1 TITLE I—AUTHORITY AND 2 ADMINISTRATION OF CONTROLS

3 SEC. 101. SHORT TITLE.

4 This title may be cited as the “Export Controls Act 5 of 2018”.

6 SEC. 102. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

7 The following is the policy of the United States:

8 (1) The national security and foreign policy of 9 the United States require that the export, reexport, 10 and transfer of items, and specific activities of 11 United States persons, wherever located, be con-12 trolled for the following purposes:

13 (A) To control the access to items for use 14 in—

15 (i) the proliferation of weapons of 16 mass destruction or of conventional weap-17 ons;

18 (ii) the acquisition of destabilizing
19 numbers or types of conventional weapons;

20 (iii) acts of terrorism;

21 (iv) military programs that could pose
22 a threat to the security of the United 23 States or its allies; or

1 (v) activities undertaken specifically to 2 cause significant interference with or dis-
3 ruption of critical infrastructure.

4 (B) To preserve the qualitative military su-
5 periority of the United States.

6 (C) To strengthen the United States in-7 dustrial base.

8 (D) To carry out the foreign policy of the 9 United States, including the protection of 10 human rights and the promotion of democracy.

11 (E) To carry out obligations and commit-
12 ments under international agreements and ar-
13 rangements, including multilateral export con-
14 trol regimes.

15 (F) To facilitate military interoperability
16 between the United States and its North Atlan-
17 tic Treaty Organization (NATO) and other
18 close allies.

19 (G) To ensure national security controls
20 are tailored to focus on those core technologies
21 and other items that are capable of being used 22 to pose a serious national security threat to the 23 United States.

24 (2) The national security of the United States
25 requires that the United States maintain its leader-

1 ship in the science, technology, engineering, and 2 manufacturing sectors. Such leadership requires that 3 United States persons are competitive in global mar-
4 kets. The impact of the implementation of this title 5 on such leadership and competitiveness must be 6 evaluated on an ongoing basis and applied in impos-7 ing controls under sections 103 and 104 to avoid 8 negatively affecting such leadership.

9 (3) The national security and foreign policy of 10 the United States require that the United States
11 participate in multilateral organizations and agree-
12 ments regarding export controls on items that are 13 consistent with the policy of the United States, and 14 take all the necessary steps to secure the adoption 15 and consistent enforcement, by the governments of 16 such countries, of export controls on items that are 17 consistent with such policy.

18 (4) Export controls should be fully coordinated
19 with the multilateral export control regimes. Export 20 controls that are multilateral are most effective, and 21 should be tailored to focus on those core technologies
22 and other items that are capable of being used to 23 pose a serious national security threat to the United 24 States and its allies.

1 (5) Export controls applied unilaterally to items
2 widely available from foreign sources generally are 3 less effective in preventing end-users from acquiring 4 those items.

5 (6) The effective administration of export con-
6 trols requires a clear understanding both inside and 7 outside the United States Government of which tech-
8 nologies and other items are controlled and an effi-
9 cient process should be created to update the con-
10 trols, such as by removing and adding technologies
11 and other items.

12 (7) The export control system must ensure that 13 it is transparent, predictable, and timely, has the 14 flexibility to be adapted to address new threats in 15 the future, and allows seamless access to and shar-
16 ing of export control information among all relevant
17 United States national security and foreign policy
18 agencies.

19 (8) Implementation and enforcement of United 20 States export controls require robust capabilities in 21 monitoring, intelligence, and investigation, appro-
22 priate penalties for violations, and the ability to 23 swiftly interdict unapproved transfers.

24 (9) Export controls should be balanced with 25 United States counterterrorism, information secu-

1 rity, and cyber-security policies to ensure the ability
2 to export, reexport, and transfer technology and
3 other items in support of counterterrorism, critical
4 infrastructure, and other homeland security prior-
5 ities, while effectively preventing malicious cyber ter-
6 rorists from obtaining items that threaten the 7 United States and its interests, including the protec-
8 tion of and safety of United States citizens abroad.

9 (10) Export controls complement and are a
10 critical element of the national security policies un-
11 derlying the laws and regulations governing foreign 12 direct investment in the United States, including 13 controlling the transfer of critical technologies to 14 certain foreign persons. Thus, the President, in close
15 coordination with the Department of Commerce, the 16 Department of Defense, the Department of State,
17 the Department of Energy, and other agencies re-
18 sponsible for export controls, should have a regular 19 and robust process to identify the emerging and 20 other types of critical technologies of concern, as de-21 fined in United States foreign direct investment 22 laws, and regulate their release to foreign persons as 23 warranted regardless of the nature of the underlying 24 transaction. Such identification efforts should draw
25 upon the resources and expertise of all relevant

1 parts of the United States Government, industry,
2 and academia. These efforts should be in addition to 3 traditional efforts to modernize and update the lists
4 of controlled items under the multilateral export con-
5 trol regimes.

6 (11) The authority under this title may be exer-
7 cised only in furtherance of all of the objectives set
8 forth in paragraphs (1) through (10).

9 SEC. 103. AUTHORITY OF THE PRESIDENT.

10 (a) AUTHORITY.—In order to carry out the policy set 11 forth in paragraphs (1) through (10) of section 102, the 12 President shall control—

13 (1) the export, reexport, and transfer of items, 14 whether by United States persons, wherever located, 15 or by foreign persons, wherever located; and

16 (2) the activities of United States persons,
17 wherever located, relating to specific—

18 (A) nuclear explosive devices;

19 (B) missiles;

20 (C) chemical or biological weapons;

21 (D) whole plants for chemical weapons pre-
22 cursors;

23 (E) foreign maritime nuclear projects; and 24 (F) foreign intelligence services.

1 (b) REQUIREMENTS.—In exercising authority under
2 this title, the President shall impose controls to achieve
3 the following objectives:

4 (1) To regulate the export, reexport, and trans-
5 fer of items described in subsection (a)(1) of United 6 States persons, wherever located, or foreign persons, 7 wherever located.

8 (2) To regulate the activities described in sub-
9 section (a)(2) of United States persons, wherever lo-
10 cated.

11 (3) To secure the cooperation of other govern-
12 ments and multilateral organizations to impose con-
13 trol systems that are consistent, to the extent pos-
14 sible, with the controls imposed under subsection
15 (a).

16 (4) To maintain the leadership of the United 17 States in science, engineering, technology research
18 and development, and manufacturing.

19 (5) To enhance the viability of commercial
20 firms, academic institutions, and research establish-21 ments, and maintain the skilled workforce of such 22 firms, institutions, and establishments, that are nec-
23 cessary to preserving the leadership of the United 24 States described in paragraph (4).

1 (6) To strengthen the United States industrial
2 base, both with respect to current and future de-
3 fense requirements.

4 (7) To enforce the controls through means such 5 as regulations, requirements for compliance, lists of 6 controlled items, lists of foreign persons who threat-
7 en the national security or foreign policy of the 8 United States, and guidance in a form that facili-
9 tates compliance by United States persons and for-
10 eign persons, in particular academic institutions, sci-
11 entific and research establishments, and small- and 12 medium-sized businesses.

13 SEC. 104. ADDITIONAL AUTHORITIES.

14 (a) IN GENERAL.—In carrying out this title, the 15 President shall—

16 (1) establish and maintain lists published by 17 the Secretary of Commerce of items that are con-18 trolled under this title;

19 (2) establish and maintain lists published by

21 end-uses that are determined to be a threat to the 22 national security and foreign policy of the United 24 102(1)(A) and to whom exports, reexports, and 25 transfers of items are controlled;

2 and transfers of controlled items;

3 (4) restrict exports, reexports, and transfers of 4 any controlled items to any foreign person or end-

11 tions;

12 (6) establish a process by which the Secretary 13 of Commerce or a license applicant requests an as-14 sessment that a foreign item is comparable in qual-

16 available in sufficient quantities to render the 17 United States export control of that item or the de-18 nial of a license ineffective;

19 (7) require measures for compliance with the 20 export controls established under this title;

21 (8) require and obtain such information from 22 United States persons and foreign persons as is nec-

1 (9) require, as appropriate, advance notice be-2 fore an item is exported, reexported, or transferred, 3 as an alternative to requiring a license;

5 tion of items subject to controls under this title in 6 order to facilitate the enforcement of such controls;

7 (11) inspect, search, detain, seize, or impose 8 temporary denial orders with respect to items, in 9 any form, that are subject to controls under this 10 title, or conveyances on which it is believed that

2 to carry out this title and is not otherwise prohibited 3 by law.

4 (b) RELATIONSHIP TO IEEPA.—The authority under

7 may not be regulated or prohibited under section 203(b)
8 of the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 9 U.S.C. 1702(b)).

10 (c) COUNTRIES SUPPORTING INTERNATIONAL TER-11 RORISM.—

12 (1) LICENSE REQUIREMENT.—

13 (A) IN GENERAL.—A license shall be re-14 quired for the export, reexport, or transfer of 15 items to a country if the Secretary of State has 16 made the following determinations:

17 (i) The government of such country
18 has repeatedly provided support for acts of 19 international terrorism.

20 (ii) The export, reexport, or transfer
21 of such items could make a significant con-22 tribution to the military potential of such 23 country, including its military logistics ca-
24 pability, or could enhance the ability of

1 such country to support acts of inter-
2 national terrorism.

