Most recently, a National Institutes of Health report released in August of 1997 urged the federal government to play an active role in facilitating clinical evaluations of medical marijuana. More than 30 medical groups, including the ones I have previously cited, have endorsed prescriptive access to marijuana, under the guidance of physicians. Several medical groups, including the American Medical Association and the American Cancer Society have endorsed a physician’s right to recommend or discuss marijuana therapy with their patients. Several studies have found that the best established medical use of marijuana is as an anti-nauseant for cancer chemotherapy. In addition, these same studies have found that medicinal use of marijuana has helped in treating patients with glaucoma, chronic muscle pain, multiple sclerosis, epilepsy, spinal cord injury, and paraplegia. Tens of thousands of cancer and AIDS patients use medical marijuana, and they report that it is effective in reducing the nausea and vomiting associated with cancer and AIDS treatment. In a 1990 survey, 44 percent of oncologists said they had, or were planning to hold, state referenda on the use of medical marijuana. Two states, California and Arizona, have successfully passed legislation to allow the prescribed use of marijuana for medicinal purposes. The voters of these states have spoken and in our democratic system their wishes must be respected. Those on the other side of the aisle seem to constantly remind us of the power of big government over the abilities of states to make their own policies. Who is championing big government now? Where are all the state’s rights supporters on this issue? Finally, Mr. Speaker, permitting the medical use of marijuana to alleviate the pain and suffering of people with seriously ill conditions does not send the wrong message to children or anyone else. It simply says that we are compassionate and Intelligent enough to respect the rights of patients and the medical community to administer what is medically appropriate care. It is time for this Congress to acknowledge that a ban on the medicinal use of marijuana is scientifically, legally, and morally wrong.

Mr. DIXON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to express my opposition to H.J. Res. 117. The voters of California have showed their support for allowing doctors to recommend marijuana for seriously ill patients by voting for the state’s Proposition 215. Proposition 215 has provided as many as 11,000 Californians who suffer from AIDS and other debilitating diseases with safe and legal access to a drug that makes life a little more bearable. Fifty-six percent of the electorate voted for Prop 215. The voters have spoken, and there is no need for federal intrusion on this matter. Thousands of constituents in my district struggling with AIDS and cancer will tell you that choosing the appropriate medical treatment should be a decision for public health officials, physicians and patients. Congress would do well to stay out of the prescription business.

Mr. Speaker, I look forward to the day when we can pass truly effective measures to address drug abuse in our country. According to the Legal Action Center, over half of federal drug control spending is dedicated to the criminal justice system, and only 18% goes to drug treatment. To effectively fight the war on drug abuse we must get our priorities in order and fund treatment and education. Today’s legislation, which encourages making criminals of seriously ill people who seek proven therapy, is not a step towards controlling America’s drug problem. I therefore oppose H.J. Res. 117.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman from Florida (Mr. McCOLLUM) has expired. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. McCOLLUM) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the joint resolution (H.J. Res. 117), as amended. The question was taken.

Mr. McCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays. The yeas and nays were ordered. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I and the Chair’s prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

SEC. 101. FINDINGS.

Section 101 of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 (42 U.S.C. 5061) is amended to read as follows:

“FINDINGS

Sec. 101. (a) The Congress finds the following:

(i) There has been a dramatic increase in juvenile delinquency, particularly violent crime committed by juveniles. Weapons offenses and homicides are 2 of the fastest growing crimes committed by juveniles. More than 1/2 of juvenile victims are killed with a firearm. Approximately 1/3 of the individuals arrested for committing violent crime are less than 18 years of age. The increase in both the number of youth below the age of 15 and females arrested for violent crime is causing concern.

(ii) This problem should be addressed through a 2-track common sense approach that addresses the needs of individual juveniles and society at large by promoting—

(A) quality prevention programs that—

(i) work with juveniles, their families, local public agencies, and community-based organizations to take into consideration such factors as whether or not juveniles have been the victims of family violence (including child abuse and neglect); and

(ii) are designed to reduce known risk factors for juvenile delinquency, and prevent juvenile delinquency;

(B) programs that assist in holding juveniles accountable for their actions, including a system of graduated sanctions to respond to each delinquent act, requiring juveniles to make restitution, or perform community service, for the damage caused by their delinquent acts, and methods for increasing victim satisfaction with respect to the penalties imposed;

(C) programs that prevent or reduce the rate of, delinquent behavior; and

(D) programs that prevent and reduce the rate of, delinquent behavior.

