For purposes of calculating the Series Interest Rates for each Applicable Period, EURIBOR shall equal EURIBOR as used in the calculation of the Monthly Basis Swap Payment for such Applicable Period. For purposes of calculating the Monthly Basis Swap Payment for each Applicable Period, EURIBOR shall be calculated by the Basis Swap Calculation Agent as follows:

(a) On the Applicable Index Determination Date, the Basis Swap Calculation Agent will determine EURIBOR, expressed per annum, for deposits in Euro for the Applicable Period by reference to offered quotation on Telerate Page 248 (or through a successor information service providing interest rates comparable thereto) as at 11:00 a.m. (Brussels time) on such Applicable Index Determination Date. In the event that the offered rate shown on the Telerate monitor is replaced by corresponding interest rates of more than one bank, the Basis Swap Calculation Agent shall determine the arithmetic mean of such interest rates (at least two) so displayed (rounded if necessary to the nearest one hundred-thousandth of a percentage point, with 0.000005% being rounded upwards). If at least two such quotations are provided, the EURIBOR for such Interest Accrual Period shall be the arithmetic mean (rounded if necessary to the nearest one hundred-thousandth of a percentage point, with 0.000005% being rounded upwards) of such offered quotations, all as determined by the Basis Swap Calculation Agent. If, on the Applicable Index Determination Date only one or none of the Euro Reference Banks provides the Basis Swap Calculation Agent with such offered quotations, the EURIBOR for the relevant Interest Accrual Period shall be the rate per annum which the Basis Swap Calculation Agent determines to be the arithmetic mean (rounded if necessary to the nearest one hundred-thousandth of a percentage point, with 0.000005% being rounded upwards) of the rates, as communicated to (and at the request of) the Basis Swap Calculation Agent by leading banks in the Euro-zone as selected by the Basis Swap Calculation Agent, as at 11:00 a.m. (Brussels time) on the relevant Interest Determination Date, for loans in Euros for a period equal to the Applicable Period to leading banks in the Euro-zone; provided, however, that if the Basis Swap Calculation Agent is required but is unable to determine a rate in accordance with one of the procedures provided above, EURIBOR shall be EURIBOR as determined on the most recent date EURIBOR was available. On the Closing Date, the proceeds of the issuance of the Class S Notes in an amount equal to approximately $2,000,000 will be deposited in the Interest Collection Account. On or before the first Payment Date the Collateral Manager may (in its sole discretion) instruct the Trustee in writing to transfer all or a portion of funds in the Interest Collection Account (representing proceeds of the issuance of the Class S Notes) to the Principal Collection Account for application as Principal Proceeds. It is expected that approximately $491,966,875 of the aggregate proceeds of the offering of the Securities will be available to the Issuer to satisfy its obligations under certain warehouse arrangements with respect to a portfolio of Collateral Obligations acquired during the Accumulation Period and to purchase additional Collateral Obligations.
Distributions of Interest Proceeds and Deferred Interest	Interest Proceeds will be distributable to Holders of the Securities in accordance with the Priority of Payments. See "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments". With respect to any Class C Notes, Class D Notes or Class E Notes, for so long as any senior Class or Classes of Secured Notes are Outstanding, to the extent that funds are not available to pay the full amount of interest on such Class C Notes, Class D Notes or Class E Notes in accordance with the Priority of Payments, as described herein, the cumulative amount of interest not paid on such Class C Notes, Class D Notes or Class E Notes on any Payment Date and all Payment Dates preceding such Payment Date (the "Deferred Interest"), will be deferred and added to the principal amount of such Class C Notes, Class D Notes or Class E Notes, as applicable, and will bear interest at the interest rate applicable to such Class C Notes, Class D Notes or Class E Notes, as applicable, to the extent lawful and enforceable. The failure to pay interest on any such Class of Securities due to insufficient funds being available therefor in accordance with the Priority of Payments will not be an Event of Default under the Indenture so long as any senior Class or Classes of Secured Notes are Outstanding. See "Description of the Securities—Interest" and "—Priority of Payments".

portfolio of Collateral Obligations selected by the Collateral Manager constituting approximately 87% of the Aggregate Principal Amount of Collateral Obligations to be purchased or entered into by the Issuer, representing approximately $430,000,000 in Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Obligations.

Effective Date Ratings Confirmation..... The Issuer will request that each of the Rating Agencies confirm the initial ratings of the Secured Notes on the Effective Date. Such confirmation will be deemed to have been obtained from Moody's, so long as certain tests are met and Moody's has received delivery of certain documents specified in the Indenture. A failure to obtain (or to be deemed to have obtained, in the case of Moody's only) the Rating Agencies' confirmation of the initial ratings of the Secured Notes on the Effective Date will result in an Effective Date Ratings Downgrade Event.

It is very unlikely that the Rating Agencies will confirm their initial ratings of the Secured Notes if any of the Collateral Quality Tests, the Par Value Tests, the Concentration Limitations or the Minimum Par Value Ratio is not satisfied on the Effective Date. Accordingly, the Issuer will seek to purchase additional Collateral Obligations during the Initial Investment Period so that the Collateral Quality Tests, the Par Value Tests, the Concentration Limitations and the Minimum Par Value Ratio will be satisfied on the Effective Date. The occurrence of an Effective Date Ratings Downgrade Event will not cause an Event of Default with respect to the Securities. See "Risk Factors—Effective Date Ratings Downgrade Event".

RISK FACTORS

Prior to making an investment decision, prospective investors should carefully consider, in addition to the matters set forth elsewhere in this Offering Circular, the following factors:

Limited Liquidity and Restrictions on Transfer. There is currently no market for the Securities. Although Goldman, Sachs & Co. has advised the Issuers that it intends to make a market in the Securities, Goldman, Sachs & Co. is not obligated to do so, and any such market-making with respect to the Securities may be discontinued at any time without notice. There can be no assurance that any secondary market for any of the Securities will develop, or, if a secondary market does develop, that it will provide the Holders of such Securities with liquidity of investment or that it will continue for the life of such Securities. Consequently, a purchaser must be prepared to hold the Securities for an indefinite period of time or until Stated Maturity. In addition, no sale, assignment, participation, pledge or transfer of the Securities may be effected if, among other things, it would require any of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any of their respective officers or directors to register under, or otherwise be subject to the provisions of, the Investment Company Act or any other similar legislation or regulatory action. Furthermore, the Securities will not be registered under the Securities Act or any state securities laws, and the Issuer has no plans, and is under no obligation, to register the Securities under the Securities Act. The Securities are subject to certain transfer restrictions and can be transferred only to certain transferees as described herein under "Transfer Restrictions". Such restrictions on the transfer of the Securities may further limit their liquidity. See "Transfer Restrictions". Application has been made to the Irish Financial Services Regulatory Authority, as competent authority under Directive 2003/71/EC, for this Offering Circular to be approved. Application has been made to the Irish Stock Exchange for the Securities to be admitted to the Official List and to trading on its regulated market. There can be no assurance that such listing will be approved or maintained.

Limited Recourse Obligations. The Co-Issued Notes will be limited recourse secured obligations of the Issuers, the Class E Notes will be limited recourse secured obligations of the Issuer and the Subordinated Securities will be limited recourse unsecured obligations of the Issuer. None of the Collateral Manager, the Securityholders, the Initial Purchaser, the Trustee, any Hedge Counterparty, the Administrator, the Share Trustee or any Affiliates of any of the foregoing or any other person or entity will be obligated to make payments on the Securities. Consequently, Holders of the Securities must rely solely on distributions on the Collateral for the payment of principal, interest and premium, if any, thereon. If distributions on the Collateral are insufficient to make payments on the Securities, no other assets (and, in particular, no assets of the Collateral Manager, the Securityholders, the Initial Purchaser, the Trustee, any Hedge Counterparty, the Administrator, the Share Trustee or any directors or officers of the Issuers or any Affiliates of any of the foregoing) will be available for payment of the deficiency and following realization of the Collateral, the obligations of the Issuers or, in the case of the Class E Notes and Subordinated Securities, the Issuer, to pay such deficiency shall be extinguished and shall not thereafter revive. Each Securityholder by its acceptance of such Security will agree or be deemed to have agreed not to take any action or institute any proceedings against the Issuers under any insolvency law applicable to the Issuers or which would be likely to cause the Issuers to be subject to, or to seek the protection of, any insolvency law applicable to the Issuers, subject to certain limited exceptions.

Subordination of the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes, the Class D Notes, the Class E Notes and the Subordinated Securities. Except as described in "Summary—Status and Subordination," the Class A Notes are subordinated on each Payment Date to the Class S Notes, the Class B Notes are subordinated on each Payment Date to the Class A Notes, the Class C Notes are subordinated on each Payment Date to the Class B Notes, the Class D Notes are subordinated on each Payment Date to the Class C Notes, the Class E Notes are subordinated on each Payment Date to the Class D Notes and the Subordinated Securities are subordinated on each Payment Dete to the Class E Notes. Except as described in "Summary—Status and Subordination," no payments of interest or distributions from Interest Proceeds will be made on any Class of Securities on any Payment Date until current or Deferred Interest on the Securities of each Class to which such Class is subordinated has been paid, and no payments of principal or distributions from Principal Proceeds will be made on any such Class of Securities on any Payment Date until principal of the Securities of each Class to which such Class is subordinated has been paid in full, in each case in accordance with the Priority of Payments described herein. No distributions of Principal Proceeds to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities will be made until the Secured Notes have been repaid in full. See "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments".

In addition, if an Event of Default occurs, as long as any Securities of the Controlling Class are Outstanding, the Holders of the Controlling Class will be entitled to determine the remedies to be exercised under the Indenture including the sale and liquidation of the Collateral (except that the Collateral may be sold and liquidated only if, among other things, the Trustee determines (and the Majority of the Controlling Class agrees with such determination) that the anticipated proceeds of such sale or liquidation (after deducting the reasonable expenses of such sale or liquidation) would be sufficient to pay in full the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Secured Notes, plus accrued and unpaid interest, and certain other amounts, or the Holders of at least 66 2/3% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Secured Notes of each Class (with each such Class voting separately) direct, subject to the provisions of the Indenture, such sale and liquidation). Remedies pursued by the Holders of the Controlling Class could be adverse to the interests of the Holders of the subordinated Classes of Securities. See "Description of the Securities—The Indenture—Events of Default".

Unsecured Subordinated Securities. The Subordinated Securities are not secured by the Collateral Obligations or the other Collateral securing the Secured Notes. As such, the Holders of the Subordinated Securities will rank behind all of the secured creditors, whether known or unknown, of the Issuer, including, without limitation, the Holders of the Secured Notes and any Hedge Counterparties. No person or entity other then the Issuer will be required to make any distributions on the Subordinated Securities. Except with respect to the obligations of the Issuer to make payments pursuant to the Priority of Payments, the Issuer does not expect to have any creditors. Any distributions on the Subordinated Securities will be payable only to the extent funds are available in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

Optional Redemption of Securities. An optional redemption of Securities could require the Collateral Manager to liquidate positions more rapidly than would otherwise be desirable, which could adversely affect the realized value of the securities sold. In addition, the optional redemption requirements in the Indenture may require the Collateral Manager to aggregate securities to be sold together in one block transaction, thereby possibly resulting in a lower realized value for the securities sold.

Redemption by Refinancing. The Secured Notes are subject to Redemption by Refinancing. The Holders of at least a Majority of the Subordinated Securities may direct the redemption of any Class of Secured Notes in whole but not in part on any Scheduled Payment Date occurring after the Non-Call Period, in connection with a Redemption by Refinancing by directing the Issuer to issue Replacement Notes (which may accrue interest at a floating rate or fixed rate as described herein), the proceeds of which will be used to fully redeem such Class or Classes of Secured Notes, as applicable. A Redemption by Refinancing will be required to result in the redemption of all of the Secured Notes of the affected Class or Classes but need not result in the redemption of all Classes of Secured Notes. There is no assurance that the Holders of any Class of Secured Notes refinanced will be able to invest the proceeds thereof in comparable securities earning a comparable rate of return.

Mandatory Redemption of Secured Notes in Case of Failure of the Coverage Tests. If any Par Value Test (excluding the Class E Par Value Test) with respect to the applicable Class or Classes of Co-Issued Notes is not met on the Determination Date immediately preceding a Scheduled Payment Date or if any Interest Coverage Test with respect to any Class or Classes of Co-Issued Notes is not met on any Determination Date on or after the Second Determination Date, Principal Proceeds and, thereafter, Interest Proceeds that would have been paid to the Holders of each Class of Securities that is subordinated to such Class or Classes will be used to redeem the Securities of the most senior Class or Classes then Outstanding to the extent necessary to restore the applicable Coverage Test to the minimum required level as described under "Security for the Secured Notes—The Coverage Tests" or cause any Class of Securities to which such unsatisfied test relates to be redeemed in full. If the Class E Par Value Test is not met on the Determination Date immediately preceding a Scheduled Payment Date, Interest Proceeds that otherwise would have been paid to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities will be used to redeem the Class E Notes, to the extent necessary to restore the Class E Par Value Test to the minimum required level. The foregoing could result in an elimination, deferral or reduction in the funds available to make interest payments or principal repayments to the Holders of the Class C Notes, the Class D Notes and the Class E Notes and distributions to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities. See "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments" and "Security for the Secured Notes—The Coverage Tests".

Effective Date Ratings Downgrade Event. Although Collateral Obligations with an Aggregate Principal Amount equal to approximately 87% of the Collateral Portfolio to be purchased by the Issuer will be purchased (or the Issuer will have entered into agreements to purchase) as of the Closing Date, a portion of the Collateral Portfolio will be purchased after the Closing Date and the price and availability of Collateral Obligations may be adversely affected by volatility in the market for Collateral Obligations. Consequently, the ability of the Issuer to purchase Collateral Obligations by the Effective Date at desirable prices and meeting the requirements set forth herein may be compromised. The Issuer will request that each of the Rating Agencies confirm (or, in the case of Moody's, submit information such that Moody's may be deemed to have confirmed) the initial ratings of the Secured Notes on the Effective Date. The inability of the Issuer to purchase a suitable portfolio prior to the Effective Date may result in an Effective Date Ratings Downgrade Event. If an Effective Date Ratings Downgrade Event occurs, the Issuer is required to, in accordance with the Priority of Payments, apply Interest Proceeds and, to the extent the application of Interest Proceeds is insufficient, Principal Proceeds to pay principal of the Secured Notes (other than the Class S Notes) pursuant to the Note Payment Sequence until the Secured Notes (other than the Class S Notes) are paid in full or until such Effective Date Ratings Downgrade Event no longer exists. See "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments". The occurrence of an Effective Date Ratings Downgrade Event will not cause an Event of Default.

Use of Interest Proceeds to Purchase Collateral Obligations. During the Reinvestment Period, Interest Proceeds remaining on each Payment Date prior to the payment of certain unpaid subordinated expenses and unpaid hedge termination payments, the distribution to the Collateral Manager in respect of the Incentive Collateral Management Fee and distributions in respect of the Subordinated Securities will be used to reinvest in Collateral Obligations up to the amount necessary to satisfy the Reinvestment Test (but not to exceed 50% of such Interest Proceeds available on such Payment Date). As a result, distributions to the Holders of Subordinated Securities will be reduced to the extent of the portion of Interest Proceeds used during the Reinvestment Period to reinvest in Collateral Obligations. See "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments—Interest Proceeds".

Nature of Non-Investment Grade Collateral; Defaults; Loans. The Collateral is subject to credit, liquidity and interest rate risks. The Collateral Obligations pledged to secure the Secured Notes will consist of a portfolio of assets which consist primarily of Dollar denominated loans (including Assignments or Participations) and high yield debt securities, primarily rated below investment grade (or of equivalent credit quality), Structured Finance Securities and Synthetic Securities, the Reference Obligations of which will likely be rated below investment grade, all of which will have greater credit and liquidity risk than investment grade sovereign or corporate bonds or loans.

High yield debt securities are generally unsecured (and loans may be unsecured) and may be subordinated to certain other obligations of the issuer thereof. The lower rating of high yield securities and below investment grade loans reflects a greater possibility that adverse changes in the financial condition of an issuer or obligor or in general economic conditions or both may impair the ability of the issuer or obligor to make payments of principal or interest. Such investments may be speculative. See "The Loan Market".

A portion of the Collateral Portfolio may consist of middle market loans and second lien loans. Issuance sizes and lending syndicates for middle market loans are usually smaller than those for widely syndicated leveraged loans and thus less liquid given their smaller loan sizes. The Issuer's right to the proceeds on the liquidation of the collateral for a second lien loan will be subordinate to the rights of the holders of the first lien on the related collateral, and consequently, the Issuer's recovery on such a loan may be reduced. Collateral Obligations that are second lien loans may be less liquid than loans secured by a first lien.

The Issuer will acquire interests in loans and other debt obligations directly by way of sale, Assignment or Participation. The purchaser of an Assignment typically succeeds to all the rights and obligations of the assigning institution and becomes a lender under the credit agreement with respect to the debt obligation; however, its rights can be more restricted than those of the assigning institution. In purchasing Participations, the Issuer generally has only a contractual relationship with the Selling Institution and will have no right to directly enforce compliance by the borrower with the terms of the loan agreement. See "—Assignments of and Participations in Loans".

Purchasers of loans are predominantly commercial banks, investment funds and investment banks. As secondary market trading volumes increase, new loans frequently contain standardized documentation to facilitate loan trading which may improve market liquidity. There can be no assurance, however, that future levels of supply and demand in loan trading will provide an adequate degree of liquidity or that the current level of liquidity will continue. Loans are not purchased or sold as easily as publicly traded securities are purchased or sold because, among other things, the holders of such loans are provided confidential information relating to the borrower, the loan agreement with respect to such loans is unique and customized and such loans are privately syndicated. In addition, historically the trading volume in the loan market has been small relative to the high yield debt market. See "The Loan Market".

The market value of the Collateral Obligations will generally fluctuate with, among other things, changes in prevailing interest rates, general economic conditions, the condition of certain financial markets (including, particularly, the market for high yield debt obligations), international political events, developments or trends in any particular industry and the financial condition of the issuers of the Collateral Obligations. The public market for high yield debt obligations, in particular, has experienced periods of volatility and periods of reduced liquidity.

The offering of the Securities has been structured to withstand certain assumed losses relating to defaults on the underlying Collateral Obligations. See "Rating of the Securities". There is no assurance that actual losses will not exceed such assumed losses over any given time period. If any losses exceed such assumed levels, however, payments or distributions on the Securities could be adversely affected by defaults. To the extent that a default occurs with respect to any Collateral Obligation and the Trustee sells or otherwise disposes of such Collateral Obligation, it is not likely that the proceeds of such sale or disposition will be equal to the unpaid principal and interest thereon and such default and/or sale/disposition may reduce, if not eliminate, the availability of funds that would otherwise be distributable to the Holders of the Securities.

Concentration Risk. The Issuer will invest in a portfolio of Collateral Obligations consisting of Assignments or Participations of loans, high yield debt securities, Synthetic Securities, Finance Leases and Structured Finance Securities. Although no significant concentration with respect to any particular obligor, industry or country (other than the United States) is expected to exist at the Effective Date, the concentration of the portfolio in any one obligor would subject the Securities to a greater degree of risk with respect to defaults by such obligor, and the concentration of the portfolio in any one industry would subject the Securities to a greater degree of risk with respect to economic downturns relating to such industry. See "Security for the Secured Notes".

International Investing. A portion of the Collateral may consist of Collateral Obligations that are obligations of non-U.S. obligors. Investing outside the United States may involve greater risks than investing in the United States. These risks include: (i) less publicly available information, (ii) varying levels of governmental regulation and supervision and (iii) the difficulty of enforcing legal rights in a non- U.S. jurisdiction and uncertainties as to the status, interpretation and application of laws. Moreover, non- U.S. obligors may not be subject to uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards, practices and requirements comparable to those applicable to United States companies. Moreover, if the sovereign rating of a country in which an obligor on a Collateral Obligation is located is downgraded, the ratings applicable to such Collateral Obligation may decline as well.

Synthetic Securities. Synthetic Securities expose the Issuer to the credit risks associated with the Reference Obligations consisting of high yield debt securities and non-investment grade loans. However, the Issuer will usually have a contractual relationship only with the counterparty of such Synthetic Security, and not with the Reference Obligor. Generally, the Issuer will have no right to directly enforce compliance by the Reference Obligor with the terms of the Reference Obligation nor any rights of set-off against the Reference Obligor. The Issuer may be subject to set-off rights exercised by the Reference Obligor against the counterparty. The Issuer will not have any voting rights with respect to the Reference Obligation. The Issuer will not directly benefit from any collateral that may support the Reference Obligation and will not have the benefit of the remedies that would normally be available to a holdar of such Reference Obligation. In addition, in the event of the insolvency of the counterparty, the Issuer will be treated as a general creditor of such counterparty, and will not have any claim with respect to the Reference Obligation. Consequently, the Issuer will be subject to the credit risk of the counterparty as well as that of the Reference Obligor. As a result, concentrations of Synthetic Securities in any one counterparty subject the Securities to an additional degree of risk with respect to defaults by such counterparty as well as by the Reference Obligor. The Collateral Manager will not perform independent credit analyses of the counterparties. However, any such counterparty, or an entity guaranteeing such counterparty, individually and in the aggregate shall satisfy the required ratings set forth in the definition of "Synthetic Security Counterparty". The Rating Agencies may downgrade any of the Co-Issued Notes if a Synthatic Security Counterparty has been downgraded by either of the Rating Agencies such that the Issuer is not in compliance with the Synthetic Security Counterparty rating requirements. The Initial Purchaser and/or one or more of its Affiliates, with acceptable credit support arrangements, if necessary, may act as counterparty with respact to all or a portion of the Synthetic Securities, which may create certain conflicts of interest. See "—Certain Conflicts of Interest".

Structured Finance Securities. A portion of the Collateral Obligations may consist of Structured Finance Securities. Structured Finance Securities may present risks similar to those of the other types of Collateral Obligations in which the Issuer may invest and, in fact, such risks may be present to a greater dagree in the case of Structured Finance Securities. Moreover, investing in Structured Finance Securities may entail a variety of unique risks. Among other risks, Structured Finance Securities may be subject to prepayment risk, credit risk, liquidity risk, market risk, structural risk, legal risk and interest rate risk (which may be exacerbated if the interest rate payable on a Structured Finance Security changes based on changes in interest rates or inversely in relation to changes in interest rates). In addition, certain Structured Finance Securities may provide that non-payment of interest will not constitute an event of default in certain circumstances and the holders of such securities will not have available to them any associated default remedies. During such period of non-payment, such non-paid interest will generally be capitalized and added to the outstanding principal balance of the related security. Furthermore, (i) the performance of a Structured Finance Security will be affected by a variety of factors, including its priority in the capital structure of its issuer, the availability of any credit enhancement, the level and timing of payments and recoveries on and the characteristics of the underlying receivables, loans or other assets that ara being securitized, remoteness of those assets from the originator or transferor, the adequacy of and ability to realize upon any related collateral and the competence of the servicer of the underlying assets and (ii) the price of a Structured Finance Security, if required to be sold, may also be subjact to certain market and liquidity risks for securities of its type at the time of sale. The Issuer will be subject to restrictions on the amount of Structured Finance Securities it may hold.

Securities Lending. The Collateral Obligations may be loaned to one or more Securities Lending Counterparties. See "Security for the Secured Notes—Securities Lending". In the event that a Securities Lending Counterparty defaults on its obligation to return such loaned Collateral Obligation because of insolvency or otherwise, the Issuer could experience deleys and costs in gaining access to the collateral posted by the borrower (and in extreme circumstances could be restricted from selling the collateral). In the event that the borrower defaults, the Holders of the Securities could suffer a loss to the extent that the realized value of the cash or securities securing the obligation of the borrower to return a loaned Collateral Obligation (less expenses) is less than the amount required to purchase such Collateral Obligation in the open market. This shortfall could be due to, among other things, discrepancies between the mark-to-market and actual transaction prices for the loaned Collateral Obligations arising from limited liquidity or availability of the loaned Collateral Obligations (and, in extreme circumstances, the loaned Collateral Obligations being unavailable at any price). The Rating Agencies may downgrade any of the Co-Issued Notes if a borrower of a Collateral Obligation or, if applicable, the entity guaranteeing the performance of such borrower, does not satisfy the Securities Lending Counterparty rating requirements. The Initial Purchaser and/or one or more of its Affiliates, with acceptable credit support arrangements, if necessary, may borrow Collateral Obligations, which may create certain conflicts of interest. In addition, the Issuer may be required to indemnify a collateral agent or any other person acting in a similar capacity in connection with a Securities Lending Agreement (any such indemnity payments will constitute Administrative Expenses and will only be paid on a subordinated basis, subject to the Priority of Payments). See "—Certain Conflicts of Interest".

Insolvency Considerations with Respect to Issuers of Collateral Obligations. In the event of the insolvency of an issuer or obligor of a Collateral Obligation, payments made on such Collateral Obligation could be subject to avoidance as a "preference" if made within a certain period of time (which may be as long as one year) before insolvency. The Collateral Obligations consisting of obligations of non-U.S. issuers or obligors may be subject to various laws enacted in the countries of their issuance for the protection of creditors. These insolvency considerations will differ depending on the country in which each issuer is located or domiciled and may differ depending on whether the issuer or obligor is a non-sovereign or a sovereign entity.

Various laws enacted for the protection of creditors may apply to the Collateral Obligations. The information in this and the following paragraph is applicable with respect to U.S. issuers or obligors subject to United States federal bankruptcy law. Insolvency considerations may differ with respect to other issuers. If a court in a lawsuit brought by an unpaid creditor or representative of creditors of an issuer or obligor of a Collateral Obligation, such as a trustee in bankruptcy, were to find that the issuer or the obligor did not receive fair consideration or reasonably equivalent value for incurring the indebtedness constituting the Collateral Obligation and, after giving effect to such indebtedness, the issuer or obligor (i) was insolvent, (ii) was engaged in a business for which the remaining assets of such issuer constituted unreasonably small capital or (iii) intended to incur, or believed that it would incur, debts beyond its ability to pay such debts as they mature, such court could determine to invalidate, in whole or in part, such indebtedness as a fraudulent conveyance, to subordinate such indebtedness to existing or future creditors of such issuer or obligor, or to recover amounts previously paid by such issuer or obligor in satisfaction of such indebtedness. The measure of insolvency for purposes of the foregoing will vary. Generally, an issuer or obligor would be considered insolvent at a particular time if the sum of its debts were then greater than all of its property at a fair valuation, or if the present fair saleable value of its assets was then less than the amount that would be required to pay its probable liabilities on its existing debts as they became absolute and matured. There can be no assurance as to what standard a court would apply in order to determine whether the issuer or obligor was "insolvent" after giving effect to the incurrence of the indebtedness constituting the Collateral Obligation or that, regardless of the method of valuation, a court would not determine that the issuer was "insolvent" upon giving effect to such incurrence.

In general, if payments on a Collateral Obligation are avoidable, whether as fraudulent conveyances or preferences, such payments can be recaptured either from the initial recipient (such as the Issuer) or from subsequent transferees of such payments (such as the Holders of the Securities). To the extent that any such payments are recaptured from the Issuer, the resulting loss will be borne first by the Holders of the Subordinated Securities, then by the Holders of the Class E Notes, then by the Holders of the Class D Notes, then by the Holders of the Class C Notes, then by the Holders of the Class B Notes, then by the Holders of the Class A Notes and finally by the Holders of the Class S Notes (only to the extent such Note is outstanding at such time). However, a court in a bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding would be able to direct the recapture of any such payment from a Holder of Securities only to the extent that such court has jurisdiction over such Holder or its assets. Moreover, it is likely that avoidable payments could not be recaptured directly from a Holder that has given value in exchange for its Security, in good faith and without knowledge that the payments were avoidable. Nevertheless, since there is no judicial precedent relating to structured securities such as the Securities, there can be no assurance that a Holder of the Securities will be able to avoid recapture on this or any other basis. See also "—Assignments of and Participations in Loans".

The Issuer does not intend to engage in conduct that would form the basis for a successful cause of action based upon fraudulent conveyance, preference or equitable subordination. There can be no assurance, however, that such a successful cause of action against the Issuer will not occur, or as to whether any lending institution or other investor from which the Issuer acquired the Collateral Obligations engaged in any such conduct (or any other conduct that would subject the Collateral Obligations and the Issuer to insolvency laws) and, if it did, as to whether such creditor claims could be asserted in a U.S. court (or in the courts of any other country) against the Issuer.

Lender Liability Considerations; Equitable Subordination. A number of judicial decisions in the United States have upheld the right of borrowers to sue lenders or bondholders on the basis of various evolving legal theories (collectively, termed "lender liability"). Generally, lender liability is founded upon the premise that an institutional lender or bondholder has violated a duty (whether implied or contractual) of good faith and fair dealing owed to the borrower or issuer or has assumed a degree of control over the borrower or issuer resulting in the creation of a fiduciary duty owed to the borrower or issuer or its other creditors or shareholders. Although it would be a novel application of the lender liability theories, the Issuer may be subject to allegations of lender liability. However, the Issuer does not intend to engage in conduct that would form the basis for a successful cause of action based upon lender liability.

In addition, under common law principles that in some cases form the basis for lender liability claims, if a lender or bondholder (a) intentionally takes an action that results in the undercapitalization of a borrower to the detriment of other creditors of such borrower, (b) engages in other inequitable conduct to the detriment of such other creditors, (c) engages in fraud with respect to, or makes misrepresentations to, such other creditors or (d) uses its influence as a stockholder to dominate or control a borrower to the detriment of other creditors of such borrower, a court may elect to subordinate the claim of the offending lender or bondholder to the claims of the disadvantaged creditor or creditors, such remedy called "equitable subordination". Because of the nature of the Collateral Obligations, the Issuer may be subject to claims from creditors of an obligor that Collateral Obligations issued by such obligor that are held by the Issuer should be equitably subordinated. However, the Issuer does not intend to engage in conduct that would form the basis for a successful cause of action based upon the equitable subordination doctrine.

The preceding discussion is based upon principles of United States federal and state laws. Insofar as Collateral Obligations that are obligations of non-United States obligors are concerned, the laws of certain foreign jurisdictions may impose liability upon lenders or bondholders under factual circumstances similar to those described above, with consequences that may or may not be analogous to those described above under United States federal and state laws.

Volatility of Collateral Market Value and the Securities. The market value of the Collateral Obligations will generally fluctuate with, among other things, changes in prevailing interest rates, general economic conditions, the condition of certain financial markets, developments or trends in any particular industry and the financial condition of the issuers of the Collateral Obligations. The markets for high yield corporate debt securities and loans have in the past experienced periods of volatility and periods of reduced liquidity. A decrease in the market value of the Collateral Obligations would adversely affect the Sale Proceeds that could be obtained upon the sale of the Collateral Obligations and could ultimately affect the ability of the Issuers to effect an optional redemption of the Securities, pay the principal of the Secured Notes or make distributions on the Subordinated Securities.

The financial markets have experienced substantial fluctuations in prices for loans and high yield debt securities and limited liquidity for such obligations. No assurance can be made that the conditions giving rise to such price fluctuations and limited liquidity will not continue or become more acute following the Closing Date. During periods of limited liquidity and higher price volatility, the Issuer's ability to acquire or dispose of Collateral Obligations at a price and time that the Issuer deems advantageous may be impaired. As a result, in periods of rising market prices, the Issuer may be unable to participate in price increases fully to the extent that it is unable to acquire desired positions quickly; and the Issuer's inability to dispose fully and promptly of positions in declining markets will conversely cause its net asset value to decline as the value of unsold positions is marked to lower prices.

There can be no assurance that current economic conditions and the effects of increased interest rates and corresponding price volatility will not adversely impact the investment returns ultimately realized by investors or continued compliance with, among other things, the Coverage Tests.

Assignments of, and Participations in, Loans. The Issuer may purchase an interest in loans comprising Collateral Obligations either directly (by way of sale or Assignment) or indirectly (by way of Participation), subject to certain limitations set forth in the Indenture.

The purchaser of an Assignment typically succeeds to all the rights and obligations of the assigning institution and becomes a lender under the loan agreement with respect to the loan. The Issuer as an assignee will generally have the right to receive directly from the borrower all payments of principal and interest to which it is entitled under the Assignment. As a purchaser of an Assignment, the Issuer typically will have the same voting rights as other lenders under the applicable loan agreement and will have the right to vote to waive enforcement of breaches of covenants. The Issuer will also have the same rights as other lenders to enforce compliance by the borrower with the terms of the loan agreement, to set-off claims against the borrower and to have recourse to collateral supporting the loan. As a result, in cases of Assignments, the Issuer will generally not assume the credit risk of the assigning institution, and the insolvency of an assigning institution should have little effect on the ability of the Issuer to continue to receive payments of principal or interest from the borrower. The Issuer will, however, assume the credit risk of the borrower.

In purchasing Participations, the Issuer will usually heve a contractual relationship only with the Selling Institution, and not the borrower. When the Issuer holds a Participation in a loan it generally will not have the right to enforce compliance by the borrower with the terms of the loan agreement or have the right to vote to waive enforcement of any restrictive covenant breached by a borrower. However, most participation agreements provide that the Selling Institution may not vote in favor of any amendment, modification or waiver that forgives principal or interest, reduces principal or interest that is payable, postpones any payment of principal (whether a scheduled peyment or a mandatory prepayment) or interest or releases any material guarantee or security without the consent of the participant (at least to the extent that the participant would be affected by any such amendment, modification or waiver). Selling Institutions voting in connection with a potential waiver of a restrictive covenant may have interests different from those of the Issuer as such Selling Institutions are not required to consider the interests of the Issuer in connection with their votes. In addition, the Issuer will have no rights of set-off against the borrower. The Issuer may not directly benefit from the collateral supporting the related loan and generally will have no right to enforce directly compliance by the borrower under the loan agreements. The Issuer may purchase a Participation from a Selling Institution that does not itself retain any portion of the loan and, therefore, may have limited interest in monitoring the terms of the loan agreement and the continuing creditworthiness of the borrower.

In addition, depending upon the circumstances, in the event of the insolvency of the Selling Institution, under the laws of the United States of America and the States thereof, the Issuer may experience delays in receiving payments made to the Selling Institution by the borrower or may be treated as a general creditor of the Selling Institution with respect to certain payments end the Issuer may suffer a loss to the extent the borrower may set-off claims against the Selling Institution or, if it is treeted as a general creditor of the Selling Institution it may not have any exclusive or senior claim with respect to the Selling Institution's interest in, or the collateral with respect to, the loan. Consequently, the Issuer may be subject to the credit risk of the Selling Institution as well as that of the borrower. The Collaterel Menager has not and will not perform independent credit analyses of the Selling Institutions.

Certain of the loans or Participations may be governed by the law of a jurisdiction other than a United States jurisdiction. The Issuer is unable to provide any information with respect to the risks associated with purchasing a Participation under an agreement governed by the laws of a jurisdiction other then a United States jurisdiction, including characterization under such laws of such Participation or sub-Participation in the event of the insolvency of the institution from whom the Issuer purcheses such Participation or sub-Participation or the insolvency of the institution from whom the grantor of the sub-Participation purchased its Participation.

Collateral Reinvestment Provisions; Restrictions on Acquisition and Disposition. During the Reinvestment Period and, to the limited extent described more fully herein, after the Reinvestment Period, so long as certain requirements are met, the Collateral Manager will have sole discretion to reinvest Principal Proceeds and in some cases Interest Proceeds, in additional Collaterel Obligations, end dispose of Credit Risk Obligations, Credit Improved Obligations and certain Collateral Obligations and to reinvest the Sale Proceeds thereof in Substitute Collateral Obligations, in each case in compliance with the Reinvestment Criteria, end certain other requirements set forth herein and in the Indenture. The exercise by the Collateral Manager of its discretion in disposing of such Collateral Obligations and purchasing Substitute Collateral Obligations in compliance with the Reinvestment Criteria and such other requirements will expose the Issuer to the market conditions prevailing at the time of such sale and reinvestment. Such actions during periods of adverse market conditions may result in unfavorable changes in the characteristics and quality of the Collateral Portfolio and may result in a decrease in the overall yield on the Collateral Portfolio, adversely affecting the Issuer's ability to make payments on the Securities. Further, due to the significant restrictions imposed by the Indenture on the Collateral Manager's ability to buy and sell Collateral Obligations, during certain periods or in certain circumstances, the Collateral Manager may be unable as a result of such restrictions to buy or sell securities or to take other actions which it might consider to be in the best interests of the Issuer and the Holders of the Securities. See "Security for the Secured Notes—Sale of Collateral Obligations; Substitute Securities; Exchange of Defaulted Obligations and Reinvestment Criteria".

Prepayment of Loans. Loans are generally prepayable, in whole or in part, at any time at the option of the obligor thereof at par plus accrued and unpaid interest thereon. Prepayments on loans may be caused by a variety of factors which are difficult to predict. Accordingly, there exists a risk that loans purchased at a price greater than par may experience a capital loss as a result of such a prepayment. In addition, Principal Proceeds received upon such a prepayment are subject to reinvestment risk as described in the preceding paragraph. Any inability of the Issuer to reinvest payments or other proceeds in Collateral Obligations with comparable interest rates that satisfy the Reinvestment Criteria may adversely affect the timing and amount of payments and distributions received by the Holders of the Securities and the yield to maturity of the Securities. There can be no assurance that the Issuer will be able to reinvest proceeds in Collateral Obligations with comparable interest rates that satisfy the Reinvestment Criteria or (if it is able to make such reinvestments) as to the length of any delays before such investments are made.

Recoveries. To the extent that defaults occur with respect to any Collateral Obligation and the Issuer sells or otherwise disposes of such Collateral Obligations, it is unlikely that the proceeds of such sales or dispositions, together with the value of the remaining Collateral, will be equal to the unpaid principal of and interest on all of the Secured Notes and the purchase price of the Subordinated Securities. In addition, the Issuer may incur additional expenses to the extent it is required to seek recovery upon a default on a Collateral Obligation or participate in the restructuring of such Collateral Obligation. Moreover, there can be no assurance on the timing of any recoveries.

Average Life and Prepayment Considerations. The Stated Maturity of each Class of Securities (other than the Class S Notes) is the Payment Date in February 2021 and, with respect to the Class S Notes, February 2014; however, the average life of each Class is expected to be shorter than the number of years until the Stated Maturity. See "Summary—The Offering" and "Maturity and Prepayment Considerations".

The approximations of the average life of each Class of Secured Notes set forth in the table in "Summary—The Offering" with respect to the average life of each Class of Secured Notes are not predictive and do not necessarily reflect historical performance and defaults for loans and high yield debt securities; in fact, the average life of the Secured Notes will be affected by the ability of the Issuer to reinvest Principal Proceeds in Collateral Obligations during the Permitted Reinvestment Period (and to the extent of Eligible Post Reinvestment Proceeds, after the Reinvestment Period). Such approximations will also be affected by the financial condition of the issuers of the underlying Collateral Obligations and the characteristics of such securities, including the existence and frequency of exercise of any optional redemption, mandatory prepayment or sinking fund features, the prevailing level of interest rates, the redemption price, the actual default rate and the actual level of recoveries on any Defaulted Obligations, the frequency of tender or exchange offers for the Collateral Obligations and on any sales of Collateral Obligations. In addition, if principal payments on the Secured Notes occur under the circumstances described under "Summary—The Offering—Principal Payments on the Secured Notes," the average life of the Secured Notes will also be affected. See "Maturity and Prepayment Considerations" and "Security for the Secured Notes—Sale of Collateral Obligations; Substitute Securities; Exchange of Defaulted Obligations and Reinvestment Criteria".

Distribution of Principal Proceeds Prior to the End of the Reinvestment Period. On each Scheduled Payment Date during the Reinvestment Period, Principal Proceeds will be distributed to the Holders of the Secured Notes in accordance with the Priority of Payments, if the Collateral Manager determines, in its sole judgment (which judgment shall not be subject to question as a result of subsequent events), that it is impractical or not beneficial to reinvest Principal Proceeds by the end of the applicable Investment Due Period. Distribution of Principal Proceeds to Holders of the Secured Notes prior to the end of the Reinvestment Period may shorten the expected lives of the Secured Notes and affect the timing and amount of distributions on the Subordinated Securities. See "Maturity and Prepayment Considerations".

Interest Rate Risk; Floating Rate Indices for Collateral Obligations. The Concentration Limitations require that not less than a certain percentage of the Collateral Portfolio will bear interest based on LIBOR or another floating rate index. Proceeds may be reinvested in Collateral Obligations, subject to certain limitations specified herein, or, together with Interest Proceeds, invested in Eligible Investments pending application in accordance with the Priority of Payments. There is no requirement that such Eligible Investments bear interest at LIBOR, and the interest rates available for such Eligible Investments are inherently uncertain. The Floating Rate Notes will bear interest at a rate based on LIBOR for Eurodollar deposits for the Applicable Period, as determined on each LIBOR Determination Date. As a result, there may be a floating/fixed rate or basis mismatch between the Floating Rate Notes and any underlying Fixed Rate Collateral Obligations and there may be a basis or timing mismatch between such Floating Rate Notes and the Floating Rate Colleteral Obligations as the interest rate on such Floating Rate Collateral Obligations may adjust more frequently or less frequently, on different dates and based on different indices than the interest rates on the Floating Rate Notes. As a result of such mismatches, an increase in the level of LIBOR could adversely impact the ability to make payments on the Secured Notes, as well as the ability to make distributions on the Subordinated Securities. The Issuer may purchase one or more Hedge Agreements (which may be interest rate swap agreements or interest rate cap agreements) in order to reduce the impact of the interest rate mismatch. However, despite the Issuer having the option of purchasing one or more Hedge Agreements and although distribution of Interest Proceeds to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities will be subordinated to the payment of interest on the Secured Notes, there can be no assurance that the Collateral Obligations and the Eligible Investments will in all circumstances generate sufficient Interest Proceeds to make timely payments of interest on the Secured Notes or amounts subordinated thereto including distributions to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities. The Initial Purchaser and/or one or more of its Affiliates, with acceptable credit support arrangements, if necessary, may act as counterparty with respect to all or some of such Hedge Agreements, which could create certain conflicts of interest. See "—Certain Conflicts of Interest".

In the event of the insolvency of a Hedge Counterparty, the Issuer would be treated as a general creditor of such Hedge Counterparty.

Changes in Tax Law; No Gross-Up. A Collateral Obligation will be eligible for purchase by the Issuer if, at the time it is purchased (or committed for purchase), either the payments thereon are not subject to withholding taxes (except for withholding taxes with respect to fees received under a Securities Lending Agreement and commitment fees associated with Collateral Obligations constituting Revolving Credit Facilities or Delayed Funding Term Loans) imposed by any jurisdiction or the obligor is required to make "gross-up" payments that cover the full amount of any such withholding taxes. There can be no assurance that, as a result of any change in any applicable law, treaty, rule or regulation or interpretation thereof, the payments on certain Collateral Obligations (such as Finance Leases, if they were to be treated as leases rather than debt) would not become or be treated as subject to withholding taxes imposed by any jurisdiction. In addition, the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury have requested comments on the appropriate treatment of credit default swaps, which often are included as Synthetic Securities, and possible alternative treatments could result in withhold on payments received by the Issuer. In that event, if the obligors of such Collateral Obligations were not then required to make or in fact failed to make "gross-up" payments that cover the full amount of any such withholding taxes, the amounts available to make payments on, or distributions to, the Holders of the Securities would accordingly be reduced. There can be no assurance that remaining payments on the Collateral would be sufficient to make timely payments of interest on and payment of principal at the Stated Maturity of each Class of Secured Notes and, consequently, to make distributions to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities. For additional tax considerations, see "Income Tax Considerations".

In the event that any withholding tax is imposed on payments on the Securities, the Holders of such Securities will not be entitled to receive "gross-up" amounts to compensate for such withholding tax. In addition, upon the occurrence of a Withholding Tax Event, the Issuer may on any Business Day, whether during or after the Non-Call Period, simultaneously redeem in whole but not in part, at redemption prices specified herein, the Securities in accordance with the procedures described under "Description of the Securities—Optional Redemption—Optional Redemption Procedures" below.

Additional Tax. The Issuer expects to conduct its affairs so that its net income will not become subject to U.S. federal income tax. There can be no assurance, however, that its net income will not become subject to United States federal income tax as the result of unanticipated activities by the Issuer, changes in law, contrary conclusions by the U.S. tax authorities or other causes. Investors should note that the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service recently announced that they are considering taxpayer requests for specific guidance on, among other things, whether a foreign person may be treated as engaged in a trade or business in the United States by virtue of entering into credit default swaps. However, the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service have not yet provided any guidance on whether they believe entering into credit default swaps may cause a foreign person to be treated as engaged in a trade or business in the United States and if so, what facts and circumstances must be present for this conclusion to apply. Any future guidance issued by the Treasury and/or the Internal Revenue Service may have an adverse impact on the tax treatment of the Issuer. See discussion under the heading "Income Tax Considerations—Tax Treatment of the Issuer" below.

Legislation and Regulations In Connection With the Prevention of Money Laundering. The Uniting and Strengthening America By Providing Appropriate Tools Required to Intercept and Obstruct Terrorism Act of 2001 (the "USA PATRIOT Act"), signed into law on and effective as of October 26, 2001, imposes anti-money laundering obligations on different types of financial institutions, including banks, broker-dealers and investment companies. The USA PATRIOT Act requires the Secretary of the United States Department of the Treasury (the "Treasury") to prescribe regulations to define the types of investment companies subject to the USA PATRIOT Act and the related anti-money laundering obligations. It is not clear whether the Treasury will require entities such as the Issuer to enact anti-money laundering policies. It is possible that the Treasury will promulgate regulations requiring the Issuers or the Initial Purchaser or other service providers to the Issuers, in connection with the establishment of anti-money laundering procedures, to share information with governmental authorities with respect to investors in the Securities. Such legislation and/or regulations could require the Issuers to implement additional restrictions on the transfer of the Securities. As may be required, the Issuer reserves the right to request such information and take such actions as are necessary to enable it to comply with the USA PATRIOT Act.

Regulation U Requirements. Regulation U governs certain extensions of credit that are secured by Margin Stock by persons other than securities broker-dealers (such persons, "Regulation U Lenders"). Under current interpretations of Regulation U by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System ("FRB") and its staff, the purchase of a debt security such as the Securities in a private placement may constitute an extension of credit. Among other things, Regulation U generally imposes certain limits on the amount of credit that Regulation U Lenders may extend which is used to purchase or carry Margin Stock ("Purpose Credit"). The provisions of the Indenture and the Collateral Management Agreement are intended to ensure that (i) the purchasers of the Subordinated Securities (which are not secured by Margin Stock) are not Regulation U Lenders and (ii) the credit extended by purchasing the Secured Notes (which is secured by the Collateral, which may include Margin Stock) is not Purpose Credit. Regulation U Lenders are not subject to the Regulation U credit limits with respect to extensions of credit that are not Purpose Credit.

Regulation U also generally requires Regulation U Lenders (other than persons that are banks within the meaning of Regulation U) who are not otherwise exempted from the registration requirements to register with the FRB. Under an interpretation of Regulation U by the FRB staff, Qualified Institutional Buyers purchasing debt securities in a transaction in compliance with Rule 144A are not required to register with the FRB where the proceeds of the securities are not Purpose Credit. Non-U.S. Persons purchasing Secured Notes in reliance on Regulation S who do not have their principal place of business in a Federal Reserve District of the FRB are also not required to register with the FRB. However, other purchasers of Secured Notes should consider whether they are required to register with the FRB. In addition, purchasers of Secured Notes subject to the registration requirements of Regulation U, as well as any purchasers of the Secured Notes that are banks within the meaning of Regulation U, may also be subject to certain additional requirements under Regulation U. If the registration or other requirements of Regulation U are applicable to a purchaser of Secured Notes and such purchaser does not comply with such requirements, such failure may affect the enforceability of such purchaser's Secured Notes. See "Security for the Secured Notes—Margin Stock". Purchasers of the Secured Notes should consult their own legal advisors as to Regulation U and its application to them.

Under the Indenture, each purchaser of an interest in a Secured Note will be deemed to have represented that either (x) such purchaser's principal place of business is not located within any Federal Reserve District of the United States Federal Reserve Bank or (y) such purchaser has satisfied and will Dependence on the Collateral Manager and its Investment Professionals. The success of the Issuer will be highly dependent on the managerial expertise of the Collateral Manager. As a result, the Issuer will be highly dependent on the managerial expertise of certain individuals comprising the Collateral Manager's management team. There is no requirement that there be employment arrangements with those individuals for the benefit of the Collateral Manager. The individuals comprising the Collateral Manager's management team are also actively involved in other investment activities and will not be able to devote their full time and attention to the Issuer's business and affairs. The loss of any of these individuals could have a material adverse effect on the performance of the Issuer. See "The Collateral Manager—Key Personnel".

Certain Conflicts of Interest. Various potential and actual conflicts of interest may arise from the overall advisory, investment and other activities of the Collateral Manager, its Affiliates and/or any funds managed by the Collateral Manager and their respective clients and employees and from the conduct by the Initial Purchaser and its Affiliates of other transactions with the Issuer, including, without limitation, acting as counterparty with respect to the Hedge Agreements, the Securities Lending Agreements and Synthetic Securities. The following briefly summarizes some of these conflicts but is not intended to be an exhaustive list of all such conflicts.

Conflicts of Interest Involving the Collateral Manager and Affiliates. Various potential and actual conflicts of interest may arise from the overall investment activities of the Collateral Manager and its Affiliates and their respective clients and employees. The Collateral Manager and its Affiliates may invest, on behalf of themselves and other clients, in securities that would be appropriate as Collateral Obligations. The Collateral Manager and its Affiliates may give advice or take action for their own account or their other client accounts with similar strategies which may differ from advice given or action taken for the Issuers. The Collateral Manager and its Affiliates may also have ongoing relationships with companies whose securities are Collateral Obligations, and may own, directly or through other funds that they manage, equity or debt securities issued by obligors of Collateral Obligations or other Collateral. The Collateral Manager and its Affiliates may also provide certain services for a negotiated fee to companies whose obligations or other securities are pledged to secure the Secured Notes. In addition, the Collateral Manager, its Affiliates and their respective clients and employees may invest, or have already invested, in obligations and/or other securities that are identical to or senior to, or have interests different from or adverse to, the Collateral Obligations. In addition, the Collateral Manager and/or the Initial Purchaser or any of their respective Affiliates may serve as a general partner, adviser, officer, director, sponsor or manager of partnerships or companies organized to issue collateralized bond or loan obligations secured by non-investment grade bank loans. The Collateral Manager may at certain times be engaged in seeking investments to purchase for the Issuer while at the same time the Collateral Manager or one or more Affiliates is also seeking to purchase or has already purchased similar or identical investments for its own account or clients or affiliates or another entity for which it serves as a general partner, adviser, officer, director, sponsor, manager or collateral manager. By reason of the various activities of the Collateral Manager and its Affiliates, the Collateral Manager and such Affiliates may acquire confidential or material non-public information or be restricted from effecting transactions in certain Collateral Obligations or other Collateral that otherwise might have been initiated or prevented from liquidating a position. At times, the Collateral Manager, in an effort to avoid restrictions for the Issuer and its other clients, may elect not to receive information that other market participants or counterparties are eligible to receive or have received.

Neither the Collateral Manager nor any Affiliate thereof has any obligation (affirmative or otherwise) to offer any investments to the Issuer or to inform the Issuer of any investments before offering any investments to other funds or accounts that the Collateral Manager or any of its Affiliates manage or advise. The Collateral Manager and its Affiliates may also make investments on their own behalf without offering such investment opportunities to the Issuer. Furthermore, the Collateral Manager and its Affiliates may be bound by affirmative obligations at present or in the future, whereby it or they are obligated to offer certain investments to funds or accounts that it or they manage or advise before or without the Collateral Manager or its Affiliates offering those investments to the Issuer. Alternatively, the Collateral Manager and its Affiliates may offer certain investments to funds or accounts that it or they manage or advise simultaneously with or in addition to offering those investments to the Issuer. Thus, other funds or accounts that it or they manage or advise could become co-investors with the Issuer.

The Collateral Manager will endeavor to resolve conflicts with respect to investment opportunities in a manner which it deems equitable (in its sole discretion) to the extent possible under the facts and circumstances. Further, the Collateral Manager will be prohibited under the terms of the Collateral Management Agreement from directing the acquisition of Collateral Obligations from, or disposition of Collateral Obligations to, its Affiliates or any other account managed by the Collateral Manager or any of its Affiliates except in a transaction conducted on terms as favorable to the Issuer as would apply if such person were not so affiliated.

On each Payment Date, the Collateral Manager will be paid the Incentive Collateral Management Fee to the extent of funds available in accordance with the Priority of Payments if the holders of the Subordinated Securities have earned the Specified Internal Rate of Return as of such Payment Date. See "The Collateral Management Agreement—Compensation of the Collateral Manager". The manner in which the Incentive Collateral Management Fee is determined could create an incentive for the Collateral Manager to make more speculative investments in the Collateral Obligations than would otherwise be the case in order to increase the likelihood that the holders of the Subordinated Securities receive the Specified Internal Rate of Return for the Collateral Manager to be paid the Incentive Collateral Management Fee. Speculative investments in Collateral Obligations could lead to a higher level of defaults on the Collateral Obligations than initially expected, which could result in reductions or delays in payments on the Securities.

Upon the removal or resignation of the Collateral Manager, the holders of a majority of the Subordinated Securities may direct the Issuer to appoint a replacement collateral manager in the manner provided in the Collateral Management Agreement. Subordinated Securities and Secured Notes held by the Collateral Manager or any of its Affiliates will have no voting rights with respect to any vote on the removal or replacement of the Collateral Manager and will be deemed not to be outstanding in connection with any such vote; provided, however, that Subordinated Securities and Secured Notes held by the Collateral Manager or any of its Affiliates will have voting rights with respect to all other matters as to which the holders of Subordinated Securities or holders of the Secured Notes are entitled to vote, including, without limitation, any vote to direct an optional redemption of the Securities or a redemption following a Withholding Tax Event and any vote to appoint a replacement collateral manager that is not an Affiliate of the Collateral Manager pursuant to the Collateral Management Agreement. See "The Collateral Management Agreement" and "Description of the Securities—Optional Redemption".

Under the Collateral Management Agreement, the Collateral Manager is permitted to recommend or effect direct trades between the Issuer and the Collateral Manager or an Affiliate or funds or accounts for which the Collateral Manager or an Affiliate serve as collateral manager, acting as principal or agent, subject to applicable legal requirements. The Collateral Manager, its Affiliates, and their respective clients may invest in obligations that would be appropriate as Collateral. Such investments may be different from those made on behalf of the Issuer. The Collateral Manager and its Affiliates may also have ongoing relationships with, render services to or engage in transactions with, companies whose obligations are included in the Collateral and may own equity or debt securities issued by issuers of and other obligors of Collateral Obligations. As a result, officers or Affiliates of the Collateral Manager may possess information relating to obligors of Collateral Obligations which is not known to the individuals at the Collateral Manager responsible for monitoring the Collateral and performing the other obligations under the Collateral Management Agreement. The possession of this information by the Collateral Manager (even if such information is not known to the individuals at the Collateral Manager responsible for monitoring the Collateral and performing the other obligations under the Collateral Management Agreement) may restrict the Collateral Manager from purchasing or selling securities of those obligors. In addition, Affiliates and clients of the Collateral Manager may invest in obligations that are senior to, or have interests different from or adverse to, the Collateral Obligations. The Collateral Manager and/or its Affiliates may at certain times be simultaneously seeking to purchase or dispose of investments for its respective account, the Issuer, any similar entity for which it serves as manager or advisor and for its clients or Affiliates. It is the intention of the Collateral Manager that all Collateral Obligations will be purchased and sold by the Issuer on terms prevailing in the market. Neither the Collateral Manager nor any of its Affiliates is under any obligation to offer investment opportunities of which they become aware to the Issuer or to account to the Issuer (or share with the Issuer or inform the Issuer of) any such transaction or any benefit received by them from any such transaction. Furthermore, the Collateral Manager and/or its Affiliates may make an investment on behalf of any account that they manage or advise without offering the investment opportunity or making an investment on behalf of the Issuer. The Collateral Manager and/or its Affiliates have no affirmative obligation to offer any investments to the Issuer or to inform the Issuer of any investments before offering any investments to other funds or accounts that the Collateral Manager and/or its Affiliates manage or advise. Furthermore, Affiliates of the Collateral Manager may make an investment on their own behalf without offering the investment opportunity to the Issuer. Affirmative obligations may exist, or may arise in the future, whereby Affiliates of the Collateral Manager are obligated to offer certain investments to funds or accounts that such Affiliates manage or advise before or without the Collateral Manager offering those investments to the Issuer. Affiliates of the Collateral Manager have no affirmative obligations to offer those investments to the Issuer or to inform the Issuer of any investments before engaging in any investments for themselves. The Collateral Manager will endeavor to resolve conflicts with respect to investment opportunities in a manner that it deems equitable (in its sole discretion) to the extent possible under the prevailing facts and circumstances. Although the professional staff of the Collateral Manager will devote as much time to the Issuer as the Collateral Manager deems appropriate (in its sole discretion), the staff may have conflicts in allocating its time and services among the Issuer and the Collateral Manager's other accounts.

Funds managed by Greywolf will commit to purchase up to 100% of the initial notional amount of the Subordinated Securities. Thereafter, such funds may transfer or sell any such Subordinated Securities held thereby at any time and from time to time. As a Holder of Subordinated Securities, such funds may have interests adverse to the other Holders of Securities.

Members of the board of directors of the Issuer who are not affiliated with the Collateral Manager or their delegates or other authorized representatives of the Issuer will have the responsibility for approving any transactions between the Issuer and the Collateral Manager or its Affiliates involving significant conflicts of interest (including principal trades). More particularly, directors unaffiliated with the Collateral Manager or any delegate designated by such directors will be responsible for approving any principal transactions for which Issuer consent is required pursuant to Section 206(3) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Advisers Act").

In addition, with the prior authorization of the Issuer, which has been given and can be revoked at any time, the Collateral Manager and/or its Affiliates may enter into agency cross-transactions where the Collateral Manager and/or its Affiliates acts as broker for the Issuer and for the other party to the transaction, to the extent permitted under applicable law, in which case the Collaterel Manager or any such Affiliate will receive commissions from, and have a potentially conflicting division of loyalties and responsibilities regarding, both parties to the transaction.

The Collateral Manager and its Affiliates are not required to obtain approval for any transaction unless such approval is required by law.

Conflicts of Interest Involving the Initial Purchaser and Affiliates. The Initial Purchaser and/or its Affiliates may have placed or underwritten certain of the Collaterel Obligations at original issuance and may have provided investment banking services, advisory, banking and other services to issuers of Collateral Obligations. The Initial Purchaser may, from time to time as principal or through one or more investment funds that it manages make investments in the equity securities of one or more of the issuers of Collateral Obligations with the result that one or more of such issuers may be or may become controlled by the Initial Purchaser. The Initial Purchaser may not have completed its resale of the Securities by any date certain, which may affect the liquidity of the Securities as well as the ability of the Initial Purchaser to make a market in the Securities. From time to time, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer may purchase or sell Collateral Obligations through the Initial Purchaser and/or any of its Affiliates (collectively, "Initial Purchaser Entities"). The Issuer may invest in the securities of companies affiliated with the Initial Purchaser Entities or in which the Initial Purchaser Entities have an equity or participation interest. The purchase, holding and sale of such investments by the Issuer may enhance the profitability of the Initial Purchaser Entities' own investments in such companies. In addition, it is expected that an Initial Purchaser Entity may also act as counterparty with respect to one or more Synthetic Securities or Securities Lending Agreements and may act as Hedge Counterparty with respect to one or more Hedge Agreements. In connection with the resale of the Securities, a Initial Purchaser Entity expects to enter into one or more hedging arrangements relating to a portion of the Securities. Such hedging arrangements will be entered into by such Initial Purchaser Entity with one or more purchasers of the Securities or with one or more counterparties to such Initial Purchaser Entity. The Issuer may invest in money market funds that are managed by Greywolf or its Affiliates or the Initial Purchaser Entities or for which the Trustee or its Affiliates provides services; provided that such money market funds otherwise qualify as Eligible Investments.

The Issuer's purchase of Collateral Obligations, at the direction of the Collateral Manager, prior to the Closing Date was financed through the sale of participation interests therein to one or more Affiliates of Goldman, Sachs & Co. pursuant to a master participation agreement. Any gains or losses realized by the Issuer in respect of Collateral Obligations that are sold or otherwise disposed of prior to the Closing Date will be for the Issuer's account. Collateral Obligations owned by the Issuer on the Closing Date were purchased in the open market, and the purchase price paid by the Issuer for such Collateral Obligations is the prevailing price at the time such Collateral Obligations were purchased. Because the purchase price of Collateral Obligations owned by the Issuer on the Closing Date is determined prior to such date, the prevailing market price of such Collateral Obligations on the Closing Date may be higher or lower than such purchase price. Accordingly, any unrealized losses or gains experienced by the Issuer in respect of the Collateral Obligations acquired by the Issuer prior to, and owned by the Issuer on, the Closing Date will be for the Issuer's account.

Irish Stock Exchange Listing. Application has been made to the Irish Financial Services Regulatory Authority, as competent authority under Directive 2003/71/EC, for this Offering Circular to be approved. Application has been made to the Irish Stock Exchange for the Securities to be admitted to the Official List and to trading on its regulated market. There can be no assurance that such admission will be approved or maintained. The Indenture provides that, if the Collateral Manager or the Issuers determine that the maintenance of the listing of any of the Securities on the Irish Stock Exchange is unduly onerous or burdensome, including, but not limited to, circumstances in which the obtaining or maintenance of a listing on such securities exchange would require preparation of management reports or of financial statements, or in any circumstances where the requirements of the European Union Transparency Obligations Directive would apply to either of the Issuers, the Issuers will have the right to de-list (and will de-list at the sole direction of the Collateral Manager) such Securities. The Issuers will use reasonable endeavors to obtain a listing of such Securities on another securities exchange as the Issuers may choose, except that no obligation to obtain such alternative listing shall exist if the alternative listing or maintenance of the alternative listing would itself be unduly onerous and burdensome in the judgment of the Collateral Manager in its sole discretion.

DESCRIPTION OF THE SECURITIES

The Securities will be issued pursuant to the Indenture. The following summary describes certain provisions of the Securities and the Indenture. The summary does not purport to be complete and is subject to, and qualified in its entirety by reference to, the provisions of the Indenture. Copies of the Indenture may be obtained as described under "Listing and General Information".

Status and Security

The Co-Issued Notes will be limited recourse secured obligations of the Issuers, the Class E Notes will be limited recourse secured obligations of the Issuer and the Subordinated Securities will be limited recourse unsecured obligations of the Issuer. Payments of interest on and principal of the Secured Notes and distributions to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities will be made solely from the proceeds of the Collateral, in accordance with the priorities described under "—Priority of Payments". The Subordinated Securities will not be secured obligations of the Issuer and will be entitled to receive amounts available for distribution only after payment of all amounts payable prior thereto under the Priority of Payments.

All Securities of a single Class rank pari passu with all other Securities of the same Class. See "—Priority of Payments." The right of payment with respect to the Securities is described in the "The Offering—Summary—Status and Subordination". The right of payment with respect to the Securities is described in the "Summary—The Offering—Status and Subordination".

The entire principal amount of the Secured Notes will be issued and Outstanding on the Closing Date.

Under the terms of the Indenture, the Issuer will grant to the Trustee, on behalf of the Secured Parties, a perfected security interest in the Collateral that is of first priority, free of any adverse claim or the legal equivalent thereof, as applicable, to secure the Issuers' obligations with respect to the Secured Parties. See "Security for the Secured Notes".

Interest

The Secured Notes will bear interest from the Closing Date at the per annum rates set forth under "Summary—The Offering—Securities Issued," payable, in each case, quarterly in arrears on each Payment Date commencing August 18, 2007 and on the Stated Maturity. The Holders of the Subordinated Securities will be entitled to receive any excess Interest Proceeds in accordance with and subject to the Priority of Payments, to the extent funds are available therefor.

During the Reinvestment Period, Interest Proceeds remaining on each Scheduled Payment Date prior to the payment of certain unpaid subordinated expenses and any unpaid hedge termination payments, distribution to the Collateral Manager in respect of the Incentive Collateral Management Fee and distributions in respect of the Subordinated Securities will be used to reinvest in Collateral Obligations up to the amount necessary to satisfy the Reinvestment Test (but not to exceed 50% of such remaining Interest Proceeds available on such Scheduled Payment Date). As a result, distributions to the Holders of Subordinated Securities will be reduced to the extent of the portion of Interest Proceeds used during the Reinvestment Period to reinvest in Collateral Obligations. See "—Priority of Payments—Interest Proceeds".

For so long as any senior Class or Classes of Securities are Outstanding, to the extent that funds are not available to pay the full amount of interest on the Class C Notes, the Class D Notes or the Class E Notes on any Payment Date in accordance with the Priority of Payments, the amount of Deferred Interest with respect to each such Class of Securities will be deferred and added to the principal amount of such Class of Securities and will bear interest at the interest rate applicable to such Class of Securities to the extent lawful and enforceable, and the failure to pay the Deferred Interest of each such Class of Securities will not be an Event of Default under the Indenture. See "—Priority of Payments" and "—The Indenture—Events of Default".

Interest will cease to accrue on each Secured Note, or, in the case of a partial repayment, on such part, from the date of repayment or Stated Maturity unless payment of principal is improperly withheld or unless there is otherwise a default with respect to such payments of principal. See "—Principal". To the extent lawful and enforceable, interest on any Defaulted Interest on the Secured Notes will accrue at the interest rate applicable to such Secured Notes, until paid as provided herein.

Interest on the Floating Rate Notes will be calculated on the basis of the actual number of days elapsed in the applicable Interest Accrual Period divided by 360, commencing on the Closing Date.

For purposes of determining any Interest Accrual Period, if any Payment Date or the Stated Maturity, as the case may be, is not a Business Day, then the Interest Accrual Period ending on such Payment Date or the Stated Maturity, as the case may be, shall be extended to but excluding the date on which payment is required to be made pursuant to the Indenture and the succeeding Interest Accrual Period shall begin on and include such date. In the event that the date of any Payment Date or the Stated Maturity, as the case may be, shall not be a Business Day, then payment need not be made on such date, but may be made on the next succeeding Business Day with the same force and effect as if made on the nominal date of any such Payment Date or the Stated Maturity, as the case may be, and, other than with respect to any Interest Accrual Period for a Class of Secured Notes ending on the Stated Maturity of such Class of Secured Notes, no interest shall accrue on such payment for the period from and after any such nominal date; provided that, in the case of the Floating Rate Notes only, interest shall accrue from and including the immediately preceding Payment Date or, in the case of the first Payment Date, the Closing Date to but excluding the following Payment Date or the Stated Maturity, as applicable.

For purposes of calculating the Floating Rate Note Interest Rates, the Issuers will appoint the Trustee as calculation agent (solely in such capacity, the "Calculation Agent"). LIBOR shall be determined by the Calculation Agent in accordance with the provisions set forth under the definition of "LIBOR".

The Calculation Agent may be removed by the Issuers at any time. If the Calculation Agent is unable or unwilling to act as such or is removed by the Issuers, or if the Calculation Agent fails to determine the Floating Rate Note Interest Rates and the Floating Rate Note Interest Amounts for any Interest Accrual Period, the Issuers will promptly appoint as a replacement Calculation Agent a leading bank which is engaged in transactions in Eurodollar deposits in the international Eurodollar market and which does not control or is not controlled by or under common control with the Issuers or their Affiliates. The Calculation Agent may not resign its duties without a successor having been duly appointed. For so long as any of the Floating Rate Notes remain Outstanding, there will at all times be a Calculation Agent for the purpose of calculating the Floating Rate Note Interest Rates. In addition, for so long as any of the Securities are listed on the Irish Stock Exchange and the rules of such Exchange so require, the Issuer will publish in the Irish Stock Exchange's Official List notice of the appointment, termination or change in the office of such Calculation Agent.

The Calculation Agent will cause the Floating Rate Note Interest Rates, the Floating Rate Note Interest Amounts and the Payment Date to be communicated to, in the case of the Secured Notes, Euroclear, Clearstream, the Collateral Manager and the Irish Paying Agent for delivery to the Irish Stock Exchange (as long as any of the Securities are listed thereon) by the Business Day immediately following each LIBOR Determination Date. The determination of the Floating Rate Note Interest Rates and the Floating Rate Note Interest Amounts by the Calculation Agent shall (in the absence of manifest error) be final and binding upon all parties.

Principal

Principal will not be payable on the Secured Notes and Principal Proceeds will not be distributed to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities prior to the end of the Non-Call Period, except (i) as a result of a mandatory redemption as described in "—Mandatory Redemption," (ii) upon the occurrence of an optional redemption following a Withholding Tax Event as described under "—Optional Redemption" and (iii) as described in the next two paragraphs.

On each Scheduled Payment Date during the Reinvestment Period, Principal Proceeds will be distributed to the Holders of the Secured Notes in accordance with the Priority of Payments, if the Collateral Manager determines, in its sole judgment (which judgment shall not be subject to question as a result of subsequent events), that it is impractical or not beneficial to reinvest such Principal Proceeds by the end of the applicable Investment Due Period.

Principal will be payable on the Class S Notes in accordance with the Priority of Payments on each Payment Date in an amount equal to the Class S Principal Distribution Amount with respect to such Payment Date.

On each Scheduled Payment Date after the Reinvestment Period and on the Stated Maturity, principal will be payable on the Secured Notes and, after the Secured Notes have been paid in full, Principal Proceeds will be distributable to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities in accordance with the Priority of Payments to the extent of Principal Proceeds received in the related Due Period; provided that the Collateral Manager may elect to reinvest Eligible Post Reinvestment Proceeds received after the Reinvestment Period in Collateral Obligations or hold them for reinvestment in Collateral Obligations prior to the end of the Investment Due Period, subject to the exceptions described herein. See "Security for the Secured Notes—Sale of Collateral Obligations; Substitute Securities; Exchange of Defaulted Obligations and Reinvestment Criteria". The Collateral Manager will exercise its sole discretion in determining whether to reinvest Eligible Post Reinvestment Proceeds received after the Reinvestment Period. Payments of principal or notional amount, as applicable, of the Securities described in the first sentence of this paragraph will be at the applicable Secured Note Redemption Price and will not constitute an optional redemption.

Sale of Collateral Prior to Stated Maturity

On or prior to the date that is two Business Days prior to the Stated Maturity of the last Outstanding Security, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer shall direct the Trustee in writing to sell all Collateral Obligations to the extent necessary such that no Collateral Obligations will be held by the Issuer on or after such date. The settlement dates for any such sales of Collateral Obligations shall be no later than two Business Days prior to the Stated Maturity of the last Outstanding Security. The proceeds of such sale shall be applied in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

Optional Redemption

The Securities may be redeemed by the Issuer at the written direction of, or with the written consent of the Majority of the Subordinated Securities, in whole but not in part, from Liquidation Proceeds (a) on any Business Day after the Non-Call Period and (b) on any Business Day upon the occurrence of a Withholding Tax Event, as more fully described below. If the Holders of the Majority of the Subordinated Securities elect to cause the redemption of the Securities as described herein, the Subordinated Securities will in any such case be redeemed simultaneously with all other Classes of Securities. In connection with an optional redemption, the Trustee shall notify the Collateral Manager of such optional redemption and the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer shall direct the Trustee, in writing, to sell in the manner directed by the Collateral Manager in its sole discretion, and in accordance with the Indenture, any Collateral Obligation and upon any such sale the Trustee shall release the lien upon such Collateral Obligation pursuant to the Indenture.

Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, the Issuer may not direct the Trustee to sell any Collateral Obligation unless, after giving effect to such sale, there will be sufficient funds to pay the amounts described in "—Optional Redemption Procedures" below.

Any optional redemption of the Secured Notes pursuant to subclause (a) or (b) of the second preceding paragraph will be made at the applicable Secured Note Redemption Prices plus accrued and unpaid interest.

Optional Redemption Procedures. If any Holder of the Subordinated Securities desires to direct the Issuers to optionally redeem the Securities, such Holder shall notify the Trustee in writing no less than 45 days (or such shorter period as may be acceptable to the Trustee) prior to the proposed redemption date (which date must be a Business Day). The Trustee will promptly notify the Issuers, the Collateral Manager and all other Holders of the Subordinated Securities of the receipt of such notice. Each other Holder of the Subordinated Securities that also wishes to direct the Issuers to optionally redeem the Securities must so notify the Trustee (who shall promptly notify the Issuers and the Collateral Manager, of such direction) within 15 Business Days after the date of such notice. If a Majority of the Subordinated Securities have directed the Issuers to optionally redeem the Securities, the Issuer shall effect a redemption in whole of the Securities pursuant to the procedures described herein.

The Trustee will provide notice of any optional redemption by first-class mail, postage prepaid, mailed not less than ten Business Days prior to the scheduled redemption date, to each Securityholder at such Holder's address in the Register and for so long as the Securities are listed on the Irish Stock Exchange and the rules of such Exchange shall so require, a publication shall be made in the Official List by the Irish Listing Agent.

The Securities shall not be optionally redeemed unless either (1) at least seven Business Days before the scheduled redemption date, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer shall have furnished to the Trustee evidence, in form reasonably satisfactory to the Trustee, that the Issuer or the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer has entered into a binding agreement or agreements (including in the form of a confirmation of sale) with a financial institution or institutions whose short-term unsecured debt obligations have a credit rating of at least "A-1" from S&P or with a Person that the Collateral Manager in its sole discretion has determined to be appropriate (including, without limitation, a CDO issuer that is managed or to be managed by the Collateral Manager) to purchase, not later than the Business Day immediately preceding the scheduled redemption date, in immediately available funds, all or part of the Collateral

See "—Priority of Payments—Liquidation Proceeds".

For purposes of determining the expected proceeds from a sale for purposes of subclause (2) of the immediately preceding paragraph, the expected proceeds shall be deemed to be (1) the Market Value of the Eligible Investments and, if Collateral Obligations are to be sold on the Business Day of the certification, the Market Value of the Collateral Obligations; or (2) the percentage of the Market Value of the Collateral Obligations set forth in the applicable column of the table below based upon the period of time between certification and the expected date of sale.

For the avoidance of doubt, the Issuer may, in effecting a sale contemplated by clause (1) of the preceding paragraph, enter into one or more participation agreements or similar arrangements with the purchaser of the Collateral Obligations whereby, in connection with the Issuer's receipt of the purchase price with respect to all or a portion of the Collateral Obligations, the Issuer shall grant to such purchaser a participation interest in all or a portion of such Collateral Obligations and agree to use commercially reasonable efforts (or such other efforts as shall be specified) to complete the transfer of such Collateral Obligations to such purchaser thereafter.

Any notice of redemption may be withdrawn by the Issuers on or prior to the sixth Business Day prior to the scheduled redemption date by written notice from the Issuer to the Trustee, the Holders of the Subordinated Securities requesting or consenting to such optional redemption and the Collateral Manager, if (i) the Collateral Manager shall be unable to cause the delivery of such sale agreement or agreements or certifications, as the case may be, in form satisfactory to the Trustee or (ii) the Majority of the Subordinated

Redemption by Refinancing

The Holders of at least a Majority of the Subordinated Securities may direct (subject to the approval of the Collateral Manager as specified in the next paragraph) the redemption of any Class of Secured Notes in whole but not in part on any Payment Date occurring after the Non-Call Period, in connection with a Redemption by Refinancing by directing the Issuer (with a copy of such direction to the Trustee and the Collateral Manager) to issue additional notes (the "Replacement Notes"), the proceeds of which will be used to fully redeem such Class or Classes of Secured Notes, as applicable (a "Redemption by Refinancing"). A Redemption by Refinancing will be required to result in the redemption of all of the Secured Notes of the affected Class or Classes but need not result in the redemption of all Classes of Secured Notes. The Replacement Notes issued pursuant to a Redemption by Refinancing would have such terms and priorities as are negotiated at the time and that are set forth in a supplemental indenture, subject to the conditions set forth below.

Upon receipt of a Notice of Redemption by Refinancing (as defined below), the Issuer and the Collateral Manager will cause the Issuer and the Co-Issuer to issue Replacement Notes having the terms, priorities and conditions set forth in a proposed amendment to the Indenture approved by the Holders of at least a Majority of the Subordinated Securities and approved by the Collateral Manager. The issue of the Replacement Notes, and the redemption of the applicable Class or Classes of Secured Notes, will be contingent on receipt by the Issuer of sufficient funds from the issuance of the Replacement Notes to redeem the applicable Classes of Secured Notes at the Secured Note Redemption Price plus accrued interest and pay the applicable expenses of the Issuer, and the conditions in the paragraph below being satisfied at the time of such redemption. If the conditions below are not met, tha Replacement Notes will not be issued and the applicable Classes of Secured Notes will not be redeemed unless the Holders of a Majority of the Subordinated Securities then elect to effect an optional redemption.

