 10 (3) support the right of the people of Georgia
 11 to freely determine their future and make inde-
 12 pendent and sovereign choices on foreign and secu-
 13 rity policy, including regarding their country’s rela-
 14 tionship with other nations and international organi-
 15 zations, without interference, intimidation, or coer-
 16 cion by other countries;
 17 (4) support Georgia’s Euro-Atlantic and Euro-
 18 pean integration;

(5) not recognize territorial changes effected by force, including the illegal invasions and occupations of Georgian regions of Abkhazia and Tskhinvali Region/South Ossetia by the Russian Federation;

(6) condemn ongoing detentions, kidnappings, and other human rights violations committed in the Georgian regions of Abkhazia and Tskhinvali Region/South Ossetia forcibly occupied by the Russian Federation, including the recent killings of Georgian citizens Archil Tatunashvili, Giga Otkhozoria, and Davit Basharuli; and

(7) support peaceful conflict resolution in Georgia, including by urging the Russian Federation to fully implement the European Union-mediated ceasefire agreement of August 12, 2008, and supporting the establishment of international security mechanisms in the Georgian regions of Abkhazia and Tskhinvali Region/South Ossetia and the safe and dignified return of internally displaced persons (IDPs) and refugees, all of which are important for lasting peace and security on the ground.

2 States at the United Nations to call for an adoption by 3 the United Nations of a definition of “child marriage” and 4 the development of a comprehensive strategy to address
5 child marriage in refugee settlements administered by the
6 United Nations. Such strategy should include the fol-
7 lowing:

8 (1) A mandate to regularly collect and report
9 data related to the number of known or suspected
10 child marriages taking place inside each such settle-
11 ment.

12 (2) Protocols for United Nations personnel re-
13 garding prevention and monitoring of child mar-
14 riages inside each such settlement.

15 (3) A description of programs administered at 16 such settlements that provide—

17 (A) physical, mental, and emotional reha-
18 bilitation and support to children who have ex-
19 tricated themselves from child marriage; and

20 (B) alternatives to child marriage, such as
21 education initiatives.

22 (4) Protocols regarding how United Nations
23 personnel should—

24 (A) report adults participating in illegal
25 child marriages in each such settlement; and

1 (B) monitor the prosecution of such adults
2 by the authorities of the country in which the
3 settlement at issue is located.

4 (b) RESEARCH.—The President shall direct the
5 United States Permanent Representative to the United
6 Nations to use the voice, vote, and influence of the United
7 States at the United Nations to advocate for the United
8 Nations and its appropriate agencies to include in all of 9 its research into child marriage the relationship between 10 child marriage and violence against girls, including young
11 children and infants.

12 (c) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

13 (1) CHILD MARRIAGE.—The term “child mar-
14 riage” means a formal marriage or informal union
15 involving at least one person younger than age 18.

16 (2) ILLEGAL CHILD MARRIAGE.—The term “il-
17 legal child marriage” means a formal marriage or 18 informal union involving at least one person younger 19 than age 18 that is illegal under the laws of the 20 country in which the child marriage occurs.

AMENDMENT IN THE NATURE OF A SUBSTITUTE
TO H.R. 2140
OFFERED BY MRS. WAGNER OF MISSOURI

Strike all after the enacting clause and insert the following:

1 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

2 This Act may be cited as the “Preventing Child Mar-
3 riage in Displaced Populations Act”.

4 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

5 Congress finds the following:

6 (1) According to UNICEF, 12 million girls
7 marry before the age of 18 every year.

8 (2) Early marriage denies children, especially 9 girls, their right to make vital decisions about their 10 well-being, including relating to their health, family, 11 and career. Child brides are less likely to finish their 12 education, and are at higher risk for abuse, con-
13 tracting HIV, and dying while pregnant or giving 14 birth.

15 (3) Child marriage also imposes substantial eco-
16 nomic costs to developing countries, impeding devel-
17 opment and prosperity gains.

1 (4) Displaced populations are particularly vul-
2 nerable to child marriage, in communities where pov-
3 erty, instability, and displacement put pressure on 4 families to marry children, particularly young girls,
5 off at a young age.

6 (5) One United Nations (UN) study found that 7 child marriage rates were four times higher among
8 displaced Syrian refugees than among Syrians before
9 the crisis. This indicates that displacement, insta-
10 bility, and poverty are driving child marriages.

11 (6) United Nations agencies, including
12 UNICEF and UNHCR, have acknowledged the dan-
13 gers of child marriage and taken steps to address its 14 risk in the populations they serve.

15 (7) The UN Joint Program on Child Marriage
16 supports this work by building the resilience of pop-
17 ulations to indirectly prevent child marriage and by 18 generating new data and evidence on the prevalence
19 of child marriage in humanitarian and fragile set-
20 tings. For example, in Uganda, the UN Joint Pro-
21 gram on Child Marriage helped 27,000 adolescent
22 girls strengthen critical skills through school clubs
23 and Go Back to School campaigns, as well as life-
24 skills and financial literacy training.

1 (8) After the UN Joint Program on Child Mar-
2 riage identified Yemen as one of its focus countries,
3 65,000 people, of whom 45,000 are adolescents,
4 were reached with awareness raising activities on the 5 harms of child marriage in 2018 alone. As a result,
6 local council representatives, elders, and community
7 leaders from six districts signed a pledge to support
8 advocacy efforts to end child marriage.

9 SEC. 3. PREVENTING CHILD MARRIAGE IN DISPLACED POP-
10 ULATIONS.

11 (a) IN GENERAL.—The President shall direct the 12 United States Permanent Representative to the United
13 Nations to use the voice, vote, and influence of the United 14 States at the United Nations to call for an adoption of 15 an agreed-upon definition of “child marriage” across 16 United Nations agencies.

17 (b) STRATEGY.—The President shall direct the 18 United States Permanent Representative to the United
19 Nations to use the voice, vote, and influence of the United
20 States at the United Nations to call for the development
21 of a comprehensive strategy to address child marriage in 22 refugee settlements administered by the United Nations.
23 Such strategy should include the following:

24 (1) A mandate to regularly collect and report
25 data related to the number of known or suspected

1 child marriages taking place inside each such settle-
2 ment.

3 (2) Protocols for United Nations personnel re-
4 garding prevention and monitoring of child mar-
5 riages inside each such settlement.

6 (3) A description of United Nations programs
7 administered at such settlements that include—

8 (A) physical, mental, and emotional reha-
9 bilitation and support to children who have ex-
10 tricated themselves from child marriage; and

11 (B) alternatives to child marriage, such as
12 education initiatives.

13 (4) Protocols regarding how United Nations
14 personnel should—

15 (A) report adults participating in illegal
16 child marriages in each such settlement; and

17 (B) monitor the prosecution of such adults
18 by the authorities of the country in which the
19 settlement at issue is located.

20 (c) RESEARCH.—The President shall direct the 21 United States Permanent Representative to the United
22 Nations to use the voice, vote, and influence of the United
23 States at the United Nations to advocate for the United
24 Nations and its appropriate agencies to include, as appro-
25 priate, in all of its research into child marriage the rela-

1 tionship between child marriage and violence against girls,
2 including young children and infants.

3 (d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

4 (1) CHILD MARRIAGE.—The term “child mar-
5 riage” means a formal marriage or informal union
6 involving at least one person younger than age 18.

7 (2) ILLEGAL CHILD MARRIAGE.—The term “il-
8 legal child marriage” means a child marriage that is 9 illegal under the laws of the country in which the 10 child marriage occurs.

Amend the title so as to read: “A bill To prevent child marriage in refugee settlements administered by the United Nations, and for other purposes.”.

116TH CONGRESS
1ST SESSION

H. R. 2023

To require reports by the Secretary of State and the Director of National Intelligence relating to construction of the Nord Stream 2 pipeline, and for other purposes.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

APRIL 2, 2019

Mr. HECK (for himself, Mr. CONAWAY, Mr. BARR, Mr. CARSON of Indiana, Mr. CHABOT, Ms. CLARKE of New York, Mr. COOK, Mr. DIAZ-BALART, Mr. GALLEGO, Mr. HARRIS, Mrs. HARTZLER, Mr. HIMES, Mr. HUDSON, Mr. HUFFMAN, Mr. HURD of Texas, Ms. KAPTUR, Mr. KILMER, Mr. KRISHNAMOORTHY, Mrs. RODGERS of Washington, Mr. MEADOWS, Mr. OLSON, Mr. QUIGLEY, Mr. ROONEY of Florida, Mr. TURNER, and Mr. WEBER of Texas) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and in addition to the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence (Permanent Select), for a period to be subsequently determined by the Speaker, in each case for consideration of such provisions as fall within the jurisdiction of the committee concerned

A BILL

To require reports by the Secretary of State and the Director of National Intelligence relating to construction of the Nord Stream 2 pipeline, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Protect European En-
5 ergy Security Act”.