(b) Congress must act now to reform this program by focusing on juvenile delinquency prevention programs, as well as programs that hold juveniles accountable for their acts. Without true reform, the criminal justice system will not be able to overcome the challenges it will face in the coming years when the number of juveniles is expected to increase by 30 percent.”

The Speaker pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Goodling) and the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Scott) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Goodling). Mr. Scott. I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Clay) control the time.

The Speaker pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania? There was no objection.

Mr. Goodling. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Scott. Mr. Speaker, I rise pursuant to S. 207, which authorizes appropriations for the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, and I have a substitute which would replace the text of this bill which includes comprehensive reforms to our Nation's programs addressing juvenile crime.

Mr. Speaker, in 1995, juveniles accounted for 32 percent of the arrests for robberies, 23 percent of weapons violations, 15 percent of rapes, 13 percent of aggravated assaults, and 9 percent of arrests for murder. These are staggering statistics that should draw our collective attention to the need for meaningful reform over our juvenile justice system.

The Senate passed legislation amending portions of H.R. 1818, the Juvenile Crime Control and Delinquency Prevention Act. This is an important bill that not only supports making juveniles accountable for their actions, but also provides funds to States and local communities in designing prevention programs to help young Americans turn their lives around.

The House has also passed H.R. 3, legislation from the Committee on the Judiciary to hold juveniles accountable for their actions. The House and Senate conference to work out the differences between the two bills.

Mr. Speaker, over the past 2 years, we have seen a horrendous increase in school violence in our country. I believe the number of students who have been killed in our Nation’s schools by other students has shocked all of us. The well thought out provisions of H.R. 1818 provide support for States and local communities in addressing issues relating to juvenile crime, including school violence.

It places the design of prevention programs where it appropriately belongs, at the local level. Although it outlined a number of ways in which funds can be used, it does not restrict local innovation.

Earlier this year, the Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Youth and Families had a hearing on understanding violent children. This hearing focused on the factors that are likely to contribute to school violence and explored the backgrounds of children who commit the violent acts.

One key issue was discussed by most of the witnesses testifying at the hearing: The need for early identification of students with a potential for violence and then early intervention and prevention activities directed at those students. Schools could conduct these types of activities using funds provided under this act.

Mr. Speaker, we need to make communities and schools safe. Our goal is crime-free environments where children can play and learn. To reach this goal, we must act now to move legislation addressing juvenile crime. The end of the session is drawing near. We cannot afford to wait any longer. Parents, teachers, counselors and law enforcement personnel cannot continue to wait for us to act. Most importantly, our sons and daughters need our support in making playgrounds and neighborhoods safe again.

I believe that we take advantage of this opportunity to produce legislation which not only provides appropriate punishment for juvenile offenders but which provides a variety of intervention and prevention programs to prevent youth involvement in delinquent activities, and I urge the Members’ support.

Mr. GOODLING. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the remainder of my time be controlled by the gentleman from Florida (Mr. McCOLLUM).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania? There was no objection.

Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to this Republican ploy to strike the language in S. 2073 and replace it with both H.R. 1818 and H.R. 3.

H.R. 1818 is a controversial measure from the Committee on the Judiciary, which does very little to prevent crime in America’s streets. By contrast, H.R. 1818 is a bipartisan measure that includes thoughtful, effective crime prevention measures that will give juveniles real alternatives.

By combining these two House bills, we will virtually obliterate and ensure the obliteration of H.R. 1818’s positive prevention measures. H.R. 1818 enjoyed very strong bipartisan support, which was evidenced by its overwhelming margin of passage, 413 to 14. The bill creates a new, more effective and streamline prevention and treatment program that also maintains a Federal role in juvenile justice research and evaluation, and it provides for the separation of juveniles from adults in correctional settings.

H.R. 1818 was considered under suspension of the rules and was the product of several months of careful negotiation. By contrast, H.R. 3 would result in more juveniles being tried as adults in Federal courts because it provides for the mandatory adult prosecution of 14-year-olds charged with serious violent felonies.

This is a far cry from the strong prevention-based philosophy of H.R. 1818. We cannot afford to toss our troubled juveniles into jail and throw away the keys. We must intervene first with the strong and flexible prevention measures that H.R. 1818 provides.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. McCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this bill, as has been stated previously, contains the elements of two major youth crime bills that we have supported as Members of both of these committees.

Both of these bills in other forms, but very much the same language, have been killed and rejected by H.R. 3, which passed this body some time ago in the last session of this Congress back last year, passed by a vote of 286 to 132. That is what constitutes sections 5 and 6 and 7 of this bill today.

Mr. Speaker, I want my colleagues to fully understand that many, the vast majority, voted for these provisions previously. We have had some difficulty getting the legislation represented by both of these previous bills voted in law. So, consequently, this is an effort to continue it in law and perhaps be able to get something through the other body, as well as ourselves, and to the President’s desk.

First of all, it is extremely important for us to recognize that we have a crisis in juvenile crime today in this Nation. Our juvenile justice system is truly broken because juvenile judges, juvenile prosecutors, juvenile probation officers, are overwhelmed by the caseload that is there.

We find in the streets of America today young people committing crimes, oftentimes the traditional crimes we think of as going to juvenile court for doing things like spray painting graffiti on a warehouse wall or running over a parking meter, and not even seeing the police officer taking them into the juvenile authorities because the juvenile authorities are so overworked, they have to spend their time on the violent crime that we hear so much about in society today, that they are not focused and cannot take the time to focus on these lesser crimes.

Then when they are taken in, they may or may not receive any punishment at all. We have a lot of reports in some of our major urban areas where they do not receive any punishment, which is the reason why law enforcement hesitates to carry these young people into that commitment. They are committing crimes and wait for the really serious stuff, which may be many, many crimes down the road. Then those who do get some punishment frequently cannot be supervised, because there is no probation officer, it is up to the juvenile authorities, is it any wonder that when they are a little older and rob a 7-Eleven store with a gun that they do not hesitate to pull the trigger because they do not think that there is going to be any consequences.

So, what is in this bill that was in H.R. 3, which is the gist of that bill on juvenile justice reform, is an effort to hold these young people accountable, to know what kinds of crimes they are committing and that the vast majority of juvenile justice problems are in the States, not at the Federal level. This is not a Federal bill in that sense. It is, instead, a bill that would provide for some effort to put some accountability in there by a grant program to the States and local communities for the purposes of promoting this accountability.

The funds that would be authorized in this bill are $500 million a year over 3 years for States and local communities to be able to spend for the purposes of increasing accountability in their juvenile justice systems for anything they want to. More judges, more
Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. MARTINEZ).

(Mr. MARTINEZ asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MARTINEZ. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the House substitute to S. 2073. Members on the other side of the aisle are politicizing what could have been a bipartisan debate on juvenile justice by incorporating the controversial H.R. 3 in the substitute.

It is certain that the House had bipartisan options at hand. The Senate version of S. 2073 would have reauthorized the Runaway and Homeless Youth Act and the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. While I am a strong advocate of both programs and support their extension, I do not support H.R. 3, which is an overreaction.

On the other hand, one of the bills that we are using as a substitute to the Senate legislation is H.R. 1818, the Juvenile Justice Crime Control and Delinquency Prevention Act, which also reauthorizes these important programs and represents a truly bipartisan compromise in addressing juvenile justice. Over a year ago, H.R. 1818 passed the House unanimously with bipartisan support. This legislation shows what we can do as elected officials to produce good public policy on a truly bipartisan basis. H.R. 1818 strengthens the vital provisions of the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act, embodied in the four core mandates, while providing flexibility to deal with the real-life difficulties of dealing with juvenile offenders.

In addition, a dramatic positive new step is also taken by the creation of H.R. 1818’s Community Prevention Block Grant. These funds will provide the vital tools necessary for our local communities to prevent juvenile crimes.

Unfortunately, legislation that lacks the overwhelming bipartisan mandate afforded to H.R. 1818 will also be incorporated in the House substitute to S. 2073. That legislation, H.R. 3, relies on punitive measures rather than the prevention efforts, which are more successful and less costly. H.R. 3 espouses an extreme view of addressing juvenile crime, both by calling for the prosecution of more youths as adults and forcing juveniles to be housed with adult offenders.

This is in direct conflict with the provisions of H.R. 1818 which mandate total sight and sound separation of adults and juveniles in correctional facilities. These protections were first enacted in the JJP A due to the overwhelming evidence that housing adults with youth together in the same correctional facility was dangerous and even lethal for juveniles.

Mr. Speaker, the facts are the suicide rate for youths in adult jails is eight times higher than that for children in juvenile detention centers. Most suicide attempts actually occur within the first hours of incarceration. In addition, youth who come in contact with adult inmates are often physically and sexually abused. I can attest that we could only be promoting recidivism by jailing youth offenders with adults, thus condemning these children to a lifetime of crime.

Therefore, despite my strong support for H.R. 1818 and the Senate version of S. 2073, I must oppose the legislation before us today. I cannot support any measure that takes the irresponsible and hard-hearted approach to juvenile justice set forth in H.R. 3.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to join me in voting against the House version of S. 2073.

Mr. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire how much time each side has remaining. I believe I have adopted the time of the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. GOODLING).

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SHIMKUS). The gentleman from Florida (Mr. MCCOLLUM) has 10 minutes remaining. Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT) be allowed to manage the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. CLAY)? There is no objection.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 5 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the motion to suspend the rules and pass the amended version of S. 2073. The original version of S. 2073 was a simple reauthorization of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the Runaway and Homeless Youth Act. This new version has added H.R. 3 and the good, effective crime prevention bill, H.R. 1818, but it is the provisions of H.R. 3 that are most egregious.

Mr. Speaker, it has been two Congresses since we started debating on how best to reduce juvenile delinquency in this country and today we still do not have a federal juvenile justice policy that will assist States and communities in addressing this persistent problem.

Instead, Congress has elected to go the politically popular route and use sound bites to develop bad juvenile crime policy. Even prominent research organizations such as the RAND Institute finds that the popular sound bite, "You do the adult crime, you do the adult time," has been shown to actually increase juvenile crime.

H.R. 3 has not changed much since it was last considered. Unlike H.R. 1818, it still allows children to be housed in adult prisons with adults, where they are five times more likely to be sexual assaulted, twice as likely to be beaten, and 50 percent more likely to be attacked with a weapon than children in a juvenile facility.
H.R. 3 requires States to prosecute children as young as 14 in the adult court system, which significance research shows will increase crime. Those crimes will be committed sooner and be more violent if we adopt this policy. After the juvenile is arrested and affected, the studies show that the adult time will actually be shorter than the juvenile time. That is right, the adult time will be shorter.

To add insult to injury, in most States the juvenile would be entitled to a preliminary hearing, giving the witeness and the victims two trials to endure rather than one.

H.R. 3 also represents government intrusion at its worst. It would require 37 States to change their juvenile justice laws including not only my State of Virginia but also California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas and many others.

It is also important to understand that by bringing up Section 10, which is similar to H.R. 3, and it has not been able to reach the floor because it cannot pass the “Light of Day Test,” because when daylight hits S. 10, no one likes what they see. It has been criticized by the National Governors’ Association, the National District Attorney Association, the Children’s Defense Fund, and even the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Speaker, this is the wrong way to establish a Federal juvenile crime policy. We should let the center continue to deliberate until they can pass a juvenile crime bill that actually reduces youth crime. Meanwhile, the House should defeat the motion to suspend the rules and, instead, pass a simple re-authorization of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the Runaway and Homeless Youth Acts.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. McCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. SOUNDER).

Mr. SOUNDER. Mr. Speaker, I stand in somewhat of an unusual position today. I serve on the Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Youth and Families of the Committee on Education and the Workforce, and I have worked with the gentleman from California (Mr. MárTINEZ) and the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT) on this bill, both in the last session of Congress and in this session, and on H.R. 1818, which is a part of the Brady Act. I think we need legislation to require for the juveniles to develop a bipartisan and important consensus that in reaching out to children, in particular their juvenile period, that we need to try to reach these kids before they get to the level of serious crime and not be treated through that problem; and that they deserve special set aside counseling, both in prevention and after they have committed a crime.

