposed of as Congress shall direct.

UNITED STATES TARIFF COMMISSION.

The commission was created by act of Congress approved September 8, 1916. It has authority to investigate the administration, operation, and effects of the customs laws and their relation to the Federal revenues.

The law directs that the commission shall put at the disposal of the President, the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, and the Finance Committee of the Senate, whenever requested, all of the information at its command, and make such investigations and reports as may be requested by the President or either branch of Congress.

The commission has power to investigate the tariff relations between the United States and foreign countries, commercial treaties, preferential provisions, economic alliances, the effect of export bounties and preferential transportation rates, the volume of importations compared with domestic production and consumption, and conditions, causes, and effects relating to competition of foreign industries with those of the United States, including dumping and cost of production.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYEES' COMPENSATION COMMISSION.

(Created by the act of Congress approved Sept. 7, 1916.)

The act of Congress creating the United States Employees' Compensation Commission assures compensation to all civil employees of the Federal Government who sustain personal injuries while in the discharge of their duties, but no compensation shall be paid if the injury is caused by the willful misconduct of the employee or by his intention to bring about the injury or death of himself or of another, or if intoxication of the injured employee is the proximate cause of the injury or death.

The monthly compensation for total disability shall not be more than $66.67, nor less than $33.33, unless the employee's monthly pay is less than the latter amount, in which case his compensation shall be the full amount of his monthly pay.

Payment shall be made for partial disability equal to 66⅔ per cent of the difference between the employee's monthly pay and his wage-earning capacity after the disability.

In case of death the compensation shall be paid the widow or widower, to dependent children under the age of 18 years, to dependent parents or grandparents, and to other dependents under certain conditions.

The first compensation law in America was the Federal act of 1908, by which compensation was paid certain employees in the more hazardous service.

By the organization of this commission, compensation functions of all other commissions and independent bureaus through which compensation was formerly paid to injured Government employees cease and determine.

By Executive orders the administration of the compensation act so far as it relates to the Panama Canal employees and employees of the Alaskan Engineering Commission has been placed under the heads of those organizations.

FEDERAL BOARD FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATION.

The Federal Board for Vocational Education was created by act of Congress approved February 23, 1917. This act makes appropriations to be used in cooperation with the States in the promotion of vocational education. For the fiscal year 1917–18 the amount appropriated is $1,860,000, but the appropriation increases each year until in 1925–26 it reaches $7,367,000, which sum is provided annually thereafter. The money appropriated is to be given to the various States for the purpose of inaugurating or stimulating vocational education in agriculture and the trades and industries and in the preparation of teachers of vocational subjects. Its allotment is upon condition that for each dollar of Federal money expended the State or local community, or both, in which schools are established shall expend an equal amount for the same purpose.

The duties imposed upon the board are of a twofold character: First, it is the representative of the Government appointed to cooperate with boards appointed by the States in promoting vocational education; and second, it is required to make, or cause to have made, reports on vocational subjects. As representative of the Government it examines the plans submitted by the various State boards containing the scheme of vocational education to be conducted by the States, and approves the same if found to be in conformity with the provisions and purposes of the act. It ascertains annually whether the several States are using or prepared to use the money received by them in accordance with the provisions of the statute, and each year it certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury the States which have complied with the provisions of the act, together with the amount which each State is entitled to receive. In the preparation of reports it is charged with the duty of making studies and investigations relating to the establishment of vocational schools or classes and the courses and studies to be taught therein. It is also required to make studies, investigations, and reports upon agriculture and agricultural processes and requirements upon agricultural workers; trades, industries, and apprenticeships; trade and industrial requirements upon industrial workers and classification of industrial processes and pursuits; commerce and commercial pursuits and requirements upon commercial workers; home management, domestic science, and related facts and principles; and problems of administration of vocational schools and of courses of study and instruction in vocational subjects.

By the passage of the Federal vocational reeducation act, approved June 27, 1913, the Federal board was charged with the vocational direction "of every person of the armed or naval forces of the United States who, after his discharge, in the opinion of the board, is unable to carry on a gainful occupation or to resume his former occupation or to enter upon some other occupation, shall be furnished by the board, where vocational rehabilitation is feasible, such course of vocational rehabilitation as the board shall prescribe and provide." Under this authority the Federal board announced "all careers are open to the disabled men. They are not confined to a choice of manual trades. Whatever is best for the men; whatever offers the greatest opportunity for civilian usefulness, personal happiness and content, and pecuniary reward according to their capabilities, that training shall be freely and generously theirs. They have only to signify their willingness to take it, and pursue the course of instruction faithfully and earnestly." A preliminary appropriation of $2,000,000 was made by Congress to start the work, and in September, 1918, less than three months after the duty of vocationally reeducating and placing back in industry the disabled men had been delegated, the work was going forward. Existing technical schools, trade and commercial schools, and educational institutions with special lines of instruction prepared for the disabled men are utilized in giving the reeducation. Much of it is also given directly in the trade and industries. The disabled man is allowed a sufficient sum to support himself on while undergoing training, and the same allowance made to his family or dependents while he was on active service is continued during the training period. When the man has been retrained, employment is found for him in that particular line of endeavor.

BOARD OF ROAD COMMISSIONERS FOR ALASKA.

The Board of Road Commissioners for Alaska was created by the act of Congress approved January 27, 1905 (sec. 2), amended by the act approved May 14, 1906. Funds for the work are derived from a tax fund collected in Alaska and from special appropriations made by Congress through military committees. The work of the board is carried on under the direction of the Secretary of War and the Chief of Engineers. The War Department has fixed the organization of the board as follows:

The senior officer on duty, to be designated as the president, shall have general charge of the operations of the board, and shall approve and certify, on behalf of the board, all vouchers and expenditures.

The engineer officer shall supervise the work of construction in the field, as provided in the act of Congress creating the board.

The third officer shall, upon designation by the Secretary of War, as provided in the law as amended, act as disbursing officer of the board.

COMMISSION ON NAVY YARDS AND NAVAL STATIONS.

Appointed by direction of the President to carry out provisions of the act of Congress approved August 29, 1916, relative to the establishment of navy yards, naval stations, and submarine and aviation bases.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR AERONAUTICS.

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics was appointed by the President, pursuant to act of Congress approved March 3, 1915 (naval appropriation act, public No. 273, Sixty-third Congress). Its membership consists of two officers of the Army, two officers of the Navy, a representative each of the Smithsonian Institution, the United States Weather Bureau, and the United States Bureau of Standards, together with five additional persons acquainted with the needs of aeronautical science, or skilled in aeronautical engineering or its allied sciences. All the members, as such, serve without compensation.

The duties of the committee, as provided by Congress, are to supervise and direct the scientific study of the problems of flight, with a view to their practical solution, and to determine the problems which should be experimentally attacked, and to discuss their solution and their application to practical questions.

Meetings of the full committee are held semiannually, in April and October, and meetings of the executive committee are held monthly, or more frequently, as may be desired. Full powers to carry into effect the purposes of the committee are delegated to the executive committee.

The committee exercises its prescribed functions with the assistance of several technical subcommittees, composed in part of specially appointed representatives of the Army and Naval Air Services, and by the direct conduct of scientific research and experiment in aeronautics at its research laboratory and associated buildings at Langley Field, Va., a section of which has been set aside by the War Department for the use of the committee.

The committee has established an Office of Aeronautical Intelligence which serves as the depository and distributing agency of the scientific and technical data on aeronautics collected by the committee from governmental and private agencies in this country and abroad, and maintains an office in Paris to collect and exchange scientific and technical data on aeronautics in France, England, and Italy.

UNITED STATES BOARD OF MEDIATION AND CONCILIATION.

(Created by act of Congress approved July 15, 1913.)

The purpose for which the Board of Mediation and Conciliation was established is to settle by mediation, conciliation, and arbitration controversies concerning wages, hours of labor, or conditions of employment that may arise between common carriers engaged in interstate transportation and their employees engaged in train operation or train service.