1 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

2 Congress finds the following:

3 (1) The Russian Federation is constructing a
4 gas pipeline from Russia to Germany, named the 5 Nord Stream 2 pipeline, the completion of which
6 could address potential increases in European en-
7 ergy consumption but also increase European de-
8 pendence on Russian energy and have destabilizing
9 effects on the Government of Ukraine if Ukraine
10 loses energy transit fees as a result of construction
11 of the Nord Stream 2 pipeline.

12 (2) According to experts, the Nord Stream 2
13 pipeline would transport 80 percent of Russia's cur-
14 rent gas exports to Europe through one single pipe-
15 line system, which would run counter to the Euro-
16 pean Union energy policy of energy security and di-
17 versification of supply.

18 (3) Section 257(a) of the Countering America's 19 Adversaries through Sanctions Act of 2017 (Public 20 Law 115–44; 22 U.S.C. 9546(a)) states in part that
21 it is the policy of the United States—

22 (A) “to work with European Union mem-
23 ber states and European Union institutions to 24 promote energy security through developing di-
25 versified and liberalized energy markets that

1 provide diversified sources, suppliers, and 2 routes”; and

3 (B) “to continue to oppose [the Nord
4 Stream 2 pipeline] given its detrimental im-
5 pacts on the European Union’s energy security,
6 gas market development in Central and Eastern
7 Europe, and energy reforms in Ukraine”.

8 (4) On January 27, 2018, then-Secretary of 9 State Rex Tillerson stated, “[T]he United States op-
10 poses the Nord Stream 2 pipeline. We see it as un-
11 dermining Europe’s overall energy security and sta-
12 bility . . .”. Tillerson further stated that the pipe-
13 line would allow Putin to use energy as a “political 14 tool”.

15 (5) On March 11, 2018, German chancellor An-
16 gela Merkel acknowledged “political” and “stra-
17 tegic” concerns regarding the Nord Stream 2 pipe-
18 line and stated that the pipeline “is not just an eco-
19 nomic project, but that, of course, political factors
20 must also be taken into account”.

21 (6) Gazprom, a Russian energy company, is 22 controlled by the Government of the Russian Fed-
23 eration, which, according to the European Commis-
24 sion’s Statement of Objections to Gazprom dated

1 April 22, 2015, has undertaken efforts to use gas as 2 a weapon of coercion.

3 (7) The Department of State, led by the Bu-
4 reau of Energy of Resources, has worked extensively
5 with allies, including Denmark, to thwart such Rus-
6 sian efforts.

7 SEC. 3. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

8 It is the sense of Congress that the United States
9 should—

10 (1) continue to oppose construction of the Nord
11 Stream 2 pipeline and other Russian Federation gas
12 pipelines in northern Europe; and 13 (2) take affirmative diplomatic steps to halt the 14 construction of such pipelines.

15 SEC. 4. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS.

16 (a) REPORT BY SECRETARY OF STATE.—

17 (1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after 18 the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary
19 of State shall submit to the appropriate congres-

4 ture;

Condemning the Government of Saudi Arabia's continued detention and alleged abuse of women's rights activists.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

FEBRUARY 13, 2019

Ms. FRANKEL (for herself, Mrs. WAGNER, Mr. CICILLINE, and Ms. WILD) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs

RESOLUTION

detention and alleged abuse of women's rights activists.

Whereas the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia has been an important strategic partner of the United States, and the United States and Saudi Arabia share broad interests, including defeating the Islamic State in Iraq and Syria (ISIS), regional stability, and countering Iran's malign activities in the Middle East;

Whereas, in June 2018, the Government of Saudi Arabia reversed the longstanding ban on women driving;

Whereas Saudi Arabia's male guardianship system requires women to attain the permission of their male guardian for a vast array of decisions, including health care, employment, applying for a passport, international travel, getting married, or even leaving prison;

Whereas, since May 2018, the Government of Saudi Arabia has arrested prominent women’s rights advocates and imposed travel bans on numerous others, many of them longtime supporters of ending the ban on women driving and abolishing the male guardianship system;

Whereas none of the jailed activists has been convicted of any crimes, and many reportedly have been held in solitary confinement for prolonged periods;

Whereas Aziza al-Yousef, a United States resident who helped lead a campaign against the male guardianship system in Saudi Arabia, was imprisoned in May 2018;

Whereas at least 10 women’s rights activists have been subjected to psychological and physical abuse, including sexual violence, beatings, electric shocks, and sleep deprivation;

Whereas one of the detained activists, Loujain al-Hathloul, was reportedly beaten, waterboarded, given electric shocks, sexually harassed, and threatened with rape and murder;

Whereas the Department of State has undertaken some diplomatic measures to bring concerns about the detention of these women’s rights activists to the attention of the Government of Saudi Arabia;

Whereas, on January 14, 2019, Secretary of State Mike Pompeo said he had raised the case of the imprisoned activists with Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman;

Whereas the 2017 Department of State Country Report on Human Rights Practices for Saudi Arabia stated that, “Women continued to face significant discrimination under law and custom, and many remained uninformed about their rights”, and “women also faced discrimination in courts, where in most cases the testimony of one man equals that of two women”;

Whereas serious impediments to women’s freedoms in Saudi Arabia remain, including a high prevalence of forced marriages, inequality in marriage, divorce, child custody and inheritance, laws that prevents women from directly transmitting citizenship to their children, and the male guardianship system;

Whereas, on April 21, 2005, Dr. Hatoon al-Fassi, an associate professor of history at King Saud University and prominent women’s rights activist currently detained by Saudi Arabia, testified before Congress that a Saudi woman “is considered legally and socially a minor; she is confined to limited areas of educational opportunities; she is restricted in employment opportunities; there are no legal bodies where women could seek support; and finally, she is distanced from any decisionmaking position”; and

Whereas the Global Magnitsky Human Rights Accountability Act (subtitle F of title XII of Public Law 114–328) authorizes the President to deny travel visas and freeze the United States-based assets of foreign government officials responsible for “extrajudicial killings, torture, or other gross violations of internationally recognized human rights”: Now, therefore, be it

- 1 Resolved, That the House of Representatives—
- 2 (1) reaffirms that promoting human rights and
- 3 democracy has long been a bedrock of United States
- 4 foreign policy, including advancing the rights and
- 5 empowerment of women and girls;

1 (2) condemns the Government of Saudi Ara-
2 bia’s continued detention and alleged abuse of wom-
3 en’s rights advocates jailed for peacefully exercising
4 their human rights;

5 (3) urges Government of Saudi Arabia officials
6 to immediately and unconditionally release the im-
7 prisoned women’s rights advocates and other polit-
8 ical prisoners, and hold accountable those involved in 9 perpetrating abuses;

10 (4) urges Government of Saudi Arabia officials
11 to end the male guardianship system that restricts
12 the ability of Saudi women to make decisions about 13 their lives; and

14 (5) calls on the United States Government to—

15 (A) continue publicly and privately de-
16 manding the release of individuals wrongfully
17 detained;

18 (B) use the Global Magnitsky Human
19 Rights Accountability Act (subtitle F of title
20 XII of Public Law 114–328) to identify and im-
21 pose travel and financial restrictions on all Gov-
22 ernment of Saudi Arabia officials responsible
23 for gross violations of internationally recognized
24 human rights;

1 (C) document relevant details of alleged
2 torture and abuse in future annual Country Re-
3 ports on Human Rights Practices; and

4 (D) prioritize human rights, including
5 women's rights, as a key component of the rela-
6 tionship between the United States and Saudi
7 Arabia.

116TH CONGRESS
1ST SESSION

H. RES. 372

Expressing concern for the United States-Turkey alliance.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MAY 10, 2019

Mr. ENGEL (for himself, Mr. McCaul, Mr. Hoyer, Mr. McCarthy, Mrs. Lowey, Ms. Granger, Mr. Nadler, and Mr. Collins of Georgia) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and in addition to the Committees on Financial Services, Oversight and Reform, Ways and Means, and the Judiciary, for a period to be subsequently determined by the Speaker, in each case for consideration of such provisions as fall within the jurisdiction of the committee concerned

Expressing concern for the United States-Turkey alliance.

