³ Elected to count the vote for President and Vice President, which was done Apr. 6, 1789, a quorum of the Senate then appearing for the first time. John Adams, Vice President, appeared Apr. 21, 1789, and took his seat as President of the Senate.

⁴ Elected Speaker pro tempore for Apr. 20, 1798, and again for May 28, 1798.

Ninth—Alabama, 1; Colorado, 1; Florida, 1; Indiana, 1; Louisiana, 1; New Hampshire, 1; New York, 1; Pennsylvania, 3; Tennessee, 1; Vermont, 1. Tenth—Idaho, 1; Montana, 1; North Dakota, 1; South Dakota, 2; Washington, 1; Wyoming, 1. Eleventh—Utah, 1. Twelfth—Oklahoma, 5. Thirteenth—Arizona, 1; New Mexico, 1.

NOTE.—The apportionment based on the Sixteenth Census (1940) distributes the 435 seats in the House among the States according to the method of equal proportions. By this method the percent difference between the average number of Representatives per million people in any 2 States is made as small as possible. Also, the percent difference between the average districts, i. e., the average number of persons per Representative, in any 2 States is made as small as possible. By equalizing the representation of all pairs of States, the method gives as nearly equal representation as possible to all States in proportion to their population.

CAPITOL BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS

THE CAPITOL

This building is situated on a plateau 88 feet above the level of the Potomac River and covers an area of 153,112 square feet, or approximately $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres. Its length, from north to south, is 751 feet 4 inches; its width, including approaches, is 350 feet; and its location is described as being in latitude $38^{\circ}53'20.4''$ north and longitude $77^{\circ}00'35.7''$ west from Greenwich. Its height above the base line on the east front to the top of the Statue of Freedom is 287 feet $5\frac{1}{2}$ inches. The dome is built of iron, and the aggregate weight of material used in its construction is 8,909,200 pounds.

The Statue of Freedom surmounting the dome is entirely of bronze and weighs 14,985 pounds. It was modeled by Thomas Crawford, father of Francis Marion Crawford, the novelist, in Rome, Italy, and the plaster model shipped to this country. It was cast in bronze at the shops of Clark Mills, on the Bladensburg Road, not far from the city of Washington. The cost of the bronze casting and the expenses in connection therewith were $20,796.82, and, as the sculptor Crawford was paid $3,000 for the plaster model, the entire cost of the statue was $23,796.82. It was erected and placed in its present position December 2, 1863.

SELECTION OF A SITE FOR THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

It may seem strange that, in the selection of the 10 miles square for the territory in which the National Capital should find a home, a locality was selected with but a meager population. It may have been the intent to found a capital which should develop its own particular surroundings instead of attempting to conform with conditions then existing. But the principal reason was the lesson learned from European experiences, where the location of the country's capital in a large city offered an opportunity for the coercion of legislators by the citizens of the capital. From the inception of the Continental Congress, either through necessity or voluntarily, it had moved from Philadelphia to Baltimore, Lancaster, York, Princeton, Annapolis, Trenton, and New York City. Philadelphia seems to have been the favorite location, and it was from this city that the Federal Congress, organized in New York City, took up its abode until its removal to Washington in the year 1800.

The original 10 miles square was formed from territory donated by Virginia and Maryland, and the cornerstone was erected and fixed on April 15, 1791, at Hunters Point, just south of Alexandria, Va. This area remained intact until the year 1846, when the Congress transferred to Virginia the portion furnished by that State.

PLANS FOR THE CAPITOL BUILDING

Following the selection of a site for the Capital, some little time elapsed before advertisements appeared offering a prize of $500, or a medal of the same value, to be awarded for the "most approved plan" for a Capitol Building. Some 14 plans were submitted—some writers claim 16—but of these plans none was wholly satisfactory. In October 1792, Dr. William Thornton, a versatile physician of Tortola, West Indies, requested by letter an opportunity to present a plan as within the terms of the original advertisement. The request was granted and his plan accepted by the commissioners on April 5, 1793.

Affairs seemed to move rapidly in those days, for on September 18, 1793, the cornerstone was laid with Masonic ceremonies in the southeast corner of the north section of the building. Thornton's plan provided for a central section nearly square in area, surmounted by a low dome, this central section to be flanked on the north and south by rectangular buildings, with a length of 126 feet and a width of 120 feet. The northern wing was the first completed, and in this small building the legislative and judicial branches of the Government, as well as the courts of the District of Columbia, were accommodated at the time of the removal of the Government from Philadelphia in the year 1800.

BUILDING OF THE CAPITOL

In the development of the accepted plans of Dr. William Thornton in the erection of the first unit of the building—the previous Supreme Court section—three architects were employed—Stephen H. Hallett, George Hadfield, and James Hoban, the architect of the White House. The erection of the southern section of the Capitol, which is now occupied by Statuary Hall, was under the charge of B. H. Latrobe, and in 1807 the House of Representatives, which had previously met in the former Supreme Court section of the Capitol and in a temporary brick building within the walls of the southern wing, known as the Oven, commenced the occupancy of this new legislative chamber. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811. A wooden passageway connected the two buildings. This condition existed when the interior of both buildings was burned by the British on August 24, 1814.

The work of reconstruction of the damaged interiors was commenced by B. H. Latrobe, who continued the work of restoration until December 1817, when he resigned, and Charles Bulfinch, a prominent architect of Boston, Mass., continued the work of restoration and the erection of the central portion of the building, commencing in 1818 and continuing until its completion in 1829.

During the period of restoration and completion the Congress met, for its first session after the fire, in Blodget's Hotel at Seventh and E Streets, and soon thereafter in a building erected for that purpose on First Street NE., occupying a portion of the site now occupied by the United States Supreme Court Building. They continued this occupancy until 1819, when the Capitol was again ready for occupancy.

The original Capitol as completed was built of Aquia Creek (Va.) sandstone, procured from quarries owned by the Government. This structure was 352 feet 4 inches in length and 229 feet in depth. The central portion was surmounted by a low dome, and the sandstone interior was unchanged when the new dome was erected in a later period. The cost of this original building, including the grading of the grounds, repairs, etc., up to the year 1827, was $2,433,844.13.

Following the completion of the old Capitol in 1829 and the termination of the services of the architect, Charles Bulfinch, in 1830, such architectural services as were needed were performed by different architects until the year 1851, when the building of the present Senate and House wings was commenced, the plans of Thomas U. Walter having been selected in preference to others submitted. On July 4, 1851, the cornerstone of the extensions was laid in the northeast corner of the House wing. The oration was delivered by Daniel Webster, and his prophetic utterances on that occasion have been quoted many times. In the building of the Senate and House wings the exterior marble came from the quarries of Lee, Mass., and the columns from quarries of Cockeysville, Md.

This work was prosecuted under the architectural direction of Thomas U. Walter from 1851 to 1865 during his tenure as Architect of the Capitol, and thereafter certain uncompleted details were supervised by his successor, Edward Clark, whose term ran from 1865 to 1902. The present House Chamber was occupied for legislative purposes December 16, 1857, and the Senate Chamber January 4, 1859.

The addition of the Senate and House wings made the construction of a new dome necessary for the preservation of architectural symmetry. The dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, covered with copper. This was replaced in 1856 by the present structure of cast iron, completed in 1865. The greatest exterior diameter of the dome is 135 feet 5 inches. The rotunda is 97 feet in diameter, and its height from the floor to where the dome closes in at the base of the lantern is 180 feet 3 inches.

The Capitol has a floor area of 14 acres, and 432 rooms are devoted to office, committee, and storage purposes. There are 16,878 square feet of skylights, 679 windows, and 554 doorways. The dome receives light through 108 windows, and from the Architect's office to the top of the dome there are 365 steps, one for each day of the year.

CAPITOL GROUNDS

The original Capitol grounds were at one time a part of Cern Abby Manor and at an early date occupied by a subtribe of the Algonquin Indians known as the Powhatans, whose council house was then located at the foot of the hill.

These grounds, part of original reservation 2, were acquired under President Washington's proclamations of 1790 and 1797, for use as a site for the United States Capitol Building. These proclamations authorized the appropriation of all of reservation 2 which, in its entirety, included the "Capitol Square and the Mall east of Fifteenth Street West."

Additional ground (squares 687-688) was acquired under appropriations provided by Congress in 1872 and 1873 in order to obtain a better landscape surrounding in keeping with the Senate and House wings which had been added to the building since the acquisition of the original site. The purchase of this additional property completed the acquisition of the area known as the old section of the Capitol Grounds, totaling, in all, 58.8 acres.

In the immediately ensuing years, under a plan developed by Frederick Law Olmstead of New York, the terraces were built on the north, west, and south sides of the building and the entire grounds developed and improved.

During the period 1910-35 the Capitol Grounds were further enlarged and improved by the purchase, annexation, and development of 61.4 additional acres; and the addition of this new area to the 58.8 acres comprising the old grounds section gives a present total grounds area of 120.2 acres.

HOUSE OFFICE BUILDINGS

OLD BUILDING

An increased membership of the Senate and House resulted in a demand for additional rooms for the accommodation of the Senators and Representatives, and on March 3, 1903, the Congress authorized the erection of a fireproof office building for the use of the House Member as office and committee rooms. The first brick was laid July 5, 1905, in square No. 690, and formal exercises were held at the laying of the cornerstone on April 14, 1906, in which President Theodore Roosevelt participated. The building was completed and occupied January 10, 1908. A subsequent change in the basis of congressional representation made necessary the building of an additional story. The total cost of the building, including site, furnishings, equipment, and the subway connecting the House Office Building with the United States Capitol, amounted to $4,860,155. This office building contains 690 rooms, and was considered at the time of its completion fully equipped for all the needs of a modern building for office purposes.

NEW BUILDING

Under legislation contained in authorization act of January 10, 1929, and in the urgent deficiency bill of March 4, 1929, provisions were made for an additional House Office Building, to be located on the west side of New Jersey Avenue (opposite the first House Office Building).

The cornerstone was laid June 24, 1932, and the building was completed and ready for beneficial occupancy April 20, 1933. It contains 251 two-room suites. 16 committee rooms, each suite and committee room being provided with a storeroom. Eight floors are occupied by Members; the basement and sub-basement by shops and mechanics needed for the proper maintenance of the building. The cost of this building, including site, furnishings, and equipment, was $7,805,705.

SENATE OFFICE BUILDING

The demand for a new building to be used for offices was greater for the Representatives, on account of the large number forming the membership of that body, and because the Members of the Senate were supplied with additional office space by the purchase of the Maltby Building, located on the northwest corner of B Street and New Jersey Avenue NW. However, the acquisition of this building supplied but a temporary purpose, and its condemnation as an unsafe structure created on the part of the Senators a desire for safer and more commodious quarters. Accordingly, under authorization of act of April 28, 1904, square 686, on the northeast corner of Delaware Avenue and B Street NE., was purchased as a site for the Senate Office Building, and the plans for the House Office Building were adapted for the Senate Office Building, the only change being the omission of the fourth side of the building fronting on First Street NE., this being planned for but not completed. The cornerstone of this building was laid without special exercises on July 31, 1906, and the building was occupied March 5, 1909. In June 1933 the building was completed by the erection of the First Street wing, construction of which was commenced in 1931, together with alterations to the C Street facade, and construction of terraces, balustrades, and approaches. The cost of the completed building, including site, furnishings, equipment, and the subway connecting the Senate Office Building with the United States Capitol, was $8,390,892.

CAPITOL POWER PLANT

During the development of the plans for fireproof office buildings for occupancy by the Senators and Representatives, the question of heat, light, and power was considered. The Senate and House wings of the Capitol were heated by separate heating plants. The Library of Congress also had in use a heating plant for that building, and it was finally determined that the solution of the heating and lighting, with power for elevators, could be adequately met by the construction of a central power plant to furnish all heat and power, as well as light, for the Capitol group of buildings.

Having determined the need of a central power plant, a site was selected in Garfield Park, bounded by New Jersey Avenue, South Capitol Street, Virginia Avenue, and B Street SE. This park being a Government reservation, an appropriation of money was not required to secure title. The determining factors leading to the selection of this site were its nearness to the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad and its convenient distance to the river and the buildings to be cared for by the plant.

The dimensions of the Capitol power plant, which was constructed under authorization of act of April 28, 1904, and completed and placed in operation in 1910, are 244 feet 3 inches by 117 feet, with a height over the boiler room of 81 feet to accommodate the coal bunkers. A later additional building, for accommodation of shops and storerooms, is located near the power plant and is built of selected red brick, it being 90 feet long, 50 feet wide, and 2 stories high. The building is located upon concrete foundations resting upon 790 simplex reinforced concrete piles; the superstructure is of red brick. There are 2 Alphons Custodis radial brick chimneys 212 feet in height and 11 feet in diameter at the top.

The buildings served by the power plant are connected by a reinforced-concrete steam tunnel 7 feet high by $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet wide, with walls approximately 12 inches thick. This tunnel originally ran from the power plant to the Senate Office Building, with connecting tunnels for the House Office Building, the Capitol, and the Library of Congress, and has since been extended to the Government Printing Office and the Washington City Post Office, with steam lines extended to serve the new House Office Building, the Supreme Court Building, the Annex to the Library of Congress, and the relocated Botanic Garden.

In 1935 Congress authorized the air conditioning of the Capitol, Senate, and House Office Buildings and provided therefor an appropriation of $2,550,000 and, in 1937, an additional amount of $1,672,000, including authorization for construction of a central refrigeration plant to serve the systems. An addition to the power plant building, 123 feet 2 inches long, 79 feet 6 inches wide, with a height of 37 feet 10 inches, was constructed to house the refrigeration plant. This plant was placed in operation May 16, 1938, and was, at that time, the largest central station water-cooling plant ever constructed. Its huge pumps carry chilled water through large supply mains to the four buildings served. The refrigerating capacity of the plant may best be described in terms of the melting of a block of ice 50 feet by 50 feet and the height of a seven-story building every 24 hours.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

ORIGIN AND FORM OF GOVERNMENT

The District of Columbia was established under the authority and direction of acts of Congress approved July 16, 1790, and March 3, 1791, which were passed to give effect to a clause in the eighth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States giving Congress the power—

“To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the State in which the Same shall be, for the erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other needful Buildings;—”

The States of Maryland and Virginia made cessions contemplated by this clause in the years 1788 and 1789, respectively. From the cessions tendered by the two States was selected the territory for the permanent seat of the General Government. This territory was 10 miles square, lying on either side of the Potomac River at the head of navigation. Later, 1846, Congress retroceded to Virginia that portion ceded by it. The Maryland, or retained, portion is approximately 70 square miles.

The seat of government of the United States was first definitely named by the clause in the act entitled “An act providing a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia,” approved June 11, 1878, as follows: “That all territory which was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States, for the permanent seat of government of the United States, shall continue to be designated as the District of Columbia” (20 Stat. 102), although it had been incidentally mentioned as such in several preceding statutes.

The land within the ceded territory was owned by a number of people. In Georgetown, President Washington negotiated with the proprietors or landowners of that portion of the ceded territory selected as the site of the city of Washington, which comprised about 10 percent of the area of the present District of Columbia. On the second day, March 30, 1791, he concluded an agreement which was put in writing and signed by the proprietors. By it the President was given sole power to lay off streets as he pleased. These proprietors conveyed their holdings to trustees named by the President to hold title to the same during the laying out of the Federal city and then convey as agreed to the United States and the proprietors respectively. Under this agreement the proprietors donated to the United States all of the lands for the streets and one-half of the city lots throughout the entire city. Sites reserved by the United States for the public buildings, parks, and other public purposes were paid for by the United States in Maryland money the equivalent to $66.66 per acre. Such payment, amounting to $36,099, was made out of the proceeds from the sale of some of the lots which these proprietors had donated to the United States. This was the only purchase price paid by the United States for any part of the entire acquisition of 5,128 acres for the purpose of building the Capital City.

The land within the original city of Washington comprised a total of 6,111 acres and was divided to the United States 4,147 acres—3,606 acres for streets and 541 acres for public purposes. The remaining 1,964 acres was divided into squares and the squares into lots. The whole number of lots was 20,272—10,136 to the United States and the same number to the proprietors.

Thomas Jefferson, then Secretary of State, declared the liberality of the proprietors was “noble.”

The United States lots were sold from time to time, chiefly before 1800 and up to 1835, and brought $741,024.45 (S. Doc. 247, 64th Cong., 1st sess., p. 23). This was a considerable sum as compared with the average annual income of the Federal Government during the 12 years from 1789 to 1800, it being about 13 percent of that average of about $5,600,000. The lots which still remain the property of the United States after gifts of them to charitable and literary institutions were sold about September 1865 for a moderate sum.

The proceeds from the sales of the Government lots were largely applied to the erection of the original Government buildings and improvements in their immediate neighborhood. The funds for these buildings were supplemented by grants of $120,000 by the State of Virginia and $72,000 by the State of Maryland (H. R. Report 269, 21st Cong., 1st sess., Doc. No. 5, p. 47). Both President Washington and President Jefferson expected the sale of these lots, if properly conserved, would not only provide ample funds for the erection of the public buildings without charge upon the lean Federal Treasury but would leave what Jefferson termed "the residuary interest of the city" which was intended to be used for streets and other city improvements. The failure of the Government to make these expected improvements so retarded the appreciation of values of the lots that the Government's prospective income from this source fell far short of expectations. The landowners who had so generously given their land to the Government as well as those who had been induced to purchase failed to realize the enhancement of value of their lots because of the failure of expected abutting and community improvements. The faith of Mr. Jefferson and the proprietors matched, but their fond hopes were not realized. The original proprietor of the land whereon is the Capitol Building, Daniel Carroll, of Duddington, in 1837 wrote "that the unfortunate proprietors are generally brought to ruin," who "were so wild as to suppose that the donation was so great the Government might pave the streets with ingots of gold or silver."

The city was planned and partly laid out by Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant, a French engineer. This work was perfected and completed by Maj. Andrew Ellicott. The building of the city and the erection of the public buildings were in charge of three commissioners selected by the President and subject to his direction.

When the Government establishment was moved in 1800, there existed within the 10 miles square two municipal corporations: the corporation of the city of Alexandria, incorporated by Virginia, and the corporation of the city of Georgetown, incorporated by Maryland.

The act of February 27, 1801, was the first legislation by Congress for the government of the District of Columbia following the removal to the permanent seat of government. While this act failed to set up a complete local government, it declared all of the laws of the States of Maryland and Virginia as then existing to be in force in the parts of the District ceded by the respective States. It created two counties, Washington County being the area outside of the cities of Washington and Georgetown on the Maryland side of the river, and Alexandria County being the area beyond the limits of the city of Alexandria on the Virginia side of the river. It also created the circuit court, the office of marshal of the District, the office of United States attorney for the District, justices of the peace for the two counties, a register of wills, and a judge of the orphans' court (2 Stat. 103).

The first government of the city of Washington consisted of a mayor appointed by the President of the United States and a city council elected by the people of the city. This was in 1802. The act chartering the city of Washington also created the levy courts, consisting originally of the justices of the peace of the respective counties (2 Stat. 115; 2 Stat. 773; 3 Stat. 195; 9 Stat. 230; 12 Stat. 384). The levy courts were given broad administrative powers over the counties of Washington and Alexandria, but had no judicial functions. At a later date the levy court of Washington County was composed of nine members appointed by the President (12 Stat. 799). Thus, there were within the 10 miles square five distinct local administrative units, namely (1) the corporation of Washington, (2) the corporation of Georgetown, (3) the county of Washington, (4) the corporation of Alexandria, and (5) the county of Alexandria. These were reduced to three units in 1846 with the retrocession of Alexandria city and county to the State of Virginia (9 Stat. 35; 9 Stat. 1000). The members of the city councils of the three municipalities were elected as were the mayors of Georgetown and Alexandria. In 1812 the city council was permitted to elect the mayor of Washington and in 1820 and thereafter the mayor was elected by the people (3 Stat. 583). The term of the mayor of Washington was for 2 years. This government continued until 1871.

By an act of Congress of February 21, 1871, the corporation of Washington, the corporation of Georgetown, and the levy court for Washington County were abolished, and the administration consolidated into a so-called territorial form of government. This government consisted of a governor, a board of public works, and a legislative assembly. This legislative assembly consisted of a council of 11 members and a house of delegates of 22 members. The District then also had a Delegate in the House of Representatives of the United States. The Governor, the board of public works, and council were appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The 22 members of the house of delegates and the Delegate in Congress were elected by the people. The District had a Delegate in Congress until March 4, 1875.

This form of government lasted for 3 years, until June 20, 1874, when Congress provided that the District should be governed by three commissioners, appointed by the President. This was known as the temporary form of government and lasted until July 1, 1878, when the present permanent commission government was set up (18 Stat. 116). In the creation of the temporary commission form of government in 1874 and the permanent form in 1878 no provision was made for the franchise, and for the first time in three-quarters of a century no part of the District exercised the right of suffrage. The present form of government was created by act of Congress approved June 11, 1878 (20 Stat. 102).

The District of Columbia has an area of 69,245 square miles, of which 60.1 square miles are land. The river boundary is high-water mark along the Virginia shore of the Potomac River.

The local government of the District of Columbia is a municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the territory which was "ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States for the permanent seat of the Government of the United States" (20 Stat. 102). This government is administered by a board of three Commissioners having general equal powers and duties (20 Stat. 103).

Two of these Commissioners, who must have been actual residents of the District for 5 years next before their appointment and have during that period claimed residence nowhere else, are appointed from civil life by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate for the term of 3 years each and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The other Commissioner is detailed from time to time by the President of the United States from the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army, and shall not be required to perform any other military duty (ib.). This Commissioner shall be selected from the captains or officers of higher grade having served at least 15 years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army of the United States (26 Stat. 1113).

Three officers of the same corps, junior to said Commissioner, may be detailed to assist him by the President of the United States (26 Stat. 246). The senior officer of the Corps of Engineers of the Army, who for the time being is detailed to act as assistant (and in case of his absence from the District, or disability, the junior officer so detailed), shall, in event of the absence from the District or disability of the Commissioner, who shall for the time being be detailed from the Corps of Engineers, perform all the duties imposed by law upon said Commissioner (26 Stat. 1113).

One of said Commissioners shall be chosen president of the Board of Commissioners at their first meeting and annually and whenever a vacancy shall occur (20 Stat. 103).

The Commissioners are in a general way vested with jurisdiction covering all the ordinary features of municipal government and are also members of the Zoning Commission (37 Stat. 974).

The expenditures of the District of Columbia are based upon estimates prepared annually by the Commissioners and submitted by them to Congress through the Bureau of the Budget. To the extent to which it shall approve of said estimates, Congress shall appropriate a portion out of the Treasury of the United States. The remainder of the amount of such approved estimates shall be levied and assessed upon the taxable property and privileges in said District other than the property of the United States and of the District of Columbia (act approved June 11, 1878; 20 Stat. 104). "All taxes collected shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and the same as well as the appropriations to be made by the Congress as aforesaid shall be disbursed for the expenses of said District, on itemized vouchers, which have been audited and approved by the auditor of the District of Columbia, certified by said Commissioners or a majority of them" (ib. 105). This act also provided that the cost of operation, development, and maintenance of the District of Columbia should be borne jointly by the United States and the District of Columbia upon a 50-50 basis. This ratio was in 1922 changed to a payment of 60 percent from the revenues of the District of Columbia and 40 percent by the United States and this provision was repealed by act of Congress approved May 16, 1938. The act of July 26, 1939, provided for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940, and for each fiscal year thereafter, that there was authorized to be appropriated as the annual payment by the United States toward defraying the expenses of the Government of the District of Columbia, the sum of $6,000,000. The remainder of the local expenses are borne by the revenues of the District of Columbia derived from taxation of private property and privileges.

Congress has by sundry statutes empowered the Commissioners to make building regulations; plumbing regulations; to make and enforce all such reasonable and usual police regulations as they may deem necessary for the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property within the District, and other regulations of a municipal nature.

While the District has a municipal form of government, Congress by various statutory enactments has treated it as a branch of the United States Government by including it in legislation applying to the executive departments, such as the Budget and Accounting Act, the act classifying the salaries of Federal employees, and the act providing for retirement of Federal employees.

All legislation affecting the District of Columbia must be passed by Congress under the provisions of the Constitution. The advice of the Commissioners is usually asked before such legislation is enacted.

OFFICIAL DUTIES

OFFICIAL DUTIES

LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

ARCHITECT OF THE CAPITOL

The Architect of the Capitol, acting as an agent of the Congress, has charge of the structural and mechanical care of the United States Capitol Building, together with arrangements in cooperation with the proper authorities, for ceremonies and ceremonials held in the building and on the grounds; is responsible for the care, maintenance, and improvement of the Capitol Grounds, the old and newly enlarged areas comprising approximately 120.2 acres, as well as the care of the grounds, walks, and driveways about the buildings in the legislative group; has the structural and mechanical care of the Library of Congress Buildings, United States Supreme Court Building, Courthouse of the District of Columbia, Court of Appeals Building, Court of Claims Buildings, and Columbia Hospital for Women and Lying-In Asylum; is responsible for the operation of the United States Senate and House of Representatives Restaurants.

In addition to these activities, the duties and responsibilities of the Architect include the following:

Under the direction and approval of the House Office Building Commission, the structural, mechanical, and domestic care and maintenance of the House Office Buildings, including the maintenance and operation of the mechanical equipment, and the care, maintenance, and operation of the Capitol power plant, which supplies heat, light, power, and air conditioning refrigeration for the Capitol, Senate and House Office Buildings, heat, light, and power for the Library of Congress Buildings, United States Botanic Garden, United States Supreme Court Building, and the legislative garage, and steam heat for the Government Printing Office and Washington City Post Office.

Subject to the approval of the Senate Committee on Rules as to matters of general policy, the structural, mechanical, and domestic care and maintenance of the Senate Office Building, including the maintenance and operation of the mechanical equipment.

Subject to the joint action of the Vice President of the United States and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the jurisdiction and control including the care and maintenance of the legislative garage.

Under the direction and supervision of the Joint Committee on the Library, serves as acting director of the United States Botanic Garden.

In addition to these maintenance and repair activities, the Architect of the Capitol is charged with the planning and construction of such buildings as may be committed to his care by Congress from time to time.

Over and above these functions, the Architect of the Capitol serves as a member of the Capitol Police Board, of the Commission for the Enlarging of the Capitol Grounds, of the District of Columbia Zoning Commission, and of the National Capital Housing Authority.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON INTERNAL REVENUE TAXATION

The Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation was established in 1926 under section 1203 of the Revenue Act of 1926. This section is codified in chapters 47 and 48 of the Internal Revenue Code.

The duties imposed upon the committee by statute are as follows:

(1) To investigate the operation and effects of the Federal system of internal-revenue taxes.

(2) To investigate the administration of such taxes by the Bureau of Internal Revenue or any executive department, establishment, or agency charged with their administration.

(3) To make such other investigations in respect of such system of taxes as the Joint Committee may deem necessary.

(4) To investigate measures and methods for the simplification of such taxes particularly the income tax.

(5) To publish from time to time for public examination and analysis proposed measures and methods for the simplification of such taxes; and

(6) To report from time to time to the Committee on Finance and the Committee on Ways and Means and, in its discretion, to the Senate or the House of Representatives, or both, the results of its investigations, together with such recommendations as it may deem advisable.

To the above, section 710 of the Revenue Act of 1928 added the duty of examining refunds in excess of $75,000 of income, war-profits, excess-profits, estate, and gift taxes and of making annual reports thereof to the Congress. A similar provision had theretofore been enacted in the first deficiency act, fiscal year 1927, approved February 28, 1927 (44 Stat. 1254). Section 3777 of the Internal Revenue Code, derived from section 710 of the Revenue Act of 1928, reads as follows:

"Sec. 3777. Reports of refunds and credits in excess of $75,000.

"(a) By Commissioner to Joint Committee.—No refund or credit of any income, war-profits, excess-profits, estate, or gift tax in excess of $75,000 shall be made until after the expiration of 30 days from the date upon which a report giving the name of the person to whom the refund or credit is to be made, the amount of such refund or credit, and a summary of the facts and the decision of the Commissioner is submitted to the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation.

"(b) By Joint Committee to Congress.—A report to Congress shall be made annually by such committee of such refunds and credits, including the names of all persons and corporations to whom amounts are credited or payments are made, together with the amounts credited or paid to each."

The statute confers upon the Joint Committee certain powers necessary for the performance of its duties; and by development and direction of the Committees on Ways and Means and Finance the staff acts as a fact-finding and advisory agency for these committees.

The committee is composed of 10 members, of whom 5 are members of the Committee on Finance and 5 of the Committee on Ways and Means. The Committee on Finance and the Committee on Ways and Means each elects its membership on the Joint Committee, 3 from the majority and 2 from the minority party. It has been the custom to elect ranking members.

The committee was organized in 1926 and functions with the aid of a permanent staff, with a chief of staff as administrative head. It is the custom of the Joint Committee to elect a chairman and vice chairman annually, alternating these offices between the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means and the chairman of the Committee on Finance.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON PRINTING

The Joint Committee on Printing, consisting of three Members of the Senate and three Members of the House of Representatives, was created by the act of August 3, 1846, and its principal duties are set forth in the Printing Act approved January 12, 1895. That act gave the committee authority "to remedy any neglect or delay in the public printing and binding." This authority was extended by section 11 of the Legislative Appropriation Act for 1920, empowering the committee "to adopt and employ such measure as, in its discretion, may be deemed necessary to remedy any neglect, delay, duplication, or waste in the public printing and binding and the distribution of Government publications."

The act of 1895 provides that the committee "shall have control of the arrangement and style of the Congressional Record, and, while providing that it shall be substantially a verbatim report of proceedings, shall take all needed action for the reduction of unnecessary bulk." The committee is also authorized to provide for the publication of semimonthly and session indexes to the Record and has general authority over the forms and style of congressional printing and binding.

The CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY, memorial addresses on deceased Senators and Members, statute proceedings, and similar publications are compiled and prepared under the direction of the committee. The Superintendent of Documents publishes the index of public documents upon a plan approved by the committee and indexes such single volumes as it shall direct.

The committee is directed by law to establish rules and regulations for the printing of documents and reports in two or more editions. Orders for subsequent editions after 2 years from date of original order must receive its approval. The committee directs whether extra copies of documents and reports shall be bound in paper or cloth, and prescribes the arrangement and binding of documents for depository libraries.

The cost of printing any document or report which cannot be properly charged to any other appropriation may, upon order of the committee, be charged to the congressional appropriation.

The committee may order additional copies printed of any Government publication within a limit of $200 in cost in any one instance.

The act of 1895 also provides that the committee shall exercise the following functions in regard to the purchase of paper for the public printing and binding: Fix upon standards of quality, receive proposals and award contracts therefor, appoint a member of the board of paper inspection, determine differences of opinion as to quality, act upon defaults, and authorize open-market purchases.

The Legislative Appropriation Act for 1925 authorizes the Public Printer to procure under the direction of the Joint Committee on Printing in accordance with the act approved January 12, 1895, and furnish on requisition paper and envelopes (not including envelopes printed in the course of manufacture) in common use by two or more departments, establishments, or services of the Government in the District of Columbia.

The Public Printer is required by law to advertise for bids for material, other than paper, under the direction of the committee, and to make a return to it on all such contracts awarded by him. The committee may authorize the Public Printer to make certain open-market purchases of material, and, by resolution, it has required him to obtain its approval on all purchases of machinery and equipment in excess of $1,000 in any one instance.

Maps and illustration plates for Government publications are purchased under the direction of the committee whenever the probable cost exceeds $1,200; or, whenever the exigencies of the public service do not justify advertisement, the committee may authorize immediate contracts for lithographing and engraving.

Printing for the Patent Office is required by law to be done under such regulations and conditions as the committee may prescribe.

Section 11 of the Legislative Appropriation Act for 1920 requires all printing, binding, and blank-book work for the Government to be done at the Government Printing Office, except such classes of work as shall be deemed by the Joint Committee on Printing to be urgent or necessary to have done elsewhere than in the District of Columbia for the exclusive use of any field service outside of said District.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON THE LIBRARY

The Joint Committee on the Library was established by law; in 1809 the two Houses by concurrent action supplemented the law, and in 1843 recognized it by joint rule. The joint rules having ceased to exist in 1876, the rules of the House recognized the committee in 1880. In 1902 a law increased the membership of the committee to five in each House.

The statutes confer on the joint committee certain executive functions, such as the acceptance or purchase of works of art for the Capitol, the assignment of the same to such place in the Capitol as they may deem suitable, and control of the Botanic Garden, and provide that its powers shall reside in the Senate portion in the recess after the expiration of a Congress.

Aside from the executive functions of the joint committee, the House branch exercises functions as a standing committee of the House, and has a jurisdiction covering construction and care of the building of the Library of Congress, management of the Library, purchase of books and manuscripts, erection of monuments to the memory of individuals, and in some instances on battlefields, and the removal of the remains of distinguished persons. The general affairs of the Smithsonian Institution and the incorporation of similar institutions are also within the jurisdiction of the House branch of the committee.

Neither the joint committee nor the House branch reports appropriation bills.

GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE

The Comptroller General of the United States is charged by law with the settlement and adjustment, independently of the executive departments, of all claims and demands whatever by the Government of the United States or against it, and all accounts whatever in which the Government of the United States is concerned, either as debtor or creditor, and is vested with all powers and duties previously conferred or imposed by law upon the former Comptroller of the Treasury and the six Auditors of the Treasury Department; also with the duty of keeping the personal ledger accounts of disbursing and collecting officers; of reporting to Congress delinquency in rendering accounts; and of certifying balances, which are final and conclusive upon the executive branch of the Government. He may provide for payment of accounts or claims adjusted and settled in the General Accounting Office through disbursing officers of the several departments and establishments instead of by warrant. He prescribes the forms, systems, and procedure for administrative appropriation and fund accounting in the several departments and establishments, and for the administrative examination of fiscal officers' accounts and claims, reporting to Congress upon the adequacy and effectiveness of such administrative examination. He appoints and removes attorneys and other employees in the General Accounting Office, they performing such duties as may be assigned to them by him, all official acts performed by them, when specially designated therefor by the Comptroller General, having the same force and effect as though performed by the Comptroller General in person. He makes such rules and regulations as may be necessary for carrying on the work of the General Accounting Office, including those for the admission of attorneys to practice before it, and furnishes, under the seal of said Office, copies of records from books and proceedings thereof, for use as evidence in accordance with sections 882 and 886 of the Revised Statutes.

Upon the application of disbursing officers, the head of any executive department or other independent establishment not under any of the executive departments, or certifying officers, the Comptroller General is required to render his advance decision upon any question involving a payment to be made by them or under them, or pursuant to their certification, which decision when rendered governs in the settlement of the account involving the payment inquired about. He reviews, on his own motion, any settled account when in the interest of the United States to do so. He superintends the recovery of all debts finally certified by audited settlements to be due the United States, and the preservation of all accounts, with their vouchers, etc., which have been finally adjusted, and countersigns all warrants authorized by law to be signed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Comptroller General is required to audit the financial transactions of all Government corporations in accordance with commercial corporate practices and under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe. A report of each such audit for each fiscal year ending on June 30 must be made by him to the Congress not later than the following January 15.

It is also the duty of the Comptroller General to investigate at the seat of government or elsewhere all matters relating to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and to make recommendations to the President, when requested by him, and to Congress concerning legislation necessary to facilitate the prompt and accurate rendition and settlement of accounts, and concerning such other matters as he may deem advisable in regard to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and economy or efficiency in public expenditures. He makes investigations for Congress as to revenue, appropriations, and expenditures, furnishing assistants from his office to Congress for that purpose, and specially reports to Congress every expenditure or contract made by any department or establishment in any year in violation of law. He also reports to Congress upon the adequacy and effectiveness of departmental inspection of the offices and accounts of fiscal officers, and, in accordance with law, has access to and examines any books, documents, papers, or records, except those pertaining to certain funds for purposes of intercourse or treaty with foreign nations, of all departments and establishments, for the purpose of securing from time to time information regarding the powers, duties, activities, organization, financial transactions, and methods of business of their respective offices. It is also his duty to furnish to the Bureau of the Budget such information relating to expenditures and accounting as it may request from time to time.

EXECUTIVE BRANCH

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Under authority of the Reorganization Act of 1939 and in accordance with the President's Reorganization Plans No. I and No. II, the Executive Office of the President comprises the following major divisions: The White House Office, Bureau of the Budget, Liaison Office for Personnel Management, and the Office for Emergency Management. Executive Order No. 8248 of September 8, 1939, established the divisions and defined their functions.

THE WHITE HOUSE OFFICE

The functions and duties of the White House Office, as defined in Executive Order No. 8248 of September 8, 1939, are as follows:

In general, to serve the President in an intimate capacity in the performance of the many detailed activities incident to his immediate office. To that end, the White House Office shall be composed of the following principal subdivisions, with particular functions and duties as indicated.

(a) The Secretaries to the President.—To facilitate and maintain quick and easy communication with the Congress, the individual Members of the Congress, the heads of executive departments and agencies, the press, the radio, and the general public.

(b) The executive clerk.—To provide for the orderly handling of documents and correspondence within the White House Office, and to organize and supervise all clerical services and procedure relating thereto.

(c) The administrative assistants to the President.—To assist the President in such matters as he may direct, and at the specific request of the President, to get information and to condense and summarize it for his use. These administrative assistants shall be personal aides to the President and shall have no authority over anyone in any department or agency, including the Executive Office of the President, other than the personnel assigned to their immediate office. In no event shall the administrative assistants be interposed between the President and the head of any department or agency, or between the President and any one of the divisions in the Executive Office of the President.

LIAISON OFFICE FOR PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

The Liaison Office for Personnel Management assists the President in the execution of the duties imposed upon him by the Constitution and by legislation with respect to personnel management and in maintaining closer contact with all Federal departments and agencies in their relation to personnel-management policies.

BUREAU OF THE BUDGET

The Bureau of the Budget was created by the Budget and Accounting Act of June 10, 1921. Although established as a staff agency under the immediate direction of the President, the Bureau was physically located in the Treasury Department. In harmony with proposals made as early as 1924 by the Joint Congressional Committee on Reorganization, the Bureau was transferred to the Executive Office of the President under authority granted in the Reorganization Act of 1939. Simultaneously its functions in the fields of general management and executive coordination were strengthened.

The main functions of the Bureau are:

1. To assist the President in the preparation of the Budget and the formulation of the fiscal program of the Government.
2. To supervise and control the administration of the Budget.
3. To conduct research in the development of improved plans of administrative management and to advise the executive departments and agencies of the Government with respect to improved administrative organization and practice.

4. To aid the President to bring about more efficient and economical conduct of Government service.

5. To assist the President by clearing and coordinating departmental advice on proposed legislation and by making recommendations as to Presidential action on legislative enactments.

6. To assist in the consideration and clearance and, where necessary, in the preparation of proposed Executive orders and proclamations.

7. To plan and promote the improvement, development, and coordination of Federal and other statistical services.

8. To keep the President informed of the progress of activities by agencies of the Government with respect to work proposed, work actually initiated, and work completed, together with the relative timing of work between the several agencies of the Government.

In the exercise of its functions, the Bureau is governed not only by the Budget and Accounting Act but also by various statutory authorizations of a special character. These include the so-called Anti-Deficiency Act of 1905 (as amended in 1906) under which the Director of the Bureau determines apportionments of appropriations; the congressional resolution of May 11, 1922, which requires his approval for the printing of periodicals from appropriated funds; the Federal Reports Act of 1942, which directs him to supervise the use of Government report forms and questionnaires; and the Federal Employees Pay Act of 1945, which charges him with the duties of determining for each quarter the personnel requirements of Federal agencies, of ordering the release of excess personnel, and of establishing budgetary reserves where savings are possible.

Government Information Service.—The Government Information Service provides information services to the public, executive agencies, and the Congress. Its functions were transferred from the Office of War Information to the Bureau of the Budget by Executive Order 9608, August 31, 1945.

FEDERAL BOARD OF HOSPITALIZATION

The Federal Board of Hospitalization is an advisory agency to the Bureau of the Budget. It was organized on November 1, 1921. It is the duty of the Board to initiate studies of and analyze and review the hospital, convalescent, and domiciliary activities and programs developed and operated by all agencies of the Federal Government (except the District of Columbia and Territorial governments) for the purpose of:

1. Preventing the overlapping and duplication of services and overbuilding of facilities.

2. Ensuring the most efficient and complete utilization of the total services and facilities of the Federal Government by each agency.

3. Determining the need for existing or additional facilities of each agency.

4. Determining the area or locality in which additional facilities should be provided.

5. Determining the extent to which non-Federal facilities may be utilized in the administration of the hospital activities or programs of any Federal agency.

6. Developing a complete over-all program for providing hospitalization for all veterans, including the veterans of World War II.

7. Furnishing recommendations with respect to such matters as the Director of the Bureau of the Budget may refer to the Board.

EMERGENCY AGENCIES

OFFICE FOR EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

The Office for Emergency Management was established by administrative order of May 25, 1940, in accordance with section I (6) of Executive Order No. 8248, which provides that there shall be, "in the event of a national emergency, or threat of a national emergency, such office for emergency management as the President shall determine."

The Office for Emergency Management as such formerly had certain stated functions which were performed under the direction of the Liaison Officer for Emergency Management. This official existed under the terms of the administrative order issued by the President on January 7, 1941, to the effect that "provision may be made in the Office for Emergency Management for liaison facilities * * *." When the President, by letter of November 3, 1943, accepted the resignation of the Liaison Officer for Emergency Management, he appointed no successor; the effect was to terminate the liaison facilities under the optional provisions of administrative order of January 7, 1941.

The Office for Emergency Management is primarily a framework within the confines of the Executive Office of the President, within which framework various civilian war agencies have been established. It has served as a major device for organizing the war program.

CIVILIAN PRODUCTION ADMINISTRATION

The Civilian Production Administration was established within the Office for Emergency Management by Executive Order 9638 of October 4, 1945. The same order terminated the War Production Board, effective at the close of business November 3, 1945, and transferred its functions and powers to the Civilian Production Administration. The order provided that the functions and powers transferred shall "be utilized to further a swift and orderly transition from wartime production to a maximum peacetime production in industry free from wartime Government controls, with due regard for the stability of prices and costs."

OFFICE OF ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN

The Office of Alien Property Custodian was established within the Office for Emergency Management by Executive Order No. 9095 of March 11, 1942, under the specific authority of the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended. The functions and duties of the Office were further defined by Executive Order No. 9193 of July 6, 1942, and Executive Order No. 9567 of June 8, 1945.

The Alien Property Custodian is authorized and empowered, under Executive Order No. 9193, to vest or otherwise control the following properties in the United States: (1) Any business enterprise which is an enemy national. (2) Any other business enterprise which is a foreign national, after determination by the Custodian and certification by the Secretary of the Treasury that the action is necessary in the national interest. (3) Any patent, copyright, and trade-mark and related property in which a foreign national has an interest. (4) Any ship in which there is a foreign interest. (5) Any property of an enemy government or national which is in process of administration by a person acting under judicial supervision or which is in partition, libel, condemnation, or other similar proceedings. (6) Any other property of an enemy government or national except cash, deposits, securities, and similar property, the latter being subject to vesting or other control only when necessary for the maintenance of property subject to vesting belonging to the same enemy country or national.

Under Executive Order No. 9567 the Custodian was authorized and empowered to vest or otherwise control cash, deposits, securities, and similar property of the governments and nationals of Germany and Japan.

Public Law 322 (79th Cong., 2d sess., approved March 8, 1946) permits the return of property vested from non-enemy nationals provided such action is in the national interest.

All property vested in the Alien Property Custodian is held, used, administered, liquidated, sold, or otherwise dealt with in the interest of or for the benefit of the United States. Except to the extent that legislative provisions have been made for its return, its ultimate disposition will be determined by Congress.

The Alien Property Custodian is also authorized to issue regulations concerning the service of process or notice upon persons in enemy countries or enemy-occupied territory in connection with court or administrative actions or proceedings and to represent such persons in such actions or proceedings.

OFFICE OF ECONOMIC STABILIZATION

Established by Executive Order 9250 of October 3, 1942, to control, so far as possible, the inflationary tendencies and the dislocations attendant thereon which threatened the military effort and domestic economic structure. In accordance with the requirements of Executive Order 9599, the office has undertaken the task of formulating and developing comprehensive national economic policies which will effectuate the stabilization program during the period of transition from war to peace. It also implements the new wage-price policy expressed in Executive Order 9697 of February 14, 1946.

Executive Order 9620 of September 20, 1945, abolished the Office of Economic Stabilization and transferred its activities to the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion where its functions were carried on under a Stabilization Administrator. It was reestablished by Executive Order 9699 of February 21, 1946, with the same functions, powers, and duties it possessed immediately prior to the issuance of Executive Order 9620, including the functions and authority vested in the Stabilization Administrator by Executive Order 9697.

The Economic Stabilization Board was created by Executive Order 9250 to advise the Director of Economic Stabilization.

OFFICE OF SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

The Office of Scientific Research and Development was created by Executive Order No. 8807, of June 28, 1941, for the purpose of assuring adequate provision for research on scientific and medical problems relating to the national defense.

WAR ASSETS ADMINISTRATION

The War Assets Administration was established within the Office for Emergency Management by Executive Order 9689, of January 31, 1946, effective March 25, 1946, to administer domestic surplus disposal functions of the War Assets Corporation and the former Surplus Property Administration.

WAR SHIPPING ADMINISTRATION

The War Shipping Administration was established within the Office for Emergency Management by Executive Order No. 9054, of February 7, 1942, to insure the most effective utilization of shipping of the United States for the successful prosecution of the war. It controls the operation, purchase, charter, requisition, maintenance, insurance, and use of all ocean vessels under the control of the United States, except combatant vessels of the Army, Navy, and Coast Guard; fleet auxiliaries of the Navy; transports owned by the Army and Navy; and vessels engaged in coastwise, intercoastal, and inland transportation under the control of the Office of Defense Transportation. Functions, duties, and powers dealing with the foregoing conferred by law upon the United States Maritime Commission were transferred to the Administrator.

BOARD OF WAR COMMUNICATIONS

Executive Order No. 8546 of September 24, 1940, created the Defense Communications Board. The name of the Board was changed to Board of War Communications by Executive Order 9183 of June 15, 1942. The Board of War Communications was established to coordinate the relation of all branches of communication to the war effort. Planning included common carriers such as commercial radiotelephone and radiotelegraph, as well as other telephone, telegraph, and cable facilities, and radio broadcasting.

NATIONAL INTELLIGENCE AUTHORITY

The National Intelligence Authority was established, pursuant to Presidential Directive of January 22, 1946, to plan, develop, and coordinate all Federal foreign intelligence activities related to the national security. The members of the Authority are the Secretary of State, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and one other person named by the President as his personal representative.

The National Intelligence Authority is assisted by a Central Intelligence Group under the direction of a Director of Central Intelligence and consisting of personnel and facilities assigned, within the limits of available appropriations, from the Departments of State, War, and Navy. The Director of Central Intelligence is designated by the President, but is responsible to the National Intelligence Authority and sits as a nonvoting member thereof. The Director of Central Intelligence is advised by an Intelligence Advisory Board consisting of the heads (or their representatives) of the principal military and civilian intelligence agencies of the Government having functions related to the national security, as determined by the National Intelligence Authority.

No police, law enforcement, or internal security functions are exercised by the National Intelligence Authority or the Central Intelligence Group.

OFFICE OF PRICE ADMINISTRATION

The Office of Price Administration was created pursuant to the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 with power to establish maximum prices and maximum rents for the purpose of preventing inflationary increases in prices and rents.

The Stabilization Act of 1942 conferred upon the President further authority to stabilize prices, wages, and salaries affecting the cost of living. Under this act, the Stabilization Administrator, pursuant to Executive orders and a delegation of authority from the Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion, exercises certain policy controls over the Office of Price Administration. The Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, the Stabilization Act of 1942, as amended, and Executive orders under the latter act, prescribe the standards and procedures which govern the administration of the price control program. The Office of Price Administration also carries out the civilian rationing of scarce commodities pursuant to a delegation of the statutory power to allocate scarce materials and facilities conferred upon the President by the Second War Powers Act, 1942.

OFFICE OF WAR MOBILIZATION AND RECONVERSION

The Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion was established by the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944, approved October 3, 1944 (Public Law 458, 78th Cong., 2d sess.), providing a national program for war mobilization and reconversion. The President has also transferred to this Office all of the functions previously assigned to the Office of War Mobilization under Executive order, dated May 27, 1943.

The Director is charged with the supervision of the activities of all Government agencies having responsibilities directly concerned with or affecting the transition from war to peace. It is his responsibility to coordinate the planning of responsible Government agencies to insure prompt and orderly demobilization and to direct the economic forces of the Nation into a coordinate program for reconversion to a sound peacetime economy with a minimum of dislocation and uncertainty.

The act also provides for an Advisory Board to the Director to consist of 12 members to be appointed by the President with the approval of the Senate.

In addition to his general supervision of the executive agencies concerned with war mobilization and reconversion, the Director is specifically charged with the general supervision of the Office of Contract Settlement which was established by Public Law 395, Seventy-eighth Congress.

The objectives of the Contract Settlement Act, as laid down by the Congress of the United States, are as follows:

1. To facilitate maximum war production during the war and expedite reconversion from war production to civilian production as war conditions permit.
2. To assure to prime contractors and subcontractors, small and large, speedy and equitable financial settlement of claims under terminated war contracts, and adequate interim financing until such final settlements.
3. To assure uniformity among Government agencies in basic policies and administration with respect to such termination settlement and interim financing.
4. To facilitate the efficient use of materials, manpower, and facilities for war and civilian purposes by providing prime contractors and subcontractors with notice of termination of their war contracts as far in advance of the cessation of work thereunder as is feasible and consistent with the national security.
5. To assure the expeditious removal from the plants of prime contractors and subcontractors of termination inventories not to be retained or sold by the contractor.
6. To use all practicable methods compatible with the foregoing objectives to prevent improper payments and to detect and prosecute fraud.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON VOLUNTARY FOREIGN AID

The Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreign Aid was established jointly by the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Agriculture following the President's request of May 14, 1946, and his Executive Order No. 9723, of May 14, terminating as of May 15, 1946, the President's War Relief Control Board and its wartime powers of regulation, of war charities for foreign relief and the welfare of the Armed Forces of the United States.

The Committee exercises advisory functions to guide the appropriate and productive use of American resources voluntarily contributed or solicited from the public for aid to the people of the war-stricken countries, including projects of relief, rehabilitation, reconstruction, and welfare, and related appeals to the public for voluntary support.

WAR CONTRACTS PRICE ADJUSTMENT BOARD

The War Contracts Price Adjustment Board was created by the Renegotiation Act of 1943 (title VII of the Revenue Act of 1943, approved February 25, 1944, sec. 701 (d) (1); 58 Stat. 85, 50 App. U. S. C. 1191). The Board has authority over all renegotiations for fiscal years ending after June 30, 1943, and establishes principles, policies, and procedures with respect to such renegotiations. Actual renegotiation proceedings are conducted by the departments named in the Renegotiation Act under delegated authority from the Board. The Board may review determinations of excessive profits made by such departments.

COMBINED CHIEFS OF STAFF (UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN)

Established by the United States and Great Britain, as announced by the War Department February 6, 1942, to insure complete coordination of the war effort of Great Britain and the United States, including the production and distribution of their war supplies, and to provide for full British and American collaboration with the United Nations associated in prosecution of the war against the Axis powers.

COMBINED FOOD BOARD

Acting jointly, the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain on June 9, 1942, authorized the creation of the Combined Food Board to obtain a planned and expeditious utilization of the food resources of the United Nations, in order to coordinate further the prosecution of the war effort. In October 1943 Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King accepted membership on behalf of the Government of Canada.

Following VJ-day the three Governments agreed that, in view of the critical world food supply situation, the Board should continue in existence. On December 10, 1945, the three Governments announced that it was anticipated the Combined Food Board itself would be dissolved on June 30, 1946, with perhaps a few of the commodity committees continuing beyond that date to recommend allocations of products which continued to be in serious short supply. However, more recently the Governments have decided that this Board should be continued until December 31, 1946, because of the deterioration that has occurred in the world food situation in recent months and the need to control the distribution of many foods with a view to preventing widespread suffering and starvation. The question of whether it will be necessary to continue the Board beyond the end of this year will be reviewed after the food outlook for 1947 becomes clearer.

The Board considers, investigates, and formulates plans with regard to any question relating to the supply, production, transportation, disposal, allocation or distribution, in or to any part of the world, of foods, agricultural materials from which foods are derived, and equipment and non-food materials ancillary to the production of such foods and agricultural materials.

It works in collaboration with other nations toward the best utilization of their food resources, and, in collaboration with the interested nation or nations, formulates plans and recommendations for the development, expansion, and purchase of their food resources so as to obtain the most effective and equitable utilization. This is accomplished largely through the operations of the various commodity committees of the Board, which have been expanded within the past year to include representatives of the major importing and exporting countries.

COMBINED SHIPPING ADJUSTMENT BOARD (UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN)

Creation of the Combined Shipping Adjustment Board was announced on January 26, 1942, by the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Great Britain. The Board unifies the work of the British Ministry of War Transport and the War Shipping Administration.

JOINT BRAZIL-UNITED STATES DEFENSE COMMISSION

The Commission, composed of military delegates—Army, Navy, and the Air Forces—of the two countries was established in May 1942 by agreement between the United States and Brazil.

Meetings are held in Washington for the purpose of making plans for the mutual defense of the Western Hemisphere.

JOINT MEXICAN-UNITED STATES DEFENSE COMMISSION

On January 12, 1942, the Governments of Mexico and the United States announced the organization of a mixed defense commission to study the problems relating to the defense of the two countries and to propose measures which should be adopted.

PUBLIC INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONSFOOD AND AGRICULTURE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS

The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations officially came into being with the signing of its constitution by the delegates of 30 member nations on October 16, 1945, at the first session of the conference held in Quebec, Canada, succeeding the United Nations Interim Commission of Food and Agriculture.

The preamble to the constitution states as the purposes for which member nations have agreed to further separate and collective action: "Raising levels of nutrition and standards of living of the peoples under their respective jurisdictions, securing improvements in the efficiency of the production and distribution of all food and agricultural products, bettering the condition of rural populations, and thus contributing toward an expanding world economy." Through FAO "the Members will report to one another on the measures taken and the progress achieved in the fields of action set forth above." As the central agency through which member countries exchange relevant information, it is intended that FAO should promote and, where appropriate, recommend national and international action in its fields of actively, furnish such technical assistance as Governments may request, including the organizing of such special missions as may be needed, and further the rapid exchange of information.

INTERNATIONAL LABOR ORGANIZATION

The International Labor Organization is an association of 51 nations, financed by Governments. The United States became a member of the ILO in 1934 following a joint resolution of the Congress. The Organization was created as an autonomous part of the League of Nations at the end of the First World War. Negotiations are now under way on the methods of affiliating the ILO with the United Nations.

The purpose of the ILO is to promote improved labor standards and social security in all countries, and to eliminate substandard conditions which constitute an obstacle to the progress of the nations with the highest standards.

UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations is an international organization established by the Governments represented at the United Nations Conference on International Organization through the signing of the Charter of the United Nations in San Francisco on June 26, 1945. The purposes of the United Nations set out in the charter are: to maintain international peace and security; to develop friendly relations among nations; to achieve international cooperation in solving international problems and in promoting respect for human rights; and to be a center for harmonizing the actions of nations in the attainment of these common ends. The principal organs of the United Nations are the General Assembly, the Security Council, the Economic and Social Council, the Trusteeship Council, the International Court of Justice, and the Secretariat.

UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND REHABILITATION ADMINISTRATION

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is an international agency, composed of 48 United Nations, created to help the victims of the war in liberated areas by providing them with food, clothing, and medicine; by aiding them in the care and repatriation of "displaced persons," and by assisting them in the resumption of urgently needed agricultural and industrial production and essential services. UNRRA's operating expenses are contributed to by those nations which have not been invaded by the enemy. All member nations contribute to administrative expenses.

By the end of March 1946 UNRRA had delivered over 7,640,000 long tons of supplies overseas, and was carrying on relief programs in Greece, Albania, Italy, Yugoslavia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, the Byelorussian and Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republics, and China. It was also assisting the military in the repatriation of millions of displaced persons in Germany. VJ-day inaugurated global relief and rehabilitation operations, and UNRRA's program of aid to China had resulted in the shipment of 564,000 long tons of supplies by March 31, 1946. Among countries declared eligible for assistance were Korea, Formosa, Austria, the Ukrainian, and Byelorussian Soviet Republics, while Italy was judged eligible to receive full-scale aid instead of the limited assistance heretofore provided by UNRRA.

DEPARTMENT OF STATESECRETARY OF STATE

The Secretary of State, who is the highest ranking Cabinet member, is the head of the Department of State. Upon him devolves the principal responsibility, under the President, for the determination of the policy of the Government in relation to international problems. He is charged with the conduct of negotiations pertaining to the protection of American rights and interests throughout the world, and the promotion of beneficial intercourse between the United States and other countries. He also performs certain domestic duties, such as having custody of the seal of the United States and publishing the laws enacted by Congress.

UNDER SECRETARY OF STATE

The Under Secretary of State serves as the Secretary's deputy in all matters and in the absence of the Secretary becomes Acting Secretary of State.

COUNSELOR OF THE DEPARTMENT

The Counselor of the Department is one of the two principal assistants to the Secretary of State in the discharge of his various functions, aiding in the formulation and execution of the foreign policies of the Government and the reception of representatives of foreign governments and in work of a highly responsible character. He gives special attention to such important phases of our foreign relations as may be assigned to him by the Secretary. In the absence of the Secretary and the Under Secretary, he becomes Acting Secretary of State.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE (FOR ECONOMIC AFFAIRS)

Has jurisdiction over the Office of International Trade Policy, the Office of Financial and Development Policy, the Office of International Security Policy, and the Office of Transport and Communications Policy; is chairman of the Executive Committee on Economic Foreign Policy.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE (FOR EUROPEAN, FAR EASTERN, NEAR EASTERN, AND AFRICAN AFFAIRS)

Charged with matters relating to the formulation and execution of foreign policies assigned to him by the Secretary of State; has jurisdiction over the Office of European Affairs, the Office of Far Eastern Affairs, and the Office of Near Eastern and African Affairs; is Chairman of the State-War-Navy Coordinating Committee.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE (FOR ADMINISTRATION)

Has jurisdiction over the Office of the Foreign Service, the Office of Departmental Administration, the Office of Budget and Finance, and the Office of Controls.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE (FOR PUBLIC AFFAIRS)

In the absence of the Secretary and the Under Secretary, the senior Assistant Secretary present acts as Secretary, and in the absence of all of these officers, the general counsel for the Treasury acts as Secretary.

THE UNDER SECRETARY

The Under Secretary exercises general supervision over the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the Bureau of Customs, and the Division of Research and statistics.

The Under Secretary, in the event of a vacancy in the Office of the Fiscal Assistant Secretary, acts as Fiscal Assistant Secretary and performs all duties and functions assigned to that office.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARIES OF THE TREASURY

An Assistant Secretary exercises general supervision over the work of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Bureau of the Mint, United States Coast Guard, Procurement Division, Office of Chief Coordinator-Treasury Enforcement Agencies, the Bureau of Narcotics, and the United States Secret Service.

An Assistant Secretary exercises general supervision over the Division of Monetary Research, the Foreign Funds Control, all matters with which the Treasury Department has to deal having a bearing on foreign relations, and supervision over matters relating to the management and operation of the Stabilization Fund.

The Fiscal Assistant Secretary exercises supervision over matters relating to the finances, and supervision of the Fiscal Service established in the Treasury effective June 30, 1940, pursuant to Reorganization Plan No. III, and composed of the Bureau of Accounts, Bureau of the Public Debt, Office of the Treasurer of the United States, and the various divisions subject to their jurisdiction. He maintains contacts with the departments, boards, corporations, and other branches of the Government with respect to their financial operations and the coordination of such operations with those of the Treasury, and represents the Secretary in such contacts in a liaison capacity, keeping the Secretary fully informed at all times. He also has supervision of the preparation of periodical estimates of the future cash position of the Treasury for use of the Department in connection with its financing and the preparation of calls for the withdrawal of funds in special depositaries to meet current expenditures; directs the transfer of governmental funds between the Federal Reserve banks when necessary; and directs fiscal agency functions in general, including deposits of gold certificates in the gold certificate fund for credit with the Federal Reserve banks.

THE GENERAL COUNSEL FOR THE TREASURY

The General Counsel is the chief law officer of the Department. He has direct supervision of the Legal Division of the Department, including the Office of the Tax Legislative Counsel, and performs such duties in respect of the legal activities thereof as may be prescribed by the Secretary or required by law. His duties include responsibility for all legislation of interest to the Department, including tax legislation.

THE ASSISTANTS TO THE SECRETARY

An assistant to the Secretary is adviser to the Secretary on tax policy matters, and as Director of Tax Research has direct supervision of the Division of Tax Research.

An assistant to the Secretary is the National Director of the United States Savings Bonds Division and is assigned the general supervision of that Division and its promotional and sales activities relating to United States Savings bonds and Savings stamps.

THE ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE SECRETARY

The Administrative Assistant to the Secretary exercises supervision over all the Department's matters of administration, including personnel matters, and supervision of the Office of the Chief Clerk, the Division of Personnel, the Correspondence Division, the Office of Superintendent of Treasury Buildings.

THE BUDGET OFFICER

The Budget Officer of the Department is responsible for the preparation, presentation, and justification of estimates of appropriations necessary for accomplishment of the Department's operations. In cooperation with the bureau heads and bureau budget officers, he directs and coordinates the budgetary programs of the Department, representing the Department before the Bureau of the Budget and the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of Congress in matters pertaining to appropriation estimates and related subjects. The Budget Officer also serves as chairman of the Budget and Improvement Committee of the Department and is a member of the Treasury Wage Board. The Budget Division comprises the operating staff of the Budget Officer.

CUSTOMS SERVICE

During Colonial days each Colony, and under the Articles of Confederation each State, administered its own customs service and fixed the rates of duty. The Federal Customs Service was created under the Constitution by the fifth act of the First Congress, approved July 31, 1789. The act of August 24, 1912, authorized the President to reorganize the Customs Service, abolish ports, and abolish or consolidate districts, and under this authority the present form of field organization was effected by the President's message to Congress of March 3, 1913. The act of August 1, 1914, authorizes the President to rearrange the several customs collection districts, abolish ports of entry, and establish new ports as may appear necessary from time to time, with a limitation that neither the total number of districts nor the total number of ports shall exceed the number which existed on the date of the passage of that act.

The reorganization act approved March 3, 1927, authorized the creation of a Bureau of Customs under a Commissioner of Customs. Under the authority of that act, the Secretary of the Treasury has conferred upon the Commissioner of Customs, subject to the general supervision and direction of the Secretary, the powers and duties relating to the importation and entry of merchandise into, or the exportation of merchandise from, the United States vested in or imposed upon the Secretary of the Treasury by the Tariff Act of 1930 or any other law, with the exception that certain classes of regulations and decisions shall be approved by the Secretary. Under this delegation of authority from the Secretary of the Treasury, the Commissioner of Customs has general authority for the administration of the Customs Service and the conduct of customs business, prescribing customs practice and procedure, and the supervision of the assessment and collection of customs duties, certain taxes, and miscellaneous receipts.

The office of the Commissioner of Customs directs and controls the functioning of the Customs Service throughout (1) the 45 customs collection districts, into which the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico have been divided, with a collector of customs in charge of each; (2) the 7 comptroller districts to which the 45 customs collection districts have been allocated, with a comptroller of customs in charge of each; (3) the 12 active customs agency districts—9 in the United States and 3 in foreign countries; (4) the 3 border patrol districts established on the Canadian and Mexican borders; and (5) 9 customs laboratory districts.

The principal functions of the Customs Service are to enter and clear vessels; supervise the discharge of cargo; ascertain the quantities of imported merchandise, appraise and classify such merchandise, and assess and collect the duties thereon; control the customs warehousing of imported merchandise; enforce customs and other laws by patrolling the international borders and inspecting international traffic by vessel, highway, railway, and air; review protests against assessments of duties; determine and certify for payment the amount of drawback due upon the exportation of articles manufactured or produced from duty-paid or tax-paid imports; prevent the smuggling of contraband merchandise and the release of prohibited articles; prevent and detect undervaluations and frauds on the customs revenue; apprehend violators of the customs laws; enforce the antidumping act, and perform certain duties under the Foreign Trade Zones Act.

The Bureau of Customs administers the navigation laws pertaining to registry, enrollment, and licensing of vessels, including the issuing of commissions to yachts and the assignment of signal letters; the measurement of vessels, administration of tonnage duties, and the collection of tolls; the entrance and clearance of aircraft; the regulation of vessels in the coasting and fishing trade and limitation of the use of foreign vessels in waters under the jurisdiction of the United States; the recording of sales, conveyances, and mortgages of vessels; the protection of steerage passengers; and the remission and mitigation of fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred under the laws governing these matters.

The Customs Service also cooperates with other services in the Treasury Department and other Executive departments and agencies of the Government in the collection of taxes, fees, and other charges, and in the enforcement of preventive, sanitary, and other laws under their respective administrations relating principally to persons and articles coming into this country and in some cases to articles sent out of the country.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has general supervision of the assessment and collection of all internal-revenue taxes and other miscellaneous taxing acts of Congress; the enforcement of internal-revenue laws; and the preparation and distribution of instructions, regulations, forms, blanks, stamps, etc. An annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury covering the activities of this service is made by the Commissioner.

For the purpose of efficient and effective administration of the internal-revenue laws the duties of the Bureau are assigned to various units as follows: Commissioner and Miscellaneous Unit, Income Tax Unit, Miscellaneous Tax Unit, Accounts and Collections Unit, Alcohol Tax Unit, Salary Stabilization Unit, and the Employment Tax Unit.

The Commissioner and Miscellaneous Unit includes the immediate Office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the Assistant Commissioners, the Personnel Division, the Administrative Division, the Office of the Special Deputy Commissioner, the Technical Staff, the Intelligence Unit, Training Division, Public Relations Division, and Statistical Division.

The Income Tax Unit is the agency of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for administering the Federal income and profits tax provisions of the revenue laws. Its duties are to prepare regulations for the administration of such provisions; to receive, audit, and verify the returns covering such taxes; and to review and dispose of claims for refund.

The Miscellaneous Tax Unit is charged with the administration of all internal-revenue tax laws except income and profits taxes, employment taxes, and alcohol taxes, and is also responsible for adjusting and closing cases involving repealed miscellaneous internal-revenue taxes. This unit is also charged with the administration of taxes imposed under the Silver Purchase Act of June 19, 1934, the Sugar Act of 1937, approved September 1, 1937, the Marihuana Tax Act of 1937, approved August 2, 1937, the National Firearms Act, approved June 26, 1934, the Federal Firearms Act, approved June 30, 1938, and the tax imposed on hydraulic mining under the act of March 1, 1893, as amended June 19, 1934.

The Accounts and Collections Unit is charged with the administration of matters having to do with the organization and management of the offices of collectors of internal revenue, including their field forces; with the administration of the laws relating to employment taxes; and with the administrative audit of revenue and disbursing accounts in the Internal Revenue Bureau and Service. It also issues stamps to collectors of internal revenue.

The Employment Tax Unit is charged with the administration of the employment taxes imposed under chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code; the taxes under subchapter A, Federal Insurance Contributions Act, being with respect to employment by other than carriers, subchapter B with respect to employment by carriers, and subchapter C, Employment Tax Act with respect to tax on employers of eight or more.

The Alcohol Tax Unit is charged with the administration of the laws relating to the manufacture, warehousing and distribution of spirituous liquors, wines, fermented liquors, and industrial alcohol; the determination, assertion, and assessment of taxes and penalties on liquors; the inquiry and investigation relative to the filing of returns for occupational and commodity taxes; the regulation of the manufacture and use of liquor bottles and the chemical analysis of liquors and numerous other products to determine their taxable status. It administers the provisions of the Federal Alcohol Administration Act relating to the regulation of interstate and foreign commerce in distilled spirits, wines, and malt beverages, and the labeling and advertising thereof. It is also charged with the investigation, detection and prevention of willful and fraudulent violations of internal-revenue laws relating to liquors.

The Salary Stabilization Unit is charged with the administration of salary increases and decreases coming within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner as defined in the regulations of the Economic Stabilization Director which was approved by the President on October 27, 1942, as amended. Jurisdiction of the Commissioner covers all salaries over $5,000 per year and salary payments of less than $5,000 per year in the case of executive, administrative, or professional employees not represented by labor organizations. Its duties are to receive, consider, and issue rulings upon all requests for increases and decreases of the type of salaries under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner.

There are five main divisions of the Field Service, as follows: The Collection Service, the Field Audit Service, the Supervisory Field Service of Alcohol Tax Unit, the Field Divisions of the Technical Staff, and the Field Divisions of the Salary Stabilization Unit.

In addition to the four aforementioned major field activities, there are the following field forces, whose activities are supervised from Washington: Intelligence Agents, Supervisors of Accounts and Collections, Miscellaneous Tax Special Squads, and Field Inspection Service.

DIVISION OF RESEARCH AND STATISTICS

The Division of Research and Statistics in the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury serves as a technical staff for the Secretary and other Treasury officials on the economic aspects of certain fiscal operations and policies. Its work is concerned particularly with Treasury financing and public debt problems, estimating the amount of future Federal revenues, actuarial analyses involved in certain Treasury functions, and various general economic problems arising in connection with Treasury activities.

COAST GUARD

The United States Coast Guard, pursuant to the act of January 28, 1915, as amended, is a military service and at all times constitutes a branch of the land and naval forces of the United States, operating under the Treasury Department in time of peace and as a part of the Navy in time of war, or whenever the President shall so direct. It represents, in its historical development from 1790, an amalgamation into one united service of the activities of the old Revenue Cutter Service, the Life-Saving Service, and the Lighthouse Service. Pursuant to Executive Order No. 9083 of February 28, 1942, certain functions of the Bureau of Marine Inspection and Navigation, Department of Commerce, pertaining to the navigation and vessel-inspection laws and the welfare of merchant marine seamen, were transferred to the jurisdiction of the Coast Guard. Its normal peacetime functions as the Federal maritime police embrace, in general terms, maritime law enforcement, saving and protecting life and property, safeguarding navigation on the high seas and navigable waters of the United States, and national defense.

More specifically the duties of the Coast Guard are as follows:

(a) The prevention, detection, and suppression of violations of the laws of the United States on the high seas and navigable waters of the United States, its Territories, and possessions; protection of the customs revenue; enforcement of navigation laws, including promulgation and enforcement of rules for lights, signals, speed, steering, sailing, passing, anchorage, movement, and towlines of vessels, and lights and signals on bridges; enforcement of vessel-manning requirements, citizenship requirements, and requirements for the mustering and drilling of crews; enforcement of neutrality laws and regulations; the enforcement of the rules and regulations governing the anchorage and movements of vessels under the Espionage Act; supervision over the loading and unloading of explosives and other dangerous cargoes, in the interest of safety to life and property, by vessels in our harbors; the enforcement of the Oil Pollution Act; the patrol and enforcement of provisions of conventions into which the United States has entered with other nations, such as the patrol in the waters frequented by the seal and the sea otter, a patrol for the preservation of the halibut fisheries of Northern Pacific Ocean and Bering Sea, and the enforcement of the provisions of the act giving effect to the convention for the regulation of whaling.

(b) The affording of aid to distressed persons and vessels on the high seas and waters over which the United States has jurisdiction; the saving of life and property from shipwreck; the construction, operation, maintenance, repair, illumination, and inspection of aids to navigation; the enforcement of the regulations to promote the safety of life on navigable waters during regattas and marine parades; patrolling the trans-Atlantic steamship lanes endangered by icebergs; extending medical and surgical aid to the crews of American vessels engaged in deep-sea fisheries; rescuing and safeguarding life and property and distributing food and clothing to marooned people during flood times on the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers and their tributaries; destruction of derelicts; the collection of statistics and investigation of marine disasters; approval of plans for the construction, repair, and alteration of vessels; approval of materials, equipment, and appliances; classification of vessels; inspection of vessels and their equipment and appliances; issuance of certificates of inspection and of permits indicating the approval of vessels for operations which may be hazardous to life and property; administration of load-line requirements; numbering of undocumented vessels; licensing and certifying of officers, pilots, and seamen; suspension and revocation of licenses and certificates; shipment, discharge, protection, and welfare of merchant seamen; licensing of motorboat operators; administration of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, a voluntary organization of owners of motorboats, yachts, aircraft, and radio stations.

(c) Executive Order No. 8929, dated November 1, 1941, prescribed that the Coast Guard would operate from that date, until further orders, as a part of the Navy, its personnel and resources being used to the best advantage by directives of the Secretary of the Navy and Chief of Naval Operations. Executive Order No. 9666, dated December 28, 1945, directed that on and after January 1, 1946, the Coast Guard shall operate under the Department of the Treasury, and that thereupon all authority, powers and duties conferred on or vested in the Secretary of the Navy by any law, proclamation or Executive order affecting the Coast Guard, enacted or promulgated during that period the Coast Guard has been operating as a part of the Navy, shall vest in and be exercised by the Secretary of the Treasury. While operating under the Navy Department, a number of the normal peacetime duties of the service were subordinated, discontinued, or curtailed, wherever necessary, and every energy was directed toward prosecution of the war, the Coast Guard functioning as a service in the Navy Department. Among the fields of wartime activities in which service facilities were employed are convoy, antisubmarine and patrol duty with the fleet, naval sea frontier or task forces; manning of naval transports, frigates, landing craft and other auxiliaries and certain Army vessels; security of ports, harbors, vessels, and waterfront facilities; beach patrol; training of landing-boat crews, air-sea rescue, measures for the safety of merchant marine personnel, and control of pilotage. The transition from wartime to normal peacetime duties had not been completed upon the return of the Coast Guard to the Treasury Department. A part of the personnel of the Coast Guard has continued to engage in certain activities of the Naval Service. These activities are being reduced as expeditiously as is practicable and the personnel reassigned to peace-time duties.