If one or more Classes of Secured Notes will remain Outstanding following a Redemption by Refinancing, the following additional conditions must be satisfied: (i) the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of each Class of Replacement Notes equals the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the corresponding Class of Secured Notes that is redeemed; (ii) the applicable interest rate for each Class of Replacement Notes shall either (A) be computed on the basis of the same interest rate index as, and with a spread to such index that does not exceed the spread of, the corresponding Class of Secured Notes that is redeemed or (B) be a fixed rate of interest (such fixed rate of interest not to exceed the then floating interest rate applicable to the corresponding Class of Secured Notes being redeemed); (iii) the stated maturity of the Replacement Notes is not stated to occur earlier than the Stated Maturity of the corresponding Class of Secured Notes that is redeemed; (iv) the priority level in the Priority of Payments of each class of Replacement Notes is the same as the priority level in the Priority of Payments of the corresponding Class of Secured Notes that is redeemed; (v) the voting rights, consent rights, redemption rights and all other rights of each class of Replacement Notes are the same as the rights of the corresponding Class of Secured Notes that is redeemed in all material respects; (vi) each of the Moody's Rating Condition and S&P Rating Condition is satisfied in respect of the Class or Classes of Secured Notes that are not redeemed (it being agreed that, with respect to the satisfaction of the S&P Rating Condition, S&P may apply the ratings criteria then in existence); (vii) the delivery to the Trustee of an opinion of a nationally recognized law firm with substantial expertise in such matters that the Redemption by Refinancing will not adversely affect the conclusions reached in the opinion of McKee Nelson LLP, as expressed at the time of the issuance of the Securities on the Closing Date, regarding the U.S. federal income tax characterization of the Secured Notes that are not redeemed; and (viii) any expenses incurred in connection with the issuance of any Replacement Notes shall be paid from the proceeds of the issuance of such Replacement Notes. In addition to the foregoing, any issuance of Replacement Notes will require the delivery to the Trustee of the following opinions of a nationally recognized law firm with substantial expertise in such matters: (A) that neither the Issuer nor the Co-Issuer will be required, as a result of the issuance of the Replacement Notes (assuming such Replacement Notes are offered and sold in the manner and only to the eligible persons contemplated by this Offering Circular, the Indenture and the Purchase Agreement, as applicable), to be registered as an investment company under the Investment Company Act, as amended and (B) the issuance of the Replacement Notes will not result in the Issuer being subject to U.S. federal income taxation with respect to its net income.

Notice of a Redemption by Refinancing (any such notice, a "Notice of a Redemption by Refinancing") will be given by the Issuer to the Trustee and by the Trustee to each Holder of Securities, the Collateral Manager, the Administrator and each Rating Agency. Failure to give Notice of a Redemption by Refinancing to any Holder of any Securities selected for redemption or any defect therein will not impair or affect the validity of the redemption of any other Securities. In addition, for so long as any Securities are listed on the Irish Stock Exchange and so long as the rules of such exchange so require, Notice of a Redemption by Refinancing will also be given by the Trustee to the Irish Paying Agent for delivery to the Irish Stock Exchange. Any definitive Securities called for redemption must be surrendered at the place specified in the notice of such redemption in order for the Holder to receive the Secured Note Redemption Price.

The Issuer, at the direction of Holders of at least of a Majority of the Subordinated Securities, will have the option to withdraw any Notice of Redemption by Refinancing up to the second Business Day prior to the scheduled redemption date by written notice to the Trustee and the Collateral Maneger. If any Notice of Redemption by Refinancing is withdrawn or the Issuers are otherwise unable to complete a Redemption by Refinancing, the proceeds received from any sale of the Collateral in contemplation of such Redemption by Refinancing may during the Reinvestment Period, at the Collateral Manager's discretion, be reinvested in accordance with the Reinvestment Criteria. For the avoidance of doubt, the withdrawal of such Notice of Redemption by Refinancing or the inability of the Issuers to complete redemption of the Secured Notes will not constitute an Event of Default under the Indenture. No Hedge Agreement may be terminated in connection with any Redemption by Refinancing until such time as such Notice of Redemption by Refinancing can no longer be withdrawn by the Issuer.

Mandatory Redemption

Principal Proceeds and Interest Proceeds, in the case of the Secured Notes other than the Class E Notes, or Interest Proceeds only, in the case of the Class E Notes, that are available will be used to redeem the Secured Notes (other than the Class S Notes) as described under "—Priority of Payments" (i) on any Scheduled Payment Date on which any Par Value Test was not satisfied on the immediately preceding Determination Date or (ii) on any Scheduled Payment Date on or after the Second Determination Date on which any Interest Coverage Test was not satisfied on the immediately preceding Determination Date.

The Collateral Manager will not be required to sell Collateral Obligations if the Principal Proceeds and Interest Proceeds, in the case of the Secured Notes other than the Class E Notes, or Interest Proceeds only, in the case of the Class E Notes, available would be insufficient to cause any Coverage Test to be satisfied.

In addition, Principal Proceeds and Interest Proceeds that are available will be used to redeem the Secured Notes (other than the Class S Notes) as described under "—Priority of Payments" on any Scheduled Payment Date following an Effective Date Ratings Downgrade Event.

The Subordinated Securities are not subject to mandatory redemption.

Cancellation

All Securities that are redeemed or paid and surrendered for cancellation as described herein will forthwith be canceled and may not be reissued or resold.

Payments

Payments in respect of principal and interest on a Secured Note and distributions to Holders of Subordinated Securities will be made to the person in whose name the relevant Security is registered on the applicable record date. Payments on the Securities will be payable by wire transfer in immediately available funds to a Dollar account maintained by DTC or its nominee (in the case of the Global Securities) or each Securityholder (in the case of individual definitive Securities) to the extent practicable or otherwise by Dollar check drawn on a bank in the United States sent by mail either to DTC or its nominee (in the case of the Global Securities), or to each Securityholder at the Holder's address appearing in the Register (in the case of individual definitive Securities).

Final payments in respect of the Securities will be made only against surrender of such Securities at the office of any paying agent. None of the Issuers, the Trustee or any paying agent will have any responsibility or liability for any aspects of the records maintained by DTC or its nominee or any of its participants relating to, or for payments made thereby on account of beneficial interests in, a Global Security.

The Issuers expect that DTC or its nominee, upon receipt of any payment of principal or interest in respect of a Global Security held by DTC or its nominee, will immediately credit participants' accounts with payments in amounts proportionate to their respective beneficial interests in such Global Securities as shown on the records of DTC or its nominee. The Issuers also expect that payments by participants to owners of beneficial interests in such Global Securities held through such participants will be governed by standing instructions and customary practices, as is now the case with securities held for the accounts of customers registered in the names of nominees for such customers. Such payments will be the responsibility of such participants.

For so long as the Securities are listed on the Irish Stock Exchange and the rules of such Exchange so require, the Issuers will have a paying agent and a transfer agent in Ireland and will give prompt written notice to each Holder and publish in an authorized newspaper, which is expected to be the Official List, notice of the appointment, termination or change in the location of any such office or agency.

The Indenture provides that, as a condition to the payment of distributions on any Subordinated Security without withholding U.S. federal backup withholding tax imposed under the U.S. Treasury regulations, the Issuer or any paying agent may require the delivery of property completed and signed applicable U.S. federal income tax certifications (generally, an Internal Revenue Service Form W-9 (or applicable successor form) in the case of a person that is a "United States person" within the meaning of section 7701(a)(30) of the Code) or an appropriate Internal Revenue Service Form W-8 (or applicable successor form) in the case of a person that is not a "United States person" within the meaning of Section 7701(a)(30) of the Code) and/or such other certification reasonably acceptable to them in order to enable the Issuer, the Trustee or any paying agent to determine their duties and liabilities with respect to any taxes or other charges that they may be required to deduct or withhold from payments in respect of such Subordinated Security under any present or future law or regulation of the United States or any present or future law or regulation of any political subdivision thereof or taxing authority therein or to comply with any reporting or other requirements under any such law or regulation.

Priority of Payments

On each Payment Date and on the Stated Maturity, the Issuer shall only make payments in accordance with the priorities (the "Priority of Payments") described below under "—Interest Proceeds" and "—Principal Proceeds," and, if such Payment Date is a Redemption Date, in accordance with the priorities described below under "—Liquidation Proceeds".

Interest Proceeds. Without limiting any other applicable provision regarding the payment of Interest Proceeds, on each Payment Date and on the Stated Maturity, Interest Proceeds will be distributed in the following order of priority:

(i) (a) to the payment of taxes of the Issuers, if any, and (b) thereafter, to the retention in the Interest Collection Account of an amount equal to (x) the Interest Reserve Amount for such

A Majority of the Controlling Class will have the right to direct the Trustee in the conduct of any proceedings or in the sale of any or all of the Collateral, but only if (i) such direction will not conflict with any rule of law or the Indenture (including the limitations described in the paragraph above), (ii) the Trustee determines that such action will not involve it in liability or expense (unless the Trustee has, in its opinion, received reasonably satisfactory indemnity against any such liability and expense) and (iii) any such sale of any or all of the Collateral is at market prices.

Subject to the provisions of the Indenture relating to the duties of the Trustee, in the event that an Event of Default occurs and is continuing, the Trustee is under no obligation to exercise any of the rights or powers under the Indenture at the request of any Holders of Securities, unless such Holders have offered to the Trustee reasonable security or indemnity in the opinion of the Trustee. A Majority of the Controlling Class may, in certain cases, waive any default with respect to such Securities, except (i) a Payment Default or (ii) a default in respect of a covenant or provision of the Indenture that cannot be modified or amended without the waiver or consent of the Holder of each Outstanding Security adversely affected thereby or (iii) a default in respect of a covenant or provision for the individual protection or benefit of the Trustee, without its consent.

No Securityholder will have the right to institute any proceeding with respect to the Indenture unless (i) such Holder previously has given to the Trustee written notice of a continuing Event of Default; (ii) except in the case of a default in the payment of principal or interest, the Holders of at least 25% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Controlling Class have made a written request upon the Trustee to institute such proceedings in its own name as Trustee and such Holders have offered the Trustee reasonable indemnity; (iii) the Trustee has for 30 days failed to institute any such proceeding; and (iv) no direction inconsistent with such written request has been given to the Trustee during such 30-day period by a Majority of the Controlling Class.

The Issuer shall not terminate any Hedge Agreements in connection with the liquidation of Collateral pursuant to the Indenture, unless and until the conditions set forth in the Indenture and described above for liquidation of the Collateral have been satisfied.

See "Glossary of Defined Terms—Outstanding" for determining whether the Holders of the requisite percentage of Securities have given any direction, notice or consent.

Notices. Notices to the Holders of the Securities shall be given by first class mail, postage prepaid, to each Holder of Securities at the address appearing in the Register. In addition, for so long as the Securities are listed on the Irish Stock Exchange and so long as the rules of such Exchange so require, as determined by the Irish Listing Agent, notices to the Holders of the Securities shall also be given by publication in the Official List.

Modification of Indenture. The Issuers and the Trustee may enter into one or more supplemental indentures without obtaining the consent of Holders of the Securities if either: (x) such supplemental indenture would have no material adverse effect on any of the Holders of the Securities (as evidenced by an opinion of counsel (which may be supported as to factual (including financial and capital markets) matters by a certificate of an officer of the Collateral Manager and other documents necessary or advisable in the judgment of counsel delivering the opinion) or (y) such supplemental indenture is for any of the following purposes:

(i) to evidence the succession of any person to either the Issuer or Co-Issuer and the assumption by any such successor of the covenants of the Issuer or Co-Issuer in the Securities and the Indenture;

(ii) to add to the covenants of the Issuers or the Trustee for the benefit of the Holders of the Securities or to surrender any right or power conferred upon the Issuers;

(iii) to convey, transfer, assign, mortgage or pledge any property to or with the Trustee, or add to the conditions, limitations or restrictions on the authorized amount, terms and purposes of the issue, authentication and delivery of the Securities;

The Trustee may, based upon an officer's certificate and an opinion of counsel provided to the Trustee by the party requesting such amendment, determine whether or not the Holders of Securities would be materially adversely affected by any supplemental indenture (after giving notice of such change to the Holders of Securities), and such determination shall be conclusive on all present and future Holders. In executing any such supplemental indenture, the Trustee shall be entitled to rely upon such officer's certificate and opinion of counsel.

The Issuers and the Trustee may also enter into one or more supplemental indentures, without obtaining the consent of Holders of the Securities, whether or not adversely affected thereby, but with the consent of the Collateral Manager, so long as each of the S&P Rating Condition and the Moody's Rating Condition has been satisfied, for any of the following purposes:

Unless the Collateral Manager has been given prior written notice of such amendment and has consented thereto in writing, such consent being in the sole discretion of the Collateral Manager, no supplemental indenture may (a) affect the obligations or rights of the Collateral Manager including, without limitation, modifying the restrictions on the purchases or sales of Collateral Obligations or the Eligibility Criteria, the Collateral Quality Tests, the Coverage Tests or the Concentration Limitations or expanding or restricting the Collateral Manager's discretion or (b) affect the amount or priority of any fees or other amounts payable to the Collateral Manager under the Collateral Management Agreement and the Indenture.

In connection with any additional issuance of Securities, the Issuer shall, to the extent required by the rules thereof, provide the Irish Stock Exchange with a Listing Circular or an Offering Circular Supplement, relating to such additional Securities.

In addition, each additional issuance of Subordinated Securities shall be issued as a separate subclass of Subordinated Securities. In connection with the issuance of such subclass of Subordinated Securities, the Issuer shall designate whether the applicable subclass will be an "Included Subclass" or an "Excluded Subclass" (as those terms are used in the calculation and payment of Incentive Collateral Management Fees). For the avoidance of doubt, the Subordinated Securities issued on the Closing Date will be deemed an Included Subclass.

Jurisdictions of Incorporation. Under the Indenture, the Issuer and the Co-Issuer will be required to maintain their rights and franchises as a company and a corporation incorporated under the laws of the Cayman Islands and the State of Delaware, respectively, to comply with the provisions of their respective organizational documents and to obtain and preserve their qualification to do business as foreign corporations in each jurisdiction in which such qualifications are or shall be necessary to protect the validation and enforceability of the Indenture, the Securities or any of the Collateral; provided, however, that the Issuer shall be entitled to change its jurisdiction of incorporation and principal place of business from the Cayman Islands to any other jurisdiction reasonably selected by the Issuer and approved by the ordinary shareholder of the Issuer, so long as (a) such change is not disadvantageous in any material respect to the Issuer, the Holders of any Class of Securities or the Collateral Manager; (b) written notice of such change shall have been given by the Issuer to the Trustee, the Holders, the Collateral Manager and each of the Rating Agencies at least 30 Business Days prior to such change of jurisdiction and (c) on or prior to the 15th Business Day following such notice the Trustee shall not have received written notice from a Majority of the Controlling Class objecting to such change.

Petitions for Bankruptcy. The Indenture will provide that neither (i) the Trustee, in its own capacity, or on behalf of any Securityholder nor (ii) the Securityholders may, prior to the date which is one year and one day (or, if longer, the applicable preference period) after the payment in full of all Securities institute against, or join any other person in instituting against, the Issuer or Co-Issuer any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, moratorium or liquidation proceedings, or other proceedings under Cayman Islands, United States federal or state bankruptcy or similar laws.

Satisfaction and Discharge of the Indenture. The Indenture will be discharged with respect to the Collateral upon delivery to the Trustee for cancellation of all of the Securities, or, within certain limitations (including the obligation to pay principal and interest), upon deposit with the Trustee of funds sufficient for the payment or redemption thereof and the payment by the Issuers of all other amounts due under the Indenture.

Trustee. The Bank of New York Trust Company, National Association will be the Trustee under the Indenture for the Securities. The Issuers and their Affiliates may maintain other banking relationships in the ordinary course of business with the Trustee. The payment of the fees and expenses of the Trustee relating to the Securities is solely the obligation of the Issuers. The Trustee and/or its Affiliates may receive compensation in connection with the Trustee's investment of trust assets in certain Eligible Investments as provided in the Indenture and in connection with the Trustee's administration of any securities lending activities of the Issuer.

The Indenture contains provisions for the indemnification of the Trustee for any loss, liability or expense incurred without negligence, willful misconduct or bad faith on its part, arising out of or in connection with the acceptance or administration of the Indenture. The Trustee may be removed at any time by a Majority of the Secured Notes voting together as a single class, or may be removed at any time when an Event of Default shall have occurred and be continuing, by a Majority of the Controlling Class. its designee) the monthly reports and certain other reports prepared by or on behalf of the Issuer in accordance with the Indenture.

Governing Law. The Indenture and the Securities will be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of New York applicable to agreements made and to be performed therein without regard to the conflict of laws principles thereof.

USE OF PROCEEDS

The aggregate proceeds of the offering of the Securities are expected to equal approximately $502,000,000. Such proceeds will be used by the Issuer (i) to pay expenses related to the offering of the Securities, (ii) to satisfy the Issuer's obligations under certain warehouse arrangements with respect to a portfolio of Collateral Obligations acquired during the Accumulation Period, (iii) to enter into one or more Hedge Agreements on or after the Closing Date, (iv) to deposit an amount equal to the Expense Reserve Amount in the Expense Reserve Account and (v) to deposit into the Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account an amount equal to the Future Drawdown Amount.

On the Effective Date, so long as the Minimum Par Value Ratio is satisfied as of such date, the Collateral Manager may, in its sole discretion, instruct the Trustee in writing to utilize up to $1,000,000 of Principal Proceeds and unused proceeds of the offering of the Securities for application as either Interest Proceeds or Principal Proceeds in accordance with the Priority of Payments and/or transfer to the Discretionary Reserve Account for future application of such funds as either Interest Proceeds or Principal Proceeds in accordance with the Priority of Payments, in each case on or before the Payment Date in February 2008. See "Security for the Secured Notes—Principal Collection Account" and "—Discretionary Reserve Account".

On the Closing Date, the proceeds of the issuance of the Class S Notes in an amount equal to approximately $2,000,000 will be deposited in the Interest Collection Account. On or before the first Payment Date the Collateral Manager may (in its sole discretion) instruct the Trustee in writing to transfer all or a portion of funds in the Interest Collection Account (representing proceeds of the issuance of the Class S Notes) to the Principal Collection Account for application as Principal Proceeds.

It is expected that approximately $491,966,875 of the aggregate proceeds of the offering of the Securities will be available to the Issuer to satisfy its obligations under certain warehouse arrangements with respect to a portfolio of Collateral Obligations acquired during the Accumulation Period and to purchase additional Collateral Obligations.

RATING OF THE SECURITIES

It is a condition to the issuance of the Securities that the Secured Notes of each Class receive from the Rating Agencies the minimum rating indicated under "Summary—The Offering". A credit rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be subject to revision or withdrawal at any time by the assigning rating agency. The Subordinated Securities will not be rated by any credit rating agency.

SECURITY FOR THE SECURED NOTES

Under the terms of the Indenture, the Issuer will grant to the Trustee, for the benefit of the Holders of the Secured Notes and certain other parties but not the Holders of the Subordinated Securities, a perfected security interest in the Collateral, including the Collateral Obligations, that is of first priority, free of any adverse claim or the legal equivalent thereof, as applicable, to secure the Issuer's obligations under the Indenture, the Secured Notes and each Hedge Agreement. The Subordinated Securities are not secured.

Purchase of Collateral Obligations

It is expected that, by the Closing Date, the Issuer will have purchased, or entered into agreements to purchase, with the net proceeds of the issuance of the Securities, a portfolio of Collateral Obligations selected by the Collateral Manager constituting approximately 87% of the Aggregate Principal Amount of Collateral Obligations expected to be purchased by the Issuer representing approximately $430,000,000 in Aggregate Principal Amount of Collateral Obligations.

On or prior to the 10th Business Day after the Interim Targets Date, the Collateral Manager shall submit to Moody's (with a copy to the Trustee) (x) a statement showing compliance with the Interim Targets or (y) if the Interim Targets are not satisfied, a plan certified by the Collateral Manager as sufficient, in its judgment, to attain compliance as of the Effective Date with each of the Collateral Quality Tests (other than the S&P CDO Monitor Test), the Par Value Tests, the Minimum Par Value Ratio and the Concentration Limitations.

At the Effective Date, the Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Obligations and the amount of cash and Eligible Investments deposited in the Issuer Accounts are expected to be approximately $493,500,000.

An obligation will be eligible for purchase by the Issuer if it meets the Eligibility Criteria. See "Summary—The Offering—Collateral Obligations".

The Collateral Quality Tests

The "Collateral Quality Tests" will consist of the Diversity Test, the Maximum Rating Factor Test, the Minimum Weighted Average Coupon Test, the Maximum Average Life Test, the Moody's Minimum Weighted Average Recovery Rate Test, the S&P Minimum Weighted Average Recovery Rate Test and the S&P CDO Monitor Test.

On and after the Effective Date, measurement of the degree of compliance with the Collateral Quality Tests will be required as of each Measurement Date.

The values at which each of the Collateral Quality Tests is satisfied and the expected value of each Collateral Quality Test upon the Effective Date are set forth in the table presented under "Summary—The Offering—Collateral Quality Tests".

Ratings Matrix. Subject to the provisions provided below, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will have the option (in its sole discretion) to elect which combination of Maximum Rating Factor, Minimum Weighted Average Spread and Minimum Diversity set forth in the Ratings Matrix shall be applicable for purposes of the Diversity Test, the Minimum Weighted Average Coupon Test and the Maximum Rating Factor Test. On the Effective Date, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer, by notice in writing to the Trustee and Moody's, will elect (in its sole discretion) which "row/column combination" shall epply initially.

Thereafter, on two Business Days' written notice prior to any Measurement Date to the Trustee and Moody's, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer may elect (in its sole discretion) to have a different "row/column combination" apply. In no event will the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer be obligated to elect to have a different "row/column combination" apply or to elect to have the same "row/column combination" apply.

Diversity Test. The "Diversity Test" is a test that will be satisfied if, as of any Measurement Date, the Diversity Score (rounded to the nearest whole number) equals or exceeds the number set forth in the column entitled "Minimum Diversity" in the Ratings Matrix based upon the "row/column combination" chosen by the Collateral Manager as currently applicable to the Collateral Obligations in accordance with the Indenture. For purposes of the Diversity Test, (a) any Synthetic Security that has a single underlying Reference Obligor shall be included as a Collateral Obligation having the characteristics of the related Reference Obligation and not of the Synthetic Security and any Synthetic Security that has more than one underlying Reference Obligor shall not be included in the Diversity Test, (b) any Collateral Obligation loaned to a Securities Lending Counterparty shall be included in the Diversity Test so long as such Securities Lending Counterparty is not in default under the related agreement governing the loan of such Collateral Obligations (a "Securities Lending Agreement") and (c) any CDO Security that is a collateralized loan obligation shall be excluded from the Diversity Test.

Maximum Rating Factor Test. The "Maximum Rating Factor Test" will be satisfied as of any Measurement Date if the Moody's Weighted Average Rating Factor of the Collateral Obligations is equal to or less than (i) the number set forth in the column entitled "Maximum Rating Factor" in the Ratings Matrix based upon the "row/column combination" chosen by the Collateral Manager as currently applicable to the Collateral Obligations in accordance with the Indenture plus (ii) the Rating Factor Modifier. For purposes of the Maximum Rating Factor Test, (a) unless otherwise specified, a Synthetic Security shall be included as a Collateral Obligation having a Moody's Rating Factor determined as described under "Security for the Secured Notes—Certain Matters Relating to Synthetic Securities" and having the other characteristics of the Synthetic Security (and not of the Reference Obligations) and (b) any Collateral Obligation loaned to a Securities Lending Counterparty shall be included in the Maximum Rating Factor Test so long as such Securities Lending Counterparty is not in default under the related Securities Lending Agreement.

Maximum Average Life Test. The "Maximum Average Life Test" will be satisfied if, as of any Measurement Date, the Weighted Average Life of the Collateral Obligations is less than or equal to the number of years applicable to the period in which such Measurement Date occurs, as set forth in e schedule to the Indenture. On the Effective Date, the Maximum Average Life Test shall be met if the Weighted Average Life of the Collateral Obligations is 10 years or less.

Minimum Weighted Average Coupon Test. The "Minimum Weighted Average Coupon Test" will be satisfied if, as of any Measurement Date, the Weighted Average Spread as of such Measurement Date equals or exceeds the Minimum Weighted Average Spread.

The "Minimum Weighted Average Spread" as of any Measurement Date will equal or be greater than the percentage set forth in the row entitled "Minimum Weighted Average Spread" in the Ratings Matrix set forth in "Summary—The Offering—Collateral Quality Tests" based upon the "row/column combination" chosen by the Collateral Manager as currently applicable to the Collateral Obligations in accordance with the terms of the Indenture.

Moody's Minimum Weighted Average Recovery Rate Test. The "Moody's Minimum Weighted Average Recovery Rate Test" will be satisfied as of any Measurement Date if the Moody's Weighted Average Recovery Rate is equal to or greater than the percentage set forth in "Summary—The Offering—Collateral Quality Tests".

S&P Minimum Weighted Average Recovery Rate Test. The "S&P Minimum Weighted Average Recovery Rate Test" will be satisfied as of any Measurement Date if the S&P Weighted Average Recovery Rate is equal to or greater than the percentage set forth in "Summary—The Offering—Collateral Quality Tests".

S&P CDO Monitor Test. The "S&P CDO Monitor Test" will be satisfied as of any Measurement Date after the Effective Date if, after giving effect to any purchase or sale (or both, if applicable) of a Collateral Obligation, as the case may be, each of the Class S Loss Differential, the Class A Loss Differential, the Class B Loss Differential, the Class C Loss Differential, the Class D Loss Differential and the Class E Loss Differential of the Proposed Portfolio is positive. The S&P CDO Monitor Test will be considered to be improved if each of the Class S Loss Differential, the Class A Loss Differential, the Class B Loss Differential, the Class C Loss Differential, the Class D Loss Differential and the Class E Loss Differential of the Proposed Portfolio is greater than each of the Class S Loss Differential, the Class A Loss Differential, the Class B Loss Differential, the Class C Loss Differential, the Class D Loss Differential and the Class E Loss Differential, respectively, of the Current Portfolio. For the calculation of the Class S Loss Differential, the Class A Loss Differential, the Class B Loss Differential, the Class C Loss Differential, the Class D Loss Differential and the Class E Loss Differential, the appropriate S&P CDO Monitor determined pursuant to the Indenture will be used.

After the Effective Date, S&P shall provide nine (9) different S&P CDO Monitors to the Issuer, the Collateral Manager, the Collateral Administrator and the Trustee, such S&P CDO Monitors corresponding to portfolios with weighted average spreads of 2.10%, 2.20%, 2.30%, 2.40%, 2.50%, 2.60%, 2.70%, 2.80% and 2.90%, respectively. The Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will have the option to elect (in its sole discretion) from time to time which S&P CDO Monitor shall apply for purposes of application under the Indenture. After the Effective Date, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer, by written notice to the Collateral Administrator, the Trustee and S&P, will elect (in its sole discretion) which S&P CDO Monitor shall apply initially and, thereafter, on two Business Days written notice prior to the Measurement Date to the Collateral Administrator, Trustee and S&P, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer may elect (in its sole discretion) to have a different S&P CDO Monitor apply; provided, that such elected S&P CDO Monitor must correspond to a portfolio with a weighted average spread that is equal to or lower than the Weighted Average Spread of the Floating Rate Collateral Obligations in the Collateral Portfolio at the time of such election; provided, further, that if the Weighted Average Spread of the Floating Rate Collateral Obligations in the Collateral Portfolio at the time of such election is less than 2.10%, then the S&P CDO Monitor that corresponds to a portfolio with a weighted average spread of 2.10% shall be used. In no event shall the Collateral Manager be obligated to elect a different S&P CDO Monitor or to retain the current S&P CDO Monitor election. For the avoidance of doubt, the selection of an S&P CDO Monitor as described in this paragraph shall be separate and independent of any election of the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer (in its sole discretion) with respect to the Ratings Matrix pursuant to "—Ratings Matrix" above.

In calculating the Class S Scenario Default Rate, the Class A Scenario Default Rate, the Class B Scenario Default Rate, the Class C Scenario Default Rate, the Class D Scenario Default Rate and the Class E Scenario Default Rate, the S&P CDO Monitor considers each obligor's S&P Rating, the number of obligors in the portfolio, the obligor and industry concentrations in the portfolio and the remaining weighted average life of the Collateral Obligations and Eligible Investments and calculates a cumulative default rate based on the statistical probability of distributions of defaults on the Collateral Obligations and Eligible Investments.

The Coverage Tests

The Coverage Tests will be used primarily to determine whether (i) interest may be paid on the Secured Notes, (ii) Interest Proceeds will be distributed to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities, (iii) Principal Proceeds may be reinvested in Collateral Obligations and (iv) Principal Proceeds and, to the extent needed, Interest Proceeds must be used to make mandatory redemptions of the Secured Notes (other than the Class S Notes) in accordance with the Priority of Payments. See "—Sale of Collateral Obligations; Substitute Securities; Exchange of Defaulted Obligations and Reinvestment Criteria", "Description of the Securities—Principal" and "—Priority of Payments".

"Coverage Tests" means the Par Value Tests and the Interest Coverage Tests.

For purposes of the Coverage Tests:

(i) unless otherwise specified, a Synthetic Security shall be treated as set forth in "Security for the Secured Notes—Certain Matters Relating to Synthetic Securities";

(ii) (a) after the occurrence of an "event of default" (as such term is defined under the related Securities Lending Agreement), all Securities Lending Collateral deposited by the related Securities Lending Counterparty in the Securities Lending Account shall be deemed to be part of the Collateral Portfolio (but not to exceed the amount of the Securities Lending Counterparty's obligations owed to the Issuer); and (b) any Collateral Obligation loaned to a Securities Lending Counterparty shall be included in the Coverage Tests for so long as an "event of default" (as such term is defined under the related Securities Lending Agreement), shall not have occurred and be continuing under the related Securities Lending Agreement;

(iii) amounts deposited in the Expense Reserve Account shall be excluded; and

(iv) amounts on deposit in each Synthetic Security Collateral Account shall be excluded (unless (a) the Collateral Manager notifies the Trustee in writing that it has determined that the amount deposited in such Synthetic Security Collateral Account exceeds the amount owed by the Issuer to the related Synthetic Security Counterparty, in which case such excess portion shall be included or (b) a termination event or an event of default has occurred under the related Synthetic Security, in which case the amount by which the amount deposited in Sales of Collateral Obligations—Generally. The Collateral Obligations may be retired prior to their respective final maturities due to, among other things, the existence and frequency of exercise of any optional or mandatory redemption features of such Collateral Obligations. In addition, at any time, the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer may direct the Trustee in writing to (1) sell, and the Trustee shall sell, in the manner directed by the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer (i) any Equity Security, (ii) any Defaulted Obligation, (iii) any Withholding Tax Security or (iv) any Credit Risk Obligation (subject to, in the case of a Credit Risk Obligation, subclauses (i) and (ii) described under "Sale of Credit Improved Obligations and Credit Risk Obligations and Discretionary Sales of Collateral Obligations—Sales of Credit Risk Obligations and Credit Improved Obligations in cases of Co-Issued Notes' Ratings Withdrawal or Downgrade") or (2) exchange a Defaulted Obligation for an Exchanged Defaulted Obligation in accordance with the limitations described herein. For so long as no Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer may direct the Trustee to sell, and the Trustee shall sell, in the manner directed by the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer (i) any Credit Improved Obligation or (ii) any other Collateral Obligation in addition to those described in the preceding sentence, in each case subject to the limitations on amounts and other requirements set forth in the Indenture and described herein.

Sale of Credit Improved Obligations and Credit Risk Obligations and Discretionary Sales of Collateral Obligations

Credit Risk Obligations

A Credit Risk Obligation may be sold during or after the Reinvestment Period. If the proposed sale occurs:

(i) during the Reinvestment Period, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will seek to direct the reinvestment of the Sale Proceeds of such Credit Risk Obligation in one or more Substitute Collateral Obligations on or prior to the end of the Permitted Reinvestment Period; or

(ii) after the Reinvestment Period, if the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer elects to reinvest the Sale Proceeds of such Credit Risk Obligation, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will seek to direct the reinvestment of the Sale Proceeds of such Credit Risk Obligation in one or more Substitute Collateral Obligations on or prior to the end of the Investment Due Period.

Credit Improved Obligations

A Credit Improved Obligation may be sold during or after the Reinvestment Period so long as:

(i) if the proposed sale occurs during the Reinvestment Period, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will seek to direct the reinvestment of the Sale Proceeds of such Credit Improved Obligation in one or more Substitute Collateral Obligations within 30 Business Days of settlement of such sale (and such 30 Business Day period may extend beyond the end of the Reinvestment Period if the end of the Reinvestment Period occurs prior to the end of such 30 Business Day period); or

(ii) if the proposed sale occurs after the Reinvestment Period, if the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer elects to reinvest the Sale Proceeds of such Credit Improved Obligation, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will seek to direct the reinvestment of the Sale Proceeds of such Credit Improved Obligation in one or more Substitute Collateral Obligations within 30 Business Days of settlement of such sale.

Sales of Credit Risk Obligations and Credit Improved Obligations in cases of Co-Issued Notes' Ratings Withdrawal or Downgrade

During or after the Reinvestment Period, if Moody's has withdrawn its rating on any of the Secured Notes (other than the Class E Notes), or reduced its rating, in the case of the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes, below the initial rating as in effect on the Closing Date or, in the case of the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes, two subcategories below the initial rating as in effect on the Closing Date (disregarding any withdrawal or reduction if subsequent thereto Moody's has upgraded any such reduced or withdrawn rating to the initial rating in the case of the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes and to a level not more than one subcategory below the initial rating in the case of the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes, as applicable), the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer may only instruct the Trustee to sell a Credit Risk Obligation or a Credit Improved Obligation, as the case may be, if:

(i) one or more of the Credit Improved Criteria or Credit Risk Criteria, as the case may be, has been satisfied with respect to such Collateral Obligation; or

(ii) prior to such sale, a Majority of the Controlling Class consents to such sale; or

(iii) prior to or following each such downgrade, a Majority of each Class of Secured Notes, voting separately by Class, has consented to all or a specified lesser amount of sales of Credit Risk Obligations or Credit Improved Obligations, as the case may be (notwithstanding such downgrade), it being acknowledged and agreed that such consent will be valid for one or more such sales for each one such downgrade and that after any further downgrade, the consent of a Majority of each Class of Secured Notes, voting separately by Class, will need to be obtained again.

Discretionary Sales of Collateral Obligations

Any Collateral Obligation (other than a Defaulted Obligation, a Credit Risk Obligation, a Credit Improved Obligation, an Equity Security or a Withholding Tax Security) may be sold during the Reinvestment Period so long as:

(i) the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will seek to direct the reinvestment of the Sale Proceeds of such Collateral Obligation in one or more Substitute Collateral Obligations the Aggregate Principal Amount of which is not less than the Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Obligations sold within 30 Business Days of settlement of such sale (and such 30 Business Day period may extend beyond the end of the Reinvestment Period if the end of the Reinvestment Period occurs prior to the end of such 30 Business Day period); and

(ii) the Aggregate Principal Amount of Collateral Obligations (other than a Defaulted Obligation, a Credit Risk Obligation, a Credit Improved Obligation, an Equity Security or a Withholding Tax Security) sold in the 12 months prior to such sale (or, if the date of such sale is less than 12 months after the Effective Date, from the Effective Date to the date of such sale) does not exceed 20% of the Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Portfolio, measured as of the beginning of each such twelve month period (or, if applicable, the Effective Date); provided that, for purposes of calculating the limitation under this subclause, (1) the Issuer shall be deemed to have sold any Collateral Obligation that has been loaned to a Securities

Lending Counterparty but that the Securities Lending Counterparty has failed to return to the Issuer as of the date that such Securities Lending Counterparty notifies the Issuer of its inability to make such return; provided, further, that, in the event the Issuer is able to purchase a Collateral Obligation that a Securities Lending Counterparty has failed to return to the Issuer, the aforesaid deemed sale shall be deemed not to have occurred and (2) the amount of any Collateral Obligation sold shall be reduced to the extent of any purchases of Collateral Obligations of the same obligor (that are pari passu with such sold Collateral Obligation) occurring within 20 Business Days of such sale (determined based upon the date of any relevant trade confirmation or commitment letter).

Discretionary Sales of Collateral Obligations in cases of Co-Issued Notes' Ratings Downgrade

During or after the Reinvestment Period, if Moody's has withdrawn its rating of any of the Secured Notes (other than the Class E Notes), or, in the case of the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes, reduced its rating below the initial rating as in effect on the Closing Date or, in the case of the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes, reduced its rating to a rating two subcategories below the initial rating as in effect on the Closing Date (disregarding any withdrawal or reduction if subsequent thereto Moody's has upgraded or reinstated any such reduced or withdrawn rating to at least the initial rating in the case of the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes and to a level not more than one subcategory below the initial rating in the case of the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes, as applicable), the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer may only instruct the Trustee to sell a Collateral Obligation pursuant to "—Discretionary Sales of Collateral Obligations" if (i) a Majority of the Controlling Class consents to such sale or (ii) prior to or following each such downgrade, a Majority of each Class of Secured Notes, voting separately by Class, has consented to all or a specified lesser amount of sales of Collateral Obligations (notwithstanding such downgrade), it being acknowledged and agreed that such consent will be valid for one or more such sales for each one such downgrade and that after any further downgrade, the consent of a Majority of each Class of Secured Notes, voting separately by Class, will need to be obtained again.

Sale of Equity Securities and Withholding Tax Securities

An Equity Security or a Withholding Tax Security may be sold during or after the Reinvestment Period. If the proposed sale occurs:

(i) during the Reinvestment Period, for so long as no Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will seek to direct the reinvestment of the Sale Proceeds in one or more Substitute Collateral Obligations prior to the end of the Permitted Reinvestment Period; or

(ii) after the Reinvestment Period or after an Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, the Issuer or the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will instruct the Trustee to apply the Sale Proceeds thereof in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

Conversion into Equity Securities and Sale of Exchanged Equity Securities

A Collateral Obligation that is a convertible security may be voluntarily converted into an Equity Security by the Issuer only if (1) all Par Value Tests are satisfied following such conversion and (2) on any Determination Date on or after the Second Determination Date, all Interest Coverage Tests are satisfied following such conversion and, in each case, the Issuer, makes a good faith effort to enter into an agreement to sell such Equity Security in accordance with the timing specified in subclause (i) of the immediately following paragraph. For the avoidance of doubt, this paragraph will not be applicable to a purchase or exchange of an Exchanged Equity Security in accordance with "—Exchange of Defaulted Obligations".

Unless acquired in connection with a default or unless the Moody's Rating Condition is satisfied, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer shall seek to sell, and direct the Trustee in writing to sell, any Exchanged Equity Security within (I) in the case of an Exchanged Equity Security received in connection with an optional conversion at the option of the holder thereof, ten Business Days of the later of (A) the first date on which the Issuer may, in compliance with applicable laws, legally sell, assign or transfer such Exchanged Equity Security and (B) notice of receipt thereof, (II) in the case of an Exchanged Equity Security not subject to subclause (I) and in the event that any of the Coverage Tests are not met on any Measurement Date following the receipt by the Issuer of such Exchanged Equity Security, 60 days after the first date following such Measurement Date on which the Issuer may, in compliance with applicable laws, legally sell, assign or transfer such Exchanged Equity Security or (III) in all other cases, one year after the first date on which the Issuer may, in compliance with applicable laws, legally sell, assign or transfer such Exchanged Equity Security.

Sale of Defaulted Obligations

The Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer may, if it believes such to be practicable in its judgment, instruct the Trustee in writing to sell, and the Trustee shall sell, any Defaulted Obligation at any time; provided, however, that during the Reinvestment Period the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will seek to purchase (on behalf of the Issuer) within 90 Business Days after the settlement date for such sale of a Defaulted Obligation, one or more additional Collateral Obligations having an Aggregate Principal Amount at least equal to the Disposition Proceeds (as defined herein) received from such sale (excluding Disposition Proceeds that constitute Interest Proceeds). After the Reinvestment Period, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer will instruct the Trustee to apply the Sale Proceeds of Defaulted Obligations in accordance with the Priority of Payments. For the avoidance of doubt, (A) the exchange of a Defaulted Obligation for an Exchanged Defaulted Obligation shall not be deemed to be a sale of a Defaulted Obligation and (B) the Issuer shall be under no obligation to sell a Defaulted Obligation at any time.

Exchange of Defaulted Obligations

Notwithstanding the provisions described under "—Conversion into Equity Securities and Sale of Exchanged Equity Securities," at any time, the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer may instruct the Trustee in writing to exchange a Defaulted Obligation for (i) another Defaulted Obligation (an "Exchanged Defaulted Obligation") or (ii) an Exchanged Equity Security for so long as at the time of or in connection with such exchange:

(a) such Exchanged Defaulted Obligation or Exchanged Equity Security is issued by the same obligor as the Defaulted Obligation (or an Affiliate of or successor to such obligor or an entity that succeeds to substantially all of the assets of such obligor) and, in the case of such Exchanged Defaulted Obligation, ranks in right of payment no more junior than the Defaulted Obligation for which it was exchanged; provided that if the Issuer is also required to pay an amount for such Exchanged Defaulted Obligation or Exchanged Equity Security, the Issuer may use Interest Proceeds to effect such payment for so long as, after giving effect to such purchase, there would be sufficient proceeds in the Interest Collection Account or the Subordinated Securities Interest Collection Account to pay all amounts required to be paid pursuant to the Priority of Payments prior to any distributions to Holders of the Subordinated Securities on the next succeeding Payment Date;

(b) in the case of an Exchanged Defaulted Obligation, (1) if any Par Value Test is not satisfied following such exchange, then such Par Value Test is at least as close to being satisfied after such exchange as prior to such exchange and (2) on any Determination Date on or after the Second Determination Date, if any Interest Coverage Test is not satisfied following such exchange, then such Interest Coverage Test is at least as close to being satisfied after such exchange as prior to such exchange;

(c) in the case of an Exchanged Defaulted Obligation, if rated by the Rating Agencies and if each of the Maximum Rating Factor Test or the S&P CDO Monitor Test is not satisfied following such exchange, then each such Maximum Rating Factor Test or the S&P CDO Monitor Test is at least as close to being satisfied following such exchange as prior to such exchange;

(d) in the case of an Exchanged Defaulted Obligation, the expected total recovery proceeds of such Exchanged Defaulted Obligation, as determined by the Collateral Manager, must be no less than the expected total recovery proceeds of the Defaulted Obligation for which it was exchanged; and

(e) as determined by the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer, in the case of an Exchanged Defaulted Obligation, if any Concentration Limitation is not satisfied following such exchange, then any such Concentration Limitation is at least as close to being satisfied as prior to such exchange.

Reinvestment in Collateral Obligations

Reinvestment shall be subject to market conditions and the availability and suitability of available investments.

Reinvestment Criteria

The Reinvestment Criteria will be measured immediately before the Issuer commits to purchase or purchases a Collateral Obligation, and are designed to compare (i) the Collateral Portfolio before the proposed addition of a Collateral Obligation to the Collateral Portfolio and (ii) the Collateral Portfolio immediately after such Collateral Obligation is added to the Collateral Portfolio. Accordingly, when used with respect to the Reinvestment Criteria, the phrase "prior to such reinvestment" shall mean the following:

(i) immediately prior to the sale of the related Collateral Obligation, with respect to the reinvestment of the Sale Proceeds of a Credit Improved Obligation or a Collateral Obligation other than a Credit Risk Obligation, an Equity Security, a Withholding Tax Security or a Defaulted Obligation; or

(ii) immediately prior to the reinvestment of the Sale Proceeds of a Credit Risk Obligation, an Equity Security, a Withholding Tax Security or a Defaulted Obligation.

(A) Notwithstanding the foregoing discussion, but subject to subclause (B) below, if the Reinvestment Criteria would not be satisfied upon the proposed purchase of a single Collateral Obligation but the Reinvestment Criteria would be satisfied upon the proposed purchase of a number of Collateral Obligations (including such single Collateral Obligation), testing the Reinvestment Criteria as described below in subclause (ii), then the Reinvestment Criteria will be deemed to be satisfied for all such Collateral Obligations if the following conditions are met:

(i) such Collateral Obligations have been acquired or will be acquired by the Issuer in accordance with a Trading Plan;

(ii) as evidenced by an officer's certificate of the Collateral Manager delivered to the Trustee on or prior to the earliest event specified in such Trading Plan, the Reinvestment Criteria are expected to be satisfied as of the trade date relating to the last Collateral Obligation that will be purchased pursuant to such Trading Plan or, if not expected to be satisfied as of such trade date, are expected to be maintained or improved as of such trade date;

(iii) the ratings by Moody's on the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes at the time of acquisition are not one or more rating subcategories, and the ratings by Moody's on the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes are not two or more rating subcategories, in each case, below the applicable ratings in effect on the Closing Date or withdrawn by Moody's; and

(iv) no more than one Trading Plan may be in effect at any time.

(B) Subject to (C) below, as measured on the last applicable trade date, if a Trading Plan that was implemented results in either (i) if the Reinvestment Criteria were satisfied before the execution of such Trading Plan, the failure to satisfy such Reinvestment Criteria or (ii) if the Reinvestment Criteria were not satisfied before the execution of such Trading Plan, the Issuer's failure to maintain or improve its level of compliance with the Reinvestment Criteria, the Issuer will be prohibited from entering into any additional Trading Plan notwithstanding that such Trading Plan was implemented in good faith unless the events specified in clauses (i) or (ii) were due to (x) a failure of a counterparty or issuer to comply with any of its payment or delivery obligations to the Issuer or any other default by such counterparty or issuer for reasons beyond the control of the Issuer or any other terms that were agreed with the Issuer at or prior to the commencement of such Trading Plan or (y) an error or omission of an administrative or operational nature made by any bank, broker-dealer, clearing corporation or other similar financial intermediary holding funds, securities or other property directly or indirectly for the account of the Issuer. S&P will be notified of any failed Trading Plan.

(C) Notwithstanding subclause (B) above, following a prohibition to enter additional Trading Plans due to the circumstances described in subclauses (B)(i) or (B)(ii) above, if the Issuer or the Collateral Manager, on behalf of the Issuer, notifies each of the Rating Agencies of its intention to implement an additional Trading Plan, upon satisfaction of the S&P Rating Condition and the Moody's Rating Condition, the Issuer may implement such additional Trading Plan in accordance with the limitations set forth in the Indenture. Upon satisfaction of the conditions set forth in the preceding sentence, any prohibition shall be lifted until a subsequent Trading Plan would otherwise cause the Issuer to be prohibited from entering additional Trading Plans.

A Collateral Obligation (other than an Exchanged Defaulted Obligation, which need not satisfy these tests to be included) will be eligible for inclusion in the Collateral only if subclause (a) or (b) is satisfied, as applicable (collectively, the "Reinvestment Criteria"). The Reinvestment Criteria are not required to be satisfied during the Initial Investment Period.

(a) During the Reinvestment Period after the Initial Investment Period:

(i) with respect to any reinvestment of Principal Proceeds (other than those amounts described in subclause (ii) of the definition thereof), (1) if any Par Value Test is not satisfied following such reinvestment, then such Par Value Test is at least as close to being satisfied after such reinvestment as prior to such reinvestment, (2) on the Second Determination Date and any subsequent Measurement Date, if any Interest Coverage Test is not satisfied following such reinvestment, then such Interest Coverage Test is at least as close to being satisfied after such reinvestment as prior to such reinvestment and (3) if the Minimum Par Value Ratio is not satisfied following such reinvestment, then either: (x) the Minimum Par Value Ratio is no lower after such reinvestment than prior to such reinvestment, or (y) any of the Moody's Weighted Average Rating Factor, Diversity Score or Weighted Average Life is improved after giving effect to such reinvestment;

(ii) with respect to any reinvestment of Principal Proceeds described in subclause (ii) of the definition thereof, (1) the Par Value Tests are satisfied following such reinvestment and (2) on the Second Determination Date and any subsequent Measurement Date, the Interest Coverage Tests are satisfied following such reinvestment;

(iii) if the Diversity Test is not satisfied following such reinvestment, then such Diversity Test is at least as close to being satisfied after such reinvestment as prior to such reinvestment;

(x) no Event of Default exists at the time such Reinvestment Criteria are applied; and

(xi) with respect to the Collateral Portfolio, if any Concentration Limitation is not satisfied following such reinvestment, then any such Concentration Limitation is at least as close to being satisfied after such reinvestment as prior to such reinvestment.

Purchase of Equity Securities

Except in connection with the purchase or exchange of an Exchanged Equity Security as described under "—Sale of Collateral Obligations; Substitute Securities; Exchange of Defaulted Obligations and Reinvestment Criteria—Exchange of Defaulted Obligations," if the Collateral Manager directs the Trustee to purchase any Collateral Obligation which is convertible into an equity security or which has equity features attached, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer shall determine the portion of the purchase price of such Collateral Obligation that is attributable to the value of the option to convert such Collateral Obligation into an equity security or to the value of equity features, as applicable. If the Collateral Manager determines (in its sole discretion) that there is any Excess Equity Feature Value or the Collateral Manager decides (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer to exercise any warrants received in respect of any Collateral Obligations, the Collateral Manager shall instruct the Trustee in writing to apply Interest Proceeds allocable to the Subordinated Securities Interest Collection Account to pay such Excess Equity Feature Value or to Certain Matters Relating to Synthetic Securities

General. Synthetic Securities will be purchased or entered into by the Issuer for such purposes as (but not limited to):

(i) structuring an investment in Reference Obligations with a desired maturity, currency or interest rate which otherwise may be inconsistent with the criteria for purchasing Collateral Obligations;

(ii) achieving yield enhancement based on the coupon payments by a Reference Obligor; or

(iii) establishing recovery floors or other means of credit protection as a result of defaults on Reference Obligations.

The Issuer's exposure to a particular Synthetic Security Counterparty will be subject to the limitations described in "Glossary of Defined Terms—Synthetic Security Counterparty".

As part of the purchase of a Synthetic Security, the Issuer may be required to purchase or post Synthetic Security Collateral. See "—Synthetic Security Collateral Account".

Hedge Agreements

On or after the Closing Date, the Issuer may, subject to the conditions described herein, enter into one or more Hedge Agreements with one or more Hedge Counterparties.

After the Closing Date, the Issuer is authorized to and may enter into Hedge Agreements from time to time but solely for the purpose of managing interest rate and other risks in connection with the Issuer's issuance of, and making of payments on, the Securities and the Issuer's ownership and disposition of the Collateral Obligations and with such Hedge Counterparties as it may elect in its sole discretion, subject in all cases to the Moody's Rating Condition and the S&P Rating Condition having been satisfied. All payments due to any Hedge Counterparty under any Hedge Agreement shall be paid in accordance with the Priority of Payments; provided, however, that to the extent any payments are received by the Issuer as a result of entering into replacement transaction(s), the Hedge Counterparty that is being replaced shall have first priority as to such payments versus all other creditors of the Issuer, and the Issuer shall pay (or cause the Trustee to pay) such amounts equal to the termination payments over to the Hedge Counterparty that is being replaced immediately upon receipt. See "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments".

Except to the extent otherwise approved by the Rating Agencies, if either of the Rating Agencies downgrades the applicable Hedge Counterparty below the Required Hedge Counterparty Rating, an Additional Termination Event (as defined in the Hedge Agreement) (a "Downgrade Terminating Event") shall occur unless (x) such Hedge Counterparty has a short-term rating of at least "A-3" by S&P or, if no such short-term rating exists, a long-term senior unsecured debt rating, financial program rating, derivatives counterparty rating, counterparty risk rating or similar rating of at least "BBB-" by S&P and (y) at least one of the following events has occurred:

(i) within the time period specified in the Hedge Agreement with respect to such downgrade, such Hedge Counterparty shall transfer the Hedge Agreement, in whole, but not in part, to a counterparty that satisfies the Required Hedge Counterparty Rating, subject to the satisfaction of the Moody's Rating Condition or the S&P Rating Condition, as applicable;

(ii) within the time period specified in the Hedge Agreement with respect to such downgrade, such Hedge Counterparty, shall collateralize (pursuant to a credit support annex to be entered into at such time) its exposure to the Issuer, subject to the satisfaction of the Moody's Rating Condition or the S&P Rating Condition, as applicable;

(iii) within the time period specified in the Hedge Agreement with respect to such downgrade, the obligations of such Hedge Counterparty under the Hedge Agreement shall be guaranteed by a person or entity that satisfies the Required Hedge Counterparty Rating, subject to the satisfaction of the Moody's Rating Condition or the S&P Rating Condition, as applicable; or

(iv) within the time period specified in the Hedge Agreement with respect to such downgrade, such Hedge Counterparty shall take such other steps, if any, to enable the Issuer to satisfy the Moody's Rating Condition or the S&P Rating Condition, as applicable.

It shall also be an Additional Termination Event (as defined in the Hedge Agreement) if a Hedge Counterparty has a short-term rating of at least "A-3" by S&P or, if no such short-term rating exists, a long-term senior unsecured debt rating, financial program rating, derivatives counterparty rating, counterparty risk rating or similar rating of less than "BBB-" by S&P and within the time period specified in the Hedge Agreement, such Hedge Counterparty, while collateralizing its exposure to the Issuer, fails to transfer the Hedge Agreement, in whole, but not in part, to a counterparty that satisfies the Required Hedge Counterparty Rating, subject to satisfaction of the Moody's Rating Condition or the S&P Rating Condition, as applicable.

The Hedge Counterparties may be Affiliates of the Initial Purchaser and/or Affiliates of the Collateral Manager, which arrangements may create certain conflicts of interest. See "Risk Factors—Certain Conflicts of Interest".

Hedge Agreements may be terminated in accordance with their terms, whether or not the Secured Notes have been paid in full or redeemed prior to such termination, upon the earliest to occur of (i) certain events of bankruptcy, insolvency, conservatorship, receivership or reorganization of the Issuer or the related Hedge Counterparty, (ii) failure on the part of the Issuer or the related Hedge Counterparty to make any payment under the Hedge Agreement within the applicable grace period, (iii) a change in law making it illegal for either the Issuer or the related Hedge Counterparty to be a party to, or perform an obligation under, the Hedge Agreement; (iv) an optional redemption of the Securities as described in "Description of the Securities—Optional Redemption" or (v) certain other events specified in the relevant Hedge Agreement; provided, however, that (x) no Hedge Agreement may be terminated by any party thereto in connection with an event specified in clause (iv) above until the requirements set forth in the third paragraph under "Description of the Securities—Optional Redemption—Optional Redemption Procedures" have been satisfied and following the expiration of any right of the Issuer to withdraw the related notice of redemption, and (y) if the occurrence or continuance of an Event of Default (other than any Event of Default which is also an event specified in clauses (i) or (ii) above) is a termination event under a Hedge Agreement, then such Hedge Agreement may not be terminated by any party thereto for so long as a Majority of the Controlling Class may rescind and annul the declaration of the related Event of Default in accordance with the provisions of the Indenture.

If the Issuer is unable to or, if applicable, chooses not to obtain a substitute Hedge Agreement in the event that a Hedge Agreement is terminated, interest due on the Secured Notes will be paid from amounts received on the Collateral Obligations without the benefits of a Hedge Agreement or a substitute Hedge Agreement. If the Indenture obligates the Issuer to seek a replacement upon termination of the Hedge Agreement and the Issuer is unable to find a suitable replacement Hedge Agreement, there can be no assurance that the Moody's Rating Condition and the S&P Rating Condition will be satisfied in respect of the Secured Notes. There can be no assurance that such amounts will be sufficient to provide for the full payment of interest on the Secured Notes at the applicable Note Interest Rate or that amounts that would otherwise be distributable to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities will not be reduced in such case.

A termination of a Hedge Agreement does not constitute an Event of Default under the Indenture.

The occurrence of any optional redemption of the Securities will cause the termination of any Hedge Agreement in place at such time. Such termination may require the Issuer to make a termination payment to the Hedge Counterparty, and the Holders may be unable to effect an optional redemption (other than in connection with an optional redemption following a Withholding Tax Event) despite having sufficient proceeds prior to making such termination payment to pay or redeem the Secured Notes and certain expenses in full. In addition, in order to liquidate the Collateral following an Event of Default, the Hedge Agreement must be terminated and proceeds from such liquidation must be sufficient to pay any termination payment owing to the Hedge Counterparty in addition to any amounts owing under the Secured Notes. As a result, as set forth in the Indenture, the Holders of the Secured Notes may be unable to effect a liquidation of the Collateral following an Event of Default despite having sufficient proceeds prior to the payment of such termination payment to pay the Secured Notes and certain expenses in full.

Depending on the requirements of the entity that acts as Hedge Counterparty, the Issuer may be required to post collateral to such Hedge Counterparty if the Class C Par Value Test is not satisfied on any Determination Date or the Class C Interest Coverage Test is not satisfied on any Determination Date on or after the Second Determination Date, as specified in subclause (ii) under "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments—Principal Proceeds". If such posting requirements exist, the related Hedge Counterparty may be required to make certain payments to the Issuer to compensate the Issuer for the effect of such posting. See "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments—Principal Proceeds".

With respect to any Hedge Agreement, (i) the Issuer may, with the consent of the applicable Hedge Counterparty, assign or transfer all or a portion of any Hedge Agreement, (ii) a Hedge Counterparty may assign its obligations under a Hedge Agreement to any institution (with the consent of the Issuer, if so required by the terms of the applicable Hedge Agreement), (iii) the Issuer and the Hedge Counterparty may amend a Hedge Agreement and/or (iv) the Issuer may terminate a Hedge Agreement and replace a Hedge Counterparty; provided, however, that in the case of (iii) each of the Moody's Rating Condition and the S&P Rating Condition has been satisfied and in each such case (i), (ii) or (iv), the Moody's Rating Condition has been satisfied and, if the Issuer will be required to make a payment in connection with such assignment, transfer or termination, the S&P Rating Condition has been satisfied; provided, further, that the Issuer may terminate a Hedge Agreement without satisfaction of the Moody's Rating Condition or the S&P Rating Condition in conjunction with an optional redemption of the Securities if all conditions applicable to such optional redemption set forth in the Indenture have been satisfied.

Any Hedge Agreements will be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of New York without regard to the conflict of laws principles thereof and shall contain appropriate limited recourse and non-petition provisions as against the Issuer equivalent (mutatis mutandis) to those contained in the Indenture.

Securities Lending

Provided that no Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer, may from time to time, in its sole discretion, instruct the Trustee in writing to lend Collateral Obligations to Securities Lending Counterparties (which Securities Lending Counterparties may be Affiliates of the Initial Purchaser and/or Affiliates of the Collateral Manager) pursuant to one or more Securities Lending Agreements.

Such Securities Lending Agreements may create certain conflicts of interest. See "Risk Factors—Certain Conflicts of Interest". The duration of any Securities Lending Agreement, and the Collateral Portfolio loaned thereunder, shall not exceed the Stated Maturity of the Securities.

Each Securities Lending Agreement shall be on market terms (except as may be required below), as determined by the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer, in its sole judgment and shall:

(i) require that, in the first instance, the Securities Lending Counterparty return to the Issuer debt obligations that are identical (in terms of issue and class) to the loaned Collateral Obligations; provided that if the Issuer and the Trustee have received an opinion or advice of tax counsel of nationally recognized standing in the United States experienced in such matters to the effect that the failure of the Securities Lending Counterparty to return such loaned Collateral Obligations will not cause the Issuer to be engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business in the United States for United States federal income tax purposes or otherwise to be subject to United States federal income tax on a net basis, the Issuer may accept an alternative other than such loaned Collateral Obligations from the

Securities Lending Counterparty (for so long as the failure of the Securities Lending Counterparty to provide such alternative will not constitute an event of default under such Securities Lending Agreement);

(ii) require that the Securities Lending Counterparty pay to the Issuer such amounts as are equivalent to all interest and other payments that the owner of the loaned Collateral Obligation is entitled to for the period during which the Collateral Obligation is loaned and such payments shall not be subject to any withholding tax imposed by any jurisdiction unless the Securities Lending Counterparty is required under the Securities Lending Agreement to make "gross-up" payments to the Issuer that cover the full amount of such withholding tax on an after-tax basis;

(iii) require that the Moody's Rating Condition and the S&P Rating Condition be satisfied;

(iv) be governed by the laws of New York; and

(v) permit the Issuer to assign its rights thereunder to the Trustee pursuant to the Indenture.

In addition, the Issuer may indemnify a collateral agent or any other person acting in a similar capacity in connection with a Securities Lending Agreement (although any such indemnity payments will constitute Administrative Expenses and will be subject to the Priority of Payments).

A Securities Lending Counterparty will be required to post with the Trustee, or any Securities Intermediary, Securities Lending Collateral to secure its obligation to return the Collateral Obligations. "Securities Lending Collateral" means any cash or direct Registered debt obligations of the United States of America that have a maturity of five years or less and that are pledged by a Securities Lending Counterparty as collateral pursuant to a Securities Lending Agreement.

Such collateral will be maintained at all times with the Trustee or any Securities Intermediary in an amount equal to an agreed upon percentage (no less than 100% and in accordance with the relevant Securities Lending Agreement) of the current market value (determined daily by the related Securities Lending Counterparty and monitored by the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer) of the loaned securities. Such collateral will not constitute Collateral Obligations and will not be available to support payments on the Secured Notes or for distribution to the Holders of the Subordinated Securities unless the related Securities Lending Counterparty defaults in its obligation to return the loaned Collateral Obligations to the Issuer.

If either of the Rating Agencies downgrades a Securities Lending Counterparty such that the Securities Lending Agreement or Securities Lending Agreements to which the Securities Lending Counterparty is a party are no longer in compliance with the requirements relating to the credit ratings of the Securities Lending Counterparty, then the Issuer, within 10 days thereof, will (i) terminate its Securities Lending Agreement or Securities Lending Agreements with such Securities Lending Counterparty; (ii) obtain a guarantor that meets the rating requirements of the definition of "Securities Lending Counterparty" for the Securities Lending Counterparty's obligations under the Securities Lending Agreement or Securities Lending Agreements; (iii) reduce the percentage of the Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Portfolio loaned to such downgraded Securities Lending Counterparty so that the Securities Lending Agreement or Securities Lending Agreements to which such Securities Lending Counterparty is a party, together with all other Securities Lending Agreements, are in compliance with the requirements relating to the credit ratings of Securities Lending Counterparties; or (iv) take such other steps as each Rating Agency that has downgraded such Securities Lending Counterparty may require to satisfy each of the Moody's Reting Condition and the S&P Reting Condition.

The Issuer's exposure to a particular Securities Lending Counterparty will be subject to the limitations described in "Glossary of Defined Terms—Securities Lending Counterparty".

Collection and Payment Accounts

Interest Proceeds shall be deposited into a segregated trust account held in the name of the Issuer for the benefit of the Secured Parties (the "Interest Collection Account") (which may be a subaccount of the Collection Account); provided that any such amounts which are Interest Proceeds of assets whose acquisition is attributed to funds raised from the issuance of the Subordinated Securities will be deposited in a segregated trust account designated as the "Subordinated Securities Interest Collection Account" (which may be a subaccount of the Subordinated Securities Collection Account). Amounts deposited in the Interest Collection Account and the Subordinated Securities Interest Collection Account will be available, together with reinvestment earnings thereon, for application to the payment of the amounts set forth under "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments" and for the acquisition of Substitute Collateral Obligations under the circumstances and pursuant to the requirements described herein and in the Indenture.

On or about the first Business Day prior to each Payment Date, the Trustee will deposit into a separate account held in the name of the Issuer for the benefit of the Secured Parties and designated as the "Payment Account" as set forth in the Indenture, all funds in the Interest Collection Account, the Subordinated Securities Interest Collection Account, the Principal Collection Account and the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account (other than amounts that the Issuer is entitled to retain in the Interest Collection Account, the Subordinated Securities Interest Collection Account, the Principal Collection Account or the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account for subsequent reinvestment in accordance with the Reinvestment Criteria, if the Issuer so elects as set forth in the Indenture) and any Reinvestment Income required for payments to Holders of the Securities and payments of fees and expenses in accordance with the priorities described under "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments".

On or before the first Payment Date the Collateral Manager may (in its sole discretion) instruct the Trustee in writing to transfer all or a portion of funds in the Interest Collection Account (representing proceeds of the issuance of the Class S Notes and deposited therein pursuant to the Indenture) to the Principal Collection Account for application as Principal Proceeds.

Amounts retained in the Interest Collection Account, the Subordinated Securities Interest Collection Account, the Principal Collection Account, the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account and the Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account during a Due Period will be invested in Eligible Investments. See "—Sale of Collateral Obligations; Substitute Securities; Exchange of Defaulted Obligations and Reinvestment Criteria" and "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments".

Principal Collection Account

Principal Proceeds and proceeds from the issuance and sale of the Securities and any initial payments from one of the Hedge Agreements described above (see "—Hedge Agreements") shall be deposited into a segregated trust account designated as the "Principal Collection Account" (which may be a subaccount of the Collection Account) or the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account, as applicable, provided that any such amounts which are Principal Proceeds of assets whose acquisition is attributed to funds raised from the issuance of the Subordinated Securities will be deposited in a separate segregated trust account designated as the "Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account" (which may be a subaccount of the Subordinated Securities Collateral Account). Amounts deposited in the Principal Collection Account and the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account will be invested in Eligible Investments until such Principal Proceeds are reinvested in Collateral Obligations in accordance with the Reinvestment Criteria, deposited in the Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account in connection with the purchase of a Revolving Credit Facility or Delayed Funding Term Loan or applied in accordance with the Priority of Payments. From time to time after the Closing Date, at the written direction of the Collateral Manager, Principal Proceeds in an amount equal to the Future Drawdown Amount may be transferred from the Principal Collection Account to the Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account.

Discretionary Reserve Account

If and to the extent that the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) instructs the Trustee in writing on the Effective Date to transfer amounts on deposit in the Principal Collection Account or the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account to a discretionary reserve account as set forth in "—Principal Collection Account" above, the Trustee shall establish a segregated trust account for such purpose (such account, the "Discretionary Reserve Account") into which the Trustee will deposit such amounts as the Collateral Manager so instructs. As directed by the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) in writing from time to time until the Payment Date in February 2008, the Trustee shall withdraw funds deposited in the Discretionary Reserve Account for transfer to the Interest Collection Account for application as Interest Proceeds or the Principal Collection Account for application as Principal Proceeds, all as set forth in "—Principal Collection Account" above. Amounts in the Discretionary Reserve Account will be invested in Eligible Investments in accordance with the written instructions of the Collateral Manager (which may be in the form of standing instructions). On the Payment Date in February 2008, the Trustee shall transfer any amount remaining in the Discretionary Reserve Account to the Interest Collection Account for application as Interest Proceeds or the Principal Collection Account for application as Principal Proceeds, as directed by the Collateral Manager in its sole discretion in writing, and close the Discretionary Reserve Account.

Expense Reserve Account

On the Closing Date, the Issuer will deposit the Expense Reserve Amount into the "Expense Reserve Account". At the written direction of the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) or the Issuer, the Trustee may at any time withdraw funds deposited in the Expense Reserve Account solely to pay for any fees or expenses incurred by or on behalf of the Issuer in connection with (i) the structuring and consummation of the offering and the issuance of the Securities or (ii) the Effective Date ((i) or (ii) above, the "Reserved Expenses"). Amounts in the Expense Reserve Account will be invested in overnight funds that are Eligible Investments in accordance with the written instructions of the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) (which may be in the form of standing instructions) and will, for the avoidance of doubt, not be included in the Collateral Quality Tests and the Coverage Tests. At the written direction of the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion), the Trustee may at any time transfer amounts deposited in the Expense Reserve Account to the Principal Collection Account so long as the Collateral Manager has confirmed to the Trustee that there are sufficient funds remaining in the Expense Reserve Account after such transfer to pay for all accrued but unpaid Reserved Expenses. On the earlier of (i) the first Scheduled Payment Date and (ii) the Business Day that the Collateral Manager has confirmed to the Trustee that all Reserved Expenses have been paid by the Issuer, the Trustee shall transfer any amount remaining in the Expense Reserve Account to the Principal Collection Account and close the Expense Reserve Account. Any amounts transferred from the Expense Reserve Account to the Principal Collection Account will be treated as Principal Proceeds.

Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account

Upon the purchase of any Collateral Obligation that is a Revolving Credit Facility or a Delayed Funding Term Loan, funds from the Principal Collection Account or the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account, as applicable (including any Revolving Credit Facility Net-Backs), will be deposited in the "Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account" such that the amount of funds on deposit in the account will be equal to or greater than the Aggregate Underlying Undrawn Amount. After the initial purchase, all principal payments received on any Revolving Credit Facility will be deposited into the Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account (and will not be available for distribution as Principal Proceeds) until the amount held in such account is equal to the Future Drawdown Amount; provided, however, that at the written direction of the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion), amounts deposited in the Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account may be transferred to the Principal Collection Account from time to time so long as, immediately after such transfer, the amount on deposit in the Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account is greater than or equal to the Aggregate Underlying Undrawn Amount. If a loan consists of a combination of a Revolving Credit Facility and a term loan, only that portion of the loan that constitutes a Revolving Credit Facility will be treated as a Revolving Credit Facility. Amounts in the Revolving Credit Facility Reserve Account will be invested in Eligible Investments and will be included in the Coverage Tests as described above under "—The Collateral Quality Tests" and "—The Coverage Tests". For the avoidance of doubt, the Issuer shall not be deemed to have violated the restriction set forth in subclause (xiii) of the definition of "Collateral Obligation" by satisfying the Issuer's funding obligations under any Revolving Credit Facilities or Delayed Funding Term Loans.

Synthetic Security Collateral Account

If and to the extent that any Synthetic Security requires the Issuer to secure its obligations with respect to such Synthetic Security, the Issuer shall establish a segregated trust account for such Synthetic Security (such account, the "Synthetic Security Collateral Account") into which, as directed by the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion), the Issuer will deposit all amounts which are required to secure the obligations of the Issuer in accordance with the terms of any and all Synthetic Securities entered into between the Issuer and the related Synthetic Security Counterparty.

As directed by the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer in writing, amounts on deposit in a Synthetic Security Collateral Account on behalf of a Synthetic Security Counterparty shall be invested in Eligible Investments which are permitted by the applicable Synthetic Securities and any related credit support documents. Income received on amounts on deposit in each Synthetic Security Collateral Account may, as directed by the Collateral Manager (in its sole discretion) on behalf of the Issuer in writing, either (x) be retained in such Synthetic Security Collateral Account if the Aggregate Principal Amount of all remaining Eligible Investments in such account is not in excess of the Aggregate Principal Amount of any and all outstanding Synthetic Securities entered into between the Issuer and such Synthetic Security Counterparty and such Synthetic Security so provides and may, if so provided, be used to pay amounts owing to such Synthetic Security Counterparty or (y) be withdrawn from such account and deposited in the Interest Collection Account (or, if the amounts on deposit were, or are the proceeds of, Subordinated Securities Collateral Obligations, the Subordinated Securities Interest Collection Account) for distribution as Interest Proceeds. Principal payments received on amounts on deposit in each Synthetic Security Collateral Account prior to the release of the Synthetic Security Collateral will, (1) if so required under the terms of the applicable Synthetic Security and any related credit support documents, be reinvested and maintained as Synthetic Security Collateral in accordance with the terms of such Synthetic Security and any related credit support documents, or, (2) if not so required, be withdrawn from such account and deposited in the Principal Collection Account (or, if the amounts on deposit were, or are, the proceeds of, Subordinated Securities Collateral Obligations, the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account) for distribution as Principal Proceeds. Synthetic Security Collateral and not paid to the Synthetic Security Counterparty will be deposited into the Principal Collection Account or the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account, as the case may be, and be treated as: (i) a recovery on a Defaulted Obligation in the event that the Synthetic Security was terminated as a result of a credit event, an event of default or a termination event (each as defined in the applicable Synthetic Security); (ii) Unscheduled Principal Payments in the event that the Synthetic Security was subject to an agreed-upon termination prior to its scheduled termination; or (iii) Principal Proceeds in the event that the Synthetic Security was terminated at its scheduled maturity or at the sole discretion of the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer. Such cash will be deposited in the Principal Collection Account.

Amounts contained in any Synthetic Security Collateral Account shall not be considered to be an asset of the Issuer for purposes of any of the Collateral Quality Tests or the Coverage Tests (except as provided in subclause (ii) of the definition of "Coverage Test"), but the Synthetic Security which relates to such Synthetic Security Collateral Account shall be so considered an asset of the Issuer. If and to the extent that any Synthetic Securities or any related credit support documents so provide, upon the occurrence of a credit event or an event of default or a termination event (each as defined in the applicable Synthetic Security), amounts contained in the related Synthetic Security Collateral Account shall be liquidated and the proceeds thereof paid to the related Synthetic Security Counterparty, in any such case, only to the extent necessary to satisfy the obligations of the Issuer to the related Synthetic Security Counterparty in accordance with the terms of such Synthetic Security. For the avoidance of doubt, the payment by the Issuer of the proceeds of any liquidation of Eligible Investments contained in the Synthetic Security Collateral Account to a Synthetic Security Counterparty to the extent necessary to satisfy the obligations of the Issuer to the related Synthetic Security Counterparty in accordance with the terms of such Synthetic Security, shall not be deemed to be a violation of the restriction set forth in subclause (xiii) of the definition of "Eligibility Criteria".

Securities Lending Account

Securities Lending Collateral pledged pursuant to a related Securities Lending Agreement shall be deposited into a segregated trust account or trust accounts (for Securities Lending Collateral that constitutes Financial Assets (as defined in Section 8-102(a)(9) of the UCC)) and a demand deposit account or demand deposit accounts (for Securities Lending Collateral that constitutes cash) so designated and established pursuant to the Indenture, and held there pursuant to the related Securities Lending Agreement (such account, the "Securities Lending Account").

Upon an event of default by any Securities Lending Counterparty under the related Securities Lending Agreement, the Issuer or the Trustee, as the case may be, as permitted in the Securities Lending Agreement and in consultation with the Collateral Manager, shall promptly exercise its remedies under such Securities Lending Agreement, including liquidating, or causing the liquidation of, the related Securities Lending Collateral in accordance with written instructions from the Collateral Manager, in its sole discretion. Proceeds of any such liquidation shall be deposited in the Principal Collection Account and the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account, as applicable.

Margin Stock

The Collateral Portfolio may consist of securities that, at the time of purchase (or when a commitment to purchase is entered into), provide for conversion at the option of the holder or have equity features attached. Debt securities that are convertible into Margin Stock may be also considered Margin Stock and securities with equity features may be considered Margin Stock. The Concentration Limitetions limit the amount of such securities that can be purchased by the Issuer. See "Summary—The Offering—Concentration Limitations". Accordingly, the ability of the Issuer to acquire any types of convertible securities and securities with equity features will be restricted by the limitations imposed on the Issuer's ability to acquire Margin Stock. For instance, only proceeds of Subordinated Securities Collateral Obligations and funds on deposit in the Subordinated Securities Interest Collection Account and the Subordinated Securities Principal Collection Account may be used to purchase Collateral Obligations that constitute Margin Stock.

Securities in a private placement may constitute an extension of credit. Among other things, Regulation U generally imposes certain limits on the amount of Purpose Credit that Regulation U Lenders may extend that is secured directly or indirectly by Margin Stock. The provisions of the Indenture and the Collateral Management Agreement are intended to ensure that (i) the purchasers of the Subordinated Securities (which are not secured by Margin Stock) are not Regulation U Lenders and (ii) the credit extended by purchasing the Secured Notes (which is secured by the Collateral, which may include Margin Stock) is not Purpose Credit. Regulation U Lenders are not subject to the Regulation U credit limits with respect to extensions of credit that are not Purpose Credit.

Regulation U also generally requires Regulation U Lenders (other than Persons that are banks within the meaning of Regulation U) to register with the FRB. Under an interpretation of Regulation U by the FRB staff, Qualified Institutional Buyers purchasing debt securities secured by Margin Stock in a transaction in compliance with Rule 144A are not required to register with the FRB where the proceeds of the securities are not used for Purpose Credit. Non-U.S. Persons purchasing Secured Notes in reliance on Regulation S who do not have their principal place of business in a Federal Reserve District of the FRB are also not required to register with the FRB.

Any purchaser of Secured Notes who is not a bank (as defined in Regulation U) and is not required to register with the FRB will not be subject to any provisions of Regulation U. Any purchaser of the Secured Notes who is a bank or who is already registered with the FRB as a Regulation U lender generally must obtain from any person to whom they extend credit secured by Margin Stock a Federal Reserve Form U-1 (for bank lenders) or Form G-3 (for non-bank lenders). Purchasers of the Secured Notes may obtain a Form U-1 or G-3, as applicable, executed by the Issuer or the Issuers, as applicable, from the Issuer, for execution and retention by such purchaser on or prior to the Closing Date. Each purchaser of Secured Notes will be responsible for its own compliance with Regulation U, including the filing by the purchaser of any required registration or annual filings under Regulation U, and purchasers of Secured Notes should consult with their own legal advisors as to Regulation U and its application to them. Purchasers of Secured Notes not otherwise exempt from registering with the FRB will be deemed to have covenanted and agreed that if such purchaser is not registered with the FRB on or prior to the date of the purchaser's purchase, such purchaser will, within the required time period, register with the FRB.

Under the Indenture, each purchaser of an interest in a Regulation S Global Secured Note will be deemed to have represented that either (x) such purchaser's principal place of business is not located within any Federal Reserve District of the United States Federal Reserve Bank or (y) such purchaser has satisfied and will satisfy any applicable registration or other requirements of the FRB including, without limitation, Regulation U, in connection with its acquisition of the Secured Notes.

The accounts established by, and the maintenance of funds and securities under, the Indenture have been structured with the intent that the proceeds of the Secured Notes not be treated as constituting Purpose Credit; however, such result is not guaranteed.

