§ 52.32 Allocation of the shared costs of long-term number portability.

(a) The local number portability administrator, as defined in §52.21(h), of each regional database, as defined in §52.21(1), shall recover the shared costs of long-term number portability attributable to that regional database from all telecommunications carriers providing telecommunications service in areas that regional database serves.

Pursuant to its duties under §52.26, the local number portability administrator shall collect sufficient revenues to fund
§ 52.33 Recovery of carrier-specific costs directly related to providing long-term number portability.

(a) Incumbent local exchange carriers may recover their carrier-specific costs directly related to providing long-term number portability by establishing in tariffs filed with the Federal Communications Commission.