and cliffs overlooking the English Channel on June 6, 1944. Even after the Allies established a beachhead, it took more than 2 months of fierce fighting before the risk of the Germans reversing the invasion had ended. During the last 3 years, Mr. Mooney and thousands of his comrades have been honored by the Regional Council of Normandy with the Medaille de Jubile, a decoration commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Normandy and the beginning of the liberation of Europe.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to remind our fellow men and women from Normandy and America and the world of the debt of gratitude we owe Mr. Mooney and the heroic soldiers, sailors and airmen whose efforts at Normandy marked the beginning of the end of Nazi tyranny.

HONORING DR. MENASCHE-LANIADO

HON. ELIZABETH FURSE
OF OREGON
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, February 4, 1997

Ms. FURSE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize a very special woman who provides dental care for Soviet Union students who are participants in the programs created from the Freedom Support Act.

It is an unfortunate reality that these students arrive in our country with staggering dental problems. Dr. Sandra Menasche-Laniado of Portland, OR, has quietly taken it upon herself to provide the vital care that these students require, asking for no monetary compensation.

Dr. Menasche-Laniado is truly the essence of one person making a difference. She points her way in demonstrating the virtue of compassion and turning this compassion onto a path of positive, meaningful action. I applaud her work, and I am privileged to have this opportunity to recognize Dr. Menasche-Laniado before this body.

INTRODUCTION OF THE MEDICARE HOSPICE BENEFIT AMENDMENTS OF 1997

HON. BENJAMIN L. CARDDN
OF MARYLAND
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, February 4, 1997

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with my colleague, ROB PORTMAN, and more than 50 additional colleagues to introduce the Medicare Hospice Benefit Amendments of 1997. This legislation will make technical changes and clarifications to improve the Medicare hospice benefit. This is a noncontroversial bill that has true bipartisan support and should be included as part of Medicare reform this year.

Hospice care is a vital Medicare benefit. It is a coordinated program of palliative medicine and supportive services provided mainly in the home but also in home-like settings that provides for physical, psychological, social, and spiritual care for dying persons and their families. Services are provided by a medically directed, interdisciplinary team of professionals and volunteers.

The concept of hospice care emerged in this country in response to the unmet needs of dying patients and their families for whom traditional medical care was no longer effective, appropriate, or desired. Hospice has become an effective alternative to there being "nothing else to do." The Nation's hospice programs currently provide compassionate care to more than 390,000 patients and families each year. In 1994, one out of every three people who died from cancer or AIDS were cared for by hospice.

Hospice is not only a compassionate and appropriate form of care for terminally ill individuals, it is also cost effective. A 1994 Lewin study comparing the relative cost of hospice care to conventional care for Medicare beneficiaries with cancer, found that for every dollar Medicare spent on hospice patients, it saved $1.52 in Medicare part A and B expenditures. Based on these findings, the growth and greater utilization of hospice care should be viewed in a positive light and should be encouraged.

The Medicare hospice benefit was adopted by Congress 1982. Since then, more and more Americans have chosen to receive humane and cost-effective hospice care. In recent years, it has become clear that certain technical changes are necessary in the Medicare hospice benefit not only to protect beneficiaries but to ensure that high quality and cost-effective hospice services continue to be available.

The Medicare Hospice Benefit Amendments of 1997, will make six technical changes to the Medicare hospice benefit.

First, the bill restructures the hospice benefit periods. Under current law, the patient’s attending physician and the hospice medical director must certify that the patient electing hospice care in lieu of other Medicare services is terminally ill—defined as having a prognosis of 6 months or less to live if the illness runs its normal course. There are four benefit periods, with recertifications of terminal illness by the hospice physician at the beginning of each. The first two periods last 90 days, the third is 30 days, and the fourth is of unlimited duration.

If a beneficiary revokes a hospice election during a benefit period, the remaining days in that period are forfeited. This existing structure is especially troubling for patients who withdraw from hospice during the fourth hospice period because they then forfeit their ability to elect hospice services in the future. Thus, a patient's wish for hospice care is no longer available because his or her life expectancy exceeds 6 months, is not able to return to hospice when his or her condition worsens. Our bill would correct this problem by restructuring the benefit periods so that there are two 60-day periods, followed by an unlimited number of 60-day periods. This would also result in more frequent re-evaluation of patients who outlive their original prognosis.

Second, our bill clarifies that additional Medicare services are available—in addition to those specifically required by the hospice services—when these services are a necessary component of the plan of care. This amendment is consistent with current HCFA policy.

The existing statute is ambiguous because the beneficiary’s waiver coverage under part B for most services when they are related to the terminal illness, but some items are not clearly listed as part of the hospice benefit. For example, diagnostic tests and radiation therapy are not listed in the definition of hospice care, but occasionally the hospice team may agree with the attending physician that these services are necessary to manage the patient’s terminal illness. Our bill would ensure that the hospice would be able to provide the appropriate care and that beneficiaries would not be liable for the costs of these services.