Whereas the United States and Turkey have been treaty allies since 1952, when Turkey became a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO);

Whereas the United States and Turkey are treaty bound to safeguard the principles of democracy, individual liberty, and the rule of law, as well as to unite their efforts for collective defense and the preservation of peace and security;

Whereas Turkey is in a unique geostrategic position on NATO's southeastern flank, at the confluence of Europe, Russia, the Middle East, and the Caucasus;

Whereas Turkey is a critical NATO ally and important military partner for the United States, contributing to key NATO and United States missions and providing support for United States military operations and logistics needs;

Whereas Turkey permits United States military access to Turkish territorial waters, airspace, and base and port facilities, and hosts over 2,000 members of the United States Armed Forces, air defense equipment, and other equipment necessary to conduct global operations and power projection;

Whereas Turkey is a key player in the long-term strategic competition Western allies face with revisionist powers such as Russia and China;

Whereas despite the fact that Turkey shares key regional interests with the United States, its cooperation with Russia and Iran, its military occupation of northern Cyprus, its rollback of democratic norms and institutions, including attacks on the free press, and its continued unjust detention of United States citizens and locally employed United States Embassy staff is deeply problematic for the United States-Turkey relationship;

Whereas the United States recognizes that Turkey perceives growing regional security threats from aircraft and ballistic missiles and sees an urgent need for a new air and missile defense system;

Whereas Turkey announced an agreement to acquire the S-400 air and missile defense system from Russia in July 2017 and has publicly stated it could take delivery as early as July 2019;

Whereas section 231 of the Countering America's Adversaries Through Sanctions Act of 2017 (CAATSA) requires the President to impose sanctions on any individual or entity that engages in a significant transaction with the Russian defense or intelligence sector;

Whereas the United States Government has developed an attractive alternative offer to provide Turkey with a strong, capable, NATO-interoperable air and missile defense system that meets Turkey's defense requirements;

Whereas Turkey's planned acquisition of the Russian-made S-400 undermines the security of the United States and NATO allies, weakens the United States-Turkey relationship, and is incompatible with Turkey's plan to operate the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter and participate in F-35 production;

Whereas the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter program is the world's leading 5th generation fighter aircraft program with more than a trillion dollars in investment among United States and international partners;

Whereas Turkey has been a critical partner in the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter program since 2002, with significant industrial participation, including manufacturing of certain F-35 components, plans to host a maintenance facility for regional F-35 operators, investments of more than $1.25 billion in the program, and plans to procure 100 F-35As; and

Whereas in addition to the F-35 Joint Strike Fighter, Turkish defense acquisition programs that could be affected by sanctions include the Patriot air and missile defense system, CH-47F Chinook heavy lift helicopter, UH-60 Black Hawk utility helicopter, and F-16 Fighting Falcon aircraft: Now, therefore, be it

1 Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

2 (1) fully supports the United States Govern-
3 ment’s January 2019 offer to sell the Patriot air
4 and missile defense systems to Turkey, with the con-
5 dition that Turkey not acquire the S-400 air and 6 missile defense system from Russia;

7 (2) condemns the Government of Turkey’s stat-
8 ed decision to acquire the Russian S-400 air and 9 missile defense system, which would endanger the in-
10 tegrity of the United States-Turkey alliance and un-
11 dermine NATO;

12 (3) calls for terminating Turkey’s participation
13 in the F-35 industrial program and delivery of F-
14 35 aircraft to Turkey if Turkey acquires the Russian
15 S-400 air and missile defense system;

16 (4) declares that Turkish acquisition of the 17 Russian S-400 air and missile defense system would 18 constitute a significant transaction within the mean-
19 ing of section 231 of the Countering America’s Ad-
20 versaries Through Sanctions Act of 2017 (22 U.S.C.
21 9525);

22 (5) calls for full implementation of sanctions
23 under the Countering America’s Adversaries

1 Through Sanctions Act of 2017 if Turkey acquires
2 the Russian S-400 air and missile defense system;
3 and

4 (6) calls on the Government of Turkey to cancel
5 the acquisition of the Russian S-400 air and missile
6 defense system.

AMENDMENT IN THE NATURE OF A SUBSTITUTE
TO H. RES. 345
OFFERED BY MR. ENGEL OF NEW YORK

Strike the preamble and insert the following:

Whereas Article 19 of the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights, adopted at Paris, December 10, 1948, states, “Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers.”;

Whereas, in 1993, the United Nations General Assembly proclaimed May 3 of each year as “World Press Freedom Day”—

- (1) to celebrate the fundamental principles of freedom of the press;
- (2) to evaluate freedom of the press around the world;
- (3) to defend the media against attacks on its independence; and
- (4) to pay tribute to journalists who have lost their lives while working in their profession;

Whereas, on December 18, 2013, the United Nations General Assembly adopted Resolution 68/163 on the safety of journalists and the problem of impunity, which unequivocally condemns all attacks on, and violence against, journalists and media workers, including torture, extrajudicial killing, enforced disappearance, arbitrary detention, and intimidation and harassment in conflict and nonconflict situations;

Whereas the theme for World Press Freedom Day 2019, is “Media for Democracy: Journalism and Democracy in Times of Disinformation”;

Whereas Thomas Jefferson, who recognized the importance of the press in a constitutional republic, wisely declared, “. . . were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter.”;

Whereas the Daniel Pearl Freedom of the Press Act of 2009 (Public Law 111–166; 22 U.S.C. 2151 note), signed into law by President Barack Obama in 2010, expanded the examination of the freedom of the press around the world in the annual country reports on human rights practices of the Department of State;

Whereas the 2019 World Press Freedom Index, published by Reporters Without Borders, warns, “The number of countries regarded as safe, where journalists can work in complete security, continues to decline, while authoritarian regimes tighten their grip on the media.”;

Whereas, Freedom House’s publication “Freedom in the World 2019” noted that global freedom of expression has declined each year for the past 13 years;

Whereas, according to the Committee to Protect Journalists, in 2018—

(1) at least 54 journalists were killed around the world for their work, of which at least 34 were singled out for murder;

(2) the 2 deadliest countries for journalists on assignment were Afghanistan and Syria;

(3) the most dangerous subject for a journalist to report on was politics, followed by war;

(4) 251 journalists worldwide were in prison, with Turkey, China, and Egypt responsible for more than half of the jailed journalists;

(5) 13 percent of the journalists in jail were female, an increase from 8 percent in 2017;

(6) 70 percent of the journalists who were imprisoned around the world faced antistate charges, such as belonging to or aiding groups deemed by authorities as terrorist organizations; and

(7) the number of journalists imprisoned on charges of false news rose to 28 globally, compared with 9 such imprisonments in 2016;

Whereas the People's Republic of China maintains one of the worst media environments in the world and seeks to curtail political speech inside and outside the country including by—

(1) targeting independent and foreign media in China through systematic harassment including the denial of visas to foreign journalists, imprisonment, the denial of medical care to imprisoned journalists, and curtailing access to legal representation;

(2) pervasively monitoring and censoring online and social media content, including through the banning of virtual private networks;

(3) using the full force of the State to stifle internal dissent including dissent online, particularly dissent that could lead to political change and content that criticizes China's leaders, however trivial, reportedly even to the point of censoring comparisons of Xi Jinping's looks with Winnie the Pooh;

(4) spreading propaganda to foreign audiences through the United Front Work Department and related activities;

(5) seeking to intimidate American-based journalists working for Radio Free Asia and reporting on gross human rights violations in China's Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region by jailing or otherwise harassing members of their families; and

(6) championing a "sovereign Internet" model and exporting technology to enhance the ability of like-minded authoritarian regimes to suppress dissent online and monitor the activity of their people;

Whereas, Reuters journalists Wa Lone and Kyaw Soe Oo, recipients of the 2018 PEN/Barbey Freedom to Write Award were arrested in December 2017 for investigating the murder by the Burmese military of 10 Rohingya men in the village of Inn Din in Rakhine State and were unjustly detained for 500 days before they were released on May 7, 2019, as part of a mass amnesty of 6,520 prisoners;