But this has been merged with another bill, Mr. Speaker, which I also support, which says that for certain actions, such as if a juvenile shoots somebody and kills them, if they rape someone, or if they commit armed robbery within 5 years of the juvenile period, the person is just as dead, just as raped, or had their life just as threatened as if that individual were 18. We have spent too much time worrying about some of these juveniles on the street without any chance to get help, particularly in a lot of our urban centers, who are terrorized by these young people; without thinking of the people working in many fast food places, that are now shutting down in my hometown of Fort Wayne and around this country, where people do not have places to get food, they do not have grocery stores in their area because a few individuals are terrorizing their neighborhoods.

Now, I do not necessarily agree completely with some part of the crime bill section of this, in the sense that I think we need rehabilitation programs. We have had a celebrated case in our State about a young girl who committed a murder. And, clearly, when an individual is 16, 17, they are going through somewhat of a different process. And as has been pointed out, they are going to be released and we need to work with them. But they need to be off the streets and held accountable for their crimes, because for a few people in this society, in many cases, it is questionable, quite frankly, in these rape cases and armed robberies, whether indeed any of the rehab programs are working, and many of these people are not coming off the street.

I am not arguing against prevention. I supported that bill; I helped develop that bill. I believe we have an excellent effort to try to reach more of these young people before they get to that point. But we are in such a posture, it seems like in this government, where if someone apologizes, if they say they are sorry, if somehow somebody gives them a slap on the wrist or maybe gives them a sensor, that they are not held accountable for their actions in this country anymore. There should be a price to pay if someone shoots somebody, if they rape somebody, or if they use a gun in an armed robbery. They should be held accountable for that crime, and we are not doing it at this time.

Forty percent of people in the juvenile period of 15 until they reach adulthood are not serving sentences, and they are back out on the streets terrorizing the senior citizens in their neighborhoods and the other kids. We had a little boy that was gunned down in Fort Wayne, and one a little bit older, as a gang was going through in a random shooting of a house trying to find another drug dealer. Can anybody get that little boy’s life back? I believe the person who pulls that trigger or who threatens to pull the trigger should be held accountable.

Then, I also believe while they are in prison, we need to work with them and be sensitive to these young people being raped in prison and how we should separate them. But they should go to jail, they should do the time, and they should do the time when there is no doubt because when they take another life or rape someone or assault someone, they need to be held accountable.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds, prior to yielding to the gentleman from Rhode Island, to point out on the floor when the gentleman talks about rape, robbery, and shooting, we need to point out that two-thirds of the juveniles treated as adults today are treated as adults for nonviolent offenses. We are already that far down the lists.

There is no State that needs any direction from Congress to decide what to do about people who are shooting, raping and robbing with a firearm. In fact, for those affected by this bill, they will serve less time. And that is, obviously, not the kind of policy that we want to be talking about.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Rhode Island (Mr. KENNEDY).

Mr. KENNEDY of Rhode Island. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Virginia for yielding me this time, and I want to salute the gentleman from Virginia for all the good work that he does to preserve sound policy with respect to juvenile crime.

My colleagues, what we are doing today is wrong. We are taking a bill that is supposed to help missing and exploited children and runaway homeless youth, we are taking this program and we are saddling it with a political agenda. We are taking these most vulnerable children in our society, taking the exploited children on this side of society, and we are exploiting them for political gain, and this is why it is the United States Congress that wants to beat its chest and say how tough they are on crime.

Every single knowledgeable person in this country who works in the area of juvenile crime will tell us that the kind of policy that the Republicans are trying to foist on this Congress is policy that simply does not work. How do we know this? The United States Senate will not even take up this draconian bill, a bill that would put 14-year-old children in the same prison as an adult criminal. They are not taking up this bill because they know it is barbaric.

So what are we doing today? We are trying to circumvent the proper process, to allow this Congress an opportunity to debate and fully understand this bill, by putting it on the suspension calendar and hoping no one will know that this Congress is taking young and exploited children and using their political agenda to attach H.R. 3 onto this bill.

This bill is not about missing and exploited children any longer, it is about... a Republican agenda to make themselves look tough on crime when in actuality they are victimizing these poor children once again.

Mr. McCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Delaware. Mr. CASTLE.

Mr. CASTLE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time, and I rise in support of S. 2073, the reauthorization of the Missing and Exploited Children and the Runaway and Homeless Youth Acts. This substitute includes H.R. 1818, the Juvenile Crime Control and Delinquency Prevention Act, which passed the House Committee on Education and the Workforce on which I serve.

