[1] Until within recent years the appointment or election of a President pro tempore was held by the Senate to be for the occasion only, so that more than one appears in several sessions and in others none was chosen. Since Mar. 12, 1890, they have served until "the Senate otherwise ordered."

[2] The Constitution (Art. I, sec. 4) provided that "The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year * * * on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day." Pursuant to a resolution of the Continental Congress, the first session of the First Congress convened Mar. 4, 1789. Up to and including May 20, 1820, 18 acts were passed providing for the meeting of Congress on other days in the year. Since that year Congress has met regularly on the first Monday in December. The first and second sessions of the First Congress were held in New York City; subsequently, including the first session of the Sixth Congress, Philadelphia was the meeting place; since then Congress has convened in Washington.

[3] Elected to count the vote for President and Vice President, which was done Apr. 6, 1789, a quorum of the Senate then appearing for the first time. John Adams, Vice President, appeared Apr. 21, 1789, and took his seat as President of the Senate.

[4] Elected Speaker pro tempore for Apr. 20, 1798, and again for May 28, 1798.

THE CAPITOL

This building is situated on a plateau 88 feet above the level of the Potomac River and covers an area of 153,112 square feet, or approximately 3½ acres. Its length, from north to south, is 751 feet 4 inches; its width, including approaches, is 350 feet; and its location is described as being in latitude 38° 53′ 20.4″ north and longitude 77° 00′ 35.7″ west from Greenwich. Its height above the base line on the east front to the top of the Statue of Freedom is 287 feet 5½ inches. The dome is built of iron, and the aggregate weight of material used in its construction is 8,909,200 pounds.

The Statue of Freedom surmounting the dome is entirely of bronze and weighs 14,985 pounds. It was modeled by Thomas Crawford, father of Francis Marion Crawford, the novelist, in Rome, Italy, and the plaster model shipped to this country. It was cast in bronze at the shops of Clark Mills, on the Bladensburg Road, not far from the city of Washington. The cost of the bronze casting and the expenses in connection therewith were $20,796.82, and, as the sculptor Crawford was paid $3,000 for the plaster model, the entire cost of the statue was $23,796.82. It was erected and placed in its present position December 2, 1863.

The grounds have an area of 58.8 acres, at one time a part of Cern Abby Manor, and at an early date was occupied by a subtribe of the Algonquin Indians known as the Powhatans, whose council house was then located at the foot of the hill.

SELECTION OF A SITE FOR THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

It may seem strange that, in the selection of the 10 miles square for the territory in which the National Capital should find a home, a locality was selected with but a meager population. It may have been the intent to found a capital which should develop its own particular surroundings instead of attempting to conform with conditions then existing. But the principal reason was the lesson learned from European experiences, where the location of the country's capital in a large city offered an opportunity for the coercion of legislators by the citizens of the capital. From the inception of the Continental Congress, either through necessity or voluntarily, it had moved from Philadelphia to Baltimore, Lancaster, York, Princeton, Annapolis, Trenton, and New York City. Philadelphia seems to have been the favorite location, and it was from this city that the Federal Congress, organized in New York City, took up its abode until its removal to Washington, in the year 1800.

The original 10 miles square was formed from territory donated by Virginia and Maryland, and the cornerstone was erected and fixed on April 15, 1791, at Hunters Point, just south of Alexandria, Va. This area remained intact until the year 1846, when the Congress transferred to Virginia the portion furnished by that State.

PLANS FOR THE CAPITOL BUILDING

Following the selection of a site for the Capital, some little time elapsed before advertisements appeared offering a prize of $500, or a medal of the same value, to be awarded for the "most approved plan" for a Capitol Building. Some 14 plans were submitted—some writers claim 16—but of these plans none was wholly satisfactory. In October 1792, Dr. William Thornton, a versatile physician of Tortola, West Indies, requested by letter an opportunity to present a plan as within the terms of the original advertisement. The request was granted and his plan accepted by the commissioners on April 5, 1793.

Affairs seemed to move rapidly in those days, for on September 18, 1793, the cornerstone was laid with Masonic ceremonies in the southeast corner of the north section of the building, now designated as the Supreme Court section of the Capitol. Thornton's plan provided for a central section nearly square in area, surmounted by a low dome, this central section to be flanked on the north and south by rectangular buildings, with a length of 126 feet and a width of 120 feet. The northern wing was the first completed, and in this small building the legislative and judicial branches of the Government, as well as the courts of the District of Columbia, were accommodated at the time of the removal of the Government from Philadelphia in the year 1800.

BUILDING OF THE OLD CAPITOL

In the development of the accepted plans of Dr. William Thornton in the erection of the first unit of the building—the present Supreme Court section—three architects were employed—Stephen H. Hallett, George Hadfield, and James Hoban, the architect of the White House. The erection of the southern section of the Capitol, which is now occupied by Statuary Hall, was under the charge of B. H. Latrobe, and in 1811 the House of Representatives, which had previously met in the Supreme Court section of the Capitol and in a temporary brick building within the walls of the southern wing, commenced the occupancy of this new Legislative Chamber. A wooden passageway connected the two buildings. This condition existed when the interior of both buildings was burned by the British on August 24, 1814.

The work of reconstruction of the damaged interiors was commenced by B. H. Latrobe, who continued the work of restoration until December, 1817, when he resigned, and Charles Bulfinch, a prominent architect of Boston, Mass., continued the work of restoration and the erection of the central portion of the building, commencing in 1818 and continuing until its completion in 1827.

During the period of restoration and completion the Congress met, for its first session after the fire, in Blodget's Hotel at Seventh and E Streets, and soon thereafter in a building erected for that purpose on First Street NE., occupying a portion of the site recently selected for the United States Supreme Court Building. They continued this occupancy until 1819, when the Capitol was again ready for occupancy.

The original Capitol as completed was built of Aquia Creek (Va.) sandstone, procured from quarries owned by the Government. This structure was 352 feet 4 inches in length and 229 feet in depth. The central portion was surmounted by a low dome, and the sandstone interior was unchanged when the new dome was erected in a later period. The cost of this original building, including the grading of the grounds, repairs, etc., up to the year 1827, was $2,433,844.13.

Following the completion of the old Capitol in 1827, and the termination of the services of the architect, Charles Bulfinch, in 1830, such architectural services as were needed were performed by different architects until the year 1851, when the building of the present Senate and House wings was commenced, the plans of Thomas U. Walter having been selected in preference to others submitted On July 4, 1851, the corner stone of the extensions was laid in the northeast corner of the House wing. The oration was delivered by Daniel Webster, and his prophetic utterances on that occasion have been quoted many times. In the building of the Senate and House wings the exterior marble came from the quarries of Lee, Mass., and the columns from quarries of Cockeysville, Md.

The addition of the Senate and House wings made the construction of a new dome necessary for the preservation of architectural symmetry. The greatest exterior diameter of the dome is 135 feet 5 inches. The rotunda is 97 feet in diameter, and its height from the floor to where the dome closes in at the base of the lantern is 180 feet 3 inches.

The Capitol has a floor area of 14 acres, and 430 rooms are devoted to office, committee, and storage purposes. There are 14,518 square feet of skylights, 679 windows, and 550 doorways. The dome receives light through 108 windows, and from the architect's office to the dome there are 365 steps, one for each day of the year.

In 1853, according to the report of Randolph Coyle, civil engineer, the Capitol Grounds contained approximately 29.32 acres. The present area is 58.8 acres. Contained in the grounds are 10.33 acres of cement sidewalks and 8.65 acres of asphalt driveways, and more than 800 trees and 3,500 shrubs surround the building.

At this time the enlarging of the Capitol Grounds is in progress. The grounds will contain, with the area included in the office buildings for the use of the Senate and the House of Representatives, more than 120 acres.

During the 35 years following the completion of the Capitol additional ground was acquired in order to obtain a better landscape surrounding in keeping with the enlarged Capitol. The terraces were built on the north, west, and south sides of the building. These changes resulted in an improved appearance of the building, which still remained in an incomplete condition, as the east front had not been extended as contemplated by the plans of Thomas U. Walter, under whose direction the Senate and House wings had been added and the new dome constructed.

An increased membership of the Senate and House resulted in a demand for additional rooms for the accommodation of the Senators and Representatives, and on March 3, 1903, the Congress authorized the erection of a fireproof office building for the use of the House Members as office and committee rooms. The first brick was laid July 5, 1905, in square No. 690, and formal exercises were held at the laying of the corner stone on April 14, 1906, in which President Roosevelt participated. The building was completed and occupied January 10, 1908. A subsequent change in the basis of congressional representation made necessary the building of an additional story. The entire cost of the building, including site, amounted to $4,860,155.71. This office building contains 690 rooms, and was considered at the time of its completion fully equipped for all of the needs of a modern building for office purposes.

The demand for a new building to be used for offices was greater for the Representatives, on account of the large number forming the membership of that body, and because the Members of the Senate were supplied with additional office space by the purchase of the Maltby Building, located on the northwest corner of B Street and New Jersey Avenue NW. However, the acquisition of this building supplied but a temporary purpose, and its condemnation as an unsafe structure created on the part of the Senators a desire for safer and more commodious quarters. Accordingly, square 686, on the northeast corner of Delaware Avenue and B Street NE., was purchased as a site for the Senate Office Building, and the plans for the House Office Building were adapted for the Senate Office Building, the only change being the omission of the additional story and the further omission of the fourth side of the building fronting on First Street NE., this being planned for but not completed. The corner stone of this building was laid without special exercises on July 31, 1906, and the building was completed and occupied March 5, 1909; it cost, including site and furnishings, $5,019,251.09.

During the development of the plans for fireproof office buildings for occupancy by the Senators and Representatives, the question of heat, light, and power was considered. The Senate and House wings of the Capitol were heated by separate heating plants. The Library of Congress also had in use a heating plant for that building, and it was finally determined that the solution of the heating and lighting, with power for elevators, could be adequately met by the construction of a central power plant to furnish all heat and power, as well as light, for the Capitol group of buildings.

Having determined the need of a central power plant, a site was selected in Garfield Park, bounded by New Jersey Avenue, South Capitol Street, Virginia Avenue, and B Street SE. This park being a Government reservation, an appropriation of money was not required to secure title. The determining factors leading to the selection of this site were its nearness to the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad and its convenient distance to the river and the buildings to be cared for by the plant.

The dimensions of the Capitol power plant are 244 feet 8 inches by 117 feet, with a height over the boiler room of 81 feet to accommodate the coal bunkers. A recent additional building, for accommodation of shops and storerooms, is located near the power plant and is built of selected red brick, it being 90 feet long, 50 feet wide, and 2 stories high. The building is located upon concrete foundations resting upon 790 simplex reinforced concrete piles; the superstructure is of red brick. There are custodis radial brick chimneys 212 feet in height and 11 feet in diameter at the top.

The buildings served by the power plant are connected by a reinforced concrete steam tunnel 7 feet high by 4½ feet wide, with walls approximately 12 inches thick. This tunnel originally ran from the power plant to the Senate Office Building, with connecting tunnels for the House Office Building, the Capitol, and the Library of Congress, and has since been extended to the Government Printing Office and the Washington City Post Office, with steam lines extended to serve the new House Office Building, the Supreme Court Building, the Annex to the Library of Congress, and the relocated Botanic Garden.

Under legislation contained in authorization act of January 10, 1929, and in the urgent deficiency bill of March 4, 1929, provisions were made for a new House Office Building, to be located on the west side of New Jersey Avenue (opposite the first House Office Building).

This building was completed and ready for beneficial occupancy April 20, 1933. It contains 251 2-room suites, 16 committee rooms; each suite and committee room being provided with a storeroom. Eight floors are occupied by Members; the basement and subbasement by shops and mechanics needed for the proper maintenance of the building.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

ORIGIN AND FORM OF GOVERNMENT

The District of Columbia was established under the authority and direction of acts of Congress approved July 16, 1790, and March 3, 1791, which were passed to give effect to a clause in the eighth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States giving Congress the power—

"To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the State in which the Same shall be, for the erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other needful Buildings;—"

The States of Maryland and Virginia made cessions contemplated by this clause in the years 1788 and 1789, respectively. From the cessions tendered by the two States was selected the territory for the permanent seat of the General Government. This territory was 10 miles square, lying on either side of the Potomac River at the head of navigation. Later, 1846, Congress retroceded to Virginia that portion ceded by it. The Maryland or retained portion is approximately 70 square miles.

The seat of government of the United States was first definitely named by the clause in the act entitled "An act providing a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia," approved June 11, 1878, as follows: "That all territory which was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States, for the permanent seat of government of the United States, shall continue to be designated as the District of Columbia" (20 Stat. 102), although it had been incidentally mentioned as such in several preceding statutes.

The land within the ceded territory was owned by a number of people. In Georgetown President Washington negotiated with the proprietors or landowners of that portion of the ceded territory selected as the site of the city of Washington, which comprised about 10 per cent of the area of the present District of Columbia. On the second day, March 30, 1791, he concluded an agreement which was put in writing and signed by the proprietors. By it the President was given sole power to lay off streets as he pleased. These proprietors conveyed their holdings to trustees named by the President to hold title to the same during the laying out of the Federal city and then convey as agreed to the United States and the proprietors, respectively. Under this agreement the proprietors donated to the United States all of the lands for the streets and one-half of the city lots throughout the entire city. Sites reserved by the United States for the public buildings, parks, and other public purposes were paid for by the United States in Maryland money the equivalent to $66.66 per acre. Such payment, amounting to $36,099, was made out of the proceeds from the sale of some of the lots which these proprietors had donated to the United States. This was the only purchase price paid by the United States for any part of the entire acquisition of 5,128 acres for the purpose of building the Capital City.

The land within the original city of Washington comprised a total of 6,111 acres and was divided to the United States 4,147 acres—3,606 acres for streets and 541 acres for public purposes. The remaining 1,964 acres was divided into squares and the squares into lots. The whole number of lots was 20,272—10,136 to the United States and the same number to the proprietors.

Thomas Jefferson, then Secretary of State, declared the liberality of the proprietors was "noble."

The United States lots were sold from time to time, chiefly before 1800 and up to 1835 and brought $741,024.45. (Senate Doc. 247, 64th Cong., 1st sess., p. 23.) This was a considerable sum as compared with the average annual income of the Federal Government during the 12 years from 1789 to 1800, it being about 13 per cent of that average of about $5,600,000. The lots which still remained the property of the United States after gifts of them to charitable and literary institutions were sold about September, 1865, for a moderate sum.

The proceeds from the sales of the Government lots were largely applied to the erection of the original Government buildings and improvements in their immediate neighborhood. The funds for these buildings were supplemented by grants of $120,000 by the State of Virginia and $72,000 by the State of Maryland. (H. R. Report 269, 21st Cong., 1st sess., Doc. No. 5, p. 47.) Both President Washington and President Jefferson expected the sale of these lots, if properly conserved, would not only provide ample funds for the erection of the public buildings without charge upon the lean Federal Treasury but would leave what Jefferson termed "the residuary interest of the city" which it was intended to be used for streets and other city improvements. The failure of the Government to make these expected improvements so retarded the appreciation of values of the lots that the Government's prospective income from this source fell far short of expectations. The landowners who had so generously given their land to the Government as well as those who had been induced to purchase failed to realize the enhancement of value of their lots because of the failure of expected abutting and community improvements. The faith of Mr. Jefferson and the proprietors matched, but their fond hopes were not realized. The original proprietor of the land whereon is the Capitol Building, Daniel Carroll, of Duddington, in 1837 wrote "that the unfortunate proprietors are generally brought to ruin," who, "were so wild as to suppose that the donation was so great the Government might pave the streets with ingots of gold or silver."

The city was planned and partly laid out by Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant, a French engineer. This work was perfected and completed by Maj. Andrew Ellicott. The building of the city and the erection of the public buildings was in charge of three commissioners selected by the President and subject to his direction.

When the Government establishment was moved in 1800 there existed within the 10 miles square two municipal corporations; the Corporation of the City of Alexandria, incorporated by Virginia; and the Corporation of the City of Georgetown, incorporated by Maryland.

The act of February 27, 1801, was the first legislation by Congress for the government of the District of Columbia following the removal to the permanent seat of government. While this act failed to set up a complete local government, it declared all of the laws of the States of Maryland and Virginia as then existing to be in force in the parts of the District ceded by the respective States. It created two counties, Washington County being the area outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown on the Maryland side of the river and Alexandria County being the area beyond the limits of the city of Alexandria on the Virginia side of the river. It also created the circuit court, the office of marshal of the District, the office of United States attorney for the District, justices of the peace for the two counties, a register of wills, and a judge of the orphan's court. (2 Stat. 103.)

The first government of the city of Washington consisted of a mayor appointed by the President of the United States and a city council elected by the people of the city. This was in 1802. The act chartering the city of Washington also created the levy courts, consisting originally of the justices of the peace of the respective counties. (2 Stat. 115; 2 Stat. 773; 3 Stat. 195; 9 Stat. 230; 12 Stat. 384.) The levy courts were given broad administrative powers over the counties of Washington and Alexandria, but had no judicial functions. At a later date the levy court for Washington County was composed of nine members appointed by the President. (12 Stat. 799.) Thus, there were within the 10 miles square five distinct local administrative units, namely, (1) the corporation of Washington, (2) the corporation of Georgetown, (3) the county of Washington, (4) the corporation of Alexandria, and (5) the county of Alexandria. These were reduced to three units in 1846 with the retrocession of Alexandria city and County to the State of Virginia. (9 Stat. 35; 9 Stat. 1000.) The members of the city councils of the three municipalities were elected as were the mayors of Georgetown and Alexandria. In 1812 the city council was permitted to elect the mayor of Washington and in 1820 and thereafter the mayor was elected by the people. (3 Stat. 583.) The term of the mayor of Washington was for two years. This government continued until 1871.

By an act of Congress of February 21, 1871, the corporation of Washington, the corporation of Georgetown, and the levy court for Washington County were abolished and the administration consolidated into a so-called territorial form of government. This government consisted of a governor, a board of public works, and a legislative assembly. The legislative assembly consisted of a council of 11 members and a house of delegates of 22 members. The District then also had a Delegate in the House of Representatives of the United States. The governor, the board of public works, and council were appointed by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The 22 members of the house of delegates and the Delegate in Congress were elected by the people. The District had a Delegate in Congress until March 4, 1875.

This form of government lasted for three years, until June 20, 1874, when Congress provided that the District should be governed by three commissioners, appointed by the President. This was known as the temporary form of government and lasted until July 1, 1878, when the present permanent commission government was set up. (18 Stat. 116.) In the creation of the temporary commission form of government in 1874 and the permanent form in 1878 no provision was made for the franchise, and for the first time in three-quarters of a century no part of the District exercised the right of suffrage. The present form of government was created by act of Congress approved June 11, 1878. (20 Stat. 102.)

The District of Columbia has an area of 69.245 square miles, of which 60.1 square miles are land. The river boundary is high-water mark along the Virginia shore of the Potomac River.

The local government of the District of Columbia is a municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the territory which was "ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States for the permanent seat of the Government of the United States." (20 Stat. 102.) This government is administered by a board of three commissioners having general equal powers and duties. (20 Stat. 103.)

Two of these commissioners, who must have been actual residents of the District for three years next before their appointment and have during that period claimed residence nowhere else, are appointed from civil life by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate for the term of three years each and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The other commissioner is detailed from time to time by the President of the United States from the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army, and shall not be required to perform any other military duty. (Ib.) This commissioner shall be selected from the captains or officers of higher grade having served at least 15 years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army of the United States. (26 Stat. 1113.)

Three officers of the same corps, junior to said commissioner, may be detailed to assist him by the President of the United States. (26 Stat. 246.) The senior officer of the Corps of Engineers of the Army, who for the time being be detailed to act as assistant (and in case of his absence from the District, or disability, the junior officer so detailed), shall, in event of the absence from the District, or disability of the commissioner, who shall for the time being be detailed from the Corps of Engineers, perform all the duties imposed by law upon said commissioner. (26 Stat. 1113.)

One of said commissioners shall be chosen president of the Board of Commissioners at their first meeting and annually and whenever a vacancy shall occur. (20 Stat. 103.)

The commissioners are in a general way vested with jurisdiction covering all the ordinary features of municipal government and are also members of the zoning commission. (37 Stat. 974.)

The expenditures of the District of Columbia are based upon estimates prepared annually by the commissioners and submitted by them to Congress through the Bureau of the Budget. To the extent to which it shall approve of said estimates, Congress shall appropriate a portion out of the Treasury of the United States. The remainder of the amount of such approved estimates shall be levied and assessed upon the taxable property and privileges in said District other than the property of the United States and of the District of Columbia. (Act approved June 11, 1878; 20 Stat. 104.) "All taxes collected shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and the same as well as the appropriations to be made by the Congress as aforesaid, shall be disbursed for the expenses of said District, on itemized vouchers, which have been audited and approved by the auditor of the District of Columbia, certified by said commissioners or a majority of them." (Ib. 105.) This act also provided that the cost of operation, development, and maintenance of the District of Columbia should be borne jointly by the United States and the District of Columbia upon a 50-50 basis. This ratio was in 1922 changed to a payment of 60 per cent from the revenues of the District of Columbia and 40 per cent by the United States. For several years this legal ratio has been superseded in practice by an annual lump sum appropriation of from $9,000,000 to $9,500,000 and for the fiscal year 1935 $5,700,000 by the United States, less a sum equal to 70 per cent of the amounts expended under the allotments from the Public Works Administration of $1,759,500 for sewers and $148,650 for park improvements, the remainder of the local expenses being borne by the revenues of the District of Columbia derived from taxation of private property and privileges. For the past several years the Federal contribution has been approximately from 22 to 19 per cent of the total District budget, while the money raised through local taxation represents approximately from 78 to 81 per cent.

Congress has by sundry statutes empowered the commissioners to make building regulations; plumbing regulations; to make and enforce all such reasonable and usual police regulations as they may deem necessary for the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property within the District, and other regulations of a municipal nature.

While the District has a municipal form of government, Congress by various statutory enactments has treated it as a branch of the United States Government, by including it in legislation applying to the executive departments, such as the budget and accounting act, the act classifying the salaries of Federal employees, and the act providing for retirement of Federal employees.

All legislation affecting the District of Columbia must be passed by Congress under the provisions of the Constitution. The advice of the commissioners is usually asked before such legislation is enacted.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

SECRETARY OF STATE

The Secretary of State is charged, under the direction of the President, with the duties appertaining to correspondence with the public ministers and the consuls of the United States and with the representatives of foreign powers accredited to the United States, and to negotiations, of whatever character, relating to the foreign affairs of the United States. He has the custody of the Seal of the United States, and countersigns and affixes such Seal to all treaties, to Executive proclamations, to various commissions, and to warrants for the extradition of fugitives from justice. He is regarded as the first in rank among the members of the Cabinet. He is the custodian of the treaties made with foreign states and of the laws of the United States. He grants and issues passports, and exequaturs to foreign consuls in the United States are issued through his office. He publishes the acts and resolutions of Congress, amendments to the Constitution, and proclamations declaring the admission of new States into the Union.

UNDER SECRETARY OF STATE

The Under Secretary of State is the principal assistant of the Secretary of State in the discharge of his various functions, aiding in the formulation and execution of the foreign policies of the Government, in the reception of representatives of foreign governments, etc. In matters which do not require the personal attention of the Secretary of State he acts for the Secretary of State, and in the absence of the Secretary of State he becomes the Acting Secretary of State. The Under Secretary of State is charged with the general direction of the work of the Department of State and of the Foreign Service.

ASSISTANT SECRETARIES OF STATE

One Assistant Secretary of State is charged with the general administration of the Department of State and the Foreign Service and with supervision of matters relating to personnel and management. THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY, OFFICES UNDER THE IMMEDIATE SUPERVISION OF

GENERAL COUNSEL FOR THE TREASURY

The general counsel is the chief law officer of the department, is in charge of all of its legal activities, and performs such duties relating thereto as may be prescribed by the Secretary or required by law.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has general supervision of the assessment and collection of all internal-revenue taxes, taxes under the agricultural adjustment act, and other miscellaneous taxing acts of Congress; the enforcement of internal revenue laws; and the preparation and distribution of instructions, regulations, forms, blanks, stamps, etc. An annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury covering the activities of this service is made by the commissioner.

For the purpose of efficient and effective administration of the internal-revenue laws the duties of the bureau are assigned to various units as follows: Commissioner and miscellaneous unit, income-tax unit, miscellaneous tax unit, accounts and collections unit, and alcohol tax unit.

The commissioner and miscellaneous unit includes the immediate office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the assistant to the commissioner, the office of the special deputy commissioner, the technical staff, the intelligence unit, personnel division, administrative division, training division, and public relations division.

The income-tax unit is the agency of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for administering the Federal income and profits tax provisions of the revenue laws. Its duties are to prepare regulations for the administration of such provisions; to receive, audit, and verify the returns covering such taxes; to review and dispose of claims for refund, and to compile statistics from these returns.

The miscellaneous tax unit is charged with the administration of all internal-revenue tax laws except income and profits taxes, and alcohol taxes, and is also responsible for adjusting and closing cases involving repealed miscellaneous internal-revenue taxes. This unit is also charged with the administration of taxes imposed under Title I of the agricultural adjustment act; and taxes imposed by the cotton act of April 21, 1934, the silver purchase act of June 19, 1934, and the tobacco taxing act of June 28, 1934.

The accounts and collections unit is charged with the administration of matters having to do with the organization and management of the offices of collectors of internal revenue, including their field forces; with the administrative audit of revenue and disbursing accounts of collectors of internal revenue and of the disbursing accounts of disbursing agents in the Internal Revenue Bureau and Service. It also issues stamps to collectors of internal revenue.

The alcohol tax unit is charged with the administration of the internal-revenue laws relating to supervision of production and warehousing, and the tax payment of distilled spirits, alcohol, wines, fermented liquors, cereal beverages, and denatured alcohol. This unit is also charged with the duty of detecting and prosecuting persons violating the statutes relating to these articles.

There are three main divisions of the field service, as follows: The collection service, the field audit service, and the supervisory field service of alcohol tax unit.

In addition there are the following traveling forces operating from Washington: Intelligence agents, supervisors of accounts and collections, miscellaneous and sales tax agents, and field inspection service.

PROCUREMENT DIVISION

Branch of Supply.—The Branch of Supply is charged with the determination of policies and methods of procurement, warehousing and distribution of government property, facilities, structures, improvements, machinery, equipment, stores, and supplies; the performance of all activities incident to the purchase in definite quantities of those supplies for which requirements can be anticipated and consolidated; to contract for those supplies of the departments and establishments for which requirements cannot be consolidated in definite quantity purchase but for which common contracts can be made with advantage to the government; to receive, warehouse and distribute to the departments and establishments supplies maintained as stock items in the Federal Warehouse.

In addition to these definite purchasing and warehousing functions, the Branch of Supply is responsible for:

(a) The preparation and maintenance of the Federal Standard Stock Catalog.

(b) The preparation and distribution of Federal specifications.

(c) The coordination of all matters pertaining to contract forms and general policies pertaining to contract procedure.

(d) The coordination of the Government's freight, express, and other traffic activities within the continental limits of the United States.

(e) The coordination of the activities of the Federal Government connected with real estate or interest therein within the continental limits of the United States, except Alaska, as relate to the procurement thereof, whether for permanent or temporary use, the occupancy of rented space by any department or establishment, and the disposal of government-owned real estate.

(f) The coordination and supervision of the disposition of surplus property in Washington and in the field and of property seized by the Government when turned over to the Procurement Division by competent authority, and by order of the Secretary has control of the procurement, loan, transfer, or disposal of forfeited motor vehicles by any activity of the Treasury Department.

(g) The performance of all activities incident to the acquisition, assignment, and disposal of all motor equipment of the Treasury Department and the maintenance, repair, and garaging of such equipment of the Treasury Department located in the District of Columbia.

(h) The procurement, storage, and distribution of fuel (coal, coke, charcoal, fuel oil, wood, etc.) to all Federal and District Government buildings and establishments (except the Washington Navy Yard) in and adjacent to the District of Columbia.

(i) Acting as general liaison office between the Government activities and the National Recovery Administration in matters arising from the application of Executive Order No. 6646, and performing similar service to the Petroleum Administrative Board in connection with enforcement of the Oil Code.

(j) Supervision of 140 Federal business associations in the larger cities of the United States actively functioning as agencies of the Director of Procurement for the purpose of promoting cooperation among local Federal activities, with the object of effecting economies and increasing efficiency in the transaction of routine business of the Government, as well as assisting the Procurement Division in specific projects assigned them.

Public Works Branch.—The Public Works Branch of the Procurement Division on October 16, 1933, assumed the duties of the former Office of the Supervising Architect in accordance with the provisions of Executive Order No. 6166, dated June 10, 1933.

Under the Procurement Division, the functions of the Public Works Branch are to collect and prepare for submission to Congress data and estimates for public building projects; to acquire land for public building sites; to prepare plans and specifications, and estimates for public building construction and to take bids and award contracts therefor; to supervise the construction, remodeling, extension, etc., of public buildings; to repair all public buildings formerly under control of the Treasury Department which were transferred to the custody of the Post Office and Interior Departments under Executive Order No. 6166; and to operate, repair, equip, and maintain all public buildings in the custody of the Treasury Department outside of the District of Columbia.

SECRET SERVICE DIVISION

This division is charged with the protection of the President of the United States, his family, and the President elect; with the suppression of counterfeiting; with the investigation of violations of the farm loan act, the war finance corporation act, section 704 of the World War adjusted compensation act, and the act of December 11, 1926, relating to the counterfeiting of Government transportation requests; and with such other matters relating to the Treasury Department as are directed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

THE UNDER SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY, OFFICES UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF ACCOUNTS AND DEPOSITS

The office of the commissioner of accounts and deposits has administrative supervision over the division of bookkeeping and warrants and its relations to the office of the Treasurer of the United States, over the division of disbursements, over the division of deposits, and over the section of surety bonds. It prepares periodic estimates of the future cash position of the Treasury for use of the department in connection with its financing; prepares calls for the withdrawal of funds from special depositaries to meet current expenditures; directs the transfer of Government funds between Federal reserve banks when necessary; directs fiscal agency functions in general, including deposits of gold certificates in gold certificate fund for credit with Federal reserve banks; supervises collections of principal and interest on foreign obligations; keeps the accounts, and handles generally matters relating to the indebtedness of foreign governments to the United States, including matters arising under funding agreements; supervises collections of railroad obligations owned by the Government and keeps the accounts relating thereto; handles the collection of other obligations owned by the United States which are turned over to the Treasury by other departments for collection; makes payments, keeps accounts, and handles matters generally relating to awards under the settlement of war claims act of 1928. The commissioner likewise has control of the investment accounts of the Government and is responsible for the proper custody of investments and securities held by the Treasurer of the United States and the Federal reserve banks for which the Secretary is responsible, other than those related to public debt operations.

The division of bookkeeping and warrants is by law the official bookkeeping organization of the Government in regard to the receipt, appropriation, and expenditure of public moneys. The accounts and records of disbursements in this division are on a basis of warrants issued, and differ somewhat from the actual cash expenditures as shown in the daily Treasury statement prepared in the office of the Treasurer of the United States. This division makes analyses of acts of Congress carrying appropriations and opens up the necessary appropriation accounts on its ledgers; it issues warrants for placing disbursing funds to the credit of disbursing officers, for the payment by the Treasury of claims settled by the General Accounting Office, and for covering into the Treasury the revenues and receipts of the Government. It handles the work involved in the Secretary's special deposit accounts, including alien property trusts and offers in compromise. It compiles, for submission to the Bureau of the Budget, the estimates of appropriations for the service of the Treasury. Maintains budgetary accounts relating to apportionments and obligations of funds pertaining to all departments and establishments of the Government, including governmental corporations operating on public funds, pursuant to the provisions of the Executive order of July 27, 1933.

In addition to the above this division compiles and publishes an annual digest of the appropriations made by Congress and an annual combined statement of the receipts, expenditures, and unexpended balances under each appropriation account.

The division of disbursement was created under the Executive order (No. 6166) of June 10, 1933, which provided that the function of disbursement of moneys of the United States exercised by any agency of the Government is transferred to the Treasury Department and consolidated in that division. The function of disbursement of moneys of the United States in the various departments and agencies in Washington has been taken over and consolidated in this division. Regional disbursing offices have been established or are in process of establishment in the several Federal reserve districts for the purpose of performing the disbursing function outside of Washington.

The division of deposits is charged with the administration of matters pertaining to designation of Government depositaries and the deposit of Government funds in such depositaries; i. e., the Federal reserve banks, general and limited national bank depositaries, and special depositaries under the Liberty loan acts, foreign depositaries, Federal land banks, and the Philippine treasury.

The commissioner of accounts and deposits has administrative control over surety companies authorized to transact business with the Government; fixes the qualifying power of each company; supervises the audit of the financial statements of the companies quarterly; notifies the companies of the settlement of fiscal officers' accounts under fidelity bonds; and has custody of official bonds running to the Government except those for post-office employees and for certain officials of Federal courts.

PUBLIC DEBT SERVICE

The public debt service, under the Commissioner of the Public Debt, is charged with the conduct of transactions in public debt and paper currency issues of the United States. As agent it also handles the public debt issues of the Philippine and Puerto Rican Governments, and the securities of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, and the consolidated Federal farm loan bonds. In addition to the Office of the Commissioner, the service includes the division of loans and currency, the office of the Register of the Treasury, the division of paper custody, and the division of accounts and audit.

New security issues.—When a new issue of public debt securities is to be offered for subscription, the public debt service prepares the necessary documents incident to the offering, and directs the handling of subscriptions for and allotments of the securities to be issued.

The division of loans and currency is the issuing branch. It receives securities from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, makes original issues, and thereafter conducts exchanges, transfers, conversions, and replacements. It maintains accounts with holders of registered bonds, and prepares checks for payment of interest thereon. It audits redeemed United States paper currency and mutilated work of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The office of the Register of the Treasury is the retiring branch. This office receives, examines, and has custody of securities retired for any account, including paid interest coupons.

The service is charged with the procurement of distinctive paper required for printing currency and public debt securities and for other purposes, and in connection with its manufacture maintains a field force at the mills of the contractors. The division of paper custody receives the distinctive paper from contractors, and issues it to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing as required.

The division of accounts and audit maintains administrative control accounts over all transactions with which the public debt service is charged, and related transactions conducted by the Office of the Treasurer of the United States, and by the Federal reserve banks acting in their capacities as fiscal agents of the United States. Similar accounts are maintained over transactions in distinctive and nondistinctive paper used in printing public debt and other securities, currency, stamps, etc. It also makes administrative examinations and audits of transactions so conducted and the securities involved. It maintains control accounts over reserve stocks of currency in the offices of the Treasurer and the Comptroller of the Currency, and conducts administrative examinations and physical audits of such stocks, cash balances in the several divisions of the Treasurer's office, and collateral securities held in trust by the Treasurer.

OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

The most important functions of the Comptroller of the Currency are those relating to the organization of new national banks; the general supervision over the national banks in operation; the administration, through receivers, of national banks which have failed; and the issue and regulation of national-bank notes secured by United States bonds.

Reports of condition of national banks are required to be made to the comptroller by the banks not less than three times a year upon a date fixed by the comptroller. Under the direction of the comptroller, national-bank examiners make regular examinations of the affairs of the national banks, showing their condition with reference to solvency and observance of the provisions of the national bank act. In case of deliberate violation, suit may be brought in the name of the comptroller against any such bank for the forfeiture of its charter. If it appears to the comptroller that any national bank is in an insolvent condition, he is empowered to appoint a receiver.

The Comptroller of the Currency is an ex officio member of the Federal Reserve Board and sits regularly with the board. He executes and issues the charters for the Federal reserve banks.

The Comptroller of the Currency is required by law to report directly to Congress annually and to recommend to Congress amendments to the national banking laws.

OFFICE OF THE TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES

The Treasurer of the United States is charged with the receipt and disbursement of public moneys that may be deposited in the Treasury at Washington and in the other depositaries authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive deposits of Government funds for credit in the account of the Treasurer of the United States. Funds advanced to disbursing officers for the use of Government departments and establishments under the appropriation of Congress are credited in the accounts of such disbursing officers on the books of the Treasurer and disbursements therefrom are made by checks drawn on the Treasurer. In his office are prepared and issued, for the Secretary of the Treasury, the daily Treasury statement of the United States, the monthly preliminary statement of the public debt, and the monthly preliminary statement of classified expenditures of the Government; the monthly statement of the outstanding paper currency of the Government is also published. The Treasury general ledger accounts of the trust fund, the reserve fund, the gold settlement fund, and the general fund, and other important accounts are maintained in his office. He prepares an annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury. The Treasurer is fiscal agent for the issue and redemption of United States paper currency, for payment of principal and interest on the public debt, for payment of principal and interest on bonds of the Puerto Rican and Philippine governments (of which the Secretary of the Treasury is the transfer agent), and for the redemption of national-bank notes, Federal reserve notes, and Federal reserve bank notes. He is treasurer of the board of trustees of the Postal Savings System, trustee for bonds held to secure national-bank note circulation and public deposits in national banks and bonds held to secure postal savings in banks, and custodian of miscellaneous securities and trust funds.

There are in the office of the Treasurer seven divisions: The chief clerk, cashier, division of securities, redemption division, division of general accounts, accounting division, and national bank redemption agency, whose duties are indicated in general by their names.

OFFICE OF DIRECTOR OF RESEARCH AND STATISTICS

The director of research and statistics, in the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury, exercises direct authority over and responsibility for the conduct of the economic research and the production, analysis, and publication of statistics in all branches of the Treasury Department. The director is also chief of the division of research and statistics, in the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury, which performs a combined economic research, actuarial, and statistical service function for the Treasury.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY IN CHARGE OF PUBLIC HEALTH, OFFICE UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF

BUREAU OF PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

The Bureau of Public Health Service at Washington comprises eight divisions and the chief clerk's office, the operations of which are coordinated and are under the immediate supervision of the Surgeon General, who makes an annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury on the activities of the service.

The division of scientific research conducts the scientific investigations of the service. Information thus obtained is disseminated through publications, lectures, and correspondence. Through the division the department enforces the act of July 1, 1902, to regulate the sale of viruses, serums, toxins, and analogous products, including arsphenamine.

The division of foreign and insular quarantine and immigration administers the quarantine laws of the United States concerned with the prevention of the introduction of human contagious or infectious diseases from foreign ports into the United States, together with the observation of the provisions of the Pan American Sanitary Code and the International Sanitary Convention of Paris, 1926, and supervises the medical examination of intending immigrants conducted at certain American consulates abroad and at ports of entry in the United States and its insular possessions.

The activities of the division of domestic quarantine include the following: (1) enforcement of the Interstate Quarantine Regulations, with special reference to the control of water supplies used on interstate carriers and the sanitation of shellfish shipped in interstate commerce; (2) assistance to State and local health authorities in the enforcement of State and local laws and regulations; (3) cooperation with State health authorities in preventing the spread of epidemic diseases, including (a) plague suppressive measures; (b) activities for the eradication of trachoma; (c) control of psittacosis infection among psittacine birds; (4) assistance to State health departments in developing and improving local health service including (a) studies of health organization in cities and counties, and (b) assistance in the organization of full-time rural health units; (5) cooperation with other establishments of the Federal Government in matters pertaining to public health engineering and sanitation; (6) annual conference of State and Territorial Health Officers with the Surgeon General.

The division of sanitary reports and statistics collects and publishes information regarding the prevalence and geographic distribution of diseases dangerous to the public health in the United States and foreign countries. Court decisions, laws, regulations, and ordinances pertaining to the public health are compiled, digested, and published. The section on public health education cooperates with the State, local, and volunteer health agencies to extend health educational service throughout the United States.

Through the division of marine hospitals and relief, hospital and out-patient treatment is given at 25 marine hospitals and 131 other relief stations to legal beneficiaries who are chiefly seamen from American merchant vessels, Coast Guard personnel, patients of the Veterans' Bureau of the Employees' Compensation Commission, and immigrants. The National Leper Home is operated. Physical examinations are made for the Civil Service Commission and shipping commissioners.

Under the supervision of the Surgeon General, the division of personnel and accounts attends to matters relating to personnel and the maintenance of personnel records; convenes boards for the examination or discipline of medical officers and other personnel; is responsible for all bookkeeping and accounting in connection with bureau appropriations; and maintains and supervises property records.

The division of venereal diseases was created by act of Congress in July, 1918, (1) to study and investigate the cause, treatment, and prevention of venereal diseases; (2) to cooperate with State boards or departments of health for the prevention and control of such diseases within the States; and (3) to control and prevent the spread of these diseases in interstate traffic. Clinical and laboratory studies are conducted which pertain especially to the cause, treatment, prevalence, and prevention of syphilis and gonorrhea and are carried on both independently and in cooperation with other agencies. Among numerous cooperative activities may be included educational and informative measures and the study and institution of effective programs directed against the venereal diseases.

The division of mental hygiene (formerly the narcotics division—name changed by act of June 14, 1930) is charged with the responsibility of administering the two narcotic farms; conducting studies of the nature of drug addiction and the best methods of treatment and rehabilitation of addicts; making studies of the quantities of narcotic drugs necessary to supply the normal and emergency medicinal and scientific requirements of the United States; conducting studies of the causes, prevalence, and means for the prevention and treatment of mental and nervous diseases; and supervising and furnishing medical and psychiatric service in the Federal penal and correctional institutions under the control of the Department of Justice (act of May 13, 1930).

The chief clerk has charge of clerical personnel, office quarters occupied by the bureau in Washington, the bureau library, official files and records, mail, supplies of stationery to bureau and field service, and printing and binding.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY IN CHARGE OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING AND MINT SERVICE, OFFICES UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING

This bureau designs, engraves, and prints for the Government, United States securities; United States and national-bank currency; Federal reserve notes and Federal reserve bank notes; Federal farm loan and joint-stock land bank bonds; revenue, customs, and postage stamps; Government checks; checks and other securities for the Emergency Relief Administration; and many other classes of engraved work for governmental use. It performs a similar function, as authorized by the Bureau of Insular Affairs, for the insular possessions of the Government.

MINT BUREAU

The Director of the Mint has general supervision of the mints and assay offices of the United States. He prescribes the rules, to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, for the transaction of business at the mints and assay offices, receives daily reports of their operations, directs the coinage to be executed, reviews the accounts, authorizes expenditures, superintends the annual settlements of the several institutions, and makes special examinations of them when deemed necessary. Appointments, removals and transfers in the mints and assay offices are subject to his approval.

The Director of the Mint publishes quarterly an estimate of the value of the standard coins of foreign countries for customhouse use and other public purposes. He also makes an annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury, covering the operations of the mint service for the fiscal year and giving statistics of the production of precious metals in the United States and the world for the calendar year.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY IN CHARGE OF CUSTOMS, COAST GUARD, AND NARCOTICS, OFFICES UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF

CUSTOMS SERVICE

The Customs Service was created by the First Congress in the act of July 31, 1789, but its present organization dates from March 3, 1913, under the act of August 24, 1912. (U. S. C., title 19, sec. 1.) The act approved March 3, 1927, created the Bureau of Customs and a commissioner of customs. Under the authority of that act the Secretary of the Treasury has conferred upon the Commissioner of Customs, subject to the general supervision and direction of the Secretary, the powers and duties in regard to the importation and entry of merchandise into or the exportation of merchandise from the United States, vested in or imposed upon the Secretary of the Treasury by the tariff act of 1930, or any other law, subject to certain exceptions. These exceptions require the approval of the Secretary of regulations and certain classes of decisions prepared by the commissioner.

The principal function of the service is the collection of import duties; incident to this is the prevention of smuggling, including the smuggling of all contraband such as narcotics and alcoholic beverages.

The customs agency service, which operates as a part of the Customs Service, is an investigative service.

The Customs Service also cooperates with other services in the Treasury and other executive departments in the enforcement of the preventive, sanitary, and other laws under their administration relating principally to articles brought to this country and in some cases to articles sent out of the country.

COAST GUARD

The act of January 28, 1915, provided that the Coast Guard be created in lieu of the then existing Revenue Cutter Service and the Life Saving Service and be composed of those two organizations. It also provided that it shall constitute a part of the military forces of the United States, operating under the Treasury Department in time of peace and as a part of the Navy in time of war or when the President shall so direct.

In general, the duties of the Coast Guard may be classified as follows:

(a) Enforcement of Federal law upon the navigable waters of the United States and its insular possessions and upon the high seas where jurisdiction of the United States extends thereto, including prevention of smuggling; enforcement of customs laws, navigation, and other laws governing merchant vessels and motorboats, of rules and regulations governing anchorage and movements of vessels (captains of the ports), of law to provide for safety of life during regattas or marine parades, of laws relative to oil pollution, immigration, quarantine, and neutrality, of rules and regulations for the protection of the fisheries in Alaska, of international conventions relative to fisheries on the high seas, of law and the administration of oaths generally in Alaska, of the sponge fishing law, and of miscellaneous laws for the other branches of the Government; examining merchant seamen for certificates as lifeboatmen; protection of game and the seal and otter fisheries in Alaska; protection of bird reservations established by Executive order; suppression of mutinies on merchant vessels.

(b) Rendering assistance to vessels in distress and the saving of life and property on the seas and navigable waters of the United States and its insular possessions and along the coasts thereof; flood relief on the western rivers; destruction and removal of derelicts, wrecks, or other dangers to navigation; international service of ice observation and ice patrol in the North Atlantic Ocean; extending medical and surgical aid to United States vessels engaged in deep-sea fishing; assisting other branches of the Government in the performance of duties assigned; transporting Government agents; caring for and transporting shipwrecked and destitute persons in Alaska and elsewhere; carrying the United States mails; collecting statistics regarding loss of life and property on vessels; keeping navigable channels free of ice.

(c) Constitutes a part of the military forces of the United States at all times, operating as a part of the Navy in time of war or when the President shall so direct.

To assist the commandant, who is charged by law with the administration of the Coast Guard, there are established at headquarters an inspector in chief, having cognizance of matters relating to the inspection of vessels, stations, boats, and other property; division of operations; division of finance; office of supplies and accounts; pay and allowances office; office of construction and repair; office of aviation; and office of the engineer in chief. An annual report, covering the activities of the Coast Guard, is made to the Secretary of the Treasury.

BUREAU OF NARCOTICS

The Commissioner of Narcotics, under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury, has general supervision of the enforcement of the Harrison narcotic law and related statutes, including the administration of the permissive features of the narcotic drugs import and export act, and cooperates with the Customs Bureau in the enforcement of the prohibitive features of the latter act. The commissioner also cooperates (1) with the State Department in the discharge of the international obligations of the United States concerning the traffic in narcotic drugs and (2) with the several States in the suppression of the abuse of narcotic drugs in their respective jurisdictions.

