[1] Until within recent years the appointment or election of a President pro tempore was held by the Senate to be for the occasion only, so that more than one appears in several sessions and in others none were chosen. Since Mar. 12, 1890, they have served until "the Senate otherwise ordered."

[2] The Constitution (Art. I, sec. 4) provided that the Congress should assemble Mar. 4, 1789, and thereafter "in every year * * * on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day." Up to and including May 20, 1820, 18 acts were passed providing for the meeting of Congress on other days in the year. Since that year Congress has met regularly on the first Monday in December. The first and second sessions of the First Congress were held in New York; subsequently, until the second session of the Sixth Congress, Philadelphia was the meeting place; since then Congress has convened in Washington.

[3] Elected to count the vote for President and Vice President, which was done Apr. 6, 1789, a quorum of the Senate then appearing for the first time. John Adams, Vice President, appeared Apr. 21, 1789, and took his seat as President of the Senate.

THE CAPITOL BUILDING

The Capitol is situated in latitude 38° 53′ 20.4″ north and longitude 77° 00′ 35.7″ west from Greenwich. It fronts east and stands on a plateau 88 feet above the level of the Potomac.

ORIGINAL BUILDING

The southeast corner stone of the original building was laid on the 18th of September, 1793, by President Washington, with Masonic ceremonies. It is constructed of sandstone from quarries on Aquia Creek, Va. The original designs were prepared by Dr. William Thornton, and the work was done under the direction of Stephen H. Hallet, James Hoban, George Hadfield, and B. H. Latrobe, architects. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811. A wooden passage way connected them. On the 24th of August, 1814, the interior of both wings was destroyed by fire, set by the British. The damage to the building was immediately repaired. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced, under the architectural superintendence of Charles Bulfinch. The original building was finally completed in 1827, Its cost, including the grading of the grounds, alterations, and repairs, up to 1827, was $2,433,844.13.

EXTENSIONS

The corner stone of the extensions was laid on the 4th of July, 1851, by President Fillmore, Daniel Webster officiating as orator. This work was prosecuted under the architectural direction of Thomas U. Walter till 1865, when he resigned, and it was completed under the supervision of Edward Clark. The material used in the walls is white marble from the quarries at Lee, Mass., and that in the columns from the quarries at Cockeysville, Md. The House extension was first occupied for legislative purposes December 16, 1857, and the Senate January 4, 1859.

The value of the Capitol Building and Grounds, October 14, 1911, was as follows: Building, $15,000,000; grounds, $10,400,000; total $25,400,000.

DIMENSIONS OF THE BUILDING

The entire length of the building from north to south is 751 feet 4 inches, and its greatest dimension from east to west, 350 feet. The area covered by the building is 153,112 square feet.

DOME

The Dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, covered with copper. This was replaced in 1856 by the present structure of cast iron. It was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,909,200 pounds.

The Dome is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, which is 19 feet 6 inches high and weights 12,985 pounds. It was modeled by Crawford. The height of the Dome above the base line of the east front is 287 feet 5 inches. The height from the top of the balustrade of the building is 217 feet 11 inches. The greatest diameter at the base is 135 feet 5 inches,

The Rotunda is 97 feet 6 inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is 180 feet 3 inches.

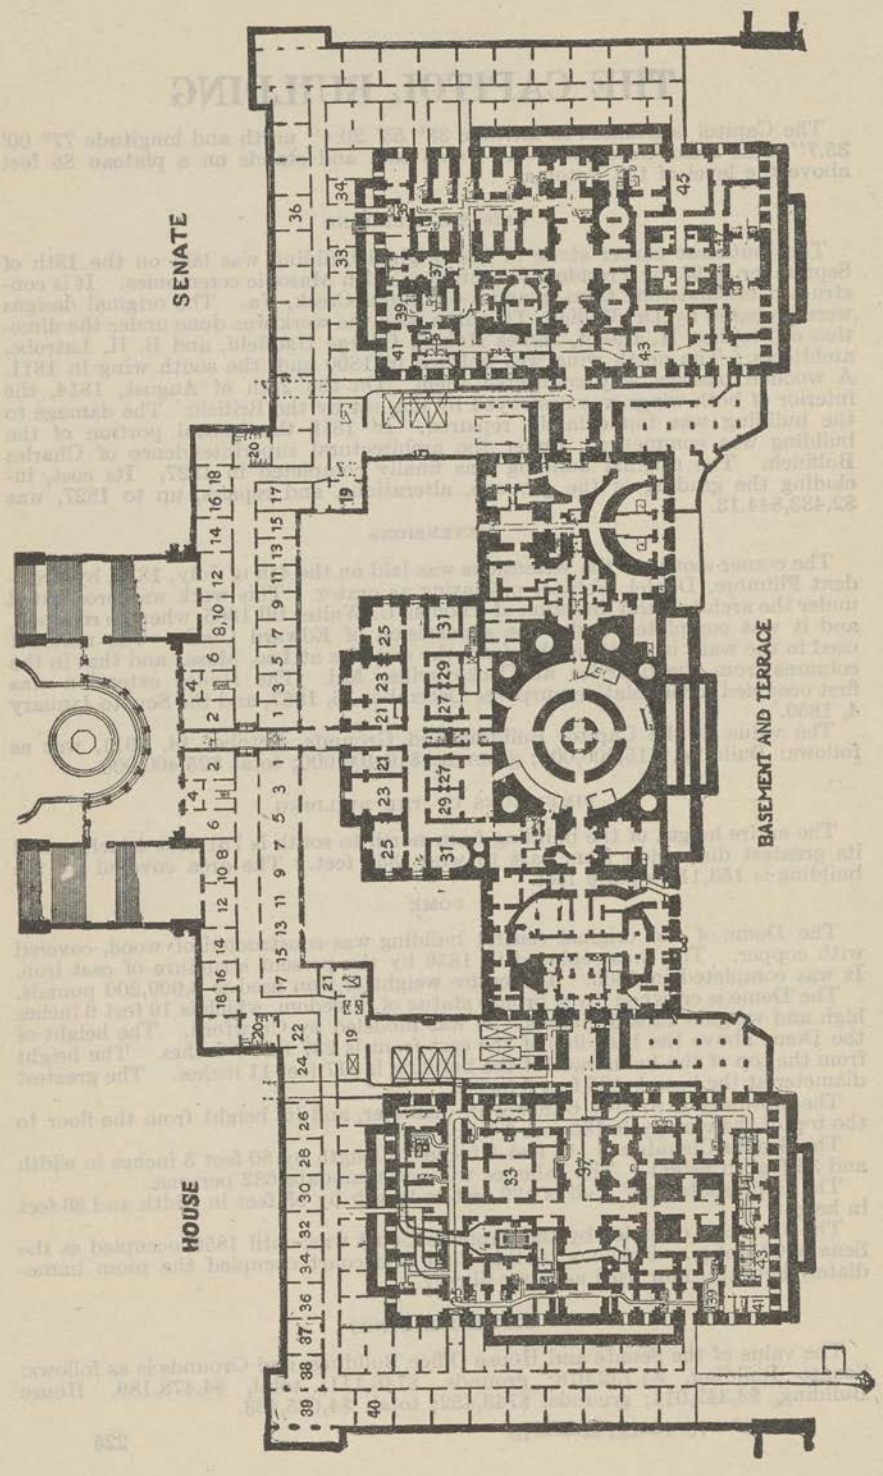

The Senate Chamber is 113 feet 3 inches in length by 80 feet 3 inches in width and 36 feet in height. The galleries will accommodate 682 persons.

The Representatives' Hall is 139 feet in length by 93 feet in width and 36 feet in height.

The room now occupied by the Supreme Court was, until 1859, occupied as the Senate Chamber. Previous to that time the court occupied the room immediately beneath, now used as a law library.

OFFICE BUILDINGS

The value of the Senate and House Office Buildings and Grounds is as follows: Senate Building, $3,732,078; grounds, $746,111; total, $4,478,189. House Building, $3,342,011; grounds, $743,452; total, $4,085,463.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

The Secretary of the Treasury is charged by law with the management of the national finances. He prepares plans for the improvement of the revenue and for the support of the public credit; superintends the collection of the revenue, and directs the forms of keeping and rendering public accounts and of making returns; grants warrants for all moneys drawn from the Treasury in pursuance of appropriations made by law, and for the payment of moneys into the Treasury; and submits a report annually to Congress on the condition of the public finances and the results of activities under his supervision. He controls the construction and maintenance of public buildings; the coinage and printing of money; the administration of the Coast Guard and the Public Health branches of the public service, and furnishes generally such information as may be required by either branch of Congress on all matters pertaining to the foregoing. He is ex officio chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, created by act approved December 23, 1913, known as the Federal Reserve Act; ex officio chairman of the Federal Farm Loan Board, created by act approved July 17, 1916, known as the Federal Farm Loan Act; honorary chairman of the United States section of the Inter-American High Commission: chairman Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway Commission; member board of trustees, Postal Savings System; member board of trustees, Smithsonian Institution; member Federal Narcotics Control Board; chairman board of directors, War Finance Corporation.

UNDERSECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

To the Undersecretary and the Assistant Secretary in Charge of Fiscal Offices, who acts under the intermediate supervision of the Undersecretary, are assigned the general supervision of all matters relating to the fiscal bureaus, offices, and divisions, as follows: Foreign loans, advances and loans to railroads under the transportation act, 1920; Commissioner of Accounts and Deposits; Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants; Division of Deposits; Treasurer of the United States; Federal Farm Loan Bureau; Section of Financial and Economic Research; Government Actuary; Public Debt Service; Chief Clerk.

The Undersecretary also is charged with the supervision of the finances, and is authorized to act, for and by direction of the Secretary, in any branch of the department, and represents the Secretary in dealings with the Federal Reserve Board, the War Finance Corporation, and the Farm Loan Board.

ASSISTANT SECRETARIES OF THE TREASURY

To the Assistant Secretary in Charge of Fiscal Offices, acting under the intermediate supervision of the Undersecretary, is assigned supervision of matters relating to Internal Revenue Service; Comptroller of the Currency; Bureau of Engraving and Printing; Mint Bureau; Secret Service Division; Disbursing Clerk.

To the Assistant Secretary in Charge of Public Buildings and Miscellaneous is assigned the general supervision of all matters pertaining to the following bureaus and divisions: Public Health Service; Supervising Architect's Office; Division of Appointments; Division of Supply.

To the Assistant Secretary in Charge of Customs, Coast Guard, and Prohibition is assigned the general supervision of those respective services.

OFFICE OF CHIEF CLERK AND SUPERINTENDENT

The chief clerk and superintendent is the chief executive officer of the Secretary, and, under the direction of the Secretary, the Undersecretary, and Assistant Secretaries, is charged with the enforcement of departmental regulations general in their nature; is by law superintendent of the Treasury Building, and in addition superintends the Register's, Liberty Loan, Butler, Auditors', and Treasury Annex Buildings, and all other Treasury buildings in the District of Columbia except the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; has direct charge of motor trucks belonging to the department; the direction of engineers, machinists, watchmen, firemen, laborers, and other employees connected with the maintenance and protection of the Treasury Building and annexes; the expenditure of appropriations for contingent expenses; the administrative control of appropriations made for Government exhibits at various expositions; handles offers in compromise cases; the custody of the records and files of the Secretary's office; the custody of all sites for proposed public buildings in Washington; custody of the official seal of the Treasury Department; the handling of requests for certified copies of official papers; as department representative handles all matters relating to personnel classification and efficiency ratings; and has charge of all business of the Secretary's office unassigned.

COMMISSIONER OF ACCOUNTS AND DEPOSITS

The Office of Commissioner of Accounts and Deposits was created in January, 1920, on account of the large increase in the accounting transactions of the Treasury in connection with receipts and expenditures and the deposit of public funds throughout the country. The commissioner, under the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, was given administrative supervision over the Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants and its relations to the office of the Treasury of the United States. He was later given supervisory direction over the Division of Deposits which was created on May 19, 1920, as a part of this reorganization. The commissioner likewise was given control of all accounts of investments of the Government and was made responsible for the proper custody of all investments and securities held by the Treasurer of the United States and the Federal reserve banks for which the Secretary is responsible other than those related to the public-debt operations.

THE COMMISSIONER OF THE PUBLIC DEBT

The Commissioner of the Public Debt has superivsion over all transactions in the public debt and the paper currency issues of the United States, and the miscellaneous work incident thereto. The Public Debt Service includes the Division of Loans and Currency, the Office of the Register of the Treasury, the Division of Accounts and Audit, and the Division of Paper Custody.

The Division of Loans and Currency is the issuing branch of the Public Debt Service. It receives, examines and has custody of all public debt securities printed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. It is charged with the original issue of public debt securities, and thereafter conducts transactions therein, including exchanges, transfers, conversions, and replacements, the maintenance of accounts with the holders of registered bonds, and the preparation of checks for the payment of interest thereon. This division also handles public debt issues of the Philippine Government and of the Government of Porto Rico, and audits all United States paper currency received for redemption and all mutilated work delivered by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The Office of the Register of the Treasury is the retirement branch of the Public Debt Service. It is charged with the receipt, examination and custody of all public debt securities retired for any account, including paid securities and securities canceled against reissue or otherwise. Paid securities, including interest coupons, are forwarded by the Treasurer direct to the register, and the register's certificate of audit is accepted by the Comptroller General as verification of payment by the Treasurer. The register's certificate is also accepted by the Secretary as evidencing credit to be given fiscal agents in the matter of returned securities, and the same procedure exists with respect to canceled securities delivered by the Division of Loans and Currency and by the Postal Service to the register for credit.

The Division of Accounts and Audit maintains controlling accounts over all transactions in the public debt from the time securities are printed until they are retired. It maintains the general accounts of the public debt with the Division of Loans and Currency with respect to issues; with the Register of the Treasury as to retirements; with the fiscal agents for all transactions conducted by them; with the Postal Service in connection with Treasury (war) savings securities; and with the Treasurer of the United States. Through administrative audits conducted from time to time, this division verifies the accuracy of public debt transactions. This division also maintains controlling accounts over all distinctive and nondistinctive security paper used by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the work in process, and conducts administrative audits thereof.

The Division of Paper Custody receives from various contractors the distinctive paper used in printing the public debt obligations and the paper currency of the United States, internal-revenue stamps and other securities. It holds such paper in custody and issues it to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing against orders to print. The manufacture of the distinctive paper used in the printing of public debt obligations and paper currency issues is supervised by a representative of this division detailed to the paper mills of the contractor for such paper.

DIVISION OF BOOKKEEPING AND WARRANTS

This division, established by an act of Congress, approved July 31, 1894, is by law the official bookkeeping organization of the Government in regard to the receipt, appropriation, and expenditure of the public money. Among the many functions of this division the following are the most important: It makes an analysis of all acts of Congress carrying appropriations and opens up the necessary appropriation accounts on its ledgers; it issues all warrants for placing disbursing funds to the credit of disbursing officers and for the payment by the Treasury of claims settled by the accounting officers; it issues all warrants covering into the Treasury the revenues and receipts of the Government, and all repayments to the Treasury of the unexpended balances of appropriations. It handles the work involved in the Secretary's special deposit accounts, including alien property trusts, and offers in compromise. It compiles for submission to Congress through the Bureau of the Budget the regular estimates of appropriations and the supplementary and deficiency estimates for the service of the Treasury Department. It compiles for transmission to Congress under the act of July 31, 1894, an annual combined statement of the receipts, expenditures, and unexpended balances under each appropriation account. In addition to the foregoing this division compiles the annual digest of appropriations made by Congress and makes miscellaneous statistical reports as requested by Congress, or by the Secretary of the Treasury, and carries on extensive correspondence and miscellaneous work incident to its activities. It has also been assigned the duties formerly under the Division of Public Moneys, in so far as they related to the covering of revenue and repayments into the Treasury, the issuance of duplicate checks and warrants, the certification of outstanding liabilities for payment, and the administration of the appropriations covering transportation of United States paper currency and coin between Federal reserve banks, and branches, the mints and the Treasury, and the recoinage of gold, minor, and silver coins.

DIVISION OF DEPOSITS

This division is charged with the administration of matters pertaining to designation of Government depositaries and the deposit of Government funds in the Federal reserve banks, national banks, special depositaries under the Liberty loan acts, foreign depositaries, Federal land banks, and the Philippine treasury. This division supervises all depositaries and obtains proper security for all Government deposits. It issues directions to all public officers as to the deposit of public moneys collected by them and is charged generally with the administration of all matters pertaining to the foregoing.

SECRET SERVICE DIVISION

This division is charged with the suppression of counterfeiting, the protection of the President of the United States and his family and the person elected to be President, and investigations of violations of the farm loan act, the war finance act, and such other matters relating to the Treasury Department and the several branches of the public service under its control as are directed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

DIVISION OF APPOINTMENTS

This division has supervision over all matters relating to the appointments and other changes in the personnel of the departmental and field services of the Treasury Department; the preparation of nominations and commissions of presidential officers and of all bonds of Treasury officials, where required; prepares and approves the pay rolls of the Treasury Department in Washington, and prepares reports relative to the personnel required by law or requested by Congress. Has supervision over the work connected with the retirement and retention of employees under the retirement law and certifies to the Pension Office all amounts refunded under this law to employees leaving the service. It also supervises the preparation of correspondence with Members of Congress and others relative to appointments and other personnel matters and conducts correspondence with the United States Civil Service Commission and other departments relative to personnel matters and changes in the service.

DIVISION OF SUPPLY

The Division of Supply is the central procuring or purchasing agency of the Treasury Department, and as such it does purchasing for all local and field activities, with the exception of those from appropriations for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing (which are exempted by law), the Coast Guard, and to some extent the Bureau of the Mint. It is charged also with certain duties closely related to purchasing, such as accounting for funds appropriated or allotted to it; supervision over printing and binding for the Treasury Department and engraving work by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for all departments and establishments, unless money, bonds, or postage stamps are involved; control over newspaper and periodical advertising for the department; routing of all freight, express, and parcel-post shipments; and warehousing and distribution of stationery and miscellaneous supplies, including blank books and forms, to Washington and field offices of the Treasury Department. The appropriations to the department for purchases of stationery, for printing and binding, and for postage are under its administrative control, and it exercises immediate supervision over the work of the General Supply Committee.

DISBURSING CLERK

The work of this office is concerned with paying by check or cash those obligations of the Treasury which have been certified by the proper division as due. The payments for salaries, expenses, and supplies cover disbursements for all bureaus and divisions of the Treasury Department in the District of Columbia (except the Bureau of Engraving and Printing) and a large proportion of the salaries and expenses outside of the District of Columbia under the Public Health Service, the Supervising Architect's office, the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the Federal Farm Loan Board, the Comptroller of the Currency, the Coast Guard, the Secret Service, the Customs Bureau, and the Public Debt Service. Upon the approval of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, claims for refund of internal-revenue taxes illegally collected are paid by the disbursing clerk by check.

In addition to making disbursements, an important function of the office is receiving and accounting for moneys due the United States on account of rents for buildings and real estate owned by the Government, and sales of public property under the various bureaus and offices.

FISCAL BUREAUS AND OFFICES

OFFICE OF COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

The Comptroller of the Currency is the chief officer of the Bureau of the Comptroller of the Currency, established under the act of February 25, 1863, known as the national bank act. At the time of its establishment emphasis was placed primarily upon those functions of the bureau concerned with the issue and regulation of the national-bank notes, secured by United States bonds. In the course of time this phase of the work of the bureau decreased in relative importance, and the primary functions of the Comptroller of the Currency now are those relating to the organization of new national banks, the general supervision over the national banks in operation, and the administration through receivers of national banks which have failed.

Under the direction of the comptroller the national-bank examiners make regular examinations of the affairs of all national banks. A report of each of these examinations is made in writing by the examiner to the comptroller. These examinations show the condition of the bank with reference to its solvency and its observance of the provisions of the national bank act. In cases of deliberate violations of law the comptroller may bring suit against any such bank for the forfeiture of its charter.

If it appears to the comptroller that any national bank is in an insolvent condition, it is his duty to appoint a receiver therefor for the purpose of winding up the affairs of the bank.

The reports of condition of all national banks are required to be made to the comptroller by the banks not less than three times a year upon dates fixed by the comptroller.

The Comptroller of the Currency is ex offico a member of the Federal Reserve Board and meets regularly with the board. He also, by virtue of the provisions of the Federal reserve act, executes and issues the charters for the Federal reserve banks.

The Comptroller of the Currency is required by law to report annually directly to Congress and to recommend to Congress amendments to the national banking laws.

OFFICE OF TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES

The Treasurer of the United States is charged with the receipt and disbursement of all public moneys that may be deposited in the Treasury at Washington, Federal reserve banks, and in the national-bank depositories; is redemption agent for national-bank notes, Federal reserve bank notes, and Federal reserve notes; is trustee for bonds held to secure national-bank circulation and public deposits in national banks, and bonds held to secure postal savings in banks; is custodian of miscellaneous trust funds; is fiscal agent for paying interest on the public debt and for paying the principal and interest on the bonds of the Philippine and Porto Rican governments; is treasurer of the board of trustees of the Postal Savings System; and is ex officio commissioner of the sinking fund of the District of Columbia.

BUREAU OF THE BUDGET

(Under the direct control of the President)

The Bureau of the Budget was created by the act approved June 10, 1921. It is in the Treasury Department but not under the jurisdiction or direction of that department. The bureau is under the immediate direction of the President. Under rules and regulations prescribed by the President, the bureau prepares for him annual Budget and such supplemental or deficiency estimates as the President may recommend from time to time to Congress. To this end the bureau has the authority, under the act, "to assemble, correlate, revise, reduce, or increase the estimates of the several departments and establishments." (Sec. 207.) The act requires the head of each department and establishment to appoint a Budget officer whose duty it is to prepare, under his direction, the departmental estimates of appropriations and such supplemental or deficiency estimates as may be required. (Sec. 214.) These officials are liaison officers between the department and the Bureau of the Budget. The bureau deals directly with them in the routine work of preparing the Budget. The estimates are prepared and submitted to the bureau in such form, manner, and detail as the President prescribes. (Sec. 216.) On or before September 15 of each year the head of each department and establishment revises his estimates and submits them to the bureau. (Sec. 215.)

The bureau is authorized, when directed by the President, to make detailed studies of the departments and establishments for the purpose of enabling the President to determine what changes should be made, in the interest of economy and efficiency, in "(1) the existing organization of activities, and methods of business of such departments or establishments, (2) the appropriations therefor, (3) the assignment of particular activities to particular services, or (4) the regrouping of services." (Sec. 209.) Each department and establishment is required, under regulations by the President, to furnish to the bureau such information as the bureau may from time to time require. Officials of the bureau are given the authority to have access, for the purposes of examination, to the books, papers, and records of any department or establishment. (Sec. 213.)

COMMISSIONER OF CUSTOMS

The Commissioner of Customs is at the head of the Bureau of Customs, which was created by the act approved March 3, 1927. Under the authority of that act the Secretary of the Treasury has conferred upon the commissioner, subject to the general supervision and direction of the Secretary, the powers and duties, in respect of the importation or entry of merchandise into, or the exportation of merchandise from, the United States, vested in or imposed upon the Secretary of the Treasury by the tariff act of 1922, subject to certain exceptions. These exceptions require the approval of the Secretary of regulations and certain classes of decisions prepared by the commissioner. In addition to the duties so imposed upon the commissioner, he supervises the personnel of the Bureau of Customs, including the customs field service and the special agency service.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, has general supervision of the assessment and collection of all internal-revenue taxes; the enforcement of internal revenue laws; the selection, compensation, and assignment to duty of all internal-revenue officers and employees, and the preparation and distribution of instructions, regulations, forms, blanks, stationery, stamps, etc.

BUREAU OF THE MINT

The Director of the Mint has general supervision of all the mints and assay offices of the United States. He prescribes the rules to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, for the transaction of business at the mints and assay offices, receives daily reports of their operations, directs the coinage to be executed, reviews the accounts, authorizes all expenditures, superintends the annual settlements of the several institutions, and makes special examinations of them when deemed necessary. All appointments, removals, and transfers in the mints and assay offices are subject to his approval.

Tests of the weight and fineness of coins struck at the mints are made in the assay laboratory under his charge. He publishes quarterly an estimate of the value of the standard coins of foreign countries for customhouse and other public purposes. An annual report is prepared by the director, giving the operations of the mint service for the fiscal year, printed in the Finance Report of the Secretary of the Treasury, and giving the statistics of the production of the precious metals in the United States and the world for the calendar year.

COMMISSIONER OF PROHIBITION

The Commissioner of Prohibition, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, has general supervision of the enforcement of the national prohibition act, the Harrison Narcotic Act, and the Revised Statutes relating to intoxicating liquor; the selection, compensation, and assignment to duty of all prohibition officers and employees, and the preparation and distribution of instructions, regulations, forms, blanks, stationery, etc.

THE FEDERAL FARM LOAN BOARD

The Federal Farm Loan Board is charged with the administration of the Federal farm loan act and that portion of the agricultural credits act of March 4, 1923, providing for the establishment and operation of the Federal intermediate credit banks. It established the 12 Federal land banks, fixed their respective districts, and established the 12 Federal intermediate credit banks; conducts elections for their directors so chosen and appoints others as by law provided, supervises the operations of these banks, appoints registrars and appraisers; and grants charters to national farm-loan associations and joint-stock land banks, which are likewise subject to its supervision. It has power, within the limits prescribed in the law, to fix, revise, and alter rates of interest charged by Federal land and intermediate-credit banks; to grant or refuse to Federal land banks or joint-stock land banks authority to make any bond issue; to grant or refuse to Federal intermediate credit banks authority to make any debenture issue; to issue rules and regulations governing the operations of the system; and to exercise such incidental powers as are necessary or requisite to fulfill its duties and carry out the purposes of the Federal farm loan act and the agricultural credits act.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing designs, engraves, and prints for the Government all United States bonds, certificates of indebtedness, Treasury notes, United States currency, national bank currency, Federal reserve notes, Federal farm loan and joint-stock land bank bonds; revenue, customs, and postage stamps; disbursing officers', pension, retirement, and interest checks; liquor permits, passports, drafts, warrants, transportation requests; certificates, commissions, and licenses for various purposes; and many other classes of engraved work for governmental use. It also designs, engraves, and prints bonds, currency, revenue, and postage stamps as authorized by the Bureau of Insular Affairs for the insular possessions of the Government.

MISCELLANEOUS BUREAUS

BUREAU OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

The Bureau of the Public Health Service at Washington comprises seven divisions and the chief clerk's office, the operations of which are coordinated and are under the immediate supervision of the Surgeon General.

The Division of Scientific Research conducts the scientific investigations of the service. Intensive studies of diseases of man, including cancer, epidemic encephalitis, goiter, influenza, malaria, pellagra, pneumonia, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, trachoma, tuberculosis, tuleraemia, and typhoid fever; of child, mental, and industrial hygiene; of public health administration; of morbidity; of milk; of salt marsh mosquito control; and of stream pollution and sewage; are carried on from special headquarters in the field in cooperation with State and local health authorities. Technical and purely laboratory studies are conducted at the Hygienic Laboratory in Washington, at special field laboratories, and at the leprosy investigation station in Hawaii, the latter being carried on in connection with the medical treatment of lepers. Information thus obtained is disseminated through publications, correspondence, lectures, and conferences with health authorities concerning the results of field studies in their jurisdictions. Through the division, the department enforces the act of July 1, 1902, to regulate the sale of viruses, serums, toxins, and analogous products, including arsphenamine.

Through the Division of Foreign and Insular Quarantine and Immigration the Surgeon General enforces the national quarantine laws and prepares regulations relating thereto, and is vested with the administration of the national quarantine stations. In accordance with a specific act of Congress, officers of the United States Public Health Service conduct the medical examination of all aliens entering the United States and its insular possessions. There are a total of 98 quarantine stations in the United States and its insular possessions, and arriving aliens are given medical inspection at 102 ports (exclusive of Europe and the insular possessions). For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of the United States Quarantine Regulations applicable to vessels departing from foreign ports to the United States, 58 medical officers of the Public Health Service are assigned to 39 American consulates in order to prevent the transmission of contagious or infectious diseases into the United States, and for the medical inspection of intending immigrants.

The Division of Domestic Quarantine carries out measures to suppress epidemics, such as plague and typhus fever, and measures to prevent the spread of epidemic diseases in the United States, including the following: (1) Plague suppressive measures; (2) activities for the eradication of trachoma through the establishment of hospitals and clinics in districts where the disease is prevalent; (3) enforcement of the Interstate Quarantine Regulations in supervising the sanitary and health conditions on interstate carriers; (4) sanitation of national parks in cooperation with the National Park Service; (5) the investigation of sanitary conditions of areas used for growing shellfish for shipment in interstate traffic; (6) the carrying out of service policies for the prevention of epidemics by assisting State health departments in establishing and improving local health conditions through the development of division of communicable diseases and sanitary engineering; (7) the control of water supplies used for drinking and culinary purposes on railroads, vessels, and other interstate carriers; (8) the conduct of studies of and demonstrations in rural sanitation; (9) work in connection with the Conference of State and Territorial health officers which the Surgeon General is required by law to call annually.

The Division of Sanitary Reports and Statistics collects and publishes information regarding the prevalence and geographic distribution of diseases dangerous to the public health in the United States and foreign countries. Court decisions, laws, regulations, and ordinances pertaining to the public health are compiled, digested, and published. Its publications contain articles on subjects relating to the public health. The division issues the Public Health Reports (weekly) and supplements to and reprints from the Public Health Reports. The section on Public Health Education cooperates with State, local, and volunteer health agencies to extend health educational service throughout the United States. This involves the preparation and distribution of bulletins, stereopticon slides, moving pictures, exhibits, posters, placards, charts, and radio broadcasts on subjects relating to the public health.

Through the Division of Marine Hospitals and Relief, hospital care, treatment, and special examinations are provided for beneficiaries at 25 marine hospitals and 126 relief stations. The beneficiaries include seamen and officers of registered, enrolled, or licensed merchant vessels of the United States, and of the Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey, Bureau of Fisheries, Lighthouse Service, and Mississippi River Commission; keepers and assistant keepers of lighthouses; seamen employed on United States Army transports and other vessels of the United States Army when not enlisted men; beneficiaries of the Employees Compensation Commission; immigrants at Ellis Island, N. Y.; lepers; beneficiaries of the United States Veterans' Bureau, including ex-members of the military or naval forces of the Allied Nations upon proper request; officers and enlisted men of the United States Army, Navy, and Marine Corps upon proper request; foreign seamen upon proper request. Physical examinations are made of all applicants for enlistment or promotion in the Coast Guard, or for retirement therefrom, including review of medical evidence for disability; of all applicants for license as master, mate, pilot, or engineer on American vessels, and for the rating of able-bodied seamen, the examination including the determination of visual acuity and color perception; beneficiaries of the United States Veterans' Bureau, including ex-members of the military or naval forces of the Allied Nations upon proper request; beneficiaries of the United States Employees Compensation Commission; applicants for and employees occupying positions in the classified civil service, including examinations for retirement; former soldiers and sailors, former members of the naval or military service of the United States, upon request of the Bureau of Pensions; applicants for aviator's license to the Department of Commerce; and all persons employed as food handlers aboard ships engaged as common carriers in interstate trade. Instructions are given in the principles of first aid to all persons applying for licenses as master, mate, pilot, and engineer aboard American vessels, and certification is made as to their proficiency; free medical advice for ships at sea is furnished through arrangements made with radio stations; certification of the needs of American and foreign vessels desiring to keep or purchase medicinal liquors or narcotics for use aboard ship when in American ports; issuance of publications designed to protect the health of seamen; and furnishing information as to medical supplies needed, and charts therefor, on vessels of various sizes.

Under the supervision of the Surgeon General, the Division of Personnel and Accounts transacts all bureau matters relating to the appointment, promotion, transfer, resignation, leaves, or other changes in status of service personnel; convenes boards for the examination or discipline of medical officers and other personnel; maintains all personnel records; and maintains and supervises all property records. Through the accounts section of this division, all appropriations for the service are allotted, all vouchers covering expenditures examined, and all expenditures recorded.

The Division of Venereal Diseases was created by act of Congress in July, 1918, "(1) to study and investigate the cause, treatment, and prevention of venereal diseases; (2) to cooperate with State boards or departments of health for the prevention and control of such diseases within the States; and (3) to control and prevent the spread of these diseases in interstate traffic." The division is organized to carry out the duties assigned to it by the act. Special studies of the venereal diseases are being conducted in an effort to devise more effective measures of prevention and control. Cooperative venereal diseases control activities are being carried out through all of the State health departments in the United States. These cooperative activities include educational, medical, and law enforcement measures. Cooperative venereal disease clinics are being conducted in 450 locations. At these clinics infected persons are receiving modern scientific treatment, and studies are being conducted into medical, economic, and sociologic aspects of these diseases. Through cooperation with hundreds of various agencies a comprehensive, nation-wide educational campaign is being conducted regarding various aspects of the venereal diseases and their prevention.

The chief clerk has charge of the following: (1) Appointments, promotions, and discipline of the clerical personnel of the bureau. (2) Classification and efficiency ratings. (3) Time records and leave of absence. (4) Office quarters occupied by the bureau in Washington, and procurement and care of equipment therein. (5) Furnishing supplies of stationery and blanks to the bureau and field stations. (6) The official files and records of the bureau and the receipt and dispatch of mail. (7) The bureau library. (8) Procuring of printing through the Government Printing Office, and supervision of the appropriation therefor. (9) Improvement of office methods.

COAST GUARD

The Commandant of the Coast Guard is charged by law with the administration of the Coast Guard, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury in time of peace and under the direction of the Sectetary of the Navy in time of war. Headquarters are located at present in the Darby Building, Fourteenth and E Streets. The act of January 28, 1915, provided that the Coast Guard be created in lieu of the then existing Revenue Cutter Service and the Life Saving Service, and to be composed of those two organizations. It also provided that it shall constitute a part of the military forces of the United States, and shall operate under the Treasury Department in time of peace and operate as a part of the Navy, subject to the orders of the Secretary of the Navy, in time of war or when the President shall so direct.

In general, the duties of the Coast Guard may be classified as follows: Rendering assistance to vessels in distress and saving life and property; destruction or removal of wrecks, derelicts, and other floating dangers to navigation; extending medical aid to American vessels engaged in deep-sea fisheries; protection of the customs revenue; operating as a part of the Navy in time of war or when the President shall direct; enforcement of law and regulations governing anchorage of vessels in navigable waters; enforcement of law relating to quarantine and neutrality; suppression of mutinies on merchant vessels; enforcement of navigation and other laws governing merchant vessels and motor boats; enforcement of law to provide for safety of life on navigable waters during regattas and marine parades; protection of game and the seal and other fisheries in Alaska, etc.; enforcement of sponge fishing laws.