In any case where an interruption of traffic is imminent and fraught with serious detriment to the public interest, the Board of Mediation and Conciliation may, if in its judgment such action seems desirable, proffer its services to the respective parties to the controversy.

Whenever a controversy concerning wages, hours of labor, or conditions of employment arises between such railroads and such employees, interrupting or threatening to interrupt the operation of trains to the serious detriment of the public interest, upon the request of either party the Board of Mediation is required to use its best efforts, by mediation and conciliation, to bring about an agreement. If such efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment through mediation and conciliation are unsuccessful, the board endeavors to induce the parties to submit their controversy to arbitration, and, if successful, makes the necessary arrangements for such arbitration.

The board is an independent office, not connected with any department.

THE INTERNATIONAL JOINT COMMISSION.

The International Joint Commission was created by treaty with Great Britain, and has jurisdiction over all cases involving the use or obstruction or diversion of waters forming the international boundary or crossing the boundary between the United States and Canada. In addition, under Article IX of the treaty, any questions or matters of difference arising between the high contracting parties involving the rights, obligations, or interests of the United States or of the Dominion of Canada, either in relation to each other or to their respective inhabitants, may be referred to the commission for report thereon, by either Government or by the joint action of the two Governments. Under Article X of the treaty similar matters of difference between the two Governments may be referred to the commission for determination by the joint action of the two Governments.

INTERNATIONAL (CANADIAN) BOUNDARY COMMISSIONS

For defining and marking boundary between United States and Canada, except on Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River. For marking and surveying boundary between Alaska and Canada.

These commissions were authorized by conventions or treaties between the United States and Great Britain, as follows:

1. Southeastern Alaska, or the boundary between Alaska and British Columbia. Length, 862 miles.

Article VI of the convention between the United States and Great Britain, providing for the settlement of questions between the two countries with respect to the boundary line between the Territory of Alaska and the British Possessions in North America, signed at Washington January 24, 1903, stipulated that when the high contracting parties shall have received the decision of the tribunal upon the questions submitted as provided in the foregoing articles, which decision shall be final and binding upon all parties, they will at once appoint, each on its own behalf, one or more scientific experts, who shall with all convenient speed proceed to lay down the boundary line in conformity with such decision.

2. The boundary between Alaska and Canada, along the one hundred and forty-first meridian. Length, 625 miles.

The convention between the United States and Great Britain providing for the surveying and marking out upon the ground of the one hundred and forty-first degree of west longitude where said meridian forms the boundary line between Alaska and the British Possessions in North America, signed at Washington April 21, 1906, stipulated that each Government shall appoint one commissioner, with whom may be associated such surveyors, astronomers, and other assistants as each Government may elect, who shall locate the boundary line, erect the necessary boundary marks, make the necessary surveys, and file duplicate records with their respective Governments.

3. The United States and Canada boundary from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, with the exception of the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes. Length, 2,647 miles.

Articles I, II, III, V, VI, VII, and VIII of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, entitled "Canadian International Boundary," signed at Washington April 11, 1908, stipulated that each of the high contracting parties shall appoint without delay an expert geographer or surveyor as commissioner, and the commissioner so appointed shall jointly execute the necessary surveys, repair existing boundary marks, erect additional boundary marks, and lay down the boundary line in accordance with the existing treaties upon quadruplicate sets of accurate modern charts, prepared or adopted by them for that purpose, and that said charts so marked shall be filed with each Government, and said commissioners shall also prepare, in duplicate, and file with each Government a joint report or reports, describing in detail the course of the boundary so marked by them, and the character and location of the several monuments and boundary marks and ranges marking it.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

The International Boundary Commission was created by treaty of March 1, 1889, with Mexico, consisting of one American and one Mexican commissioner, and a consulting engineer and secretary of each section. By the terms of the treaty, it has exclusive jurisdiction of all differences or questions that may arise on that portion of the boundary formed by the Rio Grande and Colorado Rivers (about 1,400 miles), either growing out of changes in the bed or works constructed in said rivers or any other cause affecting the boundary. If both commissioners shall agree to a decision, their judgment shall be binding on both Governments unless one of them shall disapprove it within one month from the date it shall have been pronounced.