This bill also contains and incorporates a very important provision that I sponsored that provides the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children with funds to serve as the Nation's primary resource center for child protection.

For more than 13 years, the National Center, a private nonprofit organization established by Congress in 1984, has been instrumental in locating and recovering missing children and preventing child abductions, molestations and sexual exploitations. The National Center is a vital resource for families and the approximately 17,000 law enforcement agencies in the United States in the search for missing children and the quest for child protection.

The Center has worked for clearinghouses in all 50 States in locating over 35,000 children and preventing child abductions, molestations and sexual exploitations. One of the National Center's success stories hit very close to my home. Last year it assisted local authorities in the recovery of two missing Delawarians who were located in Florida.

This bipartisan legislation also provides us with a balanced approach to addressing crime and also provides a concept of holding juveniles accountable for their crimes while also providing for prevention programs that can help young people turn their lives around.

Mr. Speaker, by adequately funding the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, we can solidify our resources, hone our message, and assure every family and every law enforcement agency that we are committed to long-term child protection. I urge my colleagues to support passage of this legislation so we can move it to conference with the Senate soon.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentlewoman from New York.

Mrs. McCARTHY of New York. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague for yielding me this time. I rise in opposition to the motion to suspend the rules and pass S. 2073 as amended.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. DELAHUNT).

Mr. DELAHUNT. Mr. Speaker, it was interesting today to listen to the gentleman from Idaho talk about accountability and referring to some specific incidents. I daresay that if we took the time in this debate and asked the gentleman if those juveniles who committed those crimes were incarcerated, the answer would be in the affirmative. That is because there is some good news out there.

We have certainly not achieved utopia. We have not arrived at the promised land. But as the gentleman from Florida, the chairman of the Subcommittee on Crime of the Committee on the Judiciary is fully appraised of, juvenile crime is down in this Nation. The States are doing some things that work, and it is important to understand that.

In fact, violent crime, which is committed generally by young males between the ages of 15 and 25, is dramatically down all over the country. But if this bill should pass, as amended, 40 States in this Nation are going to have to change their juvenile justice laws so that they can qualify for the hundreds of millions of dollars that would be forthcoming from H.R. 3, which is now part of this bill. They would have to change their juvenile justice laws even if they are working. And let me say that just simply makes no sense whatsoever.

For example, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, my home State, in the city of Boston, the capital city of Massachusetts, there has been an incredible drop in terms of juvenile crimes, and Boston is frequently cited as a model for the rest of the Nation. When I first became the district attorney for the metropolitan Boston area back in 1975, within the city of Boston itself there were 1,500 homicides. In this year it is projected that there will be less than 30 homicides.

So there are some good things happening. Yet, if we pass this particular bill, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and some 40 States would have to change their juvenile justice laws that are working to simply qualify for the Federal monies. That is wrong and it makes no sense.

Let me suggest that we vote 'no' on this bill and demand a simple reauthorization of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children as provided for in the original Senate bill.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3½ minutes to the gentlewoman from Texas (Ms. JACKSON-LEE) who is a former judge, and I want to thank, as she approaches the microphone, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. DELAHUNT), a former prosecutor.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Virginia for his leadership, and I frankly thank the gentleman from Florida (Mr. McCOLLUM) for the many times that we have debated this issue.

As he well knows, I was able to join him in the early part of my first coming to this Congress to hear from different communities on the concerns of juvenile delinquency or juvenile issues. I would simply say to the gentleman from Florida (Mr. McCOLLUM), I would hope that we will have a further opportunity to address his concerns and we can really answer the devastation of juveniles who are facing difficult lives, and by that juveniles who come from dysfunctional families and juveniles who need more than just being locked up and incarcerated.

Frankly, let me say to the gentleman from Virginia, knowing his hard work, I am prepared and think we all are prepared to support the original reauthorization of the Missing and Exploited Children and the Runaway and Homeless Youth Acts. In fact, H.R. 1818 that deals with preventing legislation in the right direction. It includes the support of the missing and exploited children which is so important to the survival of runaway children, children who are exploited and does a very fine job, but yet it also matches our concerns as so many Members have risen to the floor of the House to talk about the high numbers of juvenile crime. But what they have not done is recognize that H.R. 3, which is now included attached to the missing and exploited children's reauthorization, is not the answer but in fact experts will tell us that when we incarcerate children with adults, when we provide no prevention, when we provide no treatment, when we have no support systems for their families, we do not have rehabilitation.