To assist the Commandant in conducting the business of his office there are established at headquarters an inspector in chief, having cognizance of matters relating to the inspection of vessels, stations, boats, and all other property, and the following:

Division of operations: Having cognizance of matters relating ot the operations and personnel of the service.

Division of matériel: Having cognizance of matters relating to supplies, outfits, equipment, accounts, and the files.

Office of construction and repair: Having cognizance of matters relating to the construction of and repairs to the hulls of vessels and boats, stations, wharves, and all other property.

Office of engineer in chief: Having cognizance of matters relating to the construction of and repairs to the motive power of vessels and boats and the machinery of all other property.

Under the direction of the Commandant statistics are prepared of casualties to vessels of the United States. He is also required to acquaint himself, as far as practicable, with all means employed in foreign countries which may seem to affect advantageously the interest of the Coast Guard, and to cause to be properly investigated all plans, devices, and inventions for the improvement of life-saving apparatus for use at the stations which may appear to be meritorious and available.

OFFICE OF SUPERVISING ARCHITECT

Subject to the direction and approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, the duties performed by the Supervising Architect embrace the following: Securing cessions from States of jurisdiction over sites and the payment for the same; preparation of drawings, estimates, specifications, etc., for, and the superintendence of the work of, constructing, rebuilding, extending, or repairing public buildings; the care, maintenance, and repair of public buildings, the direction of the operating force in public buildings, and the supply of furniture, carpets, lighting fixtures, mechanical equipment, safes, and miscellaneous supplies for use of custodians' and engineers' forces in the care of public buildings.

The Assistant and Chief Clerk of the War Department is the head of the Office of the Secretary of War, and as such has charge of the records and files, and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of that office. By law he is authorized to sign such official papers and documents as the Secretary of War may direct. He is charged with supervising and acting upon appointments, promotions, transfers, and separations in the civil service and other matters affecting civilian employees in and under the War Department in Washington and elsewhere; printing and binding and newspaper advertising for the War Department and the Army; expenditures from War Department appropriations for contingent expenses, stationery, and postage; the War Department telephone service and the War Department post office; allotment of office space assigned for the use of the War Department in the District of Columbia; and performs such other duties as may be required by the Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT GENERAL STAFF

The War Department General Staff is organized under the provisions of the act approved June 4, 1920.

The Chief of Staff is the immediate adviser of the Secretary of War on all matters relating to the Military Establishment and is charged by the Secretary of War with the planning, development, and execution of the Army program. He causes the War Department General Staff to prepare the necessary plans for recruiting, mobilizing, organizing, supplying, equipping, and training the Army for use in the national defense and for demobilization. As the agent and in the name of the Secretary of War he issues such orders as will insure that the plans of the War Department are harmoniously executed by all branches and agencies of the Military Establishment and that the Army program is carried out speedily and efficiently.

The War Department General Staff is charged with the preparation of plans as outlined above, including those for the mobilization of the manhood of the Nation in an emergency. It investigates and reports upon questions affecting the efficiency of all branches of the Army and their state of preparation for military operations. Assisted by an appropriate number of reserve officers (as prescribed in sec. 5, act of June 4, 1920) it formulates all policies and regulations affecting the organization, distribution, and training of the National Guard and the Organized Reserves, and all policies and regulations affecting the appointment, assignment, promotion, and discharge of reserve officers. It performs such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be from time to time prescribed by the President, and renders professional aid and assistance to the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff.

The Deputy Chief of Staff assists the Chief of Staff and acts for him in his absence. He reports directly to the Secretary of War in all matters not involving the establishment of important policies. In addition to his other duties, he is charged with supervision over the activities of all the divisions of the War Department General Staff.

The War Department General Staff includes the following divisions, each division being under the immediate control of an assistant Chief of Staff: Personnel Division (First Division); Military Intelligence Division (Second Division); Operations and Training Division (Third Division); Supply Division (Fourth Division); War Plans Division. For the first four divisions, the abbreviations G–1, G–2, G–3, G–4, respectively, are prescribed. The prescribed abbreviation for the War Plans Division is W. P. D. The chiefs of the several divisions of the War Department General Staff will be designated as Assistant Chiefs of Staff; the prescribed abbreviation A. C. of S. is followed by the prescribed abbreviation of the division.

The Personnel Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the personnel of the Army as individuals. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning the procurement, classification, assignment, promotion, transfer, retirement, and discharge, in peace and war, of all personnel of the Army of the United States, including the Regular Army, the National Guard, the Organized Reserves, the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Enlisted Reserve Corps, and the Citizens' Military Training Camps; measures for conserving man power; replacements of personnel, Army regulations, uniform regulations, and such general regulations as especially concern individuals or matters of routine not specifically assigned to other sections; decorations; religious, recreational, and morale work; the Red Cross and similar agencies, with the exception of such part or parts of said agencies as may be wholly devoted to hospital and medical relief work; enemy aliens, prisoners of war, and conscientious objectors, including their security.

The Military Intelligence Division is charged in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the collection, evaluation, and dissemination of military information. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of all activities concerning:

Military topographical surveys and maps, including their reproduction and distribution; the custody of the General Staff map and photograph collection; military attachés, observers, and foreign-language students; intelligence personnel of all units; liaison with other intelligence agencies of the Government and with duly accredited foreign military attachés and missions; codes and ciphers; translations; relations with the press; censorship in time of war.

The Operations and Training Division is charged in general with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the organization, training, and operation of the military forces not expressly assigned to the War Plans Division. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning: Organization, including Tables of Organization, for all branches of the Army of the United States; assignments of units to higher organizations; so much of Tables of Equipment as relate to the allotment of major items of equipment to units and the distribution of such items within units; distribution and training, including educational and vocational training of the Army of the United States, the National Guard, and Organized Reserves; location of units of the Regular Army and Organized Reserves; all drill and service regulations, field service regulations, and General Staff manuals; special service schools and general service schools, including the Army War College, and the Command and General Staff School; military training in civilian institutions and in civilian training camps; priorities in assigning replacements and equipment and important priorities affecting mobilization; movement of troops; military police.

The Supply Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the supply of the Army, and with the preparation of basic supply plans. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning: Distribution, storage, and issue of supplies; transportation by land and water, including ports of embarkation and their necessary auxilliaries; traffic control; tables of equipment, the quantities and types of military supplies required for the use of the Army and essential to the military program; inventions; leasing of War Department facilities and issuing of revocable licenses; hospitalization and evacuation of men and animals, including such agencies or parts of agencies as may be wholly devoted to hospital and medical relief work; distribution and movement of supply, technical, and labor troops not employed as combat units; property responsibility and accountability; the determination and statement of plans and policies governing the preparation of estimates for funds for military purposes and priorities pertaining thereto, and, when necessary with the restatement of such priorities to govern the expenditure of all funds appropriated; the formulation of policies and projects governing the procurement of real estate in connection with the training, shelter, and housing of troops, and with the storage, distribution, and issue of supplies; policies relative to the procurement, construction, repair, maintenance, and disposition of buildings and all utilities connected therewith.

The War Plans Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the formulation of plans for the use in the theater of war of the military forces, separately or in conjunction with the naval forces, in the national defense. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning: Location and armament of coast and land fortifications; estimate of forces required and times at which they may be needed under various possible conditions necessitating the use of troops in the national defense; the initial strategical deployment; actual operations in the theater of war; consultation with G–3 and G–4 on major items of equipment; peace maneuvers, terrain exercises, and staff rides involving units higher than a division; and joint Army and Navy exercises. The War Plans Division is so organized as to enable it, in the event of mobilization, to furnish the nucleus of the General Staff personnel for each of the General Staff Divisions required at the General Headquarters in the Field.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

The Secretary of the Navy performs such duties as the President of the United States, who is Commander in Chief, may assign him, and has the general superintendence of construction, manning, armament, equipment, and employment of vessels of war.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy performs such duties in the Navy Department as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy or required by law.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY FOR AERONAUTICS

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics is charged with the supervision of naval aeronautics and the coordination of its activities with other governmental agencies, and performs such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Secretary of the Navy.

CHIEF CLERK

As administrative assistant to the Secretary and Assistant Secretaries of the Navy, the chief clerk has administrative control over the clerical force and responsibility for the general business operations of the Navy Department, involving supervision over matters relating to the employees of the department; responsibility for the enforcement of departmental regulations general in their nature; supervision over the Navy Department post office; supervision over expenditures from appropriations for contingent and miscellaneous expenses of the department and printing and binding and partial supervision over expenditures from appropriations "Pay, miscellaneous," and "Contingent, Navy"; he has custody of the records and files of the Secretary's office and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of that office; and performs such other duties as may be required by the Secretary or Assistant Secretaries of the Navy.

OFFICE OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy the Chief of Naval Operations is next in succession to act as Secretary of the Navy. (Act March 3, 1915.) The Chief of Naval Operations, while so serving as such Chief of Naval Operations, shall have the rank and title of admiral, to take rank next after the Admiral of the Navy. (Act August 29, 1916.)

The Chief of Naval Operations, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with the operations of the fleet and with the preparation and readiness of plans for its use in war. (Act March 3, 1915.) This includes the direction of the Naval War College, the Office of Naval Intelligence, the Office of Fleet Training, the operation of the Radio Service and of other systems of communication, the operations of the Aeronautic Service, of Mines and Mining, of the Naval Defense Districts, Naval Militia, and of the Coast Guard when operating with the Navy; the direction of all strategic and tactical matters, organizations, maneuvers, target practice, drills and exercises, and of the training of the fleet for war; and the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all tactics, drill books, signal codes, and cipher codes.

The Chief of Naval Operations so coordinates all repairs and alterations to vessels and the supply of personnel and material thereto as to insure at all times the maximum readiness of the fleet for war.

The Chief of Naval Operations is charged with the preparation, revision, and record of Regulations for the Government of the Navy, Naval Instructions, and General Orders. He advises the Secretary concerning the movements and operations of vessels of the Navy, including their assignment for docking, repairs, and alterations, and prepares all orders issued by the Secretary in regard thereto, and keeps the records of service of all fleets, squadrons, and ships. He advises the Secretary in regard to the military features of all new ships and as to any proposed extensive alterations of a ship which will affect her military value, and all features which affect the military value of dry docks, including their location; also as to matters pertaining to fuel reservations and depots, the location of radio stations, reserves of ordnance and ammunition, fuel, stores, and other supplies of whatsoever nature, with a view to meeting effectively the demands of the fleet.

In preparing and maintaining in readiness plans for the use of the fleet in war he freely consults with and has the advice and assistance of the various bureaus, boards, and offices of the department, including the Marine Corps headquarters, in matters coming under their cognizance. After the approval of any given war plans by the Secretary it is the duty of the Chief of Naval Operations to assign to the bureaus, boards, and offices such parts thereof as may be needed for the intelligent carrying out of their respective duties in regard to such plans.

The Chief of Naval Operations is charged with matters pertaining to the operation of aircraft.

The Chief of Naval Operations from time to time witnesses the operations of the fleet as an observer.

He is ex officio a member of the General Board.

ORGANIZATION OF THE OFFICE OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

For administrative purposes, and next in authority to the Chief of Naval Operations, an officer of suitable rank and experience is designated as Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations. The Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations does not administer the details of any division.

The primary functions of the Office of Naval Operations are:

(1) Study and preparation of policies and plans; and

(2) The operation and administration of the forces of the Navy in accordance with approved plans.

The functions of (1) are not administrative, and all work in connection therewith is carried on by a body known as the planning division, none of whose members are given administrative duties.

The administrative divisions are as follows:

1. Ship movements division.
2. Intelligence division.
3. Communication division.
4. Material division.
5. Naval districts division.
6. Inspection division.
7. Fleet training division.
8. Secretarial division.

WAR PLANS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The War Plans Division is charged with the preparation and maintenance of Basic War Plans for the development and maintenance of the naval forces in a state of readiness for war and for operating in war. These plans are designed to serve as a guide for all major activities of the naval service.

The War Plans Division studies and makes recommendation on questions having a bearing on approved Basic War Plans.

The Director War Plans Division is a member of the Joint Board and is senior member of the Board for the Development of Navy Yard Plans. Three or more officers of the War Plans Division are detailed to form the Navy section of the Joint Army and Navy Planning Committee. One or more officers of the War Plans Division are assigned as members of the Aeronautical Board and of the Munitions Board. Through membership on these boards and committees the War Plans Division assists in the coordination of the plans and policies of the War and Navy Departments.

SHIP MOVEMENTS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The movements of all naval craft, whether surface, subsurface, or air, not specially designated for training and experimental purposes exclusively, are directed by the Chief of Naval Operations or the Assistant Chief of Naval Operations, through the officers charged with the responsibility of supervising the movements of:

(1) Fighting craft of the Navy; and

(2) All other naval craft.

One of the most important duties in connection with this division is the liaison with the Shipping Board and the merchant marine.

INTELLIGENCE DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Office of Naval Intelligence)

The Intelligence Division is charged with the collection of information for the department and for other naval activities which require it. It publishes and disseminates such information to the Navy and to Government officials requiring it. It cooperates with the other executive departments of the Government in discovering and bringing to justice persons engaged in activities against the United States. It directs all naval attachés aboard and is the official channel of communication for all foreign naval attachés in the United States.

It is the duty of the Office of Naval Intelligence to keep in close touch with all naval activities, both in and out of the Navy Department.

In time of war the Office of Naval Intelligence has charge of the censorship of cables and radio.

The Office of Naval Records and Library collects and classifies, with a view to publication, the records of the naval history of the World War.

COMMUNICATION DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Office of the Director of Naval Communications)

The Director of Naval Communications is charged with the administration, organization, and operation of the entire radio, telegraph, telephone, and cable systems of communications within the naval service, including the operation of the trans-Atlantic radio system and all communications between merchant ships and all shore stations in the United States and its possessions. The foregoing includes the preparation and distribution of all codes, ciphers, and secret calls and commercial accounting. The Director of Naval Communications handles all matters pertaining to naval radio communications in any manner whatsoever, except those relating solely to purchase, supply, test, and installation of apparatus.

The communication office of the Navy Department (a section of the Communication Division) is responsible for the handling of all telegraphic and radio communications to and from the Navy Department.

MATERIAL DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Material Division advises the Chief of Naval Operations on material matters ashore and afloat affecting the efficiency of the Naval Establishment. In so doing the division keeps in close touch with the material bureaus and the navy yards, naval stations and the high commands afloat.

NAVAL DISTRICTS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

Correspondence relating to naval district matters; records of vessels commandeered during the World War by purchase or charter, and their disposition; sale of purchased and obsolete naval vessels; records of vessels retained for use in naval districts; responsible for preparation of war plans for shore establishments and local defense forces, military operating readiness, and operating plans for same.

NAVAL RESERVE POLICY SECTION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

This section is charged with the initiation and formulation of the department's policies relating to the size, organization, administration, training, and mobilization of the Naval Reserve and with the coordination of the resultant duties imposed upon the various offices and bureaus of the Navy Department.

The general scope of the duties of this office relating to the Naval Reserve are as follows:

(a) Recommend to the department the allotment of Naval Reserve appropriations. Determine the number and assignment of naval vessels to the training of the Naval Reserve.

(b) Determine the numbers of officers and men to be maintained from year to year in the various classes of the Naval Reserve to meet the needs of the Navy.

(c) Determine the distribution of the personnel of the Naval Reserve among the naval districts.

(d) Determine and prescribe the principles which are to govern the active training of the Naval Reserve when afloat. This will include the degree to which the fleet shall be made available or such training.

(e) Determine and prescribe the principles which are to govern the organization and administration of the Naval Reserve within the Naval Districts.

(f) Determine and prescribe the principles which are to govern the mobilization of the Naval Reserve in time of war or national emergency.

(g) Determine the measures that are necessary, in time of peace, to insure that the personnel of the merchant marine shall be of maximun service to the country in time of war.

INSPECTION DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Board of Inspection and Survey)

The activities at present under this division are:

(a) Board of inspection and survey; and

(b) Joint merchant vessels board.

The board of inspection and survey is charged with inspections and trials of newly constructed naval vessels and, at intervals specified by law, with the material inspections of all vessels of the Navy. It is in close coordination with the Matériel Division of the Chief of Naval Operations.

The joint merchant vessels board is charged with the inspection of privately owned craft and the securing of such data relative to such craft as will determine their suitability for military purposes.

FLEET TRAINING DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

This division of the Office of Naval Operations is charged with the following:

(a) The preparation of a balanced program of fleet training based upon approved war plans, and the current degree of readiness for war in each branch of fleet training.

(b) Cooperation with the fleet and the Naval War College, in study, research, and experiment in all branches of fleet training for war.

(c) The preparation of general instructions for the conduct of fleet exercises.

(d) The preparation or the War Instructions and other standard instructions, manuals, and drill books governing the military activities of the fleet in war and in training for war.

(e) The collection, analysis, and review of all data in regard to fleet training and compilation of the same into suitable reports for the information and guidance of the service.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The duties of the Bureau of Navigation comprise the distribution of personnel; the issue, record, and enforcement of the orders of the Secretary to the individual officers of the Navy; the training and education of line officers and of enlisted men (except of the Hospital Corps) at schools and stations and in vessels maintained for that purpose; the upkeep and operation of the Naval Academy, of technical schools for line officers, of the apprentice-seaman establishments, of schools for the technical education of enlisted men, and of the Naval Home at Philadelphia, Pa.; the upkeep and the payment of the operating expenses of the Naval War College; the enlistment, assignment to duty, and discharge of all enlisted persons.

(2) It has under its direction all rendezvous and receiving ships and provides transportation for all enlisted persons under its cognizance.

(3) It establishes the complements of all ships in commission.

(4) It keeps the records of service of all officers and men, and prepares an annual Navy Register for publication, embodying therein data as to fleets, squadrons, and ships, which shall be furnished by the Chief of Naval Operations. To the end that it may be able to carry out the provisions of this paragraph, all communications to or from ships in commission relating to the personnel of such ships are forwarded through this bureau, whatever their origin.

(5) It is charged with all matters pertaining to applications for appointments and commissions in the Navy, and with the preparation of such appointments and commissions for signature.

(6) It is charged with the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all regulations governing uniform, and with the distribution of all orders and regulations of a general or circular character.

(7) Questions of naval discipline, rewards, and punishments are submitted by this bureau for the action of the Secretary of the Navy. The records of all general courts-martial and courts of inquiry involving the personnel of the Navy before final action are referred to this bureau for comment as to disciplinary features.

(8) It receives and brings to the attention of the Secretary of the Navy all applications from officers for duty or leave.

(9) It receives all reports of services performed by individual officers or men.

(10) It is charged with the enforcement of regulations and instructions regarding naval ceremonies and naval etiquette.

(11) It shall be charged with the upkeep and operation of the Hydrographic Office, the Naval Observatory, Nautical Almanac, and compass offices. It shall also have charge of all ocean and lake surveys, and ships' and crews' libraries; it shall defray the expenses of pilotage of all ships in commission.

(12) It is charged with carrying on the administration and training of the Naval Reserve in accordance with the policies of the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

(13) It is charged with general supervision of the instruction and training of personnel.

(14) It advises the Secretary of the Navy on personnel matters.

NAVAL OBSERVATORY, BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The Naval Observatory at Washington, D. C., sends out daily the time signals which establish standard time for the country and enable the mariner at sea to ascertain his chronometer error and his longitude by observation. The signals are transmitted by the Naval Radio Stations at Arlington, Annapolis, and Key West, and the noon signal by land wire also. Similar service for the Pacific coast is furnished by the Navy Chronometer and Time Station at Mare Island, Calif. Special signals are sent by the Naval Observatory for use of United States and foreign scientific institutions, astronomical work, surveying, eclipse, and longitude expeditions.

At the Naval Observatory, is carried on the administration for the development, supply, upkeep, repair, and inspection of navigational, aeronautical, and aerological instruments for the ships and aircraft of the Navy.

The Naval Observatory maintains continuously observations for absolute positions of the fundamental stars, and the independent determination, by observations of the sun, of the position of the ecliptic and of the Equator among the stars, and of the positions of the stars, moon, and planets with reference to the Equator and equinoxes, in order to furnish data to assist in preparing the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac and improving the tables of the planets, moon, and stars. At the same time this department furnishes the observations for determining the time.

The Nautical Almanac Office of the Naval Observatory computes and prepares for publication the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac and its smaller edition the Nautical Almanac.

(g) Naval magazines on shore.
(h) Naval mine depots.

And of all that relates to the manufacture of offensive and defensive arms and apparatus (including torpedos and armor), all ammunition and war explosive. It requires for or manufactures all machinery, apparatus, equipment, material, and supplies required by or for use with the above.

It determines the interior dimensions of revolving turrets and their requirements as regards rotation.

As the work proceeds, it inspects the installation of the permanent fixtures of the armament and its accessories on board ship, and the methods of stowing, handling, and transporting ammunition and torpedoes, all of which work shall be performed to its satisfaction. It designs and constructs all turret ammunition hoists, determines the requirements of all ammunition hoists, and the method of construction of armories and ammunition rooms on shipboard and, in conjunction with the Bureau of Construction and Repair, determines upon their location and that of ammunition hoists outside of turrets. It installs all parts of the armament and its accessories which are not permanently attached to any portion of the structure of the hull, excepting turret guns, turret mounts, and ammunition hoists, and such other mounts as require simultaneous structural work in connection with installation or removal. It confers with the Bureau of Construction and Repair respecting the arrangements for centering the turrets and the character of the roller paths and their support.

It has cognizance of all electrically operated ammunition hoists, rammers, and gun-elevating gear which are in turrets; of electric training and elevating gear for gun mounts not in turrets; of electrically operated air compressors for charging torpedoes; and of all range finders and battle order and range transmitter and indicators.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR

The duties of the Bureau of Construction and Repair comprise the responsibility for the structural strength and stability of all ships built for the Navy; all that relates to designing, building, fitting, and repairing the hulls of ships, turrets, and electric turret-turning machinery, spars, capstans, windlasses, deck winches, boat cranes, steering gear, and hull-ventilating apparatus (except portable fans); and, after consultation with the Bureau of Ordnance and according to the requirements thereof as determined by that bureau, the designing, construction, and installation of independent ammunition hoists, the same to conform to the requirements of the Bureau of Ordnance as to power, speed and control, and the installation of the permanent fixtures of all other ammunition hoists and their appurtenances; placing and securing armor, placing and securing on board ship to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Ordnance the permanent fixtures of the armament and its accessories as manufactured and supplied by that bureau; installing the turret guns, turret mounts, and turret ammunition hoists, and such other mounts as require simultaneous structural work in connection with installation or removal; also the designing and installing to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Aeronautics all aeronautic accessories that are an integral part of the structure of naval vessels.

It has charge of the docking of ships, and is charged with the operating and cleaning of dry docks.

It is responsible for the care and preservation of ships not in commission.

It has cognizance of electric launches and other boats supplied with electric motive power.

It has charge of the manufacture of anchors and cables; the supplying and fitting of rope, cordage, rigging, sails, awnings, and other canvas, and flags and bunting; it supplies, to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, galley ranges, steam cookers, and other permanent galley fittings, and installs and repairs the same.

It supplies and installs, in consultation with the Bureau of Engineering, all voice tubes and means of mechanical signal communications.

BUREAU OF ENGINEERING

1. The duties of the Bureau of Engineering comprise all that relates to designing; building, fitting out, and repairing machinery used for the propulsion of naval ships; pumps (except motor-driven pumps for drainage and for distribution of fresh water for ship's use); steam and electric heaters; fuel-oil apparatus; distilling apparatus; refrigerating apparatus; air compressors (except those required for adjusting and diving compressors on submarines and for charging torpedoes); all steam connections of ships; and the steam machinery necessary for actuating the apparatus by which turrets are turned.

2. (a) It has cognizance of all that relates to electric generating sets and storage batteries; the generation and distribution of electric power on board ship for all purposes; all means of interior communication, including telephones and telegraphs of all descriptions and mechanical means of interior communication; all methods of electric signaling, internal and external; all other electrical apparatus on board ship, except gyro compass and anemometer equipment (Bureau of Navigation); fire-control instruments (Bureau of Ordnance); galley ranges and ovens (Bureau of Construction and Repair); motors and control appliances used to operate machinery under the cognizance of other bureaus.

(b) It determines the number and locations of voice-tube outlets and size of voice tubes.

(c) The running of cable and the installation of conduit is made after consultation with the Bureau of Construction and Repair.

3. It has charge of the design, manufacture, installation, maintenance, and repair of radio and sound outfits on board ship, in aircraft, and on shore. It provides and maintains pigeons for communications.

4. It inspects all fuel for the fleet.

5. It has supervision and control of the upkeep and operation of the Engineering Experiment Station, Annapolis, Md., and the Fuel Oil Testing Plant, Philadelphia, Pa., and, jointly with the Bureau of Construction and Repair, of the electrical laboratory at the navy yard, Brooklyn, N. Y. The bureau prepares specifications and prescribes tests for material and machinery under its cognizance. It is represented on many of the national standardization and engineering bodies and assists in national standardization. The Bureau of Engineering also has a representative member on the National Screw Thread Commission.

6. It maintains in the field offices of inspectors of machinery, who are directly under the administrative control of the Bureau of Engineering, and also maintains jointly with the Bureaus of Ordnance, Aeronautics, and Construction and Repair, inspectors of naval material. In the offices of inspectors of machinery a force of trained naval and civilian experts is maintained for the inspection of machinery and engineering materials generally, entering into the construction of new vessels; this force interprets and enforces strict compliance with the engineering specifications for the construction of vessels as regards the characteristics of the material used and the method of installation of completed parts. The offices of the inspectors of naval material, which are also composed of trained naval and civilian experts, are maintained for the purpose of inspection of naval materials generally which are purchased for the maintenance of the Naval Establishments; this force enforces strict compliance with the specifications for such materials to determine compliance with the specifications.

7. It nominates to the Bureau of Navigation specially qualified officers for engineering duties at sea and on shore, including those for duty as inspectors of machinery and inspectors of engineering material.

8. It compiles and issues pamphlets for the dissemination of engineering information and prepares and issues a bulletin of official engineering information.

9. With the Bureau of Construction and Repair it has a joint supervision and control over the appropriation "Increase of the Navy, Construction and Machinery."

BUREAU OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall have charge of the upkeep and operation of all hospitals and of the force employed there; it shall advise with respect to all questions connected with hygiene and sanitation affecting the service, and to this end shall have opportunity for necessary inspection; it shall provide for physical examinations; it shall pass upon the competency, from a professional standpoint, of all men in the Hospital Corps for enlistment, enrollment, and promotion by means of examinations conducted under its supervision, or under forms prescribed by it; it shall recommend and have information as to the assignment and duties of all enlisted men of the Hospital Corps; it shall recommend to the Bureau of Navigation the complement of medical officers, dental officers, nurses, and Hospital Corps men for hospitals and hospital ships, and shall have power to appoint and remove all nurses in the Nurse Corps, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Navy.

Except as otherwise provided for, the duties of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall include the upkeep and operation of medical supply depots; medical laboratories, naval hospitals, dispensaries, technical schools for the Medical, Dental, and Hospital Corps, and the administration of the Nurse Corps.

It shall approve the design of hospital ships in so far as relates to their efficiency for the care of the sick and wounded.

It shall require for all supplies, medicines, and instruments used in the Medical Department of the Navy. It shall have control of the preparation, reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, and issue of all supplies of every kind used in the Medical Department for its own purposes.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery is charged with the duty of inspecting the sanitary condition of the Navy and making recommendations in reference thereto; of advising with the department and other bureaus with reference to the sanitary features of ships under construction and in commission regarding berthing, ventilation, location of quarters for the care and treatment of the sick and injured; of the provisions for the care of wounded in battle; and, in the case of shore stations, of advising in regard to health conditions depending on location, the hygienic construction and care of public buildings, especially of barracks and other habitations, such as camps. It shall advise in regard to water supplies used for drinking, cooking, and bathing purposes, and drainage and the disposal of wastes, so far as these affect the health of the Navy. It shall provide for the care of the sick and wounded, the physical examination of officers and enlisted men, with a view to the selection or retention of those only whose physical condition is such as to maintain or improve the military efficiency of the service if admitted or retained therein, the management and control of naval hospitals, and of the internal organization and administration of hospital ships, the instruction of the personnel of the Hospital Corps and Nurse Corps, and the furnishing of all medical and hospital supplies. It shall advise in matters pertaining to clothing and food so far as these affect the health of the Navy. It shall safeguard the personnel by the employment of the best methods of hygiene and sanitation, both afloat and ashore, with a view to maintaining the highest possible percentage of the personnel ready for service at all times. It shall adopt for use all such devices or procedures as may be developed in the sciences of medicine and surgery which will in any way tend to an increase in military efficiency. All technical schools which are or may be established for the education of medical and dental officers or members of the Hospital Corps and Nurse Corps shall be under the supervision and control of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

BUREAU OF SUPPLIES AND ACCOUNTS

The duties of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts comprise all that relates to the purchase (including the preparation and distribution of schedules, proposals, contracts, and bureau orders and advertisements connected therewith, and the Navy's list of acceptable bidders), reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, shipment, issue of and accounting for all supplies and property of the Naval Establishment except medical supplies (but including their purchase) and supplies for the Marine Corps.

The Paymaster General of the Navy has direction of the naval clothing factories and their cost of operation.

He has supervision over requisitions and service covering provisions, clothing, and canteen stocks; allotments under S. and A. appropriations and the accounting for allotments for ships under all appropriations; the preparation and issuance of allowance lists for ships of S. and A. material; the disposition of excess stocks accumulated at the various yards and the upkeep of naval supply account stock; he recommends to the Bureau of Yards and Docks the interior arrangements of storehouses ashore and to the Bureau of Construction and Repair the character of the permanent galley fittings and interior storeroom arrangement of all naval vessels.

He has direction of the sale of condemned, salvaged, and scrap, or other materials, and the transfer thereof from point to point.

He procures all coal, fuel oil, and gasoline for Navy use, including expenses of transportation, leased storage, and handling the same, and water for all purposes on board naval vessels, and the chartering of merchant vessels for transportation purposes.

The Paymaster General of the Navy is charged with the procurement and loading of cargoes of supply ships, colliers, and tankers, and with the upkeep and operation of fueling plants.

He has charge of all that relates to the supply funds for Navy disbursing officers and the payment for articles and services for which contract and agreements have been made by proper authority.

The Paymaster General of the Navy is responsible for the keeping of the property and money accounts of the Naval Establishment, including accounts of all manufacturing and operating expenses at navy yards and stations; the direction of naval cost accounting and the audit of property returns from ships and stations.

He prepares the estimates for the appropriations for freight, fuel, provisions, and clothing for the Navy, the maintenance of the supply, accounting, and disbursing departments at navy yards and stations, and for the pay of all officers and enlisted men of the Navy.

He originates the details to duty of officers of the supply corps.

BUREAU OF AERONAUTICS

The duties of the Bureau of Aeronautics comprise all that relates to designing, building, fitting out, and repairing naval and Marine Corps aircraft, except that the bureau recommends to each bureau of the Navy Department the nature and priority of experimental development and production of aeronautic material under that bureau's cognizance. When designs are to be prepared for new types of aircraft, the Bureau of Aeronautics has duties, within its cognizance, similar to those assigned to other bureaus of the department. The bureau furnishes information covering all aeronautic planning, operations, and administration that may be necessary to the administration of the Navy Department. The bureau makes recommendations to the Bureau of Navigation for the details of officers for duty in connection with aeronautics for the distribution in the various ratings of the enlisted personnel required for aeronautic activities, and on all matters pertaining to aeronautic training; to the Major General Commandant, United States Marine Corps, for the details of officers for duty in connection with aeronautics, and for the distribution in the various ratings of enlisted personnel required for aeronautic activities; also relative to all matters pertaining to aeronautic training. The bureau has cognizance over the policy of the upkeep and operation of:

(a) Naval aircraft factories;

(b) Naval aeronautic experimental stations;

(c) Helium plants, in so far as they come under naval cognizance.

The experimental and test work of the other bureaus of the Navy Department affecting aeronautic material is made in accordance with requests of the Bureau of Aeronautics. The installation of ordnance material in aircraft and the repairs of public works utilities at aeronautic shore establishments, as well as their upkeep and operation, are under the cognizance of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

OFFICE OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL OF THE NAVY

The Judge Advocate General of the Navy shall, in accordance with the statute creating his office, have cognizance of all matters of law arising in the Navy Department and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned him by the Secretary of the Navy.

The duties of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy shall be to revise and report upon the legal features of and to have recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, boards of investigation and inquest, and boards for the examination of officers for retirement and promotion in the naval service; to prepare charges and specifications for courts-martial and the necessary orders convening courts-martial in cases where such courts are ordered by the Secretary of the Navy; to prepare courts-martial orders promulgating the final action of the reviewing authority in general courts-martial cases, except those of enlisted men convened by officers other than the Secretary of the Navy; to prepare the necessary orders convening courts of inquiry and boards for the examination of officers for promotion and retirement, for the examination of all candidates for appointment as officers of the naval service other than midshipmen, and in the Naval Reserve, where such courts and boards are ordered by the Secretary of the Navy, and to conduct all official correspondence relating to such courts and boards.

It shall also be the duty of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy to examine and report upon all questions relating to rank and precedence, to promotions and retirement, and to the validity of the proceedings in courts-martial cases; all matters relating to the supervision and control of naval prisons and prisoners, including prisoners of war; the removal of the mark of desertion; the correction of records of service of the naval personnel; certification of discharge in true name; pardons; the interpretation of statutes; references to the General Accounting Office; proceedings in the civil courts by or against the Government or its officers; preparation of advertisements, proposals, and contracts; insurance; patents; the sufficiency of official contracts and other bonds and guaranties; claims by or against the Government; and to conduct the correspondence respecting the foregoing duties, including the preparation for submission to the Attorney General of all questions which the Secretary of the Navy may direct to be so submitted.

It shall be the duty of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy to examine and report upon all bills and resolutions introduced in Congress and referred to the department for report; to draft all proposed legislation arising in the Navy Department; and to conduct the correspondence in connection with these duties.

The study of international law is assigned to the Office of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy. He shall examine and report upon questions of international law as may be required.

He shall be charged, under the special instructions of the Secretary of the Navy, with the searching of titles, purchase, sale, transfer, and other questions affecting lands and buildings pertaining to the Navy, and with the care and preservation of all muniments of title to land acquired for naval uses.

HEADQUARTERS UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS

The Major General Commandant of the Marine Corps is responsible to the Secretary of the Navy for the general efficiency, discipline, and operations of the corps in all branches of its activities. The headquarters is organized as the office of the Major General Commandant and three staff departments.

The assistant to the Major General Commandant has general supervision over recruiting; assignments and complements of officers and enlisted men; constabulary detachments; passports; transportation on naval transports; Marine Corps Institute and post schools (other than military).

The director of operations and training, under the Major General Commandant, has cognizance of military intelligence, operations, training, matériel, and aviation.

The adjutant and inspector has general supervision of claims of officers and enlisted men, courts-martial, courts of inquiry, investigations, etc.; historical archives; inspections; post exchanges; appointment, examination, promotion, reduction, and retirement of commissioned and warrant officers; military records; discharges; promotion and reduction of noncommissioned officers; casualties; insignia; Marine Corps Reserve.

The paymaster has supervision of questions relating to pay, allowances, bonus, gratuities, mileage, travel expenses, allotments, insurance, etc., to officers and enlisted men; deficiency and other estimates for pay, etc.

The quartermaster has supervision of matters relating to the purchase of military supplies for the Marine Corps, including subsistence; construction material, and labor; pays all expenses of the corps except those pertaining to paymaster's department; has jurisdiction over quarters, barracks, and other public buildings provided for officers and enlisted men, and repairs, alterations, and improvements thereto; vehicles for the transportation of troops and supplies; public animals and their equipment; furnishes means of transportation for movement of troops; prints and issues blank forms for the Marine Corps.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

The Secretary of the Interior is charged with the supervision of public business relating to the General Land Office, Bureau of Reclamation, Geological Survey, Office of Indian Affairs, Bureau of Pensions, Bureau of Education, National Park Service, and certain hospitals and eleemosynary institutions in the District of Columbia. By authority of the President the Secretary of the Interior has general supervision over the Government railroad in the Territory of Alaska. He exercises also certain powers and duties in relation to the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii. Under the act of August 26, 1912 (37 Stats. 594), the duty is imposed upon the Secretary of the Interior of renting buildings acquired under the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stats. 739), for the enlargement of the Capitol Grounds. He was designated custodian of the records and files of the United States Fuel Administration and the Bituminous Coal Commission by Executive orders of July 22, 1919, March 24, 1920, and June 16, 1920, and those of the United States Coal Commission by Executive order of September 13, 1923. The Secretary of the Interior is charged with the adjustment of claims filed under the war minerals relief act (sec. 5, act of Mar. 2, 1919, 40 Stat. 1274) for losses incurred in producing or preparing to produce manganese, chrome, pyrites, or tungsten during the war. He is a member of the Federal Power Commission under act of Congress approved June 10, 1920, and of the National Forest Reservation Commission under act of Congress approved March 1, 1911. He is chairman of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, constituted by the President on December 19, 1927. He is a member also of the District of Columbia Permanent System of Highways Commission under act of Congress approved March 2, 1893 (27 Stat. 532).

FIRST ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

The First Assistant Secretary has general supervision over matters concerning the General Land Office, Reclamation Bureau, Geological Survey, and St. Elizabeths Hospital, Freedmen's Hospital, and Howard University. He is charged with consideration of appeals to the Secretary from decisions of the General Land Office, Reclamation Bureau, and other offices and bureaus of the department involving public lands; applications for easements or rights of way for reservoirs, ditches, canals, railroads, and telephone lines; applications for oil, oil shale, gas, coal, potash, phosphate, and sodium prospecting permits and leases; selections of public lands under grants, etc. He is budget officer of the department. In the absence of the Secretary he becomes Acting Secretary.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

The Assistant Secretary has general supervision over all matters concerning the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Bureau of Education, Bureau of Pensions, National Park Service, Territories of Hawaii and Alaska; the Assistant Secretary also has jurisdiction of matters of a miscellaneous character, such as the approval of the pay roll of the Secretary's Office and the signing of contracts under the contingent and stationery appropriations. He also considers proposed legislation pertaining to matters under his supervision. Duties in connection with the affairs of other bureaus are assigned to him from time to time.

CHIEF CLERK

As the chief executive officer of the department and the administrative head of the divisions of the Office of the Secretary, the chief clerk has supervision over the clerks and other employees of the department, enforces the general regulations of the department, and has administrative supervision of the buildings occupied by the department. He also supervises the classification and compilation of all estimates of appropriations for the Bureau of the Budget, and has general supervision of expenditures from appropriations for contingent expenses for the department, including stationery and postage on mail addressed to postal-union countries. The detailed work relating to the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, to corporate sureties on bonds to St. Elizabeths Hospital Freedmen's Hospital, and Howard University; estimates for and admissions to Columbia Institution for Deaf; the admission of attorneys and agents to practice and disbarments from practice, and miscellaneous matters is performed in his office. During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretaries he may be designated by the Secretary to sign official papers and documents.

COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE

The Commissioner of the General Land Office is charged with the survey, management, and disposition of the public lands, the adjudication of conflicting claims relating thereto, the granting of railroad and other rights of way, easements, the issuance of patents for lands, and with furnishing certified copies of land patents and of records, plats, and papers on file in his office. In national forests he executes all laws relating to surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, reconveying, or patenting of public lands, and to the granting of rights of way amounting to easements.

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs, under the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, has charge of the Indians of the United States (exclusive of Alaska), their education, lands, moneys, schools, and general welfare, and the purchase of supplies in connection therewith.

COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS

The Commissioner of Pensions supervises the examination and adjudication of all claims arising under laws passed by Congress granting pensions on account of service in the Army or Navy rendered prior to April 6, 1917, or after July 2, 1921; claims for reimbursement for the expenses of the last sickness and burial of deceased pensioners; and claims for annuities, refunds, and allowances arising under the act of July 3, 1926, providing for the retirement of employees in the classified civil service.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The Commissioner of Education has charge of the Bureau of Education, which collects statistics and general information showing the conditions and progress of education in the United States and all foreign countries; advises State, county, and local school officers as to the administration and improvement of schools; issues annually a report, a number of bulletins, and miscellaneous publications; issues biennially a biennial survey of education; has charge of the schools for the education of native children in Alaska and of the support and medical relief of natives of Alaska; supervises the reindeer industry in Alaska; and administers the endowment fund for the support of colleges for the benefit of agriculture and mechanic arts. The commissioner is a member of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, which has charge of the administration of the acts of Congress providing Federal aid for vocational education in the several States and rehabilitation and reeducation for persons maimed in industry. The commissioner is also a member of the Federal Board of Maternity and Infant Hygiene, chairman of the Federal Council of Citizenship Training, and representative of the Department of the Interior on the interdepartmental board on insular and outlying possessions.

DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

The Director of the Geological Survey is charged under direction of the Secretary of the Interior with classification of the public lands and the examination of the geologic structure, mineral resources, and mineral products of the national domain. In conformity with this authorization, the Geological Survey has been engaged in making a geologic map of the United States and Alaska, involving both topographic and geologic surveys, in conducting investigations relating to surface and underground waters, in classifying the public lands and supervising the engineering phases of mineral leasing.

COMMISSIONER OF RECLAMATION

The Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, is charged with investigation, construction, and management of irrigation developments in the arid States as authorized by the reclamation act of June 17, 1902, and amendments; also investigations of reclamation and farm development outside the arid region under sundry civil act of July 1, 1918.

DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

The Director of the National Park Service is charged with the duty of administering the national parks and national monuments under the jurisdiction of the Interior Department, including their maintenance, improvement, and protection, and the control of the public operators conducting utilities therein for the care and comfort of the visitors.

BOARD OF INDIAN COMMISSIONERS

The Board of Indian Commissioners, created in 1869, is a body of unpaid citizens, appointed by the President, who maintain an office in Washington, for the expenses of which and of travel Congress appropriates. The board is not a bureau or division of any department, but is purposely kept reasonably independent and afforded opportunities for investigation in order that it may freely express an intelligent and impartial opinion concerning Indian legislation and administration. Its legal duties are to visit and inspect branches of the Indian Service, to cooperate with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in the purchase and inspection of Indian supplies, and to report to the Secretary of the Interior, to whom and to the President the board acts in an advisory capacity, with respect to plans of civilizing or dealing with the Indians.

THE ALASKA RAILROAD

The Alaskan Engineering Commission was created under the act of March 12, 1914, which empowered, authorized, and directed the President to locate, construct, operate, or lease a railroad, or railroads, to connect the interior of Alaska with one or more of the open navigable ports on the coast. Authority was also granted to purchase existing railroads, to construct, maintain, and operate telegraph and telephone lines, and to make reservations of public lands in Alaska necessary for the purposes of the railroad.

For the execution of this work a commission of three engineers was appointed by the President to make the necessary surveys. They were directed to report to the Secretary of the Interior, under whom the President placed the general administration of the work. After the completion of the preliminary surveys, the President, by Executive order, selected the route for the railway from the coast to the interior. Construction of the railway was begun in 1915, under the general supervision of the Secretary of the Interior.

The railroad was completed in the spring of 1923 and is now under operation. By Executive order of June 8, 1923, the President placed the operation of the railroad under the Secretary of the Interior, and by order of the Secretary of the Interior of August 15, 1923, the designation of the Alaskan Engineering Commission was changed to The Alaska Railroad, and a general manager was appointed in October of 1923.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

The Secretary of Agriculture is charged with the work of promoting agriculture in its broadest sense. He exercises general supervision and control over the affairs of the department and formulates and establishes the general policies to be pursued by its various branches.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

The Assistant Secretary of Agriculture becomes Acting Secretary in the absence of the Secretary and assists in the general supervision of the work of the department.

DIRECTORS

Each of the Directors of Scientific Work, Regulatory Work, Extension Work, Personnel and Business Administration, and Information, reporting directly to the Secretary, has general supervision over all the work of the department of the type which the title of his position implies.

SOLICITOR

The Solicitor is the legal adviser of the Secretary and the heads of the several branches of the department. He directs and supervises all law work of the department.

OFFICE OF PERSONNEL AND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

This office has general direction and supervision of the personnel and of the business operations of the department as a whole, including the coordination and improvement of such business activities of its various bureaus and offices, as personnel administration, organization, budget and fiscal matters, purchases and supplies, traffic, housing, and care of buildings and equipment. This office conducts the business of the department with the Civil Service Commission, the Personnel Classification Board, the Employees' Compensation Commission, the Bureau of Efficiency, the Bureau of the Budget, the General Accounting Office, the retirement division of the Pension Bureau, the various boards operating under authority of the chief coordinator, and similar agencies.

OFFICE OF INFORMATION

The Office of Information supervises the expenditure of the appropriations for printing and binding for the department; conducts all business of the department transacted with the Government Printing Office; has general supervision of all editing, printing, indexing, illustrating, binding, and distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists; maintains an addressing, duplicating, and mailing section to serve the various bureaus of the department. This office secures the circulation in popular form of the discoveries and recommendations of the scientists, specialists, and field workers of the department; gives out to the public press agricultural facts taken from publications and official orders, and also from oral statements of specialists, this material being presented in such form as to attract public attention, be easily understandable, and lead to the adoption of methods recommended; keeps in close touch with correspondents and other writers, providing suggestions and material for articles. It also furnishes daily, through broadcasting from many stations in all parts of the United States, authentic information of practical use to farmers and others concerning the discoveries made by the department and the farm practices recommended by it; answers by radio questions in all fields of agriculture and home economics; and furnishes special information on gardening to boys and girls.

LIBRARY

The Department Library, with its branch libraries in the various bureaus, contains approximately 200,000 volumes on agriculture and the related sciences and receives currently 3,300 periodicals.

The dictionary card catalogue of the main library, containing more than a half million cards, is a record of the book resources of the whole department. It is supplemented by several extensive special indexes which are maintained by the various bureau libraries. These together form the most comprehensive bibliography of agriculture and the related sciences available in the United States.

The library lends its books for purposes of research to other libraries and institutions throughout the country, especially to the State agricultural colleges and experiment stations. It also furnishes bibliographical assistance and endeavors in various other ways to serve as the national agricultural library.

OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS

The Office of Experiment Stations exercises supervision over the operations of the State agricultural experiment stations under Federal appropriations authorized by the Hatch, Adams, and Purnell Acts for research, and affords such advice and assistance as will best promote the efficiency of these activities. It also collects and disseminates information regarding similar institutions throughout the world. The experiment stations of the Department of Agriculture in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands are also conducted under the general direction of this office.

EXTENSION SERVICE

The Extension Service cooperates with the State agricultural colleges in the conduct of extension work in agriculture and home economics under the Smith-Lever Act, and acts as an agency for coordinating the extension activities of the several bureaus of the department with similar work carried on by the State agricultural colleges. It conducts demonstrations on reclamation projects to assist settlers in making a success of their farm enterprises. It also has charge of the preparation, installation, and display of agricultural exhibits at State, interstate, and international fairs and of the motion-picture activities of the department.

WEATHER BUREAU

The Weather Bureau has charge of the forecasting of the weather; the issue and display of weather forecasts, and storm, cold-wave, frost, and flood warnings; the gauging and reporting of river stages; the maintenance and operation of the United States Weather Bureau telegraph and telephone lines; the collection and transmission of marine intelligence for the benefit of commerce and navigation; the collection and furnishing of meteorological information and forecasts, including upper-air observations for the benefit of air navigation; the reporting of temperature and rainfall conditions for agricultural interests; and the taking of such meteorological observations as may be necessary to determine and record the climatic conditions of the United States.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Animal Industry is primarily concerned with the protection and development of the livestock and meat industries of the United States. It conducts scientific investigations of the causes, prevention, and treatment of diseases of domestic animals; investigates the existence of communicable diseases of such animals, and aids in their control or eradication; and carries on investigations and experiments in animal husbandry and in the feeding and breeding of animals. It also is charged with the administration of the meat inspection act, the animal quarantine acts, the 28-hour law, the diseased animal transportation acts, the virus-serum-toxin act, and the act relating to the supervision of the business in interstate commerce of packers, public stockyard markets, and commission men, traders, and other agencies operating in the public stockyards markets of the United States.

BUREAU OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Dairy Industry conducts investigations of the various problems of dairy production, manufacture, and utilization, and the manufacture and utilization of dairy by-products, under the following general projects: Milk production and utilization; bacteriology and chemistry of milk; breeding, nutrition, and management of dairy cattle; dairy sanitation; dairy plant management; market milk investigations; and studies of the manufacture of dairy products and by-products. New principles and methods developed in the investigational work of the bureau are introduced into the field. The bureau also supervises the inspection of renovated-butter factories and the manufacture of butter for the United States Navy.

BUREAU OF PLANT INDUSTRY

The activities of the Bureau of Plant Industry are primarily devoted to plant research and related problems. This work includes the study of destructive plant diseases and the establishment of methods of eradication and control; the improvement of crop, ornamental, or other plants by breeding and selection; the introduction of promising seeds and plants from foreign countries; the improvement of methods of plant production; and the utilization of plants of economic value.

Campaigns to control or eradicate certain plant diseases are conducted in cooperation with the authorities of the States concerned. The 13 States interested in spring-wheat production are cooperating to eradicate the common barberry throughout this area as a means of controlling epidemics of black stem-rust of wheat. The New England, Great Lakes, and Northwestern States are cooperating in the eradication of the black currant and related plants as a means of controlling or preventing the spread of blister rust of white pine. The Gulf States are cooperating in the eradication of the canker of citrus trees and fruits.

The regulatory activities of the bureau are limited to the enforcement of the Federal seed act.

In addition to the experimental activities of the bureau at the Arlington (Va.) Experiment Farm, which is immediately adjacent to the District of Columbia, the bureau is operating field stations or laboratories in practically all the major cropping regions of the United States and is maintaining direct cooperative experiments with the State agricultural colleges and experiment stations.

FOREST SERVICE

The Forest Service administers the national forests; cooperates with States in maintaining organized protection of forest lands against fire; conducts investigations in the entire field of forestry, including economic and industrial as well as forest research; diffuses information relating to the best use of forests and forest products; promulgates rules and regulations for the administration of grazing on national-forest ranges under general authority governing the occupancy and use of the forests; and, in short, seeks to promote the application of forestry throughout the country on both public and privately owned lands, together with efficient and economical use of their yields. The national forests comprise approximately 159,000,000 acres of Government-owned land and contain approximately one-fifth of the timber in the United States, besides furnishing forage and recreation resources of great public value. Their administration aims to coordinate and develop to the utmost their use in the best public interest, through application of the technical methods of forestry as a subdivision of the art of agriculture. Sustained and, where possible, increased yields of water, timber, and livestock products are secured, together with provision for many other forms of use, under carefully devised management plans and systematic protection of the forests against fire and other destructive agencies. The management plans employ the scientific regulation of timber cutting and livestock grazing as means for securing reforestation and range conservation, along with full use of the annual growth obtained through such regulation.

BUREAU OF CHEMISTRY AND SOILS

The work of this bureau is organized along three major lines—(1) chemical and technological research, (2) soil investigations, and (3) fertilizer and fixed-nitrogen investigations.

(1) Under "chemical and technological research" is grouped the work relating to the application of the science of chemistry to the improvement of agriculture, development of processes for the utilization of agricultural products, and biological investigations of foods, including studies of their physiological effects on the human organism; experiments on the utilization, for coloring, medicinal, and technical purposes of raw materials; development of improved processes in the production of rosin and turpentine; investigations in the development of methods of manufacturing insecticides and fungicides; improvement of methods for dehydrating materials used for food; and development of means to prevent farm fires and dust explosions.

(2) Under "soil investigations" is grouped all the soil work of the bureau, including the classification and mapping of the soils of the United States, studies of the agricultural value of soils, their characteristics in relation to productiveness, their origin and development, and their chemical and mechanical compositions; research in soil microbiology; investigations of the response of soils to fertilizers and soil amendments; and studies of soil erosion.

(3) Under "fertilizer and fixed-nitrogen investigations" are grouped studies of the fertilizer resources of the country and methods of manufacturing fertilizer materials, including nitrogen and its fixation, phosphates, potash, concentrated fertilizers, organic waste products, and miscellaneous soil amendments.

BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY

The Bureau of Entomology conducts investigations in economic entomology, involving studies of the life history and habits of insects injurious and those beneficial to agriculture, horticulture, and arboriculture, with a view to developing practical methods for destroying those found to be injurious and promoting the increase and spread of those found to be beneficial. It studies bee culture and beekeeping practices and investigates the life history and control of insects affecting the health of man and domestic animals. It is also engaged in checking the spread of the gipsy moth, brown-tail moth, satin moth, Japanese beetle, Asiatic beetle, European corn borer, and other dangerous foreign insect pests that have gained entry into this country.

BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY

The Bureau of Biological Survey investigates the relations and environmental needs of the wild life of the country, administers laws on the subject, and makes recommendations and demonstrations for its conservation, economic utilization, and reasonable control, with special reference to the needs of agriculture, horticulture, stock raising, forestry, and recreation. Information is gathered for educational and scientific purposes and as a basis for the service and regulatory work of the bureau through studies of the natural history, geographic distribution, and classification of wild birds and other animals and native plant relationships; through biological surveys of definite areas; and through investigations of the food habits of mammals, birds, and other wild-life forms, with a view to recommendations for the control of economically injurious species and the conservation of those that are useful and harmless. National bird refuges and game preserves to the number of 77 are administered in continental United States and in Porto Rico, Hawaii, and Alaska. Wild-life experiment stations are maintained for determining methods for the improvement of Alaskan reindeer herds, the protection of fur-bearing animals and their propagation in captivity, the production of rabbits for fur and meat, the restocking of quail coverts, and the eradication of injurious rodents, predatory animals, and other forms. Leadership is also furnished in cooperative control operations against wild-life pests. Laws administered are the migratory-bird treaty and Lacey Acts, by active patrol of hunting areas and by educational methods, to assist in the conservation of migratory game, insectivorous, and other birds, and to regulate interstate traffic in wild mammals and birds and their importation from foreign countries; the upper Mississippi River wild life and fish refuge act; the law for the protection of animals and public property on wild-life reservations; and, through representation on the Alaska Game Commission, the Alaska game law and the regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture made thereunder.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC ROADS

The Bureau of Public Roads handles the engineering work of the Department of Agriculture. This work is divided into two main branches—highway engineering and agricultural engineering.

(1) The highway engineering branch deals with all highway functions of the department contemplated by the regular appropriations, including the conduct of highway research, and also with the work of administering the Federal-aid and forest-road appropriations.

(2) The agricultural engineering branch conducts investigations of farm irrigation and drainage, farm machinery, farm buildings, and other rural engineering problems.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics conducts studies of the economics of production and marketing, agricultural cooperation, farm organization, farm financial relations, farm labor, land economics, and the problems of rural life. The bureau acquires and disseminates current information regarding the marketing and distribution of farm products, and collects, compiles, summarizes, interprets, and makes public statistical data relating to agricultural production. Studies are made of marketing methods, conditions, and costs, and with regard to the standardization, transportation, handling, financing, and storage of agricultural products.

Reports are issued which furnish information on the supply, commercial movement, disposition, and market prices of fruits and vegetables, livestock and meats, dairy and poultry products, hay, feed, and seed and other products. Information is obtained and published also with regard to the supply of and demand for certain agricultural products in foreign countries. A market inspection service is available in many of the principal producing areas and receiving centers on fruits and vegetables, hay, beans, broomcorn, and other products, and a grading service is conducted on dairy and poultry products and on meats.

Regulatory work is performed in connection with the enforcement of the cotton futures act, cotton standards act, grain standards act, and standard container act, and the administration of the warehouse act. The Center Market in the city of Washington is also operated by this bureau.

BUREAU OF HOME ECONOMICS

The Bureau of Home Economics conducts scientific studies of problems connected with the home, including questions of food and nutrition, economics, textiles and clothing, and housing and equipment. It assists the homemaker in the solution of these problems by sending information through bulletins, articles for newspapers and magazines, and radio releases. The bureau employs no field agents, but through the home demonstration agents under the Extension Service and the State colleges it is in close contact with homemakers and professional home economics workers throughout the country.

FEDERAL HORTICULTURAL BOARD

The Federal Horticultural Board is charged with the enforcement of the plant quarantine act, regulating the importation of plants and plant products, including nursery stock, fruits, vegetables, cotton, and other plants and plant products necessary to exclude new and dangerous plant pests, as well as the movement within the United States of any plant or plant products or other article necessary to prevent the spread of new plant pests which have more or less limited foothold. The board also administers a number of special quarantine and control appropriations, such as those for the pink bollworm of cotton and the date scale, and cooperates with the Bureaus of Entomology and Plant Industry in quarantine control work under similar appropriations made to those bureaus covering such pests as the European corn borer, Japanese beetle, gipsy and brown tail moths, black stem-rust of wheat, and blister rust of white pine.

The Federal Horticultural Board also enforces the act providing for the Mexican border inspection and control service; the act providing for export certification of domestic fruits, vegetables, seeds, and nursery stock and other plants for propagation; the insect pest act of 1905, and, in cooperation with the Post Office Department, the terminal inspection act of 1915.

GRAIN FUTURES ADMINISTRATION

The Grain Futures Administration is charged with the carrying out of the provisions of the grain futures act of September 21, 1922, which brings under the supervision of the Federal Government all trading in grain futures at grain exchanges designated as contract markets by the Secretary of Agriculture. The work consists of compiling daily reports of transactions in grain futures from all markets, in checking the dissemination of false and misleading information which affects or tends to affect the prices of grain, and in making general observations of the entire grain marketing machinery, with a view to prevent abnormal fluctuation of prices and to create market conditions which will reflect supply and demand.

FOOD, DRUG, AND INSECTICIDE ADMINISTRATION

The Food, Drug, and Insecticide Administration enforces the food and drugs act, tea inspection act, naval stores act, insecticide and fungicide act, import milk act, and caustic poison act. As a result of this consolidation, the Insecticide and Fungicide Board has been abolished.

This administration inspects and analyzes samples of the various products coming under its surveillance, both in the field stations and in the laboratories in Washington, to the end that it may detect and cause to be removed from the channels of trade all those that fail to comply with the terms of the acts which it enforces. It assists manufacturers to keep their products in compliance with these acts and institutes legal action against those who violate the law. Its primary function is to protect the consuming public against misbranded or adulterated foods, drugs, naval stores, insecticides, and fungicides, and honest manufacturers against enforced competition with such goods.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

The Secretary of Commerce is charged with the work of promoting the commerce of the United States and its mining, manufacturing, shipping, fishery, and transportation interests. His duties also comprise the administration of the Lighthouse Service and the aid and protection to shipping thereby; the taking of the census and the collection and publication of statistical information connected therewith; the making of coast and geodetic surveys; the collecting of statistics relating to foreign and domestic commerce; the inspection of steamboats, and the enforcement of laws relating thereto for the protection of life and property; the supervision of the fisheries as administered by the Federal Government; the supervision and control of the Alaskan fur-seal, salmon, and other fisheries; the jurisdiction over merchant vessels, their registry, licensing, measurement, entry, clearance, transfers, movement of their cargoes and passengers, and laws relating thereto, and to seamen of the United States; the administration of Federal laws governing radio communication, including the licensing and inspection of broadcasting stations and of apparatus on vessels and the licensing of operators; the custody, construction, maintenance, and application of standards of weights and measurements; the gathering and supplying of information regarding industries and markets for the fostering of manufacturing; the administration of the air commerce act of 1926, providing for the fostering of air commerce, the establishment and maintenance of aids to air navigation, the licensing of air pilots, and the inspection and registration of commercial aircraft; the supervision of the Patent Office; direction of the Bureau of Mines in its scientific, technologic, and economic investigations in the mining industries; and the formulation (in conjunction with the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Treasury) of regulations for the enforcement of the food and drugs act of 1906 and the insecticide act of 1910. He has power to call upon other departments for statistical data obtained by them.

For the proper accomplishment of any or all of the aforesaid work, it is by law provided that all duties performed, and all the powers and authority possessed or exercised at the date of the creation of said department by the head of any executive department in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service transferred to said department, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the Secretary of Commerce.

The Patent Office was transferred from the Department of the Interior April 1, 1925, and the Bureau of Mines from the same department July 1, 1925, both by Executive order.

It is his further duty to make such special investigations and furnish such information to the President or Congress as may be required by them on the foregoing subject matters, and to make annual reports to Congress upon the work of said department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. In the absence of the Secretary he acts as head of the department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY FOR AERONAUTICS

The Assistant Secretary for Aeronautics is in direct charge of the aeronautics work of the department and aids the Secretary in the performance of the duties imposed by the air commerce act of 1926.

AERONAUTICS

The Aeronautics Branch is charged with the duty of carrying out the provisions of the air commerce act of 1926. The act provides comprehensively for the promotion and regulation of civil aeronautics. Among other things, it includes the establishment and maintenance of civil airways and their equipment with intermediate landing fields, beacon lights, signal and radio apparatus, and other aids to air navigation; the establishment of air traffic rules; the inspection and licensing of aircraft, the examination and licensing of airmen, and the identification of aircraft; the collection and dissemination of information pertaining to air commerce and the state of the art, including data concerning the causes of accidents; the establishment of a suitable weather service on airways; the charting of airways, and the publication of air maps; the promotion of air commerce, industry, and trade; the conduct of scientific research and development work tending to the improvement of facilities for air navigation; and the rating of air ports as to suitability, and for the encouragement of the establishment and maintenance of air ports by municipalities.

RADIO DIVISION

The Radio Division is charged with the duty of enforcing the acts of Congress requiring the inspection of the radio equipment on foreign and United States vessels prior to their departure from ports in the United States.

It is charged with referring to the Federal Radio Commission all applications for radio station licenses; prescribing the qualifications of radio operators; conducting operator examinations and issuing operator licenses; inspecting all radio-transmitting apparatus; reporting to the Federal Radio Commission all violations of the radio act, rules, regulations, or orders of the commission, or of the terms of any license; designating of call letters for all radio stations and publishing such call letters; enforcing the provisions of the International Radio Convention.

CHIEF CLERK

The chief clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks and employees of the department; the enforcement of the general regulations of the department; the supervision of the library and the stock and shipping section of the department; the care of all vehicles employed; the general supervision of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and rent; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail; the custody of the department's seal and the records and files of the Secretary's office; the answering of calls from Congress and elsewhere for copies of papers and records; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned.

DISBURSING CLERK

The disbursing clerk is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Commerce to disbursing clerks and special disbursing agents charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of all items of appropriations. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation issued to officers of the department for official travel; the audit and payment of all vouchers and accounts submitted from the various offices, bureaus, and services of the department (except the Coast and Geodetic Survey and those services having special disbursing agents); and the general accounting of the department.

APPOINTMENT DIVISION

The Chief of the Appointment Division is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the supervision of matters relating to appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, removals, and all other changes in the personnel, including applications for positions and recommendations concerning the same, and the correspondence connected therewith; the preparation and submission to the Secretary of all questions affecting the personnel of the department in its relations to the civil-service law and rules; the preparation of nominations sent to the Senate and of commissions and appointments of all officers and employees of the department; the preparation of official bonds; the compilation of statistics in regard to the personnel, including material for the Official Register, and the custody of oaths of office, records pertaining to official bonds, service records of officers and employees, correspondence and reports relating to the personnel, reports of bureau officers respecting the efficiency of employees, and records relating to leaves of absence.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS

The Chief of the Division of Publications is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office; the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. He also keeps a record of all expenditures for the publishing work of the department and conducts the correspondence it entails.

DIVISION OF SUPPLIES

Under the direction of the chief clerk the Chief of the Division of Supplies has personal supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department proper and for the services of the department outside of Washington, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriation for contingent expenses of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the annual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF CENSUS

The Bureau of the Census takes the decennial census of the United States, covering population, agriculture, manufactures, mines and quarries, and is continuously engaged in the compilation of other statistics covering a wide range of subjects. Statistics regarding the dependent, defective, and delinquent classes in institutions; public debt, national wealth and taxation; religious bodies or churches; and transportation by water are compiled every tenth year in the period intervening between the decennial censuses; and statistics of electric light and power plants, electric railways, telephones, and telegraphs every fifth year. A special census of agriculture is taken in the fifth year following the decennial census; and a census of manufactures is taken biennially. Statistics of births, deaths, marriages, and divorces are compiled annually; also financial statistics of cities and States. At quarterly intervals the bureau collects and publishes statistics as to stocks of leaf tobacco in the hands of manufacturers and dealers. At monthly intervals statistics are published relating to cotton supply consumption, and distribution; to cottonseed and its products; and at approximately semimonthly intervals during the ginning season reports are issued showing the amounts of cotton ginned to specified dates. The bureau also collects monthly or quarterly data regarding the production or supply of many other commodities, including hides, skins, leather and leather goods, clothing, and wool.

The bureau publishes the monthly Survey of Current Business, compiling from various sources data regarding the movement of prices, stocks on hand, production, etc., for various lines of trade and industry, together with such other available data as may throw light upon the business situation.

The bureau also published the Official Register of the United States, giving the names, titles, and salaries of all persons occupying administrative and supervisory positions in the executive and judicial departments of the Government.

BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE

It is the duty of this bureau to "promote and develop the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States." Included under the obligations with which it is charged by virtue of the various funds now being currently allotted to it by Congress are such duties as (1) "to report upon domestic as well as foreign problems relating to production, distribution, and marketing in so far as they relate to the important export industries of the United States"; (2) "to investigate and report upon such conditions in the manufacturing industries and trade of foreign countries as may be of interest to the United States"; (3) to promote American trade with Europe, Central and South America, and the Far East; (4)"to operate and maintain district and cooperative offices within the United States"; (5) to enforce the China trade act regarding the tax exemptions of American firms doing business in China; (6) to compile and publish statistics on foreign trade; (7) to investigate trade restrictions and regulations of foreign countries in relation to American commerce; (8) to prepare and circulate lists of available foreign agents for American firms.

29323°—70–1—1ST ED——24

The bureau maintains commercial attachés abroad whose reports on trade conditions and prospects are widely circulated among American firms. There are attachés at Athens, Berlin, Bogota, Brussels, Bucharest, Berne, Buenos Aires, Cairo, Caracas, Constantinople, Copenhagen, Habana, The Hague, Lima, London, Madrid, Mexico City, Montevideo, Ottawa, Panama City, Paris, Peking, Prague, Riga, Rio de Janeiro, Rome, Santiago, Stockholm, Tokyo, Vienna, and Warsaw.

There are also resident trade commissioners (juniors in rank to commercial attachés) at Alexandria, Barcelona, Batavia, Bombay, Calcutta, Hamburg, Helsingfors, Johannesburg, Manila, Melbourne, Milan, Montreal, San Juan, Sao Paulo, Shanghai, Sydney, Singapore, Toronto, Vancouver, and Wellington.

Reports of the Consular Service of the Department of State on the trade of foreign countries and opportunities for the sale abroad of articles produced in the United States are transmitted to the Department of Commerce for distribution. This material is edited in the bureau and distributed to the commercial public by means of the weekly magazine Commerce Reports, special monographs, bulletins, pamphlets, and circulars or letters.

Commerce Reports contains authoritative articles on all phases of foreign commerce, industry, and finance, a special feature being the cable reviews of conditions in foreign countries.

Commodity divisions, in charge of technical experts, put the resources of the Government at the disposal of a number of basic industries in the extension of their foreign trade. Services to the following industries are in operation: Agricultural implements, automotive products, chemicals, electrical equipment, foodstuffs, hides and leather, iron, steel, and hardware, lumber, machinery, minerals, paper, rubber and rubber products, shoe and leather manufactures, specialties, and textiles. There is close cooperation with committees of trade associations and other representatives of American industry.

At such times as the need becomes apparent, the bureau conducts special investigations into foreign sources of raw materials essential to American industry.

The division of regional information, consisting of three sections—European Latin American, and Far Eastern—furnishes basic data on economic conditions and broad commercial problems. This division supervises the work of the bureau's oversea representatives and disseminates information received from those representatives, from foreign publications, and from other sources.

In connection with its trade promotion work the bureau maintains a Division of Foreign Tariffs, charged with collecting and disseminating information regarding foreign tariffs and the related conditions of the movement of goods between countries. The division furnishes information and advice regarding foreign commercial treaties and preferential arrangements; foreign conditions of importation (import duties, restrictions, consular documents, customs requirements, internal taxes on imports; temporary admission and reexportation); foreign conditions of exportation (export duties and restrictions, bounties, and export subsidies); shipment of samples and advertising matter abroad; and foreign treatment of commercial travelers and their samples.

A Finance and Investment Division attends to all financial and economic questions that are international in scope and to matters connected with the flotation of foreign securities in the United States, the investment of American capital abroad, and the general aspects of foreign-trade financing.

Statistical information with respect to United States imports and exports is received by the bureau in monthly and quarterly returns from the collectors of customs, showing the articles imported and exported and the countries from which imported and exported. These statistics are printed in monthly and annual publications.

The Statistical Research Division handles the trade statistics of foreign countries. Thus there is concentration of work on United States and foreign trade statistics in the one bureau. The Statistical Abstract of the United States presents in condensed form statements regarding the commerce production, industries, population, finance, etc., of the United States and a statement of the commerce of the principal foreign countries. The Commerce Yearbook comprises a descriptive and statistical summary of industrial, commercial, and general economic conditions and developments.

