Vol. 148

APPENDIX A

THE PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. BYRD).

The legislative clerk read the following letter:

WASHINGTON, DC, January 29, 2002. To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule 1, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable BENJAMIN E. NELSON, a Senator from the State of Nebraska, to perform the duties of the Chair.

ROBERT C. BYRD,
President pro tempore.

Mr. NELSON thereupon assumed the chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

RECOGNITION OF THE ACTING MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Nevada is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, as the Presiding Officer indicated, we will be in a period of morning business until 11 o'clock this morning. At 11 a.m. the Senate will resume consideration of H.R. 622, the economic stimulus bill, with the Durbin unemployment insurance amendment pending. There will be 30 minutes of debate for that amendment, and at 11:30 we will vote.

The Senate will recess from 12:30 until 2:15 today for weekly party conferences. I advise Members there are some amendments pending. The next two amendments in order will be those from this side of the aisle. I say to anyone who has any debate they want to have in relation to these amendments or the bill itself, this afternoon would be a good time. The leader has not announced whether there will be more votes this afternoon, but there very likely could be more. As we know, this afternoon we have a number of other things going on here.

Tonight is that time of the year when we will have the President coming from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue to give his State of the Union Address. We anticipate that with relish. We look forward to that, as well as seeing how we can help him in his battle against terrorism and working to defeat the economic crisis we have at home. The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Wyoming. Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I join with the Senator from Nevada in urging people to come to the floor with amendments. I am pleased we have had the opportunity to present amendments. I think the bill initially was not adequate. We do need to do that, and we are going to have an opportunity. I urge all Members to do that. We need also, of course, to give some thought to our spending. It looks as if it will be a real issue. We will be spending out of control if we are not careful. I yield the floor.

MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will now be a period for the transaction of morning business not to extend beyond the hour of 11 a.m. with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

RONALD REAGAN BOYHOOD HOME NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

Mr. REID. I ask consent the Senate proceed to Calender No. 307, H.R. 400.
The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will report the bill by title.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 400) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to establish the Ronald Reagan Boyhood Home National Historic Site, and for other purposes.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. REID. I ask unanimous consent the bill be read the third time and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table, and any statements relating to this matter be printed in the RECORD.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (H.R. 400) was read the third time and passed.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Utah.

HISTORY STANDARDS IN NEW JERSEY TEXTBOOKS

Mr. BENNETT. Mr. President, yesterday there was an article in the newspapers about the benefits that can bring citizens into maturity in this country without their having any understanding of American history. To think we have talked about history in this country, I hope sincerely that the article was incorrect. All Members have had the experience of being quoted in the newspaper and wondering where the reporter got the information that was the basis of the story. I hope that is the case with this article.

It was reported in the State of New Jersey a new set of history standards have been adopted and that textbooks in New Jersey high schools dealing with American history will now fail to mention the names of George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, or Thomas Jefferson. Further, it said the word "war" had been removed from the textbooks and in its place we have the word "conflict," and there would be no discussion of war.

Mr. President, I hope this is incorrect. It indicates that at least someone in New Jersey is prepared to make that State an isolated island of ignorance about American history. To think we can bring citizens into maturity in this country without their having any understanding of, indeed, no mention of, the names of George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, and the other Founding Fathers is absurd.

One of the best-selling books currently in the marketplace is the history of John Adams by David McCullough. On the dust jacket of the book, McCullough says, accurately, we as Americans cannot know too much about our Founding Fathers. We must never forget them. We must always learn as much as we possibly can about them.

I would say to those who are supporting this position in New Jersey schools, how are you going to explain to your students the fact that the Fourth of July as a holiday in this country if you are not going to tell them anything about the Revolutionary War? If you cannot even use the word "war," how are you going to explain to these students that the country honors those who founded it and who fought that war; if you can't tell them the name of the commander of the Continental Army and the forces on the American side of that war because you think that name somehow no longer matters?

How are you going to describe what happened on the Fourth of July if you cannot use the name of Thomas Jefferson, the author of the Declaration of Independence, that was proclaimed to the country on that day? How are you going to explain to high school students who decide they are going to enter public service, and take an oath of office, that they are swearing to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States when you will not have been able to describe the Constitutional Convention, the President of which was George Washington, and one of the leading figures in which was Benjamin Franklin, if you have exorcized the names of Washington and Franklin from your textbooks? What does this mean to a student if you say that the Constitution came from or describe the convention that created it?

How are you going to describe some of the major problems that have existed in this country from the great battle that was the Civil War, that went across five Aprils, and divided this country in a fundamental way that has taken us a century or more to heal?

No, we can't discuss that. We can talk about conflicts, but we will not discuss the leaders of that war. We will not discuss many of the problems of that war because it isn't politically correct to raise these issues anymore. We have talked about history in this Chamber before. There have been those who have been trying to rewrite our history, trying to change it and shape it and slice it and dice it in ways that become politically convenient in today's world. We cannot do that and be accurate to the requirement of telling the truth about what really happened.

That is Orwellian. We read the novel by George Orwell, "1984," in which the hero of the novel spent all of his time at his job changing the past. He worked for the Ministry of Truth and his job was to go back and correct the record so as to rob the present society of a true understanding of the past in the name of the state, thus the adjective "Orwellian" entered our language.

What is being proposed in New Jersey is Orwellian. It is stupid and it needs to be condemned.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Minnesota.

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS EXTENSION

Mr. DAYTON. Mr. President, I rise today to speak on behalf of the amend-increase the amount of money that those who are receiving unemployment benefits will get during those 13 weeks because, again, we are talking about people who, through no fault or choice of their own, are thrown out of the workforce.

In many States, those unemployment benefits are not even enough to reach a bare minimum poverty level. We can afford to be generous. We can’t afford not to be generous for people in that circumstance. I commend Senator DURBIN for this important addition to Senator DASCHLE’s amendment. I hope we will receive today the kind of compassion and support the President purportedly will be calling for tonight, and that we can do, in advance of his speech, what we should have done months ago, which is to provide this extension and include others in it.

Mr. President, I yield the floor and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, it is my understanding, under a previous unanimous consent request, I am recognized now between 11 and 11:30 to share time with those in support and in opposition to my amendment, and at 11:30 there will be a vote on my amendment No. 2714.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator is correct.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. CLINTON). Morning business is closed.

HOPE FOR CHILDREN ACT—Resumed

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 622) to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide for a credit, and for other purposes.

Pending:

Daschle/Baucus amendment No. 2698, in the nature of a substitute.

Durbin amendment No. 2714 (to amendment No. 2698), to provide for a temporary increase in the Federal medical assistance percentage for the Medicaid program for fiscal year 2002.

Allen amendment No. 2702 (to the language proposed to be stricken by amendment No. 2698), to exclude from gross income certain terrorist attack zone compensation of civilian uniformed personnel.

Reid for Harkin amendment No. 2721 (to amendment No. 2698), to provide for emergency agriculture assistance.

Bunning/Inhofe modified amendment No. 2699 (to the language proposed to be stricken by amendment No. 2698), to provide that the exclusion from gross income for foster care payments shall also apply to payments by qualified placement services.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, there shall be 30 minutes of debate on the pending Durbin amendment No. 2714, to be equally divided in the usual form.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, this is an amendment to the Economic Stimulus Act of 2001, and it relates to unemployment compensation. There are many arguments that I will make about the justice and fairness of this amendment, but that is not where I am going to start. I want to start with the economics of this amendment.

This is an economic stimulus bill. It is not designed first and foremost to be a bill for restoring justice to unemployment compensation, although I think this amendment achieves that. The first thing it is supposed to do is help the economy move forward. If there is a problem in America’s economy today that is easily defined, it is the fact that we have an overcapacity and overproduction of goods and services and limited demand. As a result, businesses across America have said: People are not buying as much as they used to, so we are going to cut back on production. We are going to lay off workers.

That has had a ripple effect in the wrong direction. It has created a recession, which has created unemployment, which has lessened business activity. First and foremost, whatever we do in an economic stimulus package should attack this problem. First and foremost, it should stimulate demand and spending for goods and services. And in stimulating that demand, I believe it will increase the demand for production, and it will increase employment in production industries and start this economic base again.

Here is something that should be kept in mind. For every dollar we put into the economy, we get an impact. We don’t know what the impact might be until we see who receives the dollar. If you happen to be a person of great wealth who, frankly, doesn’t take each dollar you receive and put it into a purchase, then what they call the multiple effect might not be a dollar for a dollar. That card may go into a savings account or into an investment. It won’t go into the actual demand for goods and services that creates the jobs I mentioned.

We know dollars given to unemployed people are dollars that are spent and respent in a hurry. In fact, the Labor Department has come out with a study that says for every dollar in unemployment benefit we put into the economy, it increases the gross domestic product, the sum total of goods and services in America, by $2.15. These funds are spent and turned over several times in the economy. So if we want to really get the engine roaring when it comes to demand, give the money to the people who are struggling on a daily basis. They will spend it in a hurry. They need to spend it on the obvious necessities of life.

First and foremost, this is an economic stimulus amendment for the justice and fairness of this amendment. It is a sad reality that only 33 percent of the people who are unemployed receive unemployment insurance. This was not always the case. In fact, not too long ago, 75 percent of the people who were unemployed received unemployment insurance. That was in 1975, 27 years ago. Now it is down to 33 percent. Why the difference? Why is it if you were unemployed in 1975, you were much more likely, more than twice as likely to receive unemployment insurance? Because the nature of employment has changed in America. It is no longer the full-time employee, the 40-hour-a-week employee, who is unemployed. More and more, it is the part-time employee, the mother with children, taking a job and only working 4 days a week and who doesn’t get any benefits on the job, who finally loses that job and then, unemployed, turns to a system which says: No, the door is closed. We don’t have unemployment insurance for part-time workers.

My amendment seeks to do two things: first, to increase unemployment insurance benefits by providing an additional $25, which isn’t a huge sum, but it can be helpful to people who are unemployed. Sadly, the unemployment insurance payments to individual workers across America have been falling behind. Take Illinois, for example. The average benefit is only $1,085 a month. The average rent for a two-bedroom apartment is $776 a month. A family couldn’t even pay the rent on that money, never mind food, clothes, utilities, and all other family expenses.

Since 1990, we have seen the percentage of lost income replaced by unemployment benefits falling 5 percent. The decline has had a serious impact. on a lot of families. Benefits vary by State, but the maximum benefits are as low as $190 a week. Think about keeping a family together with an unemployment payment of $190 a week.

What we are trying to do is to give a slight increase, a deserved increase in unemployment benefits.

Secondly, we expand coverage. As I mentioned, take a look at unemployed Americans today compared to 25 years ago. You will find more and more unemployed part-time workers. Because of that, unemployed insurance, they ignore the 6 months before a person loses the job. So many people who have only had a job for a short period of time qualify for nothing. So you have fewer and fewer people with this coverage.

We have to supplement this current unemployment insurance program to provide coverage for welfare-to-work people, women and others who played by the rules and paid into the system. These are the people who are suffering through the cracks. This Durbin Amendment tries to close the cracks. I thank Senator WELLSTONE of Minnesota, Senator DAYTON as well, and Senator LANDRIEU and those who have cosponsored this amendment. I will start because I want to give some of them an opportunity to speak.

I will yield to the Senator from Iowa or anyone who is going to speak.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Does the Senator from Minnesota want some time?

Mr. GRASSLEY. First of all, I need to know how much time our side has.

The PENDING OFFICER. Fifteen minutes.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Madam President, I would like to spend some time for important closing remarks.

workers who are not available for work, and workers who even refuse suitable work. There are a number of States that allow workers to limit their job search to part-time employment and still collect unemployment compensation. This is what the State decides it wants to do, let the State do it accordingly.

However, this is voluntary State decision. The Federal Government has never dictated such eligibility standards to the States. There is no need for Congress to preempt State decisions on this matter. Expanding eligibility on the basis of part-time work would create new administrative burdens on the respective States. The States would have to decide what hours of the day and what days of the week are suitable for part-time work. As an example, if a worker loses his Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, noon to 3 p.m. cashier job, can that person still collect unemployment benefits if he refuses to accept a Thursday, Friday, Saturday 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. cashier job?

So State unemployment agencies, right now, lack the resources that it takes to investigate contested claims, like mine, and others that are too numerous to describe at this point. Thus, it is for that administrative body to make accurate determinations so that you have the enforcement of the unemployment compensation laws the way. That is why it is wrong, it seems to me, to establish this policy, as if Congress knows what is best for the 50 States and knows that it can be enforced in a certain way, or let the individual State legislatures make the determination on how they want to expand their unemployment compensation laws, and at the same time they will know whether or not they have the administrative capability of enforcing the law the way the State legislature put it.

Case after case, part-time workers is going to take years to develop. It is not going to take years in Iowa because we have that decision made and there is a lot of case law there right now. Most part-time workers live with other workers. Thirty-five percent are married with a working spouse. Thirty percent of these part-time workers are children with working parents. Most of the time when workers live with another worker, they will have less incentive to work—part-time workers—is a factor that should be taken into consideration when you start to cover a new class of people at the Federal level without letting the States make that determination. One of the premises of unemployment compensation for everybody is that you are actively seeking a job, that you are out there going door to door to put in your application, asking if there are any vacancies, and to try to benefit yourself during a process in which you are being helped by the unemployment compensation. It is not meant to make sure that you have basic necessities while you are trying to make this determination. It is not meant to pay people who are not actively seeking jobs. So there ought to be some relationship between those and the extent to which we include part-time workers. Without the State making that determination, there might not be that continued relationship. That is a basic philosophical underpinning of our unemployment compensation laws. It seems to me that if we allow this disincentive in accepting new employment, one of the main factors that can make the determination on how they want to expand it can be enforced in a certain way, or let the individual State legislatures make the determination on how they want to expand their unemployment compensation laws. If that is what that is about, my colleague from Minnesota is recognized.

Mr. DURBIN. I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Louisiana.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana is recognized.

Mr. LANDRIEU. Madam President, I rise to support the Durbin amendment, and I will follow up on what the Senator from Minnesota said in two other ways. No. 1, this amendment is truly a stimulative amendment. Every dollar that will be paid out at no expense to our States will help thousands of people who are unemployed and underemployed by giving them a chance to collect some income while they look for other work and get back into the workforce. Every single dollar is basically going to be circulated back into our economy.

This amendment, as much as it is for unemployed workers, is for grocery stores, for restaurants, and for drugstores. It is for businesses, small businesses in Louisiana, in Illinois, in Minnesota, and in Iowa where the businesspeople are struggling. Why? Because no one is walking into their restaurants to buy the meal or to buy the item.

When we give, through unemployment benefits, dollars for our constituents, what will they do with them? They are not going to put it in their savings account. They most certainly are not going to buy stock. They are going to spend the money at the local restaurant, at the local drugstore, and at the local cleaners. That is why this effort helps us get our economy back. When consumers spend more money, then those business owners will hire another person or two and more people get back to work.

No. 2, extending these benefits only helps our States. We are picking up the tab for it. Does it cost something? Yes. Is it somewhat expensive? Yes. But we can most certainly afford to help our States at this time since the loss is not due to anything they have done but due to the terrorist attacks and other factors that have affected our economy. I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

I yield the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, how much time do we have remaining on this side?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Four minutes eighteen seconds.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, I yield the floor to the Senator Grassley, for his statement. I will make a couple of points and echo some of the things he said.
One point my colleague did not mention was how much this is going to cost. I have heard some people say this will cost $8 billion. I have heard other estimates that it will cost $10 billion. If I ask my colleague from Illinois, is that $15 billion in addition to the underlying amendment or $15 billion total? He is indicating it is in addition. Am I correct, in addition?

I do not know, and I will ask my colleague if we have a CBO estimate on the cost of the amendment. I have not seen it.

Mr. DURBIN. Will the Senator yield for a moment? I was wrong; it is $15 billion total, not in addition to the underlying amendment.

Mr. NICKLES. If my memory serves me correctly, the Daschle amendment has an unemployment extension of 13 weeks, and that is about $8 billion. I believe. The cost of this is $15 billion. This is a lot of money, as can be expected, because when we hear people say it is going to benefit thousands of our constituents, from where is the money coming? It is coming from the Government.

This is primarily a State program. We have to decide: Are we going to have the Federal Government take over State management of this program? That is what we are doing with this amendment.

This amendment determines what quarter or what eligibility period. In the past, States have always determined that. So we are going to tell every Governor: You are going to have to use this last quarter. We have not done that in the past. We are going to tell them: This is the quarter to use to determine eligibility and, incidentally, States, you could have provided assistance to temporary workers if you so chose, but not costs telling you you have to provide that assistance.

How do we define "temporary"? My daughter is a senior at Oklahoma State University. She works X number of hours a week, is temporary. It is not 40 hours a week; it is less than 40 hours. Is she eligible? I think she would be. She might be very displeased with my vote in just a moment.