This country is too good, it is too good, and children are too good for us to throw them away. The leading headline of Emerge Magazine said, “Teenagers are not as bad as we paint them.” What they need is support systems like Girls and Boys Clubs. They need the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts of America. We need a foster family program. They need systems in Houston such as that authorized by Mayor Lee Brown, the after-school programs. They need parks opened.

H.R. 3 does not answer the question, what do we do about prevention? What do we do about a youngster who has been caught up in the web of crime but yet has the ability through treatment to be corrected?

This bill would house youthful offenders in the Federal system in close proximity to adult offenders and will place rigid mandates on the States that will preclude the majority of States from receiving Federal dollars. Our committee that has jurisdiction over S. 2073 would provide important assistance to vulnerable children and Families.

However, Republicans are attempting to jeopardize this important reauthorizaton by attaching H.R. 3, the controversial Violent and Juvenile Offender Act. By attaching these provisions, Republicans are attempting to add in conference S. 10, the controversial Violent and Repeat Juvenile Offender Act, that failed to receive Senate approval. This bill would house youthful offenders in the federal system in close proximity to adult offenders and will place rigid mandates on states that would preclude the majority of states from receiving federal dollars for juvenile justice programs. The original Senate bill S. 2073 would provide important assistance to vulnerable children and Families.

For these reasons, I oppose the Republican’s efforts to attach these dangerous provisions to the Senate Bill 2073. Adding H.R. 3 provisions to S. 2073 will only serve to doom the passage of S. 2073 and subvert the regular legislative process for consideration of S. 10. I urge all my colleagues to oppose the substitute version of S. 2073 on the Suspension Calendar today.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Shimkus). The gentleman from Virginia (Mr. SCOTT) is recognized for 1 minute.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, in closing I would just like to recommend that we review the bill and would notice that the bill started off with a simple reauthorizaton of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and Runaway and Homeless Youth Act. We also had passed here legislation, H.R. 1818, a prevention bill which will protect children and adult reduce crime within the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the Runaway and Homeless Youth Act. We should pass those. But unfortunately we have in this bill the addition of H.R. 3 which has the incredible result of giving children less time and acres of study showing those increased crimes will be committed sooner and be more violent.

We need to vote “no” on this motion to suspend the rules and then pass the reauthorization of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children and the Runaway and Homeless Youth Act and then pass H.R. 1818 and forget about H.R. 3.

Mr. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

Mr. Speaker, I want to make a clarification of some things that I think people have perhaps misunderstood about this legislation. It is a combined bill. It is two bills that have already passed the House. One of them is prevention, very heavy, very good, Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency prevention is reauthorized and a lot of good things have come out of the committee that has jurisdiction over that.

Our committee that has jurisdiction over H.R. 3 is a juvenile justice bill dealing with helping the States to improve their juvenile justice systems that I believe are broken. There is nothing in this bill, nothing whatsoever, that would require or permit the commingling of juveniles who are incarcerated with adult prisoners. That has been a debate in the past, but I want to assure the Members there is nothing in here that does that. In fact, H.R. 1818 which is part of this bill actually has provisions that would prohibit it; and H.R. 3 which is incorporated is silent on that issue, because it does not deal with that subject. But there is nothing in here to commingle.

Secondly, we already have passed a bill in the past Congress but it was not all the way through, we passed it in the House and got the appropriations that went through last year for $230 million under H.R. 3’s auspices, the same basic qualifying language, or very close to it, and every State is qualified. So to say, as I think some seem to believe, that States would not qualify under this bill for the grant program, I think, is mistaken.

Thirdly, this is not a bill to lock people up for a long period of time who are juveniles, though there is a problem with that. This is a bill designed precisely for another reason. The H.R. 3 portion of this, juvenile justice, is to help repair the broken juvenile justice systems by making sure the misdemeanors, crimes, the spray painting, graffiti, the writing on a wall, the running over of a parking meter, the throwing of a rock through a window, that type of offense gets the attention that it is not getting today; that kids get consequences back into their system again so that they know when they commit these minor crimes early on that they do not go on to commit greater crimes which is unfortunately the problem now because the juvenile justice is not working.