The Transportation Division compiles and furnishes to shippers information on freight rates, services, and facilities, both rail and ocean, which will enable them to route shipments economically and to quote c. i. f. prices. The division is prepared to give advice on how to pack shipments for foreign markets. It gathers and distributes data on facilities, regulations, and charges in the ports of the world. This division also deals with telephone, telegraph, cable, radio, and postal communication and is interested in all matters tending to protect and increase American facilities for world communication.

The Division of Commercial Laws furnishes information concerning commercial laws and judicial procedure, patent and trade-mark laws, the taxation of American firms doing business abroad, formalities in connection with bankruptcy proceedings, powers of attorney, the protesting of drafts, the legal aspects of construction enterprises, agency agreements, standardization of bills of exchange, etc.

The Division of Domestic Commerce devotes its attention to the study of merchandising methods, trade movements, and price trends within the boundaries of the United States.

An active trade directory of business houses and prospective buyers and agents all over the world is maintained for the benefit of American manufacturers and exporters. This directory now contains about 100,000 detailed reports, covering data required for a sales contract. The bureau also locates, in foreign markets, exporters of such raw materials as are needed by American manufacturers.

Specific opportunities for the sale of goods abroad and similar matters of this character are presented through Commerce Reports and confidential circulars to those American firms whose names are recorded in the Exporters' Index.

The distribution work of the bureau is facilitated by its district offices in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, San Francisco, Seattle, Atlanta, Philadelphia, Detroit, Portland (Oreg.), Des Moines, Houston, Galveston, Memphis, Louisville, Minneapolis, Jacksonville, Kansas City (Mo.), Los Angeles, Mobile, Norfolk, Wilmington. These offices expedite the distribution of commercial information and establish closer relations between Government and private agencies interested in the extension of foreign trade. They also aid in the adjustment of disputes; place foreign business men in touch with American firms; promote foreign trade education; and help American firms to obtain competent employees. Through arrangements made between district offices of the bureau and radiotelephone stations, foreign trade information from the bureau is broadcast throughout the United States.

Arrangements have been made with commercial organizations in other cities for the establishment of cooperative branch offices, which serve the same purpose as the bureau's own district offices. Such cooperative offices have been established in Baltimore, Chattanooga, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Newark, Rochester, Akron, Beaumont, Birmingham, Bridgeport, Charleston, Columbus, Dallas, Dayton, El Paso, Erie, Fort Worth, Greensboro, Indianapolis, Lake Charles, Lowell, Milwaukee, Orange, Pensacola, Pittsburgh, Port Arthur, Providence, Richmond, San Antonio, San Diego, Syracuse, Tacoma, Toledo, Trenton, Worcester, Keokuk.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS

The Bureau of Standards is charged by law with the custody of the standards; the comparison of the standards with those used in science, industry, technology, commerce, and educational institutions; the construction of standards and of their multiples and subdivisions; the testing and certification of standard measuring instruments; the solution of problems arising in connection with standards; the determination of physical constants and properties of materials; and other investigations authorized by Congress. The bureau's functions may be exercised for the National Government, State governments, and, subject to reasonable fees, the general public. The Bureau of Standards aids industry directly or through cooperating committees to determine the best standards of dimension, quality, performance, and practice. Its unique research and testing facilities are used to discover and evaluate material standards and to solve basic technical problems of industry.

The bureau's work on standards of measurement is designed to aid accuracy in industry through uniform and correct measures. In this the bureau assists in size standardization of containers and products, in promoting systematic inspection of trade weights and measures to insure justice in daily trade, and finally to facilitate precise research in science and technology through the standardization of measuring instruments.

The work of the bureau on the measured numerical data concerning material and energy; that is, standard constants, furnishes an exact basis for scientific experiment and design. These furnish also the data for the efficient technical control of industrial process.

The bureau's work on standards of quality includes the specification of the numerical magnitude of the property or group of properties which determine the quality. The purpose is to set an attainable standard of quality to assure high utility in the products of industry; to furnish a scientific basis for fair dealing by promoting truthful branding and advertising through suitable standards and methods of test. This work yields large scale economies by eliminating ineffective materials.

The bureau likewise develops standards of performance; that is, specifications for the operative efficiency or accuracy of machines or devices. These are numerical statements of speed, uniformity, durability, output, economy, and other factors which together define the net efficiency of an appliance or machine. The ultimate purpose is to make exact knowledge the basis of the buyer's choice, to clarify the understanding between maker, seller, buyer, and user as to the operative efficiency of appliances and machines. An important outcome of this work is that it stimulates and measures mechanical progress.

A function of the bureau of very general interest is the development of standards of practice; that is, collation of data and formulation of codes of practice for public utilities and other services. These are prepared in cooperation with the technical and commercial agencies concerned and relate to the technical regulation of construction, installation, and operation. They are necessarily based upon standards of measurement, standards of quality, and standards of performance. The purpose of such work is to afford a single impersonal standard of performance mutually agreed upon by all concerned and clearly defined in measurable terms. Incidentally, it insures effective design and installation of service utilities, and promotes safety, efficiency, and convenience in such service.

Congress has made special provision for research and testing in specific fields involved in the five kinds of standards described above. Some examples of such functions may be cited.

State weights and measures.—Aid to State governments on technical details of weights and measures inspection service, with a view to securing uniformity in weights and measures laws and methods of inspection.

Gauge standardization.—Standardization and testing gauges, screw threads, and other length standards required in manufacturing.

Railroad track scales.—Investigation of track scales and other large scales used for interstate shipments and of large scales used by the Government in transactions with the public.

Mine scales.—Investigating mine scales and the conditions and methods used to weigh and measure coal in fixing wages due, including investigations of all means for insuring accuracy in weighing and measuring at the mines.

High temperatures.—Investigations of methods of high temperature measurements and temperature control in various industrial processes, and making results available to industries.

Investigation of automotive engines.—For the promotion of economy and efficiency in automotive transportation by land and by air through investigations of the basic principles underlying the design, performance, operation, and testing of automotive engines, their fuels, lubricants, accessories, and the power-transmitting system used in connection with them, also such elements as brakes and brake linings; to promote economy in the use of liquid fuels and safety in vehicular traffic.

Color standardization.—Development of color standards and methods of color measurement, with reference to their use in industrial color standardization, the specification of colorants and of products in which color is a pertinent property.

Radio standardization.—Investigation and standardization of methods and instruments used in radio communication.

Sound investigations.—Investigation of principles of sound and their application to military and industrial purposes.

Standard analyzed materials.—Preparation, analysis, and certification of the composition of technical materials, either of typical composition or of high purity, for use in checking the accuracy of scientific and industrial chemical analyses and for testing physical measuring instruments.

Fire-resisting properties.—Investigation of building materials and their efficient use, and standardization of types of appliances for fire prevention.

Structural materials.—Investigation of stone, clays, cement, and other structural materials; the collation and dissemination of scientific and other information as to approved methods for building structural units; formulating building codes; and researches to promote, improve, and cheapen housing and other construction.

Other industrial materials.—Development of standards of quality and methods of measurement of textiles, paper, leather, and rubber.

Tests of materials such as varnish, soap, ink, and chemicals, including supplies for the Government service.

Clay products.—Study of clay products, including methods of measurement and technical processes used in their manufacture; study of the properties of the materials used in this industry.

Optical glass.—Investigation of problems involved in production of optical glass.

Metallurgical research.—Researches in metals, including foundry practice, standards for metals, alloys, and sands; their properties and treatment; prevention of corrosion; development of substitutes for metals; behavior of bearing metals; preparation of specifications; investigation of new processes and methods of conservation in manufacture; investigation of railway materials and causes of their failure.

Testing machines.—Operation of testing machines in the determination of physical constants and properties of materials.

Sugar standardization.—Development of technical specifications for all grades of sugars, involving their standardization and methods of manufacture; standardization and production of rare and unusual types of sugars for medical and other scientific uses; determination of fundamental scientific constants; standardization and design of sugar-testing apparatus; study of technical problems relating to collection of revenue on sugars; and practical use of results in tests of imported sugars.

Certification of radioactive materials.—Investigation of radium, radium compounds, and other radioactive materials; standard testing and certification of radioactive materials.

Standardization of equipment.—Cooperation with the Government and with engineers and manufacturers in formulating standards of performance for instruments, equipment, tools, and other devices; the testing and inspection of the same; including formulation of methods of inspection and of laboratory and service tests to insure compliance with specification for quality and performance, and simplification of varieties of products.

Public utility standards.—Investigation of standards and solution of problems arising in connection with standards for public utilities, such as gas, electric light and power, water, telephone, heating, electric railway service.

Industrial research.—Technical cooperation with the industries upon fundamental research to promote industrial development and to assist in the permanent establishment of new American industries.

Standardizing mechanical appliances.—To develop methods of testing and standardizing machines, motors, tools, measuring instruments, and other apparatus and devices used in mechanical, hydraulic, and aeronautic engineering; for the comparative study of types of apparatus and methods of operation, and for the establishment of standards of performance; for the accurate determination of fundamental physical constants involved in the proper execution of this work; and for scientific experiments and investigations needed in solving the problems which may arise in connection therewith, especially in response to the requirements of aeronautics and aviation for information of a purely scientific nature.

BUREAU OF FISHERIES

The work of the Bureau of Fisheries comprises (1) the propagation and salvaging of useful food fishes and shellfish and their distribution to suitable waters; (2) the inquiry into the causes of fluctuations in abundance of food fishes in the lakes, rivers, and coast waters of the United States, the development of methods of husbanding these resources, including improvements in methods of fish culture and the investigation of the fishing grounds of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts, with the view of determining their food resources and the development of the commercial fisheries; (3) the study of the methods of the fisheries and of the preservation, utilization, and merchandizing of fisheries products, and the collection and compilation of statistics of the fisheries; (4) the administration of the salmon fisheries of Alaska, the fur-seal herd on the Pribilof Islands, and the care of the native inhabitants of those islands; (5) administration of the law for the protection of sponges off the coast of Florida.

BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES

The United States Lighthouse Service is charged with the establishment and maintenance of aids to navigation, and with all equipment and work incident thereto, on the sea and lake coasts of the United States, and on the rivers of the United States so far as specifically authorized by law, and on the coasts of all other territory under the jurisdiction of the United States, with the exception of the Philippine Islands and Panama.

The bureau publishes Light Lists and Buoy Lists giving information regarding all aids to navigation maintained by the Lighthouse Service; it also publishes each week, jointly with the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Notices to Mariners, giving the changes in lights, buoys, etc.

COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY

The Coast and Geodetic Survey is charged with the survey of the coasts of the United States and coasts under the jurisdiction thereof and the publication of charts covering said coasts. This includes base measure, triangulation, topography, and hydrography along said coasts; the survey of rivers to the head of tidewater or ship navigation; deep-sea soundings, temperature, and current observations along said coasts and throughout the Gulf and Japan streams; magnetic observations and researches; seismological investigations; gravity research; determination of heights; the determination of geographic positions by astronomic observations for latitude, longitude, and azimuth, and by triangulation, to furnish reference points for State surveys.

The results obtained are published in annual reports and in special publications; charts upon various scales, including sailing charts, general charts of the coast, and harbor charts; charts showing the distriaution of the earth's magnetism in the United States and islands under its jurisdiction; tide tables issued annually in advance; Coast Pilots, with sailing directions covering the navigable waters; Notices to Mariners (published jointly by Coast and Geodetic Survey and Bureau of Lighthouses), issued weekly and containing current information necessary for safe navigation; catalogues of charts and publications; and such other special publications as may be required to carry out the organic law governing the survey.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The Bureau of Navigation is charged with general superintendence of the commercial marine and merchant seamen of the United States, except so far as supervision is lodged with other officers of the Government. It is specially charged with the decision of all questions relating to the issue of registers, enrollments, and licenses of vessels and the filing of those documents, with the supervision of laws relating to the admeasurement, letters, and numbers of vessels, and with the final decision of questions concerning the collection and refund of tonnage taxes. It is empowered to change the names of vessels, and prepares annually a list of vessels of the United States. The commissioner also investigates the operation of the laws relative to navigation and annually reports to the Secretary of Commerce such particulars as may in his judgment admit of improvement or require amendment.

In addition to the above statutory duties the bureau is charged, under direction of the Secretary of Commerce, with the enforcement, through collectors and surveyors of customs, of the navigation and steamboat inspection laws, and the consideration of action to be taken on fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred under those laws; administrative examination of accounts of collectors, surveyors of customs, and shipping commissioners covering fines, penalties, and forfeitures; services to vessels; navigation fees; amounts collected on account of decease of passengers, tonnage tax collections, refunds; shipment and discharge of seamen, etc.

STEAMBOAT INSPECTION SERVICE

The Steamboat Inspection Service is charged with the duty of inspecting vessels, the licensing of the officers of vessels, and the administration of the laws relating to such vessels and their officers for the protection of life and property.

The blue prints or drawings of water tube and coil boilers used in vessels of the American merchant marine are passed upon by the board of supervising inspectors, while designs of marine boilers of other types are passed upon by the local inspectors having original jurisdiction. All material subject to tensile strain used in the construction of marine boilers is required to be tested by an inspector of the Steamboat Inspection Service, so that not only is the material but the design of a boiler under the closest scrutiny. The inspectors of hulls look after the examination of the hulls of vessels and of life-saving equipment such as life preservers, lifeboats, life rafts, davits, etc., and once at least in each year vessels of the American merchant marine are required by law to be inspected by the Steamboat Inspection Service, and excursion steamers are reinspected not less than three times during the year in addition to the regular annual inspection. The local inspectors are the officers who examine applicants for licenses for the deck department and engineer department of merchant ships. These examinations are conducted frequently, and at such times as to be most convenient to the applicants for licenses, and, as the result of this close supervision over the licensing of officers, a very high standard is maintained. The Steamboat Inspection Service also is required by law to certificate the able seamen who form the crew of merchant vessels, and the inspectors of the service, together with other Government officers, especially detailed for that purpose, also certificate the lifeboat men. Not the least important of the work of the local inspectors is the investigation of violations of the steamboat inspection laws. In such instances the boards of local inspectors have quasi judicial authority, and these boards have conferred upon them the authority and the right to suspend or revoke the licenses of officers who have been found guilty of violating these laws, negligence, inattention to duty, etc. The traveling inspectors of the service, in addition to following up vessel inspections made by local inspectors, conduct stability tests of the larger class of passenger and ferry vessels.

COMMISSIONER OF PATENTS

The Commissioner of Patents is charged with the administration of the patent laws and supervision of all matters relating to the granting of letters patent for inventions, and the registration of trade-marks. He is by statue made the tribunal of last resort in the Patent Office, and has appellate jurisdiction in the trial of interference cases, of the patentability of inventions, and of registration of trade-marks.[1]

DIRECTOR OF THE BUREAU OF MINES

The Director of the Bureau of Mines is charged with the investigation of methods of mining, especially in relation to the safety of miners, the appliances best adapted to prevent accidents, and the possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on; the treatment of ores and other mineral substances; the use of explosives and electricity; the prevention of accidents; the prevention of waste; the improvement of methods in the production of petroleum and natural gas; and other inquiries and technological investigations pertinent to such industries. He has charge of tests and analyses of ores, coals, lignites, and other mineral fuel substances belonging to or for use of the United States; has charge of the collection of statistics on mineral resources, and economic studies of metals and minerals produced or consumed in the United States; supervises all work relating to the production and conservation of helium; has charge of leasing and core-drilling operations in connection with Government exploration for potash in the United States. He also has charge of the Government fuel yards for the storage and distribution of fuel for the use of and delivery to all branches of the Federal service and the municipal government in the District of Columbia and such parts thereof as may be situated immediately without the District of Columbia.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

THE SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Secretary of Labor is charged with the duty of fostering, promoting, and developing the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, improving their working conditions, and advancing their opportunities for profitable employment. He has power under the law to act as mediator and to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes whenever in his judgment the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done. He has authority to direct the collecting and collating of full and complete statistics of the conditions of labor and the products and distribution of the products of the same and to call upon other departments of the Government for statistical data and results obtained by them and to collate, arrange, and publish such statistical information so obtained in such manner as to him may seem wise. His duties also comprise the gathering and publication of information regarding labor interests and labor controversies in this and other countries; the supervision of the immigration of aliens, and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto, and to the exclusion of Chinese; the direction of the administration of the naturalization laws, the direction of the work of investigating all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life and to cause to be published such results of these investigations as he may deem wise and appropriate.

[1] Appeals lie from his decisions to the United States Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

The law creating the Department of Labor provides that all duties performed and all power and authority possessed or exercised by the head of any executive department at the time of the passage of the said law, in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service by said act transferred to the Department of Labor, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties performed by and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, officer, office, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of an appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the head of the said Department of Labor. The Secretary of Labor is also given authority and directed to investigate and report to Congress a plan of coordination of the activities, duties, and powers of the office of the Secretary of Labor with the activities, duties, and powers of the present bureaus, commissions, and departments, so far as they relate to labor and its conditions, in order to harmonize and unify such activities, duties, and powers, with a view to additional legislation to further define the duties and powers of the Department of Labor, and to make such special investigations and reports to the President or Congress as may be required by them or which he may deem necessary, and to report annually to Congress upon the work of the Department of Labor.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. He becomes the Acting Secretary of Labor in the absence of the Secretary.

SECOND ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Second Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law; he becomes Acting Secretary of Labor in the absence of the Secretary and Assistant Secretary.

ASSISTANTS TO THE SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Assistants to the Secretary perform such duties in connection with immigration matters as shall be prescribed by the Secretary.

CHIEF CLERK

The chief clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks and employees of the department; the enforcement of the general regulations of the department; the superintendency of all buildings occupied by the department in the District of Columbia; the general supervision of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses, printing and binding, and rents; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned.

DISBURSING CLERK

The disbursing clerk is charged by the Secretary of Labor with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Labor to disbursing clerks and special disbursing agents charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of all items of appropriations. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation issued to officers of the department for official travel; the audit and payment of all vouchers and accounts submitted from the various offices, bureaus, and services of the department; the general accounting of the department; and the accounting for all naturalization receipts received under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906.

APPOINTMENT CLERK

The appointment clerk has charge of all clerical work incident to appointments which are made under the jurisdiction of the department. He is also the custodian of oaths of office, bonds of officers, personnel files, retirement records, and efficiency reports.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATION AND SUPPLIES

The Chief of the Division of Publications and Supplies is charged by the Secretary of Labor with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office and the correspondence it entails; the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. All blank books and blank forms and the printed stationery of all kinds used by the bureaus and offices of the department in Washington and the various outside services of the department are supplied by him. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. Under the direction of the chief clerk he has supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department proper and for the services of the department outside of Washington, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and printing and binding of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the semiannual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the semiannual property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

The Bureau of Labor Statistics is charged with the duty of acquiring and diffusing among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and especially upon its relations to capital, the hours of labor, the earnings of laboring men and women, and the means of promoting their material, social, intellectual, and moral prosperity.

It is especially charged to investigate the causes of and facts relating to controversies and disputes between employers and employees as they may occur, and which may happen to interfere with the welfare of the people of the several States.

It is also authorized, by act of March 2, 1895, to publish a bulletin on the condition of labor in this and other countries, condensations of State and foreign labor reports, facts as to conditions of employment, and such other facts as may be deemed of value to the industrial interests of the United States. This bulletin is issued in a number of series, each dealing with a single subject or closely related group of subjects, and the bulletin is published at irregular intervals as matter becomes available for publication.

By the act to provide a government for the Territory of Hawaii, as amended, it is made the duty of the bureau to collect and present in quinquennial reports statistical details relating to all departments of labor in the Territory of Hawaii, especially those statistics which relate to the commercial, industrial, social, educational, and sanitary condition of the laboring classes.

BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION

The Bureau of Immigration is charged with the administration of the laws relating to immigration and of the Chinese exclusion laws. It supervises all expenditures under the appropriation for "Expenses of regulating immigration." It causes alleged violations of the immigration, Chinese exclusion, and alien contract labor laws to be investigated, and when prosecution is deemed advisable submits evidence for that purpose to the proper United States district attorney.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU

The act establishing the bureau provides that it shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life among all classes of our people, and shall especially investigate the questions of infant mortality, the birth rate, orphanage, juvenile courts desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents, and diseases of children, employment, and legislation affecting children in the several States and Territories. The bureau is also empowered to publish the results of these investigations in such manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Sectetary of Labor. The bureau is charged with the Federal administration of the Sheppard-Towner Act for the promotion of the welfare and hygiene of maternity and infancy. Under this act the Federal and State Governments are cooperating in their efforts to reduce maternal and infant mortality.

BUREAU OF NATURALIZATION

The act approved March 4, 1913, creating the Department of Labor, provided a Bureau of Naturalization, and that the Commissioner of Naturalization, or, in his absence, the Deputy Commissioner of Naturalization, shall be the administrative officer in charge of the Bureau of Naturalization and of the administration of the naturalization laws under the immediate direction of the Secretary of Labor. Under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906, naturalization jurisdiction was conferred upon approximately 3,500 United States and State courts. The duties of the Bureau of Naturalization are to supervise the work of these courts in naturalization matters, to require an accounting from the clerks of courts for all naturalization fees collected by them, examine and audit these accounts, deposit them in the Treasury of the United States through the disbursing clerk of the department, and render an accounting therefor quarterly to the Auditor for the State and other Departments, to conduct all correspondence relating to naturalization, and through its field officers located in various cities of the United States, to investigate the qualifications of the candidates for citizenship and represent the Government at the hearings of petitions for naturalization. In the archives of the bureau are filed duplicates of all certificates of naturalization granted since September 26, 1906, as well as the preliminary papers of all candidates for citizenship filed since that date.

WOMEN'S BUREAU

This bureau was established as a statutory bureau under act of June 5, 1920, "An act to establish in the Department of Labor a bureau to be known as the Women's Bureau." Its functions are to formulate standards and policies to promote the welfare of wage-earning women, to improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency, and advance their opportunity for profitable employment. The bureau has authority to investigate and report to the department upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of women in industry. The director of the bureau publishes the results of these investigations in the manner and to such extent as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe.

This bureau, formerly known as the Women in Industry Service, organized in July, 1918, was established by an appropriation in the act providing for the sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1919, its function being to serve as a policy-forming and advisory body during the war emergency, whose special duty was to develop in the industries of the country policies and methods for the most effective use of women's services in production, and safeguarding such employment from injurious conditions. This service was continued by appropriation during the following year and until it became a statutory bureau by the act of Congress above quoted.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

The purpose of the United States Employment Service is to foster, promote, and develop the welfare of the wage earners of the United States by so conserving and distributing their industrial activities as to improve their working conditions and advance their opportunities for profitable employment, in harmony with the general good, with the necessities of war, with the just interest of employers, and with the development in practice of the recognized principle of a common responsibility for production and a common interest in distribution.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON PRINTING

The Joint Committee on Printing, consisting of three Members of the Senate and three Members of the House of Representatives, was created by the act of August 3, 1846, and its principal duties are set forth in the printing act approved January 12, 1895. That act gave the committee authority "to remedy any neglect or delay in the public printing and binding." This authority was extended by section 11 of the legislative appropriation act for 1920, empowering the committee "to adopt and employ such measures as, in its discretion, may be deemed necessary to remedy any neglect, delay duplication, or waste in the public printing and binding and the distribution of Government publications."

The act of 1895 provides that the committee "shall have control of the arrangement and style of the Congressional Record, and, while providing that it shall be substantially a verbatim report of proceedings, shall take all needed action for the reduction of unnecessary bulk." The committee is also authorized to provide for the publication of semimonthly and session indexes to the Record. The Congressional Directory, addresses on deceased Senators and Members, statute proceedings, and similar publications are compiled and prepared under the direction of the committee. The Superintendent of Documents publishes the index of public documents upon a plan approved by the committee and indexes such single volumes as it shall direct.

The committee is directed by law to establish rules and regulations for the printing of documents and reports in two or more editions. Orders for subsequent editions after two years from date of original order must receive its approval. The committee directs whether extra copies of documents and reports shall be bound in paper or cloth, and prescribes the arrangement and binding of documents for depository libraries.

The cost of printing any document or report which can not be properly charged to any other appropriation may, upon order of the committee, be charged to the congressional allotment.

The committee may order additional copies printed of Government publications within a limit of $200 in cost in any one instance.

The act of 1895 also provides that the committee shall exercise the following functions in regard to the purchase of paper for the public printing and binding: Fix upon standards of quality, receive proposals and award contracts therefor, appoint a member of the board of paper inspection, determine differences of opinion as to quality, act upon defaults, and authorize open-market purchases.

The legislative appropriation act for 1925 authorizes the Public Printer to procure under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing in accordance with the act approved January 12, 1895, and furnish, on requisition, paper, and envelopes (not including envelopes printed in the course of manufacture) in common use by two or more departments, establishments, or services of the Government in the District of Columbia.

The Public Printer is required by law to advertise for bids for material, other than paper, under the direction of the committee, and to make a return to it on all such contracts awarded by him. The committee may authorize the Public Printer to make certain open-market purchases of material, and, by resolution, it has required him to obtain its approval on all purchases of machinery and equipment in excess of $1,000 in any one instance.

Maps and illustration plates for Government publications are purchased under the direction of the committee whenever the probable cost exceeds $1,200; or, whenever the exigencies of the public service do not justify advertisement, the committee may authorize immediate contracts for lithographing and engraving.

Printing for the Patent Office is required by law to be done under such regulations and conditions as the committe may prescribe.

Section 11 of the legislative appropriation act for 1920 requires all printing, binding, and blank-book work for the Government to be done at the Government Printing Office, except such classes of work as shall be deemed by the Joint Committee on Printing to be urgent or necessary to have done elsewhere than in the District of Columbia for the exclusive use of any field service outside of said District.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

The Smithsonian Institution was created by act of Congress in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, an Englishman, who in 1826 bequeathed his fortune to the United States to found, at Washington, under the name of the "Smithsonian Institution," an establishment for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." The Institution is legally an establishment, having as its members the President of the United States, the Vice President, the Chief Justice, and the President's Cabinet. It is governed by a Board of Regents, consisting of the Vice President, the Chief Justice, three Members of the United States Senate, three Members of the House of Representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of Congress. The Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution is its executive officer and the director of its activities.

Through the Hodgkins fund, the income of $100,000 of which is for the increase and diffusion of knowledge in regard to the nature and properties of atmospheric air in connection with the welfare of man, grants have been made, publications issued, and medals and prizes awarded.

The library of the Smithsonian Institution (including the Smithsonian Deposit in the Library of Congress) consists mainly of the transactions of learned societies and scientific books and periodicals, and numbers more than 686,500 volumes, pamphlets, and charts.

GOVERNMENT BUREAUS UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE SERVICE

The International Exchange Service is the agency of the United States Government for the exchange of scientific, literary, and governmental publications with foreign governments, institutions, and investigators. It receives and dispatches about 600,000 pounds of printed matter annually.

BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY

The Bureau of American Ethnology is engaged in the collection and publication of information relating to the American Indians and the natives of Hawaii.

ASTROPHYSICAL OBSERVATORY

The Astrophysical Observatory investigates solar radiation and other solar phenomena. The work of this observatory is carried on partly in Washington, D. C.; partly at stations on Mount Wilson and Table Mountain, in California; and also Mount Montezuma, near Calama, Chile, and Mount Brukkaros, southwest Africa.

NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK

The National Zoological Park has an area of 175 acres, and is located in the Rock Creek Valley, 2 miles north of the center of Washington. Its collection comprises about 2,500 animals.

INTERNATIONAL CATALOGUE OF SCIENTIFIC LITERATURE

The International Catalogue of Scientific Literature publishes an annual classified index to the literature of science. The organization consists of a central bureau in London and 33 regional bureaus established in, and supported by, the principal countries of the world. That for the United States is supported by an annual appropriation from Congress, administered by the Smithsonian Institution.

UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM

The United States National Museum is the depository of the national collections. It is especially rich in the natural history of America, including zoology, botany, geology, paleontology, archeology, and ethnology, and has extensive series relating to the arts and industries, the fine arts, and American history. Under "history" is included the World War collections which have been accumulated with the cooperation of the War and Navy Departments. This collection embraces at the present time about 50,000 objects, such as field guns, machine guns, small arms, tanks, trucks, airplanes and accessories models of naval vessels, uniforms and insignia of all kinds of the United States soldier and the Allies, engineering and medical apparatus, and a large collection of captured material of many of the above classes.

The historical collections include especially large and interesting aggregations of the following types of historical museum materials: Antiquarian, military, naval, numismatic, and philatelic.

These collections, which include about 250,000 specimens, are at present located in the Natural History Building and the Arts and Industries Building of the United States National Museum.

NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART

The National Gallery of Art contains the George P. Marsh collection of etchings, engravings, and books on art; the Charles L. Freer collection, comprising numerous paintings, etchings, etc., by Whistler and other American artists, and many examples of Japanese and Chinese art; the Harriet Lane Johnston collection, including a number of portraits by British masters; the Ralph Cross Johnson collection of paintings by Italian, French, English, Flemish, and Dutch masters; and the William T. Evans collection of paintings by contemporary American artists.

THE PAN AMERICAN UNION

(Formerly International Bureau of American Republics)

The Pan American Union is the official international organization of all the Republics of the Western Hemisphere, founded and maintained by them for the purpose of exchanging mutually useful information and fostering commerce, intercourse, friendship, and peace. It is supported through their joint contributions, each nation annually paying that part of the budget of expenses which its population bears to the total population of all the Republics. Its general control is vested in a governing board made up of the diplomatic representatives in Washington of all the Latin-American Governments and the Secretary of State of the United States. Its executive officers are a Director General and an Assistant Director, elected by the board. They in turn are assisted by a trained staff of editors, statisticians, compilers, trade experts, translators, librarians and clerks. It is strictly international in its scope, purpose, and control, and each nation has equal authority in its administration. Its activities and facilities include the following: Publication in English, Spanish, Portuguese, with separate editions, of an illustrated monthly bulletin, which is a record of the progress of all the Republics; publication of handbooks, descriptive pamphlets, commercial statements, maps, and special reports relating to each country; correspondence covering all phases of Pan American activities; distribution of every variety of information helpful in the promotion of Pan American commerce, acquaintance, cooperation, and solidarity of interests. It also sets the date, selects the place of meeting, and prepares the programs for the International Conferences of the American States known as the Pan American Conferences, and is custodian of their archives, Its library, known as the Columbus Memorial Library, contains nearly 65,000 volumes, including the official publications, documents, and laws of all the Republics, together with a large collection of maps. The Union also possesses a collection of more than 25,000 photographs, lantern slides, and negatives. Its reading room has upon its tables the representative magazines and newspapers of Latin America. Both are open to the public for consultation and study. It occupies and owns buildings and grounds facing Seventeenth Street, between B and C Streets, overlooking Potomac Park on the south and the White House Park on the east. These buildings and grounds, representing an outlay of $1,100,000, of which Mr. Andrew Carnegie contributed $850,000 and the American Republics $250,000, are dedicated forever to the use of the Pan American Union as an international organization. The Pan American Union was founded in 1890, under the name of the International Bureau of American Republics, in accordance with the action of the First Pan American Conference, held in Washington in 1889–90 and presided over by James G. Blaine, then Secretary of State. It was reorganized in 1907 by action of the Third Pan American Conference, held in Rio de Janeiro in 1906, and upon the initiative of Elihu Root, then Secretary of State. At the fourth conference, held at Buenos Aires in 1910, its name was changed from the International Bureau of American Republics to the Pan American Union. The fifth conference, held at Santiago, Chile, in 1923, considerably enlarged the functions of the Pan American Union. All communications should be addressed to the Director General, Pan American Union, Washington, D. C.

GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE

The Comptroller General of the United States is charged by law with the settlement and adjustment, independently of the executive departments, of all claims and demands whatever by the Government of the United States or against it, and all accounts whatever in which the Government of the United States is concerned, either as debtor or creditor, and is vested with all powers and duties previously conferred or imposed by law upon the former Comptroller of the Treasury and the six Auditors of the Treasury Department; also with the duty of keeping the personal ledger accounts of disbursing and collecting officers; of reporting to Congress delinquency in rendering accounts; and of certifying balances, which are final and conclusive, upon the executive branch of the Government. He may provide for payment of accounts or claims adjusted and settled in the General Accounting Office, through disbursing officers of the several departments and establishments instead of by warrant, and prescribes the forms, systems, and procedure for administrative appropriation and fund accounting in the several departments and establishments and for the administrative examination of fiscal officers' accounts and claims, reporting to Congress upon the adequacy and efficiency of such administrative examination. He appoints and removes attorneys and other employees in the General Accounting Office, they performing such duties as may be assigned to them by him, all official acts performed by them, when specially designated therefor by the Comptroller General, having the same force and effect as though performed by the Comptroller General in person. He makes such rules and regulations as may be necessary for carrying on the work of the General Accounting Office, including those for the admission of attorneys to practice before it, and furnishes, under the seal of said office for use as evidence, copies of records from books and proceedings thereof in accordance with sections 882 and 886 of the Revised Statutes.

Upon the application of disbursing officers, the head of any executive department or other independent establishment not under any of the executive departments, the Comptroller General is required to render his advance decision upon any question involving a payment to be made by them or under them, which decision when rendered governs in the settlement of the account involving the payment inquired about. He reviews, on his own motion, any settled account when in the interest of the United States to do so. He superintends the recovery of all debts finally certified by audited settlements to be due the United States, exclusive of those arising under the Postal Service, and the preservation of all accounts, with their vouchers, etc., which have been finally adjusted, and countersigns all warrants authorized by law to be signed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

It is also the duty of the Comptroller General to investigate at the seat of government or elsewhere all matters relating to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and to make recommendations to the President, when requested by him, and to Congress concerning legislation necessary to facilitate the prompt and accurate rendition and settlement of accounts, and concerning such other matters as he may deem advisable in regard to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and economy or efficiency in public expenditures. He makes investigations for Congress as to revenue, appropriations, and expenditures, furnishing assistants from his office to Congress for that purpose, and specially reports to Congress every expenditure or contract made by any department or establishment in any year in violation of law. He also reports to Congress upon the adequacy and effectiveness of departmental inspection of the offices and accounts of fiscal officers, and, in accordance with law, has access to and examines any books, documents, papers, or records, except those pertaining to certain funds for purposes of intercourse or treaty with foreign nations, of all departments and establishments for the purpose of securing from time to time information regarding the powers, duties, activities, organization, financial transactions, and methods of business of their respective offices. It is also his duty to furnish to the Bureau of the Budget such information relating to expenditures and accounting as it may request from time to time.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

The original act to regulate commerce, approved February 4, 1887, provided for a commission consisting of five members. By various amendatory and supplementary enactments the powers of the commission have been increased and the scope of the regulating statute materially widened. Among the more important of these enactments are the acts of March 2, 1889; the Elkins Act, approved February 19, 1903; the Hepburn Act, approved June 29, 1906; the Mann-Elkins Act of June 18,1910; the acts of August 24, 1912, and May 29 and August 9, 1917; and the transportation act, 1920. The number of commissioners was increased under the act of June 29, 1906, to 7 members; under the act of August 9, 1917, to 9 members; and under the transportation act, 1920, to 11 members.