MATURITY AND PREPAYMENT CONSIDERATIONS

The Stated Maturity of the Securities (other than the Class S Notes) is the Payment Date in February 2021 and, with respect to the Class S Notes, February 2014; however, the principal of the Secured Notes is expected to be paid in full prior to Stated Maturity. Average life refers to the average amount of time that will elapse from the date of delivery of a security until each Dollar of the principal of such security will be paid to the investor. The average lives of the Secured Notes will be determined by the amount and frequency of principal payments, which are dependent upon, among other things, the amount of sinking fund payments and any other payments received at or in advance of the scheduled maturity of Collateral Obligations (whether through sale, maturity, redemption, default or other liquidation or disposition). The actual average lives and actual maturities of the Secured Notes will be affected by the financial condition of the issuers of the underlying Collateral Obligations and the characteristics of such securities, including the existence and frequency of exercise of any optional or mandatory redemption features, the prevailing level of interest rates, the redemption price, the actual default rate, the actual level of recoveries on any Defaulted Obligations and the timing of defaults and recoveries, and the frequency of tender or exchange offers for such Collateral Obligations. Substantially all of the Collateral Obligations are expected to be subject to sinking fund payments or optional redemption or prepayment by the issuer of such securities. In addition, if principal payments on the Secured Notes occur under the circumstances described under "Summary—The Offering—Principal Payments on the Secured Notes," the average life of the Secured Notes will also be affected.

Any disposition of a Collateral Obligation may change the composition and characteristics of the Collateral Obligations and the rate of payment thereon, and, accordingly, may affect the actual average lives of the Secured Notes. The rate of and timing of future defaults and the amount and timing of any cash realization from Defaulted Obligations also will affect the maturity and average lives of the Secured Notes. The ability of the Collateral Manager to reinvest any Principal Proceeds in the manner described under "Security for the Secured Notes—Sale of Collateral Obligations; Substitute Securities; Exchange of Defaulted Obligations and Reinvestment Criteria" and the decisions of the Collateral Manager regarding whether or not to reinvest such proceeds will also affect the average lives of the Secured Notes. For so long as any of the Securities are listed on the Irish Stock Exchange and the rules of such Exchange shall so require, notice of the Maturity of any Class of Securities shall be made in the Irish Stock Exchange's Official List.

THE COLLATERAL MANAGEMENT AGREEMENT

General

Certain advisory and administrative functions with respect to the Issuer and the Collateral will be performed by the Collateral Manager under the agreement to be entered into between the Issuer and the Collateral Manager (the "Collateral Management Agreement"). Pursuant to the terms of the Collateral Management Agreement, and in accordance with the requirements set forth in the Indenture, the Collateral Manager will perform certain collateral management functions, including directing the purchase and sale of Collateral and performing certain administrative functions on behalf of the Issuer. The Collateral Manager will be authorized to, among other things, (i) select the Collateral Obligations to be acquired and sold by the Issuer, (ii) monitor the portfolio of Collateral Obligations on an ongoing basis and advise the Issuer as to which Collateral Obligations to sell and which Collateral Obligations to acquire, (iii) instruct the Trustee with respect to any disposition or tender of a Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment or other Collateral by the Issuer, (iv) advise the Issuer with respect to interest rate risk, cash flow timing and selecting and negotiating Hedge Agreements and (v) assist the Issuer in the preparation of reports, orders and other documents required pursuant to the Indenture.

The Collateral Manager shall use reasonable care in rendering its services under the Collateral Management Agreement, using a degree of skill and attention no less than that which the Collateral Manager exercises with respect to comparable assets that it manages for clients in substantially similar transactions in accordance with its practices and procedures which the Collateral Manager reasonably believes to be consistent with those followed by institutional managers of national standing relating to assets of the nature and character of the Collateral Obligations. Neither the Collateral Manager nor its Affiliates will be liable to the Issuer, the Trustee, the holders of the Securities, or any other Person for any loss incurred as a result of the actions taken by or recommended by the Collateral Manager under the Collateral Management Agreement or the Indenture, except by reason of acts or omissions constituting bad faith, fraud, willful misconduct, gross negligence or reckless disregard, of its obligations thereunder. Subject to the above mentioned standard of liability, the Collateral Manager, its members, manager, officers, agents, employees and Affiliates will be entitled to indemnification by the Issuer for any losses or liabilities, including legal or other expenses, relating to the issuance of the Securities, the transactions contemplated by the Indenture or the performance of the Collateral Manager's obligations under the Collateral Management Agreement, which will be payable as Administrative Expenses in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

The Collateral Manager may assign its rights or responsibilities under the Collateral Management Agreement (even where such assignment would be deemed an "assignment" for purposes of Section 205(a)(2) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended) by, (i) so long as any Securities rated by S&P are Outstanding, satisfying the S&P Rating Condition, (ii) so long as any Securities rated by Moody's are Outstanding, satisfying the Moody's Rating Condition and (iii) obtaining the consent of the Issuer as directed by a Majority of the Controlling Class and a Majority of the Subordinated Securities. The Collateral Manager may delegate to an agent selected with reasonable care any or all of the duties (other than its asset selection or trade execution duties) assigned to the Collateral Manager under the Collateral Management Agreement, provided that no delegation by the Collateral Manager of any of its duties under the Collateral Management Agreement shall relieve the Collateral Manager of any of its duties under the Collateral Management Agreement nor relieve the Collateral Manager of any liability with respect to the performance of such duties. The Collateral Manager may resign upon 90 days' prior written notice to the Issuer, the Trustee and each Rating Agency.

Notwithstanding the preceding paragraph, the Collateral Manager will be permitted, with the consent of a Majority of the Subordinated Securities, to assign any or all of its rights and delegate any or all of its obligations to an Affiliate.

The Collateral Manager may be removed for cause by the Issuer, acting upon the direction of (x) 66-2/3% of the Controlling Class, or (y) 66-2/3% of the Subordinated Securities (excluding any Securities owned by the Collateral Manager or its Affiliates) upon 10 Business Days' prior written notice. For purposes of the Collateral Management Agreement, "cause" will mean: (a) any willful violation in bad faith or willful breach in bad faith by the Collateral Manager of any provision of the Collateral Management Agreement or the Indenture applicable to it; (b) any violation by the Collateral Manager of any provision of the Collateral Management Agreement or the Indenture applicable to it (other than as covered by the preceding clause (a)) (it being understood that the failure of any Coverage Test or Collateral Quality Test, which is not caused by a breach described in clause (a) of this definition of "cause", is not such a violation) which violation (1) has a material adverse effect on the Holders of any Class of Securities and (2) if capable of being cured, is not cured within 30 days of the Collateral Manager receiving notice from the Issuer or the Trustee of such violation (or such longer period as is reasonably required to correct any such breach, provided that the Collateral Manager promptly commences and diligently continues to effectuate a cure, but in any event within 90 days after receipt of written notice thereof); (c) the failure of any representation, warranty, certification or statement made or delivered by the Collateral Manager, in or pursuant to the Collateral Management Agreement or the Indenture, to be correct in any material respect when made which failure could reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on the Holders of any Class of Securities and is not corrected within 30 days of the Collateral Manager receiving notice of the occurrence of such breach; (d) certain events of bankruptcy, insolvency, conservatorship, or receivership in respect of the Collateral Manager; (e) the occurrence of any Event of Default that results from a breach by the Collateral Manager of its duties under the Indenture or the Collateral Management Agreement; and (f) the occurrence of an act by the Collateral Manager or its officers having direct responsibility over the Issuer's investment activities that constitutes fraud or criminal activity in the performance of its obligations under the Collateral Management Agreement or its indictment for a criminal offense materially related to its business of providing asset management services.

The Collateral Management Agreement will be automatically terminated if it is determined in good faith that the Issuer or the Co-Issuer or the pool of Collateral has become required to register under the Investment Company Act, and the Issuer so notifies the Collateral Manager.

If the Collateral Manager is removed (but not yet replaced by a successor Collateral Manager) pursuant to one of the previous two paragraphs, the Collateral Manager shall give written notice thereof to the Issuer, the Trustee, and the holders of all Outstanding Securities promptly upon the Collateral Manager's becoming aware of the occurrence of such event.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary set forth above, no resignation or termination of the Collateral Manager shall become effective until each of the Moody's Rating Condition and the S&P Rating Condition is satisfied with respect to a successor collateral manager selected by the Issuer with the approval of the holders of a Majority of the Subordinated Securities; provided that the holders of a Majority of each Class of Secured Notes do not object within 60 days after notice of such proposed action (in each case, excluding in the event of a removal for cause or with respect to the appointment of an Affiliate as successor, any Securities owned by the Collateral Manager or its Affiliates).

In the event of a resignation by or termination of the Collateral Manager, if no successor Collateral Manager has been appointed or an instrument of acceptance by a successor Collateral Manager has not been delivered to the Collateral Manager within 120 days after the date of notice of resignation by or termination of the Collateral Manager, the resigned or terminated Collateral Manager may petition any court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a successor Collateral Manager subject to the satisfaction of the Moody's Rating Condition and the S&P Rating Condition but without the approval of the Issuer or Holders of the Securities.

There is no limitation or restriction on the Collateral Manager or any of its Affiliates with regard to acting as collateral manager (or in a similar role) to other parties or persons. This and other future activities of the Collateral Manager and/or their Affiliates may give rise to additional conflicts of interest. The Collateral Manager and its Affiliates currently serve, and will continue to serve, as Collateral Manager for, invest in or be Affiliated with, other entities organized to issue collateralized debt obligations secured by high yield loans and bonds.

One or more funds managed by the Collateral Manager will commit to purchase up to 100% of the initial notional amount of the Subordinated Securities. Thereafter, such funds may, from time to time, transfer or sell all or any part of such Subordinated Securities held thereby.

Compensation of the Collateral Manager

As compensation for the performance of its obligations as Collateral Manager under the Collateral Management Agreement, the Collateral Manager will be entitled to receive from the Issuer the Senior Collateral Management Fee, the Subordinated Collateral Management Fee and the Incentive Collateral Management Fee.

The "Senior Collateral Management Fee" is payable in arrears on each Payment Date (subject to availability of funds and to the Priority of Payments) in an amount equal to 0.15% per annum of the Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Portfolio measured as of the beginning of the Due Period preceding such Payment Date. The Senior Collateral Management Fee will be payable before any interest payments or distributions of Interest Proceeds on the Securities and will be calculated on the basis of a calendar year consisting of 360 days and the actual number of days elapsed.

The "Subordinated Collateral Management Fee" is payable in arrears on each Payment Date (subject to availability of funds and to the Priority of Payments) in an amount equal to 0.35% per annum of the Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Portfolio measured as of the beginning of the Due Period preceding such Payment Date. The Subordinated Collateral Management Fee will be payable before any payments of distributions on the Subordinated Securities and will be calculated on the basis of a calendar year consisting of 360 days and the actual number of days elapsed. In addition, on any Payment Date that any part of the Subordinated Collateral Management Fee is not paid, it shall be carried over, will accrue interest at a rate of LIBOR for the applicable period plus 3.00% per annum and will be payable to the Collateral Manager on future Payment Dates in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

On each Payment Date, in accordance with the Priority of Payments, the Collateral Manager will be eligible to receive an incentive collateral management fee with respect to each subclass of Subordinated Securities (each, an "Incentive Collateral Management Fee"). On any Payment Date, the Incentive Collateral Management Fee with respect to each subclass of Subordinated Securities will equal 20% of the amount of Interest Proceeds and Principal Proceeds remaining available for distribution to such subclass at the steps in the Priority of Payments at which the Incentive Collateral Management Fee may be paid. The Incentive Collateral Management Fee with respect to each Included Subclass will be payable on any Payment Date to the Collateral Manager in accordance with the Priority of Payments if the amount paid to such Included Subclass of Subordinated Securities has been sufficient for the holders of such Included Subclass of Subordinated Securities to have received an annualized internal rate of return (calculated on the basis of a 360-day year consisting of twelve 30-day months) of at least 12.0% on a deemed invested amount of $1,000 per Subordinated Security (the "Specified Internal Rate of Return") for the period from the Closing Date to such Payment Date. The Incentive Collateral Management Fee with respect to each Excluded Subclass, if any, will be payable on any Payment Date to the Collateral Manager in accordance with the Priority of Payments even if the Holders of such Excluded Subclass have not received an Internal Rate of Return of at least 12.0%.

The Incentive Collateral Management Fee, the Senior Collateral Management Fee, and the Subordinated Collateral Management Fee are collectively referred to herein as the "Collateral Management Fees".

One or more funds managed by Greywolf will commit to purchase up to 100% of the initial notional amount of the Subordinated Securities. For so long as Greywolf is the Collateral Manager and any funds managed by Greywolf continue to hold any Subordinated Securities, any Collateral Management Fees otherwise payable to the Collateral Manager hereunder shall be paid by the Issuer in the following order: (i) first, to such funds managed by Greywolf (on a pro rata basis among such funds), in an amount equal to the product of (x) such Collateral Management Fees and (y) a fraction the numerator of which is the notional amount of the Subordinated Securities held by such funds managed by Greywolf and the denominator of which is the aggregate notional amount of all the Subordinated Securities and (ii) second, the remainder, if any, to Greywolf.

Any Subordinated Collateral Management Fees to which the Collateral Manager is entitled on any Payment Date that are not paid to the Collateral Manager, whether as a result of proceeds of the Collateral being insufficient therefor in accordance with the Priority of Payments or because the Collateral Manager, in its sole discretion, has instructed the Trustee that it wishes to defer payment of the fees until a subsequent Payment Date, will accrue interest at a rate of LIBOR for the applicable period plus 3.00%, and the fees, together with any interest accrued on them, will be payable on the next Payment Date specified by the Collateral Manager on which funds are available therefor in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

The Collateral Manager, in its sole discretion, may, from time to time, waive all or any portion of the Collateral Management Fees, and may defer all or any portion of the Collateral Management Fees. Any deferred Collateral Management Fees will become payable on the next Payment Date (and, if not paid on such Payment Date, on one or more subsequent Payment Dates) in the same manner and priority as their original characterization would have required unless deferred again.

The Collateral Management Fees will be payable from Interest Proceeds, and, if Interest Proceeds are not sufficient, from Principal Proceeds, in accordance with the Priority of Payments. If on any Payment Date there are insufficient funds to pay the Senior Collateral Management Fee then due in full, the amount not so paid shall be deferred and shall be payable on the first succeeding Payment Date on which any funds are available therefor, as provided in the Indenture.

The Co-Issued Notes are obligations only of the Issuers and the Class E Notes and the Subordinated Securities are obligations only of the Issuer, and not of the Trustee, the Collateral Manager, the Initial Purchaser, the Administrator, the Share Trustee or any directors or officers of the Issuers or any of their respective Affiliates.

At the Closing Date, the authorized share capital of the Issuer will consist of 50,000 ordinary shares, $1.00 par value per share (the "Issuer Ordinary Shares"), 250 of which shares have been issued. The

The Co-Issuer has agreed to co-issue the Co-Issued Notes as an accommodation to the Issuer, and the Co-Issuer is receiving no remuneration for so acting. Because the Co-Issuer has no assets, and is not permitted to have any assets, Securityholders will not be able to exercise their rights with respect to the Co-Issued Notes against any assets of the Co-Issuer. Holders of the Co-Issued Notes must rely on the Collateral held by the Issuer and pledged to the Trustee for the benefit of the Holders of the Co-Issued Notes (and certain service providers) for payment on their respective Co-Issued Notes, in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

Business

The Issuers will not undertake any substantial business other than the issuance of the Co-Issued Notes, entering and performing their respectiva obligations under certain transaction documents and, in the case of the Issuer, the issuance of the Class E Notes, the Subordinated Securities and the Issuer Ordinary Shares, the acquisition and management of the Collateral and, in each case, other related transactions. Neither of the Issuers will have any subsidiaries.

In addition, pursuant to the terms of the Collateral Administration Agreement, the Issuer will retain the Collateral Administrator to compile certain reports with respect to the Collateral Obligations. The compensation paid by the Issuer for such services will be in addition to the fees paid to the Collateral Manager and will be treated as an expense of the Issuer and will be subject to the Priority of Payments.

THE LOAN MARKET

A substantial portion, by principal amount, of the Collateral Obligations is expected to consist of corporate loans rated below investment grade extended to U.S. and other borrowers located in countries whose long-term debt rating with respect to Dollar denominated obligations backed by the full faith and credit (or the local equivalent thereof) of such country or its central bank is at least "Aa2" by Moody's and "AA" by S&P. Such loans are typically negotiated by one or more commercial banks or other financial institutions and syndicated among a group of commercial banks and financial institutions.

Corporate loans are typically at the most senior level of the capital structure, and are often secured by specific collateral, including but not limited to, trademarks, patents, accounts receivable, inventory, equipment, buildings, real estate, franchises and common and preferred stock of the obligor and its subsidiaries. Some loans may be unsecured, subordinated to other obligations of the obligor and may have greater credit and liquidity risk than is typically associated with senior secured corporate loans. The corporate loans expected to secure the Secured Notes are of a type generally incurred by the borrowers thereunder in connection with a highly leveraged transaction, often to finance internal growth, acquisitions, mergers, stock purchases, or for other reasons. As a result of the additional debt incurred by the borrower in the course of the transactions, the borrower's creditworthiness is often judged by the rating agencies to be below investment grade. In order to induce the banks and institutional investors to invest in a borrower's loan facility, and to offer a favorable interest rate, the borrower often provides the banks and institutional investors with extensive information about its business, which is not generally available to the public. Because of the provision of confidential information, the unique and customized nature of a loan agreement, and the private syndication of the loan, loans are not as easily purchased or sold as a publicly traded security, and historically the trading volume in the loan market has been small relative to the high yield bond market.

Corporate loans often provide for restrictive covenants designed to limit the activities of the borrower in an effort to protect the right of lenders to receive timely payments of interest on and repayment of principal of the loans. Such covenants may include restrictions on dividend payments, specific mandatory minimum financial ratios, limits on total debt and other financial tests. A breach of covenant (after giving effect to any cure period) in a loan which is not waived by the lending syndicate normally is an event of acceleration which allows the syndicate to demand immediate repayment in full of the outstanding loan. Loans usually have shorter terms than more junior obligations and may require mandatory prepayments from excess cash flow, asset dispositions and offerings of debt and/or equity securities.

A majority of loans bear interest based on a floating rate index, e.g., LIBOR, the certificate of deposit rate, a prime or base rate (each as defined in the applicable loan agreement) or other index, which may reset daily (as most prime or base rate indices do) or offer the borrower a choice of one, two, three, six, nine or twelve month interest and rate reset periods. The purchaser of a loan may receive certain syndication or participation fees in connection with its purchase. Other fees payable in respect of a loan, which are separate from interest payments on such loan, may include facility, commitment, amendment and prepayment fees.

Purchasers of loans are predominantly investment and commercial banks, who have applied their experience in high yield securities to the commercial and industrial loan market, acting as both principal and broker. The range of investors for loans has broadened to include money managers, insurance companies, arbitrageurs, bankruptcy investors and mutual funds seeking increased potential total returns and portfolio managers of trusts or special purpose companies issuing collateralized bond and loan obligations. As secondary market trading volumes increase, new loans are frequently adopting more standardized documentation to facilitate loan trading, which should improve market liquidity. There can be no assurance, however, that future levels of supply and demand in loan trading will provide the degree of liquidity that currently exists in the market.

INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS

General

The following summary describes the principal U.S. federal income tax and Cayman Islands tax consequences of the purchase, ownership and disposition of the Securities to investors that acquire the Securities at original issuance and, in the case of the Secured Notes, for an amount equal to the Issue Price of the relevant Class of Secured Notes (for purposes of this section, with respect to each Class of Secured Notes, the first price at which a substantial amount of Secured Notes of such Class are sold to the public (excluding bond houses, brokers, underwriters, placement agents, and wholesalers) is referred to herein as the "Issue Price"). This summary does not purport to be a comprehensive description of all the tax considerations that may be relevant to a particular investor's decision to purchase the Securities. In addition, this summary does not describe any tax consequences arising under the laws of any state, locality or taxing jurisdiction other than the U.S. federal income tax laws and Cayman Islands tax laws. In general, the summary assumes that a beneficial owner of a Security holds the Security as a capital asset and not as part of a hedge, straddle or conversion transaction, within the meaning of Section 1258 of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code").

The advice below was not written and is not intended to be used and cannot be used by any taxpayer for purposes of avoiding United States federal income tax penalties that may be imposed. The advice is written to support the promotion or marketing of the transaction. Each taxpayer should seek advice based on the taxpayer's particular circumstances from an independent tax advisor.

The foregoing disclaimer is provided to satisfy obligations under Circular 230 governing standards of practice before the Internal Revenue Service.

This summary is based on the U.S. and Cayman Islands tax laws, regulations (final, temporary and proposed), administrative rulings and practice and judicial decisions in effect or available on the date of this Offering Circular. All of the foregoing are subject to change or differing interpretation at any time, which change or interpretation may apply retroactively and could affect the continued validity of this summary.

This summary is included herein for general information only, and there can be no assurance that the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") will take a similar view of the U.S. federal income tax consequences of an investment in the Securities as described herein. ACCORDINGLY, PROSPECTIVE

PURCHASERS OF THE SECURITIES SHOULD CONSULT THEIR OWN TAX ADVISORS AS TO U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX AND CAYMAN ISLANDS TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE PURCHASE, OWNERSHIP AND DISPOSITION OF THE SECURITIES, AND THE POSSIBLE APPLICATION OF STATE, LOCAL, FOREIGN OR OTHER TAX LAWS.

As used in this section, the term "U.S. Holder" includes a beneficial owner of a Security that is, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, a citizen or individual resident of the United States of America, an entity treated for United States federal income tax purposes as a corporation or a partnership created or organized in or under the laws of the United States of America or any state thereof or the District of Columbia, an estate the income of which is includable in gross income for U.S. federal income tax purposes regardless of its source, or a trust if, in general, a court within the United States of America is able to exercise primary supervision over its administration and one or more U.S. persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of such trust and certain eligible trusts that have elected to be treated as U.S. persons. This summary also does not address the rules applicable to certain types of investors that are subject to special U.S. federal income tax rules which are not discussed herein, including but not limited to, dealers in securities or currencies, traders in securities, financial institutions, U.S. expatriates, tax-exempt entities (except with respect to specific issues discussed herein), charitable remainder trusts and their beneficiaries, persons whose functional currency is not the Dollar, insurance companies, persons that own (directly or indirectly) equity interests in beneficial owners of Securities and subsequent purchasers of the Securities.

For U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Issuer, and not the Co-Issuer, will be treated as the issuer of the Securities.

Tax Treatment of the Issuer

United States Federal Income Tax Consequences. The Code and the U.S. Department of Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder ("Treasury Regulations") provide a specific exemption from net income-based U.S. federal income tax to non-U.S. corporations that restrict their activities in the United States to trading in stocks and securities (and any other activity closely related thereto) for their own account, whether such trading (or such other activity) is conducted by the corporation or its employees or through a resident broker, commission agent, custodian or other agent. This particular exemption does not apply to non-U.S. corporations that are engaged in activities in the United States other than trading in stocks and securities (and any other activity closely related thereto) for their own accounts or that are dealers in stocks and securities.

The Issuer intends to rely on the above exemption and does not intend to operate so as to be subject to U.S. federal income taxes on its net income. In this regard, on the Closing Date, the Issuer will receive an opinion from McKee Nelson LLP, special U.S. tax counsel to the Issuers ("Special U.S. Tax Counsel") to the effect that, although no activity closely comparable to that contemplated by the Issuer has been the subject of any Treasury Regulation, administrative ruling or judicial decision, under current law and assuming compliance with the Issuer's Amended and Restated Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Issuer, the Indenture, the Collateral Management Agreement, and other related documents (the "Documents") by all parties thereto, the Issuer's permitted activities will not cause it to be engaged in a trade or business in the United States under the Code and, consequently, the Issuer will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net income basis (or the branch profits tax described below). The opinion of Special U.S. Tax Counsel will be based on the Code, the Treasury Regulations (final, temporary and proposed) thereunder, the existing authorities, and Special U.S. Tax Counsel's interpretation thereof and judgment concerning their application to the Issuer's permitted activities, and on certain factual assumptions and representations as to the Issuer's permitted activities. The Issuer intends to conduct its affairs in accordance with the Documents and such assumptions and representations, and the remainder of this summary assumes such result. In addition, in complying with the Documents and such assumptions and representations, the Issuer and the Collateral Manager are entitled to rely upon the advice and/or opinions of their selected counsel, and the opinion of Special U.S. Tax Counsel will assume that any such advice and/or opinions are correct and complete. However, the opinion of Special U.S. Tax Counsel and any such other advice or opinions are not binding on the IRS or the courts, and no ruling will be sought from the IRS regarding this, or any other, aspect of the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Issuer. Accordingly, in the absence of authority on point, the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Issuer is not entirely free from doubt, and there can be no assurance that positions contrary to those stated in the opinion of Special U.S. Tax Counsel or any such other advice or opinions may not be asserted successfully by the IRS.

If, notwithstanding the Issuer's intention and the aforementioned opinion of Special U.S. Tax Counsel or any such other advice or opinions, it were nonetheless determined that the Issuer were engaged in a trade or business in the United States (as defined in the Code), and the Issuer had taxable income that was effectively connected with such U.S. trade or business, the Issuer would be subject under the Code to the regular U.S. corporate income tax on such effectively connected taxable income (and possibly to the 30% branch profits tax as well). The imposition of such taxes would materially affect the Issuer's financial ability to make payments with respect to the Securities and could materially affect the yield of the Secured Notes and the return on the Subordinated Securities.

Legislation recently proposed in the U.S. Senate would, for tax years beginning at least two years after its enactment, tax a corporation as a U.S. corporation if the equity of that corporation is regularly traded on an established securities market and the management and control of the corporation occurs primarily within the United States. It is unknown whether this proposal will be enacted in its current form and, whether if enacted, the Issuer would be subject to its provisions. However, upon enactment of this or similar legislation, the Issuer will be permitted, with an opinion of counsel, to take such action as it deems advisable to prevent the Issuer from being subject to such legislation. These actions could include removing some classes of Securities from listing on the Irish Stock Exchange.

With respect to Cayman Islands taxation, see the discussion below in "—Cayman Islands Tax Considerations".

United States Withholding Taxes. Although, based on the foregoing, the Issuer is not expected to be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net income basis, income derived by the Issuer may be subject to withholding taxes imposed by the United States or other countries. Generally, U.S. source interest income received by a foreign corporation not engaged in a trade or business within the United States is subject to U.S. withholding tax at the rate of 30% of the amount thereof. The Code provides an exemption (the "portfolio interest exemption") from such withholding tax for interest paid with respect to certain debt obligations issued after July 18, 1984, unless the interest constitutes a certain type of contingent interest or is paid to a 10% shareholder of the payor, to a controlled foreign corporation related to the payor, or to a bank with respect to a loan entered into in the ordinary course of its business. In this regard, the Issuer is permitted to acquire a particular Collateral Obligation only if the payments thereon are exempt from U.S. withholding taxes at the time of purchase or commitment to purchase (with the exception of commitment fees associated with Collateral Obligations constituting Revolving Credit Facilities or Delayed Funding Term Loans) or the obligor is required to make "gross-up" payments that offset fully any such tax on any such payments. Any commitment fees associated with Collateral Obligations constituting Revolving Credit Facilities or Delayed Funding Term Loans and any lending fees received under a Securities Lending Agreement may be subject to U.S. withholding tax, which would reduce the Issuer's net income from such activities. However, the Issuer does not anticipate that it will otherwise derive material amounts of any other items of income that would be subject to U.S. withholding taxes. Accordingly, assuming compliance with the foregoing restrictions and subject to the foregoing qualifications, income derived by the Issuer will be free of or fully "grossed up" for any material amount of U.S. withholding tax. It is possible that, as a result of a workout of a defaulted Collateral Debt Obligation, the Issuer could receive an asset subject to withholding. However, there can be no assurance that income derived by the Issuer will not generally become subject to U.S. withholding tax as a result of a change in U.S. tax law or administrative practice, procedure, or interpretations thereof. See "Risk Factors – Changes in Tax Law; No Gross-Up". Any change in U.S. tax law or administrative practice, procedure, or interpretations thereof resulting in the income of the Issuer becoming subject to U.S. withholding taxes could constitute a Withholding Tax Event. See "Description of the Securities—Optional Redemption". It is also anticipated that the Issuer will acquire Collateral Obligations that consist of obligations of non-U.S. issuers. In this regard, the Issuer may only acquire a particular Collateral Obligation if either the payments thereon are not subject to foreign withholding tax (with the exception of commitment fees associated with Collateral Obligations constituting Revolving Credit Facilities and Delayed Funding Term Loans) or the obligor of the Collateral Obligation is required to make "gross-up" payments.

Prospective investors should be aware that, under certain Treasury Regulations, the IRS may disregard the participation of an intermediary in a "conduit" financing arrangement and the conclusions reached in the immediately preceding paragraph assume that Affected Banks will not, as a result of holding Securities, influence the selection of Collateral Obligations and that such Treasury Regulations do not apply. Those Treasury Regulations could require withholding of U.S. federal income tax from payments to the Issuer of interest on the Collateral Obligations. In order to prevent "conduit" classification, each holder and beneficial owner of a Class E Note or Subordinated Security that (i) is not a "United States person" (as defined in Section 7701(a)(30) of the Code) and (ii) is acquiring, directly or in conjunction with affiliates, more than 33 1/3% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of any such Class of Securities will be deemed to make a representation to the effect that it is not an Affected Bank. "Affected Bank" means a "bank" for purposes of Section 881 of the Code or an entity affiliated with such a bank that neither (x) meets the definition of a U.S. Holder nor (y) is entitled to the benefits of an income tax treaty with the United States under which withholding taxes on interest payments made by obligors resident in the United States to such bank are reduced to 0%.

Tax Treatment of U.S. Holders of the Secured Notes

Status of the Secured Notes. On the Closing Date, the Issuer will receive an opinion from Special U.S. Tax Counsel to the effect that the Co-Issued Notes will be, and the Class E Notes should be, treated as debt for U.S. federal income tax purposes when issued, and this summary assumes such treatment. Further, the Issuer and each U.S. Holder and beneficial owner of a Secured Note, by acquiring such Secured Note or an interest in such Secured Note, will agree to treat such Secured Note as debt for U.S. federal income tax purposes, except (x) as otherwise required by applicable law, (y) to the extent a Noteholder makes a protective QEF election (as described below under "—Investment in a Passive Foreign Investment Company"), or (z) to the extent that the holder files certain United States tax information returns required of only certain equity owners with respect to various reporting requirements under the Code (as described below under "—Certain Reporting Requirements" and "—Tax Return Disclosure and Investor List Requirements"). The determination of whether a Secured Note will be treated as debt for United States federal income tax purposes is based on the applicable law and facts and circumstances existing at the time the Secured Note is issued. However, the opinion of Special U.S. Tax Counsel is based on current law and certain representations and assumptions and is not binding on the IRS or the courts, and no ruling will be sought from the IRS regarding this, or any other, aspect of the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Secured Notes. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the IRS will not contend, and that a court will not ultimately hold, that one or more Classes of the Secured Notes are properly treated as equity in the Issuer for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Recharacterization of a Class of Secured Notes, particularly the Class E Notes because of their place in the capital structure, may be more likely if a single investor or a group of investors that holds all of the Subordinated Securities also holds all of the more senior Class of Secured Notes in the same proportion as the Subordinated Securities are held. If a Class of the Secured Notes were treated as equity in, rather than debt of, the Issuer for U.S. federal income tax purposes, U.S. Holders of Secured Notes of such Class would be subject to taxation under rules substantially the same as those set forth below under "—Tax Treatment of U.S. Holders of Subordinated Securities" which could cause adverse tax consequences for such U.S. Holders upon the sale, exchange, redemption, retirement or other taxable disposition of, or the receipt of certain types of distributions on, such Secured Notes.

Interest or Discount on the Secured Notes. Subject to the discussion below, U.S. Holders of each Class of Secured Notes generally will include in gross income payments of stated interest received on such Class of Secured Notes, in accordance with their usual method of accounting for U.S. federal income tax purposes as ordinary interest income from sources outside the United States.

If the Issue Price of a Class of Secured Notes is less than the "stated redemption price at maturity" of such Class of Secured Notes by more than a de minimis amount, U.S. Holders of Secured Notes of such Class will be considered to have purchased such Secured Notes with original issue discount ("OID"). The stated redemption price at maturity of a Class of Secured Notes will be the sum of all payments to be received on Secured Notes of such Class, other than payments of "qualified stated interest" (i.e., generally, stated interest which is unconditionally payable in money at least annually during the entire term of a debt instrument; interest is unconditionally payable only if reasonable legal remedies exist to compel timely payment or the debt instrument otherwise provides terms and conditions that make the likelihood of late payment or nonpayment a remote contingency). Prospective U.S. Holders of the Class C Notes, the Class D Notes or the Class E Notes should note that, because interest on these Secured Notes can be deferred, the Issuer intends to treat interest on these Classes as not unconditionally payable in money on each Payment Date (and, therefore, not "qualified stated interest"), and as a result include all of the stated interest payments on these Secured Notes in the stated redemption prices at maturity of these Secured Notes, and must therefore be accrued by U.S. Holders pursuant to the OID rules described below. Such OID inclusion on such Secured Notes generally will be treated as income from sources outside the United States.

A U.S. Holder of such Class of Secured Notes issued with OID will be required to accrue and include in gross income the sum of the "daily portions" of total OID on such Secured Notes for each day during the taxable year on which the U.S. Holder held such Secured Notes, generally under a constant yield method, regardless of such U.S. Holder's usual method of accounting for U.S. federal income tax purposes. If a Secured Note is issued with only a de minimis amount of OID, such discount is not subject to accrual under the OID rules and should be included in gross income proportionately as stated principal payments are received. Such de minimis OID should be treated as gain from the sale or exchange of property and may be eligible to be treated as a capital gain if the Secured Note is a capital asset in the hands of the U.S. Holder.

In the case of such Class of Secured Notes that provides for a floating rate of interest, the amount of OID to be accrued over the term of such Secured Notes will be based initially on the assumption that the floating rate in effect for the first accrual period of such Secured Notes will remain constant throughout their term. To the extent such rate varies with respect to any accrual period, such variation will be reflected in an increase or decrease of the amount of OID accrued for such period. Under the foregoing method, U.S. Holders of the Class C Notes, the Class D Notes or the Class E Notes may be required to include in gross income increasingly greater amounts of OID and may be required to include OID in advance of the receipt of cash attributable to such income.

The Issuer intends to treat each Class of Secured Notes issued with more than de minimis OID as being subject to the rules prescribed by Section 1272(a)(6) of the Code using an assumption as to the prepayments on such Class of Secured Notes, as discussed below under "—OID on the Secured Notes". A prepayment assumption applies to debt instruments if payments under such debt instruments may be accelerated by reason of prepayments of other obligations securing such debt instruments.

OID on the Secured Notes. The following discussion will apply to a Class of Secured Notes if it is issued with more than de minimis OID. Because principal repayments on such Secured Notes are subject to acceleration, the method by which OID on such Secured Notes is required to be accrued is uncertain. For purposes of accruing OID on these Secured Notes under such circumstances, the Issuer intends to treat these Secured Notes as being subject to the "prepayment assumption method". These rules require that the amount and rate of accrual of OID be calculated based on a prepayment assumption and the anticipated reinvestment rate, if any, relating to the Secured Notes and prescribe a method for adjusting the amount and rate of accrual of the discount where the actual prepayment rate differs from the prepayment assumption. Under the Code, the prepayment assumption must be determined in the manner prescribed by the Treasury Regulations, which have not yet been issued. The legislative history provides, however, that Congress intended the Treasury Regulations to require that the prepayment assumption be the prepayment assumption that is used in determining the initial offering price of the Secured Notes. Solely for purposes of determining OID, market discount and bond premium, the Issuer intends to assume that the Collateral Obligations will either not prepay or any prepayments will be reinvested. No representation is made that the Secured Notes will prepay at the prepayment assumption or at any other rate.

It is possible the IRS could contend that another method of accruing OID with respect to these Secured Notes is appropriate and, if successful, could apply rules that may result in adverse or more favorable U.S. federal income tax consequences to a U.S. Holder of such Secured Notes. One such alternative method of accruing OID may be the noncontingent bond method that governs contingent payment debt obligations. Such method could affect the amount and character of the gain or loss recognized upon a disposition of a Secured Note.

A purchaser of a Secured Note issued with OID who purchases such Secured Note at a price other than the adjusted Issue Price but at a cost less than the remaining stated redemption price at maturity will also be required to include in gross income the sum of the daily portions of OID on such Secured Note. In computing the daily portions of OID for a purchaser of a Secured Note that purchases at a price higher than the adjusted issue price, but less than the stated redemption price at maturity, however, the daily portion is reduced by the amount that would be the daily portion for the day (computed in accordance with the rules set forth above) multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the amount, if any, by which the price paid by the U.S. holder for such Secured Note exceeds the following amount:

- The sum of the Issue Price plus the aggregate amount of OID that would have been includible in the gross income of an original U.S. Holder (who purchased the Secured Note at the Issue Price), less
- Any prior payments included in the stated redemption price at maturity, and the denominator of which is the sum of the daily portions for such Secured Note for all days beginning on the date after the purchase date and ending on the maturity date computed under the prepayment assumption.

As a result of the complexity of the OID rules, each U.S. Holder of Secured Notes should consult its own tax advisor regarding the impact of the OID rules on its investment in such Secured Notes.

Premium. A U.S. Holder who pays a premium (an amount in excess of the Secured Note's stated redemption price at maturity) for a Secured Note may elect to amortize such premium under a constant yield method over the life of such Secured Note. The amortizable amount for any accrual period would offset the amount of OID that must be included in the gross income of a U.S. Holder in such accrual period. The U.S. Holder's basis in such Secured Note would be reduced by the amount of amortization. It is not clear whether the prepayment assumption would be taken into account in determining the life of such Secured Note for this purpose.

Market Discount. If a U.S. Holder acquires a Secured Note at a discount to the adjusted issue price of the Secured Note that is greater than a statutorily defined de minimis amount, such discount is treated as market discount. Absent an election to accrue into income currently, the amount of accrued market discount on a Secured Note is included in income as ordinary income when principal payments are received or the U.S. Holder disposes of the Secured Note. Market discount is included ratably unless a U.S. Holder elects to use a constant yield method for accrual. For this purpose, the term "ratably" may be based on the term of the Secured Note, or a U.S. Holder may be permitted to accrue market discount in proportion to interest on Secured Notes issued without OID or in proportion to OID on Secured Notes issued with OID.

Election to Treat All Interest as OID. The OID rules permit a U.S. Holder of a Secured Note to elect to accrue all interest, discount (including de minimis market or original issue discount) and premium in income as interest, based on a constant yield method. If an election to treat all interest as OID were to be made with respect to a Secured Note with market discount, the U.S. Holder of such Secured Note would be deemed to have made an election to include in income currently market discount with respect to all other debt instruments having market discount that such U.S. Holder acquires during the year of the election or thereafter. Similarly, a U.S. Holder that makes this election for a Secured Note that is acquired at a premium will be deemed to have made an election to amortize bond premium with respect to all debt instruments having amortizable bond premium that such U.S. Holder owns or acquires. The election to accrue interest, discount and premium on a constant yield method with respect to a Secured Note cannot be revoked without the consent of the IRS.

Disposition of the Secured Notes. In general, a U.S. Holder of a Secured Note initially will have a basis in such Secured Note equal to the cost of such Secured Note to such U.S. Holder, (i) increased by any amount includable in income by such U.S. Holder as OID (or accrued market discount such U.S. Holder previously included in income) with respect to such Secured Note, and (ii) reduced by amortized premium and by any payments on such Secured Note, other than payments of qualified stated interest on such Secured Note. Upon a sale, exchange, redemption, retirement or other taxable disposition of a Secured

Note, a U.S. Holder will generally recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between the amount realized on the disposition (other than amounts attributable to accrued qualified stated interest on such Secured Note, which will be taxable as described above) and the U.S. Holder's tax basis in such Secured Note. Except to the extent of accrued interest or market discount not previously included in income, gain or loss from the disposition of a Secured Note generally will be long term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder held the Secured Note for more than one year at the time of disposition, provided that such Secured Note is held as a "capital asset" (generally, property held for investment) within the meaning of Section 1221 of the Code.

In certain circumstances, U.S. Holders that are individuals may be entitled to preferential treatment for net long-term capital gains; however, the ability of U.S. Holders to offset capital losses against ordinary income is limited.

Gain recognized by a U.S. Holder on the sale, exchange, redemption, retirement or other taxable disposition of a Secured Note generally will be treated as from sources within the United States and loss so recognized generally will offset income from sources in the United States.

Alternative Characterization of the Secured Notes. Notwithstanding special U.S. tax counsel's opinion, U.S. Holders should recognize that there is some uncertainty regarding the appropriate classification of instruments such as the Secured Notes. It is possible, for example, that the IRS may contend that a Class of Secured Notes should be treated as equity interests (or as part debt, part equity) in the Issuer. Such a recharacterization might result in material adverse U.S. federal income tax consequences to U.S. Holders. If U.S. Holders of a Class of the Secured Notes were treated as owning equity interests in the Issuer, the U.S. federal income tax consequences to U.S. Holders of such recharacterized Secured Notes would be as described under "—Tax Treatment of U.S. Holders of Subordinated Notes", "—Certain Reporting Requirements" and "—Tax Return Disclosure and Investor List Requirements." In order to avoid the application of the PFIC rules, each U.S. Holder of a Note should consider making a qualified electing fund election provided in Section 1295 of the Code on a "protective" basis (although such protective election may not be respected by the IRS because current regulations do not specifically authorize that particular election). See "—Investment in a Passive Foreign Investment Company. Further, U.S. Holders of any Class of Secured Notes that may be recharacterized as equity in the Issuer should consult with their own tax advisors with respect to whether, if they owned equity in the Issuer, they would be required to file information returns in accordance with sections 6038, 6038B, and 6046 of the Code (and, if so, whether they should file such returns on a protective basis

Tax Treatment of U.S. Holders of Subordinated Securities

Although not denominated as equity, based on the capital structure of the Issuer and the terms of the Subordinated Securities, it is likely the Subordinated Securities will be treated as equity for United States federal income tax purposes. The following discussion is based on the Subordinated Securities being treated as equity of the Issuer.

Investment in a Passive Foreign Investment Company. The Issuer will constitute a "passive foreign investment company" ("PFIC"). Accordingly, U.S. Holders of Subordinated Securities (other than certain U.S. Holders that are subject to the rules pertaining to a "controlled foreign corporation", described below) will be considered U.S. shareholders in a PFIC and will be required to file annual information returns on IRS Form 8621 with their U.S. federal income tax returns. In general, a U.S. Holder of a PFIC may desire to make an election to treat the Issuer as a "qualified electing fund" ("QEF") with respect to such U.S. Holder. Generally, a QEF election should be made with the filing of IRS Form 8621 with a U.S. Holder's federal income tax return for the first taxable year for which it held Subordinated Securities. If a timely QEF election is made for the Issuer, an electing U.S. Holder generally will be required in each taxable year to include in gross income (i) as ordinary income, such holder's pro rata share of the Issuer's ordinary earnings and (ii) as long term capital gain, such holder's pro rata share of the Issuer's net capital gain, whether or not distributed. A U.S. Holder will not be eligible for the preferential income tax rate on "qualified dividend income" (as defined in the Code) or the dividends received deduction with respect to any such income or gain. In addition, any losses of the Issuer in a taxable year will not be available to such U.S. Holder and may not be carried back or forward in computing the Issuer's ordinary earnings and net capital gain in other taxable years. An amount included in an electing U.S. Holder's gross income should be treated as income from sources outside the United States for U.S. foreign tax credit limitation purposes. However, if U.S. Holders collectively own (directly or constructively) 50% or more (measured by vote or value) of the Subordinated Securities, such amount will be treated as income from sources within the United States for such purposes to the extent that such amount is attributable to income of the Issuer from sources within the United States. If applicable to a U.S. Holder of Subordinated Securities, the rules pertaining to a "controlled foreign corporation", discussed below, generally override those pertaining to a PFIC with respect to which a QEF election is in effect.

In certain cases in which a QEF does not distribute all of its earnings in a taxable year, U.S. shareholders may also be permitted to elect to defer payment of some or all of the taxes on the QEF's income subject to an interest charge on the deferred amount. In this respect, prospective purchasers of Subordinated Securities should be aware that it is possible that the Collateral Obligations may be purchased by the Issuer with substantial OID, the cash payment of which may be deferred, perhaps for a substantial period of time, and the Issuer may use interest and other income from the Collateral Obligations to purchase additional Collateral Obligations or to retire Securities. As a result, the Issuer may have in any given year substantial amounts of earnings for U.S. federal income tax purposes that are not distributed on the Subordinated Securities. Thus, absent an election to defer payment of taxes, U.S. Holders that make a QEF election with respect to the Issuer may owe tax on significant "phantom" income.

In addition, it should be noted that if the Issuer invests in obligations that are not in registered form, a U.S. Holder making a QEF election (a) may not be permitted to take a deduction for any loss attributable to such obligations when calculating its share of the Issuer's earnings and (b) may be required to treat income attributable to such obligations as ordinary income even though the income would otherwise constitute capital gains. It is possible that some portion of the investments of the Issuer will constitute obligations that are not in registered form.

The Issuer will provide, upon request, all information and documentation that a U.S. Holder making a QEF election is required to obtain for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

A U.S. Holder of Subordinated Securities (other than certain U.S. Holders that are subject to the rules pertaining to a "controlled foreign corporation", described below) that does not make a timely QEF election will be required to report any gain on disposition (including gain recognized upon a redemption) of any Subordinated Securities as if it were an excess distribution, rather than capital gain, and to compute the tax liability on such gain and any excess distribution received with respect to the Subordinated Securities as if such items had been earned ratably over each day in the U.S. Holder's holding period (or a certain portion thereof) for the Subordinated Securities. The U.S. Holder will be subject to tax on such items at the highest ordinary income tax rate for each taxable year, other than the current year of the U.S. Holder, in which the items were treated as having been earned, regardless of the rate otherwise applicable to the U.S. Holder. Further, such U.S. Holder will also be liable for an additional tax equal to interest on the tax liability attributable to income allocated to prior years as if such liability had been due with respect to each such prior year. For purposes of these rules, gifts, exchanges pursuant to corporate reorganizations and use of the Subordinated Securities as security for a loan may be treated as a taxable disposition of such Subordinated Securities. Very generally, an "excess distribution" is the amount by which distributions during a taxable year with respect to a Subordinated Security exceed 125 percent of the average amount of distributions in respect thereof during the three preceding taxable years (or, if shorter, the U.S. Holder's holding period for the Subordinated Security). In addition, a stepped-up basis in the Subordinated Securities upon the death of an individual U.S. Holder may not be available.

In many cases, application of the tax on gain on disposition and receipt of excess distributions will be substantially more onerous than the treatment applicable if a timely QEF election is made. ACCORDINGLY, U.S. HOLDERS OF SUBORDINATED SECURITIES SHOULD CONSIDER CAREFULLY WHETHER TO MAKE A QEF ELECTION WITH RESPECT TO THE SUBORDINATED SECURITIES AND THE CONSEQUENCES OF NOT MAKING SUCH AN ELECTION.

Investment in a Controlled Foreign Corporation. The Issuer may be classified as a controlled foreign corporation ("CFC"). In general, a foreign corporation will be classified as a CFC if more than 50% of the shares of the corporation, measured by reference to combined voting power or value, is owned (actually or constructively) by "U.S. Shareholders". A U.S. Shareholder, for this purpose, is any U.S. person that possesses (actually or constructively) 10% or more of the combined voting power (generally the right to vote for directors of the corporation) of all classes of shares of a corporation. Although the Subordinated Securities do not vote for directors of the Issuer, it is possible that the IRS would assert that the Subordinated Securities are de facto voting securities and that U.S. Holders possessing (actually or constructively) 10% or more of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote (including the Subordinated Securities) are U.S. Shareholders. If this argument were successful and more than 50% of the Subordinated Securities (determined with respect to aggregate value or combined voting power) are owned (actually or constructively) by such U.S. Shareholders, the Issuer would be treated as a CFC.

If the Issuer were treated as a CFC, a U.S. Shareholder of the Issuer would be treated, subject to certain exceptions, as receiving a deemed dividend at the end of the taxable year of the Issuer in an amount equal to that person's pro rata share of the "subpart F income" of the Issuer (which may include any subpart F income of the Issuer during the warehousing of the Collateral Obligations). Such deemed dividend would be treated as income from sources within the United States for U.S. foreign tax credit limitation purposes to the extent that it is attributable to income of the Issuer from sources within the United States. Among other items, and subject to certain exceptions, "subpart F income" includes dividends, interest, annuities, gains from the sale or exchange of shares and securities, certain gains from commodities transactions, certain types of insurance income and income from certain transactions with related parties. It is likely that, if the Issuer were to constitute a CFC, all or most of its income would be subpart F income and, in general, if the Issuer's subpart F income exceeds 70% of its gross income for a taxable year, the entire amount of the Issuer's income for such taxable year will be treated as subpart F income.

If the Issuer were treated as a CFC, a U.S. Shareholder of the Issuer which made a QEF election with respect to the Issuer would be taxable on the subpart F income of the Issuer under rules described in the preceding paragraph and not under the QEF rules previously described. As a result, to the extent subpart F income of the Issuer includes net capital gains, such gains will be treated as ordinary income of the U.S. Shareholder under the CFC rules, notwithstanding the fact that the character of such gains generally would otherwise be preserved under the QEF rules.

Furthermore, if the Issuer were treated as a CFC and a U.S. Holder were treated as a U.S. Shareholder therein, the Issuer would not be treated as a PFIC or a QEF with respect to such U.S. Holder for the period during which the Issuer remained a CFC and such U.S. Holder remained a U.S. Shareholder therein (the "qualified portion" of the U.S. Holder's holding period for the Subordinated Securities). If the qualified portion of such U.S. Holder's holding period for the Subordinated Securities subsequently ceased (either because the Issuer ceased to be a CFC or the U.S. Holder ceased to be a U.S. Shareholder), then solely for purposes of the PFIC rules, such U.S. Holder's holding period for the Subordinated Securities would be treated as beginning on the first day following the end of such qualified portion, unless the U.S. Holder had owned any Subordinated Securities for any period of time prior to such qualified portion and had not made a QEF election with respect to the Issuer. In that case, the Issuer would again be treated as a PFIC which is not a QEF with respect to such U.S. Holder and the beginning of such U.S. Holder's holding period for the Subordinated Securities would continue to be the date upon which such U.S. Holder acquired the Subordinated Securities, unless the U.S. Holder made an election to recognize gain with respect to the Subordinated Securities and a QEF election with respect to the Issuer.

Indirect Interests in PFICs and CFCs. If the Issuer owns a Collateral Obligation or an Equity Security issued by a non-U.S. corporation that is treated as equity for U.S. federal income tax purposes, U.S. Holders of Subordinated Securities could be treated as owning an indirect equity interest in a PFIC or a CFC and could be subject to certain adverse tax consequences.

In particular, if the Issuer owns equity interests in PFICs ("Lower-Tier PFICs"), a U.S. Holder of Subordinated Securities would be treated as owning directly the U.S. Holder's proportionate amount (by value) of the Issuer's equity interests in the Lower-Tier PFICs. A U.S. Holder's QEF election with respect to the Issuer would not be effective with respect to such Lower-Tier PFICs. However, a U.S. Holder would be able to make QEF elections with respect to such Lower-Tier PFICs if the Lower-Tier PFICs provide certain information and documentation to the Issuer in accordance with applicable Treasury Regulations. However, there can be no assurance that the Issuer would be able to obtain such information and documentation from any Lower-Tier PFIC, and thus there can be no assurance that a U.S. Holder would be able to make or maintain a QEF election with respect to any Lower-Tier PFIC. If a U.S. Holder does not have a QEF election in effect with respect to a Lower-Tier PFIC, as a general matter, the U.S. Holder would be subject to the adverse consequences described above under "—Investment in a Passive Foreign Investment Company" with respect to any excess distributions made by such Lower-Tier PFIC to the Issuer, any gain on the disposition by the Issuer of its equity interest in such Lower-Tier PFIC treated as indirectly realized by such U.S. Holder, and any gain treated as indirectly realized by such U.S. Holder on the disposition of its equity in the Issuer (which may arise even if the U.S. Holder realizes a loss on such disposition). Such amount would not be reduced by expenses or losses of the Issuer, but any income recognized may increase a U.S. Holder's tax basis in its Subordinated Securities. Moreover, if the U.S. Holder has a QEF election in effect with respect to a Lower-Tier PFIC, the U.S. Holder would be required to include in income the U.S. Holder's pro rata share of the Lower-Tier PFIC's ordinary earnings and net capital gain as if the U.S. Holder's indirect equity interest in the Lower-Tier PFIC were directly owned, and it appears that the U.S. Holder would not be permitted to use any losses or other expenses of the Issuer to offset such ordinary earnings and/or net capital gains, but recognition of such income may increase a U.S. Holder's tax basis in its Subordinated Securities.

Accordingly, if any of the Collateral Obligations or Equity Securities are treated as equity interests in a PFIC, such U.S. Holders could experience significant amounts of phantom income with respect to such interests. Other adverse tax consequences may arise for such U.S. Holders that are treated as owning indirect interests in CFCs. U.S. Holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding the tax issues associated with such investments in light of their own individual circumstances.

Distributions on Subordinated Securities. The treatment of actual distributions of cash on the Subordinated Securities, in very general terms, will vary depending on whether a U.S. Holder has made a timely QEF election as described above. See "—Investment in a Passive Foreign Investment Company". If a timely QEF election has been made, distributions should be allocated first to amounts previously taxed pursuant to the QEF election (or pursuant to the CFC rules, if applicable) and to this extent will not be taxable to U.S. Holders. Distributions in excess of amounts previously taxed pursuant to a QEF election (or pursuant to the CFC rules, if applicable) will be treated as dividends (but not eligible for the reduced tax rate applicable to "qualified dividend income") and taxable to U.S. Holders as ordinary income upon receipt to the extent of any remaining amounts of untaxed current and accumulated earnings and profits of the Issuer. Distributions in excess of any current and accumulated earnings and profits will be treated first as a nontaxable reduction to the U.S. Holder's tax basis for the Subordinated Securities to the extent thereof and then as capital gain.

In the event that a U.S. Holder does not make a timely QEF election, then except to the extent that distributions may be attributable to amounts previously taxed pursuant to the CFC rules, some or all of any distributions with respect to the Subordinated Securities may constitute "excess distributions", taxable as previously described. See "—Investment in a Passive Foreign Investment Company". In that event, except to the extent that distributions may be attributable to amounts previously taxed to the U.S. Holder pursuant to the CFC rules or are treated as "excess distributions", distributions on the Subordinated Securities generally would be treated as dividends to the extent paid out of the Issuer's current or accumulated earnings and profits not allocated to any "excess distributions", then as a nontaxable reduction to the U.S. Holder's tax basis for the Subordinated Securities to the extent thereof and then as capital gain. Dividends on the Subordinated Securities would not be "qualified dividend income" and therefore would be taxable to individuals, trusts and estates as ordinary income rather than at the 15% net capital gain rate. Dividends received from a foreign corporation generally will be treated as income from sources outside the United States for U.S. foreign tax credit limitation purposes. However, if U.S. Holders collectively own (directly or constructively) 50% or more (measured by vote or value) of the Subordinated Securities, a percentage of the dividend income equal to the proportion of the Issuer's earnings and profits from sources within the United States generally will be treated as income from sources within the United States for such purposes.

Disposition of the Subordinated Securities. In general, a U.S. Holder of a Subordinated Security will recognize gain or loss upon the sale, exchange, redemption, retirement or other taxable disposition of a Subordinated Security equal to the difference between the amount realized and such U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in the Subordinated Security. Except as discussed below, such gain or loss will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder held the Subordinated Security for more than one year at the time of the disposition. In certain circumstances, U.S. Holders who are individuals may be entitled to preferential treatment for net long-term capital gains; however, the ability of U.S. Holders to offset capital losses against ordinary income is limited. Gain recognized by a U.S. Holder on the sale, exchange, redemption, retirement or other taxable disposition of a Subordinated Security (other than, in the case of a U.S. Holder treated as a "U.S. Shareholder", any such gain characterized as a dividend, as discussed below) generally will be treated as from sources within the United States and loss so recognized generally will offset income from sources within the United States.

Initially, a U.S. Holder's tax basis for a Subordinated Security will equal the amount paid for the Subordinated Security. Such basis will be increased by amounts taxable to such U.S. Holder by virtue of a QEF election, or by virtue of the CFC rules, as applicable, and decreased by actual distributions from the Issuer that are deemed to consist of such previously taxed amounts or are treated as a nontaxable reduction to the U.S. Holder's tax basis for the Subordinated Security (as described above).

If a U.S. Holder does not make a timely QEF election as described above, any gain realized on the sale, exchange, redemption, retirement or other taxable disposition of a Subordinated Security (or any gain deemed to accrue prior to the time a non-timely QEF election is made) will be taxed as ordinary income and subject to an additional tax reflecting a deemed interest charge under the special tax rules described above. See "—Investment in a Passive Foreign Investment Company".

Except for a limited exception applicable to individuals, if the Issuer were treated as a CFC and a U.S. Holder were treated as a "U.S. Shareholder" therein, then any gain realized by such U.S. Holder upon the disposition of Subordinated Securities, other than gain constituting an excess distribution under the PFIC rules, if applicable, would be treated as a dividend to the extent of the U.S. Holder's share of the current or accumulated earnings and profits of the Issuer. In this regard, earnings and profits would not include any amounts previously taxed pursuant to a timely QEF election or pursuant to the CFC rules.

Certain Reporting Requirements

A U.S. Holder of Subordinated Securities that owns (actually or constructively) at least 10% by vote or value of the Issuer (and each officer or director of the Issuer that is a U.S. citizen or resident) may be required to file an information return on IRS Form 5471. A U.S. Holder of Subordinated Securities generally is required to provide additional information regarding the Issuer annually on IRS Form 5471 if it owns (actually or constructively) more than 50% by vote or value of the Issuer. U.S. Holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding whether they are required to file IRS Form 5471.

A U.S. person (including a tax exempt entity) that purchases the Subordinated Securities for cash will be required to file an IRS Form 926 or similar form with the IRS if (a) such person owned, directly or by attribution, immediately after the transfer at least 10% by vote or value of the Issuer or (b) if the transfer, when aggregated with all transfers made by such person (or any related person) within the preceding 12 month period, exceeds $100,000. In the event a U.S. Holder fails to file any such required form, the U.S. Holder could be required to pay a penalty equel to 10% of the gross amount paid for such Subordinated Securities (subject to a maximum penalty of $100,000, except in cases involving intentional disregard). U.S. persons should consult their tax advisors with respect to this or any other reporting requirement which may apply with respect to their acquisition of the Subordinated Securities.

Tax Treatment of Tax-Exempt U.S. Holders of Securities

U.S. Holders which are tax-exempt entities ("Tax-Exempt U.S. Holders") will not be subject to the tax on unrelated business taxable income ("UBTI") with respect to interest and capital gains income derived from an investment in the Co-Issued Notes or the Class E Notes (assuming that the Class E Notes are treated as debt of the Issuer). However, a Tax-Exempt U.S. Holder that also acquires the Subordinated Securities (or, if recharacterized as equity in the Issuer, the Class E Notes) should consider whether interest it receives with respect to the Securities may be treated as UBTI under rules governing certain payments received from controlled entities.

A Tax-Exempt U.S. Holder generally will not be subject to the tax on UBTI with respect to regular distributions or "excess distributions" (defined above under "—Tax Treatment of U.S. Holders of Subordinated Securities—Investment in a Passive Foreign Investment Company") on the Subordinated Securities. A Tax-Exempt U.S. Holder which is not subject to tax on UBTI with respect to "excess distributions" may not make a QEF election. In addition, a Tax-Exempt U.S. Holder which is subject to the rules relating to "controlled foreign corporations" with respect to the Subordinated Securities (or, if recharacterized as equity in the Issuer, the Class E Notes) generally should not be subject to the tax on UBTI with respect to income from such Subordinated Securities (or the Class E Notes).

Notwithstanding the discussion in the preceding two paragraphs, a Tax-Exempt U.S. Holder which incurs "acquisition indebtedness" (as defined in Section 514(c) of the Code) with respect to the Securities may be subject to the tax on UBTI with respect to income from the Securities to the extent that the Securities constitute "debt-financed property" (as defined in Section 514(b) of the Code) of the Tax-Exempt U.S. Holder. A Tax-Exempt U.S. Holder subject to the tax on UBTI with respect to income from the Subordinated Securities (or, if recharacterized as equity in the Issuer, the Class E Notes) will be taxed on "excess distributions" in the manner discussed above under "—Tax Treatment of U.S. Holders of Subordinated Securities—Investment in a Passive Foreign Investment Company". Such a Tax-Exempt U.S. Holder will be permitted, and should consider whether, to make a QEF election with respect to the Issuer as discussed above.

Tax-Exempt U.S. Holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding an investment in the Securities.

Tax Return Disclosure and Investor List Requirements

Any person that files a U.S. federal income tax return or U.S. federal information return and participates in a "reportable transaction" in a taxable year is required to disclose certain information on IRS Form 8886 (or its successor form) attached to such person's U.S. tax return for such taxable year (and also file a copy of such form with the IRS's Office of Tax Shelter Analysis) and to retain certain documents related to the transaction. In addition, under these regulations, under certain circumstances, certain organizers and sellers and other advisors with respect to a "reportable transaction" will be required to file reports with the IRS and maintain lists of participants in the transaction containing identifying information, retain certain documents related to the transaction, and furnish those lists and documents to the IRS upon request. There are significant penalties for failure to comply with these disclosure and list keeping requirements. The definition of "reportable transaction" is highly technical. However, in very general terms, a transaction may be a "reportable transaction" if, among other things, it is offered under conditions of confidentiality or it results in the claiming of a loss or losses for U.S. federal income tax purposes in excess of certain threshold amounts.

In this regard, in order to prevent the investors' purchase of Securities in this offering from being treated as offered under conditions of confidentiality, the Collateral Manager, the Issuer and the holders and beneficial owners of the Securities (and each of their respective employees, representatives or other agents) may disclose to any and all persons, without limitation of any kind, the U.S. tax treatment and U.S. tax structure of the transactions described herein and all materials of any kind (including opinions or other tax analyses) that are provided to them relating to such U.S. tax treatment and U.S. tax structure. For this purpose, the U.S. tax treatment of a transaction is the purported or claimed U.S. tax treatment of the transaction under applicable U.S. federal, state or local tax law, and the U.S. tax structure of a transaction is any fact that may be relevant to understanding the purported or claimed U.S. tax treatment of the transaction under applicable U.S. federal, state or local tax law.

If the Issuer participates in a "reportable transaction", a U.S. Holder of Subordinated Securities that is a "reporting shareholder" of the Issuer will be treated as participating in the transaction and will be subject to the rules described above. Although most of the Issuer's activities generally are not expected to give rise to "reportable transactions", the Issuer nevertheless may participate in certain types of transactions that could be treated as "reportable transactions". A U.S. Holder of Subordinated Securities will be treated as a "reporting shareholder" of the Issuer if (i) such U.S. Holder owns 10% or more of the Subordinated Securities and makes a QEF election with respect to the Issuer or (ii) the Issuer is treated as a CFC and such U.S. Holder is a "U.S. Shareholder" (as defined above) of the Issuer. The Issuer will make reasonable efforts to make such information available.

Prospective investors in the Securities should consult their own tax advisors concerning any possible disclosure obligations under these Treasury Regulations with respect to their ownership or disposition of the Securities in light of their particular circumstances.

Tax Treatment of Non-U.S. Holders of Securities

In general, payments on the Securities to a Holder that is not, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, a U.S. Holder (a "Non-U.S. Holder") and gain realized on the sale, exchange, redemption, retirement or other disposition of the Securities by a Non-U.S. Holder, will not be subject to U.S. federal income or withholding tax, unless (a) such income is effectively connected with a trade or business conducted by such Non-U.S. Holder in the United States, or (b) in the case of gain, such Non-U.S. Holder is a nonresident alien individual who holds the Securities as a capital asset and is present in the United States for more than 182 days in the taxable year of the sale, exchange, redemption, retirement or other disposition of the Securities and certain other conditions are satisfied.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding

Under certain circumstances, the Code requires "information reporting", and may require "backup withholding", with respect to certain payments made on the Securities and the payment of the proceeds from the disposition of the Securities. Backup withholding generally will not apply to corporations, tax-exempt organizations, qualified pension and profit sharing trusts, and individual retirement accounts. Backup withholding will apply to a U.S. Holder if the U.S. Holder fails to provide certain identifying information (such as the U.S. Holder's taxpayer identification number) or otherwise comply with the applicable requirements of the backup withholding rules. The application for exemption from backup withholding for a U.S. Holder is available by providing a properly completed IRS Form W-9.

A Non-U.S. Holder of the Securities generally will not be subject to these information reporting requirements or backup withholding with respect to payments of interest or distributions on the Securities if (a) it certifies to the Trustee its status as a Non-U.S. Holder under penalties of perjury on the appropriate IRS Form W-8, and (b) in the case of a Non-U.S. Holder that is a "nonwithholding foreign partnership", "foreign simple trust" or "foreign grantor trust" as defined in the applicable U.S. Treasury Regulations under the Code, the beneficial owners of such Non-U.S. Holder also certify their status as Non-U.S. Holders under penalties of perjury on the appropriate IRS Form W-8.

The payments of the proceeds from the disposition of a Security by a Non-U.S. Holder to or through the U.S. office of a broker generally will not be subject to information reporting and backup withholding if the Non-U.S. Holder certifies its status as a Non-U.S. Holder (and, if applicable, its beneficial owners also certify their status as Non-U.S. Holders) under penalties of perjury on the appropriate IRS Form W-8, satisfies certain documentary evidence requirements for establishing that it is a Non-U.S. Holder, or otherwise establishes an exemption. The payment of the proceeds from the disposition of a Security by a Non-U.S. Holder to or through a non-U.S. office of a non-U.S. broker will not be subject to backup withholding or information reporting unless the non-U.S. broker has certain specific types of relationships to the United States, in which case the treatment of such payment for such purposes will be as described in the following sentence. The payment of proceeds from the disposition of a Security by a Non-U.S. Holder to or through a non-U.S. office of a U.S. broker or to or through a non-U.S. broker with certain specific types of relationships to the United States generally will not be subject to backup withholding but will be subject to information reporting unless the Non-U.S. Holder certifies its status as a Non-U.S. Holder (and, if applicable, its beneficial owners also certify their status as Non-U.S. Holders) under penalties of perjury or the broker has certain documentary evidence in its files as to the Non-U.S. Holder's foreign status and the broker has no actual knowledge to the contrary.

Backup withholding is not an additional tax and may be credited against the U.S. Holder's or Non-U.S. Holder's U.S. federal income tax liability, and then refunded to the extent of any excess thereon; provided that certain required information is furnished to the IRS. The information reporting requirements may apply regardless of whether withholding is required.

Cayman Islands Tax Considerations

The following discussion of certain Cayman Islands income tax consequences of an investment in the Securities is based on the advice of Maples and Calder as to Cayman Islands law. The discussion is a general summary of present law, which is subject to prospective and retroactive change. It assumes that the Issuer will conduct its affairs in accordance with assumptions made by, and representations made to, counsel. It is not intended as tax advice, does not consider any investor's particular circumstances, and does not consider tax consequences other than those arising under Cayman Islands law.

The following is a general summary of Cayman Islands taxation in relation to the Securities.

Under existing Cayman Islands laws:

(i) payments of principal and interest in respect of, or distributions on, the Securities will not be subject to taxation in the Cayman Islands and no withholding will be required on such payments to any Holder of a Secured Note and gains derived from the sale of Securities will not be subject to Cayman Islands income or corporation tax. The Cayman Islands currently have no income, corporation or capital gains tax and no estate duty, inheritance tax or gift tax; and

(ii) certificates evidencing the Securities, in registered form, to which title is not transferable by delivery, will not attract Cayman Islands stamp duty. However, an instrument transferring title to a Security, if brought to or executed in the Cayman Islands, would be subject to Cayman Islands stamp duty.

The Issuer has been incorporated under the laws of the Cayman Islands as an exempted company with limited liability and, as such, has applied for and expects to obtain an undertaking from the Governor in Cabinet of the Cayman Islands substantially in the following form:

"THE TAX CONCESSIONS LAW
(1999 REVISION)
UNDERTAKING AS TO TAX CONCESSIONS

In accordance with Section 6 of the Tax Concessions Law (1999 Revision), the Governor in Cabinet undertakes with:

Greywolf CLO I, Ltd. ("the Company")

(a) that no Law which is hereafter enacted in the Islands imposing any tax to be levied on profits, income, gains or appreciations shall apply to the Company or its operations; and

(b) in addition, that no tax to be levied on profits, income, gains or appreciations or which is in the nature of estate duty or inheritance tax shall be payable

(i) on or in respect of the shares, debentures or other obligations of the Company; or

(ii) by way of the withholding in whole or in part of any relevant payment as defined in Section 6(3) of the Tax Concessions Law (1999 Revision).

These concessions shall be for a period of TWENTY years from the 29th day of August 2006.

The Cayman Islands does not have an income tax treaty arrangement with the United States or any other country. The Cayman Islands has entered into an information exchange agreement with the United States.

THE PRECEDING DISCUSSION IS ONLY A SUMMARY OF CERTAIN TAX IMPLICATIONS OF AN INVESTMENT IN THE SECURITIES. PROSPECTIVE INVESTORS ARE URGED TO CONSULT WITH THEIR OWN TAX ADVISORS PRIOR TO INVESTING TO DETERMINE THE TAX IMPLICATIONS OF SUCH INVESTMENT IN LIGHT OF EACH SUCH INVESTOR'S PARTICULAR CIRCUMSTANCES.

ERISA CONSIDERATIONS

The advice below was not written and is not intended to be used and cannot be used by any taxpayer for purposes of avoiding United States federal income tax penalties that may be imposed. The advice is written to support the promotion or marketing of the transaction. Each taxpayer should seek advice based on the taxpayer's particular circumstances from an independent tax advisor.

The foregoing disclaimer is provided to satisfy obligations under Circular 230 governing standards of practice before the Internal Revenue Service.

The United States Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA") imposes certain requirements on "employee benefit plans" (as defined in Section 3(3) of, and that are subject to Title I of ERISA), including entities such as collective investment funds and insurance company separate accounts whose underlying assets include the assets of such plans (collectively, "ERISA Plans") and on those persons who are fiduciaries with respect to ERISA Plans. Investments by ERISA Plans are subject to ERISA's general fiduciary requirements, including the requirement of investment prudence and diversification and the requirement that an ERISA Plan's investments be made in accordance with the documents governing the ERISA Plan. The prudence of a particular investment must be determined by the responsible fiduciary of an ERISA Plan by taking into account the ERISA Plan's particular circumstances and all of the facts and circumstances of the investment including, but not limited to, the matters discussed above under "Risk Factors" and the fact that in the future there may be no market in which such fiduciary will be able to sell or otherwise dispose of the Securities.

Section 406 of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code prohibit certain transactions involving the assets of an ERISA Plan (as well as those plans that are not subject to ERISA but which are subject to Section 4975 of the Code, such as individual retirement accounts (together with ERISA Plans, "Plans")) and certain persons (referred to as "parties in interest" or "disqualified persons") having certain relationships to such Plans, unless a statutory or administrative exemption is applicable to the transaction. A party in interest or disqualified person who engages in a prohibited transaction may be subject to excise taxes and other penalties and liabilities under ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code.

Governmental plans, certain church plans and non-U.S. plans, while not subject to the fiduciary responsibility provisions of ERISA or the provisions of Section 4975 of the Code, may nevertheless be subject to state, local or other federal and non-U.S. laws that are substantially similar to the foregoing provisions of ERISA and the Code. Fiduciaries of any such plans should consult with their counsel before purchasing any Securities.

The U.S. Department of Labor has promulgated regulations, 29 C.F.R. Section 2510.3-101 (the "Plan Asset Regulations"), describing what constitutes the assets of a Plan with respect to the Plan's investment in an entity for purposes of certain provisions of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code, including the fiduciary responsibility provisions of Title I of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code. Under the Plan Asset Regulations, if a Plan invests in an "equity interest" of an entity that is neither a "publicly offered security" nor a security issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act, the Plan's assets include both the equity interest and an undivided interest in each of the entity's underlying assets, unless it is established that the entity is an "operating company" or, as further discussed below, that equity participation in the entity by "benefit plan investors" is not "significant".

Prohibited transactions within the meaning of Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code may arise if Securities are acquired with the assets of a Plan with respect to which the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Initial Purchaser, the Trustee, the Collateral Manager, any seller of Collateral Obligations to the Issuer and the Co-Issuer or any of their respective Affiliates, is a party in interest or a disqualified person. Certain exemptions from the prohibited transaction provisions of Section 406 of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code may be applicable, however, depending in part on the type of Plan fiduciary making the decision to acquire a Security and the circumstances under which such decision is made. Included among these exemptions are Prohibited Transaction Class Exemption ("PTCE") 91-38 (relating to investments by bank collective investment funds), PTCE 84-14 (relating to transactions effected by a "qualified professional asset manager"), PTCE 90-1 (relating to investments by insurance company pooled separate accounts), PTCE 95-60 (relating to investments by insurance company general accounts), and PTCE 96-23 (relating to transactions effected by in-house asset managers) ("Investor-Based Exemptions"). There is also a statutory exemption that may be available under Section 408(b)(17) of ERISA and Section 4975(d)(20) of the Code to a party in interest that is a service provider to a Plan investing in the Securities for adequate consideration, provided such service provider is not (i) the fiduciary with respect to the Plan's assets used to acquire the Securities or an affiliate of such fiduciary or (ii) an affiliate of the employer sponsoring the Plan (the "Service Provider Exemption"). Adequate consideration means fair market as determined in good faith by the Plan fiduciary pursuant to regulations to be promulgated by the U.S. Department of Labor. There can be no assurance that any of these Investor-Based Exemptions or the Service Provider Exemption or any other administrative or statutory exemption will be available with respect to any particular transaction involving the ERISA Offered Securities.

Any insurance company proposing to invest assets of its general account in Securities should consider the extent to which such investment would be subject to the requirements of Title I of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code in light of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. v. Harris Trust and Savings Bank, 510 U.S. 86 (1993), and the enactment of Section 401(c) of ERISA on August 20, 1996. In particular, such an insurance company should consider (i) the exemptive relief granted by the U.S. Department of Labor for transactions involving insurance company general accounts in PTCE 95-60 and (ii) if such exemptive relief is not available, whether its purchase of Securities will be permissible under the final regulations issued under Section 401(c) of ERISA. The final regulations provide guidance on which assets held by an insurance company constitute "plan assets" for purposes of the fiduciary responsibility provisions of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code. The regulations do not exempt the assets of insurance company general accounts from treatment as "plan assets" to the extent they support certain participating annuities issued to Plans after December 31, 1998.

The Co-Issued Notes

The Plan Asset Regulations define an "equity interest" as any interest in an entity other than an instrument that is treated as indebtedness under applicable local law and which has no substantial equity features. As noted above in Income Tax Considerations, it is the opinion of tax counsel to the Issuer and the Co-Issuer that the Co-Issued Notes will be treated as debt for U.S. income tax purposes. Although there is little guidance on the subject, at the time of their issuance, the Co-Issued Notes should be treated as indebtedness without substantial equity features for purposes of the Plan Asset Regulations. This determination is based in part upon (i) tax counsel's opinion that the Co-Issued Notes will be classified as debt for U.S. federal income tax purposes when issued and (ii) the traditional debt features of the Co-Issued Notes, including the reasonable expectation of purchasers of the Co-Issued Notes that they will be repaid when due, as well as the absence of conversion rights, warrants and other typical equity features. Based upon and subject to the foregoing and other considerations, and subject to the considerations described below, the Co-Issued Notes may be purchased by a Plan. Nevertheless, without regard to whether the Co-Issued Notes are considered equity interests, prohibited transactions within the meaning of Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code may arise if the Co-Issued Notes are acquired with the assets of an ERISA Plan with respect to which the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Initial Purchaser or the Trustee or, in certain circumstances, any of their respective Affiliates, is a party in interest or a disqualified person. The Investor-

Based Exemptions or the Service Provider Exemption may be available to cover such prohibited transactions.

By its purchase of any Co-Issued Notes, each purchaser and subsequent transferee thereof will be deemed to have represented and warranted, at the time of its acquisition and throughout the period it holds such Co-Issued Note, either that (a) it is neither a Plan nor any entity whose underlying assets include "plan assets" (within the meaning of the Plan Asset Regulations) by reason of such Plan's investment in the entity, nor a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan which is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code or (b) its purchase, holding and disposition of a Co-Issued Note will not constitute or result in a non-exempt prohibited transaction under Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code (or, in the case of a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan, a non-exempt violation of any substantially similar law).

The Subordinated Securities and the Class E Notes

Equity participation in an issuer of Securities by "benefit plan investors" is "significant" and will cause the assets of the Issuer to be deemed the assets of an investing Plan (in the absence of another applicable Plan Asset Regulations exception) if 25% or more of the value of any class of equity interest in the Issuer is held by "benefit plan investors". Recently, the Pension Protection Act of 2006 effectively amended, by statute, the definition of "benefit plan investors" in the Plan Asset Regulations. Employee benefit plans that are not subject to Title I of ERISA and plans that are not subject to Section 4975 of the Code, such as U.S. governmental and most U.S. church plans or non-U.S. plans, are no longer considered "benefit plan investors". Accordingly, only employee benefit plans subject to Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code or an entity whose underlying assets include plan assets by reason of such plan's investment in the entity are considered in determining whether investment by "benefit plan investors" represents 25% or more of any class of equity of the Issuer. Hence, the term "benefit plan investor" includes (a) an employee benefit plan (as defined in Section 3(3) of ERISA) that is subject to the provisions of Title I of ERISA, (b) a plan as defined in Section 4975(e)(1) of the Code that is subject to Section 4975 of the Code, (c) any entity whose underlying assets include "plan assets" by reason of any such employee benefit plan's or plan's investment in the entity or (d) as such term is otherwise defined in any regulations promulgated by the U.S. Department of Labor under Section 3(42) of ERISA (collectively, "Benefit Plan Investors"). For purposes of making the 25% determination, the value of any equity interests held by a person (other than a Benefit Plan Investor) who has discretionary authority or control with respect to the assets of the Issuer or any person who provides investment advice for a fee (direct or indirect) with respect to such assets, or any affiliate of such person (each, a "Controlling Person"), is disregarded. Under the Plan Asset Regulations, an "affiliate" of a person includes any person, directly or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, controlling, controlled by or under common control with the person, and "control" with respect to a person other than an individual, means the power to exercise a controlling influence over the management or policies of such person. The Subordinated Securities and the Class E Notes are considered equity investments for the purposes of applying Title I of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code. Accordingly, purchases of (i) Subordinated Securities by Benefit Plan Investors from the Initial Purchaser or the Issuer and any subsequent purchaser will be limited to less than 25% of the value of each of all Outstanding Subordinated Securities by requiring each such purchaser to make certain representations and/or to agree to certain transfer restrictions regarding their status as Benefit Plan Investors or Controlling Persons and (ii) the Class E Notes by Benefit Plan Investors will not be permitted. Subordinated Securities either (i) held as principal by the Collateral Manager, the Trustee, any of their respective affiliates, employees of the Collateral Manager, the Trustee or any of their affiliates and any charitable foundation of any such employees (other than any of such interests held as a Benefit Plan Investor) or (ii) held by persons that have represented that they are Controlling Persons (to the extent that such a Controlling Person is not a Benefit Plan Investor), will be disregarded and will not be treated as Outstanding for purposes of determining compliance with such 25% limitation.

With respect to the U.S. Subordinated Securities or any beneficial interest therein, a purchaser will be required to represent and warrant, at the time of its acquisition and throughout the period it holds such Subordinated Security, (1) whether or not the purchaser is a Benefit Plan Investor, (2) whether or not the purchaser is a Controlling Person and (3) (a) if it is a Benefit Plan Investor, its purchase, holding and disposition of Subordinated Securities will not constitute or result in a non-exempt prohibited transaction under Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code or (b) if it is a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan which is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, its purchase, holding and disposition of Subordinated Securities will not constitute or result in non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law.

With respect to the purchase of a beneficial interest in the Regulation S Global Subordinated Securities from the Initial Purchaser or the Issuer, as the case may be, a purchaser will be required to represent and warrant , at the time of its acquisition and throughout the period it holds such Subordinated Security, (1) whether or not the purchaser is a Benefit Plan Investor, (2) whether or not the purchaser is a Controlling Person and (3) (a) if it is a Benefit Plan Investor, its purchase, holding and disposition of Subordinated Securities will not constitute or result in a non-exempt prohibited transaction under Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code or (b) if it is a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan which is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, its purchase, holding and disposition of Subordinated Securities will not constitute or result in non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law. Each purchaser and subsequent transferee of a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Subordinated Security purchased from persons other than the Initial Purchaser or the Issuer, as the case may be, will be deemed to represent that the purchaser or transferee, as the case may be, from the date on which it acquires its interest in such Subordinated Securities through and including the date on which such purchaser or transferee disposes of its interest in such Subordinated Securities, (a) is not a Benefit Plan Investor or a Controlling Person and (b) if it is a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan that is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, its purchase, holding and disposition of Subordinated Securities will not constitute or result in a non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law

By its purchase of any Class E Notes, each purchaser and subsequent transferee thereof will be deemed to have represented and warranted that it, from the date on when it acquires its interest in such Class E Notes through and including the date on which such purchaser or transferee disposes of its interest in such Class E Notes, (a) is not a Benefit Plan Investor and (b) if it is a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan that is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, its purchase, holding and disposition of Class E Notes will not constitute or result in a non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law

There can be no assurance that, despite the transfer restrictions relating to purchases by Benefit Plan Investors and Controlling Persons and the procedures to be employed by the Issuer to attempt to limit ownership by Benefit Plan Investors of the Class E Notes and the Subordinated Securities to less than 25%, Benefit Plan Investors will not in actuality own 25% or more of the outstanding Class E Notes or Subordinated Securities.

If for any reason the assets of the Issuer are deemed to be "plan assets" of a Plan subject to ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code because one or more Plans is an owner of Class E Notes or Subordinated Securities (or of a Co-Issued Note characterized as an "equity interest" in the Issuer), certain transactions that the Collateral Manager might enter into, or may have entered into, on behalf of the Issuer in the ordinary course of its business might constitute non-exempt "prohibited transactions" under Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code and might have to be rescinded at significant cost to the Issuer. The Collateral Manager could be deemed to be an ERISA fiduciary and may be prevented from engaging in certain investments (as not being deemed consistent with the ERISA prudent investment standards) or engaging in certain transactions or fee arrangements because they might be deemed to cause non-exempt prohibited transactions. It also is not clear that Section 403(a) of ERISA, which limits delegation of investment management responsibilities by fiduciaries of ERISA Plans, would be satisfied.

Any Plan fiduciary or other person who proposes to use assets of any Plan to purchase any Securities should consult with its counsel regarding the applicability of the fiduciary responsibility and prohibited transaction provisions of ERISA and Section 4975 of the Code to such an investment, and to confirm that such investment will not constitute or result in a non-exempt prohibited transaction or any other violation of an applicable requirement of ERISA.

The sale of any Security to a Plan, or to a person using assets of any Plan to effect its purchase, is in no respect a representation by the Issuer, the Initial Purchaser or the Collateral Manager that such an investment meets all relevant legal requirements with respect to investments by Plans generally or any particular Plan, or that such an investment is appropriate for Plans generally or any particular Plan.

CERTAIN LEGAL INVESTMENT CONSIDERATIONS

None of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Collateral Manager and the Initial Purchaser make any representation as to the proper characterization of the Securities for legal investment or other purposes, as to the ability of particular investors to purchase Securities for legal investment or other purposes or as to the ability of particular investors to purchase Securities under applicable investment restrictions. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, none of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Collateral Manager and the Initial Purchaser make any representation as to the characterization of the Securities as a U.S. domestic or foreign (non-U.S.) investment under any state insurance code or related regulations, and they are not aware of any published precedent that addresses such characterization. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Issuers understand that certain state insurance regulators, in response to a request for guidance, may be considering the characterization (as U.S. domestic or foreign (non-U.S.)) of certain collateralized debt obligation securities co-issued by a non-U.S. issuer and a U.S. co-issuer. There can be no assurance as to the nature of any guidance or other action that may result from such consideration. The uncertainties described above (and any unfavorable future determinations concerning legal investment or financial institution regulatory characteristics of the Securities) may affect the liquidity of the Securities. Accordingly, all institutions the activities of which are subject to legal investment laws and regulations, regulatory capital requirements or review by regulatory authorities should consult their own legal advisors in determining whether and to what extent the Securities are subject to investment, capital or other restrictions.

SETTLEMENT AND CLEARING

Global Securities

Upon the issuance of the Global Securities, DTC or its custodian will credit, on its internal system, the respective aggregate original principal amount or number, as the case may be, of the individual beneficial interests represented by such Global Securities to the accounts of persons who have accounts with DTC. Such accounts initially will be designated by or on behalf of the Initial Purchaser. Ownership of beneficial interests in Global Securities will be limited to persons who have accounts with DTC ("participants") or persons who hold interests through participants. Ownership of beneficial interests in a Global Security will be shown on, and the transfer of that ownership will be effected only through, records maintained by DTC or its nominee (with respect to interests of participants) and the records of participants (with respect to interests of persons other than participants).

So long as DTC, or its nominee, is the registered owner or Holder of the Global Securities, DTC or such nominee, as the case may be, will be considered the sole owner or Holder of each Class of the Securities represented by such Global Securities for all purposes under the Indenture and such Securities. Unless DTC notifies the Issuers that it is unwilling or unable to continue as depositary for a global security or ceases to be a "Clearing Agency" registered pursuant to the provisions of Section 17A of the Exchange Act, owners of the beneficial interests in the Global Securities will not be entitled to have any portion of such Global Securities registered in their names, will not receive or be entitled to receive physical delivery of Securities in certificated form and will not be considered to be the owners or Holders of any Securities under the Indenture. The owner of a beneficial interest in a Global Security will also be entitled to receive a certificated Security in exchange for such interest if an Event of Default has occurred and is continuing. In addition, no beneficial owner of an interest in the Global Securities will be able to transfer that interest except in accordance with DTC's applicable procedures (in addition to those under the Indenture referred to herein and, if applicable, those of Euroclear and Clearstream).

Investors may hold their interests in Regulation S Global Securities directly through Clearstream or Euroclear, if they are participants in these systems, or indirectly through organizations that are participants in these systems. Clearstream and Euroclear will hold interests in the Regulation S Global Securities on behalf of their participants through their respective depositaries, which in turn will hold the interests in the Regulation S Global Securities in customers' securities accounts in the depositaries' names on the books of DTC. Investors may hold their interests in a Rule 144A Global Secured Note directly through DTC if they are participants in the system, or indirectly through organizations that are participants in the system.

Payments of the principal of and interest or distributions on Global Securities will be made to DTC or its nominee, as the registered owner thereof. None of the Issuers, the Trustee nor any paying agent will have any responsibility or liability for any aspect of the records relating to or payments or distributions made on account of beneficial ownership interests in the Global Securities or for any notice permitted or required to be given to Holders of Securities or any consent given or actions taken by DTC as Holder of Securities. The Issuers expect that DTC or its nominee, upon receipt of any payment of principal, interest or distributions, as the case may be, in respect of a Global Security representing any Securities held by it or its nominee, will immediately credit participants' accounts with payments in amounts proportionate to their respective interests in the principal amount of such Security in global form as shown on the records of DTC or its nominee. The Issuers also expect that payments by participants to owners of interests in such Global Security held through such participants will be governed by standing instructions and customary practices, as is now the case with securities held for the accounts of customers registered in the names of nominees for such customers. Such payments will be the responsibility of such participants. Payments of the principal of and interest or distributions on the Regulation S Global Securities will be made to Clearstream or Euroclear, as applicable, as indirect participants in DTC, in accordance with their respective rules and operating procedures.

Transfers between participants will be effected in the ordinary way in accordance with DTC rules and will be settled in same-day funds. The laws of some jurisdictions require that certain persons take physical delivery of securities in definitive form. Consequently, the ability to transfer beneficial interests in Global Securities to these persons may be limited. Because DTC can only act on behalf of participants, who in turn act on behalf of indirect participants and certain banks, the ability of a person having a beneficial interest in Global Securities to pledge its interest to persons or entities that do not participate in the DTC system, or otherwise take actions in respect of its interest, may be affected by the lack of a physical certificate of the interest. Transfers between account holders in Euroclear and Clearstream will be effected in the ordinary way in accordance with their respective rules and operating procedures.

Subject to compliance with the transfer restrictions applicable to the Securities described above, cross-market transfers between DTC participants, on the one hand, and, directly or indirectly through Euroclear or Clearstream account holders, on the other, will be effected in DTC in accordance with DTC's rules on behalf of Euroclear or Clearstream, as the case may be, by its respective depositary; however, these cross-market transactions will require delivery of instructions to Euroclear or Clearstream, as the case may be, by the counterparty in the system in accordance with its rules and procedures and within its established deadlines (Brussels time). Euroclear or Clearstream, as the case may be, will, if the transaction meets its settlement requirements, deliver instructions to its respective depositary to take action to effect final settlement on its behalf by delivering or receiving interests in a Regulation S Global Security in DTC, and making or receiving payment in accordance with normal procedures for a same-day funds settlement applicable to DTC.. Clearstream and Euroclear account holders may not deliver instructions directly to the depositaries for Clearstream or Euroclear.

Because of time zone differences, the securities account of a Euroclear or Clearstream participant purchasing an interest in a Global Security from a DTC participant will be credited during the securities settlement processing day (which must be a Business Day for Euroclear or Clearstream, as the case may be) immediately following the DTC settlement date and the credit of any transactions in interests in a Global Security settled during the processing day will be reported to the relevant Euroclear or Clearstream participant on that day. Cash received in Euroclear or Clearstream as a result of sales of interests in a Global Security by or through a Euroclear or Clearstream participant to a DTC participant will be received with value on the DTC settlement date but will be available in the relevant Euroclear or Clearstream cash account only as of the Business Day following settlement in DTC.

DTC has advised the Issuers that it will take any action permitted to be taken by a Holder of the Securities (including the presentation of the applicable Securities for exchange as described below) only at the direction of one or more participants to whose account with DTC interests in a Global Security are credited and only in respect of that portion of the aggregate principal amount or aggregate notional amount, as applicable, of the Securities as to which the participant or participants has or have given direction.

The giving of notices and other communications by DTC to participants, by participants to persons who hold accounts with them and by such persons to Holders of beneficial interests in a Global Security will be governed by arrangements between them, subject to any statutory or regulatory requirements as may exist from time to time.

DTC has advised the Issuers as follows: DTC is a limited purpose trust company principally located under the laws of the State of New York, a member of the Federal Reserve System, a "clearing corporation" within the meaning of the Uniform Commercial Code and a "Clearing Agency" registered pursuant to the provisions of Section 17A of the Exchange Act. DTC was created to hold securities for its participants and facilitate the clearance and settlement of securities transactions between participants through electronic book-entry changes in accounts of its participants, thereby eliminating the need for physical movement of certificates. Participants include securities brokers and dealers, banks, trust companies and clearing corporations and may include certain other organizations. Indirect access to the DTC system is available to others such as banks, brokers, dealers and trust companies that clear through or maintain a custodial relationship with a participant, either directly or indirectly ("indirect participants").

Although DTC, Clearstream and Euroclear have agreed to the foregoing procedures in order to facilitate transfers of interests in Global Securities among participants of DTC, Clearstream and Euroclear, they ere under no obligation to perform or continue to perform these procedures, and the procedures may be discontinued at any time. Neither the Issuers nor the Trustee will have any responsibility for the performance by DTC, Clearstream, Euroclear or their respective participants or indirect participants of their respective obligations under the rules and procedures governing their operations.

Individual Definitive Securities

If (i) DTC or any successor to DTC advises the Issuer in writing that it is at any time unwilling or unable to continue as a depositary for the reasons described in "—Global Securities" and a successor depositary is not appointed by the Issuer within 90 days, (ii) as a result of any amendment to or change in the laws or regulations of the Cayman Islands or of any authority therein or thereof having power to tax or in the interpretation or administration of such laws or regulations which become effective on or after the Closing Date, the Issuer or the paying agent is, or will be, required to make any deduction or withholding from any payment in respect of the Securities which would not be required if the Securities were in definitive form or (iii) upon the written request of any beneficial owner of an interest in a Global Security following the occurrence of an Event of Default, the Issuer will issue individual definitive Securities in registered form in exchange for the Global Securities. Upon receipt of such notice from DTC, the Issuer will use its best efforts to make arrangements with DTC for the exchange of interests in the Global Securities for individual definitive Securities and cause the requested individual definitive Securities to be executed and delivered to the Registrar in sufficient quantities and authenticated by or on behalf of the Trustee for delivery to Holders of the Global Securities. Persons exchanging interests in a Global Security for individual definitive Securities will be required to provide to the Trustee, through DTC, Clearstream or Euroclear, (i) written instructions and other information required by the Issuer and the Trustee to complete, execute and deliver such individual definitive Securities, (ii) in the case of an exchange of an interest in a Rule 144A Global Secured Note, such certification as to "Qualified Institutional Buyer" status, and that such Holder is a Qualified Purchaser, as the Issuer shall require and (iii) in the case of an exchange of an interest in a Regulation S Global Security, such certification as the Issuer shall require as to non-U.S. Person status. In all cases, individual definitive Securities delivered in exchange for any Security in global form or beneficial interests therein will be registered in the names, and issued in denominations in compliance with the minimum denominations specified for the applicable Securities in global form, requested by DTC.

Individual definitive Securities will bear, and be subject to, such legend as the Issuer requires in order to assure compliance with any applicable law. Individual definitive Securities will be transferable subject to the minimum denomination applicable to such Securities, in whole or in part, and exchangeable for individual definitive Securities of the same kind, at the office of the Trustee or the office of any transfer agent, including the transfer agent in Ireland, upon compliance with the requirements set forth in the Indenture.

Individual definitive Securities may be transferred through any transfer agent, including the transfer agent in Ireland, upon the delivery and duly completed assignment of such Securities. Upon a partial transfer of any Securities represented by the applicable definitive notes, the Trustee will issue in exchange therefor to the transferee one or more individual definitive Securities representing the amount being so transferred and will issue to the transferor one or more individual definitive Securities representing the remaining amount not being transferred. No service charge will be imposed for any registration of transfer or exchange, but payment of a sum sufficient to cover any tax or other governmental charge may be required. The Holder of a restricted individual definitive Security may transfer such Security subject to compliance with the provisions of the legend thereon. Upon the transfer, exchange or replacement of Securities bearing the legend, or upon specific request for removal of the legend on a Security, the Issuer will deliver only Securities that bear such legend, or will refuse to remove such legend, as the case may be, unless there is delivered to the Issuer such satisfactory evidence, which may include an opinion of counsel, as may reasonably be required by the Issuer that neither the legend nor the restrictions on transfer set forth therein are required to ensure compliance with the provisions of the Securities Act and the Investment Company Act. Payments of principal and interest on individual definitive Secured Notes and Subordinated Securities shall be payable by wire transfer in immediately available funds to a Dollar account maintained by the Holder thereof or its nominee or, if appropriate instructions are not received at least fifteen days prior to the relevant Payment Date, by Dollar check drawn on a bank in the United States of America and sent by mail to the Registered holder thereof or, for so long as any of the Securities are listed on the Irish Stock Exchange and the rules of such Exchange shall so require, at the office of the paying agent in Ireland.

TRANSFER RESTRICTIONS

Because of the following restrictions, purchasers are advised to consult legal counsel prior to making any offer, resale, pledge or transfer of the Securities. Any purchase or transfer of the Securities will be subject to the minimum denomination requirements set forth in "Summary—The Offering—Securities Issued" (except in the limited circumstances set forth in the Indenture).

Rule 144A Global Secured Notes

Each purchaser of a beneficial interest in a Rule 144A Global Secured Note will be deemed to have represented and agreed with the Issuer as follows:

(i) (A) The purchaser is a Qualified Institutional Buyer and a Qualified Purchaser, (B) the purchaser is purchasing the Secured Notes for its own account or the account of another Qualified Purchaser that is also a Qualified Institutional Buyer as to which the purchaser exercises sole investment discretion, (C) the purchaser and any such account is acquiring the Secured Notes as principal for its own account for investment and not for sale in connection with any distribution thereof, (D) the purchaser and any such account was not formed solely for the purpose of investing in the Secured Notes (except when each beneficial owner of the purchaser or any such account is a Qualified Purchaser), (E) to the extent the purchaser (or any account for which it is purchasing the Secured Notes) is a private investment company formed on or before April 30, 1998, the purchaser and each such account has received the necessary consent from its beneficial owners, (F) the purchaser is not a broker-dealer that owns and invests on a discretionary basis less than $25,000,000 in securities of unaffiliated issuers, (G) the purchaser is not a pension, profit-sharing or other retirement trust fund or plan in which the partners, beneficiaries or participants or affiliates may designate the particular investment to be made, (H) the purchaser agrees that it and each such account shall not hold such Secured Notes for the benefit of any other Person and shall be the sole beneficial owner thereof for all purposes and that it shall not sell participation interests in the Secured Notes or enter into any other arrangement pursuant to which any other Person shall be entitled to a beneficial interest in the distributions on the Secured Notes (except when each beneficial owner of the purchaser or any such account is a Qualified Purchaser), (I) the Secured Notes purchased directly or indirectly by the purchaser or any account for which it is purchasing the Secured Notes constitute an investment of no more than 40% of the purchaser's and each such account's assets (except when each beneficial owner of the purchaser or any such account is a Qualified Purchaser), (J) the purchaser and each such account is purchasing the Secured Notes in a principal amount of not less than the minimum denomination requirement for the purchaser and each such account, (K) the purchaser will provide notice of the transfer restrictions set forth in the Indenture (including the exhibits thereto) to any transferee of its Secured Notes, (L) the purchaser understands and agrees that the Issuer may receive a list of participants in the Secured Notes from one or more book-entry depositories and (M) the purchaser understands and agrees that any purported transfer of the Secured Notes to a purchaser that does not comply with the requirements of this paragraph (i) shall be null and void ab initio.

(ii) If any U.S. Person that is not both a Qualified Institutional Buyer and a Qualified Purchaser at the time it acquires an interest in a Secured Note shall become the beneficial owner of any Secured Note, (any such Person, a "Non-Permitted Holder"), the Issuer shall, promptly after discovery that such Person is a Non-Permitted Holder by the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or the Trustee (and notice by the Trustee or the Co-Issuer to the Issuer, if either of them makes the discovery), send notice to such Non-Permitted Holder demanding that such Non-Permitted Holder transfer its interest to a Person that is not a Non-Permitted Holder within 30 days of the date of such notice. If such Non-Permitted Holder fails to transfer its Secured Notes, the Issuer shall have the right, without further notice to the Non-Permitted Holder, to sell such Secured Notes or interest in Secured Notes to a purchaser selected by the Issuer that is not a Non-Permitted Holder on such terms as the Issuer may choose. The Issuer, an investment bank selected by the Issuer, or the Trustee at the written direction of the Issuer (and approved by the Collateral Manager) may select the purchaser by soliciting one or more bids from one or more brokers or other market professionals that regularly deal in securities similar to the Secured Notes, and selling such Secured Notes to the highest such bidder. However, the Issuer or the Trustee, at the written direction of the Issuer, may select a purchaser by any other means determined by it in its sole discretion. The Holder of each Secured Note, the Non-Permitted Holder and each other Person in the chain of title from the Holder to the Non-Permitted Holder, by its acceptance of an interest in the Secured Notes, agrees to cooperate with the Issuer and the Trustee to effect such transfers. The proceeds of such sale, net of any commissions, expenses, including fees of attorneys and agents, and taxes due in connection with such sale shall be remitted to the Non-Permitted Holder. The terms and conditions of any sale under this paragraph shall be determined in the sole discretion of the Issuer, and neither the Issuer nor the Trustee shall be liable to any Person having an interest in the Secured Notes sold as a result of any such sale or the exercise of such discretion (including for the price of such sale).

(iii) The purchaser understands and agrees that the Secured Notes have not been and will not be registered or qualified under the Securities Act or any applicable state securities laws or the securities laws of any other jurisdiction and the sale of the Secured Notes to the purchaser is being made in reliance on an exemption from registration under the Securities Act, and may be reoffered, resold or pledged or otherwise transferred only (A)(i) to a Person whom the purchaser reasonably believes is a Qualified Institutional Buyer purchasing for its own account or for the account of a Qualified Institutional Buyer as to which the purchaser exercises sole investment discretion in a transaction meeting the requirements of Rule 144A or (ii) to a person that is not a U.S. Person in an offshore transaction complying with Rule 903 or Rule 904 of Regulation S and (B) in accordance with all applicable securities laws of the states of the United States. The Issuer, the Co-Issuer and the Collateral have not been registered under the Investment Company Act and, therefore, no transfer having the effect of causing the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or the Collateral to be required to be registered as an investment company under the Investment Company Act will be recognized. The Secured Notes are subject to the restrictions on transfer set forth herein and in the Indenture and the Secured Notes. The purchaser understands and agrees that any purported transfer of the Secured Notes to a purchaser that does not comply with the requirements of this paragraph (iii) shall be null and void ab initio.

(iv) The purchaser is not purchasing the Secured Notes with a view toward the resale, distribution or other disposition thereof in violation of the Securities Act. The purchaser understands and agrees that an investment in the Secured Notes involves certain risks, including the risk of loss of its entire investment in the Secured Notes under certain circumstances. The purchaser has had access to such financial and other information concerning the Issuer, the Co-Issuer and the Secured Notes as it deemed necessary or appropriate in order to make an informed investment decision with respect to its purchase of the Secured Notes, including an opportunity to ask questions of, and request information from, the Issuer and the Co-Issuer.

(vi) With respect to Rule 144A Global Secured Notes (other than Rule 144A Global Class E Notes), at the time of its acquisition and throughout the period it holds such Rule 144A Global Secured Note (other than a Rule 144A Global Class E Note), either (A) the purchaser is not a Plan or an entity whose underlying assets include "plan assets" (within the meaning of 29 C.F.R. § 2510.3-101) by reason of such Plan's investment in the entity or a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan which is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code or (B) if the purchaser is an entity described in (A), the purchase, holding and disposition of a Secured Note, as the case may be, will not constitute or result in a non-exempt prohibited transaction under Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code (or, in the case of a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan, a non-exempt violation under any substantially similar federal, state, local or non-U.S. law). Any purported transfer of a Secured Note to a purchaser that does not comply with the applicable requirements of this subclause (vi) shall be null and void ab initio.

(vii) The Secured Notes will bear a legend substantially to the following effect:

The Holder of each Subordinated Security, the Non-Permitted Holder and each other Person in the chain of title from the Holder to the Non-Permitted Holder, by its acceptance of an interest in the Subordinated Securities, agrees to cooperate with the Issuer and the Trustee to effect such transfers. (v) The purchaser understands and agrees that the Subordinated Securities have not been and will not be registered or qualified under the Securities Act or any applicable state securities laws or the securities laws of any other jurisdiction and the sale of the Subordinated Securities to the purchaser is being made in reliance on an exemption from registration under the Securities Act, and may be reoffered, resold, pledged or otherwise transferred only (A)(i) to a person whom the purchaser reasonably believes is a Qualified Institutional Buyer purchasing for its own account or for the account of a Qualified Institutional Buyer as to which the purchaser exercises sole investment discretion in a transaction meeting the requirements of Rule 144A, (ii) to a person that is not a U.S. Person in an offshore transaction complying with Rule 903 or Rule 904 of Regulation S or (iii) to an Accredited Investor for its own account or for the account of en Accredited Investor, and in the case of subclauses (i) and (iii), to a transferee that is either (a) a Qualified Purchaser or (b) a Knowledgeable Employee and (B) in accordance with all applicable securities laws of the states of the United States. (vi) The purchaser is not purchasing the Subordinated Securities with a view toward the resale, distribution or other disposition thereof in violation of the Securities Act. The purchaser understands and agrees that an investment in the Subordinated Securities involves certain risks, including the risk of loss of its entire investment in the Subordinated Securities under certain circumstances. The purchaser has had access to such financial and other information concerning the Issuer and the Subordinated Securities as it deemed necessary or appropriate in order to make an informed investment decision with respect to its purchase of the Subordinated Securities, including an opportunity to ask questions of, and request information from, the Issuer.

(vii) In connection with the purchase of the Subordinated Securities: (A) none of the Issuers, the Initial Purchaser, the Trustee, the Collateral Manager (except such representation is not made by advisory clients of the Collateral Manager that purchase any Subordinated Securities, with respect to the Collateral Manager), the Collateral Administrator, the Administrator, or the Registrar (or any of their respective Affiliates) is acting as a fiduciary or financial or investment adviser for the purchaser; (B) the purchaser is not relying (for purposes of making any investment decision or otherwise) upon any advice, counsel or representations (whether written or oral) of the Issuers, the Initial Purchaser, the Trustee, the Collateral Manager, the Collateral Administrator, the Administrator or the Registrar (or any of their respective Affiliates) other than the Issuers and the Collateral Manager (with respect to the sections entitled "The Collateral Manager", and "Risk Factors—Conflicts of Interest Involving the Collateral Manager and Affiliates") in the final offering circular and any representations expressly set forth in a written agreement with such party; (C) none of the Issuers, the Initial Purchaser, the Trustee, the Collateral Manager, the Collateral Administrator, the Administrator or the Registrar (or any of their respective Affiliates) has given to the purchaser (directly or indirectly through any other person) any assurance, guarantee, or representation whatsoever as to the expected or projected success, profitability, return, performance, result, effect, consequence or benefit (including legal, regulatory, tax, financial, accounting or otherwise) as to an investment in the Subordinated Securities; (D) the purchaser has consulted with its own legal, regulatory, tax, business, investment, financial and accounting advisers to the extent it has deemed necessary, and it has made its own investment decisions (including decisions regarding the suitability of any transaction pursuant to the Indenture) based upon its own judgment and upon any advice from such advisers as it has deemed necessary and not upon any view expressed by the Issuers, the Initial Purchaser, the Collateral Manager, the Trustee, the Collateral Administrator, the Administrator or the Registrar (or any of their respective Affiliates); (E) the purchaser has evaluated the terms and conditions of the purchase and sale of the Subordinated Securities with a full understanding of all of the risks thereof (economic and otherwise), and it is capable of assuming and is willing to assume (financially and otherwise) those risks; (F) the purchaser is a sophisticated investor; and (G) if acquiring the Subordinated Securities for any account, the purchaser has not made any disclosure, assurance, guarantee or representation not consistent with the provisions and the requirements contained herein.

(viii) It is (or is not, as applicable) a Benefit Plan Investor or a Controlling Person. No Benefit Plan Investor or Controlling Person will be permitted to purchase Subordinated Securities, unless its purchase, holding and disposition of such Subordinated Securities, (i) will not cause participation by Benefit Plan Investors to be "significant" within the meaning of the Plan Asset Regulations and (ii) if the purchaser is a Benefit Plan Investor, the acquisition, holding and disposition of such Subordinated Securities, or any interest therein will not constitute or result in a non-exempt prohibited transaction under Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code. If the purchaser is a governmental, church or other plan that is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, such purchaser shall represent and warrant that its purchase, holding and disposition of a U.S. Subordinated Security will not constitute or result in a non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law.

In determining whether participation by Benefit Plan Investors is "significant", Subordinated Securities beneficially held by (i) the Collateral Manager, the Trustee, any of their respective Affiliates, employees of the Collateral Manager, or any of their respective Affiliates and any charitable foundation of any such employees or (ii) persons that have represented that they are Controlling Persons, will be disregarded and will not be treated as Outstanding for purposes of whether participation by Benefit Plan Investors is "significant" to the extent that persons listed in (i) or (ii) are not Benefit Plan Investors.

(ix) The purchaser understands and agrees that, in order for the Issuer to satisfy its obligations to provide certain United States federal income tax information to beneficial owners of the Subordinated Securities that are United States persons within the meaning of Section 7701(a)(30) of the Code, the Initial Purchaser or any respective Affiliates thereof, the Issuer or the Trustee may provide to the Issuer's accountants information concerning the purchaser's name and address, the notional amount of Subordinated Securities owned by the purchaser and the date of such purchaser's purchase, and the information related to the tax status of the purchaser as provided by the purchaser to the Issuer pursuant to the certifications required in the Indenture.

Regulation S Global Subordinated Securities

(i) Each purchaser of a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Subordinated Security will be deemed to have represented and agreed with the Issuer (A) as set forth in paragraphs (iii), (iv), (v), (vi), (vii), (ix) and (xi) under "—U.S. Subordinated Securities", mutatis mutandis, and (B) that the purchaser is not a U.S. Person and is acquiring the Subordinated Securities in an offshore transaction meeting the requirements of Rule 903 or Rule 904 of Regulation S.

No Benefit Plan Investor or Controlling Person will be permitted to purchase Regulation S Global Subordinated Securities from the Initial Purchaser or the Issuer, as the case may be, unless its purchase, holding and disposition of such Subordinated Securities (i) will not cause participation by Benefit Plan Investors to be "significant" within the meaning of the Plan Asset Regulations and (ii) if the purchaser is a Benefit Plan Investor, the acquisition, holding and disposition of such Securities or any interest therein will not constitute or result in a non-exempt, prohibited transaction under Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code. If a purchaser is a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan that is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, such purchaser shall represent and warrant or be deemed to have represented and warranted that its purchase, holding and disposition of a Regulation S Global Subordinated Security will not constitute or result in a non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law.

In determining whether participation by Benefit Plan Investors is "significant", Subordinated Securities beneficially held by (I) the Collateral Manager, the Trustee, any of their respective Affiliates, employees of the Collateral Manager, or any of their respective Affiliates and any charitable foundation of any such employees or (ii) persons that have represented that they are Controlling Persons will be disregarded and will not be treated as Outstanding for purposes of whether participation by Benefit Plan Investors is "significant" to the extent that persons listed in (i) or (ii) are not Benefit Plan Investors.

EACH SUBSEQUENT TRANSFEREE OF A BENEFICIAL INTEREST IN A REGULATION S GLOBAL SUBORDINATED SECURITY PURCHASED FROM PERSONS OTHER THAN THE INITIAL PURCHASER OR THE ISSUER, AS THE CASE MAY BE, WILL BE DEEMED TO REPRESENT THAT THE TRANSFEREE FROM THE DATE ON WHICH IT ACQUIRES ITS INTEREST IN SUCH SUBORDINATED SECURITIES THROUGH AND INCLUDING THE DATE ON WHICH SUCH TRANSFEREE, AS THE CASE MAY BE, DISPOSES OF ITS INTEREST IN SUCH SUBORDINATED SECURITIES, (A) IS NOT A BENEFIT PLAN INVESTOR OR A CONTROLLING PERSON AND (B) IF IT IS A GOVERNMENTAL, CHURCH, NON-U.S. OR OTHER PLAN THAT IS SUBJECT TO ANY FEDERAL, STATE, LOCAL OR NON-U.S. LAW THAT IS SUBSTANTIALLY SIMILAR TO THE PROVISIONS OF TITLE I OF ERISA OR SECTION 4975 OF THE CODE, ITS PURCHASE, HOLDING AND DISPOSITION OF SUBORDINATED SECURITIES WILL NOT CONSTITUTE OR RESULT IN A NON-EXEMPT VIOLATION UNDER ANY SUCH SUBSTANTIALLY SIMILAR LAW. The transferee acknowledges that a transfer of the Subordinated Securities will not be permitted, and the Trustee will not register any such transfer of which it has actual knowledge, to the extent that the transfer would result in Benefit Plan Investors owning 25% or more of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Subordinated Securities immediately after such transfer (determined in accordance with the Plan Asset Regulations and the Indenture). Any purported transfer of a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Subordinated Security in violation of the requirements set forth in this paragraph shall be null and void ab initio.

Under the terms and conditions of the Purchase Agreement, the Initial Purchaser is committed to take and pay for all the Securities to be offered by it, if any are taken. Under the terms and conditions of the Purchase Agreement, the Initial Purchaser will be entitled to (i) an underwriting discount on the Securities, and (ii) a fixed structuring fee based upon the aggregate principal or notional amount, as applicable, of the Securities. After the Securities are released for sale, the Initial Purchaser may change the offering price and other selling terms. The Initial Purchaser may allow a concession, not in excess of their respective underwriting discounts, to certain brokers or dealers.

The Securities have not been and will not be registered under the Securities Act for offer or sale as part of their distribution and may not be offered or sold within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, a U.S. Person or a U.S. resident (as determined for purposes of the Investment Company Act, a "U.S. Resident") except in certain transactions exempt from, or not subject to, the registration requirements of the Securities Act.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, in limited circumstances approved by the Initial Purcheser, Subordinated Securities may be sold to Qualified Purchasers for purposes of Section 3(c)(7) of the Investment Company Act who are not Accredited Investors, provided that such purchasers have purchaser representatives (as such term is defined in Regulation D). The offering price and the Initial Purchaser's underwriting discount will be the same for the Regulation S Global Securities, the Rule 144A Global Secured Notes and the U.S. Subordinated Securities, as applicable, within each Class of Securities. Any offer or sale of Rule 144A Global Secured Notes or U.S. Subordinated Securities in reliance on Rule 144A or another exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act will be made by broker-dealers who are registered as such under the Exchange Act. After the Securities are released for sale, the offering price and other selling terms may from time to time be varied by the Initial Purchaser.

The Initial Purchaser has acknowledged and agreed that it will not offer, sell or deliver any Securities sold pursuant to Regulation S to, or for the account or benefit of, any U.S. Person or a U.S. Resident as part of their distribution at any time and that the Initial Purchaser will send to each distributor, dealer or person receiving a selling concession, fee or other remuneration to which they sell Securities pursuant to Regulation S a confirmation or other notice setting forth the prohibition on offers and sales of Securities sold pursuant to Regulation S within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, any U.S. Person or a U.S. Resident.

With respect to the Securities initially sold pursuant to Regulation S, until the expiration of 40 days after the commencement of the distribution of the offering of Securities by the Initial Purchaser, an offer or sale of such Securities within the United States by a dealer that is not participating in the offering may violate the registration requirements of the Securities Act if such offer or sale is made otherwise than in accordance with Rule 144A or pursuant to another exemption from registration under the Securities Act.

A Collateral Obligation may not be designated as a Current Pay Obligation if doing so would cause more than 5.0% in Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Portfolio to consist of Current Pay Obligations. For the avoidance of doubt, as specified in subclause (viii) of the definition of "Defaulted Obligation," the portion of any Collateral Obligation that would otherwise satisfy the definition of "Current Pay Obligation" but the inclusion of which would cause more than 5.0% in Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Portfolio to consist of Current Pay Obligations shall be treated as a Defaulted Obligation.

"Current Portfolio": At any time, the Collateral Portfolio held by the Issuer.

"Defaulted Hedge Termination Payment": Any termination payment required to be made by the Issuer to a Hedge Counterparty pursuant to a Hedge Agreement as a result of an "Event of Default" with respect to which the Hedge Counterparty is the "Defaulting Party" or a "Termination Event" (other than "Illegality" or "Tax Event") (each as defined in the Hedge Agreement) with respect to which the Hedge Counterparty is the sole "Affected Party" or with respect to a termination resulting from a Downgrade Terminating Event.

"Defaulted Interest": Any interest due and payable in respect of any Class A Note or Class B Note (or in respect of any Class C Note after the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes have been paid in full, or in respect of any Class D Note, after the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes and the Class C Notes have been paid in full, or in respect of any Class E Note, after the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes have been paid in full), which is not punctually paid or duly provided for on the applicable Payment Date or at the Stated Maturity, as the case may be.

"Defaulted Obligation": Any Collateral Obligation shall constitute a "Defaulted Obligation" if:

(i) there has occurred and is continuing, (x) without regard to any waiver, for the lesser of five Business Days and any applicable grace period (as the case may be, the "Cure Period") a default with respect to the payment of interest or principal or (y) any other default under the related underlying instrument in respect of such Collateral Obligation and an acceleration of such Collateral Obligation by the holders thereof; provided, however, that, (A) for purposes of clause (x) above, a Collateral Obligation shall constitute a Defaulted Obligation only until such default has been cured or the existence of such default has been eliminated in connection with a restructuring and a Cure Period shall only be available if the Collateral Manager has certified to the Trustee in writing that, in the judgment of the Collateral Manager, such default resulted from non-credit related causes and (B) for purposes of clause (y) above, a Collateral Obligation shall constitute a Defaulted Obligation only until such default has been cured or waived;

(ii) (x) any bankruptcy, insolvency or receivership proceeding has been initiated in connection with the issuer of such Collateral Obligation and is unstayed and undismissed; provided that if such proceeding is an involuntary proceeding, the condition of this subclause (ii)(x) will not be satisfied until the earliest of the following: (I) the issuer consents to such proceeding, (II) an order for relief under the Bankruptcy Code, or any substantially similar order under a proceeding not taking place under the Bankruptcy Code, has been entered, and (III) such proceeding remains unstayed and undismissed for 90 days; provided, further, that a Current Pay Obligation or a DIP Loan shall not constitute a Defaulted Obligation under this subclause (ii)(x) notwithstanding such bankruptcy, insolvency or receivership proceeding; or (y) as to which there has been proposed or effected any distressed exchange or other distressed debt restructuring where the issuer of such Collateral Obligation has offered the debt holders a new security or package of securities that, in the judgment of the Collateral Manager, amounts to a diminished financial obligation; provided that a Collateral Obligation that was determined to be a Defaulted Obligation pursuant to this subclause (ii)(y), shall not be considered to be a Defaulted Obligation if, as a result of subsequent events, the new security or package of securities received in connection with any distressed exchange or restructuring, in the judgment of the Collateral Manager, no longer amounts to a diminished financial obligation;

(iii) the Collateral Manager has actual knowledge that the issuer thereof is in default as to payment of principal and/or interest on another obligation (and such default has not been cured), but only if one of the following conditions (i) or (II) is met: (I) both such other obligation and the Collateral Obligation are unsecured obligations with the same recourse and the other obligation is senior to or pari passu with the Collateral Obligation in right of payment or (II) all of the following conditions (A), (B) and (C) are satisfied: (A) both such other obligation and the Collateral Obligation are full recourse secured obligations secured by identical collateral, (B) the security interest securing the other obligation is senior to or pari passu with the security interest securing the Collateral Obligation and (C) the other obligation is senior to or pari passu with the Collateral Obligation in right of payment; provided that a Collateral Obligation shall not constitute a Defaulted Obligation under this subclause (iii) if it is a Current Pay Obligation or a DIP Loan, as the case may be;

(iv) (1) such Collateral Obligation (x) has been rated "D" or "SD" (or, with respect to a Collateral Obligation that is a Structured Finance Security, "CC" or below) by S&P or (y) is a Structured Finance Security rated "Ca" or below by Moody's or (2) S&P has withdrawn its rating on such Collateral Obligation for negative credit related reason(s) and immediately prior to such withdrawal by S&P, such Collateral Obligation was rated "CC" or below by S&P; provided that (A) a Collateral Obligation shall not constitute a Defaulted Obligation pursuant to subclause (2) above if the S&P Rating Condition has been satisfied and (B) a Collateral Obligation shall not constitute a Defaulted Obligation under this subclause (iv) if it is a Current Pay Obligation or a DIP Loan, as the case may be;

(v) such Collateral Obligation is a Synthetic Security, and (1) there has occurred a "credit event" (as such term is defined in the related Synthetic Security) with respect to a Reference Obligation or a Reference Obligor specified in such Synthetic Security, or (2) the related Synthetic Security Counterparty fails to make payments to the Issuer in accordance with the terms of such Synthetic Security;

(vi) such Collateral Obligation is an obligation that is delivered to the Issuer under a Synthetic Security that does not satisfy the definition of "Collateral Obligation";

(vii) such Collateral Obligation is a Participation and the related Selling Institution fails to make payments to the Issuer in accordance with the terms of such Participation; or (viii) such Collateral Obligation or the portion of any such Collateral Obligation that would otherwise satisfy the definition of "Current Pay Obligation" but the inclusion of which in the definition of "Current Pay Obligation" would cause more than 5.0% in Aggregate Principal Amount of the Collateral Portfolio to consist of Current Pay Obligations.

For the avoidance of doubt, the Collateral Manager shall be deemed to have knowledge of all information of which the analysts and portfolio managers involved in the management of the Collateral Portfolio under the Collateral Management Agreement have actual knowledge.

Notwithstanding the foregoing definition, the Collateral Manager may declare any Collateral Obligation to be a Defaulted Obligation if, in the Collateral Manager's sole judgment, the credit quality of the issuer of such Collateral Obligation (or, in the case of a Synthetic Security, the credit quality of the Synthetic Security Counterparty or Reference Obligor with respect thereto, as applicable) has significantly deteriorated such that there is a reasonable expectation of payment default as of the next scheduled payment date with respect to such Collateral Obligation; provided that a Collateral Obligation that has been declared to be a Defaulted Obligation pursuant to this paragraph, shall cease to be considered as a Defaulted Obligation if, in the Collateral Manager's sole judgment, the circumstances supporting such declaration no longer exist.

"Deferrable Interest Obligation": Any Collateral Obligation that is a debt security or a loan (including a Finance Lease) that is permitted, at the time of its purchase or commitment to purchase, under its terms in certain (but not all) circumstances to make interest payments due thereon, which are otherwise payable in cash, on a deferred basis "in kind".

"Delayed Funding Term Loan": A loan that requires one or more future advances to be made to the borrower but which, once all such advances have been made, has the characteristics of a term loan; provided that such loan shall only be considered a Delayed Funding Term Loan for so long as any future funding obligations remain in effect and only with respect to any portion which constitutes a future funding obligation.

"Deliverable Obligation": A debt obligation or other security that is delivered to the Issuer upon the occurrence of certain "credit events" under a Synthetic Security (if physical settlement is permitted thereunder) that satisfies the definition of "Collateral Obligation" at the time it is delivered to the Issuer, except that such debt obligation or other security (i) may be a Defaulted Obligation or a Credit Risk Obligation at the time delivered to the Issuer and (ii) does not have to satisfy the requirements set forth in subclause (ii) of the definition of "Collateral Obligation".

Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary contained herein, the Issuer may accept the delivery of a Deliverable Obligation that does not meet the requirements set forth in the definition of "Deliverable Obligation" if (i) the terms of the related Synthetic Security otherwise satisfy the definition of "Deliverable Obligation" at the time it is purchased by or entered into by the Issuer and (ii) it would be impractical or impossible for the Synthetic Security Counterparty to deliver a Deliverable Obligation that satisfies the requirements set forth in the definition of "Deliverable Obligation" and cash settlement is not permitted; provided, however, the Issuer may accept a Deliverable Obligation that does not meet the requirements of this definition (a "Substitute Deliverable Obligation"), notwithstanding the foregoing, if the Collateral Manager has obtained written advice of a nationally recognized tax counsel experienced in such matters that the Issuer's taking delivery of the "deliverable obligation" will not cause the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a United States trade or business for U.S. federal income tax purposes or to otherwise be subject to tax on a net income basis and that payments on such "deliverable obligation" are not subject to withholding tax. The Issuer shall notify S&P of the acquisition of any Substitute Deliverable Obligation.

"Determination Date": With respect to a Payment Date, the last Business Day of the immediately preceding Due Period.

"DIP Loan": A loan made to a debtor in possession as described in Section 1107 of the Bankruptcy Code (or a trustee if appointment of a trustee has been ordered) that is:

(i) paying interest on a current basis; and

(ii) approved by an order of the United States Bankruptcy Court, the United States District Court or any other court of competent jurisdiction, the enforceability of which order is not subject to any pending contested matter or proceeding, which order must provide that:

(1) such loan is secured by liens on the debtor's otherwise unencumbered assets pursuant to either section 364(c) or 364(d) (or any combination thereof) of the Bankruptcy Code;

(2) such loan is secured by liens of equal or senior priority on property of the debtor's estate that is otherwise subject to a lien pursuant to either section 364(c) or 364(d) (or any combination thereof) of the Bankruptcy Code;

(3) such loan is secured by junior liens on the debtor's encumbered assets and is fully secured based upon a current valuation or appraisal report; or

(4) if such loan or any portion thereof is unsecured, the repayment of such loan retains priority over all other administrative expenses pursuant to either section 364(c) or 364(d) (or any combination thereof) of the Bankruptcy Code;

provided, however, that (a)(i) such loan shall be rated by S&P or S&P shall have provided in writing an estimated rating of such loan to the Issuer, and (ii) such loan shall be explicitly rated by Moody's or

Moody's shall have provided in writing an estimated rating of such loan to the Issuer, or (b) in either case, the Collateral Manager has applied for such rating within five Business Days of its purchase of the loan; provided, further, that if such loan or any portion thereof is unsecured, (a) either (x) the acquisition of such loan shall be subject to the satisfaction of the Moody's Rating Condition or (y) such loan must have (i) a rating from Moody's of at least "Caa1" and a market value of at least 80% of par or (ii) a rating from Moody's of at least "Caa2" and a market value of at least 85% of par and, in the case of any rating of under this clause (y), such rating must not be on watch for possible downgrade by Moody's, and (b) the acquisition of such loan shall be subject to the satisfaction of the S&P Rating Condition.

If the DIP Loan has an S&P Rating pursuant to (v)(2)(a) or (v)(2)(b) of the definition thereof, then the Issuer (or the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer), upon receipt thereof, shall cause to be forwarded to S&P any notice of restructuring or amendments relating to any DIP Loans held by the Issuer.

"Discount Collateral Obligation": A Collateral Obligation

(i) that is purchased at a price of less than 80% of par if the Collateral Obligation is a loan and has a Moody's Rating of "B3" or higher (including a DIP Loan and a Synthetic Security that has a Reference Obligation that is a loan that, at the time of the purchase of such Synthetic Security, has a Market Value of less than 80% of the principal balance of the Reference Obligation as defined under such Synthetic Security and has a Moody's Rating of "B3" or higher);

(ii) that is purchased at a price of less than 85% of par if the Collateral Obligation is a loan and has a Moody's Rating of "Caa1" or lower (including a DIP Loan and a Synthetic Security that has a Reference Obligation that is a loan that, at the time of the purchase of such Synthetic Security, has a Market Value of less than 85% of the principal balance of the Reference Obligation as defined under such Synthetic Security and has a Moody's Rating of "Caa1" or lower); or

(iii) that is purchased at a price of less than 80% of par if the Collateral Obligation is not a loan and has a Moody's Rating below "B3" (including a Synthetic Security that has a Reference Obligation that is a bond that, at the time of the purchase of such Synthetic Security, has a Market Value of less than 80% of the principal balance of the Reference Obligation as defined under such Synthetic Security and has a Moody's Rating below "B3");

(iv) that is purchased at a price of less than 75% of par if the Collateral Obligation is not a loan and has a Moody's Rating of "B3" or higher (including a Synthetic Security that has a Reference Obligation that is a bond that, at the time of the purchase of such Synthetic Security, has a Market Value of less than 75% of the principal balance of the Reference Obligation as defined under such Synthetic Security and has a Moody's Rating of "B3" or higher); or

(v) that is purchased at a price of less than 75% of par if the Collateral Obligation is a Structured Finance Security or a Finance Lease; provided, however, that with respect to any Measurement Date on or after the 30th consecutive day on which the Market Value of a Discount Collateral Obligation (including for the avoidance of doubt, the Market Value of a Reference Obligation with respect to a Synthetic Security that is a Discount Collateral Obligation) has been equal to or greater than 90% of par (or, in the case of a Synthetic Security, the principal balance or notional amount of the Reference Obligation as defined under such Synthetic Security), such Collateral Obligation will cease to be a Discount Collateral Obligation.

"Distribution": Any payment of principal or interest or any dividend, premium or fee payment made on, or any other distribution in respect of, a security or obligation.

"Diversity Score": A single number that indicates Collateral concentration in terms of both issuer and industry concentration. The Diversity Score for the Collateral Obligations is calculated by summing each of the Industry Diversity Scores, which are calculated as follows:

(i) An "Obligor Par Amount" is calculated for each obligor represented in the Collateral Obligations by summing the Principal Balance of all Collateral Obligations in the Collateral issued by that obligor.

(ii) An "Average Par Amount" is calculated by summing the Obligor Par Amounts and dividing by the number of obligors represented.

(iii) An "Equivalent Unit Score" is calculated for each obligor by taking the lesser of (A) one and (B) the Obligor Par Amount for each obligor divided by the Average Par Amount.

(iv) An "Aggregate Industry Equivalent Unit Score" is then calculated for each of the Moody's Industry Category groups by summing the Equivalent Unit Scores for each obligor in the industry.

(v) An "Industry Diversity Score" is then established by reference to the Diversity Score Table shown below for the related Aggregate Industry Equivalent Unit Score; provided that if any Aggregate Industry Equivalent Unit Score falls between any two such scores then the applicable Industry Diversity Score will be the lower of the two Industry Diversity Scores in the Diversity Score Table.

For purposes of calculating the Diversity Score, an affiliate of an obligor that is in a different industry from such obligor shall be treated as a separate obligor from such obligor if such treatment satisfies the Moody's Rating Condition.

In the event Moody's modifies its industrial classification groups, the Collateral Manager may elect to have each Collateral Obligation reallocated among such modified industrial classification groups for purposes of determining the Industry Diversity Score and the Diversity Score; provided that (i) the Collateral Manager shall have provided written notice of such election to Moody's, the Trustee and the Collateral Administrator and (ii) the Moody's Rating Condition has been satisfied.

As discussed with Nartey, we are taking his feedback into account and once we have gotten more feedback from accounts accross the cap structure we will decide what the best cours of action is.

Gerstie, we need to have a follow up call with Paulson to see how they feel about the strike spreads and upfront fees we mentioned to them. When is this call happening ?

I suggest to hold off for the time being. Paulson will likely not agree to this unless we tell them that nobody will buy these bonds if we don't make that change.

PROPOSAL

We are seeking Senior Credit Committee's approval for: (1) ACA Management to act as Portfolio Selection Agent (an upfront role only) to a synthetic CDO backed by approximately 90 Baa2 subprime mortgage reference entities, by which we would receive ongoing asset management fees for identifying (but not managing) the portfolio; and (2) working with Goldman Sachs, the underwriter, to assist in their marketing efforts to sell Aaa/AAA through A2/A rated notes. This transaction was structured as a result of a "beauty pageant" whereby a New York City hedge fund did due diligence on several CDO managers and selected us as the Portfolio Selection Agent for a reverse equity inquiry CDO. The hedge fund is taking the 0-9% tranche. Structured Credit will have the opportunity to look at the super senior tranche as well. This is our first ABS CDO with Goldman Sachs (we are currently in ramp-up with them on a U.S. CLO).

Key Transaction Metrics

Transaction Type:	$1 billion to $2 billion static synthetic mezzanine ABS CDO Liabilities will be modified sequential pay (target notional o/c based)
ACA Management's (ACA) Role:	Portfolio Selection Agent only
Underwriter:	Goldman Sachs
ACA Required Investment:	None
Asset Class:	Underlying collateral will be 100% synthetic Baa2 subprime residential mortgage positions.
Expected WAL of Underlying Assets:	4 years
Management Fees to ACA per annum:	As per tranche schedule on page 3 below with a minimum annual fee of $1 million.
Warehouse:	ACA is not taking any warehouse risk/return or any ongoing risk (no equity investment).
Non-Call Period:	3 years

The hedge fund equity investor wanted to invest in the 0-9% tranche of a static mezzanine ABS CDO backed 100% by subprime residential mortgage securities. Over the past 3 weeks we have worked with the investor to construct a portfolio that meets their needs as well as ours. Our requirements for the portfolio were that all of the positions had been reviewed and approved by ACA's ABS credit committee and that all seasoned positions were performing within expectations for the vintage. Since there is no ongoing management function (no ability to defensively sell credit risk securities), we proposed a portfolio that was 100% Baa2 to potentially minimize the downgrade risk versus Baa3 underlying bonds. The risk to ACA in this transaction is one of reputation but even this is limited since we acted solely as the portfolio selection advisor and have no ongoing management role (we may need to discuss our ongoing credit opinions on the underlying positions with investors upon request by investors).

What we have done in terms of minimizing our reputation risk is look at stressing the portfolio to determine what downgrades (and defaults) can be sustained before the issued tranches are downgraded. Attached to the back of this write-up is the analysis provided by Goldman Sachs. We are working with our quant team on verifying this work.

Key Portfolio Metrics

We are seeking approval to build a portfolio of asset backed securities which would have the ratings and sector characteristics as shown below.

Number of Reference Obligations:	Approximately 90
Average Size of Each Underlying Position:	1.1%
Moody's WARF:	360 (Baa2)
Expected WAS:	Approximately 250 bps
Sector Concentrations:	100% Baa2 subprime mortgage positions

Transaction Overview

The following is the expected transaction capitalization structure:

Class	Rating	Size	Management Fee
Unfunded super senior	Aaa/AAA	35-100%	n/a
Class A	Aaa/AAA	21-35%	25 bps
Class B	Aa2/AA	18-21%	50 bps
Class C	Aa3/AA-	13-18%	50 bps
Class D	A2/A	9.5-13%	100 bps
Equity	Not rated	0-9.5%

The rationale for this ABACUS transaction is our ongoing core, ABS CDO platform and the fact that this is new business with both a significant hedge fund and Goldman Sach's ABS platform. We anticipate pricing and closing this transaction in March (once our current exclusive on ACA ABS 2007-1 expires).

STRENGTHS AND RISKS/MITIGATING FACTORS

Strengths	Risks/Mitigants
Incremental Fee Income: ♦ ACA's revenue from the deal will come in the form of ongoing portfolio selection advisory fees. • Expected initial management fees will be approximately $1,000,000 per annum.	Potentially adverse credit environment: • Multiple portfolio defaults and downgrades could adversely affect ACA's reputation in the market as a CDO manager should the portfolio experience realized losses and/or tranche downgrades. This is mitigated by the fact that we are not the manager to the CDO (no ongoing responsibility) and that there is cushion to withstand downgrades to positions in the portfolio before the model indicates that the ratings on any tranche would be affected. Mitigants: + All credits in the portfolio have been reviewed under ACA's ABS credit and committee guidelines. + ACA will not take any warehouse or equity exposure to this transaction.
Incremental Revenue from Existing Platform: • Since our role was only as portfolio selection agent, there is no specific ongoing monitoring or surveillance work that will need to be done.

We did price $192 million in total of Class A1 and A2 today to settle April 26th. Paulson took down a proportionate amount of equity (0-10% tranche). Goldman does expect to issue more over the next 2 weeks as well.

Subject: Transaction Summary

Laura: we wanted to summarize ACA's proposed role as "Portfolio Selection Agent" for the transaction that would be sponsored by Paulson (the "Transaction Sponsor"). Feel free to let David and I know if you have any questions.

-- CDO Transaction Size: between $1bn and $2bn notional
-- Reference Portfolio: static, fully identified upfront, and consisting of approx 100 equally-sized mezzanine subprime RMBS names issued between Q4 2005 and today. Starting portfolio would be ideally what the Transaction Sponsor shared, but there is flexibility around the names.
-- Portfolio monitoring required: none
-- Transaction reporting: on a monthly basis, done by trustee (trustee expected to be Lasalle)
-- Portfolio reinvestments required: none
-- Portfolio Selection Agent would be disclosed as having selected the Reference Portfolio
-- Portfolio Selection Agent would not be required to retain any risk in the CDO transaction, although it would have the option to buy CDO notes/unfunded swaps that will be distributed in the market.
-- Portfolio Selection Agent would be asked to facilitate the marketing of the notes (including putting together marketing materials on ACA, discussing with customers on conference calls). No roadshow is expected; no travel is expected.
-- No BWICs required to be run by the Portfolio Selection Agent
-- Timing: the Transaction Sponsor is working under the assumption that Goldman be in the market with this transaction early February

Contemplated Capital Structure -- subject to Reference Portfolio:

- [34]% - [100]%: unfunded supersenior tranche distributed to a supersenior protection writer
- [22]% - [34]%: Aaa/AAA class A tranche distributed broadly on a best efforts' basis by Goldman
- [15]% - [22]%: Aa2/AA class B tranche distributed broadly on a best efforts' basis by Goldman
- [9]% - [15]%: A2/A class C tranche distributed broadly on a best efforts' basis by Goldman
- [0]% - [9]%: pre-committed first loss

-- Economics: for transactions like this, where the Portfolio Selection Agent is not required to retain any risk, we have seen fees in the order of 15bps to 20bps paid on the portfolio notional amount (that's what we have been seeing for most of the Magnetar-sponsored transactions). In the context of this transaction, the portfolio selection fees will be paid in the form of a spread on the outstanding amount of the class A through class C tranches. For example, if you are asking to be paid:

- Class A Portfolio Management Fee: 0.25% p.a. (the tranche is [12]% thick)
- Class B Portfolio Management Fee: 0.50% p.a. (the tranche is [7]% thick)
- Class C Portfolio Management Fee: 1.00% p.a. (the tranche is [6]% thick)

This would mean that if Goldman is able to distribute 100% of the class A, class B and class C notes, the Portfolio Selection Agent would, on a blended basis, receive 0.125% p.a. on the portfolio notional. This compensation structure aligns everyone's incentives: the Transaction Sponsor, the Portfolio Selection Agent and Goldman.

-- The Transaction Sponsor is in discussions with a couple of potential CDO managers, and will work with the manager who will provide the most appealing economic proposal and will be able to address all the stated objectives.

We will send to you later today a termsheet that outlines the transaction structure. What would be constructive is for you to think about the fees that you would need to get paid to act as Portfolio Advisor, and also a draft portfolio that you would select, based upon the preliminary work you mentioned to us during the call.

Thanks,

ACA is going to be ok acting as portfolio selection agent for Paulson, in exchange for a portfolio advisory fee of at least $1mm per year. We will have to distribute supersenior through single-A rated notes off a static portfolio of mezzanine subprime RMBS obligations selected by ACA.

The transaction will not be broadly marketed until February 23 since ACA is already locked with another investment bank until that date. If everyone agrees, the idea is to quietly show this trade to a select number of accounts, and broadly announce the transaction on Feb 23 if it fits with the overall CDO pipeline and if we feel ok with our existing Baa2 RMBS risk position.

We are trying to get Paulson to give us an order on the following tranches:

-- Up to $1,300mm of supersenior @ a strike spread of 34bps. Distribution fee of 0.20% + 1/2 the upside vs. the strike spread
-- Up to $240mm of Aaa/AAA @ an all-in strike spread (including portfolio advisory fees) of 100bps. Distribution fee of 1.00% + 1/2 the upside vs. the strike spread
-- Up to $100mm of Aa2/AA @ an all-in strike spread (including portfolio advisory fees) of 150bps. Distribution fee of 2.00% + 1/2 the upside vs. the strike spread
-- Up to $80mm of Aa3/AA- @ an all-in strike spread (including portfolio advisory fees) of 175bps. Distribution fee of 2.50% + 1/2 the upside vs. the strike spread
-- Up to $100mm of A2/A @ an all-in strike spread (including portfolio advisory fees) of 425bps. Distribution fee of 3.00% + 1/2 the upside vs. the strike spread

My assumption is that we can execute at the levels below, and P&L in that case would be up to $15mm for this trade ($7.5mm for a $1bn trade):

-- supersenior @ 25bps
-- Aaa/AAA @ L+60bps (+20bps of portfolio advisory fees) = 85bps
-- Aa2/AA @ L+80bps (+50bps of portfolio advisory fees) = 130bps
-- Aa3/AA- @ L+95bps (+50bps of portfolio advisory fees) = 145bps
-- A2/A @ L+275bps (+100bps of portfolio advisory fees) = 375bps

ABACUS
agement Letter, Pa

Dan,

We have been working with Paulson (Cactus and Kyle have done a great job at covering the account) over the past few weeks to help them short the RMBS market at a macro level through a $1.32bn supersenior swap trade referencing a portfolio of 100 equally sized 2006-vintage Baa2-rated RMBS bonds. The engagement letter attached is a letter according to which Goldman agrees to work an order for Paulson on this trade, and Goldman gets compensated according to a incentive-based schedule - I will come by on Monday and ask you to sign the letter.

In a nutshell, if we are able to place $1.32bn of supersenior risk at a spread inside 30bps running, we get paid 20bps upfront (on the trade notional) plus half the upside vs. the strike spread of 30bps. In other words:

- if we are able to source supersenior protection @ 30bps on the $1.32bn size, our P&L will be approx $2.6mm

- if we are able to source supersenior protection @ 20bps on the $1.32bn size, our P&L will be approx $4.6mm

We have had dialogue with a couple of accounts who are interested in taking the risk at a spread around 20bps, we will post you next week when the trade materializes.

The term "Agreement" means the Agreement identified as such above, together with any supplement, amendment and modification thereof consented to in writing by ACA. "Insured Payment" means (i) each net floating payment payable by the Obligor under the Agreement, to the extent payable thereunder, after giving effect to any applicable adjustments, netting and set-off thereunder (each, a "Floating Payment"), and (ii) each termination payment payable by the Obligor under Section 6(e) of the Master upon the designation of an Early Termination Date in connection with an Event of Default involving the Obligor as the Defaulting Party or as a result of a Termination Event involving the Obligor as the Affected Party, to the extent payable thereunder, after giving effect to any applicable adjustments, netting and set-off thereunder (an "Termination Payment"). "Insured Payment" shall never include any amounts (including, without limitation, taxes, withholdings, fees, expenses, indemnification, penalty payments or default rates) other than Floating Payments and Termination Payments. "Due for Payment" means (a) when referring to a Floating Payment or Termination Payment, the date on which such payment is due under the Agreement. "Nonpayment" with respect to any Insured Payment means the failure of the Obligor to have provided sufficient funds to the Counterparty for payment of such Insured Payment. "Nonpayment" shall also include that portion of any Insured Payment made to the Counterparty by the Obligor which has been rescinded or recovered from the Counterparty pursuant to a final, non-appealable order of a court of competent jurisdiction that such payment constitutes an avoidable preference to the Counterparty within the meaning of any applicable bankruptcy law. "Business Day" means any day other than a Saturday, Sunday or a day on which banking institutions in the States of Maryland, New York, or the Insurer's Fiscal Agent are authorized or required by law to remain closed.

ACA may appoint a fiscal agent (the "Insurer's Fiscal Agent") for purposes of this Policy by giving written notice to the Counterparty specifying the name and notice address of the Insurer's Fiscal Agent. From and after the date of receipt of such notice by the Counterparty (a) copies of all notices required to be delivered to ACA pursuant to this Policy shall be simultaneously delivered to the Insurer's Fiscal Agent and to ACA and shall not be deemed received until received by both and (b) all payments required to be made by ACA under this Policy may be made directly by ACA or by the Insurer's Fiscal Agent on behalf of ACA. The Insurer's Fiscal Agent is the agent of ACA only and the Insurer's Fiscal Agent shall in no event be liable to the Counterparty for any act of the Insurer's Fiscal Agent or any failure of ACA to deposit or cause to be deposited sufficient funds to make payments due under this Policy.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, ACA has caused this Policy to be signed with its corporate seal and to be executed on its behalf by its duly authorized representative.

2006 vintage. Tier 2/Tier 3 names. Avg spread of approx 450bps mid-market. We already executed a few trades on 21-35 tranche (got that done at 110bps $150mm notional, VERY good level), also traded 35-45 (got that done at 85bps $50mm notional, also good level, more to be printed over the next few weeks). Subject: Post on Paulson and ABACUS 07-AC1

Dan,

As you know we have been working on the ABACUS 07-AC1 trade, the RMBS CDO short that we are brokering for Paulson. The supersenior tranche off that portfolio is most likely going to be executed with ACA, through ABN Amro as intermediation counterparty. The exact trade would be the following: GS would buy protection on $1bn notional of 50-100 tranche off the reference portfolio at an all-in level 67bps. Paulson was initially expecting to short the 45-100 tranche, and at this point we are not 100% sure they would want to execute on 50-100. Here are the options we are going to walk them through:

Option 1: we offer them protection on 50-100 @ 80bps running, 1pt upfront, $1bn notional. We would make risk-free approx $14mm

Option 2: we offer them protection on 45-100 @ 80bps running, 1.50pt upfront, $1.1bn notional. We would be at risk on $100mm of the 45-50 tranche, but assuming we can trade that tranche at approx 100bps spread (which i am confident we can do), we would make $18mm.

Let me know if you have any questions on this.

He has to wait to get the amount of capital it will use from Amsterdam on early Monday and then if all still ok will call us and haggle over price as he thinks there is a lot of money in the deal for GS. This seems to be moving in the right direction I have set up lunch for you with him on Thursday next week

Wade, sorry for the late response I was travelling yesterday and today. Here are my thoughts on your question:

1) the total credit spread of this 45-100 supersenior tranche is going to be approx 55bps

Report Footnote #2551

660521.165

(the tranche below, 35-45, just traded at 85bps). As you said this total spread is to be split intermediation/end credit risk.

2) As intermediary, you are getting paid for taking the supersenior tranche credit risk contingent on ACA defaulting. Therefore the fee intermediaries are traditionally paid is often directly proportional to the maximum potential exposure of a trade - a measure of how volatile the MtM of the trade can be. The fact that the spread on that supersenior tranche is wide can not directly be translated into higher MtM volatility than trades done at tighter spread levels. Note also that this transaction has been built with a full sequential paydown sequence (i.e. fast amortization of the supersenior tranche, roll down pretty significant, and short projected average life of the trade), which is going to rapidly reduce your counterparty risk.

3) I am sure we can discuss collectively with ACA and come up with an arrangement that can be satisfactory to all parties. We used to trade with a couple of other counterparties in the past at a cost of approx 4-5 bps running for similar underlying risks. Those intermediaries have slowly gotten full on ACA's name and that is why we are now trading at the 8-10bps wider level for ACA intermediation.

Let Charlie and I know if you are available tomorrow, we would love to get on the phone and discuss this with you. Thanks,

Regards,

Fabrice

Thanks for your note.

We may have issues on the economics.

It seems that GS have agreed 50 for ACA. This is troubling on two counts:

- Normally on intermediation the risk taker economics are shared 1/3 2/3 Bank and Insurer. On this calculation we should be seeing around 17 bp to us and 43 to ACA if ACA was AAA.
- However there is the additional challenge that ACA is a worse credit rating than us which to be honest should flip round the ratios.

Considering the above a figure of 8 to 10 is way off the mark.

Thoughts please?

Delivered Obligation, the Liquidation Agent shall use commercially reasonable efforts to solicit bids with respect to such security from at least three (3) independent dealers then making a market in such security (no more than one of which is the Liquidation Agent or an Affiliate thereof) on the Business Day on which the Indenture requires the Liquidation Agent to arrange such sale. If the Liquidation Agent obtains three (3) or more bids in accordance with the preceding sentence, then the Liquidation Agent shall use its commercially reasonable efforts to arrange for the sale of the applicable security at the highest bid price. If the Liquidation Agent obtains fewer than three (3) bids as provided above, then the Liquidation Agent, consistent with the other provisions of this Agreement and the Indenture, shall use its commercially reasonable efforts to arrange for the assignment, termination or other disposition of the applicable security at the higher of two (2) bid prices received and, if only one (1) bid is received, at the price so bid. Assuming at least one bid is received in accordance with the preceding sentence, the applicable security shall be disposed of at the highest bid price.

One exception in Anderson Mezz:
In the case of a disposition of a CDS Transaction, such CDS Transaction shall only be disposed of if the Market Quotation (as such term is defined in the Credit Default Swap) obtained pursuant to the terms of the Credit Default Swap expressed as a percentage of the related initial Reference Obligation Notional Amount shall be equal to or less than 60%. Re: Placing debt and equity on a static high grade structured product CDO Squared with [redacted]

I. Introduction

Investec has engaged Goldman with respect to a $1.0 billion static high grade structured product CDO Squared ("Hout Bay II") backed by a $1.0 billion portfolio of primarily double-A and single-A rated CDO assets with remaining assets consisting of A3/A- and higher rated RMBS, ABS, and CMBS with an average rating on the portfolio of Aa3/A1. Goldman will be engaged by Hout Bay II as Liquidation Agent and in this role will have the responsibility of liquidating "Credit Risk Assets" (defined below in section III). Goldman and Investec will co-select the portfolio that will collateralize the CDO. Goldman will be lead placement agent for the debt and equity. [redacted] will be co-placement agent with respect to the equity and has pre-committed to purchase half of the equity, subject to a cap of $7MM, with greater commitment subject to their credit committee's prior approval (expected size of equity tranche is $10 to $14MM), upon closing of the transaction. Investec will share 50% of warehouse risk, subject to a cap of $10 MM, during the portfolio ramp-up.

In return for warehousing, structuring, its role as Liquidation Agent for, and placing the transaction, Goldman will receive a 0.25% fee ($2.5MM on a $1.0 billion deal) from the CDO at closing, and an ongoing fee of 0.04% of the CDO's par portfolio balance. Total economics for Goldman are expected to be approx. $6.2 MM (includes $2.5 mm upfront fee, 0.04% ongoing fee, and approx. $1.2 MM net carry). We will be offering equity to third parties with a no-loss yield of approximately 17% and expected return of approximately 15% to 16%. In return for co-placing the equity and pre-committing to 50% of the equity, [redacted] will receive a 0.25% fee ($2.5MM on a $1.0 billion deal) from the CDO at closing.

As Liquidation Agent, Goldman will liquidate assets determined by the Trustee to be "Credit Risk Assets" based on specific guidelines. Goldman will have 12 months to sell these assets. Sales will be made under a competitive bidding process whereby we will solicit three outside bids and select the highest. Prior to executing Hout Bay I, in which we also played the Liquidation Agent role, we spoke with multiple counterparties as to our role as Liquidation Agent. We received approval for our role in this transaction from legal and accounting. We spoke with outside counsel, Orrick Harrington, and they were comfortable providing true sale and non-consolidation opinions for the transaction. We spoke with Mary Marr in Accounting Policy and John Little in Product Control, and they in collaboration with PricewaterhouseCoopers are comfortable that the transaction meets true sale and non-consolidation conditions from an accounting perspective. Finally, we spoke with outside counsel, Wilmer Cutler, about potential issues related to the Investment Advisor Act. They are of the opinion that our role of Liquidation Agent does not cause us to be deemed an Investment Advisor based on an exception to the Advisors Act for a "limited grant of discretion". related discussions with legal and accounting counterparts please see section III, "The Liquidation Agent: Goldman".

So long as Goldman holds no more than half of the expected losses in the transaction, accounting is comfortable that Goldman will not have to consolidate the CDO on balance sheet. We will hold no more than half of this risk in this transaction at closing.

We expect at least 30% of the portfolio upon closing will have been acquired from our various structured product trading desks in both cash and synthetic form.

We are currently discussing preliminary debt and equity commitments with third party investors on this transaction and we will be conducting a debt and equity roadshow with Investec in December 2006 in Europe and Asia.

For the subordinate triple-A, double-A debt and single-A, we expect to offer it to the market through our syndicate. The double-A and single-A debt from our most recent high grade structured product CDOs was oversubscribed. For single-A and triple-B debt, we will be pursuing early commitments from investors in exchange for more customized debt tranches and/or commitment fees, similar to Hout Bay I.

II. Transaction Overview

A Cayman Islands limited liability company (the "Issuer") will be established which will purchase the warehoused portfolio at closing and will issue the following notes and equity:

Class	Balance	% of Capital Structure	Expected Ratings (Moody's/S&P)	Expected Spread	Expected Average Life
Class A-1 Notes	$850.0 MM	85.0%	Aaa/AAA	L+28bp	6.0yr
Class A-2 Notes	40.0 MM	4.0%	Aaa/AAA	L+48bp	6.0yr
Class B Notes	50.0 MM	5.0%	Aa2/AA	L+58bp	6.2yr
Class C Notes	26.0 MM	2.6%	A2/A	L+150bp	6.4yr
Class D Notes	20.0 MM	2.0%	Baa2/BBB	L+350bp	6.8yr
Class E Shares	14.0 MM	1.4%	NR	NA	NA
Portfolio	$1,000.0 MM	100.0%	Avg. Aa3	L+41bp	6.2yr

The transaction will have a legal maturity of 35 years. However, the expected average life of the notes will be approximately 6 years respectively. The CDO equity will also have the option to call the transaction after 3 years.

Structuring, placement and Liquidation Agent fees to Goldman will be approximately $5 MM ($2.5 MM Upfront plus 0.04% of the CDO's portfolio balance per annum). In return for fees and 70% of the net warehouse carry (70% of the net carry will be approx. $1.2 MM), Goldman will take half of the warehouse risk on the first $20mm of loss, Goldman will take all of the warehouse risk above $20MM in losses, and Goldman will place the Class A, B, C and D Notes on a "best efforts" basis. While [redacted] has pre-committed to purchase half of the equity, we have agreed to reduce their allocation pro-rata vs. Goldman with third party equity sales. [redacted] will fund their warehouse risk share upfront by initially depositing the entire $5MM with Goldman and subsequently depositing another $5MM once the deal is 50% ramped.

Collateral Description

credit risk assets (such determination will be made by the trustee pursuant to the Indenture). The liquidation proceeds from any credit risk sales will be used to pay down the CDO notes.

- 15% of the portfolio will be rated Aaa by Moody's or AAA by S&P. 50% of the portfolio will be rated at least Aa3 by Moody's or AA- S&P. 100% of the portfolio will be rated at least A3 by Moody's or A- by S&P.
- The Hout Bay II portfolio is expected to be approximately 10% subprime RMBS, 10% prime RMBS, 10% Commercial Real Estate CDOs, 55% Structured Products CDOs, 10% CLOs, and 5% ABS. Approximately 20-40% of the portfolio will be single-name synthetic exposures that will be collateralized with triple-A credit card or money market notes.

III. The Liquidation Agent: Goldman

Goldman will be engaged by the CDO at closing as the Liquidation Agent (same as Hout Bay I role). As Liquidation Agent, Goldman will be responsible with selling any asset that is determined to be a "Credit Risk Asset." Whether an asset is a Credit Risk Asset will be solely determined by the trustee to the CDO based on specific rules (see Credit Risk Rules below). Once an asset is determined to be a Credit Risk Asset, Goldman is responsible with liquidating that asset within 12 months of such determination and any liquidation proceeds will be remitted to the CDO bond holders according to the cashflow waterfall. The liquidation price of any Credit Risk Asset must be in the context of "Market Value" as determined by a three-bid process. For acting as Liquidation Agent, Goldman will receive an ongoing fee equal to 4bp of the total portfolio par balance.

Credit Risk Assets:
- Any asset that is downgraded by Moody's or S&P below Ba2
- Any asset that is defaulted

Traditionally, structured product CDO's have engaged Collateral Managers to trade and sell assets in the CDO portfolio. Any decisions to trade or sell an asset are made solely by the Collateral Manager, but such decisions are constrained by various covenants of the CDO (e.g. maximum trading limitations of 15% per annum, generic rules for credit improved or credit impaired sales). For a static high grade structured product CDO, Collateral Managers typically receive an 8-10bp ongoing collateral management fee. However, for high grade portfolios (double-A avg. credit quality), there is substantially less credit risk in the assets vs. a mezzanine structured product CDO portfolio (triple-B avg. credit quality). Also, the static nature of the portfolio eliminates reinvestment risk in the CDO portfolio while substantially limiting the ability of any Collateral Manager to add value through ongoing surveillence of the portfolio. Given the limited value of such a Collateral Manager in this case, [redacted] and Goldman have agreed to eliminate the Collateral Manager role in this transaction and instead, we will create the role of Liquidation Agent where Goldman will receive part of the ongoing fees that would otherwise be paid to a Collateral Manager. Also, since the all-in fees are less than a CDO which engages a Collateral Manager, the equity yield will be higher when compared to a similar transaction with a higher fee structure if we assume that expected portfolio losses will be comparable (we assume losses will be 0.2% or less).

We have discussed Goldman's role as Liquidation Agent internally with Tim Saunders and externally with outside counsel, Wilmer Cutler. One concern about that role was whether Goldman would be viewed as an Investment Advisor. We specifically crafted Goldman's role in Hout Bay I and in this case to eliminate both internal and external counsel's concern about Goldmen being treated as an Investment Advisor. The main factors that made Tim Saunders and Wilmer Cutler comfortable that Goldman will not be treated as an Investment Advisor were:

- Goldman's role is Liquidation Agent and not Collateral Manager. Goldman is engaged by the CDO to liquidate Credit Risk Assets and will receive an ongoing Liquidation Agent Fee for such services;
- Goldman does not determine whether an asset is a Credit Risk Asset. Such determination is made by the CDO based on specific rules (LaSalle will provide reporting on a monthly basis that shows whether an asset has become a Credit Risk Asset);
- Goldman must liquidate such Credit Risk Assets within 12 months of such determination and the price received on such liquidation must be in the context of a three-bid process;

- Goldman does not receive any additional compensation and or control of the CDO for acting as Liquidation Agent.

We have discussed Goldman's role as Liquidation Agent in Hout Bay I with internal accounting, Matt Schroeder, Mary Marr and John Little. One concern about this transaction was whether Goldman will receive a true sale of warehoused assets to the CDO once the transaction closes. Accounting was specifically concerned that the CDO's inability to trade / rehypothecate the underlying assets may cause problems based on FASB 140 rules. They argued that a CDO's independence needs to be demonstrated by either (a) being a QSPE or (b) ability to rehypotheticate the underlying portfolio. Otherwise, the sale of our warehoused assets to the CDO may not receive true sale. We have agreed with accounting that we will structure the CDO such that the investors in the CDO will have the ability to perform a Beneficial Interest Exchange ("BIE") on any asset in the portfolio. In addition, investors will also have the ability to perform a BIE on any security held in the funded collateral account for any single-name synthetic exposures in the portfolio ("CDS Collateral Account"). Under the BIE rules, a majority of each tranche of the CDO may request an exchange of a certain asset in the portfolio / a certain security in the CDS Collateral Account, with a similar third party asset / security so long as the exchange is at market, the cost of such exchange is covered by such investors, and the exchange will not violate the covenants of the CDO. On Hout Bay 2006-1, we worked together with accounting and agreed on parameters for the BIE option. By structuring the BIE option into the CDO, accounting was comfortable that Goldman will receive a true sale.

We will build a provision into the deal documents to allow Goldman to resign as Liquidation Agent if appropriate notice is given and a replacement Liquidation Agent is in place.

[redacted]

For [redacted], Hout Bay II represents an opportunity to continue to expand their role in a CDO beyond investor, and to build upon the static CDO platform built together with Goldman Sachs in the first Hout Bay CDO. [redacted] is also committing to 50% of the equity.

V. Underwriting Commitments:

Goldman Sachs will act as sole placement agent of the Class A, B, C and D Notes, and up to 50% of the Class E Shares, and will be working on a "best efforts" basis on all of the debt. [redacted] is pre-committed to 50% of the equity, but third party equity sales can reduce Goldman and [redacted] equity retention pro-rata.

The primary demand for mezzanine notes / equity in these types of transactions comes from other structured investment vehicles and CDOs of CDOs, Asian investment funds, high net worth individuals, and CDO equity funds. These various accounts continue to express interest in gaining a leveraged exposure to the U.S. high grade structured product market. The static high grade structured product CDO allows them to gain this exposure on a diversified basis without having to pay the significantly higher management fees associated with managed CDO transactions.

Goldman's current portfolio of CDO and CLO equity held within the CDO group is detailed in Appendix B.

VI. Portfolio Ramp-Up and Equity Marketing

Goldman will assume half of the first loss risk (first $20MM of risk) and all of the second loss risk (losses in excess of $20MM) in the warehouse in the event the CDO fails to close. [redacted] will be taking the other half of the first loss risk in the warehouse [redacted] will deposit [redacted] into the warehouse account upon opening of the warehouse).

Additionally, we will continue to pursue early equity and mezzanine debt commitments from additional investors to reduce the risk of a failed closing. Appendix A details our current warehouse exposures across the CDO group.

The general terms of the portfolio ramp-up are as follows:

- GS selects assets for purchase and Investec has the right to veto certain asset purchases;
- GS has unilateral right to liquidate an asset or the warehouse;
- All assets are sold-forward to the CDO at time of purchase and the forward price covers any hedge or trading gains/losses on assets during the warehouse phase;
- 70% of positive carry will be paid to GS (positive carry is equal to any net income in excess of Goldman's cost of financing during the warehousing period). Net carry is expected to be approximately $1.75 MM which will be shared 70/30 between Goldman and Investec;
- Position sizes will be limited to $30 MM for assets rated triple-A, $20 MM for double-A, and $15 MM for single-A;

- 100% of the collateral for the transaction will be identified at closing.

VII. Expected Fees

Goldman will earn a structuring, placement and Liquidation Agent fee equal to 0.25% times the par balance of the collateral portfolio at closing plus 0.04% per annum times the par balance of the collateral portfolio. We expect a $1.0 billion transaction and the fees, in that case, would be $2.5 MM plus 0.04% per annum of the par balance of the collateral. Additionally, Goldman expects to earn profits by selling assets into the CDO and from Goldman's share of warehouse net carry (which is estimated to be $1.2 MM).

Separately, [redacted] will earn a co-placement fee equal to 0.25% of the par balance of the collateral portfolio at closing.

VIII. Reasons to Pursue

We are pursuing this transaction for the following reasons:

1. The respective trading desks are posted on each asset offered into the CDO from the Street. In addition, we expect thet 30% of the portfolio by closing will come from Goldman's offerings.
2. Although we will be marketing a $1.0 billion Hout Bay II transaction, Goldman can price the transaction earlier with a lower balance if we are concerned about future market conditions or we can upsize the transaction if there are reasons to merit that action.
3. We will be offering the equity to third party investors with an expected return of approx. 15%.
4. [redacted] is taking a portion of the warehouse risk, [redacted] is committed to 50% of the equity. Goldman has a "best efforts" underwriting commitment on the debt and remaining equity, and Goldman's fees are 0.25% upfront ($2.5 MM on e $1.0 billion deal) plus 0.04% per annum of the CDO's portfolio balance plus approx. $1.2 MM in net warehouse carry.

IX. Strengths / Issues to Consider

Strengths

- Pre-sold Equity: [redacted] hes pre-committed to purchase half of the equity.
- Sponsorship Opportunity: [redacted] has asked Goldman to structure and place Hout Bay II and act as Liquidation Agent for the portfolio. [redacted] will sponsor the CDO through their warehouse risk sharing and equity commitment. In addition to the Hout Bay II mandate and the Hout Bay I equity purchase, [redacted] hes invested in or plans to invest in other SP CDO and CLO transactions underwritten by Goldman, and we expect our ongoing relationship with them to result in continued sponsorship of CDOs brought to market by Goldman.
- Efficient Fee Structure: Lower overall fees in this transaction (vs. other high grade CDO squared deals in the market) allow more flexibility to select higher quality assets and ramp-up the portfolio quickly and reduces execution risk to Goldmen and Investec.

Issues to Consider

- Warehouse: Goldman Sachs will be exposed to half of the first $20MM of any net losses and all of the risk above $20MM if the deal fails to close. [redacted] is depositing $[redacted] when the warehouse opens to cover their entire risk exposure in the warehouse.

660521.178

- "Best Efforts" Underwriting Obligation: Goldman Sachs will make a "best efforts" obligation to distribute all of the Class A, B, C and D Notes.

X. Recommendation

Goldman Sachs will be involved in ramping and warehousing the portfolio for the transaction, structuring the transaction, placing the notes and the equity of the CDO, and in return will earn a $2.5 MM fee at closing, an ongoing fee of 0.04% per annum of the CDO's portfolio balance and approximately $1.2 MM in net carry in the warehouse. [redacted] has committed to half of the equity in the transaction, to 50% of the first $20MM in warehouse losses in the event the CDO does not close, will collaborate with Goldman to ramp the portfolio for the CDO prior to the closing, and will be an ongoing surveillance agent after the CDO closes.

In light of the above, we request that the Capital Committee approve our proposal to enter into a "best efforts" underwriting of the CDO debt and commitment to 50% of the equity and to move forward with the warehouse risk sharing arrangement with Investec.

Subject: CDO Liquidation Agent Role - Draft Talking Points - INTERNAL USE ONLY

INTERNAL USE ONLY

Liquidation Agent Role -- Talking Points

Liquidation Agent Process
- our goal as Liquidation Agent is to attempt to maximize proceeds on the unwind of credit risk assets pursuant to the liquidation process governed by the CDO documents, rather than to liquidate at an arbitrary pre-specified time without regard to market conditions
- original goal of the rating agencies in structuring the 12 month time period was to avoid forcing the CDO to liquidate in the immediate time period after significant ratings downgrades (which the rating agencies were concerned may be the worst time to liquidate due to decreased market liquidity)
- although we are required to ask for unwind levels from three independent dealers, our intention is to go out to more than three dealers in order to increase possible number of bidders to try to get the best level available in the market
- Liquidation Agent role is run by GS CDO team (independent from the ABS flow secondary trading desk), with access to full resources and market color from ABS trading desk, Mortgage Strategies, and external resources (including color and credit views from third party CDO collateral managers)

Fundamentals
- current credit performance data on the six Credit Risk Obligations between Hudson Mezz 1, Hudson Mezz 2, and Anderson:

Name	Current Face	Moody's	S&P	Current Credit Support	Foreclosure + REO	90+ Delinq.	60+ Delinq.	30+ D
LBMLT 2006-1 M9	15,000,000	B1	B	5.91	14.98	19.83	23.13
MSAC 2006-WMC2 B3	15,000,000	B3	B	3.07	11.78	14.34	16.94
OOMLT 2006-2 M8	13,000,000	Ba1	B	3.72	10.43	15.64	18.23
SAIL 2006-4 M7	15,000,000	Ba2	CCC	3.25	11.48	14.96	17.21

Technicals
- current indicative unwind levels on the six current Credit Risk Obligations range from 75-83 points upfront
- recent flows in these types of nemes have been driven by hedge funds covering shorts, with dealers willing to take the other side (given length of IO remaining and out-of-the-money option value)
- no significant new initiation of trades on these names (in either direction) -- hedge funds have preferred to initiate new shorts up the capitel structure and on cleaner names - trades with more upside to short side of trade

Current strategy -- wait and continue to evaluate market conditions, rather than liquidating now
- upside is that continued short-covering by hedge funds anxious to monetize profits could cause minor rally (5-10 points)
- downside is that a speed up of foreclosure process vs. current timeline expected by market could decrease IO value, or significant forced selling of similar names by CDO vehicles could push levels wider

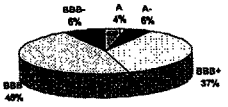
Transaction Overview

- Hudson Mezzanine Funding 2006-1 will be a static $2.0 billion cashflow CDO consisting of a diversified portfolio of single-name credit default swaps on RMBS securities.
- Goldman Sachs, & Co. ("Goldman") selects the assets.
- 60% of the assets will be single name CDS referencing all forty obligors in ABX 2006-1 and ABX 2006-2.
- The portfolio consists of collateral which is rated at least Baa3 and BBB- with an average rating of Baa2/Baa3. 100% will be real-estate related securities.
- Low fee structure and less "bar-belled" portfolio than other mezzanine CDOs in the current market
- Goldman, as Liquidation Agent, will liquidate any asset determined to be a "credit risk" within 12 months of said determination. Credit Risk assets will include:
  - Any asset downgraded by Moody's or S&P below Ba3 or BB-
  - Any asset that is defaulted or would be experiencing a credit event as defined by the PAUG confirm
- There will be no reinvestment, substitution, discretionary trading or discretionary sales. After closing, assets that are determined to be "credit risk" will be sold by the Liquidation Agent within one year of such determination.
- Goldman will invest in a portion of the Income Notes at closing.



Structural Highlights

- Pure static structure eliminates reinvestment risk and shortens expected weighted average lives on liabilities
  - No reinvestment, substitution, or discretionary trading
  - Proceeds from credit-risk sales will be treated as principal paydowns or notional reduction of the Senior Swap
- Liquidation Agent Fees: 10 bps per annum
- 100% ramped at closing and 100% certainty of all assets in collateral portfolio to be included in transaction
- No fixed rate assets in the portfolio eliminates possibility of an interest rate swap hedge mismatch

Lira, like always we appreciate the focus Glad Mike is being patient with his need for a response Absolutely happy to get on this call tomorrow Want to make certain if we go down this route (which will be fairly long), Mike has approval to execute given the synthetic nature of the collateral.
We can discuss with Mike tomorrow if that works and get a better feel for his ability to participate Tomorrow, my schedule is calls at 8, 9, 1, 3 and 3:30 and can get on the call at a time other than that Thank you

Just had a really good heart-to-heart with Michael Halevi, who was very understanding of our inability to provide him with a written response thus far to his questions below. Rather than focussing on buying a tranche GS is not focussed on selling, Halevi wanted to know what part of the capital structure GS was going to be focussed on because he didn't want to go through the process [redacted]

Bottom line:
He will focus on getting approvals to buy a chunk of Class B (Aa2/AA rated) tranch as his conduit can buy down to single A rated notes but he was uncomfortable focussing on Class Cs since this was synthetic underlyer which would be difficult for him to get approvals on single A on the first go around.

Next steps:
He has made himself available for a call any time tomorrow. I need to email him with availability for Darryl or someone on his team to answer his below questions verbally so he can get business committee approval process in place to potentially buy the [redacted] Please come back to me asap with a firm time for us to give him a call tomorrow. Once this call is in place, he will try submit for business committee approval, and if it passes, he will need to have another due dilligence call with his credit committee approval. Darryl - Ideally we would like you to be on the call since you already know Mike Halevi well. Can you please get back to me asap with available time slots for us to have a call with him tomorrow? Tjamls

Before we can determine whether the A2 note is a suitable investment for Nieuw Amsterdam, it would be helpful if your structuring team could provide answers to the following 'big picture' questions.

A) It is understood that Goldman Sachs will act as liquidation agent and as such is required to liquidate any asset that is downgraded below Ba3 or BB-. What I'd like more clarity on is how transitional risk can be quantified. It seems as if we'd have to assess the historical transitional ratings of mezz RMBS against market spreads alongside the adequacy of loss/default coverage. Do you have a 'worst case' example(s) of how much subordination can be lost from a deteriorating, but non-defaulted mezz tranche. Further, why is Goldman afforded up to 12 months to sell a credit risk asset?

B) How is the 'tail' risk on the A2 note mitigated as all subordinate notes may be paid down prior to our note?

C) Explain how "credit risk" trading occurs for an index. The PAUG structure for single-name CDS is understood.

Enjoy the holiday weekend,

Regards,

Subject: NAB//Hudson Mezz Update 2

Ben Case
Naina Kalavar
[redacted]

NAB -How will the most recent downgrades affect the position?
Ben -About 27%-28% is now at credit risk obligation overall a total 43% of the portfolio affected by ratings actions
The majority names that look the worst have been downgraded except a handful of Alt A (moodys said this would be their next focus)
The timing of the agency action is always uncertain, but otherwise this is not a huge surprise - actually surprising that market has traded off on higher ratings rather than BBB

Management update -
Starting to talk about transferring liquidation rights to 3rd party experienced ABS CDO collateral manager -
Think it will be in best interest of investors -The credit obligation term was originally written in with expectations that it was unlikely to happen
Liquidity has dried up so market priced in before rating change, so automatic sale feature was not able to get these assets out before market priced in the decline
Good for deal for several reasons:
1.Large institutional asset mngr will be able to access more liquidity b/c they can access other broker dealers and get good pricing
2. even keeping the deal the way it is, the decision of when in the 12 month period to liquidate could be better handled by an experienced manager
3. Potential amendment could be made to benefit the deal by giving more flexibility to agent
NAB - what is the cost of this
Ben - they get transferred over the fees. No increase in fees - if an increase was needed, this would influence our decision about how to proceed.
NAB - will they be able trade into new names
Ben - unlikely to amend the deal to add new names, but may be able to make an amendment to give them greater discretion to add value to the daal and to loosen other restrictions - ie the 12 month mandatory sale requirement
NAB - do we have a choice, as an investor, on this decision. Do we have a say in the choice of the manager?
Ben - Not yet able to speak about specific names
NAB - What role would GS have? We don't want to see GS disappear from transaction
Ben - the liquidation agent duties would be assigned - we would not have discretion in the process. GS is involved on ongoing basis in terms of working with manger and trustee to make sure it is being administered properly, structural advice, strategic advice - to at least the same level as with any other GS structured CDO.

NAB seems to doubt the idea that GS would not be able to get as good bid/offers as a 3rd party would.
Ben - brokers will prefer to deal with clients and give them much more considaration than they would another broker
NAB - are there any credit assets that the trading desk considers to be worthless?
Ben - no - generally they all at least pay interest
NAB - What % of portfolio is being priced as IO?

NAB - Could all investors come together and come up with a repackaging plan?
Ben- All options that would benefit the deal are being considered. Not a clear way to restructure that would benefit equally all investors - so tough to get unanimous consent.

NAB What is the recovery on sale today - weighted avg price of the 28% in credit risk?
Ben -80-90 bps up front -average recovery will be 15%
NAB -GS holds equity piece. have you written that off completely
Ben -Looks unlikely that equity would ever receive another payment.

NAB If sold off all 28% of credit risk would that break our tranche
Ben - Your tranche is at around 28.5% - this sale would probably result in 23% loss and the Alt A that is not in credit risk yet also assuming 15% recovery, but there is a little extra cushion b/c of excess spread trapped due to credit risk provision- this tranche is probably right on the cusp

NAB - what are other investors saying?
Ben -Variety of sentiments- pessimistic, wait and see, nothing too different than what NAB is saying, Limited feedback on transfer of liquidation agent has been positive
NAB - GS view on the rest (remaining 65% of portfolio)
Ben - If we continue to see home price declines, these could decline in value. If home prices recover - we may see a better scenario

Next step - let them know what happens with the liquidity agent change. They are most interested in removing the 12 month forced liquidation term.

This is the structure giving them the most trouble, interested in whether it will be restructure. Last spoke in July. Senior OC test continues to fail. None of underlying securities have experienced amortization - locked out for 3 yrs from origination on each security

Based on the definition credit risk obligation in the doc (if 7 asset (5%) of portf hava been down graded below BBB) GS as liquidation would have to sell with in 12 months of the down grade to cred risk obligation status

NAB - are you currently waiting to see when to sell? When do you think will be good time to sell these assets?
CB - Monitoring market conditions and the assets - current distressed nature of the assets has been fully priced in and has not moved over the past 2 months - if unwound those cds it would be at 80-90 points, that is % points to be paid up front to unwind swap - equiv of 20 cents to dollar in cash bond terms
Across entire universe of loans already in liquidation - been generally seen 50-60-70% recovery rates. Rates are not coming back high enough to make the market optomistic that bonds will come back to recover principle and on the second piece of the pricing, the option value of return of principle - mrkt pricing that option at way out of money.

NAB 50-70% recover is after fees?
CB Yes, it is ultimate recovery net of servicer fees and costs

NAB - is it tough or does it create a conflct for GS to try to get info from the servicer since this it is a synthetic?
CB - We have cash info for many of these - a lot is released pubically - we use databases like loan performance, or generall averages across similar loan portfolios. It is harder to get specific bond and underlier info. The aggregate stats show even bleaker outlook - that we are expecting

NAB When is the right time to liquidate the assets? F
CB - We are focusseed on fundamentals and mrtk technicals. Lots of hedgefunds have shorts on these names - the names the mrkt is pricing as most distressed were driven dramatically lower even before ratings down grade - mainly by repeated shorting and protection buying from HF.
Our view that there is upside in waiting anf evaluating mtkt conditions before liquidating. Based on technicals - floor or IO value is stable. We think that the shorts may get impatient - minor rallies from short covering - domino effect/momentum creates a rally b/c shorts get nervous at little rally --- this provides potential upside to waiting to liquidate.
Downside of waiting - if foreclosure timelines shorten across country and IO losses value - media and govt and regulation seems to be pushing to slow the forecosure process, which skews away from this downside risk

MM underlying secties locked out for 3 year - possibility to amending deal to extend the liquidation period

Sidley is working on the various documents related to both the Liquidation Agent transfer and an amendment to remove the 12-month forced sale (discussed with [redacted] and that's the amendment they want to pursue). When we get the first drafts of the docs (I spoke to Sidley this morning and they said later today, so should be soon), we'll send them to [redacted], get their sign-off, and then collect the consents from investors and rating agencies. Once [redacted] signs off on the investor consent forms, I'll begin speaking to investors - first, equity and super-senior for the Liquidation Agent transfer, and then after that, the other investors for the removal of forced sale amendment. Will need to discuss with you how to approach MS Prop on Hudson Mezz 1. Susan Helfrick in legal has already reviewed the first draft of the Liquidation Agent transfer docs.

February 29, 2008

Goldman Sachs & Co.
85 Broad Street
New York, NY 10004

Dear Mr. Salame:

We are writing because Goldman, Sachs & Co. ("GS") has breached (and continues to breach) its contractual obligations by exercising investment discretion in connection with its role as Liquidation Agent for Hudson Mezzanine Funding 2006-1, Ltd. ("Hudson"), a synthetic CDO transaction structured and offered by GS in late 2006.[1]

As Liquidation Agent, GS is currently responsible for liquidating approximately $1,000,000,000 of Credit Risk Obligations. The transaction documents clearly state that GS would not exercise investment discretion in its role as Liquidation Agent. GS has not yet liquidated a single Credit Risk Obligation, notwithstanding that some date back to August 2007. The GS employee handling the liquidation has explained this by stating that he believes the price for these obligations will increase in the future and it is better for the deal to liquidate these obligations at a later date.

We believe GS has breached the terms of the Liquidation Agency Agreement and that its actions as Liquidation Agent are contrary to the disclosures contained in the OC. In addition, as a result of GS taking on the role of an "investment adviser", as defined under the Investment Adviser's Act of 1940 ("Adviser's Act"), the Credit Default Swap with Hudson constitutes a violation under the Advisers Act, as GS never secured informed consent to act as Credit Default Swap Counterparty while exercising investment discretion.

As a result of GS's actions, Morgan Stanley and Hudson have already suffered approximately $150 million in incremental losses, and these losses are continuing to increase. We demand that GS immediately cease exercising investment discretion regarding when to liquidate the Credit Risk Obligations and proceed to liquidate these obligations forthwith as required by the Liquidation Agency Agreement.

[1] Capitalized terms used but not defined in this letter have the meanings ascribed thereto in the Offering Circular for the Hudson transaction dated December 3, 2006 (the "OC").

The Transaction

GS offered the Hudson transaction as an unmanaged synthetic ABS CDO in which Hudson, among other things, was to:

- issue approximately $800,000,000 in various Notes;
- sell credit protection to Goldman Sachs International ("GSI") under a "pay as you go" credit default swap transaction with an initial notional amount of $2,000,000,000 relating to a portfolio of 140 RMBS securities (the "Credit Default Swap", and each underlying component swap on a particular RMBS security, a "CDS Transaction"); and
- buy credit protection from GSI under another "pay as you go" swap transaction with an initial notional amount of $1,200,000,000 to fund payments that could be due under the Credit Default Swap in the event amounts available from the proceeds of the Notes pursuant to the Collateral Liquidation Procedure had been exhausted (the "Senior Swap").

The Hudson transaction closed on December 5, 2006. As of that date, Morgan Stanley Capital Services Inc. ("MSCS") purchased the Senior Swap through Goldman Sachs Capital Markets, LP ("GSCM") by entering into a swap transaction with GSCM explicitly linked and exactly mirroring the terms of the Senior Swap, under which GSCM, among other things, passed through to MSCS all rights of the Senior Swap Counterparty to act in its capacity as a member of the Controlling Class or otherwise. GS provided the OC to Morgan Stanley in connection with its marketing of the Senior Swap.

Amongst various other roles, GS was engaged by Hudson to act as Liquidation Agent pursuant to a Liquidation Agency Agreement dated December 5, 2006. Under the relevant terms of the Liquidation Agency Agreement, GS is obligated to assign, terminate or otherwise dispose of the CDS Transactions relating to Reference Obligations which become Credit Risk Obligations within twelve months after receiving notification thereof.

Exercise of Investment Discretion Prohibited

The Hudson transaction documents make it clear that GS is prohibited from providing investment advisory services or exercising investment discretion in connection with its role as Liquidation Agent. The Liquidation Agency Agreement states that "the Liquidation Agent (i) shall arrange for the assignment, termination or other disposition of Pledged Assets, by following the procedures in Section 7 hereof, but shall have no ability or authority to direct the assignment, termination or other disposition of any Pledged Assets; (ii) shall not provide investment advisory services to the Issuer or act as the "collateral manager" for the Pledged Assets and (iii) shall not have fiduciary duties to the Issuer or the Holders of the Notes." (Section 2(g) (emphasis added).)

Similarly, the OC states that "[t]he Liquidation Agent will not have the right, or the obligation, to exercise any discretion with respect to the method or price of any assignment, termination or disposition of a CDS Transaction that references a Reference Obligation that is ... a Credit Risk Obligation; the sole obligation of the Liquidation Agent will be to execute the assignment, termination or disposition of such CDS Transaction in accordance with the terms of the Liquidation Agency Agreement." (OC p. 46 (emphasis added).) The OC reinforces this point in a section titled "No Collateral Manager" which states that "[t]he Issuer has not engaged, and will not engage, a collateral manager to select the Pledged Assets ... to monitor the Pledged Assets ... or to consult with the Issuer with respect to the Pledged Assets, including the advisability, timing or terms of any disposition thereof. None of the Liquidation Agent or any of their [sic] affiliates will provide investment advisory services to or act as an advisor to or an agent of the Issuer or the Holders of the Notes ...". (OC p. 48 (emphasis added).)[2]

The Current Dispute

During the month of October 2007, thirty-eight Reference Obligations became Credit Risk Obligations, leaving the Hudson transaction with approximately $568,000,000 original notional amount of CDS Transactions classified as Credit Risk Obligations. Reference Obligations have continued to become Credit Risk Obligations over time, including twenty-six more in January 2008. There are currently approximately $1,000,000,000 original notional amount of CDS Transactions that are Credit Risk Obligations.

Morgan Stanley learned in December 2007 that GS had appointed Ben Case as the GS employee responsible for handling the Liquidation Agent function for GS. Since that time, our trader John Pearce has consistently requested that GS, in its role as Liquidation Agent, assign, terminate or otherwise dispose of the relevant CDS Transactions forthwith. Mr. Case has consistently resisted Mr. Pearce's requests, asserting that according to his analysis, the optimal time for the Hudson transaction to exit the positions had not yet come. This is clearly an exercise of investment discretion, which renders GS a collateral manager and a fiduciary, in each case a violation of the provisions of the Liquidation Agency Agreement.[3]

As stated above, Morgan Stanley believes that GS has breached the Liquidation Agency Agreement by exercising investment discretion over the liquidation timing of the relevant CDS Transactions. Also, since the OC makes it clear that the Liquidation Agent cannot and will not be acting as a collateral manager or exercising investment discretion,

[2] While the Liquidation Agency Agreement provides that the Liquidation Agent must complete the process of liquidating the relevant assets within twelve months, it does not provide the Liquidation Agent with any right to delay the liquidation process based on the exercise of investment discretion. To the contrary, the Liquidation Agency Agreement and the OC clearly state that no discretion or investment advisory services are ever to be provided by the Liquidation Agent.

[3] Mr. Case has indicated that he is employing technical and fundamental analysis and his trading judgment in an attempt to maximize recovery for Hudson. On his most recent call with Mr. Pearce, Mr. Case explained his refusal to liquidate the CDS Transactions at this time by stating that he believes RMBS markets will rally as short positions are covered.

Morgan Stanley believes the OC, upon which we relied in making our decision to enter into the Senior Swap, contains material misstatements.

Furthermore, Morgan Stanley believes Mr. Case's actions have resulted in GS becoming an "investment adviser" as defined under the Adviser's Act. While GS did disclose and receive consent to act in the dual roles of Liquidation Agent and Credit Default Swap Counterparty, that consent and disclosure was predicated upon GS not acting as a collateral manager or exercising the sort of investment discretion that Mr. Case has undertaken. Therefore, Morgan Stanley believes that the informed consent required under Section 206(3) of the Adviser's Act for GS to act as an investment adviser and for an affiliate to act as Credit Default Swap Counterparty was never granted, making the Credit Default Swap an unlawful transaction pursuant to Section 206.[4]

As a result of GS's breach of contract and violation of laws, Morgan Stanley and Hudson have suffered significant incremental losses. These incremental losses have already reached approximately $150 million and could increase substantially in the future.[5]

Conclusion

At this time, Morgan Stanley is demanding only that GS fulfill its contractual duties as required by the Liquidation Agency Agreement and assign, terminate or otherwise dispose of the relevant CDS Transactions forthwith. However, Morgan Stanley reserves all rights and remedies arising from the various contractual breaches and violations of law by GS arising from or in connection with the Hudson transaction. We look forward to discussing this situation and how best to resolve these issue with you in the near future.

Sincerely,

John Faulkner
Managing Director and
General Counsel of Institutional Securities

cc: Ms. Fran Bermanzohn, Goldman Sachs

[4] The level of investment discretion currently being exercised by Mr. Case also raises regulatory questions, such as whether Mr. Case is subject to GS's compliance procedures applicable to persons acting as investment advisers, whether GS's form ADV discloses the sort of advisory services provided to Hudson, and whether (and when) GS's form ADV was delivered to Hudson.

[5] Our calculation is based on looking at the level of the relevant vintage and rating category of ABX on the first trading day a Reference Obligation became a Credit Risk Obligation and comparing that level to the relevant ABX level on February 27, 2008. In all cases, the relevant ABX index had dropped between the two measurement dates.

Just wanted to make you aware of this, since it might come up in your dealings with TCW -- we're going to assign our Liquidation Agent duties to TCW on the 5 static ABS CDOs that we issued last year (Hudson Mezz 1, Hudson Mezz 2, Hudson High Grade, Anderson, and Hout Bay), and as part of the agreement they're going to share 30% of the fees back to us. Win-win for both sides.

Dick Loggins and I just spoke to Lou Lucido about the Liquidation Agent opportunity and offered him the opportunity at the 2nd best economic proposal shown to us -- sharing 30% of the fees back to us on a running basis ($1.1mm annually to GS). Lou sounded excited, ran it by Jeffrey, and called back to say they'd like to agree on those terms, subject to sign-off by his legal (they looked at the docs during the first round, but he wants them to review again -- he understands the docs are on an "as is" basis).

Subject: RE: Rabo Enquiry

Spoke to Ben Case.
GS is soliciting consent to assign GS role as liquidation agent to TCW bec when liquidation agent role was designed, it was very "out of the money"; now when the risk is very real, it is much more efficient to have a sophisticated collateral manager bec
(i) TCW can access better liquidity than GS, ie get bids from the entire street
(ii) real asset manager can pursue further amendments to the doc to make liquidation more efficient bec GS is not an asset mgr under the investment act in 1940 and cannot act investment advisory services and can't act with optimal discretion

Requires approvals of:
both rating agencies Moody's and S&P
Simple majority (51%) of the controlling class (SS holders) and equity

He will also send the TW OM.

Subject: Rabo Enquiry

Doreen Crawford from Rabo called asking
1 - Hudson Mezz - whether GS was potentially seeking an amendment on indenture wrt if there is an impairment on the asset, there is a forced liquidation, which may not be the best for the deal
Is GS the other 50% controlling class of the SS?

2 - Also, Rabo needs the indenture for TW, she has OM but missing indenture

FEMALE AUTOMATED VOICE	WEDNESDAY, 2/13/2008 AT 11:30 A.M.
[redacted]	Morgan Stanley
Ben Case	[redacted] it's Ben Case.
[redacted]	Hey, Ben, How you doing, man?
Ben Case	Good, How you doing?
[redacted]	Oh, hanging in. Hanging in. Just, you know, just another, I wanted to sorta follow up, I don't know, you know, how obviously we talked in the past, and, going through these things, just basically calling to see, you know, what if any updates, you know, from your front, how you see the market, how you're thinking about, this trade, the eligible assets, the timing, the state of the market, you know, kinda, kinda similar to what we talked about last week.
Ben Case	Sure. Well let me give you my current thoughts. I mean I'd say, in general I'd say not a lot of new, new developments or new information -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	- that's, that's affecting our current strategy, from the markets, since our last conversation, um, you know, in terms of the timing of the liquidations which I know is the point that you're most specifically focused on -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	I, you know, I'd say, kind of consistent with, with, with, uh, the conversation that, kind of, uh, topics we walked in our last, and my kind of thought process that we walked in the last conversation, I mean I do see the, the wave of short covering in the market kind of continuing to proceed -
Ben Case	- and, you know, if, you know kind of as expected, kind of helping hold up valuations for these kind of assets, even where the ultimate, you know, fundamental, you know, write down amount, looks bleak, but, you know not causing, an actual uptick in prices due to kind of a variety of, of other market forces that are, are holding levels down. And, you know, the farther we get into the short covering wave, the more the, the balance between the upside of holding longer, versus the downside of holding longer -

[redacted]	Right.
Ben Case	- you know, the risk balance in holding rather than liquidating, you know, changes to the downside -
[redacted]	Um hum.
Ben Case	So I think, as we see the short covering wave kind of continue to proceed to, you know, far enough along where we feel like that balance shifts further enough down, you know, it's gonna get to the point where it's in the best interest of the deal to start liquidating them -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	You know, I know we've talked about this twelve month period, you know, I can't give you a ton of specifics or predictions cause, as you know, we're constantly re-evaluating, but I can give you my current thought is, you know, it doesn't seem like it's gonna take till late in the twelve month process for the majority of these assets to get to that point -
[redacted]	Okay.
Ben Case	- you know, as we see the market moving along, it does seem to be, you know, coming noticeably sooner than that, so, you know, we do see that in progress we do see it moving along, and I think it's, you know, I think that's gonna mean the liquidatings are gonna come, you know, kind of sooner rather than later within the twelve month period or the remaining period for, you know, each asset, but exactly what time frame that is, you know, how quickly that is, you know, will be governed by those market conditions, it's tough for me to put an exact, specific answer on that -
[redacted]	Right. Well, I mean, look, okay, so now we're, we're what, basically a billion dollars now of eligible assets, right? A lot of it, you know, there have been fits and starts, a lot of it came on in October, and then a significant, you know, big, you know, another big chunk, you know, but, you know, sort of sixty percent October, forty percent, you know, at the end of January here, you know, we don't need to get into, you know, sort of my feelings about, you know, what, you know, what from an economic, cost standpoint that's meant for our position, because I do think it's significant -
Ben Case	I, I understand that, I -
[redacted]	And that's, and it's unfortunate -
Ben Case	- understand that.

[redacted]	So, so, and look, we've gone back and forth a lot, I wanna try to keep these discussions, you know, constructive, cause I wanna, you know, I don't want you to be dreading, dreading these conversations every week, or whatever, but, you know, I think that, as they, as they come in, right, give me, if you can, you know, one, sort of a way that you've sort of thought about, you know, kinda, kind of the market from October till now, you know, it's hard for me to, you know, looking at, let's just look when I talk to my management, for example, about, you know, the trends in the ABX, and the price movements since October, it's difficult for me to just sorta go back, and hindsight's always twenty-twenty, and I respect that. But it's, it's difficult to go back and sorta, sort of break that down, so, you know, just in general, clearly prices are down from, from where they were when these assets first got downgraded, right, so clearly the strategy, if it is centered on short covering, hasn't, at least thus far paid off, of course it certainly could, you know, we can start to see a massive short covering rally in the market, no one would welcome it more than I would, but it may or may not happen, and then second, so that's part one, it's sort of, you know, your overall thought process, so I can get a feel if you can't give me specifics on liquidation, at least I can get a feel for, for your thoughts. And then two, if you've given any sort of thought to, from, when you do get to the liquidation point, if you've given any thought to how you would actually execute the liquidation. In other words, I don't think it makes sense to wait to the very last day of eligibility and then sell the things on that day, right, that's not gonna be a price optimization exercise any more than selling it on the first day of eligibility would. So, you know, those, I think those two things right now would be most helpful in terms of me thinking about kinda, where you guys are coming from, in terms of thinking about this role.
Ben Case	Sure, okay, well let me go, let me address both of those things, I mean, certainly, you know, since I, on the first part, kind of what we've seen since October, and, you know, how we think about our strategy and how it's developed, you know, I mean, certainly, you know, it's pretty, pretty transparent to see just what the ABX, oh six two and oh six one -
Ben Case	- kind of [inaudible] minus, indices you know, it's cover, a good portion of the portfolio, you know, what the price action has looked like over that time. You know, yeah, I think it's, you know, your characterization is right that, you know, over the course of this time and starting at, you know, kind of, you know, the beginning of the time, you know, sort of say, starting in October for the majority of assets that were, you know, were downgraded and became credit risk obligations -

[redacted]	Um hum.
Ben Case	You know, our strategy at that point was, you know, given expected market technicals and given, you know, weighing the, you know, the presented probability prices were gonna stay the same, which, you know, is, you know, kinda flat to the deal, I mean I'd say it's, you know our goal is sort of, is to, you know, execute this in as responsible a manner as possible, relative to the goal that, or excuse me, relative to the chance that the prices were gonna go up, versus the prices were gonna go down -
[redacted]	Sure. You know, I understand, you guys don't have a crystal ball.
Ben Case	Eliminating the, eliminating the percentage chance, you know, the probability chance that the assets were gonna stay the same, and comparing kind of the up versus the down -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	- you know, we do think there was more upside than downside, and it, you know, specifically, you know, was driven by our expectation of, you know, our view on market technical flows, which, you know, it's interesting, cause it's kind of, come to pass and it hasn't, I mean, if you looked at, you know, the flows we see, and exactly these kind of names that were, are credit risk obligations, these kind of CUSIPS -
[redacted]	Um hum.
Ben Case	- you know, it has to come to pass that, the vast majority of flows are from short covering rather than, you know, either, either new long initiation or new short initiation -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	You know, however, it did not cause upward price action, you know, due to, you know, the overall downward trend in prices related to, you know, all forms of residential credit -
[redacted]	Um hum.
Ben Case	- particularly up the capital structure, you know, it certainly, driven to some degree, you know, particularly when you get up this capital structure by the new remittance report and housing prices and other fundamental, data that's come out-
[redacted]	Sure.

Ben Case	- over the time.
Ben Case	It's driven, you know, to some degree by other kind of technical market factors such as, rating agency downgrades and, you know, the S&P actions in January -
[redacted]	Right. And throughout this, hold on one second, and I don't mean to cut you off, I appreciate, obviously all this color, I definitely, you know, I definitely want to try to get, you know, into, into what's how you're thinking about it, but through this time, you were, you know, getting pri-, like when these assets become eligible, do you get prices on them? Like how do you, like how do you judge kind of where the market is, and where it is, cause you're not, right I know, cause we've talked about this before too, I know you're not part of the trading desk, right? Your are separate, cordoned off from that -
Ben Case	Right.
[redacted]	So, how do you get, like, what is the process from which you continue to evaluate the market, are you just looking at ABX, or -
Ben Case	Sure, well to be clear I have access to the resources and color of, the trading desk is also part of -
[redacted]	Okay.
Ben Case	- the mortgage department here, so, it is, it is not, it is not accurate to say I, don't talk to those guys, or I'm, I'm segregated with it, a function that's independent -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	It is, independent in its decision making, but all, everything they can offer as an input -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	I have access to. So I'd say, yeah, my color on market pricing and, and levels, comes primarily on a day-to-day basis from, our trading desk.
[redacted]	Okay, [inaudible] cool.
Ben Case	You know, I say secondarily from other market sources you know, people I talk to in the market, you know, other, you know, other stuff we see from, from, you know, either clients or other dealers or other parties in the market, you know, that's, that, adds color as well, but the primary source would be -

[redacted]	Would be your guy. Now, but you don't have like I do, you don't have street coverage, right, you're not sitting there talking everyday to sales people at other firms, and to traders at other firms, or are you?
Ben Case	That's correct.
[redacted]	You're not. Okay, cool. All right. So I mean look, going forward, we're, you know, kinda, gonna, you know I guess take under advisement, I, just so you know, my opinion stays the same, I'd like to see a bid list before three o'clock today -
Ben Case	OK.
[redacted]	We're gonna, I guess take it under advisement, right, and consider it to evaluate. Not what are looking sort of, you know, we talked the last time about, we hear, you know, we feel like, all right, we're at least partway through this short covering, there may or may not be more of these deals liquidating as we go into event of default, it will be sort of a tug of war between those two guys, you know, I don't want to put words in your mouth, I, you know, that's kind of what I'm thinking, would you agree generally with that statement?
Ben Case	Yeah, I, I do, I mean I think the, the majority of the flows, you know, that we estimate we will see on a going forward basis, is continued short covering, and then, you know, also, to whatever extent there are in the market, you know, CDO liquidations -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	And, yeah, I, the balance between those two, you know, kind of technically it's probably gonna be the biggest driver of pricing, given -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	- you know, we expect those two phenomenons to be the vast majority of flows in these exact types of CUSIPS. Yeah, and I say the short covering wave is, you know, it's far enough along that it, you know, it feels like it's closer to the end than the beginning -
[redacted]	Sure.
Ben Case	- I think last week I, you know, as I tried to amass, kind of across, you know the big macro guys, how much of, you know, their position that they want to get out of relatively in the future, have they already gotten out of?

[redacted]	Yeah.
Ben Case	And I think it's probably beyond half, I mean, I think it's somewhere between fifty and sixty percent -
[redacted]	Yep. So that's kinda where it was last week when we talked, right?
Ben Case	Yeah, I mean, maybe, you know, maybe it's marginally -
[redacted]	Little bit more.
Ben Case	Farther, you know, we haven't seen this huge amount of activity in the last week -
[redacted]	Yeah that's a good point
Ben Case	obviously the conference last week kept things slow -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	So, you know, as that gets closer to the end, it's, you know, the upside down, down side balance changes, I would also say, you know, yes there are, I think at last count something like seventy-nine ABS CDOs in event of default -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	- and we've seen a handful, but it's certainly a single digit number -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	- proceeding with liquidations -
[redacted]	Okay.
Ben Case	And it's, you know, the greater the likelihood that a bigger number of magnitudes of move forward with liquidations, certainly is a big factor in changing the upside, downside balance -
[redacted]	Sure.
Ben Case	- holding versus liquidating -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	I, you know, I'd say it is not my expectation that imminently, we see -
[redacted]	-a bunch of liquidations.

Ben Case	But I do think the farther time goes -
[redacted]	Sure.
Ben Case	you know, on the margin, the percentage chance of, that happening goes up, and the percentage chance that the short covering will affect pricing goes down, which is why, you know, I, right now, given all that, I don't see it, you know, being the best decision to wait until, very late in the twelve months -
[redacted]	Right.
Ben Case	I think it's, you know, it's gonna be noticeably sooner than that. And it'll be, you know, how those two phenomenons develop whether it's, you know, two weeks, a month, two months, whatever.
[redacted]	We'll see. Now what about fundamentals side, have you spent, you know, any time, either internally or externally or just for your own purposes, thinking about, you know, things like this lifeline thing, that we heard yesterday, or, you know, the fact that the HOPE NOW is kind of up and running and actually executing stuff, I mean, do you have any expectations for, you know, maybe, not for this particular set of assets but for the market more generally, you know, any hope really of any fundamental, you know, given the, given that we're working with this limited time frame for the documents, do you feel there's anything beyond sort of the technical nature of the markets that we've talked about in the past, that might help, or is that sort of, you know, like we're playing with technicals, and that's the nature of the beast at this point?
Ben Case	You know, the one thing, I mean, I think there is some chance, and I wouldn't necessarily call it a very high chance -
Ben Case	- but I think there is some, you know, some non-zero chance that, through these kind of programs, there will be, you know, a reasonable expectation of the market, of some lengthening of the foreclosure process -
[redacted]	Okay.

Ben Case	- programs as a bigger priority rela-
[redacted]	Have you thought about interest rates, you know, does that, is that enough to offset the lower liable running, you know, the points up front, you get paid to sell the protection here, what's your view kinda on the forward curve?
Ben Case	Yeah, I mean, look, you know, obviously, you know, the Fed has done what it's done, you know, it's down, significant from where it was, you know, there's more of that priced in, I'm somewhat agnostic, you know, kind of up or down on the forward curve from what's already priced in -
[redacted]	Okay.
Ben Case	- in terms of future Fed action, but, you know, the future Fed action, I mean, the expectations what's already priced in, you know I think it's real, and I'm not -
[redacted]	So you like the forward curve. You don't think it's been -
Ben Case	Yeah, I don't
[redacted]	- bent out of shape.
Ben Case	There's not a, I don't have a, strong view yeahthat the forward curve is bent of shape in one direction or the other -
[redacted]	Okay.
Ben Case	- that would affect us.
[redacted]	All right. So last thing is, okay, let's say, all right, that's all great, you know, we can agree, I mean, there's a lot of that I agree with you with, I'm probably a little, obviously a little less optimistic about, you know, at least the short term prospects for any significant return of principal from, you know, from some of these initiatives for, at least this pool of assets.

Ben Case	I agree with that, by the way, when I talk about lengthening the IO, it's really, you know, the biggest or only possible factor, you know, when you talk about these kind of programs looking at, you know, what chance they're gonna affect increased principal levels -
[redacted]	Well, especially for these bonds, right?
Ben Case	Yeah, exactly. First you gotta look at the loan pool, and it's, you know, maybe it's marginal, but, you know, whatever effects it have I think are, gonna take much farther off the time for the market to get comfortable with, and incorporate in the pricing, it's not a, you know, immediate next few months -
Ben Case	- phenomenon, and yeah, particularly with, you know, what kind of, you know, marginal effects it'll have at the loan pool level relative to these kind of securities, yeah, I don't think there's much or any impact in terms of changing expectations for principal recovery or the lack thereof on these securities,
[redacted]	Which is really, I mean that would be, if that, I mean that's really the key to the, of a big change in price, right, I mean, that's, you know, you can, we can move up in a plus or minus, three or four or five point range on technicals and IO but, to get any kind of real pop, would you agree that we need some sort of, you know, some sort of assumption by the market that, hey, wait a minute, we might be missing something here, maybe losses aren't as bad as we think they're gonna be? And that just seems pretty farfetched as this point.
Ben Case	Yeah, you know, yeah, I think that's right, that's obviously gonna be much bigger magnitude than, you know, the IO, or the technicals, you know, yeah, and it's, I mean, to some extent if you have a given security in the markets, pricing in, you know, zero probability of any principal recovery?
Ben Case	Then there's only one direction it could go, but I, the chance that it could move in that direction, at least in the next few months, you know, I mean, we're not talking about, we have the choice here to wait, you know, five years or sell now -
[redacted]	Right.
Ben Case	- is de minimis I'd say.
[redacted]	Okay. All right. So let's switch gears now, just in terms of, you know, all right, let's see now, I don't know whether it's a week, or two weeks, or a month, or whenever we get to the point where you, you know, start to initiate this process, you kinda decide that it's the right time, what, have you thought

Ben Case	Sure. Let me give you the automated process -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	- that we're required to file, and then I'll give you a couple of other thoughts related to the questions you've just asked.
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	We, the process will be, we'll go out with, you know, one or more lists to a minimum of three nationally recognized broker dealers -
[redacted]	Okay.
Ben Case	- making markets in these kind of assets -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	- at the time we go out with it -
[redacted]	Yep.

Ben Case	- as many guys as we think could give us a price -

Ben Case	You know, in terms of whether it'd be driven by, you know, kind of, you know, flows we see from our clients on the flows of the market, I, yeah, I'd say that's, you know, just in terms of the, you know, exact implementation of this process, you know, kind of all the color that we see and that's at our disposal, you know, will be used to try to do it in the most responsible manner -
[redacted]	Now the reserve levels apply, like do you have, you know, do you have ability, okay, so there's a decision about, okay, we're gonna do it on this day, and then as we get the prices in, like how much, you know, in terms of evaluating the prices themselves, I don't imagine that I, as a participant in the deal, you know, just like the equity or triple A's or anybody else, but, would be able to opine on whether or not you should hit bids, or lift off or some protection, how, have you thought about, you know, reserve levels apply in sort of your decision making process in regard to the actual bids when they come back?
Ben Case	Sure. You know, I'd say, there is no formal process built in to the deal by which we, you know, go out as if we're starting the official liquidation process for assets -
[redacted]	Okay.
Ben Case	- and then evaluate the reserve level and then pull back. You know, the formal process is, you know, we go out and we trade at the best level we get -
[redacted]	Okay.
Ben Case	- now I think, you know, we'll want to implement that as responsibly as possible, and certainly we, you know, we do have the ability, to outside of, whatever is the formal, official, you know, sale process -

Ben Case	- you know, but we're gonna be responsible about it, too, and it's, you know, we have some amount of, you know, decision in terms of, is this the formal last process that we're going out with, in which case we're required to sell at the best level, or is this a precursor to that, in which case -
[redacted]	Right.
Ben Case	- you know, there's no requirement on what we do.
[redacted]	So there could be some level, even at the individual line item asset of, you know, decision making that you could put into, okay, you know, gees, you know, we're not gonna sell protection on this thing, you know, or buy protection on this thing at ninety-nine and a half points up front, or something like that.
Ben Case	Yeah, I, you know, yeah, we're gonna want to be responsible about it, absolutely, and, you know, the other thing I'd say is in terms of how much do we put out at once, you know, one option is the whole thing in one, one slug -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	- but we certainly also have the ability to do it in, you know, multiple phases, you know, I don't have a final decision on that for you, and that'll certainly be, you know, kind of, due to our valuation of market conditions this at the time, and we'll see how things go in the future, but my feeling is right now that, you know, a billion is a big list to put out in one day -
[redacted]	Yeah.
Ben Case	- and -

[redacted]	But if the deal doesn't restrict you necessarily from, but if the deal doesn't necessarily restrict you from executing on price X, Y or Z, why wouldn't you get as much information back as you possibly could about the widest net of asset.
Ben case	Agree, other than if the size of the list initially affects the levels the guys are willing to give us.
[redacted]	Okay. So, sort of, you know, along the lines here, it sounds like I have, you know, you guys are gonna be involved in deciding not only when, but at the time when you decide it's sort of, you know, how, in terms of list size, and then even at the line item level there may be some level of decision about, you know, about price points.
Ben Case	Yeah, and I'd say, you know, look, if we're, you know, if we wanna do it in a couple of phases -
[redacted]	Yep.
Ben Case	- I, you know, my thought is obviously that, you know, the different line items that are gonna be at the highest dollar prices or lowest points up front -
[redacted]	Yep.

JD from MS Prop would like to set up a conference call with you for early tomorrow morning are you available? He'd like to get updates on the following:

1. With Quarter end approaching - sensitivity on all SS positions - he wants to update everyone internally (particularly on Hudson) 2. In wake of recent market volatility with unwind of Peloton, wants to hear your market view at this point (remember last call we discussed our thought that market was going to rebound) 3. Managing Director and
General Counsel of Institutional Securities
Morgan Stanley
1221 Avenue of the Americas

Dear John:

I am responding to your letter of February 29, 2008 to Pablo Salame of Goldman Sachs regarding Goldman's role as Liquidation Agent for Hudson Mezzanine Funding 2006-1, Ltd. ("Hudson") pursuant to a Liquidation Agency Agreement between Hudson and Goldman Sachs.

As a preliminary matter, we were surprised and disappointed to receive a letter containing such serious accusations, without any prior dialogue among our respective legal professionals. We have always tried to maintain a professional working relationship between our institutions, and our firms have many communication channels that could have been employed constructively before such a letter was sent. It would also not be our custom to have our lawyers initiate contact through your business professionals.

As to its substance, your letter is entirely mistaken in its suggestion that Goldman Sachs has somehow breached its obligations under the Liquidation Agency Agreement. As Mr. Faulkner's letter recognizes, Section 2(b) of the Liquidation Agency Agreement specifically provides that Goldman, acting as Liquidation Agent, has up to twelve months in which to assign, terminate or otherwise dispose of Credit Risk Obligations assigned to it for that purpose. Obviously, establishment of a liquidation period of that duration contemplates – and, indeed, embodies Hudson's informed consent – that the Liquidation Agent will necessarily exercise judgment in determining when and how to dispose of Credit Risk Obligations assigned to it for that purpose. Had the parties intended to require disposition in some kind of mechanical manner without regard to any market judgments or timing, the heavily lawyered contract would have read very differently and Goldman Sachs may well have declined to undertake such a constrained role.

Nor does this expressly intended contractual latitude transform Goldman Sachs into a de facto "investment adviser" to Hudson, as you suggest. The Agreement (Section 8) in fact categorically disclaims that Goldman Sachs or its affiliates will be providing investment advisory services or otherwise acting as an adviser or fiduciary to Hudson by virtue of its liquidation services. That disclaimer is perfectly consistent with discretion routinely accorded to securities brokers in seeking to fulfill their obligation to obtain the best execution possible for their clients without making them "investment advisers." We assume that across Morgan Stanley's diverse broker/dealer businesses, including to the extent Morgan Stanley plays similar roles as a liquidation agent, your firm does not register as an investment adviser and follow the Investment Advisers Act simply by virtue of exercising such judgment and limited discretion.

In all events, we respectfully reject any suggestion that Goldman Sachs has failed to act in a commercially reasonable manner or in good faith in attempting to achieve an orderly liquidation of the Credit Risk Obligations in a challenging market environment. To the contrary, Goldman Sachs has exercised its best judgment based on its experience and the available information affecting these volatile markets. We note that although you clearly disagree with Goldman Sachs' judgments, you do not appear to contend that those judgments are not genuine or have been arrived at for a bad faith purpose.

Finally, we see no purpose at this time in addressing at length other matters raised by your letter, including its significant mischaracterization of Mr. Case's statements. Morgan Stanley's lack of standing even to advance many positions that are within the exclusive province of Hudson, and the preclusive effect on Morgan Stanley's contentions of the Agreement's broad exculpation and conflict waiver provisions provide sufficient response. Suffice it to say that Goldman Sachs will continue to perform its role in good faith, and we truly hope that Morgan Stanley will not escalate this matter into a needless legal dispute that will simply increase the costs for Hudson and the holders, given the Agreement's indemnification provisions. We are, of course, open to the views of Morgan Stanley and all other interested parties in this transaction. However, while it is obviously easy to criticize any judgment with hindsight, we believe that it would be more productive in the future if Morgan Stanley simply shares its own informed views about these markets and their directions.

Sincerely,

Frances R. Bermanzohn

ARTICLE 12

DISPOSITION OF COLLATERAL ASSETS

Section 12.1 Sale and Removal of Credit Risk Obligations and Defaulted Obligations.

(a) Provided that no Event of Default has occurred and is continuing and subject to the satisfaction of the conditions specified in Section 10.5 as applicable, and the remainder of this Section 12.1, the Collateral Manager may direct the Issuer to sell Credit Risk Obligations, Defaulted Obligations or equity securities or assign or terminate Synthetic Securities the Reference Obligations of which are Credit Risk Obligations, Defaulted Obligations or equity securities.

(b) The assignment, termination or disposition price for any such sale or removal of a Collateral Asset will equal the fair market value of such Collateral Asset. The fair market value of any such Collateral Asset will be the highest bid received by the Collateral Manager after attempting to solicit a bid from up to three independent third parties making a market in such Collateral Asset, at least one of which is not from the Collateral Manager; provided that, if upon commercially reasonable efforts of the Collateral Manager, bids from three independent third parties making a market in such Collateral Asset are not available, the higher of the bids from two such third parties may be used; provided, further that, if upon commercially reasonable efforts of the Collateral Manager, bids from two independent third parties making a market in such Collateral Asset are not available, one such bid may be used so long as it is not from the Collateral Manager. The proceeds from any such sale of Collateral Asset will be applied as Principal Proceeds on the next succeeding Payment Date and may not be reinvested in other Collateral Assets. The proceeds from the disposition of a Collateral Asset may not be reinvested in any other Collateral Asset.

(c) Equity securities received in exchange offers shall be sold as soon as commercially practicable in the Collateral Manager's reasonable business judgment. Subject to applicable law, the Issuer shall use commercially reasonable efforts to sell any Margin Stock acquired by it by a date not later than 45 days after the date of the Issuer's acquisition of such Margin Stock. The limits and time periods provided in this Section 12.1(c) may be extended subject to satisfaction of the Rating Agency Condition.

(d) If no Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, a Synthetic Security, if eligible for sale in accordance with Section 12.1(a) hereof, shall be assigned, terminated or sold (treating such assignment or termination as a sale for purposes of this Article 12) as directed by the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer. Any cash received in payment of principal on or upon the liquidation of Default Swap Collateral or Synthetic Security Collateral (net of any amounts payable to the Synthetic Security Counterparty) shall be deemed to be Principal Proceeds.

(e) The Issuer may also,

(i) in the case of an Optional Redemption by Liquidation, at the direction of the Collateral Manager, direct the Trustee to sell, terminate or assign and the Trustee shall sell, terminate or assign in the manner directed by the Collateral Manager in writing, the Collateral Assets without respect to the limitations of Section 12.1(a), (b), (c) or (d) hereof and the remaining Collateral; provided that the requirements set forth in Sections 9.1(a) and 9.2 hereof can be demonstrably met prior to any such sale, and that the proceeds from such sale, determined in accordance with the criteria for an Optional Redemption by Liquidation, will equal or exceed the Total Redemption Amount, and upon such sale the Trustee shall release such Collateral from the lien of this Indenture;

(ii) in the case of a Tax Redemption, at the direction, or with the consent, of the Collateral Manager on any Payment Date, direct the Trustee to sell, terminate or assign, and the Trustee shall sell, terminate or assign in the manner directed by the Collateral Manager in writing, the Collateral Assets without respect to the limitations of Section 12.1(a), (b), (c) or (d) above and the remaining Collateral; provided that the requirements set forth in Sections 9.1(b) and 9.2 hereof can be demonstrably met prior to any such sale, and that the proceeds from such sale will equal or exceed the Total Redemption Amount, and upon such sale the Trustee shall release such Collateral from the lien of this Indenture; and

(iii) if, in connection with an Auction, the Collateral Manager receives timely bids (which are each "firm offers") that are, in the aggregate, at least equal to the Minimum Bid Amount, at the direction of the Collateral Manager, direct the Trustee to sell, terminate or assign and the Trustee shall sell, terminate or assign the Collateral Assets in the manner directed by the Collateral Manager in writing; provided further that, the procedures set forth in this Indenture and in Schedule E of this Indenture, as applicable, are satisfied.

Section 12.2 General Cashflow Swap Agreement Provisions.

(a) On the Closing Date, the Issuer shall enter into a Cashflow Swap Agreement with Goldman Sachs International as initial Cashflow Swap Counterparty, provided that the Issuer may replace the Cashflow Swap Agreement but shall not enter into any additional hedge agreements after the Closing Date.

Pursuant to the Cashflow Swap Agreement, on each Payment Date occurring through the termination of the Cashflow Swap Agreement in accordance with the Priority of Payments, the Issuer will pay certain amounts due to the Cashflow Swap Counterparty in accordance with the Cashflow Swap Agreement and the Cashflow Swap Counterparty will make advances to the Issuer in accordance with the Cashflow Swap Agreement.

(b) The Issuer shall ensure that the Cashflow Swap Agreement shall provide that the Cashflow Swap Counterparty will agree (a) that the Issuer's obligations under the Cashflow Swap Agreement are limited recourse obligations of the Issuer payable solely from the Collateral and subordinated as set forth in the Priority of Payments, (b) to a standard non-petition clause, and (c) such Cashflow Swap Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of New York.

(c) Pursuant to the initial Cashflow Swap Agreement, the Issuer may terminate the initial Cashflow Swap Agreement if (A) Moody's First Rating Trigger Requirements apply and 30 or more local business days have elapsed since the last time the Moody's First Rating Trigger Requirements did not apply and Goldman Sachs International has failed to comply with or perform any obligation to be complied with or performed under the Credit Support Annex, and (B) (x) the Moody's Second Rating Trigger Requirements apply and 30 or more local business days have elapsed since the last time the Moody's Second Rating Trigger Requirements did not apply and (y) (i) an Eligible Replacement has not become the transferee of a transfer made in accordance with Part 5(b)(i) of the Cashflow Swap Agreement, subject to satisfaction of the Rating Agency Condition and/or (ii) an entity with the Moody's First Trigger Required Ratings has not provided an Eligible Guarantee in respect of all of the initial Cashflow Swap Counterparty's present and future obligations under the Cashflow Swap Agreement;

(d) The Collateral Manager may cause the Issuer, promptly following the early termination of the Cashflow Swap Agreement (other than on a Final Payment Date) and to the extent possible through application of funds available in the Cashflow Swap Termination Receipts Account, to enter into a replacement Cashflow Swap agreement (a "Replacement Cashflow Swap") which may have different terms; provided that the Rating Agency Condition is satisfied.

(i) If (A) the funds available in the Cashflow Swap Termination Receipts Account exceed the costs of entering into a Replacement Cashflow Swap, (B) the Collateral Manager determines not to replace the terminated Cashflow Swap Agreement and the Rating Agency Condition is satisfied, or (C) the termination is occurring with respect to a Final Payment Date, then amounts in the Cashflow Swap Termination Receipts Account (after providing for the costs of entering into a Replacement Cashflow Swap, if any) shall be transferred to the Collection Account on the next following Transfer Date and shall be treated as Principal Proceeds and distributed in accordance with the Priority of Payments on the next Payment Date (or on such Final Payment Date, in the event the Notes are redeemed).

(ii) If the Cashflow Swap Agreement is terminated and the costs of entering into a Replacement Cashflow Swap exceed the funds credited to and available therefor in the Cashflow Swap Termination Receipts Account, then, after using the funds in the Cashflow Swap Termination Receipts Account, the Issuer may enter into a Replacement Cashflow Swap with such Cashflow Swap Replacement Amount payable to the replacement Cashflow Swap Counterparty in accordance with Section 11.1(a)(iv) hereof on subsequent Payment Dates or, if such termination would result in a Defaulted Cashflow Swap Termination Payment, in accordance with Section 11.1(a)(xviii) hereof on subsequent Payment Dates.

(e) The amounts in the Cashflow Swap Replacement Account shall be applied directly to the payment of termination payments owing to the Cashflow Swap Counterparty, if any. To the extent not fully paid from Cashflow Swap Replacement Proceeds, such amounts shall be payable to the Cashflow Swap Counterparty in accordance with Section 11.1(a)(iv) hereof on subsequent Payment Dates or, if such termination payment is a Defaulted Cashflow Swap Termination Payment, in accordance with Section 11.1(a)(xviii) hereof on subsequent Payment Dates. To the extent that the funds available in the Cashflow Swap Replacement Account exceed any such termination payments (or if there are no termination payments), the excess amounts in the Cashflow Swap Replacement Account shall be transferred to the Collection Account on the next Transfer Date and shall be treated as Principal Proceeds and distributed in accordance with the Priority of Payments on the next Payment Date. If the termination amounts owing to the Cashflow Swap Counterparty exceed the Cashflow Swap Replacement Proceeds for such agreements, then, unless such amounts represent Defaulted Cashflow Swap Termination Payments, they will be paid before funds are applied to pay principal or interest on any Notes (except the Class S-1 Notes) in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

(f) The Issuer shall ensure that the Cashflow Swap Agreement may be terminated, whether or not the Notes have been paid in full on or prior to such termination, upon, among other things, (i) certain events of bankruptcy, insolvency, conservatorship, receivership or reorganization of the Issuer or the Cashflow Swap Counterparty, (ii) failure on the part of the Issuer or the Cashflow Swap Counterparty to make any payment under the Cashflow Swap Agreement within the applicable grace period, (iii) certain withholding or other taxes being imposed on payments to be made under the Cashflow Swap Agreement as set forth in Sections 5(b)(ii) and (iii) of the ISDA Master Agreement incorporated in the Cashflow Swap Agreement, (iv) a change in law making it illegal for either the Issuer or the Cashflow Swap Counterparty to be a party to, or perform an obligation under, the Cashflow Swap Agreement, (v) an Event of Default under the Indenture occurs and is continuing and there has been a liquidation (in whole), or the commencement of a liquidation (in whole) of assets of the Issuer, (vi) the Indenture is supplemented or amended without the consent of the Cashflow Swap Counterparty as described therein, (vii) the Cashflow Swap Counterparty is no longer a Secured Party under the Indenture or (viii) the aggregate Principal Balance of the Collateral Assets becoming less than U.S.$50,000,000. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Issuer will not optionally terminate any Cashflow Swap Agreement unless the Rating Agency Condition is satisfied in connection with such termination.

(g) In the event of the occurrence of an Optional Redemption by Liquidation, Tax Redemption or a successful Auction, if the Cashflow Swap Agreement is terminated in accordance with the terms thereof, the Collateral Manager, on behalf of the Issuer, shall furnish to the Trustee evidence in form and substance satisfactory to the Trustee that the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer has entered into one or more binding agreements (i) for the purchase of the Collateral with purchasers or counterparties whose short term debt ratings are "P-1" by Moody's and "A-1+" by S&P and (ii) for the pricing of termination payments under the Cashflow Swap Agreement, and which agreements provide for the purchase of the Collateral Assets and the termination of the Cashflow Swap Agreement in 10 days or less from the date thereof and that such redemption is non-revocable.

(h) The Trustee shall credit to the Cashflow Swap Collateral Account all amounts, securities and other collateral that are received from the Cashflow Swap Counterparty to secure the obligations of the Cashflow Swap Counterparty in accordance with the terms of such Cashflow Swap Agreement. Each item of collateral credited to the Cashflow Swap Collateral Account will be credited to a separate sub-account relating to the Cashflow Swap Counterparty which pledged such collateral. Except for investment earnings, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty shall not have any legal, equitable or beneficial interest in any Cashflow Swap Collateral Account other than in accordance with this Indenture, the applicable Cashflow Swap Agreement and applicable law.

As directed by an Issuer Order executed by the Collateral Manager in writing and in accordance with the Cashflow Swap Agreement (which may be in the form of standing instructions), amounts credited to a Cashflow Swap Collateral Account shall be invested in investments meeting the criteria of "Eligible Investments" unless otherwise specified in the Cashflow Swap Agreement (provided, for the avoidance of doubt, that such investments shall not constitute "Eligible Investments" for purposes of the Coverage Tests). Income received on amounts credited to the Cashflow Swap Collateral Account shall be withdrawn from such account and paid to the Cashflow Swap Counterparty in accordance with the applicable Cashflow Swap Agreement.

Section 12.3 Reserved.

Section 12.4 Reserved.

Section 12.5 Synthetic Securities.

(a) Under certain conditions described in the Synthetic Securities, each Synthetic Security Counterparty may be required to post Synthetic Security Collateral under the circumstances and as described in the Synthetic Securities. The Synthetic Security Collateral pledged by such Synthetic Security Counterparty will be credited by the Trustee to the Synthetic Security Collateral Account and held therein pursuant to the terms of the related Synthetic Security. Each item of collateral credited to the Synthetic Security Collateral Account will be credited to a separate subaccount relating to the Synthetic Security for which the related Synthetic Security Counterparty has pledged such collateral.

(b) The Synthetic Securities shall be structured as "pay-as-you-go" credit default swaps. As part of the purchase of each Synthetic Security on or before the Closing Date, the Issuer will be required to purchase Default Swap Collateral which satisfies the Default Swap Collateral Eligibility Criteria set forth in the related Synthetic Security and the inclusion of which has been consented to by the Synthetic Security Counterparty in the amount required to secure the obligations of the Issuer in accordance with the terms of the related Synthetic Security which shall be in at least an amount equal to the Aggregate Reference Obligation Notional Amount. The Synthetic Security Counterparty shall have consent rights with respect to the Default Swap Collateral and no Default Swap Collateral objected to by the Synthetic Security Counterparty may be purchased by the Issuer. Default Swap Collateral shall be credited to the Default Swap Collateral Account. The amount payable by the Issuer to the Synthetic Security Counterparty under a Synthetic Security shall not exceed the Default Swap Collateral.

Interest payments and redemption premiums, dividend distributions or investment earnings on and any fees paid with respect to the Default Swap Collateral shall constitute property of the Issuer and shall be paid to the Trustee and credited to the Collection Account and treated as Proceeds unless such amounts are required to be paid to the related Synthetic Security Counterparty under the terms of the related Synthetic Security. Principal payments on the Default Swap Collateral prior to the termination of the Synthetic Security shall be held in accordance with such Synthetic Security in the Default Swap Collateral Account and invested in Eligible Investments until reinvested in Default Swap Collateral at the direction of the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer with the consent of the Synthetic Security Counterparty.

In the event a Synthetic Security is terminated prior to its scheduled maturity without the occurrence of a Credit Event or a Floating Amount Event, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer shall cause such portion of the related Default Swap Collateral chosen by the Synthetic Security Counterparty as may be required to make any Synthetic Security Termination Payments, to be liquidated and any such Synthetic Security Termination Payments to be paid directly to the Synthetic Security Counterparty; provided that, in the case of Defaulted Synthetic Security Termination Payments, such amounts will be deposited to the Collection Account and paid in accordance with the Priority of Payments. The Synthetic Security Counterparty will bear any market risk on the liquidation of the Default Swap Collateral. The remaining related Default Swap Collateral to the extent not required to remain credited to the Default Swap Collateral Account and pledged to the Trustee for the benefit and security of the related Synthetic Security Counterparty shall be credited to the Collection Account. In the event that no Credit Event or Floating Amount Event under a Synthetic Security has occurred prior to the termination or scheduled maturity of the Synthetic Security, upon the termination or scheduled maturity of the Synthetic Security, the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer shall cause such Default Swap Collateral to be credited to the Collection Account.

The Synthetic Securities provide for cash settlement or physical settlement upon the occurrence of a Credit Event or Floating Amount Event under a Synthetic Security at the Synthetic Security Counterparty's choice. If the Synthetic Security Counterparty has chosen cash settlement, the item of Default Swap Collateral chosen by the Synthetic Security Counterparty after the application of any cash and Eligible Investments credited to the Default Swap Collateral Account will be sold by the Trustee in a sale arranged by the Collateral Manager and any amounts owed to the Synthetic Security Counterparty will be paid by the Issuer from the liquidation proceeds of such Default Swap Collateral. In the event such liquidation proceeds are less than par, the Synthetic Security Counterparty will accept the liquidation proceeds applicable to the face amount of Default Swap Collateral sold which is equal to the amount due to the Synthetic Security Counterparty. Any Proceeds net of purchased accrued interest or interest payments received upon the maturity or liquidation of a Deliverable Obligation shall be deposited to the Default Swap Collateral Account. In the event a Credit Event has occurred and the Issuer is required to liquidate Default Swap Collateral and deliver cash to the Synthetic Security Counterparty, the Synthetic Security Counterparty will bear any market risk on the liquidation of the Default Swap Collateral. If the Synthetic Security Counterparty has chosen physical settlement, the Default Swap Collateral chosen by the Synthetic Security Counterparty will be delivered to the Synthetic Security Counterparty in exchange for the related Reference Obligation.

Any Default Swap Collateral credited to the Collection Account and any related Reference Obligation delivered to the Issuer whether either of such satisfies the definition of an Eligible Investment or qualifies as a Collateral Asset in the business judgment of the Collateral Manager may be retained or sold by the Issuer at the direction of and in the sole discretion of the Collateral Manager without regard to whether such sale would be permitted as a sale of a Defaulted Obligation or a Credit Risk Obligation. Any Proceeds net of purchased accrued interest or interest payments received upon the maturity or liquidation of the Default Swap Collateral credited to the Collection Account shall be deposited to the Default Swap Collateral Account.

Upon the occurrence of any Interest Shortfall with respect to any Reference Obligation, the Fixed Amount payable under the related Synthetic Security by the Synthetic Security Counterparty to the Issuer will be reduced by an amount equal to the related Interest Shortfall Payment Amount, such reduction amount not to exceed the Fixed Amount, if "fixed cap" is applicable, or such reduction amount not to exceed the applicable floating cap, if "variable cap" is applicable, as described in each Synthetic Security. If any amount in satisfaction of the Interest Shortfall which gave rise to any Interest Shortfall Payment Amount, including interest accrued thereon, is later paid with respect to a Reference Obligation, the Synthetic Security Counterparty will pay such amount, or in certain circumstances a portion of such amount to the Issuer as an Interest Shortfall Reimbursement. Interest Shortfall Reimbursement Amounts will not exceed the cumulative Interest Shortfall Amounts (including any interest thereon) previously determined in relation to such Reference Obligation.

So long as the long-term ratings of the Synthetic Security Counterparty or any guarantor of the Synthetic Security Counterparty's obligation under a Synthetic Security are equal to or higher than (i) "Aa3" by Moody's (and, if rated "Aa3" by Moody's, is not on watch for possible downgrade) and (ii) "AA-" by S&P (and, if rated "AA-" by S&P, is not on watch for possible downgrade), the Fixed Amount due by the Synthetic Security Counterparty will be payable in arrears. However, if the long-term ratings of the Synthetic Security Counterparty or any guarantor fall below any such levels, the Synthetic Security Counterparty will be required to pay the Fixed Amount due under the Synthetic Securities in advance. The failure of the Synthetic Security Counterparty to pay the Fixed Amount in advance if such rating levels are no longer satisfied will constitute an "event of default" under the terms of the Synthetic Securities with the Synthetic Security Counterparty as the sole "Defaulting Party" under such Synthetic Security.

With respect to any Writedown Amount or Interest Shortfall Amounts received after the long-term rating of the Synthetic Security Counterparty is below "AA-" by S&P, the Synthetic Security Counterparty will be required to reserve the related Writedown Reserve Amount and the related Interest Shortfall Reserve Amount in the Synthetic Security Collateral Account in accordance with the terms of the Synthetic Security.

The Issuer will pay certain Floating Amounts to the Synthetic Security Counterparty following the occurrence of a Floating Amount Event with respect to a Reference Obligation. The Issuer will pay Floating Amounts to the Synthetic Security Counterparty on the Floating Rate Payer Payment Date following the occurrence of a Floating Amount Event with respect to the related Reference Obligation.

Following the occurrence of a Credit Event with respect to a Reference Obligation, the Synthetic Security Counterparty may deliver such Reference Obligation as a Deliverable Obligation to the Issuer, in exchange for which the Issuer will pay to the Synthetic Security Counterparty an amount (a "Physical Settlement Amount"), which amount shall be calculated in accordance with the related Synthetic Security and paid on the related Physical Settlement Date. The Synthetic Security Counterparty may elect to physically settle a Synthetic Security only in part, in which case, there may be more than one Physical Settlement Amount payable by the Issuer with respect to such Synthetic Security.

Any Deliverable Obligation delivered to the Issuer may be retained or sold by the Issuer at the sole discretion of the Collateral Manager without regard to whether such sale would be permitted as a sale of a Defaulted Obligation or a Credit Risk Obligation. The proceeds of such sale will be deposited by the Trustee into the Default Swap Collateral Account net of purchased accrued interest or interest payments thereon. In addition, any principal proceeds or interest received on such Deliverable Obligations prior to such sale will be deposited by the Trustee into the Collateral Account.

In connection with any early termination or assignment of a Synthetic Security, the Issuer may owe a Synthetic Security Termination Payment. Synthetic Security Termination Payments will generally be paid directly and outside of the Priority of Payment; provided that Defaulted Synthetic Security Termination Payments will be paid in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

The Issuer shall satisfy the Rating Agency Condition prior to any (i) replacement of the Synthetic Security Counterparty or (ii) assignment of the Synthetic Securities.