This amendment costs a lot of money. A temporary worker is going to be eligible to receive the same weekly benefits as a full-time worker. Weekly benefits in New York are a whole lot more than in Oklahoma or a whole lot more than in North Dakota.

In this amendment, unemployment benefits are as low as $105 and some are $400. I believe New York is closer to $400, and I believe some States are only over $100. Yet we are going to tell those States not only that they have to increase their benefits by at least 15 percent and/or $25, whichever is greater but, yes, now it applies to temporary employees. Do those temporary employees work 10 hours a week, 20 hours a week, 4 hours a week? How far are we going to go in micromanaging who is eligible?

We are going to take a program primarily financed by the States—States have always determined eligibility; States have always determined benefits—and we are going to adjust those figures and say Uncle Sam is going to pick it all up and it is going to cost $15 billion.

I have serious reservations about that. I do not know that my daughter who is working part time to go to school should be qualifying for unemployment compensation. I do not think that is right. If the Federal Government assists her if she gets a student loan to go to school, that is one way. I do not think the unemployment system is the way we should be financing full-time students through part-time work. I think she would be eligible under this proposal. I do not think that is right.

I do not think it is right for us to use the guise of a so-called stimulus package and say let's just expand the program greatly beyond what most States have done. Most States do not pay unemployment compensation for part-time workers. They decided that. They have a State legislature. They meet on this issue. They know how much it costs, and yet we are going to do it very quickly and there are probably not three Senators who know how much this will cost.

We are going to tell the States they have to do it.

I think it is a serious mistake. I urge my colleagues to vote no on this amendment.

To alert my colleagues, I am going to make a budget point of order after the conclusion of the debate.

I reserve the remainder of our time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. How much time is remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Two and a half minutes.

Mr. DURBIN. How much time is remaining on the other side?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is no time remaining.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. I will be brief.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts.

Mr. KENNEDY. Madam President, since September 11, our Nation's workers have come together in the face of great tragedy. We were unwilling to support any recovery package unless it contained unemployment benefits, health care and job training, emergency Grants for unemployment insurance, health care and job training, guaranteeing that few funds would actually go to unemployment insurance.

Even if those predictions come true, the consequences will linger for working families.

The unemployment rate will continue to rise. Laid-off workers will still have great difficulty finding new jobs, and other workers may still be facing layoffs.

More than 58,000 laid-off Massachusetts workers have exhausted their benefits in the last twelve months. It includes workers like Christina Young of Billerica, MA. Christina was laid off at the end of June and, since then she has been looking for a new job. She recently learned that she is pregnant. Christina's unemployment benefits, her husband's income and their savings were keeping them afloat, paying the mortgage, the expensive winter heating bills, their bills for health care and groceries. But Christina's unemployment benefits are going to expire, and now she can't afford her pre-natal care.

Selma Burgert of Malden, MA was laid off by Polaroid in May and her unemployment benefits ran out last month. She has been looking for work for months. But when she applies for a job, she finds herself competing with two hundred to three hundred other applicants. She is fortunate to have savings to get by. Selma knows many people who aren't as fortunate, and have had to sell their homes or cut down on the food they provide for their families.

In communities throughout Massachusetts and the Nation, workers like Christina, and many of our colleagues in Congress have staked our efforts to give workers the support and assistance they deserve. The Speaker of our colleagues in Congress have staked our efforts to give workers the support and assistance they deserve. The Speaker of the Senate, the majority leader, the minority leader, the administration, and Congress have worked tirelessly to provide unemployed workers, including the men and women of the Massachusetts unemployment insurance system, the benefits that they need to support their families.

We are going to talk about an amendment that the Speaker of the Senate has offered to provide for unemployment benefits, but at a time when the Nation's unemployment rate is over 6 percent, and the number of unemployed has doubled, this is an incredibly inadequate response.

As I am sure you have seen today, we are seeing more layoffs every day. We are seeing the consequences of what the Senate Majority Leader offered as an inadequate response to the unemployment crisis. We are seeing the consequences of what the Senate Majority Leader offered as an inadequate response to the unemployment crisis.
They offered a plan to provide Reed Act distributions that would primarily be used for State tax cuts and could go into State unemployment trust funds, instead of offering new or extended benefits.

Our amendment demonstrates our commitment to helping workers.

It updates the unemployment insurance system to meet the urgent needs of the economy. By improving unemployment insurance, our amendment both stabilizes the economy and helps the families who need help the most. Every dollar invested in unemployment insurance boosts the economy by $2.15. Unemployment insurance also helps to prevent the loss of even more jobs during a recession.

The amendment makes three important changes. First, it extends unemployment benefits for 13 weeks for laid-off workers across the nation. Second, it expands the coverage to include laid-off part-time and low-wage workers who previously could only receive benefits. Third, it increases meager unemployment benefit levels. These changes will help nearly four-fifths of laid-off workers who currently are not receiving benefits.

Even during good times, about a third of those receiving unemployment insurance exhaust their benefits. During recessions, the number rises.

That’s why Congress has provided federally-funded extended benefits repeatedly during recessions in the past.

Today, more than two million laid-off workers have already exhausted their benefits. How much longer are we going to wait before we help those workers? The time to help them is now.

Although part-time and low-wage workers are least likely to have savings and other safety-nets to help them, few are eligible for unemployment benefits. Laid-off part-time and low-wage workers have paid into the system, they often fail to receive the benefits they need. Recent data suggest that only 18 percent of unemployed low-wage workers were collecting benefits. Expanding coverage will benefit more than 600,000 additional unemployed part-time and low-wage workers. The time to do it is now.

It is also time to increase weekly unemployment benefits by the greater of $25 a week, or 15 percent. This increase in benefits, an average of $133 a week, will be an immediate stimulus to the economy. Unemployed households will spend it to pay the rent, buy a medical bill, buy groceries, keep the family car running, or hire a babysitter during job interviews.

Currently, unemployment benefits do not replace enough lost wages to keep workers out of poverty. In 2000, the national average unemployment benefit only replaced 33 percent of workers’ lost income, a major reduction from the 46 percent of workers’ wages replaced by jobless benefits during the recessions of the 1970’s and 1980’s. During an economic crisis, unemployed workers have few opportunities to rejoin a declining workforce. They depend on unemployment benefits. Adding $150 a month to unemployment benefits will stimulate the economy and help these laid-off workers support their families while they look for a new job.

More than three hundred thousand laid-off workers in Massachusetts would benefit from this amendment. At least thirteen million laid-off workers would benefit nationwide.

The American public is ready for honest action that genuinely helps these deserving workers. We passed an airline security bill, without providing any help for workers. We adjourned for the recess without providing any help for workers. We owe it to the millions of Americans who have lost their jobs to act now to provide the support they need and deserve.

In conclusion, Madam President, at the time of September 11, I think most of us believed there was a new spirit in America and in this country. We have tried to respond to those who lost loved ones. We have seen generosity in reaching out to families all over this country. There is a new spirit in America for people who are hurting and are in need.

What we are talking about today are men and women who have lost their jobs, often as a result of the terrorist acts. There are other incidents where they might not be directly related, but by and large it is as a result of the terrorist attack. In this Senate, we hear Members nickel and dime American workers who work hard, play by the rules, put in a good day’s work, and as a result of economic conditions have lost their jobs.

There is $38 billion that has been paid into a fund that otherwise would have gone to workers’ salaries. That fund is out there, and we are using $15 billion. We used it four times in the 1990s, with only 33 votes—or 33 votes—in the Senate. We are reaching out to part-time workers and low-income workers. They, too, have paid into that fund. The money is there for this kind of circumstance. It is there for the Federal Government to act.

Why? Because in many of these States there is an economic pinching. They cannot afford to take the kind of economic action, and that is why this program was developed. Now is the time to take the action. Let us not nickel and dime America’s workers who have suffered as a result of the kinds of attacks we saw on this country. That is what this is about. Are we going to stand up for those men and women who want to work and should be able to work? This is what the Durbin amendment is about, and I look forward to supporting it.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, how much time is remaining?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thirty seconds.

Mr. DURBIN. This is not a State rights issue. It is all Federal money. The Governor of Oklahoma can decline the money. They do not have to help the 78,000 unemployed workers in Oklahoma who would be benefited by this. They can exert their State rights. They would be fools to do it because they know these people need a helping hand in Iowa, in Oklahoma, and in Illinois.

I really am sad that people believe the stereotype that unemployed people are lazy. Could any of us live on $1,000 a month? That is what these people are struggling to get by with. To give them $25 a week is the breaking point for too many. Senator, why not $25 a week? This is not even nickels and dimes.

These are women trying to keep their families together. These are mothers and fathers down on their luck. And this Senate cannot spare $25 a week? That is what this vote is all about. I hope the Members of the Senate will support the people who want to get back to work but need a helping hand and support the Durbin amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, I raise a point of order under section 302(f) of the Congressional Budget Act against the pending amendment No. 2714 for exceeding the spending allocations of the Senate Committee on Finance.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Illinois.

Mr. DURBIN. Madam President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable section of that act for the purposes of the pending amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

The clerk will call the roll.

The question is on agreeing to the pending amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada (Mr. BINGMAN) and the Senator from Montana (Mr. INHOFE) would each vote "no."

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 57, nays 35, as follows:

[Rollcall Vote No. 6 Leg.]
Mr. REID. I suggest to my friend that maybe we ought to have 20 minutes on your side and 10 minutes on our side. In that way, we could be finished at a reasonable time for the conferences, which are kind of important today.

Mr. NICKLES. I will not object to that.

Mr. REID. Madam President, I amend my unanimous consent request to allow the Bond proponents to have 20 minutes and the opposition to have 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, I thank my friend and colleague. I say to my colleagues who said they wanted to speak on the amendment, we will now have a vote on the Bond-Collins amendment at 12:35. If they still wish to speak, they need to be coming to the Chamber shortly. I thank my friend from Nevada.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Ms. COLLINS. Madam President, I yield myself 5 minutes from the time allotted on the amendment on this side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized.

Ms. COLLINS. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Kansas, Mr. BROWNBACK, be added as a cosponsor to this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Ms. COLLINS. Madam President, I am very pleased to join the Senator from Missouri in strong support of this amendment to help our small businesses. Over 95 percent of the businesses in this Nation qualify as small businesses. They are the businesses that are creating the vast majority of new jobs. Small businesses are the engine of our economy, and they are the backbone of virtually every community in our country. Yet the economic stimulus package put forth by the majority leader does virtually nothing to stimulate this essential part of our economy. The Bond-Collins amendment would rectify this omission by allowing small businesses to expense up to $40,000 of new equipment that they need to buy.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, I also want to extend my appreciation to the minority. We could have, through procedural means, gotten another vote on the minority. We could have, through procedural means, gotten another vote on the amendment later in the debate on this economic stimulus package.

Mr. REID. Madam President, I also want to extend my appreciation to the minority. We could have, through procedural means, gotten another vote on the amendment later in the debate on this economic stimulus package.

I ask unanimous consent that there be 15 minutes for debate prior to a vote in relation to the Bond amendment No. 2717 with the time divided as follows: 10 minutes for Senator BOND, and 5 minutes for those who oppose the Bond amendment; and at that time there be a vote in relation to the amendment with no amendments in order prior to that.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, serving the right to object, I understand there are a couple more people on our side who wish to debate the issue. The chairman of the Finance Committee just suggested 30 minutes on each side. I know the Senator is also trying to work this around the two lunches. If he could modify his request and have 30 minutes on each side, that would be great.
than the 20 minutes. We have 10 minutes. At this date we don't find anyone in opposition to the amendment. So if you need more time, we will be happy to give you some of ours.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

The Senator from Missouri.

Mr. BOND. Madam President, seeing no one ready to speak from the other side, I will yield myself such time as I may consume. I urge my colleagues who want to speak on the amendment to hurry up and get down here. We have lots of work to do, and we are going to be able to finish debate on this amendment fairly expeditiously. Anybody who wants to say anything about it, we invite them to come.

As my colleague and strong ally, the Senator from Maine, has said, this amendment is very important to help small businesses in their recovery. We know the entire economy took a severe hit or, on top of a recession that has really taken its toll on many small businesses. How we get out of this recession is to encourage small businesses to lead us out.

Small businesses are the dynamic engine that drives the economy. They provide all new jobs. You are the ones that grow when the rest of the economy is stagnant. There is no better vehicle than a stimulus package to include a provision to encourage small businesses to purchase more equipment. This amendment provides a direct stimulus to that small business sector by allowing them to write off new equipment purchases immediately.

If you have ever run a small business, as I have, you know the thought of having to set up a depreciation schedule for a tractor or a piece of equipment and figure out how to depreciate it over several years is a daunting task. If you are a small business person, you don't want to have to have an accountant, or depend on it. It is usually you and the frog in your pocket who are running the business. If you are an individual proprietor or even if you have several employees, you don't want to go through the time and expense of hiring somebody to set up a depreciation schedule. So direct expenses would allow small businesses to avoid the complexity of depreciation rules as well as the unrealistic recovery period for most assets.

For example, under current law, if you buy a computer, it has to be depreciated over 5 years. People who are very active users of computers tell me that the useful life is 2 to 3 years at best. Something new and something better has come out, but you are still depreciating the old equipment. You haven't been able to write it off on your taxes.

This amendment has several important advantages, especially in light of the current economic conditions. By allowing new equipment purchased to be deducted currently, right now, the year they are put in service, it will provide much-needed capital for small businesses. With that freed up capital, a business can invest in new equipment which will benefit the small enterprise, but in turn it will stimulate other industries that are producing and selling the equipment they are going to put in service.

Moreover, new equipment will contribute to continued productivity growth in the business community which Federal Reserve Chairman Greenspan has repeatedly stressed is essential to the long-term vitality and health of our economy.

That is what allows us to hire more people and pay better wages—to increase productivity. A healthy and growing business keeps its employees working, and we hope it will lead to new employees being added to the payroll.

Finally, the amendment will simplify the tax law for countless small businesses. Greater expensing means less equipment subject to onerous depreciation tax. If you were to claim the full $40,000 in expenses if it purchased and used as a business, you would be able to claim the full $40,000 in expenses if it purchased and put in service no more than $325,000 of property during the year. That is to make sure it applies primarily to small businesses.

In short, this amendment's equipment expensing changes are a win-win for small business consumers, employees of small businesses, equipment manufacturers, and our national economy.

Some have contended that maybe we wouldn't be able to think about this only for 1 year. We need to give small businesses not only an initial boost, but we need to keep the support coming to sustain the recovery. If we use the last recession of 1991 as an example, it took 21 months before the unemployment rates started to drop consistently. That is nearly 2 years for small businesses and others to hire the people back who were laid off in the recession. Small businesses represent 99 percent of all employers. They provide about 75 percent of the net new jobs. And with people unemployed, we need to get those producers of the new jobs, the small businesses, into business.

Based on this unemployment data, limiting the amendment or any other small business stimulus to 1 year would not suffice. We need to keep the small business stimulus going for at least 2 years to ensure the recovery in the small business sector and the jobs market is sustained.

Madam President, I ask my colleagues to support the amendment and urge them, if they want to support the amendment Senator Collins and many other Senators and I have supported, to come to the Chamber. If they have arguments against it, we will be interested in hearing those as well.

I yield such time as he may require to the distinguished minority whip.

Mr. NICKLES. Madam President, I wish to compliment my colleagues, Senators Collins and Bond, for their leadership and persistence in saying, let's get something in this bill to help create jobs. Both Senators Bond and Collins have spoken of the growth in small business and the need for small business to be able to grow. This particular provision will create jobs. I compliment them.

I don't see much in the underlying proposal that will create jobs. This one will create jobs because small businesses will be able to expense more items up to $40,000. For a period of years, it has a small business that may have a few employees, that is a big deal. I used to have a janitor's service. It was my wife and myself and a few other people. If you allow me to expense everything, I don't have to amortize all the equipment I am purchasing because, frankly, it is less than $40,000.

You get to expense it. You get to write it off when you write the check. Instead of spreading it out over several years, if I can expense all your new employees, you recoup your investments, you can recoup it in the year that you made the investment. That is a big deal for small business. Most of the jobs that will be created this year will be in small business. It is not going to be General Motors or in the big corporations, it is going to be in small business. You are saying, let's expense up to $40,000, an improvement from $24,000.

It is an excellent amendment. It will help small business. By helping small business, we will be able to create more jobs.

I thank both of my colleagues for their leadership. I believe this amendment is going to pass. I compliment them for that. This is one of the few things we have seen that will actually stimulate the economy. We have seen a lot of proposals. Let's write more checks, let's give people money who didn't pay taxes, expand unemployment compensation, but people are not working. This is a proposal that says, let's create an environment that will create jobs so people won't need unemployment compensation, so they won't be asking more from the Government. They will be getting a job.