The duties of the bureau include the investigation and the detection and prevention of violations of the Federal narcotic laws, the determination, with the cooperation of the Public Health Service, of quantities of crude opium and coca leaves to be imported into the United States for medical and legitimate uses, and the issuance of permits to import the crude narcotic drugs and to export drugs and preparations manufactured therefrom under the law and regulations. An annual report is made to Congress which also serves the purpose of the special report heretofore prepared in the bureau on behalf of the Government for transmittal through the State Department to The Hague under the International Opium Convention of 1912.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE SECRETARY, OFFICES UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF CLERK

The chief clerk and superintendent is the chief executive officer of the department, and, under the direction of the Secretary through his administrative assistant, is charged with the enforcement of departmental regulations of a general nature. He is superintendent of Treasury buildings in the District of Columbia, except the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. In addition, he has custody of sites for proposed public buildings in Washington.

The chief clerk has administrative jurisdiction of the contingent appropriation and other miscellaneous appropriations, as well as the appropriations for Government exhibits at various expositions. He has the custody of the completed records and files of the Secretary's office and of the Treasury seal, and handles requests for certified copies of official papers.

He is chairman of the personnel committee of the Treasury and classification officer for the department. He also has general supervision of the assignment of annual efficiency ratings of the Treasury personnel.

In addition to the duties described above, the chief clerk has charge of the unassigned business of the Secretary's office.

DIVISION OF APPOINTMENTS

This division has supervision over matters relating to appointments and other changes in the personnel of the departmental and field services of the Treasury Department, including negotiations with the Civil Service Commission. It prepares nominations and commissions of presidential officers and arranges bonds required for Treasury officials. The division has supervision over the work connected with the retirement and retention of employees under the retirement law, and keeps a record of leave granted to employees in the department in Washington.

DIVISION OF SUPPLY

The division of supply is the central procuring or purchasing agency of the Treasury Department, and as such it does purchasing for local and field activities, with the exception of those from appropriations for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing (which are exempted by law), the Coast Guard, and to some extent the Bureau of the Mint. It is charged also with certain duties closely related to purchasing, such as accounting for funds appropriated or allotted to it; supervision over printing and binding for the Treasury Department and engraving work by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for all departments and establishments, unless money, securities, or postage stamps are involved; control over newspaper and periodical advertising for the department; routing of freight, express, and parcel-post shipments; and warehousing and distribution of stationery and miscellaneous supplies, including blank books and forms, to Washington and field offices of the Treasury Department. The appropriations to the department for purchases of stationery, and for printing and binding are under its administrative control.

CORRESPONDENCE DIVISION

This division maintains control of all Secretarial mail, including contracts with all branches of the department in connection with official correspondence, both incoming and outgoing; prepares letters for the signature of the Secretary and routes others to the proper officials; has charge of the stenographic pool for the Secretary's office; performs such special duties as are assigned from time to time.

BUREAU OF THE BUDGET

The Bureau of the Budget was created by the act approved June 10, 1921. It is in the Treasury Department but under the immediate direction of the President. The bureau prepares for the President the annual Budget and such supplemental or deficiency estimates as the President may recommend from time to time to Congress. The bureau has the authority under the act, "to assemble, correlate, revise, reduce, or increase the estimates of the several departments and establishments." The act requires the head of each department and establishment to appoint a budget officer whose duty it is to prepare, under his direction, the departmental estimates of appropriations and such supplemental or deficiency estimates as may be required. These officials are liaison officers between the department and the Bureau of the Budget. On or before September 15 of each year the head of each department and establishment revises his estimates and submits them to the bureau.

The bureau is authorized, when directed by the President, to make detailed studies of the departments and establishments for the purpose of enabling the President to determine what changes should be made in the interest of economy and efficiency. Officials of the bureau are given the authority to have access, for the purpose of examination, to the books, papers, and records of any department or establishment.

By Public Resolution No. 57, approved May 11, 1922, the authority to approve the use of printing and binding appropriations for the printing of journals, magazines, periodicals, and similar publications is conferred upon the Director of the Bureau of the Budget and by section 16 of Executive Order No. 6166, dated June 10, 1933, there is transferred to him the function of making, waiving, and modifying apportionments of appropriations as required by the provisions of section 665, title 31, United States Code.

FEDERAL BOARD OF HOSPITALIZATION

(Reports through Director of the Bureau of the Budget)

Composed of the Administrator of the Veterans' Affairs, who shall be the chairman of the board, the Surgeon General of the Army, the Surgeon General of the Navy, the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, the superintendent of the St. Elizabeths Hospital, the Solicitor General of the United States, the Assistant Administrator of Veterans' Affairs in charge of medical and domiciliary care, and the special representative of the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs on matters pertaining to National Homes; created by Executive order promulgated by Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 46 of November 9, 1921 (subsequently superseded by Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 146 of October 24, 1924, as amended by Circular No. 282 of July 28, 1930), for the purpose of coordinating the separate hospitalization activities of the Medical Department of the Army, the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of the Navy, the Public Health Service, the St. Elizabeths Hospital, the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and the Veterans' Administration. It is the duty of the board (a) to recommend general plans of operation designed to knit together in proper coordination the hospitalization activities of the several departments and establishments, with a view to increasing the usefulness and efficiency of the several organizations so as to achieve the maximum of service and economy in operation, maintenance, and betterments; (b) to give consideration and make recommendation of questions which may arise concerning the proper coordination of hospitalization facilities, with particular reference to the use of existing facilities, the construction of addition facilities, and the standardization and utilization of supplies.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR

SECRETARY OF WAR

The Secretary of War is head of the War Department, and performs such duties as are required of him by law or may be enjoined upon him by the President.

He is charged by law with the supervision of all estimates of appropriations for the expenses of the department, including the Military Establishment; of all purchases of Army supplies; of all expenditures for the support, transportation, and maintenance of the Army; and of such expenditures of a civil nature as may be placed by Congress under his direction.

He is responsible for the proper execution of the provisions of the national defense act of 1920. He is held responsible for the protection of our seacoast harbors and cities; for the development of improved weapons and matériel; for the proper instruction of all military personnel; for the discipline and morale of the Military Establishment; for the defense of, and the administration of government in, those insular possessions that come under his jurisdiction.

He directs the activities of the Corps of Engineers in the improvement of the waterways of the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, including examinations, surveys, and economic studies of harbors and streams for the formulation of improvement projects. He recommends to Congress definite plans for improvement and makes contracts for the execution of the physical works required to make our waterways capable of meeting the needs of constantly expanding inland, coastwise, and foreign commerce.

He is charged with the formulation and execution of plans for flood control on inland rivers, power and irrigation development, and the survey and charting of the Great Lakes.

He is responsible for surveys of international boundary waters, the interoceanic survey (Nicaragua Canal route), and the construction of national monuments and memorials. He is also charged with the establishment of harbor lines, approval of plans for the construction of bridges and issue of permits for wharves, piers, and other works upon navigable waters; investigation, in cooperation with the Federal Power Commission, of water-power projects, the removal of wrecks from navigable waters, the regulation of the operation of drawbridges, establishment and regulation of anchorage grounds, regulation of the use of navigable waters of the United States, the preservation of the American Falls of Niagara, and the administration of matters pertaining to the participation of the United States in the Niagara Control Board.

He is responsible for the defense, maintenance, care, and operation of the Panama Canal. This responsibility requires that he not only provide for the transit of ships from one ocean to the other but also for their repair, fueling, supplies and foodstuffs, and the care of hospitalization of ships' personnel and passengers. The organization under his charge includes public health, quarantine, and immigration service, customs, post offices, police and fire protection, hydrographic and meteorological observations, steamboat inspection, aids to navigation, construction and maintenance of roads, streets, water supply, and sewers.

He exercises jurisdiction over the civil affairs of the Philippine Islands.

He is president of the National Forest Reservation Commission, which is authorized to purchase such forested cut-over or denuded lands within the watersheds of navigable streams as in its judgment may be necessary to the regulation of stream flow or for the production of timber.

He supervises the activities of the Inland Waterways Corporation as authorized by the requirements of the Denison Act (Public 801, 70th Cong.), which created this agency to complete our national transportation system and make possible the coordination of rail, water, air, motor, and pipe-line transportation.

He approves the purchase of supplies and equipment necessary for the operation of the barge lines, the location and erection of terminals, the terms and conditions of sales and leases to private management of the transportation facilities of any unit belonging to the corporation, and improvement and development projects for over 30,000 miles of inland waterways being improved and coordinated by the Inland Waterways Corporation.

He supervises the maintenance and conduct of the United States Military Academy at West Point and is responsible for all matters relating to leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR

The Assistant Secretary of War is charged with supervision of the procurement of all military supplies and other business of the War Department pertaining thereto, including the manufacture or production at the Government arsenals or Government-owned factories of the United States of all such supplies or articles needed by the War Department as such arsenals or factories are capable of manufacturing or producing upon an economical basis; and the assurance of adequate provision for the mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to war-time needs. He is charged with supervising and acting upon matters pertaining to the purchase, lease, and sale of real estate, including leases, licenses, easements, and rights of way to others; the sale of surplus supplies, equipment, plants, land, or other facilities, including engineer property pertaining to rivers and harbors; claims, foreign or domestic, by or against the War Department; clemency cases in litigation or remission of sentence by courts-martial; matters relating to national cemeteries; activities relating to the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice and Civilian Marksmanship; permits for construction of bridges and laying of submarine cables; and the use of patent rights by the War Department and Army.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

Assists the Secretary of War in directing the administration of the department, Panama Canal, and Inland Waterways Corporation.

Is chief executive officer of the department and has administrative direction of the divisions of the office of the Secretary of War.

Has charge of the records and files, and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of the Secretary's office.

Acts upon appointments and all changes affecting status of civilian employees in the department and its field services. Has charge of the following: Printing and binding and newspaper advertising for the War Department and the Army; expenditures from the War Department appropriations for contingent expenses, stationery, and postage; and allotment of office space assigned for the use of the department in Washington.

Signs such official mail as the Secretary of War may direct.

WAR DEPARTMENT GENERAL STAFF

The War Department General Staff is organized under the provisions of the act approved June 4, 1920 (as amended).

The Chief of Staff is the immediate adviser of the Secretary of War on all matters relating to the Military Establishment and is charged by the Secretary of War with the planning, development, and execution of the Army program. He causes the War Department General Staff to prepare the necessary plans for recruiting, mobilizing, organizing, supplying, equipping, and training the Army for use in the national defense and for demobilization. As the agent and in the name of the Secretary of War he issues such orders as will insure that the plans of the War Department are harmoniously executed by all branches and agencies of the Military Establishment and that the Army program is carried out speedily and efficiently.

The War Department General Staff is charged with the preparation of plans as outlined above, including those for the mobilization of the manhood of the Nation in an emergency. It investigates and reports upon questions affecting the efficiency of all branches of the Army and their state of preparation for military operations. As prescribed by section 5 of the National Defense Act, as amended by the act of June 15, 1933, it formulates all policies and regulations affecting:

(1) The organization and distribution of the National Guard of the United States, and the organization, distribution, and training of the National Guard, through committees to which are added an equal number of officers of the National Guard of the United States.

(2) The organization, distribution, training, appointment, assignment, promotion, and discharge of members of the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Organized Reserves, and the Enlisted Reserve Corps, through committees to which are added an equal number of officers from the Officers' Reserve Corps.

(3) When such policies or regulations affect all three components the committees consist of an equal representation from the Regular Army, the National Guard of the United States, and the Officers' Reserve Corps.

It performs such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be from time to time prescribed by the President, and renders professional aid and assistance to the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff.

The Deputy Chief of Staff assists the Chief of Staff and acts for him in his absence. He reports directly to the Secretary of War in all matters not involving the establishment of important policies. In addition to his other duties, he is charged with supervision over the activities of all the divisions of the War Department General Staff.

The War Department General Staff includes the following divisions, each division being under the immediate control of an assistant Chief of Staff: Personnel Division (First Division); Military Intelligence Division (Second Division); Operations and Training Division (Third Division); Supply Division (Fourth Division); War Plans Division. For the first four divisions, the abbreviations G–1, G–2, G–3, G–4, respectively, are prescribed. The prescribed abbreviation for the War Plans Division is W. P. D. The chiefs of the several divisions of the War Department General Staff are designated as Assistant Chiefs of Staff; the prescribed abbreviation A. C. of S. is followed by the prescribed abbreviation of the division.

The Personnel Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the personnel of the Army as individuals. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning the procurement, classification, assignment, promotion, transfer, retirement, and discharge, in peace and war, of all personnel of the Army of the United States, including the Regular Army, the National Guard, the Organized Reserves, the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Enlisted Reserve Corps, and the Citizens' Military Training Camps; measures for conserving man power; replacements of personnel, Army regulations, uniform regulations, and such general regulations as especially concern individuals or matters of routine not specifically assigned to other sections; decorations; religious, recreational, and morale work; the Red Cross and similar agencies, with the exception of such part or parts of said agencies as may be wholly devoted to hospital and medical relief work; enemy aliens, prisoners of war, and conscientious objectors, including their security.

The Military Intelligence Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the collection, evaluation, and dissemination of military information. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of all activities concerning: Military topographical surveys and maps, including their reproduction and distribution; the custody of the General Staff and photograph collection; military attachés, observers, and foreign-language students; intelligence personnel of all units; liaison with other intelligence agencies of the Government, and with duly accredited foreign military attachés and missions; codes and ciphers; translations; relations with the press; censorship in time of war.

The Operations and Training Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the organization, training, and operation of the military forces not expressly assigned to the War Plans Division. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning: Organization, including tables of organization, for all branches of the Army of the United States; assignments of units to higher organizations; so much of tables of equipment as relate to the allotment of major items of equipment to units and the distribution of such items within units; distribution and training, including educational and vocational training of the Army of the United States, the National Guard, and Organized Reserves; location of units of the Regular Army and Organized Reserves; all drill and service regulations, field service regulations, and General Staff manuals; special-service schools and general-service schools, including the Army War College and the Command and General Staff School; military training in civilian institutions and in civilian training camps; priorities in assigning replacements and equipment and important priorities affecting mobilization; movement of troops; military police.

The Supply Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the supply of the Army and with the preparation of basic supply plans. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning: Distribution, storage, and issue of supplies; transportation by land and water, including ports of embarkation and their necessary auxiliaries; traffic control; tables of equipment, the quantities and types of military supplies required for the use of the Army and essential to the military program; inventions; leasing of War Department facilities and issuing of revocable licenses; hospitalization and evacuation of men and animals, including such agencies or parts of agencies as may be wholly devoted to hospital and medical relief work; distribution and movement of supply, technical, and labor troops not employed as combat units; property responsibility and accountability; the determination and statement of plans and policies governing the preparation of estimates for funds for military purposes and priorities pertaining thereto, and, when necessary with the restatement of such priorities, to govern the expenditure of all funds appropriated; the formulation of policies and projects governing the procurement of real estate in connection with the training, shelter, and housing of troops, and with the storage, distribution, and issue of supplies; policies relative to the procurement, construction, repair, maintenance, and disposition of buildings and all utilities connected therewith.

The War Plans Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the formulation of plans for the use in the theater of war of the military forces, separately or in conjunction with the naval forces, in the national defense. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning: Location and armament of coast and land fortifications; estimate of forces required and times at which they may be needed under various possible conditions necessitating the use of troops in the national defense; the initial strategical deployment; actual operations in the theater of war; consultation with G–3 and G–4 on major items of equipment; peace maneuvers, terrain exercises, and staff rides involving units higher than a division; and joint Army and Navy exercises. The War Plans Division is so organized as to enable it, in the event of mobilization, to furnish the nucleus of the General Staff personnel for each of the General Staff divisions required at the general headquarters in the field.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF CAVALRY

The Chief of Cavalry is under the supervision of the Chief of Staff in all matters relating to his arm, and furnishes the Chief of Staff with information and advice on all questions affecting the Cavalry. He exercises direct supervision and control of Fort Riley, Kans., including the Cavalry School, the Cavalry Board, and certain troops and installations thereat designated by the Secretary of War. He formulates and develops the tactical doctrine of his arm in accordance with the War Department doctrine. By means of the agencies at his disposition he prepares the necessary manuals, training literature, and training memoranda relating to the employment, instruction, and training of his arm and to the care and use of matériel and equipment. He cooperates with the chiefs of supply services in developing the armament and equipment of his arm and submits to the Chief of Staff such recommendations as to the armament and equipment as may be necessary. He submits to the Chief of Staff recommendations as to the organization of units of his arm, and such recommendations as to the training and instruction of units of his arm, includings units of his arm of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, as he may consider advisable. He confers with the appropriate agencies of the War Department in all matters connected with the organization, training and instruction, equipment, and general administration and efficiency of the personnel and the organizations of his arm in the Organized Reserves and the National Guard. He cooperates with the personnel bureau of The Adjutant General's Office and recommends officers of his arm to be detailed as students at service schools, at technical, professional, and other educational institutions, and for similar duties, and makes recommendations for the appointment, assignment, transfer, examination, and retirement in all cases of officers and warrant officers and, in cases not covered by regulations, of noncommissioned officers and other enlisted men of his arm. He or his representatives visit such places as may be necessary in connection with the efficiency of his arm.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF FIELD ARTILLERY

The Chief of Field Artillery is under the supervision of the Chief of Staff in all matters relating to his arm. He furnishes the Chief of Staff information and advice on all questions affecting his particular arm. He exercises direct supervision and control of the special service schools and the special boards of his arm. He formulates and develops the tactical doctrine of his arm in accordance with the War Department doctrine which requires that the Army be trained for offensive combat. He prepares the necessary publications relating to the employment, instruction, and training of his arm, and to the care and use of matériel and equipment which, after being submitted to The Adjutant General and approved by the Secretary of War, are distributed by The Adjutant General to the service for its information and guidance. He cooperates with the chiefs of supply services in developing the armament and equipment of his arm. He submits to The Adjutant General such recommendations as to armament and equipment as are necessary; recommendations as to the organizations of units of his arm; recommendations as to the training and instruction of units of his arm, including such units of his arm of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, as he may consider advisable. He visits such places as may be necessary for the purpose of observation and information to insure the efficiency of his arm.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF COAST ARTILLERY

The Chief of Coast Artillery is charged with the duty of keeping the Chief of Staff advised and informed in respect to all questions affecting the Coast Artillery Corps. He exercises direct supervision and control over the Coast Artillery School, Coast Artillery Board, and the Submarine Mine Depot. He formulates and develops the tactical doctrine of Coast Artillery in accordance with the War Department doctrine. He prepares the necessary manuals, training literature, and training memoranda relating to the employment, instruction, and training of Coast Artillery, and to the care and use of matériel and equipment. He cooperates with the chiefs of supply services in developing the armament and equipment of Coast Artillery. He submits to the Chief of Staff recommendations as to the organization and assignment of units of Coast Artillery, including those of the National Guard and Organized Reserves. He confers with the proper agencies of the War Department in all matters connected with the organization, mobilization, training, equipment, instruction, and general administration and efficiency of the personnel and organizations of the Coast Artillery, including similar units of the National Guard, Organized Reserves, and Coast Artillery units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. He cooperates with the personnel bureau of The Adjutant General's Office and recommends officers of the Coast Artillery to be detailed as students at service schools, at technical, professional, and other educational institutions, and for other similar duties, and makes recommendations for the appointment, assignment, transfer, examination, and retirement in all cases of officers, warrant officers, and noncommissioned staff officers and, in cases not covered by regulations, of other noncommissioned officers and other enlisted men of the Coast Artillery Corps. He classifies the regular and reserve commissioned personnel of his arm in accordance with methods prescribed by the Secretary of War. Under direction of the Secretary of War, he has immediate charge of the purchase, manufacture, maintenance, and test of submarine mine matériel and of its distribution to the Coast Artillery Corps. He submits to the Chief of Staff recommendations as to the character, number, and methods of mounting armament deemed necessary in any harbor-defense project.

The Coast Artillery Corps is charged with manning the artillery primarily designed for fire upon naval targets, the controled submarine mine systems, the sound-ranging installations in harbor defense, and the Antiaircraft Artillery.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF INFANTRY

The Chief of Infantry is charged with the duty of keeping the Chief of Staff advised and informed on all questions affecting the Infantry. He exercises direct supervision and control over the special service schools and the special boards of his arm. He formulates and develops the tactical doctrine of the Infantry in accordance with the War Department doctrine and prepares the necessary manuals, training literature, and training memoranda relating to the employment, instruction, and training of his arm and of the care and use of matériel and equipment. He cooperates with the chiefs of supply services in developing the armament and equipment of the Infantry and submits to the Chief of Staff such recommendations as to armament and equipment as may be necessary. He submits to the Chief of Staff recommendations as to the organization of Infantry units and also as to their training and instruction, including units of the Infantry Reserve Officers' Training Corps. He confers with the appropriate agencies of the War Department in all matters connected with the organization, training and instruction, equipment, and general administration and efficiency of the personnel and organizations of his arm in the Organized Reserves and National Guard. He cooperates with the personnel bureau of The Adjutant General's Office and recommends officers to be detailed as students at service schools, at technical, professional, and other educational institutions, and for other similar duties, and makes recommendations for the appointment, assignment, transfer, examination, and retirement in all cases of officers, warrant officers, and, in cases not covered by regulations, of noncommissioned officers and other enlisted men of the Infantry. He or his representatives visit such places as may be necessary in connection with the efficiency of his arm.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF CHAPLAINS

The Chief of Chaplains, under the direction of the Chief of Staff, is charged with the general supervision of matters pertaining to the religious and moral welfare of the military personnel. His specific duties in this realm include the investigation of the qualifications of candidates for appointment as chaplains and the preparation of examinations for their entrance into the Army; general coordination and supervision of the plans and duties of chaplains, recommendations for their assignment to stations and their relief therefrom; and advisory information as to the articles of equipment and supply necessary for their work. His duties also include direct supervision over the Chaplains' School, the preparation of training manuals for his branch, and training material for the extension courses for chaplains, and general direction of all other projects for the instruction of chaplains which may be considered necessary to secure a properly trained personnel. He promulgates such office circulars of professional nature as may be helpful to chaplains of the Regular Army, National Guard, and Reserve Corps; provides for them a stimulating interchange of ideas and programs; and makes such visitations and inspections of chaplain activities as will qualify him to give competent advice to the Chief of Staff in matters of religious and moral nature in the Army.

MILITARY BUREAUS

The chiefs of the military bureaus of the War Department are, with the exception of the Chief of the National Guard Bureau, officers of the Regular Army of the United States and a part of the Military Establishment. The Chief of the National Guard Bureau is appointed by selection from lists of present and former National Guard officers who hold commissions in the National Guard of the United States.

OFFICE OF THE ADJUTANT GENERAL

The Adjutant General is charged with the duty of recording, authenticating and communicating to troops and individuals in the military service all orders, instructions, and regulations issued by the Secretary of War through the Chief of Staff, or otherwise; of preparing and distributing commissions; of compiling and issuing the Army Register and the Army List and Directory; of consolidating the general returns of the Army; of arranging and preserving the reports of officers of the Army detailed to visit encampments of militia; of compiling and maintaining a list showing the names of officers of the Army on detached service; of managing the recruiting service; of procuring candidates for admission to citizens' military training camps; of handling matters pertaining to the education and recreation of the soldier, including the Army motion-picture service; and of conducting correspondence concerning the military service generally, including such as pertains to military training camps, the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, and the Enlisted Reserve Corps. He is vested by law with the government and control, under the direction of the Secretary of War, of the United States Disciplinary Barracks and its branches and of all offenders sent thereto for confinement and detention; and is charged with the duty of issuing and recording orders from the War Department remitting or mitigating sentences of general prisoners or honorably restoring them to duty. The Adjutant General is also vested by law with the charge, under the Secretary of War, "of the military and hospital records of the volunteer armies and the pension and other business of the War Department connected therewith"; of publishing War Department regulations, manuals, and miscellaneous documents pertaining to the military service and distributing those publications to the Army. He also has charge of the records of the permanent Military Establishment and of all War Department business pertaining thereto, including the consideration of applications for the congressional medal of honor, the distinguished-service cross, the distinguished-service medal, and other medals or crosses awarded in connection with military service; for the benefits of the act of Congress approved April 27, 1916, establishing the Army and Navy medal-of-honor roll; for certificates of military service, and certificates authorizing the purchase of service medals; and for removal of charges of desertion and the issue of discharge certificates to such soldiers finally charged with desertion as are entitled to relief under the terms of existing law. The archives of The Adjutant General's Office include all military records of the Revolutionary War in the possession of the General Government; the records of all organizations, officers, and enlisted men that have been in the military service of the United States since the Revolutionary War, including those pertaining to the volunteer and drafted forces and the National Guard while in the active service of the United States; the records of the movements and operations of troops; the medical and hospital records of the Army; reports of physical examination of recruits and identification records; the records of the Provost Marshal General's Bureau of the Civil War period; the records of the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen, and Abandoned Lands; a considerable collection of the Confederate records, including those pertaining to the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of the Confederate Government; and the records kept by draft boards and State headquarters while operating under the provisions of the selective service law approved May 18, 1917.

The Personnel Bureau of The Adjutant General's Office is charged by law, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of War, with the operating functions of procurement, assignment, promotion, transfer, retirement, and discharge of all officers and enlisted men of the Army, with the proviso that Territorial commanders and the chiefs of the several branches of the Army shall be charged with such of the above-described duties within their respective jurisdictions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of War.

INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE

The Inspector General, with his assistants, inspects the United States Military Academy; the service schools; garrisoned posts and commands; camps of maneuver and instruction; corps-area, department, and division headquarters; general hospitals; armories and arsenals; quartermaster, ordnance, medical, torpedo, signal, air, chemical-warfare, and engineer depots; proving grounds; recruit depots and recruiting stations; remount purchasing and breeding headquarters; the disciplinary barracks and its branches; and military prisoners in United States penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kans.; ungarrisoned posts; national cemeteries under War Department jurisdiction; United States Army transports, cable boats, mine planters, and harbor boats; unserviceable property; money accounts of all disbursing officers of the Army and property and disbursing officers of the National Guard; Soldiers' Home, District of Columbia; the National Guard as required by the act of June 3, 1916; also makes such special investigations and such annual inspections of troops as may be ordered, and conducts inspections of all activities of the War Department.

OFFICE OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL

The Judge Advocate General is the official legal adviser of the Secretary of War, the Chief of Staff, the War Department and its bureaus, and the entire Military Establishment. He advises concerning the legal correctness of military administration, including disciplinary action, matters affecting the rights and mutual relationship of the personnel of the Army, and the financial, contractual, and other business affairs of the War Department and the Army. The functions of the Judge Advocate General's Department include not only those of the Judge Advocate General and of his office in Washington but also those of judge advocates serving as staff officers at the headquarters of Army, corps area, department, corps, division, and separate brigade commanders, and at the headquarters of other officers exercising general court-martial jurisdiction.

OFFICE OF THE QUARTERMASTER GENERAL

The Quartermaster General, under the authority of the Secretary of War, shall be charged with the purchase and procurement for the Army of all supplies of standard manufacture and of all supplies common to two or more branches but not with the purchase or the procurement of special or technical articles to be used or issued exclusively by other supply departments; with the direction of all work pertaining to the construction, maintenance, and repair of buildings, structures, and utilities other than fortifications connected with the Army; with the storage and issue of supplies; with the operation of utilities; with the acquisition of all real estate and the issue of licenses in connection with Government reservations; with the transportation of the Army by land and water, including the transportation of troops and supplies by mechanical or animal means; with the furnishing of means of transportation of all classes and kinds required by the Army; and with such other duties not otherwise assigned by law as the Secretary of War may prescribe: Provided, That special and technical articles used or issued exclusively by other branches of the service may be purchased or procured with the approval of the Assistant Secretary of War by the branches using or issuing such articles, and the chief of each branch may be charged with the storage and issue of property pertaining thereto: Provided further, That utilities pertaining exclusively to any branch of the Army may be operated by such branches. (Sec. 9, act June 3, 1916, as amended by act June 4, 1920.)

Transportation division.—Is charged with the transportation of the Army by land and water.

Administrative division.—Handles all administrative matters of general nature not assigned elsewhere; investigations; all matters pertaining to tables of basic allowances, war planning equipment charts, requirements, war plans and training; general control over appropriations; in charge of matters relating to legislation; prepares proposed orders, circulars, regulations, bulletins, and similar papers, for publication; compiles and prepares history of Quartermaster General's Office. Has supervision over all matters pertaining to national cemeteries, including interments, disinterments, furnishing Government headstones, and disposition of remains of officers, enlisted men, and civilian employees of the United States Army who die while on active duty. Has charge of all matters pertaining to commissioned, enlisted, and civilian personnel of the Quartermaster Corps.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF FINANCE

The Chief of Finance is charged with the disbursement of all funds of the War Department and has responsibility for and authority over such funds, also the examination and recording of money accounts, the auditing of property accounts, and with such other fiscal and accounting duties as may be required by law or assigned to him by the Secretary of War.

The Chief of Finance is also budget officer for the War Department and in this capacity is charged with the preparation of estimates for the War Department.

OFFICE OF THE SURGEON GENERAL

The Surgeon General is the adviser of the War Department upon all medical and sanitary affairs of the Army. He has administrative control of the Medical Department; the designation of the stations of the commissioned personnel and civilian employees of the Medical Department and the issuance of orders and instructions relating to their professional duties; the instruction and control of the enlisted force of the Medical Department and of the Army Nurse Corps. The Army Medical Museum, the Army Medical Library, and the general hospitals are under his direct control.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF ENGINEERS

The Chief of Engineers is charged under the direction of the War Department with control in technical matters over all of the Corps of Engineers and with the command of such portions of the corps as are not placed by the War Department under some Territorial command nor assigned to some tactical unit containing other than Engineer troops. The duties of the Corps of Engineers comprise reconnoitering and surveying for military purposes, including the laying out of camps; the preparation, reproduction, and distribution of military maps of the United States and its possessions, including cooperation with other Government and private mapping agencies, and in field operations of maps of the theater of operations; selection and acquisition of sites, and preparation of plans and estimates for military defenses; construction and repair of fortifications and their accessories, including submarine mine systems, installation and maintenance of searchlights and electric power and lighting systems, installation of fire-control systems, and the maintenance pertaining to such latter systems which involve structural work; planning and supervising defensive or offensive works of troops in the field; military demolitions; military mining; military camouflage; military bridges; water supply of troops in the field; examination of routes of communication for supplies and for military movements; and, within a theater of military operations, all general construction and road work, including maintenance and repair (except telegraph and telephone lines), and the construction, operation, and maintenance of all railways, utilities, ferries, canal boats, or other means of inland water transportation. It collects, arranges, and preserves all correspondence, reports, memoirs, estimates, plans, drawings, and models which concern or relate in any way to the several duties above enumerated. The Corps of Engineers is also charged with the development, procurement, storage, and issue of certain classes of supplies and equipment.

Civil duties committed to the Chief of Engineers, under the direction of the Secretary of War, are principally as follows: The execution of work ordered by Congress for the improvement of rivers and harbors and other navigable waters of the United States, including examinations and surveys, administration and enforcement of laws for the protection and preservation of such waters, the establishment of harbor lines, establishment of anchorage grounds, of regulations for the use, administration, and navigation of such waters; regulations for the operation of drawbridges; removal of wrecks and other obstructions to navigation; approval of plans of bridges and dams; issuance of permits for structures, or for dredging, dumping, or other work in navigable waters; investigation and supervision, in cooperation with the Federal Power Commission, of power projects affecting navigable waters of the United States; supervision of operations affecting the scenic grandeur of Niagara Falls; surveying and charting the Great Lakes; reclamation and development of Anacostia River and Flats, D. C.; maintenance and repair of the Washington Aqueduct; increasing the water supply of Washington, D. C.

BOARD OF ENGINEERS FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS

The Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors is a permanent body created by the river and harbor act of June 13, 1902. To it are referred for consideration and recommendation all reports upon examinations and surveys provided for by Congress and all projects or changes in projects for works of river and harbor improvements upon which report is desired by the Chief of Engineers, United States Army. It is further the duty of the board, upon request of the Committee on Commerce of the Senate or by the Committee on Rivers and Harbors of the House of Representatives in the same manner, to examine and report through the Chief of Engineers upon any examinations, surveys, or projects for the improvement of rivers and harbors. In its investigations the board gives consideration to all engineering, commercial, navigation, and economic questions involved in determining the advisability of undertaking such improvements at the expense of the United States. The work of the board has been extended to include passing upon the plans of local authorities for terminal improvements in order to determine their adequacy under the provisions of section 1 of the river and harbor act of March 2, 1919; advising and assisting local port authorities in planning the layout and equipment of terminal facilities; and the designing of floating plant for use in the prosecution of projects for river and harbor improvement. The board is engaged on the investigations authorized by the transportation act of 1920, with a view to the promotion of water transportation, and the investigations of ports authorized by the merchant marine act to be made in cooperation with the Shipping Board. Its duties also include the compilation, publication, and distribution of useful statistics, data, and information concerning ports and water transportation.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF ORDNANCE

The Chief of Ordnance is in command of the Ordnance Department, whose duties are to design, procure, store, supply, and maintain the ordnance and ordnance stores of the United States Army, including artillery, artillery ammunition, small arms, bombs, and all munitions of war which may be required for the fortifications of the Army, the armies of the field, and for the National Guard of the United States of America. The Ordnance Department performs all the technical engineering work necessary to investigate and construct experimental ordnance matériel for the adoption by the Army; prepares the necessary regulations for proof, inspection, storing, and for maintaining this matériel, as well as the detailed information necessary for the manufacture of munitions, for inspection of them, and for maintaining reserves prescribed by higher authority.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER

The Chief Signal Officer has immediate charge, under the direction of the Secretary of War, of the development, procurement, storage, and issue of all equipment and supplies for the Army signal communications; the coordination of the training of the personnel assigned to signal duties; the transmission of messages for the Army, by radio or otherwise; the direction of the Signal Corps of the Army and the control of the officers and enlisted men and employees thereof; the installation, maintenance, and operation of military cables, telegraph and telephone lines, radio, and meteorological apparatus and stations not excepted by regulations; the preparation, publication, revision, storage, accounting, and distribution of all codes and ciphers required by the Army, and in time of war the interception of enemy radio and wire traffic, the goniometric location of enemy radio stations, the solution of intercepted enemy code and cipher messages, and laboratory arrangements for the employment and detection of secret inks; the supervision, coordination, and standardization of all radio operations of the Army, including the assignment of frequencies, call signs, and schedules for fixed stations; all still and motion photography not specifically assigned to other branches; and all other duties pertaining to military signal communications.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF THE AIR CORPS

The Chief of the Air Corps is charged, under the direction of the Secretary of War, with the duty of procuring, by manufacture or purchase, maintaining and operating all aircraft, aircraft engines, and aircraft equipment for the Army, including balloons and airplanes, all appliances and facilities necessary to the operation and maintenance of said aircraft; of installing, maintaining, and operating all radio apparatus and signalling systems within Air Corps activities; of establishing, maintaining, and operating all flying fields, aviation stations, repair and supply depots, etc.; of operating organizations, and training officers, flying cadets, enlisted men of the Air Corps, and candidates for aviation service in matters pertaining to military aviation; with the supervision, control, and direction over the Bureau of Aircraft Production (the Bureau of Aircraft Production functioning only on matters in connection with the cancellation of contracts and with the approval or authority for funds).

BUREAU OF INSULAR AFFAIRS

To the Bureau of Insular Affairs, under the immediate direction of the Secretary of War, are assigned all matters pertaining to civil government in those island possessions of the United States subject to the jurisdiction of the War Department, except as otherwise provided by law. The Philippine Islands are subject to War Department jurisdiction at the present time.

The bureau is charged with the formulation and communication to the insular authorities of the policies and action of the Secretary of War in appropriate matters within the scope of the War Department's supervisory jurisdiction and with the presentation, to the Secretary of War, of such insular matters as may require his action or should be brought to his attention. It makes studies of varied questions such as those regarding proposed legislation, financial matters, tariffs, navigation, commercial and industrial possibilities, and other subjects relating to the Philippine Islands. It assists in preparing, for submission to Congress, such proposed legislation affecting the insular possessions under War Department jurisdiction as may receive the approval of the Secretary of War and in the presentation before the courts of the United States of cases in which the insular authorities are concerned. The bureau assembles the statistical and other data, and makes the studies and recommendations incident to the functions assigned to it, and acts as a general center of information regarding matters pertaining to the Philippine Islands. It supervises agencies charged with the purchase and shipment, in the United States, of supplies for the insular government and the Dominican customs receivership and performs certain other functions in the nature of assistance to the insular government, including those relative to appointments to the civil service of the Philippine Islands. The bureau is also the repository of the civil records of the Government of Occupation of Cuba (January 1, 1899, to May 20, 1902) and of certain other records pertaining to functions formerly assigned the bureau from time to time but not at present so assigned. These functions included matters relating to the second occupation of Cuba (1906–1909), Panama Canal (1904 and 1905), and the Haitian customs receivership (1920–1924).

Under the convention of December 27, 1924, between the United States and the Dominican Republic (which replaced the convention of February 8, 1907), and the general regulations of the President of the United States issued thereunder, the bureau has immediate supervision and control of the Dominican receivership for the collection of customs revenues and payment of the interest and principal of the adjusted bonded indebtedness of the Dominican Republic, and in some respects acts as the agent in the United States of the receivership.

NATIONAL GUARD BUREAU

The National Guard Bureau of the War Department is established by law to facilitate the administration and to promote the development of the National Guard while not in the service of the United States. It is vested with all the administrative duties (coordinating with department and corps area commanders) involving the organization, armament, equipment, discipline, training, and inspection of the National Guard; the conduct of camps of instruction of the National Guard and the administrative duties connected with the preparation of the National Guard for participation in field exercises and maneuvers of the Regular Army; the mobilization of the National Guard in time of peace; and all matters pertaining to the National Guard not in Federal service, not herein generally enumerated which do not under existing laws, regulations, orders, or practice come within the jurisdiction of the General Staff or any division or bureau of the War Department, and which shall not operate to divest any bureau or division of the War Department of duties now properly belonging to it.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF THE CHEMICAL WARFARE SERVICE

The Chief of the Chemical Warfare Service is charged with the investigation, development, manufacture, or procurement and supply to the Army of all smoke and incendiary materials, all toxic gases, and all gas-defense appliances; the research, design, and experimentation connected with chemical warfare and its material; and chemical projectile-filling plants and proving grounds; the supervision of the training of the Army in chemical warfare, both offensive and defensive, including the necessary schools of instruction; the organization, equipment, training, and operation of special gas troops; and such other duties as the President may from time to time prescribe.

THE ARMY WAR COLLEGE

The Army War College, located in Washington, D. C., is one of the general service schools of the Army. It is the highest unit in the military educational system. Its object is to train selected officers for duty in the War Department General Staff and for high command in accordance with the doctrines and methods approved by the War Department.

THE ARMY INDUSTRIAL COLLEGE

The Army Industrial College is one of the three general service schools of the Army. It is located in the Munitions Building, Washington, D. C. It operates under supervision of The Assistant Secretary of War, pursuant to section 5a of the national defense act. Its mission is the training of officers for the procurement of munitions in the event of war and in the preparation of plans for the mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to war-time needs.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

ATTORNEY GENERAL (HOMER CUMMINGS)

The Attorney General is the head of the Department of Justice (see sec. 346, R. S.) and as such is the chief law officer of the Federal Government. He represents the United States in legal matters generally and gives advice and opinions when requested by the President or by the heads of the executive departments.

He appears in the Supreme Court of the United States in cases of exceptional gravity and importance, exercises general superintendence and direction over United States district attorneys and marshals in the various judicial districts of the United States, and provides special counsel for the United States in cases of exceptional importance or when the character of the interests involved requires such action.

The duties of the Assistant to the Attorney General, the Assistant Attorneys General, the Director of Investigation, and the Director of the Bureau of Prisons are performed under the direction of the Attorney General.

(See sec. 354, R. S., as amended by act of February 27, 1877, 19 Stat. 241; secs. 356, 357, and 358, R. S.; act of June 30, 1906, 34 Stat. 816; secs. 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, and 366, R. S.)

SOLICITOR GENERAL (JAMES CRAWFORD BIGGS)

The Solicitor General assists the Attorney General in the execution of his duties and, by special provision of law, exercises all such duties in case of a vacancy in the office of the Attorney General, or his absence or disability.

Under the direction of the Attorney General, the Solicitor General has special charge of the business of and appears for and represents the Government in the Supreme Court of the United States.

When requested by the Attorney General, the Solicitor General may conduct and argue any case in which the United States is interested, in any court of the United States, or may attend to the interests of the Government in any State court or elsewhere, conferring with and directing the law officers of the Government throughout the country in the performance of their duties when occasion requires. (See secs. 347 and 349, R. S.) No appeal is taken by the United States to any appellate court without his authorization.

ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL (WILLIAM STANLEY)

The Assistant to the Attorney General has supervision over all of the major units of organization of the department and also supervision over United States attorneys and marshals.

This office has charge of authorizations for appointments and the salaries pertaining thereto when not otherwise fixed by law; also promotions and demotions both in the department and the field, as well as other general administrative matters; of legislation, and civil service matters, including Federal Employees Compensation and Retirement Acts, Pensions, etc., also briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and special assignments by the Attorney General.

He has charge also of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of special assignments by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (FRANK J. WIDEMAN)

This assistant has charge of the prosecution and defense of civil suits relating to taxes (except customs) and of appellate proceedings in connection therewith, including briefs and arguments on appeals from the Board of Tax Appeals; also of the enforcement of tax liens and of mandamus, injunctions, criminal proceedings, and general matters relating to taxes. He also has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of special assignments by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (JOSEPH B. KEENAN)

This assistant has charge of criminal cases generally, including matters involving criminal practice and procedure, such as questions concerning indictments, grand juries, search warrants, passports, alien enemies, extradition, etc.; also cases involving crimes on the high seas, crimes arising under the national bank act and under the naturalization laws, and generally directs district attorneys with respect of the conduct of criminal cases.

He also has charge of the administration and enforcement of the laws relating to alcoholic beverages, of kidnapping and racketeering cases, and of matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (GEORGE C. SWEENEY)

This assistant has charge of all civil suits and claims for and against the Government not otherwise specially assigned, patents and copyrights, cases arising out of war transactions, civil bankruptcy matters, civil proceedings under the national bank act, admiralty and shipping matters, as well as alien property claims and litigation. He also has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of special assignments by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (HARRY W. BLAIR)

This assistant has charge of matters relating to public lands and condemnation of lands, titles to lands, forest reserves, reclamation and irrigation projects, and the conservation of natural resources, Indian lands and affairs (including suits in the Court of Claims) except crimes; also matters affecting the Pueblo Lands Board and the rent commission. He also has charge of insular and territorial affairs except those specifically assigned, other than criminal, and of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, as well as matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (JOSEPH R. JACKSON)

This assistant has charge of protecting the interests of the Government in matters of reappraisement and classification of imported goods, and all litigation incident thereto. He also has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT SOLICITOR GENERAL (ANGUS D. MACLEAN)

The Assistant Solicitor General appears for and represents the Government in such cases as may be designated by the Solicitor General and performs such additional duties as may be required of him by the Attorney General. He has charge for the Attorney General of the preparation, review, and revision of opinions and, as to their form and legality, of Executive orders submitted to him by direction of the President, and also acts for the Attorney General upon offers in compromise of judgments and other claims existing against or in favor of the Government up to a certain limit, in addition to performing such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Attorney General.

DIRECTOR OF INVESTIGATION (J. EDGAR HOOVER)

The Director of Investigation has general charge of the investigation of offenses against the laws of the United States, except counterfeiting, narcotics, and other matters not within the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice; of the acquisition, collection, classification, preservation, and exchange of criminal identification records; and of such investigations regarding official matters under the control of the Department of Justice and the Department of State as may be directed by the Attorney General.

He also has charge of matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

TAXES AND PENALTIES UNIT (JOSEPH LAWRENCE)

The Administrative Officer has supervision of the determination of internal-revenue taxes, institution of suits, compromises, preparation of bankruptcy claims, petitions for remissions of forfeitures, and other relevant civil matters arising under the National Prohibition Act, prior to repeal, and associated revenue laws. He also is charged with special assignments of similar character by the Attorney General or his first assistant.

DIRECTOR, BUREAU OF PRISONS (SANFORD BATES)

The Director of the Bureau of Prisons has general supervision of Federal penal institutions and prisoners, and of prison contracts and matters arising under the probation law. He also has charge of special assignments by the Attorney General.

There is in the Bureau a Board of Parole of three members, appointed directly by the Attorney General, whose sole duties are to grant and revoke paroles of Federal prisoners.

DIRECTOR, BUREAU OF WAR RISK LITIGATION (WILL G. BEARDSLEE)

Under the direction of the Assistant to the Attorney General, the Director of the Bureau of War Risk Litigation has charge of war risk insurance (civil), exclusive of claims in favor of the Government, and, generally, of all matters arising under the World War Veterans' Act and kindred statutes. He also has charge of special assignments by the Attorney General.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL (CHARLES E. STEWART)

Under the direction of the Assistant to the Attorney General, the Administrative Assistant has in charge all administrative and organization matters of the Department including those relating to the United States Attorneys, Marshals, and other field offices. He has immediate direction over the administrative offices of the Department including:

The Office of the General Agent and Chief Clerk (John W. Gardner) to whom are assigned budget, accounting, and auditing matters and who, through the office of the Assistant Chief Clerk (D. J. Heffernan) and the Appointment Clerk (Charles B. Sornborger), maintains complete personnel records, supervises clerical and sub clerical forces, and governs the minor administrative offices of the Department.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

POSTMASTER GENERAL

The Postmaster General is the executive head of the Postal Service. He appoints all officers and employees under his supervision, except the four Assistant Postmasters General, the purchasing agent, the comptroller, and postmasters of the first, second, and third classes, who are appointed by the President of the United States. Subject to the approval of the President, he makes postal treaties with foreign governments. He awards and executes contracts for the air and ocean mail services. He is the executive head of Postal Savings and ex officio chairman of the board of trustees.

EXECUTIVE ASSISTANT TO THE POSTMASTER GENERAL

The executive assistant performs duties assigned to him by the Postmaster General.

CHIEF CLERK

The chief clerk of the Post Office Department is charged with the general superintendence and assignment of the clerical and subclerical forces of the Department; the care and maintenance of public property located in the department building; the advertising of the Department; the supervision of requisitions entailing expenditure of the appropriations for the departmental service; the consideration of requisitions for the printing and binding required in the Department and service; the receipt and inspection of blanks required in the Department; the supervision of receipt and inspection of supplies for the Department and service delivered in Washington; superintendence of the publication and distribution of the Official Postal Guide and other postal publications; the miscellaneous correspondence and files of the Department; matters affecting the proper administration of the civil-service rules and regualtions and the execution of the provisions of the reclassification and retirement acts. The chief clerk is the liaison officer between the Department and the classification division of the Civil Service Commission.

PURCHASING AGENT

The purchasing agent supervises the purchase of all supplies both for the Post Office Department proper and for all branches of the Postal Service. He reviews all requisitions and authorizations for supplies and, if proper, honors the same. He passes upon the sufficiency and propriety of all specifications for proposals for supplies; prepares the advertisements and forms for proposals necessary for the making of contracts for supplies; and enters into contracts for such supplies for the Postmaster General.

