SEPTEMBER 17, 1996.—Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed

U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, September 12, 1996.

THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

SIR: I ask the Congress to consider the enclosed package of requests for FY 1996 supplemental appropriations and FY 1997 budget amendments totaling $1,097 million for programs that are designed to strengthen our anti-terrorism, counter-terrorism, and security efforts in this country and abroad.

At my July 20, 1996, meeting with the bipartisan congressional leadership, I indicated that such a request would be forthcoming after a thorough inter-agency review of funding requirements in the wake of recent acts of domestic and international terrorism. This package of supplemental funding requests and budget amendments has evolved out of that review and represents a comprehensive, balanced program for addressing this urgent requirement. I urge the Congress to act expeditiously on the requests being transmitted today.

The danger from international terrorism to U.S. forces and installations has grown over the past year. At my request, the Department of Defense and the intelligence community have identified measures to enhance programs designed to deter and thwart terrorism. The enclosed requests for FY 1996 supplemental appropriations, to be funded within congressional spending limits, will provide funds for the most urgent of these measures. These requests total $353 million for various anti-terrorism activities to increase physical security at overseas installations and improve intelligence capabilities to detect and combat terrorist activity.

As you are aware, we have already begun to address the problems resulting from heightened terrorist activity. Last month, I approved the relocation of U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf region to lower threat areas. Though the Saudi Arabian government agreed to cover some costs, our forces have had to redirect funds from ongoing operations to support this relocation. Thus, to limit adverse effects to Department of Defense operations and provide sufficient funds for these critical anti-terrorism measures, it is imperative that these supplemental funds be provided as soon as possible.

This package also contains emergency FY 1997 budget amendments totaling $728 million for anti-terrorism, counter-terrorism, and security programs within a number of departments and agencies. In addition, I am requesting contingent emergency appropriations for the Departments of Justice and the Treasury for counter-terrorism activities, and, under separate cover, the Department of Justice will forward an FY 1997 reprogramming to enhance the FBI's counter-terrorism forensic capabilities.

I hereby designate the amounts requested in each of the FY 1997 budget amendments contained in the first enclosure as an emergency requirement pursuant to section 251(b)(2)(D)(i) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

While I have designated these requests for FY 1997 budget amendments as emergency requirements, it is, nonetheless, the intention of this Administration to work with the Congress to fund these high priority proposals within existing budgetary constraints.

As you know, congressional spending levels for defense contain substantial increases over my budget request—in particular, for certain procurement and research and development projects that are not contained in the Defense Department's long-term planning requirements. I believe that we can provide for our military readiness, anti-terrorism activities, and other important national needs in the context of an agreement with the Congress on FY 1997 spending levels.

The details of these actions are set forth in the enclosed letter from the Acting Director of the Office of Management and Budget. I concur with his comments and observations.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM J. CLINTON.

Estimate No. 23
104th Congress, 2nd Session

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20503

September 12, 1996

The President

The White House

Submitted for your consideration are requests for FY 1996 supplemental appropriations and FY 1997 budget amendments totaling $1,097 million for programs that are designed to strengthen anti-terrorism, counter-terrorism, and security efforts in this country and abroad. You indicated at your July 20, 1996, meeting with the bipartisan congressional leadership that such a request would be forthcoming after a thorough inter-agency review of funding requirements in the wake of recent acts of domestic and international terrorism. This package is the result of that review.

The FY 1996 supplemental appropriations contained in this package for the Department of Defense total $353 million and include requests for anti-terrorism, counter-terrorism, and security activities within the Department of Defense, to be financed within existing congressional spending limits.

This package also contains amendments to your FY 1997 appropriations requests now pending before Congress. These amendments would provide a total of $728 million, excluding contingent emergency funds, for your anti-terrorism, counter-terrorism, and security proposals.

Proposals for FY 1996 Supplemental Appropriations

As described in the enclosure, the package contains funding increases for FY 1996, including the following requests to support the efforts of the Department of Defense to combat terrorism and to protect U.S. forces from terrorist attacks:

- o Persian Gulf Force Protection: $122.6 million. These funds would be used to relocate our forces in the Persian Gulf to more secure locations. Costs include transportation of personnel and equipment; purchase and installation of fences, berms, concrete barriers, intrusion detection devices, and other force protection items; relocation and upgrade of communications equipment; reconstitution of equipment; and minor renovation of bases and facilities to meet security and quality of life standards.