I thank my colleagues for their excellent proposal. I urge all my colleagues to support it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maine.

Ms. COLLINS. Madam President, I thank the Senator from Oklahoma for his kind comments. The Senator from Oklahoma brought up a very important point. It is very burdensome record-keeping for small businesses to have to deal with depreciation schedules and sometimes very unrealistic recovery periods.

For example, most computers are required to be depreciated over a 5-year period, but we all know from our experience that the usual life of a computer is 2 to 3 years. The Senator from Oklahoma has raised an important point. Not only will this put more cash into the pockets of small businesses and... allow them to go ahead with investments that have been put on hold because of this tax incentive, but it will also relieve them from some very burdensome recordkeeping requirements. That simplification is another advantage of the Bond-Collins amendment.

I thank my colleague from Missouri who does such a great job as the ranking minority member of the Senate Small Business Committee. It has been a great pleasure to work with him on this amendment. I believe this is the one provision we have debated that will make a real difference to those entrepreneurs throughout our country, to those small mom-and-pop firms that are creating good jobs in communities throughout our country. So I hope we will have a strong show of support for this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. BOND. Madam President, I gather there are no more people seeking to speak on this amendment. Rather than wait, we can vote. But first, I thank my colleague from Oklahoma, Senator NICKLES, a real champion of making the economy grow by putting people back to work, and Senator COLLINS has been one of our great allies. Anytime I have a small business provision, she wants to be a champion of it because she knows small businesses are driving the Maine economy, as well as in the rest of the country.

We are prepared to yield back all time on this side. I ask for the yeas and nays on this amendment.

Mr. DAYTON. We yield back all our time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time is yielded back. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from Hawaii (Mr. AKAKA), the Senator from California (Mrs. BOXER), and the Senator from Connecticut (Mr. DODD) are necessarily absent.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Nevada (Mr. ENSIGN), the Senator from Oklahoma (Mr. INHOFE), the Senator from Tennessee (Mr. THOMPSON), and the Senator from Montana (Mr. BURNS) are necessarily absent.

I further announce that if present and voting the Senator from Oklahoma (Mr. INHOFE) and the Senator from Montana (Mr. BURNS) would each vote ‘‘yea.’’

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 90, nays 2, as follows:

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 279

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask Senator HARKIN be allowed to call up his amendment at this time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The amendment is read twice and passed, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

Mr. HARKIN. That is the amendment which this Senator offered yesterday; is that correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It was offered by Senator REID on behalf of the Senator from Iowa.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, if the Senator will withhold just for one brief comment, the minority did not have a manager here. This has been cleared. The unanimous consent we just got has been cleared with Senator GRASSLEY. I had also talked to those—I thought—on the other side who knew what we were doing.

If the Senator will withhold proceeding until we make sure someone, a manager on the other side, is here because we don’t want to take advantage of them because we got a unanimous consent agreement when no one was on the floor. If the Senator will withhold, the staff has gone to seek someone on the floor. If the Senator will withhold, the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

Mr. HARKIN, I withhold.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mrs. CARNAHAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUEST—S. 1630

Mrs. CARNAHAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of Calendar No. 218, S. 1630; that the bill be read three times and passed, and the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table with no intervening action.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, on behalf of the Republican leader, I object.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Objection is heard again.

Mrs. CARNAHAN. Mr. President, I am disappointed to hear objection to passing a bipartisan bill to help family farmers. We spent a great deal of time last year trying to pass a farm bill. I supported that effort. I support reviving that effort again this year.

The legislation that I am trying to pass today is also aimed at helping all-farming family farmers. The bill would extend chapter 12 of the bankruptcy code for 6 additional months. Chapter 12 offers expedited bankruptcy procedures for family farmers in an effort to accommodate their special needs. It was first enacted in 1986. It has been extended several times since then—most recently earlier this year.

The provisions of chapter 12 allow family farmers to reorganize their debts as opposed to liquidating their assets. These provisions can be invaluable for family farmers struggling to stay in business during difficult times. Unfortunately, chapter 12 expired on October 1 last year.

My bill seeks to extend these provisions for six additional months and to reinstate them retroactively to the date when they expired. Retroactivity will ensure that there are no gaps in availability of these procedures. I hope this will be the last extension that is necessary.

The larger bankruptcy reform bill that is currently pending before a House-Senate conference committee includes a permanent extension of chapter 12. Nevertheless, American family farmers should not have to wait for us to complete our work on the bankruptcy reform bill. The very least we can do to assist farmers now is to reenact these noncontroversial procedures. That is why I am so puzzled by this anonymous objection.

Legislature extending these provisions passed the House of Representatives by a vote of 408 to 2 last year and subsequently passed the Senate by unanimous consent. The Judiciary Committee unanimously reported the bill I am seeking to pass today on a voice vote. Furthermore, the bill has several bipartisan cosponsors, including my colleague from Missouri, Senator KIT BOND; the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Senator LEAHY; and the lead sponsor of the Senate bankruptcy reform bill, Senator GRASSLEY.

I urge any Senator who has any concern about this bill to speak with me. I will be more than happy to work with you to address any issues my colleagues may have in an effort to secure expedited passage of this bill.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

AMENDMENT NO. 279

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, as I understand it, the pending business before the floor is amendment No. 279, offered yesterday by Senator REID on this Senator’s behalf. I rise to speak for a few minutes on that amendment.

I thank the Senator from Montana for giving me the courtesy of going first because of the time schedule I have this afternoon.

Senator BAUCUS and Senator DASCHLE have provided great leadership on this important issue of the stimulus. There is one part of the amendment that is before us that is vitally important to all of our States as we are facing this downturn in the economy. That part of the amendment deals with the Federal share for Medicaid. It is called FMAP, the Federal Match for Medicaid Program.

Under the provision in the underlying Daschle amendment, and under the leadership of Senator BAUCUS, they did provide for the States. They provided a 1.5-percent increase to every State in their 2002 Federal match for Medicaid. That would provide about $3.5 billion in additional Federal Medicaid payments to the States.

The second part was, because of unemployment measures previously calculated, some States were scheduled to go down in 2002 in their Federal match. The amendment before us under the Senator from Iowa holds those States harmless. That is about 29 States that would have lost money this year. And under the Baucus amendment, they are held harmless.

The third part is that States with high unemployment would receive an additional 1.5 percent in their 2002 Federal match. This would provide assistance to about 16 States that have very high rates of unemployment. This policy proposal is extremely important for these States.

The pending amendment I have offered would only change one part of that. It would take the 1.5-percent increase for all States and increase it to 3 percent. In other words, it would add 1.5 percent to the Federal match for all States. I believe that is important because when the committee developed this bill and the stimulus package, the National Association of State Budget Officers had predicted a $5 billion shortfall for the States for 2002. That was last fall. By the end of the year, the National Association of State Budget Officers had updated their prediction for the shortfalls in our State budgets to $38 billion—in other words, double. I have heard from my Governor and I know others have heard from their Governors and their legislatures—about the cuts they are going to have to make in their State budgets.

The problem is, one of the places where they have to cut, because of that, is the biggest pot for most States is Medicaid. If a State cuts $1 out of their budget on Medicaid, they may lose $2 or $3 or $4 of Federal money. I don’t know what it is for the Presiding Officer’s State, and I don’t know what the Medicaid match is there. I do know in Iowa it is about 3 to 1. So that for every dollar the State would not have in their budget for Medicaid, they would lose $3 or Federal money. It isn’t only that the States cut the Medicaid budget by $1 and hurts one Medicaid recipient. If it cuts Medicaid by $1, it is hurting three or four times as many people. It has that kind of a multiplier effect.

While I am very supportive of what Chairman BAUCUS and Senator DASCHLE have done, we recognize now that these new projections of the shortfalls in our State budgets command us to put more into the program of reaching these States for their Federal match.

On the other two aspects of the amendment, on the one that holds States harmless, that is still in my amendment. And on the other one that provides for an increase in the FMAP to help the States with unusually high unemployment, that is there also. I wanted to make sure that every State received the amount of Federal matching money they need.

Again, another reason why this is so important is because most States have a requirement in their Constitution that they have to balance their budgets. It is a constitutional requirement. They can’t get around it. When they start cutting across-the-board cuts, which seems at first blush to be the most logical, they just do that. They can’t get around it. When they start across-the-board cuts, which seems at first blush to be the most logical, they just do that. They can’t get around it.

The PRESIDENT OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I will support the Harkin amendment. No. 2719, that, whatever the appropriate order, the amendment be set aside and voted on at the appropriate time and that the pending business be the regular order.

The PRESIDENT OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I will support the Harkin amendment. No. 2719, in response to the numerous phone calls and letters I have received from my constituents in recent years regarding the increasing cost of health care. Nevertheless, I am concerned with increasing these kinds of mandatory expenditures that are able to bypass the consideration of the Appropriations Committees.

While I believe that this Congress should address the rising cost of health care in the United States, we should also keep in mind that there are real solutions.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I do not know if there are any Senators who wish to debate the current amendment. At the appropriate time, I will ask the Senator from Iowa to acknowledge there is no more debate so we can set aside his amendment and go to the regular order.

The Senator raises a very important point that in the last 2 years, States’ economies have generally deteriorated. As a consequence, there is more pressure on their Medicaid budgets. States are losing revenue. States are moving more toward deficit positions. They are not as healthy as they once were.

When States begin to cut spending and cut services, there is a tendency to cut back a bit on Medicaid programs to balance the State budget.

The Senator is proposing a significant percentage increase in the matches the Federal Government make to States under Medicaid to make that up that difference.

That so-called difference, the drop, occurs for a second reason. We have very old data. The reimbursement to States under Medicaid is based on data up through the year 2000. States were doing pretty well in 1999 and 2000. So there is a tendency for the reimbursement rate to be out of whack, out of sync with the current fiscal situation of the States; namely, tougher times, deteriorating surpluses, sometimes potential deficits. The amendment offered by the Senator from Iowa attempts to address this problem.

One might question whether the amendment is too rich or not rich enough. It is a question of degree. He essentially wants to add 3 percent to all States’ match and an extra 1.5 percent for States with particularly high unemployment. That is an approach I also took in an amendment I will be offering later today. The approach is the same. The total percentage amount is not quite as high.

The percentages in the amendment I will be offering later hold States harmless. The percentages offered by the Senator from Iowa, it is my understanding, in the first year go slightly higher for well-intended reasons. I am not going to pass judgment on whether that is a good idea or not, but that is the approach offered by the Senator from Iowa.

I do not see anybody else wanting to speak on the amendment. The Senator might want to speak some more. Maybe he does not want to speak some more. If not, I ask unanimous consent that, whatever the appropriate order, the amendment be set aside and voted on at the appropriate time and that the pending business be the regular order.

The PRESIDENT OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I will support the Harkin amendment. No. 2719, in response to the numerous phone calls and letters I have received from my constituents in recent years regarding the increasing cost of health care. Nevertheless, I am concerned with increasing these kinds of mandatory expenditures that are able to bypass the consideration of the Appropriations Committees.

AMENDMENT NO. 278

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, there was a vote earlier on a small business amendment offered by the Senator from Missouri, Mr. Bond. It was adopted. That shows we are starting to make progress toward an agreement on a bill to stimulate economic recovery. That was the small business expensing amendment, which increases the ceiling amount available for business as to expense.

We now have an opportunity to make even more progress by adopting the Baucus-Smith amendment. This amendment makes two important improvements that strike a balance on the bonus depreciation issue with a 2-year compromise provision. Second, it will help States by increasing the Federal matching payments for Medicaid. As a bonus depreciation, this assistance will be provided for 2 years.

Essentially, I am offering an amendment, joined by my good friend from Oregon, Mr. Smith, to provide for a 2-year bonus period as well as a 2-year FMAP payment. I will speak first about bonus depreciation.

I think we all agree that a strong stimulus bill must create tax incentives for business to invest in new equipment and technology. I think there is much doubt about that. This amendment creates jobs, lifts the economy, and also increases productivity in the long run. Chairman Greenspan and others have talked a lot about productivity. There is not much doubt that this amendment will help us move in that direction.

Everyone agrees on the concept. The debate, however, has been over the details. The proposal before us is a 10-percent bonus. We have agreed to increase that to 30 percent and question now is how long should the incentive last.

The Democratic proposal was 1 year; the Republican proposal was 3 years. Our bipartisan compromise amendment, that is the amendment of Senator Smith and myself, is 2 years. This is not simply an effort to split the difference. Instead, if one steps back and thinks about it, a 2-year incentive makes good sense. Three years is too long. It will not encourage business to invest quickly enough. As a result, it will not stimulate businesses to act when we most need them to act.

On the other hand, in the debate last week, Senator Smith and others made a very good point. They said that a 1-year bonus period might not be long enough because it does not give businesses enough time to make sound investment decisions. Let’s not forget the investment to qualify has to be in place, in service within the requisite period.

We have to assume this legislation will not be enacted before March. If we were to stick to the 1-year period, companies would only have a few months left at that point to make purchases and get assets in place, as we are dealing with the calendar year. That is not time enough, especially if we think about the kinds of investments we want to encourage, which is airplanes, heavy machinery, equipment used in manufacturing, locomotives, pipelines, and refineries. These assets may take longer to build than 1 year, or the contracts for purchase may take some time to negotiate. This is a legitimate concern.

To address it, our amendment gives companies until December 31, 2003, to make their purchases and get assets in place. Even after that, companies would have an extra year to put the assets in place if they take more than a year to build, so long as they meet a binding contract tent.

The amendment will provide economic stimulus. It will work quickly, and it recognizes business realities and gives companies the time they need to make sound investment decisions. That is the first part of the amendment.

The second part relates to the States. The technical term is FMAP. What it is about is helping States by temporarily increasing the rate at which we match State payments under Medicaid. Let me explain why this is important.

Rising Medicaid costs are already contributing to the States’ fiscal crisis. Health care costs are increasing rapidly, while rising unemployment is increasing the number of people eligible for Medicaid services. Medicaid spending grew by 11 percent last year. It is likely to increase even faster this year if current economic and budgetary conditions persist.

Many States have already implemented or are now considering implementing significant cuts in Medicaid and the State Children’s Health Insurance Program, otherwise known as CHIP, in 2003.

These cuts would affect thousands of children, elderly, and disabled people. For example, Oklahoma and New Mexico may eliminate their CHIP-funded Medicaid expansions to children entirely.

CHIP—that is the State Children’s Health Insurance Program—has been very popular. It helps low-income kids get health insurance, health insurance they did not previously have. I think it would be very unfortunate if, due to State budget constraints, they either choose to or believe they are forced to cut back on, in some cases, eliminate the programs that provide health insurance for children.

Tennessee has proposed cutting Medicaid eligibility for 180,000 low-income people in its TennCare Program. Other States will no longer cover disabled workers returning to work or low-income women with breast and cervical cancer. These budget cuts and these tax increases are based on revenue forecasts that do not assume enactment of bonus depreciation provisions. Because most States tie their own tax collections to the Federal tax system, the additional loss of revenues in 2003 that would result from a lengthy bonus depreciation period would increase the likelihood and severity of State actions to cut programs and raise taxes.

The underlying amendment would address this problem by providing a temporary 1-year increase in the Federal matching rate under Medicare. Our amendment goes a bit further by extending the period for 2 years to match the depreciation period.

By doing so, the amendment ensures the amount of aid provided both to States generally and to individual States in particular if the recession proves deeper than currently projected. That is the second part of the amendment.

All told, the amendment will help businesses, it will help workers, it will help families, and it will help families maintain Medicaid coverage.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Utah.
Mr. HATCH. Mr. President, I have not fully read the FMAP part of the distinguished Senator’s amendment, but I am interested in helping the States at this particular time because many of them are experiencing budget crunches, and it is really causing them a lot of difficulty.

With regard to the CHIP program, which was a Hatch-Kennedy bill that was enacted over 4 years ago, my home State of Utah has now achieved the goal of insuring 27,000 children of people who work but do not have enough money to pay for their children’s health insurance. In Utah, we have covered 27,000 kids, but there are at least 3,000 more who need to be covered. Due to State budget concerns, Utah has had to cap its CHIP program at 27,000.

Now that is not right. I cannot blame my State leaders. They have to balance the budget, but it is not right that any child in our society should go without basic health care. The very poor in our society are covered by Medicaid. What we did with the CHIP bill was try to take care of those 7 million young people in the United States who are children of the working poor. The parents of these children work but do not earn enough money to pay for health insurance but make too much money to be eligible for the Medicaid program. CHIP has worked well. It has been one of the most successful health care programs in the country.

I have worked on a number of important issues throughout my Senate career, and I think that passage of the CHIP bill is one of my top achievements as a United States Senator. Providing access to affordable and quality health coverage to the medically uninsured continues to be a high priority for me. So while I have to read the amendment language, I believe it is an important amendment, and I intend to support it as of this juncture.

With regard to bonus depreciation, I was the first Senator who are children of the working poor. The parents of these children work but do not earn enough money to pay for health insurance but make too much money to be eligible for the Medicaid program. CHIP has worked well. It has been one of the most successful health care programs in the country.

I have worked on a number of important issues throughout my Senate career, and I think that passage of the CHIP bill is one of my top achievements as a United States Senator. Providing access to affordable and quality health coverage to the medically uninsured continues to be a high priority for me. So while I have to read the amendment language, I believe it is an important amendment, and I intend to support it as of this juncture.

With regard to bonus depreciation, I was the first Senator to file a bonus depreciation bill. My bill provided for a 50-percent bonus depreciation deduction rather than the 30 percent in this amendment. But remember, some of the other bills were only at 10-percent bonus depreciation, and I am pleased to see that this amendment would now bring it to 30 percent. I am very happy to see the work of Senator SMITH and the distinguished chairman of the Finance Committee, whom I call a friend, in bringing this bonus depreciation percentage to a reasonable level. I would prefer it to be even higher because that would be even more stimulative over this 2-year period, but this is a good move compared to where we were. If we had gone with the Daschle amendment, as I understand it, it would have been effective only from last September until next September. It would have barely had time to work. So this amendment does bring the bonus depreciation more into the realm of workability.

Bonus depreciation is one of the few things we are doing in this legislation that literally provides for an economic stimulus. It is a very good economic stimulus because a lot of companies are understandably nervous about the economic slow-down and are hesitant to invest in their equipment. With a bonus like this, they may be able to pull out of some of their difficulties with this additional help that will be provided.

With regard to the FMAP increase included in this amendment, these provisions will assist those who are suffering in our society today due to the economic downturn. In addition, there are States that are having tremendously difficult times meeting the needs of their citizens. The PMAIP increase will provide these States with valuable resources so they can meet these demands more easily.

So I want to commend the distinguished Chairman of the Finance Committee for calling up this amendment. I particularly want to commend him for working with Senator SMITH of Oregon, who brought up the original bonus depreciation amendment but who was also opposed to it for 3 years. We compromised on 2 years, which I believe is a decent compromise. I want to pay my respects and compliment both of them for the work they have done on this particular amendment.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Hampshire.

Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire. Mr. President, I direct a question to the distinguished chairman of the Finance Committee. I have four amendments on which I will be very brief. My intention is, if there is no objection, to offer the four amendments, debate one of them at a time, and if someone else comes and wants to offer another amendment, they can put my amendment aside.

What is the position of the chairman on that suggestion?

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, the Senator from Nevada, Mr. REID, is organizing the sequence of amendments. I think it is fine for the Senator from New Hampshire to offer his package of amendments with the understanding they come up one at a time, and if there is an amendment on this side in the interim, that amendment would be offered and we would go back to one of Senator SMITH’s amendments. That is fine.

Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire. I thank the chairman.

(b) Effective Date.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to any payment of taxes after December 31, 2001.

Mr. SMITH of New Hampshire. Mr. President, these amendments I have offered encompass a number of important issues, including property taxes, commuter taxes, tip taxes for those who work as waiters and waitresses for the most part, and Reservists. Those are the four categories.

Mr. President, I thank my colleagues for their courtesy in allowing me to offer four amendments. I will have a very brief discussion of each of these amendments.

AMENDMENT NO. 2735

The amendment No. 2735 is an amendment dealing with property taxes. It provides an above-the-line deduction for State and local property taxes. Right now, these taxes are only deductible for those who itemize their taxes. The nonitemizers are at the lower income levels. Therefore, this will help stimulate the economy by encouraging home purchases and home ownership for those at the lower income levels that do not itemize their taxes.

As we all know, property taxes tend to fund local education. So providing this tax deduction makes it easier for a local taxpayer to afford the quality education. As a former teacher and a parent, I believe it very important to our economy.

It is important to understand, if a citizen makes enough money to have enough deductions to itemize taxes, they can deduct property taxes. But what about the senior citizen who has property that has gained in value, they don’t want to sell their home, and they are on a fixed income? They could be forced to sell their home to pay the property taxes which go up every year, usually because of the schools or other costs in the community.

This gives immediate tax relief to every working American or senior citi izen or anyone else who owns property, pays property taxes, but does not itemize. There is a direct stimulus to the economy. Imagine being able to deduct $2,000 or $3,000 in property taxes and having that cash on hand to be used for something else, whether the purchase of a refrigerator or whatever.

If we want to stimulate the economy and help those who need it most, this is the kind of legislation that does it. I hope my colleagues will look seriously at this matter and pass it as an amendment to the stimulus package.

AMENDMENT NO. 2734

Mr. President, the attacks of September 11 have been a time of dev-a stating in their wake. Thousands perished during the attacks while tens of thousands of friends and family members are left to grieve for their loved ones. But the economic impact of those attacks continue to be felt throughout the Nation. With more than 1.6 million working men and women laid off last year, we need to look for ways to pro- vide assistance to working individuals and their families.

The hardworking, law-abiding citizens, particularly the travel industry, are bearing the brunt of the burden. With airline travel and hotel bookings down sharply, communities which largely depend on tourism and travel as their chief source of revenue will soon, if not already, be in the red and may soon be forced to cut vital services. It is, therefore, imperative that we pass a strong, sensible economic stimulus plan that will provide immediate relief to all the millions of Americans who need it. This amendment eliminates the current tax on tips and tips cannot possibly be reported accurately. Hard working, law-abiding citizens who are given tips as a result of their extra effort do not wish to be labeled cheaters by the IRS which does not under- stand the realities of their work. It is time to change the tax law covering in- come from tips. My amendment caps the tax-free earnings at $10,000 for the small percentage who make a career of waiting on tables in high-end res- taurants and resorts. For States that have a tip credit rule, this bill will not impact the employee’s and employer’s obligations and contributions up to the minimum wage.

Congress should show how the hard working men and women of America feel that the Federal Government is not out of touch, and that it has some compassion for the struggle facing the millions of citizens in the service industry. By passing my amendment, we pass a common sense proposal that will directly help millions of hard-working Amer-cans.

To reiterate, the third amendment is No. 2734, known as the tip tax. This amendment would consider tips to be gross income of the tipped employee and would provide a great amount of much needed relief and stimulus to the hos-pitality and other service sectors of our economy by eliminating the tax burden imposed on these tips.

Think about the types of people who hold these jobs. There are many single mothers, working women, working hard. You have all been to restaurants and you see how hard waiters and waitresses work. Frequently these are single-income mothers who have children to support. They are working hard. This would exempt the first $10,000 of those tips from Federal income tax. That is a pretty good incentive and would help every waitress, every waiter, every person who receives gratuities as the primary source of their income. It would help them tremendously to exempt the first $10,000.

We treat the tip income the same way as the first $10,000 a year tax free. It is good policy and good stimulus, and I urge its adoption.

In summary, again, if you work as a waitress or waiter, the first $10,000 of the money you earn in tips would be exempted from Federal taxes.

AMENDMENT NO. 2786

After the treacherous attacks of September 11, the need to increase security around the country was and continues to be imperative.

Much of the security needs were filled by National Guard and Reserve units. Many were forced to leave high or higher paying jobs than the military was able to pay. In some cases, this caused a financial burden on the men and women who were called to duty.

In some cases, the Guard and Reserve units who were called up as a result of the terrorist attacks, my amendment would allow those units to access their retirement plans without paying the 10 percent penalty for early withdrawal.

The legislation would also allow them an underpayment waiver as well as a catch-up contribution without caps up to the amount they withdrew from their retirement fund.

While we have greatly provided tax relief to the business and families involved in the September 11 attacks, we must also look for ways to provide relief to those brave men and women who have been called up to protect us from further attacks.

I ask the Senate to support the members of our National Guard and Reservists and agree to my amendment.

In conclusion—I may want to speak to these amendments a little bit later. There are four opportunities for us to help people who need help and stimulate the economy at the same time. These are working women, for the most part, single mothers, working women who have children at home, to exempt that first $10,000 in tip income; to help the reservist who is called up to help create jobs and income for America, what we know is that the politicians because we will have more money in our Government Treasury. But, most importantly, it will help create jobs and income for American families and workers.

It is time for us to quit dawdling about and get moving on something that can be reached. I know the great leadership on both sides of the aisle has worked really hard. Sometimes I have been wont to call them masters of the universe, as they told us they were going to work out something. Sooner or later, they were going to get an agreement. But time has gone by and no agreement has been reached. So I suggest the plan that we would offer today—Senator ALLEN and I—is a bipartisan plan that can include much of what is in other people’s plans. It also includes some items that would provide stimulus to the economy that are not special interest oriented but family oriented. So everybody should be able to rally behind them.

I will make a few brief remarks and then I will allow Senator ALLEN to make some comments, I hope I might be able to speak on it as the day goes by.

The components of this plan include a number of items. I believe one of them has not been given sufficient thought in this process is the requirement that the payment be made in the current year rather than the year after they work as a refund on their tax return. If we could begin to put it into their wallets now—let us say 60 percent in the current year and 60 percent in the next—it would be something not available to them in the future, thereby saving Government expenditures or costs in income in the future.

That is a good package. I know Senator DASCHLE’s proposal and, I believe, would be very much a compromise that would be acceptable across the aisle. We would provide $5 billion for national emergency grants to States for people who are hurting and provide temporary business relief by allowing an additional 2-year depreciation deduction of 30 percent of the adjusted basis of certain properties. That is projected at an approximate $38 billion cost, and it would have a cost this year when the money is pumped into the economy. But by allowing people to take that depreciation deduction early, it would be something not available to them in the future, thereby saving Government expenditures or costs in income in the future.

I think that goes beyond Senator DASCHLE’s proposal and, I believe, would be very much a compromise that would be acceptable across the aisle.

We would provide $3,000 to $5,000 the capital loss deduction. A number of plans have had that—both Democrat and Republican.

We provide a 3-month $500 tax credit for the purchase of computers for elementary and secondary students, for which Senator DASCHLE and Senator ALLEN are the cosponsor proponents, and who will explain in detail. We will extend the unemployment benefit by 13 weeks and provide the option for States to provide unemployment to anyone if they choose, for part-time workers.

I think that goes beyond Senator DASCHLE’s proposal and, I believe, would be very much a compromise that would be acceptable across the aisle. We would provide $5 billion for national emergency grants to States for people who are hurting and provide temporary business relief by allowing an additional 2-year depreciation deduction of 30 percent of the adjusted basis of certain properties. That is projected at an approximate $38 billion cost, and it would have a cost this year when the money is pumped into the economy. But by allowing people to take that depreciation deduction early, it would be something not available to them in the future, thereby saving Government expenditures or costs in income in the future.

That is a good package. I know Senator ALLEN wants to talk about it. I believe it is in the right direction. There is nothing in this that is not bipartisan. There is nothing in this that is special interest. Every bit of it is fair and just, which stimulates the economy, over $100 billion worth, without creating a bureaucracy, without creating a program, and actually doing the things we want it to do. I thank the Chair and yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I commend Senator Sessions for his leadership and echo all of the comments he made in support of this measure. I strongly support, as a cosponsor, this amendment which is entitled the American Family Economic Security and Stimulus Act.

This amendment, due to the great leadership of Senator Sessions, as well as his ingenuity, has provided us with what I believe is a very common-sense, compassionate, pro-family package that will help stimulate the economy and help American families and businesses get through the current economic recession.

When one thinks of stimulus or stimulus policy—I know the President Office remembers the discussion on the concept of stimulus—it should be a change in policy which will induce or spur economic activity, whether it is investment or whether it is spending, that would not occur but for the change in policy.

This amendment represents a very worker-oriented, pro-family economic aid and stimulus package that will provide immediate financial relief to working families. It will ensure more of their hard-earned money stays in their wallets, and they spend it as they see fit. There is the additional $150 a month in the hands of working Americans, as well as a 2-percentage-point reduction in the earned-income tax credit. That is really an immediate 50 to 60 cents per hour raise for workers in the lowest income levels.

It increases the child tax credit to $2,500 for the current fiscal year, and it accelerates the rate reduction for the 28 percent tax bracket to 25 percent.

I thank Senator Sessions for including the educational opportunity tax credit in this important legislation. This is a concept that I ran on in my campaign. It is one many have heard me discuss. What I am doing in adapting this idea, the education opportunity tax credit, to a stimulus package is to create an immediate incentive for families, parents of children who work and attend kindergarten through grade 12, to buy computers, educational software, or computer peripherals. It is a technology-related amendment.

Specifically, what this amendment, the Sessions-Allen amendment, would do is provide parents who have children in kindergarten through 12th grade with an immediate $2,500 tax credit to buy computers, educational software, or peripherals. It would be for only 3 months, and it would provide those families with the financial means necessary to provide their children with greater educational choice and opportunities best suited to their individual needs.

Parents know the needs of their children better than anyone. We know in studies about the digital divide that youngsters who have computers at home do better in school. They stay in school. They don’t drop out. This is an important way of empowering parents to provide computers and educational software and peripherals to their children.

In addition to the economic stimulus of it, if the idea of education and empowering parents is not sufficient to convince my colleagues, let’s recognize what this will do for the economy. We can look at the States as our laboratories for a lot of good ideas.

Experience shows in the States that even a small temporary reduction in taxes can bring about huge increases in computer sales. In South Carolina, they had a sales tax holiday on computers for only 3 days. What was the result? Computer sales increased more than tenfold, over 1,000 percent, in those 3 days. In Pennsylvania, they eliminated the sales tax on computers for 1 week. CPU sales increased sixfold in that time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time on the amendment is ordered to be stricken by amendment No. 2736 to the language proposed to be stricken by amendment numbered 2736 to the language proposed to be stricken by amendment No. 2736. Further debate is limited by the rule of 28.
as well. It is a good, commonsense approach. I thank the Presiding Officer for giving me the additional 30 seconds.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Iowa.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I believe unanimous consent from the other side to let the Senator from Virginia speak longer.

Mr. ALLEN. I would appreciate that, Mr. President.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I ask unanimous consent to give the Senator 3 additional minutes, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The Senator from Virginia is recognized for an additional 3 minutes.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, as I was stating, the educational opportunity tax credit, empowering parents with a $500 tax credit for a 3-month period to buy educational software and peripherals for their children, as we see from the States, works very well. It is not just the computers themselves. Again, South Carolina realized about a 604 percent increase in monitor sales, a 760 percent increase in printer sales, with only a 5 percent tax break. Pennsylvania had a similar experience.

The impact of this will be at least $5 billion of stimulus into this sector of the economy while also helping out the education of children in this country.

We know that this will have much more of an impact than that because whoever is fabricating the chips, the semiconductor chips, whoever the contractors and vendors may be, whoever the sales folks are, all of them, the computer software writers, all of those people will benefit from more business investment, more sales in the tech sector. The impact is supported by Information Technology Industries; Global Learning System; ITIC, which is the Information Technology Industry Council; John Chambers with CISCO, who is well known for his efforts in education and technology. Gateway Computers have seen the impact of this in the States, the Consumer Electronics Association, Radio Shack, and Circuit City.

This is a good, balanced, pro-family, pro-taxpayer, pro-jump starting, and stimulating this economy to create more jobs" idea. I hope we will find bipartisan support for this idea that will really allow families to keep more of their money, help educate their children, and also provide the job placement and financial assistance needed to workers during this economic downturn while also making sure that businesses have the capabilities to make investments with accelerated depreciation.

I look forward to working with my colleagues as we move this country forward in a way of trusting free people and free enterprise.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, if I may, I ask unanimous consent to add as co-sponsors of the Sessions-Allen amendment Senator Tim Hutchinson of Arkansas and Senator Bob Smith of New Hampshire.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the amendment of the Senator from Virginia be set aside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 2700

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator McCain, I call up amendment No. 2700, and I ask unanimous consent that it be explained and then laid aside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Iowa [Mr. GRASSLEY], for Mr. McCain, for himself, Mr. Allard, Mr. Lieberman, Ms. Snowe, Mr. Levin, Mr. Murkowski, Mr. Cleland, Mr. Enthoven, Ms. Landrieu, Mr. Burns, Mr. Duren, Mr. Sessions, Mr. Boxer, Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Shelby, Mr. Hagel, Mr. Lugar, Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Warner, Ms. Collins, Mr. Hatch, Mr. Helms, Mr. Allen, Mr. Kerry, Mr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Stevens, Mr. Reid, Mr. Miller, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Bayh, Mr. Enshin, Mr. Bunning, Mr. Campbell, Mr. Nelson of Nebraska, Mr. Dodd, Mr. Jeffords, Mr. Brownback, Mr. Biden, Mr. Stabenow, and Mr. Cochran, proposes an amendment numbered 2700 to the language proposed to be stricken by amendment No. 2698.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to provide a special rule for members of the uniformed services and Foreign Service in determining the exclusion of gain from the sale of a principal residence.)