Whereas freedom of the press has been under considerable pressure in recent years throughout Southeast Asia, including in the Philippines, where the Government has waged a campaign of judicial harassment against the news website Rappler and its editor, Maria Ressa;

Whereas, Nouf Abdulaziz, Loujain Al-Hathloul, and Eman Al-Nafjan, recipients of the 2019 PEN/Barbey Freedom to Write Award, who wrote in opposition to Saudi Arabia's repressive Guardianship system, have been subjected to imprisonment, solitary confinement, and torture by the Government of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia since May 2018 in an apparent effort to suppress dissent and silence the voices of women;

Whereas, Washington Post journalist and United States resident Jamal Khashoggi was murdered by a team of Saudi operatives while visiting the Saudi Arabian consulate in Istanbul, Turkey;

Whereas the Senate unanimously approved a resolution stating that Mr. Khashoggi's murder was carried out at the behest of Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman;

Whereas journalist Mimi Mefo Takambou was jailed for 4 days in Cameroon in November 2018 on charges of spreading false news while investigating the death of an American missionary, where 4 out of the 7 total journalists imprisoned in Cameroon were jailed for spreading false news, which is a rising trend in Cameroon and elsewhere around the world;

Whereas according to the Committee to Protect Journalists, at least 26 journalists were killed in Honduras since 2007, making it one of the most deadly countries for journalists in the Americas, and where journalist Leonardo Gabriel Hernandez was murdered in March 2019 after receiving threats related to his work;

Whereas in Nicaragua, Miguel Mora and Lucía Pineda Ubau, the directors of the country's only 24-hour cable news network, have been jailed since December 2018 on charges of fomenting hate, spreading fake news, and terrorism, and prominent journalist Carlos Fernando Chamorro has fled the country as President Daniel Ortega cracks down on free expression in a bid to silence dissent and end the protests against him;

Whereas in Mexico, which remains the most dangerous country in the Western Hemisphere for journalists—

(1) murders, death threats, and legal impunity cause journalists to self-censor their reporting out of fear;

(2) investigative journalist Carlos Dominguez Ramirez, who wrote frequently on local politics and corruption, was brutally murdered in front of family members on January 13, 2018, in Nuevo Laredo, and a politician he was investigating was subsequently arrested in connection with this heinous act; and

(3) Rafael Murúa Manríquez was abducted and murdered in January 2019 after reporting threats from an official in the municipal government for critical reporting;

Whereas Slovakian journalist Ján Kuciak and his partner Martina Kušnírová were murdered in February 2018, allegedly in retaliation for his investigative reporting of tax fraud in connection to a businessman with close ties to Slovakia's ruling party, where the perpetrator awaits trial, just 4 months after the murder of another European journalist, Malta's Daphne Caruana Galizia, for her reporting on corruption;

Whereas the world's growing cadre of ethical and hard-hitting investigative journalists, including those contributing to the Organized Crime and Corruption Reporting Project—

(1) adhere to the highest professional standards;

(2) uncover abuses and corruption being committed in their own countries; and

(3) deserve the international community's support and praise for taking on the risky job of fostering accountability and transparency in their respective countries;

Whereas, under the auspices of the United States Agency for Global Media, the United States Government provides financial assistance to several editorially independent media outlets, including Voice of America, Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty, Radio Free Asia, Radio y Television Marti, and the Middle East Broadcast Networks—

(1) which report and broadcast news, information, and analysis in critical regions around the world; and

(2) whose journalists regularly face harassment, fines, and imprisonment for their work; and

Whereas freedom of the press—

(1) is a key component of democratic governance, activism in civil society, and socioeconomic development; and

(2) enhances public accountability, transparency, and participation in civil society and democratic governance: Now, therefore, be it

Strike all after the resolving clause and insert the following:

1 That the House of Representatives—

2 (1) condemns threats to freedom of the press

3 and free expression around the world;

1 (2) remembers the bravery of journalists and
2 media workers around the world who, despite threats
3 to their safety, play an essential role in—

4 (A) promoting government accountability;

5 (B) defending democratic activity; and

6 (C) strengthening civil society;

7 (3) remembers journalists who have lost their 8 lives carrying out their work;

9 (4) calls on governments abroad to implement
10 United Nations General Assembly Resolution 163
11 (2013) by thoroughly investigating and seeking to 12 resolve outstanding cases of violence against journal-
13 ists, including murders and kidnappings, while en-
14 suring the protection of witnesses;

15 (5) condemns all actions around the world that 16 suppress freedom of the press;

17 (6) reaffirms the centrality of freedom of the 18 press to efforts of the United States Government to 19 support democracy, mitigate conflict, and promote 20 good governance around the world; and

21 (7) calls on the President and the Secretary of 22 State—

23 (A) to preserve and build upon the leader-
24 ship of the United States on issues relating to 25 freedom of the press, on the basis of the protec-

1 tions afforded the American people under the 2 First Amendment to the Constitution of the 3 United States;

4 (B) to improve the rapid identification,

Amend the title so as to read: “A resolution responding to widening threats to freedoms of the press and expression around the world, reaffirming the centrality of a free and independent press to the health of democracy, and reaffirming freedom of the press as a priority of the United States in promoting democracy, human rights, and good governance on World Press Freedom Day.”.

Mr. ENGEL. At this time, I recognize myself to speak on today's business. We have nine good bipartisan bills before us today. And I am pleased to support every one of them.

I want to first mention the United States-Northern Triangle Enhanced Engagement Act, which I introduced along with Ranking Member McCaul, to address the root causes of migration from El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras. Mr. McCaul and I visited El Salvador in March just as the Trump Administration announced that it was cutting off assistance to the Northern Triangle countries. We saw firsthand the positive impact that U.S. foreign assistance is having in creating much-needed opportunities and stemming violence in those countries.

We need to continue to invest in a safer and more prosperous Central America to create more opportunities for the people living there. This bill does just that, by authorizing $577 million in assistance to Central America. This is a good bill, and I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting it.

Providing foreign assistance both helps people who are both in need, and furthers our foreign policy objectives. In El Salvador, when Mr. McCaul and I visited programs to teach young adults software engineering, it gave me such pride to see the USAID logo, which was visible to all.

So, I am pleased to support the USAID Branding Modernization Act, a bill I am proud to co-sponsor with Mr. McCaul. This legislation affirms the obligation to brand foreign assistance. It is appropriate and requires a comprehensive review to ensure that USAID-funded projects are appropriately branded in the field.

Human rights, democracy, and the rule of law are core American values and should underpin everything we do overseas. So, I am glad that we are considering a number of bills today that promote human rights and freedom of expression.

First, Mrs. Wagner's Preventing Child Marriage Act, which recognizes the problem of child marriage, particularly among vulnerable refugee populations. Every year, over 10 million girls marry before the age of 18. Early marriage denies children, especially girls, their right to make vital decisions about their well-being, including their health, family, and career. Child brides are less likely to finish their education, and they are at higher risk for abuse, contracting HIV, and dying from pregnancy.

This bill tackles this issue by encouraging the U.S. to use its influence to help ensure that displaced populations have the protections and tools to avoid illegal child marriage, work that organizations like UNFPA are doing around the world. It is a good bill to empower young women and girls, and I am proud to support it.

Next we have House Resolution 129, authored by Representatives Frankel and Wagner, which focuses on the unjust imprisonment of women's rights activists in Saudi Arabia. We must continue to call on the Saudi Government to release these women immediately.

I strongly support this resolution, and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

I will turn now to House Resolution 345, which recognizes that freedom of the press is under threat around the world. Thank you to Mr. Chabot and Mr. Schiff for their work on this legislation.

There are far too many violent, shocking examples of journalists being imprisoned, tortured, and murdered around the world.

Free press is critical to any democracy. It shines a light on corruption and impunity. This resolution condemns threats to independent media, and calls on governments to continue to address journalists' safety. It has my strong support.

America's alliances and partnerships are another key code of our foreign policy, so I am glad that a number of measures in our markup today deal with our allies and diplomacy. The Georgia Support Act, authored by Mr. Connolly and Mr. Kinzinger, calls for continued U.S. support for Georgia, an important U.S. partner. Georgia was invaded by Russia in 2008, and the Kremlin continues to attack Georgia through subversive disinformation campaigns and cyber attacks.

H.R. 598 provides Georgia with assistance to combat this threat and support its democratic institutions. It is a good bill to advance the U.S.-Georgia relationship, and I am glad we are moving it forward today.