THE UNITED STATES SECTION OF THE INTERNATIONAL HIGH COMMISSION.

The United States Section of the International High Commission enjoys legal recognition by virtue of an act approved February 7, 1916. It consists of the nine representatives of the United States on the International High Commission. There are corresponding sections of this commission in the republics of Central and South America. The commission was organized in the summer of 1915 on the recommendation of the First Pan American Financial Conference, held in Washington May 24–29, 1915. It aims to bring about greater uniformity and a more liberal spirit in the commercial law and administrative regulations in the American Republics and more stable financial relations between Latin America and the United States. Its work is coordinated and directed by a central executive council, at present composed of the chairman, vice chairman, and secretary general of the United States section (the Secretary of the Treasury, Hon. John Bassett Moore, and Hon. L. S. Rowe). Its first general meeting was held at Buenos Aires April 3–12, 1916, and future meetings will be held regularly.

By virtue of the act of February 7, 1916, the Secretary of the Treasury is ex officio chairman of the United States section and its funds are expendable under his direction. The office of the secretary general of the United States section is in the Treasury Building at Washington.

It is proposed to hold other Pan American financial conferences from time to time for the purpose of discussing financial and trade problems and of promoting wider acquaintance among the banking and commercial communities of the Americas. The Sixty-fourth Congress appropriated $50,000 for a second conference in an act approved January 9, 1917.

UNITED STATES GEOGRAPHIC BOARD.

By Executive order of August 10, 1906, the official title of the United States Board on Geographic Names was changed to United States Geographic Board and its duties enlarged.

The board passes on all unsettled questions concerning geographic names which arise in the departments, as well as determines, changes, and fixes place names within the United States and its insular possessions, and all names suggested by any officer of the Government shall be referred to the board before publication. The decisions of the board are to be accepted by all the departments of the Government as standard authority.

Advisory powers were granted the board concerning the preparation of maps compiled, or to be compiled, in the various offices and bureaus of the Government, with a special view to the avoidance of unnecessary duplications of work; and for the unification and improvement of the scales of maps, of the symbols and conventions used upon them, and of the methods of representing relief. All such projects as are of importance shall be submitted to this board for advice before being undertaken.

THE COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS.

By act approved May 17, 1910, Congress created as a permanent body the national Commission of Fine Arts. The commission is "composed of seven well-qualified judges of the fine arts," who are appointed by the President and serve for a period of four years each, and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

Under the provisions of this organic act Congress directs that "It shall be the duty of the commission to advise upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia, and upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States and upon the selection of the artists for the execution of same. It shall be the duty of the officer charged by law to determine such questions in each case to call for such advice. The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the Capitol Building of the United States and the building of the Library of Congress. The commission shall also advise generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President or by any committee of either House of Congress."

By Executive order dated October 25, 1910, the President directed that "Plans for no public building to be erected in the District of Columbia for the General Government shall be hereafter finally approved by the officer duly authorized until after such officer shall have submitted the plans to the Commission of Fine Arts created under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for its comment and advice."

On February 2, 1912, the President directed the commission to advise the officer in charge of public buildings and grounds in regard to the improvement of any of the grounds in the city of Washington under his charge whenever such advice is asked for by that officer. That officer now uniformly consults the commission regarding details of the development of all the parks and reservations under his control.

On November 28, 1913, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that whenever new structures are to be erected in the District of Columbia under the direction of the Federal Government which affect in any important way the appearance of the city, or whenever questions involving matters of art and with which the Federal Government is concerned are to be determined, final action shall not be taken until such plans and questions have been submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts designated under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for comment and advice."

In order that the development of the District of Columbia may proceed harmoniously both under Federal and District jurisdictions, the President has requested the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia to consult the Commission of Fine Arts on matters of art falling under their jurisdiction and control.

The duties of the commission, therefore, now embrace advising upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia; upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States, and the selection of the artists for their execution; upon the plans and designs for public structures and parks in the District of Columbia, as well as upon all questions involving matters of art with which the Federal Government is concerned. In addition, the commission advises upon general questions of art whenever requested to do so by the President or any committee of Congress.