But the reality is that the result of the system being overworked is that we have more juvenile offenders who are committing violent crimes than ever before. Only 12 percent of violent juvenile offenders, those who commit murder, rape, arson and assault, receive any sort of secure confinement today. Rates of secure confinement for violent juveniles are the same as they were in 1985 and actually decreased last year for those who are now in confinement. Nearly 40 percent of juvenile violent offenders who came into contact with the system the last time we saw the study have had their cases dismissed and the average length of institutionalization for a juvenile who has committed a violent crime is only 353 days. To me that says the system is truly broken in the sense that we are not dealing with the violent ones properly, and we are also not dealing with those who are not violent which is the basic thrust of this bill.

The reality, too, is because we are not dealing with the misdemeanor miscreants in this country properly, we get older teenagers, ages 17 to 19, who are the most violent age group of all. There is more murder and robbery committed in that 18-year-old age group than any other group, and teenage generally account for the largest portion of all violent crime in America. They are not the ones who are incarcerated. Only 4 percent of those who are incarcerated are under 18. Experts all tell us there is going to be a tremendous upsurge in juvenile crime if we do not do something about it because the demographics show we are going to have a lot more teenagers in prison. Many have no receive no punishment at all. Thirdly, this is not a bill to lock people up. It is a balanced bill between prevention and juvenile justice and it is an effort to put consequences back into the juvenile justice system and help the States repair it. Essentially the H.R. 3 portion of this bill is a grant program already in place that has been ignored by the appropriators last Congress that would go on for the next three years of $500 million a year to the States to do as they see fit with that money to improve their juvenile justice systems, to hire more judges, more prosecutors, have more detention space, more probation officers, whatever they want to do, whatever they need to do, it is their choice. All that is going to qualify essentially is to provide assurances to the Attorney General that they are punishing those early misdemeanor crimes.

I urge the adoption of this bill. It needs to be passed. It needs to be passed now.

Mr. GREENWOOD. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to support S. 2073, as amended. More than a year ago this House overwhelmingly passed H.R. 3 and H.R. 1818. H.R. 3, the Juvenile Crime Control Act of 1997, sponsored by Congressman BILL McCOLLUM, focused on the punishment of juvenile offenders. H.R. 1818, The Juvenile Crime Control and Delinquency Prevention Act, provided a balance to punishment by focusing on prevention of juvenile delinquency. H.R. 1818 was designed to assist States and local communities to develop programs to combat juvenile crime through a wide range of prevention and intervention programs. The Senate has yet to pass companion legislation and we have a limited number of days remaining in this session. I support the procedure we are using today to allow the following. The Senate to have the opportunity to produce legislation that provides both appropriate punishment for juvenile offenders and the development of intervention and prevention programs to prevent our children from becoming involved in delinquent activities.

H.R. 1818 was a bipartisan bill—it was the result of many hours of discussions between Congressmen RIGGS, MARTINEZ, SCOTT, and myself. The bill represents good policy. In developing this bill we attempted to strike a balance in dealing with children, young people who grow up and come before the juvenile justice system, and to recognize that some of these children, at ages 16 and 17, are already very vicious and dangerous criminals. Other children who come before the juvenile justice system are harmless and scared and running away from abuse at home. It is an extraordinarily difficult task to make a juvenile justice system in each of the states and in each of the counties that can respond to these very, very different young people caught up in the law.

We recognized that we needed to build some flexibility into the system, enough flexibility to allow the local officials to use their own good judgement based on the realities of each situation, and yet not give them so much flexibility that harm could be done to the child. We dealt with very sensitive issues like the deinstitutionalization of status offenders, how to address the over representation of minorities in the juvenile justice system, and determining the correct balance between block granting funds to the states and keeping some strings attached.

I believe we found that balance. We have found a way to provide the additional flexibility that our local officials need, still protect society from dangerous teenagers, while protecting scared kids from overly harsh treatment in our juvenile justice system.

A few months ago I chaired a Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Youth and Families hearing on "Understanding Violent Children" for Chairman RIGGS. Most witnesses testified to the need for early intervention and prevention programs directed at students with a potential for violence. This legislation will allow for those activities.

I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

Mr. Speaker, the yeas and nays were ordered. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. McCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on S. 2073.

Mr. SCOTT. The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 5 of rule I and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.