3 (B) DETERMINATION UNDER OTHER PRO-
4 VISIONS OF LAW.—A determination of the Sec-
5 retary of State under section 620A of the For-

11 port for acts of international terrorism shall be 12 deemed to be a determination with respect to 13 such government for purposes of clause (i) of

15 (2) NOTIFICATION TO CONGRESS.—The Sec-16 retary of State and the Secretary of Commerce shall 17 notify the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the 12 information is in the national interest.

13 (g) REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.—In the administra-

14 SEC. 115. EFFECT ON OTHER ACTS.

15 (a) IN GENERAL.—Except as otherwise provided in 16 this title, nothing contained in this title shall be construed

19 caused merely by the existence of structural, 20 definitional, and other non-policy based dif-
21 ferences between and among different export 22 control and sanctions systems; and

23 (C) should coordinate controls on items ex-
24 ported, reexported, or transferred in connection 25 with a foreign military sale under chapter 2 of

1 the Arms Export Control Act or a commercial
2 sale under section 38 of the Arms Export Con-
3 trol Act to reduce as much unnecessary admin-

19 Powers Act), or the Export Administration Regulations, 20 and are in effect as of the date of the enactment of this 21 Act, shall continue in effect according to their terms until 22 modified, superseded, set aside, or revoked under the au-23 thority of this title.

24 (b) ADMINISTRATIVE AND JUDICIAL PRO-

5 the International Emergency Economic Powers Act), or 6 the Export Administration Regulations.

10 Export Administration Act of 1979 (as in effect on 11 the day before the date of the enactment of this Act
12 and as continued in effect pursuant to the Inter-13 national Emergency Economic Powers Act) shall 14 continue in effect as if the determination had been 15 made under section 104(c) of this Act.

17 provision of law to a country the government of 18 which the Secretary of State has determined, for 19 purposes of section 6(j) of the Export Administra-20 tion Act of 1979 (as in effect on the day before the 21 date of the enactment of this Act and as continued
22 in effect pursuant to the International Emergency 23 Economic Powers Act), is a government that has re-24 peatedly provided support for acts of international

3 is a government that has repeatedly provided sup-

8 This Act may be cited as the “Anti-Boycott Act of 9 2018”.

10 SEC. 202. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

11 Congress declares it is the policy of the United 12 States—

13 (1) to oppose restrictive trade practices or boy-14 cotts fostered or imposed by any foreign country, or 15 requests to impose restrictive trade practices or boy-16 cotts by any foreign country, against other countries 17 friendly to the United States or against any United 18 States person;

19 (2) to encourage and, in specified cases, require
20 United States persons engaged in the export of 21 goods or technology or other information to refuse to 22 take actions, including furnishing information or en-23 tering into or implementing agreements, which have 24 the effect of furthering or supporting the restrictive 25 trade practices or boycotts fostered or imposed by

1 any foreign country, or requests to impose restrictive
2 trade practices or boycotts by any foreign country 3 against a country friendly to the United States or 4 against any United States person; and 5 (3) to foster international cooperation and the 6 development of international rules and institutions 7 to assure reasonable access to world supplies.

8 SEC. 203. FOREIGN BOYCOTTS.

9 (a) PROHIBITIONS AND EXCEPTIONS.—

10 (1) PROHIBITIONS.—For the purpose of imple-11 menting the policies set forth in section 202, the 12 President shall issue regulations prohibiting any 13 United States person, with respect to that person's 14 activities in the interstate or foreign commerce of 15 the United States, from taking or knowingly agree-16 ing to take any of the following actions with intent 17 to comply with, further, or support any boycott fos-18 tered or imposed by any foreign country, or request 19 to impose any boycott by any foreign country, 20 against a country which is friendly to the United 21 States and which is not itself the object of any form 22 of boycott pursuant to United States law or regula-
23 tion:

24 (A) Refusing, or requiring any other per-25 son to refuse, to do business with or in the boy-

1 cotted country, with any business concern orga-
2 nized under the laws of the boycotted country, 3 with any national or resident of the boycotted 4 country, or with any other person, pursuant to 5 an agreement with, a requirement of, or a re-6 quest from or on behalf of the boycotting coun-
7 try. The mere absence of a business relationship 8 with or in the boycotted country with any busi-9 ness concern organized under the laws of the 10 boycotted country, with any national or resident 11 of the boycotted country, or with any other per-12 son, does not indicate the existence of the in-13 tent required to establish a violation of regula-14 tions issued to carry out this subparagraph.

15 (B) Refusing, or requiring any other per-16 son to refuse, to employ or otherwise discrimi-17 nating against any United States person on the 18 basis of race, religion, sex, or national origin of 19 that person or of any owner, officer, director, or 20 employee of such person.

22 the race, religion, sex, or national origin of any 23 United States person or of any owner, officer, 24 director, or employee of such person.

1 (D) Furnishing information, or requesting 2 the furnishing of information, about whether 3 any person has, has had, or proposes to have 4 any business relationship (including a relation-5 ship by way of sale, purchase, legal or commer-6 cial representation, shipping or other transport, 7 insurance, investment, or supply) with or in the 8 boycotted country, with any business concern 9 organized under the laws of the boycotted coun-10 try, with any national or resident of the boy-11 cotted country, or with any other person which 12 is known or believed to be restricted from hav-13 ing any business relationship with or in the boy-14 cotted country. Nothing in this subparagraph 15 shall prohibit the furnishing of normal business 16 information in a commercial context as defined 17 by the Secretary.

18 (E) Furnishing information about whether 19 any person is a member of, has made contribu-20 tions to, or is otherwise associated with or in-21 volved in the activities of any charitable or fra-22 ternal organization which supports the boy-23 cotted country.

24 (F) Paying, honoring, confirming, or other-
25 wise implementing a letter of credit which con-

1 tains any condition or requirement compliance
2 with which is prohibited by regulations issued 3 pursuant to this paragraph, and no United 4 States person shall, as a result of the applica-5 tion of this paragraph, be obligated to pay or 6 otherwise honor or implement such letter of 7 credit.

8 (2) EXCEPTIONS.—Regulations issued pursuant 9 to paragraph (1) shall provide exceptions for—

10 (A) complying or agreeing to comply with 11 requirements—

12 (i) prohibiting the import of goods or 13 services from the boycotted country or 14 goods produced or services provided by any 15 business concern organized under the laws 16 of the boycotted country or by nationals or 17 residents of the boycotted country; or

18 (ii) prohibiting the shipment of goods 19 to the boycotting country on a carrier of 20 the boycotted country, or by a route other 21 than that prescribed by the boycotting 22 country or the recipient of the shipment;

23 (B) complying or agreeing to comply with 24 import and shipping document requirements
25 with respect to the country of origin, the name

1 of the carrier and route of shipment, the name
2 of the supplier of the shipment or the name of 3 the provider of other services, except that no in-4 formation knowingly furnished or conveyed in 5 response to such requirements may be stated in 6 negative, blacklisting, or similar exclusionary 7 terms, other than with respect to carriers or 8 route of shipment as may be permitted by such 9 regulations in order to comply with pre-
10 cautionary requirements protecting against war 11 risks and confiscation;

12 (C) complying or agreeing to comply in the 13 normal course of business with the unilateral 14 and specific selection by a boycotting country, 15 or national or resident thereof, of carriers, in-16 surers, suppliers of services to be performed 17 within the boycotting country or specific goods 18 which, in the normal course of business, are 19 identifiable by source when imported into the 20 boycotting country;

21 (D) complying or agreeing to comply with 22 export requirements of the boycotting country
23 relating to shipments or transshipments of ex-24 ports to the boycotted country, to any business 25 concern of or organized under the laws of the 1 boycotted country, or to any national or resi-

2 dent of the boycotted country;

3 (E) compliance by an individual or agree-4 ment by an individual to comply with the immi-
5 gration or passport requirements of any country 6 with respect to such individual or any member 7 of such individual's family or with requests for 8 information regarding requirements of employ-9 ment of such individual within the boycotting 10 country; and

11 (F) compliance by a United States person 12 resident in a foreign country or agreement by 13 such person to comply with the laws of that 14 country with respect to his activities exclusively
15 therein, and such regulations may contain ex-
16 ceptions for such resident complying with the 17 laws or regulations of that foreign country gov-
18 erning imports into such country of 19 trademarked, trade named, or similarly specifi-20 cally identifiable products, or components of 21 products for his own use, including the per-22 formance of contractual services within that 23 country, as may be defined by such regulations.

1 (3) SPECIAL RULES.—Regulations issued pur-
2 suant to paragraphs (2)(C) and (2)(F) shall not pro-
3 vide exceptions from paragraphs (1)(B) and (1)(C).

4 (4) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this 5 subsection may be construed to supersede or limit 6 the operation of the antitrust or civil rights laws of 7 the United States.

8 (5) APPLICATION.—This section shall apply to 9 any transaction or activity undertaken, by or 10 through a United States person or any other person, 11 with intent to evade the provisions of this section as 12 implemented by the regulations issued pursuant to 13 this subsection, and such regulations shall expressly 14 provide that the exceptions set forth in paragraph 15 (2) shall not permit activities or agreements (ex-16 pressed or implied by a course of conduct, including 17 a pattern of responses) otherwise prohibited, which 18 are not within the intent of such exceptions.