- o Overseas Physical Security Upgrades: $138.5 million. DoD will use these funds to increase the physical security of U.S. installations outside the United States. Such activities will include hardening and increased monitoring of entry and exit points; purchase and installation of fences, berms, concrete barriers, and intrusion detection devices; and the expansion of security perimeters around many bases. To provide greater protection for U.S. personnel overseas, the Department also will purchase body armor and upgrade armored transport vehicles to meet new terrorist capabilities.
- o Training, awareness, information, and other programs: $92.2 million. Beyond increased static defenses, the Department will conduct awareness programs to improve our military personnel's understanding of the terrorist threat, potential targets, and standard terrorist tactics. Training programs will enable our personnel to use the new security upgrades effectively. The Department also will take steps to protect its information infrastructure from attack.
- o Intelligence. Included in the above are substantial funds to enhance our ability to identify terrorists, to thwart their plans, and to act forcefully and effectively against foreign terrorists -- wherever they are. This will be accomplished by increasing our collection capability; improving our analytical and warning functions; providing more intelligence support to force protection; and by special means. A more detailed description of these activities is included in the classified annex to this letter.

FY 1997 Budget Amendments

As described in the enclosure, this package of proposals contains funding increases for FY 1997, including the following:

- o $201 million for the Department of Transportation, including $198 million for the Federal Aviation Administration to purchase explosives detection devices and to perform passenger profiling and screening; and $3 million for other Department of Transportation anti-terrorism-related activities.
- o $207 million for the Department of Justice, including $154 million for the FBI for additional positions and anti-terrorism support; $16 million for U.S. Attorneys for wiretap and computer fraud activities and building security; $7 million for the Drug Enforcement Administration for additional security for buildings and vehicles; $15 million for the Immigration and Naturalization Service for detention of criminal aliens and enhanced intelligence; $14 million for other Department of Justice offices, including the U.S. Marshals Service, Office of Justice Programs, the Criminal Division, and the Executive Office of Immigration Review. In addition, $35 million in contingent emergency appropriations is requested for the Counterterrorism Fund.

In addition, under separate cover, the Department of Justice will forward an FY 1997 reprogramming to enhance the FBI's counter-terrorism forensic capabilities.

- o $147 million for the Department of the Treasury, including $66 million for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to enhance its ability to respond to terrorist threats and investigate crimes involving explosives; $60 million for the U.S. Customs Service to increase its capacity to screen passengers and detect dangerous materials; $4 million for the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center to provide additional training for law enforcement personnel; $2 million for the U.S. Secret Service to provide more effective security for the President and the White House Complex; $15 million for increased security at other Department of the Treasury facilities and other anti-terrorism activities. In addition, $15 million in contingent emergency appropriations is requested to establish a Counterterrorism Fund.
- o $40 million for the Department of State to upgrade security at overseas and domestic facilities, and to provide aviation security and anti-terrorism training to other countries' security personnel.
- o $29 million for the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), including $23 million for the Centers for Disease Control to improve security at the Atlanta facility, and $6 million for other HHS activities to support Rapid Response teams.
- o $16 million for the Department of the Interior, including $8 million for the National Park Service to upgrade security at Independence Hall, Mount Rushmore, the Jefferson Memorial and the Memorials surrounding the Mall; $6 million for the Bureau of Reclamation to upgrade security at dams and other facilities; and $2 million for the Fish and Wildlife Service to provide more anti-terrorism training for law enforcement personnel.

- o $24 million for the Federal Emergency Management Agency, including $9 million for consequence management planning and coordination; $8 million for joint Federal, State, and local training and exercises; $3 million for upgrading security at facilities; and $3 million for Firefighter and Emergency Services financial assistance.
- o $23 million for the Department of Energy, including $15 million to enhance the Department's ability to provide technical assistance during a nuclear terrorist crisis, and $8 million to counter nuclear smuggling and reduce trafficking in radiological materials.
- o $13 million for the Department of Commerce, including $9 million for the International Trade Administration to upgrade security at multiple sites, and $4 million for the Bureau of Export Administration to hire criminal investigators and engineers to review export licenses.
- o $10 million for the Judiciary for increased workload associated with the Anti-terrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996.
- o $7 million for the National Transportation Safety Board, including $6 million to reimburse the Navy for TWA flight 800 recovery costs and $1 million to replenish its Emergency Fund.
- o $7 million for the Smithsonian Institution to upgrade security at the Kennedy Center, National Gallery of Art, the U.S. Holocaust Memorial, and other facilities.
- o $3 million for the United States Information Agency to upgrade security at overseas and domestic facilities.
- o $1 million for the Agency for International Development to upgrade security at domestic and overseas facilities.
- o $1 million for the Office of Personnel Management to upgrade security at headquarters.