At the appropriate place insert the following:

SEC. 121. SPECIAL RULE FOR MEMBERS OF UNIFORMED SERVICES AND FOREIGN SERVICE IN DETERMINING EXCLUSION OF GAIN ON SALE OF PRINCIPAL RESIDENCE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 121(d) (relating to special rules) is amended by adding at the end the following:

'(9) MEMBERS OF UNIFORMED SERVICES AND FOREIGN SERVICE—

'(A) IN GENERAL.—The running of the 5-year period described in subsection (a) shall be suspended with respect to an individual during any time that such individual or such individual's spouse is serving on qualified official extended duty as a member of a uniformed service or the Foreign Service.

'(B) QUALIFIED OFFICIAL EXTENDED DUTY.—

For purposes of this paragraph—

'(i) IN GENERAL.—The term "qualified official extended duty" means any period of active duty pursuant to a call or order to such duty for a period of at least 90 days or for an indefinite period.

'(ii) EXTENDED DUTY.—The term 'extended duty' means any period of active duty pursuant to a call or order to such duty for a period of at least 90 days or for an indefinite period.

'(iii) FOREIGN SERVICE OF THE UNITED STATES.—The term 'member of the Foreign Service' has the meaning given the term 'member of the Service' by paragraph (1), (2), (3), (4), or (5) of section 183 of the Foreign Service Act of 1980.''

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendment made by this section shall apply to sales or exchanges on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I, along with 39 cosponsors, am proud to sponsor amendment 2700 to H.R. 622 to allow members of the Uniformed and Foreign Services, who are deployed or are away on extended active duty, to qualify for the same tax relief on the profit generated when they sell their main residence as other Americans. I am pleased to announce that Secretary of State Colin Powell fully supports this legislation and this legislation enjoys overwhelming support by the senior uniformed military leadership—the Joint Chiefs of Staff—as well as the Office of Management and Budget Director Mitch Daniels, the 31-member associations of the Military Coalition, the American Foreign Service Association, and the American Bar Association.

The average American participates in our Nation's growth through home ownership. Appreciation in the value of a home because of our country's overall economic growth allows everyday Americans to participate in our country's prosperity. Unfortunately, the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 recognized this and provided this break to lessen the amount of tax most Americans will pay on the profit they make when they sell their homes.

The 1997 home sale provision unintentionally discourages home ownership among members of the Uniformed and Foreign Services, which is bad fiscal policy. Home ownership has numerous benefits for communities and individual homeowners. Owning a home provides Americans with a sense of community and adds stability to our Nation's neighborhoods. Home ownership also generates valuable property taxes for our Nation's communities.

The amendment would create a new tax benefit. Let me say that again: this bill will not create a new tax benefit, it merely modifies current law to suspend the time members of the Uniformed and Foreign Services are away from home on active duty. In short, this amendment-treats service members and foreign service officers fairly, by treating them like all other Americans.
The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 delivered sweeping tax relief to millions of Americans through a wide variety of important tax changes that affect individuals, families, investors, and businesses. It was also one of the most complex tax laws enacted in recent history.

As with any complex legislation, there are winners and losers. But in this instance, there are unintended losers: service members and Foreign Service Officers.

The 1997 act gives taxpayers who sell their principal residence a much-needed tax break. Prior to the 1997 act, taxpayers received a one-time exclusion on the profit they made when they sold their principal residence, but the taxpayer had to be at least 55 years old and live in the residence for 2 of the 5 years preceding the sale. This provision primarily benefitted elderly taxpayers, while not providing any relief to younger taxpayers and their families.

Foreign Service Officers chose to pursue homes after the Tax Relief Act of 1997 addressed this issue. Under this law, taxpayers who sell their principal residence on or after May 7, 1997, are not taxed on the first $250,000 of profit from the sale; joint filers are not taxed on the first $500,000 of profit from the sale. They make their tax home for the required period of time. Under the new law, if a service member does not have a spouse who is 55 or older, must, first, own the home for at least 2 of the 5 years preceding the sale; and, second, live in the home for at least 2 years of the last 5 years.

I applaud the bipartisan cooperation that resulted in this much-needed form of tax relief. The home sales provision speaks great and it is. Unfortunately, the second part of this eligibility test unintentionally and unfairly prohibits many of our men and women in the Armed Forces and Foreign services from qualifying for this beneficial tax relief.

Constant travel across the United States and abroad is inherent in the military and Foreign Services. None of the service members and Foreign Service Officers choose to purchase a home in a certain locale, even though they will not live there much of the time. Under the new law, if a service member does not have a spouse who resides in the house during his or her absence or the spouse is also in the military and also must travel, then that service member will not qualify for the full benefit of the new home sales provision, because no one “lives” in the home for the required period of time. The law is prejudiced against dual-military couples who are often away on active duty, because they would not qualify for the home sales exclusion because neither spouse “lives” in the house for enough time to qualify for the exclusion.

This amendment simply remedies an inequality in the 1997 law. It amends the Internal Revenue Code so that the 5-year time period is suspended while the service member or Foreign Service Officer is ordered, I underscore ordered, away from their primary home of residence. In short, active and reserve service members will still be required to live in their primary residence for 2 years, but the 5-year time period is suspended while they are stationed to such places as Afghanistan, the Philippines, Bosnia, the Persian Gulf, in the “no man’s land,” commonly called the DMZ between North and South Korea, or anywhere else on active duty orders.

In 1998 alone, the United States had approximately 37,000 men and women deployed to the Persian Gulf region, preparing to go into battle, if ordered. There were also 8,000 American troops deployed in Bosnia, and another 70,000 U.S. military personnel deployed in support of other commitments worldwide. That is a total of 106,000 men and women deployed outside of the United States, away from their primary home, protecting and furthering the freedoms we Americans hold so dear. Since the September 11th attacks on the United States we have asked well over 110,000 service members to deploy abroad to seek out and destroy the terrorists and their supporting organizations responsible for this barbaric deed.

We cannot afford to discourage military service by penalizing military personnel with higher taxes merely because they are doing their job. Military and Foreign Service entails sacrifice, such as long periods of time that, if ordered, there were 8,000 American troops deployed in Bosnia, and another 70,000 U.S. military personnel deployed in support of other commitments worldwide. That is a total of 106,000 men and women deployed outside of the United States, away from their primary home, protecting and furthering the freedoms we Americans hold so dear. Since the September 11th attacks on the United States we have asked well over 110,000 service members to deploy abroad to seek out and destroy the terrorists and their supporting organizations responsible for this barbaric deed.

In my view, the way to decrease the likelihood of further inequities in the Tax Code, in other words, is to adopt a fairer, flatter tax system that is far less complicated than our current system. But, in the meantime, we must insure that the Tax Code is fair and equitable as possible.

The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 was designed to provide sweeping tax relief to all Americans, including our men and women in uniform. It is true that there are winners and losers in any tax code, but this inequality was unintended. Enacting this narrowly-tailored remedy to grant equal tax relief to the service members of our Uniformed and Foreign Services restores fairness and consistently to our increasingly complex Tax Code.

I ask unanimous consent that the letters of support from the American Foreign Service Association, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, American Bar Association, the Military Coalition, the Office of Management and Budget, and the Secretary of State be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the letters were ordered to be printed in the Record, as follows:

DEAR SENATOR MCCAIN:

I join the Service Chiefs and strongly endorse the Military Homeowners Equity Act. This legislation would correct an inequity in the Internal Revenue Code of 1997 and would allow Foreign Service members the same opportunity to build equity in a home that most other Americans enjoy.

One of the most effective ways to maintain outstanding combat capability in our military personnel is to allow them to concentrate fully on their mission without worrying excessively about the home front. This Bill would be a major step in the right direction.

Thank you for the opportunity to review the legislation, and for your efforts on behalf of our soldiers, sailors, airmen, marines, and coastguardsmen.

Sincerely,

RICHARD B. MYERS,
Chairman.

DEAR SENATOR MCCAIN:

Thank you for your efforts on behalf of our service members to correct the disparity created by the Tax Relief Act of 1997. I would like to extend my support for your legislative tax relief proposal, S. 1678 which would help relieve the hardships experienced by military homeowners and encourage more members to purchase homes.

Many military homeowners who sold their homes after the Tax Relief Act of 1997 have been unable to meet the two-year residency requirement. I ask that you also consider adding language to your proposal to make the tax relief retroactive to sales and exchanges that occurred after the 1997 act, adding a specific exception to the statute of limitations period for filing refund claims.

Please let me know if I may be of further assistance.

Sincerely,

VERN CLARK,
Admiral, U.S. Navy.
The Hon. John McCain, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Dear Senator McCain: Your efforts to improve the quality of service enjoyed by our Navy-Marine Corps team are greatly appreciated. I would like to extend my support for the legislation that you intend to introduce to correct the tax disadvantage created by The Tax Reform Act of 1997.

The Marine Corps has been tracking several serious tax issues that threaten the unique needs of our sailoers. A recent example involves the $250,000 exclusion on capital gains from exclusion of principal residences. In order to qualify, a taxpayer must "own and use" the property for two of the five years preceding the sale. Since our personnel seldom remain in one location for over three years, it is difficult to qualify for the exclusion.

Please let me know if there is any way in which I can be of assistance or service.

Sper Fidelis,
J.L. Jones, General, U.S. Marine Corps, Commandant of the Marine Corps.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY,

The Hon. John McCain, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Dear Senator McCain: I strongly support the legislation you have introduced, S. 1678, to correct the inequitable tax consequences suffered by many soldiers when they sell their principal residence.

As you are aware, under the 1997 Tax Relief Act, a homeowner who sells a principal residence can exclude gain of $250,000 ($500,000 for joint filers) if the taxpayer owned and used the residence for two of the five years immediately preceding the date of sale. Unlike the previous law, the 1997 Tax Relief Act does not recognize an exception for military service. Accordingly, service members making frequent military moves are often unable to meet the two-year residency requirement required for the home sale exclusion.

Your legislation would correct this inequity by permitting service members to apply time served on extended active duty toward the two-year principal residence to qualify for the home sale exclusion. This change would allow many more service members and their families to take advantage of the home ownership tax incentives enjoyed by other Americans.

I greatly appreciate your commitment to enhancing the quality of life for service members and their families. Thank you for your continued support.

Sincerely,

John M. Kranz, General, United States Army, Vice Chief of Staff.

The Hon. John McCain, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Dear Senator McCain: Your consistent commitment to improving the quality of life of our Airmen is greatly appreciated. The Air Force fully supports your Military Homeowners’ Equity Act—S. 1678. This bill will correct the tax disadvantage created by the Tax Reform Act of 1997 by allowing members of the Uniformed Services who are deployed or are away on extended active duty to qualify for the same tax relief on the profit generated when they sell their main residence as other Americans. Ideally, this legislation would be retroactive to the effective date of the Tax Reform Act.

The 1997 Tax Reform Act repealed certain provisions of the existing law that allowed military members to maintain the status quo with other taxpayers for exclusion of capital gains. The Act provided for an exclusion, obviously not intended to disadvantage military service members or members of the Foreign Service Association (AFSA) in order to qualify, a taxpayer must "own and use" the property for two of the five years preceding the sale. With the legislation following any military service, it is often times difficult for our service members to qualify for the exclusion. Your bill corrects that inequity.

Thank you again for your continuing support and leadership.

Sincerely,

John P. Jumper, General, USAF, Chief of Staff.

The Hon. Grant S. Ghem, Jr., Under Secretary for Management, Department of State, Washington, DC.

Dear Grant: Thank you for your letter regarding Senator McCain’s tax relief proposal. After careful review, there is a case to be made that the current capital gains tax system poses a burden on servicemen and women and foreign service officers. These men and women spend much of their career being assigned overseas and moving from post to post. We should not penalize these Americans in effect for serving their country.

The Office of Management and Budget supports Senator McCain’s proposal which would allow military and foreign service personnel equitable capital gains tax treatment. I appreciate your persistence on this matter as we continue to ensure that our Foreign Service Officers and Military service men and women enjoy such benefits especially during these difficult times.

Sincerely,

ROBIN CLEVELAND, Associate Director, National Security Programs.

The Hon. John McCain, U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Dear Senator McCain: The Military Coalition, a consortium of nationally prominent uniformed services and veterans organizations, representing more than 5.5 million members, plus their families and survivors, is grateful to you for introducing The Military Homeowners Equity Act—a bill that would restore capital gains tax equity for military homeowners.

Your legislation is essential to correct a serious oversight in the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 which inadvertently penalizes servicemembers who are assigned away from their principal residence for more than three years on government orders. Very often, servicemembers keep their homes while reassigned overseas or elsewhere in the hopes of returning to their residence. On occasions when this proves impossible, and the home must be sold, a permit purchase of a new principal residence, servicemembers find themselves subjected to substantial tax liabilities—all because military orders kept them from occupying their principal residence for at least two of the five years before the sale.

The 1997, both the House and Senate passed corrective legislation (H.R. 865) as part of the Taxpayer Refund and Relief Act of 1997, but the President vetoed this bill over an unrelated issue. Your new bill will be important to reestablish the law and allow servicemembers to comply with government orders and leave home to serve their country without risking a large capital gains liability.

The Military Coalition pledges to work with you to seek inclusion of your bill in the pending economic stimulus package so military members can once again enjoy the same capital gains tax relief already provided to all other Americans.

Sincerely,

The Military Coalition.

The Hon. John McCain, Senate Russell Building, Washington, DC.

Dear Senator McCain: On behalf of the 23,000 active-duty and retired members of the Foreign Service which the American Foreign Service Association (AFSA) represents, thank you for your leadership and support with your soon-to-be-introduced bill extending to the Uniformed Services and Foreign Service the tax treatment enjoyed by all other Americans when they sell their principal residence.

As you know this is an important active-duty issue for the Uniformed Services and the Foreign Service. Your bill, amending section 121(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, addresses an inequity faced by our members because of the particular nature of our profession. As you are well aware, our careers require us to live for years at a time away from our homes in duty posts around the world in service to our nation. In the case of the Foreign Service, our duty assignments range from 2-4 years. Back-to-back assignments abroad are common. It is no unusual for a member of the Foreign Service to spend six or more years abroad before returning to Washington for an assignment here. With the current two-in-five year occupancy test, many of our members in both the Uniformed Services and the Foreign Service find that we do have the same flexibility in sourcing our homes as enjoyed by our fellow Americans. After several years abroad, there are many reasons why we may wish to sell our homes upon returning home. As with other Americans, we would like our homes to reflect and be suited-to the changes in our lives—the increase or decrease in the size of our families, divorce, retirement, promotions and the ability to pay for a house, the schools our children will attend, etc. Yet because of current law, we cannot sell our principal residences without living in them again for two years or else pay a serious tax penalty. Your bill, grateful, addresses these problems.

The members of the Uniformed Services and the Foreign Service have been faced with this problem since the change in the tax code in 1997. We hope that your provision can become law soon. If we can be of any assistance, please do not hesitate to contact me or Ken Nakamura, AFSA’s Director of Congressional Relations at (202) 944-5517 or by e-mail at nakamura@afa.org.

Sincerely,

John K. Naland, President.
Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR MCCAIN: On behalf of the American Bar Association, I would like to commend you for your leadership in developing a proposal on the issue of the military homeowners capital gains exemption. Such legislation is needed to correct an inequity that occurs as a result of the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 (Public Law No. 105–34).

As you know, Section 121 of the Internal Revenue Code provides a single taxpayer to exclude up to $250,000 of the capital gains on the sale of a principal residence and permits a married couple filing jointly to exclude up to $500,000 on such a sale. Yet in order to qualify for such an exclusion, a taxpayer must have owned and used the home as a principal residence for two out of the five years prior to its sale. Otherwise, a taxpayer must pay taxes on all or a pro rata share of the capital gains on the sale of the home.

Unfortunately, this provision penalizes service members who are unable to use a principal residence for two out of the five years prior to its sale, because they are deployed overseas or required to live in military residential housing. The American Bar Association urges Congress to amend Section 121 of the IRC to either: (1) treat time spent away from a principal residence while away from home on official active duty as counting towards the ownership and use requirement, or (2) suspend the ownership and use requirement for time spent away from a principal residence due to official active duty. Earlier this year, the ABA submitted comments to the Internal Revenue Service on proposed regulations regarding Section 121. A copy of our comments is enclosed for your review.

We want to thank you for your plans to rectify the inequity created for service members by Section 121. We look forward to working with you to establish a military homeowners capital gains exemption.

Sincerely,

ROBERT D. EVANS

Mr. ALLEN. You have my agreement.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia.

AMENDMENT NO. 2702

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I wish to speak to my amendment, the Terrorist Zone Tax Exemption Act, which I believe will be the next measure on which we will be voting.

Last fall the attack on our country represented the worst of mankind, but at the same time it demonstrated the best of the American spirit.

While we as a nation are united and resolved to combat terrorism, unfortunately other things have changed as a result of these attacks. As my colleagues know, this war on terrorism has changed our combatants. For terrorism targets not only military personnel and equipment but innocent men, women, and children at work in office buildings and, as we have seen, on civilian aircraft. So it is also with those tasked to respond to these attacks. Under the threat of terrorism, not only are military personnel tasked to locate and eradicate potential terrorist threats, but civilian fire, police, and rescue personnel are charged with maintaining public safety after a terrorist attack.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, for the information of Members, we are in the process of arranging a unanimous consent request to have a vote on or about 4:45 p.m. today on the Allen amendment, and the second would be on the Baucus amendment.

While we are doing that, I suggest the absence of the Senator from Colorado.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.
It is supported by many groups—from the International Association of Fire Chiefs, the Fraternal Order of Police with nearly 300,000 members, the National Association of Police Organizations which represents over 220,000 police officers, the Detectives Endowment Union which represents 7,500 City of New York Detectives, and other organizations, including the Capital Police Labor Board.

These firefighters and police and rescue personnel are heroes. They are super heroes. Let us give them this recognition to boost their morale and show our appreciation to them as they protect us here in our homeland.

I hope in a bipartisan nature we can work and vote in favor of this logical, commonsense amendment and I ask for my colleagues’ support.

Mr. NICKLES. Mr. President, will the Senator yield for a question concerning the cleanup at the Pentagon or at the World Trade Center? They are still cleaning up after the Senator’s amendment, would that still be classified as a terrorist center, and, therefore, they would still be exempt? If the cleanup lasted a year, would the clean-up crews be exempt from taxation for a year?

Mr. ALLEN. The designation of a terrorist attack zone would be made by the President. Once you get past the rescue mission, the immediate response, and when the zone is designated a recovery scene, the tax exemption ends. The intent is for this to benefit those who rush in when there is still an opportunity to save a life; those first responders who themselves are endangered by the initial attack. I would not imagine that would last for anymore than a month. And again, it is validated on a monthly basis, like the combat zone tax exemption.

Mr. NICKLES. I thank my colleague.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I appreciate the boldness of Virginia rushing through with his presentation. It was very articulate. I appreciate his recognizing that we are trying to get this agreement before the vote.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator Virginia rushing through with his presentation. It was very articulate. I appreciate his recognizing that we are trying to get this agreement before the vote.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the time until 4:45 p.m. today be equally divided with respect to the Allen amendment No. 2702 and the Baucus amendment No. 2718, that no second-degree amendments be in order to either amendment prior to the vote in relation to each amendment; that the first amendment to the Allen amendment; and that regardless of the outcome there be 4 minutes equally divided prior to the vote in relation to the Baucus amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senator Helms be added as a cosponsor of amendment No. 2702.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, does the Senator from Montana wish to discuss this amendment? I only have maybe 30 seconds, and I would be happy to yield to the Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. I thank my good friend. I have looked at the Senator’s amendment. It is a good idea. I support it. There are a few little wrinkles that I want to look at to make sure the definitions coincide with the definitions for income taxes excluded for combat zones and make sure all those declarations are final and equitable. That is just a minor matter. We will work that out.

I commend the Senator for offering this amendment. It is a good idea.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Montana, Mr. Baucus, for his support. I look forward to further discussion. If there are some amendments that need to be made in the definitions, we have been working on this for several months, but nevertheless, we have to work together on it. I conclude by saying very strongly that we need to adapt our tax policy and properly and logically provide similar tax benefits for the fire, rescue, and police personnel who are serving here in our homeland. This is where these terrorist attacks have occurred and we all agree that these heroes have responded in the true spirit of America. Please stand with our heroes, our firefighters, and police and rescue workers.

I ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, we have two amendments pending and at least two votes at approximately 5:45. We have discussed the amendment offered by the Senator from Virginia, which I support.

I don’t know whether the Senator wishes to discuss the amendment. If he doesn’t, that is fine. Otherwise, I was going to ask my friend from Oregon, Senator Smith, if he wishes to say a few words before the other votes that will occur following the vote on the amendment offered by the Senator from Virginia. That, of course, is up to my good friends from Virginia and Colorado.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I would rather make sure there is adequate discussion on the other votes. I believe there is complete agreement on my amendment.

I yield my time to the Senator so he may explain his amendment.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I haven’t heard anybody speak in opposition to the Senator’s amendment. I think he is pretty close to his goal.

Mr. ALLEN. Ok. I had better sit down.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I see my friend from Oregon in the Chamber.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who is yielding time?

Mr. BAUCUS. I yield such time as my friend from Oregon would desire.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. Mr. President, I thank the Chair and I thank the Chairman of the Finance Committee for yielding time.

I learned as a little boy from my mother that if you at first don’t succeed you should try and try again. I come to the Chair again on the issue of accelerated depreciation. I am proud to be joined by Senator Baucus. This is the Baucus-Smith amendment now. The point is simply to try and bridge the difference between the two sides on the whole notion of how best to give a meaningful stimulus to business to take advantage of this accelerated depreciation, this bonus depreciation over a period of time that on the one hand will stimulate in a timely way the economy and on the other hand will help the States to be able to afford this action.

I believe the Baucus-Smith amendment is the compromise that will provide real stimulus to the underlying package that is offered by the majority and the moderate view that I believe will help the States to be able to afford this action.

In addition, we are doing something that is very much needed by the States. That is, we will provide an increase in the Federal Medical Assistance Percentage known as FMAP. Most States, mine included, are struggling with how to continue to provide the resources for Medicaid. I understand that very well in my own State. Our State has a budget shortfall that approaches $1 billion. I have been reminded by people in my State that accelerated or bonus depreciation would only make that situation worse. I am not unmindful of that, and Senator Baucus and I have a way in this amendment to fix that, not just for my State but for every State.

Senator Harkin’s amendment was just defeated. I suggest that what Senator Baucus and I are proposing is in the same spirit of that but within the realm of financial responsibility. It is that moderate view that I believe will find over 60 votes in the Senate. I certainly hope it will.

What this does specifically, the FMAP increase will provide immediate relief to States such as Oregon which are increasingly caught in the current recession as the demand for State social services rises but State revenues drop.
For example, this provision would bring an additional $97 million to Oregon in the first year. Depending on certain factors, they may get in excess of an additional $105 million in the following year, for a 2-year total of more than $210 million.

I can imagine that my State, as well as the State of the Presiding Officer, could use that assistance in this time of recession. Again, I remind both sides that whether it is former Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin or Chairman Greenspan who state that both conditions will be helpful to stimulate the economy. It doesn’t go too far. It is not too long. I think for business people who are on their toes and trying to make plans, it will be enough time to have the economic incentives to improve our Nation’s economy.

America, moreover, is hungering for a sense that the Senate can get something done. Our proposal is that middle ground that allows us to make progress and that process is the legislation tonight well on the way to passing a stimulus package. There is something for both sides. But more importantly, there is something for the American people that provides real health care dollars to people in need in States with shortfalls and real business stimulus to employers so that the best social welfare we could possibly foster will be available, and that is a private sector family wage job.

Again, I believe Senator BAUCUS and I have come together and crafted an amendment which will ultimately be essential if we are to get beyond 60 votes and get something to conference and then to the desk of the President. The American people deserve that. We should do no less.

I yield back my time to the manager of this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, this is a good example of how we should pass legislation; that is, working together. Senator SMITH from Oregon and I have come together and crafted an amendment which directly meets concerns of Senators. We have done it together. Is it perfect in the minds of everyone on one side of the aisle? No. Is it perfect in the minds of all Senators on the other side? No. But is it good? Is it basically a good idea? I believe the answer is yes.

Essentially, we are going to provide for bonus depreciation for capital investment at 30 percent over a period of 2 years. The big question, I remind the Chair, is, should it be 1 year, 2 years, or 3 years? We have agreed on 30 percent for all intents and purposes. During private conversation on the floor on both sides of the aisle, somewhat presupsumptuously I will say that I heard, I believe, 2 years and what it should be. We debated 3 years. That did not pass. We, in effect, debated 1 year. It did not quite reach fruition, but that certainly is not going to pass.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time controlled by the majority has expired.

Mr. BAUCUS. I thank the Chair. Might I ask who controls the remaining time?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Virginia or his designee.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I grant the Senator from Montana 2 more minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado.

Mr. ALLARD. Mr. President, I have about 4 minutes to comment on Senator MCCAIN’s amendment. I was giving a speech and I could not be here when he brought it up. I would like to be able to use that time, if you don’t need all the time. Otherwise, I will wait.

Mr. BAUCUS. That would be fine. I just have 2 minutes. That would be fine with me.

Mr. ALLARD. I would like to have 4 minutes whenever it works out.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, again, to remind all Senators, this is a compromise. It is an effort on the part of Senator SMITH of Oregon and myself to find the proper amount of bonus depreciation. It is an effort to find the proper amount of reimbursement to States for lost Medicaid dollars. All Senators agree this is not only in the ballpark, it is probably so close to filling up the ballpark that it really cannot be improved upon a heck of a lot. I think it is a good amendment.

Further, I remind my colleagues, with the split in this body basically 50–50, this is the only way we are going to accomplish anything of consequence. That is, by sitting down and not engaging in rhetoric and preaching to people through the cameras, making them feel good, but, rather, working together to pass legislation that makes people’s lives better and significantly better. That is what I believe.

If you were to ask voters, do you want your Senator to make speeches just for the sake of making speeches or do you want your Senator to get something done that really makes sense for us in the State, it may not be all we want but he has done a pretty good job, clearly the answer is the latter. They want us to do something that makes sense. That is what the Senator from Oregon and I are doing.

I strongly urge my colleagues to take a good, strong look at it. It is a bipartisan amendment. It has bipartisan support. More than that, it has the support of the people of the country.

I yield back the remainder of my time.

Mr. HATCH. I rise in support of this amendment, recognizing the need for Congress to undertake immediate corrective measures to help those who have suffered the adverse effects of the recent economic downturn. And while I don’t support this amendment, there are issues associated with it that are of serious concern, issues which I hope will be addressed in conference.

As we have heard throughout this debate, most states are experiencing serious budget shortfalls. In fact, in my own state of Utah, many vital state programs are slated for reductions this year. I am very concerned about that situation, and sympathetic to the need to work with the States to alleviate these concerns where we are able.

But it is also true that the Federal budget is under severe pressure because of the economic slowdown, and we must be very careful when we move to authorize or provide new spending, especially in an entitlement program.

Obviously, we must carefully examine our budget constraints and balance the need to address the economy with the need to restrain the growth of spending.

But as I have said, I share the States’ concern about the budgetary impact of the economic downturn. Many important programs are being cut-back, a situation that has been worked so hard to weave a strong safety net.

In fact, the Utah CHIP program is no longer enrolling new children because it is running out of money. I cannot think about the families who have worked so hard to weave a strong safety net.

If you were to ask voters, do you want your Senator to make speeches just for the sake of making speeches or do you want your Senator to get something done that really makes sense for us in the State, it may not be all we want but he has done a pretty good job, clearly the answer is the latter. They want us to do something that makes sense. That is what the Senator from Oregon and I are doing.

I strongly urge my colleagues to take a good, strong look at it. It is a bipartisan amendment. It has bipartisan support. More than that, it has the support of the people of the country.

I yield back the remainder of my time.
Congress, and I would not like to see action today which would lock into concrete, in reality or politically, a formula which needs to be reexamined.

As a related issue, we need to look at the effect of providing a 1 1/2-percent increase of FMAP in the states for a program which is certain to have a disproportionate impact in the various states given their differing matching percentages. For example, some states have a Federal matching percentage which is relatively high, as high as 76 percent. Others have a percentage as low as 50 percent. Obviously, a 1.5 percent increase is a substantially greater proportion of the 24 percent a state with the highest FMAP has to contribute, compared to 1.5 percent of the 50 percent a “richer” state must contribute.

The GAO has produced several reports which make recommendations on how this formula may be improved. Therefore, I believe that it would be prudent for Congress to carefully review the recommendations of the GAO before taking any final actions affecting FMAP policy.

In fact, I believe it might be prudent for the Finance Committee to hold a hearing on this important issue, and I would hope that the chairman might schedule one in the near future.

In addition, while I have not seen any figures on areas which are the most hit hard by the recession, I want to make certain that the areas in which we are targeting the greatest assistance under this amendment are the areas of greatest need during the downturn. Because of the way the formula is structured, the additional FMAP dollars may not be targeted to those whose access to health care was affected by the recession and the events of September 11.

Finally, it is my hope that this amendment not follow the reg trend whereby Congress authorizes an extension for an entitlement program which for all intents and purposes becomes permanent. I certainly support the intention of this amendment, which is to provide temporary assistance to those who have suffered great hardships due to the recession and the terrorist attacks of last September. However, making these FMAP increases permanent would be a terrible mistake, especially since I believe that we would be, in essence, taking away dollars from other deserving Federal programs.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Colorado is recognized.

Mr. ALLARD. Mr. President, I am pleased to join Senator John McCain in sponsoring amendment No. 2700, the military homeowners tax equity amendment, to H.R. 622. This amendment will correct a serious, inadvertent oversight in the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 which failed to provide a mandated tax equity to our members of the uniformed services and the Foreign Service. The content of this amendment is the exact language as S. 1678, which Senator McCain and I introduced last year.

The Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997 exempted up to $250,000–$500,000 per couple in capital gains from federal income tax on homes occupied as a principal residence for at least 2 of the last 5 years. Unfortunately, uniformed and Foreign Service members may have difficulty meeting the 2-year requirement. Service members are directed to move to meet the needs of the U.S. Government and may be directed to move prior to owning a residence for 2 full years. Many service members keep their homes while reassigned overseas or elsewhere in hopes of returning to their residence. On occasions when this proves impossible, the members are subjected to substantial tax liabilities.

Prior to the 1997 law, service members who were assigned overseas or otherwise away from their principal residence for an extended period of time had a special provision that allowed them to “rollover” capital gains. The 1997 Taxpayer Relief Act made many improvements to the tax code by replacing the capital gain “rollover” rules with the tax exclusion, but failed to provide for those on military orders. This amendment will correct this oversight by providing that absences from the principal residence due to serving on a qualified official duty as a member of a uniformed service or the Foreign Service be treated as using the residence in determining the exclusion of gain from the sale of such residence.

In 1999 both the House and Senate passed the Taxpayer Refund and Relief Act which included language to correct this oversight, but that act was vetoed by then-President Clinton. S. 1678, which as I stated earlier mirrors our amendment, has support from all service chiefs. It is supported by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the 31 organization members of the Military Coalition, the American Bar Association, the American Foreign Service Association.

Our service men and women face enough challenges today. They should not have to face additional tax liabilities in return for serving their country.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

VOTE ON AMENDMENT NO. 2702

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I yield back whatever time remains so we can proceed with the vote on amendment No. 2702.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 2702. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

No. 2702. The yeas and nays have been ordered. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. REID. I announce that the Senator from North Dakota (Mr. BURNS) is absent.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from New Hampshire (Mr. GREGG), the Senator from Nevada (Mr. ENZIGN), and the Senator from Montana (Mr. BURNS) are necessarily absent.

I further announce that if present and voting the Senator from Montana (Mr. BURNS) would vote “yea.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. DAYTON). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The result was announced—yeas 92, nays 2, as follows:

[Roll Call Vote No. 9 Leg.]

YEAS—92

NAYS—2

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. President, I thank my colleagues for their support of the amendment. I ask unanimous consent that Senators COLLINS, HELMS, and JOHNSON be added as cosponsors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 2718

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There are now 4 minutes equally divided prior to a vote in relation to amendment No. 2718. Who yields time? The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, could I have order in the Chamber?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I support bonus depreciation. I support Medicaid assistance to the States. But I do... not support 2 years of bonus depreciation. I do not support 2 years of additional spending on Medicaid for the States.

The reason is very simple. On the question of bonus depreciation, the whole purpose of this package is to encourage economic recovery, additional economic activity now. A 2-year provision reduces the stimulus, reduces the incentive to act now. That is not only my opinion, that is the opinion of the Congressional Budget Office that every penny of these resources will come out of the penalty trust fund. For that reason, I will raise a budget point of order against this provision.

Second, the history of fiscal stimulus is always that we have acted too late. We are on the brink of doing that again. A 2-year provision falls right into that trap.

The cost of this provision is $45 billion this year; $37 billion next year. That is digging the hole deeper when we have just been informed by the Congressional Budget Office that every penny of these resources will come out of the penalty trust fund. For that reason, I will raise a budget point of order against this provision.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, on behalf of myself and also Senator SMITH of Oregon, let me make a couple of quick points.