The Protect European Energy Security Act also combats Russia's increasingly malign encroachment on our European partners. The Nord Stream 2 and the TurkStream gas pipelines from Russia to Germany and Turkey would increase European dependence on Russian energy sources. H.R. 2023 restates our opposition to these projects and requires the Administration to report on how they impact European security and susceptibility to Russian influence.

Next we have House Resolution 372, a measure I introduced with Mr. McCaul, on the U.S.-Turkey relationship. President Erdogan has tightened his grip on power and rolled back democracy in Turkey. At the same time, he has cozied up to Putin and purchased the Russian S-400 air and missile defense system.

Today's resolution condemns Erdogan for his authoritarian behavior and calls on Turkey to cancel delivery of the Russian weapons system. Of course, they want us to sell them our system but we cannot do that if they don't cancel delivery of the Russian weapons system. They cannot have it both ways. We cannot have a NATO country buying Russian equipment.

Finally, we have Mr. Wright's Energy Diplomacy Act. For the United States to maintain a leading role on the global stage, the State Department must be positioned to protect and promote favorable energy policies abroad. This bill creates and authorizes the creation of a new assistant secretary position to lead this charge.

So, in conclusion, I am pleased to support all of these bills. And I would like to thank our members for their hard work.

And I will now recognize our Ranking Member Mr. McCaul of Texas for his remarks.

Mr. MCCAUL. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Today our committee will mark up six important bills and three resolutions. I would like to highlight just a few.

Northern Triangle. As you mentioned our trip to the Northern Triangle, the United States—Northern Triangle Enhanced Engagement Act, which I am the lead Republican on, increases congressional oversight of foreign assistance to the Northern Triangle, and prioritizes security in the role of the private sector in supporting economic development efforts.

We still have the good work of the international law enforcement community down there, the FBI, the DEA working to combat MS-13, but we also saw many faith-based NGO's as well.

It addresses, in my judgment, the root-cause drivers of illegal migration from Central America and, takes steps to help stop the flow at our borders. It also builds on existing efforts to increase coordination with Mexico in our efforts to curb illegal migration, and combats corruption.

I understand and share the President's frustration with the continued stream of migrants to our southern border, especially in my home State of Texas. And we believe we must use all tools at our disposal, including foreign assistance, to best address this growing crisis. Central American countries can and must do more to address their migration flows. And that is why this bill will require them to clearly show results with new benchmarks, so progress can be tracked and programs modified or eliminated, if warranted.

On the branding bill, I am pleased we are considering the USAID Branding Modernization Act. When I talked to Mark Green I was—he said, shockingly, that we do not put our United States flag on the USAID. I think the branding of our foreign assistance is important in winning the hearts and minds of people that we are helping, while also pushing back against the influence of China and others as they operate overseas.

USAID Administrator Mark Green currently has limited authority to brand humanitarian aid. I believe it is important that USAID be able to use its insignia, the American flag, and other U.S. agency branding as appropriate in each situation so that the recipients of our aid know that it is coming from the American people. This bill will expand the toolbox of branding capabilities that can be utilized by USAID, and authorizes the administrator to use such branding in Food for Peace programs.

On child marriage I want to thank our vice ranking member Ms. Wagner for her bill, the Preventing Child Marriage in Displaced Populations Act, which will require the United Nations to develop a strategy to address the inhumane practice of child marriage in U.S.-administered refugee settlements. I fully support this important legislation.

Also, on energy diplomacy, I would like to congratulate and thank Mr. Congressman Wright from my home State of Texas, who introduced the Energy Diplomacy Act. This bill ensures the State Department has the leadership and discretion needed to fulfill the statutory responsibilities related to international energy diplomacy.

Specifically, the bill replaces the Coordinator for International Energy Affairs with an Assistant Secretary of State for Energy Resources, an elevation requested by the Trump administration in August 2017. The assistant secretary will be responsible for developing and implementing policies to advance U.S. energy interests abroad by managing our relations in petroleum, natural gas, biofuels, renewable energy, nuclear and other energy resources.

Further, it requires State to use diplomacy to support the development of U.S. energy resources to bolster our energy security for our economy and support our allies.

When it comes to Turkey, Mr. Chairman, I appreciate you working with me on this resolution. I am the lead Republican on it.

That expresses our concern for the U.S.-Turkey partnership and NATO Alliance. This resolution States that the House fully supports the U.S. offer to sell Turkey our Patriot system, and condemns Turkey's decision to acquire the Russian S-400 air and missile defense system.

The time has come to put Turkey on notice that if they acquire the S-400 system, Congress will no longer support Turkey's participation in the F-35 program. We want to see Turkey have a course correction and make the better choice.

And, as you stated, Mr. Chairman, as a NATO ally who was brought into the NATO Alliance that was built upon the premise of aligning against the Soviet Union, it seems incomprehensible to me that Turkey, a NATO ally, would buy a Russian S-400 system. This is not acceptable to this committee or to the Administration. And I want to thank you, sir, for introducing this resolution.

With that, I yield back.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you, Mr. McCaul. I agree with your sentiments about Turkey wholeheartedly. Thank you for making them. Any other members seeking recognition? I think Mr. Sires?

Mr. SIRES. Yes.

Mr. ENGEL. OK.

Mr. SIRES. Yes. On my amendment?

Mr. ENGEL. Yes.

Mr. SIRES. OK. Thank you, Chairman Engel, and Ranking Member McCaul, for their bipartisan cooperation to make this markup possible. I want to speak briefly about an amendment I have introduced to the United States-Northern Triangle Enhanced Engagement Act.

First, let me just say that I am a strong supporter of continuing U.S. assistance to the Northern Triangle. And that is why I am a regular co-sponsor of the underlying bill introduced by the chairman and ranking member. I have seen firsthand in my trips to the region that our programs have been effective in reducing violence and poverty in Honduras, El Salvador, and Guatemala. I have many constituents with close ties to the Northern Triangle who remind me about the difficulties they faced before coming here, and the challenges the rest of their families continue to endure.

I believe the cuts announced by the Department of State in March are short-sighted and counterproductive. Implementing these cuts would do great harm in these countries, while undermining our economic and security interests.

That said, I do believe that we need to always be looking for ways to improve our foreign assistance program. I have long felt that we need to maximize the proportion of our funding that actually reaches the people of these countries. My amendment will ask the Secretary of State to report how much of our assistance is spent in country versus outside the target countries.

It would also urge the Secretary of State to prioritize programs and activities that will be implemented within the target countries, rather than externally by foreign organizations.

It is crucial that our assistance builds local capacity and strengthens local institutions. I believe this amendment will help to ensure that the citizens and local leaders in Honduras, Guatemala, and El Salvador, are the true leaders in the countries' development. And I urge my members to support it.

Thank you, and I yield back.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you, Mr. Sires.

Mr. Chabot, did you want to?

Ms. CHABOT. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I want to discuss just three of the measures here. And I will try to do it briefly.

First, as co-chair of the Freedom of the Press Caucus with Congressman Adam Schiff, I would urge my colleagues to support H.Res. 345, which we introduced for World Press Freedom Day earlier this month to call attention to the troubling State of press freedom around the world.

Access to accurate journalism that holds governments accountable is the indispensable tool that allows citizens to exercise oversight over their government. Whether we think of China, or Russia, or one of the other smaller dictatorships, or even a few of our allies and partners throughout the world, freedom of the press is too frequently under threat, and in many places simply non-existent.

Unless the United States fights to protect press freedom, authoritarians around the world will stifle it, as China is doing right now in exporting its tools for internet censorship, for example. Our founding fathers were right to provide us with strong protections for the press in the First Amendment, and I am glad to live in America where we still have a press to keep us honest, even though they are capable of sometimes reporting on occasion what some would call fake news.

Unfortunately, access to free and independent journalism seems to be associated with pretty much most of the other problems we face in this committee, whether it is authoritarian dictators seeking to retain their grip on power or disinformation or corruption, or simply bring the light to the many human rights abuses of bad actors. So, I think it is an issue that we need to keep our eye on.

And I want to thank Chairman Engel and Ranking Member McCaul for considering this resolution.

Second, I would like to comment briefly on H.Res. 372 which expresses concern for the U.S.-Turkey Alliance. As co-chair of the Turkey Caucus, along with my good friend Joe Wilson, as well as my friends on the other side of the aisle Gerry Connolly and Steve Cohen, I really hoped that this would not come to this. When we take a step back from several sticking points between us and look at the relationship as a whole, it is easy to see why our alliance with Turkey furthers our numerous interests in that part of the world.