Congress has stipulated in many recent enactments that the plans for certain designated buildings, monuments, etc., must be approved by the commission before they can be accepted by the Government.

COURT OF CLAIMS OF THE UNITED STATES.

This court was established by act of Congress February 24, 1855 (10 Stat. L., 612). It has general jurisdiction (36 Stat. L., 1135) of all "claims founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, except for pensions, or upon any regulations of an executive department, or upon any contract, express or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect of which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States, either in a court of law, equity, or admiralty, if the United States were suable, except claims growing out of the late Civil War and commonly known as war claims," and certain rejected claims.

It has jurisdiction also of claims of like character which may be referred to it by any executive department, involving disputed facts or controverted questions of law, where the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000, or where the decision will affect a class of cases or furnish a precedent for the future action of any executive department in the adjustment of a class of cases, or where any authority, right, privilege, or exemption is claimed or denied under the Constitution. In all the above-mentioned cases the court, when it finds for the claimant, may enter judgment against the United States, payable out of the Public Treasury. An appeal, only upon questions of law, lies to the Supreme Court on the part of the defendants in all cases, and on the part of the claimants when the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000. The findings of fact by the Court of Claims are final and not subject to review by the Supreme Court.

There is a statute of limitations which prevents parties from bringing actions on their own motion beyond six years after the cause of action accrued, but the departments may refer claims at any time if they were pending therein within the six years.

By section 151, Judicial Code (36 Stat. L., 1135), whenever any bill, except for a pension, is pending in either House of Congress providing for the payment of a claim against the United States, legal or equitable, or for a grant, gift, or bounty to any person, the House in which such bill is pending may, for the investigation and determination of facts, refer the same to the Court of Claims, which shall proceed with the same in accordance with such rules as it may adopt and report to such House the facts in the case and the amount, where the same can be liquidated, including any facts bearing upon the question whether there has been delay or laches in presenting such claim or applying for such grant, gift, or bounty, and any facts bearing upon the question whether the bar of any statute of limitation should be removed or which shall be claimed to excuse the claimant for not having resorted to any established legal remedy, together with such conclusions as shall be sufficient to inform Congress of the nature and character of the demand, either as a claim, legal or equitable, or as a gratuity against the United States, and the amount, if any, legally or equitably due from the United States to the claimant: Provided, however, That if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court upon the facts established that, under existing laws or the provisions of this chapter, the subject matter of the bill is such that it has jurisdiction to render judgment or decree thereon, it shall proceed to do so, giving to either party such further opportunity for hearing as in its judgment justice shall require, and it shall report its proceedings therein to the House of Congress by which the same was referred to said court.

Section 5, act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat., 996), provides: "That from and after the passage and approval of this act the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims shall not extend to or include any claim against the United States based upon or growing out of the destruction of any property or damage done to any property by the military or naval forces of the United States during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, nor to any claim for stores and supplies taken by or furnished to or for the use of the military or naval forces of the United States, nor to any claim for the value of any use and occupation of any real estate by the military or naval forces of the United States during said war; nor shall said Court of Claims have jurisdiction of any claim which is now barred by the provisions of any law of the United States."

By act of March 3, 1891, chapter 538 (26 Stat. L., 851, and Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 913), the court is vested with jurisdiction of certain Indian depredation claims.

The act of June 25, 1910, chapter 423 (36 Stat. L., 851–852), "An act to provide additional protection for owners of patents of the United States, and for other purposes," conferred a new jurisdiction.

There are five judges, who sit together in the hearing of cases, the concurrence of three of whom is necessary for the decision of any case.

The court is located at Washington, D. C., in the old Corcoran Art Building, Seventeenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. The term begins on the first Monday in December each year and continues until the Saturday before the first Monday in December. Cases may be commenced and entered at any time, whether the court be in session or not.

JUDICIARY.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

(In Capitol Building. Phones, marshal's office, Main 1; clerk's office, Main 3476.)