SOLICITOR OF THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

The solicitor is charged with the duty of giving opinions to the Postmaster General and the heads of the several offices of the Department upon questions of law arising in the course of business of the Postal Service; with the hearing and consideration of cases of alleged use of the mails to defraud the public and of cases relating to lotteries; with the consideration of all questions relating to the mailability of alleged indecent, obscene, scurrilous, or defamatory matter; with determining the legal acceptability of securities offered by banks to secure postal-savings deposits; with the examining and, when necessary, drafting of contracts of the Department; with the legal work incident to the enforcement of those provisions of the espionage law which concern the Post Office Department; with the consideration of all questions relating to the mailability of firearms; with the consideration and submission (with advice) to the Postmaster General of claims for damage done to persons or property by or through the operation of the Post Office Department, and of all claims of postmasters for losses by fire, burglary, or other unavoidable casualty, and of all certifications by the Comptroller for the Post Office Department of cases of proposed compromise of liabilities to the United States, and of the remission of fines, penalties, and forfeitures under the statutes; with the giving of advice, when desired, in the preparation or correspondence with the Department of Justice and other departments, including the Court of Claims, involving questions of law or relating to prosecutions or suits affecting or arising out of the Postal Service, and with assisting when desired in the prosecution or defense of such cases, and the maintenance of suitable records of opinions rendered affecting the Post Office Department and the Postal Service; and with the consideration of applications for pardons for crimes committed against the postal laws which may be referred to the Department; with the determining of questions as to the delivery of mail the ownership of which is in dispute; and with such other duties as may from time to time be required by the Postmaster General.

The solicitor is also charged with the duty of assisting in the defense of cases against the United States arising out of the transportation of the mails and in other matters affecting the postal revenues. These include suits in the Federal courts involving claims of the railroads and other contractors for the carriage of the mails; the representation of the Postmaster General and the preparation and presentation of the Department's cases in proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission for the determination by the commission of the basis for adjustment of railroad mail pay and the fixing of fair and reasonable rates for the transportation of the mails and for services in connection therewith by railroads, air-mail contractors, and urban and interurban electric railway common carriers, and in other matters of petition by the Postmaster General to the Commission; the representation of the Postmaster General in hearings before the Department on orders changing the mode of transporting periodical mail matter and in connection with reviews of such orders by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

Cost ascertainment.—General direction of the work of ascertaining the revenues derived from and the cost of carrying and handling the several classes of mail matter and of performing the special services.

Parcel post.—General direction of investigations of methods designed to improve the Parcel Post Service.

FOURTH ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL

The Fourth Assistant Postmaster General has charge of the following divisions, to which are assigned the duties specified:

Engineering and research.—The design and construction of buildings so far as the operation of the post-office service is concerned; the layout of post-office quarters in Federal buildings and leased buildings, including conveyor and other labor-saving equipment for same; general engineering problems affecting the activities of the Postal Service, and the consideration of the practicability of devices and inventions for use in the Postal Service.

Division of traffic.—Relative to shipment of freight, express, drayage, crating, routing and billing shipments of equipment, material, and supplies for the department and Postal Service.

Post-office quarters.—The selection, leasing, and equipment of quarters for post offices of the first, second, and third classes, and stations thereof (except those located in Federal buildings, which are under the jurisdiction of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Department); the leasing of quarters for the Railway Mail Service; the leasing and equipment of post-office garages, and the fixing of allowances for rent, light, and heat at offices of the first, second, and third classes, and stations thereof.

Motor-vehicle service.—The authorization, operation, and maintenance of the Government-owned motor-vehicle service, including the appointment and discipline of the personnel employed in connection therewith; requisitions for materials, supplies, and garage equipment and correspondence pertaining thereto; requests for allowances for rent, light, fuel, power, water, telephone service, etc.; the monthly and quarterly reports and correspondence pertaining to the accounting system; the preparation of advertisements inviting proposals for the transportation of the mails in cities by means of screen wagons and pneumatic tubes, and the drafting of orders awarding such service, including the preparation of contracts therefor; the fixing of allowances for the hire of vehicles used in the delivery and collection service; the examination of reports and the preparation of orders making deductions and imposing fines for nonperformance of service and other delinquencies on the part of contractors.

Topography.—The compilation, revision, and distribution of post route, rural delivery, county, and local center maps; the preparation and the distribution of parcel-post zone keys.

Building operations and supplies.—The preparation of specifications for equipment and supplies for the Postal Service, and the custody, distribution, and transportation of such equipment and supplies; the maintenance of a record of expenditures for equipment and supplies by appropriations; the manufacture and repair of mail bags and other mail containers and attachments, mail locks, keys, chains, tools, dies, etc.; the issuance of letter-box locks, mail keys, key chains, etc., to postmasters and other officials entitled thereto, and the maintenance of a record thereof; and the operation and maintenance of Federal buildings under the administration of the Post Office Department; the procurement and distribution of supplies therefor; the appointment and supervision of personnel necessary for the maintenance of these buildings.

CHIEF INSPECTOR

The chief inspector, working directly under the Postmaster General, keeps him and his assistants advised of the condition and needs of the entire postal service. He is charged with the selection and assignment to duty of all post-office inspectors and clerks at division headquarters and with the general supervision of the business of the post office inspection service. He authorizes and directs all investigations made by inspectors. His office has jurisdiction of all matters relating to depredations upon the mails and losses therein and arising from the application of the private express statutes (Government monopoly of carrying letters), as well as reported violations of the postal laws, such as the use of the mails in furtherance of schemes to defraud, mailing of explosives, infernal machines, poisons, intoxicating liquors, and firearms; forgery of money orders; mailing of obscene, scurrilous, lottery, and other matter prohibited transmission in the mails, and complaints of interception and tampering with mail. He supervises the development of the evidence and the preparation for prosecution of criminal offenses. To him is charged the custody of money and property collected or received by inspectors and the restoration thereof to the proper parties or owners, the consideration of complaints against the service at post offices of the second, third, and fourth classes, and the adjustment of claims for reward. Administrative matters, such as charges against postal employees of all classes, except inspectors, establishment of or changes in rural or star routes, should be addressed to the proper bureau of the department, and if investigation by an inspector is necessary to a determination of the question at issue such bureau will make the request on the chief inspector. Applications for permission to take the examination for the position of post-office inspector and correspondence in connection with such applications, and in connection with the appointment and promotion of and charges against inspectors, should be addressed to him.

BUREAU OF ACCOUNTS

The comptroller of the Post Office Department, in charge of the bureau of accounts, receives and makes the administrative examination of all postal and money order accounts of postmasters of the first and second class; states the general revenues and expenditures as part of the administrative duties formerly performed by the auditor for the Post Office Department; also compiles the resource, liability, and appropriation accounts of the Post Office Department and Postal Service; prepares the balance sheet, monthly, quarterly, and annual financial statements from the accounts of postmasters, warrant payments, and the account of the disbursing officer, which comprises the total revenue and expenditure which are in the control of the Post Office Department. Maintains the bookkeeping system from these records (with the exception of Postal Savings) from which the general statistics and the special reports for the information of the Postmaster General are obtained.

As budget officer the comptroller prepares the departmental estimates and such supplemental and deficiency estimates as may be required.

The comptroller also has supervision of the division of retirement records, which maintains an individual record of deductions from salaries for each employee of the Post Office Department and the Postal Service, who are eligible for the civil service retirement and disability fund.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

The Secretary of the Navy performs such duties as the President of the United States, who is Commander in Chief, may assign him, and has the general superintendence of construction, manning, armament, equipment, and employment of vessels of war.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy performs such duties in the Navy Department as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy or required by law.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY (AIR)

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Air) is charged with the supervision of naval aeronautics and the coordination of its activities with other governmental agencies, and performs such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Secretary of the Navy. (This position has been unfilled since June 1, 1932.)

CHIEF CLERK

As administrative assistant to the Secretary and Assistant Secretaries of the Navy, the chief clerk has administrative control over the clerical force and responsibility for the general business operations of the Navy Department, involving supervision over matters relating to the employees of the department; responsibility for the enforcement of departmental regulations general in their nature; supervision over the Navy Department post office; supervision over expenditures from appropriations for contingent and miscellaneous expenses of the department and printing and binding and partial supervision over expenditures from appropriations, "Miscellaneous expenses," and "Contingent, Navy"; he has custody of the records and files of the Secretary's office and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of that office; and performs such other duties as may be required by the Secretary or Assistant Secretaries of the Navy.

OFFICE OF ISLAND GOVERNMENTS

This office assists the Secretary of the Navy in his supervision of the insular possessions of the United States which are under naval administration.

These possessions at the present time comprise Guam and American Samoa.

OFFICE OF CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Chief of Naval Operations is an officer on the active list of the Navy appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, from among the officers of the line of the Navy not below the grade of captain for a period of four years.

The Chief of Naval Operations, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with the operations of the fleet and with the preparation and readiness of plans for its use in war. (Act March 3, 1915.) This includes the direction of the Office of Naval Intelligence, the Division of Fleet Training, the operation of the Communication Service, of mines and mining, of the naval districts, and of the Coast Guard when operating with the Navy; the direction of all strategic and tactical matters, organization, maneuvers, target practice, drills and exercises, and of the training of the fleet for war; and the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all drill books, signal codes, and cipher codes.

The Chief of Naval Operations so coordinates all repairs and alterations to vessels and the supply of personnel and material thereto as to insure at all times the maximum readiness of the fleet for war.

The Chief of Naval Operations is charged with the preparation, revision, and record of Regulations for the Government of the Navy and General Orders. He advises the Secretary concerning the movements and operations of vessels of the Navy, including their assignment for docking, repairs, and alterations, and prepares all orders issued by the Secretary in regard thereto, and keeps the records of service of all fleets, squadrons, and ships. He advises the Secretary in regard to the military features of all new ships and as to any proposed extensive alterations of a ship which will affect her military value, and all features which affect the military value of drydocks, including their location; also as to matters pertaining to fuel reservations and depots, the location of radio stations, reserves of ordnance and ammunition, fuel, stores, and other supplies of whatsoever nature, with a view to meeting effectively the demands of the fleet.

In preparing and maintaining in readiness plans for the use of the fleet in war he freely consults with and has the advice and assistance of the various bureaus, boards, and offices of the department, including the Marine Corps headquarters, in matters coming under their cognizance. After the approval of any given war plans by the Secretary it is the duty of the Chief of Naval Operations to assign to the bureaus, boards, and offices such parts thereof as may be needed for the intelligent carrying out of their respective duties in regard to such plans.

The Chief of Naval Operations is charged with matters pertaining to the operation of aircraft.

The Chief of Naval Operations from time to time witnesses the operations of the fleet as an observer.

During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretaries of the Navy the Chief of Naval Operations is next in succession to act as Secretary of the Navy. (Acts March 3, 1915, and February 11, 1927.) The Chief of Naval Operations, while so serving as such Chief of Naval Operations, shall have the rank and title of admiral, to take rank next after the Admiral of the Navy. (Act August 29, 1916.)

ASSISTANT TO THE CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

An officer on the active list of the Navy is detailed by the Secretary of the Navy as Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations. During this detail the Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations receives the highest pay of his rank.

In the case of the death, resignation, absence, or sickness of the Chief of Naval Operations, the Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations shall, unless otherwise directed by the President, perform the duties of the chief until his successor is appointed or such absence or sickness shall cease.

The Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations is next in authority to the chief. He does not administer the details of any division but coordinates the activities of all divisions.

CENTRAL DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

This division, directly under the Assistant Chief of Naval Operations, acts in immediate assistance to the Chief of Naval Operations in his duties with respect to:

(a) Policy, organization, and current plans.

(b) Budget, legislation, Navy Regulations and General Orders, bureau manuals, courts and boards, honors and ceremonies, annual and special reports from naval forces; annual and special reports made by the Chief of Naval Operations.

(c) Administration of places under naval occupation.

(d) International affairs, including relations and contacts of naval forces, afloat and ashore, with governments or forces of other nations; direction and control of naval forces in foreign waters or territory; and matters pertaining to treaties and conventions.

(e) Recommendations in connection with appropriation "Contingent, Navy."

(f) Matters not clearly within the cognizance of any other office, or requiring central coordination, and such other matters as the Chief of Naval Operations may designate.

This division is charged with the duties of the Office of Island Governments.

WAR PLANS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The War Plans Division is charged with the preparation and maintenance of basic war plans for the development and maintenance of the naval forces in a state of readiness for war and for operating in war.

The Director of the War Plans Division is a member of the Joint Board. One officer of the War Plans Division is assigned as a member of the Board for Development of Navy Yard Plans. Three or more officers of the War Plans Division are detailed to form the Navy section of the Joint Army and Navy Planning Committee. One officer of the War Plans Division is assigned as a member of the Aeronautical Board. Through membership on these boards and committees the War Plans Division assists in the coordination of the plans and policies of the War and Navy Departments.

SHIP MOVEMENTS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Director of Ship Movements Division is responsible to the Chief of Naval Operations for:

(1) The organization of the United States Naval Forces in accordance with the policy of the Navy Department.

(2) The coordination, within the Office of Naval Operations, of the United States Fleet employment plans.

(3) The allocation of all floating equipment.

(4) The preparation of the annual fuel estimates for all naval forces and the allocation of this fuel to vessels.

(5) The coordination of the movements of all naval craft, whether surface, subsurface, or air.

(6) The operation of the Naval Transportation Service, the preparation of plans for its extended operation on the outbreak of war and for the maintenance of liaison with the Coast Guard, Shipping Board, Army Transport Service, and Merchant Marine in that connection.

INTELLIGENCE DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Office of Naval Intelligence)

The Intelligence Division is charged with the collection of information for the department and for other naval activities which require it. It publishes and disseminates such information to the Navy and to Government officials requiring it. It cooperates with the other executive departments of the Government in discovering and bringing to justice persons engaged in activities against the United States. It maintains all naval attachés abroad and is the official channel of communication for all foreign naval attachés in the United States. It is the department's medium of communication to the press and public of items of naval interest.

It is the duty of the Office of Naval Intelligence to keep in close touch with all naval activities, both in and out of the Navy Department.

In time of war the Office of Naval Intelligence has charge of the censorship of cables and radio.

The Office of Naval Records and Library, in addition to maintaining a technical library for reference purposes, collects and classifies, with a view to publication, the records of the naval history of the World War.

COMMUNICATION DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Office of the Director of Naval Communications)

The Director of Naval Communications is charged with the administration, organization, and operation of the entire radio, telegraph, telephone, and cable systems of communications within the naval service, including the operation of the Navy overseas radio system and all communications between merchant ships and naval shore stations in the United States and its possessions. The foregoing includes the services rendered by shore direction-finder stations and commercial accounting. The Director of Naval Communications handles all matters pertaining to naval communications in any manner whatsoever, except those relating solely to purchase, supply, test, and installation of apparatus.

The communication office of the Navy Department (a section of the Communication Division) is responsible for the handling of all telegraphic and radio communications to and from the Navy Department.

FLEET MAINTENANCE DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Fleet Maintenance Division advises the Chief of Naval Operations on material matters ashore and afloat affecting the efficiency of the fleet, and matters relating to the Merchant Marine Act of 1928. In so doing the division keeps in close touch with the material bureaus and the navy yards, naval stations, and the high commands afloat.

NAVAL DISTRICTS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Naval Districts Division has cognizance of the following in connection with naval districts: routine central administrative work; matters of policy; the military administration of the districts as a whole; and the supervision of plans for local defense in time of war. It handles matters in connection with the sale of naval vessels, and the loan of vessels to States, and their transfer to other Government departments.

INSPECTION DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Board of Inspection and Survey)

The activities at present under this division are:

(a) Board of inspection and survey; and

(b) Joint merchant vessel board.

The board of inspection and survey is charged with inspections and trials of newly constructed naval vessels and, at intervals specified by law, with the material inspections of all vessels of the Navy. It is in close coordination with the Fleet Maintenance Division of the Office of Naval Operations.

The joint merchant vessels board is charged with the inspection of privately owned craft and the securing of such data relative to such craft as will determine their suitability for military purposes.

FLEET TRAINING DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

This division of the Office of Naval Operations is charged with the following:

(a) The general direction of tactical, gunnery, engineering, damage control, and communications training of the fleet.

(b) Coordinating study, research, and experiment in all bureaus pertaining to fleet training.

(c) The preparation of the war instructions, tactical instructions, manuals, and instructions governing the military activities of the fleet in war and in training for war.

(d) The collection, analysis, and review of all data in regard to fleet training and compilation of the same into suitable reports for the information and guidance of the service.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, was created by the act of July 5, 1862.

1. (a) The Bureau of Navigation, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for the procurement, education, training, discipline, and distribution of officers and enlisted personnel of the Navy, including the Naval Reserve and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, except the professional education of officers, nurses, and enlisted men of the Medical Department.

(b) It is charged with the supply of ships' navigational outfits, including instruments, and with their maintenance and repairs, except those specifically assigned to other cognizance, with ocean and lake surveys; with the collection of foreign surveys; with the publication and supply of charts, sailing directions, and nautical works, and the collection and dissemination of all nautical, hydrographic, and meteorological information to ships and aircraft; with pilotage; and with libraries.

(c) It is charged with the upkeep and operation of the following and with their repairs:

Naval Academy,
Postgraduate School,
Naval War College,
Schools for the Training of Enlisted Men,
Training Stations,
Naval Home,
Naval Observatory,
Hydrographic Office,

and with the direction of receiving ships and stations.

2. It shall issue, record, and enforce the orders of the Secretary of the Navy to the individual officers of the Navy and of the Naval Reserve.

3. It shall have under its direction recruiting stations, and shall supervise the enlistment and discharge of all enlisted persons.

4. It shall have under its direction the organization and administration of the Naval Reserve, and shall provide for the mobilization of all these Reserves.

5. It shall have cognizance of transportation for all naval personnel except the Marine Corps.

6. It shall establish the complements and allowances of ships.

7. It shall keep the records of service of all officers and men, and shall prepare an annual Navy Register for publication.

8. It shall be charged with all matters pertaining to application for appointments and commissions in the Navy and with the preparation of such appointments and commissions for signature.

9. It shall be charged with the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all regulations governing uniforms, and with the distribution of general orders and regulations.

10. Questions of naval discipline, rewards, and punishments shall be submitted by this Bureau for the action of the Secretary of the Navy. The records of all general courts-martial and courts of inquiry involving the personnel of the Navy shall, before final action, be referred to this Bureau for comment and recommendation as to disciplinary features.

11. It shall receive all reports of services performed by individual officers or men.

12. It shall be charged with the enforcement of regulations and instructions regarding naval ceremonies and naval etiquette.

13. It shall be charged with the supervision of the welfare and recreational activities of the Naval Service except those under the cognizance of the Marine Corps.

NAVAL OBSERVATORY, BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The Naval Observatory at Washington, D. C., broadcasts time signals twenty times daily. Signals are broadcast at every hour except 9 a. m., 11 a. m., 9 p. m., and 11 p. m. In addition to establishing standard time for the country and making it possible for the navigator at sea to determine his chronometer error and position, these signals are used by surveyors, engineers, and scientific workers for the determination of position, measurement of gravity, and radio frequencies and other purposes requiring exact time. In order to meet the needs of all who may have use for them a number of different frequencies are used in broadcasting the signals via the naval radio stations at Arlington and Annapolis. Three of the daily signals are also retransmitted by the station at Mare Island, Calif., and the noon signals are also distributed by telegraph. Naval radio stations at Honolulu and in the Canal Zone transmit time signals which are based on Naval Observatory time.

The administration for the development, supply, upkeep, repair, and inspection of navigational, aeronautical, and aerological instruments for the ships and aircraft of the Navy is performed at the Naval Observatory.

The Naval Observatory maintains continuous observations for absolute positions of the fundamental stars, and the independent determination, by observations of the sun, of the position of the ecliptic and of the Equator among the stars, and of the positions of the stars, moon, and planets, with reference to the Equator and equinoxes, in order to furnish data to assist in preparing the American Ephemeris and Nautical Alamanac and improving the tables of the planets, moon, and stars.

The Nautical Almanac Office of the Naval Observatory computes and prepares for publication the American Ephemeris and its supplements. In addition, there is carried on the essential research work of deriving improved values of the fundamental astronomical elements and embodying them in new tables of the celestial motions.

One of the many scientific duties of the Naval Observatory is the determination and promulgation of information in connection with all solar and lunar eclipses. For many years it has been the practice to distribute pamphlets containing all of the astronomical data in connection with coming total solar eclipses.

HYDROGRAPHIC OFFICE, BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The Hydrographic Office is charged with the execution of hydrographic surveys in foreign waters and on the high seas; the collection and dissemination of hydrographic and navigational information and data; the preparation and printing by its own personnel and with its own equipment of maps and charts relating to and required in navigation, including confidential, strategical, and tactical charts required for naval operations and maneuvers; the preparation and issue of sailing directions (pilots), light lists, pilot charts, navigational manuals, periodicals, and radio broadcasts for the use of all vessels of the United States and for the benefit and use of navigators generally; the furnishing of the foregoing to the Navy and other public services, and the sale to the mercantile marine of all nations and to the general public, at the cost of printing and paper. It maintains intimate relations with the hydrographic offices of all foreign countries and with the International Hydrographic Bureau, Monaco, and (through branch hydrographic offices and sales agents) with mariners and the general public.

The Hydrographic Office is charged with the publication and supply of United States coastal aviation charts; naval air pilots; aviation charts and publications for special naval purposes; as well as the collection and dissemination of timely information which will contribute to the safe navigation of aircraft.

The Hydrographic Office cooperates with the National Academy of Sciences by conducting research work in oceanography, especially in soundings and in the collection of the temperatures of the surface of the sea.

BUREAU OF YARDS AND DOCKS

The duties of the Bureau of Yards and Docks comprise all that relates to the design and construction of public works, such as dry docks, marine railways, building ways, harbor works, quay walls, piers, wharves, slips, dredging, landings, floating and stationary cranes, power plants, coaling plants; heating, lighting, telephone, water, sewer, and railroad systems; roads, walks, and grounds; bridges, radio towers, and all buildings, for whatever purpose needed, under the Navy and Marine Corps; it has cognizance over repairs to the same and provides for general maintenance, except at the naval proving ground, the naval torpedo stations, the naval air stations, the naval training stations, the Naval Academy, the naval magazines, naval hospitals, and marine posts; it designs and makes the estimates for the public works after consulting as to their operating features with the bureau or office for whose use they are primarily intended; it has charge of all means of transportation, such as locomotives, locomotive cranes, cars, derricks, shears, motor trucks, and all vehicles, horses, teams, and necessary operators and teamsters in the navy yards and naval stations; it provides the furniture for all buildings, except at ordnance stations, hospitals, the Naval Academy, and marine posts; it provides clerks for the offices of the commandant, captain of the yard, and public works officer. In general, the work of the bureau is carried out by commissioned officers of the Corps of Civil Engineers, United States Navy, whose major duties comprise the construction and maintenance of the public works of the Navy.

THE BUREAU OF ORDNANCE

The Bureau of Ordnance, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for the design, manufacture, procurement, maintenance, issue, and efficiency of all offensive and defensive arms and armament (including armor, torpedoes, mines, depth charges, pyrotechnics, bombs, ammunition, war explosives, war chemicals) and, except as specifically assigned to other cognizance, optical and other devices and material for the control of guns, torpedoes, and bombs.

It is charged with the upkeep and operation of the following naval ordnance establishments and with their repairs, except as excluded in Article 484:

(a) Naval gun factories.
(b) Naval ordnance plants.
(c) Naval torpedo stations.
(d) Naval proving grounds.
(e) Naval powder factories.
(f) Naval ammunition depots.
(g) Naval magazines on shore.
(h) Naval mine depots.

When not prescribed by the United States Navy Regulations, specific assignment of cognizance will be as stated in the Bureau of Ordnance Manual.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR

The duties of the Bureau of Construction and Repair comprise the responsibility for the general design, structural strength, stability and seaworthiness of ships of the Navy except airships, responsibility for all that relates to the details of designing, building, fitting and repairing of hulls of vessels, district craft (except those of the Bureau of Yards and Docks) and small boats, and the provision and installation of permanent fittings; and, except as specifically assigned to other cognizance, auxiliaries, appliances and articles of equipage on its approved allowance list, preparation of preliminary plans, approximate data, or both, showing the designs of new ships in accordance with the military characteristics recommended by the General Board and approved by the Secretary of the Navy; preparation of final designs of new vessels in consultation with other bureaus.

It provides shipkeepers for the care of vessels and district craft (except those of the Bureau of Yards and Docks) not in commission.

It is responsible for the provision of facilities and arrangements for salvage of vessels.

It has administrative supervision of the dry docking of all vessels and district craft and of the operating and cleaning of dry docks and marine railways.

It is charged with the design, development and procurement of materials and appliances for defense against gas attacks except as specifically assigned to other cognizance; diving gear and experimental diving units and respiratory protective devices; paravanes and mine sweeping gear.

It is charged with the upkeep and operation of the experimental model basin and wind tunnel and the materials laboratory, navy yard, New York (joint cognizance with the Bureau of Engineering), and with such repairs as are under cognizance of the bureau.

BUREAU OF ENGINEERING

1. The duties of the Bureau of Engineering comprise all that relates to the designing, building, fitting out, repairing, and altering of machinery and its related equipment used for the propulsion of naval ships. It has the same cognizance and responsibility over the following machinery not associated with propulsion equipment: Pumps (except motor-driven pumps for drainage and for distribution of fresh water for ship's use); distilling apparatus; refrigerating apparatus (except for small self-contained units); steam and electric heaters; all air compressors (except those required for adjusting and diving on submarines and those for galley use); all steam connections and piping on ships; and all small power-boat machinery.

2. It has cognizance of all that relates to electric generating sets and storage batteries; the generation and distribution of electric power on board ship for all purposes; all means of interior communication, including telephones and telegraphs of all description; the size of voice tubes and the location of outlets; all electrical methods of signaling, internal and external; all other electrical apparatus on board ship, except the following: gyrocompass and anemometer equipment (Bureau of Navigation), fire-control instruments (Bureau of Ordnance), galley ranges and ovens (Bureau of Construction and Repair), and motors and control appliances used to operate machinery under the specific cognizance of other bureaus.

3. It is charged with the design, manufacture, installation, and maintenance of all radio and sound equipage, ashore and afloat, including all appliances, used by the Naval Communication Service, except such material as is assigned to other cognizance.

4. It inspects all fuel for the fleet. It prepares recommendations for the purchase on annual contracts of consumable engineering supplies and conducts tests for determining the quality which these supplies must meet. It prepares the specifications for the yearly contract under which lubricating oil is purchased by the Navy and by all other Federal activities.

5. (a) It has supervision and control of the upkeep and operation of the Naval Research Laboratory, Anacostia, D. C., the Engineering Experiment Station, Annapolis, Md., the Naval Boiler Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., and jointly with the Bureau of Construction and Repair of the material laboratory, navy yard, New York, N. Y., and employs these activities for conducting necessary tests and investigations to obtain suitable apparatus and material for naval purposes.

(b) The bureau prepares specifications and prescribes tests for material and machinery under its cognizance. It is represented on many of the national standardization and engineering bodies.

6. It maintains in the field offices of inspectors of machinery who are directly under the administrative control of the Bureau of Engineering, and also maintains jointly with the Bureaus of Ordnance, Aeronautics, and Construction and Repair, the offices of the inspectors of naval material. In the offices of inspectors of machinery a force of trained naval and civilian experts is maintained for the inspection of machinery and engineering materials generally entering into the construction of new vessels; this force interprets and enforces strict compliance with the engineering specifications for the construction of vessels as regards the characteristics of the material used and the method of installation of completed parts. The offices of the inspectors of naval material, which are also composed of trained naval and civilian experts, are maintained for the purpose of inspecting and insuring strict compliance with the specifications of materials purchased for the maintenance of the Naval Establishment. These offices are available to and frequently used by other Federal departments for the inspection of material purchased for Government use.

7. It nominates to the Bureau of Navigation specially qualified officers for engineering duties at sea and on shore, including those for duty as inspectors of machinery and materials.

8. It compiles and issues instructions for the care, operation, and maintenance of engineering equipment and prepares and issues bulletins of official engineering information.

9. With the Bureau of Construction and Repair it has a joint supervision and control over the appropriations "Increase of the Navy, construction and machinery," and "Major alterations, naval vessels."

BUREAU OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for the maintenance of the health of the Navy, for the care of the sick and injured, for the custody and preservation of the records, accounts, and properties under its cognizance and pertaining to its duties, and for the professional education and training of officers, nurses, and men of the Medical Department.

It is charged with the management and control of all naval hospitals, medical supply depots, medical laboratories, the Naval Medical School, and of all technical schools established for the education or training of members of the Medical Corps, Dental Corps, Nurse Corps, and Hospital Corps, and with their upkeep and operation.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall provide for inspection of the sanitary condition of the Navy, and shall recommend with respect to all questions connected with hygiene and sanitation affecting the service; it shall advise with the department and other bureaus in reference to the sanitary features of ships under construction and in commission, regarding berthing, ventilation, and location of quarters for the care and treatment of the sick and injured; of the provisions for the care of wounded in battle; and, in the case of shore stations, with regard to health conditions depending on location, the hygienic construction and care of public buildings, especially of barracks and other habitations, such as camps. It shall also advise concerning matters pertaining to clothing and food, to water supplies used for drinking, cooking, and bathing purposes, and to drainage and disposal of wastes, so far as these affect the health of the Navy. It shall safeguard the personnel by the employment of the best methods of hygiene and sanitation, both afloat and ashore, with a view to maintaining the highest possible percentage of the personnel ready for service at all times, and shall adopt for use all such devices or procedures as may be developed in the sciences of medicine and surgery as will in any way tend to an increase in military efficiency.

It shall be the duty of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery to provide for the physical examination of officers, nurses, and enlisted men, with a view to the selection or retention of those only whose physical condition is such as to maintain or improve the military efficiency of the service if admitted or retained therein; and it shall pass upon the competency, from a professional standpoint, of all men of the Hospital Corps for enlistment, enrollment, and promotion by means of examination conducted under its supervision or by such forms as it may prescribe.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall recommend to the Bureau of Navigation the complement of Medical Department personnel for hospitals and hospital ships, and shall recommend and have information as to the assignment and duties of medical officers, dental officers, and Hospital Corps men. It shall be charged with the administration of the Nurse Corps, and shall have power to appoint and remove all nurses, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Navy.

It shall require for and have control of the preparation, reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, and issue of all supplies of every kind used in the Medical Department for its own purposes; and shall have charge of the civilian force employed at naval hospitals, medical supply depots, medical laboratories, the Naval Medical School, and at all technical schools for the education or training of Medical Department personnel.

It shall approve the design of hospital ships in so far as relates to their efficiency for the care of the sick and wounded, and shall provide for the organization and administration of the medical department of such vessels.

The arrangements for care, transportation, and burial of the dead shall be under the jurisdiction and control of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

BUREAU OF SUPPLIES AND ACCOUNTS

The duties of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts comprise all that relates to the purchase (including the preparation and distribution of schedules, proposals, contracts, and bureau orders and advertisements connected therewith, and the Navy's list of acceptable bidders), reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, shipment, issue of and accounting for all supplies and property of the Naval Establishment except medical supplies (but including their purchase) and supplies for the Marine Corps.

The Paymaster General of the Navy has direction of the naval clothing factories and their cost of operation.

He has supervision over requisitions and service covering provisions, clothing, and canteen stocks; allotments under S. and A. appropriations and the accounting for allotments for ships under all appropriations; the preparation and issuance of allowance lists for ships and S. and A. material; the disposition of excess stocks accumulated at the various yards and the upkeep of naval supply account stock; he recommends to the Bureau of Yards and Docks the interior arrangements of storehouses ashore and to the Bureau of Construction and Repair the character of the permanent galley fittings and interior storeroom arrangement of all naval vessels.

He has direction of the sale of condemned, salvaged, and scrap, or other materials, and the transfer thereof from point to point.

He procures all coal, fuel oil, and gasoline for Navy use, including expenses of transportation, leased storage, and handling the same, and water for all purposes on board naval vessels, and the chartering of merchant vessels for transportation purposes.

The Paymaster General of the Navy is charged with the procurement and loading of cargoes of supply ships, colliers, and tankers, and with the upkeep and operation of fueling plants.

He has charge of all that relates to the supply funds for Navy disbursing officers and the payment for articles and services for which contract and agreements have been made by proper authority.

The Paymaster General of the Navy is responsible for the keeping of the property and money accounts of the Naval Establishment, including accounts of all manufacturing and operating expenses at navy yards and stations; the direction of naval cost accounting and the audit of property returns from ships and stations.

He prepares the estimates for the appropriations for freight, fuel, provisions, and clothing for the Navy, the maintenance of the supply, accounting, and disbursing departments at navy yards and stations, and for the pay of all officers and enlisted men of the Navy.

He originates the details to duty of officers of the supply corps.

BUREAU OF AERONAUTICS

The Bureau of Aeronautics is charged with matters pertaining to naval aeronautics as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy (sect. 8, act of Congress, July 12, 1921).

The Bureau of Aeronautics, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for all that relates to the design, construction, fitting out, testing, repair, and alteration of naval and Marine Corps aircraft and, except as specifically assigned to other cognizance, instruments, equipment, and accessories pertaining thereto.

It provides aircraft in accordance with approved operating plans.

It is charged with the upkeep and operation of all aeronautic shore establishments of the Navy and Marine Corps, exclusive of aircraft operations, and with their repairs, within the capacity of the force employed.

It makes recommendations covering all aeronautic matters as to operations, personnel, and material to the appropriate bureaus and offices of the Navy Department and the Headquarters, Marine Corps.

When not prescribed by the United States Navy Regulations, specific assignment of cognizance is as stated in the Manual of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

OFFICE OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL OF THE NAVY

The Judge Advocate General of the Navy shall, in accordance with the statute creating his office, have cognizance of all matters of law arising in the Navy Department and shall perform such other duties relating thereto as may be assigned him by the Secretary of the Navy.

The duties of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy shall be to revise and report upon the legal features of and to have recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, boards of investigation and inquest, boards for the selection of officers for promotion, boards for the examination of officers for retirement and promotion in the naval service, and boards for the examination of candidates for appointment as officers in the naval service other than midshipmen; to prepare charges and specifications for courts-martial and the necessary orders convening courts-martial in cases where such courts are ordered by the Secretary of the Navy; to prepare court-martial orders promulgating the final action of the reviewing authority in general courts-martial cases, except those of enlisted men convened by officers other than the Secretary of the Navy; to prepare the necessary orders convening courts of inquiry and boards for the examination of officers for promotion and retirement, for the selection of officers for promotion, for the examination of all candidates for appointment as officers in the naval service other than midshipmen, and in the Naval Reserve, where such courts and boards are ordered by the Secretary of the Navy, and to conduct all official correspondence relating to such courts and boards.

It shall also be the duty of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy to examine and report upon all questions relating to rank and precedence, to promotions and retirements, and to the validity of the proceedings in court-martial cases; all matters relating to the supervision and control of naval prisons and prisoners, including prisoners of war; the removal of the mark of desertion; the correction of records of service of the naval personnel; certification of discharge in true name; pardons; the interpretation of statutes; references to the General Accounting Office; proceedings in the civil courts by or against the Government or its officers; preparation of advertisements, proposals, and contracts; insurance; patents; the sufficiency of official, contract, and other bonds and guarantees; claims by or against the Government; and to conduct the correspondence respecting the foregoing duties, including the preparation for submission to the Attorney General of all questions which the Secretary of the Navy may direct to be submitted.

It shall be the duty of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy to examine and report upon all bills and resolutions introduced in Congress and referred to the Department for report; to draft all proposed legislation arising in the Navy Department; and to conduct the correspondence in connection with these duties.

The study of international law is assigned to the Office of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy. He shall examine and report upon questions of international law as may be required.

He shall be charged, under the special instructions of the Secretary of the Navy, with the searching of titles, purchase, sale, transfer, and other questions affecting lands and buildings pertaining to the Navy, and with the care and preservation of all muniments of title to land acquired for naval uses.

No oral or informal opinions shall be rendered by the Office of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy. Formal opinions or decisions in writing shall be rendered only when directed by the Secretary of the Navy, and such opinions or decisions shall be the basis of official action by any bureau or office or officer of the Navy Department or Marine Corps only after the approval of such opinion or decision by the Secretary of the Navy.

HEADQUARTERS UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS

The Major General Commandant of the Marine Corps, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with and responsible for the procurement, discharge, education, training, discipline, and distribution of officers and enlisted personnel of the Marine Corps, including the Marine Corps Reserve, and the administration and general efficiency of the Marine Corps and of the Marine Corps Reserve. The headquarters is organized as the office of the Major General Commandant and three staff departments.

The assistant to the Major General Commandant has general supervision over recruiting; assignments and complements of officers and enlisted men; passports; transportation on naval transports; Marine Corps Institute and post schools (other than military).

The director of operations and training, under the Major General Commandant, has cognizance of military intelligence, operations, training, matériel, and aviation.

The adjutant and inspector has general supervision of claims of officers and enlisted men, courts-martial, courts of inquiry, investigations, etc.; historical archives; inspections; post exchanges; appointment, examination, promotion, reduction, and retirement of commissioned and warrant officers; military records; discharges, promotion, and reduction of noncommissioned officers; casualties; insignia.

The paymaster has supervision of questions relating to pay, allowances, bonus, gratuities, mileage, travel expenses, allotments, insurance, etc., to officers and enlisted men; deficiency and other estimates for pay, etc.

The quartermaster has supervision of matters relating to the purchase of military supplies for the Marine Corps, including subsistence, construction material, and labor; pays all expenses of the corps except those pertaining to paymaster's department; has jurisdiction over quarters, barracks, and other public buildings provided for officers and enlisted men, and repairs, alterations, and improvements thereto; vehicles for the transportation of troops and supplies; public animals and their equipment; furnishes means of transportation for movement of troops; prints and issues blank forms for the Marine Corps.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

The Secretary of the Interior is charged with the supervision of public business relating to the General Land Office, Bureau of Reclamation, Geological Survey, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Office of Education, National Park Service, Bureau of Mines, Division of Grazing Control, Division of Investigations, and Division of Territories and Island Possessions (see Executive Order of May 29, 1934), and certain hospitals and eleemosynary institutions in the District of Columbia. By authority of the President, the Secretary of the Interior has general supervision over the Government railroad in the Territory of Alaska. He exercises certain powers and duties in relation to the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii. Executive order of February 27, 1931, placed the administration of the government of the Virgin Islands under his supervision. Executive order of May 29, 1934, transferred to the Department of the Interior all functions of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, Department of War, pertaining to or connected with the administration of the government of Puerto Rico. He was designated custodian of the records and files of the United States Fuel Administration and the Bituminous Coal Commission by Executive orders of July 22, 1919, March 24, 1920, and June 16, 1920, and those of the United States Coal Commission by Executive order of September 13, 1923. Executive order of April 17, 1934, transferred the functions of the United States Geographic Board to the Department of the Interior. The Secretary of the Interior is charged with the adjustment of claims filed under the War Minerals Relief Act (sec. 5, act of March 2, 1919, 40 Stat. 1274) for losses incurred in producing or preparing to produce manganese, chrome, pyrites, or tungsten during the war, and with the supervision of all matters pertaining to the Alaska Road Commission. The Bureau of Mines was transferred from the Department of Commerce to the Department of the Interior by direction of the President in Executive order of February 22, 1934.

By Executive Order No. 6204, dated July 14, 1933, the President authorized the Secretary of the Interior to exercise all powers vested in him for the purpose of enforcing section 9 (c) of the National Industrial Recovery Act, and of Executive Order No. 6199, promulgated July 11, 1933. Pursuant to these orders there was established under the Secretary of the Interior, acting as Administrator for the Code of Fair Competition for the Petroleum Industry, a Petroleum Administrative Board, Petroleum Labor Policy Board, and the Federal Tender Board for the purpose of administering the Petroleum Code and enforcing section 9 (c) of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

By Executive Order No. 6198, dated July 8, 1933, the Secretary was designated Federal Emergency Administrator of Public Works to administer Title II of the National Industrial Recovery Act, which includes Public Works Projects, Soil Erosion Service, and Division of Subsistence Homesteads. The latter are administered directly by the Department of the Interior. He is a member also of the District of Columbia Permanent System of Highways Commission under act of Congress approved March 2, 1893 (27 Stat. 532), and of the Smithsonian Institution under act of March 12, 1894 (28 Stat. 41). Executive order of June 10, 1933, transferred the functions and personnel of the following agencies to the Department of the Interior: Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission, Public Buildings Commission, Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital, National Memorial Commission, Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway Commission, and the Federal Board for Vocational Education. Executive order of February 22, 1934, transferred the Bureau of Mines from the Department of Commerce to the Department of the Interior.

Secretary Ickes is a member of the following bodies:

Special Board for Public Works, chairman.
Public Works Emergency Housing Corporation, president.
National Forest Reservation Commission, member.
Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, member.
Smithsonian Institution, member.
National Resources Board, chairman.
Industrial Emergency Committee, member.
National Emergency Council, member.
Federal Surplus Relief Corporation, treasurer.
Virgin Islands Co., member, board of directors.
Advisory Council for the Government of the Virgin Islands, member.
United States Council of National Defense, member.
Howard University, patron ex-officio.
Planning Committee on Mineral Policy, member.
Committee on National Land Problems, member.
National Power Policy Committee, chairman.

FIRST ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

The First Assistant Secretary has general supervision over matters concerning the General Land Office, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Geological Survey, Bureau of Mines, and the Soil Erosion Service. His duties relate to the administration and enforcement of the laws enacted by Congress affecting these activities. He also considers proposed legislation relating to matters under his supervision. Duties in connection with the affairs of other bureaus are assigned to him from time to time. In the absence of the Secretary he becomes Acting Secretary.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

The Assistant Secretary has general supervision over all matters concerning the Office of Indian Affairs, Office of Education, National Park Service, St. Elizabeths Hospital, Freedmen's Hospital, Howard University, the Division of Territories and Island Possessions, and the Division of Subsistence Homesteads; admission, disbarment, and restoration of attorneys and agents to practice before department and bureaus thereof. The Assistant Secretary also has jurisdiction of matters of a miscellaneous character, such as the approval of the pay roll of the Secretary's office and the signing of contracts under the contingent and stationery appropriations, etc. He also considers proposed legislation pertaining to matters under his supervision. Duties in connection with the affairs of other bureaus are assigned to him from time to time.

CHIEF CLERK

As the chief executive officer of the department and the administrative head of the divisions of the office of the Secretary, the chief clerk has supervision over the clerks and other employees of the department, enforces the general regulations of the department, and has administrative supervision of the buildings occupied by the department. Has general supervision of expenditures for printing and binding, contingent, and other departmental appropriations, including stationery and postage on mail addressed to postal-union countries. Handles accounts and related correspondence for United States disbursing agents in Alaska, Hawaii, and the Virgin Islands; contracts and miscellaneous correspondence relating to St. Elizabeths Hospital, Freedmen's Hospital, and Howard University; estimates for and admissions to Columbia Institution for the Deaf; the admission of attorneys and agents to practice and disbarments from practice; is contact officer for the Department in matters relating to the Division of Disbursements, Treasury Department, and the General Accounting Office; handles various other miscellaneous matters of the Secretary's Office not otherwise assigned; is delegated by the Secretary to sign a portion of the official papers and documents ordinarily signed by the Assistant Secretary during the latter's absence.

COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE

The Commissioner of the General Land Office is charged with the survey, management, and disposition of the public lands, the adjudication of claims relating thereto, the granting of railroad and other rights-of-way, easements, the issuance of patents for lands, and with furnishing certified copies of land patents and of records, plats, and papers on file in his office. In national forests he executes all laws relating to surveying, protecting, locating, appropriating, entering, reconveying, or patenting of public lands, and to the granting of rights-of-way amounting to easements.

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs, under the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, has charge of the Indians of the United States, their education, lands, moneys, schools, and general welfare, and the purchase of supplies in connection therewith; also the education and health administration of the natives of Alaska.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The Commissioner of Education has charge of the Office of Education, which collects statistics and general information showing the condition and progress of education in the United States and all foreign countries; advises State, county, and local school officers as to the administration and improvement of schools; issues annually a report, a number of bulletins, and miscellaneous publications; issues biennially a survey of education; and administers the endowment fund for the support of colleges for the benefit of agriculture and mechanic arts and the acts relating to cooperation with the States and Territories for the promotion of vocational education and rehabilitation. He is required to make an inspection of Howard University, Washington, D. C., at least once each year, and submit a report to Congress thereon. The commissioner is a member of the Federal Board for Vocational Education and of the Commission on Licensure to Practice the Healing Art in the District of Columbia.

The Federal Board for Vocational Education was created by act of Congress approved February 23, 1917. This act makes continuing appropriations to be expended in the States under State plans for the promotion of vocational education. For the fiscal year 1917–18 the amount appropriated was $1,860,000, and the appropriation increased each year until in 1925–26 it reached $7,367,000, which sum was provided annually thereafter. An act approved February 5, 1929, authorized an additional appropriation of $250,000 for agriculture and $250,000 for home economics for the fiscal year 1930, and for each year thereafter, for four years, a sum exceeding by $250,000 the appropriation of the preceding year for the promotion of vocational education in each of these two fields. The latter act expired on June 30, 1934, but an act approved May 21, 1934, authorized an appropriation of $3,000,000 for each of the fiscal years 1935, 1936, and 1937 for the further development of vocational education to be used in equal amounts for instruction in agricultural subjects, home economics subjects, and trade and industrial education subjects. The money appropriated under these acts is to be allotted to the States on the basis of rural, farming, urban, or total population as designated in the acts, for the promotion of vocational education in agriculture, trades and industries, and home economics, and for the preparation of teachers of vocational subjects. Utilization of allotments is authorized upon condition that for each dollar of Federal money expended the State or local community, or both, shall expend at least an equal amount for the same purpose.

The duties imposed upon the Board by the national vocational education act are of a twofold character: On the one hand, as representative of the Government the Federal Board cooperates with State boards for vocational education in promoting vocational education; and, on the other, as a research agency it is required to make, or cause to have made, studies, investigations, and reports to aid the States in developing their programs. As representative of the Government, it examines the plans submitted by the State boards, presenting in the case of each State the scheme of vocational education to be conducted by the State, and approves plans found to be in conformity with the provisions and purposes of the act. It ascertains annually whether the several States are using or are prepared to use the money received by them in accordance with the provisions of the Statute and each year it certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury the States which have complied with the provisions of the act, together with the amount which each State is entitled to receive. It is expressly required to make studies, investigations, and reports dealing with occupational processes and educational requirements for workers and apprentices, and with problems of administration of vocational schools and of courses of instruction in vocational subjects, in the several fields of agricultural, trade and industrial, home economics, and commercial employment.

A large part of the work of the Board's staff members consists of advising with and rendering direct assistance to State boards for vocational education in developing more effective and efficient programs of vocational education.