Unfortunately, Turkey's impending purchase of the S-400 anti-aircraft system from Russia is very damaging for the relationship. And I hope they understand our position in this matter and why we think that this weapons sale is so totally unacceptable. I hope that President Erdogan ultimately makes the right choice and that the Trump administration works with Turkey to get them Patriot missiles to provide for their air defense needs.

And, finally, I want to thank Mr. Connolly and Mr. Kinzinger for their work on the Georgia Support Act. As a co-sponsor of this important legislation I just want to say that Georgia is an important and valued partner that shares our values and is eager to cooperate with the U.S. and the West.

Russia poses a serious challenge to all of us, but especially Georgia, not to mention that Vladimir Putin still illegally occupies Abkhazia and South Ossetia. This legislation will go a long way toward helping Georgia with some of these challenges.

And I would urge my colleagues to support this and the other two pieces of legislation that I mentioned. And I yield back. Thank you.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you, Mr. Chabot.

Mr. CONNOLLY.

Ms. CONNOLLY. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. And thank you and Mr. McCaul for bringing this package of nine bills to the committee for its consideration and for handling it in the bipartisan comity we are so used to. I thank you.

In particular, I want to thank both of you for including H.R. 598, the Georgia Support Act, which I introduced with my Republican counterpart on the Georgia Caucus, Mr. Adam Kinzinger. This bill asserts the United States' continued support for the independence and sovereignty of Georgia. It supports Georgia's continued democratic development, including free and fair elections, and reaffirms U.S. opposition to Russian aggression in the region.

In Georgia's occupied regions of South Ossetia and Abkhazia, Russia has fomented unrest, aided separatist movements, and committed serious human rights abuses, including ongoing detentions and killings. Russian forces continue to harass civilian communities all along the administrative boundary line, and impede the right of return of the internally displaced persons within their own country.

H.R. 598 bolsters Georgia's territorial integrity by authorizing sanctions against those responsible for or complicit in human rights violations in those occupied parts of Georgia. As the chairman to the U.S. Delegation to the NATO Parliamentary Assembly I am pleased that the Georgia Support Act also recognizes that Georgia has been a longstanding NATO aspirant country. I traveled to Georgia three times in as many years, including for the spring meeting of NATO's Parliamentary Assembly, and believe Georgia is a key partner for NATO security, and Georgia has had troops in Afghanistan side by side with those of our own.

Georgia Support Act builds on previous efforts that Congress has undertaken to support Georgia's territorial integrity. In the Countering America's Adversaries Through Sanctions Act we, Congress enshrined a non-recognition policy for Russia's illegal occupation of South Ossetia and Abkhazia in Georgia.

In the 114th Congress, the House passed H.Res. 660 which Judge Poe and I introduced to express support for Georgia's territorial integrity. That resolution was a clear and unequivocal Statement in support of the sovereign territory of Georgia, and reiterated the longstanding policy of the U.S. Government not to recognize territorial changes effected by force, as dictated by the Stimson Doctrine established in 1932.

The Georgia Support Act is a timely expression of congressional support for the vital U.S.-Georgia partnership, which is a strategically important relationship in a critical part of the world. As we approach Georgia's independence day next week, I urge my colleagues to support this bill which reasserts U.S. support for Georgia's sovereignty and clear and forceful opposition to the illegal Russian invasion of Georgian territory and occupation of same.

As the House of Representatives recently passed a Crimean Annexation Non-Recognition Act, which my friend Mr. Chabot and I have introduced in every Congress since the illegal annexation of Crimea, the Georgia Support Act is another clear and unequivocal Statement by this Congress on the issue of territorial sovereignty, especially in the eastern part of Europe.

With that I yield back, and thank the chair again.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you, Mr. Connolly.

Mr. WILSON.

Ms. WILSON. Thank you, Chairman Engel and Republican Leader McCaul, for bringing these crucial bills to a mark. Each one of the bills is a testimony to this committee's long tradition of tackling some of the world's thorniest issues and challenges with bipartisan cooperation.

I urge my colleagues to support all the measures before us today. I will speak on three of them in the time that I have.

First I would like to speak in support of H.R. 598, the Georgia Support Act, introduced by the co-chairs of the Georgia Caucus, Mr. Connolly from Virginia, and Mr. Kinzinger from Illinois. While Georgia successfully achieved independence in 1991, Moscow is still to this day attempting to bully this small nation. In 2008, Russian troops invaded the country, seizing nearly a third of Georgia's territory, which they still occupy today.

The Georgia Support Act is to help our friends in Georgia repel ongoing Russian aggression by bolstering their defenses as well as their cyber security and capabilities to combat Russian disinformation campaigns. Importantly, this bill sanctions Russian perpetrators of human rights violations in the occupied regions of Georgia. This is a comprehensive bill that will send a direct message to the Kremlin: we will always stand side by side with Georgia in defense of its territorial integrity and God-given rights and freedoms.

Unfortunately, Vladimir Putin would like to see all of the liberated former Soviet States returned to Moscow's orbit. He attempts to exert his control over these nations through energy blackmail. That is why I strongly support my colleagues to support H.R. 2023, Protect European Energy Security Act introduced by Mr. Heck of Washington. This bill makes it clear that Congress opposes Nord Stream 2 pipeline and other energy schemes of Russia in northern Europe that seek to make our European allies further beholden to Moscow's energy resources.

As co-chair of the European Union Caucus, along with my colleague Mr. Meeks of New York, I believe there is no greater challenge to European security today than energy security and Russia's ongoing blackmail.

I would also like to express my support for House Resolution 129, which highlights Saudi Arabia's troubling detention and persecution of women's rights activities, and urging Riyadh to immediately and unconditionally release these advocates and other political prisoners. Just last week we marked the 1-year anniversary of Aziza al-Yousef's detention by Saudi authorities. Aziza is a mother of five, grandmother of eight, and a legal U.S. permanent resident. She was arrested, tortured, and is facing trial for advocating for basic human rights. These kinds of arrests fly in the face of Saudi Arabia's stated Social Reform Bills as part of Vision 2030.

Persecution of human rights defenders anywhere is reprehensible, and I thank Representative Frankel for her leadership on this issue.

Last, as co-chair of the Turkey Caucus I am increasingly concerned about our relationship with Ankara. Turkey is an appreciated, strategically important NATO ally. Its decision to buy the Russian S-400 missile system is troubling and, in my opinion, indicative of the current government's disdain for our shared values and Turkey's democratic foundations.

To think that they are now thinking of collaborating with Russians on an S-500 system just confirms this to me and others. I will continue to advocate for improved ties between Washington and Ankara, but the S-400 purchase is not only unhelpful to this end, but damaging and dangerous. I call on the Turkish Government to cancel this purchase and recommit to its mutually beneficial role in the NATO Alliance. I urge my colleagues to support House Resolution 372.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I yield back.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you, Mr. Wilson.

Ms. OMAR.

Ms. OMAR. Thank you, Mr. Chairman and Mr. McCaul, for introducing H.R. 2615. The amendment I offer today is designed to enhance our engagement with human rights in the Northern Triangle. It does three simple things.

First, it expands the list of human rights abuses and the reporting required, to include torture, forced disappearance, and arbitrary detentions. Particularly in Honduras and Guatemala these are driving forces of migration and betrayal of universal human rights, and we must be clear about stopping them.

Second, my amendment adds to the reporting requirements, descriptions of measures taken by the Northern Triangle governments to guarantee the rights of indigenous and rural communities. Indigenous people in Guatemala and Honduras are particularly vulnerable to those governments. And we should insist that the governments of those countries are abiding by their international obligations, including the ILO 169. This means free, prior, and informed consent from communities before mega-projects are built in their territories.

This includes the Garifuna, the Lenca, the Mayas, and the Campesino communities I met in Pajulies, in La Esperanza, and Tela. It means actual protection for indigenous and rural land and water defenders, and not the impunity we see in both of these countries.

Finally, my amendment addresses the language of human rights conditionality in the bill to reflect what the appropriation included in this bill. It is strengthening the language on conditionality from effective steps in the alliance of prosperity to meeting the following conditions. It is a way to guarantee that our human rights conditions will have the peace they need to be genuinely perceived—to be genuinely be persuasive to the Northern Triangle governments.

