44 U.S.C., SECTION 1333

CHAPTER 13--PARTICULAR REPORTS AND DOCUMENTS

Sec. 1333. National high school and college debate topics

- (a) The Librarian of Congress shall prepare compilations of pertinent excerpts, bibliographical references, and other appropriate materials relating to:
- (1) the subject selected annually by the National University Extension Association as the national high school debate topic and
 - (2) the subject selected annually by the American Speech Association as the national college debate topic.

In preparing the compilations the Librarian shall include materials which in his judgment are representative of, and give equal emphasis to, the opposing points of view on the respective topics.

- (b) The compilations on the high school debate topics shall be printed as Senate documents and the compilations on the college debate topics shall be printed as House of Representative documents, the cost of which shall be charged to the congressional allotment for printing and binding. Additional copies may be printed in the quantities and distributed in the manner the Joint Committee on Printing directs.

Foreword

The 2007-2008 high school debate topic is: "Resolved: The United States federal government should substantially increase its public health assistance to Sub-Saharan Africa."

In compliance with 44 U.S.C., Section 1333, the Congressional Research Service (CRS) of the Library of Congress prepared this bibliography to assist high school debaters in researching the topic. This bibliography is intended to assist debaters in the identification of further references and resources on the topic. In selecting items and websites for this manual, CRS has sampled a wide spectrum of opinions reflected in the current literature on this issue. No preference for any policy is indicated by the selection or positioning of articles or websites cited, nor is CRS disapproval of any policy or article to be inferred from its omission.

Some of the U.S. government documents listed in this bibliography may be found in U.S. government depository libraries, which can be identified by local public or college libraries. The Library of Congress cannot distribute copies of these or other materials to debaters. This manual is also available on the GPO Access Home Page on the World Wide Web at <http://www.access.gpo.gov>.

The bibliography was prepared by Susan G. Chesser, Thomas Coipuram, Jr., and Kim Walker Klarman, Information Research Specialists in the Foreign Affairs, Defense, and Trade Consulting Section of the Knowledge Services Group, CRS, under the direction of Lyle W. Minter, Head, Foreign Affairs, Defense, and Trade Consulting Section, Knowledge Services Group, CRS.

Good luck to each debater in researching, preparing and presenting arguments on this year's topic.

Introduction

The 2007-2008 high school debate topic is: "Resolved: The United States federal government should substantially increase its public health assistance to Sub-Saharan Africa."

This selective bibliography is intended to assist debaters to identify resources and references on the debate topic. It lists citations to books, congressional publications, magazine and journal articles, and websites on the Internet. The manual is divided into six subtopics: general foreign aid, global health issues, foreign aid and health problems concerning Africa, U.S. agencies providing foreign aid funds and programs to Africa, international and private funding sources, and the current state of foreign aid.

Summary

The purpose of the debate manual is to provide students with a brief overview of information concerning the 2007-2008 high school debate topic "RESOLVED: THE UNITED STATES FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SHOULD SUBSTANTIALLY INCREASE ITS PUBLIC HEALTH ASSISTANCE TO SUB-SAHARAN AFRICA."

This bibliography includes citations to books, congressional publications, and magazine and journal articles. This compilation is not intended to supply complete coverage of the topic. Further research on the topic resources in general, as well as each suggested subtopic, can be done at high school, research, depository, and public libraries.

International organizations, U.S. Government agencies, private think tanks, and non-governmental organizations (NGOs) provide information on topics related to international foreign aid and health problems on their websites. Debaters are encouraged to consult the internet as well as library resources for their research on this debate topic.

Foreign Aid – General Background Information

Assessing Aid: What Works, What Doesn't, and Why. Washington, DC: The World Bank, 1998. 148 p.

Examines what works in foreign aid, what does not work, what needs reassessing, and the goals that foreign aid should strive to achieve. Includes discussion of how aid money can be used to promote good governance and successful institutions.

Available online at: [<http://www.cgdev.org/content/publications/detail/13029/>].

Discusses the effectiveness of the billions of dollars flowing into developing countries to confront HIV/AIDS by tracking three major funders: PEPFAR, the Global Fund, and the World Bank's Multi-Country AIDS Program. The analysis is focused on the global level, but it provides brief country case studies to help understand some of the implications of these large inflows of funding for HIV/AIDS at the country level.

In recent years, several OECD countries have been paying increasing attention to the contribution that private actors can make to development co-operation. To help advance this thinking, the Government of Spain made a special grant to the Development Co-operation Directorate (DCD) to fund a study of the role of philanthropic foundations in development efforts. The study consists of a policy-oriented analysis of past and present foundation activities in development and includes four commissioned annexes that give detailed background information and data on current projects.