To assist the Commandant, who is charged by law with the administration of the Coast Guard, there are established at Headquarters: a Planning and Control Staff; an Advisory Board; a Merchant Marine Council; Offices of Operations, Merchant Marine Safety, Engineering, Personnel, and Finance and Supply; and Legal, Headquarters Administration, Intelligence and Law Enforcement, Inspection, and Public Information Divisions.

OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

The most important functions of the Comptroller of the Currency are those relating to the organization of new national banks; the general supervision over the national banks in operation; the administration, through receivers, of national banks which have failed.

Reports of condition of national banks are required to be made to the Comptroller by the banks not less than three times a year upon a date fixed by the Comptroller. Under the direction of the Comptroller, national-bank examiners make regular examinations of the affairs of the national banks, showing their condition with reference to solvency and observance of the provisions of the National Bank Act. In case of deliberate violation, suit may be brought in the name of the Comptroller against any such bank for the forfeiture of its charter. If it appears to the Comptroller that any national bank is in an insolvent condition he is empowered to appoint a receiver.

The Comptroller of the Currency is an ex officio member of the Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and sits regularly with the Board.

The Comptroller of the Currency is required by law to report directly to Congress annually and to recommend to Congress amendments to the national banking laws.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING

This Bureau designs, engraves, and prints for the Government, United States currency, bonds, notes, bills, and certificates; Federal Reserve notes; Federal farm loan, joint-stock land bank, consolidated Federal farm loan and Federal farm mortgage bonds; Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds; revenue, customs, war savings, and postage stamps; Government checks; and many other classes of engraved work for governmental use. It performs a similar function for the insular possessions of the Government.

BUREAU OF THE MINT

The Director of the Mint has general supervision of the mints, assay offices, and bullion depositories of the United States; prescribes the rules, subject to approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, for the business transactions of the mints and assay offices, receives daily reports on the operations of the field institutions, directs the coinage to be executed and medals to be made for the armed services and other agencies; reviews the accounts, authorizes expenditures, superintends the annual settlements of the several institutions, and makes special examinations of them when deemed necessary. Appointments, removals, and transfers in the mints, assay offices, and bullion depositories are subject to approval of the Director of the Mint.

The Director of the Mint publishes quarterly an estimate of the value of the standard coins of foreign countries for customhouse use and other public purposes; makes an annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury, covering the operations of the Mint Service for the fiscal year and giving statistics of the production of precious metals in the United States and the world for the calendar year. The Director is responsible for all gold and silver assets of the Government which are in custody of the mint.

BUREAU OF NARCOTICS

The Commissioner of Narcotics, under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury, has general supervision of the enforcement of the Narcotic and marihuana tax provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, the Opium Poppy Control Act of 1942, and related statutes, including the administration of the permissive features of the Narcotic Drugs Import and Export Act, and cooperates with the Customs Bureau in the enforcement of the prohibitive features of the latter act. The Commissioner also cooperates (1) with the State Department in the discharge of the international obligations of the United States concerning the traffic in narcotic drugs and (2) with the several States in the suppression of the abuse of narcotic drugs in their respective jurisdictions.

The duties of the Bureau include the investigation and the detection and prevention of violations of the Federal narcotic laws (including the Federal marihuana law and the Opium Poppy Control Act of 1942), the determination, with the cooperation of the Public Health Service, of quantities of crude opium and coca leaves to be imported into the United States for medical and legitimate uses, and the issuance of permits to import the crude narcotic drugs and to export drugs and preparations manufactured therefrom under the law and regulations. An annual report is made to Congress which also serves the purpose of the special report heretofore prepared in the Bureau on behalf of the Government for transmittal through the State Department to the nations signatory to the International Drug Conventions of 1912 and 1931.

UNITED STATES SECRET SERVICE

The protection of the President of the United States, the members of his immediate family, and the person chosen to be President, at all times and under all conditions, and the protection of the White House and grounds by the White House Police.

The suppression of counterfeiting, forging, or alteration of obligations or securities of the United States (including war savings stamps, internal revenue stamps, postage stamps, and hunting stamps, but not postal money orders) or of foreign governments; the counterfeiting of coins; the investigation of the forgery of endorsements on, or the fraudulent negotiation of, United States Treasury checks; and the investigation of the counterfeiting or altering of Government transportation requests.

Investigations pertaining to certain violations of the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, the Silver Purchase Act, section 12-B of the Banking Act of 1935 covered by subsections (s) to (x), inclusive (sec. 264, title 12, U. S. C.), the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, the Federal Land Bank Act, and the Federal Farm Loan Act.

Investigations pertaining to thefts of Government property under control of the Treasury Department, and loss of valuables in shipments by agencies of the United States (Government Losses in Shipment Act).

Personnel investigations as directed by the Secretary or Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Protection by the Uniformed Force of the Treasury Building, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and certain other buildings housing Treasury Department activities; protection of the production, transportation, and storage of money, stamps, securities, and obligations of the United States; protection of all other valuable papers stored in the Treasury Department vaults and buildings.

Investigations within the Treasury Department of its several branches when directed by the Secretary of the Treasury or his representative.

Performance of such other duties as the Secretary or Assistant Secretary of the Treasury may direct.

PROCUREMENT DIVISION

The Procurement Division was created in the Treasury Department by Executive Order No. 6166, dated June 10, 1933, pursuant to the act of March 3, 1933 (47 Stat. 1517).

The Procurement Division is responsible for the determination of policies and methods of procurement, warehousing, and distribution of property, facilities, improvements, machinery, equipment, stores, and supplies for all Federal executive establishments; for performance of procurement of all such property and supplies for use either at the seat of Government or in the field for all existing Government executive agencies and such agencies hereafter created, except the War and Navy Departments and the Marine Corps.

The Procurement Division—

(a) Makes general term contracts for supplies and services for use by all agencies, as announced through the General Schedule of Supplies, and makes definite quantity purchases and contracts for their use. Prescribes standard forms of Government contracts and purchase orders.

(b) Under the Federal Standard Stock Catalog function, develops standard nomenclature covering commodities used by the Government; provides a standard description of commodities for storage and issue of warehoused stock and for cataloging and recording supplies.

(c) Coordinates procedures and activities relating to movement of Government freight by various agencies, negotiates special rates and other particular freight considerations, supplies information of freight rates and routes, and represents the Government before the Interstate Commerce Commission and other regulatory bodies on traffic problems.

(d) Stores commonly used supplies in warehouses in the District of Columbia and the field, and issues them to Federal agencies as requisitioned. Also operates a fuel yard, a furniture repair shop, a typewriter repair shop, and an automotive repair shop, providing in the District of Columbia solid and liquid fuels and major and minor repairs for the Treasury and certain other agencies.

(e) Makes quantitative and qualitative inspection of equipment and supplies, and examines items offered under proposed contracts, as to compliance with specifications.

(f) Conducts investigations and studies in connection with the establishment or modification of procedures, organization, and policy in connection with procurement, warehousing, and distribution of commodities or services.

(g) Prepares and maintains currently, by amendments and revision as necessary, Federal specifications which describe minimum requirements of commodities important in Government use, with special reference to elements of quality, performance, measurement, or other factors and with due regard to the requirements of consumers with relation to market limitations.

(h) Pursuant to the act of June 7, 1939, and section 22 of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 is responsible for the procurement, transporting, storing, and maintaining of stock piles of raw materials classified as strategic or critical to emergency requirements of the Nation.

(i) Procures various industrial and other commodities and articles to meet requirements of nations subject to benefits of the Lend-Lease Act. Operates field services of inspection, expediting, and storage incident to such procurement.

(j) Transacts all the Treasury Department printing and binding business with the Government Printing Office and handles all requisitions for nonmonetary requirements of other agencies for supply by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

(k) Renegotiates war contracts pursuant to the provisions and procedures of the Renegotiation Act.

(l) Coordinates purchases by the Federal Government of the blind-made products specified by the Committee on Purchases of Blind-Made Products.

(m) Coordinates and controls as to reassignment for Federal use or other disposition property abandoned or seized and forfeited under the Federal Alcohol Administration Act and the Liquor Law Repeal and Enforcement Act of 1935.

(n) Provides various duplicating and distribution services for various war agencies such as complete duplicating services, including multilith, mimeograph, photostat, ozalid and photographic processes; forms design, layout and consulting service; and the distribution of forms, pamphlets, releases, and other printed material.

(o) Considers requirements of regular Federal establishments for electric power, telephone, and other utilities' service; negotiates consolidated contracts and provides assistance toward developing most advantageous practices in use of such service.

DIVISION OF MONETARY RESEARCH

The Division of Monetary Research in the Office of the Secretary was established on March 25, 1938. The Division provides information, economic analyses, and recommendations for the use of the Secretary of the Treasury and other Treasury officials to assist in the formulation and execution of the monetary and foreign financial policies of the Department in connection with the stabilization fund and other operations under the Gold Reserve and the Silver Purchase Acts, and in connection with the National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems. Analyses are made pertaining to gold and silver; the flow of capital funds into and out of the United States; the position of the dollar in relation to foreign currencies; monetary, banking, and fiscal policies of foreign countries; exchange and trade restrictions abroad; financial and monetary problems relating to invasion and occupation of enemy-held territory by American armed forces; foreign lending policy of the Government and similar problems. Analyses are also prepared relating to the customs activities of the Department and to the duties of the Secretary of the Treasury under the Tariff Act and on other matters pertaining to international trade, including the trade-agreement program. In addition, the Division provides economic analyses in connection with the Treasury's Foreign Funds Control, and supervises the collection and use of data obtained in the census of foreign-owned assets in United States. The Division also is responsible for the economic and financial work in connection with the negotiation of exchange stabilization agreements, made by the United States with foreign governments and central banks for the purpose of promoting international exchange stability. The Treasury's operations under these agreements are performed by the Stabilization Fund, which is administered by the Division.

FOREIGN FUNDS CONTROL

During World War II the Treasury Department, through Foreign Funds Control, was primarily responsible for planning and executing this Government's program of financial warfare against our enemies, under the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, and Executive Orders Nos. 8389, as amended, and 9193. In carrying out this program Foreign Funds Control vigorously pursued the vital objectives of weakening the enemy's financial resources, preventing financial operations contrary to our war effort, and facilitating financial operations supporting the war effort of the United Nations.

In the implementation of this program, Foreign Funds Control (1) froze the 8.5 billion dollars in assets held within the United States by persons in enemy, enemy occupied, liberated, and European neutral countries and regulated the use of such assets; (2) investigated and regulated international financial transactions; (3) administered import controls so as to close United States markets to enemy loot in the form of securities, currency, checks, and drafts and other assets; (4) through the Department of State, cooperated with other American Republics to secure their adoption of effective controls over enemy property and transactions, and participated in the administration of the Proclaimed List of Certain Blocked Nationals; (5) under section 3 (a) of the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, administered the wartime restrictions on trade with the enemy; (6) supervised the taking of the census of foreign-owned property and the census of American-owned property abroad; and (7) participated with other Treasury organizations in carrying out the Department's broad responsibilities in connection with problems of areas liberated from enemy domination and occupied territory.

In the post hostilities period Foreign Funds Control has a threefold program: (a) An orderly defrosting program, conducted in such a manner as to (1) insure the uncovering of cloaked enemy interests; (2) prevent the completion of transactions effected under duress or for the benefit of the enemy; (3) prevent the completion of transactions for the benefit of collaborationist elements; and (4) establish measures for the protection of claims of this Government and of private American creditors in blocked assets. (b) To assure complete elimination of existing German and Japanese economic and financial influences in this country and to prevent the postwar use of United States banking facilities by enemy interests. (c) The development of the necessary procedures for licensing the reopening of trade, remittances, and general financial and commercial relations with former enemy countries consistent with this Government's objectives in controlling their postwar developments.

The Federal Reserve Banks of Chicago, New York, and San Francisco and the governors of the territories and possessions of the United States act as field agents of Foreign Funds Control.

FISCAL SERVICE

BUREAU OF ACCOUNTS

(Formerly Office of Commissioner of Accounts and Deposits)

The Bureau of Accounts is composed of the Office of the Commissioner of Accounts, Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants, Division of Disbursement, Division of Deposits, Section of Surety Bonds, Section of Investments, and the Liquidation Division. In addition to the general supervisory duties relating to these activities, the Commissioner of Accounts exercises supervision over the deposit of withheld taxes under the Current Tax Payment Act of 1943; final liquidation of affairs of the Office of Central Administrative Services and certain other war agencies as listed below; and liquidation of matters growing out of the control of the American transportation system, which was exercised through the United States Railroad Administration during the period from December 28, 1917, to February 29, 1920.

Under Reorganization Plan III (54 Stat. 1231), the Commissioner of Accounts also exercises general supervision over the installation of or changes in the accounting procedures of the various Treasury bureaus and offices; the accounting and reporting development work under Executive Order No. 8512; and the preparation of the combined statement of the receipts and expenditures of the Government under the act of July 31, 1894.

The Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants was created by the act of July 31, 1894 (28 Stat. 208; U. S. Code, title 5, sec. 255). Prior to that time it was known as the Division of Warrants, Estimates, and Appropriations. Section 1, paragraph (3) of the third plan on Government Reorganization provides that "the Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants and its functions are transferred to the Bureau of Accounts." The act of 1894 provides that upon the books of this Division shall be kept all accounts of receipts and expenditures of public money, except postal. The Division, in the name of the Secretary of the Treasury, issues all warrants on the Treasurer of the United States, makes analyses of acts of Congress carrying appropriations and maintains the appropriation accounts on its ledgers relating to all activities of the Government. It issues warrants for placing disbursing funds to the credit of disbursing officers, for the payment by the Treasury of claims settled by the General Accounting Office, and for covering into the Treasury the revenues and receipts of the Government. It also compiles and publishes an annual digest of the appropriations made by Congress.

The Division of Disbursement was created under Executive Order No. 6166 of June 10, 1933, which provided that the function of disbursement of money of the United States exercised by any agency of the Government is transferred to the Treasury Department and consolidated in that Division. The War and Navy Departments, except with respect to departmental salaries and expenses in the District of Columbia, were exempted from Executive Order No. 6166 by Executive Order No. 6728 of May 29, 1934. The function of disbursement of moneys of the United States in the other executive departments and agencies in Washington and in the field has been taken over and consolidated in this Division with the exception of the Postal Service and United States marshals, which were exempted from Executive Order No. 6166 by Reorganization Plan No. IV, dated April 11, 1940. The Division includes the central office in Washington, D. C., 21 regional offices in the several Federal Reserve districts and 25 offices outside the continental limits of the United States for the purpose of performing the disbursing functions for the various departments and agencies.

The Division of Deposits is charged with the Administration of all matters pertaining to designation and supervision of Government depositaries and the deposit of Government funds in such depositaries; i. e., the Federal Reserve banks, member bank depositaries, and special depositaries under the Liberty Loan Acts, foreign depositaries, Territorial depositaries, Federal land banks, and the Philippine treasury; matters pertaining to the qualification of Federal savings and loan associations as fiscal agents of the United States under Treasury Circular 568; and matters pertaining to the functions of the Treasury under the Government Losses in Shipment Act.

The Section of Surety Bonds is responsible for analyzing the financial statements of surety companies authorized to transact business with the United States. It determines the underwriting qualifications of surety companies, audits, their quarterly financial statements, makes examinations into their financial condition at the home offices wherever necessary, and performs other duties to determine whether the companies observe the requirements of existing law and regulations of the Treasury. The section has custody of all fidelity bonds in favor of the United States, with a few exceptions, and notifies the accounting offices of the receipt and filing of such official bonds. The section examines and approves as to corporate surety all fidelity and surety bonds taken by Treasury officers, except customs bonds filed in the field, and also examines and approves as to corporate surety the fidelity and surety bonds accepted by practically all of the executive departments and establishments in Washington.

The Section of Investments keeps the accounts and supervises collections of railroad obligations owned by the United States, which are in the custody of the Treasury; handles the collection of other obligations owned by the United States which are turned over to the Treasury by other departments for collection; makes payments, keeps accounts, and handles matters relating to awards under the Settlement of War Claims Act of 1928, under the claims agreement of October 25, 1934, between the United States and Turkey, and under the acts of April 10, 1935, and December 18, 1942, covering claims against the Republic of Mexico; and handles matters relating to investment accounts under control of the Secretary of the Treasury and securities held by the Treasurer of the United States and the Federal Reserve banks for which the Secretary of the Treasury is responsible, other than those related to public-debt operations. It also maintains accounts and handles matters relating to the purchase of silver under the Silver Purchase Act of 1934 and special deposit accounts of the Secretary of the Treasury relating to alien property trust funds, offers in compromise under the provisions of section 3469 of the Revised Statutes, guaranty deposits, Philippine trust funds held in interest-bearing accounts, and withheld foreign check payments.

The Office of the Director General of the Railroads was abolished, effective July 1, 1939, pursuant to section 2 (b) of the President's Reorganization Plan No. II and its functions and duties transferred to the Secretary of the Treasury. This work is performed in the Bureau of Accounts.

The Division of Central Administrative Services of the Office for Emergency Management was terminated, effective November 30, 1944, by regulations dated September 26, 1944, of the Director of the Bureau of the Budget issued pursuant to Executive Order No. 9471, dated August 25, 1944. The regulations of the Director provided for the transfer to the Bureau of Accounts of the liquidation of residual affairs of the Division.

The Office of Civilian Defense was terminated June 30, 1945, by Executive Order 9562, dated June 4, 1945. Paragraph 3 of the order provided that the Secretary of the Treasury acting through the Bureau of Accounts of the Treasury Department shall wind up the affairs of the Office.

The War Refugee Board was terminated, effective September 15, 1945, by Executive Order 9614, dated September 14, 1945. The Executive order authorized and directed the Secretary of the Treasury to liquidate all of the activities and obligations and wind up all of the affairs of the Board as rapidly as practicable and not later than June 30, 1946.

The Office of Censorship was terminated on November 15, 1945, by Executive Order 9631, dated September 28, 1945. The order directed that for the purpose of completing the liquidation of the affairs of the Office of Censorship all property and records of the Office on hand on November 15, 1945, together with its remaining personnel and any balances of appropriations then unexpended shall be transferred to the Secretary of the Treasury to be utilized by the Secretary in winding up the affairs of the Office.

Executive Order 9608, dated August 31, 1945, provided that certain functions of the Office of War Information be transferred to an Interim International Information Service to be established in the Department of State; that certain other functions be transferred to the Bureau of the Budget; effective as of the close of business on September 15, 1945, the functions of the Office of War Information then remaining be abolished; effective as of the close of business on December 31, 1945, the Interim International Information Service and any functions then remaining be abolished; and, that all of the personnel, records, property, and appropriation balances of the Interim International Information Service and of the Office of War Information then remaining be transferred to the Treasury Department for final liquidation.

The liquidation of the affairs of such agencies by the Bureau of Accounts involves generally (1) the disposition of property, equipment, and supplies; (2) the termination of contracts; (3) the placement or separation of excess agency personnel; (4) the collection of moneys owed to the Government; (5) the liquidation of obligations incurred under appropriations, including the payment of vouchers and the certification of claims; (6) the satisfaction of post-audit exceptions taken by the General Accounting Office to expenditures under the programs; (7) the disposition of special deposits (as for example, employees' pay-roll deductions, bond purchases, and withheld taxes); (8) the completion of accounting records, retirement records, etc.; (9) the answering of inquiries concerning past transactions; (10) the preparation of records for the archives and disposition of other records; and, (11) the preparation of final reports.

BUREAU OF THE PUBLIC DEBT

The Bureau of the Public Debt, under the Commissioner of the Public Debt, is charged with the conduct of transactions in public debt and paper currency issues of the United States. It also is charged with the procurement of distinctive paper required for printing currency and public debt securities of the United States. As agent, the Bureau also conducts transactions in the interest-bearing issues of the Philippine and Puerto Rican Governments, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, the Federal Housing Administration, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Commodity Credit Corporation, the United States Housing Authority; and in the consolidated issues of the Federal Farm Loan banks. The Bureau organization consists of the Office of the Commissioner, the Division of Loans and Currency, the Office of the Register of the Treasury, the Division of Public Debt Accounts and Audit, the Division of Savings Bonds, and the Division of Paper Custody.

Office of the Commissioner.—When a new issue of public debt securities is to be offered for subscription, the Office of the Commissioner prepares the necessary documents incident to the offering, directs the handling of subscriptions for and allotments of the securities to be issued. General supervision is exercised over the conduct of transactions in such securities after issue, either by the divisions of the Bureau in Washington, or by Federal Reserve banks, fiscal agents of the United States.

Division of Loans and Currency.—This division is the issuing branch. It is charged with the receipt and custody of new securities, and their issuance, directly or to the Federal Reserve banks; with the conduct of transactions in the outstanding debt including exchanges, transfers, conversions, maintenance of registered accounts, and the issuing of checks for interest thereon; and with the verification of canceled redeemed United States paper currency, and mutilated work from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

Office of the Register of the Treasury.—This office is the retiring branch. It is charged with the receipt of all paid or redeemed or exchanged public-debt securities, including interest coupons, canceled and retired on any account, and from any sources whatever, their audit, verification, and custody.

Division of Public Debt Accounts and Audit.—This division maintains administrative control accounts over all transactions with which the Bureau of the Public Debt is charged, and related transactions conducted by the Office of the Treasurer of the United States, and by the Federal Reserve banks acting in their capacities as fiscal agents of the United States. Similar accounts are maintained over transactions in distinctive and nondistinctive paper used in printing public debt and other securities, currency, stamps, etc. It also makes administrative examinations and audits of transactions so conducted and the securities involved. It maintains control accounts over reserve stocks of currency, and conducts administrative examinations and physical audits of such stocks, cash balances in the several divisions of the Treasurer's Office, and collateral securities held in trust by the Treasurer.

Division of Paper Custody.—This division is charged with the receipt, count, custody, and issue of all distinctive paper used for production of securities and currency by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. In connection with the manufacture of distinctive paper, a small field force is maintained at the mills of the contractors.

Division of Savings Bonds.—This division is charged with the distribution of publicity literature for the United States Savings Bond Division, the maintenance of mailing lists and the conduct of the regular purchase plan program. The division conducts correspondence with the investing public in connection with the regular purchase plan and the registration of savings bonds.

Chicago office.—All transactions in savings bonds after their issue are conducted in the Chicago office of the Bureau. Branches of the Office of the Commissioner, the Division of Loans and Currency, the Office of the Register of the Treasury, the Division of Public Debt Accounts and Audit, and the Division of Savings Bonds in its entirety, comprise the Chicago office.

OFFICE OF THE TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES

The Treasurer of the United States is charged with the receipt and disbursement of public moneys that may be deposited in the Treasury at Washington and in the other depositories authorized by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive deposits of Government funds for credit in the account of the Treasurer of the United States. Funds advanced to disbursing officers for the use of Government departments and establishments under the appropriation of Congress are credited in the accounts of such disbursing officers on the books of the Treasurer, and disbursements therefrom are made by checks drawn on the Treasurer. In his Office are prepared and issued, for the Secretary of the Treasury, the daily Treasury statement of the United States, the monthly preliminary statement of the public debt, and the monthly preliminary statement of classified expenditures of the Government; the monthly statement of the outstanding paper currency of the Government is also published. The Treasury general ledger accounts of the trust fund, the reserve fund, the gold certificate fund, and the general fund, and other important accounts are maintained in his Office. He prepares an annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury. The Treasurer is fiscal agent for the issue and redemption of United States paper currency, for payment of principal and interest on the public debt on obligations the principal and interest of which are fully guaranteed by the United States, for payment of principal and interest on bonds of the Puerto Rican and Philippine governments (of which the Secretary of the Treasury is the transfer agent), and for the redemption of national-bank notes, Federal Reserve notes, and Federal Reserve bank notes. He is treasurer of the board of trustees of the Postal Savings System, trustee for bonds held to secure public deposits in national banks and bonds held to secure postal savings in banks, and custodian of miscellaneous securities and trust funds.

There are in the Office of the Treasurer six divisions: Administrative Division, Accounting Division, Cash Division, Currency Redemption Division, Division of General Accounts, and Division of Securities.

OFFICE OF THE TAX LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

The Office of the Tax Legislative Counsel assists the Secretary in the legal aspects of planning and coordinating the Treasury Department's legislative program respecting the internal revenue, and in representing the Department on such matters before the appropriate congressional committees. The Office assists in the consideration of Treasury regulations and rulings dealing with the interpretation of internal-revenue laws. It supervises the preparation of departmental reports on internal-revenue bills, gives assistance in drafting tax legislation, and handles departmental correspondence on such legislation.

DIVISION OF TAX RESEARCH

The Division of Tax Research serves in a technical capacity, assisting both the Secretary of the Treasury and the congressional committees dealing with taxation by assembling the facts and preparing the analyses (other than legal) needed to formulate tax policy. On request, it provides information on various tax matters for the use of the President, the House Ways and Means Committee, the Senate Finance Committee, the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, and officials of the Treasury Department and other Federal agencies. It answers inquiries and analyzes suggestions on taxation submitted by the public. It appraises the operations and results of Federal tax legislation to determine whether congressional objectives are being accomplished and to advise of defects or inadequacies. The Division is also charged with general responsibility with respect to the assembly and publication of statistics pertaining to Federal taxation.

To carry out its functions, the Division is required to make basic surveys of the tax problems of the Federal Government, to devise alternative methods of meeting revenue requirements, and to develop methods of adjusting the tax system to changing economic conditions. The tax system as a whole is analyzed with a view to obtaining revenue yields large enough to meet prospective revenue requirements and to making adjustments in a manner which will be fair to taxpayers and will avoid undesirable economic effects. Individual taxes are studied (1) to determine their effects on the particular groups of taxpayers involved, (2) to avoid inequity among taxpayers within a given group, (3) to ascertain and develop methods of meeting the administrative and compliance problems of the tax, and (4) to devise ways of integrating the particular tax with the tax system as a whole. These studies require economic analyses of the effects of each tax; technical analyses of the more complicated problems inherent in various tax measures; and statistical analyses of the distribution of the burden of specific taxes, of the total Federal tax load, and of the combined Federal, State, and local burden.

UNITED STATES SAVINGS BONDS DIVISION

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF CLERK

The Chief Clerk enforces the general regulations of the Department and has administrative jurisdiction of the contingent appropriation and other miscellaneous appropriations and expenditures therefrom, including the purchase and issuance of stationery, miscellaneous supplies and equipment, as well as the control of surplus property and utilization of reserve equipment.

He has supervision of the several service units including the telephone, telegraph, duplicating, and bookbinding sections; information service; and the motor messengers and chauffeurs.

He administers and is certifying officer for several pay rolls and special allotments; prepares material for budget estimates for personal services and contingent expenditures; and maintains accounts, by offices, on all funds expended for personal services for which pay rolls are administered.

He is contact officer for the translation of foreign mail, both departmental and interdepartmental.

The organization includes the Treasury archivist, who is liaison officer between the Treasury Department and the National Archives, including the Federal Register Division.

He has custody of the completed records and files of the Secretary's office and the Treasury seal, and handles requests for certified copies of official papers, making the certification thereof.

He supervises the receipt, distribution, and transmission of mail; the care of vehicles under the office of the Secretary; the receipt and distribution of all documents, and is responsible for the accounting, auditing, and maintenance of records pertaining to ordnance lent by the War Department to Treasury officials, both in the District of Columbia and in the field.

The Chief Clerk also has charge of the unassigned business of the Secretary's office.

CORRESPONDENCE DIVISION

This division maintains control of all secretarial mail, including contacts with all branches of the Department in connection with official correspondence, both incoming and outgoing, maintains a complete card record of incoming secretarial mail, prepares certain letters for the signature of the Secretary, and routes others to the proper officials; has charge of the stenographic pool for the Secretary's office, performs such special duties as are assigned from time to time.

DIVISION OF PERSONNEL

The Division of Personnel has primary responsibility for the personnel management activities of the Department as a whole. It coordinates and exercises control over position-classification, salary administration, recruitment, appointment, placement, promotion, separation, discipline, efficiency rating, employee relations, and other personnel matters. This Division represents the Department in its relations with the Civil Service Commission, the Council of Personnel Administration, and with other agencies where personnel functions are concerned.

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF TREASURY BUILDINGS

The Superintendent of Treasury Buildings is charged with direct responsibility for the maintenance and operation of all Treasury buildings in the District of Columbia except the buildings of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

COMMITTEE ON PRACTICE

The Committee on Practice receives applications for admission to practice before the Treasury Department and for licenses authorizing the holders to act as customhouse brokers. The committee passes upon such applications, enrolls applicants to practice before the Department, and issues licenses to applicants who show that they are qualified to act as customhouse brokers. The committee conducts hearings in disbarment proceedings, on complaints filed by the attorney for the Government as the representative of the Department before the committee, and makes recommendations to the Secretary. Collectors of customs may initiate proceedings for the suspension or revocation of licenses issued to customhouse brokers. The records of such proceedings are referred to the committee for review and recommendation to the Secretary.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR

SECRETARY OF WAR

The Secretary of War is head of the War Department, and performs such duties as are required of him by law or may be enjoined upon him by the President.

He is charged by law with the supervision of all estimates of appropriations for the expenses of the Department, including the Military Establishment; of all purchases of Army supplies; of all expenditures for the support, transportation, and maintenance of the Army; and of such expenditures of a civil nature as may be placed by Congress under his direction.

He is responsible for the proper execution of the provisions of the National Defense Act of 1920. He is held responsible for the protection of our seacoast harbors and cities; for the development of improved weapons and matériel; for the proper instruction of all military personnel; for the discipline and morale of the Military Establishment; for the defense of, and the administration of government in, those insular possessions that come under his jurisdiction.

He directs the activities of the Corps of Engineers in the improvement of the waterways of the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, including examinations, surveys, and economic studies of harbors and streams for the formulation of improvement projects. He recommends to Congress definite plans for improvement and makes contracts for the execution of the physical works required to make our waterways capable of meeting the needs of constantly expanding inland, coastwise, and foreign commerce.

He is charged with the formulation and execution of plans for flood control on inland rivers, power and irrigation development, and the survey and charting of the Great Lakes.

He is responsible for surveys of international boundary waters, the inter-oceanic survey (Nicaragua Canal route), and the construction of national monuments and memorials. He is also charged with the establishment of harbor lines, approval of plans for the construction of bridges, and issue of permits for wharves, piers, and other works upon navigable waters; investigation, in cooperation with the Federal Power Commission, of water-power projects; the removal of wrecks from navigable waters; the regulation of the operation of drawbridges, establishment and regulation of anchorage grounds, regulation of the use of navigable waters of the United States, the preservation of the American Falls of Niagara, and the administration of matters pertaining to the participation of the United States in the Niagara Control Board.

He is responsible for the defense, maintenance, care, and operation of the Panama Canal. This responsibility requires that he not only provide for the transit of ships from one ocean to the other but also for their repair, fueling, supplies, and foodstuffs and the care and hospitalization of ships' personnel and passengers. The organization under his charge has supervision over public health, quarantine, and immigration service, customs, post offices, police and fire protection, hydrographic and meteorological observations, steamboat inspections, aids to navigation, construction and maintenance of roads, streets, water supply, and sewers.

He is president of the National Forest Reservation Commission, which is authorized to purchase such forested cut-over or denuded lands within the water sheds of navigable streams as in its judgment may be necessary to the regulation of stream flow or for the production of timber.

He supervises the maintenance and conduct of the United States Military Academy at West Point and is responsible for all matters relating to leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department.

THE UNDER SECRETARY OF WAR

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR

Acts as assistant to the Secretary of War and to this officer have been delegated general administrative duties of various kinds relating to the Army and the War Department. Many of the Department's relationships with other agencies are conducted by him. He also acts as one of the Council who meet with the Secretary, Under Secretary, Assistant Secretary of War for Air, and the Chief of Staff and heads of the Forces, to discuss matters of broad interest and policy. Acts as chairman of the Combined Civil Affairs Committee and exercises general supervision over civil affairs matters and lend-lease policy as it affects the War Department. Is also War Department representative on the State-War-Navy Coordinating Committee. Acts as the Under Secretary of War in the Under Secretary's absence, and as the Secretary of War in the absence of both the Secretary and the Under Secretary of War.

THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR FOR AIR

The Assistant Secretary of War for Air, appointed by the President, advises and represents the Secretary of War on aviation matters, including supervision of matters pertaining to the Army Air Forces and contacts with other agencies, governmental and private, on policy matters of interest to the War Department.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

Acts for the Secretary of War on matters connected with the administration of the War Department which cannot be delegated to other officials, such as the issuance of orders affecting War Department administrative practices and authorization of civilian personnel actions; advises the Secretary on matters of administrative policy; directs changes in administrative organization and procedures; serves as member of the Board of directors of the Panama Railroad Co. and acts for the Secretary of War on all official matters not requiring his personal attention.

CHIEF OF STAFF

The Chief of Staff is the immediate adviser of the Secretary of War on all business relating to the Military Establishment and is charged by the Secretary of War with the planning, development, and execution of the military program. On matters involving strategy, tactics, and operations, the Chief of Staff advises and executes decisions of the President in his role as Commander in Chief. The Chief of Staff is assisted by the Deputy Chief of Staff.

WAR DEPARTMENT GENERAL STAFF

The War Department General Staff, under the general direction of the Chief of Staff, plans and coordinates the development of the Army to insure the existence of a well balanced and efficient military organization. It further assists the Chief of Staff in the direction of field operations of the Army and is specifically responsible for providing broad basic plans that will enable the commanding generals of the major commands, the Army Ground Forces, the Army Air Forces, and the Army Service Forces, as well as the commanding generals of defense commands, task forces, and theaters of operations, to prepare and execute detailed programs. The War Department General Staff comprises six divisions, each headed by an Assistant Chief of Staff: Personnel Division, G-1; Military Intelligence Division, G-2; Organization and Training Division, G-3; Supply Division, G-4; Operations Division, OPD; and Research and Developments Division.

PERSONNEL DIVISION, G-1

The Personnel Division, G-1, prepares plans and policies and supervises activities pertaining to the personnel of the Army as individuals and is responsible for policy determination and coordination in the establishment and operation of the Army Replacement System. The Director, Women's Army Corps, is a member of this division and prepares plans and policies and supervises activities which relate to the WAC.

MILITARY INTELLIGENCE DIVISION, G-2

The Military Intelligence Division, G-2, prepares plans and policies concerning military intelligence and counter-intelligence. It supervises the operation of the Military Intelligence Service which performs certain operational functions concerning matters under the jurisdiction of the Military Intelligence Division.

ORGANIZATION AND TRAINING DIVISION, G-3

The Organization and Training Division, G-3, prepares plans and policies and supervises the organization, mobilization, and training of the Army including the preparation of training literature and the establishment of a curriculum for the Command and General Staff school and the United States Military Academy. The Division also supervises the operation of the Army Industrial College.

SUPPLY DIVISION, G-4

The Supply Division, G-4, performs those functions of the War Department General Staff which relate to the logistics and supply of the Army. It prepares supply policies and plans required as a basis for the operation of detailed programs set up by the major commands (the Army Ground Forces, the Army Air Forces, and the Army Service Forces).

OPERATIONS DIVISION, OPD

The Operations Division, OPD, formulates and develops strategic, logistical, and operational plans and assists the Chief of Staff in the strategic direction of the military forces in theaters of war. In developing and keeping these plans current it coordinates with the Joint and Combined Chiefs of Staffs. Likewise, the Operations Division provides representation on various joint and combined boards and committees.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENTS DIVISION

The Research and Developments Division performs functions relating to research and development and the military application of new or improved weapons, equipment, devices, and techniques. The Director of the Division is a member of the New Weapons and Equipment Committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

WAR DEPARTMENT SPECIAL STAFF

The War Department Special Staff, under the general direction of the Chief of Staff, serves in an advisory capacity to the Chief of Staff and to the divisions of the General Staff on matters within the assigned fields of interest of the Special Staff. The latter comprises 12 organizations: Office of the Director of Information, Bureau of Public Relations, Legislative and Liaison Division, Information and Education Division, Budget Division, War Department Manpower Board, Special Planning Division, Civil Affairs Division, Historical Division, Office of the Inspector General, National Guard Bureau, and Office of the Executive for Reserve and ROTC Affairs.

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF INFORMATION

The Director of Information is responsible to the Deputy Chief of Staff for policy control over and coordination of the activities of three of the agencies of the War Department Special Staff—the Bureau of Public Relations, the Legislative and Liaison Division, and the Information and Education Division.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

The Bureau of Public Relations initiates and directs the public relations policies and programs of the War Department and the Army.

LEGISLATIVE AND LIAISON DIVISION

The Legislative and Liaison Division performs functions which fall into three general categories: (1) Supervision of the preparation and processing of legislation pertaining to the War Department; (2) congressional liaison; and (3) liaison between the War Department and various Federal agencies.

The Legislative and Liaison Division reviews all legislation affecting the War Department and reports thereon to the Secretary of War. The Division determines that legislation requested by the War Department is in proper form and legally sufficient for the purposes intended, and that it is in accord with the program of the President. The Division also supervises and processes the preparation of War Department reports on legislation.

In the maintenance of congressional liaison, the Legislative and Liaison Division assists official investigators of congressional investigating committees when military activities of the War Department are involved. It also renders assistance when congressional visits of inspection are made to War Department posts, camps, stations, reservations, and installations. The Legislative and Liaison Division facilitates the answering of oral and written inquiries from the Congress to the War Department by providing information to Members of Congress and their staffs upon request, and is authorized to contact directly and informally all War Department agencies, subordinate departments, and commands for the purpose of providing necessary information for the Congress.

INFORMATION AND EDUCATION DIVISION

The Information and Education Division plans and produces materials and programs for the orientation and education of troops and supervises the operation of the general Army program in the field of troop education.

BUDGET DIVISION

The Budget Division prepares plans, develops policies, and exercises general supervision and control over those matters which relate to the budget of the War Department and the Army, to the language of the proposed appropriation acts, and to the budgetary and fiscal relationships with the Bureau of the Budget, the Congress, and other governmental agencies; and formulates and coordinates basic principles, concepts, and plans relating to fiscal matters of the War Department, both foreign and domestic.

The Budget Division is specifically charged with the following functions:

(1) The formulation and preparation of budget directives, the assignment of responsibility for preparation and defense of estimates, and general supervision over the preparation of the annual War Department budget and supplemental estimates.

(2) The review and adjustment of the estimated money requirements of all War Department agencies to assure conformity with the War Department program and to insure maximum economy consistent with military necessity.

(3) The coordination and control of all activities relating to the presentation and justification of estimates or other pertinent matters to the Bureau of the Budget and the appropriations committees of both Houses of Congress.

(4) The allocation to all War Department agencies of such appropriated funds as are necessary to implement approved programs.

(5) The development of plans with respect to the conversion, use, and transfer of War Department assets.

The Director of the Budget Division is also budget officer for the War Department and chairman of the Budget Advisory Committee.

WAR DEPARTMENT MANPOWER BOARD

The function of the War Department Manpower Board is to make a continuous survey of the employment of manpower, both military and civilian, under the jurisdiction of the War Department, with the objective of recommending measures to the Chief of Staff which will secure the most effective and economical utilization of all personnel.

SPECIAL PLANNING DIVISION

The Special Planning Division prepares plans and policies for military and related industrial demobilization and for the post-war military establishment. The Director of the Division reports to the Secretary of War through the Under Secretary of War on policy matters relating to industrial demobilization, and through the Chief of Staff on matters relating to military policy.

CIVIL AFFAIRS DIVISION

The Civil Affairs Division provides the Secretary of War with information and advice on matters concerning areas occupied as a result of military operations, other than matters strictly military in nature. It is also responsible for the formulation and coordination of War Department policy on these matters. The Civil Affairs Division also maintains liaison with civilian agencies exercising functions in theaters of operations with which the Civil Affairs Division is concerned.

HISTORICAL DIVISION

The Historical Division prepares plans and policies for and exercises supervision over War Department and Army historical activities, including the preparation of a military history of World War II.

INSPECTOR GENERAL

The Inspector General assists the Chief of Staff in keeping the Secretary of War informed as to the condition of the Army. The office of The Inspector General inquires into and reports upon all matters which affect the efficiency and the economy of the Army and causes necessary inspections, investigations, and reports prescribed by law or directed by appropriate authority to be made.

Specifically, The Inspector General is charged with—

(1) Making inspections and investigations for the purpose of observing and reporting upon the state of morale, discipline, and preparedness of the major commands and other Army activities.

(2) The initiation of action to correct irregularities and deficiencies that may be found and to further the general and administrative efficiency of the Army.

Inspectors general assigned to commands, function under the direction of the respective commanders and perform duties in relation to the commands similar to those performed by The Inspector General for the War Department.

NATIONAL GUARD BUREAU

The National Guard Bureau is responsible for the administration of War Department policies for the National Guard not in Federal service; for the initiation of proposals for changes in existing policies, regulations, or laws affecting the National Guard; for the initiation of action to extend Federal recognition to qualified personnel and units of the National Guard of the several States, Territories, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia, and to withdraw Federal recognition from them when no longer qualified; for the formulation and administration of War Department policies for the State Guard; and for assisting in the preparation of plans affecting the conversion, redesignation, and change of location of National Guard units returned to State control after a period of Federal service.

OFFICE OF EXECUTIVE FOR RESERVE AND ROTC AFFAIRS

The Executive for Reserve and ROTC Affairs advises the Chief of Staff on matters relating to the Reserve component of the Army and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and assists the Chief of Staff in keeping the Secretary of War informed on Reserve and ROTC affairs.

THREE PRINCIPAL COMMANDS

ARMY GROUND FORCES

Under policies prescribed by the Chief of Staff, the Commanding General, Army Ground Forces, commands the armies within the continental United States and is charged with the functions, responsibilities, and authorities of command authorized by law, Army Regulations, and custom over individuals and units assigned to the Army Ground Forces.

The following duties are specifically assigned to the Army Ground Forces:

- (16) The provision of basic training for individuals in the Army Service Forces inducted in excess of replacement training center capacity.
- (17) The operation of all reception centers.
- (18) The organization of Army Service Forces units as directed by the War Department.
- (19) The training of all units assigned to the Army Service Forces.
- (20) The assignment of officers of the Army Service Forces, including Army Air Forces and Army Ground Forces personnel on duty therewith.
- (21) The supply of Army Service Forces personnel and units to the Army Air Forces, Army Ground Forces, theaters of operations, and oversea forces in accordance with the policies announced by the Chief of Staff.
- (22) The development of tactical and training doctrine, tables of organization, tables of basic allowances, military characteristics of weapons and equipment, and operational changes needed in equipment for the Army Service Forces subject to review with the Commanding General, Army Ground Forces, as outlined in the duties pertaining to that Command.
- (23) The command and control of all stations except those assigned to Army Air Forces, defense commands, and theaters of operations.
- (24) The use of judicious shortcuts in procedure to expedite operations.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

ATTORNEY GENERAL (TOM C. CLARK)

The Attorney General is the head of the Department of Justice (see sec. 346, R. S.) and as such is the chief law officer of the Federal Government. He represents the United States in legal matters generally and gives advice and opinions when requested by the President or by the heads of the executive departments.

He appears in the Supreme Court of the United States in cases of exceptional gravity and importance, exercises general superintendence and direction over United States district attorneys and marshals in the various judicial districts of the United States, and provides special counsel for the United States in cases of exceptional importance or when the character of the interests involved requires such action.

The duties of the Assistant to the Attorney General, the Assistant Attorneys General, the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Director of the Bureau of Prisons, and of the heads of the other major divisions and bureaus are performed under the direction of the Attorney General.

(See sec. 354, R. S., as amended by act of Feb. 27, 1877, 19 Stat. 241; secs. 356, 357, and 358, R. S.; act of June 30, 1906, 34 Stat. 816; secs. 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, and 366, R. S.)

SOLICITOR GENERAL (J. HOWARD M'GRATH)

The Solicitor General assists the Attorney General in the execution of his duties and, by special provision of law, exercises all such duties in case of a vacancy in the office of the Attorney General, or his absence or disability.

Under the direction of the Attorney General, the Solicitor General has special charge of the business of and appears for and represents the Government in the Supreme Court of the United States.

When requested by the Attorney General, the Solicitor General may conduct and argue any case in which the United States is interested, in any court of the United States, or may attend to the interests of the Government in any State court or elsewhere, conferring with and directing the law officers of the Government throughout the country in the performance of their duties when occasion requires. (See secs. 347 and 349, R. S.) No appeal is taken by the United States to any appellate court without his authorization.

THE ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL (JAMES P. M'GRANERY)

The Assistant to the Attorney General has primary responsibility, under the Attorney General, for the over-all supervision and administrative management of the Department of Justice, the formulation of major departmental policies and programs, the improvement of administrative practice, the formulation and supervision of the Department's personnel policy, the coordination of the work of the various divisions of the Department, and the supervision of the United States attorneys and marshals. In addition, he acts as liaison officer between the Attorney General and the Congress and other departments and agencies of the Government; prepares recommendations for presidential appointments; drafts department legislation and reports on legislative proposals and enrolled bills; exercises administrative supervision over the Board of Immigration Appeals, the United States Board of Parole and the Library; and directs the handling of conscientious objector cases (other than criminal) under the Selective Service and Training Act.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (VACANCY)

This Assistant has charge of the prosecution and defense of civil suits relating to taxes (except customs) and of appellate proceedings in connection therewith, including briefs and arguments on appeals from the Tax Court of the United States; also of the enforcement of tax liens and of mandamus, injunctions, criminal proceedings, and general matters relating to taxes. He also has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of special assignments by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (JOHN F. SONNETT)

This Assistant has charge of all civil suits and claims for and against the Government or its officers not otherwise specially assigned, patents, and copyrights, cases arising out of war transactions, civil-bankruptcy matters, civil proceedings under the National Bank Act, admiralty and shipping matters, as well as veterans' claims and litigation. He also has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of special assignments by the Attorney General. He has charge of civil matters arising out of martial law and other military control measures over the civil population of the United States and its territorial possessions; habeas corpus matters and other civil litigation relating to alien enemies; conduct of litigation in which the Alien Property Custodian or the office of the Alien Property Custodian is interested and of litigation arising from the foreign funds control program of the Treasury Department; the preparation of informal legal opinions to the Alien Property Custodian and the Treasury Department involving problems relating to alien property or foreign funds control; consultation with the Custodian and the Treasury Department on matters of legal policy in the administration of the foregoing programs under the Trading with the Enemy Act and the formulation of legislative recommendations, for submission to the office of the Assistant to the Attorney General; representation on the Interdepartmental Committee of the "Proclaimed List of Certain Blocked Nationals."

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (DAVID L. BAZELON)

This Assistant has charge of all civil matters relating to the title, possession, and use of lands and water rights, and the prosecution and defense of suits affecting those matters. This includes the acquisition of lands by condemnation and the examination of titles to lands acquired by the United States. He also has charge of the representation of the interests of the United States in all civil litigation pertaining to Indians and Indian affairs; insular and territorial affairs except those specifically assigned, other than criminal; and briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment made by the Solicitor General, as well as matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (WENDELL BERGE)

This Assistant has special charge of all suits and other matters relating to and arising under the Sherman and Clayton Acts and acts with antitrust provisions.

In addition he has, under current assignment, charge of matters relating to and arising under the Agricultural Adjustment Acts of 1933 and 1938, Agricultural Marketing Agreements Act of 1937, Anti-Racketeering Act (in conjunction with

He has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of special assignments by the Attorney General; also representation on the Interdepartmental Committee on Cartels.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (THERON L. CAUDLE)

This Assistant has charge of all matters relating to crimes not otherwise specially assigned to other Divisions of the Department, including the giving of advice and assistance to United States attorneys relative to trial and pretrial procedure, indictments, grand jury proceedings, search warrants, removal proceedings, extradition, etc.; offenses against Federal Statutes affecting Civil Rights, including matters arising under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940; court cases arising under the Immigration and Naturalization laws, including expatriation and cancellation of citizenship proceedings; the consideration, acceptance, or rejection of compromises of criminal liability under current liquor laws; consideration of petitions for the mitigation or remission of civil forfeitures under current liquor laws, and collection of outstanding bail bond judgments and unpaid fines; condemnation proceedings under the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act and the Gold Hoarding laws; proceedings to recover penalties in civil actions under the Hours of Service Act, the Safety Appliance Act, and the Signal Inspection Act; war frauds, except suits for the recovery of money damages on war contracts; enforcement by criminal proceedings of priority orders, and price control, rationing, and allocation laws and offenses affecting the national defense and security, including Selective Service, Sedition, Espionage, Sabotage, and Foreign Agents' activities. He also has charge of legal matters pertaining to prisoners and parole and various jurisdictional questions arising in connection with the acquisition of land for military purposes. He also has charge of criminal matters arising out of martial law and other military control measures over the civil population of the United States and its territorial possessions, as well as the administration of the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938 as amended.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL (PAUL P. RAO)

This Assistant has charge of protecting the interests of the Government in matters of reappraisal and classification of imported goods, and all litigation incident thereto. He also has charge of briefs and arguments in the Supreme Court on assignment by the Solicitor General, and of matters specially assigned to him by the Attorney General.

ASSISTANT SOLICITOR GENERAL (HAROLD JUDSON)

The Assistant Solicitor General appears for and represents the Government in such cases as may be designated by the Solicitor General and performs such additional duties as may be required of him by the Attorney General and the Solicitor General. He has charge for the Attorney General of the preparation of legal opinions and of the review and revision, as to their form and legality, of Executive orders submitted to him by direction of the President. He also handles matters arising out of trusts, bequests, gifts, and similar benefits to the United States. He is charged with the responsibility of assisting and advising Federal agencies in connection with the preparation and presentation of proposals for the legislative or administrative consideration of State and local governments.

ATTORNEY IN CHARGE OF PARDONS (DANIEL M. LYONS)

Under the direction of the Attorney General, the Pardon Attorney has charge of applications for pardon and other forms of executive clemency.

DIRECTOR, FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (J. EDGAR HOOVER)

The Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation has general charge of the investigation of offenses against the laws of the United States with the exception of those involving immigration and naturalization matters, counterfeiting, narcotics, or other matters not within the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice; directs the acquisition, collection, classification, preservation, and exchange of identification records; directs personnel investigations requisite to the work of the Department of Justice or when required by acts of Congress; carries out the President's directive of September 6, 1939, designating the Federal Bureau of Investigation as the clearing house for the handling of espionage, sabotage, and other subversive matters; trains law enforcement agencies in the handling of security matters, and conducts the operation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Police Academy.

IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE (UGO CARUSI, COMMISSIONER)

Under the act of March 3, 1933 (Public, No. 428, 47 Stat. 1517), and the Executive order issued pursuant to the statute, dated June 10, 1933 (6166, sec. 14), the Immigration and Naturalization Service was formed through the consolidation of the former Bureaus of Immigration and Naturalization, effective August 10, 1933. On June 14, 1940, under Reorganization Plan No. V (5 F. R. 2132, June 5, 1940), the Service and its functions were transferred to the Department of Justice, to be administered under the direction and supervision of the Attorney General. All functions and powers of the Secretary of Labor relating to the administration of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and its functions or to the administration of the immigration and naturalization laws were transferred by such plan to the Attorney General.

The functions of the Service are the administration of the laws relating to the admission, exclusion, and deportation of aliens, the registration and fingerprinting of aliens, and the naturalization of aliens lawfully resident in the United States; the investigation of alleged violations of said laws, and when prosecution is deemed advisable, the submission of evidence for that purpose to the appropriate United States district attorneys. The primary function of the Immigration Border Patrol, which operates as a part of the immigration force, is to detect and prevent the smuggling and surreptitious entry of aliens into the United States in violation of the immigration laws, and to apprehend smugglers of aliens and aliens who have effected unlawful entry.

Under the provisions of the Nationality Act of 1940 (Public, No. 853, 76th Cong.), naturalization jurisdiction was conferred upon certain specified United States and State courts. The Service exercises administrative supervision over the clerks of these courts in naturalization matters, requiring an accounting for all naturalization fees collected by them, and cooperates with the public schools in the education of applicants for naturalization for their citizenship duties and responsibilities. Through its field officers, located in various cities in the United States, the Service investigates the qualifications of candidates for citizenship and represents the Government at the hearings of petitions for naturalization.

The Service has control of alien enemies; foreign travel; the administration of voluntary renunciation of citizenship under the act of July 1, 1944 (Public Law 405, 78th Cong., 2d sess.).

DIRECTOR, BUREAU OF PRISONS (JAMES V. BENNETT)

The Director of the Bureau of Prisons has general charge of the administration of the Federal Government's penal and correctional activities. He is vested with the control and management of all Federal penal and correctional institutions save those maintained by the Army and Navy, and has the responsibility for providing suitable quarters for the safekeeping, care, protection, instruction, and discipline of all persons charged with or convicted of offenses against the United States. He also has charge of special assignments by the Attorney General.

BOARD OF PAROLE

The Board of Parole consists of three members, appointed directly by the Attorney General, whose sole duties are to grant and revoke paroles of Federal prisoners.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL (S. A. ANDRETTA)

The administrative assistant to the Attorney General directs the Administrative Division of the Department of Justice, which handles all administrative and organization matters, including those relating to United States attorneys, marshals, and other field officers except matters of policy which are under the supervision of the Assistant to the Attorney General. He supervises the Division of Accounts, Budget and Planning Section, office of the Chief Clerk, the Personnel Office, the Division of Records, the Supply Division, and the Statistical Division. He directs all budget, accounting, and auditing matters; controls expenditures from all appropriations of the Department and approves all financial transactions; he directs the examination of field and judicial offices and the compilation of statistics for the Department; supervises the appointment of clerical and sub-clerical forces of the Department, exclusive of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and all personnel matters regarding civil-service employees; has charge of the enforcement of general departmental regulations, the designation of space requirements throughout the country, and the handling of all fiscal matters and business operations of the Department of Justice.

FEDERAL PRISON INDUSTRIES, INC.

The Federal Prison Industries Corporation was authorized by act of Congress, approved June 23, 1934 (Public, No. 461), and created by Executive Order No. 6917 of December 11, 1934. Under the general direction and supervision of the Attorney General it manages and operates all industrial enterprises in Federal penal and correctional institutions. Its board of directors is charged by law with the duty of determining in what manner and to what extent industrial operations shall be carried on in Federal penal and correctional institutions, and is required to diversify, so far as practicable, prison industrial operations and so operate the prison shops that no single private industry shall be forced to bear an undue burden of competition from the products of the prison workshops. The Corporation is governed by a board of directors of five persons—a representative of labor, a representative of industry, a representative of agriculture, a representative of retailers and consumers, and a representative of the Attorney General. They serve at the will of the President and without compensation. The principal office of the Corporation is in the city of Washington, with branch offices at the several penal and correctional institutions. The officers of the Corporation are a president, a vice president, a secretary, and a Commissioner of Prison Industries. The Commissioner of Prison Industries is the acting executive officer of the Corporation. The products of the industries are sold only to other Government departments and agencies at current market prices. No goods or articles made in the Federal penal and correctional system are sold to the public.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

POSTMASTER GENERAL

The Postmaster General is the executive head of the Postal Service. He appoints all officers and employees under his supervision, except the four Assistant Postmasters General, the purchasing agent, the comptroller, and postmasters of the first, second, and third classes, who are appointed by the President of the United States. Subject to the approval of the President, he makes postal treaties with foreign governments. He is the executive head of Postal Savings and ex officio chairman of the board of trustees.

THE POSTMASTER GENERAL'S STAFF

The Postmaster General's staff was established January 22, 1946, by an order of the Postmaster General. It is the coordinating body of the Post Office Department, insuring uniformity of policy among the several bureaus and offices of the Department.

Members are: The First, Second, Third, and Fourth Assistant Postmasters General, the Executive Assistant to the Postmaster General, the Chief Inspector, and the Chief Clerk and Director of Personnel. The First Assistant Postmaster General is chairman.

OFFICE OF BUDGET AND ADMINISTRATIVE PLANNING

The Office of Budget and Administrative Planning, under the immediate direction of the Postmaster General, is charged with the budgeting and the administrative and management planning activities of the Post Office Department. The Office is under the supervision of the Director who, with the Commissioner of the Budget and the Commissioner of Administrative Planning, is directly responsible to the Postmaster General. The Office also is charged with the duty of studying the operations of the Postal Establishment and of analyzing, planning, and devising management, operating, and financial procedures; of submitting recommendations to the Postmaster General in collaboration with bureaus and offices of the Department with respect thereto; of keeping informed of developments and improvements in government and business management, operating and financial systems and practices; of studying such developments and improvements in the light of the Postal Establishment and submitting recommendations to the Postmaster General; of advising with and assisting the Department official in charge of legislative matters, and preparing data and information for legislative purposes; of participating in hearings before the Bureau of the Budget, Appropriation and other committees of Congress, for the purpose of explaining the Postal Establishment's financial and operating policies, of maintaining a check on the execution of the budget program and general operations and recommending to the Postmaster General such changes in administration and operations as may appear necessary; of collecting, analyzing and preparing material and data for annual and special public and confidential reports, and such other duties as the Postmaster General may direct.

CHIEF CLERK AND DIRECTOR OF PERSONNEL

The Chief Clerk and Director of Personnel of the Post Office Department is charged with the general superintendence and assignment of the clerical forces of the Department; the care and maintenance of public property located in the Department building; the advertising of the Department; the supervision of requisitions entailing expenditure of the appropriations for the departmental service; the consideration of requisitions for the printing and binding required in the Department and field service; the supervision of receipt and inspection of supplies for the Department and field service delivered in Washington; superintendence of the publication and distribution of the Official Postal Guide and other postal publications; the miscellaneous correspondence and files of the Department; matters affecting the proper administration of the civil-service rules and regulations and the execution of the provisions of the Classification, the Retirement, and the Employees' Compensation Acts. The Chief Clerk and Director of Personnel is the liaison officer between the Department and the Classification Division of the Civil Service Commission.

PURCHASING AGENT

The Purchasing Agent contracts for and purchases all equipment, materials, and supplies for the Post Office Department proper and for all branches of the Postal Service. He reviews all requisitions and authorizations for equipment, materials, and supplies and, if proper, approves them. He passes upon all emergency purchases made locally by the field service. He determines the sufficiency and propriety of all specifications for equipment, materials, and supplies; prepares the advertisements and forms for proposals necessary to the making of the contracts; and enters into contracts for such equipment, materials, and supplies for the Postmaster General. The Purchasing Agent also enters into contracts for the Postmaster General for the procurement of all envelopes for the executive departments, Government bureaus and establishments and the branches of the service coming under their jurisdiction, except plain envelopes for use in the District of Columbia.

SOLICITOR OF THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

The Solicitor is charged with the duty of giving opinions to the Postmaster General and the heads of the several offices of the Department upon questions of law arising upon the construction of the Postal Laws and Regulations, or otherwise, in the course of business in the Postal Service; with the duty of assisting in the defense of cases against the United States arising out of the transportation of the mails, and in other matters affecting the postal revenues. These include suits in the Federal courts involving claims of the railroads and other contractors for the carriage of the mails; the representation of the Postmaster General and the preparation and presentation of the Department's cases in proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission for the determination by the Commission of the basis for adjustment of railroad mail pay and the fixing of fair and reasonable rates for the transportation of the mails and for services in connection therewith by railroads and urban and interurban electric railway common carriers, and in other matters of petition by the Postmaster General to the Commission; the representation of the Postmaster General in hearings before the Department on orders changing the mode of transporting periodical mail matter in connection with reviews of such orders by the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; with the consideration and submission (with advice) to the Postmaster General of claims for damage done to persons or property by or through the operation of the Post Office Department, and of all claims of postmasters for losses by fire, burglary, or other unavoidable casualty, and of all certifications by the Comptroller General of cases of proposed compromise of liabilities to the United States, and of the remission of fines, penalties, and forfeitures under the statutes; with the giving of advice, when desired, in the preparation of correspondence with the Comptroller General, the Department of Justice, and other Departments, and the Court of Claims, involving questions of law or relating to prosecutions or suits affecting or arising out of the Postal Service, and with assisting when desired in the prosecution or defense of such cases, and the maintenance of suitable records of opinions rendered affecting the Post Office Department and the Postal Service; and with the consideration of applications for pardon for crimes committed against the postal laws which may be referred to the Department, with the preparation and submission (with advice) to the Postmaster General of all appeals to him from the heads of the offices of the Department depending upon questions of law; with the determining of questions as to the delivery of mail the ownership of which is in dispute; with the consideration of cases relating to lotteries and the misuse of the mails in furtherance of schemes to defraud the public; with the consideration of all questions relating to the mailability of alleged indecent, obscene, scurrilous, defamatory, or extortionate matter; with determining the legal acceptability of securities offered by banks to secure postal savings deposits; with the examining and, when necessary, drafting of all contracts of the Department; with the handling of legal questions arising from the application of the private express statutes (Government monopoly of carrying letters); with the legal work incident to the enforcement of those provisions of the espionage law which concern the Post Office Department; with the preparation of reports upon proposed legislation affecting the Postal Establishment; with the responsibility of seeing that the Postal Laws and Regulations are amended in accordance with legislation, and with such other duties as may from time to time be required by the Postmaster General.

Acts in staff capacity to the Naval Establishment on printing and publications control, correspondence and records management, microfilm programs, and certain appropriations.

BOARD OF DECORATION AND MEDALS

The Navy Department Board of Decorations and Medals makes recommendations to the Secretary of the Navy on the bestowal of honors of all types within the naval service not awarded by delegated authority; on the legislation, Executive orders, and general orders, pertaining to decorations, awards, and campaign medals; and on retirement benefits to personnel with previous commendations. The design of medals and the definition of policies come within the Board's purview.

BOARD OF MEDICAL EXAMINERS

The Board of Medical Examiners conducts the physical examinations of officers of the Line and Staff Corps, United States Navy and Naval Reserve, to determine their physical qualifications for promotion, appointment, and advancement.

BOARD OF REVIEW, DISCHARGE AND DISMISSALS

This board, established July 22, 1944, in compliance with section 301 of Public Law 346, Seventy-eighth Congress, reviews discharges and dismissals of former members of the naval service for purpose of determining whether, under reasonable standards of naval law and discipline, the type and nature of discharge or dismissal of former service personnel should be changed, corrected, or modified. Cases are reviewed either by hearing or documentary review on petitioner's request. After this review they are submitted to the Secretary of the Navy, for, and subject only to his final review.

GENERAL BOARD

The General Board acts in an advisory capacity to the Secretary of the Navy considering and reporting upon such subjects as the Secretary may submit to it.

INDUSTRIAL SURVEY DIVISION

The Industrial Survey Division includes the Industrial Survey Branch and the Management Engineering Branch.

(a) The Industrial Survey Branch acts to keep the Secretary of the Navy informed as to the efficiency of operation of the industrial activities of the shore establishments of the Navy and the Marine Corps, including the effectiveness of utilization of personnel engaged in industrial work. The mission of this Branch is to inspect industrial activities and report the results thereof to the Secretary, with pertinent observations and recommendations.

(b) The Management Engineering Branch acts as a management consultant and adviser to the Secretaries and their staffs. It is the responsibility of this Branch to assist in the development of adequate organizational structure of the bureaus and offices in the Navy Department. It is also the responsibility of this Branch to coordinate management effort in the Navy Department, to eliminate nonessential work, simplify essential work, and to improve the utilization of personnel. These responsibilities are effected through Department-wide management programs and specialized surveys and analyses.

LEND-LEASE LIAISON OFFICE

The Lend-Lease Liaison Office represents the Secretary of the Navy in negotiations between lend-lease representatives of foreign governments and lend-lease representatives of various bureaus and offices of the Navy Department.

MATERIAL DIVISION, OFFICE OF THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY

Chief of the Material Division.—The Chief of the Material Division is charged with coordination of all the material and procurement activities of the Navy Department; supervision of programs for the procurement of ships and materials of every character as approved by the Secretary of the Navy and the performance of such other duties as the Secretary of the Navy may direct. The orders of the Material Division are considered as emanating from the Secretary of the Navy and have full force and effect as such.

The Material Division is composed of:

Procurement Policy Branch.—Formulates and promulgates policies and general procedures governing the activities of the Navy with respect to the procurement of material and facilities; reviews and evaluates compliance with such policies and procedures, and issues such orders as may be required to assure compliance.

Production Policy Branch.—Formulates and promulgates policies and general procedures governing the activities of the Navy with respect to the production of material; reviews and evaluates compliance with such policies and procedures and issues such orders as may be required to assure compliance.

Field Operations Branch.—Formulates and promulgates policies and general procedures governing the material inspection activities of the Navy; reviews and evaluates compliance with such policies and procedures and issues such orders as may be required to assure compliance; exercises coordination control and direct management control of supervising inspectors of naval material and inspectors of naval material.

Material Control Policy Branch.—Formulates and promulgates the policies and general procedures governing the activities of the Navy with respect to facilities, inventory control, and property disposal; reviews and evaluates compliance with such policies and procedures and issues such orders as may be required to assure compliance.

Navy Price Adjustment Board.—This Board handles the renegotiation of contracts totaling $500,000 or more and manufacturers representatives and distributors.

Navy Department Board of Contract Appeals.—Handles appeals of contractors claims.

NAVAL CLEMENCY AND PRISON INSPECTION BOARD

The Naval Clemency and Prison Inspection Board, convened by precept of the Acting Secretary of the Navy dated August 27, 1943, considers applications of naval prisoners for clemency and for restoration to duty. The Board makes recommendations to the Secretary of the Navy on such applications and on matters relating to the treatment of naval prisoners and to naval discipline. Members of the Board make frequent inspections of naval prisons, detention barracks, and brigs, and recommendations upon the organization and conduct of such activities are submitted.

NAVAL EXAMINING BOARD (LINE)

The Naval Examining Board conducts the professional examinations of line officers, including warrant and chief warrant officers, of the United States Navy for promotion, and for appointment, transfer, and promotion of United States Naval Reserve; competitive examinations of warrant and chief warrant officers for appointment to commissioned ranks of ensign, lieutenant (junior grade), and lieutenant, of the Regular Navy; competitive examinations of enlisted personnel for appointment to warrant ranks of the Regular Navy; and examinations of records of chief warrant officers, Regular Navy, and Naval Reserve, for certificates of creditability of record.

NAVAL EXAMINING BOARD (MEDICAL)

The Naval Examining Board (Medical) conducts the professional examinations of Medical Corps officers of the United States Navy and Naval Reserve for promotion to the grades of commander and captain, Medical Corps. The examinations of officers for promotion to the grade of rear admiral, Medical Corps, are customarily conducted by a special examining board composed of officers of the grade of rear admiral, of which the president of this Board is a member, and the examination records are handled by this office.

NAVAL RETIRING BOARD

The Naval Retiring Board conducts the examinations of such officers of the Line and Staff Corps of the United States Navy and Naval Reserve as may be ordered to appear before it, or whose case may be referred to it, by the Secretary of the Navy, to determine their physical fitness to perform all the duties appropriate to their respective ranks or grades. (Commonly referred to as examinations for physical incapacity retirements.)

NAVAL RETIRING REVIEW BOARD

This Board reviews and reports upon the findings and decision of any naval retiring board by reason of which any person who, while serving as an officer of the naval service, has been or may be retired or released to inactive service without pay. The Board's authority is extended only to those individuals who may request review within the time limit prescribed in the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, approved June 22, 1944.

OFFICE OF BUDGET AND REPORTS

The Office of Budget and Reports, under the Secretary of the Navy, has charge of the preparation and execution of the Navy Department's budget. It analyzes the estimates of the individual bureaus and offices and correlates them into a well-balanced program. After funds have been appropriated by Congress, the office revises the budgetary program to conform to specific funds and follows up the execution of that program.

OFFICE OF THE FISCAL DIRECTOR

The Office of the Fiscal Director, a Division in the Executive Office of the Secretary of the Navy, formulates, establishes, supervises, and coordinates all policies and procedures affecting the finance, budgeting, accounting, and auditing activities of the Navy Department.

OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL

This Office furnishes commercial legal services to the Navy Department. It is charged with responsibility for all legal matters relating to procurement, contract terminations, property disposition, and renegotiation. Branch offices designated as Office of Counsel are established in each of the contracting bureaus, the Material Division of the Office of the Assistant Secretary, the Office of Research and Inventions, the Office of Fiscal Director, the Navy Price Adjustment Board, and the Services and Sales Renegotiation Section.

OFFICE OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

The Office of Industrial Relations is responsible to the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air for the development of the Navy's personnel program for civilian employees and for advising and assisting bureaus, offices, and shore establishments in the application of the program throughout the departmental and field services. Its field of interests includes all matters relating to the employment, assignment, transfer, promotion, discharge, service rating, and training of civilian employees, as well as those relating to wage administration, classification, employee relations, and safety engineering.

The Office acts for the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air in interpreting established civilian personnel policies and recommends changes in policy. It is responsible for coordinating the Department's over-all program so that uniform standards are maintained throughout the naval establishment.

OFFICE OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL OF THE NAVY

The Office of the Judge Advocate General has cognizance of all matters of law which involve the service, and reports upon the legal features of courts martial, courts of inquiry, and boards of investigation and inquest. It also drafts proposed legislation, except appropriations, arising in the Department. It renders to the Secretary opinions on the legality of any matters referred to the Office by him, including proceedings in the civil courts by or against the Government. The Judge Advocate General prepares for submission to the Attorney General such questions as the Secretary of the Navy may direct.

This Office examines reports, bills, and resolutions introduced into Congress and referred to the Navy Department. Additional functions include the review and necessary action on international law, admiralty cases, and claims for damages involving vessels and aircraft.

OFFICE OF NAVAL HISTORY

The Office of Naval History was established July 31, 1944, directly under the Secretary of the Navy. The Director is charged with coordinating the preparation of histories and narratives of the present war, in order to assure adequate coverage to serve present and future needs and effectively to eliminate nonessential and overlapping effort.

OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR, NAVAL PETROLEUM AND OIL SHALE RESERVES

The Office of Naval Petroleum Reserves was established in 1927 as a part of the Secretary's office. By a directive dated June 6, 1944, the duties and functions of the office were redefined. The Office of the Director of Naval Petroleum and Oil Shale reserves was established to take custody and charge of the reserves on behalf of the Secretary; to formulate plans and programs for the exploration, prospecting, protection, conservation, development, use and operation of the reserves, and for the production of oil therefrom, and to make recommendations to the Secretary with respect thereto; to execute such plans and programs as are duly approved; and to consult with the bureaus and other offices of the Navy Department and other Government departments and agencies to the extent necessary for the administration and control of the reserves, and for the production therefrom.

OFFICE OF PUBLIC INFORMATION

The following are the functions of the Office of Public Information:

- (a) To satisfy the American public's justifiable interest in the activities of the Navy.
- (b) To procure for the personnel of the Navy public recognition commensurate with their accomplishments.
- (c) To foster a sustained interest in the Navy in the postwar period.

OFFICE OF THE COORDINATOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS

The Coordinator of Public Relations is charged with the coordination and execution of the plans and policies of the Secretary of the Navy in matters pertaining to public relations.

OFFICE OF RESEARCH AND INVENTIONS

This office, established May 19, 1945, coordinates and disseminates to all bureaus full information with respect to all naval research, experimental test, and developmental activities; undertakes studies of specific instrumentalities and techniques for the purpose of outlining research, experimental, test, or developmental projects; maintains a continuous survey of research, experimental, test, and developmental work conducted by other governmental agencies, corporations, educational and scientific institutions, and represents the Navy Department in dealings therewith in regard to such work; supervises and administers all activities within or on behalf of the Navy Department relating to patents, inventions, trade-marks, copyrights, royalty payments, and similar matters, and correlates such activities with the research, experimental and developmental activities of the Navy; is charged with operation, etc., of Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D. C., Special Devices Division, Sands Point, Port Washington, Long Island, N. Y., and the Underwater Sound Reference Laboratory, Orlando, Fla.

REQUIREMENTS REVIEW BOARD

The Requirements Review Board is responsible for assuring that balance is maintained within and between Navy matériel and personnel procurement programs and for keeping procurement levels consistent with actual needs. The Board is to maintain such balance and consistency by direct action of the individual members in those matters for which each is administratively responsible.

REQUIREMENTS REVIEW COMMITTEE

The Requirements Review Committee assists the Requirements Review Board in the discharge of its responsibilities by keeping the major matériel and personnel procurement programs of the Navy under constant audit review. In performing this function the Committee gives consideration to the conformity of these programs to strategic requirements, to rates of use and attrition, to inventory levels, etc.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

The Office of the Chief of Naval Operations is organized in accordance with the provisions of Executive Order 9635 of September 29, 1945. The following duties are prescribed for the Chief of Naval Operations by that Executive order:

"4. The Chief of Naval Operations—

"(a) Shall be the principal adviser to the President and to the Secretary of the Navy on the conduct of war, and principal naval adviser and military executive to the Secretary of the Navy on the conduct of the activities of the Naval Establishment.

"(b) Shall have command of the operating forces comprising the several fleets, seagoing forces, sea frontier forces, district and other forces, and the related shore establishments of the Navy, and shall be responsible to the Secretary of the Navy for their use in war and for plans and preparations for their readiness for war.

"(c) Shall be charged, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, with the preparation, readiness, and logistic support of the operating forces, comprising the several fleets, seagoing forces, sea frontier forces, district and other forces, and related shore establishments of the Navy, and with the coordination and direction of effort to this end of the bureaus and offices of the Navy Department."

The duties of the Vice Chief of Naval Operations, the various Deputy Chiefs of Naval Operations, and the Naval Inspector General are as follows:

(a) Vice Chief of Naval Operations.—Principal assistant and adviser to CNO; head of General Planning Group; coordination of efforts of DCNO's; general matters in connection with the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Combined Chiefs of Staff, and other like agencies; performance of such other duties as CNO may delegate.

(b) Naval Inspector General.—Inquiry into and report upon all matters affecting the efficiency or economy of the United States Naval Service (as directed by CNO); maintenance of contact with other inspection agencies in the naval service.