The commission appoints a secretary (who is its general administrative and executive officer), an assistant secretary, a chief counsel, and such attorneys, examiners, special agents, and clerks as are necessary to the proper performance of its duties.

The act to regulate commerce applies to all common carriers engaged in the transportation of oil or other commodities, except water, and except natural or artificial gas, by means of pipe lines, or partly by pipe lines and partly by railroad, or partly by pipe lines and partly by water, and to telegraph, telephone, and cable companies (whether wire or wireless) engaged in sending messages from one State, Territory, or District of the United States to any other State, Territory, or District of the United States, or to any foreign country, and to common carriers engaged in interstate transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad (or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment); also to express companies and sleeping-car companies, to bridges, ferries, car floats, and lighters, and all terminal and transportation facilities used or necessary in the interstate transportation of persons and property, and all instrumentalities and facilities used in connection with the transmission of intelligence and messages by the use of electric energy.

The act to regulate commerce requires all rates to be just and reasonable and prohibits unjust discrimination and undue or unreasonable preference or advantage in transportation rates or facilities. As amended by the transportation act, 1920, the act provides that whenever in any investigation, including one instituted upon petition of the carriers concerned, there shall be brought in issue any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice made or imposed by any State authority, or by the President, during the period of Federal control, the authorities of the State or States interested must be notified of the hearings in such cases, and the commission may confer and hold joint hearings with the authorities of the interested States. If, after hearing, the commission finds such rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice causes undue or unreasonable advantage, preference, or prejudice as between persons or localities in intrastate commerce on the one hand and interstate or foreign commerce on the other hand, or any undue, unreasonable, or unjust discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce which is forbidden, it is authorized to prescribe the rate, fare, or charge, or the maximum or minimum, or maximum and minimum, thereafter to be charged, and the classification, regulation, or practice thereafter to be observed, in such manner as, in its judgment, will remove such advantage, preference, prejudice, or discrimination.

The act as amended prohibits the charging of a higher rate for a shorter than for a longer haul over the same line in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer haul, or the charging of any greater compensation as a through route than the aggregate of the intermediate rates subject to the act. It is provided, however, that the commission may, in special cases, after investigation, authorize carriers to charge less for longer than for shorter distances, and from time to time prescribe the extent to which such carriers may be relieved, subject, however, to the further proviso that in so doing the commission shall not permit the establishment of any charge to or from the more distant point that is not reasonably compensatory, or authorize a circuitous rail line, because of such circuity, to meet the charges of a more direct line to or from competitive points, and to maintain higher charges to or from an intermediate point on its line where the length of the haul on the petitioning line is not longer than that of the direct line between the competitive points, or authorize any such relief because of merely potential water competition not actually in existence.

The commission is authorized to require carriers to establish through routes and joint rates, and it may act summarily in itself establishing, temporarily, through routes when, in its opinion, shortage of equipment, congestion of traffic, or other emergency exists. The amended act requires that divisions of joint rates shall be just, reasonable, and equitable, and authorizes the commission, upon complaint or upon its own initiative, after hearing, to prescribe the just, reasonable, and equitable divisions of such rates, and it may require readjustment of such divisions if it finds they have been unjust, unreasonable, or inequitable in the past. The commission is also authorized to require carriers subject to the act to construct switch connections with lateral branch lines of railroads and private sidetracks. The act provides that where two or more through routes and through rates shall have been established shippers shall have the right to designate in writing via which of such through routes the property shall be transported to destination. The act as amended February 28, 1920, gives the commission authority over the routing of traffic after it arrives at the terminus or a junction point of a carrier and is to be there delivered to another carrier in cases where routing instructions have not been given by the shipper. Where diversion of routed freight occurs which is not in compliance with an order, rule, or regulation of the commission, the carrier or carriers so diverting the traffic are jointly and severally liable to the carrier deprived of its right to participate in the haul of the property.

The act as amended February 28, 1920, authorizes the commission, under certain circumstances, upon such terms and conditions, and subject to such rules and regulations as it may think just and reasonable, to permit the pooling of freights of different and competing railroads, and to divide the aggregate or net proceeds of the earnings of such railroads, and to permit the acquisition by one carrier of the control of another carrier in any manner not involving the consolidation of such carriers into a single system for ownership and operation. It requires the commission to prepare and adopt, as soon as practicable, a plan for the consolidation of railway properties of the continental United States into a limited number of systems. It authorizes carriers, with the approval of the commission and subject to certain restrictions, to consolidate their properties or any part thereof. It authorizes a consolidation of four express companies, and relieves carriers, when permission is so granted, from the restraints of the antitrust laws so far as may be necessary to effect such consolidations. The commission is required to make rates which will yield the carriers as a whole, or as a whole in each group or territory designated by the commission, a fair return upon the aggregate value of the property used by them in serving the public and to fix such aggregate values from time to time as may be necessary. The rate of return is fixed at 5½ per cent, to which may be added, in the discretion of the commission, not exceeding one-half of 1 per cent for improvements, betterments, or equipment, for the two years beginning March 1, 1920, and provides for the disposition of any earnings in excess thereof by distributing one-half of them to a reserve fund to be established and maintained by the carrier, the other half of such excess to be paid to the commission for the purpsse of establishing and creating a contingent fund. The carrier is authorized to make certain uses of its reserve fund. The contingent fund created by the commission is to be used as a revolving fund to be administered by the commission, out of which loans may be made to carriers, or transportation equipment and facilities purchased by the commission and leased to the carriers, in accordance with prescribed terms and conditions.

The commission has jurisdiction, upon complaint or in a proceeding instituted upon its own initiative, and after full hearing, to determine and prescribe reasonable rates, regulations, and practices, including minimum, and maximum and minimum, rates; and also minimum, and maximum and minimum, proportional rates to and from ports, and to award reparation to injured shippers. The transportation act also provides that actions at law by carriers to recover their charges shall be begun within three years from the time the cause of action accrues and not thereafter, and that complaints seeking reparation shall be instituted within two years from the time the cause of action accrues, except that where the carrier begins an action after the expiration of two years for the recovery of charges in respect of the same service, or within 90 days before such expiration, the proceeding before the commission may be begun within 90 days after such action by the carrier is begun. The act also provides that a cause of action against the carrier shall be deemed to accrue upon delivery or tender of delivery by the carrier of the property involved. The commission may also require carriers to cease and desist from unjust discrimination or undue or unreasonable preferences. By the act as amended February 28, 1920, it is provided that an order of the commission shall continue in force until its further order, or for a specified period of time, according as shall be prescribed in the order, unless modified or set aside by the commission, or set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Carriers are required to publish and file rates, rules, and regulations applying to interstate traffic and are prohibited from engaging in interstate transportation unless such rates, rules, and regulations are published and filed. Severe penalties are provided in the statute for failure to observe the rates and regulations shown in the published tariffs.

By the act of May 29, 1917, as amended on February 28, 1920, the commission is given extensive jurisdiction over the use, control, supply, movement, distribution, exchange, interchange, and return of locomotives, cars, and other vehicles, including special types of equipment and the supply of trains.

The commission may inquire into the management of the business of all common carriers subject to the provisions of the act to regulate commerce, and may prescribe the accounts, records, and memoranda which shall be kept by the carriers, which shall be open to examination by the commission through its authorized agents or examiners. Carriers are required to file annual reports with the commission and such other reports as the commission may from time to time require.

By the act of June 18, 1910 (Mann-Elkins law), the jurisdiction of the commission was increased as to through routes and joint rates, freight classification, switch connections, long and short hauls, filing or rejection of rate schedules, investigations on own motion, determining reasonable rates, suspension of proposed rates, and other matters. By the transportation act, 1920, the maximum period during which the commission may suspend the operation of proposed schedules is fixed at 150 days, and it is provided that if the proceeding upon suspension is not concluded within that time the proposed schedule shall go into effect at the end of such period, but that the commission may require the carriers to keep account in detail of all amounts received by reason of increases in such rates and charges and, if the decision of the commission be adverse, require the carrier or carriers to refund with interest such portions of such increased rates or charges as by its decision shall be found not justified.

By act approved August 24, 1912 (sec. 11), a new paragraph was added to section 5 of the act to regulate commerce by which it is made unlawful after July 1, 1914, for any common carrier subject to the act to regulate commerce to own, lease, operate, control, or have any interest in any competing carrier by water. Jurisdiction is conferred upon the commission to determine questions of fact as to competition, after full hearing, on the application of any railroad company or other carrier and to extend beyond July 1, 1914, the time during which such ownership or operation of vessels plying elsewhere than through the Panama Canal may continue, when it is found to be in the interest of the public and of advantage to the convenience and commerce of the people and not in restraint of competition.

At the same time section 6 of the act was amended by adding a new paragraph conferring upon the commission jurisdiction over transportation of property from point to point in the United States by rail and water, whether through the Panama Canal or otherwise, and not entirely within the limits of a single State, this jurisdiction, under certain conditions, including power to establish physical connection between lines of the rail carrier and the dock of the water carrier by directing the rail carrier to make such connection, to establish through routes and maximum joint rates over such rail and water lines, and to determine the conditions thereof, and to determine to what traffic and in connection with what vessels, and upon what terms and conditions such rates shall apply; and to require rail carriers entering into through routing arrangements with any water carrier to extend the privileges of such arrangements to other water carriers.

By the act approved March 1, 1913, as amended by act approved June 7, 1922, amending the act to regulate commerce, the commission is directed to investigate, ascertain, and report the value of all the property owned or used by every common carrier subject to the provisions of the act.

The act approved March 4, 1915, which became effective June 2, 1915, as amended August 9, 1916, makes common carriers liable for all loss, damage, or injury to property caused by them, and forbids, with certain exceptions, limitations of liability. As amended February 28, 1920, it is provided that where the loss, damage, or injury occurs while the property is in the custody of a carrier by water, the liability of such carrier shall be determined by and under the laws and regulations applicable to transportation by water, and that the liability of the initial carrier shall be the same as that of such carrier by water, except in connection with shipments to foreign destinations by water carriers whose vessels are registered under the laws of the United States, in which case it is made the duty of the carrier by railroad to deliver such shipments to the vessel as a part of its undertaking as a common carrier, but it is provided in this connection that the rail carrier shall not be liable after its delivery to the vessel.

It is further provided that the two-year period for the institution of suits against carriers for loss, damage, or injury shall be computed from the day when notice is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part thereof.

The act as amended February 28, 1920, prohibits a carrier from issuing securities or from assuming obligations or liabilities as lessor, lessee, guarantor, indorser, surety, or otherwise, in respect of the securities of others from and after 120 days after the provision takes effect, except after having been authorized by the commission so to do; prescribes the conditions under which the commission may grant authorities to the carriers; the form and contents of applications which shall be made to the commission for such purposes; provides for the giving of notice by the commission of such applications to the governor of each State in which the applicant carrier operates; for hearings by the commission in respect of such applications; that carriers may issue certificates and assume obligations or liabilities without obtaining authority other than that of the commission, and for the issuance by the carrier without the consent of the commission of short-term notes in limited amounts, reports of which are, however, required to be filed with the commission. It is further provided that nothing in the act shall be construed to imply any guaranty or obligation as to such securities on the part of the United States. The act also provides for a right of action in favor of investors or purchasers in good faith and without notice of securities which, if not legally issued, are void, and for penalties against directors, officers, attorneys, or agents of carriers who knowingly assent to or concur in the issuance of securities, etc., contrary to the provisions of the commission's orders or grants of authority.

By the act approved August 18, 1922, the commission is required to direct, after notice and hearing, each carrier by rail, subject to this act, to issue as such offices as may be prescribed by the commission interchangeable mileage or scrip coupon tickets. The commission may in its discretion except from the provisions of this amendatory act, either in whole or in part, any carrier where the particular circumstances shown to the commission shall justify such exemption to be made.

As amended February 28, 1920, the act also required every common carrier by water in foreign commerce whose vessels are registered under the laws of the United States to file with the commission within 30 days after the provision becomes effective, and regularly thereafter as changes are made, a schedule, or schedules, showing for each of its steam vessels intended to load general cargo at ports in the United States for foreign destinations (a) the port of loading, (b) the dates upon which such vessels will commence to receive freight and dates of sailing, (c) the route and itinerary such vessels will follow and the ports of call for which cargo will be carried. It provides that such carriers by water shall, upon request, state their specific rates on any designated commodities and for any scheduled sailing and shall state any port charges not absorbed in the railroad rate to the port. The act provides, also, for the publication and dissemination in compact form, for the information of shippers throughout the country, of the substance of such schedules and the furnishing of such publications to all railway carriers for distribution in such towns and cities as may be specified by the commission.

The amended act further provides for the issuance of through export bills of lading, in connection with such water carriers, to the point of destination; that such bills of lading shall name separately the charges to be paid for railway transportation, water transportation, and port charges, if any, not included in the rail or water transportation charges, and that the commission shall, in such manner as will preserve for the carrier by water the protection of limited liability provided by law, make rules and regulations and prescribe the form of such through bills of lading; it provides that the issuance of such through bills of lading shall not be held to constitute "an arrangement for continuous carriage or shipment" within the meaning of this act.

RELATED ACTS AFFECTING INTERSTATE COMMERCE

Elkins Act.—The act of February 19, 1903, commonly called the Elkins law, prohibits rebating, allows proceedings in the courts by injunction to restrain departures from published rates, and provides that cases prosecuted under the direction of the Attorney General in the name of the commission shall be included within the expediting act of February 11, 1903.

District court jurisdiction act.—The urgent deficiency appropriation act approved October 22, 1913, provided that the Commerce Court should be abolished from and after December 31, 1913, and that the jurisdiction theretofore vested in the Commerce Court under act approved June 18, 1910, be transferred to and vested in the several district courts of the United States.

Expediting act.—The act of February 11, 1903, provides that suits in equity brought under the act to regulate commerce wherein the United States is complainant may be expedited and given precedence over other suits, and that appeals from the cirucit court (district court) lie only to the Supreme Court.

Federal control act.—The act known as the Federal control act, approved March 21, 1918, provides that the commission shall ascertain and certify to the President the average annual railway operating income, to be used by the President in making agreements for compensation for the use of the transportation systems of the country; that in case the amount of compensation is not adjusted, claims may be submitted to boards of referees appointed by the commission and the finding of such boards shall be a maximum of compensation which may be paid to the carriers; that the President, in executing the Federal control act, may avail himself of the advice, assistance, and cooperation of the commission, its members, and its employees; that the President may initiate rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices by filing same with the commission; that the commission shall upon complaint enter upon a hearing and determine the justness and reasonableness of any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice initiated by the President, taking into consideration the fact that the railroads are operated under unified control and such recommendations as the President may make as to the necessity of increasing railway revenues.

Transportation act, 1920.—The transportation act, 1920, as amended by act approved February 24, 1922, provides for the termination of Federal control and limits the powers the President may thereafter exercise under the Federal control act to those necessary to wind up and settle matters arising out of Federal control; for the turning over to the Secretary of War for operation and settling up of all matters arising out of Federal control in connection with boats, barges, tugs, and other facilities on the inland, canal, and coastwise waterways acquired by the United States under the Federal control act, and requiring him to provide terminal facilities for the interchange of traffic with carriers, and renders the operation of the boats and facilities subject to the provisions of the interstate commerce act to the same extent they would be if not owned by the United States. This act also authorizes the President to advance moneys to the carriers for certain purposes out of the revolving fund created by the Federal control act, and requires the commission to ascertain and certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amounts to be thus advanced to the carriers. It also provides for the appointment by the President of an agent to act as defendant in actions at law, suits in equity, proceedings in admiralty, and before the commission, based on matters arising out of Federal control, and confers upon the commission jurisdiction over all claims for reparation pertaining to the Federal control period, whether arising in respect of intrastate or interstate traffic; that pending actions, suits, proceedings, and reparation claims shall not abate, but that reparation awards in such cases shall be paid out of the revolving fund; that the period of Federal control shall not be computed as a part of the periods of limitation in actions against carriers or in claims for reparation based on causes of action arising out of matters pertaining to Federal control; and that a judgment in favor of the United States is the only one that may be levied against the property of the carrier where the judgment is based upon such matters.

The transportation act also continues in force until changed by lawful authority all rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices in effect on February 29, 1920, and prohibits reductions of such rates, fares, and charges prior to September 1, 1920, except with the approval of the commission. It provides certain guaranties of compensation for a period of six months from March 1, 1920, to all carriers which were entitled to the same under the Federal control act, and which on or before March 15, 1920, filed with the commission a written statement that they accepted the provisions and conditions upon which such guaranties are made. A similar guaranty under the same conditions of acceptance is made to the American Railway Express Co. that the contract between it and the Director General of Railroads shall remain in effect during the guaranty period in so far as the said contract constitutes a guaranty to the express company against a deficit in operating income. It provides for advances to the express company and the carriers to meet operating expenses and fixed charges, and that the commission after the expiration of the guaranty period shall ascertain and certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amount due any carrier under the guaranty, and the amount of and the times at which such loans or advances shall be made to any carrier. The transportation act also provides for the inspection of carriers' records by the President or his agents until the affairs of Federal control are concluded, and for the refunding of carriers' indebtedness to the United States. It also authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to make new loans to carriers upon certain conditions and upon favorable certification by the commission and creates a revolving fund of $300,000,000 out of which said loans are to be made and out of which certain judgments, decrees, and awards are to be paid.

The transportation act also provides a plan for the settlement of controversies between carriers and their employees and subordinate officials through the medium of railroad boards of labor adjustment and a Railroad Labor Board. The latter consists of nine members, three of whom, representing the labor group, are to be chosen from not less than six nominees designated by the employees; three, representing the management, are to be chosen from not less than six nominees designated by the carriers. All nominations in both groups are made under rules and regulations prescribed by the commission. Three members, representing the public, are chosen directly by the President. All appointments are made by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Clayton Antitrust Act.—Jurisdiction is conferred upon the commission to enforce certain provisions of the act approved October 15, 1914, to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies in so far as such provisions relate to carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce. The act prohibits, with certain exceptions, carriers from discriminating between purchasers in sales of commodities, and from making leases or sales of commodities and from acquiring stock or capital of other corporations engaged in commerce tending to substantially lessen competition or create a monopoly; makes it a felony for a president or other specified officers to misappropriate a carrier's funds; and, as amended by act approved January 12, 1918, provides that, effective January 1, 1919, no carrier shall have dealings in securities or supplies, or contract for construction or maintenance to the amount of more than $50,000 in the aggregate in any one year, with another corporation or organization when, by reason of common officers or otherwise, there exists a community of interest between the carrier and such other corporation or organization, except as a result of free competitive bidding under regulations to be prescribed by the commission. The commission is further authorized to investigate violations of the act by carriers and to require the guilty parties to cease therefrom, and its findings of fact in such investigations shall be conclusive when supported by testimony.

Government-aided railroad and telegraph act.—Under the act of August 7, 1888, all Government-aided railroad and telegraph companies are required to file certain reports and contracts with the commission, and it is the commission's duty to decide questions relating to the interchange of business between such Government-aided telegraph company and any connecting telegraph company. The act provides penalties for failure to comply with the act or the orders of the commission.

Railway Mail Service pay act.—The act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department approved July 28, 1916, empowers the commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by railway common carriers and services connected therewith, prescribing the method by weight or space, or both, or otherwise.

The act making appropriations for the services of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, empowers the commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by urban and interurban electric railway common carriers.

Standard time act.—By the act approved March 19, 1918, the commission is authorized to fix the limits of the standard time zones established for the continental United States and Alaska, having due regard, in doing so, to the convenience of commerce and the junction and division points of common carriers whose movements are to be governed by the standard time of the zones so fixed.

Safety-appliance acts.—The act of March 2, 1893, known as the safety-appliance act, provides that railroad cars used in interstate commerce must be equipped with automatic couplers, and drawbars of a standard height for freight cars, and have grab irons or handholds in the ends and sides of each car; and that locomotive engines used in moving interstate traffic shall be equipped with a power driving-wheel brake and appliances for operating the train-brake system. The act directs the commission to lodge with the proper district attorneys information of such violations as may come to its knowledge. The act of March 2, 1903, amended this act so as to make its provisions apply to Territories and the District of Columbia, to all cases when couplers of whatever design are brought together, and to all locomotives, cars, and other equipment of any railroad engaged in interstate traffic, except logging cars and cars used upon street railways; and provides for a minimum number of air-braked cars in trains.

By act of April 14, 1910, the safety-appliance acts were supplemented so as to require railroads to equip their cars with sill steps, hand brakes, ladders, running boards, and roof handholds, and the commission was authorized to designate the number, dimensions, location, and manner of application of appliances.

Accident reports act.—By act of May 6, 1910, the prior accident reports law was repealed and a new statute enacted requiring carriers to make full reports of all accidents to the commission and increasing the scope of the commission's authority in making investigations of all accidents resulting to person or the property of the carrier.

Hours of service act.—The act of March 4, 1907, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is made unlawful to require or permit employees engaged in or connected with the movement of trains to be on duty more than a specified number of hours in any 24.

Ash-pan act.—The act of May 30, 1908, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is provided that after a certain date no locomotive shall be used in moving interstate or foreign traffic, etc., not equipped with an ash pan which can be emptied without requiring a man to go under such locomotive. Penalties are provided for violations of this act.

Transportation of explosives act.—The act of May 30, 1908, as amended by act approved March 4, 1921, directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to make regulations for the safe transportation of explosives by common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. Penalties are provided for violations of such regulations.

Locomotive and boiler inspection acts.—The act of February 17, 1911, confers jurisdiction upon the commission to enforce certain provisions compelling railroad companies to equip their locomotives with safe and suitable boilers and appurtenances thereto.

By an amendatory act approved March 4, 1915, the powers of the commission to inspect and to prescribe standards of safety for locomotive boilers and appurtenances thereto was extended to include "all parts and appurtenances of the locomotive and tender."

Block signal and automatic train-control safety devices.—The urgent deficiency appropriation act approved October 22, 1913, contained an appropriation of $25,000 to enable the commission to investigate and test block signals and appliances for the automatic control of railway trains and appliances or systems intended to promote the safety of railway operation, including experimental tests of such systems and appliances as shall be furnished in completed shape to the commission for investigation and test, free of cost to the Government, in accordance with the provisions of joint resolution approved June 30, 1916, and sundry civil appropriation act approved May 27, 1908. Provision was made in the sundry civil appropriation acts approved August 1, 1914, March 3, 1915, July 1, 1916, June 12, 1917, and July 1, 1918, for continuing the investigation and testing of these systems and appliances.

By the amendment approved February 28, 1920, the commission is authorized to require carriers to install automatic train-stop or train-control devices or other safety devices in compliance with specifications upon the whole or any part of the carrier's railroad, but it is provided that any order made by the commission in the premises shall be issued and published at least two years before the date specified for its fulfillment.

UNITED STATES BOARD OF MEDIATION

The United States Board of Mediation was organized under the provisions of Public Act No. 257, Sixty-ninth Congress, approved May 20, 1926, entitled, "An act to provide for the prompt disposition of disputes between carriers and their employees, and for other purposes," known as the railway labor act. It is an independent agency in the executive branch of the Government and is composed of five members appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The board annually designates a member to act as chairman and maintains its principal office in the District of Columbia, but it may meet at any other place.

The railway labor act applies to express companies, sleeping-car companies, and carriers by railroad subject to the interstate commerce act, and provides that such carriers, their officers, agents, and employees shall exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, and working conditions, and to settle all disputes whether arising out of the application of such agreements or otherwise. All disputes between a carrier and its employees shall be considered and, if possible, decided with all expedition, in conference between representatives designated and authorized so to confer, respectively, by the carriers and by the employees thereof interested in the dispute.

The act also provides that representatives for the purposes of the act shall be designated by the respective parties; that boards of adjustment shall be created by agreement between any carrier or group of carriers or the carriers as a whole and its or their employees to handle disputes growing out of grievances or out of the interpretation or application of agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, or working conditions.

The parties, or either party, to a dispute may invoke the services of the Board of Mediation or the Board of Mediation may proffer its services in any of the following cases: (a) A dispute arising out of grievances or out of the interpretation or application of agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, or working conditions not adjusted by the parties in conference and not decided by the appropriate adjustment boards; (b) a dispute which is not settled in conference between the parties, in respect to changes in rates of pay, rules, or working conditions; (c) any other dispute not decided in conference between the parties.

When mediation services are requested or proffered the board is authorized to promptly put itself in communication with the parties to the controversy and use its best efforts by mediation to bring the parties to agreement. When unsuccessful in bringing about an adjustment through mediation the board shall at once endeavor to induce the parties to submit the controversy to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the act. The failure or refusal of either party to submit a controversy to arbitration shall not be construed as a violation of any legal obligation imposed upon such party by the terms of the railway labor act or otherwise.

When an agreement to arbitrate has been filed with the Board of Mediation a board of arbitration shall be chosen in the following manner:

The representatives of the carrier or carriers and of the employees shall each name one arbitrator (or two if the agreement to arbitrate so designates); the arbitrators thus chosen shall select the remaining arbitrator or arbitrators. On failure of the arbitrators named by the parties to agree on the remaining arbitrators during a period stipulated in the act, it shall be the duty of the Board of Mediation to name such remaining arbitrator or arbitrators.

The agreement to arbitrate shall be in writing and shall stipulate, among other things, that the respective parties to the award will each faithfully execute the same. Copies of arbitration awards shall be furnished to the respective parties to the controversy, to the clerk's office of the district court of the United States for the district wherein the controversy arose or the arbitration is entered into, to the Board of Mediation, and to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

If a dispute between a carrier and its employees is not adjusted under the foregoing provisions of the act and should, in the judgment of the Board of Mediation, threaten substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive any section of the country of essential transportation service, the Board of Mediation shall notify the President, who may thereupon in his discretion create a board to investigate and report respecting such dispute. The act also provides that after the creation of such board no change in the conditions out of which the dispute arose shall be made by either party to the controversy during a period of 60 days.

The Board of Mediation makes an annual report of its activities to Congress.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

The purpose of the civil service act, as declared in its title, is " to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States." It provides for the appointment of three commissioners, not more than two of whom shall be adherents of the same political party, and makes it the duty of the commission to aid the President, as he may request, in preparing suitable rules for carrying the act into effect. The act requires that the rules shall provide, among other things, for open competitive examinations for testing the fitness of applicants for the classified service, the making of appointments from among those passing with highest grades, an apportionment of appointments in the departments at Washington among the States and Territories, a period of probation before absolute appointment, and the prohibition of the use of official authority to coerce the political action of any person or body. The act also provides for investigations touching the enforcement of the rules, and forbids, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, the solicitation by any person in the service of the United States of contributions to be used for political purposes from persons in such service, or the collection of such contributions by any person in a Government building.

The retirement act of July 3, 1926, authorizes the commission to issue certificates permitting the retention of employees beyond retirement age upon official request of the department concerned. The commission is also required to keep such information concerning individual service as may be deemed necessary to a proper determination of rights under the retirement act, and furnish the Commissioner of Pensions such reports as he shall from time to time request as necessary to the proper adjustment of any claim for annuity; and also to keep needful tables and records required for carrying out the provisions of the retirement act, including data showing mortality, experience of the employees in the service, and the percentage of withdrawals from the service.

The commission was organized on March 9, 1883. The first classification of the service applied to the departments at Washington and to post offices and customhouses having as many as 50 employees, embracing 13,294 employees. On June 30, 1927, there were 559,138 officers and employees in the executive civil service. Examinations were held in the principal cities throughout the country through the agency of local boards of examiners, of which there are approximately 4,000. The members of these boards are detailed from other branches of the service. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1927, the commission examined 267,340 persons, and of this number 46,534 were appointed. The present force of the commission consists of 285 clerks and examiners and 25 subclerical employees at Washington and 142 employees in the field service.

The commission also holds examinations in Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippine Islands. Under the rules, it is required to render all practical assistance to the Philippine Civil Service Board.

Appointments of unskilled laborers in the departments at Washington and in all branches of the service in certain other cities and certain branches of the service in all cities are required to be made in accordance with regulations promulgated by the President, restricting appointments to applicants who are rated highest in physical condition. This system is outside the civil service act, and is auxiliary to the civil-service rules.

CHIEF EXAMINER

The chief examiner has supervision of the system of examinations and the procedure of examining boards. The Examining Division, the Division of Investigation and Review, the Application Division, the Research Section, and the 13 district offices are under his supervision.

SECRETARY

The secretary is the administrative officer of the commission and has charge of matters relating to the enforcement of the civil service act, rules, and regulations. The Appointment Division is under his supervision.

APPLICATION DIVISION

Issues announcements of examinations; distributes information concerning examinations; receives and passes upon applications; prepares correspondence respecting admission to examinations; and supervises the holding of examinations by local civil-service boards. It maintains a record of applications.

EXAMINING DIVISION

Prepares examinations, rates the papers, issues notices of markings, and passes upon the qualifications of applicants.

APPOINTMENT DIVISION

Maintains registers of eligibles and issues certifications for appointments; records appointments and changes in the personnel of the executive civil service, and maintains service records of all employees in the classified service; handles retirement matters, matters relating to reinstatements, transfers, promotions, and irregularities arising under the civil service law and rules and of Executive orders; and conducts the general correspondence of the commission, except that relating to applications and examinations.

DIVISION OF INVESTIGATION AND REVIEW

Investigates alleged frauds and irregularities in examinations, decides on requirements in changes of designations of Government employees, conducts oral examinations, makes personal investigations in the field, and acts as an appellate board for the consideration and review of ratings on appeal.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

This bureau answers telephonic and personal inquires regarding dates and places of examinations; supplies applications and other printed matter concerning the examinations; maintains a complete index of examination announcements; records the names and addresses of persons to be notified of future examinations; and gives other general information.

UNITED STATES BUREAU OF EFFICIENCY

The United States Bureau of Efficiency was originally organized as a Division of Efficiency in the Civil Service Commission in 1913. In 1916 it was made an independent Government establishment by the act of Congress approved February 28 of that year.

The functions of the Bureau of Efficiency, as laid down in its organic act, were to establish and maintain a standard system of efficiency ratings for the classified civil service in the District of Columbia, to investigate the needs of the executive departments and independent establishments in respect to personnel, and to investigate the duplication of statistical and other work and methods of business in the various branches of the Government service.

The work of the bureau divides itself into two classes: First, it studies problems specifically assigned to it either formally by statute or informally by committees of Congress or individual members of Congress; second, it assists the heads of departments and bureaus, at their request, in studying existing methods of procedure in handling Government work with a view to improving the same.

An index of Government activities is maintained by the bureau. This index covers all major activities of the Government from 1913 to date. It is used as a means to prevent duplication of work in the Government service and as a means to furnishing information relative to Government activities.

The Chief of the Bureau of Efficiency is a member ex officio of the Personnel Classification Board and a member of the Federal Board of Actuaries of the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund.

The Bureau of Efficiency is required under the classification act of 1923 to aid the Personnel Classification Board in the classification of positions in the departmental service and the service of the Government of the District of Columbia.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

Generally speaking, the functions of the board are to exercise a broad supervision over the affairs and conduct of 12 Federal reserve banks established in accordance with the terms of the Federal reserve act in different parts of the country and invested with authority to discount paper for member banks, issue Federal reserve notes to member banks, and perform the various banking functions described in the act itself. The board has full power to appoint its own staff of employees and officers and to regulate the conditions of their employment. Its support is derived from the several reserve banks from assessments levied by its half yearly pro rata. The board is responsible to Congress and reports annually to that body. Certain functions in connection with the national banking system are also assigned to it under the legislation, although the Comptroller of the Currency, who is a member of the board, exercises the same general administrative and supervisory authority over the national banks that has been in his hands in the past. It also passes upon applications under the Clayton Act as amended.

Some of the more important duties of the Federal Reserve Board are set forth in section 11 of the Federal reserve act, which provides that the Federal Reserve Board shall be authorized to examine at its discretion the accounts, books, and affairs of each Federal reserve bank and of each member bank, and to require such statements and reports as it may deem necessary; to permit, or, on the affirmative vote of at least five members of the Reserve Board, to require Federal reserve banks to rediscount the discounted paper of other Federal reserve banks at rates of interest to be fixed by the Federal Reserve Board; to suspend for a period not exceeding 30 days, and from time to time to renew such suspension for periods not exceeding 15 days, any reserve requirements specified in this act; to supervise and regulate through the bureau under the charge of the Comptroller of the Currency the issue and retirement of Federal reserve notes, and to prescribe rules and regulations under which such notes may be delivered by the comptroller to the Federal reserve agents applying therefor; to add to the number of cities classified as reserve and central reserve cities under existing law in which national banking associations are subject to the reserve requirements set forth in section 20 of this act; to suspend or remove any officer or director of any Federal reserve bank, the cause of such removal to be forthwith communicated in writing by the Federal Reserve Board to the removed officer or director and to said bank; to require the writing off of doubtful or worthless assets upon the books and balance sheets of Federal reserve banks; to suspend, for the violation of any of the provisions of this act, the operations of any Federal reserve bank, to take possession thereof, administer the same during the period of suspension, and, when deemed advisable, to liquidate or reorganize such bank; to require bonds of Federal reserve agents; to exercise general supervision over said Federal reserve banks; to grant by special permit to national banks applying therefor, when not in contravention of State or local law, the right to exercise fiduciary powers.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

The Federal Trade Commission was created by an act of Congress approved September 26, 1914, in which the commission's powers and duties were defined. The commission is an independent agency, with its five members appointed for a term of seven years each by the President of the United States with the approval of the Senate. No more than three members may be of one political party.

Further powers are conferred upon this commission by "An act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes," approved October 15, 1914 (Clayton Act), and by "An act to promote export trade, and for other purposes," approved April 10, 1918, known as the export trade act (Webb-Pomerene law).

FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURE UNDER THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ACT

Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission act declares that "unfair methods of competition in commerce are hereby declared unlawful" and empowers and directs the commission to prevent "persons, partnerships, or corporations, except banks, and common carriers subject to the acts to regulate commerce, from using unfair methods of competition in commerce."

Whenever the commission shall have reason to believe that any such person, partnership, or corporation has been or is using any unfair method of competition in commerce, and if it shall appear to the commission that a proceeding by it in respect thereof would be to the interest of the public, it shall issue and serve upon such person, partnership, or corporation a complaint stating its charges in that respect. Provision is made for hearings and the taking of testimony. If the commission shall then be of the opinion that the method of competition in question is prohibited by this act, it shall issue and cause to be served upon the person or organization against whom complaint is made an order to cease and desist from using such unfair method of competition as shown to be sustained by the proof submitted.