EDWARD DOUGLASS WHITE, Chief Justice of the United States, was born in the parish of Lafourche, La., in November, 1845; was educated at Mount St. Mary's, near Emmitsburg, Md., at the Jesuit College in New Orleans, and at Georgetown (D. C.) College; served in the Confederate Army; was licensed to practice law by the Supreme Court of Louisiana in December, 1868; elected State senator in 1874; was appointed associate justice of the Supreme Court of Louisiana in 1878; was elected to the United States Senate as a Democrat, to succeed James B. Eustis, and took his seat March 4, 1891; while serving his term as Senator from Louisiana was appointed, February 19, 1894, an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and took his seat March 12, 1894. Appointed by President Taft December 12, 1910, Chief Justice of the United States, and took the oath of office December 19, 1910.

JOSEPH McKENNA, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, was born in Philadelphia, Pa., August 10, 1843; attended St. Joseph's College of his native city until 1855, when he removed with his parents to Benicia, Cal., where he continued his education at the public schools and the Collegiate Institute, at which he studied law; was admitted to the bar in 1865; was twice elected district attorney for Solano County, beginning in March, 1866; served in the lower house of the legislature in the sessions of 1875 and 1876; was elected to the Forty-ninth, Fiftieth, Fifty-first, and Fifty-second Congresses; resigned from the last-named Congress to accept the position of United States circuit judge, to which he was appointed by President Harrison in 1892; resigned that office to accept the place of Attorney General of the United States in the Cabinet of President McKinley; was appointed, December 16, 1897, an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States to succeed Justice Field, retired, and took his seat January 26, 1898.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, of Boston, Mass., Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, was born in Boston, Mass., March 8, 1841; graduated from Harvard College in 1861; July 10, 1861, commissioned first lieutenant of the Twentieth Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry; October 21, shot through the breast at Balls Bluff; March 23, 1862, commissioned captain; shot through the neck at Antietam, September 17; shot in the heel at Maryes Heights, Fredericksburg, on May 3, 1863; on January 29, 1864, appointed aid-de-camp to Brig. Gen. H. G. Wright and served with him until expiration of term of service; brevets as major, lieutenant colonel, and colonel; Harvard Law School LL. B., 1866; in 1873 published twelfth edition of Kent's Commentaries, and from 1870 to 1873 editor of the American Law Review, in which, then and later, he published a number of articles leading up to his book entitled, The Common Law (Little, Brown & Co., 1881), first, however, delivered in the form of lectures at the Lowell Institute. An article on "Early English Equity," in the English Law Quarterly Review, April, 1885, also may be mentioned, and later ones in the Harvard Law Review. From 1873 to 1882 he practiced law in the firm of Shattuck, Holmes & Munroe; in 1882 took a professorship at the law school of Harvard College, and on December 8 of that year was commissioned a member of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts; on August 2, 1899, he was made chief justice of the same court. He was appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States by President Roosevelt, confirmed by the Senate December 4, 1902, and sworn in and took his seat December 8, 1902. He has published a volume of speeches (Little, Brown & Co.). LL. D., Yale, Harvard, Williams, and Berlin; D. C. L., Oxford. Corresponding fellow of the British Academy.

WILLIAM R. DAY, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, was born in Ravenna, Ohio, April 17, 1849, being a son of Judge Luther Day, of the Supreme Court of Ohio. In 1866 he entered the academic department of the University of Michigan, where he graduated in 1870; he also spent one year in the law department of that institution. In 1872 he was admitted to the Ohio bar and began the practice of law in Canton, Stark County, Ohio, where he was elected judge of the court of common pleas in 1886. In 1889 he was appointed United States district judge for the northern district of Ohio by President Harrison, which position he declined. In April, 1897, he was appointed Assistant Secretary of State by President McKinley, and in April, 1898, was made Secretary of State, which position he resigned to accept the chairmanship of the commission which negotiated the treaty of peace with Spain at the close of the Spanish-American War. In February, 1899, he was appointed United States circuit judge for the sixth judicial circuit by President McKinley. In February, 1903, he was made an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court by President Roosevelt, taking the oath of office March 2 of that year.