(c) Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Personnel).—Initiation and development of personnel logistic plans and policies; development and preparation of operating force plan for personnel logistics; coordination of basic training; liaison with Army through joint personnel boards and agencies.

(d) Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Administration).—General administration of Office of CNO; direction of Pan American affairs and United States naval missions; supervision of island governments; cognizance of naval district administrative affairs; liaison with State and other Government departments; over-all direction of communications and intelligence services; representation on joint administrative agencies.

(e) Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Operations).—Formulation of strategic plans and policies; cognizance of organization, operational development and readiness, administration, plans and operations of seagoing forces, sea frontiers, and overseas naval command areas; evaluation of operational information and dissemination thereof; representation on joint operational agencies.

(f) Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Logistics)—except for duties allocated to DCNO (Air).—Initiation, development, and execution of logistic plans and policies; determination of matériel requirements of the Naval Establishment; control of the distribution and disposal of all materials for logistic support, including petroleum throughout the Naval Establishment; coordination and direction of the construction and maintenance of naval vessels and bases; coordination and direction of logistics efforts of the Bureaus and Offices of the Navy Department; supervision of the Naval Observatory, Hydrographic Office, and Board of Inspection and Survey; coordination of naval logistics efforts with Army and other Government agencies; representation on joint logistic agencies.

(g) Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Air).—Principal adviser to CNO on aviation matters; correlation and coordination of policy, plans, and logistics of naval aviation; preparation, readiness, and logistic support of aeronautical elements of the Naval Establishment; integration of marine aviation within over-all naval aviation program; supervision and direction of policies and programs affecting NATS; general cognizance of lighter-than-air activities; aviation training; representation on joint air agencies and civil air agencies.

(h) Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Special Weapons).—Coordination within the Navy Department of all matters relating to research, test and development of atomic energy, guided missiles and related devices. Representative for the Navy Department in Army-Navy and other composite organizations dealing with atomic energy, guided missiles and related devices.

(i) The Marine Corps and Coast Guard.—The Marine Corps and Coast Guard (when under the SecNav) are parts of the Naval Establishment. Their functions will be integrated with those of the Chief of Naval Operations. The respective Commandants deal directly with him on matters of common interest between the Marine Corps or Coast Guard and the Chief of Naval Operations as may be appropriate in the discharge of his prescribed duties. The respective Commandants and their subordinates may deal directly with the Vice Chief of Naval Operations and the Deputy Chiefs of Naval Operations on routine matters within the scope of duties assigned those officers.

(j) The Bureaus and Offices of the Navy Department.—The Chiefs of Bureaus and Offices will have direct access to the Chief of Naval Operations in the same manner as the Deputy Chiefs of Naval Operations. They and their subordinates will deal directly with the Vice Chief and Deputy Chiefs of Naval Operations in such manner as to assist the Chief of Naval Operations in the execution of duties prescribed by paragraph 4 of Executive Order 9635 of September 29, 1945, quoted above. The functions and duties of the Bureaus and Offices remain as prescribed by statutes, executive and general orders.

BUREAU OF AERONAUTICS

The Bureau of Aeronautics is charged with such matters pertaining to naval aeronautics as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy (sec. 8, act of July 12, 1921; 42 Stat. 140, as modified by letter of the Secretary of the Navy, dated August 18, 1943).

The Bureau of Aeronautics makes recommendations to the Chief of Naval Operations as to the technical characteristics and limitations of naval aircraft, naval aviation equipment, and manufacturing sources therefor involved in the formulation of operating plans. Conducts research, makes tests, and participates with other Government agencies and with industry in the design, development, and improvement of such aircraft and equipment. Contracts for naval aircraft and aviation equipment of a technical, specialized nature. Provides for plant facilities as necessary to meet production programs. Schedules, in accordance with requirements, the production of naval aircraft and naval aviation equipment and assists manufacturers in the production thereof, to the end that the various items may be delivered in the quantities, of the qualities, and at the times specified. Collaborates with the Bureau of Yards and Docks in the design, construction, and alteration of all aeronautic shore establishments, except advance bases, and maintains and repairs such establishments. Initially outfits and thereafter replenishes with aeronautical equipment and material all bases afloat and ashore from which naval aircraft operate. Supervises the service, repair, overhaul, and salvage of naval aircraft and aviation equipment. Redistributes Government-owned material, handles termination claims, and disposes of property under its cognizance.

BUREAU OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery is charged with and responsible for the maintenance of the health of the Navy, for the care of the sick and injured, for the custody and preservation of the records, accounts, and properties under its cognizance and pertaining to its duties, and for the professional education and training of officers, nurses, and enlisted personnel of the Medical Department.

It is charged with the management and control of all naval hospitals, medical supply depots, medical laboratories, the National Naval Medical Center, and of all technical schools established for the education or training of members of the Medical Corps, Dental Corps, Nurse Corps, and Hospital Corps, and with their upkeep and operation.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery provides for inspection of the sanitary condition of the Navy, and recommends with respect to all questions connected with hygiene and sanitation affecting the service; it advises with the Department and other bureaus regarding the sanitary features of ships under construction and in commission, regarding berthing, ventilation, and location of quarters for the care and treatment of the sick and injured; as to provisions for the care of wounded in battle; and, in the case of shore stations, with regard to health conditions depending on location, the hygienic construction and care of public buildings, especially of barracks and other habitations, such as camps. It also advises concerning clothing and food, water supplies used for drinking, cooking, and bathing purposes, and drainage and disposal of wastes, so far as these affect the health of the Navy. It safeguards the personnel by the employment of the best methods of hygiene and sanitation, both afloat and ashore, with a view to maintaining the highest possible percentage of the personnel ready for service at all times, and adopts for use all such devices or procedures developed in the sciences of medicine and surgery as will in any way increase military efficiency.

It is the duty of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery to provide for the physical examination of officers, nurses, and enlisted personnel, with a view to the selection or retention of those only whose physical condition is such as to maintain or improve the military efficiency of the service if admitted or retained therein; it passes upon the competency, from a professional standpoint, of all personnel of the Hospital Corps for enlistment, enrollment, and promotion by means of examinations conducted under its supervision or by such forms as it may prescribe.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery recommends to the Bureau of Naval Personnel the complement of Medical Department personnel for hospitals and hospital ships, and also recommends and has information as to the assignment and duties of the personnel of the Medical Corps, Dental Corps, and Hospital Corps. It is charged with the administration of the Nurse Corps, and has power to appoint and remove all nurses, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Navy.

It requires for and has control of the preparation, reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, and issue of all supplies of every kind used in the Medical Department for its own purposes; and has charge of the civilian force employed at naval hospitals, medical supply depots, medical laboratories, the National Naval Medical Center, and at all technical schools for the education or training of Medical Department personnel.

It approves the design of hospitals and other shore establishments and of hospital ships in relation to their efficiency for the care of the sick and wounded, and provides for the organization and administration of the medical department of shore establishments and vessels.

The arrangements for care, transportation, and burial of the dead are under the jurisdiction and control of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

BUREAU OF NAVAL PERSONNEL

1. (a) The Bureau of Naval Personnel is charged with, and responsible for, the procurement, education, training, discipline, and distribution of officers and enlisted personnel of the Navy, including the Naval Reserve and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, except the professional education of officers, nurses, and enlisted men of the Medical Department.

(b) It is responsible for libraries on ships and in shore stations throughout the Naval Establishment.

(c) It is charged with the upkeep and operation of the following, and with their repair:

Naval Academy,
Postgraduate School,
Naval War College,
Schools for the training of naval personnel,
Training stations,
Naval Home,

and with the direction of receiving ships and stations.

2. It issues, records, and enforces the orders of the Secretary of the Navy to the individual officers of the Navy and of the Naval Reserve.

3. It has under its direction recruiting stations, and supervises the enlistment and discharge of all enlisted persons.

4. It is charged with the operation of the Navy Demobilization Program.

5. It has under its direction the organization and administration of the Naval Reserve, and provides for the mobilization of all these Reserves.

6. It has cognizance of transportation for all naval personnel except the Marine Corps.

7. It establishes the complements and allowances of ships.

8. It keeps the records of service of all officers and men, and prepares an annual Navy Register for publication.

9. It is charged with all matters pertaining to application for appointments and commissions in the Navy and with the preparation of such appointments and commissions for signature.

10. It is charged with the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all regulations governing uniforms, and with the distribution of general orders and regulations.

11. Questions of naval discipline, rewards, and punishments are submitted by this Bureau for the action of the Secretary of the Navy. The records of all general courts martial and courts of inquiry involving the personnel of the Navy are, before final action, referred to this Bureau for comment and recommendation as to disciplinary features.

12. It receives all reports of services performed by individual officers or men.

13. It is charged with the enforcement of regulations and instructions regarding naval ceremonies and naval etiquette.

14. It is charged with the supervision of the welfare and recreational activities of the naval service except those under the cognizance of the Marine Corps.

BUREAU OF ORDNANCE

The Bureau of Ordnance is charged with and responsible for the design, manufacture, procurement, maintenance, issue, and efficiency of all offensive and defensive arms and armament (including armor, torpedoes, mines, depth charges, pyrotechnics, bombs, ammunition, war explosives, war chemicals, defensive nets, booms, and buoys, plus anchors, moorings, and appliances therefor except fixtures on shore used to secure the ends of nets and booms) and, except as specifically assigned to other cognizance, optical and other devices and material for the control of guns, torpedoes, and bombs.

It is charged with the upkeep and operation of the following naval ordnance establishments and with their repairs, within the capacity of the force employed:

- (a) Naval gun factories.
- (b) Naval ordnance plants.
- (c) Naval torpedo stations.
- (d) Naval proving grounds.

- (e) Naval powder factories.
- (f) Naval ammunition depots.
- (g) Naval magazines on shore.
- (h) Naval mine depots.
- (i) Naval net depots.
- (j) Naval ordnance test stations.
- (k) Naval mine warfare test stations.
- (l) Naval ordnance laboratories.

BUREAU OF SHIPS

The Bureau of Ships is charged with and responsible for the general design, structural strength, stability, and seaworthiness of all ships and floating craft of the Navy, except airships.

It is responsible for the preparation of preliminary plans, approximate data, or both, showing the designs of new ships in accordance with the military characteristics recommended by the General Board and approved by the Secretary of the Navy, and for the preparation of final designs of new vessels in consultation with other bureaus.

It is charged with and responsible for all that relates to details of designing, building, fitting-out, repairing, and altering of hulls, permanent fittings, and main machinery, including its related equipment used for propulsion of naval vessels, district craft (except those of the Bureau of Yards and Docks), and small boats.

It has similar responsibility in connection with auxiliary machinery not associated with propulsion equipment, including all pumps, distilling apparatus, refrigerating apparatus, air-conditioning apparatus, steering gear, anchor windlass, deck machinery, air compressors, heating systems, and piping systems.

It has cognizance of all that relates to electric generating sets and storage batteries; the generation and distribution of electric power on board ships for all purposes; all means of interior communication; all electrical methods of signaling, internal and external; all other electrical apparatus on board ship, except fire-control instruments and motors and control appliances used to operate machinery under the specific cognizance of other bureaus; and all appliances and articles of equipage and supplies on its approved allowance list.

It is charged with the design of all radio, radar and sonar equipage, including ordnance and air-borne applications, and special devices used by the naval communications service. It is responsible for installation and maintenance of radio, radar, and sonar apparatus ashore and afloat.

It provides shipkeepers for the care of vessels and district craft (except those of the Bureau of Yards and Docks) not in commission.

The Bureau is responsible for the provision of facilities and arrangements for salvaging vessels.

It has administrative supervision of the drydocking of all vessels and district craft and of the operating and cleaning of drydocks and marine railways.

It is charged with the design, development, and procurement planning for materials and appliances for defense against gas attacks, except as specifically assigned to other cognizance; for diving gear and experimental diving units, respiratory protective devices, paravanes and mine-sweeping gear, office labor saving devices for ships and certain shore activities, mess and galley equipment, ground tackle and towing gear, life-saving equipment and navigational equipment.

It is responsible for the quality control of all petroleum products for the fleet. It prepares specifications and recommendations for the purchase on annual contracts of consumable engineering supplies and conducts tests for determining the quality which these supplies must meet. It prepares the specifications for the yearly contract under which lubricating oil is purchased by the Navy and by all other Federal activities.

It prepares specifications and prescribes tests for material, equipment, and machinery under its cognizance. It is represented on many of the national standardization and engineering bodies, and on the various Federal specifications committees.

The Bureau is charged with the upkeep, operation, and repair of the David W. Taylor Model Basin, Carderock, Md.; the Naval Engineering Experiment Station, Annapolis, Md.; the Navy Electronics Laboratory, San Diego, Calif.; the Navy Underwater Sound Laboratory, New London, Conn.; the Navy Code and Signal Laboratory, Washington, D. C.; the Naval Boiler and Turbine Laboratory, Naval Shipyard, Philadelphia, Pa.; the Materials Testing Laboratory, Naval Shipyard, New York, N. Y.; the Industrial Test Laboratory, Naval Shipyard, Philadelphia, Pa.; the Naval Metals Laboratory, Munhall, Pa.; the Paint Laboratory, Norfolk Naval Shipyard, Portsmouth, Va.; the Paint Laboratory, Naval Shipyard, Mare Island, Calif.; the Rubber Testing Laboratory, Naval Shipyard, Mare Island, Calif.; the Naval Electrical Testing Laboratory, Somersworth, N. H.; the Petroleum Chemical Laboratory, Fifteenth Naval District, Canal Zone; the Petroleum Chemical Laboratory, Guam; materials laboratories located in the naval shipyards in Portsmouth, N. H.; Boston, Mass.; Norfolk, Portsmouth, Va.; Charleston, S. C.; Mare Island, Calif.; Puget Sound, Bremerton, Wash.; and Pearl Harbor, T. H. These activities are employed for conducting necessary research, tests, investigations, and developments to obtain suitable apparatus and material for naval purposes. They supply technical services directly to the Bureau, although the administrative control of such activities is vested in the military commands of the naval establishments in which they are located.

The Bureau maintains liaison offices with the Army laboratories at Fort Monmouth and the Army Electronics Standards Agency at Red Bank, N. J. It administers the Electronics Field Services Group at the Naval Research Laboratory, Anacostia, D. C., and directs the Air Navigation and Electronics Project at the Naval Air Facility, Charlestown, R. I.

It is charged with management control of all activities comprising the United States naval shipyards.

It maintains, in the field, offices of supervisors of shipbuilding, industrial managers and assistant industrial managers, and inspectors of machinery. In the offices of supervisors of shipbuilding and inspectors of machinery a force of trained naval and civilian experts is maintained for the inspection of machinery and materials generally entering into the construction of new vessels; this force interprets and enforces strict compliance with the specifications and other contractual obligations for the construction of vessels as regards characteristics of materials used and the method of installation of completed parts.

It nominates to the Bureau of Naval Personnel specially qualified officers for engineering duty at sea and on shore, including naval shipyards and those for duty as supervisors of shipbuilding and inspectors of machinery.

It compiles and issues instructions for the care, operation, and maintenance of material, equipment, and machinery under its cognizance and prepares and issues bulletins of official information on these subjects.

The Bureau of Ships has supervision and control over the appropriations, "Maintenance, Bureau of Ships," "Increase and Replacement of Naval Vessels, Construction and Machinery," "Defense Installations on Merchant Vessels, Navy," and, together with the Bureau of Ordnance, has joint supervision and control over the appropriations, "Increase and Replacement of Naval Vessels, Emergency Construction," and "Repair Facilities, Navy."

BUREAU OF SUPPLIES AND ACCOUNTS

The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts develops plans, formulates policies, and specifies procedures to be followed in the performance of supply, disbursing, and accounting duties afloat and ashore. This includes administrative control of supply depots, the Naval Clothing Factory, coffee-roasting plants, fuel depots, and annexes, commissary and ship's store activities, purchasing offices, cost-inspection offices, property-transportation offices, Supply Corps Schools, and storehouses for supplies for which it is responsible at navy yards and naval stations. Supervises the operation of receiving barracks and training stations maintained from Defense Aid funds.

Supply Corps personnel administration.—Prepares estimates of needs and recommends the appointment, training, promotion, and assignment to duty of officers of the Supply Corps, chief pay clerks, and pay clerks.

Supply.—Administers the Naval Procurement Fund, the Naval Stock Fund, the Naval Working Fund, and the Clothing and Small Stores Fund, and the stocks procured under these funds. Determines requirements, procures receipts for, stores, and issues all supplies, provisions, clothing, fuel, ship's store items, and other materials for the Navy, except certain special technical items. This includes the development, testing, procurement, and distribution of special clothing, other than aviation clothing, and of new articles and methods of subsistence and supervision of the usage and requirements for critical and strategic materials subject to allocation by the War Production Board and other Government agencies. Arranges for the compilation, printing, and distribution of Navy Department specifications and the cataloging of Navy material. Supervises and controls the taking of physical inventories of material for which it is responsible.

Coordinates the assembly and preparation of supplies, materials, and supply personnel, except for the Bureau of Yards and Docks, required for the basic initial needs of advanced bases, and determines storage and space requirements in connection with the movement of such bases. Supervises the scrapping of Navy property; its segregation into usable salvage, scrap, and waste; supervises the selling of such property. Supervises material recovery units in off-shore naval activities. Develops and assists in installation of methods and standards for preservation, packaging, packing, and handling of Navy materials.

Storage and transportation.—Makes recommendations relative to the location, design, construction, and equipment of storehouses and other facilities required for supply, disbursing, and accounting operations ashore and for space and equipment requirements of supply activities afloat. Administers a centralized storage requirements and space control program for Navy continental storage facilities. Authorizes and supervises the transportation of Navy property, directly recruited civilian personnel, and the household effects of naval and civilian personnel of the Naval Establishment. Supervises the assembly of cargoes and the loading and discharging of supply ships and tankers.

Finance and Accounting.—Prepares budget estimates and controls the expenditure of the sums required for freight, fuel, clothing, and subsistence of Navy personnel, and for the maintenance and operation of supply, disbursing, and accounting activities ashore. Determines allowable costs under all types of Navy contracts wherein cost is the basis for compensation. Arranges for the funds required by Navy disbursing officers, and pays for all articles and services procured for the Navy, for Navy pay rolls, military and civilian, for family allowances to dependents of Navy personnel and for other allotments. Supervises the issuance of War Bonds purchased by military and civilian Navy personnel. Keeps and audits the property and money accounts of the Naval Establishment, including accounts of all manufacturing and operating expenses at navy yards and naval stations, accounts pertaining to the lend-lease operations of the Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard; the audit of property returns from ships and stations, and keeps the accounting records relating to the plant properties, facilities, and capital equipment owned in whole or in part by the Navy. Directs naval cost accounting and renders periodic and special reports and statements based hereon. Develops fiscal and accounting policies and procedures relative to the possession and operation of private plants by the Navy, and their return to private ownership.

BUREAU OF YARDS AND DOCKS

The Bureau of Yards and Docks is the Navy Department's "Public Works Agency" for the entire Naval Shore Establishment. It is the function and responsibility of the Bureau of Yards and Docks and its field organizations to assist all Bureaus and Offices of the Navy Department in development planning and to administer directly the design, construction, and major repairs of the public works and public utilities including: Navy Yard facilities, such as drydocks, marine railways, building ways, hammerhead cranes; harbor structures, such as moorings, quay walls, piers, wharves, slips (including dredging), landings, floating cranes; utilities, such as power plants, railroads, and systems for heat, light, telephone, water, and sewer services; all types of buildings, including structural and machine shops, and such accessories as roads, walks, bridges, and radio towers.

The Bureau is charged with responsibility for, and execution of, the annual inspection as to structural condition and all major repairs of such naval public works and utilities. It provides for their general and routine maintenance except such minor routine work as can be accomplished by station forces, at ordnance stations, air stations, training stations, hospitals, marine posts, and the Naval Academy. The Bureau is also responsible for the operation of all central power plants and distribution systems and the provision and operation of land transportation and weight-handling equipment, including locomotives, locomotive cranes, cars, derricks (both shore and floating), shears, motortrucks, passenger automobiles, etc.

The Bureau consults fully on new projects with those departmental bureaus or offices for whose use they are primarily intended; prepares designs that will be mutually satisfactory as to location, lay-out, and operating features; makes cost estimates; and supervises construction.

The Bureau of Yards and Docks is charged with all functions, both legal and administrative, respecting the acquisition and disposition of real estate, or any interest therein, for the Navy Department, and is custodian of all naval real estate which is not in active use.

The Bureau of Yards and Docks is a direct construction agency, one of its major ultimate objectives being the construction of all shore facilities for the use of the Navy. Its work of design and construction is broad in nature and embraces nearly all forms of engineering, and all types of structures mentioned above. The Bureau's present practice is the accomplishment of construction work coming under its cognizance through the medium of general contracts awarded on a competitive lump-sum-bid basis. However, enacted legislation allows the award of contracts on a negotiated, cost-plus-a-fixed-fee basis, and this type of contract was extensively used during the period immediately prior to and during the early stages of the war, in the interests of satisfying the construction demands of the Navy in the shortest time. The use of this type of contract has been largely discontinued, since March 1943, in favor of the lump-sum form of contract.

In order to accomplish the design, construction, repair, and operation of public works facilities at advanced bases, the Bureau has been instrumental in organizing and placing in service naval personnel known as Construction Battalions (Seabees). A Construction Battalion consists of approximately 32 officers and 1,100 enlisted men who are all qualified engineering and construction personnel, with a sufficient diversity of ratings to perform any and all tasks, the accomplishment of which is a responsibility of this Bureau.

Members of the Construction Battalions are trained in military tactics and have participated in and experienced combat in every theater of war.

Construction Battalions (Special), specifically trained in handling cargo from ship to shore, have been formed in considerable numbers, and are gradually assuming the major responsibilities in the movement of Navy cargo at advanced bases.

Construction Battalion Maintenance Units, composed of 7 officers and 270 men usually take over the base maintenance work from those regular battalions which have completed the base construction, and which have been assigned to other construction work or have been inactivated as a result of demobilization.

Construction Battalion Detachments are smaller groups of men specially organized for particular assignments and may be transferred immediately to other destinations upon completion of the task. The complement of such units is not constant.

The work of the Bureau and its attendant field activities are administered by officers of the Civil Engineer Corps, United States Navy, headed by the chief of the Bureau, who is an officer of the Civil Engineer Corps, United States Navy, and also Chief of Civil Engineers, United States Navy, appointed for a term of 4 years, who now holds the temporary rank of rear admiral, and an Assistant Chief of the Bureau, also an officer of the Civil Engineer Corps, United States Navy, who holds the temporary rank of rear admiral.

For administrative purposes the work of the Bureau is divided into five departments, each headed and administered by a commissioned officer of the Civil Engineer Corps, United States Navy, as follows: Administration and Personnel Department, Construction Department, Planning and Design Department, Finance and Operating Department, Progress Control and Statistical Department.

HEADQUARTERS, UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS

The Commandant of the Marine Corps is charged with and responsible for the procurement, distribution, education, training, discipline, and discharge of officer and enlisted personnel of the Marine Corps, including the Marine Corps Reserve, and their administration and general efficiency. The Headquarters is organized as the Office of the Commandant, Personnel Department, and two staff departments.

In the Office of the Commandant are the Assistant Commandant, the Inspector General, the Director of Plans and Policies, the Director of Aviation, the Director of Public Information, the military secretary to the Commandant, the legal aide to the Commandant, and the administrative officer.

The Assistant Commandant is principal assistant and adviser to the Commandant and performs the duties of a chief of staff, assists in coordinating the work of the several departments and divisions at Marine Corps Headquarters, and conducts the business of the office of the Commandant in the latter's absence.

The Inspector General when ordered by the Commandant makes periodic inspections and special investigations, and performs such other duties as may be prescribed by the Commandant.

The Director of Plans and Policies makes recommendations to the Commandant relative to plans and policies of the United States Marine Corps, concerning military personnel, intelligence, operations, training and matériel.

The Director of Aviation, as Assistant Commandant (Air) of the Marine Corps, is adviser to the Commandant of the Marine Corps on aviation matters; as Assistant Chief of Naval Operations (Marine Corps Aviation) is liaison officer between the Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Air) and the Commandant of the Marine Corps; is responsible for planning, organization, equipment, training, deployment, promotions, and distribution of personnel, and for budgetary matters for Marine Corps Aviation.

The Director of Public Information has supervision over, and is responsible for, all public relations.

The military secretary to the Commandant serves the Commandant in a confidential capacity in the performance of the activities of his office; facilitates communications between the Commandant and his subordinates; provides for the orderly disposal of communications and correspondence in Headquarters, Marine Corps; assists the Commandant in such other matters as he may direct.

The legal aide is the liaison officer with Congress in legislative matters, and legal adviser to the Commandant in matters relating to administration of the Marine Corps.

The responsibilities of the administrative officer are to administer a program pertaining to civil employees and to control procurement and placement of enlisted personnel, to perform service functions, such as issuance of office bulletins and memoranda, operate Headquarters Communication Office, control of parking spaces and issuance of parking permits, disposition of obsolete records, and similar services common to all parts of Headquarters.

The Director of Personnel, Marine Corps, under the direction of the Commandant, is charged with the procurement of officer and enlisted personnel; with the classification, detail, and assignment of officer and enlisted personnel; with the appointment, promotion, retirement, military histories, and separation of officer personnel; with the promotion, military histories, and separation of enlisted personnel. The Director of Personnel is also charged in like manner with the administration of discipline; decorations and medals; morale, welfare, recreation, post exchange, and rehabilitation; casualties (including dependents' benefits); target practice; with the adjudication of claims, legislation, preparation, revision, and issue of regulations and instructions to the service; with the keeping of records and reports and furnishing returns and necessary information in connection with the administration of the personnel and organization of the Marine Corps; and with such other duties as may be prescribed by the Commandant of the Marine Corps. The Director shall make inspections and investigations pertaining to the Personnel Department when so ordered. He shall determine responsibility for overpayments and loss, damage, or destruction of Government property, funds, etc.

The Quartermaster General of the Marine Corps has supervision of matters relating to the purchase, storage, and distribution of all supplies for the Marine Corps; pays all civilian field employees; pays all expenses of the Corps except those pertaining to the Paymaster General's Department; prepares annual estimates of the appropriation, "General Expenses, Marine Corps"; has jurisdiction over quarters, barracks, and other public buildings provided for officers and enlisted men; over repairs, alterations, and improvements thereto; over vehicles for the transportation of troops and supplies; over public animals and their equipment; furnishes means of transportation for movement of troops; prints and issues blank forms for the Marine Corps. The Quartermaster General has been designated Fiscal Director of the Marine Corps.

The Paymaster General of the Marine Corps has cognizance over all matters relating to the payment of pay and allowances of Marine Corps and attached Navy personnel and to the administrative audit and analyses of accounts and returns of disbursing officers; preparation of estimates under the appropriations "Pay, Marine Corps," and "Pay of Civil Force, Marine Corps"; and the supervision and administration of all offices and personnel of the Paymaster's Department.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

The Department of the Interior has the primary task of developing and conserving the natural resources of the United States and its territories for this and future generations. As the head of that Department, the Secretary of the Interior is charged with the supervision of public business relating to the General Land Office, Bureau of Reclamation, Geological Survey, Office of Indian Affairs, National Park Service, Bureau of Mines, Fish and Wildlife Service, Grazing Service, Office of Land Utilization, Division of Territories and Island Possessions, Division of Power, Bonneville Power Administration, Southwestern Power Administration, United States Board on Geographical Names, Federal Petroleum Board and Petroleum Conservation Division, Indian Arts and Crafts Board, and the Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings and Monuments.

The Secretary is a ex-officio member of the following bodies:

- National Power Policy Committee, chairman.
- Board of Directors of the Virgin Islands Company, chairman.
- National Park Trust Fund Board, chairman.
- Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, chairman.
- National Forest Reservation Commission.
- Smithsonian Institution.
- National Archives Council.
- United States Council of National Defense.
- Board of Directors of the Canal Zone Biological Area.

UNDER SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

The position of Under Secretary was established by the act of May 9, 1935 (49 Stat. 176, 177). He has general jurisdiction over all bureaus and divisions subject only to the Secretary. He is also the general administrative Secretary of the Department, serves as budget officer for the Department, and has supervision over personnel and fiscal administration, and the Division of Territories and Island Possessions.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR (VACANCY)

The Assistant Secretary has general supervision over all matters concerning the Office of Indian Affairs, General Land Office, Grazing Service, National Park Service, Office of Land Utilization, Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Board on Geographic Names, and matters on which the Conservation Branch of the Geological Survey acts in conjunction with the General Land Office or the Office of Indian Affairs, or in which it acts in relation to the work of these bureaus; admission, disbarment, and restoration of attorneys and agents to practice before the Department and bureaus thereof.

The Assistant Secretary also has jurisdiction over matters of a miscellaneous character, such as the signing of contracts under the contingent and stationery appropriations, etc. Duties in connection with the affairs of other bureaus are assigned to him from time to time.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR (VACANCY)

The Assistant Secretary has a general supervision over matters concerning the (1) Bureau of Mines, (2) Geological Survey, (3) Bureau of Reclamation, (4) Petroleum Conservation Division, and (5) Patent Policies and Procedures. He is authorized and directed by the Secretary of the Interior to perform the functions and duties and exercise the powers vested in the Secretary for those particular offices and bureaus. In the absence of the Secretary and the Under Secretary, the Assistant Secretary will act as Secretary and at all times perform such other duties as the Secretary may assign. The Assistant Secretary also serves as chairman of the Interior Department Suggestions System.

CHIEF CLERK

The Chief Clerk of the Department initiates, promulgates, and enforces regulations affecting the operational management and coordination of the departmental, bureau, and divisional offices under the Secretary of the Interior; controls space occupied by the departmental offices; has direct supervision over purchasing, duplicating, accounts, mail, files, communications, emergency room, museum, and garage. He is responsible for conservation and utilization of property; is contact officer for the Department in matters relating to the Division of Disbursement, Treasury Department, and the General Accounting Office; handles such official mail as the Secretary of the Interior may direct and various miscellaneous matters of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned, and is custodian of the official seal of the Department. A branch office is maintained at Chicago, Ill.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR

The Solicitor is the chief law officer of the Department. Responsible to him are an immediate staff of assistants and the chief legal officers of the various bureaus of the Department, together with their staffs.

The Solicitor is the chief legal adviser to the Secretary of the Interior and to other administrative officers of the Department. He has cognizance of all matters involving Executive orders, contracts, permits, leases, and patents affecting the public lands and appurtenant waters of the United States or other public properties or affairs entrusted to the Department, all adjudications affecting Indian estates and all ordinances of territories, insular possessions, and Indian tribes. He reviews all regulations issued by the Department or by any of its bureaus. He drafts or advises in the drafting of all legislation sponsored by the Department or its bureaus and all reports on proposed legislation referred to the Department by the Congress or the President for report. He passes upon the title to lands acquired by the Department for national parks, public power projects, irrigation projects, Indian reservations, and other purposes.

The Solicitor is in charge of all interests of the Department in litigation. He is charged with the defense of certain suits involving the legality of action by the Secretary of the Interior. In all other matters involving public lands, irrigation projects, power development, Indians and Indian property, and the Territories and insular possessions of the United States, the office of the Solicitor examines evidence, prepares cases, drafts pleadings and briefs, and otherwise cooperates with the Department of Justice in the conduct of litigation.

The Solicitor of the Department renders formal opinions, at the request of the Secretary of the Interior, on important legal questions arising in the administration of the work of the Department. He considers and recommends the appropriate disposition of appeals from decisions of the General Land Office, the Grazing Service and other agencies of the Department charged with responsibility for quasi-judicial hearings, claims for damage to property of the United States in the custody of the Department, and claims against the Government for damage arising from operations of the Department. He conducts administrative hearings in other matters referred by the Secretary of the Interior. He represents the Government of Puerto Rico in litigation in the higher Federal Courts.

OFFICE OF LAND UTILIZATION

The Office of Land Utilization is charged, under Administrative Order 1466, dated April 15, 1940, with the responsibility of coordinating and integrating the land-classification, land-use, and land-management activities of the several bureaus and agencies of the Department, the establishment and development of sound forestry practices, the general administration of the soil and moisture conservation work, and the maintenance of cooperative relations with Federal, State, and private agencies concerned with the protection, conservation, and prudent use of the lands and natural resources of the United States and Alaska.

COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE

The Commissioner of the General Land Office is charged with the survey, classification, management, protection, leasing, and disposition of the public lands; adjudication of various kinds of applications filed under the public-land laws; adjustment of conflicting claims; granting of railroad and other rights-of-way and easements; issuance of patents for lands; furnishing of certified copies of land patents, plats, and other records. In national forests executes all laws relating to surveying, prospecting, locating, appropriating, entering, reconveying, or patenting of public lands and the granting of rights-of-way.

COMMISSIONER OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has, under direction of the Secretary of the Interior, management of all Indian affairs and of all matters arising out of Indian relations. This includes the economic development and relief of the Indian, both tribally and as an individual; the organization of Indian tribes, including credit organizations; Indian education in boarding schools, day schools, and community centers operated by the Government, and in public schools and other nongovernmental institutions; the health, medical, and sanitation activities; the land program, involving land acquisition and adjustment, tribal enrollment, land sales, and contracts; forestry, involving forest management, fire protection, grazing; the furtherance of an agricultural extension program; irrigation, both construction and maintenance and operation; the construction and upkeep of buildings at field units; the construction and maintenance of roads and bridges on Indian lands; Indian emergency conservation work and other emergency activities; also health, education, and other activities in behalf of the natives of Alaska.

INDIAN ARTS AND CRAFTS BOARD

The Indian Arts and Crafts Board was created by the act of Congress approved August 27, 1935, and is composed of five members appointed by the Secretary of the Interior. Executive officers and other personnel are employed by the Board. The function of the Board is "to promote the economic welfare of the Indian tribes and the Indian wards of the Government through the development of Indian arts and crafts and the expansion of the market for the products of Indian art and craftsmanship." Broad powers are given the Board in the execution of this function, among which are the powers to engage in marketing and technical research, to engage in experimentation, to correlate activities of various governmental and private agencies in the field, to create Government trade-marks of genuineness and quality for Indian products, to establish standards and regulations for the use of such trade-marks, to license groups or individuals to use them, and to charge a fee for their use.

DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

The organic act of the Geological Survey, approved on March 3, 1879 (20 Stat. 377), established the office of Director of the Geological Survey under the Interior Department. Under this act it is provided that the Director shall have the direction of the Geological Survey, the classification of the public lands, and the examination of the geological structure and the mineral resources and products of the national domain. In conformity with its organic act and later legislation the Geological Survey is engaged in the preparation and publication of reports upon the geology and mineral resources of the United States and Alaska, in the investigation of strategic and deficient minerals in Latin America, and in the chemical and physical research incident to this work; in the preparation, publication, and sale of topographic maps of the United States and its dependencies; in investigating and reporting upon water resources, both surface and underground; in classifying the public lands as to their mineral and power value and in supervising the technical phases of mineral leasing on lands in which the title to the mineral resources remains in the United States.

COMMISSIONER, BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

The Bureau of Reclamation was established as an agency of the Federal Government under the Department of the Interior following the passage of the Reclamation Act of June 17, 1902. This act established the "reclamation fund" from the sale of public lands "to be used in the examination and survey for and the construction and maintenance of irrigation works for the storage, diversion, and development of waters for the reclamation of arid and semiarid lands in the States and Territories * * *." As accretions from the sale of public lands diminished, the fund has been augmented by receipts from oil and mineral royalties and supplemented by direct appropriations from the General Treasury in the form of loans, which have been repaid.

Under subsequent legislation, the activities of the Bureau have been expanded to include in addition to irrigation the construction and operation of hydroelectric power plants to assure more complete utilization, through multiple-purpose projects, of the water resources of the arid and semiarid areas in the 17 States bisected by or west of the 97th meridian. Municipal, industrial, and military water supplies are also augmented by reclamation projects. Under the Boulder Canyon Project Act of 1928 the Bureau constructed Boulder Dam with the largest power plant in the world. Under other legislation it has completed Grand Coulee Dam with a power plant which ultimately will be larger than that of Boulder Dam.

Construction is now under way on the vast irrigation system which will serve the million-acre Columbia Basin Project area with water stored by Grand Coulee Dam. Other major construction work on Bureau developments includes the 156-mile Friant-Kern Canal and the 120-mile Delta-Mendota Canal on the Central Valley Project in California, and the Kortes Dam in Wyoming, the Bureau's initial project under the coordinated plan for broad-scale development of the Missouri River Basin resources.

The Commissioner, under the supervision of the Secretary, is in administrative charge of all the activities of the Bureau of Reclamation, including preliminary surveys and investigations of proposed projects, the preparation of plans, the construction of irrigation works and multiple-purpose dams, power development, the administration of funds provided for reclamation, the operation and maintenance of completed projects, the settlement and development of project areas, repayments from irrigation districts and water users' associations of the cost of the construction works allocated to irrigation, and the return of the investment in power facilities from contractors for the purchase of electric energy.

Denver, Colo., is headquarters of the Branch of Design and Construction, and the Branch of Power Utilization. The Bureau also has seven regional field offices: at Boise, Idaho; Sacramento, Calif.; Boulder City, Nev.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Amarillo, Tex.; Billings, Mont.; and Denver, Colo.

The Bureau of Reclamation is providing irrigation service for more than 4,000,000 acres of land. Gross value of crops produced on Federal reclamation projects in 1945 amounted to more than $424,000,000, a slight increase over the value of crops produced on reclamation projects in 1944.

In April 1945 the Bureau of Reclamation submitted to the Committee on Irrigation and Reclamation of the House of Representatives an "inventory" of 415 projects including more than 100 which have been authorized.

If all projects in the "inventory" are authorized by the Congress they will greatly aid in maintaining production and employment at high levels and in stimulating further development of the West. The proposed projects would extend irrigation to 10,800,000 acres of new land and in addition furnish supplemental water for 10,600,000 acres now inadequately watered. Almost 200,000 new family-type farms would be made available for demobilized servicemen, war workers, and others, and it is estimated that between 150,000 and 200,000 men could be put to work at construction sites the first year if funds, manpower, and materials are available. In addition, thousands of other jobs would be created in mills, factories, and other supply centers throughout the country.

The Bureau of Reclamation is the largest producer of hydroelectric power in the world. Its hydroelectric plants at Boulder, Shasta, and Grand Coulee Dams played a vital role in war production and are now an important factor in further stimulating industrial expansion of the West. Nearly 14 billion kilowatt-hours of electric energy were produced at Bureau projects during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1945. Present plants have a capacity of 2,439,300 kilowatts and an ultimate capacity of 5,189,800 kilowatts.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

Under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior administers the national park system in accordance with the act of August 25, 1916, as amended; the act of June 8, 1906; the Executive order of June 10, 1933; the act of August 21, 1935; and the act of June 23, 1936; formulates policies and directs protective work from standpoint of preservation and of enjoyment by visitors; directs construction from engineering, architectural, and landscape viewpoints; directs public interpretive service in natural sciences, history, and archeology, and provides for museum developments and is responsible for the investigation of proposed national parks, monuments, historic sites, and other park projects. Through the Office of National Capital Parks, maintains the Executive mansion and grounds. The Director is executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and is a member of the National Park Trust Fund Board, the District of Columbia Zoning Commission, and of various other commissions and committees.

NATIONAL PARK TRUST FUND BOARD

The National Park Trust Fund Board was created by the act of July 10, 1935 (49 Stat. 477), which authorizes the Board to accept, receive, hold, and administer such gifts or bequests of personal property for the benefit of, or in connection with, the National Park Service, its activities or its service, as may be approved by the Board.

ADVISORY BOARD ON NATIONAL PARKS, HISTORIC SITES, BUILDINGS, AND MONUMENTS

The Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings, and Monuments was established by the Historic Sites Act of August 21, 1935 (49 Stat. 666). The act provides that it shall be the duty of such Board to advise on any matter regarding national parks and the administration of the Historic Sites Act submitted to it for consideration by the Secretary of the Interior. From time to time, it also may recommend policies to the Secretary pertaining to national parks and to the restoration, reconstruction, conservation, and general administration of historic and archeologic sites, buildings, and properties.

DIRECTOR OF THE BUREAU OF MINES

The Director of the Bureau of Mines is charged with the investigation of methods of mining, especially in relation to the safety of miners, the appliances best adapted to prevent accidents, and the possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on; the treatment of ores and other mineral substances; the use of explosives and electricity; the prevention of accidents; the prevention of waste; the improvements of method in the production of petroleum and natural gas; and other inquiries and technological investigations pertinent to such industries. He has charge of tests and analyses of ores, coals, lignites, and other mineral fuel substances belonging to or for use of the United States; has charge of the collection of statistics on mineral resources and economic studies of metals and minerals produced or consumed in the United States and of statistical and other economic information pertaining to world production, distribution, and consumption of all mineral commodities; supervises all work relating to the production and conservation of helium; he has charge of issuance of licenses covering the manufacture, distribution, storage, use, or possession of all nonmilitary explosives and their ingredients. Under the provisions of section 7 (a) of the Strategic Materials Act, approved June 7, 1939 (53 Stat. 812), he is directed to investigate the extent and mode of occurrence, the development, mining, preparation, treatment, and utilization of ores and other mineral substances found in the United States or its Territories or insular possessions, which are essential to the common defense or the industrial needs of the United States and the quantities or grades of which are inadequate from known domestic sources, in order to develop domestic sources of supply, and to determine the extent and quality of deposits of such minerals, the most suitable methods of mining and beneficiating them, and the cost at which the minerals or metals may be produced. Under the provisions of the Coal Mine Inspection Act of May 7, 1941 (Public Law 49, 77th Cong.), he is authorized and empowered to make or cause to be made annual or necessary inspections and investigations in coal mines, for the purpose of obtaining information relative to health and safety conditions in such mines and of disseminating information concerning them with a view to reducing accident occurrence and ill health among those employed in coal mining. The act of April 5, 1944 (Public Law 290, 78th Cong.), authorizes him to conduct research and operate plants to demonstrate the production of synthetic liquid fuels from coal and other substances.

GRAZING SERVICE

The Director of Grazing inaugurates and carries out plans and policies under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior for the conservation, development and management of the Federal range (142,000,000 acres) and additional lands administered in cooperation with the Federal and State agencies and private individuals as required by the Taylor Grazing Act of June 28, 1934, as amended. Directs the classification of public lands in grazing districts for the purpose of determining their agricultural suitability and recommends their disposition under existing law. Directs a program of rehabilitation of the natural resources and stabilization of the livestock industry consistent with policies formulated in the public interest and in a manner designed to benefit and harmonize the viewpoints of interested associations, individuals, and agencies concerned with the use of the public range. Activities pertain principally to the States of Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, and Wyoming, and are administered through 10 grazing regions, subdivided into 60 grazing districts. State regions are administered by regional graziers and each grazing district is under the supervision of a district grazer who has advice and counsel of an advisory board of local stockmen. The Director is charged with the protection of the Federal range and the control of 22,000 permits involving range use by more than 11,000,000 livestock. Inaugurates cooperative agreements with State and Federal agencies, local associations, societies, groups, and individuals, and directs the analytical study of the range to determine carrying capacities and preserve and improve the water, soil, forage, wildlife, and other resources, and preserve antiquities, in the furtherance of the above program.

FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

The functions of the Fish and Wildlife Service are concerned with the conservation of the Nation's natural resources in the field of vertebrate wildlife, including the land and water mammals and birds and the fishes, reptiles, and amphibians, and also shellfishes and crustaceans. Research is undertaken to learn the habits, needs, and economic utilization of the various forms and the results are published and otherwise made available for practical application in fishery and wildlife management, including preservation and restoration in natural habitat; propagation, as of birds, fur animals, and fishes, under controlled conditions; demonstrations and cooperation in local suppression of injurious species; and protection and restoration by conservation-law administration.

The 12 divisions of this agency are concerned with (1) business administration; (2) wildlife research; (3) fishery biology; (4) Federal aid to States in wildlife restoration; (5) land acquisitions; (6) wildlife-refuge administration and management; (7) game management and conservation-law enforcement; (8) fishery industries; (9) fish culture; (10) Alaska fisheries; (11) predator and rodent control; and (12) public relations, in the dissemination of information developed through research and management and to facilitate law enforcement by acquainting the public with the nature and need of regulatory action. Most of the field work other than research is conducted throughout the United States and Alaska by a regional organization under six regional directors.

The Fish and Wildlife Service was formed on June 30, 1940, by consolidation of the former Bureaus of Fisheries and Biological Survey, both of which were transferred to the Department of the Interior on July 1, 1939—the Bureau of Fisheries, which was established in 1871, from the Department of Commerce; and the Biological Survey, established in 1885, from the Department of Agriculture. Both bureaus were originally established for research purposes, and in the course of years both had been charged with work associated with the management of the resources in their respective fields and with conservation-law enforcement.

Laws administered by the consolidated agency include the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, the Migratory Bird Conservation Act, and the Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp Act, which were passed to carry out treaty obligations with Canada and Mexico; the Bald Eagle Act; laws regulating interstate transportation of black bass, prohibiting, illegal shipments in interstate commerce of bodies or parts of bodies of wild animals, and regulating importations of foreign species of wild birds and mammals; the Federal Aid to Wildlife Restoration Act; the Fisheries Cooperative Marketing Act; laws for the conservation under international agreement of sea otters, fur seals, walruses, and sea lions, and part of the Whaling Treaty Act; and laws for the maintenance of the fish, fur, and game resources of Alaska, and for the protection of wildlife and property on national wildlife refuges.

The fishery functions of the Service involve the promotion of trade and commerce in fishery products, as well as the conservation of fishery resources. This includes the inquiry into the causes of fluctuations in abundance of food fishes in the lakes, rivers, and coastal waters of the United States, the development of methods of husbanding these resources, including improvements in methods of fish culture and investigation of important fisheries of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts, with a view to determining the condition of these resources; the propagation and distribution of food fishes; the rescuing of fishes from overflowed lands and the distribution of such fishes to suitable waters; the study of the methods of the fisheries and of the preservation, utilization, and merchandising of fishery products; the collection and compilation of statistics of the fisheries; and the protection and conservation of the salmon and other fisheries of Alaska.

The Service is responsible for the administration of the fur-seal herd of the Pribilof Islands and the care of the natives of these islands. Through the agency of the Alaska Game Commission it also regulates hunting and trapping in the Territory, for the protection of big-game and fur mammals and of game and other birds.

DIVISION OF TERRITORIES AND ISLAND POSSESSIONS

By the act of March 1, 1873 (17 Stat. 484, 5 U. S. C., sec. 486), the Secretary of the Interior was authorized to exercise all the powers and perform all the duties in relation to United States Territories then exercised by law or custom by the Secretary of State. Thus the Department acquired jurisdiction over the Territory of Alaska, and later, in 1898, over Hawaii. Executive Order No. 5566 of February 27, 1931, transferred supervision over the Virgin Islands from the Navy Department to Interior; jurisdiction over certain equatorial islands in the South Pacific was added by Executive Order No. 7368 of May 13, 1936 (Baker, Howland and Jarvis) and Executive Order No. 7828 of March 3, 1938 (Canton and Enderbury). The Division of Territories and Island Possessions was created by Executive Order No. 6726, dated May 29, 1934, which simultaneously transferred to it all functions pertaining to the civil government of Puerto Rico then performed by the War Department's Bureau of Insular Affairs. Reorganization Plan No. II, effective July 1, 1939 (Pub. Res. No. 20, 76th Cong.), transferred all remaining functions, including those with respect to the Philippines, from the War Department to the Division. In order to concentrate all responsibility for civil government in the territories and possessions in a single division, the Secretary of the Interior issued on February 13, 1936, Order No. 1040, vesting in the Division of Territories the Department's responsibility for government in Alaska, Hawaii, and the Virgin Islands.

Under these statutes and executive and departmental orders the Division performs a variety of services and has many duties. It is the Federal bureau with responsibility for advising the President and the Congress on all aspects of territorial policy. It acts as liaison between the territories and all branches of the Federal Government and the general public, explaining the territorial viewpoint, protecting the territorial interests insofar as they do not conflict with Federal interests, encouraging industrial development and acting as an informational clearing house for Federal officials and private persons, associations and organizations interested in business, commerce, trade or travel. It assists the territorial areas in working out plans and policies for a stable economy and a political status satisfactory to the inhabitants. It aids in the drafting of legislation to be introduced in the territorial legislature or in Congress. It represents the territories in litigation on appeal in the Federal courts, and in proceedings before Federal administrative agencies. It supplies financial and administrative services for the territorial governments in connection with personnel records and with the preparation of annual budget estimates to the Congress.

The Division carries out the duties assigned by Congress to the Secretary for the care and maintenance of the Alaska insane. It supervises the operation and administration of such federally sponsored agencies, operating in the territories, as the Puerto Rican Hurricane Relief Loan Section, established to assist in relieving the devastation caused to agricultural enterprises in the Island by the hurricanes of 1928 and 1932; the Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration, which has conducted a program of relief projects; the Virgin Islands Company, which produces rum, cultivates and grinds sugar cane, and engages in other activities beneficial to the economy of the Virgin Islands; the Alaska Rural Rehabilitation Corporation, devoted to the furtherance of agricultural enterprises; the Alaska Railroad; the Alaska Road Commission, and the Alaska Purchasing and Shipping Office. The Surplus Property Office was established to carry out surplus property disposition in the territorial areas, under regulation No. 1 of the Surplus Property Board designating Interior as disposal agency for virtually all classes of surplus property in those areas, and supervision of that office was placed by the Secretary in the Division.

PETROLEUM CONSERVATION DIVISION AND FEDERAL PETROLEUM BOARD

The Petroleum Conservation Division was established by the Secretary (Orders No. 1054, March 14, 1936, and No. 1057, March 31, 1936) to assist in administering the Connally Act, to cooperate with the Interstate Oil Compact Commission and the oil- and gas-producing States in the prevention of waste in oil and gas production and in the adoption of uniform oil and gas conservation laws and regulations; and to keep informed currently as to the movement of petroleum and petroleum products in interstate commerce. The creation of the Division was authorized by Executive Order No. 7756 of December 1, 1937.

The Federal Petroleum Board enforces the Connally Act (act of February 22, 1935, 49 Stat. 30; 15 U. S. C. secs. 715-715 (1)) and regulations, including the securing of monthly reports of petroleum production, transportation and refining operations from oil operators and reports of petroleum cargoes from operators of tankers, barges and other vessels, the physical inspection of properties and facilities of oil operators, the investigation of cases involving violations of the Connally Act or regulations. The Board was established by the Secretary pursuant to authority granted him in Executive Order No. 7756 of December 1, 1937.

BONNEVILLE POWER ADMINISTRATION

The Bonneville Power Administration was created by act of Congress approved August 20, 1937 (50 Stat. 731; 16 U. S. C. 832), to market power generated at the Bonneville Dam on the Columbia River in Oregon and Washington. It is directed by statute to encourage the widest possible use of electric energy and to provide market outlets therefor by constructing, operating, maintaining, and improving such electric transmission lines and substations as may be necessary. By Executive order of the President issued pursuant to the authority of the act of August 30, 1935, the Administration was made the marketing agency for energy generated at the Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia River in Washington. By order of the Secretary of the Interior it has also been designated as the marketing agency for energy generated at the Hungry Horse Dam on the South Fork of the Flathead River in western Montana which will be constructed and operated by the Bureau of Reclamation. In addition, the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1945 provides that power generated at the McNary Dam project and at the Snake River navigation and power project shall be marketed in accordance with existing laws covering the disposition of power generated at the Bonneville Dam.

The Bonneville and Grand Coulee Dams are operated, respectively, by the United States Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation. Power generated at the dams is sold by the Administration over a network of high voltage transmission lines in Oregon and Washington. The Grand Coulee and Bonneville power plants are capable of expansion to an aggregate installed capacity in excess of two and one-half million kilowatts.

DIVISION OF POWER

This Division has supervision over all functions in the Department of the Interior relating to electric power matters, including the study of power problems in those areas served by the Department's multi-purpose developments and by the developments constructed and operated by the War Department from which the Secretary of the Interior has been directed by Congress to dispose of the surplus power. In the Division are centralized responsibility for and coordination of the power phases of the work of the various bureaus of the Department, including the Bonneville Power Administration, Bureau of Reclamation, Office of Indian Affairs, National Park Service, the Division of Territories and Island Possessions, and the Southwestern Power Administration. This responsibility includes review of budgetary problems relating to electric power matters and correlation of the power construction program of the Department.

SOUTHWESTERN POWER ADMINISTRATION

The Southwestern Power Administration was created on September 1, 1943, by order of the Secretary of the Interior, to effect the provisions of Executive Orders 9366 of July 30, 1943, and 9373 of August 30, 1943, designating the Secretary as the agent for the operation of the facilities of the Grand River Dam Authority and for the sale and distribution of all electrical energy generated at the Pensacola, Denison, and Norfolk Dams in the States of Oklahoma, Texas, and Arkansas.

The Pensacola Dam was built for flood control and the generation of power on the Grand River with the aid of loans and grants from the Public Works Administration. The Denison and Norfolk Dams were built under the direction of the Secretary of War and under the supervision of the Chief of Engineers of the War Department for the purpose of improving navigation, regulation of the flow of the Red River and North Fork of the White River, controlling floods, and other beneficial uses. The Denison and Norfolk Dams are being operated by the United States Corps of Engineers.

The Southwestern Power Administration has been designated by the Secretary of the Interior as the marketing agent for power and energy produced by the multi-purpose dams constructed by the War Department in the area in accordance with section 5 of the Flood Control Act of December 1944 (H. R. 4485).

Section 5 provides: "Electric power and energy generated at reservoir projects under the control of the War Department and in the opinion of the Secretary of War not required in the operation of such projects shall be delivered to the Secretary of the Interior, who shall transmit and dispose of such power and energy in such manner as to encourage the most widespread use thereof at the lowest possible rates to consumers consistent with sound business principles, the rate schedules to become effective upon confirmation and approval by the Federal Power Commission * * *

Under the provisions of section 5, excluding the Pensacola Dam, there are at present assigned to the Southwestern Power Administration 14 constructed and authorized multi-purpose dams and 15 additional proposed multi-purpose dams. The Administration is developing and prosecuting a comprehensive plan for distributing and marketing power from these multi-purpose dams.

SOLID FUELS ADMINISTRATION FOR WAR

The Solid Fuels Administration for War was established by Executive Order No. 9332, issued April 19, 1943, which designated the Secretary of the Interior as Administrator. The Administration absorbed the Office of Solid Fuels Coordinator for War. In discharging its functions, it utilizes the facilities of other agencies within the Department of the Interior, particularly those of the Bureau of Mines.

The Solid Fuels Administration establishes basic policies and formulates programs to assure for the prosecution of the war and reconversion to a peacetime economy the conservation and most effective development and utilization of bituminous and anthracite coals, and certain other solid fuels. It issues necessary policy and operating directions to persons engaged in the solid fuels industries. It issues and administers regulations governing the distribution of solid fuels by producers, wholesalers, and retail dealers in order to assure to the Nation during wartime and reconversion that the available supply of solid fuels will be equitably distributed.

The Administration collects from the solid fuels industries and from various governmental agencies data relating to the prices prevailing for solid fuels, to the distribution of such fuels and to the availability of facilities and manpower for the solid fuels industries. It is authorized and directed to make recommendations to other governmental agencies. For example, it recommends to the Office of Price Administration needed adjustments in maximum prices for solid fuels; it submits to the Civilian Production Administration (formerly the War Production Board) recommendations as to the kinds and quantities of materials needed by the solid fuels industries; and it makes recommendations to the Office of Defense Transportation and the War Shipping Administration concerning facilities for transporting solid fuels. The Administration acts as liaison between governmental agencies and persons engaged in the solid fuels industries.

It also supervises the operation of mines when they are taken over by the Federal Government pursuant to the War Labor Disputes Act and various Executive orders.

OFFICE OF FISHERY COORDINATION

The Office of Fishery Coordination was created to carry out the functions and duties delegated by the President in Executive Order 9204, dated July 21, 1942.

Pursuant to the authority vested in him by Executive Order 9280, dated December 5, 1942, the Secretary of Agriculture issued Food Directive 2 (War Food Order 52) on February 8, 1943, delegating to the Secretary of the Interior responsibility for the conduct of those portions of the war food program concerned with the production and processing of fishery commodities. These functions were in turn redelegated by the Secretary of the Interior to the Office of Fishery Coordination.

Executive Order No. 9649, of October 29, 1945 (10 F. R. 13431), terminated the Office of Fishery Coordination as well as the Office of Fishery Coordinator. The order, however, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Fish and Wildlife Service, to wind up the affairs of the Office of Fishery Coordination and to use so much of the personnel, records, property, and funds as may be necessary to carry out the functions vested in him by Food Directive No. 2.

WAR RELOCATION AUTHORITY

By June 30, 1946, the program of the War Relocation Authority was completed, all services to evacuees and refugees had been terminated, and all offices of the Authority had been liquidated. There still remain the final steps in the liquidation of the agency's fiscal records and files, and the preparation and processing of several summary and survey reports dealing with the history of the Authority and the final readjustments of the evacuated people. These functions will be carried on within the Office of the Secretary, Department of the Interior, during the fiscal year 1947.

The WRA was established by Executive Order No. 9102 on March 18, 1942, and was charged with the responsibility for supervising the relocation of persons evacuated from designated areas in California, Oregon, Washington, and Arizona in accordance with a public proclamation issued by the Commanding General of the Western Defense Command of the Army on March 2, 1942, under the terms of Executive Order No. 9066. The principal function of the Authority was the relocation of West Coast evacuees of Japanese ancestry and provisions for their subsistence and housing in temporary centers pending relocation.

On December 17, 1944, the War Department revoked the general exclusion order and persons of Japanese ancestry were permitted to return to West Coast States. All of those not detained by order of the Department of Justice were relocated during the fiscal year 1946, and the temporary centers were disposed of according to standard Government procedure.

The WRA was assigned also the responsibility for the administration of the Emergency Refugee Shelter at Fort Ontario, Oswego, N. Y., under a program set forth in the President's message of June 12, 1944, to the Congress (H. Doc. 656, 78th Cong.). On February 6, 1946, the last refugees left the shelter and on March 1, 1946, the Authority completed the disposal of the property and turned the shelter back to the War Department.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

The Department of Agriculture is charged by the law which created it with acquiring and diffusing among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with agriculture, in the most general and comprehensive sense of the term. For that purpose it conducts a comprehensive research and educational program. It is also required to administer many other Federal laws which relate to marketing and distribution of agricultural products; the regulation of interstate commerce in food, fiber, and related products; the protection and management of the national forests, farm credit, agricultural adjustment, conservation and land use, farm tenancy, and rural rehabilitation; rural electrification; and other phases of agriculture.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics is the primary agency in the Department of Agriculture for the collection and dissemination of agricultural statistics, for economic research, and for the dissemination of the results thereof. As a staff agency of the Secretary, the Bureau also coordinates the statistical work and economic research of the Department.

The Bureau is directly responsible for: (a) acquiring, analyzing, interpreting, and diffusing useful economic information relative to agricultural production and distribution, land utilization and conservation in their broadest aspects, including farm management and practice, utilization of farm and food products, purchasing of farm supplies, farm population and rural life, farm labor, farm finance, insurance and taxation, adjustments in production to probable demands for the different farm and food products, land ownership and values, costs, prices, and income in their relation to agriculture, including causes for their variations and trends; (b) collecting, compiling, abstracting, analyzing, summarizing, interpreting, and publishing economic and statistical data relating to agriculture and food, including crop and livestock estimates, acreage, yield, grades, staples of cotton, stocks, and value of farm crops and numbers, grades, and value of livestock and livestock products on farms; and (c) for aiding in formulating programs for authorized activities of the Department.

EXTENSION SERVICE

The Extension Service carries on the general educational work in agriculture and home economics of the Department of Agriculture and aids in making available the results of research and investigation in agriculture and home economics to those who can put the information into practice. It coordinates the extension activities of the bureaus of the Department and of the State agricultural colleges and deals with emergency situations involving Department assistance to farmers. It represents the Department in the conduct of cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics by the State agricultural colleges and the Department under the Smith-Lever, Capper-Ketcham, Bankhead-Jones, and supplementary acts of Congress. Each of the 48 States, and the Territories of Hawaii and Alaska and Puerto Rico, has a director of extension who represents jointly the Department and the State agricultural college in the administration of extension work. In each State the organization consists of a State administrative and supervisory staff, with headquarters in most cases at the State agricultural college, and county agricultural agents, county home demonstration agents, and county club agents, who have their offices usually at the county seats. The distinguishing feature of extension teaching is the field demonstration, carried on through voluntary local leaders, although other educational methods are also utilized to teach the best farm and home practices to farm and rural men, women, boys, and girls. Under the general administrative direction of the Director of Labor of the Production and Marketing Administration, the Extension Service has general administration and supervision of those phases of the farm labor program which are assigned to the Cooperative Extension Service of the Department and the State agricultural colleges.

LIBRARY

The Department library contains more than 500,000 volumes on agriculture and the related sciences, technology, and economics, and receives currently more than 13,000 periodical and serial publications.

The dictionary card catalog of the library, containing more than a million cards, is a record of the book resources of the whole Department. It is supplemented by several extensive special indexes. These together form the most comprehensive bibliography of agriculture and the related sciences available in the United States. A Bibliography of Agriculture in printed form is issued monthly by the library. Miscellaneous bibliographies on special subjects are issued from time to time.

OFFICE OF BUDGET AND FINANCE

The Office of Budget and Finance exercises general direction and supervision over budgetary and financial affairs of the Department, including acquisition, allotment and apportionment of funds, accounting, auditing, financial reporting, fiscal and procurement organization and management; purchasing, sales, warehousing and related activities; formulates and promulgates departmental budgetary, financial and procurement policies and procedures; reviews and correlates the budgetary and financial aspects of program proposals; and, in cooperation with staff and program agencies, develops improvements in the management and operation of the Department; acts as the central point of contact on budgetary, fiscal, procurement, legislative, and related matters with Budget Bureau, General Accounting Office, Treasury Department, the Congressional Committees on Appropriations, and other agencies concerned with the finances and supply activities of the Department.

OFFICE OF FOREIGN AGRICULTURAL RELATIONS

The Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations is responsible for the collection and analysis of information on all phases of foreign agricultural policy as well as production, consumption, and trade and for the dissemination of this information. This includes studies of the factors influencing the food supply and needs of foreign countries, competition, trade barriers, production and marketing, and other developments affecting American agriculture.

The Office coordinates the relations of the Department of Agriculture with respect to foreign trade and related problems and policies with the Department of State and other departments and agencies of the Government and with foreign governments and private agencies. In that connection it acts in an advisory capacity to the Secretary on policy matters with respect to foreign relations generally. It also directs the Department's program for the development of strategic and complementary agricultural products in Latin America such as rubber, fibers, vegetable oils, insecticides, etc. In addition, it cooperates with representatives of foreign governments in supplying agricultural technicians to those countries.

The Office performs technical commodity and regional investigations and analyses in the interests of the Department, the Combined Food Board, the Army and the Navy, and collaborates with other governmental agencies in studies of foreign economic developments.

OFFICE OF INFORMATION

The Office of Information supervises the expenditure of the appropriations for printing and binding for the Department and supervises all editing, illustrating, printing, and distribution of publications. The Office prepares special Department reports and serves as a departmental clearinghouse for information prepared for the press as a result of the research, regulatory, conservation, service, and action programs of the Department; it correlates information on the results of specialized work in diverse lines, and presents facts in forms most practical for use by farmers and the general public. The Office also furnishes daily, through radio stations in all parts of the United States, authentic information of practical use to farmers and others concerning the discoveries made by the Department and the farm practices recommended by it; and answers by radio questions in all fields of agriculture and home economics. The Office also is responsible for (1) informing the Secretary on the total information operation of the Department; and (2) for arranging in cooperation with the information officers of the Department's agencies and the State agricultural extension services, for preparation and distribution of information materials which will enable citizens to make most effective use of combinations of departmental services. The Office is responsible, too, for the preparation, display, and distribution of Department exhibits and motion pictures.

OFFICE OF PERSONNEL

The Office of Personnel has primary responsibility for the personnel program of the Department as a whole. It maintains general direction and supervision of organization, position classification, recruitment, placement, training, safety, health, discipline, and related matters. The Office represents the Department in its relations with the Civil Service Commission and, where personnel matters are concerned, with other agencies. It is responsible for integrating the personnel needs with the various technical programs of the Department.

OFFICE OF PLANT AND OPERATIONS

The Office of Plant and Operations is responsible for the housing of departmental activities both in Washington and the field; communications and records management services and programs; technical advisory service and development of standard specifications where engineering principles are involved in the procurement, operation, and maintenance of equipment, and the deciding of all engineering questions of controversial character in connection with award of contracts; departmental representation on technical operations in connection with Federal planimetric and topographic mapping projects and liaison with the Bureau of the Budget on map production methods, costs and operations, and with the War and Navy Departments on the initiation, classification, and execution of aerial photographic projects covering areas of military importance; administrative services functions for the Office of the Secretary; and central departmental storeroom and supply, motor transport, and photographic, duplicating, addressing, and mailing services.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR

The Office of the Solicitor is the law office of the Department of Agriculture. The law requires that "the legal work of the Department of Agriculture shall be performed under the supervision and direction of the Solicitor" (5 U. S. C., sec. 518).

The Solicitor and the attorneys of his office advise the Secretary and other administrative officials on legal problems in connection with all activities of the Department, and render legal opinions relative to the application of statutes, Executive orders, and administrative rules and regulations. They assist in the preparation of proposed legislative bills, administrative rules and regulations, orders, and proclamations.

The Office of the Solicitor also takes part in drafting, examining, and construing contracts, deeds, mortgages, leases, orders, and other documents. It approves the organization of cooperative associations, soil-conservation districts, and similar instrumentalities, and assists in determining their eligibility for participation in Department programs.

Other activities of the Office include the examination of evidence to determine whether there have been violations of the acts or orders administered by the Department. In proper cases, the Solicitor recommends prosecution to the Attorney General. Pleadings and briefs in civil and criminal cases involving the Department and laws or orders administered by them are prepared by the Office, which cooperates with the Department of Justice in handling such litigation in the lower and appellate courts.

The Office of the Solicitor represents the Department as counsel at hearings before the Secretary. The Office handles contacts on legal matters with other Federal and State governmental agencies. It conducts administrative hearings in reparation and similar proceedings, and issues tentative findings, conclusions, and orders with respect thereto, under the various acts or orders administered by the Department.

The Office of the Solicitor also prosecutes, for employees of the Department, applications for patents on inventions which are to be used in official work.

It examines the titles to lands authorized for purchase or on which loans may be made by the Department. The Office considers and recommends the appropriate disposition of claims for damage to property of the United States in the custody of the Department, and of claims against the Government for damage arising from their operations.

AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH ADMINISTRATION

The Administrator of Agricultural Research is responsible for the direction and integration of activities conducted by the Bureau of Agricultural and Industrial Chemistry, the Bureau of Animal Industry, the Bureau of Dairy Industry, the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, the Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils, and Agricultural Engineering, the Office of Experiment Stations, and the Agricultural Research Center. The administration was established by Executive Order 9069 of February 25, 1942, to promote economy and efficiency and to concentrate the Department's scientific work on problems that are most vital to the production and utilization of agricultural commodities.

Functions of agencies of the Agricultural Research Administration:

AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH CENTER

The administrative organization of the Agricultural Research Center provides for the general supervision of the entire plant and the development and operation of the common facilities required by the organizations of the Department engaged in fundamental agricultural research. The reservation comprises an area of approximately 11,700 acres on which scientific research and experimental activities are conducted by 10 bureaus of the Department and by several other governmental agencies.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL CHEMISTRY

The Bureau of Agricultural and Industrial Chemistry is a research organization engaged in investigations and experiments in the fields of chemistry, physics, and other sciences with the object of developing new and wider industrial uses for agricultural products, and thereby improving agriculture.

The Bureau is engaged in investigations concerning the industrial utilization, technology, manufacture, and preservation, including freezing, of agricultural products and by-products. Its scientists conduct biological, chemical, physical, microscopical, and technological investigations of foods and feeds and substances used in the manufacture thereof. They perform experiments on the utilization of agricultural raw materials for industrial purposes. The work of the Bureau is carried on at Washington, D. C., and at regional research laboratories located at Peoria, Ill., New Orleans, La., Wyndmoor, Pa., and Albany, Calif., and at a number of specialized field stations.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Animal Industry conducts research and administers a program primarily concerned with the protection and development of the livestock industry of the United States; conducts scientific investigations of the causes, prevention, and treatment of diseases and parasites of domestic animals, investigates the existence of such maladies, and directs or aids in their control or eradication; carries on experiments in the breeding and feeding of domestic animals, including poultry, and studies methods of improving the quality and usefulness of their products; administers Federal acts regarding animal quarantine, diseased animal transportation, and virus-serum-toxin.

BUREAU OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Dairy Industry conducts research to improve the methods of breeding, feeding, and managing dairy cattle for more economical milk production; it investigates, among other questions, the nutritional requirements of dairy cattle of all ages for growth, health, production, and reproduction, and the efficacy of different feeds and combinations of feeds in meeting the requirements. In cooperation with the State dairy extension services it is establishing improved dairy practices through the operation of dairy-herd-improvement associations. It maintains and analyzes production records of cows in dairy-herd-improvement association herds for the purpose of identifying dairy sires and determining their breeding value.

The Bureau conducts research to improve the quality of dairy products to increase the efficiency of established practices, to develop new processes and products, and in general add to the knowledge essential to the proper handling of milk and its manufacture into products. It supervises the sanitary inspection of renovated-butter factories.

BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY AND PLANT QUARANTINE

The Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine carries on investigations on insects, gives advice on how to control or use them, cooperates with State and local agencies to control and prevent the spread of injurious insects and plant diseases, advises the Secretary of Agriculture on matters relating to plant quarantines, and is responsible for the enforcement of Federal plant quarantines and regulatory orders to prevent the introduction into or spread within the United States of injurious insect pests and plant diseases, and diseases dangerous to the adult honeybee.

The research it does on insects includes studies on their classification, anatomy, physiology, habits, and responses under normal and artificial conditions. The investigations are conducted to develop information on how insects which are injurious to agriculture, forestry, animals, or annoy or injure man or destroy his possessions may be eliminated or controlled. This involves research on chemicals or other substances that may be used to prevent, destroy, attract, repel, or mitigate the severity of attacks of insects which infest vegetation, attack or annoy animals, or may be present in households or any environment whatsoever, including the study of problems relating to the composition, action, and application of such materials and the development of methods for their manufacture and use. Investigations are made on diseases and natural enemies of insects to determine ways of utilizing those which may aid in the control of injurious insect pests. Studies are made on the culture and use of honeybees and of beekeeping practices.

Under general and special authorization and in cooperation with State and local agencies, the Bureau carries on operations to eradicate, suppress, or control incipient outbreaks of insect pests and plant diseases, including those which may have gained a more or less limited foothold within the United States. It cooperates with State and local agencies in combating insects or plant diseases which occur in emergency outbreaks which unless controlled would cause extreme losses over wide areas within their normal distribution. It cooperates with agencies of the Federal Government responsible for the management of lands under control of the United States in operations to combat insect pests and plant diseases.

To prevent the entry or spread within the United States of injurious insects and plant diseases it enforces quarantines and restrictive orders, issued under authority provided in various acts of Congress, which prohibit or regulate the importation or interstate movement of injurious insects and of plants and plant products that may introduce or spread insect pests of plant diseases new to or not widely prevalent within the United States. To carry out this work it regulates and inspects the entry into the United States of railway cars and other vehicles, freight, express, and baggage from Mexico, and when necessary cleans or disinfects them. In compliance with plant-quarantine regulations it inspects at ports of entry plants and plant products that may be brought to the United States.

The Bureau inspects plants and plant products offered for export and certifies to shippers and interested parties such products in accordance with the sanitary requirements of the country to which they may be exported.

BUREAU OF HUMAN NUTRITION AND HOME ECONOMICS

The Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics conducts research relating to the utility and economy of food, textiles, and other agricultural products used in the home, makes economic investigations, including housing and household buying, and disseminates information to help families use their resources advantageously.

Research of the Bureau falls into several broad fields: (1) Foods and nutrition—Facts needed by homemakers, dietitians, nutrition workers, and planning agencies are determined and assembled through studies of food values, of nutritional needs of the human body, and of methods of food preparation and preservation, including the effect of such methods on the nutritive value of foods. (2) Family economics—Research is conducted to obtain basic information on family buying habits and needs for consumer goods. The data are used in developing diet plans and other aids to the wise management of family income, also in national planning by Government agencies. (3) Textiles and clothing—Information is developed to make possible more effective use of textile fibers and fabrics for clothing and household purposes, and to assist families in the selection and care of clothing and household textiles. (4) Housing and household equipment—Studies are made of family requirements for household equipment and of the housing facilities needed for efficient housekeeping and comfortable living. These form the basis for publications to aid consumers in the intelligent buying, operating, and conserving of household equipment, and in house planning.

Research results are made available through technical and popular publications, visual educational material, and press and radio releases. The Bureau works closely with the Extension Service and other field organizations of the Department of Agriculture, and with other Government agencies, such as the Office of Education, in their programs of educating homemakers in regard to nutrition, and ways of using available goods more effectively for the well-being of their families and for the Nation's good.

BUREAU OF PLANT INDUSTRY, SOILS, AND AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING

The activities of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils, and Agricultural Engineering include investigation of plants, principally those of economic importance, soils, fertilizers, cropping methods, and engineering problems concerned with production, transportation, harvesting, and storing of crops.

Soils investigations center around the relationship between the soil and crops that grow in it. This involves a study of soils from the standpoint of their origin and their classification into main groups, of which there are more than 8,000 types. The job of classifying all of the agricultural soils of the United States—done in cooperation with State agricultural experiment stations—is now about half completed.