Provision is made for appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States to enforce, set aside, or modify orders of the commission. The judgment and decree of the court shall be final, except that the same shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court upon certiorari as provided in the Judicial Code.

A letter to the commission stating what the writer believes to constitute the employment of unfair practices by some concern is sufficient to institute a possible proceeding under section 5 before the commission. If the letter clearly discloses that nothing is charged within the jurisdiction of the commission, it is filed without further action. If it appears, however, that there may have been such a violation of law, the matter is settled, after further investigation, by dismissal of the charges, or by stipulation and agreement with the concern named in the letter, or by the issuance of a formal complaint followed by a formal trial of the charges, as required by the facts of the particular case and by the public interest.

Stipulations setting forth the unfair practices used by the concern named and agreements to discontinue their use voluntarily are entered into where the public interest does not require formal action, for example, where the concern in question agrees to discontinue the unlawful practices. Stipulations and agreements are not entered into in those cases where a fraudulent business is concerned, where the conduct of a legitimate business in a fraudulent manner is concerned, where the circumstances are such that there is reason to believe that an agreement entered into with the concern involved will not be kept, or where for any reason it is believed that the public interest will be better served by the institution of a formal complaint and proceeding. Digests of such stipulations and agreements are published after omitting the names of the proposed respondents.

A formal proceeding, instituted by a formal complaint and followed by the taking of testimony, filing of briefs, and oral argument, is terminated by the entry of a formal order to cease and desist or by a formal order of dismissal. Such a proceeding is prosecuted in the name of the commission by the chief counsel's division and testimony and evidence in such proceeding are proffered before a member of the trial examiner's division, who is charged with passing upon the testimony and evidence and with other details incident to the trial of the case. No formal complaint is issued, except where incompatible with the public interest or clearly not called for by the circumstances of the case, until the concern named in the complaint has been given an opportunity to appear before the board of review of the commission and present its side of the case and in certain cases to stipulate the facts and have the matter dismissed without publicity.

Investigation in the preliminary stages is largely the function of the chief examiner's office.

Procedure and internal organization of the commission, and methods of competition condemned by the commission under section 5, are set forth in detail in its annual reports.

In speaking of the commission's activities in dealing with unfair methods of conpetition mention should also be made of what has become known as the trade practice conference, which affords, broadly stated, a means through which representatives of an industry voluntarily assemble, either at their own instance or that of the commission, but under auspices of the latter, for the purpose of considering any unfair practices in their industry, and collectively agreeing upon and providing for their abandonment in cooperation with and with the support of the commission.

OTHER SECTIONS OF THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ACT

Under section 6 the Federal Trade Commission derives its authority for making economic investigations. It is provided that the commission shall have power to gather and compile information concerning, and to investigate from time to time the organization, business conduct, practices, and management of any corporation engaged in commerce, excepting banks, and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce; and that it may require reports and answers to specific questions in the compilation of such information.

Under these powers the commission has conducted many economic inquiries, chiefly at the request of the President, the Senate, or the House, to whom reports have been made, and has gathered and published for the use of the Congress, the executive departments, and the public, a great deal of information regarding many of the essential industries of the country. Inquiries initiated by the commission during the year 1927 under these powers include the questions of resale price maintenance, sale of so-called blue sky securities, and price bases used in quoting and selling articles and commodities by manufacturers and distributors.

The commission also has power under section 6 to investigate violations of the antitrust acts by any corporation, upon the direction of the President or either House of Congress. Among the more important inquiries under way in 1927, under this power, were those dealing with the bread and flour industry; electric power industry; open price associations; gasoline industry; buying and selling cooperative organizations; and the crushing, processing, and marketing of cottonseed.

The commission is also empowered under section 6 to investigate the manner in which final decrees that have been entered in suits to restrain violations have been carried out, either upon its own initiative or at the request of the Attorney General, to whom it must report in the matter; to make such reports public; to investigate from time to time trade conditions in and with foreign countries where associations, combinations, or practices of manufacturers, merchants, or traders, or other conditions may affect the foreign trade of the United States; and to make public from time to time such portions of the information obtained by it as it shall deem expedient in the public interest, except trade secrets and names of customers.

Section 7 of the Federal Trade Commission act provides that in any suit in equity brought by or under the direction of the Attorney General, as provided in the antitrust acts, the court may refer said suit to the commission, as a master in chancery, to ascertain and report an appropriate form of decree therein.

Other sections of the act give to the commission authorization for such investigations and the compilation of data, with provision for procedure under the act, and penalties prescribed for refusal of persons, partnerships, or corporations to furnish such material or to comply with orders of the commission to testify, produce evidence, or file reports, as required.

FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION BOTH LEGAL AND ECONOMIC

It will be seen that under the Federal Trade Commission act the powers and duties of the commission are both legal and economic. These powers include measures for the prevention of unfair competition and violation of the Clayton law. Investigatory powers include economic studies of domestic industry and interstate and foreign commerce. Such economic inquiries may be inaugurated by the commission of its own initiative, but are more frequently undertaken by direction of the President or the Senate or the House of Representatives.

POWERS OF THE COMMISSION UNDER THE CLAYTON ANTITRUST ACT

The commission is given jurisdiction over violations of sections 2, 3, 7 and 8, of the Clayton Act, which prohibit:

(1) Certain discriminations in prices between different purchasers of commodities where the effect of such discrimination may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

(2) In certain cases, so-called "tying contracts," or contracts whereby, as a condition of sale or lease, the seller or lessor exacts from the purchaser or lessee an agreement that he shall not use or deal in the goods or other commodities of a competitor of the lessor or seller, where the effect of such agreement may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

(3) In certain cases so-called "holding companies," or the ownership by one company of the stock of another, where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition between the companies, to restrain commerce, or tend to create a monopoly.

(4) So-called "interlocking directorates" in cases where one person shall at the same time be a director in any two or more corporations engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, other than banks, banking associations, trust companies, and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce, if such corporations are or have been competitors, so that the elimination of competition by agreement between them would constitute a violation of any of the provisions of any of the antitrust laws.

Procedure under the Clayton Act is, with some exceptions, identical with that under the Federal Trade Commission act.

FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION UNDER THE EXPORT TRADE ACT (WEBB-POMERENE LAW)

The export trade act authorizes the formation of "associations" entered into for the sole purpose of engaging in export trade, these associations to be exempt from the antitrust laws of the United States, with the proviso that there shall be through the association no restraint of the export trade of any domestic competitor, no enhancing or depression of prices, or substantial lessening of competition within the United States.

Section 1 of the act defines "export trade" and "association."

Sections 2 and 3 provide exemption from the antitrust laws under certain conditions.

Section 4 extends the jurisdiction of the commission under the Federal Trade Commission act to "unfair methods of competition used in export trade against competitors engaged in export trade even though the acts constituting such unfair methods are done without the territorial jurisdiction of the United States."

Section 5 provides for the filing of papers by such export trade associations with the Federal Trade Commission, and other details of administration.

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD

The United States Shipping Board was created by an act of Congress approved September 7, 1916, entitled "An act to establish a United States Shipping Board for the purpose of encouraging, developing, and creating a naval auxiliary and naval reserve and a merchant marine to meet the requirements of the commerce of the United States with its territories and possessions and with foreign countries; to regulate carriers by water engaged in the foreign and interstate commerce of the United States, and for other purposes," generally known as the shipping act, 1916. It is an independent establishment of the executive branch of the Government, similar to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Federal Trade Commission, and under the shipping act, 1916, was composed of five members, who chose their own chairman and vice chairman and secretary.

The shipping act, 1916, provides for the regulation of the operations of common carriers by water in both interstate and foreign commerce, defines certain terms used in connection therewith, and provides penalties for the violation of its provisions. Carriers are required to file with the board copies of such agreements, or memorandums of oral understandings as each may have with other carriers or persons subject to the act relating to the regulation of rates, pooling of earnings, number and character of sailings between various ports, the volume or character of traffic, etc. Certain conduct by carriers or other persons subject to the act is declared to be unlawful and punishable by penalties set forth in the act. Sworn complaints setting forth violations of the act may be filed with the board by a common carrier by water or other person subject to the act, and a method is provided for the adjudication of such complaints.

The board is further empowered to investigate the action of foreign governments with respect to privileges afforded and burdens imposed on vessels of the United States, and to make a report of the result of such investigations to the President, who is authorized to secure by diplomatic action equal privileges for United States vessels.

Methods of enforcing the orders of the board, whether for the performance of certain acts or for the payment of money awarded as damages by the board, are also provided.

The act expressly provides that the board does not have concurrent jurisdiction with the Interstate Commerce Commission over acts within the latter's power or jurisdiction and that its provisions do not apply to interstate commerce.

The board is further empowered by the shipping act to regulate the sale of a vessel owned by a citizen of the United States to aliens. The board's approval must be obtained to put a vessel owned by a citizen of the United States under a foreign registry or flag. The board may also organize one or more corporations under the laws of the District of Columbia, for the purchase, operation, lease, charter, or sale of the merchant vessels acquired under the act, and there was placed at the disposal of the board for this purpose a fund of $50,000,000, to be raised through the sale of Panama Canal bonds. Under this authority the board on April 16, 1917, organized the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, all the stock of which has been fully paid up and is now owned by the United States of America through the United States Shipping Board.

The board is directed to investigate the relative cost of constructing vessels at home and abroad; to examine the rules under which vessels are constructed at home and abroad; to investigate matters relating to marine insurance, the classification and rating of vessels, and the navigation laws of the United States, and to make such recommendations to Congress as it may deem best for the improvement and revision of such laws.

The shipping act, 1916, was amended by an act approved July 15, 1918, which more particularly defined the various terms used and provisions contained in the shipping act and added eight sections at the end of the act whereby the board was granted more complete control over the use or sale, particularly to aliens, of marine property during the existence of a state of war or any national emergency declared to exist by proclamation of the President, and providing punishment for violations of certain provisions of the act as amended.

The shipping act, 1916, as amended by the act approved July 15, 1918, was further amended by the act of June 5, 1920, known as the merchant marine act, 1920, which transferred to the Shipping Board certain specified authority granted during the war by Congress to the President and by him delegated by various Executive orders to the Shipping Board and the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation. This act in section 1 sets forth in the following language the general merchant marine policy to be followed by the board in its administration of the merchant marine acquired by the United States as a result of its European war activities: "That it is necessary for the national defense and for the proper growth of its foreign and domestic commerce that the United States shall have a merchant marine of the best equipped and most suitable types of vessels sufficient to carry the greater portion of its commerce and serve as a naval or military auxiliary in time of war or national emergency, ultimately to be owned and operated privately by citizens of the United States; and it is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States to do whatever may be necessary to develop and encourage the maintenance of such a merchant marine, and, in so far as may not be inconsistent with the express provisions of this act, the United States Shipping Board shall in the disposition of vessels and shipping property as hereinafter provided, in the making of rules and regulations, and in the administration of the shipping laws keep always in view this purpose and object as the primary end to be obtained."

By this act the membership of the board is increased from five to seven, the sections of the country from which they are to be appointed are designated, and the President is directed to designate the member to act as chairman of the board, the board electing its vice chairman.

General conditions to govern the board in its disposition of vessel property of the United States both to citizens of the United States and to aliens are set forth, and the board is authorized to sell to aliens only when, after diligent effort, it has been unable to sell to American citizens, and then only upon the affirmative vote of not less than five members, with the reasons for such action spread on the minutes of the board.

Other duties of the board under the merchant marine act, 1920, are as follows:

To investigate and determine what steamship lines should be established and operated between the United States and foreign ports for the development and maintenance of the foreign and coastwise trade of the United States and an adequate postal service; to sell vessels under its control to responsible citizens of the United States who will agree to maintain such lines under such terms as the board may deem advisable.

To cooperate with the Secretary of War in encouraging the development of ports and transportation facilities in connection with the water commerce over which the board has jurisdiction, to investigate the cause of congestion of commerce at ports and any other matters tending to promote and encourage the use by vessels of ports adequate to care for the freight which would naturally pass through such ports, the result of such investigations to be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission for such action as that commission may consider appropriate under existing law in case the board decides that rates, charges, rules, or regulations of common carriers by rail subject to the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission are detrimental to the promotion and development of such ports.

To set aside from revenues from sales and operations a construction loan fund of not exceeding $125,000,000 for use in making loans to aid persons citizens of the United States in the construction by them in American yards of vessels of the best and most efficient type for operation on the steamship lines deemed necessary and desirable by the board. and in the outfitting and equipment by them in American yards of vessels already built with engines, machinery, and commercial appliances of the type and kind mentioned, upon terms prescribed by the board, no aid from such fund, however, being for a greater sum than two-thirds of the cost of the vessel or vessels to be constructed.

To recondition and keep in suitable repair and operate until sold all vessels under its control either directly or through the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, which is authorized to continue in existence until all vessels are sold regardless of the provision of the shipping act, 1916, limiting the life of said corporation to not to exceed five years after the declaration of peace between the United States and Germany as evidenced by proclamation of the President.

To create out of net revenue from operations and sales and to administer an insurance fund to insure any interest of the United States in vessels constructed or under construction and in any plants or materials acquired by the board.

To continue the operation of housing projects acquired by the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation until the interest of the United States in such properties is disposed of consistent with good business and the best interest of the United States.

To take over on January 1, 1921, the possession, control, operation, and development of the terminal facilities acquired by the President by or under the act entitled "An act making appropriations to supply urgent deficiencies in appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, and prior fiscal years, on account of war expenses, and for other purposes," approved March 28, 1918.

To make all necessary rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of the act, with authority to request the head of any department, board, bureau, or agency of the Government to suspend, modify, or annul rules or regulations affecting shipping in the foreign trade, except such rules or regulations relating to the Public Health Service, the Consular Service, and the Steamboat Inspection Service, which have been established by such department, board, bureau, or agency, or to make new rules or regulations affecting such shipping.

To approve before issuance rules or regulations thereafter established by any other branch of the Government affecting foreign trade, except rules or regulations affecting the Public Health Service, the Consular Service, and the Steamboat Inspection Service.

To approve the type and kind of new vessels to be constructed by citizens of the United States out of trust funds set aside for investment therein, in order that the owner of such vessel may be allowed as a deduction for the purpose of ascertaining his net income subject to the war profits and excess profits taxes imposed by Title III of the revenue act of 1918, an amount equivalent to the net earnings of a vessel owned by such person operated in the foreign trade during such taxable year, two-thirds of the cost of any such new vessel shall be paid for out of ordinary funds or capital of the person having such vessel constructed.

The act further provides that after February 1, 1922, the coastwise laws of the United States shall extend to its island territories and possessions not now covered thereby, and directs the board to establish adequate steamship service at reasonable rates to accommodate the commerce and passenger travel of such islands, but if such adequate shipping service is not established by February, 1922, the President is directed to extend the period within which such service may be established for such time as may be necessary therefor.

The act further provides that all mails of the United States shipped or carried on vessels shall, if practicable, be shipped or carried on American-built vessels documented under the laws of the United States, and directs the board and the Postmaster General in aid of the development of an adequate merchant marine to determined from time to time the just and reasonable rate of compensation to be paid for carrying the mails on such vessels.

The American Bureau of Shipping is directed to be recognized by all departments, boards, bureaus, or commissions of the Government for the classification of vessels owned by the United States so long as the American Bureau of Shipping is maintained as an organization with no capital stock and paying no dividends. The Secretary of Commerce and the chairman of the board are each directed to appoint one representative to represent the Government on the executive committee of the American Bureau of Shipping.

The act further provides that not to exceed 16 persons in addition to the crew may be carried on cargo vessels documented under the laws of the United States without thereby subjecting such vessel to the provisions of laws governing passenger vessels. The act further exempts from the provisions of the antitrust laws associations entered into by marine insurance companies for the purpose of transacting marine insurance and reinsurance business in the United States and foreign countries.

Section 30 of the merchant marine act, 1920, contains what is known as the ship-mortgage act, 1920, and materially alters the provisions of prior laws and judicial decisions relating to the status of mortgage liens on vessel property. This section creates what is known as a "preferred mortgage" by providing that mortgages on vessel property, recorded and indorsed in accordance with the provisions of the ship-mortgage act, shall be known as preferred mortgages and that upon the sale of a vessel subject to a preferred mortgage lien by order of a district court in suit brought by one having a maritime lien all preexisting claims in the vessel are terminated and attached in like amounts and priorities to the proceeds of the sale except that the lien arising under the preferred mortgage is given precedence over all such claims except expenses and fees allowed and costs taxed by the court, and liens for damages arising out of tort, for wages of a stevedore when employed by the owner, operator, master, ship's husband, or agent of the vessel, for wages of the crew of the vessel, for general average, and for salvage, including contract salvage.

The act further provides that such preferred mortgage may be foreclosed by a suit in rem in admiralty, the original jurisdiction of such suits being granted exclusively to the district courts of the United States. The act also regulates transfers of mortgaged vessels and the assignment of vessel mortgages and rights thereunder, and repeals the maritime lien act, 1910, which, however, is reenacted with amendments to make its provisions consistent with the provisions of the ship-mortgage act, 1920.

Section 4530 of the Revised Statutes is amended so as to provide that a seaman on a vessel of the United States may not make the demand for wages provided for therein more often than once in the same harbor on the same entry.

Section 20 of the act of March 4, 1915, relating to suits for damages for personal injuries suffered on board a vessel or in its service is amended so as to extend to seaman who are given a right of trial by jury in such cases and further provides that where death ensues the personal representative of a deceased seaman is authorized to maintain an action for damages at law with the right of trial by jury in both of which cases statutes of the United States modifying or extending the common-law right or remedy in actions for personal injury or death of railway employees are declared to be applicable.

The act further provides that in the judgment of Congress treaties or conventions to which the United States is a party which contain provisions restricting the right of the United States to impose discriminating customs duties on imports entering the United States in foreign vessels and restricting the right of the United States to impose discriminatory tonnage dues on foreign vessels should be terminated and directs the President to give notice to the several Governments parties to such treaties so in force terminating such restrictions at the expiration of the period provided for in such treaties for the giving of such notice.

The act of section 38, amends section 2 of the shipping act, 1916, so as to, more clearly define within the meaning of the shipping act, 1916, the citizenship of a corporation, partnership, or association.

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD MERCHANT FLEET CORPORATION

The United States Shipping Board Merchant Fleet Corporation was incorporated April 16, 1917, by the United States Shipping Board as the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation under the authority of section 11 of the act of Congress approved September 7, 1916, generally known as the shipping act, 1916. The name of the corporation was changed under the independent offices act making appropriations for 1928, approved February 11, 1927.

The corporation is capitalized at $50,000,000, divided into shares of a par value of $100 each. All of the stock of the corporation, except the qualifying shares of the members of the board of trustees, is held by the United States Shipping Board on behalf of the United States of America.

The object for which the corporation was organized is stated in the articles of incorporation as follows: "The purchase, construction, equipment, lease, charter, maintenance, and operation of merchant vessels in the commerce of the United States, and in general to do and to perform every lawful act and thing necessary or expedient to be done or performed for the efficient and profitable conducting of said business, as authorized by the laws of Congress, and to have and to exercise all the powers conferred by the laws of the District of Columbia upon corporations under said subchapter 4 of the incorporation laws of the District of Columbia."

The board of trustees of the Merchant Fleet Corporation consists of seven members. The general officers consist of a president, a vice president and general manager, three vice presidents, directors of departments, the secretary, the treasurer, and the general comptroller.

The proceeds received by the corporation in exchange for its capital stock, pursuant to section 13 of the shipping act, 1916, and by appropriations made by Congress from time to time, have been used for the construction by contract of steel, wood, composite and concrete vessels for overseas commerce and for the completion of steel vessels over 2,500 tons deadweight capacity requisitioned by direction of the United States Shipping Board on August 3, 1917, and for the operation of vessels on essential trade routes, the determination of which is made by the United States Shipping Board.

By the emergency shipping fund provision of the urgent deficiencies appropriation act approved June 15, 1917, as amended by an act approved April 22, 1918, and by an act approved November 4, 1918, certain extensive war powers in connection with the construction, requisition, and operation of vessels were conferred on the President and by him by Executive orders of various dates conferred on the corporation. The merchant marine act, 1920, transferred all the powers and authorities thus delegated to the corporation to the United States Shipping Board, which is authorized to perform such of its duties as it may deem advisable through or by the corporation as its agent.

In accordance with the authority granted by section 25 of the merchant marine act, 1920, the Shipping Board, by resolution adopted October 1, 1925, conferred certain general powers on the corporation, under which the corporation acts as the operating agency of the United States merchant fleet for the United States Shipping Board, representing the United States of America.

UNITED STATES RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION

By proclamation of the President issued February 28, 1920, under authority of an act of Congress approved February 28, 1920, Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, was authorized, either personally or through such divisions, agencies, or persons as he might appoint, to exercise and perform all of the powers, and duties conferred upon the President by the provisions of that act except the designation of the agent under section 206 thereof. In a proclamation dated March 11, 1920, Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, was also designated agent under section 206 of the act.

Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, resigned that position effective May 18, 1920, and by proclamation of the President of the United States John Barton Payne, Secretary of the Interior, was designated to take over and perform all of the duties previously designated to be performed by the Director General of Railroads; the latter resigned and, effective March 28, 1921, James C. Davis was appointed. Mr. Davis resigned January 1, 1926, and Mr. Andrew W. Mellon was appointed director general and agent of the President as of that date.

The act of February 28, 1920, authorizes the President to adjust, settle, liquidate, and wind up all of the matters, including compensation, and all questions in dispute of whatsoever nature arising out of or incident to Federal control. The act provides that the President shall have the right at all reasonable times until the affairs of Federal control are concluded to inspect the property and records of all carriers whose railroads or systems of transportation were at any time under Federal control. It also provides that the carriers, at their own expense, upon the request of the President or those duly authorized by him, shall furnish all necessary and proper information and reports compiled upon the records made or kept during the period of Federal control affecting their respective lines. The act provides that any carrier which refuses or obstructs such inspection or which willfully fails to provide reasonable facilities therefor or to furnish such information or reports shall be liable to a penalty of $500 for each day of the continuance of such offense.

UNITED STATES COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

The Council of National Defense, composed of members of the Cabinet, was charged by the act of August 29, 1916, among other things, with the "coordination of industries and resources for the national security and welfare" and with the "creation of relations which will render possible in time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of the resources of the Nation." No appropriations have been made for nor any meetings held by the council since the fiscal year 1921. The records of the Council of National Defense, as well as those of the War Industries Board and the Committee on Public Information are now under the jurisdiction of the Assistant Secretary of War, who is charged by law (act of June 4, 1920) with the "assurance of adequate provision for the mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to war-time needs."

BOARD OF TAX APPEALS

The Board of Tax Appeals was created by the act of June 2, 1924 (Pub. No. 178, 68th Cong.), and is under the immediate direction of the President. That act provided that the board and its divisions should hear and determine appeals filed under sections 274, 279, 308, and 312. Under the provisions of that act the President might appoint such number of members, not more than 28, as he might determine to be necessary to serve for a period of two years after the enactment of the act. The terms of all members expired at the end of such two-year period, when seven members might be appointed for terms expiring—two at the end of the fourth year, two at the end of the sixth year, two at the end of the eighth year, and one at the end of the tenth year after the expiration of such two-year period. Twelve members were appointed on June 2, 1924, for the two-year term ending June 1, 1926, and entered on duty July 16, 1924. On March 23, 1925, four additional members were appointed, and on August 7, 1925, one additional appointment was made. Two resignations, one effective on April 1, 1925, the other on September 9, 1925, reduced the membership to 15, at which number it remained until June 1, 1926.

The revenue act of 1926 (Feb. 26, 1926, Pub. No. 20, 69th Cong.) continued the board, and under its provisions the membership is confined to 16, who are appointed by the President. The terms of office of the members expire—four at the end of the sixth year, four at the end of the eighth year, four at the end of the tenth year, and four at the end of the twelfth year. The terms of office of all successors expire 12 years after the expiration of the terms for which their predecessors were appointed, but any member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of his predecessor. On May 26, 1926, the President appointed 16 members, who entered on duty June 8, 1926.

For administrative purposes the members are divided into 16 divisions for the hearing of cases. The board sits on each office day (except Fridays and Saturdays) to hear proceedings which have been called from the day calendar at 9.30 a. m. of each day and assigned to the respective divisions by the chairman.

The board functions in the manner of a court. The statute provides that its proceedings shall be conducted in accordance with the rules of evidence applicable in courts of equity of the District of Columbia. Its hearings are open to the public and its reports are public records, open to the inspection of the public. The statute authorizes, and the board's rules prescribe, a fee of $10 for the filing of any petition after the enactment of the revenue act of 1926. The decisions of the board are reviewable by the United States circuit courts of appeals on a petition for review. Such decisions may be reviewed (a) in the case of an individual, by the circuit court of appeals for the circuit whereof he is an inhabitant, or if not an inhabitant of any circuit, then by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; (b) in the case of a person other than an individual, by the circuit court of appeals for the circuit in which is located the office of the collector to whom such person made the return, or in case such person made no return, then by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; (c) in the case of a corporation which had no principal place of business or principal office or agency in the United States, then by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; (d) in the case of an agreement between the commissioner and the taxpayer, then by the circuit court of appeals for the circuit, or the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, as stipulated in such agreement.

The principal office of the board is at Washington, but provision has been made for hearings at certain points within the United States with a view to securing reasonable opportunity to taxpayers to appear before the board or any of its divisions with as little inconvenience and expense as is practicable.

The reports of the board are published at the Government Printing Office, and such authorized publication, under the act, becomes competent evidence thereof in all courts of the United States and of the several States without any further proof or authentication thereof. These publications are subject to sale in the same manner and upon the same terms as other public documents.

WAR FINANCE CORPORATION

The War Finance Corporation was created by the act approved April 5, 1918. Its original purpose was to give financial support to industries whose operations were "necessary or contributory to the prosecution of the war" and to banking institutions that aided in financing such industries. It was also authorized to make advances to savings banks and building-loan associations, to buy and sell obligations of the United States Government, and to issue bonds.

The corporation was in existence only six months before the armistice was signed. When hostilities ceased its operations were contracted automatically, but in the spring of 1919 it was called upon to undertake the burden of financing the railroads, then under Federal control, because no appropriation had been made for the maintenance of their operations.

AUTHORITY TO FINANCE EXPORTS

By act approved March 3, 1919, the powers of the corporation were extended to embrace an entirely new line of activity. In order to assist in the transition from conditions of war to conditions of peace, the corporation was given authority to make advances to the extent of $1,000,000,000 to American exporters and American banking institutions which extended credits to finance American exports. The activities of the corporation under this authority were discontinued in May, 1920, at the request of the then Secretary of the Treasury. In January, 1921, the Congress passed a joint resolution directing the corporation to resume operations in accordance with the provisions of the act of March 3, 1919.

AGRICULTURAL CREDITS

By act approved August 24, 1921, commonly known as the agricultural credits act of 1921, the corporation's powers were further extended and it was authorized to make loans for agricultural purposes to banking and financing institutions, including livestock loan companies, and to cooperative marketing associations. The act required the corporation to obtain in every case "full and adequate security by indorsement, guaranty, pledge, or otherwise," and provided that the aggregate of advances made by the corporation remaining unpaid at any one time may not exceed $1,000,000,000. It contained a provision limiting to June 30, 1922, the period during which the corporation was authorized to make new advances. This period, however, was extended to June 30, 1923, by the act approved June 10, 1922; to March 31, 1924, by the agricultural credits act of 1923; and to December 31, 1924, by the act approved February 20, 1924.

In accordance with the act of February 20, 1924, the corporation ceased to receive applications on November 30, 1924, and discontinued the making of new loans on December 31, 1924. It entered the period of liquidation on January 1, 1925, and since that date only expense advances incident to the liquidation of its assets and the winding up of its affairs have been made.

CAPITAL STOCK OF THE CORPORATION

The capital stock of the corporation was fixed by the act of April 5, 1918, at $500,000,000, all of it to be held by the Government. On November 30, 1919, the entire amount had been subscribed, and on January 5, 1925, the corporation, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, canceled and retired $499,000,000 of its capital stock, leaving $1,000,000 outstanding. In April, 1919, the corporation issued for public sale $200,000,000 one-year 5 per cent bonds which matured on April 1, 1920, All of these bonds, with the exception of a few not yet presented for payment, have been retired.

The funds of the corporation are kept on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States.

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN

The President was authorized under the provisions of the "trading with the enemy act" to appoint an official, to be known as the Alien Property Custodian, who shall be empowered to receive all the moneys and property in the United States due or belonging to an enemy or ally of an enemy ,which may be paid, conveyed, transferred, assigned, or delivered to the said custodian under the provisions of the act, and to hold, administer, and account for the same under the general direction of the President and as provided in the act.

The President has delegated to the Alien Property Custodian the following powers and duties under the trading with the enemy act:

The executive administration of all the provisions of section 7 (a), section 7 (c), and section 7 (d), including power to require reports and extend the time for filing the same, conferred upon the President by the provisions of section 7 (a), and including the power conferred upon the President by the provisions of section 7 (c), to require the conveyance, etc., to the Alien Property Custodian at such time and in such manner as he shall require, of any money or other properties owing to or belonging to or held for or on account of any enemy or ally of an enemy not holding a license granted under the provisions of the trading with the enemy act which, after investigation, said Alien Property Custodian shall determine is so owing, etc.

The property seized and demanded by the Alien Property Custodian is scattered throughout the United States and its Territories, including the Philippine Islands and Hawaii, and consists of industrial plants, such as chemical and woolen mills, steamship lines, banks, land and cattle companies, salmon factories, gold and silver and other mines of metal and other miscellaneous industrial plants, and thousands of parcels of real estate, and trusts represented by securities and liquid assets.

The Alien Property Custodian is required by the trading with the enemy act to deposit all moneys coming into his hands in the Treasury of the United States, to be invested by the Secretary of the Treasury in United States bonds or certificates of indebtedness. With respect to all other property the Alien Property Custodian has all the powers of a common-law trustee, and the further power of management and sale under the direction of the President. All moneys or properties after the end of the war will be disposed of as Congress shall direct.

The treaties of peace between the United States of America and Germany and Austria provide that—

"All property of the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors, and of all German nationals, which was, on April 6, 1917, in or has since that date come into the possession of, under control of, or has been the subject of a demand by the United States of America or of any of its officers, agents, or employees, from any source or by any agency whatsoever, and all property of the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government, or its successor or successors, and of all Austro-Hungarian nationals which was on December 7, 1917, in or has since that date come into the possession or under control of, or has been the subject of a demand by the United States of America or any of its officers, agents, or employees, from any source or by any agency whatsoever, shall be retained by the United States of America and no disposition thereof made, except as shall have been heretofore or specifically hereafter shall be provided by law until such time as the Imperial German Government and the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government, or their successor or successors, shall have, respectively, made suitable provision for the satisfaction of all claims against said Governments, respectively, of all persons, wheresoever domiciled, who owe permanent allegiance to the United States of America and who have suffered, though the acts of the Imperial German Government, or its agents, or the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government, or its agents, since July 31, 1914, loss, damage, or injury to their persons or property, directly or indirectly, whether through the ownership of shares of stock in German, Austro-Hungarian, American, or other corporations, or in consequence of hostilities or of any operations of war, or otherwise" * * *.

Under an amendment to the trading with the enemy act approved March 4, 1923, the President was authorized to return an amount of property or money not to exceed in value the sum of $10,000 to individuals, partnerships, unincorporated associations, and corporations whose property was seized or demanded by the Alien Property Custodian during the existence of the war.

The President, by an Executive order dated May 16, 1923, has vested in the Alien Property Custodian all the power and authority conferred upon him by the said amendment pertaining to every claim in which the amount to be paid does not exceed in money or other property the value of $10,000.

UNITED STATES TARIFF COMMISSION

The commission was erected by act of Congress approved September 8, 1916. It has authority to investigate the administration, operation, and effects of the customs laws and their relation to the Federal revenues.

The law directs that the commission shall put at the disposal of the President, the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, and the Finance Committee of the Senate, whenever requested, all of the information at its command, and shall make such investigations and reports as may be requested by the President or either branch of Congress.

The commission has power to investigate the tariff relations between the United States and foreign countries, commercial treaties, preferential provisions, economic alliances the effect of export bounties and preferential transportation rates, the volume of importations, compared with domestic production and consumption, and conditions, causes, and effects relating to competition of foreign industries with those of the United States, including dumping and cost of production.

Under the provisions of sections 315, 316, and 317 of Title III of the tariff act approved September 21, 1922, the commission is authorized to conduct investigations to assist the President to modify the rates of duties and the classifications fixed in the dutiable schedules of that act.

Section 315 provides that the commission shall make, under such reasonable procedure, rules, and regulations as it may deem necessary, investigations to assist the President in ascertaining the differences in costs of production in the United States and in foreign countries of articles covered by the dutiable schedules of the tariff act. The findings of the commission as the results of such investigations shall be reported to the President, who is authorized, when he finds that such differences are not equalized by the rates of duties prescribed, to determine and proclaim such changes in classification, or increase or decreases of duties, within a limitation of 50 per cent thereof, as will effectuate such equalization. When the President shall find, however, that such proceedings will not equalize the said differences in costs of production, he is authorized to direct that ad valorem duties upon the articles covered by such findings shall be based upon the American selling price thereof as defined in section 402 of the act. Ascertainment of such differences in costs of production shall take into consideration differences in wages, costs of materials, and other items in costs; differences in wholesale selling prices of domestic and foreign articles in the principal American markets; advantages given foreign producers by foreign governments or others; and any other advantages or disadvantages in competition.

The commission is authorized under section 316 to investigate unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation of articles into the United States, or in their sale after importation. When the findings aud recommendations of the commission, upon its investigation of such acts, justify the President in doing so, he is authorized to determine and assess additional duties within prescribed limits upon articles covered by such findings or, in extreme cases, to exclude such articles from entry into the United States, such additional duties or refusal of entry to remain in effect until otherwise ordered by the President.

The testimony in every investigation under the provisions of this section is required to be reduced to writing, and with the findings of the commission constitutes the official record in each case. A copy of the findings is required to be sent to the importer or consignee of the articles affected thereby and shall be conclusive, subject only to rehearing by consent of the commission or to appeal on question of law only to the United States Court of Customs Appeals or to review by the United States Supreme Court on certiorari.

Under the provisions of section 317 the commission is required to ascertain and at all times to be informed whether any foreign country discriminates against the commerce of the United States, whether by imposing upon it unreasonable charges of regulations not equally imposed upon other countries, or by laws, administrative regulations, or practices in regard to customs, port charges, classifications, or other like requirements which may be to the disadvantage of the commerce of the United States in such country or in any other foreign country. The commission is required to report to the President with its recommendations any such discriminations which it may find to exist, and upon such findings, when confirmed by him, the President is authorized to specify and declare upon articles wholly or in part the growth or product of any such country such new and additional duties as will offset such burdens, or he may exclude from importation articles from such country. Such new or additional duties are limited, however, to not to exceed 50 per cent ad valorem. Articles imported contrary to the provisions of this section are made subject to seizure and forfeiture to the United States.