ORIGIN AND FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

The District of Columbia was established under the authority and direction of acts of Congress approved July 16, 1790, and March 3, 1791, which were passed to give effect to a clause in the eighth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States, giving Congress the power—

"To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased, by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings."

The seat of government of the United States was first definitely named by the following clause in the act entitled "An act providing a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia," approved June 11, 1878, as follows: "That all territory which was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States, for the permanent seat of government of the United States, shall continue to be designated as the District of Columbia" (20 Stat., 102), although it had been incidentally mentioned as such in several preceding statutes.

It embraces an area of 69.245 square miles, of which 60.01 square miles are land. The river boundary is high-water mark along the Virginia shore of the Potomac River.

The local government of the District of Columbia is a municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the territory which "was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States for the permanent seat of the Government of the United States." (20 Stat., 102.)

This government is administered by a board of three commissioners having in general equal powers and duties. (20 Stat., 103.)

Two of these commissioners, who must have been actual residents of the District for three years next before their appointment and have during that period claimed residence nowhere else, are appointed from civil life by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate of the United States for a term of three years each and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The other commissioner is detailed from time to time by the President of the United States from the Engineer Corps of the United States Army, and shall not be required to perform any other duty. (Ib.) This commissioner shall be selected from among the captains or officers of higher grade having served at least 15 years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army of the United States. (26 Stat., 1113.)

Three officers of the same corps, junior to said commissioner, may be detailed to assist him by the President of the United States. (28 Stat., 246.)

The senior officer of the Corps of Engineers of the Army who shall for the time being be detailed to act as assistant (and in case of his absence from the District or disability, the junior officer so detailed) shall, in the event of the absence from the District or disability of the commissioner who shall for the time being be detailed from the Corps of Engineers, perform all the duties imposed by law upon said commissioner. (26 Stat., 1113.)

One of said commissioners shall be chosen president of the board of commissioners at their first meeting, and annually and whenever a vacancy shall occur. (20 Stat., 103.)

The commissioners are in a general way vested with jurisdiction covering all the ordinary features of municipal government and are also ex officio the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia. (37 Stat., 974.)

Congress has by sundry statutes empowered the commissioners to make building regulations; plumbing regulations; to make and enforce all such reasonable and usual police regulations as they may deem necessary for the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property within the District, and other regulations of a municipal nature.

RULES GOVERNING PRESS GALLERIES.

1. Persons desiring admission to the press galleries of Congress shall make application to the Speaker, as required by Rule XXXV of the House of Representatives, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by Rule VI for the Regulation of the Senate Wing of the Capitol; and shall state in writing the names of all newspapers or publications or news associations by which they are employed, and what other occupation or employment they may have, if any; and they shall further declare that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims pending before Congress or the departments, and will not become so engaged while allowed admission to the galleries; that they are not employed in any legislative or executive department of the Government, or by any foreign Government or any representative thereof, and that they are not employed, directly or indirectly, by any stock exchange, board of trade, or other organization, or member thereof, or brokerage house, or broker, engaged in the buying and selling of any security or commodity or by any person or corporation having legislation before Congress, and will not become so engaged while retaining membership in the galleries. Holders of visitors' cards who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to the restrictions of this rule.

2. The applications required by the above rule shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the standing committee of correspondents, who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide correspondents of reputable standing in their business, who represent daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service; and it shall be the duty of the standing committee, at their discretion, to report violation of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker, or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and pending action thereon the offending correspondent may be suspended.

3. Persons engaged in other occupations whose chief attention is not given to newspaper correspondence or to newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service shall not be entitled to admission to the press galleries; and the Press List in the Congressional Directory shall be a list only of persons whose chief attention is given to telegraphic correspondence for daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service.

4. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to the privileges of the galleries.

5. The press galleries shall be under the control of the standing committee of correspondents, subject to the approval and supervision of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Senate Committee on Rules.

Approved:

FREDERICK H. GILLETT,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Approved by the Committee on Rules of the Senate.

GUS J. KARGER, Chairman.
CHARLES S. ALBERT.
BEN F. ALLEN.