In addition the work with soils includes studies of their basic physical and chemical properties, studies of the microscopic plant and animal life in the soil and its effect on crops, methods of cultivation, crop rotations, and studies of materials that are added to the soil to make it more productive. The latter may include certain crops that are grown to be plowed into the soil, animal manure, lime, or commercial fertilizers. The fertilizer investigations also seek more efficient methods of manufacture and more effective ways of using these materials.

Research with plants is concerned chiefly with reducing the hazards of production and improving the quality of all crops. One of the principal ways of doing this is by breeding new strains or varieties that are resistant to diseases, insects, heat, drought, or cold. Representatives of the Bureau have visited most foreign countries and brought back thousands of plants that have been useful here, either in their original form or as breeding material.

Other important work with plants includes studies of weed control and of methods of planting, harvesting, transportation, and storage of crop plants. Efforts to control diseases involve studies of organisms that cause the disease, their life histories, and a knowledge of how they are spread to new territory. With this information it is often possible to work out practical control measure such as seed treatment, spraying, or dusting.

Research on agricultural engineering includes problems concerned with the handling of soils for growing crops, problems dealing with sowing, cultivating, harvesting, storing, and otherwise handling plants and plant products, including production and processing machinery and farm structures, together with other engineering problems of direct concern to agriculture.

In addition to the experimental activities of the Bureau at the Plant Industry Station at the Agricultural Research Center, the Bureau operates field stations or laboratories in practically all the major cropping regions of the United States, a majority of its activities being in direct cooperation with the State agricultural experiment stations.

The development of the National Arboretum was established under the act of March 4, 1927 (Public, No. 799, 69th Cong.), and funds for its operation are appropriated through the Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils, and Agricultural Engineering. Pursuant to authority contained in this act, the Secretary of Agriculture created the Advisory Council of the National Arboretum. The council makes recommendations concerning the establishment and maintenance of the National Arboretum for purposes of research and education regarding tree and plant life.

OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS

The Office of Experiment Stations administers the funds for research in agriculture and rural life made available to the experiment stations of the States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico through annual congressional appropriations under the provisions of the Hatch, Adams, and Purnell Acts, title I of the Bankhead-Jones Act of June 29, 1935, and the supplementary acts. In administering these Federal grants the Office evaluates and approves new and revised research proposals, reviews and approves annual programs and budget allotments, and examines, in the field, the work and expenditures. An annual report on the work and expenditures of the stations is published, as required by law. The general administrative direction and supervision of the experiment station of the Department of Agriculture in Puerto Rico is a responsibility of the Office.

The Office promotes cooperation in the planning and coordination of research among the experiment stations, and between the stations and the Department through advisory relationships and supervisory activities which include the examination and approval of formal memoranda of understanding covering cooperative research. It collects and disseminates information designed to enhance the productiveness and soundness of agricultural research programs including the publication of Experiment Station Record which reviews current progress and results of the research of the experiment stations and other agencies.

FARM CREDIT ADMINISTRATION

The Farm Credit Administration provides a coordinated credit system which makes available to farmers and stockmen and their cooperative organizations both long-term and short-term credit. It was created by an Executive order dated March 27, 1933, issued pursuant to the legislative appropriation act, 1933, as amended by the act of March 3, 1933. The order provided for the consolidation within the Farm Credit Administration of the powers and functions of all Federal agencies dealing primarily with agricultural credit. In July 1939 the Farm Credit Administration became a part of the Department of Agriculture.

The United States is divided into 12 Farm Credit districts. In each district are four major credit units located in one central office. These are:

1. A Federal land bank which makes long-term mortgage loans through local cooperatives known as national farm loan associations. About 1,700 of these associations serve all parts of the Nation.

2. A production credit corporation which has partly capitalized and which supervises local cooperatives known as production credit associations. There are 506 production credit associations located at convenient points throughout the United States.

3. A district bank for cooperatives which makes loans to farmers, marketing, purchasing, and business service cooperatives.

4. A Federal intermediate credit bank which acts as a bank of discount in supplying short-term funds required by production credit associations, bank for cooperatives, other financial institutions making loans to farmers, and farmers' cooperatives.

Each unit of the Farm Credit Administration serves a distinct purpose. The local associations make and service loans, the district institutions supervise and provide funds, and the headquarters office supervises and coordinates the work of the entire system. A Central Bank for Cooperatives makes loans to large regional or national cooperatives and assists district banks for cooperatives in handling large loans. The Cooperative Research and Service Division of the Farm Credit Administration conducts research studies and service activities relating to problems of farmers' cooperatives.

Some additional functions are performed by the Farm Credit Administration. These include the wartime agricultural financing program of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C., the making of emergency crop and feed loans from funds appropriated by Congress, the liquidation of the joint stock land banks, and the making of Land Bank Commissioner loans from funds made available by the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation.

FARM SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

The Farm Security Administration makes loans and provides farm and home guidance to help low-income farm families earn better incomes and improve their living conditions. It was established in 1937 as an agency within the Department of Agriculture to replace the Resettlement Administration.

Loans are made to farm families who cannot get the credit they need on reasonable terms anywhere else. Loans are of two general types: (1) operating loans for livestock, equipment, and other farm and home needs; and (2) 40-year loans to enable tenants, sharecroppers, farm laborers and qualified World War II veterans to purchase farms under terms of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act. Credit is supplemented with advice and individual guidance of supervisors who help the borrowers prepare annual farm and home plans and carry out improved farming practices. Local committees of farmers assist the supervisors.

In the West the Farm Security Administration carries out the Department of Agriculture's water facilities program as authorized by the Pope-Jones Act as amended. It administers a special loan program, in designated counties, to repair damage caused to farms by flood and windstorm.

Other rehabilitation services developed include group health service plans, group purchasing and use of equipment and high-grade sires, and assistance in improving tenure arrangements and in adjusting burdensome debts. The rural resettlement projects under management of the Farm Security Administration are being liquidated.

FOREST SERVICE

Congress has designated the Forest Service as the agency of the Federal Government specifically responsible for protecting, developing, and administering certain public lands and their living resources. The job of the Forest Service also has to do with forest land in private ownership, for Congress has authorized it to help States and farm, industrial, and other owners to protect and develop such of their lands as are more valuable in forest growth than as plowland or pasture.

Broadly, responsibilities of the Forest Service are: (1) To initiate and apply, locally and nationally, action programs in the interest of public welfare and help with action programs initiated by county, State, and Federal agencies; (2) to protect, develop, and administer in the public interest the national-forest system and its resources, products, values, and services; (3) to conduct research in problems involving protection, development, management, renewal, and continuous use of all resources, products, values, and services of forest lands; (4) to make research and administrative findings and results available to individuals, industries, and public and private agencies generally.

The national-forest system comprises 179,380,866 acres of Government land. On these public properties forestry methods are applied in growing and harvesting timber. Grazing by livestock and big game is scientifically regulated. Sustained and, where possible, increased yields of timber, forage, and wildlife are obtained. Watersheds are managed to safeguard the supply of water for domestic, agricultural, and industrial purposes. Simple, democratic, and inexpensive forms of recreation are encouraged. Provision is also made for other forms of land and resource use.

In research, in national-forest administration, and in cooperation with States and private timberland owners, the Forest Service works in close cooperation with other branches and bureaus of the Department; its policy is guided by the Department's basic purpose of building and maintaining communities and promoting social and economic welfare locally and nationally.

PRODUCTION AND MARKETING ADMINISTRATION

The Production and Marketing Administration was established within the Department of Agriculture by Secretary's Memorandum No. 1118 dated August 18, 1945.

Under the direction of the Administrator, the functions of the Administration are assigned to the following staff offices, commodity branches, functional branches, the Commodity Credit Corporation, and the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

OFFICE OF AUDIT

Plans over-all audit policies and procedures and conducts audits and examinations of books and records maintained by the Administration and private concerns and individuals involving the payment and collection of Administration funds.

OFFICE OF FOREIGN PROGRAMS COORDINATION

Coordinates supply program activities and service and assists both claimants and branches in supply matters relating to allocations, commitments, procurement, shipping, and financing.

OFFICE OF PRICE

Supervises over-all functions relating to approval of maximum prices to be fixed for agricultural commodities or products, and relating to price-support programs in connection with particular commodities.

OFFICE OF REQUIREMENTS AND ALLOCATIONS

Obtains from all claimants their estimated requirements of food from United States supplies, coordinates the analysis and appraisal by the PMA of the essentiality of these requirements, and recommends to the Administrator periodic allocations of food among claimants. Participates in the joint development of plans for the most effective distribution of world food supplies, coordinates the analysis and determination of the quantities of food to be imported into the United States and the sources of supply of such food imports, and prepares directives for the conservation and approval of the Administrator dealing with such imports.

TRANSPORTATION OFFICER

Advises the Administrator on all matters of policy and procedure with respect to transportation matters and serves as liaison between the Administration and other Government or private transportation agencies with respect to the transportation of farm products.

COMMODITY BRANCHES

Cotton Branch, Dairy Branch, Fats and Oils Branch, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Grain Branch, Livestock Branch, Poultry Branch, Sugar Branch, Tobacco Branch, and Special Commodities Branch.

Each of the commodity branches has, with respect to the commodities over which it has jurisdiction, responsibility for: (1) Production, adjustment, loan, purchase, subsidy, diversion, export, import, price support, marketing quota, processing, distribution, sale, and surplus disposal programs and, as assigned by the Administrator, shipping and storage of commodity stocks; (2) supply estimates and allocation recommendations; (3) recommendations with respect to time, extent, and conditions of rationing; (4) recommendations of action with respect to maximum price regulations; (5) programs to effect economies and improvements in processing and marketing of food and farm products; (6) working with advisory committees; (7) war food orders; (8) cooperating with industry and other agencies of the Department in developing new and substitute products and processes and new uses; (9) assistance in handling materials and equipment priority applications; (10) assistance in labor supply and utilization in commodity processing and distribution industries; (11) market news services; (12) standards, inspection, and grading; (13) developing program information; (14) agricultural marketing agreement and order programs; and (15) administering certain acts as assigned.

FIELD SERVICE BRANCH

Develops and carries out the Agricultural Conservation Program which applies to individual farms, including soil- and range-building practices to conserve and increase the productivity of farm land, and produces and maintains supplies of agricultural commodities in the amounts needed.

Makes program payments for completed soil- and range-building practices, either in cash or in conservation materials or services.

Administers in the field, as assigned by the Administrator, the programs of the several program branches of the Administration.

The responsibilities of the Field Service Branch in the States are carried out through a State PMA director and a State committee. In most States the State director is also chairman of the committee.

County administration is carried out through farmer committees, elected annually from among their own number by cooperating producers. County committees are under the general supervision of the State Production and Marketing Administration Office.

FOOD DISTRIBUTION PROGRAMS BRANCH

Responsible for school lunch and direct food distribution programs, community food preservation program, distributive trades program, industrial feeding program, and cooperates with Federal, State, and local agencies, public or private, for improvement of nutritional standards and food habits.

MATERIALS AND EQUIPMENT BRANCH

Determines Department policies for and directs the formulation of requirements for critical nonfood materials, equipment, supplies, and facilities necessary to accomplish the approved PMA food programs. Determines policies for the distribution of materials, equipment, supplies, and facilities as delegated by other Government agencies and directs the control over such distribution.

Administers a program through War Assets Administration and other disposal and owning agencies for the effective utilization of surplus materials, equipment, supplies, and facilities which can be used for the implementation of the PMA food program and other programs in Agriculture.

MARKETING FACILITIES BRANCH

Responsible for the administration of the United States Warehouse Act, section 201 of the Agricultural Act of 1938 covering adjustments in freight rates for farm products, the 28-Hour Act, improving food transportation and marketing facilities, administration of war food orders as assigned, and development of programs for improved marketing.

LABOR BRANCH

Assists in providing an adequate supply and distribution of foreign labor by transporting foreign workers to agricultural areas certified as needing manpower for producing and harvesting essential crops. Operates labor supply centers and provides health and other essential services as required to these transported workers.

Develops and administers the farm wage stabilization program and to perform liaison services for the PMA in relation to other national agencies which deal with labor, supply and utilization problems in agriculture, and the food processing and distribution industries.

SHIPPING AND STORAGE BRANCH

Responsible for shipping and storage of commodities, except as assigned to commodity branches; and assisting the Administrator in coordinating the shipping and storage work of commodity branches to insure the best use of available shipping storage facilities.

COMPLIANCE AND INVESTIGATION BRANCH

Develops information and means to facilitate the prevention of speculation, profiteering, fraud, and violations in all phases of the PMA food program. Investigates reports and makes recommendations respecting war food orders, purchases, sales, storage, and related programs. Exercises powers of inspection and makes cost investigations. Administers the Commodity Exchange Act.

FISCAL BRANCH

Responsible for fiscal, accounting, disbursing, and related activities of the Administration.

BUDGET AND MANAGEMENT BRANCH

Responsible for the budgetary, procedure, administrative management, organization, personnel and administrative services functions of the Administration

FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE CORPORATION

The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation was established as an agency within the Production and Marketing Administration by Secretary's Memorandum No.

1118, Supplement 1, dated October 8, 1945. The Corporation was created within the Department of Agriculture under title V of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, cited as the Federal Crop Insurance Act, approved February 16, 1938. This act provided for the insurance of wheat crops, but it was amended June 21, 1941, to extend insurance protection to cotton crops. The 1944 and 1945 Agricultural Appropriation Acts provided that funds appropriated for the Corporation could be used for no other purpose than to liquidate existing contracts on the wheat and cotton crops planted prior to July 31, 1943. However, the Federal Crop Insurance Act was further amended December 23, 1944, removing the restrictions of the 1944 and 1945 Agricultural Appropriation Acts and providing for the insurance of the wheat, cotton, and flax crops planted for harvest in 1945. The amendment also authorized trial insurance on corn and tobacco in 1945 and on other crops in subsequent years in not to exceed 20 representative counties for each crop.

The Corporation is authorized to provide insurance protection against loss in yield due to unavoidable hazards. In addition, the protection on trial crops may also be against loss of a percentage of the investment in the crop.

Premiums sufficient to pay indemnities and to establish a reserve for unforeseen losses are to be collected from the insured growers. To assure payment of indemnities during years of adverse insurance experience, the Corporation was provided in the original act with an authorized capital stock of $100,000,000 to be subscribed by the United States of America. Of this amount $70,000,000 has been subscribed and paid in by the Secretary of the Treasury. The costs of administration are paid by direct annual appropriations.

COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

The Commodity Credit Corporation was created as an agency of the United States under the laws of the State of Delaware on October 17, 1933, pursuant to Executive Order 6340, dated October 16, 1933. It has an authorized and paid-in capital of $100,000,000. Under the act of March 8, 1938, as amended, the Corporation is authorized, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue and have outstanding at any one time, bonds, notes, debentures, and other similar obligations in an aggregate amount not to exceed $4,750,000,000.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION ADMINISTRATION

The Rural Electrification Administration administers a program, established by the Rural Electrification Act of 1936, of providing central station electric service for farms, residences, and other establishments in rural areas that are without such service. As the principal means of accomplishing this, Rural Electrification Administration makes loans on a self-liquidating basis to local groups, public bodies, and utilities organized under State laws, with preference accorded to farmers' cooperatives and other nonprofit organizations, to finance the construction and operation of rural power systems. These loans are made on a maximum 35-year amortization basis for financing electrical facilities. Supplementary loans also are made to system borrowers for relending to consumers to finance the wiring of premises and acquisition of certain electrical equipment.

In the execution of this program, Rural Electrification Administration renders assistance to borrowers in the organization of cooperatives and on problems involved in the design, construction, and operation of their systems in order to achieve maximum efficiency in providing adequate electric service to their communities at a reasonable cost and protect the Government funds which are secured by mortgages on the facilities. Borrowers are assisted in extending electric service to farms and other rural establishments and in helping consumers obtain maximum benefits of electricity on the farm and in the home. In connection with these activities the Rural Electrification Administration makes studies and disseminates information concerning the progress of rural electrification.

Though the Administration does not maintain field offices, it has a field staff of engineers, auditors, and other specialists to assist borrowers on problems involved in construction, engineering, and operation of their systems.

The Rural Electrification Administration was created by Executive Order No. 7037 on May 11, 1935, as an independent agency under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of that year. The Rural Electrification Act of 1936, approved May 20, 1936, established the present agency and made provision for a 10-year program for rural electrification loans. Under Reorganization Plan No. II the Administration became a part of the Department of Agriculture in July 1939.

The Department of Agriculture Organic Act of 1944 removed the time limitation from the lending program and liberalized the loan terms.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

The basic purpose of the Soil Conservation Service is to aid in bringing about desirable physical adjustments in land use with a view to bettering human welfare, conserving natural resources, establishing a permanent and balanced agriculture, and reducing the hazards of floods and siltation. To this end, the Service conducts a program of assistance to farmers and ranchers in the adoption of certain simplified conservation and land-use practices which increase production per acre; assists farmers to develop and apply plans for erosion control, water conservation, and land use in order to maintain and increase agricultural production; provides technical and other assistance to soil conservation districts organized under State laws; directs the purchase, development and management of submarginal lands; supervises the work of Civilian Public Service camps assigned to soil conservation and land-improvement activities; and develops improved methods for the use and management of agricultural land and water resources through research.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

The Secretary directs the activities of the Department, which include population, agricultural, and other censuses; collection, analysis, and dissemination of commercial statistics; promotion of foreign and domestic commerce; coastal and geodetic surveys; establishment of commodity weights, measures, and standards; supervision of the issuance of patents and the registration of trade-marks; the establishment and maintenance of aids to air navigation, the certification of airmen, the inspection and registration of aircraft; supervision of the issuance of weather forecasts and warnings; development of inland waterway transportation; supervision of the operation of Government-owned barge lines; declassification and dissemination of scientific and technical data; and numerous other functions concerning these activities and related subjects. Also, the Secretary is Incorporator and Governor, Inland Waterways Corporation; chairman of the Foreign-Trade Zones Board; ex-officio general chairman of the Business Advisory Council; and vice chairman of the Publications Board. He is a member of the Commodity Exchange Commission, Foreign Service Buildings Commission, Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, National Archives Council, United States Council of National Defense, National Munitions Control Board, Interdepartmental Committee on the Proclaimed List, Smithsonian Institution, Textile Foundation, Economic Stabilization Board, and National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems; and ex-officio member of the Federal Advisory Board for Vocational Education.

UNDER SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

The Under Secretary serves as the principal advisor and assistant of the Secretary in the relations of the Secretary and the Department with the business community. He has the immediate direction and supervision of the Office of Small Business, the Office of Domestic Commerce, and the Office of Field Operations. In the absence of the Secretary, the Under Secretary acts as the head of the Department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as are prescribed by the Secretary or required by law. He exercises immediate direction and supervision of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the Weather Bureau. In the absence of the Secretary and Under Secretary, the Assistant Secretary serves as Acting Secretary for the Department.

EXECUTIVE ASSISTANT TO THE SECRETARY

The executive assistant to the Secretary serves as general assistant to the Secretary on executive matters, and is responsible for the over-all administrative management of the Department, including the coordination of the functions of the several offices and bureaus, and the supervision of the Offices of Budget and Management, Personnel Administration and Administrative Services.

SOLICITOR

The Solicitor is the chief law officer of the Department of Commerce and his duties are to act as legal advisor to the Secretary of Commerce, the Under Secretary, the Assistant Secretary, and the chiefs of the various bureaus and offices. He also serves as chairman of the Committee of Alternates of the Foreign-Trade Zones Board. In the absence of the Secretary, Under Secretary, and Assistant Secretary, the Solicitor serves as Acting Secretary.

OFFICE OF BUDGET AND MANAGEMENT

The Director of the Office of Budget and Management advises and assists the Secretary and other officials of the Department in developing broad management and budget policies and programs necessary to achieve the various objectives, and develops the organization through which the Secretary can most effectively direct and coordinate the activities of the Department of Commerce; develops budget programs designed to assure the provision of funds necessary effectively to discharge the functions and responsibilities of the Department; develops and coordinates all administrative practices and procedures of the Department; develops systems to ensure the most economical use of manpower, equipment, travel, communications, and printing services and other facilities of the Department in the performance of its essential functions.

OFFICE OF INFORMATION

The Director serves as a medium through which information concerning the program and facilities of the Department to aid business and industry will be transmitted to the public; provides adequate distribution of economic, scientific, and other technical materials developed through research and analysis in the various bureaus and offices of the Department; reviews material prepared in the bureaus and offices of the Department for conformity with general policy; conducts relations with the press, and issues releases to the public.

OFFICE OF PROGRAM PLANNING

The Office of Program Planning serves as a staff office to the Secretary on matters relating to the program and policy of the Department. Upon its establishment in October 1945 the Office assumed functions previously performed by the Program Committee, which was appointed by the Secretary of Commerce in April 1945 to review and make recommendations on the existing functions and policies of the Department. The Office operates under the direction of an Assistant to the Secretary.

OFFICE OF PERSONNEL ADMINISTRATION

The Office of Personnel Administration is charged with the administration of the personnel program of the Department, including recruitment, placement and appointments, classification of positions, promotion of employees, initiation and supervision of personnel training programs, maintenance of service ratings, direction of programs of personnel relations, hearing of grievances, and counseling of employees, reviewing of recommendations for disciplinary actions and dismissals, promotion and supervision of safety and health programs and other functions of a related nature.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

The Director of Administrative Services provides the several service facilities of the Office of the Secretary; enforces the general regulations of the Department, and has administrative supervision of the buildings occupied by the Department; has general supervision of expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses; the care of all vehicles under the Office of the Secretary; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail; the custody of the Department's seal and the records and files of the Secretary's office; the answering of calls from Congress and elsewhere for copies of papers and records; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned. During the temporary absence of the Secretary, the Under Secretary, and the Assistant Secretary, he may be designated by the Secretary to sign official papers and documents.

OFFICE OF DECLASSIFICATION AND TECHNICAL SERVICES

This Office effects the declassification of scientific and technical data that can be released for public benefit and promotes its maximum use by business and industry; serves as a clearing house for the collection, editing, publishing, and dissemination of scientific and technical data for the purpose of promoting economic expansion and development; collects, screens, appraises, processes in suitable form, and transmits to this country technical and scientific industrial intelligence obtained from enemy and ex-enemy countries; counsels with and assists inventors to the end that new discoveries and inventions, products, and processes may be developed and utilized and advises the War, Navy, and other departments and Federal agencies on developments and inventions useful in the defense, protection, and general welfare of the Nation both in times of peace and war; and initiates and conducts research and development work on mechanisms, materials, processes, and inventions which will advance the technological productivity of the Nation.

INLAND WATERWAYS CORPORATION

The Inland Waterways Corporation is charged with the development of national inland waterway transportation under the Transportation Act of 1920 and Public, No. 185, Sixty-eighth Congress, approved June 3, 1924, as amended by Public, No. 601, Seventieth Congress, approved May 29, 1928. By virtue of Reorganization Plan No. II issued pursuant to the Reorganization Act of 1939, approved April 3, 1939, the direction and supervision of the Corporation was transferred, effective July 1, 1939, from the Secretary of War to the Secretary of Commerce.

The Corporation operates barge lines on several important water routes. It is charged with investigating types of floating and terminal equipment suitable for various waterways and operates such equipment. It is required to establish tariff and interchange arrangements between rail and water carriers, and to promote and encourage waterway traffic, and otherwise function generally as the official Government inland waterways transportation agency.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

The Bureau of the Census collects and publishes data on the characteristics and activities of the people of the United States in the fields of population, housing, agriculture, manufactures, business, mineral industries, vital statistics, State and local governments, cotton and oils, foreign trade, and other subjects. The data collected are basic to the work of public agencies, business, and research groups, as well as others, and are extensively used as primary source material. From the information gathered by the Bureau of the Census, a factual record of conditions in the United States can be constructed. In addition, the technical staff of the Bureau acts in an advisory capacity for other Government agencies that have their statistical inquiries edited, coded, and tabulated by the Bureau of the Census. Machine tabulation facilities are maintained to cover the needs of other Government agencies either for specialized work or for overflow jobs beyond their own capacity.

The decennial census includes most of the subjects mentioned above. Many of these inquiries are also conducted at more frequent intervals.

Population and housing.—Beginning with 1790, a census of population has been taken every 10 years. From a very simple questionnaire in the earlier censuses, the schedule of inquiries has been expanded to meet changing conditions and increasing demands for basic population data. The sixteenth decennial population census (1940) showed the number of people classified not only by such basic items as age, sex, color or race, marital status, place of birth, and farm residence, but also provided data on such subjects as education, migration, employment status, occupations, and wage and salary income. The first census of housing, taken together with the census of population in 1940, enumerated the number of occupied and vacant dwelling units and such characteristics of these units as value or rent, occupancy status, number of rooms, facilities and equipment, utilities, and mortgage data, and the type of structure, exterior material, and year built.

Regular reports are made on patients in hospitals for mental disease, on institutions for feeble-minded and epileptics, on prisoners in State and Federal prisons and reformatories, and on judicial criminal statistics.

Special censuses are made at the request of local communities and population estimates are prepared from time to time within the Bureau. Monthly surveys of the labor force and current surveys of housing occupancy and vacancy in selected areas are made by the Bureau of the Census, as well as other studies requested by other governmental agencies.

The Bureau's files of original population census records provide legally acceptable evidence concerning age and other personal data. Records of these facts in the census are obtainable only at the request of the person concerned when needed for such purposes as obtaining old-age pensions, annuities, passports, etc.

Agriculture.—In the field of agriculture a census is taken every 5 years. The characteristics enumerated for each farm include tenure, acreage, values, farm employment, and facilities, with detailed information on livestock and crops. Once every 10 years censuses of irrigation and drainage enterprises are taken. Statistics on cotton ginned are issued currently.

Industry.—The manufacturing statistics program provides information on the production of manufactured commodities, as well as on the movement of materials from the mine and farm through the various stages of manufacturing up to the distribution channels through which products move to the consumer. This is accomplished through censuses of manufactures and mineral industries which provide comprehensive data on all industries and commodities and a system of current reports to keep the most important aspects of industrial information up to date.

Although provided for by law on a biennial basis, the census of manufactures has not been taken since 1939, having been set aside under the authority contained in the Second War Powers Act. It is proposed to take the census of manufactures (and mineral industries) covering the first full peacetime year, 1946. These censuses furnish data on the production of commodities, consumption of materials, employment, man-hours worked, wages, value of production, cost of materials, inventories, capital expenditures, etc.

The current manufacturing statistics program presently includes about 100 carefully selected monthly, quarterly, and annual surveys needed to measure the more important aspects of industrial operations. Data are obtained on measures of activity, such as production or shipments, and also on "forecasting" items for selected commodities such as the volume of new and unfilled orders and inventories.

Business.—The business statistics program includes censuses of business, the previous ones having been taken in 1929, 1933, 1935, and 1939, and annual and monthly surveys of business activity. The census of business covered retail and wholesale trade, the service trades, and contract construction. For various kinds of business, information as to number of establishments, legal form of organization, type of operation, volume of business, employment, and pay roll is made available for small geographic areas—counties and most cities—as well as for States, census regions, and the entire country. Information for such items as analysis of sales, operating costs, credit operations, and inventories is made available for the entire country and, generally, for the larger geographic areas. The annual survey for 1945 covered sales and inventories for the various types of retail trade. Kind-of-business detail is made available for the entire country and for selected cities and States, as well as the major geographic regions. Prior to 1946 monthly surveys of retail trade sales have been made available by type of business for 34 States. In 1946 these reports have been extended to a national basis with type of business information also provided for selected metropolitan areas. In 1946 monthly surveys of receipts of service trade are available for the major types of personal service establishments in the entire country and in selected metropolitan areas. Monthly wholesale trade sales, inventories, and credits are available classified by kind of business. Monthly or quarterly surveys providing inventory and shipment or receipt figures for wholesale trade are available for selected commodities, including lumber, canned foods, coffee, and spices.

Governments.—Official data on such subjects as budgets, revenues, expenditure, debt, Government enterprises, employment, Government organization and elections are compiled and published for various types of governmental units. Every 10 years a census of governments is taken that covers all governmental units; the last census covered the year 1942. Annual financial publications include summaries for States, for counties, and for cities over 25,000, with individual reports for each State and each of the 37 largest cities, and with selected topical summaries. Government employee and pay-roll data are collected and published quarterly. Elections proposals in States and cities are reported annually and an elections calendar is also published regularly. A Municipal Reference Service for information on State, county, and city government is maintained for the use of Federal, State, and local officials and research agencies.

Foreign trade.—Statistical information on United States imports and exports is compiled by the Bureau from information contained in shipper's export declarations and import entries, filed with Collectors of Customs by exporters and importers and transmitted to the Bureau. The statistics compiled include information on the dollar value, shipping weight, and net quantity (bales, square yards, gallons, etc.) of United States imports and exports by commodities, countries of origin and destination, and customs districts through which the merchandise enters and leaves the United States. In addition, information is compiled on the method of transportation (air, vessel, rail, truck, etc.), the domestic to foreign port routing of the shipments by vessel and by air and the nationality of the carrier for shipments by vessel. Publication of statistics of foreign trade was suspended for security reasons during the war period. This restriction has now been removed except for information on trade in uranium and thorium and statistics on the foreign trade of the United States may now be released to the public.

Statistical abstract.—The Statistical Abstract of the United States, published annually by the Bureau, is the official compendium of the Federal Government. Assembled in one compact volume is information selected from publications and special reports of all Government agencies as well as material from non-governmental sources on most of the important phases of the social, economic, and industrial life of the Nation.

Because the Bureau has this vast amount of basic data, special studies are constantly in progress for specific purposes. Research utilizing these data is conducted along with research in the techniques involved in conducting the world's largest statistical surveys.

BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce is the businessman's representative in Government. Its role was created by an act approved on August 23, 1912 (37 Stat. 407; 5 U. S. C. 597), in which Congress set forth its statutory functions as follows: "To foster, promote and develop the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States."

A reorganization of the Bureau designed to equip the agency better to deal with problems of postwar reconversion and to aid in achievement of high levels of production and employment was effected December 18, 1945.

The Bureau now consists of five major offices as follows: Office of International Trade, Office of Small Business, Office of Domestic Commerce, Office of Business Economics, and Office of Field Operations.

In carrying out its functions, the Bureau offers the businessmen two broad types of service. These are personal and published aids in the fields of international and domestic commerce and industry. They are based on (1) an intimate knowledge of business both at home and abroad; (2) a storehouse of information and statistics of interest and value to business which are evaluated, interpreted, and analyzed for easy assimilation; (3) a constant scrutiny of trends through which the changing needs of business are anticipated and special helps are created.

Highly developed techniques designed to aid the American businessman engaged in world trade cover (1) trade promotion, (2) economic analysis, and (3) statistics.

In the field of trade promotion, the Bureau maintains detailed information on over 800,000 foreign firms and individuals engaged in international trades; trade lists classified by commodities and by countries, and covering both distributors and suppliers. It furnishes on request special agency surveys and trade opportunities for both exporting and importing. It facilitates in adjusting trade disputes and is a source of information on reciprocal trade agreements, tariff rates, documentary and other requirements.

The Bureau is the major source in Government for data on foreign exchange developments, foreign trade financing, foreign public finance and banking and the currency situation abroad. It prepares the official annual report on the balance of international payments of the United States.

Broadly speaking, the Bureau's efforts in serving the domestic economy are directed toward (1) studying the broad trends and developments in the national economy, and (2) devising specific and practical plans to help solve business problems.

Included among the regular statistical reports are: monthly estimates of income payments to individuals; industry survey on new orders, shipments, and inventories in manufacturing; retail sales and consumer expenditures; and transportation activity. On a quarterly basis are national income and national product and corporation profits. The Bureau also makes annual estimates on the indebtedness of the United States and on income payments by States.

While specific aid is available to all types of business, it is of particular value to smaller firms lacking many of the facilities maintained by larger concerns. Thus the Bureau is slanting a large share of its energies and talents toward studying the small business problems and creating material designed to help solve them.

Individual service in the form of advice, suggestions, or pertinent information on business operations is available either from the Bureau in Washington or from any of the field offices of the Department of Commerce. To insure the widest possible distribution of Bureau data, the vast majority of original statistical and economic research and the business information which is carefully assayed by Bureau analysts is made available in published form.

Foreign Commerce Weekly, Domestic Commerce, and the Survey of Current Business are the chief periodic publications of the Bureau. Numerous occasional publications and informational circulars covering a wide range of business activity are issued of which the following are typical: The United States in the World Economy, Foreign Trade After the War, Guides for the New and Prospective Foreign Trader, Credit Sources for Small Business, Establishing and Operating Your Own Business, Veterans and Small Business, Effective Grocery Wholesaling, Domestic Market Prospects After the War, A Guide for Local Industrial Promotion, Community Action for Postwar Jobs and Profits, and Regional Postwar Planning.

Another important channel through which the personal and published services of the Bureau reach the individual businessman is his trade association or business group. Close contact between these organizations and the Bureau results in a steady flow of material to the business public.

The five major Offices, the fixed objective of each, and their constituent divisions follow:

OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE

The purpose of this Office is to foster and promote the foreign commerce of the United States. More specifically, its objectives are to promote United States trade interests in exports and imports in the interest of maintaining full production and full employment; to encourage and facilitate the expansion and balanced growth of international trade; to promote the stability of international economic relations; to cooperate with other nations in the solving of trade and exchange problems through international organizations and conferences and otherwise; to assist other nations toward higher economic development as a means of stimulating United States and world trade; to facilitate United States participation in peacetime trade with former enemy and other areas in which normal channels of trade do not exist; and to reduce obstacles to and restrictions upon international trade.

This Office comprises the following divisions: Trade Relations Staff, Foreign Service Liaison Staff, Office of World Trade Policy, Office of World Trade Promotion, Office of War Areas Trade, and the Office of Foreign Economic Development.

OFFICE OF SMALL BUSINESS

This Office was established to develop, promote, and execute plans and programs for extending assistance to small business; to assist and encourage small business in the promotion of sound business policies, operating methods, and production techniques; to determine the cost of distribution and evaluate specific trade practices of small business; to examine the finance and tax problems of small business; to assist veterans and others in evaluating new business opportunities; to provide contract and technical assistance to small manufacturers; to represent small business with other Federal agencies; to cooperate with organizations in the development of local commercial and industrial opportunities, and to furnish independent small businesses with available information for its use in overcoming obstacles; all for the purpose of strengthening and perpetuating small business in a free enterprise system which will stimulate full production and full employment.

The Office of Small Business includes the following divisions: Business Counseling Branch, Management Advisory Service, Technical Advisory Service, Finance and Tax Problems Branch, Business Practices Branch, Special Services Branch, and the Area Development Branch.

OFFICE OF DOMESTIC COMMERCE

The purpose of this Office is to develop and carry out activities, programs, and policies which will foster and promote domestic commerce. More specifically its objectives are to aid in preserving the American free enterprise system; in the interest of national welfare, to stimulate the profitable operation of industry in order to achieve full and efficient production and employment; to assist domestic industry and business in its problems relating to production, construction, distribution, marketing, and transportation; to provide commodity, industry, and marketing analysis and information as basic guides for industry and business in trade maintenance and expansion programs; to maintain close contact with trade associations and other groups representing industry; to assist domestic industry in its relations with other Government departments and agencies; and to advocate such Government policies, procedures, and laws as will stimulate industry and commerce.

This Office comprises the following divisions: Construction Division, Industry Division, Marketing Division, Trade Association Division, Transportation Division.

OFFICE OF BUSINESS ECONOMICS

This Office provides basic economic measures of the national economy, current analyses of the economic situation and business outlook, and general economic research on the functioning of the economy, including cooperative research with business organizations, other Government agencies, and university and research institutions; develops basic economic and statistical indicators; and provides a basis for policy formulation of the Department with respect to Government operations insofar as they affect economic movements and tendencies.

This Office comprises the following divisions: National Income Division, Current Business Analysis Division, Regional Economics Division, Business Structure Division, Economic Programs Division, International Economics Division, Clearing Office for Foreign Transactions.

OFFICE OF FIELD OPERATIONS

The field programs of the Office of International Trade, the Office of Small Business, the Office of Domestic Commerce, the Office of Business Economics, and the Office of Information in the Secretary's Office are to be carried out by the Department Field Offices at the regional and district levels throughout the United States. The Department field offices are also responsible for the dissemination in the field of the reports, data, and statistical statements published by the Bureau of the Census, and for making available to the business community the facilities of other primary organization units of the Department of Commerce.

At the time of the reorganization the Bureau maintained 26 offices at strategic business centers.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

The National Bureau of Standards was established by act of Congress approved March 3, 1901. Its functions are the development, construction, custody, and maintenance of reference and working standards and their intercomparison, improvement, and application in science, engineering, industry, and commerce. Under the Air Commerce Act of 1926, the Secretary of Commerce is authorized "to advise with the Bureau of Standards and other agencies in the executive branch of the Government in carrying forward such research and development work as tends to create improved air navigation facilities." By act of Congress approved May 14, 1930, there was established a national hydraulic laboratory at the Bureau for "the determination of fundamental data useful in hydraulic research and engineering."

The Bureau's functions are exercised for the National Government, State governments, and under certain conditions (as in tests involving comparison with the national standards), and subject to reasonable fees, the general public. Its unique research and testing facilities are used to discover and evaluate material standards and to solve basic technical problems. In connection with its work on standards of measurement, the Bureau assists in size standardization of containers and products, in promoting systematic inspection of trade weights and measures, and facilitates research in science and technology through the standardization of measuring instruments. The establishment of more precise values for the standard constants furnishes an exact basis for scientific experiment and design and makes possible the efficient technical control of industrial processes. It cooperates with tax-supported purchasing agencies, industries, and national organizations in developing specifications and facilitating their use; it encourages the application of the latest developments in the utilization and standardization of building materials and in the development of engineering and safety codes, simplified practice recommendations, and commercial standards of quality and performance. The Bureau's work on standards of quality sets up attainable standards to assure high utility in the products of industry and furnishes a scientific basis for fair dealing by promoting truthful branding and advertising. Standards of performance are usually specifications for the operative efficiency of machines or devices; their ultimate purpose is to make exact knowledge the basis of the buyer's choice and to clarify the understanding between the manufacturer, distributor, retailer, and consumer. To establish standards of practice the Bureau collates data and formulates codes of practice for public utilities and other services. This work makes possible a single impersonal standard of practice mutually agreed upon by all concerned and clearly defined in measurable terms.

Special attention is at present devoted to electronics, airplane lighting, radio communication in relation to ionosphere conditions all over the world, as recorded by a chain of observing stations working under Bureau direction; motor vehicle and airplane fuels and lubricants; spectroscopic analysis of metals and alloys; the use of the mass spectrometer for the rapid and precise determination of the composition of complex materials, such as hydrocarbons; electroplating and vitreous enamels; control of active acidity through the development and standardization of pH indicators; strength of airplane and other structures; the development of standard methods of test for synthetic rubbers and organic plastics; properties of metals and alloys at high and low temperatures and under conditions of stress and corrosion; the development of improved varieties of optical glass, and the control of the properties of glass through heat treatment; and numerous problems connected with the building industry, including the efficiency of heating plants and of insulating materials.

Under a research associate plan, industrial groups can send to the Bureau qualified technical men to work on problems of mutual interest to the Government and industry. The results are published by the Bureau. Fifty-eight research associates are stationed in the laboratories at the present time.

The results of the Bureau's work are made available through its monthly Journal of Research, Technical News Bulletin, and several series of nonperiodical publications.

UNITED STATES COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY

The Coast and Geodetic Survey is charged with (1) the survey of the coasts of the United States and its possessions, to insure the safe navigation of coastal and intracoastal waters; (2) the determination of geographical positions and elevations in the interior of the country, to coordinate the coastal surveys and provide a framework for mapping and other engineering work; (3) observations of tides and currents, to furnish datum planes to engineers and tide and current tables to mariners; (4) the compilation and publishing of nautical charts to meet the needs of marine commerce; (5) the compilation and publishing of aeronautical charts for use in air navigation; (6) observations of the earth's magnetism in all parts of the country, to furnish magnetic information essential to the mariner, aviator, land surveyor, radio engineer and others; and (7) seismological observations and investigations, to supply data required in designing structures to reduce the earthquake hazard.

These duties require hydrographic, topographic, and air-photographic surveys along the coasts, including the rivers to the head of tidewater, for determining the depths of the waters and the configuration of the adjacent land, tide observations for determination of basic datum planes for elevations and for prediction of high and low waters in tide tables; current observations for determining water movements and for prediction of slacks and strengths in current tables; base measurements; determination of latitudes, longitudes, and azimuths by astronomical observations, triangulation, and traverse; determination of elevations by spirit leveling or by vertical angles; magnetic surveys in all parts of the country, including the operation of magnetic observatories; the operation of instruments recording building vibrations and strong earthquake motions, and cooperation with non-Federal agencies engaged in this work; and gravity measurements throughout the country.

The results of these surveys and studies are analyzed in the Washington office and published as nautical and aeronautical charts; annual tables of tide and current predictions; charts showing magnetic declination; annual lists of United States earthquakes; publications of geographic positions and elevations; Coast Pilots; and as annual and special publications covering all of its other activities, including comprehensive manuals prescribing the methods which obtain for its various classes of surveying.

PATENT OFFICE

The Commissioner of Patents is charged with the administration of the patent laws and supervision of all matters relating to the granting of letters patent for inventions, and the registration of trade-marks.

WEATHER BUREAU

The Weather Bureau has charge of the forecasting of the weather; issuance and display of weather forecasts, and storm, cold-wave, frost, forest-fire-weather, and flood warnings; gaging and reporting of river stages; collection and transmission of marine intelligence for the benefit of commerce and navigation; collection and furnishing of meteorological information and forecasts, including upper-air observations, for the benefit of air navigation; reporting of temperature and rainfall conditions for agricultural interests; the taking of such meteorological observations as may be necessary to determine and record the climatic conditions of the United States and its possessions; and the maintenance and operation of the basic synoptic network of weather-observation stations in the United States and its possessions and the primary issue of weather forecasts of all types for civil and military uses.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS AUTHORITY

The Civil Aeronautics Authority was created by the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, approved June 23, 1938, "to promote the development and safety and to provide for the regulation of civil aeronautics." As originally established it was composed of the five-member Authority, the Administrator, and the three-member Air Safety Board.

By Reorganization Plans Nos. III and IV, effective June 30, 1940, issued pursuant to the Reorganization Act of 1939, the name of the five-member Authority was changed to the Civil Aeronautics Board and certain of its functions were transferred to the Administrator. The Air Safety Board was abolished and its functions were transferred to the Civil Aeronautics Board. The Civil Aeronautics Board and the Administrator were transferred to the Department of Commerce, with the proviso that the Board should exercise its functions of rule-making, adjudication, and investigation independently of the Secretary of Commerce. Reorganization Plan IV further provided that the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics, whose functions would be administered under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of Commerce, and the Civil Aeronautics Board would constitute the Civil Aeronautics Authority. However, the Civil Aeronautics Authority performs no functions, all of its responsibilities being discharged by either the Civil Aeronautics Administration or the Civil Aeronautics Board.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS ADMINISTRATION

The Administrator of Civil Aeronautics is appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The organization through which the Administrator exercises his functions is designated as the Civil Aeronautics Administration by Departmental Order No. 52 of the Secretary of Commerce.

POWERS AND DUTIES OF ADMINISTRATOR

In accordance with the provisions of the Civil Aeronautics Act, as amended, the Administrator is empowered and directed to encourage and foster the development of civil aeronautics and air commerce in the United States and abroad, to encourage and make plans for the orderly development of civil airways and the establishment thereof and landing areas, to install and maintain air navigation facilities, to perform the functions of aircraft registration and safety regulation described in titles V and VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 (except the functions of prescribing safety standards, rules, and regulations and of suspending and revoking certificates after hearing), to exercise the power contained in section 1101 of the Civil Aeronautics Act relating to air hazards, and to exercise the powers and perform the duties contained in the Washington National Airport Act of 1940; is responsible for the enforcement of safety rules, regulations and standards; the emergency suspension of certificates, and the compromise of civil penalties for violations of titles V and VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act; recommends to the Civil Aeronautics Board proposed standards, rules and regulations designed to promote safety in air commerce.

ACTIVITIES

Safety regulations.—Determines original and continuing compliance with applicable safety standards and issues appropriate airman, aircraft, air carrier operating, air navigation facility, and air agency certificates and ratings and other aeronautical documents; registration of aircraft, recordation of aircraft conveyances, maintenance of records of persons and things subject to regulation; issuance of permits for operation of foreign civil aircraft into and within the United States; enforcement of civil aviation rules and regulations; examination and inspection of interstate, overseas, and foreign scheduled air carrier operations; examination of persons and material for rating and certification; issuance of emergency suspension of safety certificates subject to ratification by the Administrator.

Aviation information.—Collection and dissemination of information relative to civil aeronautics; compilation and publications of statistics and other data pertinent to the development of air commerce and the aeronautical industry; compilation and distribution to civilian airmen, service airmen and other interested persons of current information pertaining to airports and air navigation facilities on civil airways; editorial review of material used in aeronautical education; preparation and distribution of all types of visual information materials; the maintenance of a comprehensive aeronautical research library.

Federal airways.—This activity covers the planning, construction, maintenance, and operation of the Federal Airways System which has been extended throughout Alaska and other United States possessions and now totals 43,211 miles of airways implemented with air navigation facilities for day and night contact and instrument operations, not including the trans-oceanic routes. The duties include aerial and ground surveys for layout of new routes; selection of sites; preparation of plans and specifications for facilities; supervision of construction, negotiation of power, communication, and telephone contracts; purchase and installation of radio range and communication equipment; operates the airways traffic control system; maintains and operates Government-owned air navigation facilities on the Federal Airways System; conducts research for development and improvement of new types of equipment for air navigation aids, aircraft power plants, flight instruments, etc.; conducts special studies and furnishes technical assistance in connection with airport development; furnishes technical and engineering assistance to the War and Navy Departments which includes surveys, selection of sites, construction, and installation of radio range and communication facilities at points throughout the domestic and foreign zones of military operations. At the request of the War and Navy Departments establishes and operates airport control towers.

Aviation training.—This office, through its Education Division, brings to schools and colleges the benefit of the Administration's technical services and experiences in all phases of aviation with the primary aim of promoting understanding of and participation in aviation activities. It also administers and supervises Government programs involving the aeronautical training of foreign nationals in this country and assists other countries in their aviation training activities through foreign missions. It encourages and assists the widespread development of civilian flight training and directs the operation of all federally sponsored civilian pilot training programs. This office also conducts such training and educational programs as are required to serve the needs of the Administration for qualified personnel.

Federal airport program.—The Administrator formulates broad policies, develops and presents plans for, directs and coordinates the execution of a national system of airports suitable and adaptable to the future needs of civil aviation and national security. The Administrator makes plans for the orderly development of airports throughout the United States, territories and possessions, renders airport advisory services to public agencies and civic groups, prepares and distributes bulletins and publications on airport planning and design, collects and maintains information on facilities available at all civil airports. The Administrator directs and supervises the Federal airport program and fosters State and local legislation needed to facilitate airport development and protect the approaches to airports by zoning and property acquisition.

Washington National Airport.—The Administrator has control over, and responsibility for, the care, operation, maintenance, and protection of the Washington National Airport located at Gravelly Point, together with the power to make and amend such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary in the operation of this airport. The Administrator is also empowered to lease, upon such terms as he may deem proper, space or property within or upon the airport for purposes essential or appropriate to the operation of the airport.

THE CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

The Civil Aeronautics Board is, in contrast with the Civil Aeronautics Administration, an independent agency composed of five members, appointed by the President with the confirmation of the Senate, one of whom is annually designated by the President as chairman and another as vice chairman. The members are appointed for a period of 6 years. Not more than three members may be of the same political party. The Board exercises legislative and judicial powers which Congress has delegated to it in the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 as modified by the President's reorganization plans III and IV. The reorganization places the Board within the framework of the Department of Commerce solely for "administrative housekeeping" purposes.

POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE BOARD

It is the responsibility of the Civil Aeronautics Board to exercise the functions of rule-making, adjudication, and investigation as outlined in the declaration of policy found in section 2 of the Civil Aeronautics Act directing consideration of "the following, among other things, as being in the public interest and in accordance with the public convenience and necessity:

"(a) The encouragement and development of an air-transportation system properly adapted to the present and future needs of the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States, of the Postal Service, and of the national defense;

"(b) The regulation of air transportation in such manner as to recognize and preserve the inherent advantages of, assure the highest degree of safety in, and foster sound economic conditions in, such transportation, and to improve relations between, and coordinate transportation by, air carrier;

"(c) The promotion of adequate, economical, and efficient service by air carriers at reasonable charges, without unjust discriminations, undue preference or advantages, or unfair or destructive competitive practices;

"(d) Competition to the extent necessary to assure the sound development of an air-transportation system adapted to the needs of the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States, of the Postal Service, and of the national defense; and

"(e) The regulation of air commerce in such manner as to best promote its development and safety."

ACTIVITIES

Economic regulation.—The Board issues certificates of public convenience and necessity to air carriers and permits to foreign air carriers; regulates the filing of tariffs; regulates rates for the carriage of persons and property; prescribes rates of compensation for the carriage of mail; and regulates accounts, records and reports, mergers, loans and financial aid, methods of competition, and interlocking relationships.

Safety regulation.—The Board prescribes safety standards, rules, and regulations, and has the power to suspend and revoke safety certificates after hearing (including the disposition of any petition for the reconsideration of the denial by the Administrator of an application for the issuance or renewal of an airman certificate under section 602 (b) of the act).

Accident prevention.—The Board makes rules on notification and report of accidents involving aircraft; investigates such accidents and reports the facts, circumstances, and probable causes; makes its reports and recommendations public in such manner as it deems to be in the public interest; investigates complaints and conducts special studies and investigations to reduce aircraft accidents and prevent their recurrence.

NATIONAL INVENTORS COUNCIL

The National Inventors Council acts as a central Government clearing house for inventions and inventive ideas submitted as a contribution to the armed services.

The Council's primary functions are: (1) Encouraging the public to submit inventions or inventive ideas of value for the military; (2) prompt evaluation of these inventions by a staff of engineers and by a system of technical committees so that useful ideas may be promptly placed in the hands of the proper military and naval bureaus.

Close liaison arrangements are maintained with all branches of the Army and Navy and other appropriate Government agencies in order that prompt and complete technical consideration can be given to all suggestions received.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

THE SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Secretary of Labor is charged with the duty of fostering, promoting, and developing the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, improving their working conditions, and advancing their opportunities for profitable employment. The Secretary has power under the law to act as mediator and to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes whenever in the Secretary's judgment the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done. The Secretary has authority to direct the collecting and collating of full and complete statistics of the conditions of labor and the products and distribution of the products of the same and to call upon other departments of the Government for statistical data and results obtained by them and to collate, arrange, and publish such statistical information so obtained in such manner as may seem wise. The Secretary's duties also comprise the gathering and publication of information regarding labor interest and labor controversies in this and other countries; the promulgation and supervision of the enforcement of certain maximum hour, minimum wage, child labor, safety and health stipulations in connection with Government supply contracts; the direction of the work of investigating all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life; and to cause to be published such results of these investigations as may seem wise and appropriate.

The law creating the Department of Labor provides that all duties performed and all power and authority possessed or exercised by the head of any executive department at the time of the passage of the said law, in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service by said act transferred to the Department of Labor, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties performed by and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, officer, office, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of an appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the head of the said Department of Labor. The Secretary of Labor is also given authority and directed to investigate and report to Congress a plan of coordination of the activities, duties, and powers of the office of the Secretary of Labor with the activities, duties, and powers of the present bureaus, commissions, and departments, so far as they relate to labor and its conditions, in order to harmonize and unify such activities, duties, and powers, with a view to additional legislation to further define the duties and powers of the Department of Labor, and to make such special investigations and reports to the President or Congress as may be required by them or which may be deemed necessary, and to report annually to Congress upon the work of the Department of Labor.

THE UNDER SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Under Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. He becomes the Acting Secretary of Labor in the absence of the Secretary.

ASSISTANT SECRETARIES OF LABOR

The three Assistant Secretaries of Labor perform such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law.

ASSISTANTS TO THE SECRETARY OF LABOR

The assistants to the Secretary perform such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary.

SHIPBUILDING STABILIZATION COMMITTEE

The Shipbuilding Stabilization Committee was first organized by the National Defense Advisory Commission in 1940, and was established in its present form by the War Production Board in August 1942 as a committee of 31 members representing shipbuilding management, the Metal Trades Department of the A. F. of L., the Industrial Union of Marine Shipbuilding Workers of America (CIO), Navy Department, United States Maritime Commission, War Department, and the Labor Department. The Committee was transferred to the Department of Labor by Executive Order 9656 of November 15, 1945.

Basic wage rates and certain working conditions in the shipbuilding industry are stabilized by four tripartite agreements between Government, management, and labor in four shipbuilding zones (Atlantic, Pacific, Gulf, Great Lakes). These zone standard agreements are administered by the Shipbuilding Stabilization Committee in accordance with the provisions contained in the agreements. The agreements are amended through zone conferences conducted under the auspices of the Committee.

WAGE ADJUSTMENT BOARD

The Wage Adjustment Board is responsible for handling all requested adjustments of wages for laborers and mechanics of the building construction industry on both Federal and non-Federal projects under the wage stabilization program.

OFFICE OF INFORMATION

The Office of Information supervises all editing, illustrating, printing, and distribution of publications and reports. It acts as a liaison between the Department and the press, radio, and picture services, and other Government agencies concerned with the collection and dissemination of information and facts in which the Department has an interest. It acts as a clearing house for information prepared for the press and for labor and management groups as a result of the research, service, and regulatory programs of the Department. It correlates information on the results of specialized work along different lines and presents material so that it will be of the most practical value to wage earners and the general public.

LIBRARIAN

The duties of the librarian are to obtain and circulate currently to the staffs of the different bureaus such books and periodicals as they need in their investigations, to supply reference material and bibliographical assistance in connection with special inquiries, to prepare selected annotated bibliographies on special subjects, and to aid students of labor problems through reading-room service and correspondence.

DIRECTOR OF PERSONNEL

The Director of Personnel is responsible for all matters of personnel administration within the Department of Labor. He is the liaison officer for the Department with the Civil Service Commission, and with other departments and agencies of the Government on matters relating to personnel administration.

CHIEF CLERK AND BUDGET OFFICER

The Chief Clerk and Budget Officer is responsible for budgetary, administrative planning, accounting and auditing functions, the coordination of current programs of the several bureaus, the control of expenditures from departmental appropriations, the procurement of supplies, equipment and printing and binding, and over-all service functions of the Department.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR

The Solicitor is the chief law officer of the Department of Labor. Responsible to him are an immediate staff of assistants and various attorneys stationed in field offices of the Department throughout the United States and in Puerto Rico.

The Solicitor acts as legal adviser to the Secretary of Labor and to the other administrative officers of the Department. The Solicitor and attorneys on his staff perform legal services for the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, the Children's Bureau, the United States Conciliation Service, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Division of Labor Standards, the Women's Bureau, the United States Employment Service, the Retraining and Reemployment Administration, and for other bureaus within the Department, and assist in the preparation of administrative rules and regulations and interpretations of statutes administered by the Department. They assist also in the preparation of and reports on proposed legislation. His staff prepares or reviews all contracts and bonds entered into by or with the Department.

The Solicitor's Office supervises the predetermination of prevailing rates of wages on Federal contracts pursuant to the Davis-Bacon law.

The Solicitor is in charge of the litigation of the Department. He represents the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division and the Chief of the Children's Bureau in all court actions involving the Fair Labor Standards Act. In litigation involving departmental activities handled by the Department of Justice, the Solicitor's Office assists in the preparation, trial, and briefing of the cases. His staff prosecutes complaints of violations of the Public Contracts Act, and represents the Department officials in administrative hearings.

The regional attorneys on the staff of the Solicitor act as legal advisers to the regional offices of the Department. Their principal activity relates to the administration and enforcement of the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Public Contracts Act, and other laws under the jurisdiction of the Department. They also perform miscellaneous legal services for the Children's Bureau, United States Conciliation Service, and for other bureaus within the Department.

APPRENTICE-TRAINING SERVICE

The Apprentice-Training Service functions under the provisions of an act of August 16, 1937, "to enable the Department of Labor to formulate and promote the furtherance of labor standards necessary to safeguard the welfare of apprentices and to cooperate with the States in the promotion of such standards."

In cooperation with national advisory committees appointed by the Secretary of Labor, the Service develops and formulates standards of apprenticeship for the training of skilled workers by industry. Such standards deal primarily with the welfare of the apprentice as an employed worker and deal with such matters as adequate work experience, length of apprenticeship, provisions for supervisor, related technical instruction, and employer-employee participation.

Through its field staff the Service, in cooperation with State Apprenticeship Agencies, endeavors to extend the application of these standards by bringing together employer and labor for the formulation of programs of apprenticeship and by giving technical and advisory service in the development of programs and in their maintenance and operation.

The office of the Director is responsible for the application of national policies with respect to apprenticeship through direction of the headquarters and field organization of the agency; for the encouragement of State apprentices activities; and for the maintenance of liaison with established State apprenticeship agencies.

The headquarters staff acts as a clearing house for the national apprenticeship program. This is done by providing services for the review of apprenticeship programs with regard to conformity with accepted standards and practices and for the registration of apprentices and apprenticeship programs; by conducting research on matters affecting apprenticeship and compiling statistics regarding apprentices and apprenticeship programs; and by the preparation, publication, and dissemination of information for the advancement of understanding of apprenticeship and the creation of general interest in the training of skilled workers through apprenticeship.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

The statutory functions of the Bureau of Labor Statistics are "to acquire and diffuse among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor, in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and especially upon its relation to capital, the hours of labor, the earnings of laboring men and women, and the means of promoting their material, social, intellectual, and moral prosperity." Other specific continuing duties have been added from time to time by acts or resolutions of Congress, by Executive order, and by the Secretary of Labor.

The Bureau collects data and publishes reports on employment, pay rolls, earnings, and hours of labor in manufacturing, trade, public service, building construction, and other industries; union wages; industrial accidents; labor turnover; industrial disputes; consumer and industrial prices; and changes in prices paid by families of wage earners and moderate-income workers in large cities of the United States. Special studies are made from time to time on the wage situation, labor supply, and occupational outlook in particular industries as well as on productivity of labor, consumers' cooperation, and a large number of other subjects affecting the welfare of workers.

The information acquired by the Bureau in the discharge of its duties is disseminated by means of special bulletins on specific subjects and the Monthly Labor Review.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU

The act establishing the Bureau provides that it shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life among all classes of our people and shall especially investigate the questions of infant mortality, the birth rate, orphanage, juvenile courts, desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents, and diseases of children, employment, and legislation affecting children in the several States and Territories. The Bureau is also empowered to publish the results of these investigations in such manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor.

Under the Social Security Act of 1935 the Children's Bureau was given responsibility for administration of parts 1, 2, and 3 of title V of the act, containing provisions for maternal and child-health services, services for crippled children, and child-welfare services.

The Children's Bureau administers the emergency maternity and infant-care program which provides grants to State health agencies for medical, nursing, and hospital maternity and infant care for wives and infants of enlisted men of the fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh grades in the armed forces of the United States, the first appropriation for this program having been approved on March 18, 1943.

Under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 the Children's Bureau was given responsibility for administering the child-labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

DIVISION OF LABOR STANDARDS

To develop desirable labor standards in industrial practice, labor law administration, and labor legislation; to make specific recommendations concerning methods and measures designed to improve the working conditions and the economic position of wage earners; in so doing to make directly available to interested organizations and persons the existing resources of the Department of Labor and pertinent material obtainable from public or private sources.

The National Wage Stabilization Board was created by Executive Order 9672 of December 31, 1945, as successor agency to carry out the wage stabilization functions assigned to the National War Labor Board under the Economic Stabilization Act of 1942 and Executive Order 9250 of October 3, 1942. The Board, although established within the Department of Labor, is independent with respect to its policies, decisions, and control of personnel. It is composed of six members with two each representing industry, labor, and the public.

The Board has no authority to settle labor disputes, and under Executive Order 9672 is charged only with the continued stabilization of wages and the carrying out of certain National War Labor Board directive orders in steel, textile, and meat-packing industries; the appointment of arbitrators necessary under National War Labor Board orders or collective bargaining agreements, and the disposition of applications under section 5 of the War Labor Disputes Act and the receipt of notices under section 8 of that act. The Board also has the powers of subpoena conferred upon the National War Labor Board by section 7 of the War Labor Disputes Act.

From January 1, 1946, to February 13, 1946, the Board administered the wage policy set up in Executive Order 9599 of August 18, 1945, which provided that wage increases could be made in any amount at any time if they were not to be used as a basis for seeking higher prices or costs to the Government. Wage increases which were to be used as the basis for a request for price relief were subject to approval by the Board.

Executive Order 9651, issued on October 30, 1945, required prior approval of increases to be used immediately as a basis for price relief and spelled out three classes of inequities as standards for approvability. Unapproved wage increases could not be used as the basis for a request for price relief except after expiration of a reasonable test period, normally 6 months after the effective date of the adjustment.

On February 14, 1946, the President issued Executive Order 9697, which required prior approval of all wage increases to be used as a basis for securing an increase in price or rent ceilings or utility rates or for increasing costs to the United States under Government contracts. Lack of prior approval for a wage increase constitutes a waiver by the employer of the right to use the wage increase as the basis for a request for price relief for the duration of the stabilization laws, unless the applicant notifies the Board within 30 days of the effective date of the increase that he has no present intention of using an unapproved wage adjustment as the basis for seeking price relief.

The criteria for approving these wage increases were spelled out specifically in section 3 (a) of the order. The Board was authorized to approve any wage or salary increase, or part thereof, which it finds is consistent with the general pattern of wage or salary adjustments which has been established in the industry or local labor market area, between August 18, 1945, and the effective date of the order, or, where there is no such general pattern, which it finds necessary to eliminate gross inequities as between related industries, plants, or job classifications; to correct substandards of living, or to correct disparities between the increase in wage or salary rates in the appropriate unit since January 1941 and the increase in the cost of living between January 1941 and September 1945. The Board was given authority, with the approval of the Stabilization Administrator, to establish special standards for approval of wage or salary increases, differing from the foregoing general standards, to be applied in particular industries or classes of cases if it found such action necessary. Actions of the Board carry automatic approval by the Office of Economic Stabilization.

In addition to acting on wage-price increase applications, the Board enforces those sections of the Stabilization Act of 1942 which restrict or prohibit wage decreases, and which prohibit wage increases in the building and construction industry without specific approval by the Wage Adjustment Board, an agent of the National Wage Stabilization Board, whether or not price relief or increased costs to the Government are involved.

RETRAINING AND REEMPLOYMENT ADMINISTRATION

The Retraining and Reemployment Administration, created by Executive Order 9427 of February 24, 1944, and by title III of the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944, was transferred from the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion to the Department of Labor by Executive Order 9617 of September 19, 1945.

The Administration is authorized to have general supervision and direction of the activities of all existing executive agencies (except the Veterans' Administration and the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs) relating to retraining reemployment, vocational education, and vocational rehabilitation and to coordinate such activities and eliminate overlapping functions; to issue regulations in connection with such work already provided for by law and to coordinate the activities of Federal agencies with those of State and local agencies engaged in retraining, reemployment, vocational education, and vocational rehabilitation.

The retraining activities of the Administration are directed toward the development of the capacities of individuals for gainful employment and constructive citizenship. Reemployment activities are directed toward the entrance into or return to gainful work commensurate with their skills and capacities of all persons in the labor force. Vocational rehabilitation activities are directed toward the preparation for and placement in suitable remunerative employment of physically or mentally handicapped persons.

The coordinating function of the Administration is exercised at three levels, Federal, State, and local. At the Federal level these activities consist of a careful analysis of the legal responsibilities, activities, and current programs of those executive agencies of Government with which the RRA is concerned; an appraisal of these legal responsibilities, activities, and current programs in order to ascertain gaps as well as overlapping and duplication; upon the basis of such analysis and appraisal, to assume leadership in reducing overlapping and in recommending new policies and programs when it is clear that they are needed. The execution of this coordinating function may involve, among other activities, calling conferences of representatives of various Government, and private agencies for a discussion and resolution of current problems, appointing inter-agency committees to work on specific projects, inquiring into and making recommendations on problems presented or assigned to the RRA for solution.

At the State level this function includes analysis and appraisal of the regional and State activities and programs of those Federal agencies with which RRA is concerned; analysis and appraisal of State laws, regulations, and programs in the fields covered by RRA; upon the basis of such analysis and appraisal, to assume leadership in reducing overlapping between Federal and State activities and in recommending new programs at the State levels when it is clear that they are needed. At this level it may involve, among other activities, calling conferences of various Federal, State, and private agencies for discussion and resolution of their current problems; making available to all States information concerning desirable legislation or effective programs on a State level in any of the fields of RRA interest; receiving from the States and interpreting to the Federal agencies suggestions as to how programs may operate more effectively at local levels.

At the local level coordination includes examining the effectiveness of local training, employment, and rehabilitation programs and recommending such constructive action as may be indicated to achieve maximum results; studying the working agreements and working relationships of Federal, State, and local agencies and recommending such steps as may be indicated to effect greater coordination and efficiency; stimulating local initiative, in cooperation with appropriate Federal, State, and private agencies, in the provision of a coordinated community program of service to veterans and others who lives have been disrupted by the war.

The Administration formulates policies and provides assistance in establishing and operating community advisory centers where veterans and others may obtain advice as to their rights and benefits and speed their reintegration into community life.

UNITED STATES CONCILIATION SERVICE

The United States Conciliation Service is charged with the duty of using its good offices, through the director or the commissioners of conciliation, to seek peaceful settlement in any labor dispute arising between employers and employees in industry. The authority for this Service is found in section 8 of the act creating the Department, wherein the Secretary is authorized to act as a mediator or appoint commissioners of conciliation whenever the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

The United States Employment Service was established in the Department of Labor by act of Congress approved June 6, 1933. Its functions were to promote and develop a national system of public employment offices, to maintain a veterans service to be devoted to securing employment for veterans, to maintain a farm placement service, to maintain a public employment service for the District of Columbia, and to assist in establishing and maintaining systems of public employment offices in the several States, and to assist in coordinating such systems throughout the country and in increasing their usefulness by developing and prescribing minimum standards of efficiency, promoting uniformity in administrative and statistical procedure, furnishing information as to opportunities for employment, and other information of value in the operation of the system, and maintaining a system for clearing labor between the several States.

Under the Reorganization Plan No. 1, effective July 1, 1939, the United States Employment Service was consolidated with the unemployment compensation functions in the Social Security Board. As of January 1, 1942, the State Employment Services were brought directly under Federal operation, and a few months later the entire United States Employment Service was made a part of the War Manpower Commission. During the war period the United States Employment Service was the main operating arm of the War Manpower Commission, and carried the major burden of the manpower program.

By Executive order of September 19, 1945, the War Manpower Commission was liquidated, and the United States Employment Service was transferred to the Department of Labor.

WAGE AND HOUR AND PUBLIC CONTRACTS DIVISIONS

The Wage and Hour and the Public Contracts Divisions were consolidated October 15, 1942.

Under the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (act of June 25, 1938, Public No. 718, 75th Cong.) the Wage and Hour Division was established in the Department of Labor to enforce the wage and hour provisions of the act. The Division is headed by an Administrator appointed by the President, by and with the advice of the Senate. Its duties are to see that employees engaged in interstate commerce or in producing goods for interstate commerce, or in any process or occupation necessary to the production of goods for interstate commerce, are compensated in conformity with the wage-and-hour standards. It is authorized to bring suit to enjoin employers who do not meet these standards from further violations of the act and also to bring suit to enjoin the shipment in interstate commerce of goods produced in violation of the act.

Under the general direction and control of the Attorney General, criminal proceedings may be instituted against willful violators of the wage-and-hour standards and a fine of not more than $10,000 imposed upon conviction for a first offense, and a prison sentence of not more than 6 months may be imposed upon conviction for a second or subsequent offense.

The minimum wage of 40 cents an hour, which was to go into effect not later than October 24, 1945, for all covered workers not specifically exempt, was reached for all industries more than a year in advance of the date set through industry committee procedure provided by the Congress. About 20,000,000 workers are covered under the act.

Overtime pay at the rate of time and one-half the employee's regular hourly rate must be paid to covered workers for all hours worked over 40 in a workweek unless they are wholly or partially exempt from the overtime provisions of the statute. Employers subject to the statute are prohibited from shipping in interstate commerce any goods produced in an establishment in or about which oppressive child labor was employed within 30 days prior to the removal of such goods from the establishment.

The Public Contracts Division administers the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (act of June 30, 1936, Public No. 846, 74th Cong.), which requires Government supply contracts over $10,000 to contain certain minimum wage, hour, child labor, convict labor, safety and health stipulations, and charges the Secretary of Labor with the duty of enforcing these standards. The minimum wages required are those which have been determined by the Secretary of Labor to be the prevailing minimum wage rates for specific industries. Overtime pay at the rate of at least time and one-half the employee's basic hourly rate is required to be paid for all hours worked over 8 in a day or 40 in a week, whichever yields the greater compensation. Child labor and convict labor are prohibited. The act carries several penalties for violation, including cancellation of contract, liability for liquidated damages for unpaid wages and for violations of the child labor provisions, and possible "blacklisting" of firms for 3 years to prevent their obtaining further Government contracts.

With a trained field staff strategically decentralized over the country and familiar with industry, the Divisions have been able to swing into immediate action when war or other agencies have found themselves in urgent need of inspections to find out the actual situation in regard to policies or critical materials. Inspections were made of aluminum inventories for the Office of Production Management, tire inventories for the Office of Price Administration, silk, copper, scrap, and defense housing for the War Production Board, and for the latter inspections under the Production Requirements and Controlled Materials Plans. Assistance was also provided the War Manpower Commission in connection with the enforcement of some of its regulations. The Divisions have for several years been acting as the initial contact with the public for the War Labor Board on wage stabilization and is continuing to perform this function for the successor agency, the Wage Stabilization Board, as well as conducting all inspection activities for this Board.

WOMEN'S BUREAU

This Bureau was established as a statutory bureau under act of June 5, 1920, "An act to establish in the Department of Labor a bureau to be known as the Women's Bureau." Its functions are to formulate standards and policies to promote the welfare of wage-earning women, to improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency, and advance their opportunities for profitable employment. The Bureau has authority to investigate and report to the Department upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of women in industry. The Director of the Bureau publishes the results of these investigations in the manner and to such extent as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe.

The Bureau is devoting its attention to the problems of employment and readjustment women face in the period of reconversion and in this connection is conducting research, holding conferences with interested agencies, and formulating plans and policies to integrate women workers into a peacetime economy designed for the best good of the whole people. The basic work of the Bureau is concerned with the occupations and conditions of work for the employment of women, and advising on labor legislation for women.

INDEPENDENT OFFICES, AGENCIES, AND ESTABLISHMENTS

AMERICAN BATTLE MONUMENTS COMMISSION

The American Battle Monuments Commission was created by act of Congress approved March 4, 1923. It derives its authority from this and subsequent acts and Executive orders (U. S. C. title 36, ch. 8; 48 Stat., pp. 284-285; Executive Orders Nos. 6614, 6690, and 9704).

The principal duties of the Commission have been (1) to commemorate the services of the American forces in Europe during World War I by the erection of suitable memorials, by the preparation and publication of historical information, and in other ways; (2) to administer and maintain the World War I American national cemeteries and memorials in Europe; and (3) to exercise control over the erection of World War I memorials in Europe by American citizens, States, municipalities, or associations. Executive Order 9704 of March 14, 1946, extends this control to the erection of all memorial monuments and buildings in American cemeteries located outside the United States and its territories and possessions; and, when authorized by any foreign country or political subdivision thereof in which the American armed forces have served, to the erection of all memorial monuments and buildings located in, and commemorating the services of the American armed forces in, any such foreign country or political subdivision.

The Commission's World War I construction program included: (a) The erection of a memorial chapel in each of the 8 American cemeteries in Europe and the construction of service buildings, caretakers' houses, and masonry walls at the cemeteries where needed; (b) the improvement of the landscaping in these cemeteries; (c) the erection of 11 memorials outside of the cemeteries; and (d) the placing of 2 bronze memorial tablets.

The Commission prepared and published a book entitled "American Armies and Battlefields in Europe." This book, which was issued in 1939, is a revision and elaboration of "A Guide to the American Battlefields in Europe" published by the Commission in 1927. It is a combined guide to the American World War I battlefields in Europe and a concise history and reference work covering the activities of the American forces overseas during the period 1917-19. Formerly sold by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, at $2.75 a copy, the supply is now exhausted.

In 1944 the Commission published a series of 28 volumes covering the operations of all American divisions which had combat service during World War I. These are entitled "—— Division Summary of Operations in the World War" and are being sold by the Superintendent of Documents at the following prices: First, Second, Third, Fourth, Twenty-eighth, Forty-second, Seventy-seventh Divisions, $1.50; Fifth, Twenty-sixth, Thirty-second, Thirty-third, Eightieth Divisions, $1.25; Twenty-seventh, Thirtieth, Eighty-second, Eighty-ninth, Ninetieth, Ninety-first, Ninety-third Divisions, $1; Seventh, Twenty-ninth, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh, Seventy-eighth, Seventy-ninth, Eighty-first, Ninety-second Divisions, 75 cents.

The Commission has prepared a file of photographs showing the terrain of the various battlefields where American forces were engaged during World War I.

CARIBBEAN COMMISSION

As a result of an exchange of notes between the Governments of the United States and the United Kingdom, a joint communiqué was issued March 9, 1942, announcing the creation of the Anglo-American Caribbean Commission. In 1945 the Governments of France and the Netherlands accepted invitations extended to them by the United States and the United Kingdom to become full members of the Commission, now known as the Caribbean Commission.