The Federal Board for Vocational Education is designated as the administrative agency, also, of the civilian vocational rehabilitation act, approved June 2, 1920. By this act the Federal Government agrees to cooperate with the States in rehabilitating and restoring to remunerative employment any persons disabled in industry or otherwise. Under this act the duties imposed upon the Federal Board include the making of rules and regulations appropriate for carrying out the purposes of the act; cooperation with the States in the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons; examination of State plans and their approval, if in conformity with the provisions of the act; and cooperation in this work with public and private agencies. The Federal Board must ascertain annually whether the States are properly using Federal funds and must certify, on or before the first day of January of each year, to the Secretary of the Treasury those States which have accepted and complied with the provisions of the law, designating the amount of money which each State is entitled to receive. To aid the States, the Federal Board is authorized to make studies and investigations of the vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons and their placement in suitable or gainful occupations. Acts authorizing continuation of appropriations for this purpose were approved June 5, 1924, June 9, 1930, and June 30, 1932 (effective July 1, 1933).

An act approved March 10, 1924, extended the benefits of the vocational education and rehabilitation acts to the Territory of Hawaii and authorized annual appropriations for this purpose.

An act approved February 23, 1929, extended to the District of Columbia the program for rehabilitating disabled persons. This act provided that the Board should be the active operating agency in the District.

An act of March 3, 1931, extended the vocational education and rehabilitation acts to the island of Puerto Rico, and authorized annual appropriations for this purpose.

Under Executive order of June 10, 1933, the functions of the Federal Board for Vocational Education were transferred to the Department of the Interior, and the Board acts in an advisory capacity without compensation. These functions were assigned to the Commissioner of Education on October 10, 1933.

DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

The Director of the Geological Survey is charged, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, with the classification of the public lands and the examination of the geologic structure, mineral resources, and products of the national domain. In conformity with this authorization, the Geological Survey is engaged in preparing geologic maps and reports on the United States and Alaska, involving both topographic and geologic surveys, in conducting investigations relating to mineral resources and surface and underground waters, and in classifying the public lands and supervising the engineering phases of mineral leasing.

COMMISSIONER OF RECLAMATION

The Commissioner, under supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, is charged with the responsibility for the operation of all branches of the Bureau, including: investigation of irrigation resources; preparation of plans; construction, operation, and maintenance of irrigation projects, including power development; administration of funds provided for under the reclamation laws; the settlement and improvement of irrigated lands; the repayment of sums due from irrigators; and the investigation of reclamation and farm development projects outside of the arid region of the United States.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

Under direction of the Secretary of the Interior, adminsters 24 national parks, 1 national historical park, 67 national monuments, 11 national military parks, 11 national cemeteries, 10 battlefield sites, 4 miscellaneous memorials, 8 memorial projects, public parks in the District of Columbia, and public buildings, both within and outside the District. Formulates policies and directs protective work from standpoint of preservation and utilization and enjoyment by visitors; directs construction from engineering, architectural and landscape viewpoints, including sanitation facilities; directs public educational service in natural sciences, history and archeology, and museum developments. Is responsible for creation and organization of new national parks and monuments, including careful preliminary studies to determine areas that meet required standards. The director is by law a member and executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. In his absence, the associate director substitutes for him.

BUREAU OF MINES

The Director of the Bureau of Mines is charged with the investigation of methods of mining, especially in relation to the safety of miners, the appliances best adapted to prevent accidents, and the possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on; the treatment of ores and other mineral substances; the use of explosives and electricity; the prevention of accidents; the prevention of waste; the improvement of methods in the production of petroleum and natural gas; and other inquiries and technological investigations pertinent to such industries. He has charge of tests and analyses of ores, coals, lignites, and other mineral fuel substances belonging to or for use of the United States; has charge of the collection of statistics on mineral resources, and economic studies of metals and minerals produced or consumed in the United States; supervises all work relating to the production and conservation of helium; in case of war, he has charge of issuance of licenses covering the manufacture, distribution, storage, use, or possession of all explosives and their ingredients.

THE ALASKA RAILROAD

The Alaskan Engineering Commission was created under the act of March 12, 1914, which empowered, authorized, and directed the President to locate, construct, operate or lease a railroad, or railroads, to connect one or more of the open harbors on the southern coast of Alaska with the navigable waters in the interior, and a coal field or fields, and agricultural lands. Authority was also granted to purchase existing railroads, to construct, maintain, and operate telegraph and telephone lines, and to make reservations of public lands in Alaska necessary for the purposes of the railroad.

For the execution of this work a commission of three engineers was appointed by the President to make the necessary surveys. They were directed to report to the Secretary of the Interior, under whom the President placed the general administration of the work. After the completion of the preliminary surveys, the President, by Executive order, selected the route for the railway from the coast to the interior. Construction of the railway was begun in 1915, under the general supervision of the Secretary of the Interior.

The railroad was completed in the spring of 1923 and is now under operation. By Executive order of June 8, 1923, the President placed the operation of the railroad under the Secretary of the Interior, and by order of the Secretary of the Interior of August 15, 1923, the designation of the Alaskan Engineering Commission was changed to The Alaska Railroad, and a general manager was appointed in October of 1923, whose headquarters are at Anchorage, Alaska, with a purchasing office and special disbursing agent at Seattle, Wash., and a special representative agent located in suite 321–322, 333 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill. Reports and miscellaneous correspondence in relation to the railroad are handled in the office of the chief clerk of the department.

ALASKA ROAD COMMISSION

The Board of Road Commissioners in Alaska was created by the act of Congress approved January 27, 1905 (sec. 2), amended by the act approved May 14, 1906. By act approved June 30, 1932, the duties of the board were transferred from the jurisdiction of the Secretary of War to the Secretary of the Interior. Funds for the work are derived from a tax fund collected in Alaska and from special appropriations made by Congress.

The board is charged by law with the construction, repair, and maintenance of roads, tramways, ferries, bridges, and trails in the Territory of Alaska.

Under the act of June 30, 1921, there was authorized to be received from the Territory of Alaska or other source funds contributed for the construction, repair, and maintenance of roads, bridges, trails, and related works, said funds to be deposited in the United States Treasury and expended in accordance with the purpose for which they were contributed.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

The Secretary of Agriculture is charged with the work of promoting agriculture in its broadest sense. He exercises general supervision and control over the affairs of the department and formulates and establishes the general policies to be pursued by its various branches.

The Under Secretary and Assistant Secretary act for the Secretary in his absence and assist in the general direction of the work of the department.

DIRECTORS

Each of the directors of extension work, personnel, finance, and information, reporting directly to the Secretary, has general supervision over all the work of the department of the type which the title of his position implies.

SOLICITOR

The solicitor is the legal adviser of the Secretary and the heads of the several branches of the department. He directs and supervises all law work of the department.

OFFICE OF PERSONNEL

This office has general direction and supervision of the personnel, salary classification, organization, and related operations of the department as a whole. It conducts the business of the department with the Civil Service Commission and, where personnel matters are concerned, with other agencies doing business with the Department of Agriculture.

OFFICE OF BUDGET AND FINANCE

This office exercises general oversight and supervision of the budget, fiscal, purchasing, accounting, and related work of the department. It conducts the business of the department with the Bureau of the Budget, the General Accounting Office, the Treasury Department, the Appropriations Committees, and other departments and agencies of the Government doing business with the Department of Agriculture.

DIVISION OF OPERATION

This division is responsible for the management of the buildings and other facilities occupied or used by the Department of Agriculture in the District of Columbia, the telephone and telegraph service, the mails and files, and post office, and the motor-truck and other service units. The chief of the Division of Operation also acts as real-estate officer of the department and as personnel and administrative officer for the internal operation of the Office of the Secretary.

EXTENSION SERVICE

The Extension Service cooperates with the State agricultural colleges in the conduct of extension work in agriculture and home economics under the Smith-Lever and supplementary acts, and acts as an agency for coordinating the extension activities of several bureaus of the department with similar work carried on by the State agricultural colleges. It conducts demonstrations on reclamation projects to assist settlers in making a success of their farm enterprises. It also has charge of the preparation, installation, and display of agricultural exhibits at State, interstate, and international fairs and of the motion-picture activities of the department.

LIBRARY

The department library, with its branch libraries in the various bureaus, contains approximately 254,000 volumes on agriculture, the related sciences, and economics, exclusive of the collections in the Weather Bureau library. It receives currently approximately 4,300 periodicals.

The dictionary card catalogue of the main library, containing three-quarters of a million cards, is a record of the book resources of the whole department. It is supplemented by several extensive special indexes which are maintained by the branch libraries in the various bureaus. These together form the most comprehensive bibliography of agriculture and the related sciences available in the United States. Various current lists of accessions are also issued by the main library and the branch libraries.

The library lends its books for purposes of research to other libraries and institutions throughout the country, especially to the State agricultural colleges and experiment stations. It also furnishes bibliographical assistance and endeavors in various other ways to serve as the national agricultural library.

OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS

The Office of Experiment Stations administers Federal funds provided by the Hatch, Adams, Purnell, and supplementary acts for the support of State and Territorial agricultural experiment stations in the several States and in Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, and has immediate supervision of the experiment stations of the Department of Agriculture in Hawaii and Puerto Rico. It examines in detail the work and expenditures of the experiment stations to ascertain whether the Federal funds for their support are used and accounted for in accordance with the Federal acts and rulings, and gives such advice and assistance and furnishes such pertinent information as it is thought will best promote the efficiency of the stations and the effective coordination of the work of the department with that of the stations. The office reports annually on the work and expenditures of the experiment stations, as required by law, and issues Experiment Station Record, which gives a comprehensive current review of progress and results of scientific research, by the stations and other agencies, relating to improvement of agriculture and rural life.

OFFICE OF INFORMATION

The Office of Information supervises the publication, press, and radio activities of the department. It has general supervision of all editing, illustrating, indexing, printing and binding, and distributing of publications. It cooperates with the bureaus in the accurate recording of the results of scientific agricultural research and in the printing of these results in technical publications, and then assists the scientists and the bureaus to popularize this information in publications that are available to farmers, home makers, and others interested in the practical use of the facts. Such publications serve to facilitate the department's voluminous correspondence and reduce its cost. Through newspapers, farm journals, and other periodicals, this office also secures the circulation in popular form of the discoveries and recommendations of the scientists, specialists, and field workers of the department, thus enlarging the department's service by placing facts about improved practices in the hands of greater numbers who can benefit by this information. This office also furnishes daily to 300 radio stations, in all parts of the country, authentic, timely information of practical use to farmers and others. Radio stations donate the broadcasting time as an aid in disseminating facts about the important discoveries made by the department and the farm practices recommended by it.

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT ADMINISTRATION

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is charged with carrying out the provisions of the agricultural adjustment act, approved May 12, 1933. This act expresses the policy of Congress to establish and maintain such a balance between the production of agricultural commodities and the demand for them, and to provide such marketing conditions for these commodities as will restore the purchasing power of agricultural goods to the level which it held during the years 1909–1914. The act also provides for protecting the interests of consumers by insuring that farmers will not receive a greater percentage of consumers' retail payments for the products of agricultural commodities than farmers received during the pre-war base period.

Two methods of increasing agricultural income are provided for in the agricultural adjustment act. One is by voluntary agreements between the Secretary of Agriculture and producers of certain specified basic agricultural commodities, under which the producers agree to adjust their production. In return they receive compensating benefit payments to prevent their total income from being reduced as a result of their adjustment of production. The other method is through marketing agreements among distributors and manufacturers of agricultural goods. The Secretary of Agriculture becomes a party to these agreements. Their purpose is to improve returns to producers, remedy defects in distributing methods, and protect consumers against undue increases in distributing and retail costs.

Funds for making benefit payments to farmers who adjust their production in accordance with the programs of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration are derived from the proceeds of processing taxes levied by the Secretary of Agriculture on basic agricultural commodities and upon commodities that compete with these basic commodities. The basic commodities listed in the agricultural adjustment act, as amended by the act of April 7, 1934, are wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, tobacco, rice, milk and its products, cattle, barley, rye, flax, grain, sorghums, and peanuts.

The agricultural adjustment act also provides for efforts toward improving foreign and domestic markets for American agricultural products, and authorizes action to remove from the market burdensome surpluses of agricultural commodities.

Under an Executive order of the President, certain codes of fair competition relating primarily to first domestic processing of agricultural commodities were placed under the jurisdiction of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration except as regards provisions relating to wages, hours, and conditions of labor.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics conducts studies of the economics of production and marketing, farm organization, farm financial relations, farm labor, land economics, and the problems of rural life. It acquires and disseminates current information regarding the marketing and distribution of farm products; collects, compiles, summarizes, interprets, and makes public statistical data relating to agricultural production, including crop and livestock estimates, and estimates of the grade and staple length of the cotton crop and carry-over; studies marketing methods and conditions and the standardization, transportation, handling, financing, utilization, and storage of agricultural products; prepares and publishes reports on the outlook for farm products; and issues quarterly reports on stocks of leaf tobacco.

Reports are issued which furnish information on the supply, commercial movement, disposition, and market prices of fruits and vegetables, livestock and meats, dairy and poultry products, grain, hay, feed, seed, tobacco, and other products. Information is obtained and published also with regard to the supply of and demand for agricultural products in foreign countries. A market inspection service is available in many of the principal producing areas and receiving centers on fruits and vegetables, hay, beans, and other products, and a grading service is conducted on dairy and poultry products, canned fruits and vegetables, meats, tobacco, and rice.

Regulatory work is performed in connection with the enforcement of the cotton futures act, cotton standards act, grain standards act, standard container act, standard hamper act, produce agency act, and perishable agricultural commodities act, and the administration of the warehouse act.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING

The Bureau of Agricultural Engineering conducts investigations of farm irrigation, farm drainage and soil-erosion control, farm machinery, farm buildings, and other rural-engineering problems. These investigations include studies of the hydraulics of flow in open watercourses and in closed conduits; organization, administration, and operation of community enterprises for irrigating and for draining farm lands; water requirements for irrigating various lands and crops; means for checking soil erosion and reclaiming gullied lands; land-clearing methods; rearrangement of field boundaries for effective use of farming machinery; mechanical equipment for use in producing crops, farm processing of products, and controlling insect pests; and the planning and construction of farm buildings. Service is rendered in the design and construction of engineering structures and the purchase of engineering equipment for other bureaus of the department.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Animal Industry is primarily concerned with the protection and development of the livestock and meat industries of the United States. It conducts scientific investigations of the causes, prevention, and treatment of diseases of domestic animals; investigates the existence of communicable diseases of such animals, and aids in their control or eradication; and carries on investigations and experiments in animal husbandry and in the feeding and breeding of animals. It also is charged with the administration of the meat inspection act, the animal quarantine acts, the 28-hour law, the diseased animal transportation acts, the virus-serum-toxin act, and the act relating to the supervision of the business in interstate commerce of packers, public stockyard markets and commission men, traders, and other agencies operating in the public stockyard markets of the United States.

BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY

The Bureau of Biological Survey, the wild-life service of the Federal Government, engages in research relating to the habits, economic status, and diseases of birds and other wild animals, including studies in the propagation of fur and game species; it acquires and maintains refuges for migratory birds and other forms of the native fauna; conducts work in game management, including control of injurious species; and administers laws for the conservation of vertebrate wild life (except fishes). Its work is undertaken in the interest of agriculture, horticulture, stock raising, forestry, and recreation, and to meet the natural requirements of the wild life itself.

The bureau maintains fur-animal experiment stations and cooperates with fur farmers in improving methods of production of fur animals in captivity and develops and demonstrates improved practices in rabbit raising; it studies the propagation of game birds, conducts research in wild-life disease control, and makes investigations for improving the reindeer industry in Alaska and the reestablishment of musk oxen in the Territory.

Through a corps of land-valuation engineers, surveyors, and negotiators the bureau is engaged in refuge acquisition in a recently intensified program of restoration of migratory waterfowl. Under regional directors it maintains more than 100 reservations in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico for the protection of birds and of game and other mammals, conducts educational and investigational work in enforcement of laws for wild-life conservation, and develops more effective methods for the control of stock-killing wild animals, destructive rodents, and injurious birds, cooperating with State and other organizations.

Regulatory work is performed by the bureau in administration of the migratory bird treaty act, the migratory bird conservation act, the migratory bird hunting stamp act, and, through the Alaska Game Commission, the Alaska game law. Other laws administered are for the protection of animals and property in wild-life reservations and for the prevention of illegal interstate shipment and importation from abroad of wild animals and birds.

BUREAU OF CHEMISTRY AND SOILS

The Bureau of Chemistry and Soils is primarily concerned with the conservation and more profitable utilization of the country's soil resources and the conversion of farm products into farm profits.

The work of this bureau is organized along three major lines—(1) chemical and technological research, (2) soil investigations, and (3) fertilizer investigations.

(1) Under "chemical and technological research" is grouped the work relating to the application of the science of chemistry to the improvement of agriculture; development of processes for the utilization of agricultural products; biological, chemical, physical, microscopical, and technological investigation of foods, feeds, drugs, and substances used in the manufacture thereof, including studies of their physiological effects on the human organism; experiments on the utilization of agricultural and other raw materials for coloring, medicinal, and technical purposes; development of improved processes in the production of rosin and turpentine; and development of means to prevent farm fires and dust explosions.

(2) Under "soil investigations" is grouped all the soil work of the bureau, including the classification and mapping of the soils of the United States, studies of the agricultural value of soils, their characteristics in relation to productiveness, their origin and development, and their chemical and mechanical compositions; investigations of the response of soils to fertilizers and soil amendments; and studies of soil erosion.

(3) Under "fertilizer investigations" are grouped studies of the fertilizer resources of the country and methods of manufacturing fertilizer materials, including nitrogen and its fixation, phosphates, potash, concentrated fertilizers, organic waste products, and miscellaneous soil amendments.

BUREAU OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Dairy Industry conducts investigations of the various problems of dairy production and of the manufacture of dairy products and by-products. These include studies in the breeding, feeding, and management of dairy herds; effect of minerals in feed in maintaining milk yield, animal growth and reproduction, and other nutritional problems, and the efficiency and economy of production through the operation of dairy-herd improvement associations; sanitary methods for the improvement of city milk supplies; efficiency of dairy machinery, milk-plant operation, and milk transportation, and factors affecting the commercial value of milk; bacteriology and chemistry of milk; factors concerned in the manufacture of various dairy products and by-products, and the development of new or improved processes of manufacture and their introduction into creameries and factories. The bureau is also charged with the inspection of renovated-butter factories.

BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY AND PLANT QUARANTINE

The Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine is concerned with investigations on insects and their economic relations; the development and application of methods for their eradication or control; the carrying out, in cooperation with the States, of necessary work to prevent the spread and to control or eradicate insect pests and plant diseases that have gained more or less limited foothold in the United States; and the utilization of those species that are beneficial. These activities include investigations on and direction of control campaigns against the species injurious to agriculture, horticulture, and arboriculture; investigations on the species affecting the health of man and animals, or infesting human habitations or injurious to industries; the culture and use of honeybees and beekeeping practices; investigations on the natural enemies of insects and plant pests and the possibility of using these as aids for control; the taxonomy, anatomy, physiology, and responses of insects; chemical and other problems relating to the composition, action, and application of insecticides; and the development of methods of manufacturing insecticides and materials used with them.

To aid in carrying out these assignments and to protect agriculture from plant pests and diseases, the bureau is responsible for the enforcement of the following acts and restrictive orders promulgated thereunder: The plant quarantine act of 1912, as amended; the insect pest act of 1905; the act of 1922 governing the importation of adult honeybees; the act providing for the Mexican border inspection and control service; the act providing for export certification to meet sanitary requirements of foreign countries for plants and plant products; the terminal inspection act of 1915 (in cooperation with the Post Office Department).

FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION

The Food and Drug Administration enforces the food and drugs act, insecticide act, tea act, naval stores act, import milk act, and caustic poison act.

This administration inspects and analyzes samples of the various products coming under its jurisdiction, both at its field stations and in its laboratories at Washington, to the end that it may detect and cause to be removed from the channels of trade all those products which fail to comply with the terms of the regulatory acts which it administers. It assists manufacturers to keep their products in compliance with these acts and institutes legal action against those who violate the law. Its primary function is to protect the consuming public against misbranded or adulterated foods, drugs, naval stores, insecticides, and fungicides, and honest manufacturers against unfair competition with such goods.

FOREST SERVICE

The Forest Service administers the national forests; cooperates with States in maintaining organized protection of forest lands against fire, and in distributing planting stock to farmers for windbreaks, shelter belts, and farm woodlands; conducts investigations in the entire field of forestry, including industrial research and research in forest economics and taxation; diffuses information relating to the best uses of forests and forest products; and, in short, seeks to promote the application of forestry throughout the country on both public and privately owned lands, together with efficient and economical use of the yield. The national forests contain approximately 162,000,000 acres of Government-owned land and approximately one-third of the timber in the United States, besides forage and recreational resources of great public value. The administration of the national forests aims to coordinate and develop to the utmost the use of all their resources in the best public interest. Technical methods of forestry are applied to the growing and harvesting of timber. Livestock grazing is scientifically regulated so as to obtain range conservation along with full use of the annual growth of forage. Sustained and, where possible, increased yields of timber and forage are obtained. Water from the protected watersheds is made available for power, irrigation, and municipal and domestic supply. Provision is made for many other forms of national-forest land use under regulation. Systematic protection is provided against fire and other destructive agencies. Supervision is given to the emergency relief work performed on the national forests by the Civilian Conservation Corps and the National Industrial Relief Administration. General supervision is given to the emergency conservation work on State and private lands.

GRAIN FUTURES ADMINISTRATION

The Grain Futures Administration is charged with the carrying out of the provisions of the grain futures act of September 21, 1922, which brings under the supervision of the Federal Government all trading in grain futures at grain exchanges designated as contract markets by the Secretary of Agriculture.

The work consists of compiling daily reports of transactions in grain futures from all markets, in checking the dissemination of false and misleading information which affects or tends to affect the prices of grain, and in making genera-observations of the entire grain-marketing machinery, with a view to prevenl abnormal fluctuation of prices and to create market conditions which will reflect supply and demand. The results of investigations concerning the operationt of contract markets are published from time to time for the information of Cons gress and the general public. In cooperation with other Government agencies, the administration also makes investigations of grain and grain products and by-products, including supply and demand, cost to consumer, and handling and transportation charges.

BUREAU OF HOME ECONOMICS

The Bureau of Home Economics conducts scientific studies of consumer problems, including foods and nutrition, economics, textiles and clothing, and housing and equipment. It supplies information to various Government agencies wanting data on consumption of various commodities in the home and assists in the establishment of policies governing the use of these commodities. It furnishes the home maker results of its scientific research through bulletins, magazine articles and press releases, radio talks, and exhibits. The bureau employs no field agents, but through the home demonstration agents under the Extension Service and the State colleges it is in close contact with home makers and professional home-economics workers throughout the country.

BUREAU OF PLANT INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Plant Industry directs its activities primarily toward the improvement of the quality of crop production without increasing cost, and at the same time securing greater dependability of production through reduction or elimination of erratic hazards of plant disease epidemics. This work includes the study of destructive plant diseases and the establishment of methods of eradication and control; the improvement, by breeding and selection, of cotton, of corn, wheat, and other cereals, of apples, peaches, citrus, and other fruits, of potatoes and other vegetables, of alfalfa and other forage crops, of tobacco, and of other crop plants; the introduction of promising seeds and plants from foreign countries; the improvement of methods of crop production; improvements in methods of handling, transportation, and storage of perishable products; the utilization of plants or plant products of economic value; and arboricultural investigations and experiments with special reference to erosion-control planting activities.

The regulatory activities of the bureau are limited to the enforcement of the Federal seed act.

In addition to the experimental activities of the bureau at the Arlington (Va.) Experiment Farm, which is immediately adjacent to the District of Columbia, the bureau is operating field stations or laboratories in practically all the major cropping regions of the United States and is maintaining close cooperation with the State agricultural colleges and experiment stations.

The bureau is acquiring land in the District of Columbia on which to establish and maintain the National Arboretum.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC ROADS

The Bureau of Public Roads deals with all highway functions of the department. It administers the department's appropriations for Federal aid to the States for road construction and for the construction of forest roads. In order that funds may be properly administered it conducts research into highway design, construction, and economics. The bureau also supervises the construction of national park roads for the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior.

WEATHER BUREAU

The Weather Bureau has charge of the forecasting of the weather; issuance and display of weather forecasts, and storm, cold-wave, frost, forest-fire-weather, and flood warnings; gaging and reporting of river stages; collection and transmission of marine intelligence for the benefit of commerce and navigation; collection and furnishing of meteorological information and forecasts, including upper-air observations, for the benefit of air navigation; reporting of temperature and rainfall conditions for agricultural interests; and the taking of such meteorological observations as may be necessary to determine and record the climatic conditions of the United States.

ADVISORY COUNCIL OF THE NATIONAL ARBORETUM

The appointment by the Secretary of Agriculture of an advisory council in relation to the planning and development of the National Arboretum was authorized by section 4 of the act authorizing the Secretary to establish a national arboretum (Public, No. 799, 69th Cong.), approved March 4, 1927.

This act authorizes and directs the Secretary to establish and maintain a national arboretum for purposes of research and education concerning tree and plant life. The first deficiency act, fiscal year 1928, approved December 22, 1927 (Public, No. 2, 70th Cong.), appropriated the sum of $300,000 to enable the Secretary to proceed with the acquisition of land for establishing the proposed arboretum, and subsequent small appropriations for maintenance have been carried in connection with the annual appropriations of the Bureau of Plant Industry as provided in the annual appropriation acts of the United States Department of Agriculture.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

The Secretary of Commerce is charged with the work of promoting the commerce of the United States and its manufacturing, shipping, fishery, and transportation interests. His duties also comprise the administration of the Lighthouse Service and the aid and protection to shipping thereby; the taking of the census and the collection and publication of statistical information connected therewith; the making of coast and geodetic surveys; the collecting of statistics relating to foreign and domestic commerce; the inspection of steamboats, and the enforcement of laws relating thereto for the protection of life and property; the supervision of the fisheries as administered by the Federal Government; the supervision and control of the Alaskan fur-seal, salmon, and other fisheries; the jurisdiction over merchant vessels, their registry, licensing, measurement, entry, clearance, transfers, movement of their cargoes and passengers, and laws relating thereto, and to seamen of the United States; the custody, construction, maintenance, and application of standards of weights and measurements; the gathering and supplying of information regarding industries and markets for the fostering of manufacturing; the administration of the air commerce act of 1926, providing for the fostering of air commerce, the establishment and maintenance of aids to air navigation, the licensing of air pilots, and the inspection and registration of commercial aircraft; the supervision of the Patent Office; the administration of the acts of Congress to encourage, develop, and create a merchant marine and to regulate carriers by water engaged in the foreign and interstate commerce of the United States; the supervision of the functions of the United States Merchant Fleet Corporation, and the formulation (in conjunction with the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Treasury) of regulations for the enforcement of the food and drugs act of 1906 and the insecticide act of 1910. He has power to call upon other departments for statistical data obtained by them.

It is his further duty to make such special investigations and furnish such information to the President or Congress as may be required by them on the foregoing subject matters, and to make annual reports to Congress upon the work of said department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE (JOHN DICKINSON)

Under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce, the Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. To him is assigned the general supervision and direction of the Bureaus of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Standards, Fisheries, and Census, and the Patent Office. In the absence of the Secretary, he acts as head of the department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE (EWING Y. MITCHELL)

Under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce, the Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. To him is assigned the general supervision and direction of the Bureau of Air Commerce, the Lighthouse Service, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the Bureau of Navigation and Steamboat Inspection.

SOLICITOR

The solicitor is the chief law officer of the Department of Commerce, and his duties are to act as legal adviser to the Secretary of Commerce and the chiefs of the various bureaus, and to render opinions on questions of law arising in the course of business in the Department. He prepares and examines all contracts and bonds entered into or required by the Department, and has charge of the preparation of all legal papers to which the Department is a party. He also renders such legal service in connection with matters arising in the administrative work as may be required of him by the Secretary.

CHIEF CLERK

As the chief executive officer of the department and the administrative head of the divisions of the office of the Secretary, the chief clerk has supervision over the clerks and other employees of the department, enforces the general regulations of the department, and has administrative supervision of the buildings occupied by the department; has general supervision of expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses; the care of all vehicles under the office of the Secretary; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail; the custody of the department's seal and the records and files of the Secretary's office; the answering of calls from Congress and elsewhere for copies of papers and records; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned. During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary he may be designated by the Secretary to sign official papers and documents.

DIVISION OF ACCOUNTS

The chief of the division of accounts is charged with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Commerce to disbursing clerks and special disbursing agents charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of all items of appropriations; the preparation of official bonds and custody of records pertaining thereto; and the general accounting of the department.

APPOINTMENT DIVISION

The chief of the appointment division is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the supervision of matters relating to personnel, such as appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, removals, classification, retirement, and efficiency ratings; the consideration of applications for positions, the conduct of correspondence and the preparation of recommendations connected therewith; the preparation and submission to the Secretary of all questions affecting the personnel of the department in its relation to the civil service, classification, and retirement laws and rules; the preparation of nominations sent to the Senate and of commissions and appointments of all officers and employees of the department; the compilation of statistics in regard to the personnel, service records of officers and employees, correspondence and reports relating to the personnel, and records relating to leaves of absence.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS

The chief of the division of publications is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office; the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. He also approves all vouchers in payment for the publishing work of the department, keeps a record of all obligations and expenditures in connection therewith, and conducts the correspondence it entails. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation issued to officers of the department for official travel.

DIVISION OF PURCHASES AND SALES

Under the direction of the chief clerk the chief of the division of purchases and sales has personal supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department proper and for the services of the department outside of Washington, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriation for contingent expenses of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the annual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF AIR COMMERCE

The Bureau of Air Commerce is charged with the duty of carrying out the provisions of the air commerce act of 1926 and amendments thereto. The act provides comprehensively for the promotion and regulation of civil aeronautics. Among other things, it includes the establishment and maintenance of civil airways and their equipment with intermediate landing fields, beacon lights, signal and radio apparatus, and other aids to air navigation; the establishment of air traffic rules; the inspection and licensing of aircraft, the examination and licensing of airmen, and the identification of aircraft; the collection and dissemination of information pertaining to air commerce and the state of the art, including data concerning the causes of accidents; the establishment of a suitable weather service on airways; the charting of airways, and the publication of air maps; the promotion of air commerce, industry, and trade; the conduct of scientific research and development work tending to the improvement of facilities for air navigation, airplanes, and motors; the examination and rating of civilian schools giving instruction in flying; and the rating of airports as to suitability, and for the encouragement of the establishment and maintenance of airports by municipalities.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

The Bureau of the Census takes the decennial census of the United States' which in 1930 covered population, agriculture, manufactures, mining, distribution, and unemployment. It takes a census of manufactures every 2 years; censuses of agriculture and of electrical industries—covering electric light and power plants, electric railways, telephones, and telegraphs—every 5 years; and censuses of churches or religious bodies, of the dependent, defective, and delinquent classes in institutions, and of financial statistics of State and local government every 10 years.

With funds provided by the F. E. R. A. it took a special census of distribution in 1934, designated as a Census of American Business, and also made compilations of data relative to delinquent taxes and other subjects.

It collects annually statistics of births, deaths, marriages, and divorces; financial statistics of States and of cities having a population of 100,000 or over; statistics of prisoners in State prisons and reformatories, and of patients in hospitals for mental disease and in institutions for epileptics and feebleminded.

At monthly or more frequent intervals it publishes statistics of cotton ginned, imported, exported, consumed, and held; also statistics relating to cottonseed and its products. It also collects monthly or quarterly data regarding the production or supply of many other commodities, including boots and shoes, clothing, wool, animal and vegetable fats and oils, etc., and compiles from various sources current data regarding production, orders, shipments, stocks, etc., for numerous lines of trade and industry, together with other available information indicating the trend of business conditions.

BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE

It is the duty of this bureau to "promote and develop the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States." Included under the obligations with which it is charged are such duties as (1) "to report upon domestic as well as foreign problems relating to production, distribution, and marketing in so far as they relate to the important export industries of the United States"; (2) "to investigate and report upon such conditions in the manufacturing industries and trade of foreign countries as may be of interest to the United States"; (3) to promote American trade with Europe, Latin America, the Far East, Africa, and other areas; (4) "to operate and maintain district and cooperative offices within the United States"; (5) to enforce the China Trade Act regarding the tax exemptions of American firms doing business with China; (6) to compile and publish statistics on foreign trade; (7) to investigate trade restrictions and regulations of foreign countries in relation to American commerce; (8) to prepare and circulate lists of available foreign agents for American firms.

The bureau maintains offices in 32 foreign countries. These are in charge of commercial attachés, and in countries where there is no American diplomatic mission, trade commissioners are in charge. Reports on trade conditions and prospects are received from these sources and are widely circulated among American firms.

Reports of the Consular Service of the Department of State on the trade of foreign countries and opportunities for the sale abroad of articles produced in the United States are transmitted to the Department of Commerce for distribution. This material is edited in the bureau and distributed to the commercial public by means of the weekly magazine, Commerce Reports, special monographs, bulletins, pamphlets, and circulars or letters.

Commodity divisions, in charge of technical experts, put the resources of the Government at the disposal of basic industries in the extension of their foreign trade. Services to the following industries are in operation: Agricultural implements, aeronautics, automotive products, chemicals, electrical equipment, foodstuffs, hides and leather, iron, steel, and hardware, lumber, machinery, minerals, motion pictures, paper, rubber and rubber products, shoe and leather manufactures, specialties, tobacco, and textiles. There is close cooperation with committees of trade associations and other representatives of American industry.

The organization of the bureau also includes eight technical divisions, besides three divisions devoted to problems of domestic commerce.

The Division of Foreign Tariffs collects and disseminates information regarding foreign tariffs, and the related conditions of movement of goods between countries. The division advises exporters and importers concerning commercial treaties and preferential arrangements; import duties, restrictions, consular documents, and customs requirements; foreign export duties, bounties, and subsidies; shipment of samples and advertising matter abroad; and foreign treatment of commercial travelers.

The Finance and Investment Division attends to all financial and economic questions that are international in scope and to matters connected with the flotation of foreign securities in the United States, the investment of American capital abroad, and the general aspects of foreign-trade financing.

Statistical information with respect to United States imports and exports is received by the bureau from the collectors of customs, showing the articles imported and exported and the countries from which imported and exported.

The Transportation Division compiles and furnishes to shippers information on freight rates, services, and facilities, both rail and ocean, which will enable them to route shipments economically and to quote c. i. f. prices. The division is prepared to give advice on how to pack shipments for foreign markets. It gathers and distributes data on facilities, regulations, and charges in the ports of the world. This division also deals with telephone, telegraph, cable, radio, and postal communication and is interested in all matters tending to protect and increase American facilities for world communication.

The Division of Commercial Laws furnishes information concerning commercial laws and judicial procedure, patent and trade-mark laws, the taxation of American firms doing business abroad, formalities in connection with bankruptcy proceedings, powers of attorney, the protesting of drafts, the legal aspects of construction enterprises, agency agreements, standardization of bills of exchange, etc.

An active trade directory of business houses and prospective buyers and agents all over the world is maintained by the Commercial Intelligence Division for the benefit of American manufacturers and exporters. The bureau also locates, in foreign markets, exporters of such raw materials as are needed by American manufacturers.

The services of the bureau in domestic commerce are directed toward providing the American manufacturer, wholesaler, and retailer with accurate and definite data upon which he can base efficient merchandising methods and thus eliminate the large wastes in our distribution system. These services aim to make available more adequate knowledge of markets and distribution costs. This work is carried on in close cooperation with commercial organizations.

The distribution work of the bureau is facilitated by district offices maintained in the important commercial centers of the United States. In addition, arrangements have been made with chambers of commerce and commercial organizations in many other cities which act as direct representatives of the bureau in the work of foreign and domestic trade promotion. These branch offices expedite the distribution of commercial information and establish closer relations between the Government and private industry.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

The National Bureau of Standards was established by act of Congress approved March 3, 1901. Its functions are the development, construction, custody, and maintenance of reference and working standards and their intercomparison improvement, and application in science, engineering, industry, and commerce. Under the air commerce act of 1926, the Secretary of Commerce is authorized "to advise with the Bureau of Standards and other agencies in the executive branch of the Government in carrying forward such research and development work as tends to create improved air navigation facilities." By act of Congress approved May 14, 1930, there was established a national hydraulic laboratory at the bureau for "the determination of fundamental data useful in hydraulic research and engineering."

The bureau's functions are exercised for the National Government, State governments and, subject to reasonable fees, the general public. Its unique research and testing facilities are used to discover and evaluate material standards and to solve basic technical problems. In connection with its work on standards of measurement, the bureau assists in size standardization of containers and products, in promoting systematic inspection of trade weights and measures, and facilitates research in science and technology through the standardization of measuring instruments. The establishment of more precise values for the standard constants furnishes an exact basis for scientific experiment and design and makes possible the efficient technical control of industrial processes. The bureau's work on standards of quality sets up attainable standards to assure high utility in the products of industry and furnishes a scientific basis for fair dealing by promoting truthful branding and advertising. Standards of performance are usually specifications for the operative efficiency of machines or devices; their ultimate purpose is to make exact knowledge the basis of the buyer's choice and to clarify the understanding between maker, seller, buyer, and user. To establish standards of practice the bureau collates data and formulates codes of practice for public utilities and other services. This work makes possible a single impersonal standard of practice mutually agreed upon by all concerned and clearly defined in measurable terms.

Congress has made special provision for research and testing in specific fields involving the five kinds of standards described above. Some examples of such functions are: Aid to State governments on technical details of weights and measures inspection service; standardization and testing of gages, screw threads, and other length standards required in manufacturing; investigation of railroad track scales, mine scales, and other large scales used principally for interstate shipments; investigations of methods of high temperature measurements and temperature control in manufacturing processes; promotion of economy and efficiency in automotive transportation by land and air through investigations of the basic principles underlying the design, performance, operation, and testing of automotive power plants; development of color standards and methods of color measurement; investigation and standardization of methods and instruments used in radio communication; investigation of principles of sound transmission and absorption and their application; preparation, analysis, and certification of the composition of technical materials either of typical composition or of high purity, for checking the accuracy of scientific and industrial analysis and for testing measuring instruments; investigation of the fire resistance of building materials; determination of the properties of stone, clays, cement, and other structural materials; development of improved standards for dental materials; investigations of the industrial utilization of waste products from the land; development of standards of quality and methods of measurement of textiles, paper, leather, rubber, and tests of paint, varnish, soap, ink, and other supplies for the Government services; study of ceramic materials and the processes used in their manufacture; investigation of problems involved in the production of optical glass; researches in metals, including melting, heat treatment, mechanical working, chemical and optical properties, and effects of corrosion; use of testing machines in the determination of physical constants and properties of materials; determination of technical specifications for all grades of sugars, involving their standardization and methods of manufacture, and study of technical problems relating to the collection of revenue on sugars; investigation of radium, radium compounds, and other radio-active materials, and the development of standard specifications for X-ray equipment and for the operation of X-ray machines; formulation of standards of performance for instruments, equipment, tools, and other devices, development of test methods to insure compliance with specifications, and simplification of varieties of products; solution of problems in connection with standards for public utilities, such as gas, electric light and power, telephone, and electric railway services; technical cooperation with manufacturers upon fundamental research to promote industrial development and to assist in the permanent establishment of new American industries; the standardization of mechanical appliances; and the investigation of problems of flowing water in rivers, canals, and pipes, and of the design of hydraulic structures.

BUREAU OF FISHERIES

The work of the Bureau of Fisheries comprises (1) the propagation and salvaging of useful food fishes and shellfish and their distribution to suitable waters; (2) the inquiry into the causes of fluctuations in abundance of food fishes in the lakes, rivers, and coast waters of the United States, the development of methods of husbanding these resources, including improvements in methods of fish culture and the investigation of the fishing grounds of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts, with the view of determining their food resources and the development of the commercial fisheries; (3) the study of the methods of the fisheries and of the preservation, utilization, and merchandizing of fisheries products, and the collection and compilation of statistics of the fisheries; (4) the administration of the salmon fisheries of Alaska, the fur-seal herd on the Pribilof Islands, and the care of the native inhabitants of those islands; (5) administration of the law for the protection of sponges off the coast of Florida; enforcement of the law regulating the interstate transportation of largemouth and smallmouth black bass.

BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES

The United States Lighthouse Service is charged with the establishment and maintenance of aids to navigation, and with all equipment and work incident thereto, on the sea and lake coasts of the United States, and on the rivers of the United States so far as specifically authorized by law, and on the coasts of all other territory under the jurisdiction of the United States, with the exception of the Philippine Islands and Panama.

The bureau publishes Light Lists giving information regarding all aids to navigation maintained by the Lighthouse Service; it publishes each week, jointly with the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Notice to Mariners, giving the changes in lights, buoys, etc.; it also issues broadcasts and local notices.

UNITED STATES COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY

The Coast and Geodetic Survey is charged with the survey of the coasts of the United States and its possessions and with the publication of navigational charts of those regions. These surveys include base measurements, triangulation and traverse, hydrography and topography, tidal and current observations along those coasts; deep-sea soundings, temperature and current observations along the courses of the Gulf and Japan Streams; the survey of rivers to the head of tidewater; magnetic observations and researches; seismological investigations; gravity measurements; and the determination of elevations by trigonometric leveling. The Coast and Geodetic Survey is also charged with the determination of geographic positions by astronomic observations and by triangulation and traverse, and with the determination of elevations by spirit leveling, in the interior of the United States and Alaska.

The results of these surveys and investigations are published in the form of navigational charts, coast pilots giving detailed sailing directions, annual tables giving the predicted times and heights of the tide at many ports and the velocities and directions of tidal currents, charts showing the magnetic declination, Notices to Mariners (published jointly by the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Bureau of Lighthouses), and in annual reports and special publications. The special publications contain specifications and instructions for the various classes of surveying executed by the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the results of observations, investigations, and researches carried on by the field and office forces. The bureau has been assigned the duty of compiling and publishing maps of civil airways.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION AND STEAMBOAT INSPECTION

The Bureau of Navigation and Steamboat Inspection is charged with general superintendence of the commercial marine and merchant seamen of the United States, except so far as supervision is lodged with other officers of the Government, and administers the load line law. It is specially charged with the decision of all questions relating to the issue of registers, enrollments, and licenses of vessels and the filing of those documents, with the supervision of laws relating to the admeasurement, letters, and numbers of vessels, and with the final decision of questions concerning the collection and refund of tonnage taxes. It is empowered to change the names of vessels, and prepares annually a list of vessels of the United States. It also investigates the operation of the laws relative to navigation and annually reports to the Secretary of Commerce such particulars as may admit of improvement or require amendment.

In addition to the above statutory duties the Bureau is charged, under direction of the Secretary of Commerce, with the enforcement, through collectors and surveyors of customs, of the navigation and steamboat inspection laws, and the consideration of action to be taken on fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred under those laws; administrative examination of accounts of collectors, surveyors of customs, and shipping commissioners covering fines, penalties, and forfeitures; services to vessels; navigation fees; amounts collected on account of decease of passengers, tonnage tax collections, refunds; shipment and discharge of seamen, etc.

The Bureau is further charged with the duty of inspecting vessels, the licensing of the officers of vessels, and the administration of the laws relating to such vessels and their officers for the protection of life and property.

The blue prints or drawings of water-tube and coil boilers used in vessels of the American merchant marine are passed upon by the board of supervising inspectors, while designs of marine boilers of other types are passed upon by the local inspectors having original jurisdiction. All material subject to tensile strain used in the construction of marine boilers is required to be tested by an inspector of the Service, so that not only is the material but the design of a boiler under the closest scrutiny. The inspectors of hulls look after the examination of the hulls of vessels and of life-saving equipment such as life preservers, lifeboats, life rafts, davits, etc., and once at least in each year vessels of the American merchant marine are required by law to be inspected. Excursion steamers are reinspected not less than three times during the year in addition to the regular annual inspection. The local inspectors are the officers who examine applicants for licenses for the deck department and engineer department of merchant ships. These examinations are conducted frequently, and at such times as to be most convenient to the applicants for licenses, and, as the result of this close supervision over the licensing of officers, a very high standard is maintained. The Bureau also is required by law to certificate the able seamen who form the crew of merchant vessels, and the inspectors of the Service, together with other Government officers especially detailed for that purpose, also certificate the lifeboat men. Not the least important of the work of the local inspectors is the investigation of violations of the steamboat inspection laws. In such instances the boards of local inspectors have quasi-judicial authority, and these boards have conferred upon them the authority and the right to suspend or revoke the licenses of officers who have been found guilty of violating these laws, negligence, inattention to duty, etc. The traveling inspectors of the service, in addition to following up vessel inspections made by local inspectors, conduct stability tests of the larger class of passenger and ferry vessels.

PATENT OFFICE

The Commissioner of Patents is charged with the administration of the patent laws and supervision of all matters relating to the granting of letters patent for inventions, and the registration of trade-marks.

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD BUREAU

By Executive order dated June 10, 1933, the functions and duties of the United States Shipping Board were transferred to the Secretary of Commerce, and are administered through the United States Shipping Board Bureau.

The United States Shipping Board was created by an act of Congress approved September 7, 1916, entitled "An act to establish a United States Shipping Board for the purpose of encouraging, developing, and creating a naval auxiliary and naval reserve and a merchant marine to meet the requirements of the commerce of the United States with its territories and possessions and with foreign countries; to regulate carriers by water engaged in the foreign and interstate commerce of the United States, and for other purposes," generally known as the shipping act, 1916.

By the shipping act, 1916, regulatory powers were given to the board over common carriers by water engaged in interstate and foreign commerce of the United States and over persons carrying on the business of forwarding or furnishing wharfage, dock, warehouse, or other terminal facilities in connection with common carriers by water. These powers are principally in relation to rates, fares, charges, and practices. Carriers in interstate commerce subject to jurisdiction are required to file their maximum rates, fares, and charges, and after approval thereof, to keep such rates, fares, and charges open to public inspection. The act gives quasi-judicial authority to receive and determine complaints of shippers, passengers, and others alleging unreasonableness or unjust discrimination by carriers and others subject to its regulatory authority; and provides the method for the enforcement of orders, including orders directing the payment of money in reparation for violation of its regulatory provisions. An important regulatory power is the approval, disapproval, or modification of agreement entered into between carriers subject to the act respecting cooperative working arrangements. Approval of such agreements exempts the parties thereto from the operation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, Wilson Tariff Act, Clayton Act, and supplementary acts and amendments directed at monopolies in restraint of trade.

The act expressly provides that the jurisdiction is not concurrent with the Interstate Commerce Commission over transportation agencies within the latter's jurisdiction, and that its provisions do not apply to intrastate commerce.

The bureau is empowered to investigate the action of foreign governments with respect to privileges afforded and burdens imposed on vessels of the United States, and to make a report of the result of such investigations. The President is authorized to secure by diplomatic action equal privileges for United States vessels.