19 (b) FOREIGN POLICY CONTROLS.—

20 (1) IN GENERAL.—In addition to the regula-21 tions issued pursuant to subsection (a), regulations
22 issued under title I of this Act to carry out the poli-23 cies set forth in section 102(1)(D) shall implement 24 the policies set forth in this section.

1 (2) REQUIREMENTS.—Such regulations shall 2 require that any United States person receiving a re-3 quest for the furnishing of information, the entering 4 into or implementing of agreements, or the taking of 5 any other action referred to in subsection (a) shall 6 report that fact to the Secretary, together with such 7 other information concerning such request as the 8 Secretary may require for such action as the Sec-9 retary considers appropriate for carrying out the 10 policies of that section. Such person shall also report 11 to the Secretary whether such person intends to 12 comply and whether such person has complied with 13 such request. Any report filed pursuant to this para-14 graph shall be made available promptly for public in-15 spection and copying, except that information re-16 garding the quantity, description, and value of any 17 goods or technology to which such report relates 18 may be kept confidential if the Secretary determines 19 that disclosure thereof would place the United States 20 person involved at a competitive disadvantage. The 21 Secretary shall periodically transmit summaries of 22 the information contained in such reports to the Sec-23 retary of State for such action as the Secretary of 24 State, in consultation with the Secretary, considers

2 section 202.

3 (c) PREEMPTION.—The provisions of this section and 4 the regulations issued pursuant thereto shall preempt any 5 law, rule, or regulation of any of the several States or the 6 District of Columbia, or any of the territories or posses-
7 sions of the United States, or of any governmental subdivi-8 sion thereof, which law, rule, or regulation pertains to par-9 ticipation in, compliance with, implementation of, or the 10 furnishing of information regarding restrictive trade prac-11 tices or boycotts fostered or imposed by foreign countries,

7 (i) the proliferation of weapons of 8 mass destruction or of conventional weapons;
9 (ii) the acquisition of destabilizing
10 numbers or types of conventional weapons;

11 (iii) acts of terrorism;

12 (iv) military programs that could pose
13 a threat to the security of the United
14 States or its allies; or
15 (v) activities undertaken specifically to 16 cause significant interference with or disruption of critical infrastructure.

17 (B) To preserve the qualitative military superiority of the United States.

18 (C) To strengthen the United States industrial base.

19 (C) To strengthen the United States industrial base.
20

1 (D) To carry out the foreign policy of the
2 United States, including the protection of
3 human rights and the promotion of democracy.

4 (E) To carry out obligations and commit-
5 ments under international agreements and ar-
6 rangements, including multilateral export con-
7 trol regimes.

8 (F) To facilitate military interoperability
9 between the United States and its North Atlan-
10 tic Treaty Organization (NATO) and other
11 close allies.

12 (G) To ensure national security controls
13 are tailored to focus on those core technologies
14 and other items that are capable of being used 15 to pose a serious national security threat to the 16 United States.

17 (2) The national security of the United States
18 requires that the United States maintain its leader-
19 ship in the science, technology, engineering, and 20 manufacturing sectors, including foundational tech-
21 nology that is essential to innovation. Such leader-22 ship requires that United States persons are com-23 petitive in global markets. The impact of the imple-24 mentation of this title on such leadership and com-25 petitiveness must be evaluated on an ongoing basis

1 and applied in imposing controls under sections 103
2 and 104 to avoid negatively affecting such leader-3 ship.

4 (3) The national security and foreign policy of 5 the United States require that the United States
6 participate in multilateral organizations and agree-
7 ments regarding export controls on items that are
8 consistent with the policy of the United States, and 9 take all the necessary steps to secure the adoption
10 and consistent enforcement, by the governments of 11 such countries, of export controls on items that are 12 consistent with such policy.

13 (4) Export controls should be fully coordinated
14 with the multilateral export control regimes. Export
15 controls that are multilateral are most effective, and 16 should be tailored to focus on those core technologies
17 and other items that are capable of being used to 18 pose a serious national security threat to the United 19 States and its allies.

20 (5) Export controls applied unilaterally to items 21 widely available from foreign sources generally are 22 less effective in preventing end-users from acquiring 23 those items.

24 (6) The effective administration of export con-
25 trols requires a clear understanding both inside and

1 outside the United States Government of which tech-
2 nologies and other items are controlled and an effi-
3 cient process should be created to update the con-
4 trols, such as by removing and adding technologies
5 and other items.

6 (7) The export control system must ensure that 7 it is transparent, predictable, and timely, has the 8 flexibility to be adapted to address new threats in 9 the future, and allows seamless access to and shar-
10 ing of export control information among all relevant
11 United States national security and foreign policy
12 agencies.

13 (8) Implementation and enforcement of United 14 States export controls require robust capabilities in 15 monitoring, intelligence, and investigation, appro-
16 priate penalties for violations, and the ability to 17 swiftly interdict unapproved transfers.

18 (9) Export controls should be balanced with
19 United States counterterrorism, information secu-
20 rity, and cyber-security policies to ensure the ability 21 to export, reexport, and transfer technology and
22 other items in support of counterterrorism, critical
23 infrastructure, and other homeland security prior-
24 ities, while effectively preventing malicious cyber ter-
25 rorists from obtaining items that threaten the

1 United States and its interests, including the protec-
2 tion of and safety of United States citizens abroad.

3 (10) Export controls complement and are a
4 critical element of the national security policies un-
5 derlying the laws and regulations governing foreign
6 direct investment in the United States, including
7 controlling the transfer of critical technologies to
8 certain foreign persons. Thus, the President, in close
9 coordination with the Department of Commerce, the 10 Department of Defense, the Department of State,
11 the Department of Energy, and other agencies re-
12 sponsible for export controls, should have a regular 13 and robust process to identify the emerging and 14 other types of critical technologies of concern and 15 regulate their release to foreign persons as war-16 ranted regardless of the nature of the underlying 17 transaction. Such identification efforts should draw
18 upon the resources and expertise of all relevant
19 parts of the United States Government, industry,
20 and academia. These efforts should be in addition to 21 traditional efforts to modernize and update the lists
22 of controlled items under the multilateral export con-
23 trol regimes.

1 (11) The authority under this title may be exer-
2 cised only in furtherance of all of the objectives set
3 forth in paragraphs (1) through (10).

4 SEC. 103. AUTHORITY OF THE PRESIDENT.

5 (a) AUTHORITY.—In order to carry out the policy set
6 forth in paragraphs (1) through (10) of section 102, the 7 President shall control—

9 subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, 10 whether by United States persons or by foreign per-11 sons; and

12 (2) the activities of United States persons,
13 wherever located, relating to specific—

14 (A) nuclear explosive devices;

15 (B) missiles;

16 (C) chemical or biological weapons;

17 (D) whole plants for chemical weapons pre-
18 cursors;

19 (E) foreign maritime nuclear projects; and

20 (F) foreign military intelligence services.

21 (b) REQUIREMENTS.—In exercising authority under
22 this title, the President shall impose controls to achieve
23 the following objectives:

1 (1) To regulate the export, reexport, and trans-
2 fer of items described in subsection (a)(1) of United 3 States persons or foreign persons.

4 (2) To regulate the activities described in sub-
5 section (a)(2) of United States persons, wherever lo-
6 cated.

8 ments and multilateral organizations to impose con-
9 trol systems that are consistent, to the extent pos-
10 sible, with the controls imposed under subsection
11 (a).

12 (4) To maintain the leadership of the United
13 States in science, engineering, technology research
14 and development, manufacturing, and foundational 15 technology that is essential to innovation.

16 (5) To protect United States technological ad-
17 vances by prohibiting unauthorized technology trans-
18 fers to foreign persons in the United States or out-19 side the United States, particularly with respect to 20 countries that may pose a significant threat to the 21 national security of the United States.

22 (6) To enhance the viability of commercial
23 firms, academic institutions, and research establish-
24 ments, and maintain the skilled workforce of such 25 firms, institutions, and establishments, that are nec-

1 essary to preserving the leadership of the United 2 States described in paragraph (4).

3 (7) To strengthen the United States industrial
4 base, both with respect to current and future de-
5 fense requirements.

6 (8) To enforce the controls through means such 7 as regulations, requirements for compliance, lists of 8 controlled items, lists of foreign persons who threat-
9 en the national security or foreign policy of the 10 United States, and guidance in a form that facili-
11 tates compliance by United States persons and for-
12 eign persons, in particular academic institutions, sci-
13 entific and research establishments, and small- and 14 medium-sized businesses.

15 (c) APPLICATION OF CONTROLS.—The President
16 shall impose controls over the export, reexport, or transfer 17 of items for purposes of the objectives described in sub-18 sections (b)(1) or (b)(2) without regard to the nature of 19 the underlying transaction or any circumstances per-20 taining to the activity, including whether such export, re-21 export, or transfer occurs pursuant to a purchase order 22 or other contract requirement, voluntary decision, inter-23 company arrangement, marketing effort, or during a joint 24 venture, joint development agreement, or similar collabo-25 rative agreement.