The purpose of the Commission is to encourage and strengthen social and economic cooperation between the four member nations and their possessions and colonies in the Caribbean, and to avoid unnecessary duplication of research. It is concerned primarily with matters pertaining to labor, agriculture, housing, health, education, social welfare, finance, economics, and related subjects in the territories under the United States, British, French, and Netherlands flags within the Caribbean area. In its studies and in the formulation of its recommendations, the Commission is charged with bearing in mind the desirability of close cooperation in social and economic matters between all regions adjacent to the Caribbean. It serves as an advisory and expediting body and works with the appropriate United States, British, French, and Netherlands agencies that have administrative responsibility in regard to the problem in question.

The United States chairman reports directly to the President, but for reasons of administrative convenience the United States section of the Commission acts as an integral unit of the Department of State.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

The purpose of the Civil Service Act (Jan. 16, 1883), as declared in its title, is "to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States." It provides for the appointment of three commissioners, not more than two of whom shall be adherents of the same political party, and makes it the duty of the Commission to aid the President, as he may request, in preparing suitable rules for carrying the act into effect. The act requires that, as nearly as the conditions of good administration will warrant, the rules shall provide, among other things, for open competitive examinations for testing the fitness of applicants for the classified service, the making of appointments from among those passing with highest grades, and apportionment of appointments in the departments at Washington among the States and Territories, and a period of probation before absolute appointment. It prohibits the use of official authority to coerce the political action of any person or body. The act also provides for investigations touching the enforcement of the rules, and forbids, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, the solicitation by any person in the service of the United States of contributions to be used for political purposes from persons in such service, or the collection of such contributions by any person in a Government building.

The Retirement Act of May 22, 1920, as amended, places under the Commission the entire administration of that act. The Commission also administers the Canal Zone Retirement Act and the Alaska Railroad Retirement Act.

The Commission was organized on March 9, 1883. The first classification of the service applied to the departments at Washington and to post offices and customhouses having as many as 50 employees, embracing 13,924 employees.

During the calendar year ending December 31, 1945, 1,505,400 appointments were made. At the end of December 1945, there were 2,411,015 employees in the executive branch of the Federal Government in continental United States. Of this number, 229,389 were employed in the Washington, D. C., metropolitan area.

Examinations are held in the principal cities throughout the country through the agency of local boards of examiners, of which there are approximately 5,000. The members of these boards are detailed from other branches of the service.

The Commission also holds examinations in the Canal Zone, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. Under the rules, the Commission is required to render all practicable assistance to the Philippine Civil Service Bureau, and it may, if required, announce examinations for position in the Philippine Islands.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND CHIEF EXAMINER

Serves as the chief technical and executive officer of the Commission; plans, directs, controls, and is responsible for the technical and administrative work of the various divisions, field offices, and local boards of examiners, and the Commission's business and fiscal operations; serves as the principal consultant to the Commissioners and formulates and develops matters of policy, interpretation, and procedure.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

Responsible for general administrative direction over the Budget and Finance Division, Office Services Division, and the Library, as well as the management planning functions of the Commission.

EXAMINING AND PERSONNEL UTILIZATION DIVISION

Through examinations and recruiting programs, develops and maintains a supply of personnel qualified for Federal employment; furnishes lists of qualified eligibles to Federal agencies; promotes effective utilization of Federal personnel; approves and cooperates in carrying out joint recruiting agreements with Federal agencies; assists Federal agencies in improving work standards and skills of personnel; administers the system for reinstatement, transfer, and promotion of Federal employees under Civil Service Regulations; reviews examination ratings for accuracy and compliance with established procedure upon request of competitors; passes on qualifications necessary for persons proposed for promotion, transfer, reinstatement, and status classification; interviews applicants for Federal employment or transfer; provides an information center for answering public inquiries.

BUDGET AND FINANCE DIVISION

Responsible for the preparation of estimates, statements, and auditing of expenditures; conduct of all budgetary matters, including analysis of work reports to appraise activities and work loads; has charge of accounts covering general business operations of the main office and field offices.

BOARD OF APPEALS AND REVIEW

Reviews the record and passes upon the merit of appeals from ratings in post-master examinations; appeals from debarment from examination on account of unsuitability, or other unfavorable action on suitability; appeals from action taken in retirement cases.

PERSONNEL CLASSIFICATION DIVISION

Investigates the duties and responsibilities of positions within the scope of the Classification Act of 1923, as amended, and allocates them into services, classes, and grades; prepares class specifications setting forth classification standards; investigates problems relative to the extension of the Classification Act to positions in the field service and administers classification following extensions made thereto under the provisions of the Ramspeck Act of November 26, 1940 (54 Stat. 1211); organizes and supervises the operation and procedures of efficiency rating boards of review established in Federal agencies under authority of the Ramspeck Act.

SERVICE RECORD DIVISION

Maintains service records of employees in the executive civil service; acts on cases of reinstatement, transfer, and change of status for the postal field service proposed under civil-service rules; acts on cases involving the granting of classified status; acts on cases of violation of the civil-service law or rules by administrative officers or employees.

INFORMATION DIVISION

Disseminates information to press and public on activities of the Federal classified service; prepares public-address material for use by Commission officials and others; prepares the Civil Service Act and Rules, the Commission's annual report.

RETIREMENT DIVISION

Administers all civil retirement systems under the Commission's jurisdiction involving the granting of annuities, refund of employees' contributions in cases of separation from the service or death, the maintenance and control of retirement accounts, and the preparation of actuarial data required for the proper operation of the retirement acts.

INVESTIGATIONS DIVISION

Investigates frauds, political-activity cases, irregularities in examinations, Executive order cases; conducts personal interviews and investigations of character, training, experience, and suitability of applicants for various classes of positions; supervises the taking of fingerprints.

MEDICAL DIVISION

Determines physical requirements for employment in the classified civil service; passes on physical fitness of applicants; plans physical examination procedures; recruits and examines personnel in medical and related fields; conducts research studies pertaining to disability retirement and sick leave, with particular reference to their bearing on the adequacy of (a) physical requirements for entering the Government service and (b) measures for promoting the health and safety of Government employees; advises the Commission on the medical aspects of disability retirement cases; renders advisory service to other Government agencies on medical matters.

OFFICE SERVICES DIVISION

Supervises procurement and maintenance of supplies and equipment, provision and assignment of space, and provision of mail, files, telephone, messenger, and processing services.

PERSONNEL DIVISION

Has general direction and supervision of personnel matters in the Commission's organization, such as appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, removals, position classifications, retirement, and efficiency ratings. Supervises programs for improving employee morale and hears grievances; consults with administrative heads with respect to organization problems.

COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS

By act approved May 17, 1910, Congress created as a permanent body the National Commission of Fine Arts. The Commission is "composed of seven well-qualified judges of the fine arts," who are appointed by the President and serve for a period of 4 years each, and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

Under the provisions of this organic act Congress directs that "It shall be the duty of the Commission to advise upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia, and upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States and upon the selection of the artists for the execution of same. It shall be the duty of the officer charged by law to determine such questions in each case to call for such advice. The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the Capitol Building of the United States and the building of the Library of Congress. The Commission shall also advise generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President or by any committee of either House of Congress."

By Executive order dated October 25, 1910, the President directed that "Plans for no public building to be erected in the District of Columbia for the General Government shall be hereafter finally approved by the officer duly authorized until after such officer shall have submitted the plans to the Commission of Fine Arts created under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for its comment and advice."

On February 2, 1912, the President directed the Commission to advise the officer in charge of public buildings and grounds in regard to the improvement of any of the grounds in the city of Washington under his charge whenever such advice is asked for by that officer. That officer now uniformly consults the Commission regarding details of the development of all the parks and reservations under his control.

On November 28, 1913, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that whenever new structures are to be erected in the District of Columbia under the direction of the Federal Government which affect in any important way the appearance of the city, or whenever questions involving matters of art and with which the Federal Government is concerned are to be determined, final action shall not be taken until such plans and questions have been submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts designated under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for comment and advice."

On July 28, 1921, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that essential matters relating to the design of medals, insignia, and coins produced by the executive departments, also the design of statues, fountains, and monuments, and all important plans for parks and all public buildings, constructed by the executive departments or the District of Columbia, which in any essential way affect the appearance of the city of Washington, or the District of Columbia, shall be submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts for advice as to the merits of such designs before the executive officer having charge of the same shall approve thereof."

In order that the development of the District of Columbia may proceed harmoniously both under Federal and District jurisdictions, the President has requested the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia to consult the Commission of Fine Arts on matters of art falling under their jurisdiction and control.

The duties of the Commission, therefore, now embrace advising upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia; upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States, and the selection of the artists for their execution; also for medals, insignia, and coins; upon the plans and designs for public structures and parks in the District of Columbia, as well as upon all questions involving matters of art with which the Federal Government is concerned. In addition the Commission advises upon general questions of art whenever requested to do so by the President or any committee of Congress.

The creation of the National Commission of Fine Arts in 1910 was the outcome of the Senate Park Commission of 1901, which presented plans for the development of the park system of the District of Columbia and the location of future Government buildings and memorials. These plans of 1901 were based on the plan of the National Capital prepared by Pierre Charles L'Enfant in 1792 under the direction of President Washington. The Commission of Fine Arts has been guided by the fundamental plan of 1901, which aims to secure the progressive development of Washington as the well-ordered, unified, and grand capital of a great Nation.

The height, color, and design of private buildings facing public buildings and public parks in certain mapped areas in the District of Columbia are subject to the advice of the Commission, as provided in the act of May 16, 1930, known as the Shipstead-Luce Act.

The advice of the Commission of Fine Arts must be requested in the selection of lands to be acquired, under the act of Congress approved June 6, 1924, as amended, by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for the park, parkway, and playground system in the District of Columbia and adjacent areas in Maryland and Virginia.

In the will of Charles L. Freer, giving the Smithsonian Institution the building for the Freer Gallery, together with his collections of Far Eastern art, and an endowment for the increase thereof, it is stipulated that purchases shall have the approval of the National Commission of Fine Arts.

The Congress in various legislation has required the advice of the Commission on the design and location of special monuments, memorials, and other works of commemorative art.

COMMITTEE FOR RECIPROCITY INFORMATION

The Committee for Reciprocity Information was created by Executive order in June 1934 (amended by Executive Order 9647 of October 25, 1945) to carry out the provisions of section 4 of the act entitled "Promotion of Foreign Trade," under which the President is authorized to enter into trade agreements with foreign countries. This section provides that before any foreign-trade agreement is concluded public notice of the negotiations shall be given in order that any interested person may have the opportunity of presenting his views to the President or to such agency as the President may designate.

The President designated the Committee for Reciprocity Information as the body to receive the views of interested parties. This Committee is composed of representatives from those Government departments or agencies concerned with the operation of the Trade Agreements Act. Its Chairman is one of the members of the Committee and is named by the Secretary of State.

Under the rules promulgated by the Committee for Reciprocity Information, those wishing to present information or requests for consideration in connection with announcements as to proposed negotiations may file their material with the Committee, and may request permission to present supplementary information at the hearing which the Committee holds on each trade agreement.

The Committee also receives information on any phase of the trade-agreements program, whether relating to the operation of an agreement already made or to one under consideration, and such views may be presented verbally or by letter.

COURT OF CLAIMS OF THE UNITED STATES

This court was established by act of Congress February 24, 1855 (10 Stat. L. 612). It has general jurisdiction (36 Stat. L. 1135) of all "claims founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, except for pensions, or upon any regulations of an executive department, or upon any contract, express or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect of which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States, either in a court of law, equity, or admiralty, if the United States were suable, except claims growing out of the late Civil War and commonly known as war claims," and certain rejected claims.

It has jurisdiction also of claims of like character which may be referred to it by the head of any executive department involving controverted questions of fact or law. In all the above-mentioned cases the court, when it finds for the claimant, may enter judgment against the United States, payable out of the Public Treasury.

Under section 3 of the act of February 13, 1925, the Court of Claims may certify to the Supreme Court any definite and distinct questions of law concerning which instructions are desired for the proper disposition of the cause; and also in any case the Supreme Court upon the petition of either party may require by certiorari that the cause be certified to it for review and determination.

It also has jurisdiction of the claims of disbursing officers of the United States for relief from responsibility for losses of Government funds and property by capture or otherwise, without negligence, while in the line of duty.

There is a statute of limitations which prevents parties from bringing actions on their own motion beyond 6 years after the cause of action accrued, but the departments may refer claims at any time if they were pending therein within the 6 years.

By the act of March 2, 1919 (40 Stat. 772), known as the Dent Act, the Court of Claims is given jurisdiction of the class of war claims therein specified. In these cases the action of the Secretary of War upon the claim, or his failure to act thereon, is a condition precedent to the right of the claimant to commence an action in the Court of Claims.

The court also has jurisdiction of actions provided for by certain statutes passed during the last war permitting the seizure of property by the Government.

By section 151, Judicial Code (36 Stat. L. 1135), whenever any bill, except for a pension, is pending in either House of Congress providing for the payment of a claim against the United States, legal or equitable, or for a grant, gift, or bounty to any person, the House in which such bill is pending may, for the investigation and determination of facts, refer the same to the Court of Claims, which shall proceed with the same in accordance with such rules as it may adopt and report to such House the facts in the case and the amount, where the same can be liquidated, including any facts bearing upon the question whether there has been delay or laches in presenting such claim or applying for such grant, gift, or bounty, and any facts bearing upon the question whether the bar of any statute of limitation should be removed or which shall be claimed to excuse the claimant for not having resorted to any established legal remedy, together with such conclusions as shall be sufficient to inform Congress of the nature and character of the demand, either as a claim, legal or equitable, or as a gratuity against the United States, and the amount, if any, legally or equitably due from the United States to the claimant; Provided, however, That if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court upon the facts established that under existing laws or the provisions of this chapter, the subject matter of the bill is such that it has jurisdiction to render judgment or decree thereon, it shall proceed to do so, giving to either party such further opportunity for hearing as in its judgment justice shall require, and it shall report its proceedings therein to the House of Congress by which the same was referred to said court.

Section 5, act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 996), provides: "That from and after the passage and approval of this act the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims shall not extend to or include any claim against the United States based upon or growing out of the destruction of any property or damage done to any property by the military or naval forces of the United States during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, nor to any claim for stores and supplies taken by or furnished to or for the use of the military or naval forces of the United States, nor to any claim for the value of any use and occupation of any real estate by the military or naval forces of the United States during said war; nor shall said Court of Claims have jurisdiction of any claim which is now barred by the provisions of any law of the United States."

The act of June 25, 1910, chapter 423 (36 Stat. L. 851-852), "An act to provide additional protection for owners of patents of the United States, and for other purposes," conferred a new jurisdiction.

There are five judges who sit together in the hearing of cases, the concurrence of three of whom is necessary for the decision of any case.

All claims are prosecuted in the Court of Claims by an action commenced by the filing of a petition and prosecuted in accordance with the rules of the court, copies of which rules can be obtained upon application to the clerk of the court.

The court is located at Washington, D. C., in the old Corcoran Art Building, Seventeenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. The term begins on the first Monday in December each year and continues until the Saturday before the first Monday in December. Cases may be commenced and entered at any time, whether the court be in session or not.

EMPLOYEES' COMPENSATION COMMISSION, UNITED STATES

The United States Employees' Compensation Commission was created by the act of Congress approved September 7, 1916 (5 U. S. C. ch. 5), for the purpose of administering the provisions of such act providing workmen's compensation benefits for civil employees of the United States. The jurisdiction and the duties of the Commission were extended by the enactment of subsequent legislation to provide workmen's compensation protection for other employments within the jurisdiction of the Federal Government. Such legislation includes the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act approved March 4, 1927 (33 U. S. C. secs. 901-950); the District of Columbia Workmen's Compensation Law of May 17, 1928 (45 Stat. 600), the act approved August 16, 1941 (Public, No. 208, 77th Cong.), and the act approved December 2, 1942 (Public, No. 784, 77th Cong.).

The benefits provided by the act of September 7, 1916, originally applicable to civil employees of the United States, have subsequently been extended to (a) Employees of the Government of the District of Columbia (except firemen and police). (b) In time of peace to members of the Reserve Corps of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, for injuries sustained in line of duty while on active duty or authorized training. (c) The Coast Guard Reserve. (d) Commissioned personnel of the United States Public Health Service. (e) Student nurses in training in Federal hospitals.

The act of September 7, 1916, subject to certain modification prescribed in the act of February 15, 1934 (5 U. S. C. 796), which limit the circumstances under which compensation benefits may be extended and reduce the scale of such benefits has been made applicable to (a) Employees of the Civil Works Administration. (b) Enrollees in the Civilian Conservation Corps. (c) Persons employed as employees of the United States on projects financed by the Federal Emergency Relief Appropriation Acts. (d) Certain persons receiving assistance from the National Youth Administration. (e) Persons attached to the work corps established by the War Relocation Authority and other persons receiving compensation from such Authority for work performed.

The act of September 7, 1916, provides compensation including medical, surgical, and hospital services made necessary by reason of a personal injury sustained while in the performance of duty. In case such injury causes death compensation is authorized for certain surviving dependents and provision is made for payment of reasonable burial expenses. No benefits may be authorized if the injury is caused by the willful misconduct of the injured person or by his intention to bring about the injury or death of himself or another, or if intoxication of the injured person is the proximate cause of the injury or death.

Compensation under the basic law of September 7, 1916, may be extended to eligible persons for disability or death resulting from an injury by accident or a disease proximately caused by the employment. Persons engaged in employments to which the limitations in the act of February 15, 1934, are applicable may receive benefits only for the effects of a traumatic injury which under a statutory definition is limited to injury by accident. Claims for compensation must be filed within 1 year, but under certain conditions the time limit may be extended in the discretion of the Commission.

Medical and hospital treatment must be obtained from a United States medical officer or hospital. However, if this is not practicable, treatment must be obtained from a physician or hospital designated by the United States Employees' Compensation Commission. When neither of these is available treatment may be obtained from the nearest physician or hospital.

The monthly compensation for total disability may not be more than $116.66 nor less than $58.33, unless the employee's monthly pay is less than the latter amount, in which case his compensation shall be the full amount of his monthly pay. The minimum rate of $58.33 is not applicable in the case of an employee who is not a citizen of the United States and who is injured outside the continental limits of the United States. Beneficiaries receiving compensation under an award for permanent total disability, which renders them so helpless as to require the constant services of an attendant, may receive additional compensation at a rate not in excess of $50 per month. The maximum monthly compensation for persons employed on work-relief projects was increased from $25 to $30 on June 29, 1937, and to $50 on June 21, 1938. There is no minimum rate applicable to such cases.

Compensation for partial disability is payable at a rate equal to 66% percent of the difference between the employee's monthly pay and his earning capacity after the beginning of such disability. Employees on relief projects are entitled to compensation for partial disability in accordance with a special schedule covering specific injuries.

In case of death, compensation is payable to the widow or dependent widower, to children under the age of 18 years, to dependent parents or grandparents, and to other dependents under certain conditions.

By Executive orders the administration of the Compensation Act so far as it relates to the Panama Canal employees and employees of the Alaska Railroad has been placed under the heads of those organizations. Decisions of the manager of the Alaska Railroad are subject to review by the Commission upon appeal.

The Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, approved March 4, 1927, covers employees in private industry engaged in maritime employment on the navigable waters of the United States (including drydocks) who sustain injury or death arising out of, and in course of, employment. These employees are mostly longshoremen and men engaged in repair work on vessels. It does not include the master or members of the crews of vessels, nor persons engaged by the master to load or unload or repair vessels under 18 tons. The compensation features of the act were effective July 1, 1927. Compensation is paid by the employer and the cost of administration by the United States.

On and after July 1, 1927, every employer having employees coming under the provisions of the act is required to secure payment of compensation by insurance in a company authorized by the Commission or self-insurance authorized by the Commission. A heavy penalty is provided for failure to secure compensation. A severe penalty is also provided for the employing of any stevedoring firm which does not present a certificate of compliance.

The Commission is required to make the rules and regulations under this act, prescribe forms, establish compensation districts, and appoint and assign Deputy Commissioners to such districts. The Deputy Commissioners are required to issue certificates of compliance with insurance provisions, enforce requirements as to reports and penalties, regulate medical and legal fees, hold hearings when necessary or demanded by either party, make investigations, allow or disallow claims, examine settlements when hearings are not required to see that the injured employee has received the benefits of the law, take action in case of default in payment, and certify records upon appeal to the courts. Appeal to the Federal courts from the decision of the Deputy Commissioner may be had upon questions of law.

Compensation for total disability is two-thirds of the average weekly pay, not to exceed a maximum of $25 per week, with a minimum of $8 per week. There is a schedule of benefits for permanent partial disability. Death benefits are payable to the widow until remarriage and to children until they reach the age of 18, also to other dependents under certain circumstances. Reasonable funeral expenses not to exceed $200 are provided. The total compensation payable for injury or death in any one case shall not exceed the sum of $7,500.

The act approved May 17, 1928, which became effective July 1, 1928, made applicable to employers and employees in the District of Columbia the provisions of the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, thus extending the principles of workmen's compensation to employment in the District of Columbia.

The act excludes from its benefits the master and a member of a crew of any vessel, such men having the rights known as maintenance and cure and the rights given by the Federal Employers' Liability Act; the employees of railroads when engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, who are also specifically provided for by the Federal Employers' Liability Act; and employees engaged in domestic service or agriculture; and those engaged in casual employment not in the usual course of the trade, business, occupation, or profession of the employer.

Compensation is paid by the employer through an insurance carrier authorized by the Commission or direct as a self-insurer under conditions prescribed by the Commission.

By the act approved August 16, 1941, as amended by the act of December 2, 1942 (Public Law 784, 77th Cong.), the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, with certain modifications, has been made applicable in respect to the injury or death of any employee engaged in any employment at any military, air, or naval base acquired after January 1, 1940, by the United States from any foreign government or upon lands occupied or used by the United States for military or naval purposes in any Territory or possession outside the continental United States, including Alaska, the Naval Operating Base, Guantanamo, Cuba, the Philippine Islands, and the Canal Zone, irrespective of the place where the injury or death occurs, and employees of contractors with the United States engaged in any public works to be performed outside the continental limits of the United States. The effect of the act of August 16, 1941, as amended, is to provide workmen's compensation coverage under a Federal law for all employments in connection with construction work at national defense bases and other public works outside the continental United States. In the administration of this act the Commission is authorized to establish compensation districts to include any areas to which the act applies, and to assign personnel to administer the law locally within such districts.

Public Law 784, approved December 2, 1942, also provides certain benefits in the nature of workmen's compensation for persons missing as a result of enemy action or captured by an enemy while in the employ of contractors with the United States in operations under such contract outside the continental limits of the United States. Such benefits also extend to certain persons engaged by the United States under a personal service contract and to civilian employees of a post exchange or ship-service store outside the United States. Provision is also made for the payment of allowances to the dependents of such missing persons and for repatriation upon release from custody. The Commission is authorized to make rules and regulations for the administration of such benefits which are payable from the annual appropriation to the Commission for the Employees' Compensation Fund.

Public Law 784 also provides for reimbursement to employers, insurance carriers, and compensation funds for benefits paid under a workmen's compensation law in certain cases of injury or death occurring outside the United States as a result of a war risk hazard. Reimbursement is also provided for payments made with respect to the death of certain persons where such payments are in pursuance of an agreement made in accordance with a contract between the United States and the contractor employer and for benefits paid in respect to the failure of the United States or its contractor to furnish return transportation upon the completion of the employment of an employee. Such reimbursement is to be made from the Employees' Compensation Fund under such awards as the Commission may approve.

The several Federal workmen's compensation laws include statutory provisions relating to the prevention of injuries in the employments covered by such laws. The Commission is directed to make studies and investigations with respect to safety provisions and the causes of injuries in such employments and to make to the Congress and to the Federal agencies, private employers and insurance carriers such recommendations as it may deem proper as to the best means of preventing such injuries.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

The Federal Communications Commission was created by an act of Congress approved June 19, 1934, as subsequently amended, for the purpose of regulating interstate and foreign commerce in communication by wire and radio so as to make available, so far as possible, to all people of the United States a rapid, efficient, Nation-wide, and world-wide wire and radio communication service with adequate facilities at reasonable charges, for the purpose of the national defense, for the purpose of promoting safety of life and property through the use of wire and radio communication, and for the purpose of securing a more effective execution of this policy by centralizing authority heretofore granted by law to several agencies and by granting additional authority with respect to interstate and foreign commerce in wire and radio communication.

The Commission exercises functions previously vested in the Federal Radio Commission, which was abolished by the Communications Act; certain functions previously exercised by the Interstate Commerce Commission with respect to telegraph operation; powers formerly exercised by the Postmaster General with respect to Government telegraph rates; and powers formerly exercised by the State Department under the Cable Landing License Act. The powers of the Commission extend beyond those previously vested in these other agencies in the communications field. The powers conferred by the Communications Act also include authority for the Commission to exercise additional powers derived under many international agreements relating to communications.

The Commission is composed of seven members and functions as a unit. The Commission makes all important policy determinations. From time to time committees of the Commission, consisting usually of three members, are delegated to make special studies and supervise particular undertakings. The performance of specified functions is delegated to individual commissioners, to the Administrative Board, consisting of heads of departments, and to the heads of certain departments as individuals.

Title I of the Communications Act contains provisions defining the purposes of the statute, fixing the terms and compensation of Commissioners, and conferring general powers. The statute provides that with certain exceptions employees of the Commission shall be appointed subject to the provisions of the civil-service laws and the Classification Act of 1923.

Title II applies to all common carriers engaged in interstate or foreign communication by wire or radio. The act specifically provides that persons engaged in radio broadcasting shall not be deemed common carriers. Common carriers are required by title II to furnish communication service upon reasonable request, to establish physical connections with other carriers, to establish through routes and charges and the divisions thereof, and to establish and provide facilities. All charges and practices are required to be just and reasonable, and it is declared unlawful for any carrier to make unjust or unreasonable discriminations or to extend undue or unreasonable preferences or advantages in connection with communication service. Carriers are required to publish and file with the Commission tariffs for all charges showing the practices affecting such charges. The Commission is given powers to hold hearings as to the lawfulness of charges, to suspend tariffs, and to prescribe just and reasonable rates. Persons claiming to suffer damages as a result of action by common carriers subject to the act may make complaint to the Commission, and the Commission is required to investigate such complaints and may make an award of damages. Carriers are required to file their contracts with the Commission. Persons seeking to hold office in more than one carrier company subject to the act must obtain the Commission's consent. The Commission has power to make valuations of carrier property, to make inquiries into management, to require the filing of annual reports, to prescribe systems of account, to authorize consolidations of telephone companies, and to authorize extension of lines.

Title III contains provisions relating to radio and is divided into two parts. Part I contains provisions respecting radio licensing and regulation. The purpose of the act is declared to be to maintain the control by the United States over all channels of interstate and foreign radio transmission; and to provide for the use of such channels, but not the ownership thereof, by person for limited periods of time, under licenses granted by Federal authority. It is made unlawful for any person to operate any apparatus for the transmission of energy or communications or signals by radio within any State, Territory, or possession when the effects of such use extend beyond the borders thereof, or upon vessels or aircraft of the United States, except in accordance with a license issued by the Commission. The statute requires that the operation of radio transmitting apparatus shall be carried on only by persons holding operators' licenses issued by the Commission. The radio license requirements do not apply to the Philippine Islands or to the Canal Zone. The Commission does not have jurisdiction with respect to radio stations belonging to and operated by the United States which may use such frequencies as may be assigned by the President.

The Commission is authorized to classify radio stations, prescribe the nature of their service, assign frequencies, and make regulations to carry out the purposes of the act. It also has authority to revoke or modify licenses. Broadcast licenses may not be for a longer term than 3 years, and the Commission rules and regulations provide for a 3-year term for standard broadcast licenses.

With a few minor exceptions, the statute provides that no license shall be issued unless a permit for the construction of the station has first been issued. Applications for construction permits and licenses must be in writing and sworn to by the applicant. The act contains provisions against the holding of licenses by aliens, foreign corporations, representatives of foreign governments, domestic corporations in which an alien is an officer or director or in which an alien owns or votes more than one-fifth of the stock, or by any person whose license has been revoked by a court for violation of the antitrust laws.

The standard governing the granting of licenses is public interest, convenience, or necessity. If the Commission is able to determine from an examination of an application that public interest, convenience, or necessity would be served by a grant thereof, it is required to grant such application without a hearing. If it cannot so determine, it must afford the applicant notice and opportunity to be heard.

The act prohibits assignment of licenses and transfer of control of licensee corporations except upon written consent of the Commission.

The statute provides that if a person who is a legally qualified candidate for public office is permitted to use a broadcast station, equal opportunity shall be afforded to all other candidates for that office in the use of the broadcast station. The broadcasting of information concerning lotteries, gift enterprises, and similar schemes, and the utterance of obscene, indecent, or profane language by means of radio are prohibited. The act provides that the Commission shall have no power of censorship over radio communications.

Part II of title III requires the use of radio for safety purposes on board certain classes of ships of the United States and also confers powers on the Commission to carry out the provisions of the Safety of Life at Sea Convention (London, 1929).

Title IV contains procedural and administrative provisions. It confers jurisdiction on three-judge district courts to enforce, enjoin, set aside, annul, or suspend any order of the Commission under the act (except any order granting or refusing an application for a construction permit for a radio station, or for a radio station license, or for renewal of an existing radio station license, or for modification of an existing radio station license, or suspending a radio operator's license). Orders so excepted are subject to review by appeal to the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, by the applicant whose application is denied, by any other person aggrieved or whose interests are adversely affected by the action of the Commission granting or refusing an application, or by a radio operator whose license is suspended.

The Commission is also given power to make investigations on its own motion and to issue subpoenas and to receive depositions. The statute provides for cooperation by the Commission with State commissions with respect to common carrier matters.

Title V contains penal and forfeiture provisions. In general, violations of the statute are punishable by a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than 2 years, or both. Violation of a rule of the Commission is punishable by a fine of not more than $500 for each day during which the offense occurs. Forfeitures are recoverable in United States courts and the Commission is given powers in certain cases to remit and mitigate forfeitures.

Title VI prohibits the unauthorized interception and publication of communications. During the continuance of a war in which the United States is engaged, or upon proclamation by the President that there exists war or a threat of war, or a state of public peril or disaster, or other national emergency, special powers are conferred upon the President in connection with communications.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was organized under authority of the Banking Act of 1933, approved by the President on June 16, 1933 (Public, No. 66, 73d Cong.). This act was amended by Public, No. 362, approved June 16, 1934 (73 Cong.); by Public Resolution No. 38, approved June 28, 1935 (74th Cong.); by the Banking Act of 1935, approved August 23, 1935 (Public, No. 305, 74th Cong.); by Public Resolution No. 83, approved April 21, 1936 (74th Cong.); by Public, No. 544, approved May 25, 1938 (75th Cong., 3d sess.); by Public Resolution No. 116, approved June 16, 1938 (75th Cong., 3d sess.); by Public, No. 135, approved June 20, 1939 (76th Cong., 1st sess.); by Public Law 603, approved June 11, 1942 (77th Cong., 2d sess.); and by Public Law 37, approved April 13, 1943 (78th Cong., 1st sess.).

The management of the Corporation is vested in a board of directors of three members, two of whom are appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, the third member being the Comptroller of the Currency.

The capital stock of the Corporation, according to the requirements of law, is as follows: The Treasury of the United States has subscribed $150,000,000. Each Federal Reserve bank has subscribed to stock in an amount equal to one-half of the surplus of such bank on January 1, 1933, the total amount of such subscription being $139,299,556.99.

The chief function of the Corporation is to insure the deposits of all banks which are entitled to the benefits of insurance under the law, to the extent of $5,000 for each depositor. All national banks and all Federal Reserve member banks are insured under the law, and any bank located in the States of the United States and the District of Columbia which is not a member of the Federal Reserve System, may become insured upon application to and examination by the Corporation, and approval by the board of directors. The benefits of insurance are also extended to banks in Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. The creation of an insurance reserve is provided for through annual assessment at the rate of one-twelfth of 1 percent upon the average deposits, less authorized deductions, of each insured bank. The assessment is computed and paid by insured banks semiannually.

A second function of the Corporation is to act as receiver for insured banks which fail. The Corporation is appointed receiver for all national banks which fail and may be appointed receiver for closed insured State banks if such appointment is tendered by the State banking authority and is permitted by State law. Upon the closing of an insured bank, the Corporation promptly pays to depositors the amount of their insured deposits. For this purpose the Corporation may, if it finds that it is advisable, organize a new national bank. The claim of each insured depositor is paid upon assignment to the Corporation by him of all rights to dividends and recoveries on account, and to the extent of his insured deposit.

Further, the Corporation may make loans secured by assets of an open or closed insured bank, or may purchase such assets, or may guarantee any other insured bank against loss by reason of its assuming the liabilities of another open or closed insured bank, whenever, in the judgment of the Board of Directors, such action will reduce the risk or avert threatened loss to the Corporation and facilitate a merger or consolidation of an insured bank with another insured bank.

Of the 14,725 operating banks in the United States and possessions on December 31, 1945, deposits in 13,494 banks, including 192 mutual savings banks, were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. As of that date 6,881 banks, members of the Federal Reserve System, had been automatically admitted to membership, and 6,421 nonmember banks, other than mutual savings banks, had made application and had been accepted for membership.

Pursuant to Executive Order 9148 of April 27, 1942, the Corporation is supervising Federal credit unions and otherwise carrying out the functions, powers, and duties vested in the Farm Credit Administration and the Governor thereof under the Federal Credit Union Act, as amended (12 U. S. C. 1751-1771). Federal credit unions are not insured under the Federal Deposit Insurance Law.

FEDERAL LOAN AGENCY

The Federal Loan Administrator, head of the Federal Loan Agency, supervises the administration, and is responsible for the coordination of the functions and activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the RFC Mortgage Company, Federal National Mortgage Association, War Damage Corporation, U. S. Commercial Company, and Rubber Development Corporation.

RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was created by the "Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act," approved January 22, 1932 (47 Stat. 5). This basic law, however, has been amended from time to time, and the Corporation's powers increased and the scope of its operations extended (or otherwise affected) by subsequent legislation. The Corporation has succession until January 22, 1947, unless sooner dissolved by act of Congress. It functions through a principal office at Washington and loan agencies established in cities throughout the United States.

The Corporation may make loans to public agencies, business enterprises, financial institutions, insurance companies, railroads, drainage, levee, irrigation and similar districts, mining and fishing industries, public school districts or other public school authorities; subscribe for and make loans upon nonassessable stock of banks, trust companies, insurance companies, national mortgage associations, and mortgage loan companies, and purchase capital notes or debentures of such institutions; make loans for the carrying and orderly marketing of agricultural commodities and livestock, and exportation of agricultural or other products; make loans determined to be necessary or appropriate because of floods or other catastrophes. From the beginning of the national defense emergency the Corporation financed various war activities, such as the procurement of materials, the construction and operation of war plants, and the writing of war damage insurance. This financing was provided to both private business and to certain of its national defense subsidiary corporations—Defense Plant Corporation, Defense Supplies Corporation, Metals Reserve Company, Rubber Reserve Company, and War Damage Corporation. All except War Damage Corporation have since been dissolved and their functions, powers, duties, and authority transferred to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation by Public Law 109, Seventy-ninth Congress. The Corporation since VJ-day has been actively engaged in reconversion activities which, among other things, includes helping to assure an adequate source of credit for financing the establishment of many new business enterprises and the transition of other business concerns, both large and small, to new types of production.

THE RFC MORTGAGE COMPANY

Section 5c of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended, added by the act approved January 31, 1935 (49 Stat. 1), authorizes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with the approval of the President, to "subscribe for or make loans upon the nonassessable stock of any class of any national mortgage association organized under title III of the National Housing Act and of any mortgage loan company, trust company, savings and loan association, or other similar financial institution * * *."

Pursuant to this authority the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has subscribed for $25,000,000 of the capital stock of the RFC Mortgage Company, which was organized under the laws of Maryland on March 14, 1935.

The general purpose of the Company is to aid in the maintenance of a normal market for sound mortgages on income-producing urban property, such as apartment houses, hotels, and business and office buildings, when credit is not otherwise available on reasonable terms and when the net income from the property, after payment of taxes, insurance, and operating costs, is sufficient to pay interest and the required amortization.

The principal office of the Company is in Washington, D. C., and it operates in all the States and Territories of the United States. Its business is handled through agents whose offices are located in the various loan agencies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The activities of the Company can be classified into the following major groups:

(1) When financing is necessary and cannot be obtained upon reasonable rates and terms, the Company considers applications for loans, on a sound basis, secured by first mortgages on urban income-producing properties, such as apartment houses, hotels, business and office buildings, if the net income from the property, after the payment of taxes, insurance, and operating expenses is sufficient to pay interest charges and the required amortization of the loan. These loans are chiefly for refinancing and aiding in the reorganization of distressed real property.

(2) The Company also gives consideration to applications for loans to finance new construction, provided there is an economic need for such construction, the mortgagor's investment in the completed project will be substantial in relation to the amount of the loan requested, and his resources and experience are sufficient to indicate that the property can be operated on a sound basis.

(3) The Company also considers applications for loans to distressed holders of first-mortgage real-estate bonds and certificates upon the security of their notes secured by such bonds and certificates, provided sufficient information is available to the company to enable it to determine that the income of the property securing the bonds or certificates is sufficient to warrant the loan. Loans will not be made to holders of such bonds or certificates who acquired them for speculative purposes.

(4) The Company also purchases mortgages insured under title VI and section 203, title II of the National Housing Act, as amended, and title I, class 3 loans, provided such mortgages meet the eligibility requirements of the Company.

FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION

The Federal National Mortgage Association (formerly the National Mortgage Association of Washington) was organized and established on February 10, 1938, pursuant to the provisions of title III of the National Housing Act, as amended. The capital stock of the Association is owned by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The Association is staffed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and functions through a principal office in Washington, D. C., and agents stationed in the various loan agencies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The Association purchases mortgages insured subsequent to January 1, 1937, under section 203 of the National Housing Act, as amended, on urban homes constructed after January 1, 1936. Such mortgages are purchased from mortgagees approved by the Federal Housing Administration which have a net worth satisfactory to the Association. The Association also makes loans secured by first mortgages insured under section 207 of the National Housing Act, as amended.

WAR DAMAGE CORPORATION

Organization.—The War Damage Corporation was created by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on December 13, 1941, pursuant to section 5d of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, as amended. It is managed by a Board of Directors appointed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and by officers and agents appointed by the Corporation. The principal office of the Corporation is located in Washington, D. C.

Functions.—The purpose of the Corporation, in accordance with Public Law 506, Seventy-seventh Congress, approved March 27, 1942, is to provide, through insurance, reinsurance, or otherwise, reasonable protection against loss of or damage to property, real and personal, within the United States and its territories or possessions, resulting from enemy attack (including any action taken by the military, naval, or air forces of the United States in resisting enemy attack).

The Corporation on March 15, 1946, discontinued the issuance of policies of insurance, and by Public Law 370, Seventy-ninth Congress, has been relieved of responsibility for the adjustment of war damage in the Philippine Islands. Its principal activities now are: (1) The adjustment and payment of claims of repatriated former internees for losses that occurred in the Pacific island possessions of the United States (other than the Philippines) before July 1, 1942, and (2) the defense of pending litigation involving marine losses.

RUBBER DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION

Organization.—Rubber Development Corporation is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware. All of its capital stock is owned by Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which by Executive Order 9630, dated September 27, 1945, has supervisory control over it.

Rubber Development Corporation is managed by a Board of Directors elected by the stockholders and by officers appointed by the Board of Directors. The principal office of Rubber Development Corporation is in Washington, D. C. Representatives of Rubber Development Corporation are stationed in all principal foreign countries in which the Corporation is engaged in business.

Functions.—The Corporation is engaged in carrying on all activities connected with, arising out of, or in any way related to the exploration, development, and procurement of crude rubber, balata, cryptostegia, guayule, and other gums of similar utility in all areas outside the continental United States for which the United States has assumed responsibility. It is also engaged in the procurement of liquid latex, scrap rubber, and reclaimed rubber and rubber products in foreign countries.

U. S. COMMERCIAL COMPANY

Organization.—The U. S. Commercial Company was created March 27, 1942, by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, pursuant to section 5d of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act as amended. During the period July 15, 1943, to October 20, 1945, control of the U. S. Commercial Company was vested in Foreign Economic Administration by virtue of Executive Order 9361 of July 15, 1943. Pursuant to Executive Order 9630 of September 27, 1945, control of the U. S. Commercial Company was returned to Reconstruction Finance Corporation on October 21, 1945. The capital stock of U. S. Commercial Company is owned by, and it is further financed through, loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It is managed by a Board of Directors appointed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and by officers and agents appointed by U. S. Commercial Company. The principal office of the Company is located in Washington, D. C.

Functions.—The activities of the Company include facilitating the resumption of American trade with areas with which direct commercial dealings have been cut off or restricted by reason of the war and the operation of certain special projects for the Army, the Navy, the Department of State, and other sponsoring agencies in liberated and occupied areas.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

Creation and authority.—The Federal Power Commission was organized as an independent commission in its present form by the act approved June 23, 1930 (46 Stat. 797). The Commission was originally created in 1920 by the Federal Water Power Act, approved June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1063, 16 U. S. C. 791-823), providing for the licensing by the Commission of hydroelectric projects on United States Government lands or on navigable waters of the United States. The Federal Water Power Act was amended March 3, 1921, to exclude water power projects in national parks or national monuments (41 Stat. 1353). By title II of the Public Utility Act of 1935, approved August 26, 1935 (49 Stat. 838, 16 U. S. C., Sup. IV, 791a-825r), the original Federal Water Power Act with certain amendments was made part I of the Federal Power Act and parts II and III were added vesting the Commission in addition with jurisdiction over the transmission and sale at wholesale of electric energy in interstate commerce and public utilities engaged therein.

Other jurisdictional statutes of the Commission.—Natural Gas Act, approved June 21, 1938 (52 Stat. 821, 15 U. S. C. 717-717w), giving jurisdiction over the transportation and sale of natural gas in interstate commerce for resale and natural-gas companies engaged therein, as amended February 7, 1942 (56 Stat. 83, 15 U. S. C. 717f).

Tennessee Valley Authority Act, approved May 18, 1933 (48 Stat. 58, 16 U. S. C. 831-831dd), sections 12a, 14, 15, 15a, 15c, 26a, as added or amended (49 Stat. 1076, 1077, 1078, 1079, 53 Stat. 1083, 16 U. S. C. 831k, 831m, 831n, 831n-1, 831n-3, 831-1).

Bonneville Act, approved August 20, 1937 as amended (50 Stat. 731, 16 U. S. C. 832-832l).

Fort Peck Act, approved May 18, 1938 (52 Stat. 403, 16 U. S. C. 833-833k).

Executive orders.—Executive Order No. 8202, dated July 13, 1939, authorizing and requesting the Federal Power Commission to perform certain functions relating to the transmission of electric energy between the United States and foreign countries and to the exportation and importation of natural gas from and into the United States.

Executive Order No. 9328, dated April 8, 1943, the Hold-the-Line Order, directing the attention of the Federal Power Commission, as a Federal rate regulatory authority, to the stabilization program so that rate increases will be disapproved and rate reductions effected "in order to keep down the cost of living and effectuate the purposes of the stabilization program."

Executive Order No. 9373, dated August 30, 1943, reapproval by the Federal Power Commission of rates for sale of electric energy from the Grand River, Denison, and Norfolk projects by the Secretary of the Interior.

FEDERAL POWER ACT

Part I.—Part I of the Federal Power Act represents the declared policy of Congress to provide for the development and improvement of navigation and the development, transmission, and utilization of power on streams subject to Federal jurisdiction, upon lands of the United States, and at Government dams, by private and public agencies acting under licenses issued by the Commission. Such licenses may be issued after satisfactory evidence has been submitted by applicant of compliance with the requirements of specified State laws; and if the navigable capacity of any navigable waters of the United States will be affected, upon the approval of the plans for the project by the Chief of Engineers and the Secretary of War; or if a reservation is affected, upon such conditions as the Secretary of the department under whose supervision it falls shall deem necessary for its adequate protection and utilization.

Licenses so issued are subject to the following conditions: To effectuate the foregoing policies; to protect reservations of the United States; to adapt each project to a comprehensive plan for improving or developing a waterway or waterways for interstate or foreign commerce, for the improvement and utilization of water power, and for other beneficial uses, including recreational purposes; to reimburse the United States for the cost of administration of part I of the act and to recompense it for the use of lands; to expropriate excessive profits until the States shall make provision for their prevention or expropriation; to provide for the payment of assessments for benefits from headwater improvements; to give the United States the option to recapture licensed projects at the expiration of the licenses; to obtain the maintenance and operation of navigation facilities and fishways; and to provide for reasonable regulation of rates, services, and security issues of parties involved, in the absence of State regulation. The act also provides for investigations of unlicensed projects subject to Federal regulation and the issuance of orders in the public interest to conserve and utilize navigation and water power resources.

Part II.—Part II embodies a comprehensive scheme for the regulation of electric utilities engaged in interstate commerce. The policy is to extend Federal regulation to matters which cannot be regulated by the States and also to exert Federal authority to strengthen and assist the States in the exercise of their regulatory powers. In general, the regulatory provisions of the act apply to persons owning and operating facilities for the transmission of electric energy in interstate commerce or for the sale of electric energy at wholesale in interstate commerce, with certain exceptions—for example, facilities used in local distribution. Provision is made for the encouragement of voluntary interconnection and coordination of facilities; for compulsory interconnections under certain circumstances; for authorizing transmission of electric energy from the United States to a foreign country when it will not impair the sufficiency of electric supply within the United States or impede or tend to impede coordination of facilities; for the approval of the transfer of assets, under certain conditions, involving companies subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission; for the approval of the issuance of long-term securities in accordance with specified standards, and for the scrutiny of the issuance of short-term securities, involving companies subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission where the companies are not organized and operating in a State under the laws of which its security issues are regulated by a State commission.

Further provisions apply to the charging of just, reasonable, nondiscriminatory and nonpreferential rates in connection with the transmission or sale of electric energy subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission; and for the furnishing of proper, adequate, and sufficient service in the interstate transmission or sale of electric energy.

Part III.—Part III provides for the prescribing and enforcement of compliance with a uniform system of accounts by licenses and interstate electric utilities, reclassification of accounts, regulation of depreciation, and like accounting matters. It also requires approval of the holding of interlocking positions in the companies subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, in security underwriting companies, and in electrical equipment supply companies when neither public nor private interests will be adversely affected thereby. Part III also contains provisions for the hearing of complaint cases, the instituting of investigations, conduct of hearings, and the review of Commission orders by the courts.

Organization.—The Commission is composed of five members, one of whom is elected Chairman and another Vice Chairman. The Chairman is designated by statute as the principal executive officer of the Commission. The Commissioners are assisted by a group of examiners in the matter of presiding at and conducting hearings. The principal administrative subdivisions in the Commission are the Office of the Secretary; the Fiscal and Personnel Office; and the Publications Division. The Commission's technical staff is subdivided into the Bureau of Power, which, through its various divisions, handles power requirements and supply, flood control, licensed project and project cost work; the Office of the Chief Engineer, which advises the Commission on engineering matters; the Bureau of Accounts, Finance, and Rates, which supervises the preparation of systems of accounts, auditing and accounting, rate investigation, natural gas activities, and related work, with various divisions which handle specific portions of the general work of the Bureau; the Division of Trial Examiners, which presides at hearings in Commission proceedings; and the Bureau of Law, which advises the Commission on all legal questions. The Commission has five field offices under the Bureau of Power, headed by regional engineers.

Declarations of intention.—Upon the filing of declarations of intention to construct project works on streams or their parts, other than those defined as navigable waters, and over which Congress has jurisdiction, the Commission makes investigations and adopts findings as to whether the interests of interstate or foreign commerce would be affected by the proposed construction.

Preliminary permits.—Upon applications filed, the Commission, in proper cases, issues preliminary permits and renewals for the purpose of maintaining priority of application for a license for a total of not more than 3 years.

Licenses.—Upon application, the Commission, in proper cases, issues licenses and amendments thereto, approves their transfer, and fixes and collects annual charges for them.

Cost determination cases.—The Commission is required by the act to determine the net investment in and actual legitimate original cost of every licensed project for use in event of recapture of the project by the United States as well as in connection with various phases of regulation such as rate regulation.

Recapture of licensed projects.—The act provides that the United States shall have the right to recapture licensed projects upon or after expiration of any license. The proportion of surplus earnings in excess of a specified reasonable rate of return is determined by the Commission and is to be held until the termination of the license or to be applied from time to time in reduction of the net investment of the licensee, which is to be paid by the United States in the event of recapture. It fixes the amount of such specified rate of return. The Commission prescribes and enforces a system of accounts to be maintained by licensees.

Rates, services, and securities of licensees.—Licensees and their customers and subsidiaries which are interstate public utility companies are subject to the provisions of part II.

The Commission, under part II, has jurisdiction over the transmission of electrical energy in interstate commerce and over the sale of electrical energy at wholesale in interstate commerce. This part provides for close cooperation with State agencies with respect to the rates and services of electric utilities.

Headwater benefits.—In cases where a licensee or other power developer benefits directly from a headwater improvement of another licensee, a permittee, or of the United States, the Commission determines the equitable part of the annual charges for interest, maintenance, and depreciation to be paid to the owner thereof by the lower power developer benefited.

Reservations of United States lands for power purposes.—Upon application for a license, any lands of the United States included are reserved for power purposes from entry, location, or other disposal, unless the Commission determines that the lands so reserved will not be injured or destroyed for the purposes of power development by location, entry, or selection under the public land laws and so notifies the Secretary of the Interior, who then declares such lands open to location, entry, or selection in accordance with the provisions of the act.

Investigations of water-power resources.—The Commission conducts general investigations of water-power resources and their relation to interstate and foreign commerce, and of the water-power industry and its relation to other industries, cooperating with State and national agencies in its investigations and publishing the results of its work in special and annual reports.

Power market studies and surveys.—Commencing with the National Power Survey, which was initiated in 1933 by direction of the President, the preparation of power market studies and surveys has been one of the long-standing activities of the Commission. Studies and surveys have been and are being made for several sections of the country regarding the utilization and marketing of electric power from existing and future hydroelectric developments, as provided by section 4, part I, of the Federal Power Act.

Federal Inter-Agency Agreement.—The Commission is party to an agreement entered into jointly with the Departments of War, Interior, and Agriculture, under date of December 29, 1943, to permit agencies of these departments and the Commission to cooperate more completely in the preparation of reports on multiple-purpose reservoir projects and to correlate the results to the greatest practicable extent. The Chairman represents the Commission on the Federal Inter-Agency River Basin Committee, the body formed to carry out the purposes of this agreement. The Committee meets in Washington monthly to discuss the results of studies and investigations, to adjust differences of opinion, and to promote ways and means for the implementation of this agreement. Through its staff the Commission has participated during the year in several cooperative studies with other members of the Committee.

Authorizations and orders under parts II and III.—In accordance with provisions of parts II and III of the Federal Power Act, the Commission receives and passes on applications for compulsory interconnections; authorizes and approves the sale, lease, merger, or consolidation of facilities or purchase of securities; and authorizes the issue of securities or assumption of obligation or liability as guarantor, endorser, surety, or otherwise, in respect to any security of another person.

The Commission receives and considers reports of the issue or renewal of, or assumption of liability on, short-term notes or drafts. It also receives and considers schedules of rates and charges concerning transmission or sale of electric energy subject to its jurisdiction and conducts inquiries into the lawfulness of rates and service, and in connection therewith may suspend the operation of rate schedules for a limited period of time. Upon complaint, it investigates rates and charges involved in any transmission or sale subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, or service rendered, and may issue orders prescribing the rates, charges, or service.

State cooperation.—For the purpose of facilitating cooperation with State commissions in accordance with the provisions of the act authorizing the establishment of joint hearings and procedure, and authorizing conferences with State commissions, the Commission has adopted a cooperative procedure of a flexible nature with provision for special procedure in particular cases. The State commission or commissions affected are notified of proceedings instituted under the Federal Power Act or the Natural Gas Act, and are furnished copies of applications, petitions, complaints, or orders instituting proceedings.

Uniform systems of accounts.—The Commission has prescribed uniform systems of accounts for public utilities subject to its jurisdiction and for its licenses.

Reports to the Commission.—The Commission prescribes, receives, and compiles data from periodical reports as follows:

1. Annual reports, rendered by every electric utility, setting forth complete financial and statistical data as to assets, liabilities, revenues, generating capacity, number of consumers, and similar information.

2. Power system reports rendered by every electric utility system, setting forth information with respect to generating and transmission facilities, load, and load characteristics.

3. Monthly and annual reports containing such information as production of electricity for public use, fuel consumed, and stocks of fuel on hand.

4. Reports from electric utilities and industrial corporations with respect to their electric power requirements and supply for war and essential civilian purposes.

Special reports are prescribed, received, and compiled from time to time, as, for example, reports on areas served by each electric utility.

Enforcement of Federal Power Act.—Upon complaint or on its own initiative, the Commission conducts investigations with respect to possible violations of the Federal Power Act or of any license, rule, regulation, or order thereunder. It either refers court proceedings under the act to the Attorney General or is represented by its own attorneys.

Recommendations to Congress.—The Commission conducts investigations to secure information to serve as a basis for recommending to Congress further legislation concerning the matters to which the Federal Power Act relates.

Reports by the Commission.—The Commission publishes annual reports to Congress; annual reports of electric rates throughout the United States, a National Electric Rate Book; monthly reports of production of electric energy in the United States, and annual reports of electric power statistics covering production and generating capacity. In addition, special reports on power matters are published from time to time.

Regional districts.—For the purpose of assuring an abundant supply of electric energy throughout the United States with the greatest possible economy and with regard to the proper utilization and conservation of natural resources, the Commission has tentatively divided the country into regional districts for the voluntary interconnection and coordination of facilities for the generation, transmission, and sale of electric energy, and has so informed all State commissions and other interested parties, whose views and recommendations on the subject are invited.

FLOOD CONTROL ACTS

Authorizations under flood control acts.—Under the Flood Control Acts of 1938 and subsequent years the Commission is authorized to investigate power potentialities in the flood-control dams to be constructed by the War Department, and is charged with the responsibility of making recommendations to the Secretary of War with regard to the installation of penstocks or similar facilities adapted to possible future use in the development of hydroelectric power in any flood-control or navigation dam to be constructed by the War Department. Section 5 of the Flood Control Act of 1944 requires approval by the Federal Power Commission of rates for the sale of electric power and energy generated at reservoir projects under the control of the War Department.

The Flood Control Act of 1938 authorized the sum of $1,500,000 to be appropriated and expended by the Commission for carrying out any examinations or surveys provided for in that act, or any other acts of Congress, to be prosecuted by the Commission. Under the Flood Control Act of 1944, an additional $1,500,000 was authorized for continuing these activities.

Extension of authority by River and Harbor Act of 1945.—Duties similar to those authorized by flood control acts with respect to navigation or flood control dams to be constructed by the War Department are imposed on the Commission by the provisions of the River and Harbor Act of 1945.

NATURAL GAS ACT

Purpose of Natural Gas Act.—The Natural Gas Act is intended to regulate those engaged in the transportation of natural gas in interstate commerce or the sale in interstate commerce of such gas for resale for ultimate public consumption for domestic, commercial, industrial, or any other purpose.

The policy of the Congress in this connection is to extend Federal regulation to certain phases of the business of transporting and selling natural gas for ultimate distribution to the public which cannot be regulated by the States, also to assert Federal authority to strengthen and assist the States in the exercise of their regulatory powers.

Natural gas investigation.—By its order of September 22, 1944, the Commission instituted an investigation into the extent and probable life of the Nation's natural gas reserves; the present and probable future utilization of natural gas for domestic, commercial, and industrial purposes; the extent, character, and results of the competition of natural gas with other fuels, and such related matters as may be helpful to the Commission in its administration of the Natural Gas Act or in determining what additional legislation, if any, should be recommended to the Congress.

The Commission directed that a copy of the order be sent to the Governors, regulatory commissions, and conservation commissions of each of the States, to the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, to the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, to each natural gas company, and to coal, railroad, and labor organizations and other interested parties. The first of a number of public hearings scheduled was held in Kansas City, Mo., beginning September 18, 1945. Other hearings held included Oklahoma City on October 9, 1945; New Orleans, La., on November 12, 1945; Houston, Tex., on January 28, 1946; Biloxi, Miss., February 11; Chicago, Ill., February 19; and Charleston, W. Va., April 2. An eighth hearing is scheduled to be held in Washington, D. C., on June 17, 1946.

Complexity of natural gas problem outlined.—The Commission issued the following statement in announcing its order of September 22:

"As our order points out, there are many complex and difficult problems related to the conservation and utilization of natural gas in this country. The need for a comprehensive, fact-finding survey of this exhaustible natural resource has been recognized for several years, not only by the Commission as a result of proceedings under the Natural Gas Act, but also by members of Congress, congressional committees, State and Federal conservation agencies, State regulatory agencies, and State officials, and representatives of industry and labor. For example, the Overton resolution (S. J. Res. 92), introduced by Senator Overton, of Louisiana, during the current session of Congress, provides for a more extensive survey than the one we are undertaking on our own motion.

"Representatives of gas-producing States, in proceedings before us, have advanced various and divergent contentions with respect to the exportation of natural gas from their States for consumption in areas where other energy resources are available. The economic, sociological, and technological aspects of fuel competition have been presented to us in certificate proceedings by representatives of coal, labor, railroad, and other interests. These groups have strongly urged the Commission either to deny certain requested certificates of convenience and necessity for new pipe lines, or to attach restrictions which would substantially limit the uses for which natural gas might be sold from the new facilities.

"On the other hand, representatives of natural gas companies have appeared before us to emphasize the amount of investments that have been made to supply gas to markets which include domestic, commercial, industrial, and other customers. They have contended that curtailment of the supply of natural gas to industrial customers would substantially impair their ability to render natural-gas service to other classes of consumers at reasonable rates. They have also contended that new or additional sources of supply are necessary to maintain adequate service in areas where natural gas supplies are waning and in which large investments in pipe lines and distribution facilities have been made.

"Another aspect of the matter is that large investments have been made in certain plant facilities designed for the utilization of natural gas in industrial processes. It has been contended that the conversion of these specially designed facilities to utilize other fuels, or the installation of new facilities using other fuels, will require large expenditures of money, time, and materials, and may cause substantial changes in the method of operation, cost of production, and end products of many industrial establishments.

"Proceedings under the Natural Gas Act have shown that it is principally in the field of direct industrial sales for interstate pipe lines that natural gas comes into direct competition with other fuels. The rates at which such sales are made are not subject to regulation under the Natural Gas Act.

"In undertaking this investigation, the Commission fully recognizes the jurisdiction of the various State regulatory and conservation commissions regarding the production, proration, and distribution of natural gas in their respective States. It is not the Commission's intention to trespass upon such authority in any manner whatsoever. We seek the cooperation of the various State agencies, as well as other interested parties, so that every aspect of the public interest may be considered in an effort to solve the problems involved in our natural gas resources and uses.

"Extensive data and information relating to the problems involved in the conservation and utilization of natural gas have been obtained through proceedings under the Natural Gas Act, but these data are not sufficiently complete for adequate consideration of the problems outlined in our order. It is necessary, for the purposes of this survey, to collect information on substantially all phases of the natural gas industry and, in order to avoid duplication, we plan to utilize the data and information already obtained by other Federal agencies, as well as that in the hands of State agencies and others concerned with natural gas problems.

"We believe that such a cooperative survey will not only be productive of information needed for the administration of the Natural Gas Act but will also develop constructive public policy in these important matters."

Exportation or importation of natural gas.—Exportations from the United States to a foreign country or importations from a foreign country to the United States must be authorized by the Commission, when found to be consistent with the public interest.

Control over rates and charges.—Natural gas companies are required to file schedules showing the rates charged for any transportation or sale subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, and may not change such rates or charges without its approval. The Commission may order changes in rates, but may not order an increase in the rate charged by any natural gas company unless the increase is embodied in a new schedule filed by the company.

Cost of property.—The Commission is authorized to ascertain the actual legitimate cost of the property of every natural gas company and the depreciation in such property.

Extension of facilities; abandonment of service.—The Commission may order a natural gas company to extend or improve its transportation facilities and to establish physical connection of its transportation facilities with the facilities of, or sell natural gas to, any persons or municipalities engaged, or legally authorized to engage, in the local distribution of natural or artificial gas to the public, if the Commission finds that no undue burden will be placed upon the natural gas company. In ordering such an extension of facilities, the Commission may not impair the ability of the company to render adequate service to its customers.

Natural gas companies may not abandon interstate facilities or service without the approval of the Commission.

Certificates.—An amendment to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, made February 7, 1942, requires "grandfather clause" certificates covering bona fide operation as of the date of the amendment and certificates of public convenience and necessity for all new constructive, operation, extensions, and acquisitions thereafter. The establishment of service areas is also provided for.

State compacts.—The Commission is required to report to Congress information in connection with any compacts proposed by two or more States dealing with the conservation, production, transportation, or distribution of natural gas.

Joint procedure.—Provision is made for joint hearings and cooperative procedure with State utility commissions concerned in connection with any matter coming before the Commission, and full cooperation is available to State commissions.

Officials dealing in securities.—Personal profit by an official or director of a natural gas company through the negotiation, hypothecation, or sale of any security issued by the company is unlawful.

Uniform system of accounts.—The Commission has prescribed a uniform system of accounts, effective January 1, 1940, for natural gas companies subject to the provisions of the Natural Gas Act, which covers accounting details of the property of such companies for the production, transportation, or sale of natural gas.

Incidental powers.—The Commission may require such reports as may be necessary in the administration of the act. In general, it is given administrative powers similar to those provided in the Federal Power Act.

Reclassification of accounts.—The Commission is enforcing the uniform system of accounts for natural-gas companies by reclassification of account proceedings.

Electric and Natural Gas Rate Regulation.—The Commission in its rate regulation, as in its system of accounts, has taken actual legitimate cost or prudent investment as its basis; and, in the cases of Natural Gas Pipe Line Company of America et al. v. Federal Power Commission, 315 U. S. 575, and Federal Power Commission v. Hope Natural Gas Company, 315 U. S. 591, it has obtained rulings from the Supreme Court of the United States sustaining rate orders determined on an actual legitimate cost or prudent investment rate base. The Commission's rate regulation policies were further strengthened by the Supreme Court's decisions, upholding the Commission's orders reducing rates of Colorado Interstate Gas Co., Colorado-Wyoming Gas Co., Canadian River Gas Co. (324 U. S. 581) and Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. (324 U. S. 635).

The Commission has completed the trial and decision of a number of major rate cases involving large rate reductions and others are now in process of trial or preparation. The Commission has also effected a number of sizable rate reductions by negotiation without trial.

DEFENSE ACTIVITIES

Authority under present acts.—In addition to its peacetime functions, the Commission, under the Federal Power Act, has authority:

1. To investigate the entire operation of the power industry and, more particularly, the capacity and output of all facilities for the generation, transmission, and distribution of electricity in relation to the national defense (sec. 311).

2. During the continuance of any war in which the United States is engaged, or whenever the Commission determines that an emergency exists by reason of a sudden increase in the demand for electric energy, or shortage of electric energy or of facilities for the generation of electric energy, or other causes, either upon its own motion or upon complaint, with or without notice, hearing or report, to require by order such temporary connections of facilities and such generation, delivery, interchange, or transmission of electric energy as in its judgment will best meet the emergency and serve the public interest (sec. 202 (c)).

3. During the continuance of any emergency requiring immediate action, persons not otherwise subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission may make temporary connections with public utilities or may construct temporary facilities for the interstate transmission of electric energy as may be necessary or appropriate to meet the emergency, without thereby becoming subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The section requires that such connections be discontinued and such construction removed or otherwise disposed of at the termination of the emergency, but permits permanent connections for emergency use only upon approval by the Commission (sec. 202 (d)). Many persons have requested and obtained appropriate assurances from the Commission that such temporary connections or construction would not subject them to jurisdiction of the Commission. The Commission also receives and grants requests for approval of permanent interconnections for emergency use under section 202 (d).

The act also provides that the United States may take over and operate any licensed hydroelectric project upon a written order of the President stating that the safety of the United States demands it "for the purpose of manufacturing nitrates, explosives or munitions of war, or for any other purpose involving the safety of the United States" (sec. 16).

Under the Natural Gas Act the Commission has power to order natural-gas companies to extend their transportation facilities or connect with local distributors of gas upon certain finding that such action is desirable in the public interest, and that the natural-gas company involved is not subject to undue burden or impairment of service (sec. 7 (a)).

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

The Federal Reserve System was established pursuant to authority contained in the act of Congress approved December 23, 1913, known as the Federal Reserve Act, the purposes of which, as stated in the preamble, are "To provide for the establishment of Federal Reserve Banks, to furnish an elastic currency, to afford means of rediscounting commercial paper, to establish a more effective supervision of banking in the United States; and for other purposes." The System comprises the Board of Governors, which exercises supervisory functions; the Federal Open Market Committee, consisting of the members of the Board of Governors and five representatives of the Federal Reserve Banks, which directs the System's open-market operations; the 12 Federal Reserve Banks situated in different sections of the United States; the Federal Advisory Council, which acts in an advisory capacity to the Board of Governors; and about 6,900 member banks, which include all national banks in the United States and such State banks, trust companies, Morris Plan banks, and mutual savings banks as have voluntarily applied to the Board of Governors for membership and have been admitted to the System.

Broad supervisory powers are vested in the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, which has its offices in Washington. The Board of Governors is composed of seven members appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate. In selecting these seven members, the President is required to have due regard to a fair representation of the financial, agricultural, industrial, and commercial interests, and geographical divisions of the country. No two members may be from the same Federal Reserve district.

Each member of the Board of Governors is also a member of the Federal Open Market Committee, whose membership, in addition, includes five representatives of the Federal Reserve Banks, each such representative being elected annually by the boards of directors of certain specified Federal Reserve Banks. Open-market operations of the Federal Reserve Banks are conducted under regulations adopted by the committee with a view to accommodating commerce and business and with regard "to their bearing upon the general credit situation of the country; and no Federal Reserve Bank may engage or decline to engage in open-market operations except in accordance with the direction of and regulations adopted by the committee."

The Board of Governors may, within certain limitations and in order to prevent injurious credit expansion or contraction, change the requirements as to reserves to be maintained by member banks against deposits.

For the purpose of preventing the excessive use of credit for the purchase or carrying of securities, the Board of Governors is authorized to regulate the amount of credit that may be initially extended and subsequently maintained on any security (with certain exceptions) registered on a national securities exchange. Certain other powers have been conferred upon the Board which are likewise designed to enable it to prevent an undue diversion of funds into speculative operations.

The Board is also authorized to prescribe regulations with respect to extensions of credit, particularly credit for the purpose of purchasing consumers' durable and semidurable goods. Under this authority, restrictions of credit have been applied to charge accounts, to installment purchases of certain articles, and to certain kinds of loans.

Another duty of the Board of Governors is the review and determination of discount rates charged by the Federal Reserve Banks on their discounts and advances.

In connection with its supervision of Federal Reserve Banks, the Board of Governors is also authorized to make examinations of such Banks; to require statements and reports from such banks; to require the establishment or discontinuance of branches of such Banks; to supervise the issue and retirement of Federal Reserve notes; and to exercise special supervision over all relationships and transactions of the Federal Reserve Banks with foreign banks or bankers.

The Board of Governors also passes on the admission of State banks, trust companies, Morris Plan banks, and mutual savings banks to membership in the Federal Reserve System, and on the termination of membership of such banks; it has the power to examine member banks and affiliates of member banks; it receives condition reports from State member banks and their affiliates; it limits by regulation the rate of interest which may be paid by member banks on time and savings deposits; it is authorized, in its discretion, to issue voting permits to holding-company affiliates of member banks entitling them to vote the stock of such banks at any or all meetings of shareholders of the member banks; it may issue general regulations permitting interlocking relationships in certain circumstances between member banks and organizations dealing in securities or, under the Clayton Antitrust Act, between member banks and other banks; it has the power to remove officers and directors of a member bank for continued violations of law or unsafe or unsound practices in conducting the business of such banks; it may, in its discretion, suspend member banks from the use of the credit facilities of the Federal Reserve System, for making undue use of bank credit for speculative purposes or for any other purpose inconsistent with the maintenance of sound credit conditions; it passes on applications of State member banks to establish out-of-town branches; it passes on applications of national banks for authority to exercise trust powers or to act in fiduciary capacities; it may grant authority to national banks to establish branches in foreign countries or dependencies or insular possessions of the United States, or to invest in the stock of banks or corporations engaged in international or foreign banking; and it supervises the organization and activities of corporations organized under Federal law to engage in international or foreign banking. Another function of the Board is the operation of a settlement fund, by which balances due to and from the various Federal Reserve Banks arising out of their own transactions or transactions of their member banks or of the United States Government are settled in Washington through telegraphic transfer of funds without physical shipments of currency.

In exercising its supervisory functions over the Federal Reserve Banks and member banks, the Board of Governors promulgates regulations, pursuant to authority granted by the law, governing certain of the above-mentioned activities of Federal Reserve Banks and member banks. To meet its expenses and to pay the salaries of its members and its employees, the Board makes semiannual assessments upon the Federal Reserve Banks in proportion to their capital stock and surplus. The Board keeps a complete record of all action taken by it and by the Federal Open Market Committee on any question of policy, and in the annual report which it makes to the Speaker of the House of Representatives for the information of Congress as required by law, it includes a full account of all such action and also a copy of the records required to be kept in that connection.

The Board and the Federal Reserve Banks and their branches render services relating to financial information, etc., to the War and Navy Departments and cooperate with such departments and the United States Maritime Commission in connection with guarantees of loans made under the Contract Settlement Act of 1944.

The Federal Reserve Banks are located in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas, and San Francisco. There are also in operation 24 branches of the Federal Reserve Banks, all of which are located in other cities of the United States.

The capital stock of the Federal Reserve Banks is entirely owned by the member banks and may not be transferred or hypothecated. Every national bank in existence in the United States at the time of the establishment of the Federal Reserve System was required to subscribe to the capital stock of the Federal Reserve Bank of its district in an amount equal to 6 percent of the subscribing bank's paid-up capital and surplus. A like amount of Federal Reserve Bank stock must be subscribed for by every national bank in the United States organized since that time and by every State bank or trust company (except mutual savings banks) upon becoming a member of the Federal Reserve System; and, when a member bank increases or decreases its capital or surplus, it is required to alter its holdings of Federal Reserve Bank stock in the same proportion. A mutual savings bank which is admitted to membership in the Federal Reserve System must subscribe for Federal Reserve Bank stock in an amount equal to six-tenths of 1 per centum of its total deposit liabilities; and thereafter such subscription must be adjusted semiannually on the same percentage basis. One-half of the subscription of each member bank must be fully paid and the remainder is subject to call by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System; but call for payment of the remainder has not been made.

After all necessary expenses of a Federal Reserve Bank have been paid or provided for, its stockholding member banks are entitled to receive an annual dividend of 6 percent on the paid-in capital stock, which dividend is cumulative. After these dividend claims have been fully met, the net earnings are paid into the surplus fund of the Federal Reserve Bank. In case of liquidation or dissolution of a Federal Reserve Bank, any surplus remaining after payment of all debts, dividends, and the par value of its capital stock becomes the property of the United States Government. Federal Reserve Banks are exempt from Federal, State, and local taxation, except taxes upon real estate.

The board of directors of each Federal Reserve Bank is composed of nine members, equally divided into three classes, designated class A, class B, and class C. Directors of class A are representative of the stockholding member banks. Directors of class B must be actively engaged in their district in commerce, agriculture, or some other industrial pursuit, and may not be officers, directors, or employees of any bank. Class C directors may not be officers, directors, employees, or stockholders of any bank. The six class A and B directors are elected by the stockholding member banks, while the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System appoints the three class C directors. The term of office of each director is 3 years, so arranged that the term of one director of each class expires each year.

One of the class C directors appointed by the Board of Governors is designated as chairman of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank and as Federal Reserve agent, and in the latter capacity he is required to maintain a local office of the Board of Governors on the premises of the Federal Reserve Bank. Another class C director is appointed by the Board of Governors as deputy chairman.

Each Federal Reserve Bank has as its chief executive officer a president appointed for a term of 5 years by its board of directors with the approval of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. There is also a first vice president appointed in the same manner and for the same term.

Federal Reserve Banks are authorized, among other things, to receive and hold on deposit the reserve balances of member banks; to issue Federal Reserve notes; to discount for their member banks notes, drafts, bills of exchange, and bankers' acceptances of short maturities arising out of commercial, industrial, or agricultural transactions, and short-term paper secured by obligations of the United States; to make advances to their member banks upon their promissory notes for periods not exceeding 90 days upon the security of paper eligible for discount or purchase or upon direct obligations of the United States, and for periods not exceeding 15 days upon certain other securities; to make advances upon security satisfactory to the Federal Reserve Banks to member banks for periods not exceeding 4 months at a rate of interest at least one-half of 1 percent higher than that applicable to discounts and advances of the kinds mentioned above; in certain exceptional circumstances and under certain prescribed conditions, to make advances to groups of member banks; under certain prescribed conditions, to grant credit accommodations to furnish working capital for established industrial or commercial businesses for periods not exceeding 5 years, either through the medium of financing institutions or, in exceptional circumstances, directly to such businesses, and to make commitments with respect to the granting of such accommodations; in unusual and exigent circumstances, when authority has been granted by at least five members of the Board of Governors, to discount for individuals, partnerships, or corporations, under certain prescribed conditions, notes, drafts, and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities made eligible for discount for member banks; to make advances to individuals, partnerships, or corporations upon their promissory notes secured by direct obligations of the United States for periods not exceeding 90 days; at the direction of the Federal Open Market Committee, to purchase and sell in the open market bankers' acceptances and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities eligible for discount, obligations of the United States, and certain other securities; to act as clearing houses and as collecting agents for their member banks, and under certain conditions for nonmember banks, in the collection of checks and other instruments; to act as depositaries and fiscal agents of the United States; and to exercise other banking functions specified in the Federal Reserve Act.

Federal Reserve notes are a first and paramount lien on all the assets of the Federal Reserve Banks through which they are issued and are also obligations of the United States. They are issued against the security of gold certificates and of commercial and agricultural paper discounted or purchased by Federal Reserve Banks, and may also be secured by direct obligations of the United States. Every Federal Reserve Bank is required to maintain reserves in gold certificates of not less than 25 percent against its Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation and against its deposits.

The Federal Advisory Council acts in an advisory capacity, conferring with the Board of Governors on general business conditions and making recommendations concerning matters within the Board's jurisdiction and the general affairs of the Federal Reserve System. The Council is composed of 12 members, 1 from each Federal Reserve district being selected annually by the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of the district. The Council is required to meet in Washington at least four times each year, and oftener if called by the Board of Governors.

FEDERAL SECURITY AGENCY

As presently constituted the Federal Security Agency consists of the following units: Food and Drug Administration, Office of Education, Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, Public Health Service (including Freedmen's Hospital), Social Security Board, and St. Elizabeths Hospital. The Agency discharges certain duties prescribed by law in connection with the American Printing House for the Blind, Columbia Institution for the Deaf, and Howard University.

The Federal Security Agency was created by Executive order of the President, dated April 25, 1939, putting into effect the President's First Plan on Government Reorganization in accordance with the provisions of the Reorganization Act of 1939. The agencies grouped in the Federal Security Agency under the First Plan were the Social Security Board, the United States Employment Service, the Office of Education, the Public Health Service, the National Youth Administration, and the Civilian Conservation Corps. The National Youth Administration and the United States Employment Service were transferred to the War Manpower Commission by Executive Order No. 9247, dated September 17, 1942. The Civilian Conservation Corps and the National Youth Administration are both now substantially liquidated. The Second Plan on Government Reorganization transferred to the Federal Security Agency Government participation in the work of the American Printing House for the Blind. The Fourth Plan on Government Reorganization transferred to the Federal Security Agency the Food and Drug Administration from the Department of Agriculture, and St. Elizabeths Hospital, Freedmen's Hospital, Howard University, and Columbia Institution for the Deaf from the Department of the Interior.

Executive Order No. 9338, dated April 29, 1943, transferred to the Federal Security Agency from the Office for Emergency Management the functions of the Office of Defense Health and Welfare Services. Under this order and a Federal Security Agency order implementing it, the Office of Community War Services and a Committee on Physical Fitness were established as integral parts of the Office of the Administrator, Federal Security Agency. The Committee on Physical Fitness was terminated June 30, 1945.

Under a Federal Security Agency order dated September 4, 1943, there was established in the Agency an Office of Vocational Rehabilitation to carry out the provisions of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act amendments of 1943.

The Federal Security Agency was established to carry out the purposes of the Reorganization Act of 1939 which were: (1) To reduce expenditures; (2) to increase efficiency; (3) to consolidate agencies according to major purposes; (4) to reduce the number of agencies by consolidating those having similar functions and by abolishing such as may not be necessary; (5) to eliminate overlapping and duplication of effort. Grouped in the Federal Security Agency are those agencies of the Government, the major purposes of which are to promote social and economic security, educational opportunity, and the health of the citizens of the Nation.

The general responsibility of the Office of Community War Services is to serve as a center for the coordination of health and welfare services for the Nation as a whole during the war emergency. In addition to this general function, it provides service and guidance to war-affected communities in two fields—recreation and social protection—for which there was no existing Federal agency. Through the Recreation Program, it aids communities to develop war-recreation activities for the military services and war-industry workers and their families. Through the Social Protection Program it furnishes advice and assistance to localities in maintaining law-enforcement measures for the repression of prostitution and conditions which might constitute venereal-disease hazards.

The affairs of the Federal Security Agency are under the direction and supervision of the Federal Security Administrator. He is assisted by the assistant administrator, who acts as Administrator in his absence, and by a staff of administrative, special, and technical assistants who assist in the activities and correlation of the different units of the Agency, the functions of which are given below.

SOCIAL SECURITY BOARD

The Social Security Board was established to administer provisions of the Social Security Act relating to old-age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind, unemployment compensation, and old-age (now old-age and survivors) insurance, and to study and make recommendations as to the most effective methods of providing economic security through social insurance, and as to related legislation and administrative policy. The Board receives its authority under the provisions of title VII of the Social Security Act (49 Stat. 620), approved August 14, 1935. Various modifications of the act were provided in the Social Security Amendments of 1939 (Public, No. 379, 76th Cong.) approved August 10, 1939. Also, a new title—Title XII, Reinsurance of State Unemployment Funds—was added to the Social Security Act by the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944. Under title V of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, the Board participates with the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs in certifying to the Secretary of the Treasury for payment amounts for administrative expenses incurred or to be incurred by participating States. Under the Reorganization Act of 1939 (Public, No. 19, 76th Cong.) and Reorganization Plan No. 1, the Social Security Board was made a part of the Federal Security Agency, and the functions of the United States Employment Service set up by the Wagner-Peyser Act (Public, No. 30, 73d Cong.) were consolidated with the unemployment compensation functions of the Board. On January 1, 1942, as a result of a request of the President to the States, the system of public employment offices throughout the country came under national operation. Subsequently, under Executive Order No. 9247 of September 17, 1942, the functions of the United States Employment Service were transferred to the War Manpower Commission and later (under Executive Order No. 9617, September 19, 1945) to the Department of Labor.

The Board is composed of three members—not more than two of whom may be of one political party—appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The President designates the chairman of the Board. Judicial and policy-making functions under the Social Security Act are exercised by the Board, under the direction and supervision of the Federal Security Administrator, while administrative functions are vested in an Executive Director who is directly responsible to the Board. Bureaus and offices and a field service comprising regional, territorial, and field offices have been established by the Board to carry out its functions under the Social Security Act. Operating bureaus are the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, the Bureau of Public Assistance, and the Bureau of Employment Security. Service bureaus and offices are the Bureau of Accounts and Audits, the Bureau of Research and Statistics, the Informational Service, the Office of the Actuary, and the organizational units of the Office of the Executive Director. The Office of Appeals Council provides means for review of old-age and survivors insurance claims.

OFFICE OF THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Within the Office of the Executive Director are centered the administrative and executive duties of the Board. The Executive Director has general supervision and direction of the work of the several bureaus and offices together with the immediate supervision and direction of the regional and territorial offices. The Executive Director is also charged with the following duties pertaining to Board programs: Coordinating Federal-State relations, and providing an advisory service with respect to the establishment and maintenance of State merit systems of personnel administration.

The Office of the Executive Director is also responsible for servicing the Board and its bureaus and offices with respect to budget, general coordination and procedures, personnel, travel, space, publications, procurement of supplies and equipment, furnishing centralized stenographic and typing assistance, maintaining centralized files and records, and other business operations. It receives and distributes incoming mail, forwards outgoing mail and telegrams, and answers inquiries not requiring the special attention of other bureaus or offices of the Board. It conducts personnel training classes covering the basic substantive phases of the Board's work. The library of the Board is a part of this office.

The Office of the Executive Director is responsible for preparation of the Board's official periodical publications—the Social Security Bulletin and the Annual Report. It also prepares the Social Security Yearbook, in collaboration with an interbureau advisory committee.

BUREAU OF OLD-AGE AND SURVIVORS INSURANCE

Under title II of the Social Security Act, as amended, the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance administers a program which provides monthly benefits for insured workers who have reached the age of 65 and retire. Wives who have reached 65 and any children under 18 years of age of these workers, as well as widows and children under 18 years of age or aged dependent parents of deceased workers, are also entitled to monthly survivor benefits. If there is no person immediately qualified to receive monthly survivor benefits, lump-sum payments are made to specified classes of individuals. The purpose of this program is to provide wage earners and their families with partial replacement for loss of income due to the old age or death of the wage earner. Benefits are based on wages received in employment covered under title II. This program is financed through contributions by wage earners and their employers; it is administered entirely by the Federal Government as contrasted with old-age assistance or other social security programs which are administered by the States. The provisions of the original old-age insurance plan became effective January 1, 1937. Benefits under the amended plan began in January 1940.

The Bureau is responsible for the establishment and maintenance of individual accounts in which are recorded the amounts of reported wages. By the end of September 1945, about 83.1 million social security account numbers had been issued since the inception of the program. Not all these accounts, however, had wages credited to them. It is estimated that as of the end of 1944, 70.6 million living persons had wages credited to their accounts. Account numbers are assigned in the field offices of the Bureau, which also furnish information to workers and employers as to their rights and obligations under the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program.

The Bureau's field representatives assist potential claimants in filing applications for benefits and in developing the necessary evidence for the determination of their claims. They also determine eligibility for benefits and compute the amount of the benefits. Responsibility for reviewing field office determinations and for making certifications to the Treasury Department for payment of benefits, from the old-age and survivors insurance trust fund, is decentralized to five area offices. Up to the end of April 1945, monthly benefits and lump-sum payments aggregating almost 896 million dollars had been certified for payment.

The Bureau conducts such actuarial, economic, and administrative studies as are necessary to the administration of title II; it also tabulates, from its wage and claims records, statistical data needed by the Board in analyzing and supervising the operation of the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act. On the basis of experience and studies in administration of title II, the Bureau makes recommendations as to establishment and improvement of policy and procedure.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

The Bureau of Public Assistance is concerned with the administration of grants to the States for old-age assistance, aid to dependent children, and aid to the needy blind under the provisions of titles I, IV, and X of the Social Security Act.

The Bureau advises the States in the preparation of their public assistance plans and, in cooperation with the appropriate bureaus and offices of the Social Security Board and the Office of the General Counsel of the Federal Security Agency, examines these plans (and modifications thereof) for conformity with the requirements of the Social Security Act and the standards and policies of the Board. It is on the basis of Board approval of these plans that certification of grants-in-aid are made to the States to assist them in financing their programs for aid to the needy aged, to dependent children, and to the needy blind. The Bureau reviews the operation of these plans periodically for continuing conformity with the act, and offers to the States technical consultative services on public assistance administration. It also serves the States as a clearing house for the exchange of public assistance information and experience.

The Bureau has the duty of presenting to the Board quarterly the recommendations for the certification by the Board of the grants-in-aid to the States. It is also responsible for obtaining and presenting the reports which the Social Security Board requires of the States, offering to State and local public welfare agencies consultative service in connection with those reports and with their other research activities. Another duty of the Bureau is that of collating data on assistance under the Social Security Act with data on other assistance programs.

The Social Security Board has given to the Bureau of Public Assistance responsibility for the administration of two war emergency programs: civilian war assistance, administered under Presidential allocation to the Administrator of the Federal Security Agency, and services and assistance to enemy aliens and others affected by restrictive governmental action, financed by Federal funds through a regular appropriation.

By agreement with the Selective Service System, the Bureau assists in the medical survey program, particularly with regard to distributing funds to reimburse State departments of public welfare for these services.

BUREAU OF EMPLOYMENT SECURITY

The Social Security Board's administrative responsibility in connection with the Federal-State unemployment compensation system is discharged by the Bureau of Employment Security.

With respect to unemployment compensation, the Social Security Act is essentially an enabling statute, designed to facilitate the enactment and administration of unemployment compensation laws by the States. State employees administer provisions of those laws. Title III of the Social Security Act provides for Federal cooperation with States establishing systems of unemployment compensation. Grants to meet the cost of proper and efficient administration are authorized to be made to those States which have unemployment compensation laws approved by the Board under section 1603 of the Internal Revenue Code and which meet the conditions prescribed in title III. The Bureau is responsible for recommending approval or disapproval of grants to those States which meet or fail to meet the conditions prescribed in title III, and for promoting economical administration through the development of fiscal standards and procedures. The Bureau of Employment Security also discharges the responsibility of the Social Security Board to Congress to assure that State administrations provide prompt payment of benefits and carry out their responsibilities in a manner consistent with the requirements and conditions laid down by Congress. Under Executive Order No. 9617 (September 19, 1945) the Department of Labor is directed to provide for making available to State unemployment compensation agencies such services, information, and facilities as are not inconsistent with the purposes of that order; to the extent that Federal funds are involved, services, information, and facilities shall be furnished only when and to the extent that the Social Security Board shall approve.

The Internal Revenue Code, in subchapter C of chapter 9, levies a Federal tax on employers of eight or more workers. The Social Security Board is authorized therein to approve State unemployment compensation laws which fulfill certain conditions and include provision for depositing, to the credit of the State, all contributions upon collection, in the unemployment trust fund of the United States. Such approval will permit those employers making contributions to State unemployment compensation funds under approved State laws to obtain credit up to a maximum of 90 percent against the Federal tax. Within the same maximum limitations, employers may receive credit also with respect to reduced rates of contributions under State laws which permit such reductions under conditions which are found by the Social Security Board to comply with the provisions of section 1602 of the Internal Revenue Code. The Bureau is responsible for certifying to the Social Security Board that the respective State unemployment compensation laws meet these provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

The Bureau also assists the States in the preparation of unemployment compensation laws, amendments thereto, and rules and regulations implementing such laws. Technical assistance and guidance are provided to the State agencies on problems of organization and administration including questions of general policy, claims procedure, statistical reports, and other activities related to administration of the State unemployment compensation programs. The Bureau also functions as a central clearing house for the dissemination of technical information of interest to all States.

The Bureau also assists the Board in carrying out its responsibilities under title V of the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944, for participating with the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs in certifying to the Secretary of the Treasury for payment amounts for administrative expenses incurred or to be incurred by States participating in the administration of this title.

BUREAU OF ACCOUNTS AND AUDITS

The Bureau of Accounts and Audits is responsible for the conduct of budget processing, accounting, financial reporting, auditing and fiscal advisory functions relating to the departmental and field activities of the Board. This Bureau conducts audits of State public-assistance agencies and reviews the fiscal aspects of State public-assistance plans and requests for grants. It furnishes constructive accounting services to State public-assistance agencies. In unemployment compensation it conducts audits of administrative expenditures of State employment security agencies. It is responsible for processing the budget of the Social Security Board and for keeping continuous control over expenditures. It maintains the Board's system of accounts covering all funds collected or disbursed. The preaudit and certification for payment of administrative expenses of the Board and the furnishing of advisory services to its bureaus on budget, accounting, and fiscal matters are further duties of this Bureau.

BUREAU OF RESEARCH AND STATISTICS

The Bureau of Research and Statistics conducts research concerning factors causing economic insecurity, the over-all adequacy of existing social-security measures, and problems connected with the development of a comprehensive and coordinated social-security program covering all appropriate groups and risks. In this connection it is charged with the development of new fields of study in social security, such as health and disability insurance and the provision of medical care, arising out of the Board's responsibility under section 702 of the Social Security Act. Research and statistical activities beyond the immediate fields of the operating programs of the Board dealt with by the Bureau include the over-all financial and economic aspects of the social-security program and the characteristics or effects of the interrelations of Board programs and other social insurance and welfare programs. The Bureau is responsible for a continuing review of the research and statistical programs of the several bureaus and offices of the Board concerning their adequacy and their integration into a total research program. Accordingly, the Bureau of Research and Statistics has certain responsibilities in connection with coordination of related statistical and research activities carried on in the Bureaus of the Board and with the review of research and statistical materials.

INFORMATIONAL SERVICE

The Informational Service is responsible for informing workers, employers, and the general public concerning the provisions of the Social Security Act which are administered by the Board, particularly concerning the Federal old-age and survivors insurance program. Information is disseminated through various channels of public information and education so that persons affected may secure the benefits the law provides, may meet their responsibilities under the law and comply with the necessary administrative procedures and regulations. The Informational Service advises and assists State agencies administering public assistance and unemployment compensation in the planning and execution of their informational programs.

OFFICE OF THE ACTUARY

The Board maintains an actuarial consultant and his staff serving as advisers to the Board with respect to technical actuarial analysis on a long-range basis of all data pertaining to population, employment, wages, and other subjects which are necessary for the Board in planning its operations under the Social Security Act, in determining costs, and in considering proposals concerning the social-security program.

OFFICE OF APPEALS COUNCIL

The Office of Appeals Council provides a means for hearing and review of appealed claims for old-age and survivors insurance under title II of the Social Security Act, as amended. This Office consists of the 3 members of the Council, 12 regional referees, and a consulting referee. The Office is independent of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, which makes the original determinations with respect to claims.

OTHER SERVICES

Legal services are provided to the Board by the Office of the General Counsel of the Federal Security Agency. These services include legal advice to the Board, the Executive Director, the directors of the operating bureaus, and the regional directors concerning proposed and enacted unemployment-compensation laws, public-assistance laws and plans, and all legal aspects of the old-age and survivors insurance program. The Office of the General Counsel cooperates with the Department of Justice in litigation involving the Social Security Act and with States in litigation involving State laws enacted to carry out the terms of the act. It also renders legal advice to the Board and to its bureaus and offices with respect to the legal aspects of methods proposed for providing social security.

REGIONAL OFFICES

To provide decentralized service and supervision for the State and Federal agencies operating under the Social Security Act throughout the United States, the Board has 11 regional offices, and territorial offices in Alaska and Hawaii, responsible to the Executive Director. All operations of the Board in each region are supervised by a regional director whose staff includes representatives of the several bureaus and offices of the Board.

The Regional directors of the Social Security Board have been designated as regional directors for the Office of Community War Services. They are assisted in this activity by regional representatives of that Office's Divisions of Recreation and Social Protection.

The regional offices of the Board also supervise the operation of two war programs: Civilian war assistance, and assistance and services to enemy aliens and others affected by restrictive governmental action, which are administered by State public welfare agencies through agreements with the Board.

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

The headquarters of the Public Health Service at Washington comprises the Office of the Surgeon General, the National Institute of Health, and the Bureaus of Medical Services and State Services. The Surgeon General, assisted by the Deputy Surgeon General, exercises general supervision over the administration and operations of the Public Health Service, including the assignment of the responsibility for exercising professional supervision over the Public Health Service officers detailed for duty with other governmental agencies; conducts the relations of the Public Health Service with international organizations having public health functions; and supervises the Office of the Surgeon General.

The Office of the Surgeon General includes the following divisions:

1. The Division of Commissioned Officers is responsible for appointments, promotions, transfers, training, retirement, and other matters relating to commissioned personnel, and also for the recruitment, and assignment of interns to Marine hospitals.

2. The Dental Division supervises all dental activities of the Public Health Service, and advises the Surgeon General regarding plans, programs, and policies for the Service in relation to dental activities.

3. The Sanitary Engineering Division supervises all sanitary engineering and sanitation operations carried on by the Service including sanitation problems related to domestic quarantine; administers the Stream Pollution Laboratory at Cincinnati, Ohio; and advises the Surgeon General regarding plans, programs, and policies for the Service in relation to sanitary engineering and sanitation activities.

4. The Division of Nursing, established in 1946 within the Office of the Surgeon General, has general supervision over all nursing operations carried on by the Public Health Service and professional supervision over all nursing personnel of the Public Health Service, including personnel assigned for duty with other governmental agencies. Responsibilities are in three main groups: Public Health Nursing, Hospital Nursing, and Nurse Education. This Division also administers all activities under provisions of the act of June 15, 1943 (Public Law No. 74, 78th Cong.); known as the Bolton Nurse Training Act.

5. The Division of Public Health Methods is responsible for the study and definition of public health problems; evaluation and perfection of procedures; collection of information regarding the prevalence of diseases dangerous to the public health; analysis of health statistics; scientific and informational publications of the Service; and cooperative health activities.

6. The International Health Relations Office was established in the Office of the Surgeon General early in 1945. Functions of this new section are: Cooperation with the Department of State in the collection and distribution of global epidemiological information, representation at international health conventions, and the promotion of personnel exchange between nations; supervision of the Liberian Health Mission; development of public health attaché work in selected foreign areas; cooperation with the Department of State in planning a medical care program for American citizens assigned to official foreign posts; supervision of all international aspects of the Public Health Service work in cooperation with the Pan-American Sanitary Bureau, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, the Food and Agriculture Organization, the International Labor Organization, and the proposed World Health Organization of the United Nations.

In addition, the Budget and Fiscal Office prepares estimates of appropriations required for the operation of the Service and maintains accounts for the control of appropriated funds.

The executive assistant supervises the Civil Service Personnel Section, the Chief Clerk's Office, and the Purchase and Supply Section.

A National Advisory Health Council advises the Surgeon General on public health matters.

The Chief Medical Officer of the United States Coast Guard is responsible to the Commandant of the Coast Guard and the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service for the medical and dental care of the personnel of the Coast Guard.

The National Institute of Health is the scientific research bureau of the Public Health Service. Through the Institute, the Service also enforces the act of July 1, 1902, to regulate the sale of viruses, serums, toxins, and analogous products, including arsphenamine. The National Cancer Institute, created by act of August 5, 1937, functions as one of the divisions of the National Institute of Health. The Institute also includes the Divisions of Infectious Diseases and of Physiology and the following laboratories: Pathology, biologics control, chemistry, zoology, and industrial hygiene research.

The Bureau of Medical Services is responsible for all foreign and insular quarantine activities; medical services rendered to beneficiaries of the Public Health Service; and administrative supervision of officers assigned to certain governmental agencies and of medical care services conducted in collaboration with other Government agencies, including medical and psychiatric services in Federal penal and correctional institutions under the control of the Department of Justice.

The Bureau comprises three divisions:

1. The Hospital Division is responsible for the administration of 24 Marine hospitals, the National Leprosarium, the Sheepshead Bay Hospital for trainees of the Maritime Service, health and medical activities within the Service which are carried out for the benefit of the United States Coast Guard, and the supervision of Freedmen's Hospital.

2. The Mental Hygiene Division administers the two hospitals for the treatment of drug addicts; conducts studies of the causes, prevalence, prevention, and treatment of mental and nervous disease; and cooperates with State officials in developing and improving facilities for the care of the mentally ill. Executive Order No. 9079, signed by the President on February 26, 1942, authorizes the treatment for the duration of the war and 6 months thereafter of insane persons (except those from the District of Columbia) at the two hospitals established for the treatment of drug addicts.

3. The Foreign Quarantine Division administers the quarantine laws of the United States to prevent the introduction of quarantinable diseases—anthrax, cholera, leprosy, plague, psittacosis, smallpox, typhus, yellow fever—from foreign ports into the United States and its insular possessions. The Division also provides medical consultation to the immigration service at home and abroad.

Also within the Bureau of Medical Services is the Office of Nursing which is responsible for the general administration of all clinical nursing activities, dietetic and physical therapy services in the facilities of the Public Health Service.

The Bureau of State Services is responsible for grants to States for the several types of public health activities, other cooperative work with State and local health departments, interstate quarantine functions and such emergency health and sanitation activities as are not specifically assigned otherwise. The Chief of the Bureau supervises the work of the district offices and the liaison officers assigned to Army Service Commands. The Bureau comprises four divisions:

1. The States Relations Division assists State and local health authorities in establishing and maintaining adequate public health services, including demonstrations in public health techniques and training of personnel as authorized under section 314 (c) of the Public Health Service Act; is responsible for prevention, control, and suppression of communicable diseases and for enforcement of Interstate Quarantine functions under sections 311 and 361; cooperates with State health authorities in preventing the spread of epidemic diseases; conducts an annual conference of the Public Health Service with State and Territorial health officers; and administers emergency health and sanitation activities.

2. The Venereal Disease Division investigates the cause, treatment, and prevention of venereal diseases so as to cooperate with State boards or departments of health for the prevention and control of such diseases within the States; and to control and prevent the spread of these diseases in interstate traffic. Section 314 (a) of the Public Health Service Act authorizes the Service to make grants-in-aid to the States, including the District of Columbia, Alaska, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, and Hawaii, for the purpose of developing venereal disease control programs in health departments throughout the country.

3. The Industrial Hygiene Division recruits and trains professional personnel, provides industrial hygiene services in Government industrial establishments and gives consultation to State industrial hygiene organizations.

4. The Tuberculosis Control Division was established under provisions of the Public Health Service Act of July 1, 1944 (Public Law 410) which charged the Public Health Service with responsibility for developing "more effective measures for the prevention, treatment, and control of tuberculosis." Three sections, created within the Division, are: State Aid Control, Field Studies, and Radiology. Grants-in-aid to the States for control of tuberculosis are made under the authority of section 314 (b) of the Public Health Service Act.

Also within the Bureau is the Office of Public Health Nursing which coordinates all public health nursing activities of the various divisions of the Bureau.

UNITED STATES OFFICE OF EDUCATION

The United States Commissioner of Education, under the direction of the Federal Security Administrator, has charge of the United States Office of Education, which was established by an act of Congress in 1867 "for the purpose of collecting such statistics and facts as shall show the condition and progress of education in the several States and Territories, and of diffusing such information respecting the organization and management of schools and school systems, and methods of teaching, as shall aid the people of the United States in the establishment and maintenance of efficient school systems, and otherwise promote the cause of education throughout the country." Additional duties have been placed upon the United States Office of Education in accordance with provisions in later acts of Congress and with executive regulations made under the same. Responsibilities are undertaken for all phases and all levels of education, from the beginning grades through the university, and relate to such major functions as are described below:

1. Administration of laws of Congress relating to college.—This responsibility includes: (a) The supervision of expenditures of funds appropriated by Congress for land-grant colleges by the act of 1862 (first Morrill Act) donating lands for colleges of agriculture and the mechanic arts, the act of 1890 (second Morrill Act) for the further endowment of land-grant colleges, the Nelson amendment of 1907, still further endowing the land-grant colleges, and the Bankhead-Jones Act of 1935, title II (sec. 22), providing for the more complete endowment and support of land-grant colleges. The Federal Security Administrator is required annually to ascertain and to certify to the Secretary of the Treasury as to each State and Territory whether it is entitled to receive its share of the annual appropriations. To do this it is necessary to collect and compile for each institution information on expenditures and the purposes for which they were made. (b) The inspection of Howard University and the issuance of a report on the same. Acts of Congress require that the university be inspected by the United States Office of Education at least once each year and that an annual report making a full exhibit of the affairs of the university shall be presented to Congress each year in the report of the Office of Education.

2. Administration of Federal vocational education laws.—The Federal program of vocational education now administered by the United States Office of Education was formerly administered by the Federal Board for Vocational Education, created under the provisions of the Smith-Hughes Act approved February 23, 1917. This act makes continuing appropriations to be expended in the States under State plans for the promotion of vocational education. For the fiscal year 1917-18 the amount appropriated was $1,660,000 and the appropriation increased each year until in 1925-26 it reached $7,167,000, which sum under a provision of the act has been provided annually since July 1, 1925. An act approved February 5, 1929 (George-Reed Act), authorized an additional appropriation of $250,000 for agriculture and $250,000 for home economics for the fiscal year 1930, and for each year thereafter, for 4 years a sum exceeding by $250,000 the appropriation of the preceding year for the promotion of vocational education in each of these two fields. This act expired on June 30, 1934, but an act approved May 21, 1934 (George-Ellzey Act), authorized an appropriation of $3,084,603 for each of the fiscal years 1935, 1936, and 1937 for the further development of vocational education, to be used for instruction in agricultural subjects, home economics subjects, and trade and industrial education subjects. The George-Ellzey Act expired June 30, 1937, but an act approved June 8, 1936 (George-Deen Act), authorized an annual appropriation of $14,483,000 for the further development of vocational education in the States and Territories; $12,175,000 of which is to be used for vocational education in agriculture, trade and industry, and home economics; $1,254,000 for vocational education and the training of teachers in the distributive occupations; and $1,054,000 for the training of teachers, supervisors, and directors of agricultural, trade and industrial, and home-economics subjects. The money appropriated under these acts has been allotted to the States on the basis of rural, farm, nonfarm, urban, or total population, as designated in the acts. The first three acts—Smith-Hughes, George-Reed, and George-Ellzey—stipulated that the State or local community, or both, should match the expenditure of Federal money dollar for dollar. The George-Deen Act stipulates that States and Territories shall match only 50 percent of the expenditure of Federal money for the first 5 years in which the act is operative, or until June 30, 1942, this percentage being increased by 10 percent annually thereafter, until it reaches 100 percent beginning July 1, 1946.

The duties imposed upon the Federal Board for Vocational Education by the Smith-Hughes Act were of a twofold character: On the one hand, as the representative of the Government it cooperated with State boards for vocational education in promoting vocational education; and, on the other, as a research agency it was required to make, or cause to have made, studies, investigations, and reports to aid the States in developing their programs. It examined the plans submitted by the State boards for vocational education and approved those plans found to be in conformity with the provisions and purposes of the act. It ascertained annually whether the several States were using or were prepared to use the money received by them in accordance with the provisions of the statute, and each year it certified to the Secretary of the Treasury the States which complied with the provisions of the act, together with the amount which each State was entitled to receive. It made studies, investigations, and reports dealing with occupational processes and educational requirements for workers and apprentices, and with problems of administration of vocational schools and of courses of instruction in vocational subjects, in the several fields of agricultural, trade and industrial, home economics, and commercial employment.

Under Executive order issued June 10, 1933, the functions of the Federal Board for Vocational Education were transferred to the Department of the Interior, and on October 10, 1933, the Secretary of the Interior assigned the Board's functions to the United States Commissioner of Education. These functions are now carried on by the vocational division of the United States Office of Education. On July 1, 1939, the United States Office of Education was transferred from the Department of the Interior to the Federal Security Agency. The Board now acts in an advisory capacity without compensation.

Services for the blind.—The United States Office of Education administers a Federal act of June 20, 1936 (Randolph-Sheppard Act), which authorizes the operation of stands in Federal buildings by blind persons. The act also provides for enlarging the economic opportunities of the blind, the making of surveys of industries with a view to obtaining information that will assist blind persons to obtain employment, and the making available to the public, and especially to persons and organizations engaged in work for the blind, information obtained as a result of such surveys.

3. Educational research and investigation.—(a) Studies of current problems in all phases and at all levels of education regularly carried on by specialists in various fields of education. (b) Biennial surveys of education, including both statistical and descriptive forms of information on the status of education in all fields. (c) Surveys in definite phases of education authorized by special appropriations of Congress. (d) Library research work as a regular function of the Office, by special authorization of Congress.

4. Consultative and advisory services.—(a) Surveys of State and local school systems and of educational institutions. (b) Cooperative studies with representatives of educational systems and organizations. (c) Services on educational committees and through conference groups. (d) Participation in programs of educational organizations. (e) Advisory services to school officials. (f) Advisory and informational services to other Government agencies.

5. Library.—The library of more than a quarter million volumes, together with charts, maps, and other forms of materials on educational data, provides facilities for study to a large number who come to its reference rooms and to larger numbers who have books made available to them through a system of interlibrary loans.

6. Publications and their distribution.—The Office, by means of its appropriation for printing, publishes bulletins, pamphlets, and other forms of materials for distribution through a limited free stock and a sales stock. Carefully selected mailing lists are prepared for the free copies. The Office also publishes two periodicals: School Life, issued monthly, except August and September and Higher Education, issued semimonthly, for 9 months (September through May).

7. Activities carried on by allotments from special funds appropriated by Congress.—The Office of Education under authority delegated to it by War Assets Administration, under Public Law 457, Seventy-eighth Congress, the Surplus Property Act of 1944, determines the eligibility of educational institutions for benefits provided in that act in the acquisition of surplus property; establishes criteria and obtains estimates of needs of educational institutions; assists educational claimants through State educational agencies for surplus property, which have been established by the Governors or by the legislature in each State, in every possible way to acquire surplus property "appropriate" for school, classroom, or other educational use, through an orderly and equitable distribution of available surplus property on the basis of need and effective utilization; promotes inter-American educational relations through programs made possible by funds received from the Interdepartmental Committee on Cooperation with the American Republics and the State Department.

8. Collection Student War Loans.—The Office is responsible for supervising the repayment of approximately $3,000,000, in Federal loans which were made to certain professional and technical students during the fiscal years 1943 and 1944, to assist them in completing their accelerated courses in shortage fields. The loans were authorized under authority of Public Law 647, Seventy-eighth Congress, Second Session.

OFFICE OF VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION

The Office of Vocational Rehabilitation was established in the Federal Security Agency by the Federal Security Administrator on September 4, 1943, under the direction and control of a Director of Vocational Rehabilitation. The Director has been delegated authority, under the supervision of the Federal Security Administrator, to exercise, with certain exceptions, the authority, duties, functions, and powers granted to the Federal Security Administrator in the Vocational Rehabilitation Act amendments of 1943 (Public Law 113), approved July 6, 1943.

The 1943 act amends the act of June 2, 1920, which provided for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry or otherwise and their return to civil employment.

The Federal Board for Vocational Education was designated by the 1920 act as the agency to administer the Federal program in cooperation with the States. Under Executive order of June 10, 1933, the functions of the Federal Board for Vocational Education were transferred to the Department of the Interior. These functions were assigned to the Commissioner of Education on October 10, 1933, and established as the vocational division of the Office of Education.

The act of July 6, 1943, defines "vocational rehabilitation" and "vocational rehabilitation services" as any services necessary to render a disabled individual fit to engage in a remunerative occupation. The 1943 act made basic changes in the act of 1920 with reference to the scope of services to be rendered, the groups of disabled individuals to be served, and the method to be followed in financing the program.

The 1943 act provides for an expanded Federal-State program of rehabilitation by including physical restoration services for disabled individuals, necessary hospitalization to effect these services; transportation; occupational licenses and necessary occupational tools and equipment; prosthetic devices essential to obtaining or retaining employment; and maintenance not exceeding the estimated cost of subsistence during training. These provisions may be contrasted with those of the 1920 act, which practically limited the use of Federal funds to the training phase of the program and to the furnishing of prosthetic devices.

In addition to the groups of disabled individuals served under the provisions of the original act, provision is made in the 1943 act for the rehabilitation of the blind and persons with mental disabilities, and for the rehabilitation of war-disabled civilians defined as individuals disabled in civilian defense activities or while serving with the Merchant Marine.

The act of July 6, 1943, provides that appropriations for grants-in-aid to the States will be allotted on the basis of the needs of the States and their ability to match Federal funds. The original Rehabilitation Act limited the authorization for Federal appropriations and provided that allotments to the States be made on the basis of general population.

While the 1920 act provided that all expenditures made by a State from Federal allotments must be matched by a like amount of State funds, the 1943 act provides that the entire cost of the administration of the State programs and the cost of guidance and placement of handicapped persons will be paid wholly from Federal funds. The 1943 act likewise provides that 100 percent of the cost of rehabilitating war-disabled civilians will be borne by the Federal Government. One-half of the cost of services (other than guidance and placement) rendered to other disabled individuals will be paid from Federal funds.

Moneys made available for the purpose pursuant to the act of July 6, 1943, will be used for making payments to the States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, which have submitted and had approved by the Federal Security Administrator State plans for vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons.

FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION

The Food and Drug Administration enforces the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, Tea Importation Act, Import Milk Act, Caustic Poison Act, and Filled Milk Act.

This administration inspects and analyzes samples of the various products coming under its jurisdiction, both at its field stations and in its laboratories at Washington, to the end that it may detect and cause to be removed from the channels of trade all those products which fail to comply with the terms of the regulatory acts which it administers. It assists manufacturers to keep their products in compliance with these acts and institutes legal action against those who violate the law. Its primary function is to protect the consuming public against misbranded or adulterated foods, drugs, and cosmetics, and honest manufacturers against unfair competition with such goods.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

The Federal Trade Commission was created by an act of Congress approved September 26, 1914, in which the powers and duties of the Commission were defined. The Commission is an administrative tribunal with its five members appointed by the President of the United States, with the approval of the Senate, for a term of 7 years each. No more than three of its members may be of the same political party.

Further powers were conferred upon this Commission by Public, No. 447, Seventy-fifth Congress, third session, "An act to amend the act creating the Federal Trade Commission, to define its powers and duties, and for other purposes," approved March 21, 1938 (Wheeler-Lea Act); by "An act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes," approved October 15, 1914 (Clayton Act), and by Public, No. 692, Seventy-fourth Congress, approved June 19, 1936, amending section 2 of said act of October 15, 1914 (Robinson-Patman Act); by "An act to promote export trade, and for other purposes," approved April 10, 1918 (Webb-Pomerene Export Trade Act); and by Public, No. 850, Seventy-sixth Congress, third session, approved October 14, 1940 (Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939).

POSTWAR CONDITIONS AND RECONVERSION

Trade-practice rule work and wool-products labeling.—Many industries operating under trade-practice rules issued by the Commission were engaged in war production as well as production or distribution for essential civilian needs. Established rules of fair-trade practices governing such industries have an important effect in maintaining a fair competitive balance in the respective industries and trades and in affording an over-all stabilizing influence which has been most helpful in advancement of the war effort and in protecting the public interest in the present continuing prevailing economy of scarcity and stress. The substantial results achieved in this respect are brought about at small cost. The waste and burdens which unfair or harmful trade practices impose upon competitive enterprise and upon the buying public are eliminated, and industry and trade are thereby freed for maximum effort in meeting the needs of the country.

The rules of fair-trade practices promulgated by the Commission, covering over 150 industries, and administered and applied by the Commission in line with maintaining effective support of the maximum war effort, besides affording material contribution to the war program, have placed the respective industries in an advantageous position to meet the impact of present postwar conditions. Such fair-trade practice provisions are designed to foster and promote free enterprise on a fair competitive basis without monopolistic or discriminatory trade restraints which stifle small businesses and suppress competition to the detriment of the public.

Content identification of wool products under the Wool Products Labeling Act is another function of the Commission closely related to trade-practice rule work. Consumer protection is a factor of large concern in such labeling and rule work, especially in the present postwar period. Relaxation of wartime controls and increased activity in competitive marketing enlarges the need for consumer protection to effectuate statutory purposes. The Commission, in the public interest, acts to bring the consumer this protection, also to bring protection to honest business, through its enforcement of the law against unfair and deceptive acts or practices in commerce and enforcement of the provisions of the Wool Products Labeling Act which require that woolen or part-woolen clothing and other wool products shall be truthfully and informatively labeled as to content.

Resumption of war-deferred proceedings.—Shortly after the close of the fiscal year, the Commission, following the termination of such requests under arrangements entered into by it with the War and Navy Departments early in the war, announced that it would proceed as expeditiously as possible with a substantial number of cases, which had thus been suspended at the requests of the two Departments because of probable interference with the war effort, and which involved a wide range of products, including precision instruments, machinery, chemicals, construction materials, and automobile tire chains.

Conservation and protection of the public health and our public economy.—The function of the Commission in preventing unfair competition and deceptive commercial practices, under the duties imposed upon it as more fully set forth below, is an essential activity at a time when protection of the public interest is imperative as never before. One of the Commission's responsibilities in this field is enforcement of the law relating to dissemination of false advertisements of drugs, cosmetics, and food. Such enforcement plays an important part in the conservation of the health of our population, while no less important at this time when problems incident to the preservation and strengthening of free enterprise and our competitive system press for solution, are the questions of price fixing, restraints of trade, coercive practices, false advertising, and numerous other trade methods which not only affect the price or quality of practically every commodity bought by members of our population generally, but are directly involved in the accomplishment of the objectives above set forth.

FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURE OF THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION UNDER STATUTES WHICH IT ADMINISTERS

The Commission's legal functions include prevention of unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce, and of certain violations of the Clayton and other acts. Economic functions include general investigations and economic studies of domestic industry and interstate and foreign commerce.

THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ACT

Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act provides that "unfair methods of competition in commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce, are hereby declared unlawful" and empowers and directs the Commission to prevent "persons, partnerships, or corporations, except banks, common carriers subject to the acts to regulate commerce, air carriers and foreign air carriers subject to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, and persons, partnerships, or corporations subject to the Packers' and Stockyard Act, 1921, except as provided in section 406 (b) of said act, from using unfair methods of competition in commerce and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce."

The Commission is empowered and directed whenever it shall have reason to believe that any such person, partnership, or corporation has been or is using any unfair method of competition in commerce or any unfair or deceptive act or practice in commerce, and if it shall appear to the Commission that a proceeding by it in respect thereof would be to the interest of the public, to issue and serve upon such person, partnership, or corporation a complaint stating its charges in that respect. Provision is made for hearings, the taking of testimony and oral argument before the Commission upon request therefor. If the Commission shall then be of the opinion that the method of competition or the act or practice in question is prohibited by this act, it shall issue and cause to be served upon the person or organization against whom complaint is made its findings of fact and an order to cease and desist from such unfair method of competition or such unfair or deceptive act or practice.

Provision is made for petition to a circuit court of appeals of the United States, within any circuit where the method of competition or the act or practice in question was used or where such person, partnership, or corporation resides or carries on business, within 60 days from the date of the service of such order to modify or set aside such order of the Commission. Upon such petition the court has power to affirm, modify, or set aside such order, and to enforce the same to the extent that such order is affirmed. An order of the Commission to cease and desist becomes final upon the expiration of the time allowed for filing a petition for review, if no such petition has been duly filed within such time; and, in case petition for review has been duly filed within the time allowed, the order of the Commission becomes final when the time for filing petition for certiorari has expired after such order has been affirmed or modified by a circuit court of appeals and no such petition has been filed, or, if certiorari has been granted, at such time as the decision has been affirmed by the Supreme Court.

Section 5, as amended, also provides that "any person, partnership, or corporation who violates an order of the Commission to cease and desist after it has become final, and while such order is in effect, shall forfeit and pay to the United States a civil penalty of not more than $5,000 for each violation, which shall accrue to the United States and may be recovered by a civil action brought by the United States."

Generally, a letter to the Commission stating the employment of unfair practices by some concern is sufficient to institute the Commission's consideration of a proceeding. If the letter clearly discloses that nothing is charged within the jurisdiction of the Commission, it is filed without further action. If it appears, however, that there may have been such a violation of law, the matter is settled, after further investigation, by stipulation and agreement with the concern named in the letter, or by the issuance of a formal complaint followed by a formal trial of the charges, or by closing the file without action, or by dismissal of the charges, as required by the facts of the particular case and by the public interest.

In cases where stipulations are authorized voluntary agreements are entered into between the Commission and the individual or concern named. Such stipulations recite the particular offense or violation charged and include an agreement to cease and desist from the practice in question. Stipulations are extended by the Commission as a matter of privilege and not of right, in instances where formal action appears unnecessary in the public interest. All such stipulations are a part of the public records of the Commission and digests thereof are published. It is the policy of the Commission not to thus dispose of matters involving intent to defraud or mislead; false advertisement of food, drugs, devices, or cosmetics which may be injurious to health; suppression or restraint of competition through conspiracy or monopolistic practices; violations of the Clayton Act; violations of the Wool Products Labeling Act or the rules promulgated thereunder; or where the Commission is of the opinion that such procedure will not be effective in preventing continued use of the unlawful method, act, or practice.

A formal proceeding, instituted by a formal complaint and followed by the taking of testimony, filing of briefs, and oral argument, is terminated by the entry of a formal order to cease and desist or by order dismissing or closing the case. Such a proceeding is prosecuted in the name of the Commission by the trial and appellate division, and testimony and evidence in such proceeding are proffered before a member of the trial examiner's division, who is charged with the duty of passing upon the testimony and evidence and with other details incident to the trial of the case.

Procedure and internal organization of the Commission, specific methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices condemned by the Commission, are set forth in detail in its annual report.

Section 6 of the act empowers the Commission to gather and compile information concerning, and to investigate from time to time, the organization, business, conduct, practices, and management of corporations engaged in commerce, except banks and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce, and vests the Commission with authority to require reports and answers to specific questions in the compilation of such information in the public interest.

The Commission also has power under section 6 to investigate alleged violations of the antitrust acts by any corporation, upon the direction of the President or Congress, and, at the request of the Attorney General, to make such investigations and recommendations for changes in the corporation's methods so as to conform to the law.

The Commission is also empowered under section 6 to investigate the manner in which final decrees that have been entered in suits to restrain violations of said decrees have been carried out, either upon its own initiative or at the request of the Attorney General, to whom it must report, in the matter; to make such reports public; to investigate from time to time trade conditions in and with foreign countries where associations, combinations, or practices of manufacturers, merchants, or traders, or other conditions may affect the foreign trade of the United States; and to make public from time to time such portions of the information obtained by it as it shall deem expedient in the public interest, except trade secrets and names of customers.

Under section 6 the Commission derives its authority for conducting general economic investigations into the business practices of industry throughout the country. Under such authority the Commission has conducted many economic inquiries, chiefly at the request of the President, the Senate, or the House, to whom reports have been made, and has gathered and published for the use of the Congress, the executive departments and agencies, and the public, a great deal of information regarding many of the essential industries of the country.

Important laws to which some of the Commission's general investigations above referred to have led, directly or indirectly, include, among others, the Export Trade Act, the Packers and Stockyards Act, the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1938, the Public Utilities Holding Company Act of 1935, the Natural Gas Act of 1938, the present Federal Power Commission Act and the Robinson-Patman Antidiscrimination Act of 1936, which amended section 2 of the Clayton Act.

Inquiries recently completed under section 6 include:

Export trade associations and international cartels.—An investigation to disclose the facts with respect to the economic effects of the activities of export trade associations with special reference to their participation in international cartels and the effects of such participation on domestic industry is in progress, and staff reports have been completed on a number of important industries and have been made available to other Government agencies studying the cartel problem.

On April 30, 1946, the Commission transmitted to the Congress a report on international phosphate cartels which describes the organization of two Webb-Pomerene Export Trade Associations and their participation in international phosphate cartels which determined prices at which phosphate rock was sold beginning in 1933 in the two principal world markets, namely, Europe and Japan. Prices received by American members of the cartel for the 6 years of cartel membership averaged $1.83 per long ton more than the f. o. b. mine domestic prices.

Corporation reports.—Under section 6 of its organic act, the Federal Trade Commission is empowered to collect periodically annual or special reports from corporations engaged in interstate commerce (except banks and common carriers). In accordance with the express provisions of section 6, the Commission on May 27, 1940, requested about 900 individual corporations to file financial reports covering their 1939 operations. Subsequently, the number of corporations requested to submit reports was enlarged and approximately 4,500 corporations were requested to submit reports covering their 1940 operations.

Similar information for a number of industries was collected for the Office of Price Administration covering the year 1941, but was not published by the Commission. The Commission's published reports, therefore, cover only the years 1939 and 1940.

The separate industry reports and the summary for the year 1939 cover the combined operations of 780 corporations, representing 76 industry groups, while those for 1940 cover 2,748 corporations in 86 industries. These reports present significant facts regarding business conditions and financial results for the more important corporations in each industry group without disclosing the business statistics of any individual corporation.

The combined operations of the 780 corporations summarized for 1939 represented an average total investment aggregating $28,187,401 after deducting reported appreciation of assets; total sales amounting to $24,932,624,668, and combined net profit of $2,127,475,966 after deducting interest and all taxes. The aggregate sales represented approximately 63.7 percent of the total value of production for the 76 industries as reported by the Bureau of the Census for the year 1939.

The combined operations of the 2,748 corporations summarized for 1940 represented an average total investment of $28,561,702,000 after deducting appreciation. Their aggregate sales amounted to $30,736,188,000 and represented approximately 87 percent of the estimated total volume of production of the 86 industry groups covered.

Extensive use has been and still is being made of the series of Corporation Reports, and of special tabulations and summaries which the Commission has prepared therefrom for both National War Agencies and other Government Departments. These reports have been, and still are being widely used by engineering firms, research agencies, and business executives in planning for post-war operations. Literally thousands of requests have been received for data developed by the project, and they continue to be received daily.

Mergers, acquisitions, and consolidations.—The Commission has in process an investigation of "mergers, acquisitions and consolidations". This study covers the period extending from the end of 1914, the year in which was enacted the Clayton Act, which prohibited the acquisition by one company of the stock control of another company wherein such acquisition would result in a substantial lessening of competition in interstate commerce, to early 1946. An important objective is to ascertain the extent to which concentration has developed in each important industry and the extent to which concentration has come about through consolition of previously independent enterprises together with the processes by which such consolidations have been effected, particularly through direct purchase of the assets and businesses of formerly independent enterprises or through lease of their plants, as distinguished from purchase of stock control. Important industries that are in process of study are the steel, copper, sugar, farm equipment, flour milling, dairy products, fruit and vegetable canning, salmon canning, and container manufacturing industries.

Resale price maintenance.—On December 13, 1945, the Commission submitted to the Congress a report on resale price maintenance. This report reviews the history of State and Federal resale price maintenance laws and gives particular attention to the economic and competitive effects of resale price maintenance in the drug, food, distilled liquor, malt beverage, wine, tobacco, and hardware trades. Matters discussed in detail include resale price maintenance as a factor in combinations to fix prices and restrain trade, and the effects of resale price maintenance on prices and dealer margins realized on particular products both in States where the articles were price maintained and in those in which they were not under resale price maintenance contracts. Similar comparisons were made between prices and margins of price maintained and nonmaintained articles in particular markets. In conclusion, it was stated that:

"The Commission believes that the consumer is not only entitled to competition between rival products, but to competition between dealers handling the same branded product."

The wholesale baking industry. Part I: Waste in the Distribution of Bread.—This report which was transmitted to the President and the Congress in April, 1946, discloses that there has long been waste in the practice of wholesale bakers taking back unsold bread from retailers left at the previous delivery, generally the day before, and allowing the retailer full credit for the quantity taken back. This is termed "consignment selling" by the trade and is generally condemned as a predatory trade practice by retail bakers and the majority of smaller and medium-sized wholesalers.

In 1945 the Commission found bread was wasted through destruction. In at least one case it was thrown into a river. At other bakeries it was found farmers regularly purchased bread for stock feed.

The Commission estimated the reduction in bread returns in 1945 compared with 1942 was "sufficient to supply the 46,467,000 total 1940 population of England, Scotland, and Wales with a daily ration of one-third pound of bread for 30 days; for the entire population of France for over 36 days; or a similar ration for the 9,090,000 population of the Netherlands for 5 months; for the 8,367,000 population of Belgium for 5½ months; or for the 3,887,000 population of Finland for nearly a year. This estimate of savings covers only bread and yeast-raised products. Additional savings would have resulted from discontinuing taking back cakes and other sweet goods." Further savings could have been made if War Food Order No. 1 had been more fully observed.

The Commission suggested the following remedy:

"The only thing needed to stop waste from the return of unsold bread is to obtain complete cooperation of wholesale bakery officials, driver salesmen, and retail dealers in the observance of War Food Order No. 1 in the present emergency. It has been suggested by a union official in a territory in which returned bread was destroyed by being dumped in a river, that the cooperation of national union officials would be helpful.

"It is also suggested that a careful examination of present laws be made by the legislative and executive branches of the Government to determine what legislation, if any, is needed to permanently eliminate wasteful trade practices and predatory competition which threatens the existence of many small bakers, foredooms new ventures to failure, and promotes regional monopolistic control of the whole-sale bread baking industry."

Interdepartmental service.—For almost 40 years the Commission (and its predecessor, the Bureau of Corporations) has been collecting and establishing a vast fund of information concerning the Nation's important industries. The Commission has been called upon to furnish to other Government departments, and especially to the agencies created during the war emergency, an increasing amount of these data, and frequently it has been requested to prepare special reports as the basis for the actions of the war agencies responsible for economic controls.

Section 7 of the organic act provides that in any suit in equity brought by or under the direction of the Attorney General, as provided in the antitrust acts, the court may refer said suit to the Commission, as a master in chancery, to ascertain and report an appropriate form of decree therein.

Other sections of the act give to the Commission authorization for such investigations and the compilation of data, with provisions for procedure under the act, and penalties prescribed for refusal of persons, partnerships, or corporations to furnish such material or to comply with orders of the Commission to testify, produce evidence, or file reports, as required.

Section 12 makes unlawful the dissemination or the causing of the dissemination of any false advertisement "by United States mails, or in commerce by any means, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase of food, drugs, devices, or cosmetics; or by any means, for the purpose of inducing, or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase in commerce of any food, drugs, devices, or cosmetics." It also provides that the dissemination or the causing of the dissemination of any such false advertisement shall be an unfair or deceptive act in commerce within the meaning of section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act.

Section 13 authorizes the Commission to apply to any district court of the United States or in the United States Court of any Territory for a temporary injunction to enjoin the dissemination or the causing of the dissemination of any false advertisement of food, drugs, devices, or cosmetics whenever it has reason to believe that such injunction, pending final action upon a complaint issued by the Commission under section 5, would be to the interest of the public.

Section 14 provides that any person, partnership, or corporation violating any provision of section 12 (a) shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by fine and imprisonment if the use of the commodity so advertised may be injurious to health because of results from such use under the conditions prescribed in the advertisement thereof, or under such conditions as are customary or usual, or if such violation is with intent to defraud or mislead.

Section 15 defines the term "false advertisement" and also defines "food," "drug," "devices," and "cosmetics."

Section 16 provides that whenever the Commission has reason to believe that any person, partnership, or corporation is liable to the penalty under section 14 or under subsection (1) of section 5, it shall certify the facts to the Attorney General, whose duty it shall be to cause appropriate proceedings to be brought for the enforcement of the provisions of such section or subsection.

THE CLAYTON ACT

The Commission is vested with jurisdiction with respect to sections 2, 3, 7, and 8 of the Clayton Act. Procedure under this act is, with some exceptions, identical with procedure under the Federal Trade Commission Act.

Section 2 of the Clayton Act, as amended by the Robinson-Patman Antidiscrimination Act, declares that it shall be unlawful for any person engaged in commerce, either directly or indirectly to discriminate in price between different purchasers of commodities of like grade and quality, where such commodities are sold for use, consumption, or resale within the United States or any Territory thereof, or the District of Columbia, where the effect of such discrimination may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition. This section outlaws discriminations in price, services, and facilities and prohibits the payment or receipt of certain brokerage fees and allowances or other compensations, with certain limitations and statutory exceptions provided.

Section 3 prohibits, in certain cases, so-called tying contracts, or contracts whereby, as a condition of sale or lease, the seller or lessor exacts from the purchaser or lessee an agreement that he shall not use or deal in the goods or other commodities of a competitor of the lessor or seller, where the effect of such agreement may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

Section 7 prohibits acquisition by one corporation of the share capital of another corporation engaged in commerce, or acquisition by one corporation of the share capital of two or more corporations engaged in commerce, where the effect, in either case, may be to substantially lessen competition between the acquiring and acquired companies, or to restrain commerce or tend to create a monopoly.

Section 8 prohibits so-called interlocking directorates in cases where one person shall at the same time be a director in any two or more corporations (any one of which has capital, surplus, and undivided profits aggregating more than $1,000,000) engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, other than banks, banking associations, trust companies, and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce, if such corporations are or have been competitors, so that the elimination of competition by agreement between them would constitute a violation of any of the provisions of any of the antitrust laws.

THE EXPORT TRADE ACT

This law permits the formation of export associations which are required to file with the Federal Trade Commission copies of their organization papers and current reports as to their operation. Under the terms of the act, such a group shall be engaged solely in export trade, and shall not restrain the trade of a domestic competitor, artificially or intentionally enhance or depress prices in this country, or substantially lessen competition or otherwise restrain trade within the United States.

THE WOOL PRODUCTS LABELING ACT OF 1939

This act was approved by the President October 14, 1940, and became effective July 14, 1941. The administration of the act is committed to the Commission, with authority to make rules and regulations thereunder. The purpose of the act is "to protect producers, manufacturers, distributors, and consumers from the unrevealed presence of substitutes and mixtures in spun, woven, knitted, felted, or otherwise manufactured wool products, and for other purposes." Wool products coming under the act are required to be labeled to reveal their true fiber content and, in accordance with defined classifications, to show the percentage of "wool," "reprocessed wool," "reused wool," and other fiber contained in the product, and also to reveal the percentage of any nonfibrous loading, filling, or adulterating matter which may be present in the goods. Misbranding, embracing deceptive labeling and failure to label properly, is prohibited. Specific provisions are set out at length in the statute as to how and by whom the products are to be labeled and the respective responsibility of manufacturers, distributors, and dealers in relation thereto. In case of violation, the Commission is authorized, through its regular procedure, to issue cease and desist orders. Under specific authority the Commission is empowered to petition an appropriate United States District Court for an injunction to restrain the sale and shipment of misbranded wool products, and is further empowered to invoke the aid of the courts in condemnation proceedings involving merchandise misbranded under the terms of the act. Willful violations are punishable as misdemeanors and may be reported to the Attorney General for prosecution.

TRADE PRACTICE CONFERENCE WORK OF THE COMMISSION

The trade practice conference is a procedure of the Commission having for its purpose the elimination of unfair and illegal practices through cooperative means by members of an industry under the guidance and supervision of the Commission. Fair trade practice rules are set up under this procedure and provide for the prevention of various unfair methods of competition, unfair or deceptive acts or practices, and other illegal business methods. There may also be included in the rules provisions for otherwise fostering and promoting fair competitive conditions and ethical standards of business conduct in harmony with the public interest.

Such trade practice conference work of the Commission was instituted in 1919. By 1926 the work had grown to such importance that the Commission established what is now known as the Division of Trade Practice Conferences.

The procedure constitutes one of the several means for carrying out the Commission's function of keeping trade and industry free from harmful practices proscribed by the statutes which the Commission administers.

Rules established for an industry under the trade practice conference procedure are classified into two groups. In group I are placed all rules which proscribe practices that are illegal as constituting unfair methods of competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices or that are otherwise within the inhibitions of laws administered by the Commission. A greater part of the rules fall into this group, and the Commission has jurisdiction to prevent the use in commerce of the illegal trade practices proscribed therein regardless of whether the offender has signed or agreed to abide by the rules. In group II are placed rules for the establishment of practices which the industry deems desirable and which are not contrary to the public interest. Infraction of rules of this class are not illegal per se. Compliance with such group II rules is obtained mainly through agreement and voluntary cooperation among the industry members.

FALSE AND MISLEADING ADVERTISING CASES

For the purpose of effecting a more direct and expeditious method of handling certain cases involving false and misleading advertising, violative of the provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act, as amended, the Commission established its Radio and Periodical Division. Through this Division, advertisers, publishers, broadcasting stations, and advertising agencies are accorded the privilege of dealing directly with the Director, with a view to reaching an agreement in such cases as are appropriate for negotiating a stipulation, thereby disposing of the issues involved and obviating the necessity of formal trial.

By this procedure the advertisers are afforded an opportunity informally to present for consideration such evidence relating to the advertising claims questioned by the Commission as they may care to submit, with a view to determining whether or not a revision of their advertising is required, and to stipulate the discontinuance of any representations which, after a consideration of all the evidence, are determined to be false or misleading. In most cases the results obtained by this procedure are as effective as those that could be accomplished by the issuance of cease and desist orders; and expensive litigation both to the advertisers and the Government is thereby avoided.

FEDERAL WORKS AGENCY

The Federal Works Agency was created by the first plan for Government reorganization submitted to Congress by the President on April 25, 1939, under authority of the Reorganization Act of 1939, and began to function as an agency of the Federal Government on July 1, 1939.

Two organizations which, prior to July 1, 1939, were operating either as independent establishments or as parts of departments, are now operating as constituent administrations of FWA. These organizations are: The Public Roads Administration (PRA), formerly the Bureau of Public Roads in the Department of Agriculture; and the Public Buildings Administration (PBA), in which was combined the Branch of Public Buildings, Procurement Division, Treasury Department, and the Branch of Buildings Management, National Park Service, Interior Department. A third organization, established January 3, 1945, is the Bureau of Community Facilities. Each of the organizations is headed by a Commissioner.

The organizations grouped in the Federal Works Agency are those dealing with public works, not incidental to the normal work of other departments, and which administer Federal grants or loans to State and local governments or other agencies for the purposes of construction.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS ADMINISTRATION

The Public Buildings Administration was established as a part of the Federal Works Agency by Reorganization Plan No. 1, section 303, under the provisions of the Reorganization Act of 1939, approved April 3, 1939.

The Public Buildings Administration is responsible for the design, construction, maintenance, and repair of Federal buildings; control of space; and the operation and protection of buildings in the District of Columbia and certain buildings outside of the District of Columbia.

PUBLIC ROADS ADMINISTRATION

The Public Roads Administration is the principal road-building agency of the Federal Government. It administers Federal funds made available to aid the States in improvement of highways and constructs roads or supervises road construction in national forests, national parks, and certain other Federal areas.

The organization administers the large postwar highway program authorized by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1944, which authorizes $500,000,000 as aid to the States in highway construction in each of the first three postwar fiscal years. The yearly amount is assigned $225,000,000 for the Federal-aid system, $150,000,000 for farm-to-market or secondary roads, and $125,000,000 for urban sections of the Federal-aid system. An important feature of the new program is the designation of a National System of Interstate Highways not exceeding 40,000 miles in extent. This system will be included in the Federal-aid system and be eligible for improvement with Federal-aid system funds. Planning of this system and of a system of secondary or farm-to-market roads and actual launching of construction of the three classes of work are being carried on actively in cooperation with the States.

Construction of roads in national forests, national parks, and other Federal areas is being resumed.

BUREAU OF COMMUNITY FACILITIES

The Bureau of Community Facilities is responsible for the administration of the provisions of title V of the act of Congress of October 3, 1944, entitled the "War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944" (Public Law 458, 78th Cong.) and for the administration of the provisions of titles II, III, and IV of the Lanham Act, approved June 28, 1941 (55 Stat. 361: 42 U. S. C. 1523), as amended. It is also responsible for the administration of the public works program in the Virgin Islands (Public Law 510, 78th Cong.).

Title V of the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act provides for Federal loans or advances to States and other non-Federal public agencies to assist in the plan preparation of their proposed postwar public works. Federal funds advanced under the authority of the act are to be repaid without interest to the Federal Government if and when construction of public works so planned is undertaken. The act further provides that the making of such advances shall not in any way commit the Congress to appropriate funds to undertake any project so planned.

The Lanham Act authorizes the Federal Works Administrator, in the interest of national defense, to construct, provide, maintain, and operate certain public works and to make contributions or loans to public or private agencies for the maintenance and operation of such public works. With the surrender of Japan, no new construction projects are being undertaken. Federal assistance for the operation of needed child care centers is available until March 1, 1946. Where necessary, recreation projects for service personnel of the armed forces will be continued during the 1946 fiscal year. Assistance for schools, hospitals, and municipal services will be available until July 1, 1946. Assistance for the maintenance and operation of certain school facilities will continue during the fiscal year 1947. Steps are in progress to bring the Lanham Act program to an orderly termination.

Public Law 510, Seventy-eighth Congress, authorizes a public works program in the Virgin Islands and the municipalities and inhabitants thereof. It includes such public works as hospitals, sewers, water systems, schools, markets, recreational facilities, and other projects.

FEDERAL FIRE COUNCIL

The Federal Fire Council was established by Executive Order No. 7397 of June 20, 1936, as an official advisory agency on the protection of Federal employees and property from fire. Executive Order No. 8194 of July 6, 1939, placed the Council under the jurisdiction of the Federal Works Agency.

The Council is authorized to develop standards, procedures, and forms; and, on request, to conduct surveys or such other investigations as may be necessary to determine what measures should be taken to safeguard life and property from the hazards of fire. The council is also authorized to make such independent studies of Federal buildings and property as it may deem desirable from the standpoint of fire protection; to maintain a record of fire losses on Government property; and to review plans for new construction.

Reports and other informative material are distributed to the membership, to the heads of bureaus and establishments, and to other interested Federal, State, and city officials. A manual covering the general subject of fire-loss prevention has been issued together with a fire report and self-inspection forms, the latter for use within departments and establishments in connection with inspections.

FOREIGN-TRADE ZONES BOARD

The Foreign-Trade Zones Board was created by an act of Congress approved June 18, 1934. The Board is composed of the Secretary of Commerce, chairman, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of War.

Its duties are (1) after careful analysis of applications and investigations, to issue grants to public and private corporations for the privilege of establishing, operating, and maintaining foreign-trade zones in ports of entry of the United States for the purpose of expediting and encouraging foreign commerce, and (2) to administer the law governing the operation of such zones.

Within the foreign-trade zone, which is a segregated, enclosed, and policed area, commodities are substantially free from usual customs regulations, and a considerable degree of freedom is allowed in the handling of such goods within the zone, as, for example, repacking, resorting, mixing, and other types of manipulation.

A bill, H. R. 3382, designed to permit manufacturing and exhibiting in foreign-trade zones, was introduced in the first session of the Seventy-ninth Congress.

On January 30, 1936, the Board issued a grant to the municipality of New York, permitting the establishment and operation of a foreign-trade zone at Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y. This zone was placed in operation on February 1, 1937, and comprises a water area of approximately 66 acres, including 18 acres occupied by five piers, and adjacent upland of about 26 acres, a total of approximately 92 acres. It is maintained within a land and water barrier, with a total length of about 8,375 lineal feet and constantly policed by United States customs guards.

On February 7, 1942, the War Department acquired, for military purposes, a considerable portion of the area and facilities of the New York Foreign-Trade Zone. As an emergency measure, the Board authorized the grantee to use piers Nos. 53, 72, 73 and 74, North River, and adjacent uplands, as temporary sites where operations formerly carried on in Foreign-Trade Zone No. 1 could be continued. Following the release by the War Department of Pier 16, Stapleton, Staten Island, a unit of the original New York zone site, the Board by order number 11 on December 12, 1945, authorized the transfer of zone activities from Pier 53, North River, Manhattan to Pier 16, Staten Island. It is expected that all other zone facilities and area acquired by the War Department for the emergency will be released during 1946, for the resumption of foreign-trade zone operations.

A partial list of manipulations performed in the New York Foreign-Trade Zone include: Labeling and repacking canned food products; splitting, skinning, polishing, and rebagging Chinese peas; cleaning, grading, and rebagging chick peas and mustard seed; cleaning and drying crude drugs; drying, ridging, culling, and bagging Brazil nuts; refining, mixing, cleaning, sampling, and rebagging tungsten ore; maturing and sampling and sale by inscription of Sumatra leaf tobacco.

Disturbed international shipping conditions have resulted in the extended use of the zone for the transshipment of many Latin-American products, as well as those from other world areas.

Applications for grants to establish and operate foreign-trade zones in several other ports of entry, including San Francisco, Calif., Houston, Tex., and New Orleans, La., are now pending before the Board.

INDUSTRIAL COLLEGE OF THE ARMED FORCES

The Industrial College of the Armed Forces (formerly the Army Industrial College) is one of the two colleges occupying the highest post-graduate level in the Military Establishment. It operates under policies established jointly by the Under Secretary of War and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy. The Industrial College of the Armed Forces is charged with the mission of providing instruction to insure the efficient mobilization and demobilization of the industrial resources of the United States and to study the industrial capabilities for war of other countries and geographic areas. The principal objectives of the college are to:

(a) Instruct and prepare Army and Navy officers for future assignments involving all phases of mobilization and demobilization of industry, including duty in the offices of the Secretaries of War and Navy and with the Army and Navy Munitions Board.

(b) Develop understanding and teamwork between elements of the Armed Forces, industry, and governmental agencies concerned with the industrial and economic resources of the nation.

(c) Collect and assemble factual data on the organization and administration of war agencies, and on the mobilization and demobilization of manpower, raw materials and resources, facilities and services for use by the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and their principal staff officers, and the Army and Navy Munitions Board.

The scope of instruction includes consideration of matters relating to production and procurement of all materials of war, industrial organization and management, manpower, availability and use of raw materials, facilities, utilities, and economic warfare. The course of instruction is approximately 10 months in length.

INTER-AMERICAN DEFENSE BOARD

The Inter-American Defense Board is a permanently constituted organization composed of military, naval, and aviation technical delegates appointed by each of the governments of the 21 American Republics. It was established in accordance with Resolution XXXIX of the meeting of Ministers of Foreign Affairs of the American Republics at Rio de Janeiro in January 1942. The Board is located in the city of Washington and is an autonomous international organization under the auspices of the Pan American Union.

The purpose of the Board is to study and to recommend to the governments of the American Republics the measures necessary for the defense of the Western Hemisphere.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES, ALASKA, AND CANADA

(For defining, marking, and maintaining the boundary between the United States, Alaska, and Canada)

The International Boundary Commission, United States, Alaska, and Canada, was created under the provisions of the several boundary treaties between the United States and Great Britain, for the purpose of defining, marking, and maintaining the demarcation of the international boundary line between the United States and Canada and between Alaska and Canada, as follows:

1. Southeastern Alaska, or the boundary between Alaska and British Columbia. Length, 893 miles.

Article VI of the convention between the United States and Great Britain, providing for the settlement of questions between the two countries with respect to the boundary line between the Territory of Alaska and the British possessions in North America, signed at Washington, January 24, 1903, stipulated that when the high contracting parties shall have received the decision of the tribunal upon the questions submitted as provided in the foregoing articles, which decision shall be final and binding upon all parties, they will at once appoint, each on its own behalf, one or more scientific experts, who shall with all convenient speed proceed to lay down the boundary line in conformity with such decision.

2. The boundary between Alaska and Canada, along the one hundred and forty-first meridian. Length, 647 miles.

The convention between the United States and Great Britain, signed at Washington, April 21, 1906, provided for the surveying and marking out upon the ground of the one hundred and forty-first meridian of west longitude where said meridian forms the boundary line between Alaska and the British possessions of North America. The convention stipulated that each Government shall appoint one commissioner, with whom may be associated such surveyors, astronomers, and other assistants as each Government may elect, who shall locate the boundary line, erect the necessary boundary marks, make the necessary surveys, and file duplicate records with their respective Governments.

3. The United States and Canada boundary from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, with the exception of the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes. Length, 2,697 miles.

Articles I, II, III, V, VI, VII, and VIII, of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, entitled "Canadian International Boundary," signed at Washington, April 11, 1908, stipulated that each of the high contracting parties shall appoint without delay an expert geographer or surveyor as Commissioner, and the Commissioners so appointed shall jointly execute the necessary surveys, repair existing boundary marks, erect additional boundary marks, and lay down the boundary line in accordance with the existing treaties upon quadruplicate sets of accurate modern charts, prepared or adopted by them for that purpose, and that said charts so marked shall be filed with each Government, and said Commissioners shall also prepare, in duplicate, and file with each Government a joint report or reports, describing in detail the course of the boundary so marked by them, and the character and location of the several monuments and boundary marks and ranges marking it.

4. Article IV of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain in respect to Canada, signed at Washington, February 24, 1925, which provides for the maintenance of an effective boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada, authorizes and directs the Commissioners appointed under the provisions of the treaty of April 11, 1908, to inspect the various portions of the boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada at such times as they shall deem necessary; to repair all damaged monuments and buoys; to relocate and rebuild monuments which have been destroyed; to keep the boundary vistas open; to move boundary monuments to new sites and establish such additional monuments and buoys as they shall deem desirable; to maintain at all times an effective boundary line between the United States and the Dominion of Canada and between Alaska and the Dominion of Canada as defined by the present treaty and treaties heretofore concluded or hereafter to be concluded; and to determine the location of any point of the boundary line which may become necessary in the settlement of any question that may arise between the two Governments.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY AND WATER COMMISSION, UNITED STATES AND MEXICO

The International Boundary and Water Commission, United States and Mexico (formerly the International Boundary Commission, United States and Mexico), was created pursuant to the provisions of the treaty concluded March 1, 1889, with exclusive jurisdiction to examine and decide all differences or questions arising on that portion of the frontier between the United States of America and the United Mexican States where for a distance of 1,240 miles the Rio Grande, and for a distance of 20 miles the Colorado River form the boundary line as originally established under the treaties of 1848 and 1853, and further regulated by the treaties of 1884, 1905, and 1933, growing out of changes in the beds of, or works constructed in, these rivers, or any other cause affecting the boundary line. Matters pertaining to the practical location and monumentation of the overland boundary of 675 miles between El Paso, Tex., and the Pacific Ocean, as well as questions for investigation and report touching flood-control measures and other engineering problems along the international boundary, are also submitted to the Joint Commission upon concurrence between the respective Governments through an exchange of notes. The Commission is empowered to suspend the construction of works of any character along the Rio Grande and the Colorado River(s) that contravene existing treaties; erect and maintain monuments along the water boundary; make necessary surveys of changes brought by force of current in both rivers caused by avulsion, accretion, or erosion; mark and eliminate bancos caused by such changes; survey, place, and maintain monuments on all international bridges between the two countries. The Commission is authorized to call for papers of information relative to boundary matters from either country; hold meetings at any point where questions may arise; summon witnesses and take testimony. If both Commissioners agree to a decision, their judgement shall be binding on both Governments, unless one of them shall disprove it within 1 month from the date it shall have been pronounced. By the provisions of the treaty of 1933 the Commission was charged with the direction and inspection of the construction and with the subsequent maintenance of the Rio Grande Rectification Project in the El Paso-Juarez Valley.

The United States section of the Commission was by the act approved June 30, 1932 (Public, No. 212, 72d Cong.) charged with the exercise and performance of the powers, duties, and functions of the American section, International Water Commission, United States and Mexico, which was abolished by the terms of such act effective July 1, 1932. In addition to the development and analysis of general data pertaining to the extent of beneficial use of international waters, there are operated by the United States section of the Commission some 50 stream gaging stations on the approximately 1,240 miles of the Rio Grande, its tributaries and diversions, between El Paso, Tex., and the Gulf of Mexico. Congressional concurrence in the development of these international data is found in the provisions of the act approved August 19, 1935 (Public, No. 286, 74th Cong.)

Statutory provision is also made by this act for the conduct by the American Commissioner of technical and other investigations relating to the defining, demarcation, fencing, or monumentation of the land and water boundary; and the construction of fences, monuments, and other demarcation of the boundary line as well as sewer and water systems and other enumerated structures crossing the international border. The act further embraces statutory authority and administrative provisions for the construction, operation, and maintenance of treaty and other boundary projects.

The treaty concluded with Mexico February 3, 1944, and effective November 8, 1945, provides for the equitable distribution between the two countries of waters of the Colorado River and the Rio Grande below Fort Quitman, Tex.; studies regarding the conservation and utilization by the two countries of the waters of the Tijuana River system; the construction and operation of certain works required for the conservation of waters of the Rio Grande and for the distribution between the two countries of the waters of that stream and of the Colorado River; studies relating to feasible hydroelectric plants on the Rio Grande as well as for necessary flood-control works on that stream and the Colorado River, and for the subsequent construction of such hydroelectric plants and flood-control works as may be approved by both Governments. The application of the treaty, regulation and exercise of the rights and obligations assumed thereunder by the two Governments, and settlement of all disputes to which its observance and execution may give rise are entrusted to the Joint Commission. The treaty specifies the Department of State of the United States of America and the Ministry of Foreign Relations of Mexico as the agencies to represent the two Governments in every case in which joint action or joint agreement by the Governments is required under the treaty. The same agencies exercise supervision as to policy over their respective sections of the Commission.

INTERNATIONAL JOINT COMMISSION, THE

The International Joint Commission was created by the treaty between the United States and Great Britain signed January 11, 1909, the object of which is "to prevent disputes regarding the use of boundary waters and to settle all questions which are now pending between the United States and the Dominion of Canada involving the rights, obligations, or interests of either in relation to the other or to the inhabitants of the other, along their common frontier, and to make provision for the adjustment and settlement of all such questions as may hereafter arise."

The Commission consists of six members, three appointed by the President of the United States and three appointed by His Majesty on recommendation of the Government of Canada. It was organized in 1911, adopted rules of procedure, and established permanent offices in Washington and Ottawa. It has jurisdiction over all cases involving the use or obstruction or diversion of boundary waters between the United States and Canada, of waters flowing from boundary waters, and of waters at a lower level than the boundary in rivers flowing across the boundary.

Under article IX of the treaty the International Joint Commission also is constituted an investigatory body for the purpose of examining into and reporting upon any questions or matters of difference arising along the common frontier that shall be referred to it from time to time whenever either the Government of the United States or the Government of Canada shall request that such questions or matters of difference be so referred.

Under article X of the treaty any questions or matters of difference arising between the high contracting parties involving the rights, obligations, or interests of the United States or of the Dominion of Canada, either in relation to each other or to their respective inhabitants, may be referred for decision to the International Joint Commission, it being understood that on the part of the United States such action will be by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and on the part of Great Britain with the consent of the Government of Canada.

Under article VI of the treaty the Commission is charged with the measurement and apportionment from time to time of the waters of the St. Mary and Milk Rivers and their tributaries, these rivers lying partly in Montana and partly in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and being largely used for irrigation purposes in both countries.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

The original act to regulate commerce, approved February 4, 1887, provided for a commission consisting of five members. By various amendatory and supplementary enactments the powers of the Commission have been increased and the scope of the regulating statute materially widened. Among the more important of these enactments are the acts of March 2, 1889; the Elkins Act, approved February 19, 1903; the Hepburn Act, approved June 29, 1906; the Mann-Elkins Act of June 18, 1910; the acts of August 24, 1912, and May 29 and August 9, 1917; the Transportation Act, 1920; the Emergency Railroad Transportation Act, 1933; the Motor Carrier Act, 1935; the Transportation Act, 1940, and part IV of the Interstate Commerce Act, for the regulation of freight forwarders, approved May 16, 1942. The number of commissioners was increased under the act of June 29, 1906, to 7 members; under the act of August 9, 1917, to 9 members; and under the Transportation Act, 1920, to 11 members.

The Commission appoints a secretary, an assistant secretary, a chief counsel, and such attorneys, examiners, special agents, and clerks as are necessary to the proper performance of its duties.

Jurisdiction over motor carriers was conferred upon the Commission by the Motor Carrier Act, 1935, by the addition of part II of the Interstate Commerce Act, over water carriers by the Transportation Act of 1940, by the addition of part III thereof, and over freight forwarders by the act of May 16, 1942. Each of these parts will be separately described later.

The Interstate Commerce Act, part I, applies to all common carriers engaged in the transportation of oil or other commodities, except water, and except natural or artificial gas, by means of pipe lines, or partly by pipe lines and partly by railroad, or partly by pipe lines and partly by water, from one State, Territory, or District of the United States to any other State, Territory, or District of the United States, or to any foreign country, and to common carriers engaged in interstate transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad (or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment); also to express companies and sleeping-car companies, to bridges, ferries, car floats and lighters, used by carriers subject to part I, and all terminal and transportation facilities used or necessary in the interstate transportation of persons or property.

The Interstate Commerce Act requires all rates to be just and reasonable and prohibits unjust discrimination and undue or unreasonable preference or advantage in transportation rates or facilities. The act provides that whenever in any investigation, including one instituted upon petition of the carriers concerned, there shall be brought in issue any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice made or imposed by any State authority, the authorities of the State or States interested must be notified of the hearings in such cases, and the Commission may confer and hold joint hearings with the authorities of the interested States. If, after hearing, the Commission finds such rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice causes undue or unreasonable advantage, preference, or prejudice as between persons or localities in intrastate commerce on the one hand and interstate or foreign commerce on the other hand, or any undue, unreasonable, or unjust discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce which is forbidden, it is authorized to prescribe the rate, fare, or charge, or the maximum or minimum, or maximum and minimum, thereafter to be charged, and the classification, regulation, or practice thereafter to be observed, in such manner as, in its judgment, will remove such advantage, preference, prejudice, or discrimination.

The Interstate Commerce Act prohibits any carrier subject to part I, and any water carrier subject to part III, from charging a higher rate for a shorter than for a longer haul over the same line in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer haul, or the charging of any greater compensation as a through rate than the aggregate of the intermediate rates subject to the act. It is provided, however, that the Commission may, in special cases, after investigation, authorize carriers to charge less for longer than for shorter distances, and from time to time prescribe the extent to which such carriers may be relieved, subject, however, to the further proviso that in so doing the Commission shall not permit the establishment of any charge to or from the more distant point that is not reasonably compensatory. Insofar as carriers by railroad are concerned, the Commission is precluded from granting relief under the fourth section to carriers by railroad, or other carriers subject to part I, because of merely potential water competition not actually in existence.

The Commission is authorized to require rail carriers to establish through routes and joint rates, and it may act summarily in itself establishing, temporarily, through routes when, in its opinion, shortage of equipment, congestion of traffic, or other emergency exists. The act requires that divisions of joint rates shall be just, reasonable, and equitable, and authorizes the Commission, upon complaint or upon its own initiative, after hearing, to prescribe the just, reasonable, and equitable divisions of such rates, and it may require readjustment of such divisions if it finds they have been unjust, unreasonable, or inequitable in the past, and if the joint rates, the divisions of which are in issue, were themselves prescribed pursuant to a finding or order of the Commission. The Commission is also authorized to require rail carriers subject to the act to construct switch connections with lateral branch lines of railroads and private sidetracks. Part I of the act forbids the construction of new, and the abandonment of old, lines of railroad without Commission approval, except "spur, industrial, team, switching, or sidetracks, located or to be located wholly within one State." Part I of the act provides that where two or more through routes and through rates shall have been established shippers shall have the right to designate in writing via which of such through routes the property shall be transported to destination, and gives the Commission authority over the routing of traffic after it arrives at the terminus or a junction point of a carrier and is to be there delivered to another carrier in cases where routing instructions have not been given by the shipper. Where diversion of routed freight occurs which is not in compliance with an order, rule, or regulation of the Commission, the carrier or carriers so diverting the traffic are jointly and severally liable to the carrier deprived of its right to participate in the haul of the property.

The act authorizes the Commission under certain circumstances, upon such terms and conditions and subject to such rules and regulations as it may think just and reasonable, to permit for any common carrier subject to part I, II, or III the pooling or division of traffic, or of service, or of gross or net earnings, or of any portion thereof.

It permits the carriers, with Commission approval, to merge as well as consolidate their properties, or any part thereof, and to purchase lease, or contract to operate the properties, or any part thereof, of other carriers, or acquire stock control of other carriers; a noncarrier corporation may acquire stock control of one or more carriers, and when so authorized by the Commission such noncarrier corporations are to be considered and treated as carriers subject to the act for the purposes of its provisions relating to reports, accounts, and issuance of securities. The act relieves carriers, when permission is so granted, from the restraints of the antitrust laws so far as may be necessary to effect such consolidations. In all cases of consolidations, mergers, unifications, etc., of carriers by railroad subject to the act, the Commission must impose conditions that are fair and equitable to protect the interests of the railroad employees affected. In abandonment cases the Commission has discretionary authority to determine whether it will impose conditions for the protection of the interests of rail labor adversely affected by the abandonment.

The Commission has jurisdiction, upon complaint or in a proceeding instituted upon its own initiative, and after full hearing, to determine and prescribe reasonable rates, regulations, and practices, including minimum, and maximum and minimum, rates; and to award reparation to injured shippers. The Interstate Commerce Act also provides that actions at law by carriers to recover their charges shall be begun within 2 years from the time the cause of action accrues and not thereafter, and that complaints seeking reparation shall be instituted within 2 years from the time the cause of action accrues, except that if on or before expiration of the 2-year period of limitation in subdivision (b) of section 16 or of the 2-year period of limitation in subdivision (c) a carrier subject to this act begins action for recovery of charges in respect of the same transportation service or, without beginning action, collects charges in respect of that service, said period of limitation shall be extended to include 90 days from the time such action is begun or such charges are collected by the carrier. The act also provides that a cause of action against the carrier shall be deemed to accrue upon delivery or tender of delivery by the carrier of the property involved. The Commission may also require carriers to cease and desist from unjust discrimination or undue or unreasonable preferences. By the Transportation Act of 1920 the statute was amended to provide that an order of the Commission shall continue in force until its further order, or for a specified period of time, according as shall be prescribed in the order, unless modified or set aside by the Commission, or set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Carriers are required to publish and file rates, rules and regulations applying to interstate traffic and are prohibited from engaging in interstate transportation unless such rates, rules, and regulations are published and filed. Severe penalties are provided in the statute for failure to observe the rates and regulations as shown in the published tariffs.

By the act of May 29, 1917, as amended on February 28, 1920, the Commission is given extensive jurisdiction over the use, control, supply, movement, distribution, exchange, interchange, and return of locomotives, cars, and other vehicles, including special types of equipment and the supply of trains.

By the Second War Powers Act of 1942 as from time to time extended to June 30, 1946, the Commission is given the same authority with respect to motor carriers, to be exercised under similar circumstances and conditions as it has under section 1 (15) of the Interstate Commerce Act of May 29, 1917, as amended, over rail carriers.

The Commission may inquire into the management of the business of all common carriers subject to the provisions of the act, and may prescribe the accounts, records, and memoranda which shall be kept by the carriers, which shall be open to examination by the Commission through its authorized agents or examiners. Carriers are required to file annual reports with the Commission and such other reports as the Commission may from time to time require. By the amendments of February 28, 1920, and September 18, 1940, the Commission was directed to prescribe, for carriers subject to parts I and III of the act, the classes of property for which depreciation charges may be included in operating expenses and the percentages of depreciation chargeable for each such class of property, with authority to modify such classes and percentages so prescribed when deemed necessary.

By the amendment of September 18, 1940, it is made unlawful for any common carrier by railroad or express company to enter into any contract, etc., with any person for the furnishing of protective service against heat or cold to property transported in interstate commerce, unless such contract, etc., has been submitted to and approved by the Commission as just, reasonable, and consistent with the public interest. The Commission was given access also by this act into the records of persons furnishing such cars or protective service.

By the act of June 18, 1910 (Mann-Elkins law), the jurisdiction of the Commission was increased as to through routes and joint rates, freight classifications, switch connections, long and short hauls, filing or rejection of rate schedules, investigations on own motion, determining reasonable rates, suspension of proposed rates, and other matters, with respect to rail carriers. By the act of March 4, 1927, the maximum period during which the Commission may suspend the operation of proposed schedules is fixed at not more than 7 months, and it is provided that if the proceeding upon suspension is not concluded within that time the proposed schedule shall go into effect at the end of such period, but that the Commission may require the rail carriers to keep account in detail of all amounts received by reason of increases in such rates and charges and, if the decision of the Commission be adverse, require such carrier or carriers to refund with interest such portions of such increased rates or charges as by its decision shall be found not justified.

By act approved August 24, 1912, amended by the Transportation Act of 1940, a new paragraph was added to section 5 of the act to regulate commerce by which it is made unlawful after July 1, 1914, for any common carrier by railroad or person controlling, controlled by, or under common control with such a carrier to own, lease, operate, control, or have any interest in any competing carrier by water. Jurisdiction is conferred upon the Commission to determine questions of fact as to competition, after full hearing, on the application of any railroad company or other carrier and to extend beyond July 1, 1914, the time during which such ownership or operation of vessels plying elsewhere than through the Panama Canal may continue, when it is found to be in the interest of the public and of advantage to the convenience and commerce of the people, and such extension will neither exclude, prevent, nor reduce competition on the route by water.

At the same time section 6 of the act was amended by adding a new paragraph conferring upon the Commission jurisdiction over transportation of property from point to point in the United States by rail and water, whether through the Panama Canal or otherwise and not entirely within the limits of a single State, this jurisdiction, under certain conditions, including power to establish physical connection between lines of the rail carrier and the dock of the water carrier by directing the rail carrier to make such connection, and to determine to what traffic and in connection with what vessels, and upon what terms and conditions proportional, or maximum, or minimum, or maximum and minimum, proportional rates shall apply; and to require rail carriers entering into through routing arrangements with any water carrier to extend the privileges of such arrangements to other water carriers.

By the act approved March 1, 1913, as amended by act approved June 7, 1922, amending the act to regulate commerce, the Commission is directed to investigate, ascertain, and report the value of all property owned or used by every common carrier subject to the provisions of part I of the act, except street, suburban, or interurban electric railways not operated as a part of a general steam railroad system of transportation.

Section 19a was amended on June 16, 1933, by the Emergency Railroad Transportation Act, which provides that the Commission shall keep informed of current changes in the property, its condition, use, the investment therein, its cost and values and related matters, in order to enable it to revise and correct its basic valuations and underlying data as needed.

The act approved March 4, 1915, which became effective June 2, 1915, as amended August 9, 1916, makes common carriers liable for all loss, damage, or injury to property caused by them, and forbids, with certain exceptions, limitations of liability. As amended February 28, 1920, and by the Transportation Act of 1940, it is provided that where the loss, damage, or injury occurs while the property is in the custody of a carrier by water, the liability of such carrier shall be determined by the bill of lading of the carrier by water and by and under the laws and regulations applicable to transportation by water, and that the liability of the initial carrier shall be the same as that of such carrier by water, except in connection with shipments to foreign destinations by water carriers whose vessels are registered under the laws of the United States, in which case it is made the duty of the carrier by railroad to deliver such shipments to the vessel as a part of its undertaking as a common carrier, but it is provided in this connection that the rail carrier shall not be liable after its delivery to the vessel.

It is further provided that the 2-year period for the institution of suits against carriers for loss, damage, or injury shall be computed from the day when notice is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part thereof.

The act approved April 23, 1930, modifies the requirements of this section as to notice and filing of claims.

Part I of the act is amended February 28, 1920, prohibits a carrier from issuing securities or from assuming obligations or liabilities as lessor, lessee, guarantor, indorser, surety, or otherwise, in respect of the securities of others from and after 120 days after the provision takes effect, except after having been authorized by the Commission so to do; prescribes the conditions under which the Commission may grant authorities to the carriers; the form and contents of applications which shall be made to the Commission for such purposes; provides for the giving of notice by the Commission of such applications to the Governor of each State in which the applicant carrier operates; for hearings by the Commission in respect of such applications; that carriers may issue certificates and assume obligations or liabilities without obtaining authority other than that of the Commission, and for the issuance by the carrier without the consent of the Commission of short-term notes in limited amounts, reports of which are, however, required to be filed with the Commission. It is further provided that nothing in the act shall be construed to imply any guaranty or obligation as to such securities on the part of the United States. Part I of the act also provides for a right of action in favor of investors or purchasers in good faith and without notice of securities which, if not legally issued, are void, and for penalties against directors, officers, attorneys, or agents of carriers who knowingly assent to or concur in the issuance of securities, etc., contrary to the provisions of the Commission's orders or grants of authority.

An act approved February 28, 1933, amends section 17 so as to authorize the Commission to assign certain of its duties to an individual Commissioner or to a board composed of employees. This section was further amended on September 18, 1940, with respect to the assignment of duties to individual Commissioners, divisions of the Commission, and boards of employees, subject to a right of review of such decisions, by the entire Commission or appropriate appellate divisions thereof.

An act approved March 3, 1933, as amended by an act approved August 27, 1935, amends the Bankruptcy Act by providing for proceedings for the reorganization of railroads, which proceedings may be instituted either by a petition of a railroad, filed in the appropriate Federal court, stating that the carrier is "insolvent or unable to meet its debts as they mature and that it desires to effect a reorganization," or by the filing of a similar petition, after Commission approval, by the creditors of a railroad whose claim aggregates not less than 5 percent of its indebtedness. Many duties are imposed upon the Commission by these amendatory acts, including the approval, after hearing of plans of reorganization, the regulation of protective committees, the ratification of the selection of trustees, and the fixing of maximum allowances, expenses, and attorneys' fees for the trustees, their counsel, or organization managers, or others entitled thereto.

By amendment of June 22, 1938, the bankruptcy law was further amended to provide that any commission created by any law of the United States or of any State having regulatory jurisdiction over a public-utility corporation should have submitted to it a plan approved and given opportunity to suggest amendments or offer objections to the plan, and after approval of the plan such corporation shall comply with the provisions of the plan and orders relative thereto, including procuring of authorization, approval, or consent of such commissions.

The Emergency Railroad Transportation Act, 1933, provided for the termination of proceedings for recapture of excess income, and substituted a new rule of rate making, under which the Commission is required to give due consideration to the effect of rates on the movement of traffic; to the need in the public interest of adequate and efficient railroad transportation service at the lowest cost consistent with the furnishing of such service; and to the need of revenues sufficient to enable carriers under honest, economical, and efficient management to provide such service. The Transportation Act of 1940 contained a new declaration of policy providing for fair and impartial regulation of all modes of transportation subject to the act, so administered as to recognize and preserve the inherent advantages of each; to promote safe, adequate, economical, and efficient service and foster sound economic conditions in transportation and among the several carriers; to encourage the establishment and maintenance of reasonable charges for transportation services, without unjust discriminations, undue preferences, or advantages, or unfair or destructive competitive practices; to cooperate with the several States and the duly authorized officials thereof; and to encourage fair wages and equitable working conditions—all to the end of developing, coordinating, and preserving a national transportation system by water, highway, and rail, as well as other means, adequate to meet the needs of the commerce of the United States, of the Postal Service, and of the national defense. All of the provisions of this act shall be administered and enforced with a view to carrying out the above declaration of policy.

By the Civil Aeronautics Act, approved June 23, 1938, the Commission's jurisdiction over air transportation was transferred to the Civil Aeronautics Authority, except that orders made by the Commission in proceedings instituted before it, either prior or subsequent to said June 23, are to be controlled by the act of June 12, 1934, as amended by act of August 14, 1935, until changed by the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Under said act of June 23, 1938, the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the Interstate Commerce Commission are required to direct their respective chairmen to designate, from time to time, a like number of members of each to act as a joint board to consider and pass upon matters relating to through service and joint rates, fares, or charges of air carriers and other carriers, in accordance with power conferred upon said Authority by the Civil Aeronautics Act.

By an act approved July 5, 1937, section 22 of said part I was further amended to authorize a carrier to transport a totally blind person accompanied by a guide or seeing-eye dog or other guide dog specially trained and educated for that purpose at the usual and ordinary fare charged to one person.

By an act approved August 25, 1937, section 22 of said part I was so amended as to authorize carriers subject to said part to accord reduced rates for the transportation of property to or from any section of the country with the object of providing relief in case of earthquake, flood, fire, famine, drought, epidemic, pestilence, or other calamitous visitation or disaster, if such reduced rates have first been authorized by order of the Commission.

By section 201 (a) of the act of February 16, 1938, the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to institute and prosecute before the Commission complaints concerning charges, etc., pertaining to the transportation of farm products, and when like complaints are filed by parties other than the Secretary the Commission is required to give him notice concerning the fact and accord him an opportunity to be heard in the premises.

Under the Motor Carrier Act, 1935 (part II of the Interstate Commerce Act), as amended June 29, 1938, and September 18, 1940, the Commission is charged with the duty of regulating common carriers by motor vehicle, contract carriers by motor vehicle, private carriers of property by motor vehicle, and transportation brokers, who engage in interstate or foreign commerce. The regulation of private carriers of property by motor vehicle is confined to reasonable requirements to promote safety of operation, including qualifications and maximum hours of service of employees and standards of equipment, to be established by the Commission if need therefor is found.

Authority from the Commission to do business is required in the form of certificates of public convenience and necessity for common carriers, permits for contract carriers, and licenses for transportation brokers. Such certificates, permits, and licenses may be suspended, revoked, or changed by the Commission after notice and hearing for willful violation of the act or of any lawful order, rule, or regulation of the Commission, or of any term, condition, or limitation of any such certificate, permit, or license.

Similar authority was conferred upon the Commission with respect to common and contract carriers by water by the Transportation Act of 1940. Such provisions are contained in part III of the Interstate Commerce Act.

Common carriers are required to establish just and reasonable rates and fares, and to file tariffs thereof with the Commission. The authority of the Commission over rates is not that of initiation in the first instance, but of regulation. It may suspend a rate, and after hearing, and upon proper findings, may prescribe a lawful rate. It also has jurisdiction over divisions of rates and fares as between joint carriers and other related matters. The Commission is directed in determining the justness of any rate to take into consideration the elements of the inherent advantages of each form of transportation, the effect of rates upon traffic movement, the need in the public interest of adequate and efficient transportation service by such carriers, at the lowest cost consistent with the furnishing of such service, and the need of sufficient revenues to enable such carriers to provide such service under honest, economical, and efficient management, etc., as contained in the declaration of policy, heretofore set out. The Commission may not consider goodwill, earning power, or certificate value in rate determinations.

Common carriers of passengers are required to establish through routes and joint rates with other such carriers; and, if they choose, may make such arrangements with common carriers by rail or water. In the case of common carriers of property by motor, the establishment of joint rates and through routes is optional with the carriers.

Contract carriers must file schedules or, in the discretion of the Commission, their transportation contracts, showing their minimum charges, below which they are directed not to go, either directly or indirectly. If the Commission finds after hearing that any charge made by a contract carrier contravenes the policy of the act, it may prescribe a minimum charge in an amount found necessary or desirable in the public interest and to promote that policy.

All motor carriers must comply with the rules and regulations of the Commission concerning security for public protection. This may take the form of insurance surety bonds, qualifications as a self-insurer, or some other form of security insuring against injury or death resulting from negligent operation or for loss or damage to property of others. Cargo insurance, or its equivalent, may be required of common carriers of property in the discretion of the Commission.

The Commission may require annual, periodical, or special reports from motor carriers and water carriers, and the submission of true copies of traffic contracts between any such carrier and any other carrier. It may prescribe the forms of accounts, records, and memoranda of such carriers, and has the right of inspection of such records and of the premises of such carriers.

As to common carriers by motor vehicle, the Commission, in addition to the general powers above mentioned, may establish reasonable requirements with respect to continuous and adequate service, transportation of baggage and express, uniform systems of accounts, records and reports, preservation of records, qualifications and maximum hours of service of employees, and safety of operation and equipment.

As to contract carriers, the Commission may also establish reasonable requirements with respect to uniform systems of accounts, records and reports, preservation of records, qualifications and maximum hours of service of employees, and safety of operation and equipment.

The Commission, by rules and regulations, may require the display of identification plates upon each motor vehicle operated by such carriers.

An investigation by the Commission is authorized of the need for Federal regulation of the sizes and weights of motor vehicles and combinations of motor vehicles. The Commission's report in this investigation has been printed and appears as House Document No. 354, Seventy-seventh Congress, first session.

Part III of the Interstate Commerce Act, approved September 18, 1940, gives the Commission extensive authority over common carriers and contract carriers by water, quite similar to its authority over motor vehicle common and contract carriers, above discussed. The act in part III permits the Commission to make numerous exemptions from its provisions, such as bulk carriers on the Great Lakes who can transport bulk commodities so cheaply that they cannot be said to compete with other forms of transportation, and also permits exemptions where necessary to permit United States carriers to compete on equal terms with their foreign competitors. Equality of regulation between competing forms of transportation, insofar as it was possible to achieve this equality, was the purpose of this legislation.

Part IV of the Interstate Commerce Act, approved May 16, 1942, gives the Commission extensive authority over freight forwarders. The term freight forwarder means any person (other than a carrier subject to part I, II, or III of the act) who holds itself out to the general public to transport or provide transportation of property for compensation, assumes responsibility for the transportation, and utilizes in whole or in part of the transportation the services of a carrier or carriers subject to part I, II, or III of the act.

The act excludes from regulation cooperative associations where the property consists of ordinary livestock, fish, agricultural commodities, or used household goods if the person engages in this service subject to this part with respect to not more than one of the classifications of such property.

The act also vests the Commission with authority to administer its provisions and issue necessary rules and regulations, authority to prescribe reasonable rules and regulations for the filing of surety bonds, policies of insurance, etc. The Commission may obtain information concerning operations of the forwarder, make necessary recommendations for further legislation, and investigate complaints as to whether the forwarders have observed the provisions of the act. Freight forwarders must furnish service upon reasonable request therefor and provide just and reasonable rates as well as reasonable practices as to the issuance of receipts and bills of lading and for the pick-up and delivery of freight subject to this part of the act. Unreasonable preferences or advantages are forbidden. The Commission is also given extensive authority over the rates and practices of freight forwarders; the act requires the filing of tariffs, suspension, etc., and permits common carriers subject to parts I, II, and III of the act to establish assembly or distribution rates on less-than-carload and less-than-truckload shipments. The act provides an adjustment period pending the establishment of assembly and distribution rates, provides for the issuance of permits for anyone to engage in the freight forwarding business, and forbids a freight forwarder from acquiring control of any carrier subject to parts I, II, or III of the act. The Commission may prescribe uniform systems of accounts for freight forwarders and require annual and periodical reports and its agents may have access to forwarder records. The act contains provisions for bills of lading and delivery of property by freight forwarders, requires them to collect lawful freight forwarder charges, and permits allowances to shippers for transportation services performed for the forwarder. The act contains provisions for notices, orders, and service of process; provides for enforcement of its provisions and the procedure thereunder and prescribes penalties for violation. It contains provisions for the services of other carriers whose services may be utilized by the freight forwarders. The act contains provisions also relating to when its various requirements are to become effective.

On February 20, 1946, part IV was amended by an act requiring the Commission at the earliest practicable date to determine and prescribe the just, reasonable, and equitable terms under which freight forwarders may utilize the services of motor carriers subject to part II, in furtherance of the national transportation policy, and authorizes the Commission, after investigation, to modify or rescind such terms and conditions. This amendatory act also permits freight forwarders and common carriers by motor vehicle to operate under joint rates or charges, subject to authority in the Commission to terminate by order the requirements of this subsection. The amendment also contains provisions as to how joint rates or charges and concurrences between freight forwarders and common carriers by motor vehicle shall become effective, and provides for the manner in which tariffs covering such rates and charges shall be filed.

RELATED ACTS AFFECTING INTERSTATE COMMERCE

Elkins Act.—The act of February 19, 1903, commonly called the Elkins law, prohibits rebating, allows proceedings in the courts by injunction to restrain departures from published rates, and provides that cases prosecuted under the direction of the Attorney General in the name of the Commission shall be included within the expediting act of February 11, 1903.

District Court Jurisdiction Act.—The Urgent Deficiency Appropriation Act approved October 22, 1913, provided that the Commerce Court should be abolished from and after December 31, 1913, and that the jurisdiction theretofore vested in the Commerce Court under act approved June 18, 1910, be transferred to and vested in the several district courts of the United States.

Expediting Act.—The act of February 11, 1903, provides that suits in equity brought under the act to regulate commerce wherein the United States is complainant may be expedited and given precedence over other suits, and that appeals from the circuit court (district court) lie only to the Supreme Court.

Clayton Antitrust Act.—Jurisdiction is conferred upon the Commission to enforce certain provisions of the act approved October 15, 1914, to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, insofar as such provisions relate to carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce. The act prohibits, with certain exceptions, carriers from discriminating between purchasers in sales of commodities, and from making leases or sales of commodities and from acquiring stock or capital of other corporations engaging in commerce tending to substantially lessen competition or create a monopoly; makes it a felony for a president or other specified officers to misappropriate a carrier's funds; and, as amended by act approved January 12, 1918, provides that, effective January 1, 1919, no carrier shall have dealings in securities or supplies, or contract for construction or maintenance to the amount of more than $50,000, in the aggregate in any one year, with another corporation or organization, when, by reason of common officers or otherwise, there exists a community of interest between the carrier and such other corporation or organization, except as a result of free competitive bidding under regulations to be prescribed by the Commission. The Commission is further authorized to investigate violations of the act by carriers and to require the guilty parties to cease therefrom, and its findings of fact in such investigations shall be conclusive when supported by testimony.

Railway Mail Service Pay Act.—The act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department, approved July 28, 1916, empowers the Commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by railway common carriers and services connected therewith, prescribing the method by weight or space, or both, or otherwise.

The act making appropriations for the services of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, empowers the Commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by urban and interurban electric railway common carriers.

Standard Time Act.—By the act approved March 19, 1918, the Commission is authorized to fix the limits of the standard time zones established for the continental United States and Alaska, having due regard, in doing so, to the convenience of commerce and the junction and division points of common carriers whose movements are to be governed by the standard time of the zones so fixed.

Safety Appliance Acts.—The act of March 2, 1893, known as the Safety Appliance Act, provides that railroad cars used in interstate commerce must be equipped with automatic couplers, and drawbars of a standard height for freight cars, and have grabirons or handholds in the ends and sides of each car; and that locomotive engines used in moving interstate traffic shall be equipped with a power driving-wheel brake and appliances for operating the train-brake system. The act directs the Commission to lodge with the proper district attorneys information of such violations as may come to its knowledge. The act of March 2, 1903, amended this act so as to make its provisions apply to Territories and the District of Columbia, to all cases when couplers of whatever design are brought together, and to all locomotives, cars, and other equipment of any railroad engaged in interstate traffic, except logging cars and cars used upon street railways; and provides for a minimum number of air-braked cars in trains.

By act of April 14, 1910, the safety appliance acts were supplemented so as to require railroads to equip their cars with sill steps, hand brakes, ladders, running boards, and roof handholds, and the Commission was authorized to designate the number, dimensions, location, and manner of application of appliances.

Accident Reports Act.—By act of May 6, 1910, the prior accident reports law was repealed and a new statute enacted requiring carriers to make full reports of all accidents to the Commission and increasing the scope of the Commission's authority in making investigations of all accidents resulting to persons or the property of the carrier.

Hours of Service Act.—The act of March 4, 1907, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is made unlawful to require or permit employees engaged in or connected with the movement of trains to be on duty more than a specified number of hours in any 24.

Ash Pan Act.—The act of May 30, 1908, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is provided that after a certain date no locomotive shall be used in moving interstate or foreign traffic, etc., not equipped with an ash pan which can be emptied without requiring a man to go under such locomotive. Penalties are provided for violations of this act.

Transportation of Explosives Act.—The act of May 30, 1908, as amended by act approved March 4, 1921, directed the Interstate Commerce Commission to make regulations for the safe transportation of explosives and dangerous articles by common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. Penalties are provided for violations of such regulations. By act approved October 9, 1940, jurisdiction over transportation by common carriers by water of explosives and other dangerous articles was transferred to the Secretary of Commerce, effective April 9, 1941. Jurisdiction in the Commission with respect to requirements on shippers of such articles by common carriers by water was undisturbed.

Locomotive and Boiler Inspection Acts.—The act of February 17, 1911, confers jurisdiction upon the Commission to enforce certain provisions compelling railroad companies to equip their locomotives with safe and suitable boilers and appurtenances thereto.

By amendatory acts approved March 4, 1915, June 7, 1924, and June 27, 1930, the powers of the Commission to inspect and to prescribe standards of safety for locomotive boilers and appurtenances thereto was extended to include "all parts and appurtenances of the locomotive and tender."

Block signal and automatic train-control safety devices.—The Urgent Deficiency Appropriation Act approved October 22, 1913, contained an appropriation of $25,000 to enable the Commission to investigate and test block signals and appliances for the automatic control of railway trains and appliances or systems intended to promote the safety of railway operation, including experimental tests of such systems and appliances as shall be furnished in completed shape to the Commission for investigation and test, free of cost to the Government, in accordance with the provisions of joint resolution approved June 30, 1916, and Sundry Civil Appropriation Act approved May 27, 1908. Provision was made in the Sundry Civil Appropriation Acts approved August 1, 1914, March 3, 1915, July 1, 1916, June 12, 1917, and July 1, 1918, for continuing the investigation and testing of these systems and appliances.

By an act approved August 26, 1937, section 26 of part I of the Interstate Commerce Act, changed to section 25 by the Transportation Act of 1940, was so amended as to authorize the Commission to require any carrier by railroad subject to that part (including any terminal or station company), and any receiver or any other individual or body, when in the possession of the business of a carrier subject to the section, to install the block-signal system, interlocking, automatic or similar appliances, methods and systems intended to promote the safety of railroad operation, which comply with specifications and requirements prescribed by the Commission, upon the whole or any part of its railroad, and thereafter to make such changes in the requirements, and in requirements concerning pertinent reports and records of the carriers, as the Commission might find necessary.

Railroad Retirement Act.—This act, approved August 29, 1935, as amended by the act of June 24, 1937, creates a Railroad Retirement Board of three members, and it directs the Commission, upon request of the Board or upon complaint of any party interested, to determine after hearing whether any line of railroad operated by electric power is in fact a street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, exempt from the terms of the act.

Railroad Labor Act.—By act approved June 21, 1934, a National Railroad Adjustment Board and a National Mediation Board, to provide for the prompt disposition of disputes between carriers and their employees, is provided for, and by the terms of the act, the Commission is directed, upon request of the Board or upon complaint of any interested party, to determine after hearing whether any line of railroad operated by electric power is a street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, exempt from the provisions of the act.

By the Carriers Taxing Act, approved June 29, 1937, which provides for the payment of excise taxes by certain carriers and the payment of income taxes by the carriers' employees, but does not apply to either street, suburban, or interurban electric railways, unless such railways are operated as parts of general steam-railroad systems of transportation, the Interstate Commerce Commission is authorized and directed, upon request of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, or upon complaint of any party interested, to determine, after hearing, whether any line operated by electric power falls within the terms of said exception.

Under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, approved June 25, 1938, the Commission is required to determine after hearing whether any line operated by electric power falls within the terms of the exemption proviso included in section 1 (a) of that act, when requested to do so by the Railroad Retirement Board or in a complaint filed by an interested party.

Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938.—The first sentence of subsection (b) of section 1003 of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, is further amended by act of May 16, 1942, to permit air carriers to establish reasonable through service and joint rates with other common carriers, except that with respect to transportation of property, air carriers not directly engaged in the operation of aircraft in air transportation (other than companies engaged in the air express business), may not establish joint rates with common carriers subject to the Interstate Commerce Act.

Subsection (b) of section 412 of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, is amended by act of May 16, 1942, to provide that the Authority shall by order disapprove any such contract or agreement, whether or not previously approved by it, that it finds to be adverse to the public interest, or in violation of this act, and shall by order approve any such contract or agreement that it does not find to be adverse to the public interest, or in violation of this act; except that the Authority may not approve any contract or agreement between an air carrier not directly engaged in the operation of aircraft in air transportation and a common carrier subject to the Interstate Commerce Act, governing the compensation to be received by such common carrier for performing transportation services.

MARITIME COMMISSION, UNITED STATES

(See also War Shipping Administration, p. 536)

NOTE.—On February 7, 1942, under authority of the First War Powers Act (Public Law 354, 77th Cong.) by Executive Order 9054 (7 F. R. 837), the President established the War Shipping Administration within the Office of Emergency Management. Certain functions, duties, and powers set forth below were transferred by that order from the Maritime Commission to the War Shipping Administration.

The United States Maritime Commission was created by the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, approved June 29, 1936 (49 Stat. 1985), which is entitled "An act to further the development and maintenance of an adequate and well-balanced American merchant marine, to promote the commerce of the United States, to aid in the national defense, to repeal certain former legislation, and for other purposes." The Commission is an independent establishment of the executive branch of the Government, charged with the determination and administration of certain governmental financial aids to private citizens for the construction and operation of vessels in the commerce of the United States. It also exercises other business functions. In addition to its business functions, the Commission possesses regulatory powers over common carriers in the foreign water-borne commerce of the United States and over persons carrying on the business of forwarding or furnishing terminal facilities in connection with the common carriers by water.

The act directs that the Commission shall be composed of five members, appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. The chairman is designated by the President. The Commission may elect one of its members as vice chairman and is authorized to appoint and fix the salaries of a secretary, a general counsel, and other officials and employees.

The terms of office of the Commissioners first appointed were fixed at 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 years; their successors are appointed for terms of 6 years. Three Commissioners were appointed and took office on September 26, 1936. A full Commission was appointed and took office on April 16, 1937.

By the terms of the act, the United States Shipping Board Merchant Fleet Corporation was dissolved and all its records, books, papers, and property were taken over by the Commission. Likewise, all money, notes, bonds, mortgages, contracts, lands, vessels, terminals, property, and interests of every kind, owned by the United States and controlled by the Department of Commerce as the successor to the powers and functions of the former Shipping Board, were transferred to the Commission by the act.

Ocean mail contracts made by the Postmaster General were terminated effective June 30, 1937. The holder of any such contract was authorized to file an application with the Commission to adjust and settle all the rights of the parties under the contract, subject to appeal by the Attorney General.

Under the act the Commission, as successor to the powers and functions originally vested in the United States Shipping Board and later transferred by Executive Order No. 6166, issued on June 10, 1933, to the Department of Commerce, possesses all the powers and functions delegated in the Shipping Act, 1916, as amended, the Merchant Marine Act, 1920, as amended, and the Intercoastal Shipping Act, 1933, as amended. The Commission's powers have been extended or clarified by acts of Congress on several occasions since enactment of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936.

The duties of the Commission include the investigation and determination of the ocean services, routes, and lines from points in the United States to foreign markets essential for the development and maintenance of the foreign commerce of the United States and the determination of what additions and replacements of the American merchant marine are required to create an adequate and well-balanced merchant fleet to provide shipping service on all routes essential for the flow of the foreign commerce of the United States, the vessels to be so designed as to be capable of serving as naval or military auxiliaries in time of war or national emergency; and investigation of other maritime problems arising under the act.

To aid the citizen of the United States in the construction of a new vessel to be used on a service, route, or line in the foreign commerce of the United States determined to be essential, the Commission is empowered to have the vessel constructed in a shipyard in the United States, to pay such construction cost, and to sell the vessel to the applicant for an amount equal to the estimated cost of the construction of the vessel if it were constructed in a foreign shipyard. The plans and specifications are required to be approved by the Secretary of the Navy, the Commission being directed to cooperate with the Navy Department as to national-defense needs and the adaptation of the merchant fleet to national-defense requirements. The difference between the cost of constructing the vessel in the United States and the estimated cost of constructing the vessel in a foreign shipyard is termed a construction-differential subsidy, but in no case may such subsidy exceed 50 percent of the cost of the vessel. Under temporary emergency legislation the Commission is authorized to make the determinations of estimated foreign costs on the basis of the conditions existing during the period prior to September 3, 1939. The applicant is required to pay 25 percent of the price at which a vessel is sold to the applicant, and the balance, payable within 20 years at 3½-percent interest per annum, must be secured by a first preferred mortgage upon the vessel.

Aid may be extended to any citizen of the United States in the construction of a new vessel to be operated in the foreign or domestic trade (excepting vessels engaged solely in the transportation of property on inland rivers and canals exclusively), in cases where no construction-differential subsidy is to be allowed, although the Commission is authorized to pay the cost of any national defense features incorporated in such new vessels. The applicant is required, in case the vessel has a gross tonnage of 3,500 or more tons and a speed of 16 knots or more, to pay not less than 12½ per centum of the cost of the vessel, and in case of a vessel of less tonnage or less speed, not less than 25 per centum of the cost of the vessel; and the balance, payable within 20 years at 3½-percent interest per annum, must be secured by a first preferred mortgage and otherwise as the Commission may direct.

If it is found that the national policy declared in the act and the building program contemplated by the act cannot be realized within a reasonable time, after approval by the President, the Commission may have new vessels constructed and old ones reconditioned. Vessels transferred to the Commission and being operated in foreign commerce may be temporarily operated by the Commission for its account by private operators. All vessels transferred to or otherwise acquired by the Commission may be chartered or sold. Charters under the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, are restricted to bareboat charters.

The Commission is empowered to grant an operating-differential subsidy to aid a citizen of the United States in the operation of a vessel to be used in an essential service, route, or line in the foreign commerce of the United States. The operating-differential subsidy, which is intended to place the proposed operations of such vessels on a parity with those of foreign competitors, is the excess of the cost of items of operating expense in which it is found the applicant is at a substantial disadvantage in competition with foreign vessels over the estimated cost of the same items of expense if the vessels were operated under registry of a foreign country whose vessels are substantial competitors of the vessels covered by the contract. Certain reserve funds are required to be set up by the vessel operators, and no operating-differential subsidy may be paid for coastwise or intercoastal vessel operations.

The Commission is authorized (under the 1939 amendments to the act) to acquire any obsolete vessel or vessels not less than 17 years old, which have been owned by citizens of the United States for at least 3 years prior to the date of such acquisition, in exchange for credit on the purchase of a new vessel or vessels from the Commission or on a new vessel or vessels constructed in a domestic shipyard and documented under the laws of the United States. The allowance is to be the fair and reasonable value of the old vessel as determined by the Commission after consideration of the scrap value, the depreciated value, and the market value for operation.

The Commission administers, under regulations prescribed jointly with the Treasury Department, construction reserve funds established by American ship-owners who may deposit therein proceeds from the sales or indemnity for loss of vessels and earnings from operations of vessels, for use in the construction or acquisition of new vessels. Any deposits so used which represent gain on the sale or loss of a vessel are exempt from the taxes on capital gain, but the tax basis of the new vessel will be reduced by the amount of such gain not taxed.

During a national emergency proclaimed by the President, or whenever the President proclaims that the security of the national defense makes it advisable, the Commission may terminate charters on vessels owned by the Commission, and may requisition any vessel or other watercraft owned by citizens of the United States, or under construction in the United States, subject to provisions for the payment of just compensation. This authority is being exercised by the War Shipping Administration during World War II under authority of Executive Order 9054.

The Commission regulates the sales to aliens, and the transfer to foreign registry, of vessels owned in whole or in part by citizens of the United States and documented under the laws of the United States and, in time of war or national emergency proclaimed by the President, of vessels so owned without regard to documentation.

The 1938 amendments added a new title to the act which provides for a Federal ship mortgage insurance fund to be administered by the Commission. Under authority conferred by this new title the Commission may, upon application of a mortgagee, insure mortgages on all types of passenger, cargo, and fishing vessels, vessels and tugs, towboats, barges, and dredges of not less than 200 gross tons, owned by citizens of the United States. To be eligible for such insurance the mortgage must be to secure a new loan or advance to aid in the construction, reconstruction, or reconditioning of a vessel and the amount of the mortgage insured may not exceed 75 percent of the cost of such new construction, reconstruction, or reconditioning. The premium charge for the mortgage insurance is fixed by the Commission but shall not be less than one-half of 1 percent per annum nor more than 1 percent per annum of the amount of the mortgage obligation outstanding at any time. The premium charge is to be paid by the mortgagee.

The Commission is directed to investigate employment and wage conditions in ocean shipping and to incorporate in contracts for operating differential subsidies minimum-manning scales, minimum-wage scales, and reasonable working conditions for all officers and crews employed on vessels receiving an operating differential subsidy. All licensed officers of vessels documented under the laws of the United States must be citizens of the United States, and the act contains provisions in respect to the citizenship of members of crews of subsidized vessels. Citizenship requirements of officers and crews are enforced by the Coast Guard.

The regulatory powers possessed by the Commission extend to all common carriers by water engaged in foreign commerce of the United States and to all persons carrying on the business of forwarding or furnishing wharfage, dock, warehouse, or other terminal facilities in connection with common carriers by water. These powers are principally in relation to rates, fares, charges, regulations, and practices. The Commission possesses quasi-judicial authority to receive and determine complaints of shippers, passengers, and others alleging unreasonableness or unjust discrimination by common carriers by water and others subject to its regulatory authority and the method for the enforcement of orders of the Commission, including orders directing the payment of money in reparation for violation of statutory provisions, as prescribed in the Shipping Acts. An important regulatory power vested in the Commission is the approval, disapproval, or modification of agreements entered into between common carriers by water subject to its jurisdiction respecting cooperative working arrangements. The Commission's approval of such agreements, commonly referred to as conference agreements, excepts the parties thereto from the operation of the Sherman Antitrust Act, Wilson Tariff Act, Clayton Act, and supplementary acts and amendments directed at monopolies in restraint of trade.

The Commission's authority has been modified and amplified in connection with the national emergency and World War II.

Under the 1936 act the Commission adopted, prior to the outbreak of World War II, and has been carrying out the long-range ship construction program of 500 ships in 10 years. This program placed the ship construction industry on a sound basis capable of wartime expansion. From January 1, 1942, through the year 1945, the Commission carried out the greatest shipbuilding program in history. The total output for this period was 5,592 vessels, which aggregated 54,153,000 tons deadweight. Included in this accelerated program were cargo vessels of the Liberty, Victory, and Standard "C" types, and tankers, as well as various types of military and naval auxiliaries.

The Commission is authorized temporarily to dispose of over-age vessels held by it, notwithstanding certain restrictions of law, for operation in either domestic or foreign trade.

The Commission is authorized to make adjustments of ship mortgage indebtedness to the United States and make arrangements for the maintenance of vessels in cases where the vessels involved cannot by reason of the Neutrality Act of 1939 or considerations of national defense be operated in their assigned services.

Notwithstanding certain restrictions of law, persons engaged upon work covered by Commission contracts for the construction, alteration, or repair of vessels may be employed more than 8 hours in any 1 day on condition that the prescribed overtime compensation is paid.

The Commission has been placed on a parity with the War and Navy Departments with respect to preferences for delivery of materials under contracts or orders deemed necessary by the President for the defense of the United States.

The Commission may in carrying out the 1936 act negotiate construction contracts without competitive bidding and adjust outstanding construction contracts.

The chairman of the Commission, in coordination with the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, is authorized to renegotiate contracts for the purpose of preventing or recapturing excessive profits in accordance with the provisions of section 403 of the Sixth Supplemental National Defense Appropriation Act, 1942, as amended by the Revenue Act of 1942.

Under the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 and the Surplus Property Act of 1944 the Commission settles claims arising from war contracts terminated at the option or for the convenience of the Commission, aids in the disposition of contract and subcontract termination inventory, promotes the utilization of unrequired materials by war contractors with the Commission, and stores and disposes of surplus property both as owning and as disposal agency. Under section 10 (b) of the latter act the Commission is the sole disposal agency for surplus merchant ships.

The Commission, under the Merchant Ship Sales Act of 1946 (Public Law 321, 79th Cong.), approved March 8, 1946, is authorized to sell or charter certain war-built merchant vessels, and to place in a national defense reserve fleet vessels necessary for the national defense.

War Shipping Administration (see p. 536).—The Administrator, appointed by and responsible to the President, is authorized to perform the following functions and duties: Control the operation, purchase, charter, requisition and use of all ocean vessels under the flag or control of the United States except combatant vessels, transports and vessels engaged in inland transportation which are under the control of the Office of Defense Transportation; to allocate vessels under the flag or control of the United States for use by the Army, Navy, other Government agencies, and the governments of the United Nations; to provide marine insurance and reinsurance against loss or damage by the risks of war; to establish the conditions to be complied with as conditions to receiving priorities and other advantages as provided by the act of Congress of July 14, 1941 (55 Stat. 591); to represent the United States Government in dealing with the British Ministry of War Transport and with similar shipping agencies of nations allied with the United States in the prosecution of the war in matters related to the use of shipping; to train personnel for the Merchant Marine in all of its branches and ratings, including unlicensed seamen, radio operators, officers from the ranks and the training of cadets for officers, and to operate State nautical schools (under Government aid and supervision), training stations and training ships in connection therewith; to maintain current data on the availability of shipping, in being and under construction, and to furnish such data on request to the War and Navy Departments, and other Federal departments and agencies concerned with the import or export of war materials and commodities; to keep the President informed with regard to the progress made and perform such related duties as the President shall from time to time assign or delegate to him; to cooperate with existing military, naval, and civil departments and agencies of the Government performing functions connected with wartime overseas transportation and to issue such directives as he may deem necessary, from time to time.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR AERONAUTICS

Creation and authority.—The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics was created by act of Congress approved March 3, 1915 (38 Stat. 930; 49 U. S. C. 241), as amended by the act approved March 2, 1929 (45 Stat. 1451; 49 U. S. C. 241), as amended by the act approved June 23, 1938 (52 Stat. 1027; 49 U. S. C. 241).

Purpose.—The law provides that the Committee shall "supervise and direct the scientific study of the problems of flight, with a view to their practical solution, * * *" and also "direct and conduct research and experiment in aeronautics."

Under rules and regulations formulated by the Committee and approved by the President, technical subcommittees, organized along lines similar to the main Committee, and with members serving as such without compensation, prepare programs of fundamental research in aeronautics. Applied research is also conducted to answer immediate and pressing problems in military and civil aeronautics. In order that research programs may be of maximum value, provision is made to keep the subcommittees informed as far as possible as to aeronautical researches conducted by foreign nations.

The general purposes of the Committee are to—

1. Coordinate the research needs of aviation, civil and military.
2. Prevent duplication in the field of aeronautical research.
3. Conduct, under unified control of the Committee, scientific aeronautical research, including:

(a) Special investigations in the nature of applied research on problems submitted by the Army and Navy for immediate improvement in performance of military and naval aircraft.

(b) Fundamental researches instituted by the Committee on its own initiative or authorized upon request of the Army, Navy, or Civil Aeronautics Authority, to increase speed, safety, and economy of operation of aircraft, military and civil.

4. Advise the War and Navy Departments, the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and the aviation industry as to the latest research information.

5. Consider merits of aeronautical inventions submitted by the public to any agency of the Government.

6. On request of the President, the Congress, or any executive department, to advise upon any special problem in aeronautics which may be referred to it.

Organization.—The Committee is composed of 15 members appointed by the President, and consists of 2 representatives each of the War and Navy Departments (from the offices in charge of military and naval aeronautics) and Civil Aeronautics Authority, 1 representative each of the Smithsonian Institution, the United States Weather Bureau, and the National Bureau of Standards, together with 6 additional persons who are "acquainted with the needs of aeronautical science, either civil or military, or skilled in aeronautical engineering or its allied sciences." All the members serve as such without compensation.

Laboratories.—The Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory at Langley Field, Va., the Ames Aeronautical Laboratory at Moffett Field, Calif., and the Aircraft Engine Research Laboratory at Cleveland, Ohio, are the principal aeronautical research laboratories of the Government, where the Committee carries on fundamental scientific research and development on which the War and Navy Departments, the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and the aircraft industry rely for new knowledge underlying progress in improving the performance, efficiency, and safety of American aircraft.

Office of Aeronautical Intelligence.—This Office was established in the early part of 1918. It serves as the depository and distributing agency for the scientific and technical data on aeronautics comprising the results of Committee researches, and for similar information collected by the Committee from governmental and private agencies in this country and abroad.

Office of Aeronautical Inventions.—This Office gives preliminary consideration to, and analyzes and prepares reports on, the merits of aeronautical inventions and designs submitted to the Government through any agency.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES

The National Archives was established under an act of Congress approved June 19, 1934 (48 Stat. 1122-24), which created the Office of Archivist of the United States and prescribed his duties. The primary objective of the National Archives is to make the experience of the Government and the people of the United States as it is embodied in the records of the Federal Government and related materials available to guide and assist the Government and the people in planning and conducting their activities. It endeavors to attain that objective by assembling, preserving, arranging, and describing such of the noncurrent records of agencies of the Federal Government as have sufficient administrative, legal, research, or other value to warrant their permanent preservation and by making such records available for use by Government officials, scholars, and others who have occasion to consult them. "Motion-picture films and sound recordings pertaining to and illustrative of historical activities of the United States" are also accepted, preserved, and made available.

Another function of the National Archives is the appraisal of records believed to be appropriate for disposal in order that the Archivist may report to Congress such of them as in his opinion lack sufficient value to warrant their continued preservation by the Government.

The Division of the Federal Register of the National Archives was created by a separate law approved July 26, 1935 (49 Stat. 500-503). Under this law and subsequent amendments thereto this Division receives and publishes in daily issues of the Federal Register the text of all Presidential proclamations and Executive orders and of rules and regulations issued by Federal agencies that have general applicability and legal effect. It also prepares for publication codifications of all such documents that are still in force and effect, and annual supplements to these codifications.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES COUNCIL

The National Archives Council was established by the National Archives Act (48 Stat. 1122-1124), which provides that the Council "shall define the classes of material which shall be transferred to the National Archives Building and establish regulations governing such transfer; and shall have power to advise the Archivist in respect to regulations governing the disposition and use of the archives and records transferred to his custody." An act of July 7, 1943, as amended July 6, 1945, concerning the disposal of records (57 Stat. 380-383; 59 Stat. 434), assigned to the Council the duties of "establishing (1) procedures for the compiling and submitting to the Archivist of the United States of lists and schedules of records proposed for disposal, (2) procedures for the disposal of records authorized for disposal, and (3) standards for the reproduction of records by photographic or microphotographic processes with a view to the disposal of the original records." Such regulations, when approved by the President, are binding on all agencies of the United States Government.

NATIONAL HISTORICAL PUBLICATIONS COMMISSION

The National Historical Publications Commission was created by the National Archives Act (48 Stat. 1122-1124).

The duties of the Commission are to "make plans, estimates, and recommendations for such historical works and collections of sources as seem appropriate for publication and/or otherwise recording at the public expense." The Archivist of the United States is the chairman of the Commission and is required by the act to transmit its recommendations to Congress.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES TRUST FUND BOARD

The National Archives Trust Fund Board was created by an act of July 9, 1941 (55 Stat. 581), which authorizes the Board "to accept, receive, hold, and administer such gifts or bequests of money, securities, or other personal property, for the benefit of or in connection with the National Archives, its collections, or its services, as may be approved by the Board."

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT LIBRARY

The Franklin D. Roosevelt Library was created by a joint resolution approved July 18, 1939 (53 Stat. 1062-1066), to preserve and administer collections of historical material donated to it by Franklin D. Roosevelt and such other material related to and contemporary with this material as may be acquired from other sources by gift, purchase, or loan. The administration of the Library is vested in the Archivist of the United States.

TRUSTEES OF THE FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT LIBRARY

A Board known as the Trustees of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library was created by the joint resolution establishing the Library (53 Stat. 1062-1066), which authorizes the Board to "receive gifts and bequests of personal property and to hold and administer the same as trust funds for the benefit of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library."

NATIONAL CAPITAL HOUSING AUTHORITY

The National Capital Housing Authority is the public housing agency for the District of Columbia. In normal times, its dual objective is to reclaim the slums of Washington and to assure an adequate supply of dwellings, for families of low income whose housing needs are not adequately met by private enterprise. Its wartime objective is to provide, when properly designated as a Federal agency to do so, dwellings for war workers whose services are needed in Washington and for their immediate families. Its activities, in wartime, extend to the metropolitan area of Washington.

The Authority was established under the terms of the District of Columbia Alley Dwelling Act, approved June 12, 1934 (48 Stat. 930); amendments to this act were approved on June 25, 1938 (Public Law No. 733, 75th Cong.).

Members of the Authority were designated, and their duties generally outlined, in Executive Order No. 6868, October 9, 1934, which was amended by Executive Order No. 7784-A, January 5, 1938, and by Executive Order No. 8033, dated January 11, 1939. The Authority consists of the chairman of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the Architect of the Capitol, and the director of planning of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

As the Alley Dwelling Act authorized the President to designate "an Authority," without further specifying the title of the proposed agency, Executive Order No. 6868, above referred to, conferred the name of "The Alley Dwelling Authority" on the organization designated to act for the President in carrying out the provisions of the act. This title was used until June 1, 1943, when, under the terms of Executive Order No. 9344, the President redesignated the agency as the "National Capital Housing Authority."

The Authority's operations originally were restricted to squares containing inhabited alleys, so that these hidden communities—the characteristic slums of Washington—could be eliminated and their sites reclaimed. Amendments to the Alley Dwelling Act enlarge the alley slum reclamation program and permit the Authority to acquire sites in the District elsewhere than in "alley" squares, for the purpose of providing dwellings for persons or families substantially equal in number to those whose houses the Authority may demolish.

The amendments to the act were necessitated by the Authority's past and prospective demolitions of slum dwellings on sites unsuitable for residential redevelopment. In such instances, the Authority has reclaimed the cleared sites for nonresidential uses in harmony with the character of their neighborhoods; but a serious housing shortage would be caused if the Authority were unable to build compensatory housing in other areas.

The Authority may acquire sites by purchase, gift, or condemnation. It is authorized to replat land so acquired, to install public services, and to make such use of the sites as may be necessary; to lease, rent, maintain, equip, manage, exchange, sell, or convey any of its holdings—land or buildings—for such amounts and on such terms and conditions as it may determine.

The Authority may transfer to the Federal Government or the District government for public use any of its holdings on the payment to the Authority of their reasonable value. The Authority also may make loans to limited-dividend corporations or to home owners to enable them to acquire and develop sites on the property.

For the purposes of slum reclamation, the Authority was empowered to borrow an aggregate of $5,000,000 from the Treasury of the United States in five equal annual installments, beginning with the fiscal year 1939, such loans to bear interest at the going Federal rate, but received no funds from this source during the 5-year period. The Authority also may accept gifts of money from private sources, and may borrow funds from individuals or private corporations on the security of property and assets acquired under the act.

The act also permits the Authority to receive financial assistance from the United States Housing Authority—the functions of which have since been transferred to the Federal Public Housing Authority, National Housing Agency—to construct low-rent housing projects in accordance with the provisions of the United States Housing Act of 1937.

In addition to the foregoing, the United States Housing Act authorizes the President to make allocations of United States Housing Authority funds to the National Capital Housing Authority for the purposes of the District of Columbia Alley Dwelling Act.

NATIONAL CAPITAL PARK AND PLANNING COMMISSION

The National Capital Park Commission was created by the act approved June 6, 1924 (Public, No. 202, 68th Cong.), for the purpose of preserving the flow of water in Rock Creek, preventing the pollution of Rock Creek and the Potomac and Anacostia Rivers, preserving forests and natural scenery in and about Washington, and to provide for the comprehensive, systematic, and continuous development of the park, parkway, and playground system of the National Capital. The Director of National Park Service is executive officer of the Commission.

The Commission was authorized and directed to acquire such lands as in its judgment shall be necessary and desirable in the District of Columbia and (by agreement with Maryland and Virginia authorities) adjacent areas in Maryland and Virginia, for suitable development of the National Capital park, parkway, and playground system.

By act of April 30, 1926, the name of the Commission was changed to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The same officials named in the former act were retained as ex officio members and the President was authorized to add "four eminent citizens well qualified and experienced in city planning, one of whom shall be a bona fide resident of the District of Columbia," to be appointed, after the original appointments, for the term of 6 years, to serve without compensation. The new Commission retained all the powers of the Park Commission and was given further important advisory powers. It was charged with the duty of preparing, developing, and maintaining a comprehensive, consistent, and coordinated plan for the National Capital and its environs, which plan shall include recommendations to the proper executive authorities as to traffic and transportation; plants and subdivisions; highways, parks, and parkways, school and library sites; playgrounds; drainage, sewer, and water supply; housing; building and zoning regulations; public and private buildings; bridges and water fronts; commerce and industry; and other proper elements of city and regional planning. Paragraph (c) transfers to this Commission the power previously vested in the highway commission, namely, the approval of revision of the recommendations of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for changes in the existing highway plan. Paragraph (d) vested the new commission with all the powers of the original National Capital Park Commission.

By act of May 29, 1930, establishing the George Washington Memorial Parkway and for other purposes, a regional park system for Washington and its environs was approved, including a basis for cooperation with the States of Maryland and Virginia and authorizing an advance of funds to the District of Columbia for use by the Commission in accelerating park purchases within the District.

NATIONAL HOUSING AGENCY AND HOUSING EXPEDITER

The National Housing Agency, headed by the National Housing Administrator, was established by Executive Order 9070 on February 24, 1942, which consolidated the nonfarm housing functions of the Federal Government in a single agency charged with the responsibility for the activities formerly carried on by:

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the Federal Home Loan Bank System, the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the United States Housing Corporation, the Federal Housing Administration, the United States Housing Authority, the Defense Homes Corporation, the Division of Defense Housing Coordination, the Central Housing Committee, the nonfarm functions of the Farm Security Administration, the housing functions of the Public Buildings Administration, the Division of Defense Housing, and the Mutual Ownership Defense Housing Division, and the housing functions of the Federal Works Administrator. In addition, housing of the War and Navy Departments outside that on reservations, posts, and bases was taken over.

Agency policy functions are centered in the Office of the Administrator and operations are carried on through three major constituents: The Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, the Federal Housing Administration, and the Federal Public Housing Authority.

On December 12, 1945, the President appointed a Housing Expediter (who on February 6, 1946, was also appointed to the office of National Housing Administrator), to search out and break at all levels of industry and Government the impediments to the construction of housing required for veterans and other civilians. By Executive Order 9686 of January 26, 1946, the Housing Expediter was authorized to (1) formulate such plans and programs to provide for an increased supply of housing, particularly homes for sale or rental at moderate prices to veterans of World War II and their immediate families; (2) issue such orders, regulations, or directives to other executive agencies as may be necessary to provide for the exercise of their powers in a manner required by or consistent with the execution of such plans and programs; (3) recommend to the President the enactment of such legislation as may be necessary to provide the authority to carry out such plans and programs; and (4) consult and cooperate with other agencies of the Federal Government, State and local governments, industries, labor, and other groups, both national and local, with respect to the problems created by the housing emergency and its remedy.

The Veterans' Emergency Housing Program, prepared by the Housing Expediter and announced by the President on February 8, 1946, included the following measures: (1) Construction of 2,700,000 low and moderate cost homes to be started by the end of 1947; (2) preference for veterans and their families in the rental or purchase of these homes, with appropriate provisions for nonveteran hardship cases; (3) greatly expanded production of conventional and new type materials to be obtained by the use, where necessary, of premium payments for increased production, guaranteed markets for materials manufacturers, priorities, and allocations of equipment and materials, wage-price adjustments, or price increases where necessary and not inflationary, use of war plants and new facilities to increase production capacity, rapid tax amortization for plants which are newly built or converted to produce essential building materials, and absorption by Government of undue risks in developmental work on new type materials; (4) recruitment and training of 1,500,000 additional workers on-site and off-site by the middle of 1947; (5) postponement of all deferrable and nonessential construction for the balance of 1946 to release needed materials and labor for veterans' homes and for essential and nondeferrable construction; (6) rapid expansion of factory fabrication of materials and parts, as well as complete low-cost homes by making materials available and guaranteeing the market for the product; (7) priorities and allocations to home builders for equipment and materials; (8) Federal cooperation and assistance, where necessary, in the development of home sites; (9) channeling the largest part of materials into homes and rental housing, both farm and urban, selling for not more than $6,000 or renting for not more than $50 per month; (10) curbing of inflation through more effective price control and through the continuation of rent controls; (11) early adoption of S. 1592, the Wagner-Ellender-Taft bill; (12) insured mortgages on low-cost homes up to 90 percent of value and based on necessary current costs; (13) $250,000,000 for temporary re-use war housing; (14) community participation paralleling Federal action through emergency housing committees in cities and towns throughout the country; and (15) the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to play a major role in financing the program.

Many of these measures are now being carried out under legislation already enacted by the Congress, which also has under consideration legislation relating to others.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK ADMINISTRATION

One of the three operating units of the National Housing Agency, the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration carries out the functions, powers, and duties authorized by the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, as amended; the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, as amended, and title IV of the National Housing Act, as amended, which formerly were administered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Thus under the direction of the Bank Administration are (1) the Federal Home Loan Bank System, which functions as a credit reservoir for savings and home financing institutions, (2) the system of Federal savings and loan associations, (3) the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, which insures the safety of funds invested in savings and loan associations, and (4) the Home Owners' Loan Corporation (in liquidation). The United States Housing Corporation is also under the Bank Administration for liquidation.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK SYSTEM

The Federal Home Loan Bank System was established by authority of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act, approved July 22, 1932, to provide a national medium of reserve credit for thrift and home-financing institutions through the operations of Federal home loan banks, each serving two or more States. The Federal Home Loan Bank Act was subsequently amended by the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, approved June 13, 1933; by the National Housing Act, approved June 27, 1934; and by acts of Congress approved April 27, 1934, May 28, 1935, and March 28, 1941.

There are 11 Federal home loan banks, located as follows: Boston, New York, Pittsburgh, Winston-Salem, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Des Moines, Little Rock, Topeka, and San Francisco. The San Francisco bank maintains branch offices in Portland, Oreg., and Los Angeles. The Pittsburgh bank also maintains an office in Philadelphia. The chief function of the Federal home loan banks is to advance funds to their member institutions, enabling them to expand their services when there is an unusual demand for mortgage loans in their localities and to augment their resources to meet abnormal withdrawals of their investors' accounts. Advances by the regional banks are made on a long- or short-term basis, usually secured by obligations of the United States or home mortgages.

Each district bank has 12 directors, 4 appointed by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, and 8 elected by the member institutions. Pursuant to law, member institutions have been divided into three classes for purposes of electing directors—A, B, and C. These groups represent: A, the large; B, the medium-sized; and C, the small-sized member institutions, the classification being determined according to the aggregate unpaid principal of the member's home mortgage loans. Each of these classes elects 2 of the 8 directors, who must be officers or directors of member institutions in the class selecting them. The remaining 2 directors are elected by all the member institutions without regard to classes.

The capital stock of the 11 Federal home loan banks is subscribed by institutions which have been admitted into membership, except $124,741,000 of such stock which was originally subscribed by the Secretary of the Treasury and subsequently transferred to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Of this amount $1,089,800 had been retired as of March 31, 1946, thus reducing the amount of such Government-owned stock outstanding to $123,651,200. The original and minimum stock subscription for each member institution is an amount equal to 1 percent of the aggregate of the unpaid principal of the subscriber's home mortgage loans, but not less than $500. Other sources of funds for Federal home loan banks include deposits accepted from member institutions, deposits from other Federal home loan banks, advances discounted with other Federal home loan banks, and by borrowing money, including the issuance of bonds, debentures, and other obligations.

Any savings and loan association, building and loan association, cooperative bank, homestead association, insurance company, or savings bank is eligible to become a member of a Federal home loan bank if it is (1) duly organized under the laws of any State or of the United States, (2) subject to inspection and regulation under the banking laws or similar laws of the State or of the United States, and (3) makes such home mortgage loans as, in the judgment of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, are long-term loans (and, in the case of a savings bank, if, in the judgment of the Bank Administration, its time deposits warrant making such loans).

No institution is eligible to become a member of a Federal home loan bank if, in the judgment of the Bank Administration, its financial condition is such that advances may not safely be made to such institution, or the character of its management, or its home-financing policy is inconsistent with sound and economical home financing or the purposes of the act. The Administration may promulgate such rules, regulations, and orders as shall be necessary to carry out the purposes of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act.

The total amount of advances outstanding from a bank to any member can at no time exceed 12 times the amount of the member's holdings in capital stock of its regional bank. The schedule of interest rates charged by the banks to members must be approved by the Bank Administration. The Federal home loan banks also may make advances to nonmember lending institutions approved under title II of the National Housing Act upon the security of mortgages insured under title II of that act. The banks are not authorized to make loans to individuals.

Each bank may issue bonds, debentures, or other obligations when authorized by the Administration. To date funds of this character have been raised through the sale of consolidated debentures. Consolidated debentures, which are the joint and several obligations of all the banks, may be issued by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration not in excess of five times the banks' total paid-in capital or the amount of advances secured under section 10 (a) of the act, at the time of issue. No assets of any of these banks may be pledged as security for any debt or subject to any lien while any debentures so issued are outstanding.

The great bulk of the membership of the Federal home loan banks is made up of institutions of the savings and loan type. As of March 31, 1946, the 11 Federal home loan banks embraced 3,699 members, having aggregate assets of $8,767,000,000. Of these, 3,650 were savings and loan and similar associations, with assets totaling $7,789,000,000. In numbers, these institutions include about 58 percent of all savings and loan associations in the Nation, and they hold more than 88 percent of the assets of the entire industry. Fourteen of the remaining member institutions of the Bank System were insurance companies and 25 were savings banks.

The Federal home loan banks are self-sustaining and do not require or receive appropriations from Government funds.

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS

The chartering of Federal savings and loan associations is authorized by section 5 of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, approved June 13, 1933, as amended by acts of Congress approved April 27, 1934, May 28, 1935, August 10, 1939, October 24, 1942, and December 28, 1945. The purpose was to encourage sound and economical home financing by providing for the establishment of private mutual thrift institutions in areas where a need for such services existed.

Federal savings and loan associations may also be established by conversion of State-chartered associations which apply and are approved for Federal charter.

Each Federal savings and loan association, upon its establishment, automatically becomes a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and must obtain insurance of its investors' accounts by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Supervision of these institutions is exercised through the officers of the district Federal home loan banks in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Administration.

Federal savings and loan associations raise their capital only in the form of payments on share accounts. They may not accept deposits from the public and may not issue certificates of indebtedness except for borrowed money when authorized by regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration. They lend their funds primarily upon the security of monthly repayment first mortgages on homes or combination home and business properties located within 50 miles of their home offices.

These associations can be organized anywhere in the United States or its territories upon a petition by citizens for a charter. The Federal Home Loan Bank Administration, however, before it can grant a charter, must find that the incorporators are of good character and responsible, that there is a need for the proposed institution in its community, that the institution will, in all probability, be useful and successful, and that its incorporation will not unduly injure properly conducted existing thrift and home-financing institutions.

As of February 28, 1946, there were 1,468 Federal savings and loan associations in operation, with combined assets of $4,000,000,000.

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation was created under title IV of the National Housing Act, which has been amended by acts of Congress approved May 28, 1935, and February 3, 1938. The protection of savings by insurance, authorized under the act, was designed to strengthen the confidence of investors in local home-financing institutions of the savings and loan type. The safety of investment provided by such insurance also contributes to the national economy by increasing the supply of capital for financing the ownership of homes.

Insurance is mandatory for Federal savings and loan associations; State-chartered institutions of the savings, building and loan type may become insured upon application and approval. By law the Insurance Corporation's capital, in the amount of $100,000,000, was obtained by sale of its stock to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. Funds for operating expenses and reserves are obtained from premiums paid by insured institutions, earnings from investments, and admission fees paid by newly insured associations.

Each holder of a withdrawable (repurchasable) share account, deposit account, or investment certificate in an institution insured by the Corporation is insured against loss up to the amount of his investment and credited earnings not in excess of $5,000. Each insured institution pays an annual premium charge equivalent to one-eighth of 1 percent of the total amount of all accounts of its insured members, plus any creditor obligations. When the reserve fund of the Corporation equals 5 percent of all insured accounts and creditor obligations of all insured institutions the regular premiums will be suspended unless and until the reserve fund falls below 5 percent. Institutions applying for insurance are required to pay an admission fee, based on the amount of the Corporation's reserves.

Insurance may be terminated by the Insurance Corporation for violation by an insured institution of any law applicable to insurance of accounts, or the regulations of or agreements with the Corporation, provided for in the statutes. Insurance of accounts can be voluntarily terminated by any insured institution, except a federally chartered savings and loan association, upon adequate notice of its intention to the Corporation and to its members.

In order to prevent a default in an insured institution or in order to restore an insured institution in default to normal operation, the Corporation is authorized, in its discretion and within prescribed limits, to make loans to, purchase the assets of, or make contributions to the insured institution.

In the event an insured institution is taken over for liquidation by properly constituted authority, the Corporation is required to make available to the holder of an insured account either a new insured account of equal amount in a normally operating insured institution, or, at the option of the insured investor, 10 percent of his account in cash and the remainder in non-interest-bearing debentures of the Corporation, payable one half within 1 year and the other half within 3 years from the date the insured institution was taken over for liquidation. The total amount of insurance payable to any member or investor, however, may not exceed $5,000. If a federally chartered savings and loan associations is taken over for liquidation, the Insurance Corporation must serve as conservator or receiver. In the event the institution to be liquidated is State chartered, the services of the Insurance Corporation as conservator, receiver, or other legal custodian are tendered to the State.

As of March 31, 1946, there were 2,485 insured savings and loan associations with assets totaling approximately $6,350,000,000.

HOME OWNERS' LOAN CORPORATION

The Home Owners' Loan Corporation was created by the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, which has been amended by acts approved June 27, 1934 (the National Housing Act), April 27, 1934, May 28, 1935, and August 11, 1939. Provided with $200,000,000 initial capital, the Corporation was authorized to issue United States guaranteed bonds in an aggregate amount not to exceed $4,750,000,000. The total issued was $3,489,453,550, of which $826,000,000 was outstanding on February 28, 1946.

The general purpose of the HOLC was to refinance home mortgages of distressed home owners by exchanging its bonds for such mortgages, which were then taken over by the Corporation as long term, monthly repayment loans. Loans could be made only to those who were unable to procure needed financing through normal channels. Loans were made on the security of dwellings for not more than four families valued at not more than $20,000. In accordance with law, the Corporation ceased lending on June 12, 1936, after making 1,017,821 loans to a total of $3,093,000,000.

Since then the Corporation has been engaged in the collection of its loans and the orderly liquidation of the houses it was forced to acquire. Up to February 28, 1946, total loans, subsequent advances, and other investments of the Corporation in its loans, sales contracts, and properties reached a cumulative total of $3,490,000,000. On the same date $2,676,000,000, or 76.7 percent of this amount, had been liquidated.

Under the original Home Owners' Loan Act, loans of the Corporation were written for a term not to exceed 15 years, with interest at 5 percent. On August 11, 1939, the act was amended to permit the Corporation to extend its loans to a maximum of 25 years where it considers that the borrower's circumstances and the condition of the security justify such an extension.

In 1939 the Corporation made provision to accept, until further notice, interest at the rate of 4½ percent per annum on all payments due on and after October 16, 1939, on the indebtedness of home owners to the Corporation arising from any loan, advance, or sale of property. On all purchase-money obligations taken on or after October 1, 1939, in connection with the sale of real property by the Corporation, interest is to be charged at the 4½ percent rate until otherwise directed by the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration.

In addition, the Corporation is authorized to purchase obligations of the Federal home loan banks, shares of federally chartered savings and loan associations, and shares and other securities of other qualified applying institutions which are members of a Federal home loan bank or whose accounts are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, up to a total of $300,000,000. An aggregate of $223,857,000 was so invested in shares of associations (chiefly from 1936 to 1938); $17,999,000 remained outstanding on February 28, 1946. An additional $100,000,000 of the Corporation's authorized bond issue has been used for the purchase of the entire capital stock of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Although the amount which the Corporation may spend for administrative expenditures is fixed pursuant to an authorization by Congress, all the money expended by the Corporation is paid out of its funds and in no part from regular governmental funds.

UNITED STATES HOUSING CORPORATION

The United States Housing Corporation was incorporated on July 5, 1918, pursuant to act of Congress approved June 4, 1918 (40 Stat. 595). Its purpose was to provide housing incident to the mobilization for World War I. The Corporation was transferred from the Department of Labor to the Department of the Treasury by Executive Order No. 7641 of June 22, 1937, to be under the supervision of the Director of Procurement. It was transferred from the Treasury Department to the Public Buildings Administration of the Federal Works Agency by Executive Order No. 8186 of June 29, 1939. Under the provisions of Executive Order No. 9070 of February 24, 1942, the Corporation was placed in the Federal Home Loan Bank Administration for liquidation.

FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION

Established in June 1934, under the National Housing Act, the Federal Housing Administration was directed by Congress "to encourage improvement in housing standards and conditions, to create a sound mortgage market, and to provide a system of mutual mortgage insurance."

The FHA itself lends no money and builds no houses. Its function is to insure approved private financial institutions against loss on loans made for the construction, purchase, repair, and improvement of houses where FHA standards and conditions are met. In addition, FHA is authorized to insure mortgages on large scale rental projects.

Chief innovation of the FHA insured mortgage system was the single, long-term mortgage, repayable monthly over a period of years. Payments include reduction of principal, interest at not more than $4\frac{1}{2}$ percent on reducing balances, mortgage insurance premium at one-half of 1 percent on reducing balances, taxes, fire and hazard insurance.

Beside creating the FHA, three titles of the National Housing Act—titles I, II and VI—relate specifically to the insurance of loans.

Insurance coverage under title I amounts to 10 percent of the aggregate loans made by qualified lenders for property improvements, alterations, and repairs. Most such loans are limited to a maximum of $2,500 and a maximum term of 3 years, repayable in monthly installments. An annual insurance premium of three-fourth of 1 percent is charged and the rate of discount, covering all charges, may not exceed $5 per $100 a year.

As a means of encouraging private participation in the War Housing Program, Congress authorized the FHA to increase the size of individual loans under title I to $5,000 where alterations would provide additional living quarters for essential war workers, through conversion of existing structures. Under wartime conditions, many title I loans were subject to regulation W of the Federal Reserve Board requiring shorter maturities than allowed by the National Housing Act.

Total liability which may be outstanding at any time under present provisions of title I is $165,000,000, and authority to insure loans under the title runs to July 1, 1947. Insuring operations under title I through December 31, 1945, have involved a total of 5,328,970 loans, amounting to $2,091,674,631. Gross claims paid through December 31, 1945, amounted to 2.49 percent of the face amount of the loans, while net claims after collections and reposessions of property amounted to 1.19 percent.

Principal FHA operation in peacetime is under section 203 of title II, which provides for insurance of mortgage loans up to $16,000 and for monthly amortization periods up to 20 to 25 years on one-to-four family dwellings. Such loans may cover either new or existing houses. Insured loans on existing homes may not exceed 80 percent of the value of the property, land and building, as appraised by FHA. Where the mortgage loans are for not more than $5,400 and cover new, single-family houses built for owner-occupancy and under FHA inspection, the insured mortgage may be for 90 percent of the appraised value and may run for 25 years. On new owner-occupied homes valued at not more than $10,000, the FHA may insure a mortgage covering 90 percent of the first $6,000 and 80 percent of the remainder, up to a maximum mortgage of $8,600. The maximum term of repayment of such loans is 20 years.

Through December 31, 1945, a total approximately of 1,128,114 mortgages on one-to-four family dwellings had been insured under section 203 of title II for a total amount of $4,954,687,695. Of this amount, $2,300,000,000 has been repaid.

Provision is made under section 207 for the insurance of mortgages up to $5,000,000 on apartment houses, or groups of single or multiple-family houses. Such mortgages are limited to 80 percent of the estimated value of the property when the proposed improvements are completed, but in no event may a mortgage insured under this section exceed the estimated cost of completed physical improvements. However, the insurance may cover advances made during the course of construction. Strict regulation of the mortgagor is provided for under section 207, and more than 41,000 units have been built and financed under the provisions of this section of the act.

The total amount of principal obligations of all mortgages insured under title II outstanding at any one time may not exceed $4,000,000,000, an amount which can be increased to $5,000,000,000 with approval of the President.

During the war period FHA operations under title II were limited to insuring mortgages on existing houses, but were again resumed on new construction after the surrender of Japan.

In March 1941 Congress added title VI to the National Housing Act to permit FHA to insure risks undertaken by private lenders and builders during the war emergency which under peacetime operations might not be assumed. The FHA discontinued acceptance of applications under the war housing program in September 1945.

Mortgages insured under title VI were limited to a maximum of $5,400 on a single-family dwelling, $7,500 on a two-family, $9,500 on a three-family, and $12,000 on a four-family dwelling. Ceilings were placed on sale prices and rentals and the houses had to be held for occupancy by war workers under regulations of the National Housing Agency.

As of December 31, 1945, a total of 377,360 war housing units had been financed with mortgages insured under section 603 of title VI amounting to $1,544,215,992.

Mortgages on large-scale housing projects also were insured under section 608 of title VI, but could not exceed $5,000,000 and 90 percent of the estimated reasonable replacement cost of the completed project, including the land and could not exceed the estimated cost of the physical improvements, exclusive of off-site public utilities and streets, and organization and legal expenses.

The mortgagor had to be approved by the FHA Commissioner and could be regulated as to rents or sales, charges, capital structure, rate of return, and methods of operation. The property had to be held for occupancy by eligible war workers until occupancy controls were lifted in October 1945. As of December 31, 1945, mortgages totaling $164,261,711 on 37,705 such units in 486 projects had been insured. Maximum interest rate on section 608 mortgages is 4 percent and the mortgage insurance rate is one-half of 1 percent, both on reducing balances.

During the war period the facilities of FHA's field offices were used in processing builders' applications for priorities under the War Production Board's controlled materials plan.

Currently, FHA is self-sustaining and for the past 6 years has paid all operating expenses out of income derived chiefly from premiums and fees. In addition, net resources exceeding $116,416,922 have been accumulated in its insuring funds for payment of future expenses, losses, and dividends.

Gross income during the year 1945 under all insuring operations was greater than any previous year, amounting to $29,850,168. Expenses of administering all titles and sections of the act during 1945 amounted to $10,538,337, leaving an excess of gross income of $19,311,831 to be added to the various insurance funds.

Also during 1944 FHA paid the first dividends out of the Mutual Mortgage Insurance Fund. About $1,111,000 in dividends is being distributed to nearly 35,311 mortgagors who paid off their mortgages in full during 1944 and 1945.

FEDERAL PUBLIC HOUSING AUTHORITY

The Federal Public Housing Authority has responsibility for federally administered public housing programs. At the beginning of 1946 the FPHA had five principal functions.

1. The management of public war housing during the period of reconversion and demobilization for distressed families of veterans and servicemen for civilian employees of the War and Navy Departments and of private industries completing war contracts, and for distressed families dislocated or displaced as a result of the war of demobilization.

2. The relocation and conversion of surplus Federal housing facilities into temporary emergency housing for veterans' and servicemen's families.

3. The disposal of public housing determined to be surplus to the above needs.

4. The administration of the low-rent housing built before the war, and the conversion of war housing under the United States Housing Act to low-rent status.

5. The reactivation of deferred low-rent projects as building labor and materials become available.

Before the outbreak of war interrupted construction of low-rent housing under the United States Housing Act, local housing authorities in 173 communities built 334 projects containing 105,600 units for low-income families formerly living in slum dwellings.

The total development cost of the prewar low-rent projects was $483,000,000. Although the FPHA is authorized to lend up to 90 percent of the development costs, it has actually supplied only two-thirds of the long-term financing, as a result of the ability of local housing authorities to sell bonds on the private market at an interest saving. All loans from the FPHA or private investors are to be repaid in full, with interest.

To help keep rents within the means of low-income families, the FPHA makes an annual contribution, or subsidy, which for 1944, totaled $8,600,000, or $7.19 per dwelling unit per month. To June 30, 1945, Federal subsidy payments totaled $43,409,000; this represents the entire cost to the Federal Government since the beginning of the low-rent program. In addition, the local community is required to make an annual contribution equivalent to at least one-fifth of the Federal contribution. This is normally done by exempting the projects from State and local taxes, as authorized by the United States Housing Act and State housing laws.

When the war began only half of the program authorized under the United States Housing Act had been completed. Units under construction at that time were completed with the aid of priorities to house war workers, and are being turned back to the use of low-income families as conditions permit. Additional war housing projects were built under Public Law 671, which authorized the use of low-rent housing funds for war housing construction. Low-rent units scheduled in areas not requiring more war housing were deferred, pending availability of building labor and materials.

The major wartime function of FPHA was to provide publicly financed housing for in-migrant war workers and their families, the FPHA being responsible for the construction and management of about four-fifths of the total provided. The remainder was provided by other agencies, principally the War and Navy Departments and the United States Maritime Commission. For the total public war housing program, some $2,600,000,000 was made available all from Congressional appropriations or loan authorization except $29,000,000 expended by the New York State Division of Housing.

From these funds some 864,000 accommodations were provided for families or single persons; in addition 32,000 had been scheduled but not completed by August 31, 1945. The total includes 610,000 family dwelling units, 171,000 dormitory units, and 83,000 trailers, portable shelters and other forms of stop-gap housing. These figures include accommodations made available by re-use of trailers and temporary or demountable units which were moved from one location to another.

Not counting units that may be transferred to the FPHA by the National Housing Agency or the War Assets Administration, the FPHA had some 656,000 units, completed or under construction contract, to dispose of.

About 321,000 are temporary units, unsuitable for long-term use as housing. These must be removed from their present sites as promptly as the needs of demobilization permit, and not later than 2 years after the end of the emergency. Such projects will be sold to Federal agencies, State and local governments and nonprofit institutions, or to private purchasers who will contract to remove the structures and restore the site.

About 181,000 units are permanent, including 107,000 of standard construction, and 74,000 demountables which may be dismantled and reerected at new locations. These will be sold to occupants or other private purchasers, unless sold or transferred to other Federal agencies, or State and local governments. They may be sold to local housing authorities for low-rent use if officially requested by the community and approved by Congress.

The 63,000 war housing family units, built by congressional authorization with United States Housing Act low-rent funds, are being converted to the use of low-income families.

The FPHA's stock of 35,000 trailers will be disposed of by an appropriate agency designated by the War Assets Administration.

About 56,000 units converted from existing structures, mostly under 7-year lease from private owners, will be returned, usually at the expiration of the lease term.

Under provisions of title V of the Lanham Act, and appropriation of $445,627,000, the NHA, through the FPHA, was authorized to bear the expense of moving and converting approximately 200,000 units of surplus war housing in 1946 into temporary emergency housing. This housing was allocated to local public bodies and educational institutions for rental to veterans' and servicemen's families.

The 200,000 units of temporary housing are part of the Veterans' Emergency Housing Program.

NATIONAL MEDIATION BOARD

The National Mediation Board was organized under the provisions of Public Act No. 442, Seventy-third Congress, approved June 21, 1934, entitled "An act to provide for the prompt disposition of disputes between carriers and their employees, and for other purposes," known as "the Railway Labor Act." It is an independent agency in the executive branch of the Government and is composed of three members appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The Board annually designates a member to act as chairman and maintains its principal office in the District of Columbia, but it may meet at any other place.

The Railway Labor Act applies to express companies, sleeping-car companies, and carriers by railroad subject to the Interstate Commerce Act, provides that such carriers, their officers, agents, and employees shall exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, and working conditions, and to settle all disputes, whether arising out of the application of such agreements or otherwise. All disputes between a carrier and its employees shall be considered, and, if possible, decided with all expedition, in conference between representatives designated and authorized so to confer, respectively, by the carriers and by the employees thereof interested in the dispute.

The Railway Labor Act also applies to every common carrier by air engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, and every carrier by air transporting mail for or under contract with the United States Government, and every air pilot or other person who performs any work as an employee or subordinate official of such carrier or carriers, subject to its or their continuing authority to supervise and direct the manner of rendition of his service.

The act also provides that representatives for the purpose of the act shall be designated by the respective parties. The Mediation Board investigates and certifies disputes arising among a carrier's employees as to who are the representatives designated and authorized in accordance with the requirements of the act. The Board may take a secret ballot of the employees involved or utilize any other appropriate method of ascertaining the names of the representatives.

The act established the National Railroad Adjustment Board, composed of 36 members, 18 of whom are selected by the carriers and 18 by such labor organizations as have been or may be organized in accordance with section 2 of the act. The Adjustment Board, located at Chicago, Ill., was created to handle disputes growing out of grievances or out of the interpretation or application of agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, or working conditions. The Adjustment Board is divided into four divisions, as outlined in section 3 (h) of the act.

In deadlocked cases the National Mediation Board is authorized to appoint a referee to sit with the members of the Division for the purpose of making an award.

The parties, or either party, to a dispute may invoke the services of the National Mediation Board in any of the following cases: (a) A dispute covering changes in rates of pay, rules, or working conditions not adjusted by the parties in conference; (b) any other dispute not referable to the National Railroad Adjustment Board and not adjusted in conference between the parties or where conferences are refused.

The Mediation Board may proffer its services in case any labor emergency is found by it to exist at any time.

When mediation services are requested or proffered, the Board is authorized to put itself promptly in communication with the parties to the controversy and use its best efforts by mediation to bring the parties to agreement. When unsuccessful in bringing about an adjustment through mediation, the Board shall at once endeavor to induce the parties to submit the controversy to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the act. The failure or refusal of either party to submit a controversy to arbitration shall not be construed as a violation of any legal obligation imposed upon such party by the terms of the Railway Labor Act or otherwise.

When an agreement to arbitrate has been filed with the Mediation Board a board of arbitration shall be chosen in the following manner:

The representatives of the carrier or carriers and of the employees shall each name one arbitrator (or two if the agreement to arbitrate so designates); the arbitrators thus chosen shall select the remaining arbitrator or arbitrators. On failure of the arbitrators named by the parties to agree on the remaining arbitrators during a period stipulated in the act, it shall be the duty of the Mediation Board to name such remaining arbitrator or arbitrators.

The agreement to arbitrate shall be in writing and shall stipulate, among other things, that the respective parties to the award will each faithfully execute the same. Copies of arbitration awards shall be furnished to the respective parties to the controversy, to the clerk's office of the district court of the United States for the district wherein the controversy arose or the arbitration is entered into, to the Mediation Board, and to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

If a dispute between a carrier and its employees is not adjusted under the foregoing provisions of the act and should, in the judgment of the Mediation Board, threaten substantially to interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive any section of the country of essential transportation service, the Mediation Board shall notify the President, who may thereupon in his discretion create a board to investigate and report respecting such dispute. The act also provides that after the creation of such board no change in the conditions out of which the dispute arose shall be made by either party to the controversy during a period of 60 days.

The Mediation Board makes an annual report to Congress of its activities and of the activities of each of the four divisions of the National Railroad Adjustment Board.

To supplement the Railway Labor Act during the war emergency, the President by Executive Order 9172 established the National Railway Labor Panel from which railroad emergency boards are selected by the chairman of the Panel. The Panel consists of 20 members appointed by the President. Section 10 of the act provides that if a dispute between a carrier and its employees is not adjusted under the provisions of the act and threatens substantially to interrupt interstate commerce, the National Mediation Board shall notify the President, who may thereupon, in his discretion, appoint an emergency board to investigate and report to him with recommendations for settlement of the dispute. By Executive Order 9172 the President has delegated the designation of such emergency boards to the chairman of the Panel in cases where the employees refrain from taking strike votes and setting strike dates.

PAN AMERICAN SANITARY BUREAU

The Pan American Sanitary Bureau is the central coordinating sanitary agency as well as the general collection and distribution center of sanitary information of the American Republics. It was created by the Second International Conference of American Republics (1901-2), organized by the First Pan American Sanitary Conference (1902), and reorganized by the Sixth Pan American Sanitary Conference (1920). Its functions and duties are fixed by the Pan American Sanitary Code (1924) and modified and amplified by the various international sanitary and other conferences of the American Republics. The Bureau is concerned in maintaining and improving the health of all the people of the 21 American Republics and in preventing the international spread of communicable diseases. It acts as a consulting office for the national directors of health of the American Republics, prepares the programs and publishes the proceedings of the Pan American Sanitary Conferences and the Conferences of the National Directors of Health, and carries out epidemiological and other scientific studies and investigations. It also grants and obtains fellowships both from its own funds and from funds obtained from other sources for Latin American graduates in medicine and allied sciences. It also publishes in four languages a monthly Pan American Sanitary Bulletin, weekly and monthly reports on disease prevalence, and other publications on sanitary subjects, including special material for Pan American Health Day, which is celebrated annually on December 2 in all the American Republics. The Bureau is governed by a council elected at each Pan American Sanitary Conference. Its executive officer is a director, also chairman of the board, who is elected at the same conferences. The necessary personnel, including an assistant director, secretary, traveling representatives, epidemiologists, experts, translators, and clerks, is assigned or employed by the Director to attend to the various duties imposed on the Bureau by the Pan American Sanitary Code and the Pan American Sanitary Conferences. The Bureau is supported by a fund contributed by all the American Republics in proportion to their populations. Address all correspondence to the Director, Pan American Sanitary Bureau, Washington 6, D. C.

PAN AMERICAN UNION

The Pan American Union is the official international organization of the 21 Republics of the Western Hemisphere. It was established with a view to developing closer cooperation between the nations of America, the fostering of inter-American commerce, the strengthening of intellectual and cultural ties, and the interchange of information on all problems affecting the welfare of the nations of this continent. It is supported through their joint contributions, each nation annually paying that part of the budget of expenses which its population bears to the total population of all the Republics. Its general control is vested in a governing board made up of the 21 representatives of the American Governments. Its executive officers are a director general and an assistant director, elected by the board. They in turn are assisted by a trained staff of editors, statisticians, compilers, trade experts, translators, librarians, and clerks. It is strictly international in its scope, purpose, and control, and each nation has equal authority in its administration. Its activities and facilities include the following: Publication in English, Spanish, Portuguese, with separate editions, of an illustrated monthly bulletin, which is the record of the progress of all the Republics; publication of handbooks, descriptive pamphlets, commercial statements, and special reports relating to each country; correspondence covering all phases of pan-American activities; distribution of every variety of information helpful in the promotion of pan-American commerce, acquaintance, cooperation, and solidarity of interests. It also sets the date and prepares the programs for the International Conferences of the American State, known as the Pan American Conferences, and is custodian of their archives. Its library, known as the Columbus Memorial Library, contains 123,570 volumes, including the official publications, documents, and laws of all the Republics, together with a large collection of maps. The Union also possess a collection of more than 25,000 photographs. Its reading room has upon its tables the representative magazines and newspapers of Latin America, and is open to the public for consultation and study. It occupies and owns buildings and grounds facing Seventeenth Street, between Constitution Avenue and C Street, overlooking Potomac Park on the south and the White House Park on the east. These buildings and grounds, representing an outlay of $1,100,000, of which Mr. Andrew Carnegie contributed $850,000 and the American Republics $250,000, are dedicated forever to the use of the Pan American Union as an international organization. The Pan American Union was founded in 1890, under the name of the International Bureau of American Republics, in accordance with the action of the First Pan American Conference, held in Washington in 1889-90 and presided over by James G. Blaine, then Secretary of State. It was reorganized in 1907 by action of the Third Pan American Conference, held in Rio de Janeiro in 1906, and upon the initiative of Elihu Root, then Secretary of State. At the fourth conference, held at Buenos Aires in 1910, its name was changed from the International Bureau of American Republics to the Pan American Union. The fifth conference, held at Santiago, Chile, in 1923; the sixth conference, which met at Habana, Cuba, in 1928; the seventh conference, held at Montevideo, Uruguay, in 1933, and the eight conference, held at Lima, Peru, in 1938, considerably enlarged the functions of the Pan American Union. All communications should be addressed to the Pan American Union, Washington 6, D. C.

PERMANENT JOINT BOARD ON DEFENSE

The Permanent Joint Board on Defense was set up by the United States and Canada for the purpose of undertaking studies relating to sea, land, and air problems, including personnel and matériel, in connection with the defenses of the United States and Canada.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT BOARD, THE

Creation, authority, and purpose.—The Railroad Retirement Board was established by the Railroad Retirement Act of 1935 (49 Stat. 967), approved August 29, 1935, which, as amended by part I of the act of June 24, 1937 (50 Stat. 307), is cited as the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937. Additional responsibility is derived from the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act (52 Stat. 1094), approved June 25, 1938, as amended by the act approved June 20, 1939 (Public, No. 141, 76th Cong.) and by act approved October 10, 1940 (Public, No. 833, 76th Cong., 3d sess.), and from Public Resolution No. 102, Seventy-sixth Congress, third session. Under the authority of these acts, the Board administers two related social insurance systems—one for the payment of annuities to aged or disabled railroad employees or benefits with respect to their deaths in certain cases, and pensions to former railroad pensions, and the other for the payment of unemployment insurance benefits to railroad employees who become unemployed. The retirement and unemployment insurance acts cover employees (other than those engaged in the physical operation of mining coal) of any carrier by railroad, express company, or sleeping-car company, subject to part I of the Interstate Commerce Act (with the exception of certain electric lines), and companies owned or controlled by or under common control with one or more of them and performing any service (except casual, trucking, or mining coal) in connection with the transportation of passengers or property by railroad; employees of associations, bureaus, and agencies controlled and maintained by carrier or carrier subsidiary employers and engaged in the performance of services in connection with or incidental to transportation by railroad; and employees of railway labor organizations national in scope and organized in accordance with the Railway Labor Act, their State and national legislative committees, and their insurance departments. Employees of local lodges and divisions of railway labor organizations and employees representatives are, under certain circumstances, covered by the retirement acts, but not by the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Organization.—The Board is composed of three members appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate—one upon recommendations of representatives of employees, one upon recommendations of representatives of carriers, and one, the chairman, without designated recommendations.

Directly responsible to the Board are the secretary, the general counsel, the general auditor, and the director of research. The executive officer is directly responsible to the Board for the operations of the bureaus of retirement claims, wage and service records and employment and claims, and of the offices of the director of personnel, supply and service, and director of finance. The liaison officer under the direction of the executive officer conducts liaison activities between the Board, employers, and employee organizations. The appeals council functions as an independent body responsible to the Board but is attached to the office of the executive officer for administrative purposes.

Claims for annuities and death benefits under the Railroad Retirement Act are adjudicated in the Bureau of Retirement Claims. Claims for benefits under the Unemployment Insurance Act are adjudicated in the Bureau of Employment and Claims, although actual adjudication and certification for payment is performed in nine regional offices. An auxiliary administrative service is performed, under contract and for an agreed compensation, by covered employers who designate certain of their employees to receive unemployment insurance claims and registrations and forward them through a higher placed employee to the appropriate regional office of the Board. The Division of Employment Service operates an employment service for the railroad industry. Employment offices are part of the organization of each regional office and function in close coordination with the operations involving the receipt and processing of unemployment insurance claims

RAILROAD RETIREMENT ACT OF 1937

Annuities.—To receive an annuity, an individual who is otherwise qualified must either (1) be 65 or more years of age or (2) have completed 30 years of creditable service and be totally and permanently disabled for regular employment for hire, or (3) be 60 years of age and either (a) have completed 30 years of creditable service or (b) if he has less than 30 years of creditable service, be totally and permanently disabled for regular employment for hire (under either (a) or (b), however, the monthly annuity is less than would be payable at age 65 by $\frac{1}{180}$ for each calendar month that the individual is under age 65 at the time his annuity begins to accrue). The amounts of the monthly annuities are computed by multiplying the number of "years of service" by the sum of the following percentages of the average monthly compensation: 2 percent of the first \$50; $1\frac{1}{2}$ percent of the next \$100, and 1 percent of the next \$150. In computing the average monthly compensation, no part of any month's compensation in excess of \$300 is recognized. The average monthly compensation used for years of creditable service prior to 1937 is the average earned by an individual in the calendar months included in his years of service in the years 1924-31 (except when in the judgment of the Board the service during 1924-31 is insufficient to constitute a fair and equitable basis). All service subsequent to December 31, 1936, is included and if the total number of years of such service is less than 30, then, for individuals who were on August 29, 1935, in the active service of, or in an employment relation to, an employer under the act, or who were on that date employee representatives, the years of service prior to January 1, 1937, may be included but not so as to make the total years of service exceed 30. Under certain conditions, military service credit may be given in determining the years of service.

Provision is also made for minimum annuities to individuals who are employees under the act at age 65 and who have 20 years of service. The minimum annuity, based on average compensation of $50 or more, is $40 a month; if the monthly compensation is less than $50, the annuity is 80 percent of such compensation except that if such 80 percent is less than $20, the annuity is $20 or the same amount as the monthly compensation, whichever is less.

Annuities are payable on the first of each month for each preceding month, but an annuity does not accrue for the calendar month in which an annuitant dies.

Joint and survivor annuities.—Under certain prescribed conditions a joint and survivor annuity may be elected instead of a single-life annuity. A joint and survivor annuity involves a reduced annuity to the annuitant during life and, after the death of the annuitant, a survivor annuity to the surviving spouse during life. The amounts of the two annuities are such that their combined actuarial value is the same as the actuarial value of the single-life annuity that would otherwise be payable. An election of a joint and survivor annuity, once made, is irrevocable, except that it may become inoperative under certain circumstances, including the death of the employee or the spouse before the annuity begins to accrue. A survivor annuity accrues from the first day of the month in which the employee-annuitant dies.

Death benefits.—Provision is made for the payment, under certain conditions, of death benefits with respect to the death of individuals who were employees after December 31, 1936, to designated beneficiaries or to other persons in the order of precedence established by the act. The amount payable as death benefit is an amount equal to 4 percent of the total compensation of the deceased earned as an employee (excluding earnings in excess of $300 in any one calendar month) after December 31, 1936, less the amount of annuities paid or accrued to the employee or to a surviving spouse, or to both. In determining the amount of the deceased's total compensation, provision has recently been made for giving $160 credit under certain conditions for each month the deceased was in military service after December 31, 1936.

Pensions.—Section 6 of the act provides that beginning July 1, 1937, each individual then on the pension or gratuity roll of an employer by reason of his employment, who was also on such roll on March 1, 1937, shall be paid on July 1, 1937, and on the first day of each calendar month thereafter, a pension at the same rate as the pension or gratuity granted to him by the employer without diminution by reason of any general reduction or readjustment made subsequent to December 31, 1930, but such pension shall not exceed $120 a month. Persons on such pension rolls who were, on July 1, 1937, eligible for annuities, were not entitled to receive pensions after the pension payments due on October 1, 1937, but may receive annuities upon filing applications.

Source of annuities, pensions, and death benefits.—The act created an account in the Treasury of the United States known as the Railroad Retirement Account and authorized the appropriation to the account in each fiscal year of an amount actuarially determined by the Board to be sufficient as a premium to provide for the payment of all annuities, pensions, and death benefits under the Railroad Retirement Acts of 1935 and 1937. That part of the premium which is not immediately required for the payment of annuities, pensions, and death benefits is invested in obligations of or guaranteed by the United States to bear interest at the rate of 3 percent per annum.

Subchapter B of chapter 9 of the Internal Revenue Code (53 Stat. 179) approved February 10, 1939 (formerly the Carriers Taxing Act of 1937; 50 Stat. 435), levies an income tax on the covered employees and an excise tax on the covered employers, with respect to so much of the compensation paid by employers to employees as is not in excess of $300 for any calendar month. The rate of tax on employees, as well as that on employers, started at 2½ percent in 1937 and is to increase by ¼ percent every 3 years until it reaches the maximum of 3½ percent, effective beginning in 1949. The taxes are collected by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and are paid into the Treasury of the United States as internal-revenue collections.

THE RAILROAD RETIREMENT ACT OF 1935

The claims of individuals (and the claims of spouses and next of kin of such individuals) who relinquished their rights to return to service and became eligible for annuities before the enactment of the Railroad Retirement Act of 1937 are adjudicated under the act of 1935; however, individuals who did not become eligible before June 24, 1937, for annuities under the act of 1935 (whether they relinquished rights before or after June 24, 1937), but who would have been eligible under the act of 1937 if that act had been in force from and after August 29, 1935, may receive annuities under the act of 1937, but their annuities may not begin before June 24, 1937. The death benefit under the 1935 act is a monthly payment for 12 months, each payment being equal to one-half the annuity which an individual was receiving or was entitled to receive at the time of his death. The benefit is payable to the widow or widower or, if there be neither, to the dependent next of kin; payments begin with the month in which death occurred.

RAILROAD UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE ACT

Effective date.—The original act, as amended June 20, 1939, became effective on July 1, 1939, both with respect to the payment of benefits and the collection of contributions. The amendments to the act approved October 10, 1940, became effective, with minor exceptions, on November 1, 1940, and the following discussion covers the provisions of the act as thus amended.

Exclusive coverage.—The act makes exclusive provision for the payment of unemployment benefits based upon the employment covered by the act. However, the Board may enter into agreements with State agencies for the payment of benefits to individuals who perform services covered by either or both the railroad and the respective State acts.

Benefit basis.—Benefits within the uniform benefit year beginning July 1, of each year are payable on the basis of earnings (excluding that in excess of $300 in one month (in covered employment in the calendar year, termed the "base year," preceding the beginning of the benefit year. To be eligible for benefits in any benefit year, an individual must have earned at least $150 in covered employment in the corresponding base year. Benefits are payable with respect to days of unemployment in periods—termed registration periods—of 14 days except that if an employee changes his place of registration, he begins a new registration period with the first day for which he registers at an employment office other than the one at which he last registered. Benefits are not payable in a benefit year until an individual has had a registration period of 7 or more days of unemployment. When he has such registration period, benefits are payable therefor for all days of unemployment in excess of 7, and, thereafter benefits are payable for each day of unemployment in excess of 4 in any registration period beginning in the same benefit year. A day of unemployment is a day on which an individual is able to work and is available for work and with respect to which (1) he has earned no "remuneration" as defined in the act, and (2) he has registered at an employment office as required by regulations prescribed by the Board.

Disqualifications.—Days of unemployment of any individual do not include any day in any period with respect to which period the Board finds that he is receiving or has received payments under the Railroad Retirement Acts, insurance benefits under title II of the Social Security Act, or payments for similar purposes under any other act of Congress, or unemployment benefits under an unemployment compensation law of any State or of the United States other than this act except that, if the payments, other than unemployment benefits, under such other acts are less than the payments which would otherwise be payable under this act, this restriction does not apply to the payment of the difference under this act. Individuals are disqualified for varying numbers of days for several reasons, including leaving work voluntarily without good cause, refusing to accept suitable work offered, failing without good cause to comply with directions of the Board to apply for suitable work or to report to an employment office, and knowingly making or aiding in making a fraudulent claim for benefits. Furthermore, with respect to any individual, days of unemployment do not include any Sunday or holiday or two or more such successive days unless such day is, or days are immediately preceded and if the registration period does not end with such day or days, also followed by a day of unemployment.

Benefit scale.—The daily benefit rate is scaled from $1.75 to $4 according to the total amount of earnings in the base year. As benefits are payable for a maximum of 10 days in a registration period of 14 days, the maximum benefits for any such period vary from 10 times $1.75 to 10 times $4, or from $17.50 to $40, according to base-year earnings. The maximum amount of benefits payable in a benefit year is 100 times the daily benefit rate, or from $175 to $400.

Columns I and II of the following table show, respectively, the several compensation ranges in the base year and the resulting daily benefit rates, as set forth in the act. Columns III and IV show, respectively, the maximum benefits payable with respect to a registration period of 14 days and a benefit year.

Total compensation in base year I	Daily benefit rate II	Maximum benefits payable in a—
		Registration period of 14 days III	Benefit year IV
$150 to $199.99.....	$1.75	$17.50	$175.00
$200 to $474.99.....	2.00	20.00	200.00
$475 to $749.99.....	2.25	22.50	225.00
$750 to $999.99.....	2.50	25.00	250.00
$1,000 to $1,299.99.....	3.00	30.00	300.00
$1,300 to $1,599.99.....	3.50	35.00	350.00
$1,600 and over.....	4.00	40.00	400.00

Source of benefits and administrative expenses.—To support the unemployment-insurance system, the act levies on covered employers a contribution, which is collected by the Railroad Retirement Board, equal to 3 percent of the compensation, excluding any excess over $300 a month, payable to an employee. Of the proceeds, 90 percent is credited, for the payment of benefits, to a special account designated as the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Account, maintained in the Unemployment Trust Fund established by section 904 of the Social Security Act. The remaining 10 percent is deposited, to meet the expenses of administering the act, in a special fund designated as the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Administration Fund.

Under the act, transfers have been and are being made to the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Account from the State accounts maintained in the Unemployment Trust Fund of (a) a share of the balance in the State-pooled funds as of June 30, 1939, equal to the ratio of contributions from employers and employees covered by the act to total contributions collected and credited to such fund as of that date; (b) balances in reserve accounts of covered employers as of June 30, 1939; and (c) all contributions from covered employers and employees collected in the second half of 1939. Similarly, the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Administration Fund is credited with the amounts collected or collectible by the Treasurer under title IX of the Social Security Act from covered employers with respect to the calendar years 1936, 1937, 1938, and the first half of 1939, less certain amounts. Also, there is transferred to the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Account so much of the balance of the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Administration Fund as of June 30 of each year as is in excess of $6,000,000.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

Creation and Authority.—The Securities and Exchange Commission was created under its organic act, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (Public, No. 291, 73d Cong.), approved June 6, 1934, for the purpose of administering that act and the Securities Act of 1933 (Public, No. 22, 73d Cong., approved May 27, 1933), therefore administered by the Federal Trade Commission. The scope of duties and powers of the Commission was extended through the passage of subsequent legislative enactments, namely, the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 (Public, No. 333, 74th Cong.), approved August 26, 1935; Chapter X of the Bankruptcy Act, as amended (Public, No. 696, 75th Cong.), approved June 22, 1938; the Trust Indenture Act of 1939 (Public, No. 253, 76th Cong.), approved August

3, 1939; the Investment Company Act of 1940 (title I, Public, No. 768, 76th Cong.), approved August 22, 1940; and the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (title II, Public, No. 768, 76th Cong.), approved August 22, 1940. The objectives of these acts, and the Commission's functions thereunder, are discussed below.

Securities Act of 1933.—This "truth in securities" law, designed by the Congress for the protection of the interests of investors and the public, requires registration with the Commission of securities (other than exempt securities or offerings) proposed to be publicly offered and sold in interstate commerce or through the mails. The objective of registration is to make available to investors pertinent financial and other information necessary for their exercise of an informed judgment whether to purchase the securities being offered.

Registration is effected through the filing of a registration statement with the Commission; for this purpose, the Commission has promulgated registration forms applicable to particular types of issuing companies and prescribing the nature and extent of information to be disclosed by each such company registering securities. The prospectus or selling circular, which must be made available to purchasers or persons receiving offers through the mails, must contain an accurate summarization of the ultimate facts contained in the registration statement.

The registration statement and prospectus are subjected to detailed examination by the Commission as to the adequacy and accuracy of the information disclosed therein. If a statement is found to be deficient in material respects, the Commission may give the registrant an opportunity to file correcting amendments or, if the circumstances warrant, may institute proceedings to deny or suspend effectiveness of the registration statement. The issuance of such a stop order operates to bar public offering of the securities until the registration statement has been corrected.

It is to be noted that nothing in the act empowers the Commission to disapprove or otherwise pass upon the merits of securities offerings. Accordingly, registration is not to be taken as a guarantee against loss. Instead, investors must judge for themselves, in light of the information disclosed, whether the merits of the securities are such as to justify their purchase. However, if a loss is suffered through the purchase of securities in reliance upon representations as to material facts contained in the registration statement and prospectus, which representations later prove to be false or misleading, the purchaser has a right of recovery against the company and the management and other responsible officials.

Among the exemptions from the registration requirements of the act is one permitting the issuance and sale, without registration, of securities in an amount not exceeding $300,000; in connection therewith, a simple letter of notification, together with sales literature, must be filed with the Commission.

In addition to the registration requirements applicable to public securities offerings, other provisions of the act prohibit misrepresentation, deceit, and other fraudulent acts and practices in connection with securities transactions generally; and the Commission is given important powers of investigation and enforcement with respect thereto. In the exercise of these functions, facts developed in investigations which evidence fraudulent or other unlawful acts or practices may be used (1) in connection with court applications seeking an injunction against the continuance of such conduct; or (2) in criminal prosecutions of the violators (conducted through the Department of Justice).

Securities Exchange Act of 1934.—By this law Congress extended to securities listed and registered upon national securities exchanges the principle of disclosure of information necessary for the protection of investors in their securities transactions. The prescribed information is obtained through the filing of reports with the exchanges and the Commission by companies whose securities are so listed and registered. These are subject to examination by the Commission as to the accuracy and adequacy of the disclosures. Additional protective provisions of the act require disclosure by corporate "insiders" of their holdings and transactions in such listed securities; make their short-term trading profits in equity securities recoverable by the issuing company; and prohibit short selling by them. The solicitation of proxies in respect of listed securities is subject to regulation by the Commission in the interest of disclosing pertinent information bearing upon the subject matter of the solicitation. And the act directs the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System to prescribe rules to prevent the excessive use of credit in securities trading; these margin rules are administered by the Commission.

In addition, the act sets up a comprehensive system for the regulation of trading in securities, both on the organized exchanges and in the over-the-counter markets, in the interest of protecting investors and the public. Exchanges must register with the Commission; their rules and trade practices must be conformed to provisions of the act designed to eliminate abuses and to assure the maintenance of just and equitable principles of trade; and the activities of the exchanges and their memberships are subject to Commission surveillance to the end that there shall be strict adherence to the law.

The provisions for disclosure of information previously discussed do not apply to securities traded in the over-the-counter markets. However, as part of the regulatory process prescribed by the act, brokers and dealers engaged in an over-the-counter securities business must register with the Commission; and their business activities must conform to the prescribed standards of conduct. The National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., an association of over-the-counter brokers and dealers, was organized and registered with the Commission under the so-called Maloney Act, passed in 1938 as section 15A of the Securities Exchange Act for the purpose of establishing and maintaining improved standards of conduct within the industry under the general aegis of the Commission.

This system or regulation is buttressed by prohibitions against market manipulations, misrepresentation or deceit, and other fraudulent acts and practices in securities transactions, whether in the exchange or the over-the-counter markets. In addition to the remedies of court injunction or criminal prosecution previously mentioned, the Commission is empowered by this act to impose disciplinary measures against brokers or dealers who violate the acts. These include suspension or expulsion of a broker's or dealer's registration with the Commission or, in the case of members of exchanges or of the dealers' association, suspension or expulsion from such membership. Such action operates to deny, temporarily or permanently, the privilege of conducting their securities business.

Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935.—This act, which provides for the regulation of electric and gas public utility holding companies and their subsidiaries, was designed by the Congress for the protection of the interests of investors, consumers and the public. It has a two-fold objective: (1) it provides for the regulation of the financial and other related activities of holding company systems in the interest of eliminating the abuses therein which gave rise to passage of the law; and (2), it directs the adjustment of the incongruous results of past abuses by integration of physical properties, simplification of holding-company systems and capital structures, and equitable redistribution of voting power.

In passing upon the issuance and sale of securities (if not exempt by virtue of State commission jurisdiction), the Commission is directed to disapprove such issuance and sale if the security is not reasonably adapted to the security structure and earning power of the issuing company, or is not necessary or appropriate to the economical and efficient operation of the issuer's business; if fees, commissions, or other remuneration, are not reasonable; or if other terms and conditions of the issuance and sale are detrimental to the interests of investors, consumers or the public. The purchase of utility securities and assets also requires approval by the Commission unless a State commission has approved. Such an acquisition cannot be approved if it tends toward interlocking relations or concentration of control not in the public interest; if the consideration, fees, commissions, etc., are not reasonable; or if it unduly complicates the capital structure of the holding-company system or is detrimental to the integration requirements of the act. Other provisions of the act subject to Commission regulation such matters as service, sales and construction contracts; intercompany loans; dividends; sale of utility assets; proxies.

The second objective, constituting one of the most important Congressional mandates contained in the act, is the requirement for simplification of holding-company systems. The Commission is directed to take such action as may be necessary to limit the operations of holding-company systems to a single integrated public utility system (except where special circumstances may permit the retention of one or more additional systems or incidental businesses), the utility properties of which are physically interconnected or capable of such and which may be economically operated as a coordinated system confined in its operations to a single area or region, and not so large as to impair the advantages of localized management, efficient operation, and the effectiveness of regulation. Companies, properties and interests found by the Commission not to be retainable as part of such a system must be divested from the system.

The requirements of simplification also direct action to ensure that the corporate structure or continued existence of any company in the holding-company system does not unduly or unnecessarily complicate the system structure, or unfairly or inequitably distribute voting power among security holders of such system. To this end, useless and uneconomical holding companies must be liquidated and dissolved; simple capital structures must be substituted for multiple-security structures; and voting power must be redistributed upon a fair and equitable basis in light of existing equities.

Bankruptcy Act, Chapter X.—Under chapter X, the Commission has the duty to serve as adviser to United States District Courts in connection with proceedings for the reorganization of debtor corporations in which there is a substantial public interest. Participating as a party to these proceedings at the request or with the approval of the courts, the Commission renders independent expert advice and assistance not previously available to courts because they do not maintain their own staffs of expert consultants.

Of primary importance is the Commission's contribution to the formulation of reorganization plans for debtor corporations which will meet the tests of feasibility by placing the surviving corporation in a sound financial position to continue as a going concern, and the test of fair and equitable treatment of creditors and security holders. The latter calls for a determination of the value of the assets of the debtor, and of the rank and priority of claims thereagainst. The claimants must be accorded full recognition in order of the legal and contractual priority of their claims, junior interests participating only if the value of the assets exceeds the amount of prior claims. In addition to assisting the trustees and other interested parties in the formulation of reorganization plans, the Commission's views on the feasibility and fairness of reorganization plans are conveyed to the courts, either orally in the case of smaller cases or by means of advisory reports in the case of debtors with scheduled liabilities exceeding $3,000,000.

The Commission also participates in such matters as the qualifications and independence of trustees and their counsel, problems involving the administration of the estate such as the sale of properties and interim distributions to security holders, reasonableness of fee allowances to parties and their counsel, and similar matters.

Trust Indenture Act of 1939.—This act provides that issues of bonds, notes, debentures, and similar debt securities exceeding $1,000,000 in principal amount, may not be offered for sale to the public unless they are issued under a trust indenture which conforms to specific statutory standards prescribed in the act to safeguard the rights and interests of the purchasers. In addition to requirements for conformance of indentures to these standards, the act contains provisions governing the eligibility and qualification of the indenture trustee, who as the representative of the security holders has the duty to see that the covenants of the indenture are adhered to by the issuing company. Among these is a requirement that the trustee shall be "independent" and free of any conflicting interests which might interfere with the faithful exercise of his duties. Applications for qualification of indentures are examined by the Commission for conformance to the act's requirements.

Investment Company Act of 1940.—Under this act, companies which are engaged primarily in the business of investing, reinvesting, and trading in securities must register with the Commission; and certain of their activities are subjected to regulation by the Commission in accordance with standards prescribed as necessary for the protection of investors and the public. Transactions between affiliates, for example, are prohibited or made subject to prior Commission approval. Gross misconduct or gross abuse of trust by management officials may subject the individuals to removal by court order upon application by the Commission. Advisory reports upon plans or reorganization, merger, or consolidation may be prepared by the Commission for the information and guidance of security holders affected.

Investment Advisers Act of 1940.—Persons or firms engaged in the business of advising others with respect to their security transactions must register with the Commission under this act. Their acts and practices must be conformed to prescribed standards, including a requirement for disclosing the adviser's interest in transactions executed for his clients; and various acts and practices which would constitute fraud or deceit are made unlawful.

Corporation Reports.—The Commission's files and records, made up of reports from more than 2,000 corporations in 180 industry groups having in excess of 11,000 subsidiaries, contain financial and other information concerning such companies of great value to government, business and industry. These companies by asset size represent over 50 percent of the corresponding national total, and their reports are filed with the Commission under severe sanctions against false reporting. The information, the greater part of which is not available elsewhere, represents actual figures and not generalized estimates made up from extension spot tabulations.

Under a project entitled "Survey of American Listed Corporations," these data are tabulated by the Commission with the objective of making them more readily accessible. Among the reports thus published, both for individual corporations and by industry groups, are studies of the Return on Invested Capital, Balance Sheet Data, important items making up the profit and loss statements, etc.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION, THE

The Smithsonian Institution was created by act of Congress in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, an Englishman, who in 1826 bequeathed his fortune to the United States to found, at Washington, under the name of the "Smithsonian Institution," an establishment for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." The Institution is legally an establishment, having as its members the President of the United States, the Vice President, the Chief Justice, and the President's Cabinet. It is governed by a Board of Regents, consisting of the Vice President, the Chief Justice, three Members of the United States Senate, three Members of the House of Representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of Congress. The Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution is its executive officer and the director of its activities.

The "increase of knowledge" the Institution accomplishes through researches in many branches of science and through scientific exploration in all parts of the world. Much of the research is now conducted in the laboratories and offices of the several bureaus listed below that originated from the early work of the Institution and are administered by it.

The "diffusion of knowledge" is carried on through several series of publications based on its researches and collections, through its museum and art gallery exhibits, and through an extensive correspondence.

In addition to the original Smithsonian endowment, the Institution holds and administers a number of special funds for making scientific researches in particular fields or for other purposes stipulated by their donors.

The Library of the Smithsonian Institution (of which the Smithsonian Deposit in the Library of Congress and the libraries of the United States National Museum and the Bureau of American Ethnology are the chief units (consists mainly of scientific publications, including especially the reports, proceedings, and transactions of the learned societies and institutions of the world, and numbers over 900,000 volumes, pamphlets, and charts.

BRANCHES UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM

The United States National Museum is the depository of the national collections. It is especially rich in the natural science of America, including zoology, entomology, botany, geology, paleontology, archaeology, ethnology, and physical anthropology, and has extensive series relating to the arts and industries, the fine arts, and history. The great study series in the various fields of natural science form the basis for fundamental researches in pure science upon which the structure of applied science is built. The collections in the field of history comprise art, antiquarian, military, naval, numismatic, and philatelic materials, and include many historic objects relating to the period of the World War. The arts and industries collections consist of objects relating to engineering, textiles, graphic arts, and medicine, and include raw materials, processes of manufacture, and finished products. The aircraft display includes among others, historic airplanes of Langley, Wright, and Curtiss, Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," and Wiley Post's "Winnie Mae."

NATIONAL COLLECTION OF FINE ARTS

The National Collection of Fine Arts is the depository for those portions of the national collections relating to the fine arts, including principally paintings and sculpture not contained in the National Gallery of Art. It contains among other exhibits the George P. Marsh collection of etchings, engravings, and books on art; the Harriet Lane Johnston collection, including a number of portraits by British masters; the Ralph Cross Johnson collection of paintings by Italian, French, English, Flemish, and Dutch masters; the William T. Evans collection of paintings by contemporary American artists; and the gift of Mr. John Gellatly, of New York, made in June 1929, of his notable art collection, containing more than 150 pictures by eminent American and foreign artists, large collections of glass, jewels, oriental specimens, antique furniture, and other valuable and interesting material. By the terms of the gift, the collection was brought to Washington on April 30, 1933. A considerable addition was made by Mr. Gellatly in August 1930 to his original gift.

The Freer Gallery of Art is devoted principally to oriental fine arts. The building, the collections which it houses, and an endowment fund, were the gift of the late Charles L. Freer of Detroit. Since their installation in 1920, the collections of Chinese bronzes, jades, paintings and pottery, and East Indian and Islamic arts have been importantly augmented, and field work and other research work pursued. A large collection of the works of James McNeill Whistler and a limited group by other American painters is also present in the Freer Gallery.

BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY

The Bureau of American Ethnology is engaged in the collection and publication of information relating to the American Indians and the natives of Hawaii.

INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE SERVICE

The International Exchange Service is the agency of the United States Government for the exchange of scientific, literary, and governmental publications with foreign governments, institutions, and investigators. Under normal conditions it receives and dispatches about 700,000 pounds of printed matter annually.

NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK

The National Zoological Park has an area of 175 acres, and is located in the Rock Creek Valley, 2 miles north of the center of Washington. Its collection comprises about 3,000 animals.

ASTROPHYSICAL OBSERVATORY

The Division of Astrophysical Research investigate solar radiation and other solar phenomena. The work of this observatory is carried on partly in Washington, D. C., and partly at stations on Mount Wilson and Table Mountain, in California; Mount Montezuma, near Calama, Chile; and Burro Mountain near Tyrone, N. Mex.

The Division of Radiation and Organisms was established during the year 1929 for the purpose of making scientific investigations relating to the effect of radiation on the growth and life of plants and animals.

NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART

[Under the direction of the Board of Trustees of the National Gallery of Art]

The National Gallery of Art, a bureau of the Smithsonian Institution, was established by joint resolution of Congress approved March 24, 1937, as a result of the late Andrew W. Mellon's gift to the Nation of his art collection and a monumental gallery building. The above act accepting Mr. Mellon's gift provided that the art collections then in possession of the Smithsonian Institution and theretofore designated the National Gallery of Art should thereafter be known as the National Collections of Fine Arts.

The National Gallery of Art is administered for the Smithsonian Institution, in which title is vested, by a board of nine trustees.

The National Gallery building, costing about $15,000,000, was the gift of the late Andrew W. Mellon, and was erected under the direction and guidance of Paul Mellon, Donald D. Shepard, and David K. E. Bruce, surviving trustees of The A. W. Mellon Educational and Charitable Trust. It was designed by John Russell Pope (1874-1937), architect, Otto R. Eggers, Daniel Paul Higgins, associates, and was dedicated by the President of the United States on March 17, 1941. It is visited by over 2,000,000 persons annually.

The building contains, in addition to the Mellon collection, the notable collection of Italian and French paintings and sculpture given to the Nation by Samuel

H. Kress; also, the famous collection of paintings, sculpture, and decorative arts given by Joseph E. Widener in memory of his father, the late Peter A. B. Widener, and a number of paintings given by Chester Dale, who has also placed on indefinite loan his outstanding collection of paintings by French Nineteenth Century artists. Lessing J. Rosenwald has given to the Gallery his important collection of more than 9,000 prints, and additional prints and drawings have been given by Ellen T. Bullard, Elisabeth Achelis, Myron A. Hofer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Watson Webb, Mrs. George Nichols, David Keppel, Mrs. Walter B. James, and others. Other gifts of paintings have been received from Duncan Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, Mrs. Felix Warburg, Mrs. John W. Simpson, Mrs. Gordon Dexter, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Davison, Frederic A. Delano, Mrs. Robert Noyes, Ethelyn McKinney, Harris Whittemore, the children of the late Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, Dr. Horace Binney, the W. L. and May T. Mellon Foundation, Herbert L. Pratt, Mrs. Huttleston Rogers, Mrs. Robert W. Schuette, Mrs. Earle E. Bessey, Mrs. Barbara Hutton, Mr. and Mrs. John Ridgely of Hampton, Mrs. Georg Vetlesen, and Clarence Van Dyke Tiers. Gifts of sculpture have been received from Mrs. Ralph Harman Booth, Mrs. Jesse Isidor Straus, Stanley Mortimer, and Mrs. John W. Simpson. The Gallery has also received as a gift from the Works Progress Administration, the Index of American Design, consisting of more than 22,000 drawings and water colors made under the auspices of the United States Government as a pictorial record of American source material in design and craftsmanship from early colonial days to the close of the nineteenth century. Another gift to the Gallery is the Richter Archive of Illustrations on Art containing more than 60,000 reproductions of paintings of all schools. This gift was made by Solomon R. Guggenheim of New York. In addition, important loans of paintings from the Harris Whittemore collection are on exhibition. On the ground floor frequent exhibitions are held in the central gallery.

TARIFF COMMISSION, UNITED STATES

The United States Tariff Commission is an independent establishment of the Government created by the provisions of title VII of the Revenue Act of September 8, 1916.

As originally created, the Tariff Commission was intended to fill the long-felt need for an independent organization to supply factual information to the President, the Congress, and the Committees of Congress which handle tariff legislation. From time to time particular tariff and related problems are assigned by Congress to the Commission for investigation, and special functions and duties of a continuing nature were added to the Commission's other functions and duties by the Tariff Acts of 1922 and 1930, and other acts. Because of the experience and store of technical and economic information acquired by the Tariff Commission through the exercise of its various functions and duties, it was called upon to assist in the war effort by supplying essential information and analysis. The principal activities of the Tariff Commission at present are work on trade agreements; preparation of special reports on postwar foreign-trade problems requested by the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, and the Finance Committee of the Senate; and work on special interdepartmental committees concerned with problems of international economic collaboration.

MEMBERSHIP AND ORGANIZATION

The membership consists of six commissioners appointed by the President with the consent of the Senate. These appointments are for 6 years, one term expiring each year. No more than three members may be of one political party. The principal office is in Washington, and an office is also maintained in the customhouse at the port of New York. The Commission has a seal which is judicially noticed. The staff consists of the secretary, who is appointed by the Commission, a planning and reviewing committee, economists, commodity and technical experts, accountants, and a clerical force.

GENERAL FUNCTIONS

General powers and duties (sec. 332).—The powers conferred on the Commission under section 332 of the Tariff Act of 1930, and the duties imposed thereunder are as follows:

(1) To investigate the administration and the fiscal and industrial effects of the customs laws of the United States and in general the operation of such laws, including their relation to the Federal revenues and the industries and labor of the country; the relations between rates of duty on raw materials and on finished or partly finished products; the effects of specific and ad valorem duties and of compound specific and ad valorem duties; and questions relating to the arrangement of the schedules of the tariff act and the classifications of the articles under the schedules.

(2) To investigate the tariff relations between the United States and foreign countries; commercial treaties; preferential provisions; economic alliances; the effect of export bounties and preferential transportation rates; and organizations and arrangements in Europe similar to the Paris Economy Pact.

(3) To investigate the volume of importations compared with domestic production and consumption and conditions, causes, and effects of competition between foreign industries and those of the United States, including dumping and costs of production.

(4) To ascertain, whenever practicable, conversion costs and costs of production in the United States and in the principal producing centers of the United States; to ascertain similar costs in foreign countries for comparison with costs obtained in the United States whenever in the opinion of the Commission foreign costs are necessary and can be reasonably obtained; and to ascertain other data affecting competition between domestic and imported articles in the principal markets of the United States.

(5) To select and describe articles representative of the classes and the kinds of articles imported into the United States and similar or comparable articles of domestic production; to obtain samples of such articles when deemed advisable; to ascertain the import costs of such foreign articles and to ascertain the selling prices of such domestic articles in the principal growing, producing, or manufacturing centers of the United States.

SPECIAL FUNCTIONS

Sections 336, 337, and 338 of the tariff act approved June 17, 1930, contain special provisions for the modification of existing duties and for the imposition of special duties or orders of exclusion from entry by Presidential proclamation under specified conditions, within stated limitations; and, in accordance with the legislative principles defined in those sections, all such Executive actions require previous investigation by the Tariff Commission.

Tariff adjustments (sec. 336).—Section 336 provides that the Commission, under such reasonable procedure, rules, and regulations as it may deem necessary, shall investigate the differences in the cost of production of any domestic article and of any like or similar foreign article in the principal competing country and shall report to the President the results of such investigation and its findings with respect to such differences. If the Commission finds that the duties fixed by the statute do not equalize the differences in costs as ascertained by its investigation, it shall specify in its report such increase or decrease, not exceeding 50 percent, of the statutory rate (including any necessary change in classification) as the investigation may show to be necessary to equalize such differences. If the Commission shall find, however, that a 50-percent increase in an ad valorem rate of duty will not equalize the ascertained differences, it shall so state in its report to the President and shall specify therein such ad valorem rate based on the American selling price, as elsewhere defined in the act, of the domestic article as the investigation may show to be necessary to equalize such difference; no such rate, however, may exceed the statutory rate nor may any such rate be decreased by more than 50 percent. Any specified increase or decrease of a rate or change in valuation so reported by the Commission, if approved and proclaimed by the President, shall take effect commencing 30 days after such proclamation. The section prescribes the elements to be taken into consideration in ascertaining such differences in costs of production; prohibits the transfer of an article from the dutiable list to the free list or from the free list to the dutiable list; and provides for the modification or termination of any increase or decrease so proclaimed.

The Commission is required to hold hearings in the course of its investigations under section 336, to give reasonable public notice thereof and to afford reasonable opportunity for parties interested to be present, to produce evidence, and to be heard at such hearings.

Investigation of unfair practices in import trade (sec. 337).—The Commission is authorized under section 337 to investigate unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation of articles into the United States, or in their sale after importation. When the findings and recommendations of the Commission, based on its investigation, justify the President in doing so, he is authorized to exclude such articles from entry into the United States, the exclusion to remain in effect until otherwise ordered by the President. The testimony in every investigation under the provisions of this section is required to be reduced to writing, and with the findings of the Commission constitutes the official record in each case. A copy of the findings is required to be sent to the importer or consignee of the articles affected thereby and shall be conclusive, subject only to rehearing by consent of the Commission or to appeal on questions of law only to the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals, whose judgment shall be final.

Ascertainment of discrimination against United States trade (sec. 338).—Under the provisions of section 338 the Commission is required to ascertain and at all times to be informed whether any foreign country discriminates against the commerce of the United States, in any one of several ways specified in the section. The Commission is required to report to the President with its recommendations any such discriminations which it may find to exist, and the President is authorized to specify and declare upon articles wholly or in part the growth or product of any such discriminating country such new and additional duties as will offset such burdens, or he may exclude from importation articles from such country. Such new or additional duties, may, however, not exceed 50 percent ad valorem.

Work under the Trade Agreements Act.—Section 350 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended June 12, 1934, assigned new work to the Tariff Commission by naming it a source of information and advice for the President in conducting reciprocal trade negotiations. The special function of the Commission with respect to such negotiations is to supply facts regarding possible concessions by the United States. In cooperation with the Department of State and other agencies of the Government, it also analyzes data on all commodities under consideration, and appraises the effect of import quotas, exchange controls, preferential tariffs, and other trade restrictions of foreign countries as they relate to these negotiations. In practice, the Commission has found that its regular organization for the collection of tariff information can be utilized for the numerous phases of trade-agreement work.

The Commission is represented on various interdepartmental committees concerned with the reciprocal trade agreements program.

Work under import control section of Agricultural Adjustment Act.—Section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933, as amended (49 Stat. 773, sec. 31; 49 Stat. 1152, sec. 5; 50 Stat. 246, sec. 1; 54 Stat. 17), authorizes the President to direct the Tariff Commission to make an investigation when he has reason to believe that articles are being imported into the United States under such conditions and in sufficient quantities to render ineffective, or to interfere materially with, a program of benefits to agriculture under several laws; and he has authority, on the basis of the Tariff Commission's report, to limit, if necessary, the imports of the article by imposing either quantitative limitations or import fees.

Import quotas on Philippine articles.—The Philippine Trade Act of 1946 (Public Law 371, 79th Cong.) grants preferential tariff treatment to Philippine articles imported into the United States for a certain period after the Philippines become independent. To safeguard the interests of domestic industries, however, the Congress has provided absolute quotas (effective immediately) on important Philippine articles (sugar, cordage, rice, cigars, scrap and filler tobacco, coconut oil, and pearl buttons) and has reserved to the United States the right to impose absolute quotas on other articles after a finding by the President that such articles are coming or are likely to come into substantial competition with like articles produced in the United States. Section 504 of the Philippine Trade Act directs the Tariff Commission to make investigations, including public hearings, to assist the President in carrying out this function. No quota under this executive authority may be made effective before January 1, 1948.

Cooperation with other agencies (sec. 334).—Section 334 provides that the Commission shall in appropriate matters act in conjunction and cooperation with the Treasury Department, the Department of Commerce, the Federal Trade Commission, or any other departments, or independent establishments of the Government. During the war much of the work of the Commission was for agencies engaged in activities concerned with the war effort.

Current work of the Commission.—At present most of the Commission's activity is devoted to the preparation of digests of trade data concerning our imports from the following countries: Belgium-Luxembourg, Australia, Brazil, Canada, China, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, France, Holland, India, New Zealand, South Africa, Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, and the United Kingdom. These countries were invited last December to participate in negotiations for the reduction of tariffs under the Trade Agreements Act of 1934. Since the bulk of United States imports are greater in these countries the scope of the work done by the Tariff Commission covers a large proportion of United States imports. Closely related to this work on trade agreements is the work being done by the Commission on special inter-departmental committees concerned with other problems of international economic collaboration.

Currently the Commission also has in progress a series of reports being made at the request of the Senate Committee on Finance and the House Committee on Ways and Means. This series includes a report on the effect of the war on United States foreign trade, reports on the effect of the war on important domestic industries, and a report on the international trade policies of foreign countries and their effect on the industry and trade of the United States.

TAX COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, THE

The Tax Court of the United States (see 56 Stat. 798, sec. 504) was formerly the United States Board of Tax Appeals. The latter was created by the Revenue Act of 1924 (43 Stat. 253, title IX), and continued by the Revenue Act of 1926 (44 Stat. 9, title X) and Chapter 5, Internal Revenue Code, 1939.

The principal office of the Court is at Washington, D. C.

Its function is to determine, after hearing, whether there is a deficiency or an overpayment, where deficiencies have been determined by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in income, profits, estate, gift, and unjust enrichment taxes, and personal holding company surtaxes; to adjudicate controversies relating to excess profits on Navy contracts and Army aircraft contracts and to review the action of the Commissioner in deficiency and refund cases founded on claims of abnormalities under excess profits tax and processing tax statutes. Effective as of the close of business on December 31, 1942, the United States Processing Tax Board of Review was abolished, and the jurisdiction vested in said Board was transferred to and vested in the Tax Court of the United States. The Revenue Act of 1943 (Public, No. 235, 78th Cong., 2d sess., Feb. 25, 1944), gave the Tax Court jurisdiction to redetermine the amount of excessive profits on war contracts in cases brought by contractors aggrieved by determinations made under the Renegotiation Act.

Proceedings are public and are conducted judicially, in accordance with its Rules and Practice and the rules of evidence applicable in the courts of equity of the District of Columbia. A fee of $10 is prescribed for the filing of a petition. Hearings are held for the convenience of taxpayers at about 50 different cities in the United States. Practice is limited to those enrolled under the Rules.

The Court's published reports are printed and bound by the Government Printing Office and are available, separately or in bound volumes, as public documents, at listed prices.

Tax decisions are subject to review by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the prescribed circuit, or, by agreement, by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, and thereafter by the Supreme Court of the United States upon certiorari.

The Court is composed of 16 judges, who are appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for terms of 12 years each. They are removable by the President, after public hearing, for inefficiency, neglect of duty, or malfeasance in office, but for no other cause. Each judge comprises a division to hear and decide cases.

The presiding judge is designated at least biannually by election of the judges.

Decisions of the divisions become decisions of the Court unless the presiding judge, within 30 days of their receipt, directs review by the Court.

VETERANS' ADMINISTRATION

The Veterans' Administration was authorized to be established as an independent agency under the direction of the President, by Public, No. 536, Seventy-first Congress, approved July 3, 1930, which further authorized the President by Executive order to consolidate and coordinate under a single control all Government agencies having to do with the administration of laws relating to the relief of and other benefits provided by law for former members of the military and naval forces. By Executive order of July 21, 1930, there was established the Veterans' Administration and consolidated therein the Bureau of Pensions (previously under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Interior), the United States Veterans' Bureau, and the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

The Administrator of Veterans' Affairs is charged with the control, direction, and management of all agencies and activities comprising the Veterans' Administration and all final decisions or orders of any agency of the Veterans' Administration are, on appeal, subject to review by him. The Administrator of Veterans' Affairs is chairman of the Veterans' Placement Board, which board was created by Public 346, Seventy-eighth Congress, to cooperate with and assist the United States Employment Service, so as to provide for veterans the maximum of job opportunity in the field of gainful employment.

The Veterans' Administration is represented by Paul R. Hawley, M. D., chief medical director, Department of Medicine and Surgery, on the Federal Board of Hospitalization, which board is advisory to the President in all matters having to do with the need for, the location of, and expenditures on account of, increased Government hospital and domiciliary facilities.

The Veterans' Administration is responsible for extending relief to veterans and dependents of deceased veterans of all wars, and persons and dependents of deceased persons who served in the Military and Naval establishments of the United States during other than a period of war, provided for by the various acts of Congress. These laws include, in addition to pensions, benefits in the form of Government insurance, hospital and domiciliary care, vocational rehabilitation and education, the guarantee of loans for purchase or construction of homes, farms, and business property, and readjustment allowance for veterans.

Veterans' Administration centers, hospitals, homes, and regional offices are located in each State with the exception of Delaware (where a regional office is now being established) to facilitate the granting of benefits. The Veterans' Administration maintains and operates 108 hospitals.

COMMITTEE ON PURCHASES OF BLIND-MADE PRODUCTS

The Committee on Purchases of Blind-made Products was created by the act of June 25, 1938, and is composed of a private citizen conversant with the problems incident to the employment of the blind and a representative of each of the following Government Departments: the Navy Department, the War Department, the Treasury Department, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Commerce, and the Department of the Interior. The members of the Committee are appointed by the President, serve without additional compensation, and designate one of their number as chairman.

It is the duty of the Committee to determine the fair market price of commodities manufactured by the blind and offered for sale to the Federal Government by any non-profit-making agency for the blind organized under the laws of the United States or of any State, to revise such prices from time to time in accordance with changing market conditions, to make such rules and regulations regarding specifications, time of delivery, authorization of a central non-profit-making agency to facilitate the distribution of orders among the agencies for the blind, and other relevant matters of procedure as shall be necessary to carry out the purposes of the act.

The act also provides that all brooms and mops and other suitable commodities hereafter procured in accordance with applicable Federal specifications by or for any Federal department or agency shall be procured from such non-profit-making agencies for the blind where such articles are available within the time specified at the price determined by the Committee to be the fair market price for the article or articles so procured.

It is further provided by the act that it shall not apply in any cases where brooms and mops are available for procurement from any Federal department or agency and procurement therefrom is required under the provisions of any law in effect on the date of enactment of this act, or in any case where brooms and mops are procured for use outside continental United States.

HOUSE PRESS GALLERY

William J. Donaldson, Jr., superintendent, 3730 Brandywine Street.

Anthony P. Demma, 2847 Brentwood Road NE., and Richard L. Embly, 606 East Capitol Street, assistant superintendents.

SENATE PRESS GALLERY

Harold R. Beckley, superintendent, 7 Normandy Drive, Silver Spring, Md.

Joseph E. Wills, 1714 North Troy Street, Arlington, Va., and Howard C. Dawes, 23 Fifth Street SE., assistant superintendents.

RULES GOVERNING PRESS GALLERIES

1. Persons desiring admission to the Press Galleries of Congress shall make application to the Speaker, as required by rule XXXV of the House of Representatives, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by rule IV for the regulation of the Senate Wing of the Capitol; and shall state in writing the names of all newspapers or publications or news associations by which they are employed, and what other occupation or employment they may have, if any; and they shall further declare that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims pending before Congress or the departments, and will not become so engaged while allowed admission to the galleries; that they are not employed in any legislative or executive department of the Government, or by any foreign Government or any representative thereof; and that they are not employed, directly or indirectly, by any stock exchange, board of trade, or other organization, or member thereof, or brokerage house, or broker, engaged in the buying and selling of any security or commodity or by any person or corporation having legislation before Congress, and will not become so engaged while retaining membership in the galleries. Holders of visitor's cards who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to the restrictions of this rule.

2. The applications required by the above rule shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the standing committee of correspondents who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide correspondents of reputable standing in their business, who represent daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service; and it shall be the duty of the standing committee, at their discretion, to report violation of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker, or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and pending action thereon the offending correspondent may be suspended.

3. Persons engaged in other occupations whose chief attention is not given to newspaper correspondence or to newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service shall not be entitled to admission to the Press Galleries; and the Press List in the CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY shall be a list only of persons whose chief attention is given to telegraphic correspondence for daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service.

4. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to the privileges of the galleries.

5. The Press Galleries shall be under the control of the standing committee of correspondents, subject to the approval and supervision of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Senate Committee on Rules.

Approved.

SAM RAYBURN,

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Approved by the Committee on Rules of the Senate.

RULES GOVERNING RADIO CORRESPONDENTS' GALLERIES

1. Persons desiring admission to the Radio Galleries of Congress shall make application to the Speaker, as required by rule XXXV of the House of Representatives, as amended, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by rule IV, as amended, for the regulation of the Senate wing of the Capitol. Applicants shall state in writing the names of all radio stations, systems, or news-gathering organizations by which they are employed and what other occupation or employment they may have, if any. Applicants shall further declare that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims or the promotion of legislation pending before Congress, the Departments, or the independent agencies, and that they will not become so employed without resigning from the galleries. They shall further declare that they are not employed in any legislative or executive department or independent agency of the Government, or by any foreign government or representative thereof; that they are not engaged in any lobbying activities; that they do not and will not, directly or indirectly, furnish special information to any organization, individual, or group of individuals for the influencing of prices on any commodity or stock exchange; that they will not do so during the time they retain membership in the galleries. Holders of visitors' cards who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to all the restrictions of this paragraph.

2. It shall be prerequisite to membership that the radio station, system, or news-gathering agency which the applicant represents shall certify in writing to the Radio Correspondents' Association that the applicant conforms to the regulations of paragraph 1.

3. The applications required by paragraph 1 shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the executive committee of the Radio Correspondents' Association, who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide news gatherers and/or reporters of reputable standing in their business who represent radio stations, systems, or news-gathering agencies engaged primarily in serving radio stations or systems. It shall be the duty of the executive committee of the Radio Correspondents' Association to report, at their discretion, violation of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and, pending action thereon, the offending individual may be suspended.

4. Persons engaged in other occupations, whose chief attention is not given to the gathering or reporting of news for radio stations, systems, or news-gathering agencies primarily serving radio stations or systems, shall not be entitled to admission to the Radio Gallery. The Radio Correspondents' List in the CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY shall be a list only of persons whose chief attention is given to the gathering and reporting of news for radio stations and systems engaged in the daily dissemination of news, and of representatives of news-gathering agencies engaged in the daily service of news to such radio stations or systems.

5. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to the privileges of the galleries.

6. The Radio Galleries shall be under the control of the executive committee of the Radio Correspondents' Association, subject to the approval and supervision of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Senate Committee on Rules.

Approved.

RULES GOVERNING PERIODICAL PRESS GALLERIES

1. Persons desiring admission to the Periodical Press Galleries of Congress shall make application to the Speaker, as required by rule XXXV of the House of Representatives, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by rule IV for the regulation of the Senate wing of the Capitol; and shall state in writing the names of all newspapers or publications or news associations by which they are employed, and what other occupation or employment they may have, if any; and they shall further declare that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims pending before Congress or the departments, and will not become so engaged while allowed admission to the galleries; that they are not employed in any legislative or executive department of the Government, or by any foreign government or any representative thereof; and that they are not employed, directly or indirectly, by any stock exchange, board of trade, or other organization, or member thereof, or brokerage house or broker, engaged in the buying and selling of any security or commodity, or by any person or corporation having legislation before Congress, and will not become so engaged while retaining membership in the galleries. Holders of visitor's cards who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to the restrictions of this rule.

2. The applications required by rule 1 shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the executive committee of the Periodical Correspondents' Association who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide and accredited resident correspondents, news gatherers, or reporters of reputable standing who represent one or more periodicals which regularly publish a substantial volume of news material of either general or of an economic, industrial, technical, or trade character, published for profit and supported chiefly by advertising, and owned and operated independently of any industry, business, association, or institution; and it shall be the duty of the executive committee at their discretion to report violation of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker, or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and pending action thereon the offending correspondent may be suspended.

3. Persons engaged in other occupations whose chief attention is not given to the gathering or reporting of news for periodicals requiring such continuous service shall not be entitled to admission to the Periodical Press Galleries. The Periodical Correspondents' list in the CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTORY shall be a list only of persons whose chief attention is given to such service for news periodicals, as described in rule 2, except that admission shall not be denied if his other work is such as to make him eligible to the Press Galleries or Radio Correspondents' Galleries.

4. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to the privileges of the galleries.

5. The Periodical Press Galleries shall be under the control of an executive committee elected by members of the Periodical Correspondents' Association, subject to the approval and supervision of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Senate Committee on Rules.

SAM RAYBURN,
Speaker, House of Representatives.
