44 U.S.C. SECTION 1333

CHAPTER 13--PARTICULAR REPORTS AND DOCUMENTS

Sec. 1333. National high school and college debate topics

(a) The Librarian of Congress shall prepare compilations of pertinent excerpts, bibliographical references, and other appropriate materials relating to:

- (1) the subject selected annually by the National University Extension Association as the national high school debate topic and
- (2) the subject selected annually by the American Speech Association as the national college debate topic.

In preparing the compilations the Librarian shall include materials which in his judgment are representative of, and give equal emphasis to, the opposing points of view on the respective topics.

(b) The compilations on the high school debate topics shall be printed as Senate documents and the compilations on the college debate topics shall be printed as House of Representative documents, the cost of which shall be charged to the congressional allotment for printing and binding. Additional copies may be printed in the quantities and distributed in the manner the Joint Committee on Printing directs.

Foreword

The 2004-2005 high school debate topic is: "Resolved: That the United States federal government should establish a foreign policy substantially increasing its support of United Nations peacekeeping operations."

In compliance with 44 U.S.C. Section 1333, the Congressional Research Service (CRS) of the Library of Congress prepared this bibliography to assist high school debaters in researching the topic. This bibliography is intended to assist debaters in the identification of further references and resources on the topic. In selecting items and websites for this manual, CRS has sampled a wide spectrum of opinions reflected in the current literature on this issue. No preference for any policy is indicated by the selection or positioning of articles or websites cited, nor is CRS disapproval of any policy or article to be inferred from its omission.

Some of the U.S. government documents listed in this bibliography may be found in U.S. government depository libraries, which can be identified by local public or college libraries. The Library of Congress cannot distribute copies of these or other materials to debaters. This manual is also available on the GPO Access Home Page on the World Wide Web at <http://www.access.gpo.gov>.

The bibliography was compiled by Elena Landry, Information Resources Librarian Intern, formerly of the Office of Information Resources Management, CRS, under the direction of Lyle W. Minter, Head, Foreign Affairs, Defense, and Trade Consulting Section, Knowledge Services Group (KSG), CRS, with extensive review and comment by Marjorie Ann Browne, Specialist in International Relations, Foreign Affairs, Defense, and Trade Division, CRS. Ann Eschete, Reference Assistant, KSG, and Alicia Bartlett, Library Technician, KSG, prepared this bibliography for production.

Good luck to each debater in researching, preparing and presenting arguments on this year's topic.

Introduction

The 2004-2005 high school debate topic is: "Resolved: That the United States federal government should establish a foreign policy substantially increasing its support of United Nations peacekeeping operations."

This selective bibliography is intended to assist debaters to identify resources and references on the debate topic. It lists citations to books, congressional publications, magazine and journal articles, and websites on the Internet. The manual is divided into eight subtopics: general, United Nations (UN) peacekeeping operations (which includes discussions of specific UN operations), U.S. foreign policy, human rights, international military forces, peacekeeping, international conflict resolution, and humanitarian assistance. Debaters may look for these and related resources at their local high school, research, government depository, and public libraries.

Summary

The purpose of the debate manual is to provide students with a brief overview of information concerning the 2004-2005 high school debate topic "Resolved: That the United States Federal Government Should Establish a Foreign Policy Substantially Increasing its Support of United Nations Peacekeeping Operations."

This bibliography includes citations to books, congressional publications, and magazine and journal articles. This compilation is not intended to supply complete coverage of the topic. Further research on the topic resources in general, as well as each suggested subtopic, can be done at high school, research, depository, and public libraries.

International organizations, U.S. Government agencies, private think tanks, and non-governmental organizations (NGOs) provide information on topics related to international peacekeeping and other topics on their websites. Debaters are encouraged to consult the internet as well as library resources for their research on this debate topic.

Diehl, Paul F. International Peacekeeping: With a New Epilogue on Somalia, Bosnia and Cambodia. Baltimore, MD: Johns Hopkins University Press, 1994.

This book explains the difference between peacekeepers and multinational intervention. It highlights the shortcomings and advantages of peacekeeping.

Fleitz, Frederick H. Peacekeeping Fiascoes of the 1990s: Causes, Solutions, and U.S. Interests. Westport, CT: Praeger, 2002.

The author of this book, a CIA analyst who worked closely with Reagan, George H.W. Bush, and Clinton administration officials on UN issues, examines how peacekeeping works, discusses peacekeeping failures since 1993, and considers whether peacekeeping can still play a role in U.S. foreign policy.

Jett, Dennis C. Why Peacekeeping Fails. New York: St. Martin's Press, 2001.

The author of this book, a former U.S. ambassador to Mozambique, examines the lessons learned when the United Nations fails or succeeds in its peacekeeping missions.

Perito, Robert M. Where Is the Lone Ranger When We Need Him? Washington, D.C.: United States Institute of Peace Press, 2004.

The author examines the challenges of establishing sustainable security in post conflict environments in places like the Balkans, Afghanistan, and Iraq. His extensive research and interviews with Washington policymakers, European diplomats, civilian police, and soldiers in the field raise questions about how well prepared the United States is for these nonmilitary tasks. The author calls for the creation of a civilian U.S. Stability Force composed of constabulary, police, and judicial teams of lawyers, judges, and corrections officers.

Weiss, Thomas George. Military-Civilian Interactions: Humanitarian Crises and the Responsibility to Protect. 2nd ed. Lanham, MD: Rowman & Littlefield, 2004.

Is it possible and worthwhile to use the military in conjunction with humanitarian action to thwart violence and mitigate civilian suffering? The author answers this question by looking at the contemporary context and history of military-civilian interactions, developing a framework for assessing military costs and civilian benefits, and examining in depth five prominent cases: Northern Iraq, Somalia, Bosnia, Rwanda, and Haiti. He suggests how multilateral military operations could expand or contract in the future to the benefit or peril of war victims.

The author recounts the history of the use of force by UN peacekeepers from Sinai in the 1950s to Haiti in the 1990s. He discusses arguments about the use of force in peace operations and sets these within the broader context of military doctrine and practice. Drawing on these insights, he examines proposals for future conduct of UN operations, including the formulation of UN peacekeeping doctrine and the establishment of a UN rapid reaction force.

Otunnu, Olara A., and Michael W. Doyle, eds. Peacemaking and Peacekeeping for the New Century. Lanham, MD: Rowman & Littlefield Publishers, 1998.

In this book, a group of leading diplomats, academics, and journalists combines forces with UN policymakers and leaders including current Secretary-General Kofi Annan and former Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali to explore how the international community can improve its practice in negotiating and implementing peace. They look at what does and does not work in UN peacemaking and peacekeeping, and then map out alternative futures for UN action in the 21st century.

Nagler, Michael N. Is There No Other Way? The Search for a Nonviolent Future. Berkeley, CA: Berkeley Hills Books, 2001.

Drawing from the experiences of such figures as Mahatma Gandhi, the author describes both the laws of nonviolence and the nonviolent actions of ordinary people, with analyses of events such as the Columbine High School shootings.

Rabinovich, Itamar. The Brink of Peace. Princeton, NJ: Princeton University Press, 1998.

The author argues that the assassin's bullet that struck down Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin also stopped a prospective peace accord between Syria and Israel. A negotiator who had unique access to Rabin, as well as detailed knowledge of Syrian history and politics, tells the inside story of the failed negotiations. His account helps in understanding not only U.S. diplomacy in the Middle East but also the larger Arab-Israeli peace process.

Savir, Uri. The Process: 1,100 Days That Changed the Middle East. New York: Random House, 1998.

Uri Savir, who participated in the secret Oslo negotiations that occurred during the early 1990's, wrote this book describing his experience in the peace talks. He carefully details the behind-the-scene dealings.