The Synthetic Securities may be amended only with (i) the satisfaction of the Rating Agency Condition and (ii) the consent of the Collateral Manager (which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld); provided however, that with respect to (i), such condition need not be satisfied with respect to any amendment that corrects a manifest error.

All principal payments on the Default Swap Collateral in the Default Swap Collateral Account will be invested in Eligible Investments at the direction of the Trustee until invested in Default Swap Collateral satisfying the Default Swap Collateral Eligibility Criteria at the direction of the Collateral Manager with the consent of the Synthetic Security Counterparty. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if and so long as the unsecured, unsubordinated debt rating of the Synthetic Security Counterparty or the credit support provider for the Synthetic Security Counterparty, whichever is higher, assigned by Moody's is below "A1", all principal payments on the Default Swap Collateral and Eligible Investments in the Default Swap Collateral Account will be maintained in Cash and Eligible Investments (unless otherwise required to be applied, in accordance with the terms of this Indenture, to either (i) the payment of the Notes or other amounts in accordance with the Priority of Payments or (ii) the payment of Credit Protection Amounts) until such time as the Balance of the Cash and Eligible Investments in the Default Swap Collateral Account is equal to the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes. It sounds like the issue that started all this may not be a violation after all (based on preliminary discussion with controllers and strat). In any case - we need to identify all potential items so there is good awareness.

thanks. if i may ask:

- what business areas do you think we should focus on and who would be the trading contacts.
- ok if i mention your sponsorship or at least agreement to get people around the table? 'dan asked me to ..' is a bit strong but would do wonders. "after talking to dan ..." would do the trick i think.

best meanwhile,

I think that would be helpful. I thought a scrub occurred at the end of the first quarter to identify the open items. I am aware of a number of them. You should coordinate with John McHugh who already has put together a list. Also, talk to Turok who I think was involved in the Q1 scrub.
Thanks, and please keep me posted and informed real time on how it progresses.

thanks dan,
in some sense, this is even more concerning to me. our processes have failed in a deeper way if some ops & controllers etc... were aware but (as seems to be the case) none of the pople in this email list knew.
awaiting for john's list which i suppose will be a survey of what various constituencies know.
in my opinion a reconciliation is warranted here. by this i mean reviewing all trades in areas that with your help we can identify as potentially having such issues and going through the chain. I think this would give us comfort and also be the opportunity to get everyone on the same page.
i'd be very happy to coordinate such an effort. having representatives from ops/controllers/trading/strats & ourselves work together to that effect.
pls let me know your thoughts,

John McHugh is putting together a list of outstanding items to make sure people (trading, strats, ops, risk) are aware of the situations that need to be addressed.

As you can see below, the put issue is not a new one and the topic has been outstanding for over a year.

Peter/Matt - will spreads on the AAA default swap collateral be easily observable? how wide is the range of eligible assets (in terms of sectors, etc.)?

Mike - do you expect any difficulties with modelling the put (that may include collateral from various sectors, of which the makeup could change, etc.)? would you expect the value of the collateral puts to be material (or at least materially off from the -200K estimate below)?

Eventhough the ABACUS puts are different, we are trying to stay consistent in terms of P&L recognition - I believe those puts are modelled based on the actual collateral spreads (which are assessed for observability) and strats was asked their opinion on the materiality of the put value

1. If the deal is called and there are termination payments payable to GS - those would come from default swap collateral

2. The default swap collateral is managed by the collateral manager, with approval rights by goldman. there is predetermined criteria as to the composition of the account, so as assets in the account may pre-pay, they will still be subject to the criteria established in the indenture

Peter/matt - a few questions:
1. If the equity investor calls the deal in 3 years - are there agreed upon unwind costs and what happens in terms of your sell trades (trying to determine what type of risk you have there)?
2. After default swap collateral is transferred to the CDO, how much ability do you have to change the makeup and do you decide where principal paydowns are reinvested?
3. Who gets the benefit if the default swap collateral is sold above par - GS or investors?

We are currently discussing modelling/obervability with the appropriate people on our end.

Subject: Unbooked CDO Put issue

Hi Phil, Steve,

Wanted to come back with more color on the issue that was raised yesterday with regards to unbooked CDO puts.
Below is a high level summary of the issue, current process, and proposed solution. This was vetted today with Strats and the desk (Sparks was part of the conversation as well).
This is being bumped up the Strats priority list in terms of getting a tradable in place for this. There is a follow up meeting next week which my team will attend as well.
I believe some of the email correspondence forwarded by Steve indicated that there were upwards of 2 dozen trades potentially unbooked. This number is actually 18- Steve we should probably log these as violations until the tradable is in place.

The bottom line on this is for the trades where this put option was not booked, Ops were not aware there was a put. It seems that although it has now come to light that this is a feature of all synthetic CDO's that we do - each Deal team on the GS CDO desk documented and communicated this differently.

Please let me know if you'd like to discuss live at some point. Apologies, I realize this is a lot of information, but wanted you to have all the facts. It might be easier for us to put together a simple diagram for you to speak to.

Mechanics of CDO Put Option:

- For all GS underwritten Cash CDO's that have MTG Credit Default swaps in them -- GS CDO desk is Buying Protection from the SPV/CDO
- The CDO Desk/Manager selects the cash bond default swap collateral (1-3 year duration & AAA rated) to coincide/match the total notional of MTG CDS trades that GS is buying protection on.
- The SPV writes the Put Option with the GS CDO desk which effectively means:
  -In the event of a CDS Credit Event, the GS trading desk will instruct the Trustee/SPV to liquidate a specific default swap collateral asset (if cash is not available) to pay GS as protection buyer on the CDS

660521.248

- Ex: 1mm Credit Event has occurred then 1mm of Default Swap Collateral will need to be liquidated to cover the CE payment.
-The risk the desk is bearing is the difference the default swap collateral par value compared to the current market level. I think the risk here in terms of asset quality is low, we're basically writing a put to liquidate AAA rated securities at Par.

Current Put Option Booking State: 22 Deals with the Put Option Feature

- 4 Deals that do have a Put Option Booked
  - For these trades, Ops knew about the Put as there was a confirmation and a trade booked.
  - The confirm went through our ETR process and was executed by both the SPV and GS

- 18 Deals that do not have a Put Option Booked:
  - For these deals, there was no mention of a Put at all at the time of closing.
  - There was no derivative confirmation
  - The Put option was embedded into the deal documents (Indenture, Offering Circular, etc ---both of which are reviewed by outside counsel and GS legal as normal course of business -- but are not reviewed by Operations .)
  -For these trades, an intermediation fee was being taken on the CDS trades, but no specific Put was booked in our systems.
  - The original explanation from the desk was the intermediation fee was being taken for the risks associated with standing in between the Street and the deal with no mention of the Put

Proposed Solution (draft):
-A new model will need to be created (Projected Time Frame by this Quarter's End)
-Strats & CDO Desk will assign one designated person on the project
-Once model is approved the un-booked Puts from past deals will be booked in Mtg TAP
-The un-booked Puts would be booked to reflect the risk but with 0 bps fee since the fee is already taken on the single names (mentioned above)
-Amend the existing 4 Put Options booked to the new calculator

David,

Please find attached calculations of IC ratios with and without investing in AAA securities for CDS Collateral. Let us know when you have some time to discuss. Aladdin is asking for approval on another purchase of assets for CDS collateral. Would like to discuss with you and finalize our approach before getting back to them.

Thanks,
Connie

Have added Total Notional of the CDS trades as well. Also , just to clarify, Hudson Mezz 1 and Point Pleasant had Unfunded Super Seniors. In the case of Point Pleasant , we face IXIS on 700mm approx of CDS trades(the rest were shorted to the deal directly by IXIS) and the default Swap collateral par at closing = $1.0085b- 403.4mm = 605.1mm.

Ok. I think we should be proactive in letting mangers know, then, rather than waiting for them to come to us for approval and then denying. There are a couple of one off situations which we should go through tomorrow morning.

Was there any further discussion over the past few days on what we're going to be doing? With the 25th coming up, I suspect a bunch of mangers are going to be looking to put cash to work....

Ben - While I agree the ability for a fair amount of the floating rate loans in CMBS to refi in here is limited, are there any other reasons you left CMBS off the list??

We've brought the topic up a few times over the past few months with your team. Last I heard, you were re-evaluating the market, and would come back to us with a breakdown of acceptable replacements. As the cash balances continue to grow, I'd like to address this issue, as the amount of cash drag is beginning to become meaningful.

Thank you in advance.

We are doing our credit work on these 3 bonds which are shown on the GS inventory sheet. If we get comfortable with these positions, would GS be ok adding them to Timberwolf as Default Swap Collateral? We should be done with our credit work today.

Thanks. Joe.

David: As we discussed yesterday, I believe that your refusal to approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf is unreasonable and inconsistent with the way the transaction structure was originally presented to us. We were told that the purpose of the approval rights was to permit GS to review specific assets and approve or disapprove specific assets based on their relative credit merits. If we thought for a second that you had the right to prohibit all new purchases indefinitely, we would have implemented the much simpler GIC structure that is used in most other synthetic CDOs and CDO^2 transactions and thereby locked in a fixed spread to LIBOR for the term of our transaction. Also, the Timberwolf CDS economics include an ongoing fee to GS for the put swap component of the trade; we would not have agreed to those terms if we thought you had this option. Finally, I believe that if anyone on the deal team thought you had this option, it would have been clearly disclosed in the OM. Especially given current market conditions, I am surprised that you are taking a position that will directly result in less cash flow being available to debt and equity investors. As I said yesterday, we recognize the impact of current market conditions and, even before I spoke with Matt, I was suggesting we collectively focus on shorter average life AAA RMBS for the deal and I specifically solicited feedback on securities where GS would be comfortable. I continue to be surprised by your response. Joe.

David: I would like to have a call with you to discuss the purchase of Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. I understand you are traveling this week. Let me know when you will have some time to talk. In response to the attached message, Matt told me that GS will not approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. While GS does have consent rights regarding the purchase of Default Swap Collateral, a blanket refusal to approve any assets is inappropriate, inconsistent with the parties' original expectations and will negatively impact the performance of both the debt and equity issued by Timberwolf. Give me a call when you can. Joe.

Roman:

We are doing our credit work on these 3 bonds which are shown on the GS inventory sheet. If we get comfortable with these positions, would GS be ok adding them to Timberwolf as Default Swap Collateral? We should be done with our credit work today.

Thanks. Joe.

Bob,

[redacted]

With respect to your second question below, as noted in my letter of December 21, 2010, Section 12.5 of the Indenture for the Timberwolf CDO confers on the Secured Party the right to consent to the selection and reinvestment of default swap collateral. It is the position of Goldman Sachs that neither Section 12.5 of the Indenture nor any other relevant deal documents impose any obligation on the Secured Party to consent to reinvestment of default swap collateral, either on a case-by-case basis or generally. Of course, as you know, with respect to Timberwolf, reinvestment of default swap collateral did occur.

Thanks. Lee

Hi Lee – [redacted] There are two items I wanted to follow up on with you:

1. [redacted]

2. I have read Goldman's answer regarding its current views with respect to its right to object to reinvestment of collateral in the Timberwolf CDO. I realize that Section 12.5 of the Indenture provides consent rights to the Secured Party (GSI) and no default swap collateral may be purchased by the issuer if it is objected to by the Secured Party. What I would like Goldman's view on is whether that right can extend to and permit objecting to the purchase of any proposed default swap collateral (either on a case by case basis or via a blanket refusal to consent to the purchase of any default swap collateral0, so that the issuer is unable to purchase any new or additional purchases of default swap collateral. In other words, would the rights given to Goldman as the Secured Party under Section 12.5 enable Goldman to prevent the issuer from purchasing any new or additional default swap collateral, so that as existing default swap collateral yields interest or dividends or pays down, all the income remains in cash and is not used to purchase new or additional default swap collateral?

Thanks.

Pls see email we received below - wanted to get your take on what response (if any) we should craft. This is related to the default swap collateral account in Timberwolf used to collateralize the exposure we have to the CDO on the CDS contracts that are the assets in TWOLF.

David: As we discussed yesterday, I believe that your refusal to approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf is unreasonable and inconsistent with the way the transaction structure was originally presented to us. We were told that the purpose of the approval rights was to permit GS to review specific assets and approve or disapprove specific assets based on their relative credit merits. If we thought for a second that you had the right to prohibit all new purchases indefinitely, we would have implemented the much simpler GIC structure that is used in most other synthetic CDOs and CDO^2 transactions and thereby locked in a fixed spread to LIBOR for the term of our transaction. Also, the Timberwolf CDS economics include an ongoing fee to GS for the put swap component of the trade; we would not have agreed to those terms if we thought you had this option. Finally, I believe that if anyone on the deal team thought you had this option, it would have been clearly disclosed in the OM. Especially given current market conditions, I am surprised that you are taking a position that will directly result in less cash flow being available to debt and equity investors. As I said yesterday, we recognize the impact of current market conditions and, even before I spoke with Matt, I was suggesting we collectively focus on shorter average life AAA RMBS for the deal and I specifically solicited feedback on securities where GS would be comfortable. I continue to be surprised by your response. Joe.

David: I would like to have a call with you to discuss the purchase of Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. I understand you are traveling this week. Let me know when you will have some time to talk. In response to the attached message, Matt told me that GS will not approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. While GS does have consent rights regarding the purchase of Default Swap Collateral, a blanket refusal to approve any assets is inappropriate, inconsistent with the parties' original expectations and will negatively impact the performance of both the debt and equity issued by Timberwolf. Give me a call when you can. Joe.

We are doing our credit work on these 3 bonds which are shown on the GS inventory sheet. If we get comfortable with these positions, would GS be ok adding them to Timberwolf as Default Swap Collateral? We should be done with our credit work today.

Could you send me a copy of the OM and the operative doc that contains our rights/obligations with respect to the collateral?

Pls see email we received below - wanted to get your take on what response (if any) we should craft. This is related to the default swap collateral account in Timberwolf used to collateralize the exposure we have to the CDO on the CDS contracts that are the assets in TWOLF.

Subject: FW: Timberwolf -- Default Swap Collateral Importance: High

David: As we discussed yesterday, I believe that your refusal to approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf is unreasonable and inconsistent with the way the transaction structure was originally presented to us. We were told that the purpose of the approval rights was to permit GS to review specific assets and approve or disapprove specific assets based on their relative credit merits. If we thought for a second that you had the right to prohibit all new purchases indefinitely, we would have implemented the much simpler GIC structure that is used in most other synthetic CDOs and CDO^2 transactions and thereby locked in a fixed spread to LIBOR for the term of our transaction. Also, the Timberwolf CDS economics include an ongoing fee to GS for the put swap component of the trade; we would not have agreed to those terms if we thought you had this option. Finally, I believe that if anyone on the deal team thought you had this option, it would have been clearly disclosed in the OM. Especially given current market conditions, I am surprised that you are taking a position that will directly result in less cash flow being available to debt and equity investors. As I said yesterday, we recognize the impact of current market conditions and, even before I spoke with Matt, I was suggesting we collectively focus on shorter average life AAA RMBS for the deal and I specifically solicited feedback on securities where GS would be comfortable. I continue to be surprised by your response. Joe.

David: I would like to have a call with you to discuss the purchase of Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. I understand you are traveling this week. Let me know when you will have some time to talk. In response to the attached message, Matt told me that GS will not approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. While GS does have consent rights regarding the purchase of Default Swap Collateral, a blanket refusal to approve any assets is inappropriate, inconsistent with the parties' original expectations and will negatively impact the performance of both the debt and equity issued by Timberwolf. Give me a call when you can. Joe.

Roman:

We are doing our credit work on these 3 bonds which are shown on the GS inventory sheet. If we get comfortable with these positions, would GS be ok adding them to Timberwolf as Default Swap Collateral? We should be done with our credit work today.

Thanks. Joe.

I am an attorney employed by Goldman, Sachs & Co. ("Goldman Sachs") and, during 2007, my coverage responsibilities included, among other things, providing advice to the firm's Mortgages Department. I have no present recollection of the circumstances surrounding any disagreement between Goldman Sachs and Greywolf Capital Management LP regarding Goldman Sachs' right to consent to reinvestment of default swap collateral in Timberwolf I. I am aware that certain documents from that period appear to reflect that I may have been consulted in connection with the firm's dealings with Greywolf on this issue in September 2007, but reviewing these documents has not refreshed my present recollection.

Report Footnote #2657

From August 27, 2007 through November 2008, I was employed by Goldman, Sachs & Co. ("Goldman Sachs" or the "Firm") as an attorney in its legal department, reporting to Tim Saunders. Throughout this time, my responsibilities included, among other things, providing advice to the Firm's Mortgages Department. Although I recall that a party raised issues concerning Goldman Sachs' right to consent to certain actions related to collateralized debt obligations, I have no recollection of any additional circumstances surrounding these issues, including the identity of the party that raised them, what the consent rights related to or any discussions concerning these issues. Although I understand that there are emails that suggest that a meeting was held to discuss these issues, I have no recollection of such a meeting, or whether a meeting even occurred. I have reviewed the documents identified by the Subcommittee staff that appear to reflect that I may have been asked to attend a meeting to discuss the Firm's dealings with Greywolf Capital Management LP on this issue in September 2007, but reviewing these documents has not refreshed my present recollection.

From November 2005 through November 2008, I was employed by Goldman, Sachs & Co. ("Goldman Sachs" or the "Firm") in its Compliance department. During this time, I was assigned to provide coverage to the Firm's Mortgages Department. I have no present recollection of the circumstances surrounding any disagreement between Goldman Sachs and Greywolf Capital Management LP ("Greywolf") regarding Goldman Sachs' right to consent to reinvestment of default swap collateral in Timberwolf I. I have reviewed the documents identified by the Subcommittee staff that appear to reflect that I was invited to a meeting to discuss the Firm's dealings with Greywolf on this issue in September 2007, but reviewing these documents has not refreshed my present recollection. I would also note that my job responsibilities at the time did not include reviewing or interpreting transactional documents such as indentures, and it was not my practice to do so.

Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations
Report Footnote #2657

I am a Managing Director at Goldman, Sachs & Co. ("Goldman Sachs" or "the Firm") and the co-head of the Structured Products Group Trading Desk, a position I have held since 2006.

As I discussed during my interview with the Subcommittee staff on September 27, 2010, my understanding is that on deals in which there was a collateral manager, such as the Timberwolf I CDO, the collateral manager would source collateral investments subject to the terms specified in the offering documents. Although I do not recall the specific rights that Goldman Sachs had under the agreements for each deal, my understanding is that Goldman Sachs generally retained the right to consent to the selection of collateral in order to protect its interests in the transaction. As I also explained in my Subcommittee interview, I do not recall any formal agreements, other than the operative agreement for the deals, limiting the assets the collateral manager could select as default swap collateral. Further, as I stated in my interview, although I recall that counsel was consulted on the issue of contractual provisions relating to collateral reinvestment, I do not recall any advice counsel gave. I also recall informal discussions concerning the extent of Goldman Sachs' exposure related to collateral in CDOs, but do not recall any resolution of this issue. I do not recall there being a significant debate with collateral managers on this subject.

More specifically, I have no present recollection of the circumstances surrounding any discussions between Goldman Sachs and Greywolf Capital Management LP ("Greywolf") regarding Goldman Sachs' right to consent to reinvestment of default swap collateral in Timberwolf I. I have reviewed documents showing that I was emailed in September 2007 by Joe Marconi of Greywolf in connection with the Firm's dealings with Greywolf on this issue and was carbon copied on emails proposing an internal meeting regarding the subject, but reviewing these documents has not refreshed my present recollection. I have no present recollection of what might have been discussed in such a meeting or even if such a meeting ever occurred.

David: As we discussed yesterday, I believe that your refusal to approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf is unreasonable and inconsistent with the way the transaction structure was originally presented to us. We were told that the purpose of the approval rights was to permit GS to review specific assets and approve or disapprove specific assets based on their relative credit merits. If we thought for a second that you had the right to prohibit all new purchases indefinitely, we would have implemented the much simpler GIC structure that is used in most other synthetic CDOs and CDO^2 transactions and thereby locked in a fixed spread to LIBOR for the term of our transaction. Also, the Timberwolf CDS economics include an ongoing fee to GS for the put swap component of the trade; we would not have agreed to those terms if we thought you had this option. Finally, I believe that if anyone on the deal team thought you had this option, it would have been clearly disclosed in the OM. Especially given current market conditions, I am surprised that you are taking a position that will directly result in less cash flow being available to debt and equity investors. As I said yesterday, we recognize the impact of current market conditions and, even before I spoke with Matt, I was suggesting we collectively focus on shorter average life AAA RMBS for the deal and I specifically solicited feedback on securities where GS would be comfortable. I continue to be surprised by your response. Joe.

David: I would like to have a call with you to discuss the purchase of Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. I understand you are traveling this week. Let me know when you will have some time to talk. In response to the attached message, Matt told me that GS will not approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. While GS does have consent rights regarding the purchase of Default Swap Collateral, a blanket refusal to approve any assets is inappropriate, inconsistent with the parties' original expectations and will negatively impact the performance of both the debt and equity issued by Timberwolf. Give me a call when you can. Joe.

We are doing our credit work on these 3 bonds which are shown on the GS inventory sheet. If we get comfortable with these positions, would GS be ok adding them to Timberwolf as Default Swap Collateral? We should be done with our credit work today.

Thanks. Joe.

David: As we discussed yesterday, I believe that your refusal to approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf is unreasonable and inconsistent with the way the transaction structure was originally presented to us. We were told that the purpose of the approval rights was to permit GS to review specific assets and approve or disapprove specific assets based on their relative credit merits. If we thought for a second that you had the right to prohibit all new purchases indefinitely, we would have implemented the much simpler GIC structure that is used in most other synthetic CDOs and CDO^2 transactions and thereby locked in a fixed spread to LIBOR for the term of our transaction. Also, the Timberwolf CDS economics include an ongoing fee to GS for the put swap component of the trade; we would not have agreed to those terms if we thought you had this option. Finally, I believe that if anyone on the deal team thought you had this option, it would have been clearly disclosed in the OM. Especially given current market conditions, I am surprised that you are taking a position that will directly result in less cash flow being available to debt and equity investors. As I said yesterday, we recognize the impact of current market conditions and, even before I spoke with Matt, I was suggesting we collectively focus on shorter average life AAA RMBS for David: I would like to have a call with you to discuss the purchase of Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. I understand you are traveling this week. Let me know when you will have some time to talk. In response to the attached message, Matt told me that GS will not approve the purchase of any additional Default Swap Collateral into Timberwolf. While GS does have consent rights regarding the purchase of Default Swap Collateral, a blanket refusal to approve any assets is inappropriate, inconsistent with the parties' original expectations and will negatively impact the performance of both the debt and equity issued by Timberwolf. Give me a call when you can. Joe.

Roman:

We are doing our credit work on these 3 bonds which are shown on the GS inventory sheet. If we get comfortable with these positions, would GS be ok adding them to Timberwolf as Default Swap Collateral? We should be done with our credit work today.

One of the examples of the emails I mentioned below. There are others as well as contemporaneous notes of our conversation with peter ostrem when he presented the idea to us, and contemporaneous notes taken from other calls and meetings with your team. In case I wasn't clear on the call, our three main points would be:

1. The aim of the collateral account was to provide LIBOR and not add additional risk to the deal.
2. GS said they would take market risk and clearly represented that to us and to the ratings agencies.
3. The only way the deal works, and the way the deal was marketed and explained to us, is that paydowns are equivalent to partial terminations. We do not believe you have any right to refuse to release excess cash that is no longer needed as collateral, and we do not believe you have the right to release bonds into the waterfall ever, and certainly not when cash exists.

Perhaps the way you did these deals changed over time and you are comparing our deal to ones which you marketed or structured later/differently?

I look forward to hearing from you.

Ron

GS has exposure to 100% of the funded collateral backing the synthetic positions. if the liquidation proceeds of an asset (gs as swap counterparty gets to choose which assets are liquidated) are less than the writedown amt owed to goldman - goldman has mv risk. Deal retains upside (collateral liquidated at a premium).

(ii) expected to have an outstanding principal balance of less than $1,000 after stated maturity of class A-1 notes, assuming a constant prepayment rate since the date of purchase equal to the lesser of (a) 5% per annum and (b) the constant prepayment rate reasonably expected by the collateral manager as of the date of purchase

(iii) after taking into consideration the addition of any such security (a) at least 20% of the default swap collateral by principal balance has an expected average life of less than or equal to 1 year, (b) at least 80% of the Default Swap Collateral by principal balance has an expected average life of less than or equal to 3.25 years and (c) all default swap collateral has an expected average life of less than or equal to 4 years

(iv) with the inclusion of such security, no more than 30% of the Default Swap Collaterel by principal balance has single counterparty exposure including servicer, issuer and put swap counterparty exposure

(v) provides for payments of periodic interest and for a payment of principal in full at its final maturity and

Hi Matt,

As of today we have $5.5mm and $11.7mm in synthetic collateral cash in DSVII and WCI respectively from paydowns of synthetic collateral securities. We were able to find bonds from the September approved list below. Please let us know if you approve these names – or would like to keep the cash in the overnight account. Also let us know if you have a preferred allocation.

Hi Matt and Shelly,

Tomorrow the CP in DSVII's synthetic collateral account rolls, leaving $4.6mm in synthetic collateral cash. So we will try to look for bonds per the email below. If we are unable to find one under the following parameters, would you still want to keep the cash in the overnight account or did you want to take a look at corp CP again? Thanks.

I. Introduction

Goldman Sachs communicates with its customers (including private individuals, institutions and other broker/dealers), counterparties, and the general public in many ways. The integrity of these communications is essential to the firm's reputation and success. Therefore, with this manual, the firm is setting forth its policies regarding the preparation, supervision, distribution and retention of all written and electronic communications relating to our business.

For the purposes of these policies, "communication" is defined very broadly. It includes any and all written or electronic communication — from formal recommendations to casual opinions and thoughts relating to our business. It includes words, diagrams, pictures, graphs, and images. And it does not matter whether these be conveyed by note, letter, prospectus, advertisement, e-mail, television or radio broadcast, or any other means or media. Although these policies do not specifically cover oral communications, the same content guidelines apply to oral communications.

The policies stated in this memorandum outline the firm's expectations and requirements with respect to communications with the public relating to any business of the firm. Individual divisions or business units may establish policies that supplement or supercede parts of the policies outlined here. In addition, the section entitled "Firm Expectations of Employee Conduct" in the firm's Employee Handbook contains standards and guidelines that apply to the communications covered here.

Therefore, this manual must be read and implemented in conjunction with the applicable Divisional Compliance policies and the requirements of the Employee Handbook. You are responsible to know the additional requirements of the Handbook and those of your division and business unit.

Business units and Divisional Compliance will be responsible for communicating the contents of these policies and any related divisional or regional policies by distributing them to all appropriate personnel, by distributing any periodic updates or revisions to them, and through both new employee and on-going training programs.

While business units and Divisional Compliance are responsible for communicating policies, it is the responsibility of each individual to understand the rules of the firm and of the businesses in which s/he works. Failure to comply with the policies may result in disciplinary action, including potential separation from the firm.

As with any compliance issues, the most important thing is that you be aware of your responsibilities and seek clarification and help if you have any questions. If you have any questions about the application or interpretation of these standards and requirements or about possible exceptions to them, speak with your Divisional Compliance officers, to Central Compliance or the Legal Department.

II. Categorization of Communications

While these policies apply to all written and electronic communication, there are three categories of communications for which there are specific rules. These categories are advertisements, sales literature, and sales correspondence. There are two types of content that merit special attention, as well. These are research and recommendations. These categories of communication and types of content are defined below.

A. Categories of Communication

Advertisements

An advertisement is any written or electronic communication relating to the firm's securities business that is made publicly available in such a way that the individual recipients are not known to and cannot be limited by the firm. In other words, the firm does not have control over who receives, sees, or hears an advertisement.

An advertisement may include material published or designed for use in a newspaper, magazine or other periodical, radio, television, telephone or tape recording, on a generally accessible website or in or on another publicly available medium.

Advertisements must conform to standards established by Corporate Communications and must be approved before use (as described later in this manual).

Sales Literature

Sales literature is any written or electronic communication relating to the firm's securities business that is sent or made available to multiple public recipients who are known or directly targeted by the firm.

Sales literature may include, but is not limited to, circulars, research reports (including most of the publications of the firm's Investment Research Department), market letters, performance reports or summaries, and form letters. Sales literature also includes the written text of any communication delivered orally to a broad audience, such as a telemarketing script or a seminar text and material posted on password-protected websites available to clients.

The key characteristic of sales literature is that it is addressed to multiple recipients specifically targeted by the firm.

As is the case with advertisements, sales literature must be approved before use (as described later in this manual).

660521.364

Sales Correspondence

Sales correspondence is any written or electronic communication (other than that classified as advertising or sale literature) that is sent or made available to a current or prospective customer by a salesperson involved in the firm's securities business or by a person who is soliciting fee-based investment advisory or management services.

The key characteristic of sales correspondence is that it is directed to a specific recipient. It may or may not need to be approved prior to use.

B. Research and Recommendations

Sales literature and sales correspondence may include a recommendation to a customer and, in certain contexts, may constitute research. Recommendations and research each has its own approval process, and research requires specialized legends, which are discussed later in this manual. For the purposes of this manual:

- Research is an analysis of individual companies, industries, market conditions, or securities or other investment vehicles that provides information reasonably sufficient upon which to base an investment decision. While reports prepared by one of the firm's investment research departments generally fall into the category of research, materials prepared by other personnel also may constitute research under applicable regulations. Research does not include publicly available information, consensus data, or data attributable to management of the company being discussed.

- A recommendation to a customer is the promotion or endorsement of a transaction involving a security.

Note that there are significant restrictions on including any research or recommendations in marketing materials for asset management services. Consult Divisional Compliance policies for further guidance.

C. General Communication

As stated above, although these particular categories and types of communication require special attention, except where otherwise noted, this manual covers all written or electronic communication with the public relating to any business of the firm.

III. Content Standards

A. General Standards

No matter what you are communicating to the public, your words reflect on the reputation of the firm. Furthermore, the firm can be held accountable for what you communicate. The firm, therefore, requires that your communication reflect the high standards of the firm, not only in what you say, but also in the way you say it.

The following are general standards and requirements that the firm expects all of its employees to understand and follow in all of their communications.

Truthfulness and Completeness

Communications may not omit material facts or include untrue or misleading statements. Keep in mind that the level of detail or explanation necessary to make a communication clear, accurate, and understandable will depend, in part, on the breadth and sophistication of the intended audience and the complexity of the subject matter. For example, communicating complicated material or the lack of financial sophistication of the recipient will often warrant a more detailed presentation.

Professionalism and Good Taste

- All communications should be professional and in good taste. Of course, your communications should never contain obscene, offensive, or otherwise inappropriate, unprofessional, or unlawful language. Remember, that you do not control and you cannot always predict who the reader will be.
- Write using standard, formal written language. Pay attention to proper grammar and accurate word usage.
- Avoid superlatives and exaggerations.
- Communicate succinctly. Stay strictly to the topic of your communication. Do not include any gratuitous comments.
- Remember, your business communications become part of the official records of the firm. Regulators and other third parties may have access to these communications in the case of dispute, litigation, or criminal action.

Records of Past Performance

Any communication that portrays past performance of recommendations or actual transactions must be balanced and not misleading. In particular:

660521.366

- Past performance may not be used to promise or suggest, directly or indirectly, future profits or income, nor may it be presented as indicative of future performance.
- Records or statistics must:
  - disclose the existence of any relevant costs (e.g., commissions and interest charges, if applicable).
  - be clearly defined as to scope (i.e., the universe of securities or transaction types covered) and context.
  - cover at least the most recent 12-month period, if available.
- Whenever annualized rates of return are used:
  - All material assumptions used in the process of annualization must be disclosed.
  - The date and price of each initial recommendation or transaction and the date and price at the earlier of when liquidation was suggested or effected must be included.
  - Summaries or averages may be presented so long as they include the total number of items recommended or transacted, the number that advanced and declined, and an offer to provide the complete record upon request.

Finally, the communication should include an indication of general market conditions during the relevant period (e.g., the performance of the S&P 500). Any such comparison should be reasonable.

Note that there are special requirements for showing past performance of mutual funds and separate account composites, and for certain other investments (e.g., options). Consult Divisional Compliance policies for further guidance.

Speculating on Litigation Results

Do not speculate on or predict the outcome of any litigation involving the issuer of a security.

Guarantees

Do not make any guarantee of profit or against loss, or offer any promise of specific results.

Projections and Predictions

Communications may include projections and predictions (including forecasts of financial performance), but those projections and predictions must:

660521.367

- Be based on reasonable assumptions.
- Be clearly labeled as opinion.
- Include a description of the assumptions and information upon which projections and predictions are based or indicate that the underlying assumptions and information are available upon request.

Hypotheticals that look backwards in time and recalculate performance based on stated assumptions are not necessarily subject to the same standard of reasonableness as forward-looking projections or predictions. This is because with backward-looking projections evidence of what actually occurred is always available for consideration. The availability of actual data limits the danger of acting on an unreasonable assumption. Forward-looking projections, on the other hand, require more care.

Note that significantly stricter standards apply to the use of forward-looking or backward-looking projections in connection with asset management services. Consult Divisional Compliance policies for further guidance.

Balance of Risks and Potential Rewards

Any discussion of the merits of a potential investment should be balanced with a discussion of its risks. The discussion must also provide enough information to allow the recipient to understand the full nature of the investment and of its potential risks and rewards.

Suitability of Investments

Communications may not state or imply that any particular investment is suitable for all investors.

Subject to otherwise applicable firm policies on suitability and requirements to "know your customer," communications may state that an investment is suitable for a particular customer or class of similarly-situated customers.

Rumors

Communications may not circulate or encourage dissemination of unsubstantiated rumors. Therefore, it is the policy of the firm to make no comment on rumors whatsoever, even to deny rumors you believe to be untrue.

Dating Communications

All communications should be appropriately dated. Any significant information that is more than six months old or otherwise is not reasonably current must be noted.

660521.368

Identifying Sources

All communications should include the firm's name and, when appropriate, the name of the person who prepared the communication.

Disclosure of Client Names and Positions

Names of clients of the firm and their assets, objectives, and positions are confidential and may not be disclosed outside of the firm, or to anyone within the firm without a "need to know". Despite this general rule, the name of a client may be disclosed with the client's consent, if permitted by applicable Divisional Compliance policies.

B. Providing Customers with Valuations of Their Positions

Because valuations of positions can be used for a variety of reasons (risk management, accounting, as the basis of trading decisions, margining, etc.) it is imperative that valuations are carefully prepared and that both the valuations themselves and the basis on which they have been calculated are communicated clearly and completely.

Check individual divisional policies for requirements as to the form and content of valuations and as to any disclosure statements (hedge clauses) that may be required to be used.

C. Third Party Material and Testimonials

Attribution of Sources

Using outside sources without attribution is plagiarism. Plagiarism is a serious breach of the firm's standards and exposes the firm to significant legal and reputational risk. Therefore:

- All material --- whether words, graphs, charts, analyses, or other matter taken from outside sources, and whether directly quoted or simply referred to --- must be properly attributed. This includes paraphrases and summaries of discussions.
- Attribution may appear in footnotes or in the text.
- The attribution must be specific. Generic phrases such as "experts claim" or "market sources agree" are not sufficient or acceptable.

660521.369

- Any market letter or research report prepared by an outside organization must identify the preparer and not give the impression that it was prepared by Goldman Sachs. See divisional policies regarding the use of such third-party material.

Testimonials

A testimonial is a quotation from a customer or outside expert expressing support for a Goldman Sachs product or activity. Any testimonial must be accompanied by a disclaimer, the substance of which includes the following:

- That the testimonial may not be representative of the experience of other customers.
- That the testimonial is not indicative of future performance or success.
- That it is a paid testimonial (if more than a nominal sum was paid for the testimonial).
- That the person making the testimonial has the knowledge and experience to form a valid opinion (if the testimonial concerns a technical aspect of investing).
- That the person making the testimonial has a relationship with the firm (if such a relationship exists).

If a testimonial is used in an advertisement, the Corporate Communications Department must also be consulted. Testimonials are prohibited in any communication related to asset management services.

D. Copyright Issues

Using published material from sources outside of the firm, with or without attribution, may constitute a copyright infringement. Copyright rules differ from situation to situation and from jurisdiction to jurisdiction.

Note that copyright rules are not restricted to printed material. They extend to material published in other media, including the Internet.

You should consult the section entitled "Copyrighted Materials" in the Employee Handbook.

E. Recommendations of Securities Transactions by Securities Salespeople*

Suitability of Recommendations Made to Customers

Prior to recommending that a customer purchase, sell or exchange any security, salespeople must have reasonable grounds for believing that the recommendation is suitable for that particular customer upon the basis of the facts disclosed by the customer as to his/her other security holdings, investment objectives and financial situation.

Know the Security Being Recommended

The suitability concept also requires a salesperson to have an adequate and reasonable basis for his/her recommendation of a particular security. This requires familiarity with the characteristics (including potential risks and rewards) of the security being recommended. Therefore, salespeople must "know their security", as well as their customer.

Determining Whether a Recommendation is Made

A broad range of circumstances may cause a transaction to be considered recommended, and this determination does not depend on the classification of the transaction by divisional policies as "solicited" or "unsolicited." In particular, a transaction will be considered to be recommended when a representative of the firm brings a specific security to the attention of a particular customer (or group of customers) through any means, including telephone, mail, e-mail or fax.

Trade Ideas

Firm employees frequently provide so-called "trade ideas" to multiple recipients. Such trade ideas are designed to help clients take advantage of market conditions and intelligence, but are not intended to be specific buy/sell recommendations for specific clients or customers. Characteristics of trade ideas frequently include:

- Market situations to watch closely.
- "If/then" suggestions, such as: "If your position is X, consider taking advantage of Y"; "if a security begins to do A, consider taking action B."
- Delivery to multiple recipients, rather than to specific clients.
- Suggestions about a range of actions rather than a specific transaction.

660521.371

- Common distribution via e-mail.

Such trade ideas are not considered to fall within the definition of a recommendation.

Seeking Additional Guidance

In sum, whether a particular transaction is in fact recommended depends on an analysis of all the relevant facts and circumstances. Therefore, employees are required to be familiar with divisional policies on recommendations and suitability, and are encouraged to consult their Divisional Compliance personnel or the Legal Department for assistance in answering any questions.

F. Recommendations Contained In Research Reports*

When a recommendation to a customer is made in advertisements or sales literature (including the firm's published research), the market price of the security at the time of the recommendation must be indicated and the following information must be disclosed:

- Whether the firm makes a market in the security or will buy or sell the security on a principal basis
- Whether the firm was a manager or co-manager of any public offering by the issuer within the past three years
- Whether the firm, its officers, or any personnel involved in preparing the communication may have positions in the securities or options of the issuer.
- Whether the firm or any of its employees is a director of the issuer.

The publication of all research reports must be approved by one of the firm's investment research departments, which will add any additional required disclosures.

G. Restricted Trading List Securities

Sales correspondence may not include discussion of, nor may a salesperson recommend transactions in, any security on the firm's Restricted Trading List without the prior approval of the Central Compliance Control Room.

Asset management personnel should refer to their Divisional Compliance policies which, in some instances, may differ from the foregoing.

660521.372

H. Hedge Clauses

The proper hedge clauses must accompany all advertisements and sales literature. The hedge clauses may not be misleading or inconsistent with the content of the communication.

The required hedge clauses vary based upon product, country, recipient and a number of other factors. Therefore, contact Divisional Compliance to determine the proper hedge clauses to use on any material sent to third parties on behalf of the firm.

I. Internal-Use-Only Documents

No written or electronic communication marked (or customarily handled as) "for internal use only" or "for broker use only" may be distributed, in whole or in part, to anyone outside of the firm. This includes e-mail and material on the internal website.

If a particular business unit determines that material originally prepared for internal or broker-only use becomes appropriate for dissemination to the public, any internal use designation must be removed and all appropriate approval procedures and standards governing outside written communications, as detailed in this document, must be satisfied.

J. Distributing "To All" Memoranda

"To All" memos, whether distributed by memo, e-mail or other means, must be approved as described in the section entitled "Firmwide Memoranda" in the Employee Handbook.

K. Dissemination of Information Concerning The Goldman Sachs Group, Inc.

The NYSE prohibits any recommendation or solicitation with respect to the common stock of The Goldman Sachs Group, Inc. Accordingly, only the Investor Relations or Corporate Communications Departments are authorized to make any comments regarding The Goldman Sachs Group, Inc.

L. Registered, Publicly-Offered Securities (other than GSAM Mutual Funds)

The U.S. securities laws impose severe restrictions on the distribution of any written materials in the United States by participants in a U.S. registered public offering (including both IPOs and follow-on offerings) in connection with such offering other than the most recent "red herring" prospectus and, after the offering is priced, the final prospectus. It has always been the firm's policy to adhere strictly to these requirements. In addition, it is the firm's policy to apply these requirements in a variety of other circumstances.

These restrictions are as follows:

- No written materials may be distributed outside the firm in the United States in connection with any U.S. registered public offering (both IPOs and follow-on offerings) other than the "red herring" prospectus and, after pricing of the offering, the final prospectus. This includes e-mails (including responses to clients' e-mails to us), faxes, and any other method of written communication. For example, neither the sales memorandum for the offering nor any portion thereof (nor any summary thereof) may be distributed outside the firm. In addition, only the entire "red herring" or final prospectus may be distributed; employees must not distribute selected pages from a prospectus, nor highlight or draw attention to selected portions of the prospectus. These restrictions continue in effect for the first 25 days after the pricing of a U.S. registered IPO.

- It is firm policy, in connection with U. S. registered public offerings, to observe the foregoing restrictions with respect to the distribution of written materials outside the U. S.

- It is also firm policy to observe the foregoing restrictions with respect to the distribution of written materials, both inside and outside the U. S., in connection with Regulation S and Rule 144A offerings.

Any exceptions to the first of the foregoing restrictions must be approved by the Legal Department or a senior member of the Special Execution Group. Any exceptions to the second or third of the foregoing restrictions must be approved by a member of the Commitments Committee in consultation with a senior member of the Special Execution Group.

A. General

Responsibility for obtaining reviews

In general, the employee preparing and sending a communication is responsible for obtaining any necessary approvals and for following the appropriate procedures for retention and review.

Documents previously approved

In certain instances, divisional policies may designate certain material sent to specified recipients as "pre-approved", in which case the pre-approved documents do not have to be re-approved each time they are sent.

Any additional correspondence accompanying the approved documents, such as a cover letter or note, may have to be approved, depending on the substance contained in it. For instance, casual correspondence, thank you notes, confirmations or schedules for meetings, invitations, and other correspondence that does not relate to business does not require approval.

Reviewer's Signature

When approval is required, the reviewer must initial or sign and date the firm's retained copy of any written communication (or, for certain business units, a "Compliance Cover Sheet") to indicate and record his/her review and approval or maintain a comparable record.

In cases where electronic correspondence requires approval, a record of the review and approval must be maintained. The nature of that record — an addition to the electronic file, a log file of reviews, a physical record on a hard copy, or other means — can be determined by the business unit. Whatever the nature of the record, it must clearly indicate the reviewer's approval and maintain a clear audit trail to the reviewed communication.

Advertisements and Sales Literature

In general, advertisements must be approved in advance by the Corporate Communications Department in order to assure compliance with firm-wide identity, branding, logo and other standards. In some divisions, this approval process may be handled by Divisional Compliance. In addition, advertisements related to the firm's sales and trading of securities must be approved prior to first use or first availability by a registered principal in the relevant business unit.

All sales literature must also comply with firm-wide design and content standards established by Corporate Communications. In addition, sales literature related to the firm's sales and trading of securities must be approved, prior to first use or availability, by a registered principal in the relevant business unit.

For any options-related sales literature, the approving registered principal must be the Compliance Registered Options Principal (CROP) or the CROP's designee.

Research reports must be approved by a supervisory analyst prior to issuance.

SRO Filing Requirements

Certain product-specific sales literature and advertisements (e.g., certain investment company-related materials, CMO-related advertisements, and options-related educational materials) must be filed with an appropriate SRO (NASD, CBOE, etc.) at least 10 days prior to first use or first availability. Approvals must be sought from the appropriate registered principal or Corporate Communications early enough to meet the 10-day filing requirement.

B. Review of Certain Outgoing Correspondence

Outgoing correspondence with the public by registered representatives and associated persons involved in the sale of securities, whether in hard-copy, fax, e-mail or other electronic format, will be subject to review by a registered principal or his/her designee.

Each division or business unit involved in the firm's broker/dealer business may approach the review of outgoing correspondence in one of two ways:

- Review all outgoing sales correspondence before it is sent; or
- Review a sample of outgoing sales correspondence after it is sent.

Guidelines for developing a sampling program appear in the Appendix at the end of this manual. Check your Divisional Compliance policies for the procedures applicable to you.

A copy of all such correspondence, no matter the medium in which it is delivered, must be retained in accordance with procedures established by the applicable division and must be readily available for review. The person who reviewed the correspondence must be easily ascertainable. Finally, the outgoing communications file will be subject to periodic review to assure compliance with these requirements.

Compliance with the requirements of these policies will be a subject of discussion at annual or other periodic performance reviews and will be the subject of remedial action, if required.

660521.376

Compliance with the requirements for review of communications (including appropriate monitoring, testing, and documenting of results and evaluation of effectiveness) are subject to annual Central Compliance review and will be included in the Management Controls Department's periodic audits.

C. Review of Incoming Correspondence

All incoming written and electronic correspondence from the public directed to registered representatives and associated persons involved in the sale of securities are also subject to the firm's supervision and review in accordance with divisional procedures. Except for written correspondence (i.e., material in paper form) sent to registered representatives (all of which must be reviewed as described below), divisional policies may provide for either review of all such correspondence or a sample selected in substantially the same manner as outgoing correspondence.

Review of Incoming Written Correspondence Sent to Sales Representatives

In order to provide early notice of potential sales practice issues and customer complaints, and to help ensure proper handling of customer funds and securities, a registered principal or his/her designee will review all incoming written correspondence (i.e., correspondence in paper form) that is directed to registered representatives involved in the sale of securities. To facilitate this review:

- The correspondence will be opened by, or in the presence of, an authorized individual (a principal or his/her designee) to identify any possible complaints and to remove customer funds and securities.
- The individual reviewing the correspondence will, after the review is completed, forward the material as appropriate for proper retention.
- Funds and securities will be forwarded to the personnel responsible for custody of funds and securities in the office in which the funds or securities were received. These items should be delivered by hand, if possible, or by an alternative delivery method approved by the firm's operations officials.
- Any correspondence containing a possible customer complaint must be handled as described in the following section.

Correspondence that can be readily identified as regulatory bulletins, research or promotional material, advertising, periodicals, fund raising appeals or similar non-customer material need not be subject to this procedure.

Treatment of Customer Inquiries and Complaints

As a matter of good business practice, it is the firm's policy to handle and resolve any customer or client inquiry expeditiously, especially when it regards proper handling of business solicitations, transactions, and customer securities or funds. In addition, the Legal Department and Central Compliance will designate certain types of inquiries as "customer complaints," which require specific handling and regulatory reporting.

To make sure that all inquiries and potential "customer complaints" are handled expeditiously and properly, both from the business and regulatory points of view, employees must observe the following procedure.

Any employee who receives a written, electronic, or oral communication from a customer or any person acting on behalf of a customer alleging a grievance involving the solicitation or execution of any transaction or the disposition of securities or funds of that customer must report it to his or her supervisor immediately. A copy of the communication (unless it is oral) must be sent immediately to the supervisor.

The supervisor will first determine whether the communication might be classified as a "customer complaint". If the supervisor considers the communication to be a possible complaint, the supervisor will notify and forward copies of the communication to the Director of Central Compliance, the Legal Department and Divisional Compliance.

The Legal Department or Central Compliance will determine whether the inquiry actually constitutes a "customer complaint." If it does, Central Compliance will be responsible for reporting the complaint as required by regulation. The Legal Department will coordinate the firm's response to the communication and advise the Central Compliance Department and Divisional Compliance of the resolution.

Regulatory Inquiries and Litigation

Any complaint, notice, subpoena, interrogatories or other document relating to a litigation matter, an arbitration proceeding, or a regulatory investigation should be forwarded immediately to the Legal Department. See the section entitled "Legal Matters" in the Employee Handbook.

D. Handling of Sales Literature and Correspondence Off Firm Premises

Written Material

All sales literature and sales correspondence must be sent to and from the premises of the firm to facilitate proper supervision.

E-mail and FAX Communications

All electronic communications, including e-mail and fax traffic, concerning firm business that is to or from customers must be sent and received from or to a firm e-mail address or firm fax machine or from and to a firm-approved third-party computer system .

Therefore:

- All e-mail traffic concerning firm business that is to and from the public must take place at the firm's premises or be routed through firm-provided, secure equipment.
- Faxes containing sales literature or sales correspondence must be sent from and to the premises of the firm. Personnel who are out of town on business should route faxes to the firm where they will be forwarded to the appropriate recipients.

Additional policies concerning e-mail and other electronic communications are contained in the Employee Handbook.

Employees working from home offices

All sales correspondence from or to employees working from home offices must be routed through regional offices for purposes of review, approval, distribution and retention.

Employees working from home offices may not direct customers to send correspondence to the home office.

Employees may not send faxes containing sales literature or sales correspondence to customers or potential customers from home fax machines unless Divisional Compliance has approved such communication and established procedures for its supervision and retention.

V. Retention

A. Material Relating to Securities Business

All written or electronic advertisements, sales literature, sales correspondence and other communications related to the firm's broker/dealer business must be retained for a minimum period of three years, except that:

- Communications relating to commodities or futures or options on commodities or futures must be retained for a minimum of five years.
- Communications relating to customer complaints must be retained for eight years.
- Communications relating to asset management services must be retained for six years.

Supervisors must retain evidence of supervisory reviews and approvals for the same periods.

B. Other Material

Retention of all other material will be in accordance with requirements established by individual divisions or business units.

VI. Other Issues

A. Education and Training

The firm's policies and procedures regarding written and electronic communications may be included in the firm's required annual compliance meeting and will otherwise be a part of the firm's continuing education program.

B. Monitoring

The policies set forth above will be subject to periodic review by the firm's Management Controls Department.

VII. Appendix

Appendix 1. Guidelines for Sampling Correspondence

Divisions or business units may set up a system of reviewing appropriate samples of outgoing sales correspondence after they have been distributed.

If the division or business unit selects a sampling approach, regulations require that:

- Specific procedures must be designed and documented to provide reasonable supervision of each representative who conducts business with the public.
- The sampling techniques must be designed so that they can reasonably detect any potential violation of regulations under which the firm and its individual business units and divisions do business. Sampling levels must be set to provide statistically acceptable results. These levels must be determined in consultation with technology experts, business people, and the Legal and Compliance Departments. They will be reviewed periodically to assure reasonable accuracy and effectiveness.

In developing a sampling system, a number of additional factors should be taken into account:

- In determining the level of supervision appropriate for each sales representative, supervisors should consider the representative's overall complaint and disciplinary history, with particular emphasis on previous incidents involving communication with customers.
- Samples should be designed to reflect the breadth of an individual's communications, but need not be strictly random; samples may be concentrated on, for example, very active periods of time or very complicated or sensitive transactions.
- Electronic communications must be covered by the sample. Therefore, a selection of e-mails (and other electronic communications, if any) must also be reviewed. Where e-mail systems automatically save copies of outgoing e-mails, procedures should be adopted for the periodic review of saved e-mail folders for each person subject to review.
- The selection of specific electronic communications to be reviewed may be made by an automated system that selects individual communications for review based on key words or phrases.
- Individual supervisors are generally in the best position to determine the transactions or activities most likely to give rise to deviations from firm policies or risk to customers. Input will be sought from line-of-business supervisors in setting sampling guidelines.

660521.382

- Reviews are required to confirm the appropriateness of a representative's recommendations to customers. Therefore, sample selection criteria should assure that recommendations are included in the material reviewed for all representatives.

- Frequency of reviews should follow these guidelines:

  - Each individual's correspondence must be sampled no less often than annually.

  - Supervisors may wish to review the correspondence of junior employees (e.g., second- and third-year salespersons, certain lateral hires from other firms, etc.) more frequently than annually.

  - For the least-experienced employees (e.g., new hires, recent graduates of training programs, etc.), supervisors may find it advisable to review all correspondence prior to use or distribution until a level of confidence is reached as to the individual's work product.

- Records must be kept of the reviews.

- Divisions, business units, or supervisors may choose to review material more frequently or to increase the size of any sample.

- In conjunction with the sampling program, a program of periodic training must be established to educate employees as to the regulatory requirements applicable to their communications. Records showing when programs were conducted and who attended or otherwise participated must be maintained and be available for audit.

GOLDMAN SACHS CEO LLOYD BLANKFEIN IS INTERVIEWED ON CNBC

EVENT DATE: May 7, 2010

TYPE: NEWS PROGRAM

SPEAKER: GOLDMAN SACHS CEO LLOYD BLANKFEIN

DAVID FABER, CNBC ANCHOR
GOLDMAN SACHS CEO LLOYD BLANKFEIN

TEXT:

FABER: We're with Lloyd Blankfein, chairman and CEO of Goldman Sachs after the company's annual meeting.

You mentioned introspection in answer to one of those questions that you received today, in terms of your own introspection when you looked back at this recent period. I'm curious, given that you've been introspective - not that you aren't always, what are you finding? What are you thinking about? What conclusions, if any, have you come to as a result of that?

BLANKFEIN: In connection with what's - in connection with what's going on, there's been - everybody is aware of the intense focus on us and how we've had to respond in the conditions in which we've been responding. If there is a silver lining to this for us, it causes us to have to be thoughtful about the context in which people are saying what they're saying.

In other words, we can say this particular lawsuit that we don't think - we may not think it has merit, or this activity - defend this activity against what somebody says is a poor activity. But we have to look at it and be honest and say, somehow there's a context here in which there is a gap between the way we think about ourselves and the way the general public has thought about us and thinks about us. And we have to respond to it.

Now, a lot of our attention is going to still be, how do we work out some of the things and some of the things that people thought and defend certain aspects of behavior. But let me tell you, it is our nature, always, to be self critical and want to improve.

Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations
Report Footnote #2706

And the silver lining here is this causes me, the entire organization and I think ultimately the industry to be self critical about how they did things with a view to take standards which we may believe to be fine, and in our case, maybe we think we're already at the highest standards - we think we are. But to say, where do we need to go? Can we take it even higher.

FABER: Well, all right. Give me some specifics. I mean, you and I talked only a couple of weeks ago about synthetic CDO transactions. I asked you then whether they were appropriate. You at least gave an indication a couple of weeks ago, by a lot of introspection since then, that perhaps there are things that could have been done differently. Can you build on that?

BLANKFEIN: No, I think - well, in that case - and again, this is work we're going to do. And we're going to be quite focused on this. We'll come up, I'm sure, with a lot of different points.

The question you had asked is about the social purpose. And I explained what the purpose of CDO's are, and allowing people with portfolios of exposure to the mortgage markets to be able to reshape their portfolio in an efficient way, which is what a lot of people use derivatives for across the spectrum.

I then said there may be another side, like complexity and a liquidity, which might mean that not withstanding that purpose, we may decide not to do that.

That's an inquiry we would ask ourselves.

FABER: And it's one that continue - because I'm trying to get to the point - if you're being introspective, have you come to any conclusions? Or when will you? Or when will we see?

BLANKFEIN: I'll give you categories of things - transparency, how we show ourselves. I know we have been criticized in the past for not being transparent about what we show about our business - you know, our business mix. There's always concerns.

You know, there's a reason why you get to any place you are. There's investors - or someone who need to know versus your own competitive advantage about not wanting to disclose to much. We're going to analyze these things and look at this. And maybe we'll come out with a different conclusion with respect to various trade-offs. How we manage business selection, who we represent

You know, it can be very frequently the case that there's a property in the world for sale, and maybe five of the potential buyers might be clients of Goldman Sachs. How do we pick among them?

FABER: Right. But I mean, those are always challenges.

BLANKFEIN: They are.

FABER: Things that you deal with in your business. That's no different, I would think, then the way you've thought about those challenges in the past.

BLANKFEIN: No.

Listen, we are not going to originate some new issue that hasn't come across before. But how these things are resolved, how analytic, what kind of weight you give to one consideration versus another, most of these things are trade-offs in activities. And we're going to approach that, in, you know, frankly in a way that's informed by the current context in which we're operating.

FABER: There are reports that you're in settlement talks with the SEC. Is that true?

BLANKFEIN: There must be true that there are reports, because I saw things in the paper.

The fact is, that we - we're in a litigation with the SEC, but the SEC is not an ordinary litigant, it's someone who regulates us with whom we interact all the time on a lot of different bases in a normal course of activity. And so we're interacting with them regularly. And people...

FABER: Should there be an expectation in some way, though, that the fraud charges will be resolved prior to going to court?

BLANKFEIN: I can't - I can't comment on that.

FABER: Do you continue to maintain as you did vociferously when the charges first were made that you did nothing wrong? That Goldman Sachs has done nothing wrong?

BLANKFEIN: Yes. We maintain our belief that on the facts and on the law we think we were right and acted appropriately.

FABER: You said during the annual meeting as well that this period has been a strain on Goldman Sachs and on its clients.

BLANKFEIN: Yes.

FABER: Why?

BLANKFEIN: Well, when you retain Goldman Sachs, you're retaining us for our capability, our competence, our discretion, our ability to get things done cleanly - again, it's about the client. It puts a - you know, you can't deny that with Goldman so much in the forefront and so much in the news, people have to overcome a certain reticence to be to potentially join the, you know, the public scrutiny, if that's there.

Not withstanding that, and I don't take this for granted, and believe me I'm very grateful, our clients have been tremendously loyal to us. They've supported us in every way beyond my expectations. At the same time I say that, I acknowledge I regret that we're in a position where showing our - showing support for us, you know, is not being made easy for them.

FABER: Right. Well, you said during the meeting that they were enthusiastic. Can you give me any evidence in terms of what you're talking about when you say that you've been shown support?

BLANKFEIN: I think our clients have, you know, have stuck with us. And you'll see - the proof is in the pudding.

FABER: Right. I mean, again, I know you don't like to comment quarter to quarter. I asked you this 10 days ago. Are you seeing any diminution in your business that you believe is a result of the reputational issues that are at stake for Goldman Sachs?

BLANKFEIN: You know, it's hard to know because of the cyclical aspects in the market as a whole is doing things differently today than it was doing before. And it's hard to know. And we'll know when we look back and we'll be able to see market shares.

660521.386

But I believe we've been shown - and I know we've been shown, great, great support for our clients uniformly. And I even think some of our clients are, frankly, do more with us especially to show that kind of support.

FABER: You believe that they actually may be saying...

(CROSSTALK)

BLANKFEIN: Some people have had that conversation. I don't take it for granted. I appreciate it.

FABER: You're not going to do this again just to...

BLANKFEIN: I would say that it's not - it hasn't been worth it.

FABER: You and I spoke after you came out of a very long day of hearings not that long ago. When you look back on that interaction, particularly with you and Senator Levin, do you think that there's an understanding of what you're talking about when you speak to member of Congress?

BLANKFEIN: You know, I do largely. I think when you are a generalist - like a very smart generalist like a senator who has to have a sense and legislate and balance different elements - you know, like just like we were talking a few minutes ago, it's not a question is this good or is this bad, it's how good is this versus how bad is that? What should the trade-offs be. I think they are informed enough to make those kind of judgments.

Do they know the technicalities of the market? Is it...

FABER: Well, do they want to acknowledge the difference between an underwriter and a market maker? Because they certainly didn't seem to or...

BLANKFEIN: No, but I think they had an intuition that this didn't feel right. And to some extent, maybe I was inadequate to my purpose.

Let me tell you, in all our businesses, we put our clients first and we support our clients. That means different things in different parts of the business. So, for example, in an advisory business like banking, it's obvious we have a duty, a relationship to make sure they do the right thing. If they want to do X and we think it'll be right to do Y, we say, don't do X. We think you should do Y.

On the market making side, our duty to clients is served by us - whatever market conditions, whatever chaos prevails, using our capital to help our clients accomplish what they want to accomplish - we make hundreds of thousands, maybe millions of markets a day. Think of somebody going to the New York Stock Exchange, which is another kind of market.

No one is saying, I wouldn't sell that security here. No, you should buy this and not that. Client service and dedication to client in that case is standing there and being able to provide liquidature (ph) client no matter how tough the market is.

FABER: Before we wrap up, you mentioned the market, you mentioned the NYSE. Have you ever seen anything quite like that five minutes we saw yesterday in the equity markets?

BLANKFEIN: It was very unusual in the market.

660521.387

FABER: Have you been told? Do you know? I mean, obviously Goldman has a pretty good feel for what's going on. Do you have an understanding of what happened yesterday?

BLANKFEIN: I've been - nobody has told me explicitly. I've been given several theories, because I have several theories - because I have several theories, I realize I have no theory. I think we're still examining some of these things.

FABER: So you don't feel as though you even understand at this point what actually - I mean, stocks traded at a penny. I mean, something went very wrong.

BLANKFEIN: But you know what I've been doing for the last few hours? Because I can't tell you, doesn't mean that people don't know it, or it's not understandable. It's just that, you know where I'd been....

FABER: High frequency trading may be blamed, in part, for what went on. Goldman conducts that business.

BLANKFEIN: I can't - I'm just not familiar with this theory. I just don't know.

FABER: But what about that business in and of itself?

BLANKFEIN: I think that business in and of itself is a good business at Goldman Sachs. And I think it's an important liquidity generator for the market. I have no opinion, because I haven't heard any connection made to me.

FABER: And finally Europe. We're dealing with, of course, a crisis there. I'm curious - you know, there's not a lot of business going on in Europe right now. And everybody is worrying about what's happening with sovereign debt and the issues that these countries - are you seeing a slow down in Europe? Are you concerned about Goldman's business in Europe? You have 5,000 people alone in London.

BLANKFEIN: Well, of course I'm concerned about the economy in Europe. And frankly - you know, the whole political and social environment reaches back to the European community. I'm pretty confident that the European sovereigns will do what's necessary to restore confidence.

A lot of what's going on, not that dissimilar to what happened a couple of years ago in the market has to do with confidence and sentiment and less to do with the actualities of someone's ability to make payments.

But confidence matters, sentiment matters. And I think that...

FABER: Matters, it's the most important thing.

BLANKFEIN: It's the most important thing. And I think that the governments have - in Europe, have the motive and the wherewithal to restore that confidence. And I believe they will.

FABER: And business in Europe, you seen a slow down?

BLANKFEIN: I think generally in business, but for this interlude which is just sort of recent, I think business around the world is correlating with, you know, renewed optimism about growth. And that's occurring in Europe as well as the United States and Asia.

FABER: Lloyd Blankfein, thank you.

BLANKFEIN: Thank you very much, David.

described herein. Before any interest in an Income Note Certificate or a Class D Note that is a Definitive Note may be offered, sold, pledged or otherwise transferred, the transferee will be required to provide the Issuer and the Fiscal Agent with a letter substantially in the form attached to this Offering Circular as Annex A-1 (the "Income Notes Purchase and Transfer Letter"). The purchaser understands and agrees that any purported transfer of Securities to a purchaser that does not comply with the requirements of this paragraph (2) will, in the case of the Class S Notes, Class A Notes, Class B Notes, Class C Notes, the Regulation S Class D Notes and the Regulation S Income Notes, be null and void ab initio and, in the case of the Class D Notes (other than the Regulation S Class D Notes) and Income Notes (other than the Regulation S Income Notes), not be permitted or registered by the Trustee or the Registrar or the Fiscal Agent or the Income Note Registrar, as applicable. The purchaser further understands that the Issuers have the right to compel any beneficial owner of Securities that is a U.S. Person and is not a Qualified Institutional Buyer or, in the case of the Income Notes, an Accredited Investor to sell its interest in such Securities, or the Issuers may sell such Securities on behalf of such owner.

3. The purchaser of such Securities also understands that neither of the Issuers has been registered under the Investment Company Act. In the case of the Rule 144A Notes and the Income Notes described in paragraph (1) above, the purchaser and each account for which the purchaser is acquiring such Securities is a qualified purchaser for the purposes of Section 3(c)(7) of the Investment Company Act (a "Qualified Purchaser"). The purchaser is acquiring Notes in a principal amount, in the case of Rule 144A Notes, of not less than U.S.$250,000, or, in the case of Notes sold in reliance on Regulation S ("Regulation S Notes"), of not less than U.S.$100,000, or is purchasing Income Notes in the aggregate notional principal amount of not less than U.S.$100,000. The purchaser (or if the purchaser is acquiring Securities for any account, each such account) is acquiring the Securities as principal for its own account for investment and not for sale in connection with any distribution thereof. The purcheser and each such account: (a) was not formed for the specific purpose of investing in the Securities (except when each beneficial owner of the purchaser and each such account is a Qualified Purchaser), (b) to the extent the purcheser is a private investment company formed before April 30, 1996, the purchaser has received the necessary consent from its beneficial owners, (c) is not a pension, profit sharing or other retirement trust fund or plan in which the partners, beneficiaries or participants, as applicable, may designate the particular investments to be made and (d) is not a broker dealer that owns and invests on a discretionary basis less than U.S.$25,000,000 in securities of unaffiliated issuers. Further, the purchaser agrees with respect to itself and each such account: (i) that it shall not hold such Securities for the benefit of any other person and shall be the sole beneficial owner thereof for all purposes and (ii) that it shall not sell participation interests in the Securities or enter into any other arrangement pursuant to which any other person shall be entitled to a beneficial interest in the distributions on the Securities. The purchaser understands and agrees that any purported transfer of Securities to a purchaser that does not comply with the requirements of this paragraph (3) will, in the case of the Class S Notes, Class A Notes, Class B Notes, Class C Notes, the Regulation S Class D Notes and Regulation S Income Notes, be null and void ab initio and, in the case of the Class D Notes (other than the Regulation S Class D Notes) and the Income Notes (other than the Regulation S Income Notes), not be permitted or registered by the Trustee or the Note Registrar or the Fiscal Agent or the Income Note Registrar, as applicable. The purchaser further understands that the Issuers have the right to compel any beneficial owner of Securities that is a U.S. Person and is not a Qualified Purchaser to sell its interest in such Securities, or the Issuers may sell such Securities on behalf of such owner.

4. (a) With respect to the Class S Notes, Class A Notes, Class B Notes and Class C Notes, each purchaser will be deemed, by its purchase, to have represented and warranted that either (i) the purchaser is not and will not be an ERISA Plan (as defined herein), a plan that is subject to Section 4975 of the United States Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), or any entity whose underlying assets include "plan assets" by reason of any such plan's investment in the entity ("Plan Assets") or (ii) the purchaser's purchase and holding of a Class S Note, Class A Note, Class B Note or Class C Note does not and will not constitute or result in a prohibited transaction under Section 406 of the United States Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA"), or Section 4975 of the Code for which an exemption is not available. The purchaser understands and agrees that any purported transfer of a Note to a purchaser that does not comply with the requirements of this paragraph (4)(a) shall be null and void ab initio.

(b) With respect to each of the Income Notes and Class D Notes (other than Regulation S Income Notes and Regulation S Class D Notes) purchased or transferred on or after the Closing Date, the purchaser or transferee must disclose in writing in advance to the Trustee or the Fiscal Agent, as applicable, (i) whether or not it is (A) an "employee benefit plan" (as defined in Section 3(3) of ERISA), that is subject to Title I of ERISA, (B) a "plan" described in and subject to Section 4975 of the Code, or (C) an entity whose underlying assets include "plan assets" within the meaning of ERISA by reason of any such plan's investment in the entity (all such persons and entities described in clauses (A) through (C) being referred to herein as "Benefit Plan Investors"); (ii) if the purchaser is a Benefit Plan Investor, either (x) the purchase and holding of Income Notes or Class D Notes (other than Regulation S Income Notes and Regulation S Class D Notes), as applicable, do not and will not constitute or result in a prohibited transaction under Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code for which an exemption is not available or (y) the purchase and holding of Income Notes or Class D Notes (other than Regulation S Income Notes and Regulation S Class D Notes), as applicable, is exempt under an identified Prohibited Transaction Class Exemption or individual exemption, based on the assumption that less than 25% of each of the outstanding Income Notes or Class D Notes, as applicable, are owned by Benefit Plan Investors; and (iii) whether or not it is the Issuer or any other person (other than a Benefit Plan Investor) that has discretionary authority or control with respect to the assets of the Issuer, a person who provides investment advice for a fee (direct or indirect) with respect to the assets of the Issuer, or any "affiliate" (within the meaning of 29 C.F.R. Section 2510.3-101(f)(3)) of any such person (each, a "Controlling Person"). If a purchaser is an entity described in (i)(C) above, or an insurance company acting on behalf of its general account, it may be required to so indicate, and to identify a maximum percentage of its assets or the assets in its general account, as applicable, that may be or become plan assets, in which case it will be required to make certain further agreements that would apply in the event that such maximum percentage would thereafter be exceeded. The purchaser agrees that, before any interest in an Income Note or a Class D Note (other then a Regulation S Income Note or a Regulation S Class D Note) may be offered, sold, pledged or otherwise transferred, the transferee will be required to provide the Trustee or Fiscal Agent, as applicable, with an Income Notes Purchase and Transfer Letter or a Class D Notes Purchase and Transfer Letter stating, among other things, whether the transferee is a Benefit Plan Investor. The purchaser acknowledges and agrees that no purchase or transfer will be permitted, and the Trustee or Fiscal Agent will not register any such transfer, to the extent that the purchase or transfer would result in Benefit Plan Investors owning 25% or more of either of the outstanding Income Notes or Class D Notes, immediately after such purchase or transfer (determined in accordance with the Fiscal Agency Agreement). The foregoing procedures are intended to enable Income Notes and Class D Notes (other than Regulation S Income Notes and Regulation S Class D Notes) to be purchased by or transferred to Benefit Plan Investors at any time, although no assurance can be given that there will not be circumstances in which purcheses or transfers of Income Notes or Class D Notes will be required to be restricted in order to comply with the aforementioned 25% limitation. No Benefit Plan Investor or Controlling Person may purchase a Regulation S Income Note or Regulation S Class D Note. Purchasers of Regulation S Income Notes or Regulation S Class D Note are deemed to represent that they are not Benefit Plan Investors or Controlling Persons. See "ERISA Considerations."

5. The purchaser is not purchasing the Securities with a view toward the resale, distribution or other disposition thereof in violation of the Securities Act. The purchaser understands that an investment in the Securities involves certain risks, including the risk of loss of its entire investment in the Securities under certain circumstances. The purchaser has had access to such financial and other information concerning the Issuers and the Securities as it deemed necessary or appropriate in order to make an informed investment decision with respect to its purchase of the Securities, including an opportunity to ask questions of, and request information from, the Issuer.

6. In connection with the purchase of the Securities: (i) none of the Issuers, the Initial Purchaser, the Collateral Manager, the Trustee, the Agents, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty (or any guarantor thereof), the Issuer Administrator or the Share Trustee (as defined herein) is acting as a fiduciary or financial or investment adviser for the purchaser; (ii) the purchaser is not relying (for purposes of making any investment decision or otherwise) upon any advice, counsel or representations (whether written or oral) of the Issuers, the Initial Purchaser, the Collateral Manager, the Trustee, the Agents, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty (or any guarantor thereof), the Issuer Administrator or the Share Trustee other than in this offering circular for such Securities and any representations expressly set forth in a written agreement with such party; (iii) none of the Issuers, the Initial Purchaser, the Collateral Manager, the Trustee, the Agents, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty (or any guarantor thereof), the Issuer Administrator or the Share Trustee has given to the purchaser (directly or indirectly through any other person) any assurance, guarantee or representation whatsoever as to the expected or projected success, profitability, return, performance, results, effect, consequence or benefit (including legal, regulatory, tax, financial, accounting or otherwise) as to an investment in the Securities; (iv) the purchaser has consulted with its own legal, regulatory, tax, business, investment, financial and accounting advisors to the extent it has deemed necessary, and it has made its own investment decisions (including decisions regarding the suitability of any transaction pursuant to the Indenture and Fiscal Agency Agreement) based upon its own judgment and upon any advice from such advisors as it has deemed necessary and not upon any view expressed by Issuers, the Initial Purchaser, the Collateral Manager, the Trustee, the Agents, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty (or any guarantor thereof), the Issuer Administrator or the Share Trustee; (v) the purchaser has evaluated the rates, prices or amounts and other terms and conditions of the purchase and sale of the Securities with a full understanding of all of the risks thereof (economic and otherwise), and is capable of assuming and willing to assume (financially and otherwise) those risks; and (vi) the purchaser is a sophisticated investor.

RISK FACTORS

Prior to making an investment decision, prospective investors should carefully consider, in addition to the matters set forth elsewhere in this Offering Circular, the following factors:

Securities

Limited Liquidity and Restrictions on Transfer. There is currently no market for the Securities. Although the Initial Purchaser has advised the Issuers that it intends to make a market in the Securities, the Initial Purchaser is not obligated to do so, and any such market making with respect to the Securities may be discontinued at any time without notice. There can be no assurance that any secondary market for any of the Notes will develop or, if a secondary market does develop, that it will provide the Holders of the Notes with liquidity of investment or that it will continue for the life of such Notes and consequently a purchaser must be prepared to hold the Notes until maturity. Consequently, a purchaser must be prepared to hold the Notes for an indefinite period of time or until Stated Maturity. Since it is likely that there will never be a secondary market for the Income Notes, a purchaser must be prepared to hold its Income Notes until the Stated Maturity.

In addition, no sale, assignment, participation, pledge or transfer of the Securities may be effected if, among other things, it would require any of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any of their officers or directors to register under, or otherwise be subject to the provisions of, the Investment Company Act or any other similar legislation or regulatory action. Furthermore, the Securities will not be registered under the Securities Act or any state securities laws or the laws of any other jurisdiction, and the Issuer has no plans, and is under no obligation, to register the Securities under the Securities Act or any state securities laws or under the laws of any other jurisdiction. The Securities are subject to certain transfer restrictions and can be transferred only to certain transferees as described herein under "Description of the Securities—Form of the Securities" and "Notice to Investors." Such restrictions on the transfer of the Securities may further limit their liquidity. See "Description of the Securities—Form of the Securities." Application may be made to admit the Securities on a stock exchange of the Issuer's choice, if practicable. There can be no assurance that such admission will be sought, granted or maintained.

Limited Recourse Obligations. The Income Notes and the Class D Notes will be limited recourse obligations of the Issuer and the Notes (other than the Class D Notes) will be limited recourse obligations of the Issuers payable solely from the Collateral pledged by the Issuer to secure the Notes. The Income Notes are denominated as debt of the Issuer and are not secured by the Collateral Assets or the other collateral securing the Notes. None of the Collateral Manager, the Holders of the Notes, the Holders of the Income Notes, the Initial Purchaser, the Trustee, the Issuer Administrator, the Agents, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty or any affiliates of any of the foregoing or the Issuers' affiliates or any other person or entity will be obligated to make payments on the Notes or the Income Notes. Consequently, Holders of the Notes and Income Notes must rely solely on distributions on the Collateral pledged to secure the Notes for the payment of principal, interest and premium, if any, thereon. If distributions on the Collateral are insufficient to make payments on the Notes and Income Notes, no other assets (and, in particular, no assets of the Collateral Manager, the Holders of the Notes, the Holders of the Income Notes, the Initial Purchaser, the Trustee, the Issuer Administrator, the Agents, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty or any affiliates of any of the foregoing) will be available for payment of the deficiency, and following realization of the Collateral pledged to secure the Notes, the obligations of the Issuers to pay such deficiency shall be extinguished.

Subordination of the Securities. Payments of principal on the Class S-1 Notes will be senior to payments of principal of the Class S-2 Notes, the Class A-1 Notes, Class A-2 Notes, Class B Notes, Class C Notes and Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on each Payment Date. Payments of principal on the Class S-2 Notes will be senior to payments of principal of the Class A-2 Notes, Class B Notes, Class C Notes and Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on each Payment Date. Payments of principal on the Class A-1 Notes will be senior to payments of principal of the Class A-2 Notes, Class B Notes, Class C Notes and Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on each Payment Date. Payments of principal on the Class S-2 Notes and the Class A-1

Notes will be paid as described in the Priority of Payments. Payments of principal on the Class A-2 Notes will be senior to payments of principal of the Class B Notes, Class C Notes and Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on each Payment Date. Payments of principal on the Class B Notes will be senior to payments of principal on the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on each Payment Date. Payments of principal on the Class C Notes will be senior to payments of principal on the Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on each Payment Date. Payments of principal on the Class D Notes due on any Payment Date will be senior to payments on the Income Notes on such Payment Date. As a result of the Priority of Payments, notwithstanding the subordination of the Notes described under "Description of the Securities—Status and Security," the Class S-2 Notes will be entitled to receive certain payments of principal while the Class S-1 Notes are outstanding, the Class A-1 Notes will be entitled to receive certain payments of principal while the Class S Notes are outstanding, the Class A-2 Notes will be entitled to receive certain payments of principal while the Class S Notes and the Class A-1 Notes are outstanding, the Class B Notes will be entitled to receive certain payments of principal while the Class S Notes and the Class A Notes are outstanding, the Class C Notes will be entitled to receive certain payments of principal while the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes are outstanding and the Class D Notes will be entitled to receive certain payments of principal while the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes and the Class C Notes are outstanding. In addition, the Income Notes will be entitled to receive certain payments while the Notes are outstanding. See "Description of the Securities—Priority of Payments." To the extent that any losses are incurred by the Issuer in respect of any Collateral, such losses will be borne first by Holders of the Income Notes; then, by Holders of the Class D Notes; then, by Holders of the Class C Notes; then, by Holders of the Class B Notes; then, by Holders of the Class A-2 Notes; then, by Holders of the Class S-2 Notes; then, by the Holders of the Class A-1d Notes; then, by the Holders of the Class A-1c Notes; then, by the Holders of the Class A-1b Notes; then, by the Holders of the Class A-1a Notes and finally, by Holders of the Class S-1 Notes.