The bureau conducts all investigations and makes appropriate recommendations to the Secretary of Commerce with respect to matters arising under section 9 of the shipping act, 1916, as amended, relating to the sale, transfer, or mortgage, and chartering of vessels documented under the laws of the United States to persons not citizens of the United States, and the transfer of such vessels to foreign registry or flag. The bureau also conducts investigations and makes appropriate recommendations in connection with the surrender of marine documents of vessels covered by preferred mortgages, under the ship mortgage act, 1920.

The bureau is directed to investigate the relative cost of constructing vessels at home and abroad; to examine the rules under which vessels are constructed at home and abroad; to investigate matters relating to marine insurance, the classification and rating of vessels, and the navigation laws of the United States, and to make such recommendations as it may deem best for the improvement and revision of such laws.

The shipping act, 1916, was amended by an act approved July 15, 1918, which more particularly defined the various terms used and provisions contained in the shipping act and added eight sections at the end of the act whereby more complete control was granted over the use or sale, particularly to aliens, of marine property during the existence of a state of war or any national emergency declared to exist by proclamation of the President, and providing punishment for violations of certain provisions of the act as amended.

The shipping act, 1916, as amended by the act approved July 15, 1918, was further amended by the act of June 5, 1920, known as the merchant marine act, 1920, which transferred to the Shipping Board certain specified authority granted during the war by Congress to the President and by him delegated by various Executive orders to the Shipping Board and the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation. This act in section 1 sets forth in the following language the general merchant marine policy to be followed in its administration of the merchant marine acquired by the United States as a result of its European war activities: "That it is necessary for the national defense and for the proper growth of its foreign and domestic commerce that the United States shall have a merchant marine of the best equipped and most suitable types of vessels sufficient to carry the greater portion of its commerce and serve as a naval or military auxiliary in time of war or national emergency, ultimately to be owned and operated privately by citizens of the United States; and it is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States to do whatever may be necessary to develop and encourage the maintenance of such a merchant marine, and, in so far as may not be inconsistent with the express provisions of this act, the United States Shipping Board shall in the disposition of vessels and shipping property as hereinafter provided, in the making of rules and regulations, and in the administration of the shipping laws keep always in view this purpose and object as the primary end to be obtained."

General conditions to govern the disposition of vessel property of the United States both to citizens of the United States and to aliens are set forth, and vessels may be sold to aliens only when, after diligent effort, it has been unable to sell to American citizens. These provisions are further amended by the merchant marine act, 1928.

Other duties under the merchant marine act, 1920, are as follows:

To investigate and determine what steamship lines should be established and operated between the United States and foreign ports for the development and maintenance of the foreign and coastwise trade of the United States and an adequate postal service; to sell vessels under control of the Government to responsible citizens of the United States who will agree to maintain such lines under such terms as may be deemed advisable.

To cooperate with the Secretary of War in encouraging the development of ports and transportation facilities in connection with the water commerce over which the law gives jurisdiction; to investigate the cause of congestion of commerce at ports and any other matters tending to promote and encourage the use by vessels of ports adequate to care for the freight which would naturally pass through such ports, the result of such investigations to be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission for such action as that commission may consider appropriate under existing law in case the investigations discloses that rates, charges, rules, or regulations of common carriers by rail subject to the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission are detrimental to the promotion and development of such ports.

To recondition and keep in suitable repair and operate until sold all vessels, either directly or through the United States Shipping Board Merchant Fleet Corporation.

To continue the operation of housing projects acquired by the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation until the interest of the United States in such properties is disposed of consistent with good business and the best interest of the United States.

To take over on January 1, 1921, the possession, control, operation, and development of the terminal facilities acquired by the President by or under the act entitled "An act making appropriations to supply urgent deficiencies in appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, and prior fiscal years, on account of war expenses, and for other purposes," approved March 28, 1918.

To make all necessary rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of the act, with authority to request the head of any department, board, bureau, or agency of the Government to suspend, modify, or annul rules or regulations affecting shipping in the foreign trade, except such rules or regulations relating to the Public Health Service, the Consular Service, and the Steamboat Inspection Service, which have been established by such department, board, bureau, or agency, or to make new rules or regulations affecting such shipping.

To approve before issuance rules or regulations thereafter established by any other branch of the Government affecting foreign trade, except rules or regulations affecting the Public Health Service, the Consular Service, and the Steamboat Inspection Service.

To approve the type and kind of new vessels to be constructed by citizens of the United States out of trust funds set aside for investment therein, in order that the owner of such vessel may be allowed as a deduction for the purpose of ascertaining his net income subject to the war-profits and excess-profits taxes imposed by Title III of the revenue act of 1918, an amount equivalent to the net earnings of a vessel owned by such person operated in the foreign trade during such taxable year, two-thirds of the cost of any such new vessel shall be paid for out of ordinary funds or capital of the person having such vessel constructed.

The act further provides that after February 1, 1922, the coastwise laws of the United States shall extend to its island territories and possessions not now covered thereby, and directs the establishment of adequate steamship service at reasonable rates to accommodate the commerce and passenger travel of such islands, but if such adequate shipping service is not established by February, 1922, the President is directed to extend the period within which such service may be established for such time as may be necessary therefor.

The legislation designed to develop the American merchant marine and to assure its permanence in the transportation of the foreign trade of the United States was further amended by the merchant marine act, 1928, approved May 22, 1928. Under this legislation the policy and primary purpose declared in section 1 of the merchant marine act, 1920, are reaffirmed. The Shipping Board was directed not to sell any vessel or any line of vessels except when the upbuilding and maintenance of an adequate merchant marine can best be served thereby. The board was authorized to improve vessels owned by the United States in its possession or control to adequately equip them for foreign trade. All such vessels must be documented under the laws of the United States and remain so for not less than five years from the completion of remodeling or so long as any money is due the United States on account of such vessels. The Shipping Board was also directed to present to Congress, from time to time, recommendations so that Congress may provide adequate appropriations for the construction of new, up-to-date cargo, combination cargo and passenger, and passenger ships for replacements and additions to those operated so that an adequate merchant marine under the United States flag may be maintained. Such vessels shall be built in the United States and planned with reference to their possible usefulness as naval and military auxiliaries.

The construction loan fund provision, being section 11 of the merchant marine act, 1920, as amended, was further amended to authorize the setting aside from revenues from sales, including proceeds of securities, consisting of notes, letters of credit, or evidences of debt taken by it for deferred payments of purchase money from sales and operations, and authorized to be appropriated such additional funds to aggregate a total of $250,000,000. The fund is a revolving fund, and repayments on loans from the fund are credited to the fund, but interest is covered into the Treasury of the United States as miscellaneous receipts. Authority was granted to use the fund in making loans to persons, citizens of the United States, on terms to be prescribed for the purpose of construction, reconditioning, remodeling, or improvement in private shipyards or navy yards in the United States of vessels of the best and most efficient type for operation in lines deemed to be desirable or necessary, provided such vessels shall be fitted and equipped with the most modern, most efficient and economical engines and machinery. No loan shall be made for a longer period than 20 years, nor for a greater sum than three-fourths of the cost of vessels to be constructed or three-fourths of the cost of reconditioning or equipping vessels already built. All such loans shall be repaid in equal annual installments and bear interest, payable not less frequently than annually, while the vessel is operated exclusively in coastwise trade or is inactive, at a rate as fixed but not less than 5¼ per cent per annum; while being constructed, equipped, reconditioned, remodeled, or improved and/or during any period in which operated in foreign trade, the rate shall be as fixed but the interest rate shall not be less than 3½ per cent per annum. The lowest rate of interest shall not be granted for the construction, equipping, reconditioning, remodeling, or improvement of any vessel for the foreign trade unless it is contracted that such vessel upon completion shall not be operated exclusively and under enrollment in the coastwise and/or intercoastal trade for more than three months in any calendar year; and if such vessel shall be operated exclusively and under enrollment in such trade for more than three months in any calendar year there shall be collected the difference between the low rate of interest charged and 5¼ per cent per annum during the period of construction, equipping, reconditioning, remodeling, or improvement. Authority is granted to prescribe rules for determining the amount of interest payable. (The foregoing is as amended by act approved Feb. 2, 1931.)

The bureau is directed to supervise the construction and equipment of vessels and see that a preferred mortgage is properly recorded, and that adequate protection is provided to properly protect the repayment of the full amount of the loan, as well as insure the adequacy of the protection of the vessel and the security of the Government's equity in the vessel property.

This act further provides that all mails of the United States shall, where practicable, be carried on American-built vessels documented under the laws of the United States. The Postmaster General is directed to certify what ocean-mail routes should be established and maintained for the carrying of mails, the volume of mail moving over such routes or estimated to move during the next five years, the frequency of the sailings, etc., to provide adequate postal service. The bureau is directed, upon receipt of such certification from the Postmaster General, to determine and certify the type, size, speed, and other characteristics of vessels which should be employed in such routes. The Postmaster General is authorized to enter into contracts with citizens of the United States whose bids are accepted for the carrying of mails on the routes deemed to be adequate and necessary. The act further outlines the types and classes of vessels as to their speed and tonnage and provides the compensation which may be awarded under the contracts for carrying the mail.

The insurance fund, being section 10 of the merchant marine act, 1920, is amended, and provides that there may be created, out of insurance premiums and revenue from operations and sales, and maintained and administered, separate insurance funds, which may be used to insure in whole or in part against hazards commonly covered by insurance policies in such cases, any legal or equitable interest of the United States (1) in any vessel constructed or in process of construction and (2) in any plants or property in the possession or under the authority of the bureau; and provides that the United States shall be held to have such an interest in any vessel toward the construction, reconditioning, remodeling, and improving or equipping of which a loan has been made from the construction loan fund, or in any vessel upon which it holds a mortgage or lien of any character, or in any vessel which is obligated by contract with the owner to perform any services in behalf of the United States, to the extent of the Government's interest herein.

The act further provides that, during any national emergency declared by proclamation of the President, the following vessels may be taken or purchased and used by the United States: (1) Vessels in respect to which under contract a loan is made from the construction loan fund—at any time until the principal and the interest on the loan has been paid; (2) vessels in respect to which an ocean-mail contract is made—at any time during the period for which the contract is made. In case such vessel is required by the United States, the owner shall be paid the fair actual value of the vessel at the time of the taking or a fair compensation for her use based upon the actual value, and all vessels shall be returned to owners in condition at least as good as when taken. The owners, however, shall not be paid for any consequential damages arising from such taking or purchase and use.

Finally, the act reaffirms the policy set forth in Section 7 of the Merchant Marine Act, 1920, which directed an investigation to determine what steamship lines shall be established and put in operation from ports of the United States or any Territory, district, or possession thereof, to such world and domestic markets as are desirable for the promotion, development, and expansion and maintenance of the foreign and coastwise trade of the United States, and an adequate Postal Service, and to determine the size, type, speed, and other requirements of vessels to be so employed, and, if necessary, Government vessels shall be operated on such lines until business has so developed that such vessels may be sold on satisfactory terms, services maintained, etc.

By the Intercoastal Shipping Act, 1933, enacted March 3, 1933, additional regulatory functions were created. This act, applicable to carriers engaged in interstate transportation for hire of passengers or property by water via the Panama Canal, requires each subject carrier to file with the bureau and keep open to public inspection schedules of all rates, fares, and charges for or in connection with transportation between intercoastal points on its own route, and, if a through route has been established, all the rates, fares, and charges for or in connection with transportation between points on its own route and points on the route of any other carrier by water. Thirty days' notice of all changes in filed rates, fares, and charges, or classifications, rules, or regulations affecting such rates, fares, or charges, is required, except that for good cause changes may be allowed upon shorter notice. Suspension power is vested to determine the lawfulness of any newly filed individual or joint rate, fare, or charge, or any new individual or joint classification, regulation, or practice. By this act it is made unlawful for subject carriers through the medium of any agreement, conference, association, understanding, or otherwise, to prevent or attempt to prevent any other such carrier from extending service to any publicly owned terminal located on any improvement project authorized by Congress at the same rates which it charges at its nearest regular port of call.

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD MERCHANT FLEET CORPORATION

The United States Shipping Board Merchant Fleet Corporation was incorporated April 16, 1917, by the United States Shipping Board as the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation under the authority of section 11 of the act of Congress approved September 7, 1916, generally known as the shipping act, 1916. The name of the corporation was changed under the independent offices act making appropriations for 1928, approved February 11, 1927.

The corporation is capitalized at $50,000,000, divided into shares of a par value of $100 each. All of the stock of the corporation, except the qualifying share of each member of the board of trustees, is held by the Secretary of Commerce on behalf of the United States of America.

The object for which the corporation was organized is stated in the articles of incorporation as follows: "The purchase, construction, equipment, lease, charter, maintenance, and operation of merchant vessels in the commerce of the United States, and in general to do and to perform every lawful act and thing necessary or expedient to be done or performed for the efficient and profitable conducting of said business, as authorized by the laws of Congress, and to have and to exercise all the powers conferred by the laws of the District of Columbia upon corporations under said subchapter 4 of the incorporation laws of the District of Columbia."

The board of trustees of the Merchant Fleet Corporation consists of seven members. The general officers as provided for in the by-laws consist of a president, one or more vice presidents, the secretary, the treasurer, and the general comptroller.

The proceeds received by the corporation in exchange for its capital stock, pursuant to section 13 of the shipping act, 1916, and by appropriations made by Congress from time to time, were used for the construction by contract of steel, wood, composite, and concrete vessels for overseas commerce and for the completion of steel vessels over 2,500 tons deadweight capacity requisitioned by direction of the United States Shipping Board on August 3, 1917, and for the operation of vessels on essential trade routes.

By the emergency shipping fund provision of the urgent deficiencies appropriation act approved June 15, 1917, as amended by an act approved April 22, 1918, and by an act approved November 4, 1918, certain extensive war powers in connection with the construction, requisition, and operation of vessels were conferred on the President and by him by Executive orders of various dates conferred on the corporation. The merchant marine act, 1920, transferred all the powers and authorities thus delegated to the corporation to the United States Shipping Board, which was authorized to perform such of its duties as it deemed advisable through or by the corporation as its agent. All such control and ownership was by Executive order dated June 10, 1933 transferred to the Secretary of Commerce, effective August 10, 1933.

In accordance with the authority granted by section 25 of the merchant marine act, 1920, the Shipping Board, by resolutions adopted from time to time, conferred certain general powers on the corporation, under which the corporation acted as the administrative agent of the United States Shipping Board, representing the United States of America. The Secretary of Commerce by formal order reaffirmed such delegation of authority, except as it may be modified. The actual physical operations and management of the United States owned vessels is assigned to various managing operators under a contractual relationship. The corporation is controlled and directed by the board of trustees under general policies approved by the Secretary of Commerce.

FEDERAL EMPLOYMENT STABILIZATION OFFICE

The duties of the office may be summarized as follows:

1. To cooperate with the construction agencies of the Federal Government in formulating methods of advance planning.
2. To advise the President from time to time of—a. The trend of employment.

b. Business activity.
c. Volume of construction.
d. The existence or approach of periods of business depression and unemployment in the United States or in any substantial portion thereof.

(In advising the President, the office shall take into consideration the volume, based upon value, of contracts awarded for construction work in the United States, or in any substantial portion thereof, during any 3-month period in comparison with the corresponding 3-month periods of three previous calendar years.)

3. To make progress reports.
4. The office shall collect information concerning advance construction plans and estimates by States, municipalities, and other public and private agencies, which may indicate the probable volume of construction within the United States or which may aid the construction agencies in formulating their advance plans.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

THE SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Secretary of Labor is charged with the duty of fostering, promoting, and developing the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, improving their working conditions, and advancing their opportunities for profitable employment. The Secretary has power under the law to act as mediator and to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes whenever in the Secretary's judgment the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done. The Secretary has authority to direct the collecting and collating of full and complete statistics of the conditions of labor and the products and distribution of the products of the same and to call upon other departments of the Government for statistical data and results obtained by them and to collate, arrange, and publish such statistical information so obtained in such manner as may seem wise. The Secretary's duties also comprise the gathering and publication of information regarding labor interest and labor controversies in this and other countries; the supervision of the immigration of aliens, and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto, and to the exclusion of Chinese; the direction of the administration of the naturalization laws, the direction of the work of investigating all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life, and to cause to be published such results of these investigations as may seem wise and appropriate.

The law creating the Department of Labor provides that all duties performed and all power and authority possessed or exercised by the head of any executive department at the time of the passage of the said law, in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service by said act transferred to the Department of Labor, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties performed by and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, officer, office, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of an appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the head of the said Department of Labor. The Secretary of Labor is also given authority and directed to investigate and report to Congress a plan of coordination of the activities, duties, and powers of the office of the Secretary of Labor with the activities, duties, and powers of the present bureaus, commissions, and departments, so far as they relate to labor and its conditions, in order to harmonize and unify such activities, duties, and powers, with a view to additional legislation to further define the duties and powers of the Department of Labor, and to make such special investigations and reports to the President or Congress as may be required by them or which may be deemed necessary, and to report annually to Congress upon the work of the Department of Labor.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. He becomes the Acting Secretary of Labor in the absence of the Secretary.

SECOND ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Second Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. He becomes Acting Secretary of Labor in the absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary.

ASSISTANTS TO THE SECRETARY OF LABOR

The assistants to the Secretary perform such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary.

SOLICITOR

The solicitor is the chief law officer of the Department of Labor, and his duties are to act as legal advisor to the officials of that department; to prepare and examine all contracts and bonds entered into or acquired by said department; to assist in the drafting of departmental regulations and bills affecting the activities of the department; and to render such legal services as may be required in connection with the administrative work of the department.

UNITED STATES CONCILIATION SERVICE

The United States Conciliation Service is charged with the duty of using its good offices, through the director or the commissioners of conciliation, to seek peaceful settlement in any trade dispute arising between employers and employees in industry. The authority for this service is found in section 8 of the act creating the department, wherein the Secretary is authorized to act as a mediator or appoint commissioners of conciliation whenever the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done.

DIVISION OF LABOR STANDARDS

To develop desirable labor standards in industrial practice, labor law administration and labor legislation; to make specific recommendations concerning methods and measures designed to improve the working conditions and the economic position of wage earners; in so doing to make directly available to interested organizations and persons the existing resources of the Department of Labor and pertinent material obtainable from public or private sources.

CHIEF CLERK

The chief clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks of the department; the interpretation of the general regulations of the department; the superintendency of all buildings occupied by the department in the District of Columbia; general supervision in connection with expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses, printing and binding, and rents; and the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail.

LIBRARIAN

The duties of the librarian are to obtain and circulate currently to the staffs of the different bureaus such books and periodicals as they need in their investigations, to supply reference material and bibliographical assistance in connection with special inquiries, to prepare selected annotated bibliographies on special subjects, and to aid students of labor problems through reading-room service and correspondence.

CHIEF ACCOUNTANT

The chief accountant is charged with the responsibility of maintaining the system of accounting instituted by the General Accounting Office. He prepares requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Labor. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation; the audit of all pay rolls and vouchers for transportation and telegraph service, and the recording and depositing of all collections of immigration and naturalization receipts. He assists the budget officer in the preparation of annual and deficiency estimates for appropriations.

APPOINTMENT CLERK

The appointment clerk has charge of all clerical work incident to appointments which are made under the jurisdiction of the department. He is also the custodian of oaths of office, bonds of officers, personnel files, retirement records, and efficiency reports.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS AND SUPPLIES

The Chief of the Division of Publications and Supplies is charged by the Secretary of Labor with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office; the general supervision of printing, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. All blank books and blank forms and the printed stationery used by the department are supplied by him. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. Under the direction of the chief clerk he has supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and printing and binding of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the semiannual returns of property of the department supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the semiannual property returns of all bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

The Bureau of Labor Statistics is charged with the duty of acquiring and diffusing among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and especially upon its relations to capital, the hours of labor, the earnings of laboring men and women, and the means of promoting their material prosperity and social, intellectual, and moral welfare.

It is especially charged to investigate the causes of and facts relating to controversies and disputes between employers and employees as they may occur, and which may happen to interfere with the welfare of the people of the several States.

It is also authorized, by act of March 2, 1895, to publish a bulletin on the condition of labor in this and other countries, condensations of State and foreign labor reports, facts as to conditions of employment, and such other facts as may be deemed of value to the industrial interests of the United States. This bulletin is issued in a number of series, each dealing with a single subject or closely related group of subjects, and the bulletin is published at irregular intervals as matter becomes available for publication.

IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE

Under the act of March 3, 1933 (Public, No. 428, 47 Stat. 1517), and the Executive order, issued pursuant to the statute, dated June 10, 1933 (6166/sec. 14), the Immigration and Naturalization Service was formed through the consolidation of the former Bureaus of Immigration and Naturalization, effective August 10, 1933.

The functions of the consolidated service are the administration of the laws relating to the admission, exclusion, and deportation of aliens, and the naturalization of aliens lawfully resident in the United States; to investigate alleged violations of said laws, and when prosecution is deemed advisable to submit evidence for that purpose to the appropriate United States district attorneys.

Under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906, naturalization jurisdiction was conferred upon certain specified United States and State courts. The service exercises administrative supervision over the clerks of these courts in naturalization matters, and requires an accounting for all naturalization fees collected by them. Through its field officers, located in various cities in the United States, the Service investigates the qualifications of candidates for citizenship and represents the Government at the hearings of petitions for naturalization.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU

The act establishing the bureau provides that it shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life among all classes of our people, and shall especially investigate the questions of infant mortality, the birth rate, orphanage, juvenile courts, desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents, and diseases of children, employment, and legislation affecting children in the several States and Territories. The bureau is also empowered to publish the results of these investigations in such manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor.

WOMEN'S BUREAU

This bureau was established as a statutory bureau under act of June 5, 1920, "An act to establish in the Department of Labor a bureau to be known as the Women's Bureau." Its functions are to formulate standards and policies to promote the welfare of wage-earning women, to improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency, and advance their opportunity for profitable employment. The bureau has authority to investigate and report to the department upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of women in industry. The director of the bureau publishes the results of these investigations in the manner and to such extent as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe.

This bureau, formerly known as the Women in Industry Service, organized in July, 1918, was established by an appropriation in the act providing for the sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1919, its function being to serve as a policy forming and advisory body during the war emergency, whose special duty was to develop in the industries of the country policies and methods for the most effective use of women's services in production, and safeguarding such employment from injurious conditions. This service was continued by appropriation during the following year and until it became a statutory bureau by the act of Congress above quoted.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

The United States Employment Service was established by an act "To provide for the establishment of a national employment system and for cooperation with the States in the promotion of such system, and for other purposes," approved June 6, 1933 (48 Stat. 113). The Employment Service which existed in the Department of Labor was abolished, effective September 6, 1933, by the provisions of this act, although many of its functions were redefined and continued.

The provinces and duties of the United States Employment Service as outlined in this act are: To promote and develop a national system of employment offices for men, women, and juniors who are legally qualified to engage in gainful occupations; to maintain a veterans' service to be devoted to securing employment for veterans; to maintain a farm placement service; to maintain a public employment service for the District of Columbia; to assist in establishing and maintaining systems of public employment offices in the several States and political subdivisions thereof; to assist in coordinating the public employment offices throughout the country and in increasing their usefulness by prescribing minimum standards of efficiency and promoting uniformity in their administrative and statistical procedure; to furnish and publish information as to opportunities for employment; and to maintain a system of clearing labor between the several States.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON PRINTING

The Joint Committee on Printing, consisting of three Members of the Senate and three Members of the House of Representatives, was created by the act of August 3, 1846, and its principal duties are set forth in the printing act approved January 12, 1895. That act gave the committee authority "to remedy any neglect or delay in the public printing and binding." This authority was extended by section 11 of the legislative appropriation act for 1920, empowering the committee "to adopt and employ such measures as, in its discretion, may be deemed necessary to remedy any neglect, delay, duplication, or waste in the public printing and binding and the distribution of Government publications."

The act of 1895 provides that the committee "shall have control of the arrangement and style of the Congressional Record, and. while providing that it shall be substantially a verbatim report of proceedings, shall take all needed action for the reduction of unnecessary bulk." The committee is also authorized to provide for the publication of semimonthly and session indexes to the Record, and has general authority over the forms and style of Congressional printing and binding.

The CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY, memorial addresses on deceased Senators and Members, statue proceedings, and similar publications are compiled and prepared under the direction of the committee. The Superintendent of Documents publishes the index of public documents upon a plan approved by the committee and indexes such single volumes as it shall direct.

The committee is directed by law, to establish rules and regulations for the printing of documents and reports in two or more editions. Orders for subsequent editions after two years from date of original order must receive its approval. The committee directs whether extra copies of documents and reports shall be bound in paper or cloth, and prescribes the arrangement and binding of documents for depositary libraries.

The cost of printing any document or report which can not be properly charged to any other appropriation may, upon order of the committee, be charged to the congressional allotment.

The committee may order additional copies printed of any Government publication within a limit of $200 in cost in any one instance.

The act of 1895 also provides that the committee shall exercise the following functions in regard to the purchase of paper for the public printing and binding: Fix upon standards of quality, receive proposals and award contracts therefor, appoint a member of the board of paper inspection, determine differences of opinion as to quality, act upon defaults, and authorize open-market purchases.

The legislative appropriation act for 1925 authorizes the Public Printer to procure under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing in accordance with the act approved January 12, 1895, and furnish, on requisition, paper and envelopes (not including envelopes printed in the course of manufacture) in common use by two or more departments, establishments, or services of the Government in the District of Columbia.

The Public Printer is required by law to advertise for bids for material, other than paper, under the direction of the committee, and to make a return to it on all such contracts awarded by him. The committee may authorize the Public Printer to make certain open-market purchases of material, and, by resolution, it has required him to obtain its approval on all purchases of machinery and equipment in excess of $1,000 in any one instance.

Maps and illustration plates for Government publications are purchased under the direction of the committee whenever the probable cost exceeds $1,200; or, whenever the exigencies of the public service do not justify advertisement, the committee may authorize immediate contracts for lithographing and engraving.

Printing for the Patent Office is required by law to be done under such regulations and conditions as the committee may prescribe.

Section 11 of the legislative appropriation act for 1920 requires all printing, binding, and blank-book work for the Government to be done at the Government Printing Office, except such classes of work as shall be deemed by the Joint Committee on Printing to be urgent or necessary to have done elsewhere than in the District of Columbia for the exclusive use of any field service outside of said District.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

The Smithsonian Institution was created by act of Congress in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, an Englishman, who in 1826 bequeathed his fortune to the United States to found, at Washington, under the name of the "Smithsonian Institution," an establishment for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." The Institution is legally an establishment, having as its members the President of the United States, the Vice President, the Chief Justice, and the President's Cabinet. It is governed by a Board of Regents, consisting of the Vice President, the Chief Justice, three Members of the United States Senate, three Members of the House of Representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of Congress. The Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution is its executive officer and the director of its activities.

Through the Hodgkins fund, the income of $100,000 of which is for the increase and diffusion of knowledge in regard to the nature and properties of atmospheric air in connection with the welfare of man, grants have been made, publications issued, and medals and prizes awarded.

The library of the Smithsonian Institution (of which the Smithsonian Deposit in the Library of Congress and the libraries of the United States National Museum and the Bureau of American Ethnology are the chief units) consists mainly of scientific publications, including especially the reports, proceedings, and transactions of the learned societies and institutions of the world, and numbers over 800,000 volumes, pamphlets, and charts.

GOVERNMENT BUREAUS UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE SERVICE

The International Exchange Service is the agency of the United States Government for the exchange of scientific, literary, and governmental publications with foreign governments, institutions, and investigators. It receives and dispatches about 700,000 pounds of printed matter annually.

BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY

The Bureau of American Ethnology is engaged in the collection and publication of information relating to the American Indians and the natives of Hawaii.

ASTROPHYSICAL OBSERVATORY

The Astrophysical Observatory investigates solar radiation and other solar phenomena. The work of this observatory is carried on partly in Washington, D. C., and partly at stations on Mount Wilson and Table Mountain, in California, Mount Montezuma, near Calama, Chile, and Mount St. Katherine, Sinai Peninsula, Egypt.

NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK

The National Zoological Park has an area of 175 acres, and is located in the Rock Creek Valley, 2 miles north of the center of Washington. Its collection comprises about 2,400 animals.

UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM

The United States National Museum is the depository of the national collections. It is especially rich in the natural science of America, including zoology, entomology, botany, geology, paleontology, archeology, ethnology, and physical anthropology, and has extensive series relating to the arts and industries, the fine arts, and history. The great study series in the various fields of natural science form the basis for fundamental researches in pure science, upon which the structure of applied science is built. The collections in the field of history comprise art, antiquarian, military, naval, numismatic, and philatelic materials, and include many historic objects relating to the period of the World War. The arts and industries collections consist of objects relating to engineering, textiles, graphic arts, and medicine, and include raw materials, processes of manufacture, and finished products. The aircraft display includes among others the historic airplanes of Langley, Wright, and Curtiss, and Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis."

NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART

The National Gallery of Art is the depository for those portions of the national collections relating to the fine arts, including principally paintings and sculpture. It contains among other exhibits the George P. Marsh collection of etchings, engravings, and books on art; the Harriet Lane Johnston collection, including a number of portraits by British masters; the Ralph Cross Johnson collection of paintings by Italian, French, English, Flemish, and Dutch masters; and the William T. Evans collection of paintings by contemporary American artists.

An important addition to the National Gallery was made in June 1929 by the gift of Mr. John Gellatly, of New York, of his notable art collection, containing more than 150 pictures by eminent American and foreign artists, large collections of glass, jewels, oriental specimens, antique furniture, and other valuable material—the entire collection valued at several million dollars. By the terms of the gift, the collection was brought to Washington on April 30, 1933, and is now on exhibition in the National Gallery. A considerable addition was made by Mr. Gellatly in August 1930 to his original gift.

The Freer Gallery of Art (a unit of the National Gallery) is contained in a separate building provided by the late Charles L. Freer, of Detroit, especially designed and constructed to house the notable collection also presented by him. This comprises numerous paintings, etchings, etc., by Whistler, Tryon, Dewing, Thayer, and other American artists, and extensive examples of Japanese and Chinese art. This collection is to the art and archeology of the Far East what the Cairo Museum is to that of Egypt.

DIVISION OF RADIATION AND ORGANISMS

(Supported by Smithsonian private funds)

The Division of Radiation and Organisms was established during the year 1929 for the purpose of making scientific investigations relating to the effect of radiation on the growth and life of plants and animals.

PAN AMERICAN UNION

(Formerly International Bureau of American Republics)

The Pan American Union is the official international organization of the 21 Republics of the Western Hemisphere. It was established with a view to developing closer cooperation between the nations of America, the fostering of inter-American commerce, the strengthening of intellectual and cultural ties, and the interchange of information on all problems affecting the welfare of the nations of this continent. It is supported through their joint contributions, each nation annually paying that part of the budget of expenses which its population bears to the total population of all the Republics. Its general control is vested in a governing board made up of the diplomatic representatives in Washington of all the Latin-American Governments and the Secretary of State of the United States. Its executive officers are a director general and an assistant director, elected by the board. They in turn are assisted by a trained staff of editors, statisticians, compilers, trade experts, translators, librarians, and clerks. It is strictly international in its scope, purpose, and control, and each nation has equal authority in its administration. Its activities and facilities include the following: Publication in English, Spanish, Portuguese, with separate editions, of an illustrated monthly bulletin, which is the record of the progress of all the Republics; publication of handbooks, descriptive pamphlets, commercial statements, maps, and special reports relating to each country; correspondence covering all phases of Pan American activities; distribution of every variety of information helpful in the promotion of Pan American commerce, acquaintance, cooperation, and solidarity of interests. It also sets the date and prepares the programs for the International Conferences of the American States known as the Pan American Conferences, and is custodian of their archives. Its library, known as the Columbus Memorial Library, contains 85,000 volumes, including the official publications, documents, and laws of all the Republics, together with a large collection of maps. The Union also possesses a collection of more than 25,000 photographs, lantern slides, and negatives. Its reading room has upon its tables the representative magazines and newspapers of Latin America. Both are open to the public for consultation and study. It occupies and owns buildings and grounds facing Seventeenth Street, between Constitution Avenue and C Street, overlooking Potomac Park on the south and the White House Park on the east. These buildings and grounds, representing an outlay of $1,100,000, of which Mr. Andrew Carnegie contributed $850,000 and the American Republics $250,000, are dedicated forever to the use of the Pan American Union as an international organization. The Pan American Union was founded in 1890, under the name of the International Bureau of American Republics, in accordance with the action of the First Pan American Conference, held in Washington in 1889–90 and presided over by James G. Blaine, then Secretary of State. It was reorganized in 1907 by action of the Third Pan American Conference, held in Rio de Janeiro in 1906, and upon the initiative of Elihu Root, then Secretary of State. At the fourth conference, held at Buenos Aires in 1910, its name was changed from the International Bureau of American Republics to the Pan American Union. The fifth conference, held at Santiago, Chile, in 1923, the sixth conference, which met at Habana, Cuba, in 1928, and the seventh conference, held at Montevideo, Uruguay, in 1933, considerably enlarged the functions of the Pan American Union. All communications should be addressed to the Director General, Pan American Union, Washington, D. C.

GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE

The Comptroller General of the United States is charged by law with the settlement and adjustment, independently of the executive departments, of all claims and demands whatever by the Government of the United States or against it, and all accounts whatever in which the Government of the United States is concerned, either as debtor or creditor, and is vested with all powers and duties previously conferred or imposed by law upon the former Comptroller of the Treasury and the six Auditors of the Treasury Department; also with the duty of keeping the personal ledger accounts of disbursing and collecting officers; of reporting to Congress delinquency in rendering accounts; and of certifying balances, which are final and conclusive, upon the executive branch of the Government. He may provide for payment of accounts or claims adjusted and settled in the General Accounting Office through disbursing officers of the several departments and establishments instead of by warrant, and prescribes the forms, systems, and procedure for administrative appropriation and fund accounting in the several departments and establishments and for the administrative examination of fiscal officers' accounts and claims, reporting to Congress upon the adequacy and efficiency of such administrative examination. He appoints and removes attorneys and other employees in the General Accounting Office, they performing such duties as may be assigned to them by him, all official acts performed by them, when specially designated therefor by the Comptroller General, having the same force and effect as though performed by the Comptroller General in person. He makes such rules and regulations as may be necessary for carrying on the work of the General Accounting Office, including those for the admission of attorneys to practice before it, and furnishes, under the seal of said office for use as evidence, copies of records from books and proceedings thereof in accordance with sections 882 and 886 of the Revised Statutes.

Upon the application of disbursing officers, the head of any executive department or other independent establishment not under any of the executive departments, the Comptroller General is required to render his advance decision upon any question involving a payment to be made by them or under them, which decision when rendered governs in the settlement of the account involving the payment inquired about. He reviews, on his own motion, any settled account when in the interest of the United States to do so. He superintends the recovery of all debts finally certified by audited settlements to be due the United States, exclusive of those arising under the Postal Service, and the preservation of all accounts, with their vouchers, etc., which have been finally adjusted, and countersigns all warrants authorized by law to be signed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

It is also the duty of the Comptroller General to investigate at the seat of government or elsewhere all matters relating to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and to make recommendations to the President, when requested by him, and to Congress concerning legislation necessary to facilitate the prompt and accurate rendition and settlement of accounts, and concerning such other matters as he may deem advisable in regard to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and economy or efficiency in public expenditures. He makes investigations for Congress as to revenue, appropriations, and expenditures, furnishing assistants from his office to Congress for that purpose, and specially reports to Congress every expenditure or contract made by any department or establishment in any year in violation of law. He also reports to Congress upon the adequacy and effectiveness of departmental inspection of the offices and accounts of fiscal officers, and, in accordance with law, has access to and examines any books, documents, papers, or records, except those pertaining to certain funds for purposes of intercourse or treaty with foreign nations, of all departments and establishments for the purpose of securing from time to time information regarding the powers, duties, activities, organization, financial transactions, and methods of business of their respective offices. It is also his duty to furnish to the Bureau of the Budget such information relating to expenditures and accounting as it may request from time to time.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

The purpose of the civil service act (January 16, 1883), as declared in its title, is "to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States." It provides for the appointment of three commissioners, not more than two of whom shall be adherents of the same political party, and makes it the duty of the commission to aid the President, as he may request, in preparing suitable rules for carrying the act into effect. The act requires that, as nearly as the conditions of good administration will warrant, the rules shall provide, among other things, for open competitive examinations for testing the fitness of applicants for the classified service, the making of appointments from among those passing with highest grades, an apportionment of appointments in the departments at Washington among the States and Territories, and a period of probation before absolute appointment. It prohibits the use of official authority to coerce the political action of any person or body. The act also provides for investigations touching the enforcement of the rules, and forbids, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, the solicitation by any person in the service of the United States of contributions to be used for political purposes from persons in such service, or the collection of such contributions by any person in a Government building.

The retirement act of May 22, 1920, as amended, places under the commission the entire administration of that act. It also administers the Canal Zone retirement act.

The commission was organized on March 9, 1883. The first classification of the service applied to the departments at Washington and to post offices and customhouses having as many as 50 employees, embracing 13,924 employees. On June 30, 1934, there were 661,094 officers and employees in the Federal executive civil service. Of this number 87,196 were employed in the District of Columbia. On June 30, 1934, there were 461,587 positions in the classified service subject to competitive examination.

Examinations are held in the principal cities throughout the country through the agency of local boards of examiners, of which there are approximately 4,500. The members of these boards are detailed from other branches of the service.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1934, the commission examined 342,758 applicants, and 27,774 appointments were made.

The commission also holds examinations in the Canal Zone, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Philippine Islands. Under the rules, the commission is required to render all practical assistance to the Philippine Civil Service Board.

Appointments of unskilled laborers in the departments at Washington and in all branches of the service in certain other cities and certain branches of the service in all cities are required to be made in accordance with regulations promulgated by the President, restricting appointments to applicants who are rated highest in physical condition. This system is outside the civil service act and is auxiliary to the civil-service rules.

The commission holds examinations for postmasterships at first, second, and third class offices under an Executive order.

CHIEF EXAMINER

Serves as the chief technical and executive officer of the commission; plans, directs, controls, and is responsible for the technical and administrative work of the various divisions, field offices, and local boards of examiners, and the commission's business and fiscal operations; serves as the principal consultant to the commissioners and formulates and develops matters of policy, interpretation, and procedure.

EXAMINING DIVISION

Prepares announcements of examinations; prepares examinations, rates the papers, issues notices of markings, passes on the qualifications of applicants for examinations and of persons proposed for change in status, prepares and maintains registers of eligibles and certifies therefrom for appointment, passes on and records temporary appointments; answers inquiries concerning vacancies, relative standing, and prospect of appointment.

The application section receives and passes upon applications; and supervises the holding of examinations by local civil-service boards. It maintains a record of applications.

SERVICE RECORD AND RETIREMENT DIVISION

Maintains service records of permanent employees in the executive civil service; acts on cases of reinstatement, transfer, and change of status; administers all phases of the retirement law; and acts in cases of violation of the civil service law or rules by administrative officers or employees.

INVESTIGATIONS DIVISION

Investigates frauds, political-activity cases, irregularities in examinations, Executive order cases; conducts personal interviews and investigations of character, training, experience, and suitability of applicants for various classes of positions; supervises the taking of finger prints.

PERSONNEL CLASSIFICATION DIVISION

Ascertains the facts as to the duties and responsibilities of positions within the scope of the classification act of 1923, as amended, and allocates them into services, classes, and grades.

Prepares class specifications, setting forth classification standards and containing titles of classes and statements of duties and responsibilities, and statements of minimum qualifications required to perform such duties and exercise such responsibilities.

Conducts surveys of groups of positions for the purpose of discovering the need for and making necessary classification adjustments due to changes in positions since they were last allocated.

Passes upon reductions and separations in connection with efficiency ratings and reductions in force in the departmental service.

RESEARCH DIVISION

Analyzes duties of positions and determines qualifications essential to their performance; develops means of measuring these qualifications; evaluates various selection methods by correlating their results with valid criteria; prepares model series of new-type examinations chosen for actual use; standardizes examination material and method; makes surveys and recommendations in connection with the revision of the efficiency rating system and research in the theory and practice of classification. Cooperates with other Government departments, with universities, industries, and research foundations, for purposes of furthering research with regard to selection, placement, promotion, and training, and of improving personnel procedure and administration. Maintains connections and exchanges findings with psychological laboratories of Europe and America. The director of research is also director of the Council of Personnel Administration.

EDITING AND RECRUITING DIVISION

Prepares or edits all forms and publications, including examination announcements; has charge of recruiting; answers inquiries of the press.

BOARD OF APPEALS AND REVIEWS

Has appellate jurisdiction in all matters pending before the commission. Reviews the record and passes upon the merit of appeals from ratings in all examinations, including character investigations; appeals from debarment from examination on account of unsuitability; appeals from action taken in cases of transfer, reinstatement, promotion, or proposed noncompetitive appointments; appeals from action taken in retirement cases; appeals in connection with allocation.

CORRESPONDENCE DIVISION

Answers inquiries made by mail, giving general information about examinations; maintains central files for all divisions; receives and distributes incoming communications.

ACCOUNTS AND MAINTENANCE DIVISION

Has charge of accounts covering general business operations of the main office and field offices; preparation of estimates, statements, and auditing of expenditures; purchase and procurement of printing, supplies and equipment, including maintenance of stocks and distribution; supervision of matters pertaining to quarters of the commission in Washington, D. C., in cooperation with the National Park Service; operation of duplicating and photostat machines.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

The original act to regulate commerce, approved February 4, 1887, provided for a commission consisting of five members. By various amendatory and supplementary enactments the powers of the commission have been increased and the scope of the regulating statute materially widened. Among the more important of these enactments are the acts of March 2, 1889; the Elkins Act, approved February 19, 1903; the Hepburn Act, approved June 29, 1906; the Mann-Elkins Act of June 18, 1910; the acts of August 24, 1912, and May 29 and August 9, 1917; the transportation act, 1920; and the emergency railroad transportation act, 1933. The number of commissioners was increased under the act of June 29, 1906, to 7 members; under the act of August 9, 1917, to 9 members; and under the transportation act, 1920, to 11 members.

The commission appoints a secretary (who is its general administrative and executive officer), an assistant secretary, a chief counsel, and such attorneys, examiners, special agents, and clerks as are necessary to the proper performance of its duties.

The interstate commerce act applies to all common carriers engaged in the transportation of oil or other commodities, except water, and except natural or artificial gas, by means of pipe lines, or partly by pipe lines and partly by railroad, or partly by pipe lines and partly by water, from one State, Territory, or district of the United States to any other State, Territory, or district of the United States, or to any foreign country, and to common carriers engaged in interstate transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad (or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment); also to express companies and sleeping-car companies, to bridges, ferries, car floats and lighters, and all terminal and transportation facilities used or necessary in the interstate transportation of persons and property.

The interstate commerce act requires all rates to be just and reasonable and prohibits unjust discrimination and undue or unreasonable preference or advantage in transportation rates or facilities. The act provides that whenever in any investigation, including one instituted upon petition of the carriers concerned, there shall be brought in issue any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice made or imposed by any State authority, or by the President, during the period of Federal control, the authorities of the State or States interested must be notified of the hearings in such cases, and the commission may confer and hold joint hearings with the authorities of the interested States.

If, after hearing, the commission finds such rate, fare, charge, classification regulation, or practice causes undue or unreasonable advantage, preference, or prejudice as between persons or localities in intrastate commerce on the one hand and interstate or foreign commerce on the other hand, or any undue, unreasonable, or unjust discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce which is forbidden, it is authorized to prescribe the rate, fare, or charge, or the maximum or minimum, or maximum and minimum, thereafter to be charged, and the classification, regulation, or practice thereafter to be observed, in such manner as, in its judgment, will remove such advantage, preference, prejudice, or discrimination.

The act prohibits the charging of a higher rate for a shorter than for a longer haul over the same line in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer haul, or the charging of any greater compensation as a through route than the aggregate of the intermediate rates subject to the act. It is provided, however, that the commission may, in special cases, after investigation, authorize carriers to charge less for longer than for shorter distances, and from time to time prescribe the extent to which such carriers may be relieved, subject, however, to the further proviso that in so doing the commission shall not permit the establishment of any charge to or from the more distant point that is not reasonably compensatory, or authorize a circuitous rail line, because of such circuity, to meet the charges of a more direct line to or from competitive points, and to maintain higher charges to or from an intermediate point on its line where the length of the haul on the petitioning line is not longer than that of the direct line between the competitive points, or authorize any such relief because of merely potential water competition not actually in existence.

The commission is authorized to require carriers to establish through routes and joint rates, and it may act summarily in itself establishing, temporarily, through routes when, in its opinion, shortage of equipment, congestion of traffic or other emergency exists. The act requires that divisions of joint rates shall be just, reasonable, and equitable, and authorizes the commission, upon complaint or upon its own initiative, after hearing, to prescribe the just, reasonable, and equitable divisions of such rates, and it may require readjustment of such divisions if it finds they have been unjust, unreasonable, or inequitable in the past, and if the joint rates, the divisions of which are in issue, were themselves prescribed pursuant to a finding or order of the commission. The commission is also authorized to require carriers subject to the act to construct switch connections with lateral branch lines of railroads and private sidetracks. The act provides that where two or more through routes and through rates shall have been established shippers shall have the right to designate in writing via which of such through routes the property shall be transported to destination. The act gives the commission authority over the routing of traffic after it arrives at the terminus or a junction point of a carrier and is to be there delivered to another carrier in cases where routing instructions have not been given by the shipper. Where diversion of routed freight occurs which is not in compliance with an order, rule, or regulation of the commission, the carrier or carriers so diverting the traffic are jointly and severally liable to the carriers deprived of its right to participate in the haul of the property.

The act authorizes the commission, under certain circumstances, upon such terms and conditions and subject to such rules and regulations as it may think just and reasonable, to permit the pooling of freights of different and competing railroads, and to divide the aggregate or net proceeds of the earnings of such railroads, and to permit the acquisition by one carrier of the control of another carrier in any manner not involving the consolidation of such carriers into a single system for ownership and operation. It requires the commission to prepare and adopt, as soon as practicable, a plan for the consolidation of railway properties of the continental United States into a limited number of systems. The act also provides that, with commission approval and in conformity with its plan of consolidation, the carriers may now merge, as well as consolidate, their properties, or any part thereof; they may now purchase, lease or contract to operate the properties, or any part thereof, of other carriers, or acquire stock control of other carriers; and a noncarrier corporation may acquire stock control of one or more carriers. It authorizes a consolidation of four express companies, and relieves carriers, when permission is so granted, from the restraints of the antitrust laws so far as may be necessary to effect such consolidations.