1 SEC. 104. ADDITIONAL AUTHORITIES.

15 issued under this title, that a license from the Bu-

19 to carry out this title that is not otherwise prohib-

10 items to a country if the Secretary of State has 11 made the following determinations:

12 (i) The government of such country
13 has repeatedly provided support for acts of 14 international terrorism.

15 (ii) The export, reexport, or transfer
16 of such items could make a significant con-

18 country, including its military logistics ca-
19 pability, or could enhance the ability of 20 such country to support acts of inter-
21 national terrorism.

23 VISIONS OF LAW.—A determination of the Sec-
24 retary of State under section 620A of the For-

6 would be delivered and whether other countries 7 in the region have comparable kinds and 8 amounts of items; and

9 (F) an analysis of the impact of the pro-10 posed export, reexport, or transfer on the rela-

24 (A) the export, reexport, or transfer of 25 items described in paragraph (2), including

1 items that are not subject to control under this 2 title; and

3 (B) other activities that may support the 6 refurbishing of, or for the performance of serv-7 ices relating to, any such items.

8 (2) ITEMS DESCRIBED.—The items described in 9 this paragraph include—

10 (A) nuclear explosive devices;

11 (B) missiles;

12 (C) chemical or biological weapons;

18 (c) ADDITIONAL PROHIBITIONS.—The Secretary may 19 inform United States persons, either individually by spe-20 cific notice or through amendment to any regulation or 21 order issued under this title, that a license from the Bu-

23 merce is required to engage in any activity if the activity 24 involves the types of movement, service, or support de-25 scribed in subsection (d). The absence of any such notifi-

1 cation does not excuse the United States person from com-2 pliance with the license requirements of subsection (d), or 3 any regulation or order issued under this title.

4 (f) LICENSE REVIEW STANDARDS.—The Secretary
5 shall deny an application to engage in any activity de-6 scribed in subsection (d) if the activity would make a ma-

22 this title;

23 (C) to obtain independent evaluations, in-24 cluding from Inspectors General of the relevant 25 departments or agencies, on a periodic basis on

1 the effectiveness of the implementation of this 2 title in carrying out the policy set forth in sec-3 tion 102; and

4 (D) to benefit from the inherent equities,
5 experience, and capabilities of the Federal offi-6 cials described in subsection (a), including—

17 nuclear proliferation of a particular control 18 or decision; and

19 (iv) the views of the Department of 20 Commerce with respect to the administra-
21 tion of an efficient, coherent, reliable, en-22 forceable, and predictable export control

25 tion 102.

1 (2) AUTHORITY TO SEEK INFORMATION.—The 2 Federal officials described in subsection (a) may, in 3 carrying out the purposes set forth in paragraph (1), 4 seek information and advice from experts who are 5 not officers or employees of the Federal Govern-

7 (3) TRANSMITTAL AND IMPLEMENTATION OF 8 EVALUATIONS.—The results of the independent eval-
9 uations conducted pursuant to paragraph (1)(D)
10 shall be transmitted to the President and the Con-11 gress, in classified form if necessary. Subject to the 12 delegation of authority by the President, the Federal 13 officials described in subsection (a) shall determine, 14 direct, and ensure that improvements recommended 15 in the evaluations are implemented.

16 (c) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-17 gress that the administration of export controls under this 18 title should be consistent with the procedures relating to 19 export license applications described in Executive Order 20 12981 (1995).

21 SEC. 106. CONTROL LISTS.

22 The President shall, pursuant to the delegation of au-23 thority in section 105, ensure that—

24 (1) a process is established for regular inter-25 agency review of each list established under section

1 104(a)(1), that pursuant to such review the Sec-2 retary regularly updates such lists to ensure that 3 new items (including emerging critical technologies) 4 are appropriately controlled, and that the level of 5 control of items on the lists are adjusted as condi-
6 tions change;

7 (2) information and expertise are obtained from 8 officers and employees from relevant Federal depart-9 ments, agencies, and offices and persons outside the 10 Federal Government who have technical expertise, 11 with respect to the characteristics of the items con-
12 sidered for each list established under section 13 104(a)(1) and the effect of controlling the items on 14 addressing the policy set forth in section 102;

15 (3) each list established under section 104(a)(1) 16 appropriately identifies each entry that has been in-17 cluded by virtue of the participation of the United 18 States in a multilateral regime, organization, or 19 group the purpose of which is consistent with and 20 supports the policy of the United States under this 21 title relating to the control of exports, reexports, and 22 transfers of items; and

23 (4) each list established under section 104(a)(1)
24 is published by the Secretary in a form that facili-25 tates compliance with it and related requirements,

1 particularly by small- and medium-sized businesses,
2 and academic institutions.

3 SEC. 107. LICENSING.

4 (a) IN GENERAL.—The President shall, pursuant to 5 the delegation of authority in section 105, establish a pro-
6 cedure for the Department of Commerce to license or oth-7 erwise authorize the export, reexport, and transfer of 8 items controlled under this title in order to carry out the 9 policy set forth in section 102 and the requirements set 10 forth in section 103(b). The procedure shall ensure that—

11 (1) license applications, other requests for au-12 thorization, and related dispute resolution proce-13 dures are considered and decisions made with the 14 participation of appropriate departments, agencies, 15 and offices that have delegated functions under this 16 title; and

17 (2) licensing decisions are made in an expedi-18 tious manner, with transparency to applicants on the 19 status of license and other authorization processing 20 and the reason for denying any license or request for 21 authorization.

22 (b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-23 gress that the President should make best efforts to en-24 sure that an accurate, consistent, and timely evaluation 25 and processing of licenses or other requests for authoriza-

1 tion to export, reexport, or transfer items controlled under 2 this title is accomplished within 30 days from the date 3 of such license request.

4 (c) FEES.—No fee may be charged in connection with 5 the submission, processing, or consideration of any appli-6 cation for a license or other authorization or other request 7 made in connection with any regulation in effect under 8 the authority of this title.

9 SEC. 108. COMPLIANCE ASSISTANCE.

20 against other countries friendly to the United States
21 or against any United States person;

22 (2) to encourage and, in specified cases, require
23 United States persons engaged in the export of 24 goods or technology or other information to refuse to

9 boycotted country, with any national or resident 10 of the boycotted country, or with any other per-

22 import and shipping document requirements
23 with respect to the country of origin, the name
24 of the carrier and route of shipment, the name
25 of the supplier of the shipment or the name of

1 the provider of other services, except that no in-

12 country with respect to his activities exclusively
13 therein, and such regulations may contain ex-
14 ceptions for such resident complying with the 15 laws or regulations of that foreign country gov-
16 erning imports into such country of
17 trademarked, trade named, or similarly specifi-

115TH CONGRESS
2D SESSION

H. R. 5480

To improve programs and activities relating to women's entrepreneurship and economic empowerment that are carried out by the United States Agency for International Development, and for other purposes.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. ROYCE of California (for himself and Ms. FRANKEL of Florida) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on

A BILL

To improve programs and activities relating to women's entrepreneurship and economic empowerment that are carried out by the United States Agency for International Development, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the "Women's Entrepre-5 neurship and Economic Empowerment Act of 2018".

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress finds the following:

3 (1) Because women make up the majority of 4 the world's poor and gender inequalities prevail in 5 incomes, wages, access to finance, ownership of as-6 sets, and control over the allocation of resources, 7 women's entrepreneurship and economic empower-8 ment is important to achieve inclusive economic 9 growth at all levels of society. Research shows that 10 when women exert greater influence over household 11 finances, economic outcomes for families improve, 12 and childhood survival rates, food security, and edu-13 cational attainment increase. Women also tend to 14 place a greater emphasis on household savings which 15 improves families' financial resiliency.

16 (2) A 2016 report by the McKinsey Global In-17 stitute estimated that achieving global gender parity 18 in economic activity could add as much as $28 tril-19 lion to annual global gross domestic product (GDP) 20 by 2025.

21 (3) Lack of access to financial services that ad-22 dress gender-specific constraints impedes women's 23 economic inclusion. More than one billion women 24 around the world are currently left out of the formal 25 financial system, which in turn causes many women 26 to rely on informal means of saving and borrowing

1 that are riskier and less reliable. Among other con-
2 sequences, this hampers the success of women entre-3 preneurs, including those seeking to run or grow 4 small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs). The 5 International Finance Corporation has estimated 6 that 70 percent of women-owned SMEs in the for-7 mal sector are unserved or underserved in terms of 8 access to credit, amounting to a $285 billion credit 9 gap.

10 (4) Women's economic empowerment is inex-11 tricably linked to a myriad of other women's human 12 rights that are essential to their ability to thrive as 13 economic actors across the lifecycle. This includes, 14 but is not limited to, living lives free of violence and 15 exploitation, achieving the highest possible standard 16 of health and well-being, enjoying full legal and 17 human rights such as access to registration, identi-18 fication, and citizenship documents, benefitting from 19 formal and informal education, and equal protection 20 of and access to land and property rights, access to 21 fundamental labor rights, policies to address dis-
22 proportionate care burdens, and business and man-23 agement skills and leadership opportunities.