No, we know our country needs a boost, a shot in the arm. It is not totally clear, but it is far better to provide a little insurance because the economy might go south in the next couple of months or years—more than it has now. Various companies are going bankrupt. We all know about Enron, Kmart, and there will be other companies down the road. Many people are being laid off, particularly in the financial services industry, which we are going to find out about in February because 1- or 2-month contracts are and they will be laid off a lot later. This is very important.

Second, many States are losing revenue because their economies are down. They will also lose more revenue as a consequence of the 2-year bonus depreciation. It is only proper with the passage of the Medicaid reimbursement amendment States are made whole so they do not have to cut Medicaid payments, so they do not have to cut payments to hospitals, to providers.

This amendment will allow States to refrain from making those cuts to doctors, to hospitals, other providers, and to Medicaid beneficiaries, and also prevent them from having to otherwise cut their budgets.

At the same time, we get a 2-year shot in the arm with bonus depreciation. It is a very modest provision. We all know bonus depreciation should be somewhere between 1 year and 3 years. This is where we all know it makes the most sense, 2 years. It should definitely be enacted.

I yield the remainder of my time to my friend from Oregon.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator has 11 seconds.

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. I am proud to co-sponsor this legislation. If you want the stimulus, we are talking about it right now. This actually does stimulate the economy; it is insurance.

The chair of the Budget Committee, my friend, clearly is concerned about the budget. But if you want to help the budget get back into surplus, let’s get the stimulus up. That is the most sure way to make this happen. What Senator BAUCUS and I have done is make sure that we do not leave the States high and dry.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of the Senator is exhausted; 22 seconds remain.

Mr. NICKLES. I yield my colleague the remainder of my time, the 22 seconds in opposition to the amendment.

Mr. SMITH of Oregon. My last point was you can make those arguments against any expenditure. The point is, we can’t leave the States high and dry as we try to stimulate the economy.

This is about real people needing jobs and health care. It is a win-win for Republicans and for Democrats. I urge the overwhelming passage of the amendment.

Mr. NICKLES. I compliment my colleague for making the point of order, and I wish to join him in that point.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The point of order falls.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time? The Senator from Nevada.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, Senator DASCHLE has asked me to announce to the Membership that this will be the last vote of the evening prior to the State of the Union Message.

The leader has indicated there will be votes next Monday.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I raise a point of order that the pending amendment violates section 311(a)(2)(B) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, I move to waive the applicable provisions. I ask for the yeas and nays.

CONGRATULATING SENATOR BAUCUS AND THE MONTANA GRIZZLIES

Mr. HOLLINGS. Mr. President, I congratulate the Senator from Montana for his victory on a very important amendment.

I also congratulate him on an even more important victory of the Montana team and its engagement in the 1 AA college finals last month with my Purple Paladins at Furman University, an outstanding university. In fact, the temptation is for me to challenge him to an academic final.

As far as the football final, I can tell my colleagues, I watched the game and that is a monster team if I have ever seen one. It is well coached and had an outstanding performance.

I lost the bet. The bet was if I lost, I would sing “Up With Montana,” their song. Fortunately, the rules of the Senate say no singing.
In congratulating Senator Baucus, I will recite this song publicly in the Chamber of the Senate. I want everybody to listen to this:

Up with Montana, boys, down with the foe.
Good ol’ Grizzlies out for a victory.
We’ll shoot our backs ’round the foe’s line;
Hot time is coming now, oh, brother mine.
Up with Montana, boys, down with the foe.
Good old Grizzlies triumph today;
And the squeal of the pig will float on the air;
From the tummy of the Grizzly Bear.

Isn’t that something? The Senator says they are reciting this after every game?
Mr. BAUCUS. That is right.
Mr. HOLLINGS. No wonder they play so hard.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.
Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, may I say how gracious my good friend from South Carolina has been today. Before we knew the Furman Purple Paladins and the Montana Grizzlies were going to be playing in the 1 AA playoff for the championship of the country, we made a little wager. The wager was whoever loses reads the other team’s fight song on the floor of the Senate.

I say to my good friend, I have no idea what the Purple Paladins’ fight song is. Had the Grizzlies not won, I certainly would know their fight song.

For many days, the Senator from South Carolina has been talking about this song. He said: Egads, is this your fight song? Is this what I have to read on the floor?

I cannot thank him enough. It was a great game. I watched it on television as well.

Mr. HOLLINGS. It was an outstanding game. I think this was the second year in a row they won the championship.

Mr. BAUCUS. That is right.
Mr. HOLLINGS. It is an outstanding college and outstanding team.
Mr. BAUCUS. I thank the Senator.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I thank Senator Smith of Oregon on the success of the last amendment. Without his help, I doubt the amendment would have been successful. We joined together and, frankly, I urge more of reaching across the aisle and accomplishing objectives that are in the best interest of the country and putting partisan politics aside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.
Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I congratulate the Senator from Montana and suggest that never, ever has the Montana fight song been read quite like it was just read on the Senate floor.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to lay aside the pending business for the purpose of offering an amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk reads as follows:

The Senator from Arizona (Mr. KYL), for himself, Mr. GRAMM, Mr. Enshin, Mr. Nick-Jonas, and Mr. Boucheron, proposes an amendment numbered 2758 to the language proposed to be stricken by amendment No. 2686.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To remove the sunset on the repeal of the estate tax)

At the end, add the following

SEC. 2. PERMANENT REPEAL OF ESTATE TAXES. Section 901 of the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001 is amended—

(1) by striking “this Act” and all that follows through “2010.” in subsection (a) and inserting in its place—

“(a) THE AMENDMENT TO SECTION 2001(b) OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE—

(i) in subsection (a), by striking ''2010.'' in subsection (a) and inserting in its place—

(2) by striking “‘estates, gifts, and transfers” in subsection (b)."

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, since the sponsor of the legislation wishes to get on with the conclusion of business tonight, I will simply say this amendment, which I hope will be considered at the beginning of next week, calls for the permanent repeal of the death tax.

As all of our colleagues know, we did repeal the death tax after phasing it down over a period of years, but the repeal only lasted for 1 year before that legislation is sunsestted, and we go right back after 10 years to the death tax as it currently exists.

I do not think any of us who voted for its repeal really intended that effect. We want to make its repeal permanent, and this amendment will do that. We will have the opportunity to vote on that next week as part of the stimulus package. I thank the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. NELSON of Nebraska. Mr. President, I stand today to express support for the Daschle consensus stimulus package, and I applaud the action of the Senate in passing the Baucus amendment to provide for accelerated depreciation over 2 years and 30 percent additional depreciation, as well as assisting and holding the States harmless for any lost revenue they might otherwise receive based on the support of the Medicaid Program at the State level.

I think it is clear to most everyone that we need to have some economic stimulus. What does not seem to be clear to everyone is of what that consists. What seems to be unclear at times is whether we need to do it a certain way for a certain period of time.

I thank Senator Daschle for his efforts on this issue, not just for bringing forth the economic package but doing so in such a constructive way, trying to find that which was common among most of the proposals that have been offered and to bring together consensus where consensus can be achieved.

This legislation is, at the very least, a building block for a package with which most would be hard pressed to disagree. If each of us were to come up with what we thought was the best economic stimulus for the country and put together our own package, we would have had at least 100 different bills.

In fact, if I had my way, I would probably do some of this differently, but I think when a package is put together and we take a close look, as we are, at individual ideas that might differ with the package, that might be supplemental, we are certainly seeing what the Senate is all about, and that is diverse opinions being fully debated to try to help this country out of its economic doldrums. In fact, if I had my way, I would include a provision addressing the net operating losses, or the NOLs, for a longer period of time because I think by extending the period of time it would help business shoulders that beast of the current economic downturn. So I think it is important we consider an NOL extender as well.

Over the past few months, we have heard so much talk from both sides about the need for an economic stimulus. Recently, we had the Chairman of the Fed say perhaps it was not as necessary as it might have been before, and we have heard others say we should have done it last year.

As anyone knows, there were a handful of people here who thought that a handful— who wanted to do it last year, but that is not a reason not to do something this year in the context of where we are.
I think that is what Senator DASCHLE has offered us, an opportunity to re-visit, to rethink, and to package together a stimulus package that would work for the future to help us, if not come out of the deepest of a recession, from falling further into a recession or, if we are already on the way out of the recession, to expedite the return to economic prosperity.

There will be those who will say this package is not perfect. There is not anyone who says that it is. Legislation is never perfect, but it is as close to an agreement that has presented itself. I certainly hope to thank Senator DASCHLE for taking this action because I think it will, in fact, help us enter a threshold of progress. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the call of the roll be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Pennsylvania.

INTERROGATION OF AL-QAIDA AND TALIBAN WAR CAPTIVES

Mr. SPECTER. Mr. President, I am writing to the President of the United States today concerning what I consider to be a very important subject, and that is the interrogation of the al-Qaida and Taliban war captives, where an issue has been raised as to whether they are prisoners of war or what is their status, with some people objecting to what is going on in the way they are being handled. There is no doubt that the captives are entitled to humane treatment. There have been inspection tours by national observers and international observers. The reports are uniform that the captives are being treated humanely. They are being fed and clothed. There is medical care. They are permitted to attend to their religious activities. All of this is totally separate and apart from the basic availability of those individuals to be questioned, where information which they might provide could shed light on the possibility of additional terrorist attacks.

Having some experience as an investigator and a prosecutor, I know first-hand the value of interrogation and intensive interrogation. We are facing at this moment an enormous threat from al-Qaida. We saw what happened on September 11. There have been three terrorist attacks. In what I consider to be an al-Qaida attack we do not know where. We do not know when. We do not know if. But we have to be very vigilant.

Where these interrogations of the al-Qaida and Taliban captives might lead to some information, then that ought to be pursued, and it ought to be pursued vigorously.

As a matter of international law, there is a mistaken notion you can only ask a prisoner of war his name, rank, date of birth, and serial number. The international law experts, and I have cited them in my letter to President Bush, are in agreement that other questions may be asked. Certainly there cannot be torture. Certainly there cannot be coercion—physical coercion or mental coercion. But there is no reason why those captives cannot be questioned.

The Supreme Court of the United States has upheld deviations from standard constitutional rights where there is an imminent threat of harm. For example, in the case of Near v. Minnesota, 283 U.S. 697, the issue came up on the question of prior restraint to stop the publication of a newspaper. And albeit dictum, the Supreme Court of the United States said there could be a curtailment of that kind of a constitutional right if, for example, the publication of the sallying date of a troop ship would place that ship in jeopardy. The possibility of another attack on the United States, considering what happened on September 11, has been much more serious than an attack on a troop ship.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in a celebrated case called New York v. Quares, 467 U.S. 649, came to the conclusion that the constitutional rights of a suspect under the Miranda decision could be circumscribed if there was an immediate threat of danger to a police officer or the public. That matter involved a rape. A police officer pursued the suspect, saw the suspect wearing a hat, and without giving him “Miranda” warnings, asked where the gun was. The Supreme Court of the United States said that where there is an imminent threat to public safety, constitutional rights may be abrogated, and statements may be admissible into evidence.

But we know the very major difference between questioning for intelligence purposes and questioning for admissibility in court. I am not proposing a proposal for the purpose of obtaining evidence to use against these captives, but if there is any chance at all that this interrogation could lead to information which could thwart another terrorist attack, then it is the fundamental duty of the United States Government to pursue that kind of interrogation.

This matter is on the front pages today. It will be the subject of a lot of debate. I think it ought to be known generally that there is a solid constitutional authority, international law, international law authority, to question prisoners of war beyond name, rank, and serial number. No torture. Obviously, humane treat-range and expansive bomb bays allowed it to make a round trip of nearly 6,000 miles, and also loiter over the battlefield with a variety of munitions, waiting for targets to emerge. Throughout this demanding, round-the-clock operation, Colonel Rice reports, B-1 made all assigned mission points, released all weapons successfully, and delivered ordnance with excellent accuracy.
Colonel Rice returned home from this mission about two weeks ago, just in time to be promoted to brigadier general. He was confirmed in his new position on September 26, 2001, and the pining ceremony occurs Friday, Feb-uary 1, at Ellsworth Air Force Base.
Since arriving at Ellsworth in May 2000, Colonel Rice’s performance has been impressive, and I know that as a general, he will be a tremendous asset for the Air Force. During Rice’s tenure, Ellsworth has dramatically improved its maintenance performance, chalked up impressive results in its 2001 Operational Readiness Inspection, and moved to the front of the pack in Air Combat Command assessments of command, control and communication; bomb removal; and response to nuclear-biological-chemical (NBC) hazards.
The men and women of Ellsworth have also benefitted from the dedicated service of Colonel Rice’s wife, Teresa.
When base personnel deployed for the war against terrorism, Teresa co-hosted a series of town-hall meetings with the acting base commander to update spouses and families on the status of their loved ones and to educate them on the role their family was playing to make America safe. In less stressful times, she volunteers twice a week in the base thrift shop, has been active in the Officer Spouses Club, and has orgaized and attended holiday parties, retirement ceremonies, promotion celebrations and farewells—too many to count.
In closing, Mr. President, it gives me great pleasure to welcome Colonel Rice back home to Ellsworth after the successful execution of his mission in Operation enduring Freedom. His remaining time in South Dakota grows short, but I know I speak for many South Dakota nians when I say it has been an honor to work with him and Teresa and to call them neighbors. They are a credit to their country, and we wish them all the best.

AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT

Mr. CLELAND. Mr. President, I rise today to bring to the Senate’s attention a valuable report on the State of the Union for Americans with Disabilities. As a triple amputee, having lost my right arm and both legs in the Viet-name war, I believe that the Americans with Disabilities Act has not only helped me and others with disabilities, but has also enabled society to benefit from the skills and talents of individuals with disabilities. The landmark legislation has also allowed us all to gain from their increased purchasing power and ability to use it, and has led to fuller, more productive lives for all Americans. However, there is still much to be done so I am pleased to highlight the efforts of the National Organization on Disability which celebrates the progress of the nation and works to increase access, opportunity, and inclusion for people with disabilities. I ask unanimous consent to print for the RECORD a copy of the National Organization on Disability’s State of the Union 2002 for Americans with Disabilities which provides benchmarks for the current state of disability life in America, and calls for action on improvements that have still to be made.
There being no objection, the materinal was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:
The State of the Union 2002 for Americans with Disabilities
On January 29, President George W. Bush will deliver the State of the Union Address.
This is a nation whose confidence has been strum, stung, shocked and saddened the nation. The terrorist attacks made all Americans, especially those touched by disabilities, reevaluate our way of life. We realized that we ought to better protect ourselves and our loved ones.
The nation was moved to learn of wheelchair users who awaited rescue when the World Trade Center towers fell.
We also were inspired by the stories of several people who had severe disabilities and survived. One man escaped after walking down dozens of flights of stairs on his artiticial leg, and another with the aid of his wheelchair. Two wheelchair users were carried to safety by their colleagues.

These survivors, like many of the others who suffered before or as a result of the attacks, benefited from intensive emergency drills that had been conducted since the World Trade Center bombing in 1993. The survival is important to how countries plan and preparedness is: whether the emergency is natural, man-made or terrorist-drivent. This has inspired a new focus in the disability community on preparedness.

According to a late 2001 Harris Poll survey released by the National Organization Disability (N.O.D.), 56 percent of people with disabilities say they were encouraged to contact about emergency plans for their community in the event of a terrorist attack or other crisis. Sixty-one percent say that they have not made plans to quickly and safely evacuate their home. Among those who are employed full or part time, 50 percent say no plans have been made to safely evacuate their workplace.

All these percentages are higher than for those without disabilities. The country as a whole says they have made plans to preppared, but people with disabilities lag behind everyone else. This is a critical discrepancy, because those of us with disabilities must in fact be better prepared to not be at a disadvantage in any emergency.

Intense national planning for emergencies is needed. This requires that disability organization, the government, business, and communities. People with disabilities should not be considered only as beneficiaries of emergency preparedness plans. They belong at the table, contrib-ing their unique perspectives, insights and experiences, so the resultant plans will be those that are best for all Americans. People with disabilities must be included on community preparedness committees across the national and at the highest levels of government planning. We are pleased that Office of Homeland Security Director Tom Ridge has pledged to appoint at least one person with a disability to a high-level position in his organization.

The slowing economy was a significant issue before September 11, and this situation became more critical after the terrorist attacks. This is not an easy time for anyone to enter the workforce, but many people with disabilities are desperately trying to do.
Only 32 percent of Americans with disabilities of working age are employed full or part time. That number is in contrast to 81 percent of other Americans, according to the comprehensive 2000 N.O.D./Harris Survey of Americans with Disabilities. It is a national tragedy that, nearly a dozen years after the passage of the Americans with Disabilities Act, the vast majority of Americans with disabilities remain unemployed. This is not by choice; two out of three who are not employed say they would prefer to be working.
Any efforts that lead to their becoming employed are good investments that will ben-fit these individuals, the workforce, and the economy.