The commission has jurisdiction, upon complaint or in a proceeding instituted upon its own initiative, and after full hearing, to determine and prescribe reasonable rates, regulations, and practices, including minimum, and maximum and minimum, rates; and also minimum, and maximum and minimum, proportional rates to and from ports, and to award reparation to injured shippers. The transportation act also provides that actions at law by carriers to recover their charges shall be begun within three years from the time the cause of action accrues and not thereafter, and that complaints seeking reparation shall be instituted within two years from the time the cause of action accrues, except that where the carrier begins an action after the expiration of two years for the recovery of charges in respect of the same service, or within 90 days before such expiration, the proceeding before the commission may be begun within 90 days after such action by the carrier is begun. The act also provides that a cause of action against the carrier shall be deemed to accrue upon delivery or tender of delivery by the carrier of the property involved. The commission may also require carriers to cease and desist from unjust discrimination or undue or unreasonable preferences. By the act as amended February 28, 1920, it is provided that an order of the commission shall continue in force until its further order, or for a specified period of time, according as shall be prescribed in the order, unless modified or set aside by the commission, or set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Carriers are required to publish and file rates, rules, and regulations applying to interstate traffic and are prohibited from engaging in interstate transportation unless such rates, rules, and regulations are published and filed. Severe penalties are provided in the statute for failure to observe the rates and regulations shown in the published tariffs.

By the act of May 29, 1917, as amended on February 28, 1920, the commission is given extensive jurisdiction over the use, control, supply, movement, distribution, exchange, interchange, and return of locomotives, cars, and other vehicles, including special types of equipment and the supply of trains.

The commission may inquire into the management of the business of all common carriers subject to the provisions of the act to regulate commerce, and may prescribe the accounts, records, and memoranda which shall be kept by the carriers, which shall be open to examination by the commission through its authorized agents or examiners. Carriers are required to file annual reports with the commission and such other reports as the commission may from time to time require.

By the act of June 18, 1910 (Mann-Elkins law), the jurisdiction of the commission was increased as to through routes and joint rates, freight classification, switch connections, long and short hauls, filing or rejection of rate schedules, investigations on own motion, determining reasonable rates, suspension of proposed rates, and other matters. By the act of March 4, 1927, the maximum period during which the commission may suspend the operation of proposed schedules is fixed at not more than seven months, and it is provided that if the proceeding upon suspension is not concluded within that time the proposed schedule shall go into effect at the end of such period, but that the commission may require the carriers to keep account in detail of all amounts received by reason of increases in such rates and charges and, if the decision of the commission be adverse, require the carrier or carriers to refund with interest such portions of such increased rates or charges as by its decision shall be found not justified.

By act approved August 24, 1912 (sec. 11), a new paragraph was added to section 5 of the act to regulate commerce by which it is made unlawful after July 1, 1914, for any common carrier subject to the act to regulate commerce to own, lease, operate, control, or have any interest in any competing carrier by water. Jurisdiction is conferred upon the commission to determine questions of fact as to competition, after full hearing, on the application of any railroad company or other carrier and to extend beyond July 1, 1914, the time during which such ownership or operation of vessels plying elsewhere than through the Panama Canal may continue, when it is found to be in the interest of the public and of advantage to the convenience and commerce of the people and not in restraint of competition.

At the same time section 6 of the act was amended by adding a new paragraph conferring upon the commission jurisdiction over transportation of property from point to point in the United States by rail and water, whether through the Panama Canal or otherwise, and not entirely within the limits of a single State, this jurisdiction, under certain conditions, including power to establish physical connection between lines of the rail carrier and the dock of the water carrier by directing the rail carrier to make such connection, to establish through routes and maximum joint rates over such rail and water lines, and to determine the conditions thereof, and to determine to what traffic and in connection with what vessels, and upon what terms and conditions such rates shall apply; and to require rail carriers entering into through routing arrangements with any water carrier to extend the privileges of such arrangements to other water carriers.

By the act approved March 1, 1913, as amended by act approved June 7, 1922, amending the act to regulate commerce, the commission is directed to investigate, ascertain, and report the value of all the property owned or used by every common carrier subject to the provisions of the act.

The act approved March 4, 1915, which became effective June 2, 1915, as amended August 9, 1916, makes common carriers liable for all loss, damage, or injury to property caused by them, and forbids, with certain exceptions, limitations of liability. As amended February 28, 1920, it is provided that where the loss, damage, or injury occurs while the property is in the custody of a carrier by water, the liability of such carrier shall be determined by and under the laws and regulations applicable to transportation by water, and that the liability of the initial carrier shall be the same as that of such carrier by water, except in connection with shipments to foreign destinations by water carriers whose vessels are registered under the laws of the United States, in which case it is made the duty of the carrier by railroad to deliver such shipments to the vessel as a part of its undertaking as a common carrier, but it is provided in this connection that the rail carrier shall not be liable after its delivery to the vessel.

It is further provided that the 2-year period for the institution of suits against carriers for loss, damage, or injury shall be computed from the day when notice is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part thereof.

The act approved April 23, 1930, modifies the requirements of this section as to notice and filing of claims.

The act as amended February 28, 1920, prohibits a carrier from issuing securities or from assuming obligations or liabilities as lessor, lessee, guarantor, indorser, surety, or otherwise, in respect of the securities of others from and after 120 days after the provision takes effect, except after having been authorized by the commission so to do; prescribes the conditions under which the commission may grant authorities to the carriers; the form and contents of applications which shall be made to the commission for such purposes; provides for the giving of notice by the commission of such applications to the governor of each State in which the applicant carrier operates; for hearings by the commission in respect of such applications; that carriers may issue certificates and assume obligations or liabilities without obtaining authority other than that of the commission, and for the issuance by the carrier without the consent of the commission of short-term notes in limited amounts, reports of which are, however, required to be filed with the commission. It is further provided that nothing in the act shall be construed to imply any guaranty or obligation as to such securities on the part of the United States. The act also provides for a right of action in favor of investors or purchasers in good faith and without notice of securities which, if not legally issued, are void, and for penalties against directors, officers, attorneys, or agents of carriers who knowingly assent to or concur in the issuance of securities, etc., contrary to the provisions of the commission's orders or grants of authority.

By the act approved August 18, 1922, the commission is required to direct, after notice and hearing, each carrier by rail, subject to this act, to issue at such offices as may be prescribed by the commission interchangeable mileage or scrip coupon tickets. The commission may in its discretion except from the provisions of this amendatory act, either in whole or in part, any carrier where the particular circumstances shown to the commission shall justify such exemption to be made.

As amended February 28, 1920, the act also required every common carrier by water in foreign commerce, whose vessels are registered under the laws of the United States, to file with the commission within 30 days after the provision becomes effective, and regularly thereafter as changes are made, a schedule, or schedules, showing for each of its steam vessels intended to load general cargo at ports in the United States for foreign destinations (a) the port of loading, (b) the dates upon which such vessels will commence to receive freight and dates of sailing, (c) the route and itinerary such vessels will follow and the ports of call for which cargo will be carried. It provides that such carriers by water shall, upon request, state their specific rates on any designated commodities and for any scheduled sailing and shall state any port charges not absorbed in the railroad rate to the port. The act provides, also, for the publication and dissemination in compact form, for the information of shippers throughout the country, of the substance of such schedules and the furnishing of such publications to all railway carriers for distribution in such towns and cities as may be specified by the commission.

The amended act further provides for the issuance of through export bills of lading, in connection with such water carriers, to the point of destination; that such bills of lading shall name separately the charges to be paid for railway transportation, water transportation, and port charges, if any, not included in the rail or water transportation charges, and that the commission shall, in such manner as will preserve for the carrier by water the protection of limited liability provided by law, make rules and regulations and prescribe the form of such through bills of lading; it provides that the issuance of such through bills of lading shall not be held to constitute "an arrangement for continuous carriage or shipment" within the meaning of this act.

An act approved February 28, 1933, amends section 17 so as to authorize the commission to assign certain of its duties to an individual commissioner or to a board composed of employes.

An act approved May 3, 1933, amends the bankruptcy act by providing for proceedings for the reorganization of railroads, which proceedings may be instituted either by a petition of a railroad, filed in the appropriate Federal court, stating that the carrier is "insolvent or unable to meet its debts as they mature and that it desires to effect a reorganization," or by the filing of a similar petition, after commission approval, by the creditiors of a railroad whose claim aggregates not less than 5 per cent of its indebtedness. Many duties are imposed upon the commission by this act, including the naming of a panel of standing trustees; and the compensation of such trustees and their counsel, and reorganization managers, etc., are to be allowed by the court within maximum limits approved by the commission.

The emergency railroad transportation act, approved June 16, 1933, amends the provisions of section 5 relating to consolidation of the railroads of the country into a limited number of systems; with commission approval the carriers may merge as well as consolidate their properties or any part thereof and may purchase, lease or contract to operate the properties, or any part thereof, of other carriers, or acquire stock control of other carriers; a noncarrier corporation may acquire stock control of one or more carriers, and when so authorized by the commission such noncarrier corporations are to be considered and treated as carriers subject to the act for the purposes of its provisions relating to reports, accounts and issuance of securities. The same act provides for the termination of proceedings for recapture of excess income, and substitutes a new rule of rate making, under which the commission is required to give due consideration to the effect of rates on the movement of traffic; to the need in the public interest of adequate and efficient railroad transportation service at the lowest cost consistent with the furnishing of such service; and to the need of revenues sufficient to enable carriers under honest, economical and efficient management to provide such service.

By an act approved May 29, 1928, any person, firm, or corporation engaged in conducting a common-carrier service upon the Mississippi and Warrior Rivers or tributaries thereof, may apply to and obtain from the commission a certificate of public convenience and necessity, providing for such service. Thereupon the commission may, by order, direct all connecting common carriers to join with such water carrier in through routes and joint rates. In such order, the commission is to fix the reasonable minimum differentials between all-rail rates and joint rates in connection with the water service, which are to apply until changed by order of the commission. If the carriers involved are unable to agree upon equitable divisions of the joint differential rates, the commission is authorized to determine the reasonable divisions thereof.

The air mail act, approved June 12, 1934, confers important new powers upon the commission, limited in character, over air transportation. The commission is directed, among other things, to fix and determine by order, as soon as practicable and from time to time, the fair and reasonable rates of compensation for the transportation of air mail by airplane and the service connected therewith, which determination is to be made for each air mail route, after notice and hearing. The statute details matters to be considered by the commission in determining and fixing the rates for air mail transportation.

RELATED ACTS AFFECTING INTERSTATE COMMERCE

Elkins Act.—The act of February 19, 1903, commonly called the Elkins law, prohibits rebating, allows proceedings in the courts by injunction to restrain departures from published rates, and provides that cases prosecuted under the direction of the Attorney General in the name of the commission shall be included within the expediting act of February 11, 1903.

District court jurisdiction act.—The urgent deficiency appropriation act approved October 22, 1913, provided that the Commerce Court should be abolished from and after December 31, 1913, and that the jurisdiction theretofore vested in the Commerce Court under act approved June 18, 1910, be transferred to and vested in the several district courts of the United States.

Expediting act.—The act of February 11, 1903, provides that suits in equity brought under the act to regulate commerce wherein the United States is complainant may be expedited and given precedence over other suits, and that appeals from the circuit court (district court) lie only to the Supreme Court.

Federal control act.—The act known as the Federal control act, approved March 21, 1918, provides that the commission shall ascertain and certify to the President the average annual railway operating income, to be used by the President in making agreements for compensation for the use of the transportation systems of the country; that in case the amount of compensation is not adjusted, claims may be submitted to boards of referees appointed by the commission, and the finding of such boards shall be a maximum of compensation which may be paid to the carriers; that the President, in executing the Federal control act, may avail himself of the advice, assistance, and cooperation of the commission, its members, and its employees; that the President may initiate rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices by filing same with the commission; that the commission shall upon complaint enter upon a hearing and determine the justness and reasonableness of any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice initiated by the President, taking into consideration the fact that the railroads are operated under unified control and such recommendations as the President may make as to the necessity of increasing railway revenues.

Transportation act, 1920.—The transportation act, 1920, as amended by act approved February 24, 1922, provides for the termination of Federal control and limits the powers the President may thereafter exercise under the Federal control act to those necessary to wind up and settle matters arising out of Federal control: for the turning over to the Secretary of War for operation and settling up of all matters arising out of Federal control in connection with boats, barges, tugs, and other facilities on the inland, canal, and coastwise waterways acquired by the United States under the Federal control act, and requiring him to provide terminal facilities for the interchange of traffic with carriers, and renders the operation of the boats and facilities subject to the provisions of the interstate commerce act to the same extent they would be if not owned by the United States. This act also authorizes the President to advance moneys to the carriers for certain purposes out of the revolving fund created by the Federal control act, and requires the commission to ascertain and certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amounts to be thus advanced to the carriers. It also provides for the appointment by the President of an agent to act as defendant in actions at law, suits in equity, proceedings in admiralty, and before the commission, based on matters arising out of Federal control, and confers upon the commission jurisdiction over all claims for reparation pertaining to the Federal control period, whether arising in respect of intrastate or interstate traffic; that pending actions, suits, proceedings, and reparation claims shall not abate, but that reparation awards in such cases shall be paid out of the revolving fund; that the period of Federal control shall not be computed as a part of the periods of limitation in actions against carriers or in claims for reparation based on causes of action arising out of matters pertaining to Federal control; and that a judgment in favor of the United States is the only one that may be levied against the property of the carrier where the judgment is based upon such matters.

The transportation act also continues in force until changed by lawful authority all rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices in effect on February 29, 1920, and prohibits reductions of such rates, fares, and charges prior to September 1, 1920, except with the approval of the commission. It provides certain guaranties of compensation for a period of six months from March 1, 1920, to all carriers which were entitled to the same under the Federal control act, and which on or before March 15, 1920, filed with the commission a written statement that they accepted the provisions and conditions upon which such guaranties are made. A similar guaranty under the same conditions of acceptance is made to the American Railway Express Co. that the contract between it and the Director General of Railroads shall remain in effect during the guaranty period in so far as the said contract constitutes a guaranty to the express company against a deficit in operating income. It provides for advances to the express company and the carriers to meet operating expenses and fixed charges, and that the commission after the expiration of the guaranty period shall ascertain and certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amount due any carrier under the guaranty, and the amount of and the times at which such loans or advances shall be made to any carrier. The transportation act also provides for the inspection of carriers' records by the President or his agents until the affairs of Federal control are concluded, and for the refunding of carriers' indebtedness to the United States. It also authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to make new loans to carriers upon certain conditions and upon favorable certification by the commission and creates a revolving fund of $300,000,000 out of which said loans are to be made and out of which certain judgments, decrees, and awards are to be paid.

Clayton Antitrust Act.—Jurisdiction is conferred upon the commission to enforce certain provisions of the act approved October 15, 1914, to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies in so far as such provisions relate to carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce. The act prohibits, with certain exceptions, carriers from discriminating between purchasers in sales of commodities, and from making leases or sales of commodities and from acquiring stock or capital of other corporations engaging in commerce tending to substantially lessen competition or create a monopoly; makes it a felony for a president or other specified officers to misappropriate a carrier's funds; and, as amended by act approved January 12, 1918, provides that, effective January 1, 1919, no carrier shall have dealings in securities or supplies, or contract for construction or maintenance to the amount of more than $50,000 in the aggregate in any one year, with another corporation or organization when, by reason of common officers or otherwise, there exists a community of interest between the carrier and such other corporation or organization, except as a result of free competitive bidding under regulations to be prescribed by the commission. The commission is further authorized to investigate violations of the act by carriers and to require the guilty parties to cease therefrom, and its findings of fact in such investigations shall be conclusive when supported by testimony.

Railway Mail Service pay act.—The act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department, approved July 28, 1916, empowers the commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by railway common carriers and services connected therewith, prescribing the method by weight or space, or both, or otherwise.

The act making appropriations for the services of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, empowers the commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by urban and interurban electric railway common carriers.

Standard time act.—By the act approved March 19, 1918, the commission is authorized to fix the limits of the standard time zones established for the continental United States and Alaska, having due regard, in doing so, to the convenience of commerce and the junction and division points of common carriers whose movements are to be governed by the standard time of the zones so fixed.

Safety appliance acts.—The act of March 2, 1893, known as the safety appliance act, provides that railroad cars used in interstate commerce must be equipped with automatic couplers, and drawbars of a standard height for freight cars, and have grab irons or handholds in the ends and sides of each car; and that locomotive engines used in moving interstate traffic shall be equipped with a power driving-wheel brake and appliances for operating the train-brake system. The act directs the commission to lodge with the proper district attorneys information of such violations as may come to its knowledge. The act of March 2, 1903, amended this act so as to make its provisions apply to Territories and the District of Columbia, to all cases when couplers of whatever design are brought together, and to all locomotives, cars, and other equipment of any railroad engaged in interstate traffic, except logging cars and cars used upon street railways; and provides for a minimum number of air-braked cars in trains.

By act of April 14, 1910, the safety appliance acts were supplemented so as to require railroads to equip their cars with sill steps, hand brakes, ladders, running boards, and roof handholds, and the commission was authorized to designate the number, dimensions, location, and manner of application of appliances.

Accident reports act.—By act of May 6, 1910, the prior accident reports law was repealed and a new statute enacted requiring carriers to make full reports of all accidents to the commission and increasing the scope of the commission's authority in making investigations of all accidents resulting to person or the property of the carrier.

Hours of service act.—The act of March 4, 1907, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is made unlawful to require or permit employees engaged in or connected with the movement of trains to be on duty more than a specified number of hours in any 24.

Ash pan act.—The act of May 30, 1908, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is provided that after a certain date no locomotive shall be used in moving interstate or foreign traffic, etc., not equipped with an ash pan which can be emptied without requiring a man to go under such locomotive. Penalties are provided for violations of this act.

Transportation of explosives act.—The act of May 30, 1908, as amended by act approved March 4, 1921, directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to make regulations for the safe transportation of explosives by common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. Penalties are provided for violations of such regulations.

Locomotive and boiler inspection acts.—The act of February 17, 1911, confers jurisdiction upon the commission to enforce certain provisions compelling railroad companies to equip their locomotives with safe and suitable boilers and appurtenances thereto.

By amendatory acts approved March 4, 1915, June 7, 1924, and June 27, 1930, the powers of the commission to inspect and to prescribe standards of safety for locomotive boilers and appurtenances thereto was extended to include "all parts and appurtenances of the locomotive and tender."

Block signal and automatic train-control safety devices.—The urgent deficiency appropriation act approved October 22, 1913, contained an appropriation of $25,000 to enable the commission to investigate and test block signals and appliances for the automatic control of railway trains and appliances or systems intended to promote the safety of railway operation, including experimental tests of such systems and appliances as shall be furnished in completed shape to the commission for investigation and test, free of cost to the Government, in accordance with the provisions of joint resolution approved June 30, 1916, and sundry civil appropriation act approved May 27, 1908. Provision was made in the sundry civil appropriation acts approved August 1, 1914, March 3, 1915, July 1, 1916, June 12, 1917, and July 1, 1918, for continuing the investigation and testing of these systems and appliances.

By the amendment approved February 28, 1920, the commission is authorized to require carriers to install automatic train-stop or train-control devices or other safety devices in compliance with specifications upon the whole or any part of the carrier's railroad, but it is provided that any order made by the commission in the premises shall be issued and published at least two years before the date specified for its fulfillment.

Housing standards act.—This act, approved June 27, 1934, was enacted for the purpose of encouraging improvement in housing standards and conditions, and authorizes the commission, by order, to permit carriers subject to the act to give reduced rates for the transportation of commodities hauled under the provisions of the act.

Railroad retirement act.—This act, approved June 27, 1934, creates a Railroad Retirement Board of three members, and it directs the commission, upon request of the board or upon complaint of any party interested, to determine after hearing whether any line of railroad operated by electric power, is in fact a street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, exempt from the terms of the act.

Railroad labor act.—By act approved June 21, 1934, a National Railroad Adjustment Board and a National Mediation Board, to provide for the prompt disposition of disputes between carriers and their employees, is provided for, and by the terms of the act, the commission is directed, upon request of the board or upon complaint of any interested party, to determine after hearing whether any line of railroad operated by electric power is a street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, exempt from the provisions of the act.

NATIONAL MEDIATION BOARD

The National Mediation Board was organized under the provisions of Public Act No. 442, Seventy-third Congress, approved June 21, 1934, entitled "An act to provide for the prompt disposition of disputes between carriers and their employees, and for other purposes", known as "the Railway Labor Act". It is an independent agency in the executive branch of the Government and is composed of three members appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The board annually designates a member to act as chairman and maintains its principal office in the District of Columbia, but it may meet at any other place.

The Railway Labor Act applies to express companies, sleeping-car companies, and carriers by railroad subject to the Interstate Commerce Act, provides that such carriers, their officers, agents, and employees shall exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, and working conditions, and to settle all disputes whether arising out of the application of such agreements or otherwise. All disputes between a carrier and its employees shall be considered, and, if possible, decided with all expedition, in conference between representatives designated and authorized so to confer, respectively, by the carriers and by the employees thereof interested in the dispute.

The act also provides that representatives for the purpose of the act shall be designated by the respective parties. The Mediation Board investigates and certifies disputes arising among a carrier's employees as to who are the representatives designated and authorized in accordance with the requirements of the act. The Board may take a secret ballot of the employees involved or utilize any other appropriate method of ascertaining the names of the representatives.

The act established the National Railroad Adjustment Board, composed of 36 members, 18 of whom are selected by the carriers and 18 by such labor organizations as have been or may be organized in accordance with section 2 of the act. The Adjustment Board, located at Chicago, Ill., was created to handle disputes growing out of grievances or out of the interpretation or application of agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, or working conditions. The Adjustment Board is divided into four divisions, as outlined in section 3 (h) of the act.

The parties, or either party, to a dispute may invoke the services of the National Mediation Board in any of the following cases: (a) A dispute covering changes in rates of pay, rules, or working conditions not adjusted by the parties in conference; (b) any other dispute not referable to the National Railroad Adjustment Board and not adjusted in conference between the parties or where conferences are refused.

The Mediation Board may proffer its services in case any labor emergency is found by it to exist at any time.

When mediation services are requested or proffered the Board is authorized to put itself promptly in communication with the parties to the controversy and use its best efforts by mediation to bring the parties to agreement. When unsuccessful in bringing about an adjustment through mediation the Board shall at once endeavor to induce the parties to submit the controversy to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the act. The failure or refusal of either party to submit a controversy to arbitration shall not be construed as a violation of any legal obligation imposed upon such party by the terms of the Railway Labor Act or otherwise.

When an agreement to arbitrate has been filed with the Mediation Board a board of arbitration shall be chosen in the following manner:

The representatives of the carrier or carriers and of the employees shall each name one arbitrator (or two if the agreement to arbitrate so designates); the arbitrators thus chosen shall select the remaining arbitrator or arbitrators. On failure of the arbitrators named by the parties to agree on the remaining arbitrators during a period stipulated in the act, it shall be the duty of the Mediation Board to name such remaining arbitrator or arbitrators.

The agreement to arbitrate shall be in writing and shall stipulate, among other things, that the respective parties to the award will each faithfully execute the same. Copies of arbitration awards shall be furnished to the respective parties to the controversy, to the clerk's office of the district court of the United States for the district wherein the controversy arose or the arbitration is entered into, to the Mediation Board, and to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

If a dispute between a carrier and its employees is not adjusted under the foregoing provisions of the act and should, in the judgment of the Mediation Board, threaten substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive any section of the country of essential transportation service, the Mediation Board shall notify the President, who may thereupon in his discretion create a board to investigate and report respecting such dispute. The act also provides that after the creation of such board no change in the conditions out of which the dispute arose shall be made by either party to the controversy during a period of 60 days.

The Mediation Board makes an annual report to Congress of its activities and of the activities of each of the four divisions of the National Railroad Adjustment Board.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

The Federal reserve system, which was established pursuant to authority contained in the act of December 23, 1913, known as "the Federal reserve act", comprises the Federal Reserve Board; the Federal Advisory Council, which acts in an advisory capacity to the Federal Reserve Board; the 12 Federal reserve banks situated in different sections of the United States; the Federal Open Market Committee, which makes recommendations to the Federal Reserve Board with regard to open-market operations; and the member banks. The latter include all national banks and such State banking institutions as have voluntarily applied to the Federal Reserve Board for membership and have been admitted to the system. All of the stock of the Federal reserve banks is owned by their member banks.

Broad supervisory powers are vested in the Federal Reserve Board, which has its offices in Washington. The law designates the Secretary of the Treasury and the Comptroller of the Currency as ex-officio members, and provides for the appointment of six members by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate. In selecting these six members, the President is required to have a due regard to a fair representation of the financial, agricultural, industrial, and commercial interests, and geographical divisions of the country. No two appointive members may be from the same Federal reserve district.

Among the more important duties of the Federal Reserve Board are the review and determination of discount rates charged by the Federal reserve banks on their discounts and advances and supervision over the open-market operations of the Federal reserve banks. Such open-market operations are conducted under regulations adopted by the Federal Reserve Board with a view to accommodating commerce and business and with regard to their bearing upon the general credit situation of the country. In connection with its supervision of Federal reserve banks the Federal Reserve Board is also authorized to make examinations of such banks; to require statements and reports from such banks; to require the establishment or discontinuance of branches of such banks; to supervise the issue and retirement of Federal reserve notes; and to exercise special supervision over all relationships and transactions of the Federal reserve banks with foreign banks or bankers. For the purpose of preventing the excessive use of credit for the purchase or carrying of securities, the Federal Reserve Board is authorized to regulate the amount of credit that may be initially extended and subsequently maintained on any security (with certain limited exceptions) registered on a national securities exchange. Certain other powers have been conferred upon the Board which are likewise designed to enable it to prevent an undue diversion of funds into speculative operations.

The Federal Reserve Board also passes on the admission of State banking institutions to membership in the Federal reserve system and on the termination of membership of such banks; it has the power to examine member banks and the affiliates of member banks; it received condition reports from State member banks and their affiliates; it limits by regulation the rate of interest which may be paid by member banks on time and savings deposits; it is authorized, in its discretion, to issue voting permits to holding company affiliates of member banks entitling them to vote the stock of such banks at elections of directors and in deciding questions at meetings of shareholders and to issue permits covering certain relations between member banks and organizations dealing in securities; it has the power to remove officers and directors of a member bank for continued violations of law or unsafe or unsound practices in conducting the business of such bank; it may, in its discretion, suspend member banks from the use of the credit facilities of the Federal reserve system, for making undue use of bank credit for speculative purposes or for any other purpose inconsistent with the maintenance of sound credit conditions; it passes on applications of national banks for authority to exercise trust powers or to act in fiduciary capacities; it may grant authority to national banks to establish branches in foreign countries or dependencies or insular possessions of the United States, or to invest in the stock of banks or corporations engaged in international or foreign banking; it supervises the organization and activities of corporations organized under Federal law to engage in international or foreign banking; and it issues permits under the authority granted by the provisions of the Clayton Antitrust Act relating to interlocking directorates. Another function of the board is the operation of a settlement fund, by which balances due to and from the various Federal reserve banks arising out of their own transactions or those of their member banks or of the United States Government are settled in Washington through telegraphic transfer of credit without physical shipments of currency.

In exercising its supervisory functions over the Federal reserve banks and member banks, the Federal Reserve Board promulgates regulations, pursuant to authority granted by the Federal reserve act, governing certain of the activities of Federal reserve banks and member banks. To meet its expenses and to pay the salaries of its members and its employees, the board makes semiannual assessments upon the Federal reserve banks in proportion to their capital stock and surplus. Annual reports of the operations of the board are made to the Speaker of the House of Representatives for the information of Congress, as required by law.

Federal reserve banks are authorized, among other things, to discount for their member banks notes, drafts, bills of exchange and bankers' acceptances of short maturities arising out of commercial, industrial, and agricultural transactions, and short-term paper secured by obligations of the United States; to make advances to their member banks upon their promissory notes for periods not exceeding 90 days upon the security of paper eligible for discount or purchase and for periods not exceeding 15 days upon the security of obligations of the United States and certain other securities; in certain exceptional circumstances and under certain prescribed conditions, to make advances upon other kinds of security to groups of member banks and, until March 3, 1935, to individual member banks; under certain prescribed conditions, to grant credit accommodations to furnish working capital for established industrial or commercial businesses for periods not exceeding five years, either through the medium of financing institutions or, in exceptional circumstances, directly to such businesses, and to make commitments with respect to the granting of such accommodations; in unusual and exigent circumstances when authority has been granted by at least five members of the Federal Reserve Board, to discount for individuals, partnerships, or corporations, under certain prescribed conditions, notes, drafts, and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities made eligible for discount for member banks; to make advances to individuals, partnerships, or corporations upon their promissory notes secured by direct obligations of the United States for periods not exceeding 90 days; to purchase and sell in the open-market bankers' acceptances and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities eligible for discount, obligations of the United States, and certain other securities; to receive and hold on deposit the reserve balances of member banks; to issue Federal reserve notes and Federal reserve bank notes; to act as clearing houses and as collecting agents for their member banks, and under certain conditions for nonmember banks, in the collection of checks and other instruments; to act as depositaries and fiscal agents of the United States; and to exercise other banking functions specified in the Federal reserve act.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

The Federal Trade Commission was created by an act of Congress approved September 26, 1914, in which the commission's powers and duties were defined The commission is an independent agency, with its five members appointed for a term of seven years each by the President of the United States with the approval of the Senate. No more than three members may be of one political party.

Further powers are conferred upon this commission by "An act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes", approved October 15, 1914 (Clayton Act), and by "An act to promote export trade, and for other purposes", approved April 10, 1918, known as the export trade act (Webb-Pomerene law); and its duties also include participation in certain investigations and proceedings under the National Industrial Recovery Act.

FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURE UNDER THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ACT

Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission act declares that "unfair methods of competition in commerce are hereby declared unlawful" and empowers and directs the commission to prevent "persons, partnerships, or corporations, except banks, and common carriers subject to the acts to regulate commerce, from using unfair methods of competition in commerce."

Whenever the commission shall have reason to believe that any such person, partnership, or corporation has been or is using any unfair method of competition in commerce, and if it shall appear to the commission that a proceeding by it in respect thereof would be to the interest of the public, it shall issue and serve upon such person, partnership, or corporation a complaint stating its charges in that respect. Provision is made for hearings and the taking of testimony. If the commission shall then be of the opinion that the method of competition in question is prohibited by this act, it shall issue and cause to be served upon the person or organization against whom complaint is made an order to cease and desist from using such unfair method of competition as shown to be sustained by the proof submitted.

Provision is made for appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States to enforce, set aside, or modify orders of the commission. The judgment and decree of the court shall be final, except that the same shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court upon certiorari as provided in the Judicial Code.

A letter to the commission stating what the writer believes to constitute the employment of unfair practices by some concern is sufficient to institute a proceeding under section 5 before the commission. If the letter clearly discloses that nothing is charged within the jurisdiction of the commission, it is filed without further action. If it appears, however, that there may have been such a violation of law, the matter is settled, after further investigation, by dismissal of the charges, or by stipulation and agreement with the concern named in the letter, or by the issuance of a formal complaint followed by a formal trial of the charges, as required by the facts of the particular case and by the public interest.

Stipulations setting forth the unfair practices used by the concern named and agreements to discontinue their use voluntarily are entered into where the public interest does not require formal action, for example, where the concern in question agrees to discontinue the unlawful practices. Stipulations and agreements are not entered into in those cases where a fraudulent business is concerned, where the conduct of a legitimate business in a fraudulent manner is concerned, where the circumstances are such that there is reason to believe that an agreement entered into with the concern involved will not be kept or where for any reason it is believed that the public interest will be better served by the institution of a formal complaint and proceeding. Digests of such stipulations and agreements are published.

A formal proceeding, instituted by a formal complaint and followed by the taking of testimony, filing of briefs, and oral argument, is terminated by the entry of a formal order to cease and desist or by other order terminating or closing the case. Such a proceeding is prosecuted in the name of the commission by the chief counsel's division and testimony and evidence in such proceeding are proffered before a member of the trial examiner's division, who is charged with passing upon the testimony and evidence and with other details incident to the trial of the case.

Investigation in the preliminary stages is largely the function of the chief examiner's office.

Procedure and internal organization of the commission, and methods of competition condemned by the commission under section 5, are set forth in detail in its annual reports.

In speaking of the commission's activities in dealing with unfair methods of competition mention should also be made of what has become known as the trade practice conference, which affords, broadly stated, a means through which representatives of an industry voluntarily assemble, either at their own instance or that of the commission, but under auspices of the latter, for the purpose of considering any unfair practices in their industry, and collectively agreeing upon and providing for their abandonment in cooperation with and with the support of the commission.

OTHER SECTIONS OF THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ACT

Under section 6 the Federal Trade Commission derives its authority for making general investigations. It is provided that the commission shall have power to gather and compile information concerning, and to investigate from time to time the organization, business conduct, practices, and management of any corporation engaged in commerce, excepting banks, and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce; and that it may require reports and answers to specific questions in the compilation of such information.

Under these powers the commission has conducted many economic inquiries, chiefly at the request of the President, the Senate, or the House, to whom reports have been made, and has gathered and published for the use of the Congress, the executive departments, and the public, a great deal of information regarding many of the essential industries of the country. Occasionally the commission carries on investigations on its own initiative under these powers, as in the instances of inquiries into the subjects of resale price maintenance and price bases used in quoting and selling articles and commodities by manufacturers and distributors.

The commission also has power under section 6 to investigate alleged violations of the antitrust acts by any corporation, upon the direction of the President or either House of Congress, and, at the request of the Attorney General, to make such investigations and recommendations for changes in the corporation's methods so as to conform to the law.

Inquiries under way include those dealing with power and gas utility corporations, textiles, milk industry and price bases, and certain aspects of the iron and steel code, discussed below.

The commission is also empowered under section 6 to investigate the manner in which final decrees that have been entered in suits to restrain violations have been carried out, either upon its own initiative or at the request of the Attorney General, to whom it must report in the matter; to make such reports public; to investigate from time to time trade conditions in and with foreign countries where associations, combinations, or practices of manufacturers, merchants, or traders, or other conditions may affect the foreign trade of the United States; and to make public from time to time such portions of the information obtained by it as it shall deem expedient in the public interest, except trade secrets and names of customers.

Section 7 of the Federal Trade Commission act provides that in any suit in equity brought by or under the direction of the Attorney General as provided, in the antitrust acts, the court may refer said suit to the commission, as a master in chancery, to ascertain and report an appropriate form of decree therein.

Other sections of the act give to the commission authorization for such investigations and the compilation of data, with provisions for procedure under the act, and penalties prescribed for refusal of persons, partnerships, or corporations to furnish such material or to comply with orders of the commission to testify, produce evidence, or file reports, as required.

FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION BOTH LEGAL AND ECONOMIC

It will be seen that under the Federal Trade Commission act the functions of the commission are both legal and economic. These include prevention of unfair competition and of violation of the Clayton law. Investigatory functions include economic studies of domestic industry and interstate and foreign commerce. Such inquiries may be inaugurated by the commission of its own initiative, but are more frequently undertaken by direction of the President or the Senate or the House of Representatives.

DUTIES OF THE COMMISSION UNDER THE CLAYTON ANTITRUST ACT

The commission is given jurisdiction over violations of sections 2, 3, 7, and 8 of the Clayton Act, which prohibit:

(1) Certain discriminations in prices between different purchasers of commodities where the effect of such discrimination may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

(2) In certain cases, so-called "tying contracts," or contracts whereby, as a condition of sale or lease, the seller or lessor exacts from the purchaser or lessee an agreement that he shall not use or deal in the goods or other commodities of a competitor of the lessor or seller, where the effect of such agreement may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

(3) In certain cases so-called "holding companies," or the ownership by one company of the stock of another, where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition between the companies, to restrain commerce, or tend to create a monopoly.

(4) So-called "interlocking directorates" in cases where one person shall at the same time be a director in any two or more corporations (any one of which has capital, surplus, and undivided profits aggregating more than $1,000,000) engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, other than banks, banking associations, trust companies, and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce, if such corporations are or have been competitors, so that the elimination of competition by agreement between them would constitute a violation of any of the provisions of any of the antitrust laws.

Procedure under the Clayton Act is, with some exceptions, identical with that under the Federal Trade Commission act.

FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION UNDER THE EXPORT TRADE ACT (WEBB-POMERENE LAW)

The export trade act autnorizes the formation of "associations" entered into for the sole purpose of engaging in export trade, these associations to be exempt from the antitrust laws of the United States, with the proviso that there shall be through the association no restraint of trade within the United States, or of the export trade of any domestic competitor, nor any artificial or intentional enhancing or depressing of prices, or substantial lessening of competition within the United States.

Section 1 of the act defines "export trade" and "association."

Sections 2 and 3 provide exemption from the antitrust laws under certain conditions.

Section 4 extends the jurisdiction of the commission under the Federal Trade Commission act to "unfair methods of competition used in export trade against competitors engaged in export trade even though the acts constituting such unfair methods are done without the territorial jurisdiction of the United States."

Section 5 provides for the filing of papers by such export trade associations with the Federal Trade Commission, and other details of administration.

COOPERATION WITH NATIONAL RECOVERY ADMINISTRATION

The commission is also doing its part in aiding the Administration with its recovery program. Its chairman is a member of the National Emergency Council named by the President. The Commission stands ready at all times to carry on investigations as required by the National Industrial Recovery Act, which Act calls upon the commission to make investigations "to enable the President to carry out the provisions of this title", for which purposes the Commission shall have all the powers vested in it with respect of investigations under the Federal Trade Commission Act, as amended.

Much of the work of the National Recovery Administration itself is based ultimately upon the principles of the Federal Trade Commission Act, the Industrial Recovery Act providing that violation of an industrial code which is considered as the standard of fair competition for an industry, "shall be deemed an unfair method of competition in commerce within the meaning of the Federal Trade Commission Act, as amended." However, the National Industrial Recovery Act also provides that no part of that act shall be construed to impair the powers of the Federal Trade Commission.

At the request of the National Recovery Administration, the commission investigates cases involving alleged violations by business concerns of the provisions of the codes governing their particular industry, and under the provisions of an Executive order, dated January 20, 1934, the commission is made an appellate body to pass upon complaints involving the alleged employment of any monopolistic practice, or practice tending to eliminate, oppress, or discriminate against, small enterprises, by any person, corporation, etc., under color of authority of the particular code involved, and to proceed against such person, corporation, etc., should it consider such action to be to the interest of the public.

Reference has been made to an investigation currently underway, dealing with certain aspects of the Code for the Iron and Steel Industry. The President, in approving, on May 30, 1934, the revised Code of Fair Competition for this industry, stated, among other things:

Conditions of economic emergency make necessary the retention in modified form of the multiple basing point system adopted in the original code and effective in the industry for many years. But revisions made in this Code, increasing substantially the number of basing points, and modifications in practice under the Code, while alleviating some of the inequities in the existing system, illustrate the desirability of working toward the end of having prices quoted on the basis of areas of production and the eventual establishment of basing points coincident with all such areas, as well as the elimination of artificial transportation charges in price quotations. Therefore, I have directed the Federal Trade Commission and the National Recovery Administration to study further and jointly the operation of the basing point system and its effect on prices to consumers, and any effects of the existing system in either permitting or encouraging price fixing, or providing unfair competitive advantages for producers, or disadvantages for consumers not based on natural causes.

PROCEDURE AND POLICY

POLICY IN PURELY PRIVATE CONTROVERSIES

The policy of the commission is not to entertain proceedings of alleged unfair practices where the alleged violation of law is a purely private controversy redressable in the courts except where said practices substantially tend to affect the public. In cases where the alleged injury is one to a competitor only and is redressable in the courts by an action by the aggrieved competitor and the interest of the public is not substantially involved, the proceeding will not be entertained.

SETTLEMENT OF CASES BY STIPULATION

In cases prior to the service of complaint by the commission, the commission, in its discretion and in the public interest, permits respondents to dispose of cases by stipulations, in which stipulations the respondent promises and agrees to cease and desist from the unfair methods of competition involved, and in which the respondent, after admitting the material facts, agrees that said admissions may be used against him, if thereafter the commission has reason to believe the respondent is violating his promise and agreement to cease and desist, and issues its complaint against him. All such stipulations are for the public records of the commission. The disposition of a case by stipulation is regarded as a privilege and not a right, and it is the policy of the commission not to accept stipulations from respondents, who, it has reason to believe, have been guilty of intentional frauds or wrongdoing or violations of the criminal sections of the Sherman Act or of any other statute, or who, in the opinion of the commission, will not keep their agreements. The commission reserves the right in all cases, for any reasons which it regards as sufficient, to refuse to extend this privilege.

ON PUBLICITY IN THE SETTLEMENT OF CASES

Formal complaints issued by the commission, charging unfair trade practices or other violations of law, in which the commission has jurisdiction, are made public at the time of issuance of complaint, and stipulations negotiated by the chief trial examiner and the special board of investigation in the settlement of applications for complaint are altogether for the public records of the commission.[1]

The so-called applicant or complaining party has never been regarded as a party in the strict sense. The commission is not supposed to act for any applicant, but wholly in the public interest. It has always been and now is the rule not to publish or divulge the name of an applicant or complaining party, and such party has no legal status before the commission except where allowed to intervene as provided by the statute.

ON DEALING WITH UNFAIR COMPETITION THROUGH TRADE-PRACTICE CONFERENCES

The trade-practice conference affords, broadly stated, a means through which representatives of an industry voluntarily assemble, either at their own instance or that of the commission, but under the auspices of the latter, for the purpose of considering any unfair practices in their industry, and collectively agreeing upon and providing for their abandonment in cooperation with and with the support of the commission.

This procedure deals with an industry as a unit. It is concerned solely with practices and methods, not at that time with individual offenders. It regards the industry as occupying a position comparable to that of "friend of the court" and not as that of the accused. It wipes out on a given date all unfair methods condemned at the conference and thus places all competitors on an equally fair competitive basis. It performs the same function as a formal complaint without bringing charges, prosecuting trials, or employing any compulsory process, but multiplies results by as many times as there are members in the industry who formerly practiced the methods condemned and voluntarily abandoned.

The beneficial results of this form of procedure are now well established, and the commission is always glad to receive and consider requests for the holding of trade-practice conferences.

[1] The commission's special board of investigation was established for the purpose of handling more effectively certain false and misleading advertising cases. The stipulations of the chief trial examiner, above referred to, are those through which the commission deals with the general run of cases considered a proper subject for disposition through this method.

SPECIAL BOARD OF INVESTIGATION

The special board of investigation was established for the purpose of effecting a more direct method of handling certain cases involving false and misleading advertising. Advertisers, publishers, broadcasting stations, and advertising agents in such cases have the privilege of dealing directly with the board with a view to reaching an agreement that will dispose of the issues involved and obviate the preparation and service of formal complaints.

By this procedure the advertisers are afforded an opportunity to explain or justify the advertising claims questioned by the commission or to revise their advertising copy and stipulate the discontinuance of such representations. In most cases the results obtained by this procedure are as effective as those that could be accomplished by the issuance of cease and desist orders, and long delays and litigation, expensive both to the advertisers and the Government, are avoided.

Publishers, broadcasting stations and advertising agents are accorded the privilege of being omitted from any formal proceedings by disclaiming any interest in the subject matter and agreeing by stipulation to abide by the provisions of any cease and desist order that may be issued against the advertiser or by the terms of any stipulation between the advertiser and the Commission.

UNITED STATES RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION

By proclamation of the President issued February 28, 1920, under authority of an act of Congress approved February 28, 1920, Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, was authorized, either personally or through such divisions, agencies, or persons as he might appoint, to exercise and perform all of the powers and duties conferred upon the President by the provisions of that act except the designation of the agent under section 206 thereof. In a proclamation dated March 11, 1920, Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, was also designated agent under section 206 of the act.

Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, resigned that position effective May 18, 1920, and by proclamation of the President of the United States John Barton Payne, Secretary of the Interior, was designated to take over and perform all of the duties previously designated to be performed by the Director General of Railroads; the latter resigned and, effective March 28, 1921, James C. Davis was appointed. Mr. Davis resigned January 1, 1926, and Mr. Andrew W. Mellon was appointed. Mr. Mellon resigned February 12, 1932, and Mr. Ogden L. Mills was appointed. Mr. Mills resigned March 15, 1933, and Mr. William H. Woodin was appointed. Mr. Woodin resigned February 7, 1934, and Mr. Henry Morgenthau, jr., was appointed Director General and agent of the President as of that date.

The act of February 28, 1920, authorizes the President to adjust, settle, liquidate, and wind up all of the matters, including compensation, and all questions in dispute of whatsoever nature arising out of or incident to Federal control. The act provides that the President shall have the right at all reasonable times until the affairs of Federal control are concluded to inspect the property and records of all carriers whose railroads or systems of transportation were at any time under Federal control. It also provides that the carriers, at their own expense, upon the request of the President or those duly authorized by him, shall furnish all necessary and proper information and reports compiled upon the records made or kept during the period of Federal control affecting their respective lines. The act provides that any carrier which refuses or obstructs such inspection or which willfully fails to provide reasonable facilities therefor or to furnish such information or reports shall be liable to a penalty of $500 for each day of the continuance of such offense.

UNITED STATES COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

The Council of National Defense, composed of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Interior, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce, and the Secretary of Labor, was charged by the act of August 29, 1916, among other things, with the "coordination of industries and resources for the national security and welfare" and with the "creation of relations which will render possible in time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of the resources of the Nation." No appropriations have been made for nor any meetings held by the council since the fiscal year 1921. The records of the Council of National Defense, as well as those of the War Industries Board and the Committee on Public Information, are now under the jurisdiction of the Assistant Secretary of War, who is charged by law (act of June 4, 1920) with the "assurance of adequate provision for the mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to war-time needs."

UNITED STATES BOARD OF TAX APPEALS

The Board of Tax Appeals was created by the act of June 2, 1924 (Public, No. 178, 68th Cong.), and extended by the acts of February 26, 1926 (Public, No. 20, 69th Cong.).

The act of February 26, 1926, which continued the board, confined the membership to 16, who are appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. The terms of office of the members expire—four at the end of the sixth year, four at the end of the eighth year, four at the end of the tenth year, and four at the end of the twelfth year. The terms of office of all successors expire 12 years after the expiration of the terms for which their predecessors were appointed, but any member appointed to fill a vacancy occuring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of his predecessor.

The membership of the board is divided into 16 divisions of one member each for the hearing of proceedings.

The board functions in the manner of a court. The statute provides that its proceedings shall be conducted in accordance with the rules of evidence applicable in courts of equity of the District of Columbia. Its hearings are open to the public and its reports are public records open to the inspection of the public. The statute authorizes, and the board's rules prescribe, a fee of $10 for the filing of any petition after the enactment of the revenue act of 1926. The decisions of the board are reviewable by the United States Circuit Courts of Appeals and the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia on a petition for review. Such decisions may be reviewed (a) in the case of an individual, by the circuit court of appeals for the circuit whereof he is an inhabitant, or if not an inhabitant of any circuit, then by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; (b) in the case of a person other than an individual, by the circuit court of appeals for the circuit in which is located the office of the collector to whom such person made the return, or in case such person made no return, then by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; (c) in the case of a corporation which had no principal place of business or principal office or agency in the United States, then by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; (d) in the case of an agreement between the commissioner and the taxpayer, then by the circuit court of appeals for the circuit, or the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, as stipulated in such agreement.