Third, our bill amends the core services requirement to allow hospices to contract for physician services with independent contractor physicians or physician groups. HCFA has interpreted the existing statute as requiring a W-2 employer/employee relationship between the hospice and the responsible physician. This has raised corporate practice concerns for rural hospices to be granted. Some hospices in rural areas have difficulty becoming Medicare-certified because of shortages of certain professionals. Currently, approximately 80 percent of hospices are Medicare-certified or pending certification.

Fifth, our bill amends the so-called waiver of liability provisions to protect the beneficiary if a hospice claim is denied by Medicare because the terminal illness eligibility requirement was not met. While this bill does not reinstate the waiver of liability presumption under which providers with low error rates were paid before 1996, waiver of liability for hospice reasonable and necessary determinations is still available on a case-by-case basis. This means that the denial is not appealable and the denials and the beneficiary is not liable for payment. The same process and protection are needed for denials based on 6-month prognosis issues.

Last, our legislation allows HCFA to set documentation requirements for physician certifications. Currently, the statute requires that paperwork documenting the physician certification of a patient’s terminal illness be completed within a certain number of days of the patient’s admission to hospice. This bill will eliminate the strict statutory requirements and give HCFA the discretion to require hospice certifications to be on file before a Medicare claim is submitted.

In summary, the Medicare Hospice Benefit Amendment of 1997 is very similar to the bill we introduced last year. The major difference is that we dropped a provision in the 1996 legislation to extend the presumption of the waiver of liability that CBO scored with a budget impact. Therefore, our new bill should be revenue neutral. This Medicare Hospice Benefit Amendment is non-controversial and is needed to ensure that we have a smoothly operating Medicare hospice benefit for our Nation’s seniors. I look forward to working with my colleagues to enact this legislation in this Congress.

HONORING THE DEDICATED SERVICE OF BOB FERGUSON

HON. GLENN POSHARD
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, February 4, 1997

Mr. POSHARD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the dedication and accomplishments of Mr. Bob Ferguson of Flora, IL. Born and raised in that community, Bob has devoted his entire life to helping his friends and neighbors in various capacities and has become the standard by which such service is measured. Last November he was named as the 1996 Citizen of the Year by the Flora Chamber of Commerce, and I would like to extend my congratulations in regard to this honor as well as my thanks for his years of selflessness.

Bob Ferguson understands the meaning of the word community. He exemplifies it, as his life has been a series of enduring relationships. After serving his country in the U.S. Navy, Bob married his wife Shirley in 1949 and has raised two daughters and been blessed with six grandchildren. He worked for the U.S. Postal Service for 32 years while also serving as Flora City’s postmaster for over 12 years. His list of achievements in the community is too large to list in its entirety, but a sampling of its diversity is telling: Assistant Bible school superintendent with the First Christian Church, original organizer and board member of the Flora Bank & Trust, a charter member of the Clay County Historical Society, member of the Flora Elks Lodge, the American Legion, the VFW, Freemasonry, Clay County Shrine Club, and other like organizations, and a co-founder of the Red Cross financial drive. His willingness to help when asked and his ability as a fundraiser and civic leader should inspire everyone who does not think they can make a difference through volunteering. Not only did he participate on the board of numerous charitable causes, but he directed his special talents to make these efforts especially fruitful. A person’s time and energy are often the most valuable gifts they have to give, and in Bob’s case it has resulted in a profound impact on an immeasurable number of lives.

Mr. Speaker, as a public servant, I am extremely moved by the unselfish acts of others. Bob Ferguson is not only a good friend of mine and the entire 19th Congressional District of Illinois, but also an exemplary role model of all our citizens. I hope all of our constituents will come to know his lead and look around them to see where they can make a difference. I am honored to represent Bob in the U.S. Congress.

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to reintroduce legislation to establish a toll-free 1–800 phone number consumers can call to get information on products made in America. Similar legislation I authored was approved unanimously by the House in both the 103rd and 104th Congress. Unfortunately, the other body did not act on the bill in either Congress. My bill directs the Commerce Department to contract out the program to a private company. All the program would do is provide American consumers with information on products made in America. The bill uses the same definition for an American-made product that the Federal Trade Commission uses in determining uses of “Made in the USA” labels. Only those products with a sale price of $250 or more would be included in the program. The bill would subject any companies providing false information to Federal penalties. One of the key components of my bill is that the program would be self-financed through the imposition of a modest annual registration fee on participating companies.

I want to emphasize that my bill will not require the Commerce Department to hire more people or create a new unit. The only expense to the Department would be to prepare language for the Federal Register and to prepare bid documents. Let me reemphasize that the program will be contracted out and run by a private company. All the program would do is provide American consumers with information on what products are made in America.

When making a big purchase, most Americans want to buy American. This program will help them make an informed and patriotic decision. I urge my colleagues to cosponsor this bill. The text of the bill is as follows:
