

This map displays the 93 counties of Nebraska, each labeled with its name. The state's irregular border is shown on the left and top. Major cities are marked with black dots and labeled: Chadron (Dawes), Alliance (Box Butte), Scottsbluff (Scotts Bluff), Sidney (Cheyenne), Kearney (Hickman), Lexington (Dawson), Lincoln (Lincoln), Omaha (Douglas), and South Sioux City (Dakota). The map is divided into three congressional districts, numbered 1, 2, and 3. District 1 covers the eastern portion of the state, including counties from Lincoln to Kearney. District 2 covers the northern portion, including counties from Lincoln to Kearney. District 3 covers the western portion, including counties from Lincoln to Kearney. A legend at the bottom right identifies the symbols for County (a thin black outline) and Congressional district (a thick black outline).