24 (5) Discriminatory legal and regulatory systems 25 and banking practices are hurdles to women's access

1 to capital and assets, including land, machinery, pro-2 duction facilities, technology, and human resources.
3 Often, these barriers are connected to a woman's 4 marital status, which can determine whether she is 5 able to inherit land or own property in her name.
6 These constraints contribute to women frequently 7 running smaller businesses, with fewer employees 8 and lower asset values.

9 (6) Savings groups primarily comprised of 10 women are recognized as a vital entry point, espe-
11 cially for poor and very poor women, to formal fi-12 nancial services and there is a high demand for such 13 groups to protect and grow their savings with formal 14 financial institutions. Evidence shows that, once 15 linked to a bank, the average savings per member 16 increases between 40 to 100 percent and the average 17 profit per member doubles. Key to these outcomes is 18 investing in financial literacy, business leadership 19 training, and mentorship.

20 (7) United States support for microenterprise 21 and microfinance development programs, which seek 22 to reduce poverty in low-income countries by giving 23 small loans to small-scale entrepreneurs without col-24 lateral, have been a useful mechanism to help fami-
25 lies weather economic shocks, but many microcredit

1 borrowers largely remain in poverty. The vast major-2 ity of microcredit borrowers are women who would 3 like to move up the economic ladder but are held 4 back by binding constraints that create a “missing 5 middle”—large numbers of microenterprises, a hand-6 ful of large firms or conglomerates, and very few 7 SMEs in between, which are critical to driving eco-8 nomic growth in developing countries.

9 (8) According to the World Bank, SMEs create 10 4 out of 5 new positions in emerging markets but 11 about half of formal SMEs don’t have access to for-12 mal credit. The financing gap is even larger when 13 micro and informal enterprises are taken into ac-14 count. Overall, approximately 70 percent of all 15 micro, small and medium-sized enterprises (MSMEs) 16 in emerging markets lack access to credit.

17 SEC. 3. ACTIONS TO IMPROVE GENDER POLICIES OF THE 18 UNITED STATES AGENCY FOR INTER-
19 NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT.

20 (a) DEVELOPMENT COOPERATION POLICY.—It shall 21 be the development cooperation policy of the United 22 States—

23 (1) to reduce gender disparities in access to, 24 control over, and benefit from economic, social, polit-

1 ical, and cultural resources, wealth, opportunities, 2 and services;

3 (2) to strive to eliminate gender-based violence 4 and mitigate its harmful effects on individuals and 5 communities through efforts to develop standards 6 and capacity to reduce gender-based violence in the 7 workplace and other places where women conduct 8 work;

9 (3) to support activities that secure private 10 property rights and land tenure for women in devel-11 oping countries, including legal frameworks to give 12 women equal rights to own, register, use, profit 13 from, and inherit land and property, legal literacy to 14 exercise these rights, and capacity of law enforce-15 ment and community leaders to enforce such rights; 16 and

17 (4) to increase the capability of women and 18 girls to realize their rights, determine their life out-19 comes, assume leadership roles, and influence deci-20 sion-making in households, communities, and soci-21 eties.

22 (b) ACTIONS.—In order to advance the policy de-23 scribed in subsection (a), the Administrator of the United 24 States Agency for International Development shall ensure 25 that—

1 (1) strategies, projects, and activities of the 2 Agency are shaped by a gender analysis and, when 3 applicable, use standard indicators to provide one 4 measure of success of such strategies, projects, and 5 activities; and

6 (2) gender equality and female empowerment is 7 integrated throughout the Agency's Program Cycle
8 and related processes for purposes of strategic plan-9 ning, project design and implementation, and moni-10 toring and evaluation.

11 (c) GENDER ANALYSIS DEFINED.—In this section, 12 the term “gender analysis”—

13 (1) means a socio-economic analysis of available 14 or gathered quantitative and qualitative information 15 to identify, understand, and explain gaps between 16 men and women which typically involves exam-17 ining—

18 (A) differences in the status of women and 19 men and their differential access to and control 20 over assets, resources, opportunities, and serv-21 ices;

22 (B) the influence of gender roles, struc-23 tural barriers, and norms on the division of 24 time between paid employment, unpaid work

1 (including subsistence production and care for 2 family members), and volunteer activities;

3 (C) the influence of gender roles, struc-
4 tural barriers, and norms on leadership roles
5 and decision making; constraints, opportunities, 6 and entry points for narrowing gender gaps and 7 empowering women; and

8 (D) potential differential impacts of devel-9 opment policies and programs on men and 10 women, including unintended or negative con-11 sequences; and

12 (2) includes conclusions and recommendations
13 to enable development policies and programs to nar-14 row gender gaps and improve the lives of women and 15 girls.

Chairman ROYCE. And I now recognize myself to speak on today's business.

So, first, we have the Export Control Reform Act of 2018. This is a bipartisan bill that would replace the outdated Export Administration Act of 1979, which has been in lapse for the last quarter century. And it would replace it with a permanent modern export control authority. So, obviously, this step is long overdue.

Crucially, the bill closes gaps in our export controls that could permit transfers of cutting-edge technology like artificial intelligence and advanced semiconductors to potential adversaries such as Beijing. It also ensures that transfers of sensitive manufacturing knowhow, including through joint ventures, are subject to more rigorous export controls. This act mandates an urgent effort to identify and appropriately control critical emerging technologies, technologies that are not currently subject to export controls, but which could be essential to our U.S. national security. Together with SIFIs reforms, this bill will enable the U.S. to remain a leader in innovation, strengthen our industrial base, and protect technologies essential to national security.

Next, we consider the bipartisan H.R. 5480. This is the Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act. Women in developing countries around the world face binding constraints to entrepreneurship and economic participation. So, we have today over 1 billion women that are left out of the formal financial system, and that leaves them without access to savings or credit or insurance or basic property rights.

What this legislation does is expands USAID's microenterprise assistance authority to include support for small and medium-sized enterprises which create four out of every five jobs in emerging markets. When women exert greater influence over household finances, economic outcomes for families improve and, obviously, childhood survival rates go up. Food security and educational attainment are increased.

This isn't just good for local communities in these developing countries. Achieving global gender parity in economic activity could add tens of trillions of dollars to annual GDP growth around the planet by 2025. This helps us.

Next, we have Chairman Smith's H.R. 5129. This is the Global Food Security Reauthorization Act of 2018. Last Congress, we came together in a bipartisan way to enact the Global Food Security Act. Since enactment in 2016, the Global Food Security Strategy has helped 11 million small farmers gain access to new technologies. It has unlocked $2.7 billion in loans, $830 million in direct private sector investment, and it has reduced poverty by an average of 19 percent in the focus areas. These programs have also allowed us to reach 27 million children under the age of 5 with vital nutrition assistance. And we did this without increase spending. H.R. 5129 continues this good work by extending the existing authorization for an additional 2 years.

Finally, I want to thank Representatives Castro and Meadows for introducing H.R. 5274. This is the Global Electoral Exchange Act. Healthy societies depend on elections that accurately reflect the decision of voters. The world has a shared stake in the integrity of election mechanisms. The nuts and bolts of how people cast their votes and how these votes are counted free from manipulation is the subject here, and this bill would strengthen this work by authorizing the Secretary of State to run exchanges to better equip those who organize and administer elections in their home countries.

And I now recognize the ranking member for his remarks.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Thank you very much for calling this markup. We have four good measures before us today, and I am happy to support them all. As always, I want to thank all of our members on both sides of the aisle for their hard work.

Mr. Chairman, I want to thank you for putting forward the Export Control Reform Act. As you mentioned, it has been almost four decades since the law on export controls was revised. The old law is filled with out-of-date provisions that simply don't reflect our current national security priorities. It also expired in 2001.

So, for the last 17 years, the legal authority for regulating sensitive exports has been based on emergency authority contained in Executive orders. That is why this bill is so essential. It updates the export control system to reflect today's reality of the way these technologies are developed and transferred in global trade. It provides a new approach to help mitigate the risks of sensitive technologies falling into the hands of our adversaries, and it reasserts the role of Congress in addressing the important national security priority. I am proud to be the lead Democratic cosponsor of this legislation and I urge all members to support it.

Next, I want to turn to the Global Food Safety Reauthorization Act. This is another great example of bipartisan common-sense cooperation on vital foreign policy issues. I am an original cosponsor, and I am pleased to see this bill on the agenda.

Nearly 800 million people around the world live without the certainty that their families will have enough to eat. Underfed populations are less productive and more vulnerable to disease. Without reliable access to food, it is much harder for a country to achieve stability and prosperity. So, we have an interest and a moral obligation in tackling this problem as part of our foreign policy.

This bill reauthorizes the successful Global Food Security Act which codified the Feed the Future Program. We are already seeing some excellent results from this program, a 26 percent drop in child stunting. Nine million more people are above the poverty line; 1.7 million more families are living without hunger, and $2.6 billion earned by Feed the Future farmers in new agricultural sales. This is a great bill, and I thank the drafters, Representative Chris Smith and Betty McCollum, for their hard work, and encourage all my colleagues to support it.

Fighting global poverty is a critical issue that our committee faces, and one of the most effective ways we can improve global prosperity is to empower women throughout the world. That brings me to the next measure for today's markup, the Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act. This is important. It is a very important piece of legislation, introduced by Chairman Royce and Congresswoman Frankel. It expands U.S. development policy to empower women entrepreneurs in developing countries.

Women and girls are powerful, and we know what happens when that power and potentials are unleashed. Communities thrive. Local and global economies grow. Societies prosper and become more inclusive and equitable. If women were full participants in the global economy, we would see an additional $28 trillion in growth in global GDP by the year 2025.

Women in developing countries face a series of gender-specific constraints to moving up the economic ladder, including lack of access to financial services. Women-owned small- and medium-sized enterprises face almost a $300 billion credit gap. The Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act works to address that disparity by expanding U.S. development assistance to reach those small- and medium-sized enterprises.

This bill is a welcomed step toward improving women's economic prospects, but there remain other barriers to women's economic empowerment, including issues related to maternal and reproductive health. There is a well-documented link between improved access to contraception and women's economic empowerment. Women who are able to plan their families are more likely to receive an education, raise their standards of living, and climb out of poverty. These benefits aren't limited to a woman herself. In homes where parents have the ability to decide the number of children they have, their children tend to be healthier, do better in school, and grow up to earn higher incomes.

I am pleased to be an original cosponsor of this, and I urge all of our members to join me in supporting it. And I hope that we can build upon the good work and address all the barriers that women and girls face, so that they can achieve full economic empowerment.

And lastly, I turn to the Global Electoral Exchange Act, introduced by Representatives Castro and Meadows, which would establish exchange programs at the State Department that focus on strengthening the electoral mechanisms around the world. It is in America's interest that we promote credible elections, and having exchange programs to share best election practices is an excellent idea. We should be doing all that we can be doing to promote democracy.

I support this bill, along with the other measures we are considering today, and I again thank all our members on both sides.

And I yield back, Mr. Chairman. Thank you.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We go now to Mr. Chris Smith, the author of the Global Food Security Reauthorization Act.

Mr. SMITH. Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. Thank you, Mr. Engel, for your strong support for this as well. Both of you are cosponsors, as is Betty McCollum, who is the principal Democrat cosponsor, and my good friend and colleague, Karen Bass, who is also one of the leading original sponsors as well. Thank you.

This is bipartisan legislation that has worked and this is the reauthorization to continue, and, hopefully, to bring additional emphasis to some of the areas that we have missed in the original enactment of this landmark legislation.

I would remind my colleagues that there are 800 million hungry people in the world today. Not only do children still die from malnutrition, we know that, because of malnutrition, those children are subjected to other sicknesses, opportunistic infections. Malaria takes an even more devastating toll on them because of their malnutrition.

Feed the Future, this legislation, and the underlying program which began in the Bush administration, was strengthened and expanded in the Obama administration, and has now been continued and strengthened under the leadership of President Trump, and continues to reach out to the most vulnerable. As you pointed out, Mr. Chairman, we have seen a significant drop in poverty, some 19 percent, and the drop in child stunting. And as I travel throughout the world, particularly in Africa and places like Guatemala, which has had a huge stunting problem, they have joined the effort to provide nutrition to young people, especially mothers and mothers carrying children. Stunting has dropped significantly.

And why is stunting so bad? Obviously, the impact it has on the individual, their diminished capabilities intellectually, and the like. If the food and nutrition is there, especially in the first 1,000 days from conception to the second birthday, and then, hopefully, God willing, it continues, we have stronger, more resilient children and, then, young adults and, then, adults to live out a life that is far more fruitful than when they are carrying a number of sicknesses.

This authorization bill emphasizes the importance of de-worming initiatives. Among the neglected tropical diseases, intestinal worms account for nearly 80 percent of neglected tropical disease prevalence, affecting close to 1 billion people all over the world. These worms undercut our nutrition interventions and can lead to death by malnutrition or lifelong stunting as well. We need to combine our nutrition interventions not only with coordinated de-worming campaigns, but also with water sanitation and health interventions that change people's behavior. WASH training helps ensure people limited exposure to worms such as by washing and peeling vegetables or something as simple as giving children shoes to wear if they walk on worm-infected soil, so that they don't get sick again.

Again, I will ask unanimous consent that my full statement be made a part of the record. But this legislation I think will save many lives. And I thank you again for bringing it to the committee today.

Chairman ROYCE. We go now to Mr. David Cicilline of Rhode Island.

Mr. CICILLINE. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Thank you to you and to the ranking member for holding this markup today of these bipartisan measures. As always, I appreciate the way our committee works together across the aisle in moving important reforms and authorizations.

I am pleased to support H.R. 5129, the Global Food Security Reauthorization Act, which will extend Feed the Future until 2021, ensuring that the United States Government remains at the forefront of fighting global hunger by providing assistance to millions of hungry and vulnerable people around the world in order to build sustainable food systems, improve resilience, expand agricultural markets, and improve nutrition for local communities. The Feed the Future Program has had a remarkable success, as outlined in its 2016 progress report showing statistically-significant declines in poverty in 11 out of 17 focus countries.

I am also pleased to join with my colleagues, Congressman Smith and Congresswoman McCollum, as well as the chair and ranking member, as a cosponsor of this important legislation, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

I am also pleased to support H.R. 5480, the Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act, introduced by Chairman Royce and Congresswoman Frankel. Though the United States already does a lot of incredible work to support the empowerment of women and girls around the world, this legislation would expand programs to ensure that all USAID projects and activities are shaped by a gender analysis and gender equality, and female empowerment is integrated throughout the agency's program cycle.

This bill will expand USAID's microenterprise development assistance to include small and medium enterprises, particularly those owned, controlled, and managed by women, and will institute requirements, so that we can track the implementation of this bill. I strongly support these efforts and thank my colleagues for their work on behalf of women and girls.

And finally, I am pleased to support H.R. 5274, the Global Electoral Exchange Act, introduced by my friend and colleague, Congressman Castro. This smart legislation will create an exchange program for election officials in order to exchange best practices between the United States and other countries. At a time when democratic systems are under attack across the globe, this legislation will help educate election officials on best practices for administering an election. I am also a proud cosponsor of this legislation and urge my colleagues to support it as well.

I thank you, again, to all of my colleagues for working on these important pieces of legislation, and thank you again to you, Mr. Chairman and the ranking member, for holding this markup today.

And with that, I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. We go now to Ileana Ros-Lehtinen of Florida. Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Thank you so much, Mr. Chairman.

It has been a long time since Congress has been able to reform some of our outdated laws. The chairman and ranking member's Export Control Reform Act is a much-needed update to the old Export Administration Act of 1979. And while I do applaud this measure, as well as your efforts to reestablish strong congressional oversight of export controls, I do wish that we had moved away from the current rescission process. The bill allows for a rescission of a country's designation as a state sponsor of terror (SST) to continue to operate under the current mechanism. This allows for the administration, any administration, to remove a country from the SST list and only by passing a joint resolution of disapproval can Congress block this decision, meaning we need a veto-proof majority, very difficult to do.

And I look back at the most recent decisions that removed SST countries, Cuba and North Korea, and think that Congress was really powerless to prevent these moves. We are missing an opportunity here and are, again, allowing the administration too much leeway. We have seen that some administrations will bargain an SST designation for next to nothing, and we will have little to prevent that. I am dismayed that we aren't giving ourselves the proper oversight over SST designations, and I hope, Mr. Chairman and Ranking Member, that we can find a way to modify this mechanism going forward.

I would also like to express my strong support for my colleague Chris Smith's bill, the Global Food Security Reauthorization Act. With nearly 800 million hungry people worldwide, addressing the challenge of food insecurity is both a moral and national security imperative. Hunger is a leading factor driving so much of the instability and violence that we see in the world today. And by investing in stronger food systems, we can help develop more resilient communities that are able to withstand these pressures.

We need proper oversight and a strategy that makes sure USAID and its partners are fully integrated in achieving U.S. interests.

This bill ensures that strategy remains in place, and I offer the bill my strong support. Congrats, Mr. Smith.

I also want to speak in support of my friend Joaquin Castro's Global Electoral Exchange Act. At a time when bad actors such as Russia have been proven to meddle in other nations' elections, including our own, it is more important now than ever that we do what we can to ensure the validity and security of our electoral process. This bill is a tool that we can use to not only advance and protect our interests by ensuring that outside actors cannot work to manipulate election results, but it also serves to advance our democratic ideals.

I do want to note that elections alone do not make a democracy. We saw that last month in my native homeland of Cuba with the sham selections. Really, there were no elections set up by the Castro regime, and we are set to see the same fraud taking place in Venezuela next month with Maduro's sham snap elections. And with this farce of a transition of power set to happen tomorrow in Cuba, this bill serves to remind us that the people of Cuba are still denied their God-given rights. Until there are free, fair, and transparent elections in Cuba, in Venezuela, or anywhere in the world, we need to continue to support the people whose rights are being denied, which is why initiatives such as this one are so important in promoting sound election practices around the world.

And finally, Mr. Speaker—Mr. Chairman, I elevated you or demoted you, I am not sure—I also support your bill with Ranking Member Engel, the Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act. Sadly, women continue to face insurmountable barriers that deter their availability to becoming full and equal members of society. This bill seeks to update USAID policy to chip away at those barriers, improve women's working environments, support their property rights, and aid them in providing access to greater economic opportunity. It is our responsibility to empower women, and this bill does so through our USAID programs.

Congratulations, Mr. Chairman and Ranking Member, for a fine set of initiatives that we can all support.