The principal office of the board is at Washington. Hearings are had not only at the seat of government but, as required by statute, at other cities within the United States with a view to securing reasonable opportunity to taxpayers to appear before the board or any of its divisions with as little inconvenience and expense as is practicable.

The reports of the board are published at the Government Printing Office, and such authorized publication, under the applicable revenue acts, becomes competent evidence of such reports in all courts of the United States and of the several States without any further proof or authentication thereof. These publications are subject to sale in the same manner and upon the same terms as are other public documents.

WAR FINANCE CORPORATION

The War Finance Corporation was created by the act approved April 5, 1918. Its original purpose was to give financial support to industries whose operations were "necessary or contributory to the prosecution of the war" and to banking institutions that aided in financing such industries. It was also authorized to make advances to savings banks and building-loan associations, to buy and sell obligations of the United States Government, and to issue bonds.

The corporation was in existence only six months before the armistice was signed. When hostilities ceased its operations were contracted automatically, but in the spring of 1919 it was called upon to undertake the burden of financing the railroads, then under Federal control, because no appropriation had been made for the maintenance of their operations.

AUTHORITY TO FINANCE EXPORTS

By act approved March 3, 1919, the powers of the corporation were extended to embrace an entirely new line of activity. In order to assist in the transition from conditions of war to conditions of peace, the corporation was given authority to make advances to the extent of $1,000,000,000 to American exporters and American banking institutions which extended credits to finance American exports. The activities of the corporation under this authority were discontinued in May, 1920, at the request of the then Secretary of the Treasury. In January, 1921, the Congress passed a joint resolution directing the corporation to resume operations in accordance with the provisions of the act of March 3, 1919.

AGRICULTURAL CREDITS

By act approved August 24, 1921, commonly known as the agricultural credit act of 1921, the corporation's powers were further extended and it was authorized to make loans for agricultural purposes to banking and financing institutions, including livestock loan companies, and to cooperative marketing associations. The act required the corporation to obtain in every case "full and adequate security by indorsement, guaranty, pledge, or otherwise," and provided that the aggregate of advances made by the corporation remaining unpaid at any one time may not exceed $1,000,000,000. It contained a provision limiting to June 30, 1922, the period during which the corporation was authorized to make new advances. This period, however, was extended to June 30, 1923, by the act approved June 10, 1922; to March 31, 1924, by the agricultural credits act of 1923; and to December 31, 1924, by the act approved February 20, 1924.

In accordance with the act of February 20, 1924, the corporation ceased to receive applications on November 30, 1924, and discontinued the making of new loans on December 31, 1924. It entered the period of liquidation on January 1, 1925, and since that date only expense advances incident to the liquidation of its assets and the winding up of its affairs have been made. For the purpose of liquidating its assets, the corporate life of the corporation was extended for one year, from April 4, 1928, to April 4, 1929, by the act approved April 4, 1928. By the act approved March 1, 1929, the liquidation of the assets remaining at the close of April 4, 1929, and the winding up of the affairs of the corporation thereafter were transferred to the Secretary of the Treasury, who for such purpose was given all the powers and duties of the board of directors of the corporation under the War Finance Corporation act of April 5, 1918, as amended. For carrying out the provisions of the act approved March 1, 1929, the Secretary of the Treasury, pursuant to authority contained in said act, assigned to a liquidating committee the exercise and performance, under his general supervision and direction, of all such powers and duties.

CAPITAL STOCK OF THE CORPORATION

The capital stock of the corporation was fixed by the act of April 5, 1918, at $500,000,000, all of it to be held by the Government. On November 30, 1919, the entire amount had been subscribed, and on January 5, 1925, the corporation, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, canceled and retired $499,000,000 of its capital stock, leaving $1,000,000 outstanding. On April 5, 1929, the corporation canceled and retired $990,000 additional of its capital stock, leaving $10,000 outstanding. On the same date, and later on June 30, 1931, and January 26, 1934, the corporation paid into the Treasury all moneys belonging to it which, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasury, were not required for carrying on and completing the liquidation of its remaining assets and the winding up of its affairs, including reasonable provision for the further expenses thereof.

In April, 1919, the corporation issued for public sale $200,000,000 one-year 5 per cent bonds which matured on April 1, 1920. All but $10,000 of these bonds, which have not yet been presented for payment, have been retired.

The funds of the corporation are kept on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States.

UNITED STATES TARIFF COMMISSION

The United States Tariff Commission was created by act of the Congress approved September 8, 1916, and was reorganized under the provisions of the tariff act approved June 17, 1930. The commission consists of six members, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, for terms of six years each, one term expiring each year. The principal office of the commission is by law in the city of Washington, but the commission may meet and exercise all its powers at any other place, and may, by one or more of its members, or by designated agents, prosecute any necessary inquiry in any part of the United States or in any foreign country. It maintains an office at the port of New York and a European office at Brussels, Belgium. The commission has an official seal which is judicially noticed.

The commission is required to put at the disposal of the President, the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives, and the Committee on Finance of the Senate, whenever requested, all information at its command; to make such investigations and reports as may be requested by the President or by either of said committees or by either branch of the Congress; and to report its activities annually to the Congress.

It is the duty of the commission—

(1) To investigate the administration and fiscal and industrial effects of the customs laws of the United States; the relations between rates of duty on raw materials and on finished or partly finished products; the effects of ad valorem and specific duties and of compound specific and ad valorem duties; all questions relative to the arrangement of schedules and classification of articles in the tariff schedules; and the operation of the customs laws, including their relation to the Federal revenues and the industries and labor of the country.

(2) To investigate the tariff relations between the United States and foreign countries; commercial treaties; preferential provisions; economic alliances; the effect of export bounties and preferential transportation rates; the volume of importations compared with domestic production and consumption; and conditions, causes, and effects relating to competition of foreign industries with those of the United States, including dumping and cost of production.

(3) To investigate organizations and arrangements in Europe similar to the Paris Economy Pact.

(4) To ascertain conversion costs and costs of production in the principal growing, producing, or manufacturing centers of the United States, whenever practicable in the opinion of the commission, and to obtain in foreign countries such costs of articles imported into the United States, whenever in the opinion of the commission such costs are necessary for comparison with conversion costs or costs of production in the United States and can be reasonably ascertained; and to ascertain all other facts which will show the differences affecting competition between articles of the United States and imported articles in the principal domestic markets.

The commission is directed also to select and describe articles representative of the classes or kinds of articles imported into the United States similar to or comparable with articles of domestic production; to obtain samples of such articles when deemed advisable; to ascertain the import costs of such foreign articles; and to ascertain the selling prices of such domestic articles in the principal growing, producing, or manufacturing centers of the United States.

Sections 336, 337, and 338 of the tariff act approved June 17, 1930, contain special provisions for the modification of existing duties and for the imposition of special duties by Executive proclamation under certain conditions and within stated limitations in accordance with the legislative principles defined in those sections.

Section 336 provides that the commission, under such reasonable procedure, rules, and regulations as it may deem necessary, shall investigate the differences in the costs of production of any domestic article and of any like or similar foreign article and shall report to the President the results of such investigation and its findings with respect to such differences. If the commission finds that the duties fixed by the statute do not equalize the differences in costs as ascertained by its investigation, it shall specify in its report such increase or decrease, not exceeding 50 per cent, of the statutory rate (including any necessary change in classification) as it finds shown by the investigation to be necessary to equalize such differences. If the commission shall find, however, that such proceeding in respect of an ad valorem rate of duty will not equalize the ascertained differences, it shall so state in its report to the President and shall specify therein such ad valorem rates based upon the American selling price, as elsewhere defined in the act, of the domestic article as it finds shown by the investigation to be necessary to equalize such differences. No such rate, however, may be decreased by more than 50 per cent, nor shall it be increased. Any specified increase or decrease of a rate so reported by the commission, if approved and proclaimed by the President, shall take effect commencing 30 days after such proclamation. The section prescribes the elements to be taken into consideration in ascertaining such differences in costs of production; prohibits the transfer of an article from the dutiable list to the free list or from the free list to the dutiable list; and provides for the modification or termination of any increase or decrease so proclaimed.

The commission is required, in the course of its investigations under section 336, to give reasonable public notice thereof and to afford reasonable opportunity for parties interested to be present, to produce evidence, and to be heard at such hearings.

The commission is authorized under section 337 to investigate unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation of articles into the United States or in their sale after importation. When the findings and recommendations of the commission, upon its investigation of such acts, justify the President in doing so, he is authorized to exclude such articles from entry into the United States, such refusal of entry to remain in effect until otherwise ordered by the President.

The testimony in every investigation under the provisions of this section is required to be reduced to writing, and with the findings of the commission constitutes the official record in each case. A copy of the findings is required to be sent to the importer or consignee of the articles affected thereby and shall be conclusive, subject only to rehearing by consent of the commission or to appeal on questions of law only to the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, whose judgment shall be final.

Under the provisions of section 338 the commission is required to ascertain and at all times to be informed whether any foreign country discriminates against the commerce of the United States, whether by imposing upon it unreasonable charges or regulations not equally imposed upon other countries; or by laws, administrative regulations, or practices in regard to customs, port charges, classifications, or other like requirements which may be to the disadvantage of the commerce of the United States in such country or in any other foreign country. The commission is required to report to the President with its recommendations any such discriminations which it may find to exist, and upon such findings, when confirmed by him, the President is authorized to specify and declare upon articles wholly or in part the growth or product of any such country such new and additional duties as will offset such burdens, or he may exclude from importation articles from such country. Such new or additional duties are limited, however, to not to exceed 50 per cent ad valorem. Articles imported contrary to the provisions of this section are subject to seizure and forfeiture to the United States.

Under section 3 (e) of title I of the National Industrial Recovery Act of June 16, 1933, the Tariff Commission is the agency named to investigate, when directed by the President, conditions of competition from increasing imports in industries where such foreign competition threatens the maintenance of code agreements as to increased wages, shorter hours, and better working conditions.

Promptly upon passage of the recovery act, the Tariff Commission instituted a statistical service to assist the National Recovery Administration and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in keeping informed of the immediate trend of imports, production, and general conditions of competition. In both the new agencies import divisions were set up to receive and examine complaints of increasing imports and to obtain data on which to determine whether an investigation by the Tariff Commission is warranted. By means of a questionnaire each complainant is required to make out a prima facie case by supplying pertinent information to show whether conditions in the industry meet the specific requirements of section 3 (e). The information thus obtained from the industry itself, together with the body of data that the imports divisions obtained from all other sources forms the basis for a decision as to whether a formal investigation should be made.

In addition to its direct and specific duties under section 3 (e) of the National Industrial Recovery Act, the commission cooperates under its general powers with other departments in all projects undertaken for the recovery of industry. Members of the staff are on duty, part time or full time, with the National Recovery Administration and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, supplying information on economic and technical commodity questions needed in framing and administering codes of fair practice.

The trade agreements act of June 12, 1934, assigned new work to the Tariff Commission by naming the commission as a source of information and advice for the President in conducting reciprocal trade negotiations. As a practical matter, the commission in cooperation with the Department of State and other agencies is actively engaged with a large part of its force on the preliminary expert investigations and analyses required not only for the commodities under discussion but of general questions that enter into these negotiations as well, such as import quotas, American branch factories abroad, exchange control, and others of similar character.

An Executive Committee for Coordinating Commercial Policy was set up by the President on November 11, 1933. On that committee three commissioners sit as members. All matters involving foreign commercial relationships, including tariff matters in their final form, pass before this committee for review and judgment.

Two other important administration committees deal with aspects of the reciprocity program, and on each of these the Tariff Commission has active representation. One is designated the Trade Agreements Committee, the other the Committee on Reciprocity Information. Under the Trade Agreements Committee numerous country committees, commodity committees, and special committees pursue assigned studies and projects, and on each of these committees the Tariff Commission is represented by working memberships.

The Committee on Reciprocity Information is an interdepartmental body set up by Executive order to receive, analyze, and pass on to the Committee for Coordinating Commercial Policy the views of agriculture, industry, commerce, and the general public on tariff concessions and reciprocal trade negotiations. Thomas Walker Page, vice chairman of the Tariff Commission, is chairman of the Committee on Reciprocity Information. The Tariff Commission also actively assists the committee in all its work, furnishes facilities for technical and administrative work, and makes its hearing room available for the public hearings of the committee.

Further cooperative tasks now in progress and typical of the commission's active relationship to various general economic problems are:

1. Service to Interior Department on cost and price-fixing studies for petroleum industry.
2. Service to Federal Alcohol Control Administration on cost studies.
3. Central Statistical Board.
4. Executive Committee for the Coordination of Commercial Policy.
5. Information to the Export-Import Banks.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYEES' COMPENSATION COMMISSION

The United States Employees' Compensation Commission was created by the act of Congress approved September 7, 1916 (U. S. C., title 5, ch. 15). This act assures compensation, including reasonable medical and hospital treatment, to all civil employees (unclassified as well as classified) of the Federal Government, employees of the District of Columbia except firemen and policemen, and officers and enlisted men of the Naval Reserve on authorized training duty in time of peace, who sustain personal injuries while in the performance of their duties, but no compensation shall be paid if the injury is caused by the willful misconduct of the employee or by his intention to bring about the injury or death of himself or of another, or if intoxication of the injured employee is the proximate cause of the injury or death. This compensation law, subject to certain modification limiting the measure of benefits, was also extended to emergency employments created through Emergency Conservation Work and the Civil Works Administration. To obtain the medical and hospital treatment, the employee shall be sent to the nearest United States medical officer or hospital, but if this is not practicable, to the nearest physician or hospital designated by the United States Employees' Compensation Commission, or when neither of these is available, to the nearest physician or hospital.

The monthly compensation for total disability shall not be more than $116.66 nor less than $58.33, unless the employee's monthly pay is less than the latter amount, in which case his compensation shall be the full amount of his monthly pay.

Payment shall be made for partial disability equal to 66⅔ per cent of the difference between the employee's monthly pay and his earning capacity after the disability.

In case of death the compensation shall be paid the widow or widower, to dependent children under the age of 18 years, to dependent parents or grandparents, and to other dependents under certain conditions. All claims for compensation must be filed within one year.

By Executive orders the administration of the compensation act so far as it relates to the Panama Canal employees and employees of the Alaskan Engineering Commission has been placed under the heads of those organizations.

The commission also administers the longshoremen's and harbor workers' compensation act, approved March 4, 1927. This act covers employees in private industries engaged in maritime employment on the navigable waters of the United States (including dry docks) who sustain injury or death arising out of, and in course of, employment. These employees are mostly longshoremen and men engaged in repair work on vessels. It does not include the master or members of the crews of vessels, nor persons engaged by the master to load or unload or repair vessels under 18 tons. The compensation features of the act were effective July 1, 1927. Compensation is paid by the employer and the cost of administration by the United States.

On and after July 1, 1927, every employer having employees coming under the provisions of the act is required to secure payment of compensation by insurance in a company authorized by the commission or self-insurance authorized by the commission. A heavy penalty is provided for failure to secure compensation. A severe penalty is also provided for the employing of any stevedoring firm which does not present a certificate of compliance.

The commission is required to make the rules and regulations under this act, prescribe forms, establish compensation districts, and appoint and assign deputy commissioners to such districts. The deputy commissioners are required to issue certificates of compliance with insurance provisions, enforce requirements as to reports and penalties, regulate medical and legal fees, hold hearings when necessary or demanded by either party, make investigations, allow or disallow claims, examine settlements when hearings are not required to see that the injured employee has received the benefits of the law, take action in case of default in payment, and certify records upon appeal to the courts. Appeal to the Federal courts from the decision of the deputy commissioner may be had upon questions of law.

Compensation for total disability is two-thirds of the average weekly pay, not to exceed a maximum of $25 per week, with a minimum of $8 per week. There is a schedule of benefits for permanent partial disability. Death benefits are payable to the widow until remarriage and to children until they reach the age of 18, also to other dependents under certain circumstances. Reasonable funeral expenses not to exceed $200 are provided. The total compensation payable for injury or death in any one case shall not exceed the sum of $7,500.

The act approved May 17, 1928, which became effective July 1, 1928, made applicable to employers and employees in the District of Columbia the provisions of the longshoremen's and harbor workers' compensation act, thus extending the principles of workmen's compensation to employment in the District of Columbia.

The act excludes from its benefits the master and a member of a crew of any vessel, such men having the rights known as maintenance and cure and the rights given by the Federal employers' liability act; the employees of railroads when engaged in interstate or foreign commerce who are also specifically provided for by the Federal employers' liability act, and employees engaged in domestic service or agriculture, and those engaged in casual employment not in the usual course of the trade, business, occupation, or profession of the employer.

Compensation is paid by the employer through an insurance carrier authorized by the commission or direct as a self-insurer under conditions prescribed by the commission.

EMERGENCY CONSERVATION WORK

By virtue of the authority vested in the President by the act of Congress entitled "An Act For the Relief of Unemployment through the Performance of Useful Public Work and for other Purposes", approved March 31, 1933 (Public No. 5, 73d Cong.), and for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of said act, the President by Executive Order No. 6101, dated April 5, 1933, created an independent establishment for Emergency Conservation Work and appointed a director therefor.

The director functions in an administrative capacity, and all projects involving the expenditure of funds in connection with Emergency Conservation Work receives his consideration and approval. He is assisted by an advisory council composed of representatives appointed by the Secretary of War, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Interior, and the Secretary of Labor. The field program of the Emergency Conservation Work is executed by the referred to Departments, and involves the enrollment and employment of personnel, procurement of supplies and equipment for use in connection with the carrying on and accomplishment of such works of a public nature as are mentioned in the referred to act.

VETERANS' ADMINISTRATION

The Veterans' Administration was authorized to be established as an independent agency under the direction of the President, by Public No. 536, Seventy-first Congress, approved July 3, 1930, which further authorized the President by Executive order to consolidate and coordinate under a single control all Government agencies having to do with the administration of laws relating to the relief of and other benefits provided by law for former members of the military and naval forces. By Executive order of July 21, 1930, there was established the Veterans' Administration and consolidated therein the Bureau of Pensions (previously under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Interior), the United States Veterans' Bureau, and the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, the latter now known as the National Homes Service.

The Administrator of Veterans' Affairs is charged with the control, direction, and management of all agencies and activities comprising the Veterans' Administration, and all final decisions or orders of any agency of the Veterans' Administration are, on appeal, subject to review by him. The Administrator of Veterans' Affairs is also chairman of the Federal Board of Hospitalization, which board is advisory to the President in all matters having to do with the need for, the location of, and expenditures on account of increased Government facilities for the hospitalization and domiciliary care of all veterans of the United States.

The Veterans' Administration is responsible for extending relief to veterans and dependents of deceased veterans of all wars, and soldiers and dependents of deceased soldiers who served in the Military and Naval Establishments of the United States during peace time, provided for by the various acts of Congress. These laws include, in addition to pensions, benefits in the form of Government insurance, military and naval insurance, adjusted compensation, emergency officers' retirement pay for veterans of the World War, and hospital and domiciliary care for veterans of all wars.

Regional offices, or combined regional offices and hospitals and/or homes, are located in each State, with the exception of Delaware, to facilitate the granting of benefits provided for veterans. The Veterans' Administration maintains and operates 78 facilities providing hospitalization or domiciliary care for all veterans admitted thereto.

COMMISSION ON NAVY YARDS AND NAVAL STATIONS

Appointed by direction of the President to carry out provisions of the act of Congress, approved August 29, 1916, relative to the establishment of navy yards, naval stations, and submarine and aviation bases.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR AERONAUTICS

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics was established by act of Congress approved March 3, 1915 (U. S. C., title 50, sec. 151), and the membership increased from 12 to 15 members by act approved March 2, 1929 (U. S. C. Supp. V, title 50, sec. 151 (a)). Its membership is appointed by the President and consists of two representatives each of the War and Navy Departments from the offices in charge of military and naval aeronautics, one representative each of the Smithsonian Institution, the United States Weather Bureau, and the United States Bureau of Standards, together with eight additional persons (including a representative of the Bureau of Air Commerce, Department of Commerce) who are "acquainted with the needs of aeronautical science, either civil or military, or skilled in aeronautical engineering or its allied sciences." All the members serve as such without compensation.

The law provides that this committee shall "supervise and direct the scientific study of the problems of flight, with a view to their practical solution, * * *" and also "direct and conduct research and experiment in aeronautics."

Under rules and regulations formulated by the committee and approved by the President, technical subcommittees, organized along lines similar to the main committee, and with members serving as such without compensation, prepare programs of fundamental research in aeronautics. In order that research programs may be of maximum value, provision is made to keep the subcommittees informed as to aeronautical researches conducted by the more progressive foreign nations.

The office of aeronautical intelligence was established in the early part of 1918 as an integral branch of the committee's activities. It serves as the depository and distributing agency for the scientific and technical data on aeronautics comprising the results of fundamental committee researches and also the scientific and technical information collected by the committee from governmental and private agencies in this country and abroad. A technical assistant in Europe, with headquarters at the American embassy in Paris, visits governmental and private agencies in Europe to collect, not merely results of researches, but also first-hand information as to researches proposed and in progress.

Briefly, the general functions of this committee may be stated as follows:

1. Coordinate the research needs of aviation, civil and military.
2. Prevent duplication in the field of aeronautical research.
3. Conduct under unified control of committee in one central Government laboratory fundamental aeronautical research, including:

(a) Confidential researches for the Army and Navy on which they rely for supremacy of American military aviation.

(b) Fundamental researches to increase safety and economy of operation of aircraft, military and civil.

4. Advise War, Navy, and Commerce Departments and the aviation industry as to the latest research information.
5. Consider merits of aeronautical inventions submitted by the public to any agency of the Government.
6. On request of the President, the Congress, or any executive department to advise upon any special problem in aeronautics which may be referred to it.

The committee conducts at Langley Field, Va., a well-equipped aeronautical research laboratory known as the Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory, comprising 12 structures and a research staff of 250 employees. There, under ideal conditions, are combined facilities for laboratory investigations and for researches on aircraft in flight. The War, Navy, and Commerce Departments have uniformly extended this activity every desired cooperation.

THE INTERNATIONAL JOINT COMMISSION

The International Joint Commission was created by the treaty between the United States and Great Britain signed January 11, 1909, the object of which is "to prevent disputes regarding the use of boundary waters and to settle all questions which are now pending between the United States and the Dominion of Canada involving the rights, obligations, or interests of either in relation to the other or to the inhabitants of the other, along their common frontier, and to make provision for the adjustment and settlement of all such questions as may hereafter arise."

The commission consists of six members, three appointed by the President of the United States and three appointed by His Majesty on recommendation of the Government of Canada. It was organized in 1911, adopted rules of procedure, and established permanent offices in Washington and Ottawa. It has jurisdiction over all cases involving the use or obstruction or diversion of boundary waters between the United States and Canada, of waters flowing from boundary waters, and of waters at a lower level than the boundary in rivers flowing across the boundary.

Under Article IX of the treaty the International Joint Commission also is constituted an investigatory body for the purpose of examining into and reporting upon any questions or matters of difference arising along the common frontier that shall be referred to it from time to time whenever either the Government of the United States or the Government of Canada shall request that such questions or matters of difference be so referred.

Under Article X of the treaty any questions or matters of difference arising between the high contracting parties involving the rights, obligations, or interests of the United States or of the Dominion of Canada, either in relation to each other or to their respective inhabitants, may be referred for decision to the International Joint Commission, it being understood that on the part of the United States such action will be by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and on the part of Great Britain with the consent of the Government of Canada.

Under Article VI of the treaty the commission is charged with the measurement and apportionment from time to time of the waters of the St. Mary and Milk Rivers and their tributaries, these rivers lying partly in Montana and partly in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and being largely used for irrigation purposes in both countries.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES, ALASKA, AND CANADA

For defining, marking, and maintaining the boundary between the United States, Alaska, and Canada

The International Boundary Commission, United States, Alaska, and Canada, was created under the provisions of the several boundary treaties between the United States and Great Britain, for the purpose of defining, marking, and maintaining the demarcation of the international boundary line between the United States and Canada and between Alaska and Canada, as follows:

1. Southeastern Alaska, or the boundary between Alaska and British Columbia. Length, 893 miles.

Article VI of the convention between the United States and Great Britain providing for the settlement of questions between the two countries with respect to the boundary line between the Territory of Alaska and the British possessions in North America, signed at Washington January 24, 1903, stipulated that when the high contracting parties shall have received the decision of the tribunal upon the questions submitted as provided in the foregoing articles, which decision shall be final and binding upon all parties, they will at once appoint, each on its own behalf, one or more scientific experts, who shall with all convenient speed proceed to lay down the boundary line in conformity with such decision.

2. The boundary between Alaska and Canada, along the one hundred and forty-first meridian. Length, 647 miles.

The convention between the United States and Great Britain, signed at Washington April 21, 1906, provided for the surveying and marking out upon the ground of the one hundred and forty-first meridian of west longitude where said meridian forms the boundary line between Alaska and the British possessions of North America. The convention stipulated that each Government shall appoint one commissioner, with whom may be associated such surveyors, astronomers, and other assistants as each Government may elect, who shall locate the boundary line, erect the necessary boundary marks, make the necessary surveys, and file duplicate records with their respective Governments.

3. The United States and Canada boundary from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, with the exception of the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes. Length, 2,697 miles.

Articles I, II, III, V, VI, VII, and VIII, of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, entitled "Canadian International Boundary," signed at Washington April 11, 1908, stipulated that each of the high contracting parties shall appoint without delay an expert geographer or surveyor as commissioner, and the commissioners so appointed shall jointly execute the necessary surveys, repair existing boundary marks, erect additional boundary marks, and lay down the boundary line in accordance with the existing treaties upon quadruplicate sets of accurate modern charts, prepared or adopted by them for that purpose, and that said charts so marked shall be filed with each Government, and said commissioners shall also prepare, in duplicate, and file with each Government a joint report or reports, describing in detail the course of the boundary so marked by them, and the character and location of the several monuments and boundary marks and ranges marking it.

4. Article IV of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain in respect to Canada, signed at Washington February 24, 1925, which provides for the maintenance of an effective boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada, authorizes and directs the commissioners appointed under the provisions of the treaty of April 11, 1908, to inspect the various portions of the boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada at such times as they shall deem necessary; to repair all damaged monuments and buoys; to relocate and rebuild monuments which have been destroyed; to keep the boundary vistas open; to move boundary monuments to new sites and establish such additional monuments and buoys as they shall deem desirable; to maintain at all times an effective boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada as defined by the present treaty and treaties heretofore concluded or hereafter to be concluded; and to determine the location of any point of the boundary line which may become necessary in the settlement of any question that may arise between the two Governments.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES AND MEXICO

The International Boundary Commission, United States and Mexico, was created pursuant to the provisions of the treaty concluded March 1, 1889, with exclusive jurisdiction to examine and decide all differences or questions arising on that portion of the frontier between the United States of America and the United States of Mexico where for a distance of 1,321 miles the Rio Grande, and for a distance of 19 miles the Colorado River form the boundary line as originally established under the treaties of 1848 and 1853, and further regulated by the treaties of 1884 and 1905, growing out of changes in the beds of, or works constructed in, these rivers, or any other cause affecting the boundary line. Matters pertaining to the practical location and monumentation of the overland boundary of 673 miles between El Paso, Tex., and the Pacific Ocean, as well as questions for investigation and report touching flood-control measures along the international boundary, are also, from time to time, submitted to the commission upon concurrence through an exchange of notes between the respective Governments. The commission is empowered to suspend the construction of works of any character along the Rio Grande and Colorado River that contravene existing treaties; erect and maintain monuments along the water boundary; make necessary surveys of changes brought by force of current in both rivers caused by either avulsion, accretion, or erosion; mark and eliminate bancos caused by such changes; survey, place, and maintain monuments on all international bridges between the two countries. The commission is authorized to call for papers of information relative to boundary matters from either country; hold meetings at any point questions may arise; summon witnesses and take testimony in accordance with rules of the courts of the respective countries. If both commissioners shall agree to a decision their judgment shall be binding on both Governments, unless one of them shall disapprove it within one month from the date it shall have been pronounced.

The American section of the commission was, by the act approved June 30, 1932 (Public, No. 212, 72d Cong.), charged with the exercise and performance of the powers, duties, and functions of the American section, International Water Commission, United States and Mexico, which was abolished by the terms of such act, effective July 1, 1932. The American section of the International Boundary Commission is thus charged with cooperating with a similar body representing the United States of Mexico in an investigation, study, and report regarding the equitable use of waters of the three major international streams of the southwestern frontier, namely, the Lower Rio Grande, the Lower Colorado, and the Tia Juana Rivers, for the purpose of securing information on which to base a treaty with the Government of Mexico relative to the use of the waters of these rivers. In addition to the development and analysis of data pertaining to irrigated areas and the extent of beneficial use of these waters generally, there are operated by the commission, over some 1,500 miles of the Rio Grande, its tributaries and diversions, 55 stream-gaging stations embracing the measurement of the run-off from over 55,000 square miles of the drainage area of the Rio Grande within the United States between Fort Quitman, Tex., and the Gulf of Mexico, and nearly one-half of the pertinent drainage area in Mexico between those points.

BOARD OF SURVEYS AND MAPS OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

The Board of Surveys and Maps of the Federal Government was created by Executive order of December 30, 1919, for the purpose of making recommendations to the several departments or to the President for coordinating all map-making and surveying activities of the Government and to settle all questions at issue between executive departments relating to surveys and maps in so far as their decisions do not conflict with existing laws. Meetings are held at stated intervals, to which representatives of the map-using public are invited for conference and advice. A central information office has been established in the United States Geological Survey for collecting, classifying, and furnishing information concerning all map and survey data available in the several Government departments and from other sources.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

Created by the Federal Water Power Act of June 10, 1920, the Federal Power Commission was originally composed of the Secretaries of War, Interior, and Agriculture.

Reorganized by the act of June 23, 1930, with five whole-time Commissioners appointed by the President, it is now composed of Frank R. McNinch, of North Carolina, chairman; Basil Manly, of the District of Columbia, vice chairman; Herbert J. Drane, of Florida; Claude L. Draper, of Wyoming, and Clyde L. Seavey, of California.

The Federal water power act represents a declared policy of the Congress to provide for the improvement of navigation and the development of water power through the instrumentality of private and governmental agencies, which, by the act, may be licensed to use, upon prescribed conditions, the water power of streams subject to Federal jurisdiction or to use public lands. These conditions to the granting of such valuable privileges are intended to promote the fundamental conservation purposes of the act through improvement of navigation and development of water power, and at the same time to safeguard the public interest by protecting the consumers of the generated power against exorbitant charges.

ACTIVITIES

For the protection of the consuming public, and the financial stability of the project, the Commission is given authority to regulate the rates, services, and securities of licensees, and purchasers of power from licensees, for purpose of resale, when engaged in intrastate business in a State having no duly constituted regulatory agency; and to regulate the rates, services, and securities of licensees, their subsidiaries, and such purchasers, where any part of the power generated enters into interstate commerce and where the States directly concerned have not provided proper regulatory agencies, or where such States are unable to agree through their duly constituted authorities on the services rendered, rates charged, or securities to be issued.

An important feature of the act, commonly referred to as the "recapture" provision, reserves to the United States, or to any State or municipality designated by the commission, the right to take over any licensed project at the expiration of the license period upon payment to the licensee of the net investment, not to exceed fair value, in such project. Provision is made for a reduction of the net investment, and, consequently, of the recapture and rate base, by the creation of amortization reserves accumulated in excess of a specified reasonable rate of return. To insure the preservation of this option of recapture and the rights relating thereto, as well as to make certain the protection provided for the consuming public, the statute requires the Commission to determine currently the actual legitimate cost of projects constructed under license, and, in case of authorized projects constructed prior to license, to determine the fair value thereof. The proper administration of these provisions requires the exercise of authority conferred by the act to prescribe and enforce a system of accounts to be maintained by licensees.

The Commission is authorized to determine whether the value of lands of the United States reserved for power purposes will be injured or destroyed for purposes of power development by location, selection, or entry under the public land laws, with reservation of power rights to the United States; to determine the value of power available at Government dams, and the advisability of its development for public purposes; and to fix annual rental charges for reimbursement of the cost of administration of the act and for recompensing the United States for the use of its lands and other property.

In cases where a licensee makes use of a headwater improvement, the Commission determines the proper share of the annual costs to be paid by the licensee benefited.

The Commission is authorized to conduct general investigations of power resources and of their relation to interstate and foreign commerce, cooperating with State and National agencies in its investigations, and to publish the results of its work in special and annual reports.

Special surveys.—The Commission, in addition to the duties provided for by the Federal Water Power Act, is conducting the following on which reports are being prepared for submission to the President and the Congress:

1. Under Executive Order No. 6251, dated August 19, 1933, a nation-wide survey of power resources, present and future market for electricity, and methods of balancing supply and demand; cost of transmission and distribution to consumers; and formulation of a program of public works.

2. Under Senate Resolution No. 80, dated May 29, 1933, a survey of the costs of electrical distribution.

3. Under Public Resolution No. 18 (S. J. R. No. 74, dated April 14, 1934) a nation-wide survey of electric rates, which will present the first complete statement of all charges for electricity for every community in the country.

THE COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS

By act approved May 17, 1910, Congress created as a permanent body the National Commission of Fine Arts. The commission is "composed of seven well-qualified judges of the fine arts," who are appointed by the President and serve for a period of four years each, and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

Under the provisions of this organic act Congress directs that "It shall be the duty of the commission to advise upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia, and upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States and upon the selection of the artists for the execution of same. It shall be the duty of the officer charged by law to determine such questions in each case to call for such advice. The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the Capitol Building of the United States and the building of the Library of Congress. The commission shall also advise generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President or by any committee of either House of Congress."

By Executive order dated October 25, 1910, the President directed that "Plans for no public building to be erected in the District of Columbia for the General Government shall be hereafter finally approved by the officer duly authorized until after such officer shall have submitted the plans to the Commission of Fine Arts created under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for its comment and advice."

On February 2, 1912, the President directed the commission to advise the officer in charge of public buildings and grounds in regard to the improvement of any of the grounds in the city of Washington under his charge whenever such advice is asked for by that officer. That officer now uniformly consults the commission regarding details of the development of all the parks and reservations under his control.

On November 28, 1913, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that whenever new structures are to be erected in the District of Columbia under the direction of the Federal Government which affect in any important way the appearance of the city, or whenever questions involving matters of art and with which the Federal Government is concerned are to be determined, final action shall not be taken until such plans and questions have been submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts designated under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for comment and advice."

On July 28, 1921, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that essential matters relating to the design of medals, insignia, and coins produced by the executive departments, also the design of statues, fountains, and monuments, and all important plans for parks and all public buildings, constructed by the executive departments or the District of Columbia, which in any essential way affect the appearance of the city of Washington, or the District of Columbia, shall be submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts for advice as to the merits of such designs before the executive officer having charge of the same shall approve thereof."

In order that the development of the District of Columbia may proceed harmoniously both under Federal and District jurisdictions, the President has requested the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia to consult the Commission of Fine Arts on matters of art falling under their jurisdiction and control.

The duties of the commission, therefore, now embrace advising upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia; upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States, and the selection of the artists for their execution; also for medals, insignia, and coins; upon the plans and designs for public structures and parks in the District of Columbia, as well as upon all questions involving matters of art with which the Federal Government is concerned. In addition, the commission advises upon general questions of art whenever requested to do so by the President or any committee of Congress.

Congress has stipulated in many recent enactments that the plans for certain designated buildings, monuments, etc., must be approved by the commission before they can be accepted by the Government.

By act approved May 16, 1930, Congress has given the commission control over certain portions of the District of Columbia in the matter of private buildings, under what is known as the Shipstead-Luce Act.

NATIONAL CAPITAL PARK AND PLANNING COMMISSION

The National Capital Park Commission was created by the act approved June 6, 1924 (Public, No. 202, 68th Cong.) for the purpose of preserving the flow of water in Rock Creek, preventing the pollution of Rock Creek and the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers, preserving forests and natural scenery in and about Washington, and to provide for the comprehensive, systematic, and continuous development of the park, parkway, and playground system of the National Capital. The Director of National Park Service is executive and disbursing officer of the commission.

The commission was authorized and directed to acquire such lands as in its judgment shall be necessary and desirable in the District of Columbia and (by agreement with Maryland and Virginia authorities) adjacent areas in Maryland and Virginia, for suitable development of the National Capital park, parkway, and playground system.

By act of April 30, 1926, the name of the commission was changed to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The same officials named in the former act were retained as ex officio members and the President was authorized to add "four eminent citizens well qualified and experienced in city planning, one of whom shall be a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia," to be appointed, after the original appointments, for the term of six years, to serve without compensation. The new commission retained all the powers of the park commission and was given further important advisory powers. It was charged with the duty of preparing, developing, and maintaining a comprehensive, consistent, and coordinated plan for the National Capital and its environs, which plan shall include recommendations to the proper executive authorities as to traffic and transportation, plats and subdivisions; highways, parks, and parkways; school and library sites; playgrounds; drainage, sewer, and water supply; housing, building, and zoning regulations; public and private buildings; bridges and water fronts; commerce and industry; and other proper elements of city and regional planning. Paragraph (c) transfers to this commission the power previously vested in the highway commission, namely, the approval or revision of the recommendations of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for changes in the existing highway plan. Paragraph (d) vested the new commission with all the powers of the original National Capital Park Commission.

By act of May 29, 1930, establishing the George Washington Memorial Parkway and for other purposes, a regional park system for Washington and its environs was approved, including a basis for cooperation with the States of Maryland and Virginia and authorizing an advance of funds to the District of Columbia for use by the commission in accelerating park purchases within the District.

PAN AMERICAN SANITARY BUREAU

(Formerly International Sanitary Bureau)

The Pan American Sanitary Bureau is the central coordinating sanitary agency as well as the general collection and distribution center of sanitary information of the American Republics. It was created by the Second International Conference of American Republics (1901–2), organized by the First Pan American Sanitary Conference (1902), and reorganized by the Sixth Pan American Sanitary Conference (1920). Its functions and duties are fixed by the Pan American Sanitary Code (1924) and modified and amplified by the various international sanitary and other conferences of the American Republics. The bureau is concerned in maintaining and improving the health of all the people of the 21 American Republics and in preventing the international spread of communicable diseases. It acts as a consulting office for the national directors of health of the American Republics, prepares the programs and publishes the proceedings of the Pan American Sanitary Conferences and the Conferences of the National Directors of Health, and carries out epidemiological and other scientific studies and investigations. It also publishes in three languages a monthly Pan American Sanitary Bulletin, weekly reports on disease prevalence, and a series of other publications on sanitary subjects. The bureau is governed by a council elected at each Pan American Sanitary Conference. Its executive officer is a director, also chairman of the board, who is elected at the same conferences. The necessary personnel, including an assistant director, editor, traveling representatives, epidemiologists, experts, translators, and clerks, is assigned or employed by the director to attend to the various duties imposed on the bureau by the Pan American Sanitary Code and the Pan American Sanitary Conferences. The bureau is supported by a fund contributed by all the American Republics in proportion to their populations. Address all correspondence to the Director, Pan American Sanitary Bureau, Washington, D. C.

INLAND WATERWAYS CORPORATION

The Inland Waterways Corporation is charged with the duties incident to the development of national inland waterway transportation as delegated to the Secretary of War under the transportation act of 1920 and by Public 185, approved June 3, 1924, as amended by Public 601, Seventieth Congress, approved May 29, 1928. This corporation supervises the maintenance of barge lines operated by the Government on several important water routes; investigates types of floating and terminal equipment suitable for various waterways, as well as tariff and interchange arrangements between rail and water carriers and other matters tending to promote and encourage waterway traffic; and in general functions as the official governmental inland waterways bureau.

AMERICAN BATTLE MONUMENTS COMMISSION

The American Battle Monuments Commission was created by an act of Congress approved March 4, 1923, for the purpose of preparing plans for and erecting suitable memorials to mark and commemorate the services of the American forces in Europe during the World War, including works of architecture and art in the American cemeteries in Europe. The act creating the commission charges it with the duties of controlling as to materials and design, providing regulations for and supervising the erection of all memorial monuments and buildings in the American cemeteries in Europe. To the commission is given the function of photographing the battlefields of Europe upon which American forces were engaged, in order to complete the historical records of these forces.

The commission is directed to cooperate, in such manner as it shall determine, with American citizens, States, municipalities, and associations desiring to erect war memorials in Europe, providing that the plans for such memorials have been approved by the commission in accordance with the provisions of the act.

The commission is authorized to receive funds from any State, municipal, or private source for the purposes of its work, and is also permitted to furnish replicas of any memorial, or part thereof, at actual cost, applying the proceeds of such sales to the purposes of the commission.

On May 21, 1934, all functions of administration which were then being exercised by the War Department with respect to National Cemeteries and Memorials in Europe were transferred to the commission in pursuance of Executive Orders 6614 and 6690.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

The Federal Communications Commission was created by an act of Congress approved June 19, 1934. The commission is composed of seven commissioners and is divided into three divisions, viz.: Broadcast, telegraph, and telephone. The duties of each division have to do with the regulation of interstate and foreign commerce in communication by wire and radio in their respective fields. The commission is assisted by three directors, one for each division, a secretary of the whole commission, a general counsel, and chief engineer. The commission and divisions, when necessary, hold hearings on applications for facilities under its jurisdiction.

Upon enactment into law of the Communications Act, the Federal Radio Commission was abolished and its records and property transferred to the Federal Communications Commission. Also, all duties, powers, and functions of the Interstate Commerce Commission under the act of August 7, 1888 (25 Stat. 382), relating to operation of telegraph lines by railroad and telegraph companies granted Government aid in the construction of their lines, are hereby imposed upon and vested in the commission: Provided, That such transfer of duties, powers, and functions shall not be construed to affect the duties, powers, functions, or jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission under, or to interfere with or prevent the enforcement of, the Interstate Commerce Act and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto. All duties, powers, and functions of the Postmaster General with respect to telegraph companies and telegraph lines under any existing provision of law are hereby imposed upon and vested in the commission.

COURT OF CLAIMS OF THE UNITED STATES

This court was established by act of Congress February 24, 1855 (10 Stat. L. 612). It has general jurisdiction (36 Stat. L. 1135) of all "claims founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, except for pensions, or upon any regulations of an executive department, or upon any contract, express or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect of which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States, either in a court of law, equity, or admiralty, if the United States were suable, except claims growing out of the late Civil War and commonly known as war claims," and certain rejected claims.

It has jurisdiction also of claims of like character which may be referred to it by the head of any executive department involving controverted questions of fact or law. In all the above-mentioned cases the court, when it finds for the claimant, may enter judgment against the United States, payable out of the Public Treasury.

Under section 3 of the act of February 13, 1925, the Court of Claims may certify to the Supreme Court any definite and distinct questions of law concerning which instructions are desired for the proper disposition of the cause; and also in any case the Supreme Court upon the petition of either party may require by certiorari that the cause be certified to it for review and determination.

It also has jurisdiction of the claims of disbursing officers of the United States for relief from responsibility for losses of Government funds and property by capture or otherwise, without negligence, while in the line of duty.

There is a statute of limitations which prevents parties from bringing actions on their own motion beyond six years after the cause of action accrued, but the departments may refer claims at any time if they were pending therein within the six years.

By the act of March 2, 1919 (40 Stat. 772), known as the Dent Act, the Court of Claims is given jurisdiction of the class of war claims therein specified. In these cases the action of the Secretary of War upon the claim, or his failure to act thereon, is a condition precedent to the right of the claimant to commence an action in the Court of Claims.

The court also has jurisdiction of actions provided for by certain statutes passed during the last war permitting the seizure of property by the Government.

By section 151, Judicial Code (36 Stat. L. 1135), whenever any bill, except for a pension, is pending in either House of Congress providing for the payment of a claim against the United States, legal or equitable, or for a grant, gift, or bounty to any person, the House in which such bill is pending may, for the investigation and determination of facts, refer the same to the Court of Claims, which shall proceed with the same in accordance with such rules as it may adopt and report to such House the facts in the case and the amount, where the same can be liquidated, including any facts bearing upon the question whether there has been delay or laches in presenting such claim or applying for such grant, gift, or bounty, and any facts bearing upon the question whether the bar of any statute of limitation should be removed or which shall be claimed to excuse the claimant for not having resorted to any established legal remedy, together with such conclusions as shall be sufficient to inform Congress of the nature and character of the demand, either as a claim, legal or equitable, or as a gratuity against the United States, and the amount, if any, legally or equitably due from the United States to the claimant: Provided, however, That if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court upon the facts established that under existing laws or the provisions of this chapter, the subject matter of the bill is such that it has jurisdiction to render judgment or decree thereon, it shall proceed to do so, giving to either party such further opportunity for hearing as in its judgment justice shall require, and it shall report its proceedings therein to the House of Congress by which the same was referred to said court.

Section 5, act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 996), provides: "That from and after the passage and approval of this act the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims shall not extend to or include any claim against the United States based upon or growing out of the destruction of any property or damage done to any property by the military or naval forces of the United States during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, nor to any claim for stores and supplies taken by or furnished to or for the use of the military or naval forces of the United States, nor to any claim for the value of any use and occupation of any real estate by the military or naval forces of the United States during said war; nor shall said Court of Claims have jurisdiction of any claim which is now barred by the provisions of any law of the United States."

By act of March 3, 1891, chapter 538 (26 Stat. L. 851, and Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 913), the court is vested with jurisdiction of certain Indian depredation claims.

The act of June 25, 1910, chapter 423 (36 Stat. L. 851–852), "An act to provide additional protection for owners of patents of the United States, and for other purposes," conferred a new jurisdiction.

There are five judges, who sit together in the hearing of cases, the concurrence of three of whom is necessary for the decision of any case.

All claims are prosecuted in the Court of Claims by an action commenced by the filing of a petition and prosecuted in accordance with the rules of the court, copies of which rules can be obtained upon application to the clerk of the court.

The court is located at Washington, D. C., in the old Corcoran Art Building, Seventeenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. The term begins on the first Monday in December each year and continues until the Saturday before the first Monday in December. Cases may be commenced and entered at any time, whether the court be in session or not.

PERRY'S VICTORY MEMORIAL COMMISSION

The Perry's Victory Memorial Commission, created by act of Congress approved March 3, 1919, is charged with the administration of the Perry's Victory Memorial at Put in Bay, South Bass Island, Lake Erie, Ohio, erected by the Federal Government and the States of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, New York, Rhode Island, Kentucky, and Massachusetts. Members of the commission are those named in the act, who formerly composed an interstate board appointed, on legislative authority, by the governors of the States named, the act providing that their successors shall be appointed by the President of the United States.

The commission is required to report annually to the Secretary of the Interior all receipts and disbursements of money and regarding the physical condition of the memorial property. Costs of operation are met by revenue derived from small fees charged the public for the elevator privilege to the top of the memorial, which has thus been self-sustaining since opened to the public in 1915. Neither Federal nor State Governments have been required to make appropriations for upkeep. Upon the accumulation of $20,000 surplus, to provide for emergencies, the net earnings from operation are to be turned into the United States Treasury. Commissioners serve without compensation.

