§ 110.27 General license for imports.

(a) Except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, a general license is issued to any person to import byproduct, source, or special nuclear material if the U.S. consignee is authorized to receive and possess the material under a general or specific NRC or Agreement State license issued by the Commission or a State with which the Commission has entered into an agreement under Section 274b. of the Atomic Energy Act.

(b) The general license in paragraph (a) of this section does not authorize the import of more than 100 kilograms per shipment of source and/or special nuclear material in the form of irradiated fuel.

(c) Paragraph (a) of this section does not authorize the import under a general license of radioactive waste.

(d) A person importing formula quantities of strategic special nuclear material (as defined in §73.2 of this chapter) under this general license shall provide the notifications required by §73.27 and §73.72 of this chapter.

(e) A general license is issued to any person to import the major components of a utilization facility as defined in §110.2 for end-use at a utilization facility licensed by the Commission.

(f) Importers of radioactive material listed in appendix P to this part must provide the notifications required by §110.50.