Chairman ROYCE. Well, I thank the chairman emeritus, and I recognize her for her longstanding support for strengthening congressional oversight over U.S. foreign policy and for combating terrorism.

I would make a few points on the Export Controls Reform Act, where it does move in the direction that you want to see, maybe not as robustly as you wanted to see it. But what it does do is it strengthens the congressional oversight over the delisting of a state sponsor of terrorism. And it does that really by quadrupling the time by fourfold that a designated country has got to refrain from sponsoring terrorism before being delisted. So, it is no longer 6 months; it is 24 months. I think this gives us a chance for much better evidence that a country has truly abandoned terrorism, but it also doubles the time that Congress has to review the proposed removal of the country from the list. So, it goes from 45 days to 90 days, and that improves our oversight. And it, I think, gives us much more time to reject a removal if we find that objectionable. So, it helps in that way as well.

But one of the changes that I think will work best for us and the committee is that it requires that the administration notify and brief Congress at the front end, when they initiate a review of a designated country's potential removal from the list. So, I think all of that puts us in a better position than we are now, and I did want to share that with you. And I understand your plight.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Well, thank you very much. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Chairman ROYCE. We go now to Lois Frankel from Florida, the cosponsor of our Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act.

Ms. FRANKEL. Thank you, Mr. Royce and Mr. Engel, for your extraordinary bipartisan leadership. And I want to thank my colleagues for their good work on all these bills, which I support.

I want to specifically focus my remarks on the Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act, which I am honored to be one of the original cosponsors. The bill recognizes that, when women around the world are educated and have access to the tools for economic success, their communities are safer, stronger, and more peaceful, and so is the world.

Living in the United States where there is so much opportunity, it is hard to comprehend the hardships and obstacles that girls and women face in so many parts of the world. I think of Fatime, a young girl born in Mali. At just 8 months she may be cut, subjected to general mutilation. By age 12, her father may sell her for marriage to a man she has never met. Or Nasha, a young woman in Nigeria, desperate for an education, who has to walk miles fearful of sexual violence or kidnapping just to get to school. Or Camilia, a grown woman in Pakistan who dreams of starting her own business and being able to care for her family, but discriminatory laws prohibit her from owning property or being able to access credit. She is among the 1 billion women excluded from the formal financial system.

And millions of young girls face child marriage, sexual assault, human trafficking, genital mutilation, femicide. I could go on. One in three suffer gender-based violence. Access to health care and education is limited. Laws in their countries restrict their employment, property rights, access to credit and other financial resources.

So, it is not surprising that women and girls are the majority of the world's poor. Now here's the thing: Because of so many, too many cruel and unfair practices against girls and women, the world is poorer, too. According to McKinsey Global Institute, a leading international private sector think tank, if we change this equation and advance women's equality, we could add $28 trillion to the global GDP in just 7 years.

And there is an undeniable link between women's economic success and global prosperity, and this excellent bill makes it a U.S. development policy to reduce gender disparities related to economic opportunity; to strive to eliminate gender-based violence; to support women's property rights, and increase the capability of women and girls to determine their own future. The bill requires that 50 percent of USAID's resources for small and medium-sized enterprises be targeted to reach enterprises owned and managed and controlled by women. It codifies USAID's practice of shaping policy and activities through a gender analysis which should examine gender differences in access to resources and opportunities, different impacts of policy and programs on men and women, and provide recommendations to narrow the gender gaps and improve the lives of women and girls.

And to ensure that our development assistance is reaching women, this legislation mandates that USAID track and measure improvements in women's economic empowerment, including employment, access to financial services, enterprise development, earnings and control over income, and property and land rights. In addition, this legislation expands the scope of development assistance for microenterprises to micro-, small-, and medium-sized enterprises to reflect the change in the field.

Investing in women's empowerment is not only humane, it is good common sense, because when women exert greater influence over household finances, economic outcomes for families improve, childhood survival rates increase, food security and educational attainment also increase. Women also tend to place a greater emphasis on household savings, which improves families' financial resiliency. When girls and women do better, their nations do better. Women are potent forces for peace and prosperity. When they succeed, the world will succeed.

And I thank my colleagues for joining me in support of this important bill.

And I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We now go to Joe Wilson of South Carolina.

Mr. WILSON. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I appreciate Chairman Ed Royce and Ranking Member Eliot Engel for their bipartisan efforts to bring the Export Control Reform Act before the committee. This bill helps protect industry and commerce in the United States by preventing technological theft while reducing the risks of other countries misusing controlled items and technologies for nefarious purposes.

Importantly, this bill would replace the Export Administration Act, which lapsed in 2001. While export controls have been maintained through emergency powers granted to the President, this legislation would update and strengthen our export controls to maintain the pace for modern international and digital trade without harming trade.

Foreign investment in the United States creates economic opportunity, but it also has created gaps in our technological security. Currently, foreign-owned companies in the United States often do not need a license to receive dual-use technology normally subject to such controls when exported abroad. This bill corrects and updates this flaw for the modern era.

This legislation also would adapt to the advances in technology by mandating an interagency process to identify emerging technologies that need to be protected by export controls, which will allow export controls to stay up-to-date. This bill protects American technology from theft and abuse and ensures that our export control system remains robust and effective.

I am grateful to support and cosponsor H.R. 5040, the Export Control Reform Act of 2018, and urge its passage.

Additionally, as a former election observer for the International Republican Institute to Bulgaria, and as a host for election observation by Ambassador Peter Burian of Slovakia during the Republican primary for President, I especially appreciate the Global Electoral Exchange Act, by Congressman Joaquin Castro, and urge its passage.

I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. We go now to the author of the Global Electoral Exchange Act, Joaquin Castro of Texas.

Mr. CASTRO. Thank you, Chairman Royce and Ranking Member Engel, for bringing these measures before us today, and for your leadership on this committee. I want to say thank you to all the members whose bills are before us today for your hard work.

The bills considered today, including the Export Control Reform Act, Global Food Security Reauthorization Act, and Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act, address important issues in the world, and I am pleased to support all of them.

Included in this package is a bill I authored with Representative Mark Meadows of North Carolina, before the committee today, the Global Electoral Exchange Act, or H.R. 5274. In the last decade, we have seen democracies around the world in retreat, including some in our own backyard. This is in contrast to prior years. In countries around the world, democracy activists and well-intentioned leaders strive to create more inclusive societies, but face significant challenges, including lack of institutional knowledge of electoral processes.

An election is a complex endeavor and an exercise a society undertakes together. It requires an engaged public, robust institutions, and a transparent, technically-sound electoral mechanism. Such an electoral mechanism must include a secret ballot, inclusive voting systems, chain of custody, neutral instructions to voters, and so much more of what may be considered good electoral practices.

When these electoral mechanisms are inadequately transparent or technically unsound, the legitimacy of an election and its results are in question. We saw this firsthand in Kenya and Honduras over the last year, where electoral failure led to election violence and a questionable outcome.

The State Department and USAID already engage in excellent work, in partnership with groups like the National Endowment for Democracy, the National Democratic Institute, International Republican Institute, and International Foundation for Electoral Systems, supporting democracy worldwide.

This bill would establish exchange programs with other countries, administered by the State Department, for individuals involved in the conduct of elections. When we bring folks over here to show them how we do things and send Americans to other countries to see how elections are conducted overseas, we can have candid conversations on how all of us can improve these processes. These educational programs would benefit both societies abroad keyed on democratizing and our own States and cities right here in the United States.

I would like to thank again my coauthor, Mark Meadows. I believe he is at an OGR hearing and can't be here right now. But he and his staff put in a lot of work also, and I would like to say thank you and ask for my colleagues' support on this.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We go now to Mike McCaul of Texas.

Mr. MCCAUL. Thank you, Mr. Chairman, Ranking Member Engel. I want to thank you for holding today's markup, and especially thank you and the other members of this committee for your work to advance H.R. 5480, the Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act. And I say that as a father of four daughters.

Women make up approximately 40 percent of the world's workforce; yet, are restricted from contributing to their economies due to economic barriers such as access to credit and other financial services. Due to this, less women are able to start or grow their own businesses. Research suggests that leveling the financial playing field for women could result in $28 trillion to the annual GDP by 2025, and that is why I would like to offer my strong support for this bill.

This legislation will empower women's entrepreneurship by expanding U.S. assistance to women-owned and -managed small- and medium-sized enterprises. I believe that a world in which women have access to the same economic opportunities as men is a world that will be more prosperous and more stable. So, I encourage my colleagues to support the passage of this measure.

And I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We go to Dina Titus of Nevada.

Ms. TITUS. Well, thank you, Mr. Chairman and Ranking Member.

I, too, support all of these bills and think they are excellent pieces of legislation, and appreciate the work that their sponsors have done to bring them to this point.

I would like to speak specifically, though, about the Global Electoral Exchange Act, and salute Congressmen Castro and Meadows for introducing this bill. I am a cosponsor of it, and I appreciate, also, the chairman including my amendment en bloc today.

The Global Electoral Exchange Act will help promote best election practices through a global electoral exchange program to foster the growth of democracy around the world. As a member of the House Democracy Partnership, which works with developing democracies to strengthen their institutions, I can attest to the importance of strong electoral processes in bolstering democracy and promoting economic development.