I was in Honduras for the 2017 elections, and followed closely both the credible accusations of fraud and the widespread human rights abuses that followed. Like so many Americans, I was deeply disappointed to see the State Department certify that effective steps were being taken to improve human rights in Honduras at the same moment protestors were being gunned down in the streets.

This amendment will ensure that that certification will be based on the actual enjoyment of human rights by El Salvadoreans, Guatemalans, and Honduran people, and not allow the government of Juan Orlando Hernandez and Jimmy Morales to game the system and continue in impunity.

I also want to add that this committee needs to take a closer look at the role State violence is playing in the exodus from Guatemala, and especially in Honduras. I am very pleased that this bill takes that seriously, and I am happy to support it.

I also think we need to go one step further. And as an original co-sponsor of H.R. 1945, the Berta Caceres Human Rights in Honduras Act, I would strongly encourage this committee to bring that bill up for markup.

Once again, I thank you, Mr. Chairman and Ranking Member, for your leadership in this crucial issue, and I yield back.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you, Ms. Omar.

Mrs. WAGNER.

Mrs. WAGNER Mr. Chairman, I would like to thank you and Ranking Member McCaul for working with me on H.R. 2140, the Preventing Child Marriage in Displaced Populations Act, and my amendment to combat violence against women and children in Central America.

Last week in our capacities as co-chairs of the Central America Caucus, Representative Norma Torres and I introduced H.R. 2935, the bipartisan Central American Women and Children Protection Act. My amendment incorporates this legislation into today's Central America engagement bill.

Central America is sadly ranked high among regions of the world for femicide. El Salvador and Honduras are among the top three countries in the world with the highest child homicide rates. Northern Triangle governments allow impunity for perpetrators of violence, with less than 10 percent of reported cases resulting in conviction.

In April I visited Guatemala and met women and young girls who told me their deeply personal stories of sexual and domestic violence. These women are driven and they yearn for opportunity to build a better life at home so they can safely grow a family and improve their communities. The mothers that we met with within the country's impoverished western highlands wanted to keep their families together at home. A 1,500 mile journey to our border with limited food and water is particularly dangerous for women and girls who are at severe risk of violence.

These women did not view migration as a solution. And they are banding together to root out poverty and fix failing justice systems so their families have economic opportunities. Eliminating the root causes of the migration crisis at our border entails standing with these women.

My amendment today would authorize the President to enter into bilateral compacts with the governments of El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras to strengthen the justice systems of those countries and to create safer communities for women and children.

Today I am also urging my colleagues to support H.R. 2140, the Preventing Child Marriage in Displaced Populations Act. Humanitarian crises put women and girls at a much higher risk of violence and exploitation, including child marriage. Nine of the ten countries with the highest rates of child marriage are fragile States where weak institutions, high rates of violence, and stagnant economies make families more likely to resort to child marriage to keep their daughters safe and provide for their futures.

Important research conducted by UNICEF revealed that in 2018 more than 700 million women and girls worldwide were married before their 18th birthday. And of these, 250 million were married before their 15th birthday. These women are more likely to experience domestic violence and have worse educational, economic, and health prospects than their unmarried peers. But even though rates of child marriage are on the rise in U.N.-administered refugee camps, the U.N. has yet to adopt a formal definition of child marriage, or a comprehensive strategy to address the problem in these settlements.

This important piece of legislation would direct the United States to lead U.N. efforts to adopt a definition of child marriage and craft a comprehensive strategy to address child marriages in unadministered refugee settlements. The strategy would include protocols to prevent and monitor child marriages, programs to provide physical, mental, and emotional support for victims, programs offering alternatives for child marriage, and measures to ensure that adults participating in illegal child marriages are held accountable.

Child marriage is a violation of human rights and a form of violence against women. And I urge my colleagues to support the Preventing Child Marriage in Displaced Populations Act. And I yield back.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you.

Would any other members like some time? Ms. Houlahan.

Ms. HOULAHAN. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

The barriers that girls and women face do not exist in a vacuum. A woman's right to education, to her bodily autonomy, to self-determination, they are all connected. And we must work with our allies and global organizations to help women and girls achieve true and lasting change.

Initiatives like the U.N. Joint Program to End Child Marriage, which the UNFPA and UNICEF lead jointly, are looking at this issue holistically. They are working to make the social protection, health, education, social, and behavioral changes needed to build a truly equitable world for women. And in spite of these important efforts, the United States is not currently contributing funds to the Joint Program.

I am grateful to my colleague from Missouri for introducing the Preventing Child Marriage Act, and I urge the other members of this committee to support this very important legislation that will bolster and affirm the good work of the United Nations to end child marriage.

I want to note the important leadership role under UNFPA in this effort. Although the legislation does not mention them by name, they are driving important change through initiatives like the Joint Program.

Finally, Mr. Chairman, access to quality education is one of the strongest tools that we have for combating the epidemic of childhood marriage. And that is why, in addition to supporting Ms. Wagner's bill, I am also an original co-sponsor of the Keeping Girls in School Act, a bipartisan act introduced by Representatives Frankel and Brooks, legislation that would empower girls by increasing their educational and economic opportunities and security. Girls and women deserve to be educated, to be economically independent, to be the deciders of their own fates. And that is what we believe in the United States and what we need to fight for in all corners of the world.

Chairman Engel and Ranking Member McCaul, I hope that this committee will take further steps in the effort to end child marriage and to promote gender equality by marking up the Keeping Girls in School Act as soon as possible.

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. And I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you, Ms. Houlahan.

Mr. WRIGHT.

Mr. WRIGHT. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I want to thank you and leader McCaul for agreeing to include my bill H.R. 2046, the Energy Diplomacy Act, in today's markup. I would also like to thank the lead Republican and Representative Gonzalez of Texas, and the bill's original co-sponsors, for their support.

Since 1977, when Congress formally gave the Secretary of State primary authority over energy-related foreign policy there have been significant changes in the global energy landscape. The United States is now the world's top producer of petroleum and natural gas.

We have also seen increased weaponization of energy by Russia against our EU and NATO allies, transforming energy into a critical national security issue. This new challenge requires reaffirmed dedication and focus.

The Energy Diplomacy Act does just that by authorizing an Assistant Secretary of State for Energy Resources, and defining our energy security and diplomatic priorities. My bill will ensure the State Department has adequate personnel to carry out its mandate and protect and advance the energy security interests of the United States, as well as those of our allies abroad.

Finally, this bill advances U.S. energy exports by instructing our diplomats to work in tandem with U.S. energy companies operating abroad. Combating Russia's malign influence in Europe has been at the forefront of the committee's agenda this year, and I firmly believe pushing back on their energy dominance in Europe must be part of our strategy.

Thank you again, Chairman and Ranking Member, for including my bill today. I urge my colleagues to support this bill as part of the en bloc, and yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you very much.

Mr. ALLRED. No.

OK. Mr. Sherman.

Mr. SHERMAN. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. And thank you for the bipartisan collegiality this committee has been run with that has led to not only excellent bills but bills that I think have unanimous support.

As to the Northern Triangle bill, it is ripping our country apart to deal with the refugees from Central America. There is no better investment we can make in American unity than to allow people in the Northern Triangle countries to live where they want to live, which is in their own country in peace, security, and prosperity.

As to the USAID branding bill, it is so important that we not only aid countries but that we make sure they know this is a gift from the American people. We have often called this the “flag on the bag” requirement or objective when we send bags of food.

As to the Georgia support act, I strongly support it. And I am pleased that USAID has assured me that an appropriate amount of aid will go to the Samtskhe-Javakheti region in southern Georgia.

As to preventing child marriage, a very important bill. Particularly I am focused on the Sindh area of Pakistan where we see non-Muslim girls kidnapped, converted, and then forced into child marriage. This bill is one small step to deal with that.

As to condemning Saudi Arabia, we not only have to condemn Saudi Arabia, but I have legislation that I hope will be marked up in this committee to act to prevent Saudi Arabia from developing a nuclear weapon.

And, of course, we are all concerned about Turkey. If they are cooperating with Russia with regard to an S-400, and even worse, the development of an S-500 rocket, that is inconsistent with their membership in NATO. I yield back.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you. Are there any other members that wish to speak?

Ms. WILD.

Ms. WILD. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I speak in support of House Resolution 129, condemning the Government of Saudi Arabia’s continued detention and alleged abuse of women’s rights activists.