As you know, congressional spending levels for defense contain substantial increases over your budget request -- in particular, for certain procurement and research and development projects that are not contained in the Defense Department's long-term planning requirements. We can provide for military readiness, anti-terrorism activities, and other important national needs in the context of an agreement with the Congress on FY 1997 spending levels.

In addition, I recommend that you designate all of these budget amendments as emergency requirements in accordance with section 251(b)(2)(D)(i) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

I have carefully reviewed these proposals and am satisfied that they are necessary at this time. Therefore, I join the heads of the affected departments and agencies in recommending that these proposals be transmitted to Congress.

Sincerely,

Revised Request:	$277,677,000

(In the appropriations language under the above heading, insert the following before the period:)

: Provided. That of the amount provided, $9,400,000 is designated by Congress as an emergency requirement pursuant to section 251(b)(2)(D)(i) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

These funds would provide security upgrades and relocations for 42 non-chancery U.S. Foreign Commercial Service (USFCS) locations worldwide. These USFCS locations promote U.S. trade worldwide, and these 42 non-chancery locations are in international business districts. This request will provide additional resources to protect against the risk of terrorism.

This proposal would increase FY 1997 outlays by $6.6 million.

Of the amount of the appropriation, $9,400,000 has been designated by the President as an emergency requirement pursuant to the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

: Provided, That of the amount provided, $3,900,000 is designated by Congress as an emergency requirement pursuant to section 251(b)(2)(D)(i) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

The Administration is requesting $3,900,000 for 22 FTE for the Bureau of Export Administration (BXA) to expand its nonproliferation enforcement efforts to fill an important niche in the broader U.S. counter-terrorism initiative. Special emphasis would be given to preventing illegal exports of chemical weapon precursors, biological agents, nuclear weapons and missile development equipment before they could occur, on the theory that once terrorists get U.S. origin goods to their overseas havens their subsequent attacks will be much more difficult to encounter.

This funding would be used by the Office of Export Enforcement (OEE) at headquarters and its eight field offices. OEE headquarters provides liaison with the FBI, the intelligence community and law enforcement officials of other countries. OEE's eight field offices investigate export commodities that can be used to develop and deliver weapons of mass destruction, and commodities that are useful for crime control purposes, including exports to terrorist groups or their front companies.

This proposal would increase FY 1997 outlays by $3.3 million.

Of the amount of the appropriation, $3,900,000 has been designated by the President as an emergency requirement pursuant to the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

: Provided, That of the amount provided, $15,000,000 is designated by Congress as an emergency requirement pursuant to section 251(b)(2)(D)(i) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

Under the Presidential Decision Directive 39, the Atomic Energy Act and Executive Order 12656, the Department of Energy (DOE) is responsible for providing technical assistance in a nuclear terrorist crisis. DOE does this through the Nuclear Energy Search Team (NEST), which is the major national asset to identify, diagnose, and render-safe a terrorist nuclear device. There is growing world-wide concern about the leakage and availability from former Soviet States of special nuclear material. Terrorist use of nuclear weapons of mass destruction is an increasing possibility according to U.S. and world intelligence agencies. This amendment would fund a realistic deployment exercise for the NEST ($8 million); a first responder training program to better prepare non-Federal personnel who are likely to be first on the scene of a nuclear terrorist incident ($4 million); and technology for improved remote measurement and determination of internal configuration, and how to render-safe a terrorist nuclear device ($3 million).

This proposal would increase FY 1997 outlays by $11 million.