According to the World Health Organization, roughly 15 percent of the earth's population has a disability and 80 percent of those persons live in developing countries. Inclusion of persons with disabilities is a fundamental part of democracy, and this must extend to the electoral process as well. Unfortunately, barriers continue to exist around the world that limit these folks to their full and effective participation in elections. So, therefore, they aren't able to enjoy aspects of life and fulfill their potential.

My amendment would ensure that the best practices shared through this program would also include those related to equitable access to polling place, voter education information, and voting mechanisms for persons with disabilities. By recognizing this need, the U.S. is continuing its role as a leader in disability accommodation in all aspects of life here at home and around the world.

And I thank you and yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

We go to Mr. Ted Yoho of Florida.

Mr. YOHO. Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and I appreciate you bringing up these important pieces of legislation, and I support them all.

I want to give a strong support for the Export Control Reform Act. I support this legislation completely, and I would like to see it in the future expand to cover other forms of research, including biotech, including plant, animal, and medicine. These are also vital to national security, and I look forward to offering amendments in the Rules Committee and also on the House Floor when this bill comes up for a vote on its way to becoming a law.

And also, to give a shoutout for H.R. 4030, the State Sponsors of Terrorism Review and Enhancement Act, that a lot of the portions of that are in the Export Control Reform Act, and I look forward to that piece of legislation coming up also.

And I yield back.

Chairman ROYCE. We will look forward to working with the gentleman on biotech and some of these other considerations that should be included.

Mr. Brad Schneider of Illinois.

Mr. SCHNEIDER. Thank you. I just want to say I am glad we have these bills here today. I am glad to support all of them.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Schneider.

Any further members seeking recognition?

Mr. Tom Garrett.

Mr. GARRETT. Thank you, Mr. Chair.

Again, I would echo the sentiments of our colleagues on each side of the aisle. Proud of each of these four pieces of legislation.

Very briefly and specifically, on H.R. 5480, I would commend yourself, Ranking Member Engel, and Member Frankel. Member Engel said—and I will adopt fully his comments—that these actions to empower women economically will “help communities thrive, help economies grow, help opportunity expand.” I wholeheartedly agree, and I would add it will also help reduce radicalization, expand hope, which stymies extremist recruitment, and will foster a more tolerant and open society across the globe. Such a good bill. In other words, this act helps not only women across the globe, but people everywhere. And, Mr. Chairman, I would argue it will save many uncountable lives.

Also, on H.R. 5040, the Export Control Reform Act, I commend the chair and ranking member on their ability to determine sort of a glaring problem that had been delayed in being addressed for decades. This is a good, bipartisan, and overdue reform. Just as Mr. Yoho referenced hopes that we talk more about biotech, et cetera, I understand this might not be the committee of purview, but I hope that this legislation will embolden us to address the glaring EB-5 visa situation, which essentially were sold and allow four out of five of these to go to Chinese, which, once they are here, allows them nearly unlimited access to sensitive technology.

Again, I commend the ranking member, the chair, and the committee as a whole for advancing these common-sense and good, bipartisan initiatives.

Thank you, Mr. Chair.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you, Mr. Garrett. And I think you raise a point there, and we should confer with Judiciary, with Mr. Goodlatte, on that issue.

Mr. Brad Sherman of California.

Mr. SHERMAN. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I want to thank you for working with me on an amendment to H.R. 5040, which is the Export Control Reform Act. I think the bill is excellent. I think the amendment makes it better.

This amendment will ensure that the Department of Commerce, which licenses the exports of dual-use items, explicitly gathers information and takes into consideration whether a major export of controlled equipment or technology will have a negative impact on the production of items that are needed for our own national security here in the United States.

So much of export control is that we look at a particular weapon system and say, should that country be trusted with that weapon system? But what is just as important is that we control the export of manufacturing equipment and technology. We export far less than any other major country as a percentage of our GDP. When an American firm sends technology and the ability to produce critical items outside the United States, we could call that as one small export, but it has a negative impact on our national security, industrial base, and our high-tech workforce.

Even when we are exporting this material to an ally, what we are doing is making that ally the country that will do the manufacturing using our technology. Well, that may not be good for jobs and our economy, but this is not a pair of shoes. This is not a television set. When we export jobs and industrial base in the military sector, in the dual-use sector, we undermine our ability to produce what our military needs, should the case arise. Having a robust toy-making industry might be good for the United States. Having a robust industry in the area of weapon systems is critical for our national security.

Not only that, but by transferring this technology and industrial capacity, we create a circumstance where some other country will determine whether they produce that industry, whether the weapon systems that are manufactured or the dual-use items that are manufactured, will be exported to this or that additional country. Right now, when weapon systems and dual-use items are exported, it comes to not only the administration of this country, but often comes to this committee. But, if we export the manufacturing capacity, the government of Italy or the government of Japan is not going to be submitting reports to the United States Congress giving us 60 or 90 days to approve or disapprove of arms or dual-capacity material export. So, I think that it is important, that we look at the industrial base as part of our national security infrastructure.

I want to take this moment, also, to voice my support for the other bills that are before us. I particularly want to associate myself with the comments of Ms. Frankel from Florida and her excellent work on the Women's Entrepreneurship and Economic Empowerment Act, and associate myself with Mr. Castro's comments on the importance of the Global Electoral Exchange Act and commend him for his work on that.

Again, Mr. Chairman, thank you for working with me on this amendment and including it in the en bloc package, and I urge support of the motion.

Chairman ROYCE. Thank you.

I think Mr. Sherman puts his finger on the heart of the matter here, because the question is no longer can it be the export of individual systems on dual use; it has to be the export of the knowhow. And your point about making certain we have re-export controls, so that if we transfer it to an ally, they cannot transfer it, is equally applicable to the question of making certain that the knowhow itself is not transferred, in all the ways that we try to do that in this measure.

And as we move forward, I just wanted to thank Mr. Sherman for his contributions to this overhaul. It has been a long time coming, and I think our efforts here are to identify every one of these examples from past mistakes and figure out how we close those loopholes, especially given the new technologies that are coming.

Do any other members seek recognition?

[No response.]

Hearing no further requests for recognition, the question occurs on the items considered en bloc. All those in favor say aye.

[Chorus of ayes.]

All those opposed, no.

In the opinion of the Chair, the ayes have it, and the measures considered en bloc are agreed to.

And without objection, the measures considered en bloc are ordered favorably reported as amended, and staff is directed to make any technical and conforming changes. And the Chair is authorized to seek House consideration under suspension of the rules.

That concludes our business for today. And I want to thank Ranking Member Engel and all of our committee members for their contributions and their assistance with this markup today.

The committee stands adjourned.

[Whereupon, at 10:56 a.m., the committee was adjourned.]

Statement for the Record
Submitted by Mr. Christopher H. Smith

Thank you Chairman Royce, for your leadership on global food security, including in particular for your original cosponsorship of this reauthorization as well as the original Global Food Security Act, and your agreeing to move this bill to markup so rapidly.

The original Global Food Security Act promoted food security, resilience and nutrition in developing countries in keeping with U.S. national security interests. Through agriculture-led economic development, GFSA has strengthened partner countries' capacity and lessened their dependence on emergency food assistance. It has also improved efficiency among federal departments and agencies and leveraged the participation of other non-U.S. governmental partners.

It should be restated that GFSA's legacy as a bipartisan success story – legislation which solidified in law a policy that had its roots in the Bush Administration, was amplified by President Obama and is now being implemented by President Trump.

Now is the time to reauthorize this landmark legislation. H.R. 5129 builds upon the Global Food Security Act of 2016, which formally codified the Feed the Future Initiative and was signed into law with overwhelming bipartisan support in July 2016, by reauthorizing the program for two years – per the Amendment you have before you – through 2020.

Crucially, this reauthorization bill emphasizes the importance of deworming initiatives. Among the neglected tropical diseases, intestinal worms account for nearly eighty percent of NTD prevalence, affecting close to one billion people the world over. These worms undercut our nutrition interventions, and can lead to death by malnutrition or lifelong stunting. We need to combine our nutrition interventions not only with a coordinated deworming campaign, but also with Water Sanitation Health interventions that change people's behavior. WaSH training helps ensure people limit exposure to worms, such as by washing and peeling vegetables or something as simple as giving children shoes to wear so if they trod on worm-infected soil they don't get sick again. We are trying to feed the future, not feed the worms.

We will also rectify an oversight by including the Inter-American Foundation in the interagency initiative on Food Security. IAF does development

That we are here reauthorizing the Global Food Security Act is a testament to the dedication of numerous committed groups outside Congress that have made food security and nutrition their priority, from advocates to implementers—especially and including faith-based organizations who perhaps work the closest to the small-holder farmers and women who benefit in particular from our food security efforts. I thank them for their support and look forward to working with them more in this process.

I'd also like to complement our federal agencies tasked with implementing the GFSA—in particular USAID under the leadership of Beth Dunford. The professionalism and dedication of Beth and many others is critical to the overall success of the program.

Finally, I would like to thank Rep. Betty McCollum for again being the lead cosponsor on this critical, bipartisan legislation, as well as to thank original cosponsor Ranking Member Engel and the Ranking member of our subcommittee, Karen Bass and others.

Thank you.