Payments of interest on the Class S-1 Notes due on any Payment Date will be senior to payments of interest on the Class S-2 Notes, the Class A-1 Notes, Class A-2 Notes, Class B Notes, Class C Notes and Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on such Payment Date. Payments of interest on the Class S-2 Notes due on any Payment Date will be paid pro rata with payments of interest on the Class A-1 Notes and the Class A-2 Notes and will be senior to payments of interest on the Class B Notes, Class C Notes and Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on such Payment Date. Payments of interest on the Class A-1 Notes due on any Payment Date will be paid pro rata with payments of interest on the Class S-2 Notes and the Class A-2 Notes and will be senior to payments of interest on the Class B Notes, Class C Notes and Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on such Payment Date. Payments of interest on the Class A-2 Notes due on any Payment Date will be paid pro rata with payments of interest on the Class S-2 Notes and the Class A-1 Notes and will be senior to payments of interest on the Class B Notes, Class C Notes and Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on such Payment Date. Payments of interest on the Class B Notes due on any Payment Date will be senior to payments of interest on the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on such Payment Date. Payments of interest on the Class C Notes due on any Payment Date will be senior to payments of interest on the Class D Notes and senior to payments on the Income Notes on such Payment Date. Payments of interest on the Class D Notes due on any Payment Date will be senior to payments on the Income Notes on such Payment Date. See "Description of the Securities."

On any Payment Date on which certain conditions are satisfied and funds are available therefor, the "shifting principal" method in clause (xii) of the Priority of Payments may permit Holders of the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes, Class C Notes and Class D Notes to receive payments of principal in accordance with the Priority of Payments while more senior Classes of Notes remain outstanding and may permit distributions of Principal Proceeds to the Holders of the Income Notes, to the extent funds are available in accordance with the Priority of Payments, while the Notes are outstanding. Amounts properly paid pursuant to the Priority of Payments to a junior Class of Notes or to the Income Notes will not be recoverable in the event of a subsequent shortfall in the amount required to pay a more senior Class of Notes.

Holders of the Controlling Class may not be able to effect a liquidation of the Collateral in an Event of Default; Holders of other Classes of Notes and the Income Notes may be Adversely Affected by Actions of the Controlling Class. If an Event of Default occurs and is continuing, a Majority of the Controlling Class will be entitled to determine the remedies to be exercised under the Indenture; however, the Majority of the Controlling Class will not be able to direct a sale or liquidation of the Collateral unless, among other things, the Trustee determines that the anticipated proceeds of such sale or liquidation (after deducting the reasonable expenses of such sale or liquidation) would be sufficient to pay in full the sum of (A) the principal (including any Class C Deferred Interest and Class D Deferred Interest) and accrued interest (including all Defaulted Interest, and interest thereon) and any other amounts due with respect to all the outstanding Notes, (B) unpaid Administrative Expenses, (C) all amounts payable by the Issuer to the Synthetic Security Counterparty or an assignee of a Synthetic Security (other than Defaulted Synthetic Security Termination Payments) net of all amounts payable to the Issuer by any Synthetic Security Counterparty or an assignee of a Synthetic Security, (D) all amounts payable by the Issuer to any Cashflow Swap Counterparty (including any applicable termination payments other than Defaulted Cashflow Swap Termination Payments) net of all amounts payable to the Issuer by any Cashflow Swap Counterparty, (E) accrued and unpaid Deferred Structuring Expenses, (F) accrued and unpaid Collateral Management Fees, including any Cumulative Deferred Management Fees and (G) all other items in the Priority of Payments ranking prior to payments on the Notes. There can be no assurance that proceeds of a sale and liquidation, together with all other available funds, will be sufficient to pay in full such amount. In addition, even if the anticipated proceeds of such sale or liquidation would not be sufficient to pay in full such amount, the Holders of a SupraMajority of the Controlling Class and any Cashflow Swap Counterparty (unless any such Cashflow Swap Counterparty will be paid in full the amounts due to it other than any Defaulted Cashflow Swap Termination Payments at the time of distribution of the proceeds of any sale or liquidation of the Collateral) may direct the sale and liquidation of the Collateral.

Remedies pursued by the Holders of the Class S-1 Notes and the Class A-1 Notes could be adverse to the interests of the Holders of the Class S-2 Notes, the Class A-2 Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes, the Class D Notes and the Income Notes. After the Class S-1 Notes and the Class A-1 Notes are no longer outstanding, the Holders of the Class S-2 Notes and Class A-2 Notes will be entitled to determine the remedies to be exercised under the Indenture (except as noted above) if an Event of Default occurs. After the Class S Notes and the Class A Notes are no longer outstanding, the Holders of the Class B Notes will be entitled to determine the remedies to be exercised under the Indenture (except as noted above) if an Event of Default occurs. After the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes are no longer outstanding, the Holders of the Class C Notes will be entitled to determine the remedies to be exercised under the Indenture (except as noted above) if an Event of Default occurs. After the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes and the Class C Notes are no longer outstanding, the Holders of the Class D Notes will be entitled to determine the remedies to be exercised under the Indenture (except as noted above) if an Event of Default occurs. See "Description of the Securities—The Indenture and the Fiscal Agency Agreement—Events of Default."

CDO Securities May Defer Interest. Certain of the CDO Securities and Synthetic Securities the Reference Obligations of which are CDO Securities as of the Closing Date consists of or references PIK Bonds. While the Cashflow Swap Counterparty will make advances to the Issuer to cover certain Cashflow Swap Shortfall Amounts that could result in e shortfall of current interest payments on the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes, the Issuer may have insufficient funds as a result of such deferrals or payments "in-kind" to make payments on the Notes or distributions in respect of the Income Notes.

Status of the Income Notes. The Income Notes are unsecured debt obligations of the Issuer and are not secured by the Collateral Assets or the other Collateral securing the Notes. As such, the Holders of the Income Notes will rank behind the Holders of the Notes and any other secured creditors as set forth in the Indenture and pari passu with the unsecured creditors, whether secured or unsecured and known or unknown, of the Issuer. No person or entity other than the Issuer will be required to make any payments on the Income Notes. Except with respect to the obligations of the Issuer to make payments pursuant to the Priority of Payments (and outside of the Priority of Payments with respect to the Synthetic Security Counterparties), the Issuer does not expect to have any creditors. The funds available to be paid to the Fiscal Agent for the benefit of the Holders of the Income Notes will depend in part on the weighted average of the Note Interest Rates.

Amounts on deposit in the Income Note Payment Account (as defined herein) will not be available to pay amounts due to the Holders of the Notes, the Trustee, the Collateral Manager, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty, the Synthetic Security Counterparty or any other creditor of the Issuer whose claim is limited in recourse to the Collateral. However, amounts on deposit in the Income Note Payment Account (as defined herein) may be subject to the claims of creditors of the Issuer that have not contractually limited their recourse to the Collateral. The Indenture and the Fiscal Agency Agreement will limit the Issuer's activities to the issuance and sale of the Securities, the acquisition and disposition of the Collateral Assets, the acquisition and disposition of, and investment and reinvestment in, the Eligible Investments and the other activities related to the issuance and the sale of the Securities described under "The Issuers". The Issuer does not expect to have any significant full recourse liabilities that would be payable out of amounts on deposit in the Income Note Payment Account (as defined herein).

Leveraged Investment. The Income Notes represent a leveraged investment in the underlying Collateral Assets. The use of leverage generally magnifies an investor's opportunities for gain and risk of loss. Therefore, changes in the market value of the Income Notes can be expected to be greater than changes in the market value of the underlying assets included in the Collateral Assets, which are also subject to credit, liquidity and interest rate risk.

Optional Redemption and Tax Redemption of Securities. Subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions, the Securities may be optionally redeemed in whole and not in part (i) on any Payment Date on or after the March 2010 Payment Date in connection with an Optional Redemption by Liquidation at the written direction of, or with the written consent of, Holders of at least a Majority of the Income Notes or (ii) on any Payment Date upon the occurrence of a Tax Event, at the written direction of, or with the written consent of, Holders of at least 66-2/3% of the aggregate outstanding notional principal amount of the affected Income Notes or the Holders of at least a Majority of any Class of Notes, if as a result of an occurrence of a Tax Event, such Class of Notes has not received 100% of the aggregate amount of principal and interest due and payable on such Class of Notes. Subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions, any Class or Classes of Notes may be optionally redeemed in whole and not in part on any Payment Date on or after the March 2010 Payment Date in connection with an Optional Redemption by Refinancing at the written direction of, or with the written consent of, Holders of at least a Majority of the Income Notes. If an Optional Redemption by Liquidation or Tax Redemption occurs, the Income Notes will be redeemed simultaneously.

There can be no assurance that after payment of the Redemption Prices for the Securities and all other amounts payable in accordance with the Priority of Payments, any additional Proceeds will remain to distribute to the Holders of the Income Notes upon redemption. See "Description of the Securities—Optional Redemption" and "—Tax Redemption." An Optional Redemption by Liquidation or Tax Redemption of the Securities could require the Collateral Manager to liquidate positions more rapidly than would otherwise be desirable, which could adversely affect the realized value of the Collateral Assets sold. In addition, the redemption procedures in the Indenture may require the Collateral Manager to aggregate securities to be sold together in one block transaction, thereby possibly resulting in a lower aggregate realized value for the Collateral Assets sold. In any event, there can be no assurance that the market value of the Collateral Assets will be sufficient for the Holders of the Income Notes to direct an Optional Redemption or, in the case of a Tax Redemption, for the Holders of the affected Class of Notes or Income Notes to direct a Tax Redemption. A decrease in the market value of the Collateral Assets would adversely affect the proceeds that could be obtained upon a sale of the Collateral Assets; consequently, the conditions precedent to the exercise of an Optional Redemption by Liquidation or a Tax Redemption may not be met. The interests of the Holders of the Income Notes in determining whether to elect to effect an Optional Redemption and the interests of the Holders of the affected Class of Notes and the Income Notes with respect to a Tax Redemption may be different from the interests of the Holders of the other Classes of Securities in such respect. The Holders of the Securities also may not be able to invest the proceeds of the redemption of the Securities in one or more investments providing a return equal to or greater than the Holders of the Securities expected to obtain from their investment in the Securities. An Optional Redemption or a Tax Redemption will shorten the average lives of the Securities and the duration of the Securities and may reduce the yield to maturity of the Notes.

Refinancing. Subject to the satisfaction of certain conditions, the Issuer (at the direction of or with the written consent of the Holders of a Majority of the Income Notes) may effect an Optional Redemption through an Optional Redemption by Refinancing. Among other reasons, the Holders of the Income Notes may elect to direct the Issuer to effect an Optional Redemption by Refinancing if interest rates on investments similar to any Class or Classes of Notes fall below current levels or if such Holders otherwise expect the Issuer to be able to achieve improved pricing. If exercised, such Optional Redemption by Refinancing would result in each such Class of Notes being redeemed at the Redemption Price in respect thereof at a time when they may be trading in the market at a premium and when other investments bearing the same rate of interest relative to the level of risk assumed may be difficult or expensive to acquire. In addition, if any Class or Classes of Notes are redeemed in connection with an Optional Redemption by Refinancing in which additional notes are issued or borrowings under secured loans are made, the Income Notes will be, and certain Classes of Notes may be, subordinate to payments on such additional notes or secured loans. The additional notes issued, or secured loans obtained, as the case may be, in connection with an Optional Redemption by Refinancing would have such terms and priorities as are negotiated at the time and that are set forth in a supplemental indenture.

Auction. There can be no assurance that an Auction of the Collateral on any Auction Date will be successful. The failure of an Auction may lengthen the expected average lives of the Notes and the duration of the Income Notes, may reduce the yield to maturity of the Notes and may adversely affect the yield on the Income Notes. A successful Auction of the Collateral is not required to result in any proceeds for distribution to the Holders of the Income Notes. Accordingly, in the event of an Auction, Holders of Income Notes may have their Income Notes redeemed without receiving any additional distributions on such Income Notes. In addition, the success of an Auction will shorten the average lives of the Notes and the duration of the Securities and may reduce the yield to maturity of the Notes.

Mandatory Redemption of Notes. If the Class A/B Overcollateralization Test is not met on the Determination Date immediately preceding a Payment Date, Proceeds that otherwise might have been distributed to the Holders of the Class C Notes, the Class D Notes and the Income Notes will be used to redeem, first, the Class A-1 Notes until paid in full (in accordance with the Class A-1 Note Payment Sequence), second, the Class S-2 Notes until paid in full, third, the Class A-2 Notes until paid in full and fourth, the Class B Notes until paid in full. If the Class C Overcollateralization Test is not met on the Determination Date immediately preceding a Payment Date, Proceeds that otherwise might have been distributed to the Holders of the Class D Notes and/or the Holders of the Income Notes will be used (a) to redeem, from Principal Proceeds only, pro rata, the Class A Notes until paid in full (provided, that the Class A-1 Notes will be paid in accordance with the Class A-1 Note Payment Sequence), the Class B Notes until paid in full and the Class C Notes until paid in full; provided, however, that if the Net Outstanding Portfolio Collateral Balance is less than U.S.$500,000,000, then such amount shall be paid first, to the payment of principal of all outstanding Class A-1 Notes in accordance with the Class A-1 Note Payment Sequence until the Class A-1 Notes are paid in full, second, to the payment of principal of all outstanding Class A-2 Notes until the Class A-2 Notes are paid in full, third, to the payment of principal of all outstanding Class B Notes until the Class B Notes are paid in full, and fourth, to the payment of principal of all outstanding Class C Notes, until the Class C Notes are paid in full and (b) to pay, with any remaining Proceeds, the principal of all outstanding Class C Notes until the Class C Notes are paid in full. If the Class D Overcollateralization Test is not met on the Determination Date immediately preceding a Payment Date, Proceeds that otherwise might have been distributed to the Holders of the Class C Notes and the Income Notes will be used to redeem the Class D Notes until paid in full. The foregoing redemptions could result in an elimination, deferral or reduction in the amounts available to make payments to the Holders of the Class C Notes, the Class D Notes and the Income Notes. See "Security for the Notes—The Coverage Tests." Any such redemptions will shorten the average life of the redeemed Notes, may lower the yield to maturity of the Notes and may adversely affect the yield on the Income Notes.

Collateral Accumulation. In anticipation of the issuance of the Securities, an affiliate of Goldman, Sachs & Co. has agreed to "warehouse" up to approximately U.S.$1,000,000,000 aggregate Principal Balance (or, in the case of Synthetic Securities, Reference Obligation Notional Amount) of Collateral Assets and up to U.S.$930,000,000 aggregate principal amount of Default Swap Collateral selected by the Collateral Manager for resale to the Issuer pursuant to the terms of a forward purchase agreement. As part of the warehouse arrangement, such affiliate of Goldman, Sachs & Co., the Issuer and third parties may enter into certain ancillary arrangements under which the risk of loss of the value of the Collateral Assets during the accumulation period will be shared. Of such amount of Collateral Assets to be "warehoused", it is expected that a portion will be purchased from affiliates of Goldman, Sachs & Co. and a portion will be purchased from third parties. It is also expected that a portion of such amount will be represented by one or more Synthetic Securities entered into between the Issuer and Goldman, Sachs & Co. or an affiliate thereof wherein the Issuer will be selling credit protection. Pursuant to the terms of the forward purchase agreement, the Issuer will be obligated to purchase the "warehoused" assets provided such Collateral Assets satisfy certain eligibility criteria on the Closing Date for a formula purchase price designed to reflect the yields or spreads (or premiums in the case of Synthetic Securities) at which the Collateral Assets were purchased (using the prepayment speed and other assumptions used to set the initial price of each individual asset), as adjusted for any hedging gain or loss and any loss or gain on any Collateral Assets sold to a party other than the Issuer during the warehousing period. Consequently, the market values of "warehoused" Collateral Assets at the Closing Date may be less than or greater than the formula purchase price paid by the Issuer. In addition, if a Collateral Asset becomes ineligible during the warehousing period and is not purchased by the Issuer on the Closing Date, or if a Collateral Asset is otherwise sold at the direction of the Collateral Manager or Goldman, Sachs & Co. (which sale may only occur with the consent of Goldman, Sachs & Co.'s), the Issuer will bear the loss or receive the gain on the sale of such Collateral Asset to a third party.

Disposition of Collateral Assets by the Collateral Manager Under Certain Circumstances. Under the Indenture, the Collateral Manager has the right, but is not obligated, to direct the Issuer to sell, at a price equal to the fair market value, Collateral Assets meeting the definition of Credit Risk Obligations, Defaulted Obligations or equity securities subject to satisfaction of the conditions described herein. Such sales of Collateral Assets may result in losses by the Issuer, which losses may result in the reduction or withdrawal of the rating of any or all of the Notes by any of the Rating Agencies. On the other hand, circumstances may exist under which it is in the best interests of the Issuer or the Holders of the Securities to dispose of Collateral Assets, but the Collateral Manager does not direct the Issuer or the Issuer does not otherwise sell such Collateral Assets.

Average Lives, Duration and Prepayment Considerations. The average lives of the Notes (other than the Class S Notes) and the duration of the Securities is expected to be shorter than the number of years until their Stated Maturity. See "Weighted Average Life and Yield Considerations."

The average lives of the Notes and the duration of the Securities will be affected by the financial condition of the obligors on or issuers of the Collateral Assets and the characteristics of the Collateral Assets, including the existence and frequency of exercise of any prepayment, optional redemption or sinking fund features, the prepayment speed, the occurrence of any early amortization events, the prevailing level of interest rates, the redemption price, the actual default rate and the actual level of recoveries in respect of any Defaulted Obligations, the frequency of tender or exchange offers for the Collateral Assets and the tenor of any sales of Collateral Assets.

Some or all of the securities underlying the CDO Securities may be prepaid at any time (although certain of such securities may have "lockout" periods, defeasance provisions, prepayment penalties or other disincentives to prepayment). Defaults on and liquidations of the securities and other collateral underlying the CDO Securities may also lead to early repayment thereof. The existence and frequency of such prepayments, optional redemptions, defaults and liquidations will affect the average lives of, and credit support for, the Notes and the duration of the Securities. See "—Collateral Assets," "Weighted Average Life and Yield Considerations" and "Security for the Notes."

Projections, Forecasts and Estimates. Estimates of the weighted average lives of, and returns on, the Notes included herein, together with any other projections, forecasts and estimates provided to prospective purchasers of the Securities, are forward looking statements. Such statements are necessarily speculative in nature, as they are based on certain assumptions. It can be expected that some or all of the assumptions underlying such statements will not reflect actual conditions. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that any estimated projections, forecasts or estimates will be realized or that the forward looking statements will materialize, and actual results may vary from the projections, and the variations may be material.

Some important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those in any forward looking statements include changes in interest rates, market, financial or legal uncertainties, levels of default, liquidation and prepayments of the underlying assets, mismatches between the timing of accrual and receipt of Proceeds from the Collateral Assets and the effectiveness of the Cashflow Swap Agreement, among others.

None of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Collateral Manager, the Initial Purchaser or any of their respective affiliates has any obligation to update or otherwise revise any projections, including any revisions to reflect changes in economic conditions or other circumstances arising after the date hereof or to reflect the occurrence of unanticipated events, even if the underlying assumptions do not come to fruition.

Dependence of the Issuer on the Collateral Manager. The Issuer has no employees and is dependent on the employees of the Collateral Manager to advise the Issuer in accordance with the terms of the Indenture and the Collateral Management Agreement. Consequently, the loss of one or more of the individuals employed by the Collateral Manager to administer the Collateral Assets or to provide disposition related services in respect of the Collateral Assets could have an adverse effect, which effect may be material, on the performance of the Issuer. See "The Collateral Manager" and "The Collateral Management Agreement."

Collateral Assets

General. The following description of the Collateral Assets, the Default Swap Collateral and the Reference Obligations and the underlying documents and the risks related thereto is general in nature. Prospective purchasers of the Securities should review the summaries of the initial Collateral Assets and Reference Obligations set forth in Appendix B to this Offering Circular.

Nature of Collateral. The Collateral is subject to credit, liquidity, prepayment and interest rate risks. The amount and nature of collateral securing the Notes has been established to withstand certain assumed deficiencies in payment occasioned by defaults in respect of the Collateral Assets and the Reference Obligations. See "Ratings of the Notes." If any deficiencies exceed such assumed levels, however, payment of the Notes could be adversely affected. To the extent that e default or credit event occurs with respect to any Collateral Asset securing the Notes and the Collateral Manager exercises its right to cause the sale or other disposition of such Collateral Asset, it is not likely that the proceeds of such sale or other disposition will be equal to the amount of principal and interest owing to the Issuer in respect of such Collateral Asset.

The market value of the Collateral Assets and the Reference Obligations generally will fluctuate with, among other things, the financial condition of the Reference Obligations and obligors on or issuers of the Collateral Assets and the Reference Obligations, the credit quality of the underlying pool of assets in any Collateral Asset or Reference Obligation, the Synthetic Security Counterparty, general economic conditions, the condition of certain financial markets, political events, developments or trends in any particular industry and changes in prevailing interest rates. None of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Initial Purchaser, the Collateral Manager, the Collateral Administrator or the Trustee has any liability or obligation to the Holders of Securities as to the amount or value of, or decrease in the value of the Collateral Assets from time to time.

If a Collateral Asset becomes a Credit Risk Obligation or a Defaulted Obligation, the Collateral Manager may direct the Issuer to sell, terminate or assign the affected Collateral Asset. There can be no assurance as to the timing of the Issuer's sale, termination or assignment of the affected Collateral Asset, or as to the rates of recovery on such affected Collateral Asset. The inability to realize immediate recoveries at the recovery levels assumed herein may result in lower cash flow and a lower yield to maturity of the Notes and may adversely affect the yield on the Income Notes.

Synthetic Securities. Approximately 93.00% of the Collateral Assets (by Principal Balance) as of the Closing Date are expected to consist of Synthetic Securities. All of the Reference Obligations referenced in the Synthetic Securities are expected to be CDO Securities.

The economic return on a Synthetic Security depends substantially upon the performance of the related Reference Obligation and partially upon the performence of the collateral posted by the Issuer to secure its obligations to the Synthetic Security Counterparty on deposit in the Default Swap Collateral Account. Synthetic Securities generally have probability of default, recovery upon default and expected loss characteristics, which are closely correlated to the corresponding Reference Obligation, but may have different maturity dates, coupons, payment dates or other non credit characteristics then the corresponding Reference Obligation. In addition to the credit risks associated with holding the Reference Obligation, with respect to Synthetic Securities, the Issuer will usually have a contractual relationship only with the relatad Synthetic Security Counterparty, and not with the Reference Obligor of the Reference Obligation. Due to the fact that a Synthetic Security may be illiquid or may not be terminable on demand (or terminable on demand only upon peyment of a substantial fee by the Issuer), the Issuer's ability to dispose of a Synthetic Security, if circumstances arise permitting such disposal, may be limited. Any settlement payments and termination payments payable by the Issuer (net of any termination payments owing by the Synthetic Security Counterparty) to the Synthetic Security Counterparty will reduce the amount available to pay the Holders of the Income Notes and the Notes in inverse order of seniority. The Issuer generally will have no right to directly enforce compliance by the Reference Obligor with the terms of the Reference Obligation nor any rights of set off against the Reference Obligor, nor have any voting rights with respect to the Reference Obligation. The Issuer will not directly benefit from the collateral supporting the Reference Obligation and will not have the benefit of the remedies that would normally be available to a holder of such Reference Obligation.

Because neither the Synthetic Security Counterparty nor the Issuer is required to hold any Reference Obligation, the Issuer will not have any right to obtain from either the Synthetic Security Counterparty or the Reference Obligor information on the Reference Obligations or information regarding any Reference Obligor. The Synthetic Security Counterparty will have no obligation to keep the Issuer, the Trustee, the Collateral Manager, the Collateral Administrator, the Holders of the Notes or the Holders of the Income Notes informed as to matters arising in relation to any Reference Obligation including whether or not circumstances exist under which there is a possibility of the occurrence of a Credit Event of a Floating Amount Event.

In addition, in the event of the insolvency of the Synthetic Security Counterparty, the Issuer will be treated as a general creditor of such Synthetic Security Counterparty, and will not have any claim with respect to the Reference Obligor or the Reference Obligation. Consequently, the Issuer will be subject to the credit risk of the Synthetic Security Counterparty as well as that of the Reference Obligor and the Reference Obligation. As a result, concentrations of Synthetic Securities in any one Synthetic Security Counterparty subject the Notes and the Income Notes to an additional degree of risk with respect to defaults by such Synthatic Security Counterparty. It is expected that Goldman Sachs International, an affiliate of Goldman, Sachs & Co., will act as the sole Synthetic Security Counterparty with respect to the Synthetic Securities, which creates concentretion risk and may create certain conflicts of interest. In addition, neither the Synthetic Security Counterparty nor its affiliates will be (or will be deemed to be acting as) the agent or trustee of the Issuer, the Holders of the Notes or the Holders of the Income Notes in connection with the exercise of, or the failure to exercise, any of the rights or powers of the Synthetic Security Counterparty and/or its affiliates arising undar or in connaction with their respective holding of any Reference Obligation. The Synthetic Security Counterparty and its affiliates (i) may deal in any Reference Obligation, (ii) may generally engage in any kind of commercial or investment banking or other business transactions with any issuer of a Reference Obligation, and (iii) may act with respect to transactions described in the preceding clauses (i) and (ii) in the same manner as if the Synthetic Securities and the Notes did not exist and without regard to whether any such action might have an adverse affect on such Reference Obligation, the Issuer, the Holders of the Notes or the Holders of the Income Notes.

All of the Synthetic Securities are expected to be structured as "pay-as-you-go" credit default swaps. The obligation of the Issuer to make payments to the Synthetic Security Counterparty under the Synthetic Securities creates credit exposure to the related Reference Obligations (as well as to the default risk of the related Synthetic Security Counterparty). Following the occurrence of a Credit Event, the Issuer may be required to pay to the Synthetic Security Counterparty a "physical settlement payment". In addition, each Synthetic Security may require the Issuer, in its capacity as protection seller, to pay certain Floating Amounts to the Synthetic Security Counterparty equal to certain principal shortfall amounts, writedown payments and interest shortfalls with respect to the Reference Obligation upon the occurrence thereof. The payment of any such Credit Protection Amounts and Floating Amounts will be funded by the Issuer, through the liquidation Default Swap Collateral as described herein. The Synthetic Security Counterparty will be obligated to reimburse all or part of such payments to the Issuer if the writedown payments of the related shortfalls are ultimately paid to holders of the Reference Obligations or if the related Reference Obligations are written up, the amounts available to the Issuer to make payments in respect of the Notes and the Income Notes may be reduced after payment by the Issuer of the relevant payment to the Synthetic Security Counterparty until the Issuer receives such reimbursement, if any, from the Synthetic Security Counterparty. Any Floating Amounts or Credit Protection Amounts payable by the Issuer, may result in a reduction of the Reference Obligation Notional Amount of the related Synthetic Security, and therefore reduce the amounts payable by the Synthetic Security Counterparty and the amount of interest collections available to pay interest on the Notes and distributions to Income Notes. In addition, any Floating Amounts or Credit Protection Amounts would reduce the Default Swap Collateral on deposit in the Default Swap Collateral Account that is available to pay the principal of the Notes and may reduce the interest collections available to pay interest on the Notes.

Determination of the Floating Amounts and Additional Fixed Amounts (as described in the Master Confirmation) will depend on the relevant servicer reports being available and on such reports containing adequate information to enable the required calculations to be made. Current private industry investigations of the market practices show that such reports can vary and that not all reports contain adequate information. In addition, access to servicer reports may be limited if such reports are confidential and neither counterparty holds the related Reference Obligation.

The Issuer will be required to purchase Default Swap Collateral and pledge to the Synthetic Security Counterparty a first priority security interest in such Default Swap Collateral. In the event a Credit Event or Floating Amount Event occurs under a Synthetic Security, the item of Default Swap Collateral chosen by the Synthetic Security Counterparty after the application of any cash on deposit in the Default Swap Collateral Account will be sold by the Trustee at the direction of the Collateral Manager and the amount owed to the Synthetic Security Counterparty will be paid by the Issuer from the liquidation proceeds of such Default Swap Collateral. In the event such liquidation proceeds are less than par, the Synthetic Security Counterparty will accept the liquidation proceeds applicable to the face amount of Synthetic Security Collateral sold which is equal to the amount due to the Synthetic Security Counterparty. In addition, under certain circumstances upon the occurrence of a Credit Event, the Default Swap Collateral chosen by the Synthetic Security Counterparty will instead be delivered to the Synthetic Security Counterparty in exchange for a Deliverable Obligation. Any Deliverable Obligation delivered to the Issuer will be treated as a Collateral Asset, provided that, notwithstanding the foregoing, each such Deliverable Obligation may be retained by the Collateral Manager or sold by the Collateral Manager at the sole discretion of the Collateral Manager without regard to whether such sale would be permitted as a sale of a Defaulted Obligation or a Credit Risk Obligation. Provided that no Event of Default has occurred and is continuing in the event that no Credit Event under a Synthetic Security occurs prior to the termination or scheduled maturity of such Synthetic Security, upon the termination or scheduled maturity of such Synthetic Security, the related Default Swap Collateral will be released from the lien of the Synthetic Security Counterparty and be treated as a Collateral Asset. If the Collateral Manager elects to sell or terminate a portion of a Synthetic Security prior to its scheduled maturity, the Synthetic Security Counterparty will choose the Default Swap Collateral to be liquidated to make any termination payments due to the Synthetic Security Counterparty after the application of cash available in the Default Swap Collateral Account and the Collateral Manager will cause such portion of the Default Swap Collateral to be sold and the liquidation proceeds equaling any such termination payment to be paid to the Synthetic Security Counterparty. The remaining portion of Default Swap Collateral not required to be pledged to such Synthetic Security Counterparty will be delivered to the Trustee free of such lien. The Collateral Manager, in accordance with the terms of the related Synthetic Security and the Indenture and with the consent of the Synthetic Security Counterparty, may be able to reinvest the proceeds of Default Swap Collateral in substitute Default Swap Collateral prior to the termination or maturity of the related Synthetic Security. The Issuer may realize a loss upon any sale of any Default Swap Collateral.

Termination payments due to the Synthetic Security Counterparty, other than Defaulted Synthetic Termination Payments, will be paid by the Issuer directly through the liquidation of Default Swap Collateral outside of the Priority of Payments. In addition, Liquidation Proceeds needed to conduct an Auction, an Optional Redemption by Liquidation or a Tax Redemption or to liquidate the Collateral in connection with an Event of Default and acceleration under the Indenture, will be calculated after taking into account any termination payments (other than Defaulted Synthetic Security Termination Payments) that may be due to the Synthetic Security Counterparty upon the termination of the Synthetic Securities or any assignment payments due to an assignee of the Synthetic Securities. Any termination or assignment payments paid directly to the Synthetic Security Counterparty or any assignee of a Synthetic Security and not through the Priority of Payments may reduce amounts available for payments on the Securities.

"Pay-as-you-go" credit default swaps are a type of credit default swap developed to incorporate the unique structures of asset-backed securities. The International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc. ("ISDA") has published a form confirmation for "pay-as-you-go" credit default swaps referencing CDO Securities. The form confirmation expected to be used to document the Synthetic Securities is expected to be similar, but may differ substantially from the ISDA "pay-as-you-go" form. While ISDA has published its form confirmations and has published and supplemented the Credit Derivatives Definitions in order to facilitate transactions and promote uniformity in the credit default swap market, the credit default swap market is expected to change and the "pay-as-you-go" credit default swap forms and the Credit Derivatives Definitions and terms applied to credit derivatives are subject to interpretation and further evolution. ISDA is currently preparing forms for other types of asset-backed securities. There can be no assurance that such forms will be substantially similar to the form confirmation expected to be used for the Synthetic Securities. Past events have shown that the views of market participants may differ as to how the Credit Derivatives Definitions operate or should operate. As a result of the continued evolution of the ISDA "pay-as-you-go" credit default swap forms, the confirmations used to document the Synthetic Securities may differ from the future market standard. Such a result may have a negative impact on the liquidity and market value of the Synthetic Securities.

There can be no assurances that changes to the Credit Derivatives Definitions and other terms applicable to credit derivatives generally will be predictable or favorable to the Issuer. Amendments or supplements to the "pay-as-you-go" credit default swap forms and amendments and supplements to the Credit Derivatives Definitions that are published by ISDA will only apply to the Synthetic Securities executed prior to such amendment or supplement if the Issuer and the Synthetic Security Counterparty agree to amend the Synthetic Securities to incorporate such amendments or supplements and the Rating Agency Condition has been satisfied. Markets in different jurisdictions have also already adopted and may continue to adopt different practices with respect to the Credit Derivatives Definitions. Furthermore, the Credit Derivatives Definitions may contain ambiguous provisions that are subject to interpretation and may result in consequences that are adverse to the Issuer. In addition to the credit risk of the Reference Obligations and the credit risk of the Synthetic Security Counterparty, the Issuer is also subject to the risk that the Credit Derivatives Definitions could be interpreted in a manner that would be adverse to the Issuer or that the credit derivatives market generally may evolve in a manner that would be adverse to the Issuer.

CDO Securities.

On the Closing Date, all of the Collateral Assets are expected to be CDO Securities and Synthetic Securities the Reference Obligations of which are CDO Securities, including without limitation high grade and mezzanine structured finance CDO Securities and CDOs of CDOs. A portion of the Default Swap Collateral could consist of CDO Securities.

CDO Securities generally are limited recourse obligations of the issuer thereof payable solely from the underlying assets of the issuer ("CDO Collateral") or proceeds thereof. Consequently, holders of CDO Securities must rely solely on distributions on the underlying CDO Collateral or proceeds thereof for payment in respect thereof. If distributions on the underlying CDO Collateral are insufficient to make payments on the CDO Securities, no other assets will be available for payment of the deficiency and following realization of the underlying assets, the obligations of the issuer to pay such deficiency shall be extinguished. Many subordinate classes of CDO Securities provide that a deferral of interest thereon or a write-down does not constitute an event of default and the holders of such securities will not have available to them any associated default remedies. During such periods of non payment or partial non-payment, such non-paid interest will generally be capitalized and added to the outstanding principal balance of the related security. Any such deferral will reduce the amount of current payments made on such CDO Securities.

CDO Securities are subject to credit, liquidity and interest rate risks. The assets backing CDO Securities may consist of high yield debt securities, loans, structured finance securities, other debt instruments and Synthetic Securities referencing debt instruments. High yield debt securities are generally unsecured (and loans may be unsecured) and may be subordinated to certain other obligations of the issuer thereof. An increase in the default rates of high yield corporate debt securities or loans could increase the likelihood that payments may not be made to holders of CDO Securities which are secured by high yield corporate debt securities and loans. The risks associated with structured finance securities can vary widely depending on the type of collateral, use of credit enhancements, the relative seniority or subordination of the class of securities, the relative allocation of principal and interest payments in the priorities, credit losses and defaults and whether the collateral represents a fixed pool or allows for reinvestment. In addition, CDO Securities backed by Synthetic Securities will be subject to risks similar to those described in respect of Synthetic Securities herein.

Issuers of CDO Securities may acquire interests in loans and other debt obligations by way of assignment or participation. The purchaser of an assignment typically succeeds to all the rights and obligations of the assigning institution and becomes a lender under the credit agreement with respect to the debt obligation; however, its rights can be more restricted than those of the assigning institution.

In purchasing participations, an issuer of CDO Securities will usually have a contractual relationship only with the selling institution, and not the borrower. The issuer generally will have no right directly to enforce compliance by the borrower with the terms of the loan agreement, nor any rights of set off against the borrower, nor have the right to object to certain changes to the loan agreement agreed to by the selling institution. The issuer may not directly benefit from the collateral supporting the related loan and may be subject to any rights of set off the borrower has against the selling institution. In addition, in the event of the insolvency of the selling institution, under the laws of the United States of America and the states thereof, the issuer may be treated as a general creditor of such selling institution, and may not have any exclusive or senior claim with respect to the selling institution's interest in, or the collateral with respect to, the loan. Consequently, the issuer may be subject to the credit risk of the selling institution as well as of the borrower.

CDO Securities are subject to interest rate risk and day count basis risk. The CDO Collateral of an issuer of CDO Securities may bear interest at a fixed (floating) rate while the CDO Securities issued by such issuer may bear interest at a floating (fixed) rate. As a result, there could be a floating/fixed rate or basis mismatch between such CDO Securities and CDO Collateral which bears interest at a fixed rate and there may be a timing mismatch between the CDO Securities and assets that bear interest at a floating rate as the interest rate on such assets bearing interest at e floating rate may adjust more frequently or less frequently, on different dates and based on different indices than the interest rates on the CDO Securities. As a result of such mismatches, an increase or decreese in the level of the floating rate indices could adversely impact the ability to make payments on the CDO Securities. In addition, hedges may hava been acquired to manage the interest rate risk of such CDO Securities, making such CDO Securities also subject to the credit risk of the applicable hedge counterparty.

Subordination of CDO Securities. 100% of the CDO Securities representing 100% of the Collateral Assets (by Principal Balance) to be acquired by the Issuer are expected to be investment grade, each as of the Closing Date. Certain of the CDO Securities will be subordinated to one or more other classes of securities of the same series for purposes of, among other things, offsetting losses end other shortfalls with respect to the related underlying mortgage loans or assets. The subordinete classes are more sensitive to risk of loss and writedowns than senior classes of such securities.

Commercial Mortgage-Backed Securities.

A portion of the Default Swap Collateral may consist of Commercial Mortgage-Backed Securities ("CMBS") that satisfy the Default Swap Eligibility Criterie.

Holders of CMBS bear various risks, including credit, market, interest rate, structural and legal risks. CMBS are securities backed by obligations (including certificates of participation in obligations) that are principally secured by mortgages on real property or interests therein having a multifamily or commercial use, such as regional malls, other retail space, office buildings, industrial or warehouse properties, hotels, nursing homes and senior living centers. CMBS have been issued in public end private transactions by a variety of public and private issuers using a variety of structures, including senior and subordinated classes. Risks affecting real estate investments include general economic conditions, the condition of financial markets, political events, developments or trends in any particular industry and changes in prevailing interest rates. The cyclicality and leverage associated with real estate-related investments have historically resulted in periods, including significant periods, of adverse performance, including performance that may be materially more adverse than the performance associated with other investments. In addition, commercial mortgage loans generally lack standardized terms, tend to have shorter maturities than residential mortgage loans and may provide for the payment of all or substantially all of the principal only at maturity. Additional risks may be presented by the type and use of a particular commercial property. For instance, commercial properties that operate as hospitals and nursing homes may present special risks to lenders due to the significant governmental regulation of the ownership, operation, maintenance and financing of health care institutions. Hotel and motel properties are often operated pursuant to franchise, management or operating agreements which may be terminable by the franchisor or operator; and the transferability of a hotel's operating, liquor and other licenses upon a transfer of the hotel, whether through purchase or foreclosure, is subject to local law requirements. All of these factors increase the risks involved with commercial real estate lending. Commercial properties tend to be unique and are more difficult to value than single-family residential properties. Commercial lending is generally viewed as exposing a lender to a greater risk of loss than residential one-to-four family lending since it typically involves larger loans to a single borrower than residential one-to-four family lending.

Commercial mortgage lenders typically look to the debt service coverage ratio of a loan secured by income-producing property as an important measure of the risk of default on such a loan. Commercial property values and net operating income are subject to volatility, and net operating income may be sufficient or insufficient to cover debt service on the related mortgage loan at any given time. The repayment of loans secured by income-producing properties is typically dependent upon the successful operation of the related real estate project rather than upon the liquidation value of the underlying real estate. Furthermore, the net operating income from and value of any commercial property may be adversely affected by risks generally incident to interests in real property, including events which the borrower or manager of the property, or the issuer or servicer of the related issuance of commercial mortgage-backed securities, may be unable to predict or control, such as changes in general or local economic conditions and/or specific industry segments; declines in real estate values; declines in rental or occupancy rates; increases in interest rates, real estate tax rates and other operating expenses; changes in governmental rules, regulations and fiscal policies; acts of God; and social unrest and civil disturbances. The value of commercial real estate is also subject to a number of laws, such as laws regarding environmental clean-up and limitations on remedies imposed by bankruptcy laws and state laws regarding foreclosures and rights of redemption. Any decrease in income or value of the commercial real estate underlying an issue of CMBS could result in cash flow delays and losses on the related issue of CMBS.

A commercial property may not readily be converted to an alternative use in the event that the operation of such commercial property for its original purpose becomes unprofitable. In such cases, the conversion of the commercial property to an alternative use would generally require substantial capital expenditures. Thus, if the borrower becomes unable to meet its obligations under the related commercial mortgage loan, the liquidation value of any such commercial property may be substantially less, relative to the amount outstanding on the related commercial mortgage loan, than would be the case if such commercial property were readily adaptable to other uses. The exercise of remedies and successful realization of liquidation proceeds may be highly dependent on the performance of CMBS servicers or special servicers, of which there may be a limited number and which may have conflicts of interest in any given situation. The failure of the performance of such CMBS servicers or special servicers could result in cash flow delays and losses on the related issue of CMBS.

Mortgage loans underlying a CMBS issue may provide for no amortization of principal or may provide for amortization based on a schedule substantially longer than the maturity of the mortgage loan, resulting in a "balloon" payment due at maturity. If the underlying mortgage borrower experiences business problems, or other factors limit refinancing alternatives, such balloon payment mortgages are likely to experience payment delays or even default. As a result, the related issue of CMBS could experience delays in cash flow and losses.

In addition, structural and legal risks include the possibility that, in a bankruptcy or similar proceeding involving the originator or the servicer (often the same entity or affiliates), the assets of the issuer could be treated as never having been truly sold by the originator to the issuer or could be substantively consolidated with those of the originator or the servicer, or the transfer of such assets to the issuer could be voided as a fraudulent transfer. Challenges based on such doctrines could result also in cash flow delays and losses on the related issue of CMBS.

It is expected that none of the CMBS included (or to be included) in the Default Swap Collateral will be guaranteed or insured by any governmental agency or instrumentality or by any other person. Distributions on CMBS will depend solely upon the amount and timing of payments and other collections on the related underlying mortgage loans.

Realized losses and trust expenses generally will be allocated to the most subordinated class of securities of the related series. Accordingly, to the extent any CMBS becomes the most subordinated class of securities of the related series, any delinquency or default on any underlying mortgage loan may result in shortfalls, realized loss allocations or extensions of its weighted average life and will have a more immediate and disproportionate effect on the raleted CMBS than on the related more senior securities. Certain of the Underlying CMBS Series have experienced delinquencies, defaults and losses on the underlying commercial mortgage loans.

In addition, in the case of certain CMBS, no distributions of principal will generally be made until the aggregate principal balance of the corresponding more senior securities has been reduced to zero and, in other cases, all or a disproportionate amount of principal distributions will be made to the holders of the more senior securities for a specified period of time. The holders of classes of securities that are subordinate to the classes of CMBS owned by the Issuer will generally control the exercise of remedies in connection with such CMBS. Such exercise of remedies by a holder of subordinate classes may be in conflict with the interests of the more senior securities. See "—Other Considerations—Certain Conflicts of Interest."

Residential Mortgage-Backed Securities.

A portion of the Default Swap Collateral may consist of Residential Mortgage-Backed Securities ("RMBS") that satisfy the Default Swap Eligibility Criteria.

Holders of RMBS bear various risks, including credit, market, interest rate, structural and legal risks. RMBS represent interests in pools of residential mortgage loans secured by one to four family residential mortgage loans. Such loans may be prepaid at any time. Residential mortgage loans are obligations of the borrowers thereunder only and are not typically insured or guaranteed by any other person or entity, although such loans may be securitized by agencies and the securities issued are guaranteed. The rate of defaults and losses on residential mortgage loans will be affected by a number of factors, including general economic conditions and those in the area where the related mortgaged property is located, the borrower's equity in the mortgaged property and the financial circumstances of the borrower. If a residential mortgage loan is in default, foreclosure of such residential mortgage loan may be a lengthy and difficult process, and may involve significant expenses. Furthermore, the market for defaulted residential mortgage loans or foreclosed properties may be very limited.

At any one time, a portfolio of RMBS may be backed by residential mortgage loans with disproportionately large aggregate principal amounts secured by properties in only a few states or regions. As a result, the residential mortgage loans may be more susceptible to geographic risks relating to such areas, such as adverse economic conditions, adverse events affecting industries located in such areas and natural hazards affecting such areas, than would be the case for a pool of mortgage loans having more diverse property locations. In addition, the residential mortgage loans may include so called "jumbo" mortgage loans, having original principal balances that are higher than is generally the case for residential mortgage loans. As a result, such portfolio of RMBS may experience increased losses.

Each underlying residential mortgage loan in an issue of RMBS may have a balloon payment due on its maturity date. Balloon residential mortgage loans involve a greater risk to a lender than self amortizing loans, because the ability of a borrower to pay such amount will normally depend on its ability to obtain refinancing of the related mortgage loan or sell the related mortgaged property at a price sufficient to permit the borrower to make the balloon payment, which will depend on a number of factors prevailing at the time such refinancing or sale is required, including, without limitation, the strength of the residential real estate markets, tax laws, the financial situation and operating history of the underlying property, interest rates and general economic conditions. If the borrower is unable to make such balloon payment, the related issue of RMBS may experience losses.

Prepayments on the underlying residential mortgage loans in an issue of RMBS will be influenced by the prepayment provisions of the related mortgage notes and may also be affected by a variety of economic, geographic and other factors, including the difference between the interest rates on the underlying residential mortgage loans (giving consideration to the cost of refinancing) and prevailing mortgage rates and the availability of refinancing. In general, if prevailing interest rates fall significantly below the interest rates on the related residential mortgage loans, the rate of prepayment on the underlying residential mortgage loans would be expected to increase. Conversely, if prevailing interest rates rise to a level significantly above the interest rates on the related mortgages, the rate of prepayment would be expected to decrease. Prepayments could reduce the yield received on the related issue of RMBS.

Structural and Legal Risks of RMBS. Residential mortgage loans in an issue of RMBS may be subject to various federal and state laws, public policies and principles of equity that protect consumers, which among other things may regulate interest rates and other charges, require certain disclosures, require licensing of originators, prohibit discriminatory lending practices, regulate the use of consumer credit information and regulate debt collection practices. Violation of certain provisions of these laws, public policies and principles may limit the servicer's ability to collect all or part of the principal of or interest on a residential mortgage loan, entitle the borrower to a refund of amounts previously paid by it, or subject the servicer to damages and sanctions. Any such violation could result also in cash flow delays and losses on the related issue of RMBS.

RMBS may have structural characteristics that distinguish them from other asset-backed securities. The rate of interest payable on RMBS may be set or effectively capped at the weighted average net coupon of the underlying mortgage loans themselves. As a result of this cap, the return to investors is dependent on the relative timing and rate of delinquencies and prepayments of mortgage loans bearing a higher rate of interest. In general, early prepayments will have a greater impact on the yield to investors. Federal and state law may also affect the return to investors by capping the interest rates payable by certain mortgagors. The Servicemembers' Civil Relief Act of 2003 (the "Relief Act") provides relief for soldiers and members of the reserve called to active duty by capping the interest rates on their mortgage loans at 6% per annum. Certain RMBS may provide for the payment of only interest for a stated period of time.

In addition, structural and legal risks of RMBS include the possibility that, in a bankruptcy or similar proceeding involving the originator or the servicer (often the same entity or affiliates), the assets of the issuer could be treated as never having been truly sold by the originator to the issuer or could be substantively consolidated with those of the originator or the servicer, or the transfer of such assets to the issuer could be voided as a fraudulent transfer. Challenges based on such doctrines could result also in cash flow delays and losses on the related issue of RMBS.

It is not expected that the RMBS will be guaranteed or insured by any governmental agency or instrumentality or by any other person. Distributions on RMBS will depend solely upon the amount and timing of payments and other collections on the related underlying mortgage loans.

Recent Developments in RMBS May Adversely Affect the Performance and Market Value of RMBS. Recently, the residential mortgage market in the United States has experienced a variety of difficulties and changed economic conditions that may adversely effect the performance and market value of RMBS. Delinquencies and losses with respect to residential mortgage loans generally have increased in recent months, and may continue to increase, particularly in the subprime sector. In addition, in recent months housing prices and appraisal values in many states have declined or stopped appreciating. A continued decline or an extended flattening of those values may result in additional increases in delinquencies and losses on RMBS generally.

Another factor that may result in higher delinquency rates is the increase in monthly payments on adjustable rate mortgage loans. Borrowers with adjustable rate mortgage loans are being exposed to increased monthly payments when the related mortgage interest rate adjusts upward from the initial fixed rate or a low introductory rate. Borrowers seeking to avoid these increased monthly payments by refinancing their mortgage loans may no longer be able to find available replacement loans at comparably low interest rates. A decline in housing prices may also leave borrowers with insufficient equity in their homes to permit them to refinance. Furthermore, borrowers who intend to sell their homes on or before the expiration of the fixed rate periods on their mortgage loans may find that they cannot sell their properties for an amount equal to or greater than the unpaid principal balance of their loans. These events, alone or in combination, may contribute to higher delinquency rates and, as a result, adversely affect the performance and market value of RMBS.

In addition, numerous residential mortgage loan originators that originate subprime mortgage loans have recently experienced serious financial difficulties and, in some cases, bankruptcy. According to published reports, those difficulties have resulted in part from declining markets for mortgage loans as well as from claims for repurchases of mortgage loans previously sold under provisions that require repurchase in the event of early payment defaults, or for material breaches of representations and warranties made on the mortgage loans, such as fraud claims. These difficulties may effect the performance and market value of RMBS.

Asset-Backed Securities.

A portion of the Default Swap Collateral may consist of Asset-Backed Securities that satisfy the Default Swap Eligibility Criteria.

The structure of an Asset-Backed Security and the terms of the investors' interest in the collateral can vary widely depending on the type of collateral, the desires of investors and the use of credit enhancements. Individual transactions can differ markedly in both structure and execution. Important determinants of the risk associated with issuing or holding Asset-Backed Securities include the relative seniority or subordination of the class of Asset-Backed Securities held by an investor, the relative allocation of principal and interest payments in the priorities by which such payments are made under the governing documents, how credit losses affect the issuing vehicle and the return to investors, whether collateral represents a fixed set of specific assets or accounts, whether the underlying collateral assets are revolving or closed end, under what terms (including maturity of the asset backed instrument) any remaining balance in the accounts may revert to the issuing company and the extent to which the company that is the actual source of the collateral assets is obligated to provide support to the issuing vehicle or to the investors. With respect to some types of Asset-Backed Securities, the risk is more closely correlated with the default risk on corporate bonds of similar terms and maturities than with the performance of a pool of receivables. In addition, certain Asset-Backed Securities (particularly subordinated Asset-Backed Securities) provide that the non payment of interest in cash on such securities will not constitute an event of default in certain circumstances and the holders of such securities will not have available to them any associated default remedies. Interest not paid in cash will generally be capitalized and added to the outstanding principal balance of the related security. Any such deferral will reduce the yield on such Asset-Backed Securities.

Holders of Asset-Backed Securities bear various risks, including credit risks, liquidity risks, interest rate risks, market risks, operations risks, structural risks and legal risks. Credit risk arises from losses due to defaults by the borrowers in the underlying collateral and the issuer's or servicer's failure to perform. These two elements may be related, as, for example, in the case of a servicer which does not provide adequate credit review scrutiny to the serviced portfolio, leading to higher incidence of defaults. Market risk arises from the cash flow characteristics of the security, which for most Asset-Backed Securities tend to be predictable. The greatest variability in cash flows comes from credit performance, including the presence of wind down or acceleration features designed to protect the investor in the event that credit losses in the portfolio rise well above expected levels. Interest rate risk arises for the issuer from the relationship between the pricing terms on the underlying collateral and the terms of the rate paid to holders of securities and from the need to mark to market the excess servicing or spread account proceeds carried on the balance sheet. For the holder of the security, interest rate risk depends on the expected life of the Asset-Backed Securities which may depend on prepayments on the underlying assets or the occurrence of wind down or termination events.

If the servicer becomes subject to financial difficulty or otherwise ceases to be able to carry out its functions, it may be difficult to find other acceptable substitute servicers and cash flow disruptions or losses may occur, particularly with non standard receivables or receivables originated by private retailers who collect many of the payments at their stores. Structural and legal risks include the possibility that, in a bankruptcy or similar proceeding involving the originator or the servicer (often the same entity or affiliates), the assets of the issuer could be treated as never having been truly sold by the originator to the issuer and could be substantively consolidated with those of the originator or the servicer, or the transfer of such assets to the issuer could be voided as a fraudulent transfer. Challenges based on such doctrines could result also in cash flow delays and reductions. Other similar risks relate to the degree to which cash flows on the assets of the Issuer may be commingled with those on the originator's or the servicer's other assets.

Insolvency Considerations with Respect to Issuers of Collateral Assets. Various laws enacted for the protection of creditors may apply to the Collateral Assets. If a court in a lawsuit brought by an unpaid creditor or representative of creditors of an issuer of a Collateral Asset, such as a trustee in bankruptcy, were to find that the issuer did not receive fair consideration or reasonably equivalent value for incurring the indebtedness constituting the Collateral Asset or for granting a lien securing the Collateral Asset, and, after giving effect to such indebtedness or such lien, the issuer (i) was insolvent, (ii) was engaged in a business for which the remaining assets of such issuer constituted unreasonably small capital or (iii) intended to incur, or believed that it would incur, debts beyond its ability to pay such debts as they mature, such court could determine to invalidate, in whole or in part, such indebtedness or such lien as a fraudulent conveyance, to subordinate such indebtedness or such lien to existing or future creditors of such issuer, or to recover amounts previously paid by such issuer in satisfaction of such indebtedness. The measure of insolvency for purposes of the foregoing will vary. Generally, an issuer would be considered insolvent at a particular time if the sum of its debts were then greater than all of its property at a fair valuation, or if the present fair saleable value of its assets was then less than the amount that would be required to pay its probable liabilities on its existing debts as they became absolute and matured. There can be no assurance as to what standard a court would apply in order to determine whether the issuer was "insolvent" after giving effect to the incurrence of the indebtedness constituting the Collateral Asset or the grant of a lien securing the Collateral Asset or that, regardless of the method of valuation, a court would not determine that the issuer was "insolvent" upon giving effect to such incurrence or grant. In addition, in the event of the insolvency of an issuer of a Collateral Asset, payments made on such Collateral Asset or a lien securing such Collateral Asset could be subject to avoidance as a "preference" if made within a certain period of time (which may be as long as one year or longer) before insolvency. Payments made under loans underlying Collateral Assets may also be subject to avoidance in the event of the bankruptcy of the borrower.

In general, if payments on a Collateral Asset are avoidable, whether as fraudulent conveyances or preferences, such payments can be recaptured. To the extent that any such payments are recaptured, the resulting loss will be borne first by the Holders of the Income Notes, then by the Holders of the Class D Notes, then by the Holders of the Class C Notes, then by the Holders of the Class B Notes, then by the Holders of the Class A-2 Notes, then by the Holders of the Class S-2 Notes, then by the Holders of the Class A-1d Notes, then by the Holders of the Class A-1c Notes, then by the Holders of the Class A-1b Notes, then by the Holders of the Class A-1a Notes and, finally, by the Holders of the Class S-1 Notes.

Illiquidity of Collateral Assets; Certain Restrictions on Transfer. There may be a limited trading market for many of the Collateral Assets purchased by the Issuer, and in certain instances there may be effectively no trading market therefor.

In addition, it is expected that substantially all of the Collateral Assets will generally not have been registered or qualified under the Securities Act, or the securities laws of any other jurisdiction, and no person or entity will be obligated to register or qualify any such Collateral Assets under the Securities Act or any other securities law. Consequently, the Issuer's transfer of such Collateral Assets will be subject to satisfaction of legal requirements applicable to transfers that do not require registration or qualification under the Securities Act or any applicable state securities laws and upon satisfaction of certain other provisions of the respective agreements pursuant to which the Collateral Assets were issued. It is expected that such transfers will also be subject to satisfaction of certain other restrictions regarding the transfer thereof to, for the benefit of or with assets of, a Plan, as well as certain other transfer restrictions. The existence of such transfer restrictions will negatively affect the liquidity of, and consequently the price that may be realized upon a sale of, such securities.

The Issuer's investment in illiquid Collateral Assets may affect the Issuer's right to sell such investments if they become Credit Risk Obligations or Defaulted Obligations and the timing and price thereof. The value of illiquid Collateral Assets may be less than comparable, more liquid investments. The illiquidity of Collateral Assets and the restrictions on transfer of Collateral Assets, in each case as described above, may also affect the ability of the Issuer to conduct a successful Auction, to exercise redemptions and may also affect the amount and timing of receipt of proceeds from the sale of Collateral Assets in connection with the exercise of remedies following an Event of Default.

Volatility of Market Value of Collateral Assets. The market value of the Collateral Assets and the Reference Obligations will generally fluctuate with, among other things, changes in prevailing interest rates, general economic conditions, the condition of certain financial markets, developments or trends in any particular industry and the financial condition of the issuers of the Collateral Assets and the Reference Obligations. A decrease in the market value of the Collateral Assets and the Reference Obligations would adversely affect the proceeds that could be obtained upon the sale of the Collateral Assets and could ultimately affect the ability of the Issuer to effect an Auction, an Optional Redemption by Liquidation or a Tax Redemption, or to pay the principal of the Notes, or make distributions on the Income Notes, upon a liquidation of the Collateral Assets following the occurrence of an Event of Default.

Interest Rate Risk; Cashflow Swap Agreement. There will be a basis and timing mismatch between such Notes and the Collateral Assets which bear interest at a floating rate, since the interest rates on such Collateral Assets bearing interest at a floating rate may adjust more frequently or less frequently, on different dates and based on different indices, than the interest rate on the Notes. The fixed rates and the margins over LIBOR or other floating rates borne by Collateral Assets may be lower than those on sold or amortized Collateral Assets which could cause a significant decline in interest coverage for the Notes.

On the Closing Date, the Issuer will enter into a Cashflow Swap Agreement to reduce the impact of the timing mismatches between payments of interest on the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes and the receipt of payments on the Collateral Assets that are PIK Bonds. After the Closing Date, even if the Collateral Manager believes that engaging in a hedging technique (other than replacing an existing Cashflow Swap Agreement that is terminated) would be beneficial, the Collateral Manager will be unable to do so. Despite the Issuer having the benefit of a Cashflow Swap Agreement, there can be no assurance that the Collateral Assets and the Eligible Investments will in all circumstances generate sufficient Proceeds to make timely payments of stated interest on the Notes or amounts subordinated thereto. There is no assurance that the Cashflow Swap Agreement will solve all cashflow deferral mismatches.

The Issuer may only terminate the Cashflow Swap Agreement if the Rating Agency Condition is satisfied. In the event the Cashflow Swap Agreement is terminated other than from termination events described in the Cashflow Swap Agreement, the Issuer has agreed to use reasonable efforts to enter into a substitute Cashflow Swap Agreement unless the Rating Agency Condition would not be satisfied by a substitute Cashflow Swap Agreement, but there is no assurance that a substitute will be found or that the Rating Agency Condition will be satisfied. Any termination of the Cashflow Swap Agreement, whether in whole or in part, may require the Issuer to pay termination payments to the Cashflow Swap Counterparty, which amounts are payable in accordance with the Priority of Payments prior to any payments on the Notes unless such payments are Defaulted Cashflow Swap Termination Payments.

The Issuer's ability to meet its obligations on the Notes will largely depend on the ability of the Cashflow Swap Counterparty to meet its obligations under the Cashflow Swap Agreement. In the event the Cashflow Swap Counterparty defaults or the Cashflow Swap Agreement is terminated, there can be no assurance that the amounts received from the Collateral Assets will be sufficient to provide for full payments due and payable on the Notes, or that amounts otherwise distributable to the Holders of the Income Notes will not be reduced.

In the event of the insolvency of the Cashflow Swap Counterparty, the Issuer will be treated as a general creditor of such Cashflow Swap Counterparty. Consequently, the Issuer will be subject to the credit risk of the Cashflow Swap Counterparty. As a result, concentrations of Cashflow Swap Agreements in any one Cashflow Swap Counterparty subject the Notes to an additional degree of risk with respect to defaults by such Cashflow Swap Counterparty.

Goldman Sachs International will be the initial Cashflow Swap Counterparty.

Prospective purchasers of the Notes and the Income Notes should consider and assess for themselves the likelihood of a default by the Cashflow Swap Counterparty or a guarantor of its obligations, as well as the obligations of the Issuer under the Cashflow Swap Agreement, including the obligation to make termination payments to the Cashflow Swap Counterparty, and the likely ability of the Issuer to terminate or reduce the Cashflow Swap Agreement or enter into additional Cashflow Swap Agreements.

Concentration Risk. The Issuer will invest in a pool of Collateral Assets consisting of U.S. Dollar denominated CDO Securities and Synthetic Securities referencing CDO Securities. With regard to the Collateral Assets or the securities underlying the CDO Securities with respect to any particular obligor, industry or country (other than the United States), the concentration of the Collateral Assets (or the portfolios of securities underlying certain Collateral Assets) in any one obligor would subject the Securities to a greater degree of risk with respect to defaults by such obligor, and the concentration of the Collateral Assets (or the portfolios of securities underlying certain Collateral Assets) in any one industry would subject the Securities to a greater degree of risk with respect to economic downturns relating to such industry. In addition, the concentration of the Collateral Assets (or the portfolios of securities underlying certain Collateral Assets) in any one country (other than the United States) would subject the Securities to special risks related to regional economic conditions and sovereign risks. Further, the concentration of the Collateral Assets will change after the Closing Date as the underlying securities backing the CDO Securities or Reference Obligations are sold, paid or redeemed.

No single issuer (or, with respect to Synthetic Securities, no single issuer of the related Reference Obligation) will represent as of the Closing Date more than approximately 2.0% of the Collateral Assets by outstanding Principal Balance. See "Security for the Notes—The Collateral Assets."

Other Considerations

Changes in Tax Law; No Gross-Up. Payments on the Collateral Assets generally are expected to be exempt under current United States tax law from the imposition of United States withholding tax. See "Income Tax Considerations—United States Tax Considerations—Tax Treatment of Issuer." However, the Issuer will not be making any independent investigation of the circumstances surrounding the individual assets comprising the Collateral Assets and, as a result, there can be no assurance that the payments on the Collateral Assets may not be subject to withholding taxes imposed by the United States of America or another jurisdiction. In that event, if the obligors of such Collateral Assets were not then required to make "gross-up" payments that cover the full amount of any such withholding taxes, the amounts available to make payments on, or distributions to, the Holders of the Securities would accordingly be reduced. There can be no assurance that remaining payments on the Collateral would be sufficient to make timely payments of interest on and payment of principal at the Stated Maturity of each Class of the Notes and, consequently, to make any payments on the Income Notes on the Stated Maturity.

In the event that any withholding tax is imposed on payments on the Securities, the Holders of such Securities will not be entitled to receive "grossed-up" amounts to compensate for such withholding tax. In addition, upon the occurrence of a Tax Event, the Issuer will redeem in whole but not in part, at applicable Redemption Prices specified herein, the Notes in accordance with the procedures described under "Description of the Securities—Tax Redemption," "—Optional Redemption by Liquidation," "—Optional Redemption by Refinancing—Optional Redemption/Tax Redemption Procedures" herein.

Lack of Operating History. Each of the Issuers is a recently incorporated entity and has no substantial prior operating history. Accordingly, neither of the Issuers has a performance history for a prospective investor to consider.

Investment Company Act. Neither of the Issuers has registered with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") as an investment company pursuant to the Investment Company Act. The Issuer has not so registered in reliance on an exception for investment companies organized under the laws of a jurisdiction other than the United States whose investors resident in the United States are solely Qualified Purchasers and which do not make a public offering of their securities in the United States. Counsel for the Issuers will opine, in connection with the sale of the Securities by the Initial Purchaser, that neither the Issuer nor the Co-Issuer is on the Closing Date an investment company required to be registered under the Investment Company Act (assuming, for the purposes of such opinion, that the Securities are sold by the Initial Purchaser in accordance with the terms of the Purchase Agreement). No opinion or no-action position has been requested of the SEC.

If the SEC or a court of competent jurisdiction were to find that the Issuer or the Co-Issuer is required, but in violation of the Investment Company Act had failed, to register as an investment company, possible consequences include, but are not limited to, the following: (i) the SEC could apply to a district court to enjoin the violation; (ii) investors in the Issuer or the Co-Issuer could sue the Issuer or the Co-Issuer, as the case may be, and recover any damages caused by the violation; and (iii) any contract to which the Issuer or the Co-Issuer, as the case may be, is a party that is made in, or whose performance involves a violation of the Investment Company Act would be unenforceable by any party to the contract unless a court were to find that under the circumstances enforcement would produce a more equitable result than non-enforcement and would not be inconsistent with the purposes of the Investment Company Act. Should the Issuer or the Co-Issuer be subjected to any or all of the foregoing, the Issuer or the Co-Issuer, as the case may be, would be materially and adversely affected.

The Securities are only permitted to be transferred to Qualified Institutional Buyers in transactions meeting the requirements of Rule 144A and, solely in the case of the Income Notes, to Accredited Investors having a net worth of not less than U.S.$10 million in transactions exempt from registration under the Securities Act, or in an offshore transaction, to a non-U.S. Person, complying with Rule 903 or Rule 904 of Regulation S. The Securities being offered in the United States are being offered only to persons that are also Qualified Purchasers. Any non-permitted transfer will be voided and the Issuers can require the transferee to sell its Securities to a permitted transferee, with such sale to be effected within 30 days after notice of such sale requirement is given. If such sale is not effected within such 30 day period, upon written direction from the Issuer, the Trustee will be authorized to conduct a commercially reasonable sale of such Securities to a permitted transferee and pending such transfer, no further payments will be made in respect of such Securities or any beneficial interest therein. See "Description of the Securities—Form of the Securities" and "Notice to Investors."

Credit Ratings. Credit ratings of debt securities represent the rating agencies' opinions regarding their credit quality and are not a guarantee of quality. Rating agencies attempt to evaluate the safety of principal and interest payments and do not evaluate the risks of fluctuations in market value, therefore, they may not fully reflect the true risks of an investment. Also, rating agencies may fail to make timely changes in credit ratings in response to subsequent events, so that an issuer's current financial condition may be better or worse then a rating indicates. Credit ratings of non-investment grade and comparable unrated obligations included in the Collateral Assets and Reference Obligations may be less reliable indicators of investment quality than would be the case with investments in investment-grade debt obligations.

Implementation of Securities Regulation in Europe. As part of a coordinated action plan for harmonization of securities markets in Europe, the European Parliament and the Council of the European Union has adopted a series of directives, including the Prospectus Directive (2003/71/EC) the Transparency Directive (2004/109/EC) and the Market Abuse Directive (2003/6/EC) which aim to ensure investor protection and market efficiency in accordance with high regulatory standards across the European community. Pursuant to such directives member states have introduced, or are in the process of introducing, legislation into their domestic markets to implement the requirements of these directives. The introduction of such legislation has effected and will effect the regulation of issuers of securities that are offered to the public or admitted to trading on a European Union regulated market and the nature and content of disclosure required to be made in respect of such issuers and their related securities. The listing of Notes or Income Notes on any European Union stock exchange would subject the Issuer to regulation under these directives, although the requirements applicable to the Issuer are not yet fully clarified. The Indenture will not require the Issuer to apply for, list or maintain a listing for any Class of Notes or Income Notes on a European Union stock exchange if compliance with these directives (or other requirements adopted by the European Parliament and Council of the European Union or a relevant member state) becomes burdensome. Should the Notes or Income Notes be delisted from any exchange, the ability of the holders of such Securities to sell such Securities in the secondary market may be negatively impacted.

EU Savings Directive. If, following implementation of European Council Directive 2003/48/EC, a payment were to be made or collected through a member state that opted for e withholding system and an amount of or in respect of tax ware to be withheld from that payment, neither the issuer nor the paying agent nor any other person would be obliged to pay additional amounts as a result of the imposition of such withholding tax. If a withholding tax is imposed on a payment made by a paying agent following implementation of this Directive, the issuer will be required to maintain a paying agent in a member state that will not be obliged to withhold or deduct tax pursuant to the Directive.

Certain Conflicts of Interest. Various potential and actual conflicts of interest may arise from the overall advisory, investment and other activities of the Collateral Manager, its affiliates and their respective clients and employees and from the overall investment activity of the Initial Purchaser, including in other transactions with the Issuer, including, without limitation, acting as counterparty with respect to any Cashflow Swap Agreement. The following briefly summarizes some of these conflicts, but is not intended to be an exhaustive list of all such conflicts.

The Collateral Manager Various potential and actual conflicts of interest may arise from the overall advisory, investment and other activities of the Collateral Manager, its affiliates and their respective clients and employees. The following briefly summarizes some of these conflicts, but is not intended to be an exhaustive list of all such conflicts.

The Collateral Manager and/or its affiliates have ongoing relationships with, render service to, finance and engage in transactions with, and may own debt or equity securities issued by issuers of certain of the Collateral Assets. The Collateral Manager and its affiliates may invest on behalf of themselves and other clients in securities that are senior or subordinated to, or have interests different from or adverse to, the Collateral Assets. The interests of such parties may be different than or adverse to the interests of the Holders of the Securities. In addition, such persons may possess information relating to the Collateral Assets which is not known to the individuals at the Collateral Manager responsible for monitoring the Collateral Assets and performing the other obligations under the Collateral Management Agreement. Such persons will not be required (and may not be permitted) to share such information or pass it along to the Issuer, the Collateral Manager or any Holder of any Security. Neither the Collateral Manager nor any of such person will have liability to the Issuer or any Holder of any Security for failure to disclose such information or for taking, or failing to take, any action based upon such information.

In addition, the Collateral Manager and/or any of its affiliates may engage in any other business and furnish investment management and advisory services to others which may include, without limitation, serving as consultant or servicer for, investing in, lending to, being affiliated with or have other ongoing relationships with, other entities organized to issue collateralized debt obligations secured by assets similar to the Collateral Assets, and other trusts and pooled investments vehicles that acquire interests in, provide financing to, or otherwise deal with securities issued by issuers that would be suitable investments for the Issuer. In the course of monitoring the Collateral Assets held by the Issuer, the Collateral Manager may consider its relationships with other clients (including entities whose securities (or those of its affiliates) are pledged to secure the Notes) and its affiliates. In providing services to other clients, the Collateral Manager and its affiliates may recommend activities that would compete with or otherwise adversely affect the Issuer. In addition, the Collateral Manager will be free, in its sole discretion, to make recommendations to others, or effect transactions on behalf of itself or for others, that may be the same as or different from those effected on behalf of the Issuer, and the Collateral Manager may furnish advisory services to others who may have investment policies similar to those followed by the Issuer and who may own securities of the same class, or which are the same type as, the Collateral Assets. Under the terms of the Collateral Management Agreement, the Collateral Manager will be permitted to take whatever action is in the Collateral Manager's best interest regardless of the impact on the Collateral Assets. In addition, under certain circumstances the Collateral Manager may direct the Issuer to sell certain Collateral Assets. Such sales of Collateral Assets may result in losses by the Issuer, which losses may result in the reduction or withdrawal of the rating of any or all of the Securities by any of the Rating Agencies. In determining whether to exercise such right, the Collateral Manager need not take into account the interests of the Issuers, the Noteholders, the Income Noteholders or any other party.

The Collateral Manager and/or its affiliates may at certain times be simultaneously seeking to purchase or dispose of investments for their respective accounts or for another entity, including other collateralized debt obligation vehicles, at the same time as it is purchasing or disposing of investments for the Issuer. Accordingly, conflicts may arise regarding the allocation of sale opportunities.

The Collateral Manager may aggregate sales of securities placed with respect to the Collateral Assets with similar sales being made simultaneously for other clients or other accounts managed by the Collateral Manager or with accounts of the affiliates of the Collateral Manager, if in the Collateral Manager's reasonable business judgment such aggregation will result in an overall economic benefit to the Issuer, taking into consideration the advantageous selling price, brokerage commission and other expenses. However, no provision of the Collateral Management Agreement requires the Collateral Manager or its affiliates to execute orders as part of concurrent authorizations or to aggregate sales. Nevertheless, the Collateral Manager may, in the allocation of business, take into consideration research and other brokerage services furnished to the Collateral Manager or its affiliates by brokers and dealers. Such services may be used by the Collateral Manager in connection with the Collateral Manager's other advisory services or investment operations.

No provision in the Collateral Management Agreement prevents the Collateral Manager or any of its affiliates from rendering services of any kind to the Issuer of any Collateral Assets and its affiliates, the Trustee, the Holders of the Securities, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty or any other entity. Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, the Collateral Manager and its affiliates, directors, officers, employees and agents may, among other things: (a) serve as general partner, adviser, sponsor or manager of partnerships or companies organized to issue collateralized bond or loan obligations secured by assets similar to the Collateral Assets, directors (whether supervisory or managing), partners, officers, employees, agents, nominees or signatories for an issuer of any Collateral Assets; (b) receive fees for services rendered to the issuer of any Collateral Assets or any affiliate thereof; (c) be retained to provide services unrelated to the Collateral Management Agreement to the Issuer or its Affiliates and be paid therefor; (d) a secured or unsecured creditor of, or hold an equity interest in, any issuer of any Collateral Assets; (e) serve as a member of any "creditors' board" or "creditors' committee" with respect to any Collateral Assets which has become or may become a Defaulted Obligation or with respect to any commercial mortgage loan securing any Collateral Assets or the respective borrower for any such commercial mortgage loan; (f) own or make loans to any borrower or affiliate of any borrower on any of the commercial mortgage loans securing the Collateral Assets; (g) invest, or have already invested, in obligations and/or other securities that are identical to or senior to, or have interests different from or adverse to, the Collateral Assets; (h) make investments on their own behalf without offering such investment opportunities to the Issuer or informing the Issuer of any investments before engaging in any investment for themselves; (i) recommend or effect direct trades between the Issuer and the Collateral Manager or a Collateral Manager Affiliate or funds or accounts for which the Collateral Manager or an Affiliate serve as Collateral Manager, acting as principal or agent, subject to applicable legal requirements; (j) invest in obligations that would be appropriate as Collateral and have ongoing relationships with, render services to or engage in transaction with, companies whose obligations are included in the Collateral and may own equity or debt securities by issuers of and other obligors of Collateral Assets; and (k) enter into agency cross-transactions where the Collateral Manager and/or the Collateral Manage Affiliates acts as broker for the Issuer and for the other party to the transaction, to the extent permitted under applicable law. Under the terms of the Collateral Management Agreement, the Collateral Manager will be permitted to take whatever action is in the Collateral Manager's best interest regardless of the impact on the Collateral Assets.

On the Closing Date it is expected that the Collateral Manager or one or more clients or affiliates of the Collateral Manager will purchase approximately 50% of the aggregate notional amount of the Income Notes and 100% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Class D Notes and may purchase Notes and/or Income Notes on or after the Closing Date. The Collateral Maneger or such clients or affiliates may at times also own other Securities. There is no assurance that the Collateral Manager or any of such clients or affiliates will continue to hold any or all of the Notes or the Income Notes (including the Income Notes and the Class D Notes purchased on the Closing Date) or that they will continue to hold interests in any securities related to the Collateral Assets. For so long as Greywolf is the Collateral Manager and any funds managed by Greywolf continue to hold any Income Notes, any Collateral Management Fees otherwise payable to the Collateral Maneger hereunder shall be paid by the Issuer in the following order: (i) first, to such funds managed by Greywolf (on a pro rata basis among such funds), in an amount equal to the product of (x) such Collateral Management Fees and (y) a fraction the numerator of which is the notional amount of the Income Notes held by such funds managed by Greywolf and the denominator of which is the aggregate notional amount of all the Income Notes and (ii) second, the remainder, if any, to Greywolf.

Greywolf or any of its affiliates or subsidiaries will be permitted to exercise all voting rights with respect to any Securities that they may acquire (other than with respect to a vote regarding the removal of the Collateral Manager or the termination or assignment of the Collateral Management Agreement). The interests of such persons may be different from or adverse to the interests of the other Holders of Securities.

The Collateral Manager, in its sole discretion, may, from time to time, waive all or any portion of the Collateral Management Fee, and may defer all or any portion of the Collateral Management Fee. Any deferred Collateral Management Fees will become payable on the next Payment Date (and, if not paid on such Payment Date, on one or more subsequent Payment Dates) in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

Members of the board of directors of the Issuer who are not affiliated with the Collateral Manager or their delegates or other authorized representatives of the Issuer will have the responsibility for approving any transactions between the Issuer and the Collateral Manager or its affiliates involving significant conflicts of interest (including principal trades). More particularly, directors unaffiliated with the Collateral Manager or any delegate designated by such directors will be responsible for approving any principal transactions for which Issuer consent is required pursuant to Section 206(3) of the Advisers Act.