Saudi Arabia has been an important strategic partner of the United States and we share broad interests, including the defeat of ISIL in Iraq and Syria. But as much as our interests align, those interests are diluted by a divergence concerning women’s rights.

I wanted to give Saudi leadership the benefit of the doubt when we were told that there would be great social reform, especially with respect to women’s rights. I wanted to give Saudi Arabia the benefit of the doubt when women finally got the right to drive. But the disparate impact of Saudi Arabia’s male guardianship system, which requires women to obtain permission of their male guardians in healthcare, employment, and travel decisions, is still felt to this day.

The imprisonment of women's rights advocates and the unwarranted psychological and physical abuse is even more upsetting. It has become clear the Saudi leadership largely seeks to maintain the status quo. That is unacceptable. We cannot just hold our adversaries accountable for humanitarian abuses, we must also demand accountability of our strategic partners.

This resolution is an important reaffirmation that human rights and democracy are bedrocks of the United States' foreign policy and that it necessarily requires advancing the rights and empowerment of women and girls. For as long as I have the privilege of serving in Congress I will continue to reaffirm those bedrock principles.

I urge a yes vote on this resolution. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I yield back.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you.

Mr. PHILLIPS.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Thank you, Chairman Engel and Ranking Member McCaul, and all my colleagues for this very important slate of bills and resolutions. I wish the news media would be as interested in this kind of work instead of focused on the distractions and divisions in this country.

And I just wanted to do a special shout-out to Ranking Member McCaul for H.R. 2744, probably the smallest bill in this package but an important one, because despite our imperfections, the United States of America does a lot of good around the world. And I like the fact that now USAID can express that to the beneficiaries and to people in the world who are not as familiar with our good work as I wish they were, and prospectively I hope they will be.

So, my salutations and gratitude. And I yield back.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you.

Mr. BERA.

Mr. BERA. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I speak in support of Ms. Wagner's bill, H.R. 2140, which advances the fight against child marriage at the United Nations. But I do remain disappointed that the U.S. currently doesn't contribute to the U.N.'s Joint Program to End Child Marriage, especially due to the bipartisan support reflected by this measure.

This bill highlights the great work of the United Nations, in particular UNICEF and UNHCR. But I would also note that UNFPA is working alongside UNICEF and UNHCR in refugee settings to prevent child marriage. UNFPA is meeting the unique health needs, legal, and psychological needs of child brides and young mothers.

I had the chance to see firsthand when I visited the Zaatari refugee camp in Jordan where you have tens of thousands of Syrian refugees. You see UNFPA working alongside UNICEF running a comprehensive women's health center that started with U.S. spending. They delivered more than 10,000 babies without a single maternal death, an incredible achievement by any measure.

Zaatari is home to tens of thousands of Syrian refugees. Syria is an enduring problem that the United States is still grappling with, as our full committee hearing showed this morning. The UNFPA study referenced in today's bill showed that child marriage among displaced Syrians is four times higher than what it was before the crisis broke out in 2011.

So, this health center also delivers counseling, legal referrals, and psychological care to the girls who are in child and forced marriages. Child marriage often marks the end of a girl's education and the beginning of their life as a mom before she is physically or mentally ready.

I was also glad to see the U.N.'s focus on child marriage prevention. In Zaatari, the U.N. supports schooling but also programs for young people in art, sports, cooking, computer skills, and language. So, I am happy to see support for the U.N. Joint Program on Child Marriage mentioned in this bill. It is important that the U.S. support the U.N. and their NGO partners working on these issues.

And I want to emphasize that we should not be pulling funding from the very agencies serving women and girls, namely UNFPA. We should stand proudly with all our U.N. partners who do this work every day.

And with that, Mr. Chairman, I yield back.

Mr. ENGEL. Thank you very much.

Are there any other members seeking recognition?

[No response.]

Mr. ENGEL. OK, hearing no further requests for recognition then, without objection, the committee will proceed to consider the noticed items en bloc.

Without objection, each measure is considered as read.

And without objection, the amendments to each are considered as read and are agreed to.

Without objection, the question occurs on the measures en bloc, as amended.

All those in favor, say aye.

All those opposed, no.

In the opinion of the chair, the ayes have it. The measures considered en bloc. And without objection, each measure in the en bloc is ordered favorably reported, as amended. And each amendment to each bill shall be reported as a single amendment in the nature of a substitute.

I want to thank you very much. This concludes our business today. I want to especially thank Ranking Member McCaul and all the committee members for their contributions and assistance with today's markup.

The committee stands adjourned.

[Whereupon, at 2:54 p.m., the committee was adjourned.]

STATEMENTS FOR THE RECORD FROM COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Statement for the Record from Representative Joaquin Castro
Markup of Various Measures
May 22, 2019

Thank you, Chairman Engel and Ranking Member McCaul, for your leadership on this Committee, and for bringing important and timely legislation before us.

These measures will advance meaningful progress on pressing issues our country faces around the world today.

All will strengthen our national security and ensure we reflect the best of America in our foreign policy.

I am proud to support each of them, and will give some context on just a few.

Cutting off desperately needed aid would deprive El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras of critical funds that help sustain these countries.

Rather, we should be investing in vital assistance to the Northern Triangle, which addresses the root causes of child and family migration.

H.R. 2615, of which I am a proud cosponsor, would direct the Secretary of State and USAID to promote inclusive economic opportunity, combat corruption, support democratic governance, and improve security conditions at the source in Central America.

Curbing persistent problems such as violence and poverty will build the groundwork for a better humanitarian situation.

Instead of turning our back on our international neighbors, we must extend a steady hand to more effectively and comprehensively respond to the plight some face.

I support this legislation and the opportunity it provides for greater peace and prosperity in the United States-Northern Triangle relationship.

Just as democratic backsliding is afflicting numerous countries around the world, it is essential that the United States stands up for basic rights.

A beacon of liberty, the United States must demonstrate an example of principled leadership in the face of increasing censorship and suppression of dissent.

H.Res.345 recognizes attacks on a free press and makes clear that the United States believes in and values freedom of expression.

An integral part of an open and democratic society, the press informs the public and holds officials accountable.

We are a more perfect union because of the press, the ally of the people.

I welcome and support this resolution from my colleagues, which will reassert that American foreign policy is based on fundamental ideals.

While Turkey has been a critical ally for many years, we must be clear that President Erdogan's disturbing actions are indefensible and have destabilized relations.

H.Res.372 does just that, and I am pleased to be a co-sponsor.

Even among friends and partners, the United States has a moral responsibility to call out misbehavior and not turn a blind eye to wrongdoing.

Since assuming office, Mr. Erdogan has exhibited an extensive autocratic track-record, consolidating power, imprisoning critics, and courting Russia.

As NATO allies, the United States and Turkey have overlapping interests, and that must include respect for individuals, institutions, and ideals.

Though unfortunate that Turkey has introduced such senseless disharmony in our relationship, through this resolution Congress will firmly stress our principles, and I hope it can inspire closer ties founded on shared beliefs.

These pieces of legislation do valuable work and I'm glad to support them all.

Again, thank you, Mr. Chairman and to my colleagues, for your part in these important measures.

Statement for the Record from Representative Adam Kinzinger
Markup of Various Measures
May 22, 2019

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I want to talk about H.R. 598, the Georgia Support Act, legislation I introduced with my colleague Mr. Connolly from Virginia.

It is well known that Russia has actively worked to stifle democracy in Georgia. In 2002, Vladimir Putin laid the groundwork for Russian intervention in Georgia by distributing passports to Georgian citizens. Five years later, under the guise of protecting Russian citizens, the Kremlin invaded Georgian territory and occupied Abkhazia and South Ossetia.

Russia's malign activity continues today and it's more reason why we must pass the Georgia Support Act. The bill passed through the House last Congress with overwhelming bipartisan support, reaffirming America's commitment to Georgian sovereignty, independence, and territorial integrity through increased security assistance and cybersecurity cooperation.

Georgia has been a strong ally to the United States, and ensuring their territorial sovereignty is essential to European security and American interests. Following the September 11th terrorist attacks on American soil, Georgia joined NATO's Collective Defense Treaty, even though they are not part of the organization. They contributed the largest non-NATO force and were the largest per-capita contributors to the war in Afghanistan. By deepening U.S.-Georgia security cooperation, we send a strong message to Russia to think twice before interfering in Georgia again.

Mr. Chairman, I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting the Georgia Support Act, and with that I yield the balance of my time.