The memorial, the world's second highest monument, constructed entirely of Massachusetts granite, is a Grecian Doric column 352 feet in height and 45 feet in diameter at the base, with a spacious and beautiful rotunda and a spectator's gallery at the top capable of accommodating 300 people in the open air. Its physical setting in a park of 14 acres on the isthmus of Put in Bay Island, with Lake Erie on both sides, gives it the appearance of rising from the water. At night it is illuminated by floodlights.

The memorial commemorates the victory of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry and his men in the Battle of Lake Erie, September 10, 1813, the northwestern campaign of Gen. William Henry Harrison in the War of 1812, and a century of peace between English-speaking peoples, and is dedicated to the principle of international peace by arbitration and disarmament—the only public work in the world so dedicated.

PUERTO RICAN HURRICANE RELIEF COMMISSION

The Puerto Rican Hurricane Relief Commission was created by an act of Congress approved December 21, 1928 (Public, Res. No. 74, 70th Cong.), as an agency to extend relief to the people of Puerto Rico affected by the hurricane of September 13 and 14, 1928. The commission consists of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of War, and the Secretary of Agriculture, of which the Secretary of War is chairman. The duties of the commission, as set forth in the act by which it was created, are to assist in the rehabilitation of agriculture in the island of Puerto Rico, particularly on the coffee and the coconut plantations; to encourage a more general planting of food crops needed by laborers on the plantations, especially of root crops; to aid in the repair and restoration of schools and roads; and to assist in providing employment for unemployed and destitute laborers. The total amount authorized by Congress to be appropriated for the Puerto Rican Hurricane Relief Commission has been $11,150,000, of which amount $10,150,000 has already been appropriated. Of the amount appropriated, $6,000,000 is for loans to individual agriculturists. The second deficiency appropriation act, approved March 4, 1929 (Public, No. 1035, 70th Cong.), provided for constituting a board of alternates as the operating agency of the commission in Puerto Rico. The commission is required to make an annual report of its activities to Congress.

RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was created by "An act to provide emergency financing facilities for financial institutions, to aid in financing agriculture, commerce, and industry, and for other purposes", approved January 22, 1932. This basic law, however, was amended, and the corporation's powers were increased and the scope of its operations extended by subsequent legislation.

ORGANIZATION

The corporation was organized on February 2, 1932. It will have succession for a period of 10 years from January 22, 1932, unless sooner dissolved by an act of Congress. Its management is vested in a board of directors consisting of the Secretary of the Treasury (or, in his absence, the Under Secretary of the Treasury), who is a member ex officio, and six other directors appointed by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The corporation functions through a principal office at Washington and loan agencies established in cities throughout the United States. In addition, the corporation has a special representative at San Juan, P. R., and a special representative and custodian at Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii.

The Federal reserve banks act as depositories, custodians, and fiscal agents for the corporation. Since there is no Federal reserve bank in Puerto Rico, the insular treasurer at San Juan acts as custodian. The special representative and custodian at Honolulu holds the primary obligations of borrowers from the corporation in the Territory of Hawaii and the collateral pledged as security therefor.

The funds of the corporation are kept on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States.

LOANS TO FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS AND RAILROADS

Pursuant to the provisions of section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, the corporation is authorized to make loans, on full and adequate security and upon the terms and conditions stated in the law, to any bank, savings bank, trust company, building and loan association, insurance company, mortgage loan company, credit union, Federal land bank, joint stock land bank, Federal intermediate credit bank, Agricultural Credit Corporation, Livestock Credit Corporation, organized under the laws of any State, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the United States, including loans secured by the assets of any bank, savings bank, or building and loan association that is closed, or in process of liquidation, to aid in the reorganization or liquidation thereof, upon application of the receiver or liquidating agent of such institution.

Under the same section of law, the corporation is authorized, upon the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, to make loans to (a) railroads and railways engaged in interstate commerce, to aid in the temporary financing thereof, to railroads and railways in process of construction, and to receivers of such railroads and railways, when, in the opinion of the board of directors of the Corporation, such railroads or railways are unable to obtain funds upon reasonable terms through banking channels or from the general public and the Corporation will be adequately secured; (b) trustees of railroads which proceed to reorganize under section 77 of the bankruptcy act, approved July 1, 1898, as amended by the act of March 3, 1933.

Loans under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, may be made for a period of 5 years, or any shorter period, from February 1, 1935, and the corporation may at any time, or from time to time, extend, or consent to the extension of, the time of payment of any loan or advance made by it, through renewal, substitution of new obligations or otherwise, but the time for such payment shall not be extended beyond 5 years from February 1, 1935.

In respect of loans or advances under such section 5 to railroads, railways, and receivers or trustees thereof, the corporation may require as a condition of making any such loan or advance for a period longer than 3 years that such arrangements be made for the reduction or amortization of the indebtedness of the railroad or railway, either in whole or in part, as may be approved by the corporation, after the prior approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The law further provides that the time of payment of loans or advances to railroads, railways, and receivers or trustees thereof, shall not be extended through renewals, substitution of new obligations, or otherwise, except with the prior approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and, in the case of a loan to a railroad or railway, with the prior certification of the Interstate Commerce Commission that the railroad or railway is not in need of financial reorganization in the public interest.

Section 4 of an act approved June 10, 1933, provides that the corporation shall not make, renew, or extend any loan under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, or under the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932: (1) If at the time of making, renewing, or extending such loan any officer, director, or employee of the applicant is receiving compensation at a rate in excess of what appears reasonable to the corporation; and (2) unless at such time the applicant agrees to the satisfaction of the corporation not to increase the compensation of any of its officers, directors, or employees to any amount in excess of what appears reasonable to the corporation while such loan is outstanding and unpaid.

Section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, provides further that in no case shall the aggregate amount of advances made thereunder to any one corporation and its subsidiary or affiliated organizations exceed at any one time 2⅝ percent of the authorized capital stock of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, plus the aggregate amount of bonds authorized to be outstanding when the capital stock is fully subscribed. Such limitation, however, does not apply to advances to receivers or other liquidating agents of closed banks when made for the purpose of liquidation or reorganization.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR PREFERRED STOCK OF NATIONAL OR STATE BANKS OR TRUST COMPANIES, LOANS SECURED BY SUCH STOCK AS COLLATERAL, OR PURCHASES OF CAPITAL NOTES OR DEBENTURES OF STATE BANKS OR TRUST COMPANIES

Pursuant to the provisions of section 304 of an act approved March 9, 1933, as amended, the corporation is authorized to subscribe for preferred stock, exempt from double liability, in any National or State bank or trust company, upon the request of the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President. The corporation also is authorized to make loans secured by the preferred stock of National or State banks or trust companies as collateral, upon the request of the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President.

In any case in which a State bank or trust company is not permitted, under the laws of the State in which it is located, to issue preferred stock exempt from double liability, or if such laws permit such issue of preferred stock only by unanimous consent of stockholders, the corporation is authorized to purchase the legally issued capital notes or debentures of such State bank or trust company.

SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR PREFERRED STOCK AND PURCHASES OF CAPITAL NOTES, ETC., OF INSURANCE COMPANIES, AND LOANS SECURED BY SUCH STOCK OR NOTES, ETC., AS COLLATERAL

Pursuant to the provisions of an act approved June 10, 1933, as amended, the corporation is authorized, upon the request of the Secretary of the Treasury with the approval of the President, to subscribe for preferred stock of any class, exempt from assessment or additional liability, in any insurance company of any State of the United States which is in need of funds for capital purposes either in connection with the organization of such company or otherwise, or to make loans secured by such stock as collateral.

In the event that any such insurance company shall be incorporated under the laws of any State which does not permit it to issue preferred stock exempt from assessment or additional liability, or if such laws permit such issue of preferred stock only by unanimous consent of stockholders, or upon notice of more than 20 days, or if the insurance company is a mutual organization without capital stock, the corporation is authorized, for the purposes indicated above, to purchase the legally issued capital notes of such insurance company, or, if the company is a mutual organization without capital stock, such other form or forms of indebtedness as the laws of the State under which such company is organized permit, or to make loans secured by such notes or such other form or forms of indebtedness as collateral, which may be subordinated in whole or in part or to any degree to claims of other creditors.

The corporation may not subscribe for any such preferred stock or purchase any such capital notes or make loans upon such stock or notes of any applicant insurance company: (1) If at the time of such subscription, purchase, or loan, any officer, director, or employee of the applicant is receiving total compensation, including any salary, fee, bonus, commission, or other payment, direct or indirect, in money or otherwise, for personal services, in a sum in excess of $17,500 per annum from the applicant and/or any of its affiliates; and (2) unless at such time the applicant agrees to the satisfaction of the corporation not to increase the compensation of any of its officers, directors, or employees, except with the consent of the corporation and in no event to an amount exceeding $17,500 per annum, so long as preferred stock or capital notes, etc., are held by the corporation.

The total amount of loans outstanding, preferred stock subscribed for, and capital notes and such other form or forms of indebtedness purchased and held by the corporation pursuant to the aforesaid provisions of law relaing to insurance companies may not exceed $50,000,000 at any one time.

LOANS TO INDUSTRIAL OR COMMERCIAL BUSINESS DIRECT, OR IN CONJUNCTION WITH BANKS AND OTHER LENDING INSTITUTIONS

For the purpose of maintaining and increasing the employment of labor, when credit at prevailing bank rates for the character of loans applied for is not otherwise available at banks, the corporation is authorized, pursuant to the provisions of section 5d of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, to make loans to any industrial or commercial business, which shall include the fishing industry, established prior to January 1, 1934. Such loans shall in the opinion of the board of directors of the corporation be adequately secured, may be made directly, or in cooperation with banks or other lending institutions, or by the purchase of participations, shall have maturities not to exceed 5 years, shall be made only when deemed to offer reasonable assurance of continued or increased employment of labor, shall be made only when, in the opinion of the board of directors of the corporation, the borrower is solvent, shall not exceed $300,000,000 in aggregate amount at any one time outstanding, and shall be subject to such terms, conditions, and restrictions as the board of directors of the corporation may determine. The aggregate amount of loans to any one borrower under such section 5d may not exceed $500,000.

LOANS TO OR FOR THE BENEFIT OF CERTAIN AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICTS, ETC., TO REDUCE AND REFINANCE OUTSTANDING INDEBTEDNESS, ETC.

Section 36 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, as amended, authorizes the corporation to make loans, not to exceed $125,000,000 in the aggregate, to or for the benefit of drainage districts, levee districts, levee and drainage districts, irrigation districts, and similar districts, mutual nonprofit companies and incorporated water users' associations duly organized under the laws of any State and to or for the benefit of political subdivisions of States, which prior to May 12, 1933 (the date on which the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933 became law), have completed economically sound projects devoted chiefly to the improvement of land for agricultural purposes. Such loans shall be made for the following purposes:

1. To enable an applicant to reduce and refinance its outstanding indebtedness incurred in connection with its project;
2. To enable an applicant (irrespective of whether or not it has any outstanding indebtedness) to purchase or otherwise acquire in connection with its project, storage reservoirs, or dams or sites therefor or additional water rights or canals, ditches, or rights-of-way for the conduct of water or other works or appurtenances necessary for the delivery of water. Such loans shall only be made, however, if such purchase or acquisition is not intended to bring additional lands into production;
3. To enable an applicant, to whom a loan has been authorized for any of the purposes mentioned above, to make such repairs and necessary extensions or improvements to its project, as are necessary or desirable for the proper functioning of its project or for the further assurance of its ability to repay such loan. Such loans shall only be made, however, if such repairs and necessary extensions or improvements are not designed to bring new lands into production; and shall be subject, with certain exceptions, to the same terms and conditions as loans under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended.

LOANS UPON OR PURCHASE OF THE ASSETS OF CLOSED BANKS

Section 5e (a) of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, authorizes the corporation to make loans upon or purchase the assets of any bank, savings bank, or trust company, which has been closed on or after December 31, 1929, and prior to January 1, 1934, and the affairs of which have not been fully liquidated or wound up, upon such terms and conditions as the corporation may by regulations prescribe. This section also makes provision for loans upon or purchase by the corporation of the assets of closed banks which have been trusteed or are otherwise held for the benefit of depositors or depositors and others.

MINING LOANS

Section 14 of the act approved June 19, 1934, authorizes the corporation to make loans upon adequate security, based on mineral acreage, to recognized and established incorporated agencies, individuals, and partnerships engaged in the business of mining, milling, or smelting of ores.

LOANS TO MANAGING AGENCIES OF FARMERS' COOPERATIVE MINERAL RIGHTS POOLS

Pursuant to the provisions of section 13 of the act approved June 19, 1934, the corporation is authorized to make loans upon full and adequate security, based on mineral acreage, to recognized and established incorporated managing agencies of farmers' cooperative mineral rights pools for the purpose of defraying the cost of organizing such pools.

LOANS FOR THE PAYMENT OF TEACHERS' SALARIES

Under the provisions of section 16 of the act approved June 19, 1934, the corporation is authorized to make loans upon full and adequate security, to public-school districts or other similar public-school authorities organized pursuant to State law, for the purpose of payment of teachers' salaries due prior to June 1, 1934. The aggregate amount of such loans at any time outstanding shall not exceed $75,000,000.

LOANS TO THE FISHING INDUSTRY

By section 15 of the act approved June 19, 1934, the corporation is authorized to make loans under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, to any person, association, or corporation organized under the laws of any State, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, or Puerto Rico, for the purpose of financing the production, storage, handling, packing, processing, carrying and/or orderly marketing of fish of American fisheries and/or products thereof.

LOANS TO NONPROFIT CORPORATIONS FOR THE REPAIR OF DAMAGES CAUSED BY FLOODS OR OTHER CATASTROPHES

Pursuant to the provisions of the act approved April 13, 1934, the corporation is authorized to make loans, upon terms and conditions specified therein and not to exceed $5,000,000 in the aggregate, to nonprofit corporations, with or without capital stock, organized for the purpose of financing the acquisition of home or building sites in replacement of sites formerly occupied by buildings where such sites are declared by public authority to be unsafe by reason of flood, danger of flood, or earthquake, and for the purpose of financing the repair or construction of buildings or structures, or water, irrigation, gas, electric, sewer, drainage, flood-control, communication or transportation systems, damaged or destroyed by earthquake, conflagration, tornado, cyclone, or flood in the year 1933, and in the months of January and February 1934, and deemed by the corporation to be economically useful or necessary.

LOANS FOR THE CARRYING AND ORDERLY MARKETING OF AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES AND LIVESTOCK

Under section 201 (d) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, the corporation is authorized to make loans to bona fide institutions, organized under the laws of any State or of the United States and having resources adequate for their undertakings, for the purpose of enabling them to finance the carrying and orderly marketing of agricultural commodities and livestock produced in the United States. All such loans are required to be fully and adequately secured.

SELF-LIQUIDATING LOANS UNDER SECTION 201 (A) OF THE EMERGENCY RELIEF AND CONSTRUCTION ACT OF 1932, AS AMENDED

The power of the corporation to make self-liquidating loans or contracts, etc., under section 201 (a) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended, was terminated at the close of June 26, 1933, pursuant to the provisions of section 301 of the National Industrial Recovery Act, which created the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. The functions of the corporation in this field were superseded by the functions of that Administration. Section 301 of the National Industrial Recovery Act provides, however, that the corporation may issue funds to a borrower under section 201 (a) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended, prior to January 23, 1939, under the terms of any agreement or any commitment to bid upon or purchase bonds entered into with such borrower pursuant to an application approved prior to the date of termination of the power of the corporation to approve applications under such section.

Section 301 of the National Industrial Recovery Act, as amended by the act approved June 19, 1934, provides that in connection with any loan or contract or any commitment to make a loan entered into by the corporation prior to June 26, 1933, to aid in financing part or all of the construction cost of projects pursuant to the provisions of section 201 (a) (1) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended, the corporation may make such further loans and contracts, subject to all the terms and conditions set forth in the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended, for the completion of any such project, or for improvements, additions, extensions, or equipment which are necessary or desirable for the proper functioning of any such project, or which will materially increase the assurance that the borrower will be able to repay the entire investment of the corporation in such project, including such improvements, additions, extensions, or equipment.

LOANS FOR THE EXPORTATION OF AGRICULTURAL OR OTHER PRODUCTS

Under section 5a of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, the corporation is authorized, subject to specified limitations, to accept drafts and bills of exchange drawn upon it, which grow out of transactions involving the exportation of agricultural or other products actually sold or transported for sale subsequent to the enactment of the law, and in process of shipment to buyers in foreign countries.

Under section 201 (c) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, the corporation is authorized to make loans for the purpose of financing sales of surpluses of agricultural products in the markets of foreign countries in which such sales cannot be financed in the normal course of commerce, in order that such surpluses may not have a depressing effect upon current prices of such products; but it is stipulated that no such sales shall be financed by the corporation if, in its judgment, such sales will affect adversely the world markets for such products, and that no such loan may be made to finance the sale in the markets of foreign countries of cotton owned by the Federal Farm Board or the Cotton Stabilization Corporation.

OTHER LOANS AND ADVANCES

UNDER SECTION 5 OF THE RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION ACT, AS AMENDED

The corporation is authorized to make loans under section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, upon full and adequate security to any State insurance fund established or created by the laws of any State (including Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico), for the purpose of paying or insuring payment of compensation to injured workmen and those disabled as a result of disease contracted in the course of their employment, or to their dependents; to any fund created by any State (including Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico), for the purpose of insuring the repayment of deposits of public moneys of such State, or any of its political subdivisions, in banks or depositories qualified under the law of such State to receive such deposits; to parties to any marketing agreement entered into by the Secretary of Agriculture with processors, producers, associations or producers, and others engaged in the handling, in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, of any agricultural commodity or product thereof, for the purpose of carrying out any such agreement, as authorized by section 8 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended; processors or distributors of agricultural commodities for the payment of processing and compensating taxes and taxes on floor stocks levied pursuant to the provisions of title I of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, as authorized by section 19 (c) thereof.

LOANS AND ADVANCES TO THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

Under the provisions of section 5 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, the corporation is authorized and directed to advance money and to make loans to the Secretary of Agriculture to acquire (a) all cotton owned by the Federal Farm Board and all departments or other agencies of the Government, not including the Federal intermediate credit banks, and (b) all cotton on which money has been loaned or advanced by any department or agency of the United States, including futures contracts for cotton, or which is held as collateral for loans or advances.

LOANS TO RECEIVERS APPOINTED UNDER SECTION 29 OF THE FEDERAL FARM LOAN ACT, AS AMENDED, OR BY A UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

Section 27 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, as amended, authorizes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with the approval of the Land Bank Commissioner, to make loans to any receiver appointed pursuant to section 29 of the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended, or to any receiver appointed by a district court of the United States for the purpose of paying taxes on farm real estate owned by the bank or securing the mortgages held by it.

LOANS TO THE CORPORATION OF FOREIGN SECURITY HOLDERS

The Corporation of Foreign Bondholders Act, 1933, which is not to take effect until the President finds that such action is in the public interest and by proclamation so declares, creates a body corporate with the name "Corporation of Foreign Security Holders" for the purpose of protecting, conserving, and advancing the interests of the holders of foreign securities in default. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to loan not to exceed $75,000 for the use of the Corporation of Foreign Security Holders.

ADVANCES TO THE RECLAMATION FUND

Section 37 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933 authorizes the corporation, upon request of the Secretary of the Interior, to advance funds to the reclamation fund created by the act of June 17, 1902, not exceeding $5,000,000 for the completion of projects or divisions of projects now under construction, or projects approved and authorized.

PURCHASE OF MARKETABLE SECURITIES FROM THE FEDERAL EMERGENCY ADMINISTRATION OF PUBLIC WORKS

The corporation is authorized, pursuant to the provisions of title II of the Emergency Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1935, to purchase marketable securities, satisfactory to the corporation, acquired or to be acquired by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works. The amount that the corporation may have invested at any one time in such securities shall not exceed $250,000,000.

PURCHASE OF DEBENTURES OR OBLIGATIONS OF THE FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

Section 5e (b) of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, authorizes the corporation to purchase at par value such debentures or other obligations of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation as are authorized to be issued under subsection (o) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, upon the request of the board of directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, whenever in the judgment of said board additional funds are required for insurance purposes. The corporation may not purchase or hold at any time said debentures or other obligations in excess of $250,000,000 par value.

FUNDS OF RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION ALLOCATED AND MADE AVAILABLE TO OTHER GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE AND FARM CREDIT ADMINISTRATION

Under section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, the corporation was authorized to allocate and make available to the Secretary of Agriculture a certain part of its funds in order to enable the Secretary to make loans to farmers for crop production purposes during 1932. Pursuant to the provisions of section 201 (e) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, the corporation paid for the capital stock of the regional agricultural credit corporations, created by it under such section 201 (e), out of the unexpended balance of the amounts allocated and made available to the Secretary of Agriculture under section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act. By the act approved February 4, 1933, the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture was extended with respect to the use of funds allocated and made available to him by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation so as to enable him to make loans, within certain limitations, to farmers during 1933.

The funds made available and allocated under the foregoing provisions of law were transferred to and vested in the Farm Credit Administration by the Executive order of March 27, 1933, and to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration by section 5 of the Farm Credit Act of 1933, as amended.

LAND BANK COMMISSIONER

The corporation is authorized, under section 30 (a) of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, to make available to the Land Bank Commissioner the sum of $100,000,000, to be used for a period not exceeding 2 years from the date of the enactment of such act, i. e., May 12, 1933, for the purpose of making loans to joint-stock land banks.

Under section 32 of the same act, the corporation is authorized also to allocate and make available to the Land Bank Commissioner the sum of $200,000,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be used for the purpose of making loans to farmers.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY RELIEF ADMINISTRATOR

Section 2 (a) of the Federal Emergency Relief Act of 1933 authorized the corporation to make available not to exceed $500,000,000, for expenditure in accordance with the terms stated in the act, upon certification by the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator, for the purpose of furnishing relief to needy and distressed people.

FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATOR

Section 4 of the National Housing Act provides that the corporation shall make available to the Federal Housing Administrator such funds as he may deem necessary for the purposes of carrying out the provisions of Titles I, II, and III of such act.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

Section 6 (f) of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act amended the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act to provide that $125,000,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose, be allocated and made available by the corporation to the Secretary of the Treasury in order to enable him to pay for the capital stock of Federal Home Loan Banks subscribed for by the United States.

Section 4 (b) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 authorizes and directs the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to allocate and make available to the Secretary of the Treasury the sum of $200,000,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in order to enable him to make payments for subscriptions for the capital stock of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, created by such act.

FUNDS OF THE RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION

CAPITAL STOCK

The capital stock of the corporation was fixed by section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act at $500,000,000, all of which was subscribed by the Secretary of the Treasury on behalf of the Government of the United States on February 2, 1932. The entire capital stock has been paid in by the Secretary of the Treasury and is held by the United States.

ISSUE OF NOTES, DEBENTURES, BONDS, OR OTHER SUCH OBLIGATIONS

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended by the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, authorizes the corporation, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue, and to have outstanding at any one time, its notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations in an amount aggregating not more than six and three-fifths times its subscribed capital stock.

However, the National Industrial Recovery Act, which terminated the power of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make loans or contracts to finance self-liquidating projects, etc., under the provisions of section 201 (a) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended, provides that the amount of notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to have outstanding at any one time is decreased $400,000,000. On the other hand, the amount of notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations which the corporation is authorized to issue and have outstanding at any one time is increased by the provisions of other laws, as follows:

(a) By an amount not to exceed $125,000,000, in order to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to make payments for subscriptions for capital stock of the Federal Home Loan Banks, as provided in section 6 (f) of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act.

(b) By such amount as may be necessary—

(1) To enable the corporation to subscribe for preferred stock of National or State banks or trust companies, to make loans secured by such stock as collateral, and to purchase capital notes or debentures of State banks or trust companies, as provided by section 304 of an act approved March 9, 1933, as amended.

(2) To enable the corporation to make loans to the Secretary of Agriculture upon cotton in his possession or control, as provided by section 5 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended.

(3) To provide funds for the Federal Housing Administrator to enable him to carry out the provisions of titles I, II, and III of the National Housing Act, as provided by section 4 of said act.

(c) By an amount not to exceed $50,000,000 to enable the corporation to subscribe for preferred stock, to purchase capital notes of insurance companies, and to make loans secured by such stock or notes as collateral, as provided by the act approved June 10, 1933, as amended.

(d) By $500,000,000 to enable the Federal Emergency Relief Administrator to make grants to States and Territories (including Alaska, Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico) and the District of Columbia to aid in meeting the costs of furnishing relief and work relief and in relieving the hardship and suffering caused by unemployment, as provided by the Federal Emergency Relief Act of 1933; and to make such expenditures, not to exceed $350,000, as are necessary to carry out the provisions thereof.

(e) By $300,000,000 in order to provide funds for allocation to the Land Bank Commissioner for the purpose of making loans to joint-stock land banks and to farmers, as provided by the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, as amended.

(f) By an amount not to exceed $200,000,000 in order to provide funds for allocation to the Secretary of the Treasury for the purpose of making payments for subscriptions for the capital stock of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, as provided by section 4 (b) of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933.

(g) By $850,000,000, as provided by section 3 of the act approved January 20, 1934.

(h) By an amount not to exceed $250,000,000 at any one time for the purchase at par value of debentures and other obligations of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, as provided by section 5e (b) of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended.

(i) By an amount not to exceed $250,000,000 at any one time for the purchase of marketable securities acquired or to be acquired by the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, as provided by title II of the Emergency Appropriation Act, fiscal year 1935.

Notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations issued by the corporation, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, are to mature not more than 5 years from their respective dates of issue, to be redeemable at the option of the corporation before maturity in such manner as may be stipulated in such obligations, and to bear such rate or rates of interest as may be determined by the corporation. The corporation, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, also may sell on a discount basis short-term obligations payable at maturity without interest. The law provides that the notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations of the corporation shall be fully and unconditionally guaranteed both as to interest and principal by the United States and such guaranty shall be expressed on the face thereof. The Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, is authorized to purchase any obligations of the corporation which may be issued pursuant to the provisions of the law, and may, at any time, sell any of the obligations of the corporation acquired by him. He is further authorized, at the request of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to market for the coroporation its notes, debentures, bonds, and other such obligations, using therefor all the facilities of the Treasury Department authorized by law for the marketing of obligations of the United States. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, also provides that any and all notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations issued by the corporation shall be exempt both as to principal and interest from all taxation (except surtaxes, estate, inheritance, and gift taxes) at any time imposed by the United States, by any Territory, dependency, or possession thereof, or by any State, county, municipality, or local taxing authority.

REGIONAL AGRICULTURAL CREDIT CORPORATIONS

An Executive order issued on March 27, 1933, effective on May 27, 1933, transferred the management and functions, records, equipment, and personnel of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporations from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the jurisdiction and control of the Farm Credit Administration. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation will continue to pay all expenses incurred in connection with the operations of these corporations, and to rediscount paper for them, as provided in section 201 (e) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932.

FUNDS FOR RELIEF OF DESTITUTION

The power of the corporation to make funds available to States and Territories under section 1 of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932 for the relief of destitution was terminated at the close of June 1, 1933, pursuant to section 2 (c) of the Federal Emergency Relief Act of 1933, which created the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

REPORTS

QUARTERLY REPORTS

Section 15 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act provides that the corporation shall make and publish a report quarterly of its operations to the Congress stating the aggregate loans made to each of the classes of borrowers provided for and the number of borrowers by States (including the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico) in each class. The law further provides that the statement shall show the assets and liabilities of the corporation and the names and compensation of all persons employed by the corporation whose compensation exceeds $400 per month.

MONTHLY REPORTS

Under section 201 (b) of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, the corporation is required to submit monthly to the President and to the Senate and the House of Representatives (or the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House of Representatives, if those bodies are not in session) a report of its activities and expenditures under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act and under section 201 of the Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, together with a statement showing the names of the borrowers to whom loans and advances were made, and the amount and rate of interest involved in each case.

FARM CREDIT ADMINISTRATION

By Executive order promulgated by the President and submitted to Congress on March 27, 1933, the following Government agencies and functions were consolidated into a single agency known as the Farm Credit Administration:

Federal Farm Board,
Federal Farm Loan Bureau,
Regional Agricultural Credit Corporations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Crop Production Loan Office, and Seed Loan Office of the Department of Agriculture, and also the functions of the Secretary of Agriculture under all provisions of law relating to the making of advances or loans to agricultural producers. The order became effective May 27, 1933.

In the Farm Credit Administration the operations of the Federal land banks, the national farm loan associations, and the joint stock land banks (including the joint stock land banks in receivership), are under the supervision of the Land Bank Commissioner, while the Federal intermediate credit banks are under the supervision of the Intermediate Credit Commissioner. The Farm Credit Administration is authorized to make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, and to exercise such incidental powers as it deems necessary or requisite to fulfill its duties and carry out the purposes of the Federal Farm Loan Act and the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Credits Act of 1923, the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933, and the Farm Credit Act of 1933.

The Farm Credit Act of 1933 authorized the formation of production credit corporations and associations, and of banks for cooperatives. The production credit corporations and associations are under supervision of the Production Credit Commissioner, and the banks for cooperatives are under the supervision of the Cooperative Bank Commissioner. The actions of all the commissioners are under the jurisdiction and control of the Farm Credit Administration.

Under the President's Executive order of March 27, 1933, the administration of emergency crop loans was transferred from the Department of Agriculture to the Farm Credit Administration. The act of Congress approved February 23, 1934, authorized the sum of $40,000,000 to be appropriated for use in making such loans during 1934. The Production Credit Commissioner has been given the responsibility of supervising this fund. Emergency crop loans will be made from the $40,000,000 appropriation only to those applicants who do not have security acceptable to any other lending agencies. If a farmer applicant has adequate security, he is eligible to receive credit for production purposes from a local Production Credit Association created under the Farm Credit Act of 1933.

The Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation was created by an act of Congress, approved January 31, 1934, to aid in financing the lending operations of the Federal land banks, particularly the farm debt refinancing program begun in the spring of 1933. The corporation has its principal office in Washington, D. C. and is managed by a board of directors consisting of the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, who is chairman of the board; the Secretary of the Treasury or a Treasury officer designated by him; and the Land Bank Commissioner. To carry out its purposes of assisting in financing lending operations through the Federal land banks, the corporation is authorized to issue bonds and have outstanding at any one time a total of not more than $2,000,000,000 of such bonds. These bonds are guaranteed fully and unconditionally as to principal and interest by the Government of the United States and the guaranty is expressed on the face of the bonds. The Corporation has a capital of about $200,000,000, and its resources include the consolidated bonds of the Federal land banks taken in exchange for the Corporation's bonds, and the farm mortgages accepted by the Land Bank Commissioner. All assets of the Corporation, of course, will be available for the payment of the bonds.

The Governor of the Farm Credit Administration is authorized to charter and supervise Federal credit unions, cooperative associations which may be organized in accordance with the Federal Credit Union Act for the purpose of promoting thrift among their members and providing a source of credit for provident or productive purposes.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY RELIEF ADMINISTRATION

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration was created by act of Congress approved May 12, 1933. (Public, No. 15, 73d Cong.) The act provides for cooperation by the Federal Government with the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia "in relieving the hardship and suffering caused by unemployment, and for other purposes."

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration also administers the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation.

CENTRAL STATISTICAL BOARD

The Central Statistical Board was established by Executive Order No. 6225, July 27, 1933, "to formulate standards for and to effect coordination of the statistical services of the Federal Government incident to the purposes * * * of the National Industrial Recovery Act." Under Executive Order No. 6700 the Board's powers are redefined, and it is authorized to concern itself with both Federal and non-Federal statistical services which are useful for carrying out the purposes of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

The duties of the Board are:

(1) To improve the accuracy and adequacy of available information and to promote the development of new information when needed.

(2) To promote the comparability of data gathered by different agencies and to encourage the use of information available from various sources in the interpreting of statistics.

(3) To discourage unnecessary inquiries and unnecessary duplications in the solicitation of information, and to promote economy in the organization and conduct of the statistical services of the Federal Government.

The Board performs these duties through the following activities:

(1) Review and advice upon plans for the collection and tabulation of data.

(2) Review and advice upon statistical publications and releases of the Federal Government.

(3) Investigations of (a) the methods employed by the various statistical agencies and (b) the organization of any phase of statistical work common to two or more of the various Federal statistical agencies.

(4) Assistance in planning and developing new services needed to fill important gaps in available information.

(5) Preparation of information designed to keep the various Federal statistical agencies in touch with one another.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY ADMINISTRATION OF PUBLIC WORKS

The Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works was created by the act of Congress approved June 16, 1933. (Public, No. 67, 73d Cong.)

The act provides for construction of certain useful public works and the creation of an Administration of Public Works to carry out this program authorized in Title II of the act.

The duties of the Public Works Administration may be summarized as follows:

1. To prepare a comprehensive program of public works which shall include the construction, repair, and improvement of public parks and highways, public buildings, publicly owned instrumentalities, and facilities; conservation and development of natural resources; any project of a public character normally carried on directly by public authority or with public aid to serve the interests of the general public; construction and reconstruction, alteration, repair under public regulations or control of low-cost housing and slum-clearance projects; any project of any character heretofore eligible for loans under subsection (a) of section 201 of Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932, as amended.

2. To construct, finance or aid in the construction or financing of any public works project included in this program.

3. To supervise the construction of approved projects coming within the above-mentioned program.

4. To be responsible for the enforcement of the provisions of Title II of the act as related to such projects.

NATIONAL RECOVERY ADMINISTRATION

The National Recovery Administration was created under Title I of an act of Congress approved June 16, 1933. (Public, No. 67, 73d Cong.). The act under Title I is designed to encourage national industrial recovery and to foster fair competition. In the declaration of policy, the act recognizes the existence of a national emergency productive of widespread unemployment and disorganization of industry, which burdens interstate and foreign commerce, affects the public welfare, and undermines the standards of living of the American people.

In order to effect the purposes of the act, the National Industrial Recovery Board has been appointed together with such advisory and administrative agencies as may be necessary to carry this out. The immediate machinery for accomplishing the purposes of this act is through the submission of codes of fair competition by associations in different trades or industries which will lead to the elimination of unfair trade practices and which will relieve unemployment through the shortening of weekly working hours and increasing purchasing power through increased minimum wages. Such codes of fair competition are expected to be submitted voluntarily by trades or industries. After a public hearing at which all interested parties shall be given an opportunity to express their views, and after the provisions of such code are considered by the advisory boards of the administration, they are approved by the President. After the effective date, the code becomes the law under which all members of the trade or industry shall operate. When no code has been submitted, any group within an industry may request the President to impose a code upon that industry, and after the same procedure has been followed and such code has been approved, it shall be binding with equal force. Penal provisions are provided to enforce compliance with codes of fair competition and the judicial branch of the Government is authorized to assist in the enforcement of codes.

The act shall cease to be in effect and the agencies established thereunder shall cease to exist at the expiration of two years after the date of enactment of this act, or sooner if the President shall by proclamation or the Congress shall by joint resolution declare that the emergency recognized by the act has ended.

FEDERAL ALCOHOL CONTROL ADMINISTRATION

The Federal Alcohol Control Administration was established by Executive order of the President, to be composed of six persons designated by the President. The Federal Alcohol Control Administration is charged with the duty of carrying out the provisions of the six N.R.A. codes and the A.A.A. marketing agreement which have been signed by the President, to control the liquor traffic, and of making such interpretations of such provisions and regulations as it deems necessary.

COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

Commodity Credit Corporation was organized October 16, 1933, pursuant to an Executive order of that date. The capital stock is fixed at $3,000,000, and is owned jointly by the Secretary of Agriculture and the governor of the Farm Credit Administration for the use and benefit of the United States. Its affairs are managed by a board of nine directors, chosen by the stockholders.

The corporation has authority to buy, sell, and deal in agricultural and other commodities and to loan or borrow thereon; to assist in crop reduction and marketing programs; to store, handle, and process commodities of all kinds, and to do many other things in connection with existing relief plans.

FEDERAL AVIATION COMMISSION

The Federal Aviation Commission was established by an act of Congress (Public, No. 308, 73d Cong., S. 3170), "To revise air mail laws and to establish a commission to make a report to the Congress recommending an aviation policy." This act, approved June 12, 1934, authorized the President "to appoint a commission of five members—not more than three members to be appointed from any one political party—for the purpose of making an immediate study and survey, and to report to Congress not later than February 1, 1935, its recommendations of a broad national policy covering all phases of aviation and the relation of the United States thereto." Sections 20 and 21 of the aforementioned act also authorize the commission itself to subpena witnesses and to take testimony pertaining to such matters as are within the jursidiction of its body.

FOREIGN-TRADE ZONES BOARD

The Foreign-Trade Zones Board was created by an act of Congress approved June 18, 1934. The board is composed of the Secretary of Commerce, chairman, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of War.

Its duties are (1), after careful analysis of applications and investigations, to issue permits to public and private corporations for the privilege of establishing, operating, and maintaining foreign-trade zones in ports of entry of the United States for the purpose of expediting and encouraging foreign commerce, and (2) to administer the law governing the operation of such zones.

Foreign-trade zones as contemplated in the present act are designed primarily in the interest of our reexport trade. Within the zone, which is a segregated, enclosed, and policed area, commodities are substantially free from usual customs regulations, and a considerable degree of freedom is allowed in the handling of such goods within the zone, as, for example, repacking, re-sorting, mixing, and other types of manipulation; it should be noted that exhibiting and manufacturing are not permitted within the zone.

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF WASHINGTON

SECOND EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF WASHINGTON, D. C.

Export-Import Bank of Washington is a banking corporation organized under the Code of the District of Columbia pursuant to Executive order of the President of the United States, dated February 2, 1934. The initial capital stock was fixed at $11,000,000. Common capital stock in the amount of $1,000,000 is held by the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Commerce, and the individual members of the board of trustees for the use and benefit of the United States. Preferred capital stock in the amount of $10,000,000 is owned by Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The affairs of the bank are managed by a board of nine trustees.

Second Export-Import Bank of Washington, D. C., is a banking corporation organized under the Code of the District of Columbia pursuant to an Executive order of the President of the United States, dated March 9, 1934. The initial capital stock was fixed at $2,750,000. Common capital stock in the amount of $250,000 is held by the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Commerce, and the individual members of the board of trustrees for the use and benefit of the United States. Preferred capital stock in the amount of $2,500,000 is owned by Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The affairs of the bank are managed by a board of nine trustees.

The banks are agencies established by the President of the United States to effectuate the policy of Congress as declared in section 1 of title I of the National Industrial Recovery Act. The specific object and purpose for which they were formed is to aid in financing and to facilitate exports and imports and the exchange of commodities between the United States and other nations or the agencies or nationals thereof.

OFFICE OF THE SPECIAL ADVISER TO THE PRESIDENT ON FOREIGN TRADE

The Office of Special Adviser to the President on Foreign Trade was established by Executive Order No. 6651 of March 23, 1934.

By the terms of this Executive order the Special Adviser "is authorized to obtain, review, and coordinate the information, statistics, and data with reference to the foreign trade of the United States collected or prepared by any department or other establishment or agency of the Federal Government (hereinafter referred to as 'department or other agency'), or elsewhere."

The Special Adviser is also authorized to "carry on negotiations with respect to specific trade transactions with any individual, corporation, association, group, or business agency interested in obtaining assistance from the Federal Government through (1) financing transactions, (2) barter transactions, or (3) other forms of governmental participation authorized by law.

"The Special Adviser shall bring such proposals with respect to these transactions as seem meritorious to him before the departments or other agencies affected by or having an interest therein for appropriate action, and shall keep me advised concerning the action taken or proposed by such department or other agency."

The Special Adviser's office does not maintain any representatives outside Washington but relies for the information necessary to its purposes on the express request of the President in the above Executive order that "the departments and other agencies, including the Export-Import Banks, are hereby requested to make available to the Special Adviser (and whenever practicable in the form requested by him) their information, statistics, and data concerning foreign trade, to furnish their services and facilities and to cooperate with him to as full an extent as may be practicable in order to effectuate the purposes of this order."

The Special Adviser's office is represented on the various committees concerned with reciprocal tariff negotiations.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA ALLEY DWELLING AUTHORITY

The Alley Dwelling Authority was established under the terms of the District of Columbia Alley Dwelling Act, approved June 12, 1934 (Public, No. 307, 73d Cong.), and Executive Order No. 6868, October 9, 1934. The Executive order designated the following-named officials as the Authority to carry out the provisions of the act:

The chairman of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and the Director of Housing of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works.

The Alley Dwelling Authority is entrusted with the duty of providing for the discontinuance of the use as dwellings of buildings situated in alleys and for the elimination of the hidden communities in inhabited alleys of the District of Columbia.

Under the terms of the alley dwelling act, the Authority is empowered to acquire real property in squares containing inhabited alleys; to replat any land so acquired, and to install sewers, water mains, and street lights thereon; to demolish, move, or alter any structures thereon and to erect such structures as are deemed advisable; to rent, lease, maintain, equip, manage, exchange, sell, or convey any such lands or structures under such terms and conditions as the Authority may determine.

The Authority may transfer to the District government for public uses any land so acquired on payment to the Authority of the reasonable value of the property. The Authority also may make loans to limited dividend corporations and to home owners to enable them to acquire and develop sites on the property.

The Authority may acquire property through condemnation proceedings, either under the method provided by law for the acquisition of land in the District of Columbia for the use of the United States or under the plan embraced in the Code of Laws of the District of Columbia (sections 1608–1610, inclusive) with reference to alleys and minor streets.

For the purposes of the act, the Authority may borrow funds from individuals or private corporations on the security of property and assets acquired under the act.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES

The National Archives was created by act of Congress approved June 19, 1934 (Public, No. 432, 73d Cong.). The Archivist shall have superintendence over and be in charge of all archives or records belonging to the Government of the United States (legislative, executive, judicial, and other).

FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION

The Federal Housing Administration was established by an act of Congress approved June 27, 1934. The National Housing Act has five titles: (I) Housing Renovation and Modernization; (II) Mutual Mortgage Insurance; (III) National Mortgage Associations; (IV) Insurance of Savings and Loan Accounts; (V) Miscellaneous, consisting chiefly of amendments to the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, the Farm Credit Act of 1933, the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, and the Interstate Commerce Act.

There is no provision for the lending or expenditure of any Government money in the act except for administrative purposes and the insurance of loans made by private lending institutions.

The Administrator has direct charge of administering titles I, II, and III of the act. Title IV is administered by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation under direction of a board of trustees whose members are the members of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Under provisions of the act the President was authorized to create the Federal Housing Administration, all the power of which shall be exercised by the Federal Housing Administrator, appointed for a term of 4 years by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Under title I the Administrator is authorized to insure financial institutions which are approved by him as eligible for credit insurance against losses which they may sustain and purchases of obligations representing loans made after June 27, 1934, and before January 1, 1936, when the organic act expires, for the purpose of financing alterations, repairs, and improvements upon real property. The insurance for any institution is limited to not more than 20 percent of the total amount of the loans. The total liability which may be incurred by the Administrator for this purpose is limited to not more than $200,000,000, a sum sufficient to insure $1,000,000,000 of loans.

Under Title II the Administrator is authorized to insure mortgages obtained either for financing new home construction or for refinancing old mortgages on individual homes. To be eligible for insurance the principal obligation of a mortgage on an individual home must not exceed $16,000 or 80 percent of the appraised value of the property as of the date the mortgage is executed.

Low-cost housing projects are provided for in section 207 of Title II, which reads: "The Administrator may also insure first mortgages, other than mortgages defined in section 201 (a) of this title, covering property held by Federal or State instrumentalities, private limited dividend corporations, or municipal corporate instrumentalities of one or more States, formed for the purpose of providing housing for persons of low income which are regulated or restricted by law or by the Administrator as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, or methods of operation. Such mortgages shall contain terms, conditions, and provisions satisfactory to the Administrator, but need not conform to the eligibility requirements of section 203. Subject to the right of the Administrator to impose a premium charge in excess of, or less than, the amount specified for mortgages defined in section 201 (a), the provisions of sections 204 and 205 shall be applicable to mortgages insured under this section: Provided, That the insurance with respect to any low-cost housing project shall not exceed $10,000,000."

The principal obligation or mortgages on individual homes and low-cost housing projects existing prior to June 27, 1934, and insured under this title, is limited to $1,000,000,000. The principal obligation or mortgages on individual homes and low-cost housing projects for construction after June 27, 1934, and insured under this title, is limited to a like amount.

Under rules promulgated by the Administrator operative builders are empowered to operate under this act.

The Administrator does not lend the money on the mortgage, but insures the mortgage when presented by the mortgagee, which must be an institution having succession and approved by the Administrator.

Under Title III the Administrator is authorized to provide for the establishment of national mortgage associations, which shall be authorized to purchase and sell first mortgages and such other first liens as are commonly given to secure advances on real estate held in fee simple or under a lease for not less than 99 years, under the laws of the State in which the real estate is located, together with the credit instruments, if any, secured thereby, such mortgages not to exceed 80 per centum of the appraised value of the property as of the date the mortgage is purchased, and to borrow money for such purposes through the issuance of notes, bonds, debentures, or other such obligations. Each such association shall have a capital stock of a par value of not less than $5,000,000 subscribed for at not less than par and paid in full in cash or in Government securties. These associations shall be under the direct supervision of the Administrator.

RULES GOVERNING PRESS GALLERIES

1. Persons desiring admission to the press galleries of Congress shall make application to the Speaker, as required by Rule XXXV of the House of Representatives, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by Rule VI for the regulation of the Senate Wing of the Capitol; and shall state in writing the names of all newspapers or publications or news associations by which they are employed, and what other occupation or employment they may have, if any; and they shall further declare that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims pending before Congress or the departments, and will not become so engaged while allowed admission to the galleries; that they are not employed in any legislative or executive department of the Government, or by any foreign Government or any representative thereof; and that they are not employed, directly or indirectly, by any stock exchange, board of trade, or other organization, or member thereof, or brokerage house, or broker, engaged in the buying and selling of any security or commodity or by any person or corporation having legislation before Congress, and will not become so engaged while retaining membership in the galleries. Holders of visitor's cards who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to the restrictions of this rule.

2. The applications required by the above rule shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the standing committee of correspondents who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide correspondents of reputable standing in their business, who represent daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service; and it shall be the duty of the standing committee at their discretion, to report violation of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker, or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and pending action thereon the offending correspondent may be suspended.

3. Persons engaged in other occupations whose chief attention is not given to newspaper correspondence or to newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service shall not be entitled to admission to the press galleries; and the Press List in the CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY shall be a list only of persons whose chief attention is given to telegraphic correspondence for daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service.

4. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to the privileges of the galleries.

5. The press galleries shall be under the control of the standing committee of correspondents, subject to the approval and supervision of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Senate Committee on Rules.

Approved.