: Provided. That of the amount provided, $8,000,000 is designated by Congress as an emergency requirement pursuant to section 251(b)(2)(D)(i) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

The Department of Energy's (DOE) Office of Non-Proliferation and National Security (NN) has responsibility for carrying out certain functions needed to implement the Presidential Decision Directives on Counter-terrorism, Materials Control and Nuclear Smuggling. DOE's NN program is responsible for developing much of the technology and expertise to counter nuclear smuggling and terrorism which is becoming an increasing concern to many U.S. officials. This amendment would fund expanded efforts in material control at U.S. Customs and border control points and expanded analytical and technical support to U.S. intelligence and enforcement agencies ($4 million); and development of prototype equipment for "tagging" materials and for active methods to enhance detection and trace the source of trafficked material($4 million).

This proposal would increase FY 1997 outlays by $5.6 million.

Provided further, That of the amount provided, $23,000,000 is designated by Congress as an emergency requirement pursuant to section 251(b)(2)(D)(i) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

This amendment would increase the pending appropriation request for Disease Control, Research, and Training by $23,000,000. This increase will enhance security at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) Atlanta headquarters and better protect laboratories containing dangerous infectious agents against possible attacks. Studies indicate that security at this facility should be improved. The increased funds will be used to increase the buffer zone around CDC's headquarters through the purchase of land and installation of security fences, improve emergency power arrangements, and provide better screening of incoming mail and greater control over access to the buildings.

This proposal would increase FY 1997 outlays by $2 million.

This amendment would increase the pending appropriation request for General Departmental Management by $5.775 million. This increase, along with $5 million already requested for the Office of Emergency Preparedness in the FY 1997 Budget, would strengthen HHS' ability to respond to the health and medical consequences of terrorist attacks. The following counter-terrorism activities would be funded: improved coordination and integration of planning and evaluation among Federal, State, and local authorities; training and equipment of local health professionals; development of Metropolitan Medical Strike Teams composed of non-Federal health professionals trained to respond to the medical consequences of a terrorist attack; research to improve the detection, protection, and treatment of nuclear/biological/ chemical attacks; development of expertise in identifying the appropriate treatment for specific chemical agents and infectious organisms; purchase of secure mobile communications equipment to improve HHS' ability to communicate on sensitive planning issues; and, purchase of pharmaceuticals, such as antidotes, to assist with treating victims of chemical attacks.

Sec. . . . Section 660(b) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, is further amended:

(1) in paragraph (4), by striking "or";

(2) in paragraph (6), by striking the period at the end thereof and inserting "; or"; and

(3) by adding the following new paragraph:

"(7) with respect to assistance, including training, provided for anti-terrorism purposes."

The proposed new provision would ensure that foreign assistance funds that are otherwise available for combating terrorism could similarly be used notwithstanding the section 660 restriction, regardless of whether they were specifically appropriated to carry out chapter 8 of Part II of the Act. It will thus provide a significant tool for the United States in the international fight against terrorism.

The provision would clarify an issue raised in recent amendments (section 121 of H.R. 3121, Public Law 104-164) to the Foreign Assistance Act authorities. In those amendments, a broader and very important authority was provided that authorizes anti-terrorism assistance "notwithstanding any other provision of law that restricts assistance to foreign countries." In the context of this particular provision, the Administration has interpreted that phrase to retain the restrictions on assistance embodied in section 660 of the Foreign Assistance Act. This amendment would clarify this point to permit the ATA assistance without requiring a 660 waiver each time courses are provided for foreign police officials.

Of the amount of the appropriation, $32,400,000 has been designated by the President as an emergency requirement pursuant to the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency's (FEMA's) current all-hazards approach to preparedness, response, and recovery does not completely address activities necessary to prepare for, and respond to terrorist incidents. The threat of terrorism and the resulting response create unique needs at all levels of government. FEMA has been designated as the lead agency for consequence management response activities in relation to terrorist incidents. Additional resources are requested to support the development of plans and procedures required for an efficient, coordinated Federal response under the Federal Response Plan and to ensure integration at the Federal, State and local levels.

In addition, funds are requested to increase the preparedness capability of the State and local emergency management first responders. These first responders must be prepared, trained and exercised in threat-specific capabilities, including coordination with the Federal government. Additional resources will allow FEMA to make grants for specialized training and equipment to enhance the capability of fire departments to respond to terrorist attacks. Additional resources would allow full-scale Federal exercises to ensure appropriate deployment and coordination of agencies comprising the Federal Response Plan.

In order to address the recommendation for safeguarding Federal employees and facilities as contained in the Department of Justice's vulnerability assessment, additional funding is requested to acquire various security systems and equipment, and enhance security guard services at all Agency locations.