Section 318 of the tariff act approved September 21, 1922, provides that, in addition to the duties previously imposed upon it by law, the commission shall ascertain conversion costs and costs of production of articles in the principal growing, producing, or manufacturing centers of the United States, whenever in the opinion of the commission it is practicable, and shall ascertain such costs in foreign countries whenever in the opinion of the commission such costs are necessary for comparison with the costs in the United States and can be reasonably ascertained.

The commission is also directed to describe and keep on file samples of imported articles and articles of the United States which are comparable; to ascertain the import costs of such foreign articles, and the selling prices in the United States of such articles of the United States, and to ascertain all other facts affecting competition between domestic and imported articles in the principal markets of the United States. This section authorizes the commission to establish and maintain an office at the port of New York for executing any of its functions, and authorizes the commission to adopt an official seal which shall be judicially noticed.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYEES, COMPENSATION COMMISSION

(Created by the act of Congress approved September 7, 1916)

The act of Congress creating the United States Employees' Compensation Commission assures compensation, including reasonable medical and hospital treatment, to all civil employees (unclassified as well as classified) of the Federal Government, employees of the District of Columbia except firemen and policemen, and officers and enlisted men of the Naval Reserve on authorized training duty in time of peace, who sustain personal injuries while in the performance of their duties, but no compensation shall be paid if the injury is caused by the willful misconduct of the employee or by his intention to bring about the injury or death of himself or of another, or if intoxication of the injured employee is the proximate cause of the injury or death. To obtain the medical and hospital treatment, the employee shall be sent to the nearest United States medical officer or hospital, but if this is not practicable, to the nearest physician or hospital designated by the United States Employees' Compensation Commission, or when neither of these is available, to the nearest physician or hospital.

The monthly compensation for total disability shall not be more than $116.66 nor less than $58.33, unless the employee's monthly pay is less than the latter amount, in which case his compensation shall be the full amount of his monthly pay.

Payment shall be made for partial disability equal to 66⅔ per cent of the difference between the employee's monthly pay and his earning capacity after the disability.

In case of death the compensation shall be paid the widow or widower, to dependent children under the age of 18 years, to dependent parents or grandparents, and to other dependents under certain conditions. All claims for compensation must be filed within one year.

By Executive orders the administration of the compensation act so far as it relates to the Panama Canal employees and employees of the Alaskan Engineering Commission has been placed under the heads of those organizations.

The commission also administers the longshoremen's and harbor workers' compensation act, approved March 4, 1927. This act covers employees in private industries engaged in maritime employment on the navigable waters of the United States (including dry docks) who sustain injury or death arising out of, and in the course of, employment. These employees are mostly longshoremen and men engaged in repair work on vessels. It does not include the master or members of the crews of vessels, nor persons engaged by the master to load or unload or repair vessels under 18 tons. The compensation features of the act were effective July 1, 1927. Compensation is paid by the employer and the cost of administration by the United States.

On and after July 1, 1927, every employer having employees coming under the provisions of the act is required to secure payment of compensation by insurance in a company authorized by the commission or self-insurance authorized by the commission. A heavy penalty is provided for failure to secure compensation. A severe penalty is also provided for the employing of any stevedoring firm which does not present a certificate of compliance.

The commission is required to make the rules and regulations under this act, prescribe forms, establish compensation districts, and appoint and assign deputy commissioners to such districts. The deputy commissioners are required to issue certificates of compliance with insurance provisions, enforce requirements as to reports and penalties, regulate medical and legal fees, hold hearings when necessary or demanded by either party, make investigations, allow or disallow claims, examine settlements when hearings are not required to see that the injured employee has received the benefits of the law, take action in case of default in payment, and certify records upon appeal to the courts. Appeal to the Federal courts from the decision of the deputy commissioner may be had upon questions of law.

Compensation for total disability is two-thirds of the average weekly pay, not to exceed a maximum of $25 per week, with a minimum of $8 per week. There is a schedule of benefits for permanent partial disability. Death benefits are payable to the widow until remarriage and to children until they reach the age of 18, also to other dependents under certain circumstances. Reasonable funeral expenses not to exceed $200 are provided. The total compensation payable for injury or death in any one case shall not exceed the sum of $7,500.

NATIONAL SCREW THREAD COMMISSION

The National Screw Thread Commission was appointed in accordance with H. R. 10852, approved July 18, 1918. It is composed of nine members, two of whom are commissioned officers of the Army, appointed by the Secretary of War; two commissioned officers of the Navy, appointed by the Secretary of the Navy; and four appointed by the Secretary of Commerce, two of whom are chosen from nominations made by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and two from nominations made by the Society of Automotive Engineers. The Director of the Bureau of Standards is Ex-officio chairman of the commission. The duties of the commission as set forth in the act by which it was authorized are to ascertain and establish standards for screw threads which shall be submitted to the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and the Secretary of Commerce for their acceptance and approval. Such standards, when thus accepted and approved, shall be adopted and used in the several manufacturing plants under the control of the War and Navy Departments, and, so far as practicable, in all specifications for screw threads in proposals for manufactured articles, parts, or material to be used under the direction of these departments. The commission has made an extensive study of the production and use of screw threads in the United States and has established standards and tolerances for various classes of this product. A report was issued under date of January 4, 1921, setting fourth the standards agreed upon by the commission up to that date. Since the issuance of the original report, other closely allied problems have been taken up and a revised report containing several new sections was issued under date of February 11, 1925. (Miscl. Pub. Bur. of Stds., No. 61.) The life of the commission has been three times extended, and on April 16, 1926, the commission was made a permanent body by the approval of Public Act No. 125 (H. R. 264, 69th Cong.).

UNITED STATES VETERANS' BUREAU

The United States Veterans' Bureau was established by an act of Congress approved August 9, 1921, by which act the bureau was established as an independent bureau under the President. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance was abolished by said act and the powers and duties pertaining to the Director of the War Risk Insurance under the Treasury Department were transferred to the Veterans' Bureau, together with the functions, powers, and duties conferred upon the Federal Board for Vocational Education by the act of June 27, 1918, known as the vocational rehabilitation act, and all personnel, properties, etc., of the United States Public Health Service as prescribed and provided in a written order of the Secretary of the Treasury on April 19, 1921, designated "Order relative to the transfer of certain activities of the United States Public Health Service, relating to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, including the trainees of the Rehabilitation Division of the Federal Board for Vocational Education." Effective May 1, 1922, those hospitals of the Public Health Service having to do with the care of ex-service men, together with their personnel, were transferred to the Veterans' Bureau and are now known as United States veterans' hospitals.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance was created by act of Congress approved September 2, 1914, to insure American vessels and their cargoes against the risks of war. By an act approved June 12, 1917, Congress added the duty of insuring the lives of masters and crews of American vessels. On October 6, 1917, the most important provisions of the war-risk act were added. These provided for payment of allotments and allowances to the dependent families of members of the military forces of the United States, payment of compensation for death or disability, and the writing of term policies of insurance by the Federal Government against death or total disability. Important amendments to the act have subsequently been made. The amendments approved December 24, 1919, provided for an optional payment in lump sum of the converted forms of insurance and substantial increases in the amount of compensation payable on account of death or disability. They made possible the making of agreements with allied foreign countries to furnish benefits to their disabled veterans and increased the permitted class of beneficiaries in the payment of insurance claims.

By the act of August 9, 1921, the Veterans' Bureau was established and the administration of soldiers' relief actitivities became coordinated and consolidated in one agency. The district offices of the bureau were established under this authority. The time limit for reinstatement of lapsed insurance by disabled ex-service men was extended. A two-year presumptive period for tuberculous and neuropsychiatric disabilities was established which enabled any case developing a 10 per cent disability in these classes within two years form discharge to become automatically service connected and therefore compensable. By amendments in December, 1922, the allowance for nurse was increased from $20 to $50 per month for the blind, legless, and armless in need of such attendants. On March 4, 1923, the presumptive period for tuberculous and neuropsychiatric diseases was increased to three years and hospital facilities of the Veterans' Bureau were extended to care for veterans of the Spanish American War, the Philippine Insurrection, and the Boxer Rebellion, suffering from neuropsychiatric and tubercular diseases.

Probably the most important amendments were those included in the World War veterans' act approved June 7, 1924. This act increased the presumptive period for automatic service connection in cases of tuberculosis and for neuropsychiatric diseases to January 1, 1925. Death compensation to widows and children was increased. It was provided that in instances where a beneficiary of the bureau suffering from tuberculosis had been hospitalized for more than one year and was discharged with the disease completely arrested, temporary total compensation should be paid for six months after discharge. Furthermore, if a patient were hospitalized for one year on account of tuberculosis and would not reach a condition of arrest by further hospitalization, he should be rated and paid as temporarily and totally disabled for a period of three years. Compensation for totally blind veterans was increased to $150 per month. Allowances for all attendants were increased from $20 to $50 per month. It also provided that after June 30, 1927, no person (other than those totally and permanently disabled) who is being maintained in an institution by the bureau and who is without wife, child, or dependent parents, shall be paid compensation exceeding $40 per month. It provided that no reduction in compensation should be made retroactive and that no discontinuance or reduction should be put into effect until the first day of the third calendar month after the new rating has been made. This amendment further made available all hospital facilities under the control and jurisdiction of the Veterans' Bureau to every honorably discharged veteran of the Spanish American War, the Philippine Insurrection, the Boxer Rebellion, or the World War, suffering from neuropsychiatric or tubercular ailments or diseases and to certain other specified conditions, regardless of whether such ailments or diseases were due to military service, and further authorized, so far as existing Government facilities permit, the hospitalization and necessary traveling expenses to veterans of any war, military occupation, or military expedition since 1897 not dishonorably discharged, without regard to the nature or origin of their disability. This amendment also provided for the placing of all field offices of the bureau on a common basis, thus decentralizing from the 14 district offices the adjudication of claims and dispensing relief to 54 field offices of the bureau known as regional offices.

Under Title IV of this act, affecting rehabilitation, the last dates for application, induction, and training were established as June 30, 1923, June 30, 1925, and June 30, 1926, respectively; and additional allowance of two months' training pay was provided for the two months' period immediately following rehabilitation, with the provision, however, that following this two months' period "all duty and obligation of the United States with respect to vocational rehabilitation shall cease and terminate." This act also placed stronger emphasis on the obligation of training for employability than in past enactments.

On June 5, 1924, the original functions of the United States Veterans' Bureau were augmented through the enactment of the World War adjusted compensation act, which placed the administration of dispensing benefits provided by this act under the Veterans' Bureau.

An amendment to the act of June 7, 1924, was made by the act of March 4, 1925, the most important provisions of which were: (1) The consolidation in one section of the various provisions of the existing act relative to forfeiture of rights to compensation and insurance, and the liberalization of these provisions, with particular respect to insurance; (2) the providing of compensation and hospitalization for all men whose disability incurred in service has resulted in practically permanent and total disability, irrespective of misconduct; (3) the restoration of many important insurance provisions essential to the insurance contract, which were not incorporated in the act of June 7, 1924; (4) the provision for the immediate distribution of insurance payable to the veterans' estate, thus eliminating the necessity for endless administration of those acts by the bureau; and (5) making the embezzlement of funds received from the bureau by guardians a Federal offense.

On June 2, 1926, an amendment was passed which extended the date on which all yearly renewable term insurance must be reinstated and converted to July 2, 1927, and authorized the issuance of a five-year level premium term insurance policy.

On July 2, 1926, the World War veterans' act was further amended, the principal provisions of the amendment being: (1) The director is authorized to limit the number of guardianship cases in the District of Columbia in which one person may act as fiduciary and is further empowered to appear by authorized attorney and make proper presentations to any court when it appears that the fiduciary is not properly executing his trust, and is also authorized to suspend payments to such fiduciary who shall neglect or refuse to render any accounting the director may request; (2) authority is granted for the hospitalization of female beneficiaries in other than Government hospitals, and the hospitalization of nurses who served as Army nurses under contract during the period April 21, 1898, to February 2, 1901, is also authorized; (3) any ex-service persons suffering from a tubercular disease who has reached a condition of complete arrest shall receive compensation at the rate of $50 per month; (4) the date for the discontinuance of vocational training to placement trainees is extended to January 1, 1927, and to those receiving institutional training to July 2, 1928; (5) the director is authorized to provide courses of instruction for the professional personnel of the bureau, and may detail not more than 2 per cent of the professional personnel to attend professional courses conducted by other than bureau agencies.

The World War adjusted compensation act was also amended on July 3, 1926. The most important provisions were: (1) That an application may be filed by a representative of the veteran in the event of pyhsical or mental incapacity of the veteran, and in the event of death between May 19, 1924, and July 1, 1924, the application may be filed by the surviving widow; (2) that no sum payable under this act shall be subject to deduction because of any indebtedness of the veterans to the United States; (3) that decisions of the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy on matters under this act shall be final and conclusive; (4) that a widow or widower is entitled to benefits if unmarried when making application or if not living apart from the veteran at the time of his death by reason of her own willful misconduct; (5) that if a veteran died in service prior to July 1, 1919, and if the adjusted service certificate credit be certified to the director, the sum of $60 shall be paid in a lump sum to dependents of such veteran; (6) that when an adjusted service certificate has been lost, destroyed, or defaced so as to impair its value and is identified by number and description, a duplicate shall be issued upon the execution of a bond in the penal sum of the face value of the certificate with two good securities.

On March 3, 1927, there was enacted Public, No. 762, Sixty-ninth Congress, which act authorized the Director of the Veterans' Bureau to make loans to veterans upon the security of adjusted service certificates. For the purpose of enabling the director to make such loans from the United States Government Life Insurance Fund, this same act authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to loan not exceeding $25,000,000 to this fund with interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum.

FEDERAL BOARD FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

The Federal Board for Vocational Education was created by act of Congress approved February 23, 1917. This act makes appropriations to be used in cooperation with the States in the promotion of vocational education. For the fiscal year 1917–18 the amount appropriated was $1,860,000, but the appropriation increased each year until in 1925–26 it reached $7,367,000, which sum is provided annually thereafter. The money appropriated is to be given to various States for the purpose of stimulating vocational education in agriculture and the trades and industries and in the preparation of teachers of vocational subjects. Its allotment is upon condition that for each dollar of Federal money expended the State or local community, or both, in which schools are established shall expend an equal amount for the same purpose.

The duties imposed upon the board are of a twofold character: First, it is the representative of the Government appointed to cooperate with boards appointed by the States in promoting vocational education; and, second, it is required to make, or cause to have made, reports on vocational subjects. As representative of the Government it examines the plans submitted by the various State boards containing the scheme of vocational education to be conducted by the States, and approves the same if found to be in conformity with the provisions and purposes of the act. It ascertains annually whether the several States are using or prepared to use the money received by them in accordance with the provisions of the statute and each year it certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury the States which have complied with the provisions of the act, together with the amount which each State is entitled to receive. In the preparation of reports it is charged with the duty of making studies and investigations relating to the establishment of vocational schools or classes and the courses and studies to be taught therein. It is also required to make studies, investigations, and reports upon agriculture and agricultural processes and requirements upon agricultural workers; trades, industries, and apprenticeships; trade and industrial requirements upon industrial workers and classification of industrial processes and pursuits; commerce and commercial pursuits and requirements upon commercial workers; home management, domestic science, and related facts and principles; and problems of administration of vocational schools and of courses of study and instruction in vocational subjects.

By the passage of the Federal vocational rehabilitation act, approved June 27, 1918, and the amendment thereto of July 11, 1919, the board was charged with the duty of furnishing vocational rehabilitation to every member of the military or naval forces of the United States discharged with a disability incurred, increased, or aggravated while a member of such forces or traceable to service therein, needing vocational rehabilitation to overcome the handicap of such disability. In furnishing training under the act no limitations were imposed by the board with respect to the courses to be pursued, and all careers were opened to the disabled men, much of it being given directly in the trades and industries. The board carried out this work of training the disabled soldiers, sailors, and marines and placing them in employment in their particular line of endeavor until the passage of the bill on August 9, 1921, creating the Veterans' Bureau, which consolidated all the agencies dealing with the disabled soldiers, sailors, and marines.

The civilian vocational rehabilitation act was approved on June 2, 1920. By this act the Federal Government agrees to cooperate with the States in rehabilitating and restoring to remunerative occupations any persons disabled in industry or otherwise, and names the Federal Board for Vocational Education as the administrative agency. The duties imposed upon the Federal board include the making of such rules and regulations as may be appropriate to carry out the purposes of the act; the provisions, through cooperation with the States, for vocational rehabilitation for disabled persons; the examination of State plans and their approval, if in conformity with the provisions of the act; the cooperation with such public and private agencies as may be deemed advisable for this purpose. The Federal board must ascertain annually whether the States are properly using Federal funds and must certify, on or before the 1st day of January of each year, to the Secretary of the Treasury those States which have accepted and complied with the provisions of the law, naming the amount of money which each State is entitled to receive. The Federal board is authorized to make such studies and investigations of the vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons and their placement in suitable or gainful occupations as are needed to carry out the intention of the act. An act continuing appropriations for this purpose was approved June 5, 1924.

BOARD OF ROAD COMMISSIONERS FOR ALASKA

The Board of Road Commissioners for Alaska was created by the act of Congress approved January 27, 1905 (sec. 2), amended by the act approved May 14, 1906. Funds for the work are derived from a tax fund collected in Alaska and from special appropriations made by Congress through military committees. The work is carried on under the direction of the board and the general supervision of the Chief of Engineers. The organization of the board is as follows:

The senior officer on duty, to be designated as the president, shall have general charge of the operations of the board, and shall approve and certify, on behalf of the board, all vouchers and expenditures.

The engineer officer shall supervise the work of construction, in the field, as provided in the act of Congress creating the board.

The third officer shall, upon designation by the Secretary of War, as provided in the law as amended, act as disbursing officer of the board.

The board is charged by law with the construction, repair, and maintenance of roads, tramways, ferries, bridges, and trails in the Territory of Alaska.

Under the act of June 30, 1921, the Secretary of War is authorized to receive from the Territory of Alaska or other source funds contributed for the construction, repair, and maintenance of roads, bridges, trails, and related works, said funds to be deposited in the United States Treasury and expended by the Board of Road Commissioners in accordance with the purpose for which they were contributed.

COMMISSION ON NAVY YARDS AND NAVAL STATIONS

Appointed by direction of the President to carry out provisions of the act of Congress, approved August 29, 1916, relative to the establishment of navy yards, naval stations, and submarine and aviation bases.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR AERONAUTICS

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics was established by act of Congress approved March 3, 1915 (naval appropriations act, public No. 273, Sixty-third Congress). Its membership is appointed by the President and consists of two officers of the Army, two officers of the Navy, a representative each of the Smithsonian Institution, the United States Weather Bureau, and the United States Bureau of Standards, together with five additional citizens acquainted with the needs of aeronautical science, or skilled in aeronautical engineering or its allied sciences. All the members, as such, serve without compensation.

The duties of the committee, as provided by Congress, are to supervise and direct the scientific study of the problems of flight, with a view to their practical solution, and to determine the problems which should be experimentally attacked, and to discuss their solution and their application to practical questions; also to direct and conduct research and experiment on the more fundamental problems of aeronautics in such laboratories as may in whole or in part be placed under the direction of the committee.

Under the rules and regulations formulated by the committee and approved by the President, technical subcommittees have been established whose general duties are to aid in determining the problems in their respective branches of the aeronautical field to be scientifically attacked, bringing to bear the knowledge derived from experimental investigations conducted in all parts of the world, and to endeavor to coordinate the research and experimental work involved in the study of the problems agreed upon. The subcommittees are composed in part of specially appointed representatives of the Army and Navy air organizations, who are in immediate charge of various phases of aeronautical development.

By virtue of the character of its membership, including as it does the heads of the Army and Navy air organizations, the committee also serves in an advisory capacity for the determination of questions of general policy in aeronautical matters.

In addition to the functions specifically defined for the various subcommittees, the general functions of the advisory committee may be stated as follows:

First. Under the law the committee holds itself at the service of any department or agency of the Government interested in aeronautics for the furnishing of information or assistance in regard to scientific or technical matters relating to aeronautics, and in particular for the investigation and study of problems in this field with a view to their practical solution.

Second. The committee may also exercise its functions for any individual, firm, association, or corporation within the United States, provided that such individual, firm, association, or corporation defray the actual cost involved.

Third. The committee institutes research, investigation, and study of the problems which, in the judgment of its members or of the members of its various subcommittees, are needful and timely for the advance of the science and art of aeronautics in its various branches.

Fourth. The committee keeps itself advised of the progress made in research and experimental work in aeronautics in all parts of the world, particularly in England, France, Italy, Germany, Holland, and Belgium.

Fifth. The information thus gathered is brought to the attention of the various subcommittees for consideration in connection with the preparation of programs for research and experimental work in this country. This information is also made available promptly to the military and naval air organizations and other branches of the Government, university laboratories, and aircraft manufacturers interested in the study of specific problems.

Sixth. The committee holds itself at the service of the President, the Congress, and the executive departments of the Government for the consideration of any special problem which may be referred to it. It has in this way made special reports and recommendations regarding the Air Mail Service, the development of a system of transcontinental airways and landing fields, the extension of aerological and weather report service, the Federal regulation of air navigation, and the development of aviation generally for military and civil purposes.

The committee has established an office of aeronautical intelligence, which serves as the depository and distributing agency of the scientific and technical data on aeronautics collected by the committee from governmental and private agencies in this country and abroad, and maintains an office in Paris to collect and exchange scientific and technical data on aeronautics in France, England, Italy, Germany, Holland, and Belgium.

The committee directly conducts scientific research and experiment on the more fundamental problems of aeronautics at the Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory, at Langley Field, Va., a section of the field having been set aside by the War Department for the committee's use.

Section 10 (r) of the act of Congress approved July 2, 1926 (Public, No. 446, 69th Cong.), creating an aeronautical patents and design board, consisting of Assistant Secretaries of War, Navy, and Commerce, gave to the committee the additional duty of considering the merits of aeronautical inventions submitted to any branch of the Government and of making recommendations to the aeronautical patents and design board.

THE INTERNATIONAL JOINT COMMISSION

The International Joint Commission was created by the treaty between the United States and Great Britain signed January 11, 1909, the object of which is "to prevent disputes regarding the use of boundary waters and to settle all questions which are now pending between the United States and the Dominion of Canada involving the rights, obligations, or interests of either in relation to the other or to the inhabitants of the other, along their common frontier, and to make provision for the adjustment and settlement of all such questions as may hereafter arise."

The commission consists of six members, three appointed by the President of the United States, and three appointed by His Majesty on recommendation of the Government of Canada. It was organized in 1911, adopted rules of procedure, and established permanent offices in Washington and Ottawa. It has jurisdiction over all cases involving the use or obstruction or diversion of boundary waters between the United States and Canada, of waters flowing from boundary waters, and of waters at a lower level than the boundary in rivers flowing across the boundary.

Under Article IX of the treaty the International Joint Commission also is constituted an investigatory body, for the purpose of examining into and reporting upon any questions or matters of difference arising along the common frontier that shall be referred to it from time to time by either the Government of the United States or the Government of Canada.

Under Article X of the treaty any questions or matters of difference arising between the high contracting parties involving the rights, obligations, or interests of the United States or of the Dominion of Canada, either in relation to each other or to their respective inhabitants, may be referred for decision to the International Joint Commission, it being understood that on the part of the United States such action will be by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and on the part of Great Britain with the consent of the Government of Canada.

Under Article VI of the treaty the commission is charged with the measurement and apportionment from time to time of the waters of the St. Mary and Milk Rivers and their tributaries, these rivers lying partly in Montana and partly in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and being largely used for irrigation purposes in both countries.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES, ALASKA, AND CANADA

For defining, marking, and maintaining the boundary between the United States, Alaska, and Canada

This commission was authorized by conventions or treaties between the United States and Great Britain, as follows:

1. Southeastern Alaska, or the boundary between Alaska and British Columbia. Length, 893 miles.

Article VI of the convention between the United States and Great Britain, providing for the settlement of questions between the two countries with respect to the boundary line between the Territory of Alaska and the British possessions in North America, signed at Washington, January 24, 1903, stipulated that when the high contracting parties shall have received the decision of the tribunal upon the questions submitted as provided in the foregoing articles, which decision shall be final and binding upon all parties, they will at once appoint, each on its own behalf, one or more scientific experts, who shall with all convenient speed proceed to lay down the boundary line in conformity with such decision.

2. The boundary between Alaska and Canada, along the one hundred and forty-first meridian. Length, 647 miles.

The convention between the United States and Great Britain providing for the surveying and marking out upon the ground of the one hundred and forty-first degree of west longitude where said meridian forms the boundary line between Alaska and the British possessions in North America, signed at Washington, April 21,1906, stipulated that each Government shall appoint one commissioner, with whom may be associated such surveyors, astronomers, and other assistants as each Government may elect, who shall locate the boundary line, erect the necessary boundary marks, make the necessary surveys, and file duplicate records with their respective Governments.

3. The United States and Canada boundary from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, with the exception of the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes. Length 2,697 miles.

Articles I, II, III, V, VI, VII, and VIII, of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, entitled "Canadian International Boundary," signed at Washington, April 11, 1908, stipulated that each of the high contracting parties shall appoint without delay an expert geographer or surveyor as commissioner, and the commissioners so appointed shall jointly execute the necessary surveys, repair existing boundary marks, erect additional boundary marks, and lay down the boundary line in accordance with the existing treaties upon quadruplicate sets of accurate modern charts, prepared or adopted by them for that purpose, and that said charts so marked shall be filed with each Government, and said commissioners shall also prepare, in duplicate, and file with each Government a joint report or reports, describing in detail the course of the boundary so marked by them, and the character and location of the several monuments and boundary marks and ranges marking it.

4. Article IV of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain in respect of Canada, signed at Washington, February 24, 1925, authorizes and directs the commissioners appointed under the provisions of the treaty of April 11, 1908, to inspect the various portions of the boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada at such times as they shall deem necessary; to repair all damaged monuments and buoys; to relocate and rebuild monuments which have been destroyed; to keep the boundary vistas open; to move boundary monuments to new sites and establish such additional monuments and buoys as they shall deem desirable; to maintain at all times an effective boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada, as defined by the present treaty and treaties heretofore concluded or hereafter to be concluded; and to determine the location of any point of the boundary line which may become necessary in the settlement of any question that may arise between the two Governments.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES AND MEXICO

The International Boundary Commission, United States and Mexico, was created to carry out the provisions of conventions or treaties of 1848, 1853, 1882, 1884, 1889, and 1905 between United States and Mexico. The commission has exclusive jurisdiction of all differences or questions that may arise on boundary between United States and Mexico from Gulf of Mexico to Pacific Ocean, 2,013 miles, consisting of 1,300 miles along the Rio Grande and 20 miles along Colorado River. Also 693 miles overland boundary between El Paso, Tex., and Pacific Ocean. The commission is empowered to suspend the construction of works of any character along the Rio Grande and Colorado River that contravene with existing treaties; erect and maintain monuments along boundary; make necessary surveys of changes brought by force of current in both rivers caused by either avulsion, accretion, or erosion; mark and eliminate bancos caused by such changes; supervise maintenance of gauging stations along both rivers for proper measurement of the water flow; survey, place and maintain monuments on all international bridges between the two countries. The commission is authorized to call for papers of information relative to boundary matters from either country; hold meetings at any point questions may arise; summon witnesses and take testimony in accordance with rules of the courts of the respective countries. If both commissioners shall agree to a decision their judgment shall be binding on both Governments, unless one of them shall disapprove it within one month from the date it shall have been pronounced.

BOARD OF SURVEYS AND MAPS OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

The Board of Surveys and Maps of the Federal Government was created by Executive order of December 30, 1919, for the purpose of making recommendations to the several departments or to the President for coordinating all map making and surveying activities of the Government and to settle all questions at issue between executive departments relating to surveys and maps in so far as their decisions do not conflict with existing laws. Meetings are held at stated intervals, to which representatives of the map-using public are invited for conference and advice. A central information office has been established in the United States Geological Survey for collecting, classifying, and furnishing information concerning all map and survey data available in the several Government departments and from other sources.

THE UNITED STATES SECTION OF THE INTER-AMERICAN HIGH COMMISSION

The United States section of the Inter-American High Commission received legal recognition in an act approved February 7, 1916. It consists of the eight representatives of the United States on the commission. There are corresponding sections in the Republics of Central and South America and the West Indies. The commission was organized on the recommendation of the First Pan American Financial Conference held in Washington, May 24–29, 1915. It aims to bring about substantial uniformity in the commercial law and administrative regulations of the American Republics and more stable financial relations between Latin America and the United States, and, in general, to carry out the recommendations of the First and Second Pan American Financial Conferences, and cooperate in the formulation and effectuation of the program of the International Conferences of American States in so far as it bears directly on the purposes and work of the commission. The Second Financial Conference took place in Washington, January 19–24, 1920. The commission's work is directed by a central executive council, which is composed of the chairman, vice chairman, and secretary of the section which represents the country selected as headquarters of the commission for the interval between any two meetings. The meeting held at Buenos Aires, April 3–12, 1916, selected Washington as headquarters until the second meeting of the entire commission would take place. The officers of the United States section, therefore, now constitute the central executive council.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

The act of Congress approved June 10, 1920 (41 Stat., 1063), entitled "The Federal water power act," created the Federal Power Commission, to be composed of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Interior, and the Secretary of Agriculture. The operations of the commission are conducted under the supervision of an executive secretary, assisted by an engineer officer detailed from the United States Engineer Corps and by other individuals assigned to the work of the commission by the Departments of War, Interior, and Agriculture.

The commission has general administrative control over all power sites on the navigable waters and on the public lands and reservations of the United States, and over he location, design, construction, maintenance, and operation of power projects upon such sites, an investigation being required in the case of every application to determine whether the project proposed is best adapted to a comprehensive scheme of development of the water resources of the region, not only for power development, but also for such related uses as irrigation, navigation, flood control, and water supply. The act requires that there shall be sufficient inspection and supervision of project works to assure their adequate maintenance and efficient operation, and that the commission shall ascertain the amounts necessary to be set aside to cover depreciation and to make necessary renewals and replacements. The act requires the establishment by the commission of a system of public-utility accounting, to be made applicable to all licensees, with provisions for determining and reporting cost of projects, for creation and disposition of depreciation and amortization reserves, for allocation of earnings to project and other property, and for all the other items which enter into modern utility accounting practice. The commission is charged with the duty of regulating rates, service, and securities in intrastate business wherever the several States have not provided agencies for undertaking such duties themselves and in interstate business whenever the individual States have not the power to act or can not agree.

The commission is required to classify some 2,500,000 acres of public land within power reserves; to determine the value of power available at Government dams, and the advisability of its development for public purposes; and to fix annual rental charges for reimbursing the costs of administration and for recompensing the United States for the use of its lands and other property.

In cases where a licensee makes use of a headwater improvement, the commission determines the proper share of the annual costs to be paid by the licensee benefited; and when any project already constructed is brought under license, the commission determines its fair value.

The commission is authorized to conduct general investigations of power resources and of their relation to interstate and foreign commerce, cooperating with State and National Governments in its investigations, and to publish the results of its work in special and annual reports; and it is required to make certain special investigations and report thereon to Congress.

FEDERAL OIL CONSERVATION BOARD

The Federal Oil Conservation Board, consisting of the Secretary of the Interior, chairman, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and the Secretary of Commerce, was designated by President Coolidge December 19, 1924.

The purpose of this board is to conduct a comprehensive inquiry into national petroleum conditions concerning production, refining, distribution, and transportation, and give special attention to available future supply; to study the Government's responsibilities and to devise ways and means of safeguarding the national security through conservation of our natural petroleum resources; and to submit its findings to the President and the Congress for their consideration and such action as may be deemed proper.

The work of conducting investigations and compiling data is delegated to an advisory committee, consisting of four members appointed by the four board members from their respective departments. The technical and scientific agencies of the Government cooperate in all investigative work. The board has rendered one report treating of national conditions in the petroleum industry. A second report will deal with possible petroleum substitutes and a third report will include a full survey of world-wide petroleum resources, particularly as they relate to American petroleum conditions.

The work of the Federal Oil Conservation Board is conducted under annual appropriation by the Congress of the United States.

FEDERAL RADIO COMMISSION

The Federal Radio Commission was created by an act of Congress, dated February 22, 1927. The commission is composed of five commissioners and a secretary. Its duties are to control all broadcast activities, including ship, amateur, and point-to-point stations, within the jurisdiction of the United States, the issuance of all licenses, and the allocation of wave lengths on specific channels for the purpose of bringing about clearer and better reception and eliminating interference.

The commission sits as a court holding hearings on the appeal of any broadcaster who is dissatisfied with his allocation in the ether band.

The commission was created as a sole governing body of radiobroadcast activities for a period of one year from the first meeting. On and after one year from the first meeting of the commission all its activities will revert to the Department of Commerce, except hearings on appeals of broadcasters. The commission will then be called to sit as a court to hold hearings and decide such appeals.

UNITED STATES GEOGRAPHIC BOARD

The United States Board on Geographic Names was created by Executive order of September 4, 1890; by Executive order of August 10, 1906, the official title was changed to United States Geographic Board. That part of the latter order enlarging duties was rescinded by Executive order, December 30, 1919.

The board passes on all unsettled questions concerning geographic names which arise in the departments as well as determines, changes, and fixes place names within the United States and its insular possessions, and all names suggested by any officer or employee of the Government shall be referred to the board for consideration and approval before publication. The decisions of the board are to be accepted by all the departments of the Government as standard authority.

THE COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS

By act approved May 17, 1910, Congress created as a permanent body the national Commission of Fine Arts. The commission is "composed of seven well-qualified judges of the fine arts," who are appointed by the President and serve for a period of four years each, and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

Under the provisions of this organic act Congress directs that "It shall be the duty of the commission to advise upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia, and upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States and upon the selection of the artists for the execution of same. It shall be the duty of the officer charged by law to determine such questions in each case to call for such advice. The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the Capitol Building of the United States and the building of the Library of Congress. The commission shall also advise generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President or by any committee of either House of Congress."

By Executive order dated October 25, 1910, the President directed that "Plans for no public building to be erected in the District of Columbia for the General Government shall be hereafter finally approved by the officer duly authorized until after such officer shall have submitted the plans to the Commission of Fine Arts created under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for its comment and advice."

On February 2, 1912, the President directed the commission to advise the officer in charge of public buildings and grounds in regard to the improvement of any of the grounds in the city of Washington under his charge whenever such advice is asked for by that officer. That officer now uniformly consults the commission regarding details of the development of all the parks and reservations under his control.