In addition, with the prior authorization of the Issuer, which has been given and can be revoked at any time, the Collateral Manager and/or its affiliates may enter into agency cross-transactions where the Collateral Manager and/or its affiliates acts as broker for the Issuer and for the other party to the transaction, to the extent permitted under applicable law, in which case the Collateral Manager or any such affiliate will receive commissions from, and have a potentially conflicting division of loyalties and responsibilities regarding, both parties to the transaction.

The Initial Purchaser. Various potential and actual conflicts of interest may arise from the conduct by the Initial Purchaser and its affiliates in other transactions with the Issuer, including, without limitation, acting as counterparty with respect to any Cashflow Swap Agreement and Synthetic Securities. The Initial Purchaser and/or its affiliates will act as an initial Synthetic Security Counterparty and an affiliate of the Initial Purchaser will act as the initial Cashflow Swap Counterparty. The following briefly summarizes some of these conflicts, but is not intended to be an exhaustive list of all such conflicts.

It is expected that Goldman, Sachs & Co. and/or its affiliates and selling agent will have placed or underwritten certain of the Collateral Assets at original issuance, will own equity or other securities of issuers of or obligors on Collateral Assets and will have provided investment banking services, advisory, banking and other services to issuers of Collateral Assets. The Issuer may invest in the securities of companies affiliated with Goldman, Sachs & Co. and/or any of its affiliates or in which Goldman, Sachs & Co. and/or any of its affiliates have an equity or participation interest. The purchase, holding and sale of such investments by the Issuer may enhance the profitability of Goldman, Sachs & Co.'s and/or any of its affiliates' own investments in such companies. In addition, it is expected that one or more affiliates of Goldman, Sachs & Co. may also act as counterparty with respect to one or more Synthetic Securities and may act as a counterparty with respect to total return swaps with certain investors in the Notes or the Income Notes. The Issuer may invest in money market funds that are managed by Greywolf or Goldman, Sachs & Co. or any of their affiliates; provided that such money market funds otherwise qualify as Eligible Investments. Goldman, Sachs & Co. and/or a consolidated entity controlled by Goldman, Sachs & Co. or an affiliate thereof intends to provide "warehouse" financing to the Issuer prior to the Closing Date. See "—Collateral Accumulation."

There is no limitation or restriction on the Initial Purchaser or any of its affiliates with regard to acting as investment advisor, initial purchaser or placement agent (or in a similar role) to other parties or persons. This and other future activities of the Initial Purchaser and/or its respective affiliates may give rise to additional conflicts of interest.

The USA PATRIOT Act requires the Secretary of the United States Department of the Treasury (the "Treasury") to prescribe regulations to define the types of investment companies subject to the USA PATRIOT Act and the related anti money laundering obligations. It is not clear whether Treasury will require entities such as the Issuer to enact anti money laundering policies. It is possible that Treasury will promulgate regulations requiring the Issuers or the Initial Purchaser or other service providers to the Issuers, in connection with the establishment of anti money laundering procedures, to share information with governmental authorities with respect to investors in the Notes and/or the Income Notes. Such legislation and/or regulations could require the Issuers to implement additional restrictions on the transfar of the Notes and/or the Income Notes. Determination of LIBOR

For purposes of calculating each of the Note Interest Rates, the Issuers will appoint as agent The Bank of New York (in such capacity, the "Note Calculation Agent"). LIBOR shall be determined by the Note Calculation Agent in accordance with the following provisions:

(i) On the second Business Day prior to the commencement of an Interest Accrual Period (each such day, a "LIBOR Determination Date"), LIBOR ("LIBOR") shall equal the rate, as obtained by the Note Calculation Agent, for Eurodollar deposits for, with respect to the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes, a three-month period (or, in the case of a designated initial payment period of less than 25 days or, in the case of the first Interest Accrual Period, the linear interpolation thereof, calculated in accordance with generally acceptable methodology) which appears on Bridge Telerate Page 3750 (as Telerate is defined in the International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc. Annex to the 2000 ISDA Definitions (June 2000 version)), or such page as may replace Bridge Telerate Page 3750, as of 11:00 a.m. (London time) on such LIBOR Determination Date.

(ii) If, on any LIBOR Determination Date, such rate does not appear on Bridge Telerate Page 3750, or such page as may replace Bridge Telerate Page 3750, the Note Calculation Agent shall determine the arithmetic mean of the offered quotations of the Reference Banks to leading banks in the London interbank market for Eurodollar deposits for, with respect to Class S Notes, the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes, a three month period (or, in the case of a designated initial payment period of less than 25 days, or, in the case of the first Interest Accrual Period, the linear interpolation thereof, calculated in accordance with generally acceptable methodology) in an amount determined by the Note Calculation Agent by reference to requests for quotations as of approximately 11:00 a.m. (London time) on the LIBOR Determination Date made by the Note Calculation Agent to the Reference Banks. If, on any LIBOR Determination Date, at least two of the Reference Banks provide such quotations, LIBOR shall equal such arithmetic mean of such quotations. If, on any LIBOR Determination Date, only one or none of the Reference Banks provide such quotations, LIBOR shall be deemed to be the arithmetic mean of the offered quotations that leading banks in the City of New York selected by the Note Calculation Agent (after consultation with the Issuer or the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer) are quoting on the relevant LIBOR Determination Date for Eurodollar deposits for the applicable period in an amount determined by the Note Calculation Agent (after consultation with the Issuer or the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer) by reference to the principal London offices of leading banks in the London interbank market; provided, however, that if the Note Calculation Agent is required but is unable to determine a rate in accordance with at least one of the procedures provided above, LIBOR shall be LIBOR as determined on the most recent date LIBOR was available. As used herein, "Reference Banks" means four major banks in the London interbank market selected by the Note Calculation Agent (after consultation with the Issuer or the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer).

As soon as possible after 11:00 a.m. (New York time) on each LIBOR Determination Date, but in no event later than 11:00 a.m. (New York time) on the Business Day immediately following each LIBOR Determination Date, the Note Calculation Agent will cause notice of each of the Note Interest Rates for the next Interest Accrual Period and the amount of interest for such Interest Accrual Period payable in respect of each U.S.$1,000 principal amount of the Class S-1 Notes (the "Class S-1 Note Interest Amount"), of the Class S-2 Notes (the "Class S-2 Note Interest Amount"), of the Class A-1a Notes (the "Class A-1a Note Interest Amount"), of the Class A-1b Notes (the "Class A-1b Note Interest Amount"), of the Class A-1c Notes (the "Class A-1c Note Interest Amount"), of the Class A-1d Notes (the "Class A-1d Note Interest Amount"), of the Class A-2 Notes (the "Class A-2 Note Interest Amount"), of the Class B Notes (the "Class B Note Interest Amount"), of the Class C Notes (the "Class C Note Interest Amount") and of the Class D Notes (the "Class D Note Interest Amount") (collectively, the "Note Interest Amounts") (each rounded to the nearest cent, with half a cent being rounded upward) on the related Payment Date,

In the last case, the Note Calculation Agent will furnish such information as soon as possible after its determination to the Listing and Paying Agent as long as any Notes are listed on any stock exchange. The Note Calculation Agent will also specify to the Issuers and the Collateral Manager the quotations upon which each of the Note Interest Rates are based. The Note Calculation Agent shall notify the Issuers and the Collateral Manager before 12:00 p.m. (New York time) on any LIBOR Determination Date if it has not determined and is not in the process of determining the applicable Note Interest Rates and Note Interest Amounts (collectively, the "Interest Calculations"), together with its reasons therefor. With respect to the Notes, "Business Day" means any day other than (x) Saturday or Sunday or (y) a day on which commercial banking institutions are authorized or obligated by law, regulation or executive order to close in New York, New York, London, England or in the city of the Trustee's corporate trust office (initially, The Bank of New York, 101 Barclay Street, Floor 8E, New York, New York, 10286, Attention: CDO Transaction Management Group); provided, however, that for the sole purpose of determining LIBOR, "Business Day" shall be defined as any day on which dealings in deposits in U.S. Dollars are transacted in the London interbank market and provided further, that to the extent action is required of the Listing and Paying Agent, the location of the Listing and Paying Agent shall be considered in determining the "Business Day" for purposes of determining when such Listing and Paying Agent action is required.

The Note Calculation Agent may be removed by the Issuers at the direction of the Collateral Manager at any time. If the Note Calculation Agent is unable or unwilling to act as such or is removed by the Issuers, or if the Note Calculation Agent fails to determine the applicable Interest Calculations for any Interest Accrual Period, the Issuers will promptly appoint as a replacement Note Calculation Agent a leading bank which is engaged in transactions in Eurodollar deposits in the international Eurodollar market and which does not control or is not controlled by or under common control with the Issuers or their affiliates. The Note Calculation Agent may not resign its duties without a successor having been duly appointed. In addition, for so long as any Notes are listed on any stock exchange and the rules of such exchange so require, notice of the appointment of any Note Calculation Agent will be furnished to such stock exchange. For so long as any of the Notes remain outstanding, there will at all times be a Note Calculation Agent for the purpose of calculating the applicable Interest Calculations. The determination of the applicable Interest Calculations by the Note Calculation Agent shall (in the absence of manifest error) be final and binding upon all parties.

Payments on Income Notes

On each Payment Date, the Holders of the Income Notes will be entitled to receive, as interest on the Income Notes, after payment of items ranking higher in accordance with the Priority of Payments, payments (if available) equal to amounts remaining after payment of all other senior amounts payable in accordance with the Priority of Payments. Upon a Tax Redemption, Optional Redemption by Liquidation or successful Auction, the Holders of the Income Notes will be entitled to receive any amounts remaining after distribution of the Liquidation Proceeds in accordance with the Priority of Payments. Upon an Optional Redemption by Refinancing, any Refinancing Proceeds remaining after the redemption of the Class or Classes of Notes to be redeemed in respect of such Optional Redemption and the payment of any expense or fees in connection therewith will be characterized as Principal Proceeds and will be applied on the related Optional Redemption Date in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

Maturity" with respect to the Class A-1c Notes and the Class A-1d Notes). The average life of each Class of Notes (other than the Class S Notes) and duration of the Income Notes is expected to be substantially shorter than the number of years from issuance until the Stated Maturity for such Class of Notes or Income Notes. See "Risk Factors—Securities—Average Lives, Duration and Prepayment Considerations."

Principal will be payable on the Class S-1 Notes in accordance with the Priority of Payments on each Payment Date commencing on the Payment Date occurring in December 2007 in an amount equal to the Class S-1 Notes Amortizing Principal Amount with respect to such Payment Date and, if an Event of Default or Tax Event has occurred and is continuing or an Optional Redemption by Liquidation or successful Auction has occurred and the Collateral is being liquidated pursuant to the terms of the Indenture, the Class S-1 Notes will be paid in full prior to any distributions to any other Notes. Principal will be payable on the Class S-2 Notes in accordance with the Priority of Payments on each Payment Date commencing on the Payment Date occurring in December 2007 in an amount equal to the Class S-2 Notes Amortizing Principal Amount with respect to such Payment Date and, if an Event of Default or Tax Event has occurred and is continuing or an Optional Redemption by Liquidation or successful Auction has occurred and the Collateral is being liquidated pursuant to the terms of the Indenture, the Class S-2 Notes will be paid in full prior to any distributions to any other Notes (other than the Class S-1 Notes and the Class A-1 Notes). The Class S-2 Notes are subject to mandatory redemption if the Class A/B Overcollateralization Test is not satisfied on any date of determination. Principal will be payable on certain of the Securities on each Payment Date in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

On any Payment Date on which certain conditions are satisfied, principal will be paid to the Holders of the Class A Notes (pro rata between the Class A-1 Notes and the Class A-2 Notes; provided that principal on the Class A-1 Notes will be paid in accordance with the Class A-1 Note Payment Sequence), only in an amount required to increase (or maintain) the Class A Adjusted Overcollateralization Ratio to a specified target of 126.7%. After achieving and maintaining such target and minimum, the payment of remaining principal will shift to the Holders of the Class B Notes until such Holders have been paid an amount required to increase (or maintain) the Class B Adjusted Overcollateralization Ratio to the specified target of 110.6%. After achieving and maintaining such target level, the payment of remaining principal shifts to the Holders of the Class C Notes which will receive principal only in an amount required to increase (or maintain) the Class C Adjusted Overcollateralization Ratio to a specified target of 106.0%. After achieving and maintaining such target level, the payment of remaining principal shifts to the Holders of the Class D Notes which will receive principal only in an amount required to increase (or maintain) the Class D Adjusted Overcollateralization Ratio to a specified target of 102.7%. However, if the Net Outstanding Portfolio Collateral Balance is less than U.S.$300,000,000, then only Principal Proceeds received or held during the related Due Period will be paid, first, to the Class A-1 Notes in accordance with the Class A-1 Note Payment Sequence and then sequentially through the Class D Notes. The foregoing "shifting principal" method permits Holders of the Class A-1 Notes, the Class A-2 Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes to receive payments of principal in accordance with the Priority of Payments while more senior Classes of Notes remain outstanding and permits distributions of Principal Proceeds to the Holders the Income Notes, to the extent funds are available in accordance with the Priority of Payments, while Notes are outstanding.

Subject to the availability of funds therefor in accordance with the Priority of Payments, if any of the Coverage Tests are not satisfied on any Determination Date, the Notes (other than the Class S-1 Notes) will be subject to mandatory redemption on the related Payment Date until paid in full. See "—Mandatory Redemption" and the Priority of Payments for a description of the order in which such Notes are paid in connection with the failure of a Coverage Test.

Period. The proceeds of such sales will be paid to the Fiscal Agent after the payment of amounts senior to the Holders of the Income Notes in the Priority of Payments for deposit into the account maintained therefor by the Fiscal Agent (the "Income Note Payment Account") and payment to the Holders of the Income Notes as the redemption price for the Income Notes upon such payment (the "Income Notes Redemption Price"). Upon such payment, the Issuer shall redeem the Income Notes.

Auction

Sixty days prior to the Payment Date occurring in September of each year (each, an "Auction Date") commencing on the September 2015 Payment Date, the Collateral Manager will take steps to conduct an auction (the "Auction") of the Collateral in accordance with procedures specified in the Indenture. If the Collateral Manager receives one or more bids from Eligible Bidders not later than ten Business Days prior to the Auction Date equal to or greater than the Minimum Bid Amount, the Issuer will sell the Collateral for settlement on or before the fifth Business Day prior to such Auction Date and the Notes will be redeemed in whole on such Auction Date (any such date, an "Auction Payment Date"). If a successful Auction occurs, the Income Notes will also be redeemed in full. The Collateral Manager and its affiliates shall be considered Eligible Bidders. If the highest single bid on the entire portfolio of Collateral, or the aggregate amount of multiple bids with respect to individual items of Collateral, does not equal or exceed the Minimum Bid Amount or if there is a failure at settlement, then the redemption of Notes and the Income Notes on the related Auction Date will not occur.

The Notes will be redeemed following a successful Auction in accordance with the Priority of Payments at the applicable Redemption Price. The amount distributable as the final payment on the Income Notes following any such redemption will equal any amount remaining after the redemption of the Notes, the payment of any amounts due in connection with the termination of the Cashflow Swap Agreement and Synthetic Securities and the payment of all expenses in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

Tax Redemption

Subject to certain conditions described herein, the Securities may be redeemed by the Issuers at any time, in whole but not in part upon the occurrence of a Tax Event at their Redemption Prices at the written direction of, or with the written consent of, (i) the Holders of at least 66-2/3% of the aggregate outstanding notional principal amount of the affected Income Notes or (ii) the Holders of a Majority of any Class of Notes which, as a result of the occurrence of a Tax Event, has not received 100% of the aggregate amount of principal and interest or other amounts then due and payable on such Notes on any Payment Date (such redemption, a "Tax Redemption"); provided that no such redemption shall be effected unless the expected Liquidation Proceeds equal or exceed the sum of all amounts due as of the Redemption Date pursuant to clauses (i) through (ix) of the Priority of Payments for Final Payment Dates (the "Total Redemption Amount"), which includes the Redemption Prices of the Notes. If a Tax Redemption occurs, the Income Notes will be redeemed simultaneously.

In connection with a Tax Redemption, the Issuers (in the case of the Notes) and the Issuer (in the case of the Income Notes) shall notify the Trustee of such Tax Redemption and the Payment Date which is the date for redemption (the "Tax Redemption Date") and direct the Trustee, in writing, to sell, in the manner determined by the Collateral Manager, and in accordance with the Indenture, any Collateral and upon any such sale the Trustee shall release the lien upon such Collateral pursuent to the Indenture; provided, however, that the Issuer may not direct the Trustee to sell (and the Trustee shall not be obligated to release the lien upon) any Collateral except in accordance with the procedures set forth in the Indenture including, without limitation, the requirement that the Collateral Manager shall have forwarded to tha Trustee binding agreements or certificates evidencing that the Liquidation Proceeds anticipeted from the disposition of the Collateral and other assets of the Issuer will equal or exceed the Total Redemption Amount. Liquidation Proceeds available for distribution in connection with a Tax Redemption will be reduced by the amount of expected termination payments (other than Defaulted Synthetic Security Termination Payments) due to the Synthetic Security Counterparty.

The amount payable in connection with any Tax Redemption of the Notes will equal the Total Redemption Amount. The amount payable as a final payment on the Income Notes following any Tax Redemption will equal the Liquidation Proceeds, if any, remaining after the distribution of the Total Redemption Amount by the Issuer in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

Optional Redemption by Liquidation

Subject to certain conditions described herein, the Notes may be redeemed by the Issuers and the Income Notes may be redeemed by the Issuer, in whole but not in part at their Redemption Prices on any Payment Date on or after the March 2010 Payment Date, at the written direction of, or with the written consent of, the Holders of at least a Majority of the aggregate outstanding notional principal amount of Income Notes (including Income Notes held by the Collateral Manager or any affiliate thereof) (such redemption, an "Optional Redemption" or an "Optional Redemption by Liquidation"); provided that no Optional Redemption by Liquidation shall be effected unless the expected Liquidation Proceeds will equal or exceed the Total Redemption Amount. If the Holders of the Income Notes so elect to cause an Optional Redemption by Liquidation, the Income Notes will be redeemed simultaneously.

In connection with an Optional Redemption by Liquidation, the Issuers (in the case of the Notes) and the Issuer (in the case the Income Notes) shall notify the Trustee of such Optional Redemption by Liquidation and the Optional Redemption Date and direct the Trustee, in writing, to sell, in the manner determined by the Collateral Manager, and in accordance with the Indenture, any Collateral Asset and upon any such sale the Trustee shall release the lien upon such Collateral Assets pursuant to the Indenture; provided, however, that the Issuer may not direct the Trustee to sell (and the Trustee shall not be obligated to release the lien upon) any Collateral except in accordance with the procedures set forth in the Indenture including, without limitation, the requirement that the Collateral Manager shall have forwarded to the Trustee binding agreements or certificates evidencing that the Liquidation Proceeds anticipated from the disposition of the Collateral Assets and other assets of the Issuer will equal or exceed the Total Redemption Amount. Amounts available for distribution in connection with an Optional Redemption by Liquidation will be reduced by the amount of expected termination payments (other than Defaulted Synthetic Security Termination Payments) due to the Synthetic Security Counterparty.

The amount payable in connection with any Optional Redemption by Liquidation of the Notes will equal the Total Redemption Amount. The amount payable as the final payment on the Income Notes following any Optional Redemption by Liquidation will equal the Liquidation Proceeds, if any, remaining after the distribution of the Total Redemption Amount by the Issuer in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

Optional Redemption by Refinancing

Subject to certain conditions described herein, any Class or Classes of Notes may be redeemed by the Issuers from the net cash proceeds (the "Refinancing Proceeds") of a loan, credit or similar facility or an issuance of replacement notes, from or to one or more financial institutions or purchasers, in whole but not in part, on any Payment Date on or after the Optional Redemption Date, at the written direction of, or with the written consent of, the Holders of at least a Majority of the Income Notes (an "Optional Redemption" or an "Optional Redemption by Refinancing"). The Issuer will conduct an Optional Redemption by Refinancing only if the Collateral Manager determines that: (i) the principal amount of any obligations providing the funds to be applied in respect of such Optional Redemption by Refinancing is no greater than the principal amount of the Notes being redeemed; (ii) the stated maturity of the obligations providing the funds to be applied in respect of such Optional Redemption by Refinancing is no earlier than the Stated Maturity of the Notes being redeemed; (iii) the agreements relating to the Optional Redemption by Refinancing contain limited-recourse and non-petition provisions equivalent to those set forth in the Indenture; (iv) the proceeds from the Optional Redemption by Refinancing will be at least sufficient to pay in full the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the applicable Notes); (v) amounts are expected to be available in accordance with the Priority of Payments on the Payment Date related to such Optional Redemption by Refinancing (a) to pay any fees and administrative expenses of the Issuer related to the Optional Redemption by Refinancing, (b) to pay any accrued and unpaid interest on the Notes being

If any Holder of an Income Note so elects, such Holder may pay all or a portion (pro rata with any other electing Holder of an Income Note) of the amounts required under clause (v) above directly as opposed to requiring that such amounts be paid through funds available in accordance with the Priority of Payments on the Payment Date related to the Optional Redemption by Refinancing. If any Holder of an Income Note so elects, the amounts due shall be remitted to the Trustee at least two days prior to the related Payment Date. Any such amounts paid by the Holders of the Income Notes will not be reimbursed by the Issuer. Any Refinancing Proceeds will be applied directly on the related Optional Redemption Date pursuant to the Indenture to redeem the Notes being refinanced without regard to the Priority of Payments described herein. Any Refinancing Proceeds that are not used to redeem the applicable Notes and to pay any administrative expenses of the Issuer will be treated as Principal Proceeds and will be applied in accordance with the Priority of Payments. None of the Issuers, the Trustee or any other Person will be liable to the Holders of the Income Notes for the failure to issue additional notes or to obtain secured loans.

Optional Redemption/Tax Redemption Procedures. To conduct an Optional Redemption or a Tax Redemption, the procedures set forth in the Indenture must be followed and any conditions precedent thereto must be satisfied.

Upon the occurrence of a Tax Redemption or an Optional Redemption, the Collateral Manager shall notify the Principal Note Paying Agent, in the case of the Holders of Notes or the Fiscal Agent, in the case of Holders of Income Notes, which in each case, shall notify the Trustee (with a copy to the Issuer) in writing no less than thirty (30) Business Days prior to the Redemption Date. Such notice shall be irrevocable. The Fiscal Agent shall, within three (3) Business Days after receiving such notice, notify the other Holders of the Income Notes of the receipt of such notice.

form, payments on any Payment Date in respect of principal, interest and other distributions will be made to the person in whose name the relevant Security is registered as of the close of business 10 Business Days prior to such Payment Date. Payments on the Global Notes will be payable by wire transfer in immediately available funds to a U.S. Dollar account maintained by DTC or its nominee (in the case of the Global Notes) or each Holder (in the case of individual Definitive Notes) to the extent practicable or otherwise by U.S. Dollar check drawn on a bank in the United States sent by mail either to DTC or its nominee (in the case of the Global Notes), or to each Holder at its address appearing in the applicable register. Final payments in respect of principal on the Notes will be made only against surrender of the Notes at the office of any paying agent. The Issuers expect that DTC or its nominee, upon receipt of any payment of principal or interest in respect of a Global Note held by DTC or its nominee, will immediately credit participants' accounts with payments in amounts proportionate to their respective beneficial interests in such Global Notes as shown on the records of DTC or its nominee. The Issuers also expect that payments by participants to owners of beneficial interests in such Global Notes held through such participants will be governed by standing instructions and customary practices, as is now the case with securities held for the accounts of customers registered in the names of nominees for such customers. Such payments will be the responsibility of such participants.

If any payment on a Security is due on a day that is not a Business Day, then payment will not be made until the next succeeding Business Day.

For so long as the Securities are listed on any stock exchange and the rules of such exchange so require, the Issuers will have a paying agent and a transfer agent (which shall be the Listing and Paying Agent) for such Securities and payments on and transfers or exchanges of interest in such Securities may be effected through the Listing and Paying Agent. In the event that the Listing and Paying Agent is replaced at any time during such period, notice of the appointment of any replacement will be given to the applicable stock exchange as long as any Securities are listed thereon.

With respect to any Payment Date, all Proceeds received on the Collateral during the related Due Period will be applied by the Trustee in the priority set forth below (the "Priority of Payments"). For purposes of the Priority of Payments, amounts paid as interest, fees or distributions on the Notes on a "pro rata" basis shall be pro rata based on the amount of interest due on such Class or subclass of Notes or fees, amounts paid as principal shall be paid pro rata based on the amount of principal then outstanding on such Class or subclass of Notes and unless stated otherwise, Proceeds not constituting Principal Proceeds will be assumed to be applied prior to any Principal Proceeds.

The Indenture and the Fiscal Agency Agreement

The following summary describes certain provisions of the Indenture and the Fiscal Agency Agreement. The summary does not purport to be complete and is subject to, and qualified in its entirety by reference to, the provisions of the Indenture and the Fiscal Agency Agreement.

Indenture

Events of Default. An "Event of Default" under the Indenture includes:

i. a default in the payment, when due and payable, of any interest on any Class S Note, Class A Note or Class B Note or, if there are no Class S Notes, Class A Notes or Class B Notes outstanding, any Class C Note or, if there are no Class S Notes, Class A Notes, Class B Notes or Class C Notes outstanding, any Class D Note and a continuation of such default, in each case, for a period of 7 days (or, in the case of a default in payment resulting solely from an administrative error or omission by the Trustee, any Note Paying Agent or the Note Registrar, such default continues for a period of 7 days after the Trustee is made aware of such administrative error or omission);

ii. a default in the payment of principal due on any Note at its Stated Maturity or on any Redemption Date (or, in the case of a default in payment resulting solely from an administrative error or omission by the Trustee, any Note Paying Agent or the Note Registrar, such default continues for a period of 7 days after the Trustee is made aware of such administrative error or omission);

iii. the failure on any Payment Date to disburse amounts (other than in payment of interest on any Note or principal of any Note at its Stated Maturity or any date set for redemption as described in (i) and (ii) above) available in the Payment Account in excess of U.S.$500 in accordance with the Priority of Payments and a continuation of such failure for a period of 7 days after such failure has been recognized;

iv. a circumstance in which either of the Issuers or the Collateral or any portion thereof becomes an investment company required to be registered under the Investment Company Act;

v. a default, which has a material adverse effect on the Holders of the Notes (as determined by at least 50% in aggregate principal amount of the Controlling Class), in the performance, or breach, of any covenant, representation, warranty or other agreement of the Issuers in the Indenture (it being understood that a failure to satisfy a Coverage Test is not a default or breach) or in any certificate or writing delivered pursuant to the

Indenture, or if any representation or warranty of the Issuers made in the Indenture or in any certificate or writing delivered pursuant thereto proves to be incorrect in any material respect when made, and the continuation of such default or breach for a period of 30 days after notice thereof shall have been given to the Issuers and the Collateral Manager by the Trustee or to the Issuers, the Collateral Manager and the Trustee by the Holders of at least 50% in Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Controlling Class; and

vi. certain events of bankruptcy, insolvency, receivership or reorganization of either of the Issuers.

If an Event of Default should occur and be continuing, the Trustee may, with the consent of the Holders of at least a Majority of the Controlling Class, and will at the direction of the Holders of at least a Majority of the Controlling Class, declare the principal of and accrued and unpaid interest on all Notes to be immediately due and payable (except that in the case of an Event of Default described in clause (vi) above, such an acceleration will occur automatically and shall not require any action by the Trustee or any Noteholder).

If an Event of Default should occur and be continuing, the Trustee is required to retain the Collateral intact and collect all payments in respect of the Collateral and continue making payments in the manner described under Priority of Payments unless (a) the Trustee determines (which determination will be based upon a certificate from the Collateral Manager) that the anticipated proceeds of a sale or liquidation of the Collateral based on an estimate obtained from a nationally recognized investment banking firm (which estimate takes into account the time elapsed between such estimate and the anticipated sale of the Collateral) would equal the amount necessary to pay in full (after deducting the reasonable expenses of such sale or liquidation) the sum of (i) the principal (including any Class C Deferred Interest and Class D Deferred Interest) and accrued interest (including all Defaulted Interest, and interest thereon) and any other amounts due with respect to all the outstanding Notes; (ii) all Administrative Expenses; (iii) all amounts payable by the Issuer to the Synthetic Security Counterparty or an assignee of a Synthetic Security (other than Defaulted Synthetic Security Termination Payments) net of all amounts payable to the Issuer by any Synthetic Security Counterparty or an assignee of a Synthetic Security; (iv) all amounts payable by the Issuer to the Cashflow Swap Counterparty (other than Defaulted Cashflow Swap Termination Payments) net of all amounts peyable to the Issuer by any Cashflow Swap Counterparty; (v) accrued and unpaid Deferred Structuring Expenses; (vi) accrued and unpaid Collateral Management Fees, including any Cumulative Deferred Management Fees; and (vii) all other items in the Priority of Payments ranking prior to payments on the Notes, and, in any case, the Holders of a Majority of the Controlling Class agree with such determination or (b) the Holders of at least 66-2/3% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Controlling Class and any Cashflow Swap Counterparty (other than any Cashflow Swap Counterparty which will be paid in full the amounts due to it, including in any applicable termination payments other than Defaulted Cashflow Swap Termination Payments at the time of distribution of the proceeds of any sale or liquidation of the Collateral) direct, subject to the provisions of the Indenture, the sale and liquidation of the Collateral.

The Holders of a Majority of the Controlling Class will have the right to direct the Trustee in writing in the conduct of any proceedings or in the sale of any or all of the Collateral, but only if (i) such direction will not conflict with any rule of law or the Indenture (including the limitations described in the paragraph above) and (ii) the Trustee determines that such action will not involve it in liability (unless the Trustee has received an indemnity which is reasonably acceptable to the Trustee against any such liability).

Subject to the provisions of the Indentura relating to the duties of the Trustee, in case an Event of Default with respect to the Notes occurs and is continuing, the Trustee is under no obligation to exercise any of the rights or powers under the Indenture at the request of any Holders of Notes, unless such Holders have offered to the Trustee reasonable security or an indemnity which is reasonably acceptable to the Trustee. The Holders of a Majority of the Controlling Class may waive any default with respect to the Notes, except (a) a default in the payment of principal or interest on any Note; (b) failure on any Payment Date to disburse amounts available in the Payment Account in accordance with the Priority of Payments and continuation of such failure for a period of five days; (c) certain events of bankruptcy or insolvency with respect to the Issuers; or (d) a default in respect of a provision of the Indenture that cannot be modified or amended without the waiver or consent of Holder of each outstanding Note adversely effected thereby.

Furthermore, any declaration of acceleration of maturity of the Notes may be revoked and annulled by the Holders of a Majority of the Controlling Class before a judgment or decree for the payment of money has been obtained by the Trustee or the Collateral has been sold or foreclosed in whole or in part, by notice to the Issuers, the Trustee and any Cashflow Swap Counterparty, if (a) the Issuer has paid or deposited with the Trustee a sum sufficient to pay, in accordance with the Priority of Payments, the principal and accrued interest (including all Defaulted Interest and the interest thereon), discount or other unpaid amounts with respect to the outstanding Notes and any other administrative expenses, fees or other amounts that, under the Transaction Documents and pursuant to the Priority of Peyments, are payable prior to the payment of the principal of and interest on the outstanding Notes, and (b) the Trustee has determined that all Events of Default, other than the non-payment of the interest on or principal of the outstanding Notes that have become due solely by such acceleration, have been cured and the Holders of a Majority of the Controlling Class by notice to the Trustee have agreed with such determination (which agreement shall not be unreasonably withheld) or waived such Event of Default in accordance with the provisions set forth in the Indenture.

Only the Trustee may pursue the remedies available under the Indenture and the Notes and no Holder of a Note will have the right to institute any proceeding with respect to the Indenture, its Note or otherwise unless (i) such Holder previously has given to the Trustee written notice of a continuing Event of Default; (ii) except in the case of a default in the payment of principal or interest, the Holders of at least 25%, by Aggregate Outstanding Amount, of the Controlling Class have made a written request upon the Trustee to institute such proceedings in its own name as Trustee and such Holders have offered the Trustee an indemnity which is reasonably acceptable to the Trustee; (iii) the Trustee hes for 30 days failed to institute any such proceeding; and (iv) no direction inconsistent with such written request has been given to the Trustee during such 30-day period by the Holders of a Majority of the Controlling Class.

In determining whether the Holders of the requisite percentage of Notes have given any direction, notice or consent, Notes owned by the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any affiliate thereof shall be disregarded and deemed not to be outstanding. In addition, Holders of Income Notes will not be considered to be affiliates of the Issuer or Co-Issuer by virtue of such ownership of Income Notes.

Notices. Notices to the Holders of the Notes shall be given by first-class mail, postage prepaid, to each Noteholder at the address appearing in the applicable note register. In addition, for so long as any of the Notes are listed on any stock exchange and so long as the rules of such exchange so require, notices to the Holders of such Notes shall also be published by the Listing and Paying Agent in the official list thereof.

Modification of the Indenture. Except as provided below, with the consent of the Holders of a Majority, by Aggregate Outstanding Amount, of the Notes materially adversely affected thereby, voting together as a single class, and a Majority of the Income Notes materially and adversely affected thereby, the Trustee and the Issuers, with respect to the Notes, may execute a supplemental Indenture to add provisions to, or change in any manner or eliminate any provisions of, the Indenture or modify in any manner the rights of the Holders of the Notes of such Class or the Income Notes; provided that the Rating Agency Condition would be satisfiad after such addition, change or elimination. The Trustee may, consistent with the written advice of legal counsel or an officer's certificate, at the expense of the Issuer, determine whether or not the Holders of the Notes or Income Notes would be materially and adversely affected by such change. Such determination shall be conclusive and binding on all present and future Holders.

Without the consent of the Holders of each adversely affected Note and each adversely affected Income Note, end unless the Rating Agency Condition is satisfied, no supplemental indenture may be entered into which would (i) change the Stated Maturity of the principal of or the due date of any installment of interest or discount on a Note; reduce the principal amount thereof or the rate of interest thereon, or the applicable Redemption Price with respect thereto; change the earliest date on which a the Issuers; (c) to convey, transfer, assign, mortgage or pledge any property to the Trustee, or add to the conditions, limitations or restrictions on the authorized amount, terms and purposes of the issue, authentication and delivery of the Notes or the Income Notes; (d) to evidence and provide for the acceptance of appointment by a successor trustee and to add to or change any of the provisions of the Indenture as shall be necessary to facilitate the administration of the trusts under the Indenture by more than one Trustee; (e) to correct or amplify the description of any property at any time subject to the security interest created by the Indenture, or to better assure, convey, and confirm unto the Trustee any property subject or required to be subject to the security interest created by the Indenture (including, without limitation, eny and all actions necessary or desirable as a result of changes in law or regulations) or subject to the security interest created by the Indenture any additional property; (f) to otherwise correct any inconsistency or cure any ambiguity or manifest error or correct or supplement any provisions contained herein which may be defective or inconsistent with any provision contained herein or make any modification that is of a formal, minor or technical nature or which is made to correct a manifest error; (g) to take any action necessary or advisable to prevent the Issuer, the Trustee or any Paying Agents from becoming subject to withholding or other taxes, fees or assessments or to prevent the Issuer from being treated as engaged in a United States trade or business or otherwise being subject to United States federal, state or local income tax on a net income basis; (h) to conform the Indenture to the descriptions thereof in the final Offering Circular; (i) to comply with any reasonable requests made by any stock exchange in order to list or maintain the listing of any Notes or Income Notes on such stock exchange; (j) to reflect the terms of an Optional Redemption by Refinancing (including the grant of a security interest in the Collateral); or (k) to enter into any additional agreements not expressly prohibited by any of the Indenture or the other Transaction Documents, as well as any amendment, modification or waiver if the Issuer determines that entering into such an agreement or such amendment, modification or waiver thereof would not, upon or after becoming effective, materially and adversely affect the rights or interests of Holders of any Class of Notes or Income Notes. The Issuers and the Trustee shall not enter into any supplemental indenture, amendment or modification of the Indenture which would require the consent of any of the Holders of the Notes or Income Notes, any Cashflow Swap Counterparty or any Synthetic Security Counterparty due to an adverse effect or a material adverse effect, as applicable, on such person as a result of such supplemental indenture, amendment or modification without any such person's consent (except as provided below) if any such person could be reasonably determined to be adversely affected or materially adversely affected, as applicable, by any supplemental indenture, amendment or modification to this Indenture. The Issuer may give at least five (5) Business Days' prior notice of any such supplemental indenture, amendment or modification which could reasonably be determined to give rise to an adverse effect or a material adverse effect to the Holders of the Notes and of the Income Notes, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty and the Synthetic Security Counterparty. All Classes and counterparties that fail to respond to any such notice on or before the return date indicated on such notice shall be deemed to be not adversely effected or materially adversely affected by such change and the Issuers, the Trustee and any opinion of counsel may rely on the results of any such notice or on a certificate from the Issuer or the Collateral Manager. The Trustee may require the delivery of an opinion of counsel or an officer's certificate delivered by the Issuer (or the Collateral Manager on behalf of the Issuer) to the Trustee, reasonably satisfactory to it, at the expense of the Issuer, that the execution of such amendment or modification is authorized or permitted under the terms of the Indenture. Such determination shall be conclusive and binding on all present and future Holders of Notes or Income Notes, any Synthetic Security Counterparty, the Collateral Manager and any Cashflow Swap Counterparty.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, (i) the Issuer will not consent to enter into any supplemental indenture or any supplement or amendment to any other document related thereto unless and until the Collateral Manager has received written notice of such proposed amendment or supplement and has consented in writing thereto and has received a final copy thereof from the Issuer or the Trustee and, if any such supplement or amendment could reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on any Synthetic Security Counterparty, such Synthetic Security Counterparty has received written notice of such amendment or supplement and has consented thereto in writing (which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld) and (ii) no amendment to the Indenture will be effective until the consent of each Cashflow Swap Counterparty (which shall not be unreasonably withheld) has been obtained to the extent required under the Cashflow Swap Agreement.

Under the Indenture, the Trustee will, for so long as any of the Securities are outstanding and rated by the Rating Agencies, deliver a copy of any proposed supplemental indenture (whether or not required to be approved by the Holders of any Notes or Income Notes) to the Rating Agencies, each Cashflow Swap Counterparty and each Synthetic Security Counterparty not later than 20 Business Days prior to the execution of such proposed supplemental indenture, and no such supplemental indenture shall be entered into unless the Rating Agency Condition is met; provided that the Trustee shall, with the consent of the Holders of 100% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of Notes of each Class and Income Notes, each Synthetic Security Counterparty and each Cashflow Swap Counterparty, enter into any such supplemental indenture notwithstanding any potential reduction or withdrawal of the ratings of any outstanding Class of Notes. In addition, the Trustee will deliver a copy of any proposed supplemental indenture with respect to which a determination must be made pursuant to the terms of the Indenture as to whether the Controlling Class would be materially adversely affected thereby to the Controlling Class not later than five (5) Business Days prior to the execution of such proposed supplemental indenture (or such shorter period prior to the execution of such proposed supplemental indenture as a Majority of the Controlling Class shall consent to, or otherwise agree is sufficient). The Trustee must provide notice of any amendment or modification of the Indenture (whether or not required to be approved by the Holders of any Notes or Income Notes) to the Holders of the Notes and Income Notes, each Cashflow Swap Counterparty, each Synthetic Security Counterparty and, for so long as any Notes or Income Notes are listed on any stock exchange, the Listing and Paying Agent, promptly upon the execution of such supplemental indenture.

In connection with any amendment, the Trustee may require the delivery of an opinion of counsel satisfactory to it, at the expense of the Issuer, that such amendment is permitted under the terms of the Indenture.

Jurisdictions of Incorporation and Formation. Under the Indenture, the Issuer and the Co-Issuer will be required to maintain their rights and franchises as a company incorporated under the laws of the Cayman Islands and a corporation formed under laws of the State of Delaware, respectively, to comply with the provisions of their respective organizational documents and to obtain and preserve their qualification to do business as foreign corporations in each jurisdiction in which such qualifications are or shall be necessary to protect the validation and enforceability of the Indenture, the Notes or any of the Collateral; provided, however, that the Issuers shall be entitled to change their jurisdictions of incorporation from the Cayman Islands or Delaware, as applicable, to any other jurisdiction reasonably selected by such Issuer or Co-Issuer, as applicable, and approved by its common shareholders, so long as (i) the Issuer or Co-Issuer, as applicable, does not believe such change is disadvantageous in any material respect to such entity, the Holders of any Class of Notes, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty or any Synthetic Security Counterparty; (ii) written notice of such change shall have been given by the Issuer or Co-Issuer, as applicable to the other of the Issuer or Co-Issuer, as applicable, the Trustee, the Agents, the Collateral Manager, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty, each Synthetic Security Counterparty, the Holders of each Class of Notes and each of the Rating Agencies at least thirty (30) Business Days prior to such change of jurisdiction; and (iii) on or prior to the 25th Business Day following such notice the Trustee shall not have received written notice from Holders of a Majority of the Controlling Class, the Collateral Manager, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty, any Synthetic Security Counterparty or, so long as any Notes or Income Notes are listed thereon, any stock exchange objecting to such change.

Petitions for Bankruptcy. The Indenture will provide that no Secured Party may, prior to the date which is one year and one day (or, if longer, the applicable preference period then in effect) after the payment in full of all Securities, institute against, or join any other person in instituting against, the Issuer or Co-Issuer any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, moratorium, liquidation or similar proceedings under the laws of any jurisdiction.

Satisfaction and Discharge of the Indenture. The Indenture will be discharged with respect to the Collateral securing the Notes upon delivery to the Note Paying Agent for cancellation all of the Notes, or, within certain limitations (including the obligation to pay principal and interest), upon deposit with the Trustee of funds sufficient for the payment or redemption thereof and the payment by the Issuers of all other amounts due under the Indenture.

The Trustee and/or its affiliates may receive compensation in connection with the Trustee's investment of trust assets in certain Eligible Investments as provided in the Indenture and in connection with the Trustee's administration of any securities lending activities of the Issuer.

The Indenture contains provisions for the indemnification of the Trustee for any loss, liability or expense incurred without negligence, willful misconduct or bad faith on its part, arising out of or in connection with the acceptance or administration of the Indenture. The Trustee will not be bound to take any action unless indemnified for such action. The Noteholders shall together have the power, exercisable by a Majority of the Controlling Class, to remove the Trustee as set forth in the Indenture. The removal of the Trustee shall not become effective until the later of the effective date of the appointment of a successor trustee and the acceptance of appointment by a successor trustee. If the Trustee is removed without cause, costs and expenses of the Trustee incurred in connection with the transfer to the successor Trustee shall be paid by the successor Trustee or the Issuer.

For so long as any of the Notes or the Income Notes are listed on any stock exchange and the rules of such exchange shall so require, the Issuers will have a Listing and Paying Agent and a paying agent (which shall be the "Listing and Paying Agent") for the Securities. The Issuers and their affiliates may maintain other relationships in the ordinary course of business with the Listing and Paying Agent. The payment of the fees and expenses of the Listing and Peying Agent relating to the Securities is solely the obligation of the Issuers. Status of the Income Notes. The Holders of the Income Notes will have certain rights to vote with respect to limited matters arising under the Indenture and the Collateral Management Agreement including, without limitation, in connection with certain modifications to the Indenture. However, the Holders of the Income Notes will have no right to vote in connection with the realization of the Collateral or certain other matters under the Indenture.

Governing Law of the Indenture, the Notes, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the Cashflow Swap Agreement, the Synthetic Securities, the Deed of Covenant, the Income Notes, the Collateral Management Agreement and the Collateral Administration Agreement

The Indenture, the Notes, the Cashflow Swap Agreement, the Collateral Management Agreement and the Collateral Administration Agreement will be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of New York applicable to agreements made and to be performed therein without regard to the conflict of laws principles thereof. Under the Indenture, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the Cashflow Swap Agreement, the Collateral Management Agreement and the Collateral Administration Agreement the Issuers, as applicable, have submitted irrevocably to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of the State of New York and the courts of the United States of America in the State of New York (in each case sitting in the County of New York) for the purposes of hearing and determining any suit, action or proceedings or settling any disputes arising out of or in connection with the Indenture, the Notes, the Fiscal Agency Agreement, the Cashflow Swap Agreement, the Collateral Management Agreement and the Collateral Administration Agreement. The Fiscal Agency Agreement, the Deed of Covenant and the Income Notes will be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the Cayman Islands.

Form of the Securities

The Notes. Each Class of Notes (other than the Class D Notes) sold in reliance on Rule 144A under the Securities Act will be represented by one or more Rule 144A Global Notes and will be deposited with The Bank of New York as custodian for DTC and registered in the name of Cede & Co., a nominee of DTC. The Rule 144A Notes which are Class D Notes will be issued in definitive, fully registered form, registered in the name of the owner thereof ("Definitive Notes"). The Rule 144A Global Notes and the Definitive Notes (and any Notes issued in exchange therefor) will be subject to certain restrictions on transfer as set forth under "Notice to Investors."

Each Class of Notes sold in offshore transactions in reliance on Regulation S will initially be represented by a Temporary Regulation S Global Note deposited on the Closing Date with The Bank of New York as custodian for DTC and registered in the name of Cede & Co., a nominee of DTC, for the respective accounts of Euroclear and Clearstream. Beneficial interests in a Temporary Regulation S Global Note may be held only through Euroclear or Clearstream. Beneficial interests in a Temporary Regulation S Global Note will be exchanged for beneficial interests in a permanent Regulation S Global Note for the related Class of Notes in definitive, fully registered form upon the later of (i) the expiration of the Distribution Compliance Period and (ii) the first date on which the requisite certifications (in the form provided in the Indenture) are provided to the Trustee. The Regulation S Global Note will be registered in the name of Cede & Co., a nominee of DTC, and deposited with The Bank of New York as custodian for DTC for credit to the accounts of Euroclear and Clearstream for the respective accounts of the Holders of such Notes. Beneficial interests in a Regulation S Global Note may be held only through Euroclear or Clearstream.

A beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Note, a Temporary Regulation S Global Note or a Regulation S Income Note may be transferred, whether before or after the expiration of the Distribution Compliance Period, to a U.S. person only, with respect to the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes or the Class C Notes, in the form of a beneficial interest in a Rule 144A Global Note and, with respect to a Regulation S Class D Note or a Regulation S Income Note, in the form of a Definitive Note or an Income Note Certificate, as applicable, and only upon receipt by the Note Transfer Agent, in the case of the Notes, or Fiscal Agent, in the case of the Income Notes, of a written certification from the transferor (in the form provided in the Indenture, in the case of the Notes, or in the form provided in the Fiscal Agency Agreement, in the case of the Income Notes) to the effect that the transfer is being made to a person the transferor reasonably believes is a Qualified Institutional Buyer and a Qualified Purchaser.

In addition, transfers of a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Note or Temporary Regulation S Global Note to a person who takes delivery in the form of an interest in a Rule 144A Global Note may occur only in denominations greater than or equal to the minimum denominations applicable to the Rule 144A Global Notes.

A beneficial interest in a Rule 144A Global Note may be transferred to a person who takes delivery in the form of an interest in a Temporary Regulation S Global Note or a Regulation S Global Note, as the case may be, whether during or after the expiration of the Distribution Compliance Period, only upon receipt by the Note Registrar of a written certification from the transferor (in the form provided in the Indenture) to the effect that such transfer is being made to a non U.S. Person in accordance with Rule 903 or 904 of Regulation S.

Any beneficial interest in one of the Global Notes that is transferred to the person who takes delivery in the form of an interest in another Global Note will, upon transfer, cease to be an interest in such Global Note and become an interest in the other Global Note and, accordingly, will thereafter be subject to all transfer restrictions and other procedures applicable to beneficial interests in such other Global Note for as long as it remains such interest.

Except in the limited circumstances described below, owners of beneficial interests in any Global Note will not be entitled to receive a Definitive Note. The Notes are not issuable in bearer form.

Each Note will be issued in minimum denominations of U.S.$250,000 (in the case of Rule 144A Notes) and U.S.$100,000 (in the case of Regulation S Notes) and integral multiples of U.S.$1 in excess thereof.

The Income Notes will be issued in minimum denominations of U.S.$100,000 notional principal amount of Income Notes and integral multiples of U.S.$1 in excess thereof.

Global Notes. Upon the issuance of the Global Notes, DTC or its custodian will credit, on its internal system, the respective aggregate original principal amount of the individual beneficial interests represented by such Global Notes to the accounts of persons who have accounts with DTC. Such accounts initially will be designated by or on behalf of the Initial Purchaser. Ownership of beneficial interests in Global Notes will be limited to persons who have accounts with DTC ("participants") or persons who hold interests through participants. Ownership of beneficial interests in a Global Note will be shown on, and the transfer of that ownership will be effected only through, records maintained by DTC or its nominee (with respect to interests of participants) and the records of participants (with respect to interests of persons other than participants).

So long as DTC, or its nominee, is the registered owner or Holder of the Global Notes, DTC or such nominee, as the case may be, will be considered the sole owner or Holder of each Class of the Notes represented by such Global Notes for all purposes under the Indenture and such Notes. Unless DTC notifies the Issuers that it is unwilling or unable to continue as depositary for a global note or ceases to be a "Clearing Agency" registered under the Exchange Act, owners of the beneficial interests in the Global Notes will not be entitled to have any portion of such Global Notes registered in their names, will not receive or be entitled to receive physical delivery of Notes in certificated form and will not be considered to be the owners or Holders of any Notes under the Indenture. In addition, no beneficial owner of an interest in the Global Notes will be able to transfer that interest except in accordance with DTC's applicable procedures (in addition to those under the Indenture referred to herein and, if applicable, those of Euroclear and Clearstream).

Investors may hold their interests in a Regulation S Global Note or a Temporary Regulation S Global Note directly through Clearstream or Euroclear, if they are participants in these systems, or indirectly through organizations which are participants in these systems. Clearstream and Euroclear will hold interests in the Regulation S Global Notes on behalf of their participants through their respective depositaries, which in turn will hold the interests in the Regulation S Global Notes and Temporary Regulation S Global Notes in customers' securities accounts in the depositories' names on the books of DTC. Investors may hold their interests in a Rule 144A Global Note directly through DTC if they are participants in the system, or indirectly through organizations which are participants in the system.

Payments of the principal of and interest on the Global Notes will be made to DTC or its nominee, as the registered owner thereof. Neither the Issuers, the Trustee, the Note Registrar, the Income Note Registrar nor any paying agent will have any responsibility or liability for any aspect of the records relating to or payments made on account of beneficial ownership interests in the Global Notes or for any notice permitted or required to be given to Holders of Notes or any consent given or actions taken by DTC as Holder of Notes. The Issuers expect that DTC or its nominee, upon receipt of any payment of principal or interest in respect of a Global Note representing any Notes held by it or its nominee, will immediately credit participants' accounts with payments in amounts proportionate to their respective interests in the principal amount of such Global Notes as shown on the records of DTC or its nominee. The Issuers also expect that payments by participants to owners of interests in such Global Notes held through such participants will be governed by standing instructions and customary practices, as is now the case with securities held for the accounts of customers registered in the names of nominees for such customers. Such payments will be the responsibility of such participants.

Transfers between participants will be effected in the ordinary way in accordance with DTC rules and will be settled in same-day funds. The laws of some jurisdictions require that certain persons take physical delivery of securities in definitive form. Consequently, the ability to transfer beneficial interests in Global Notes to these persons may be limited. Because DTC can only act on behalf of participants, who in turn act on behalf of indirect participants and certain banks, the ability of a person having a beneficial interest in Global Notes to pledge its interest to persons or entities that do not participate in the DTC system, or otherwise take actions in respect of its interest, may be affected by the lack of a physical certificate of the interest. Transfers between account holders in Euroclear and Clearstream will be effected in the ordinary way in accordance with their respective rules and operating procedures.

Subject to compliance with the transfer restrictions applicable to the Notes described above, cross-market transfers between DTC participants, on the one hand, and, directly or indirectly through Euroclear or Clearstream account holders, on the other, will be effected in DTC in accordance with DTC rules on behalf of Euroclear or Clearstream, as the case may be, by its respective depositary; however, these cross-market transactions will require delivery of instructions to Euroclear or Clearstream, as the case may be, by the counterparty in the system in accordance with its rules and procedures and within its established deadlines (Brussels time). Euroclear or Clearstream, as the case may be, will, if the transaction meets its settlement requirements, deliver instructions to its respective depositary to take action to effect final settlement on its behalf by delivering or receiving interests in a Temporary Regulation S Global Note or a Regulation S Global Note in DTC, and making or receiving payment in accordance with normal procedures for a same-day funds settlement applicable to DTC. Clearstream and Euroclear account holders may not deliver instructions directly to the depositaries for Clearstream or Euroclear.

Because of time zone differences, the securities account of a Euroclear or Clearstream participant purchasing an interest in a Global Note from a DTC participant will be credited during the securities settlement processing day (which must be a Business Day for Euroclear or Clearstream, as the case may be) immediately following the DTC settlement date and the credit of any transactions in interests in a Global Note settled during the processing day will be reported to the relevant Euroclear or Clearstream participant on that day. Cash received in Euroclear or Clearstream as a result of sales of interests in a Global Note by or through a Euroclear or Clearstream participant to a DTC participant will be received with value on the DTC settlement date but will be available in the relevant Euroclear or Clearstream cash account only as of the Business Day following settlement in DTC.

DTC has advised the Issuers that it will take any action permitted to be taken by a Holder of the Notes (including the presentation of the applicable Notes for exchange as described below) only at the direction of one or more participants to whose account with DTC interests in a Global Note are credited and only in respect of that portion of the aggregate principal amount of the Notes as to which the participant or participants has or have given direction.

The giving of notices and other communications by DTC to participants, by participants to persons who hold accounts with them and by such persons to Holders of beneficial interests in a Global Note will be governed by arrangements between them, subject to any statutory or regulatory requirements as may exist from time to time.

DTC has advised the Issuers as follows: DTC is a limited purpose trust company organized under the laws of the State of New York, a member of the Federal Reserve System, a "clearing corporation" within the meaning of the Uniform Commercial Code and a "Clearing Agency" registered pursuant to the provisions of Section 17A of the Exchange Act. DTC was created to hold securities for its participants and facilitate the clearance and settlement of securities transactions between participants through electronic book-entry changes in accounts of its participants, thereby eliminating the need for physical movement of certificates. Participants include securities brokers and dealers, banks, trust companies and clearing corporations and may include certain other organizations. Indirect access to the DTC system is available to others such as banks, brokers, dealers and trust companies that clear through or maintain a custodial relationship with a participant, either directly or indirectly ("indirect participants").

Clearstream. Clearstream Banking, société anonyme, was incorporated as a limited liability company under Luxembourg law. Clearstream is owned by Cedel International, société anonyme, and Deutsche Börse AG. The shareholders of these two entities are banks, securities dealers and financial institutions.

Clearstream holds securities for its customers and facilitates the clearance and settlement of securities transactions between Clearstream customers through electronic book-entry changes in accounts of Clearstream customers, thus eliminating the need for physical movement of certificates. Clearstream provides to its customers, among other things, services for safekeeping, administration, clearance and settlement of internationally traded securities, securities lending and borrowing and collateral management. Clearstream interfaces with domestic markets in a number of countries. Clearstream has established an electronic bridge with Euroclear Bank S.A./N.V., the operator of the Euroclear System, to facilitate settlement of trades between Clearstream and Euroclear.

As a registered bank in Luxembourg, Clearstream is subject to regulation by the Luxembourg Commission for the Supervision of the Financial Sector. Clearstream customers are recognized financial institutions around the world, including underwriters, securities brokers and dealers, banks, trust companies and clearing corporations. In the United States, Clearstream customers are limited to securities brokers and dealers and banks and may include the Initial Purchaser. Other institutions that maintain a custodial relationship with a Clearstream customer may obtain indirect access to Clearstream. Clearstream is an indirect participant in DTC.

Distributions with respect to the Notes held beneficially through Clearstream will be credited to cash accounts of Clearstream customers in accordance with its rules and procedures, to the extent received by Clearstream.

The Euroclear System. The Euroclear System was created in 1968 to hold securities for participants of the Euroclear System and to clear and settle transactions between Euroclear participants through simultaneous electronic book-entry delivery against payment, thus eliminating the need for physical movement of certificates and risk from lack of simultaneous transfers of securities and cash. Transactions may now be settled in many currencies, including U.S. Dollars and Japanese Yen. The Euroclear System provides various other services, including securities lending and borrowing and interfaces with domestic markets in several countries generally similar to the arrangements for cross-market transfers with DTC described above.

The Euroclear System is operated by Euroclear Bank S.A./N.V. (the "Euroclear Operator"), under contract with Euroclear Clearance System plc, a U.K. corporation (the "Euroclear Clearance System"). The Euroclear Operator conducts all operations, and all Euroclear securities clearance accounts and Euroclear cash accounts are accounts with the Euroclear Operator, not the Euroclear Clearance System. The Euroclear Clearance System establishes policy for the Euroclear System on behalf of Euroclear participating organizations. Euroclear participants include banks (including central banks), securities brokers and dealers and other professional financial intermediaries and may include the Initial Purchaser. Indirect access to the Euroclear System is also available to other firms that clear through or maintain a custodial relationship with a Euroclear participant, either directly or indirectly. Euroclear is an indirect participant in DTC.

The Euroclear Operator is a Belgian bank. The Belgian Banking Commission regulates and examines the Euroclear Operator.

The Terms and Conditions Governing Use of Euroclear and the related Operating Procedures of the Euroclear System and applicable Belgian law govern securities clearance accounts and cash accounts with the Euroclear Operator. Specifically, these terms and conditions govern:

(a) transfers of securities and cash within the Euroclear System;

(b) withdrawal of securities and cash from the Euroclear System; and

(c) receipts of payments with respect to securities in the Euroclear System.

All securities in the Euroclear System are held on a fungible basis without attribution of specific certificates to specific securities clearance accounts. The Euroclear Operator acts under the terms and conditions only on behalf of Euroclear participants and has no record of or relationship with persons holding securities through Euroclear participants.

Distributions with respect to Notes held beneficially through Euroclear will be credited to the cash accounts of Euroclear participating organizations in accordance with the Euroclear Terms and Conditions, to the extent received by the Euroclear Operator and by Euroclear.

Although DTC, Clearstream and Euroclear have agreed to the foregoing procedures in order to facilitate transfers of interests in the Regulation S Global Notes and in the Rule 144A Global Notes among participants of DTC, Clearstream and Euroclear, they are under no obligation to perform or continue to perform these procedures, and the procedures may be discontinued at any time. Neither the Issuers nor the Trustee will have any responsibility for the performance by DTC, Clearstream, Euroclear or their respective participants or indirect participants of their respective obligations under the rules and procedures governing their operations.

Payments; Certifications by Holders of Temporary Regulation S Global Notes. A Holder of a beneficial interest in a Temporary Regulation S Global Note must provide Clearstream or Euroclear, as the case may be, with a certificate in the form required by the Indenture certifying that the beneficial owner of the interest in such Global Note is not a U.S. Person (as defined in Regulation S), and Clearstream or Euroclear, as the case may be, must provide to the Trustee a certificate in the form required by the Indenture prior to (i) the payment of interest or principal with respect to such Holder's beneficial interest in the Temporary Regulation S Global Note and (ii) any exchange of such beneficial interest for a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Note.

Individual Definitive Notes. The Class S Notes, the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes and the Class C Notes will be initially issued in global form. USE OF PROCEEDS

The gross proceeds associated with the offering of the Securities are expected to equal approximately U.S.$1,007,169,000. Approximately U.S.$1,850,000 of such gross proceeds will be applied by the Issuer to pay upfront fees and expenses associated with the offering of the Securities. In addition, on the Closing Date, approximately U.S.$200,000 of the proceeds from the issuance of the Securities will be deposited into the Expense Reserve Account. On the Closing Date or promptly thereafter as is consistent with customary settlement procedures, pursuant to agreements to purchase entered into on or before the Closing Date, the Issuer will apply the net proceeds to purchase the Collateral Assets which are cash assets described herein having an aggregate Principal Balance of approximately U.S.$70,000,000 and to purchase the Default Swap Collateral and Eligible Investments of approximately U.S.$930,000,000 and will have entered into the Cashflow Swap Agreement.

RATINGS OF THE NOTES

It is a condition to the issuance of the Notes that the Class S Notes, the Class A-1 Notes and the Class A-2 Notes be rated "Aaa" by Moody's and "AAA" by S&P, that the Class B Notes be rated at least "Aa2" by Moody's and at least "AA" by S&P, that the Class C Notes be rated at least "A2" by Moody's and at least "A" by S&P and that the Class D Notes be rated at least "Baa2" by Moody's and at least "BBB" by S&P. The Income Notes will not be rated. A rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be subject to revision or withdrawal at any time.

Moody's Ratings

The ratings assigned to the Notes by Moody's are based upon its assessment of the probability that the Collateral Assets will provide sufficient funds to pay such Securities, based largely upon Moody's statistical analysis of historical default rates on debt obligations with various ratings, expected recovery rates on the Collateral Assets and the asset and interest coverage required for such Securities (which is achieved through the subordination of more junior Notes), and the diversification requirements that the Collateral Assets must satisfy.

Moody's rating of (i) the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes addresses the ultimate cash receipt of all required principal payments and the timely cash receipt of all interest payments as provided in the governing documents and (ii) the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes addresses the ultimate cash receipt of all required interest and principal payments as provided in the governing documents. Moody's ratings are based on the expected loss posed to the Holders of the Notes relative to the promise of receiving the present value, calculated using a discounted rate equal to the promised interest rate of such payments. Moody's analyzes the likelihood that each debt obligation included in the portfolio will default, based on historical default rates for similar debt obligations, the historical volatility of such default rates (which increases as securities with lower ratings are added to the portfolio) and an additional default assumption to account for future fluctuations in defaults. Moody's then determines the level of credit protection necessary to achieve the expected loss associated with the rating of the structured securities, taking into account the potential recovery value of the Collateral Assets and the expected volatility of the default rate of the portfolio based on the level of diversification by issuer and industry.

In addition to these quantitative tests, Moody's ratings take into account qualitative features of a transaction, including the experience of the Collateral Manager, the legal structure and the risks associated with such structure, its view as to the quality of the participants in the transaction and other factors that it deems relevant.

S&P Ratings

S&P will rate the Notes in a manner similar to the manner in which it rates other structured issues. The ratings assigned to the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes by S&P address the likelihood of the timely payment of interest and the ultimate payment of principal on such Notes. The ratings assigned to the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes by S&P address the likelihood of the ultimate payment of interest and principal on such Notes. This requires an analysis of the following: (i) credit quality of the Collateral Assets securing the Notes; (ii) cash flow used to pay liabilities and the priorities of these payments; and (iii) legal considerations. Based on these analyses, S&P determines the necessary level of credit enhancement needed to achieve a desired rating.

S&P's analysis includes the application of its proprietary default expectation computer model, the Standard & Poor's CDO Monitor (which will be provided to the Collateral Manager), which is used to estimate the default rate the portfolio is likely to experience. The Standard & Poor's CDO Monitor calculates the projected cumulative default rate of a pool of Collateral Assets consistent with a specified benchmark rating level based upon S&P's proprietary corporate debt default studies. The Standard & Poor's CDO Monitor takes into consideration the rating of each issuer or obligor, the number of issuers or obligors, the issuer or obligor industry concentration and the remaining weighted average maturity of each of the Collateral Assets and Eligible Investments included in the portfolio. The risks posed by these variables are accounted for by effectively adjusting the necessary default level needed to achieve a desired rating. The higher the desired rating, the higher the level of defaults the portfolio must withstand.

Credit enhancement to support a particular rating is then provided based, in part, on the results of the Standard & Poor's CDO Monitor, as well as other more qualitative considerations such as legal issues and management capabilities. Credit enhancement is typically provided by a combination of overcollateralization/subordination, cash collateral/reserve account, excess spread/interest and amortization. A transaction-specific cash flow model (the "Transaction-Specific Cash Flow Model") is used to evaluate the portfolio and determine whether it can withstand an estimated level of default while fully repaying the class of debt under consideration.

There can be no assurance that actual loss on the Collateral Assets will not exceed those assumed in the application of the Standard & Poor's CDO Monitor or that recovery rates and the timing of recovery with respect thereto will not differ from those assumed in the Transaction-Specific Cash Flow Model. The Issuers make no representation as to the expected rate of defaults on the portfolio or as to the expected timing of any defaults that may occur.

S&P's rating of the Notes will be established under various assumptions and scenario analyses. There can be no assurance, and no representation is made, that actual defaults on the Collateral Assets will not exceed those in S&P's analysis, or that recovery rates with respect thereto (and, consequently, loss rates) will not differ from those in S&P's analysis.

SECURITY FOR THE NOTES

Under the terms of the Indenture, the Issuer will grant to the Trustee, for the benefit of the Secured Parties (but not the Holders of the Income Notes), a first priority perfected security interest in the Collateral (subject to the Synthetic Security Counterparty's interest in the Default Swap Collateral), including the Collateral Assets, that is free of any adverse claim, to secure the Issuers' obligations under the Indenture, the Notes and the Cashflow Swap Agreement.

On the Closing Date, the Issuer expects to acquire approximately U.S.$1,000,000,000 in aggregate Principal Balance of Collateral Assets. The Collateral Assets are expected to consist of CDO Securities and Synthetic Securities (the Reference Obligations of which are CDO Securities). Certain information with respect to the Collateral Assets and the Reference Obligations is included in Appendix B herein. This information was provided by or derived from information provided by the issuers, underwriters and/or the servicers for each underlying Collateral Asset. None of the Issuers, the Initial Purchaser, the Collateral Manager, the Collateral Administrator, the Cashflow Swap Counterparty, the Synthetic Security Counterparty (or any guarantor thereof), the Trustee, any of their affiliates or any party on their behalf has made any independent review or verification as to the accuracy and completeness of the information contained below. Accordingly, prospective purchasers must make their own evaluation regarding the extent to which they will rely on such information in making an investment decision.

The Collateral Assets

The Collateral Assets had an aggregate Principal Balance of approximately U.S.$1,000,000,000 (an aggregate "Collateral Asset Principal Balance") on or about March 21, 2007 (the "Reference Date"). The Reference Date balances of the Collateral Assets reflect their Principal Balances after giving effect to distributions received on March 21, 2007 and (without duplication) after application of all payments due on the Collateral Assets before the Reference Date, whether or not received. However, the first distributions on the Collateral Assets available to make payments on the Notes will be those made from March 27, 2007 through the end of the first Due Period. The use of a later Reference Date would result in a lower Reference Date balance for certain Collateral Assets and, consequently, a lower aggregate Collateral Asset Principal Balance. Unless otherwise stated herein, statistical information relating to the Collateral Assets is calculated on the basis of the Principal Balances of such Collateral Assets.

For purposes of the information set forth herein, unless otherwise specified, Synthetic Securities included in the Collateral Assets are treated in the category in which the related Reference Obligation would be treated. All of the Synthetic Securities, constituting approximately 93.00% of the Collateral Assets (by Principal Balance) on the Closing Date will reference Reference Obligations which are CDO Securities.

On the Closing Date, the CDO Securities and the Reference Obligations which are CDO Securities include 56 whole and partial classes of CDO Securities, representing 100% of the Principal Balance of the Collateral Assets as of the Closing Date. The following is a list of the respective classes and series of CDO Securities included in the Collateral Assets:

* For purposes hereof, the Weighted Average Life of each Collateral Asset has been calculated individually in accordance with market convention. Such methodology may differ as between each Collateral Asset and may not reflect the actual Weighted Average Life of such Collateral Asset.

Each of the CDO Securities are debt securities issued by a special purpose issuer, all of the assets of which are pledged to repay the CDO Securities and other classes of securities issued by such issuer. Certain of the CDO Securities provide for a revolving period during which certain proceeds of the underlying assets are reinvested in additional assets, and for a lockout period during which the CDO Securities will be redeemed or receive principal payments only in limited circumstances. While the classes of CDO Securities included in the Collateral Assets are each rated investment grade as of the date hereof, certain of the CDO Securities are subordinate in right of payment and rank junior to other securities in the same issuance, and all of the CDO Securities are senior to other more subordinate securities of the same issuance. Certain CDO Securities included in the Collateral Assets provide for the deferral of interest under certain circumstances and the failure to pay current interest on such classes of CDO Securities generally will not be an event of default so long as any more senior classes of securities are outstanding. The deferral of interest payments, if it occurs, would adversely affect the cash flow available to the Issuer.

The Coverage Tests

The Coverage Tests will be used primarily to determine whether interest may be paid on the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes and whether Proceeds will be paid to the Holders of the Income Notes, and whether Proceeds must be used to make mandatory redemptions of the Class S-2 Notes, the Class A-1 Notes, the Class A-2 Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes. See "Description of the Securities—Principal" and "—Priority of Payments." The Coverage Tests will consist of the Class A/B Overcollateralization Test, the Class C Overcollateralization Test and the Class D Overcollateralization Test. For purposes of the Coverage Tests, the Class A Adjusted Overcollateralization Ratio, the Class B Adjusted Overcollateralization Ratio, the Class C Adjusted Overcollateralization Ratio and the Class D Adjusted Overcollateralization Ratio, (i) unless otherwise specified, a Synthetic Security shall be included as a Collateral Asset having the characteristics of the Reference Obligation (including, for the purposes of determining whether such Synthetic Security is a Defaulted Obligation) and not of the Synthetic Security; provided, that if such Synthetic Security Counterparty is in default under the related Synthetic Security, such Synthetic Security shall not be included in the Coverage Tests or such Synthetic Security will be treated in such a way that will satisfy the Rating Agency Condition and (ii) the calculation of the Class A/B Overcollateralization Ratio, the Class C Overcollateralization Ratio and the Class D Overcollateralization Ratio on any Determination Date that such Coverage Test is applicable shall be made by giving effect to all payments scheduled or expected to be made pursuant to the Priority of Payments on the Payment Date following such Determination Date with certain exceptions. See "Description of the Securities—Principal" and "—Priority of Payments." For purposes of each of the Class A/B Overcollateralization Test, the Class C Overcollateralization Test and the Class D Overcollateralization Test, notwithstanding the definition of Principal Balance contained herein, the Principal Balance of any security that is not currently paying cash interest (excluding any security that is, in accordance with its terms, making payments due thereon "in kind") shall be the accreted value of such security as of the date on which it was purchased by the Issuer; provided, that such accreted value shall not exceed the par amount of such security.

The Class A/B Overcollateralization Test

The "Class A/B Overcollateralization Ratio" as of any Determination Date will equal the ratio (expressed as a percentage) obtained by dividing (i) the Net Outstanding Portfolio Collateral Balance on such Determination Date (for the purposes of such calculation, the Net Outstanding Portfolio Collateral Balance will not include Principal Proceeds held as cash and Eligible Investments) by (ii) the sum of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Class A Notes and the Class B Notes minus Principal Proceeds expected to be available prior to clause (xii) of the Priority of Payments on the related Payment Date assuming that the Coverage Tests are satisfied.

The "Class A/B Overcollateralization Test" will be satisfied on any Determination Date on which any Class A Notes or Class B Notes remain outstanding if the Class A/B Overcollateralization Ratio on such Determination Date is equal to or greater than 106.4%. As of the Closing Date, the Class A/B Overcollateralization Ratio is expected to be equal to 109.6%.

The Class C Overcollateralization Test

The "Class C Overcollateralization Ratio" as of any Determination Date will equal the ratio (expressed as a percentage) obtained by dividing (i) the Net Outstanding Portfolio Collateral Balance on such Determination Date (for the purposes of such calculation, the Net Outstanding Portfolio Collateral Balance will not include Principal Proceeds held as cash and Eligible Investments) by (ii) the sum of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Notes (other than the Class S Notes and the Class D Notes and including Class C Deferred Interest), minus Principal Proceeds expected to be available prior to clause (xii) of the Priority of Payments on the related Payment Date assuming that the Coverage Tests are satisfied.

The "Class C Overcollateralization Test" will be satisfied on any Determination Date on which any Class C Notes remain outstanding if the Class C Overcollateralization Ratio on such Determination Date is equal to or greater than 103.3%. As of the Closing Date, the Class C Overcollateralization Ratio is expected to be equal to 105.5%.

The Class D Overcollateralization Test

The "Class D Overcollateralization Ratio" as of any Determination Date will equal the ratio (expressed as a percentage) obtained by dividing (i) the Net Outstanding Portfolio Collateral Balance on such Determination Date (for the purposes of such calculation, the Net Outstanding Portfolio Collateral Balance will not include Principal Proceeds held as cash and Eligible Investments) by (ii) the sum of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Notes (other than the Class S Notes and including Class C Deferred Interest and Class D Deferred Interest), minus Principal Proceeds expected to be available prior to clause (xii) of the Priority of Payments on the related Payment Date assuming that the Coverage Tests are satisfied.

Disposition of CDO Securities and Removal of Reference Obligations

The Collateral Assets may be retired, or in the case of a Synthetic Security, removed from the reference portfolio, prior to their respective final maturities due to, among other things, the existence and frequency of exercise of any optional or mandatory redemption features of such Collateral Assets and the Reference Obligations related thereto. In addition, pursuant to the Indenture and subject to the restrictions contained therein, so long as no Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, the Collateral Manager may direct the Issuer to sell Credit Risk Obligations, Defaulted Obligations or equity securities or assign or terminate Synthetic Securities the Reference Obligations of which are Credit Risk Obligations, Defaulted Obligations or equity securities. The assignment, termination or disposition price for any such sale or removal of a Collateral Asset will equal the fair market value of such Collateral Asset. The fair market value of any such Collateral Asset will be the highest bid received by the Collateral Manager after attempting to solicit a bid from up to three independent third parties making a market in such Collateral Asset, at least one of which is not from the Collateral Manager; provided that, if upon commercially reasonable efforts of the Collateral Manager, bids from three independent third parties making a market in such Collateral Asset are not available, the higher of the bids from two such third parties may be used; provided, further that, if upon commercially reasonable efforts of the Collateral Manager, bids from two independent third parties making a market in such Collateral Asset are not available, one such bid may be used so long as it is not from the Collateral Manager. The proceeds from any such sale of Collateral Asset will be applied as Principal Proceeds on the next succeeding Payment Date. A "Credit Risk Obligation" is a Collateral Asset and, in the case of Synthetic Securities, a Reference Obligation (i) the rating of which has been downgraded, qualified or withdrawn by any Rating Agency or has been put on "negative credit watch" or similar status for possible downgrading, qualification or withdrawal from the ratings that were in place as of the date the Issuer purchased such Collateral Asset or entered into such Synthetic Security and in respect of which the Collateral Manager believes that, since such Collateral Asset was purchased or such Synthetic Security was entered into by the Issuer, it has a material risk of declining in credit quality or, with a lapse of time, a risk of becoming a Defaulted Obligation or (ii) in respect of which the Collateral Manager believes that, since such Collateral Asset was purchased or such Synthetic Security was entered into by the Issuer, it has a material risk of declining in credit quality or, with a lapse of time, a risk of becoming a Defaulted Obligation; provided that, if Moody's has withdrawn or reduced its long-term ratings on any of the Class S Notes, the Class A Notes or the Class B Notes by two or more subcategories below the ratings in effect on the Closing Date (disregarding any withdrawal or reduction if subsequent thereto Moody's has upgraded any such reduced or withdrawn ratings to at least one subcategory below the initial long-term rating) or if Moody's has withdrawn or reduced its long-term ratings on any of the Class C Notes or the Class D Notes by three or more subcategories below the ratings in effect on the Closing Date (disregarding any withdrawal or reduction if subsequent thereto Moody's has upgraded any such reduced or withdrawn ratings to at least two subcategories below the initial long-term rating), (a) such Reference Obligation or Collateral Asset has been downgraded by Moody's at least one or more rating subcategories since it was acquired by the

The proceeds from the disposition of a Collateral Asset may not be reinvested in other Collateral Asset.

The Issuer may also (i) in the case of an Auction, at the direction of the Collateral Manager, direct the Trustee to sell, terminate or assign and the Trustee shall sell, terminate or assign in the manner directed by the Collateral Manager in writing, the Collateral Assets and liquidate the remaining Collateral in connection with an Auction; provided, that the criteria for an Auction can be demonstrably met prior to any such sale and that the expected Liquidation Proceeds equal or exceed the Minimum Bid Amount; (ii) in the case of a Tax Redemption, at the direction, or with the consent, of the Collateral Manager on any Payment Date, direct the Trustee to sell, terminate or assign, and the Trustee shall sell, terminate or assign in the manner directed by the Collateral Manager in writing, the Collateral Assets and liquidate the remaining Collateral in connection with a Tax Redemption; provided that the criteria for a Tax Redemption can be demonstrably met prior to any such sale and that the expected Liquidation Proceeds equal or exceed the Total Redemption Amount; and (iii) in the case of an Optional Redemption by Liquidation, at the direction of the Collateral Manager, direct the Trustee to sell, terminate or assign and the Trustee shall sell, terminate or assign in the manner directed by the Collateral Manager in writing, the Collateral Assets and liquidate the remaining Collateral in connection with an Optional Redemption by Liquidation; provided that the criteria for an Optional Redemption by Liquidation can be demonstrably met prior to any such sale and that the expected Liquidation Proceeds equal or exceed the Total Redemption Amount.