On November 28, 1913, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that whenever new structures are to be erected in the District of Columbia under the direction of the Federal Government which affect in any important way the appearance of the city, or whenever questions involving matters of art and with which the Federal Government is concerned are to be determined, final action shall not be taken until such plans and questions have been submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts designated under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for comment and advice."

On July 28, 1921, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that essential matters relating to the design of medals, insignia, and coins produced by the executive departments, also the design of statues, fountains, and monuments, and all important plans for parks and all public buildings, constructed by the executive departments or the District of Columbia, which in any essential way affect the appearance of the city of Washington, or the District of Columbia, shall be submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts for advice as to the merits of such designs before the executive officer having charge of the same shall approve thereof."

In order that the development of the District of Columbia may proceed harmoniously both under Federal and District jurisdictions, the President has requested the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia to consult the Commission of Fine Arts on matters of art falling under their jurisdiction and control.

The duties of the commission, therefore, now embrace advising upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia; upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States, and the selection of the artists for their execution; also for medals, insignia, and coins; upon the plans and designs for public structures and parks in the District of Columbia, as well as upon all questions involving matters of art with which the Federal Government is concerned. In addition, the commission advises upon general questions of art whenever requested to do so by the President or any committee of Congress.

Congress has stipulated in many recent enactments that the plans for certain designated buildings, monuments, etc., must be approved by the commission before they can be accepted by the Government.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF COORDINATOR

The office of Chief Coordinator was created by Executive order promulgated in Circular No. 15, Bureau of the Budget, July 27, 1921, and the duties of this office were later enlarged by the following Budget circulars, Nos. 22, 23, 25, 26, 35, 41, 42, 47, 52, 54, and Executive Order No. 3578, dated The White House, November 8, 1921.

Subject to general supervision by the Director of the Bureau of the Budget, the chief coordinator handles all questions of coordination arising through the application of the policies of the President and of the Congress to the routine business activities of the executive branch of the Government.

FEDERAL COORDINATING AGENCIES

(Under supervision of the Chief Coordinator)

FEDERAL PURCHASING BOARD

Composed of one representative from each department and independent establishment having authority to purchase supplies. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 25 of August 25, 1921, to enable the Chief Coordinator to perform the duties of coordinating purchases throughout the several departments and establishments. It formulates policies and plans to unite purchasing activities of the several departments and establishments and to bring about business methods calculated effectively to safeguard the interests of the Government, and at the same time promote the confidence of private business interests having dealings with the Government. The board studies purchase operations with a view to determining the advisability of centralizing purchases within department, coordination among departments, utilization of surplus, and economies to be effected by combined purchases. Detailed studies are made of the requirements of the Government as a whole both as to quantities and qualities, available sources, localities, seasons of supply, means of transportation and storage, and kindred conditions involving purchase.

COORDINATOR FOR PURCHASE

Established by Executive order promulgated in Circular No 160, Bureau of the Budget, May 29, 1925, to develop and coordinate the purchasing facilities of the Government. The coordinator for purchase is the agent through whom the Federal Purchasing Board, acting for and in behalf of the separate purchasing agencies of the Government, may, with the approval of the Chief Coordinator, effect such joint procurement arrangements as may be agreed upon. He will personally, or through some department or establishment advantageously situated, issue single proposals inviting bids on individual commodities or natural groups thereof for the combined requirements of two or more departments or establishments, as recommended after study by the Federal Purchasing Board. He will also perform such additional duties in the clearance and distribution of procurement information and operations incident thereto as may be delegated to him by the Chief Coordinator.

FEDERAL LIQUIDATION BOARD

Composed of one representative from each department and establishment having sales activities. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 26 of August 25, 1921, in order to enable the Chief Coordinator to perform the duties of coordinating sales throughout the several departments and establishments. It is a coordinating and not an operating agency. It views the problems of liquidation of surplus war supplies from the standpoint of the Government as a whole, and exercises such general supervision over departmental sales operations as is necessary for the purpose of coordination and safeguarding the Government's interests. The underlying policy of the board is to decrease to a minimum by utilization of surplus stocks, the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury for procurement of supplies, and at the same time increase to a maximum the revenues accruing from the sales of surplus materials.

COORDINATION OF MOTOR TRANSPORT, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Office created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 35 of September 23, 1921, to coordinate in the interest of efficiency and economy the use of motor transportation operated under the executive departments and independent establishments of the Federal Government; investigates the proper housing and grouping of the vehicles of each department; arranges for economical repairs by Government activities; limits the number of assigned vehicles and provides for the operation of all in pools; links all pools of vehicles in the District of Columbia into a single pool for the purpose of economical operation; prevents the hire of passenger cars and trucks and additional garage space when the required service can be furnished by other Government agencies; prescribes uniform system of cost accounting throughout the Government motor transport services in the District of Columbia.

FEDERAL TRAFFIC BOARD

Formed by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 41 of October 10, 1921, for the purpose of effecting economies and better business administration throughout the Government service in the handling of passenger and freight shipments by express and parcel post, and for the utilization in a more practical way of the various carrying facilities available, both rail and water. Study of present methods in connection with settlement of transportation accounts, study of traffic problems confronting the Government departments and establishments, establishment of uniform classifications on all Government items and reclassification of items erroneously classified, handling of all questions pertaining to terminal, switching, port, lighterage charges, and general rate adjustments. The board is designed to prevent the overlapping of service and duplication of effort in the conduct of the traffic business of the Government.

FEDERAL SPECIFICATIONS BOARD

Composed of representatives from each department and independent establishment purchasing materials or services in accordance with specifications prepared in such department. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 42 of October 10, 1921, for purposes of coordination and economy in the procurement of material and services used by the Government under specifications prepared in the various branches thereof; compiles and adopts standard specifications for materials and services and brings specifications into harmony with the best commercial practice wherever the conditions permit; standardizes nomenclature and dimensions to insure ready interchangeability of supplies and interworking parts made by different manufacturers, and limits the number of types, sizes, and grades of manufactured products used by the Government.

INTERDEPARTMENTAL BOARD OF CONTRACTS AND ADJUSTMENTS

Composed of representatives from each department and independent establishment authorized by law to enter into important contracts. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 47 of November 22, 1921, for the purpose of standardizing contract forms, securing the adoption of uniform policies as regards construction work and uniform practices of intrepretation and negotiation both preceding and following the actual execution of such contracts; standardizes where possible the forms and methods of contract letting to the end that a uniform policy may control the making of contracts, with a view to such changes in form of contracts as will tend to enlist the interest of the contractor in behalf of economy and promptness of execution, as well as to eliminate those uncertainties of construction and hazards to be assumed by the contractor which have operated to increase the cost of Government work and supplies; recommends general policies in the settlement of outstanding obligations arising from contracts of the United States; acts in an advisory capacity, when requested, to review and revise important contracts and agreements, to advise as to proper interpretation of contracts in process of execution, and to assist in the negotiation of important contracts and agreements relating to personal services, supplies, or construction work.

FEDERAL REAL ESTATE BOARD

Composed of one representative from each executive department or independent establishment owning, occupying, or controlling real estate or interest therein for or in behalf of the United States. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 54 of February 18, 1922, to insure the adoption of uniform methods of procedure and for better utilization of existing Government owned or controlled real estate; supervises and coordinates all activities, except in the District of Columbia, connected with real estate or interests therein, the procurement thereof, whether for temporary or permanent use, by lease, donation, gift, or purchase, the occupancy thereof by an executive department or independent establishment of the United States Government, and the disposal thereof, under authority of Congress, by lease, license, permit to use, sell, or otherwise; standardizes the maintenance of all files and records, of grants, deeds, leases, and other instruments pertaining to real estate under the control of or in use by particular departments and the maintenance of a proper indexing system thereof.

PERMANENT CONFERENCE ON PRINTING

Composed of one representative from each executive department and independent establishment. Organized under Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 14 of July 22, 1921, to investigate and propose uniform standards, businesslike methods, and proper economies in public printing and binding and the distribution of publications. It recommends reductions in the amount of Government printing and binding through the elimination of unnecessary reports, bulletins, publications, etc; standardizes and changes specifications where necessary to reduce the cost of printing, scrutinizes requisitions from the various departments with a view to reducing the cost of work without impairing its usefulness; investigates preparation of copy for printer, cost of author's corrections, standardization of paper in relation to grades, sizes, weights, and colors; illustrations and printing in colors; standard size form and binding of publication; discontinuance of periodicals and annual reports; blank and loose-leaf forms and letterheads; rush work; duplications of departmental printing; distribution of public documents; mimeographing and multigraphing.

INTERDEPARTMENTAL BOARD ON SIMPLIFIED OFFICE PROCEDURE

Composed of one representative from each department and independent establishment; created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 137, dated May 16, 1924, with a view to promoting economy and efficiency in routine office procedure in departments and establishments through simplicity and uniformity of practice as to matters not already allocated elsewhere by law or Executive order. The board standardizes forms, other than General Accounting Office forms, used in the executive departments and establishments, where such forms lend themselves to standardization; investigates matters relating to methods of conducting correspondence, use of forms, methods of filing, and allied questions.

INTERDEPARTMENTAL PATENTS BOARD

Established by Executive order No. 3721, dated August 9, 1922. The duty of this board shall be to recommend through the Secretary of the Interior, for the approval of the President, suitable recommendations establishing the policy to be followed by the Government with respect to handling inventions and patents evolved by Government empolyees and other inventions and patents acquired by the Goverpment, to put into practice such proposed regulations thereto appertaining, approved by the President, and to disseminate proper information among the departments and other units of the Government concerning patents, applications for patents, licenses, and other rights under patents owned by the Government. On May 21, 1925, supervision of the interdepartmental patents board as a coordinating agency was assumed by the chief coordinator under the provisions of Executive Order No. 3578, dated November 8, 1921.

FEDERAL NARCOTICS CONTROL BOARD

REGULATIONS

Pursuant to the provisions of the narcotic drugs import and export act, approved May 26, 1922, the Federal Narcotics Control Board hereby prescribes the following regulations:

(1) Definitions.—(a) The term "crude opium" shall be understood to mean the spontaneously coagulated sap obtained from the soporific poppy (Papaver somniferum and related species), and which may or may not have been subjected to further drying or other treatment, thus covering all forms of opium known to the trade, such as gum opium, granulated opium, powdered opium, and deodorized (denarcotized) opium, except "smoking opium" or "opium prepared for smoking."

(b) By cocoa leaves shall be understood the leaves of Erythroxylon coca, known commercially as Huanuco coca, or the leaves of Erythroxylon truxillense, known commercially as Truxillo coca, or the leaves of any other species of Erythroxylon yielding cocaine.

(c) The term "cocaine" shall be understood to cover all forms of cocaine or its salts known to the trade.

(d) The term "derivative" shall be understood to mean any alkaloid, or salt of an alkaloid, or combination thereof, or any chemical compound prepared either directly or indirectly from the alkaloids of opium or from cocaine. It shall include morphine, codeine, ethylmorphine hydrochloride (known as dionin), or diacetyl morphine hydrochloride (known as heroin), their salts or combinations and any new derivative of morphine or cocaine, or of any salts of morphine or cocaine, or any other alkaloid of opium.

(e) The term "preparation" shall mean any product, mixture, or compound containing or representing any quantity of opium or coca leaves or any derivative thereof.

IMPORTS

(2) Ports designated for imports.—Crude opium and coca leaves (which are the only "narcotic drugs" as defined in the act that are admissible) may be imported only at the ports of Detroit, Mich., Indianapolis, Ind., New York, N. Y., Philadelphia, Pa., St. Louis, Mo., and San Francisco, Calif.

(3) Who may import.—Crude opium and coca leaves may be entered only by manufacturers actually engaged in manufacturing from such crude opium or coca leaves products for the wholesale trade for medical or other legitimate uses.

(4) Applications required.—Applications in triplicate for permission to import crude opium or coca leaves shall be made under oath on an approved form, stating all material facts, and addressed to the collector of customs at the proposed port of importation, who, after careful consideration thereof and any investigation deemed necessary, shall forward the application with his recommendation to the Federal Narcotics Control Board, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C. Such application must state the amount of the stock on hand, the usual requirements for the ensuing six months and the necessity for the proposed importation.

Upon request the collector of customs may furnish to the applicants a certified copy of the approved application for use under the laws or regulations of the exporting country.

(5) Procedure on arrival and delivery from the appraiser's warehouse.—Immediately upon the unlading of crude opium from the importing vessel the customs officer shall carefully examine the packages, note their condition, seal the packages, and cause them to be transported under customs guard and by bonded cartmen to the appraiser's warehouse, where they shall be placed in a separate, and specially protected inclosure.

The appraiser shall issue such special regulations to his employees as will insure the safe-keeping of the packages while in the warehouse.

No delivery of crude opium to the importer from the appraiser's warehouse shall be permitted until the deputy collector of customs in charge of the building and an assistant appraiser shall be satisfied and so note on the delivery permit, after personal examination, that the importer has taken all proper precautions for the safe transportation of the crude opium from the appraiser's warehouse to the importer's premises or to the premises of the common carrier if shipment is to be made.

Until otherwise ordered, however, the procedure now followed in the case of shipments of crude opium in bond between the ports designated in regulation 2 for imports will not be disturbed.

Except as specially provided in these regulations, the procedure in the case of coca leaves shall be the same as in the case of merchandise generally.

(6) Entries.—Crude opium may be entered only for consumption or for transportation in bond between the ports designated in regulation 2 for imports. Entry of either crude opium or coca leaves shall not be permitted unless the application to import has been approved by the Federal Narcotics Control Board, nor unless the merchandise has been properly described in the manifest of the importing vessel or carrier.

Coca leaves, however, may be entered, either for consumption or warehouse, or for transportation in bond to any of the ports designated in regulation 2.

(7) Importations of unusual amounts.—No amount of crude opium or coca leaves which may be imported within any certain period as necessary to provide for medical and legitimate uses only will be fixed by the board at present, but special explanation of importations of unusual amounts of such articles, either in single shipments or in the aggregate, will be required and carefully investigated by the board.

(8) Reports of stocks on hand and probable future requirements.—Importers shall render to the board, as soon as practicable after December 31 of each year, or oftener if specially required, a report of the stocks of narcotic drugs on hand and an estimate of the probable requirements for medical and legitimate uses for the next year or any other period that may hereafter be specially designated.

EXPORTS

(9) No exportation without previous approval.—No person shall take out of the United States on his person or in his baggage or offer to any carrier for transportation out of the United States, nor shall any carrier receive for exportation or export out of the United States, any narcotic drug unless and until an application for permission to export shall have been approved by the Federal Narcotics Control Board.

(10) Applications.—Applications in triplicate for permission to export narcotic drugs shall be made under oath on an approved form, stating all the material facts, and addressed to the nearest collector of customs sufficiently early to permit of orderly procedure and any necessary investigation. With this application, the shippers' export declaration in due form shall also be submitted, together with any import license (and a translation thereof if in a foreign language) or a certified copy of any such license, that may have been issued by the country of destination, or other evidence that the merchandise is consigned to an authorized permittee.

Verification by an American consular officer of signatures on foreign import licenses will not be necessary if such licenses bear the official seal of the officer signing them.

After careful consideration of such application, and after any investigation deemed necessary, the collector shall forward the application to the board with his recommendation.

(11) Labeling of packages.—In lieu of the marking on the outside of the packages required in the previous regulations (T. D. 38381), the inner packages shall be labeled in a legible and conspicuous manner to show the narcotic character of the contents.

(12) Opening and inspection of packages.—The collector of customs may require packages offered for export to be opened and may inspect the contents thereof.

IN-TRANSIT SHIPMENTS

(13) In-transit shipments transferred in the United States or remaining on board the transporting vessel.—Each in-transit shipment under section 2 (subsection 5) of the act, will be considered by the board on its individual merits, but in general the regulations governing exports will be applied so far as practicable, except that the collector of customs may permit narcotic drugs, other than smoking opium or opium prepared for smoking, to be retained on board a vessel arriving from a foreign port which are shown on the manifest to be destined to another foreign port.

Articles in transit manifested merely as drugs, medicines, or chemicals, without evidence to satisfy the collector that they are nonnarcotic, shall be detained and subjected at the carrier's risk and expense to such examination as may be necessary to satisfy the collector whether they are of a narcotic character. With a view to avoiding such inconvenience, the carrier should not accept in-transit shipments of such articles unless accompanied by properly verified certificates of the shippers, specifying the items in the shipment and stating whether narcotic or not.

GENERAL

(14) Importations or exportations by mail prohibited.—The importation or exportation of narcotic drugs in the regular mails or by parcel post will not be permitted.

(15) Vessels' stores.—Collectors may permit narcotic drugs in reasonable quantity and properly listed as medical stores of vessels to remain on such vessels if satisfied that such drugs are adequately safe-guarded and used only for medical purposes. Smoking opium or opium prepared for smoking shall be seized, however, whenever and wherever found.

(16) Custody and disposition of narcotic drugs forfeited or not claimed.—All narcotic drugs which are forfeited in proceedings for condemnation, or not claimed as provided by law, or which are summarily forfeited as provided in subdivision (d), subsection 2, section 1, of the act, shall be reported to the secretary of the board on a form provided by the Treasury Department for that purpose, and retained by the officer reporting the same as custodian for the board pending their disposition. Two committees, each consisting of three employees of the Treasury Department shall be appointed by the secretary of the board, the duties of each of which shall be to examine, weigh, inventory, and destroy such drugs as he may direct. Each committee shall make report to the secretary of the board of all such drugs destroyed immediately upon completing such destruction.

(17) Violations of the law to be reported.—Collectors of customs shall report to the United States attorney and to the board any violations of the law which they may discover.

(18) Compliance with other laws and regulations applicable is necessary.—All regulations of or action by the board is subject to the provisions of the customs, internal revenue, and other laws and regulations applicable.

(19) Emergency regulations superseded.—These regulations supersede the emergency regulations published in T. D. 39154 of June 12, 1922.

(20) Previous licenses valid.—Authorizations to import or export issued prior to the taking effect hereof by the Division of Customs, Treasury Department, under the provisions of the regulations published in T. D. 39154 of June 12, 1922, will continue valid.

(21) Secretary and assistant secretary of the board.—Under date of March 10, 1923, the board designated Mr. L. G. Nutt, head of the Narcotic Division, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury Department, as its secretary, with authority to act upon applications and conduct correspondence for and on behalf of the board. Mr. M. R. Livingston, chief of the returns section of said division, is hereby designated as assistant secretary of the board, to perform such duties in connection therewith as the secretary of the board may direct.

(22) Time of taking effect.—These regulations shall take effect October 15, 1922.

PERSONNEL CLASSIFICATION BOARD

The Personnel Classification Board was created by an act of Congress approved March 4, 1923. It is an ex officio board, consisting of the Director of the Bureau of the Budget or an alternate from that bureau designated by the director, a member of the Civil Service Commission or an alternate from the commission designated by the commission, and the Chief of the United States Bureau of Efficiency or an alternate from that bureau designated by the chief of the bureau. The Director of the Bureau of the Budget, or his alternate, is chairman of the board. The board is charged with the carrying out of the requirements of the above-mentioned act, which provides for the classification of civilian positions of the Federal Government within the District of Columbia.

AMERICAN BATTLE MONUMENTS COMMISSION

The American Battle Monuments Commission was created by an act of Congress approved March 4, 1923, for the purpose of preparing plans for, and erecting suitable memorials to mark and commemorate the services of the American forces in Europe, including works of architecture and art in the American cemeteries in Europe. The act creating the commission charges it with the duties of controlling as to materials and design, providing regulations for, and supervising the erection of all memorial monuments and buildings in the American cemeteries in Europe. To the commission is given the function of photographing the battle fields of Europe upon which American forces were engaged, in order to complete the historical records of these forces.

The commission is directed to cooperate, in such manner as it shall determine, with American citizens, States, municipalities, and associations desiring to erect war memorials in Europe, providing that the plans for such memorials have been approved by the commission in accordance with the provisions of the act.

The act requires that the National Commission of Fine Arts have supervision over all designs or materials for memorials used by the commission.

The commission is authorized to receive funds from any State, municipal, or private source for the purposes of its work, and is also permitted to furnish replicas of any memorial, or part thereof, at actual cost, applying the proceeds of such sales to the purposes of the commission.

A joint resolution of Congress, approved July 3, 1926, authorizes the Secretary of War to secure designs for the completion of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the Arlington National Cemetery and provides that the accepted designs for such tomb shall be subject to the approval of the Arlington Cemetery Commission, the National Commission of Fine Arts, and the American Battle Monuments Commission.

INLAND WATERWAYS CORPORATION

The Inland Waterways Corporation is charged with the direction of the duties incident to the development of national inland waterway transportation as delegated to the Secretary of War under the transportation act of 1920 and by Public 185, approved June 3, 1924. This corporation supervises the maintenance of barge lines operated by the Government on several important water routes; investigates types of floating and terminal equipment suitable for various waterways, as well as tariff and interchange arrangements between rail and water carriers and other matters tending to promote and encourage waterway traffic; and in general functions as the official governmental inland waterways bureau.

OFFICE OF PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND PUBLIC PARKS OF THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

The Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital is an independent establishment created by the act approved February 26, 1925 (Public, No. 478, Sixty-eighth Congress) and in its relation to public buildings and public parks succeeded to the duties and prerogatives of the Office of Superintendent, State, War, and Navy Department Building, and the Office of Public Buildings and Grounds.

The director has charge of the maintenance and operation of the buildings under his custody, including the care of the grounds, heating, lighting, repairing, altering and cleaning the buildings, and the forces provided therefor. He is also responsible for the safety of the buildings and the personnel housed therein and has charge of the guarding and fire-fighting force authorized by Congress.

The director also has charge of the care, maintenance, improvement, and policing of the public grounds, parks, monuments, and memorials in the District of Columbia, including recreational activities conducted on the public grounds under the supervision of this office.

ROCK CREEK AND POTOMAC PARKWAY COMMISSION

The Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway Commission was created by section 22 of the public buildings act approved March 4, 1913, for the purpose of preventing the pollution and obstruction of Rock Creek and of connecting Potomac

Park with the Zoological Park and Rock Creek Park, and were authorized and directed to acquire by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, such land and premises in the District of Columbia shown on the map on file in the office of the Engineer Commissioner of the District of Columbia, dated May 17, 1911, and lying on both sides of Rock Creek, including such portion of the creek bed as may be in private ownership between the Zoological Park and Potomac Park. Said map was subsequently revised and is now on file in the office of the executive and disbursing officer and known as the map of the Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway, dated May, 1923.

The land when acquired becomes part of the park system of the District of Columbia, under the Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks. It is estimated that six-sevenths of the land within the taking lines has been acquired.

NATIONAL CAPITAL PARK AND PLANNING COMMISSION

The National Capital Park Commission was created by the act approved June 6, 1924 (Public, No. 202, Sixty-eighth Congress) for the purpose of preserving the flow of water in Rock Creek, preventing the pollution of Rock Creek and the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers, preserving forests and natural scenery in and about Washington, and to provide for the comprehensive, systematic, and continuous development of the park, parkway, and playground system of the National Capital. The officer in charge of public buildings and grounds was designated as the executive and disbursing officer of the commission, but the act of February 26, 1925, devolves that duty upon the Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital.

The commission was authorized and directed to acquire such lands as in its judgment shall be necessary and desirable in the District of Columbia, and (by agreement with Maryland and Virginia authorities), adjacent areas in Maryland and Virginia, for suitable development of the National Capital park, parkway, and playground system.

By act of April 30, 1926, the name of the commission was changed to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The same officials named in the former act were retained as members, and the President was authorized to add "four eminent citizens well qualified and experienced in city planning, one of whom shall be a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia," to be appointed, after the original appointments, for the term of six years, to serve without compensation. The new commission retained all the powers of the park commission and was given further important advisory powers. It was charged with the duty of preparing, developing, and maintaining a comprehensive, consistent, and coordinated plan for the National Capital and its environs, which plan shall include recommendations to the proper executive authorities as to traffic and transportation, plats and subdivisions; highways, parks, and parkways; school and library sites; playgrounds; drainage, sewer, and water supply; housing, building, and zoning regulations; public and private buildings; bridges and water fronts; commerce and industry; and other proper elements of city and regional planning. Paragraph (c) transfers to this commission the power previously vested in the highway commission, namely, the approval or revision of the recommendations of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for changes in the existing highway plan. Paragraph (d) vested the new commission with all the powers of the original National Capital Park Commission.

The President appointed as the additional members, Mr. Frederick Law Olmsted, of Brookline, Mass., and California; Mr. J. C. Nichols, of Kansas City, Mo.; Mr. Frederic A. Delano, of the District of Columbia; and Mr. Milton B. Medary, jr., of Philadelphia, Pa.

ARLINGTON MEMORIAL BRIDGE COMMISSION

The Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission was created by section 23 of the public buildings act approved March 4, 1913, for the purpose of investigating and reporting to Congress a suitable design for a memorial bridge across the Potomac River from the city of Washington to a point at or near the Arlington estate, in the State of Virginia.

Although the above-mentioned act of 1913 authorized the expenditure of $25,000, it was not until nine years later that an appropriation was made in the executive and independent offices appropriation act approved June 12, 1922.

The act approved February 24, 1925, authorized and directed the commission to proceed at once with the construction of a memorial bridge across the Potomac

River from the vicinity of the Lincoln Memorial, in the city of Washington, to an appropriate point in the State of Virginia, including appropriate approaches, roads, streets, boulevards, avenues, and walks leading thereto on both sides of said river, together with the landscape features appertaining thereto, all in accordance with the design, surveys, and estimates of cost transmitted by said commission to Congress under date of April 22, 1924, and authorized the total sum not to exceed $14,750,000.

The deficiency act approved, March 4, 1925 (Public, No. 631, 68th Cong.), appropriated the sum of $500,000 to enable the commission to proceed with the construction of the bridge.

COURT OF CLAIMS OF THE UNITED STATES

This court was established by act of Congress February 24, 1855 (10 Stat. L. 612). It is has general jurisdiction (36 Stat. L. 1135) of all "claims founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, except for pensions, or upon any regulations of an executive department, or upon any contract, express or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect of which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States, either in a court of law, equity, or admiralty, if the United States were suable, except claims growing out of the late Civil War and commonly known as war claims," and certain rejected claims.

It has jurisdiction also of claims of like character which may be referred to it by the head of any executive department involving controverted questions of fact or law. In all the above-mentioned cases the court, when it finds for the claimant, may enter judgment against the United States, payable out of the Public Treasury.

Under section 3 of the act of February 13, 1925, the Court of Claims may certify to the Supreme Court any definite and distinct questions of law concerning which instructions are desired for the proper disposition of the cause; and also in any case the Supreme Court upon the petition of either party may require by certiorari that the cause be certified to it for review and determination.

It also has jurisdiction of the claims of disbursing officers of the United States for relief from responsibility for losses of Government funds and property by capture or otherwise, without negligence, while in the line of duty.

There is a statue of limitations which prevents parties from bringing actions on their own motion beyond six years after the cause of action accrued, but the departments may refer claims at any time if they were pending therein within the six years.

By the act of March 2, 1919 (40 Stat., 772), known as the Dent Act, the Court of Claims is given jurisdiction of the class of war claims therein specified. In these cases the action of the Secretary of War upon the claim, or his failure to act thereon, is a condition precedent to the right of the claimant to commence an action in the Court of Claims.

The court also has jurisdiction of actions provided for by certain statutes passed during the last war permitting the seizure of property by the Government.

By section 151, Judicial Code (36 Stat. L., 1135), whenever any bill, except for a pension, is pending in either House of Congress providing for the payment of a claim against the United States, legal or equitable, or for a grant, gift, or bounty to any person, the House in which such bill is pending may, for the investigation and determination of facts, refer the same to the Court of Claims, which shall proceed with the same in accordance with such rules as it may adopt and report to such House the facts in the case and the amount, where the same can be liquidated, including any facts bearing upon the question whether there has been delay or laches in presenting such claim or applying for such grant, gift, or bounty, and any facts bearing upon the question whether the bar of any statute of limitation should be removed or which shall be claimed to excuse the claimant for not having resorted to any established legal remedy, together with such conclusions as shall be sufficient to inform Congress of the nature and character of the demand, either as a claim, legal or equitable, or as a gratuity against the United States, and the amount, if any, legally or equitably due from the United States to the claimant: Provided, however, That if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court upon the facts established that under existing laws or the provisions of this chapter, the subject matter of the bill is such that it has jurisdiction to render judgment or decree thereon, it shall proceed to do so, giving to either party such further opportunity for hearing as in its judgment justice shall require, and it shall report its proceedings therein to the House of Congress by which the same was referred to said court.

Section 5, act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat., 996), provides: "That from and after the passage and approval of this act the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims shall not extend to or include any claim against the United States based upon or growing out of the destruction of any property or damage done to any property by the military or naval forces of the United States during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, nor to any claim for stores and supplies taken by or furnished to or for the use of the military or naval forces of the United States, nor to any claim for the value of any use and occupation of any real estate by the military or naval forces of the United States during said war; nor shall said Court of Claims have jurisdiction of any claim which is now barred by the provisions of any law of the United States."

By act of March 3, 1891, chapter 538 (26 Stat. L., 851, and Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 913), the court is vested with jurisdiction of certain Indian depredation claims.

The act of June 25, 1910, chapter 423 (36 Stat. L., 851–852), "An act to provide additional protection for owners of patents of the United States, and for other purposes," conferred a new jurisdiction.

There are five judges, who sit together in the hearing of cases, the concurrence of three of whom is necessary for the decision of any case.

All claims are prosecuted in the Court of Claims by an action commenced by the filing of a petition and prosecuted in accordance with the rules of the court, copies of which rules can be obtained upon application to the clerk of the court.

The court is located at Washington, D. C., in the old Corcoran Art Building, Seventeenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. The term begins on the first Monday in December each year and continues until the Saturday before the first Monday in December. Cases may be commenced and entered at any time, whether the court be in session or not.

ORIGIN AND FORM OF GOVERNMENT

The District of Columbia was established under the authority and direction of acts of Congress approved July 16, 1790, and March 3, 1791, which were passed to give effect to a clause in the eighth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States, giving Congress the power—

"To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such District (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the Government of the United States; and to exercise like authority over all places purchased, by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings."

The seat of Government of the United States was first definitely named by the following clause in the act entitled "An act providing a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia," approved June 11, 1878, as follows: "That all territory which was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States, for the permanent seat of Government of the United States, shall continue to be designated as the District of Columbia" (20 Stat. 102), although it had been incidentally mentioned as such in several preceding statutes.

It embraces an area of 69.245 square miles, of which 60.01 square miles are land. The river boundary is high-water mark along the Virginia shore of the Potomac River.

The local government of the District of Columbia is a municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the territory which "was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States for the permanent seat of the Government of the United States." (20 Stat. 102.)

This government is administered by a board of three commissioners having in general equal powers and duties. (20 Stat. 103.)

Two of these commissioners, who must have been actual residents of the District for three years next before their appointment and have during that period claimed residence nowhere else, are appointed from civil life by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate of the United States for a term of three years each and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The other commissioner is detailed from time to time by the President of the United States from the Engineer Corps of the United States Army, and shall not be required to perform any other duty. (Ib.) This commissioner shall be selected from among the captains or officers of higher grade having served at least 15 years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army of the United States. (26 Stat. 1113.)

Three officers of the same corps, junior to said commissioner, may be detailed to assist him by the President of the United States. (28 Stat. 246.)

The senior officer of the Corps of Engineers of the Army, who shall for the time being be detailed to act as assistant (and in case of his absence from the District, or disability, the junior officer so detailed), shall, in the event of the absence from the District, or disability, of the commissioner, who shall for the time being be detailed from the Corps of Engineers, perform all the duties imposed by law upon said commissioner. (26 Stat. 1113.)

One of said commissioners shall be chosen president of the board of commissioners at their first meeting and annually and whenever a vacancy shall occur. (20 Stat. 103.)

The commissioners are in a general way vested with jurisdiction covering all the ordinary features of municipal government and are also members of the Zoning Commission. (37 Stat. 974.)

The expenditures of the District of Columbia are based upon estimates annually prepared by the commissioners and submitted by them to Congress through the Bureau of the Budget. To the extent to which it shall approve of said estimates, Congress shall appropriate a proportion out of the Treasury of the United States. The remainder of the amount of such approved estimates shall be levied and assessed upon the taxable property and privileges in said District other than the property of the United States and of the District of Columbia. (Act approved June 11, 1878; 20 Stat. 104.) At present $9,000,000 is paid out of the Treasury of the United States and the remainder out of the revenues derived from taxation of private property and privileges. "All taxes collected shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and the same, as well as appropriations to be made by Congress as aforesaid, shall be disbursed for the expenses of said District, on itemized vouchers, which shall have been audited and approved by the auditor of the District of Columbia, certified by said commissioners or a majority of them." (Ib. 105.)

Congress has by sundry statutes empowered the commissioners to make building regulations; plumbing regulations; to make and enforce all such reasonable and usual police regulations as they may deem necessary for the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property within the District, and other regulations of a municipal nature.

RULES GOVERNING PRESS GALLERIES

1. Persons desiring admission to the press galleries of Congress shall make application to the Speaker, as required by Rule XXXV of the House of Representatives, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by Rule VI for the regulation of the Senate Wing of the Capitol; and shall state in writing the names of all newspapers or publications or news associations by which they are employed, and what other occupation or employment they may have, if any; and they shall further declare that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims pending before Congress or the departments, and will not become so engaged while allowed admission to the galleries; that they are not employed in any legislative or executive department of the Government, or by any foreign Government or any representative thereof, and that they are not employed, directly or indirectly, by any stock exchange, board of trade, or other organization, or member thereof, or brokerage house, or broker, engaged in the buying and selling of any security or commodity or by any person or corporation having legislation before Congress, and will not become so engaged while retaining membership in the galleries. Holders of visitor's cards who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to the restrictions of this rule.

2. The applications required by the above rule shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the standing committee of correspondents, who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide correspondents of reputable standing in their business, who represent daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service; and it shall be the duty of the standing committee at their discretion, to report violation of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker, or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and pending action thereon the offending correspondent may be suspended.

3. Persons engaged in other occupations whose chief attention is not given to newspaper correspondence or to newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service shall not be entitled to admission to the press galleries; and the Press List in the Congressional Directory shall be a list only of persons whose chief attention is given to telegraphic correspondence for daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service.

4. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to the privileges of the galleries.

5. The press galleries shall be under the control of the standing committee of correspondents, subject to the approval and supervision of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Senate Committee on Rules.

Approved:

NICHOLAS LONGWORTH,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Approved by the Committee on Rules of the Senate.

JAY G. HAYDEN, Chairman.
MARK THISTLETHWAITE.
ROBERT B. SMITH.