President Bush has demonstrated a commitment to greater employment for people with disabilities in the New Freedom Initiative. We now call on the President and the Congress to ensure that Americans with Disabilities Act remain relevant and work together toward a national goal of 38 percent employment for people with disabilitics by 2005, with continuing progress to wards 50 percent in the decade to follow.

Indeed, employment numbers should be increasing. If for no other reason than that there are new ways for people to be employed. Technology offers real hope. Computers and the Internet are opening doors. People who are deaf use "instant messaging" to have conversations; people who are blind use voice-synthesis technology to write the read documents and websites inform; and people with limited ability to get to the polls have new ways to vote from home. Use of the Internet by people with disabilities is growing rapidly, in fact at twice the pace of other Americans.

Too often, people with disabilities find jobs, they are lower-level, low-paying jobs. Yet it is well documented that employers find employees with disabilities excel at all levels and earn above average sectors, for example, there is room for many more people with disabilities.

The disability community is troubled by two recent employment-related Supreme Court decisions that undercut this group's primary civil rights law, the Americans with Disabilities Act. Last February's Barrett v. Alabama decision is roughly three men- tion of the ADA. This month's decision in Toyota v. Williams continues a disturbing trend by the Court to narrow the ADA's pro- tection of the ADA. The Court agreed with the ADA. The Court must recognize that when it defies the ADA, it is well documented that employers find employees with disabilities excel at all levels and earn above average sectors, for example, there is room for many more people with disabilities.

against the harms that come out of hate. The Local Law Enforcement Enhancement Act of 2001 is now a symbol that can become substance. I believe that by passing this legislation, we can change hearts and minds as well.

A REPORT ON OUR NATION’S GUN LAWS

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. President, the Brady Campaign to Prevent Gun Violence recently published a report highlighting the progress made in state laws to protect children from guns and gun violence. The evaluation focused on a number of laws addressing juvenile possession of guns, safe storage, childproof guns, background checks and carrying concealed weapons, among other issues. The nation as a whole received a grade of C+. However, 29 States received grades of D or F. The report reveals the fact that our Nation’s gun laws are a patchwork providing uneven and often ineffective protection for our Nation’s children. In fact, the death rate of youth in the 7 States that received an A or a B. This discrepancy illustrates the need for common sense gun safety laws and is a strong argument for Federal action.

Last year, I cosponsored a bill introduced by Senator DURBIN, the Children’s Gun Protection Act. Under this bill, adults who fail to lock up a loaded firearm or an unloaded firearm with ammunition would be held liable if the weapon is taken by a child and used to kill or injure themselves or another person. The bill also increases the penalties for selling a gun to a juvenile and creates a gun safety education program that includes parent-teacher organizations, local law enforcement and community organizations. The bill is similar to legislation that President Bush signed into law during his tenure as the Governor of Texas. I support this bill and hope the Senate will act on it during this Congress.

ENDING THE WORST FORMS OF CHILD LABOR AND FORCED LABOR IN THE COCOA AND CHOCOLATE INDUSTRY WORLDWIDE

Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, we all know that slavery exists in an underdeveloped country. It is also becoming increasingly clear that they matter inside the global marketplace as well as outside. That explains why, according to a recent national poll, 77 percent of Americans said they would likely look for a label when purchasing if there was a label on the product. In a nationwide poll, 77 percent of Americans in a recent nationwide poll on globalization said they would pay more and change their chain of production if the worst forms of child labor were not used in the production and harvesting of cocoa beans. According to a recent poll, 77 percent of Americans in a recent nationwide poll on globalization said they would pay more and change their chain of production if the worst forms of child labor were not used.

Mr. President, the Harkin-Engel Protocol on the Worst Forms of Child Labor in the Cocoa and Chocolate Industry was signed and announced publicly last October 1. This unprecedented framework agreement that will result in a credible, public certification system of industry-wide good labor standards will attest that cocoa beans and all of their derivative products have been produced without any of the worst forms of child labor as clearly defined in ILO Convention No. 182.

Let me be clear. The Harkin-Engel Protocol on the Worst Forms of Child Labor is a very good agreement, but it is not perfect. It is a breakthrough that sets out a specific, finite timeframe during which something will be done. I am confident that the agreements and standards we have already set will work. It was only 3 years ago, when the Harkin-Engel Protocol was adopted by the ILO, that we set clear timelines for global standards to be established that will result in a credible, public certification system of industry-wide good labor standards.

Accordingly, I called representatives of the major chocolate companies to a meeting early last July to underscore the seriousness of the forced child labor problem that had been exposed in the chain of production and to determine what they planned to do about it. In a letter to the major chocolate companies last summer and won passage of an amendment to the Harkin-Engel Protocol that sets out a specific, finite time-bound plan to eliminate the worst forms of child labor. The Prohibition And Immediate Action Against the worst forms of child labor.

By setting a timeline, the Harkin-Engel Protocol sets clear and decisive corrective action had to be taken.

For The Elimination Of The Worst Forms Of Child Labor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(See Exhibit 1.)

Mr. HARKIN. I want to briefly highlight two measures that together make this framework agreement a real breakthrough:

First, it requires the industry to publicly acknowledge the use of forced child labor and to assume primary responsibility, including financial responsibility, for ending these intolerable practices. This is only fair and right.

Second, it requires the industry to partner and bargain every step of the way with the other major stakeholders—cocoa producers, organized labor, non-governmental organizations, consumer groups and governments among them—who have an interest and expertise in achieving the abolition of the worst forms of child labor in this sector. As of December 1, all of these stakeholders hammered out and signed a mutually-acceptable joint statement that recognizes and affirms their shared commitment to act together with urgency to eliminate the worst forms of child labor in the cocoa and chocolate business. I ask unanimous consent that this public statement also appear in the RECORD at the conclusion of my remarks.

Furthermore, by next May, a binding public memorandum of cooperation must be agreed among all of the major stakeholders that establishes a joint program of research, information exchange, and action to enforce internationally-recognized standards to eliminate the worst forms of child labor and forced labor from this sector of agriculture and food processing worldwide.

Third, by next July, this industry will have made its initial down-payment on its commitment to establish a new international foundation to oversee and sustain over time the global effort to eliminate the worst forms of child labor and forced labor in the growing and processing of cocoa beans and their derivative products. This will be a private, non-profit foundation governed and administered by all of the major stakeholders. The support of field projects in the Ivory Coast and other cocoa-exporting countries along with the commitment of $100 million over five years to establish best practices to eliminate the worst forms of child labor will be among its initial purposes.

Fourth, this framework agreement must yield within 4 years the first-ever global capacity in this sector to publicly and credibly certify that the cocoa and chocolate products we eat and enjoy every day have been produced without any child slavery or use of any of the worst forms of child labor. This will be a giant step forward. A very diverse set of stakeholders has publicly committed ourselves for the first time in America and abroad to rooting out and ending the worst forms of child labor and forced labor, wherever they exist. The resulting system of public certification should take us 99 percent of the way during the next 4 years toward a credible and effective means of empowering consumers to responsibly reward those companies that are doing the right thing and give their customers what most consumers in America and around the world want—products with a reliable label ensuring that none of the worst forms of child labor have been associated with their production.

Now I want to conclude my statement by recalling the life and vision of a great American, Milton Hershey, whose legacy from the 20th century is relevant to the 21st century challenge that has brought the Harkin-Engel Protocol into being. He grew up in a familly in Pennsylvania that was almost always broke and constantly on the move. Neighbors remembered seeing him as a boy going about the streets barefoot, selling berries door-to-door.

But it was Hershey's philanthropic example that stands out and is most relevant. In 1909, just 6 years after breaking ground for his first chocolate factory, he and his wife set up a trust fund to found a school for poor, orphans. Hershey Industrial School continues to flourish today, having provided a good home and a better chance in life for nearly a century for countless thousands of American children in need. In fact, at a comparatively young age, he donated his entire estate to the Hershey Trust Fund for the benefit of the school, including land and all of his stock valued at more than $60 million in 1918.

Today, Milton Hershey's remarkable gift of $60 million and the school is one of the richest private education institutions in our country. It continues to provide a home and quality education to more than 1,000 students every year—girls and boys of all races and religions who come mostly from broken families in poor inner-city neighborhoods.

If he was alive today, I think he would approve of this unprecedented framework agreement and the collaborative, child labor problem-solving process it has set in motion. He wouldn't see these child slaves in the Ivory Coast as children of a lesser god. Surely, he would open his heart and his wallet to do no less for the impoverished and powerless children of the Ivory Coast, Brazil, Ghana, Indonesia, and all the other cocoa-producing countries. All of the stakeholders in this breakthrough agreement should do the same.

Now we will roll up our sleeves, go to work building certification capacity, and meet all of the deadlines to confidently eliminate the worst forms of child labor and forced labor from the cocoa and chocolate business worldwide once and for all. In so doing, we will have charted a new trail and provided a worthy model that is transferable to other industries where millions of child laborers work in darkness and without prospects for a brighter future.

PROTOCOL FOR THE GROWING AND PROCESSING OF COCOA BEANS AND THEIR DERIVATIVE PRODUCTS IN A MANUFACTURING ENVIRONMENT COMPLIANT WITH ILO CONVENTION 182 CONCERNING THE PROHIBITION AND IMMEDIATE ACTION FOR THE ELIMINATION OF THE WORST FORM OF CHILD LABOR

Guiding Principles:

OBJECTIVE—Cocoa beans and their derivative products should be grown and processed in a manner that complies with International Labor Organization (ILO) Convention 182 Concerning the Prohibition and Immediate Action for the Elimination of the Worst Forms of Child Labor.

RESPONSIBILITY—Achieving this objective is possible only through the involvement of all major stakeholders in the global industry (comprised of major manufacturers of cocoa and chocolate products as well as other, major cocoa users), cocoa producers, organized labor, non-governmental organizations, and consumers. Each partner has important responsibilities. This protocol outlines the industry's role in carrying out its responsibilities through continuation and expansion of ongoing programs in cocoa-producing countries and through the other steps described in this protocol.

CREDIBILITY—EFFECTIVE PROBLEM SOLVING—In fashioning a long-term solution, the problem-solving process should involve all major stakeholders in order to maximize both the credibility and effectiveness of the problem-solving action plan that is mutually agreed upon.

SUSTAINABILITY—A multi-sectoral infrastructure, including but independent of the industry, should be created to develop and implement a sustainable action plan expediently.

ILO EXPERTISE—Consistent with its support for ILO Convention 182, industry recognizes the ILO's unique expertise and welcomes its involvement in addressing this serious problem. The ILO must have a "seat at the table" and an active role in assessing, monitoring, reporting on, and remediating the worst forms of child labor in the growing and processing of cocoa beans and their derivative products.

Key Action Plan and Steps to Eliminate the Worst Forms of Child Labor

(1) Public Statement of Need for and Terms of an Action Plan—Industry has publicly acknowledged the problem of forced child labor in West Africa and will continue to commit significant financial resources. African nations also have acknowledged the problem and have taken steps under their own laws to stop the practice. More is needed because, while the scope of the problem is uncertain, the occurrence of the worst forms of child labor in the growing and processing of cocoa beans and their derivative products is unacceptably high. Industry will reiterate its acknowledgment of the problem and in a highly-visible way will commit itself to this process.

(2) Formation of Multi-Sectoral Advisory Groups—By October 1, 2001, an advisory group will be put in place in conjunction with governmental agencies and other relevant stakeholders.

(3) Signed Joint Statement on Child Labor to Be Witnessed at the ILO—By December 1, 2001, a joint statement made by the major stakeholders will recognize, as a matter of urgency, the need to end the worst form of child labor in connection with the growing and processing of West African cocoa beans and their derivative products and to identify positive developmental alternatives for the eradication from human society and the worst forms of child labor from this sector as a matter of urgency and in accordance with the terms and deadlines prescribed herein.

(4) Memorandum of Cooperation—By May 1, 2002, there will be a binding memorandum of cooperation among the major stakeholders that establishes a joint action program of research, information exchange, and action to enforce the internationally-recognized and mutually-agreed upon standard to eliminate the worst forms of child labor in the growing and processing of cocoa beans and their derivative products and to establish independent means of monitoring and public reporting on compliance with those standards.

(5) Establishment of Joint Foundation—By July 1, 2002, industry will establish a joint international foundation to oversee and sustain efforts to eliminate the worst forms of child labor in the growing and processing of cocoa beans and their derivative products. This independent, nonprofit foundation will be governed by a Board comprised of industry and other, non-government stakeholders. Industry will serve on the initial and ongoing, primary financial support for the foundation. The foundation's purposes will include field projects and a clearhouse on best practices to eliminate the worst forms of child labor.

(6) Building Toward Credible Standards—In conjunction with governmental agencies and other parties, industry is currently conducting baseline-investigative surveys of child labor practices in West Africa to be completed by December 31, 2001. Taking into account the surveys and in accordance with the other deadlines prescribed in this action plan, by July 1, 2005, the industry in partnership with other major stakeholders will develop and implement credible, mutually-acceptable, voluntary, industry-wide standards of public certification, consistent with applicable federal law, that cocoa beans and their derivative products have been grown and/or processed without any of the worst forms of child labor.

We, the undersigned, as of September 19, 2001 and henceforth, commit the Chocolate Manufacturers Association, World Cocoa Foundation, to work with our members who are heartedly to work with the other major stakeholders, to fulfill the letter and spirit of this Protocol, and to do so in accordance with the principles prescribed herein.

Mr. Larry Graham, Chocolate Manufacturers Association.

Mr. William Guyton, World Cocoa Foundation.

JOINT STATEMENT, November 30, 2001

The Association of the Chocolate, Biscuit and Confectionery Industries of the EU, the Chocolate Manufacturers Association of the USA, the Confectionery Manufacturers Association of Canada, the Cocoa Association of London and the Federation for Cocoa Commerce, the Cocoa Merchants Association of America, the European Cocoa Association, the International Office of Cocoa, Chocolate and Confectionery, the World Cocoa Foundation, the Child Labor Coalition, Free The Slaves, the International Union of Food, Agricultural, Hotel, Restaurant, Catering, Tobacco and Allied Workers Associations, and the National Consumers League (sometimes hereinafter the “Signatories”) recognize the urgent need to identify and eliminate practices in violation of ILO Conventions 182 and 29 (“forced labour”) resulting from poverty and a complex set of social and economic conditions often faced by small family farmers and agricultural workers, and that effective solutions to address these violations must include action by appropriate parties to improve overall labour standards and access to education.

The Signatories support the framework provided in the Protocol signed by the Chocolate Manufacturers Association and the World Cocoa Foundation on September 19, 2001, which provides for cooperation and for credible, problem solving in West Africa, where a specific program of research, information exchange and action is immediately warranted. This Joint Statement expresses the shared commitment of the Signatories to work collaboratively toward the goal of eliminating worst forms of child labour and forced labour in cocoa growing.

The strategies developed as part of this process will only be credible to the public and negotiations of consumers if there is committed engagement on the part of governments, global industry (comprised of major manufacturers of cocoa and chocolate products, major cocoa users, cocoa producers, labour representatives, non-governmental organizations, and consumers that have joined this process).

The Signatories recognize the need to work in concert with the ILO because the ILO will play an important role in identifying positive strategies, including developmental alternatives, in terms of their design and enforcement. Effective only if they are comprehensive and part of a durable initiative. The steps to be taken to sustain this initiative include: (i) execution of a binding memorandum of cooperation among the Signatories that establishes a joint action program of research, information exchange, and monitoring and public reporting in compliance with those standards; and (ii) incorporation of this research that will include efforts to determine the most appropriate and practicable independent monitoring and monitoring and public reporting in compliance with those standards; and (iii) establishment of a joint foundation to oversee and sustain efforts to eliminate the worst forms of child labour and forced labour in the growing and processing of cocoa beans and their derivative products. The Signatories welcome industry’s commitment to provide initial and ongoing, primary financial support for the foundation.

We anticipate that other parties may be able to play a positive role in our important work. Subject to mutual consent by the Signatories, additional parties may be invited to sign onto this statement in the future.

CHINESE MILITARY’S USE OF FOREIGN TECHNOLOGY

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, a recent article in the Far Eastern Economic Review on China’s use of foreign technology to modernize its military explains the far-reaching impact of China’s purchase of foreign technology on that country’s military capabilities. For example, it describes Rolls Royce’s recent sale to China of 90 Spey jet engines, some of which will likely be used for the Chinese military’s JH-7 fighter bombers. The technology used in these engines is admittedly dated; but some analysts believe that they represent the beginning of a larger relationship between Rolls Royce and China. The article also details China’s growing reliance on Russian-designed aircraft, missiles, and navy destroyers and submarines. A February 2001 article in Jane’s Intelligence Review described the relationship further, stating:

Between 1991 and 1996 Russia sold China an estimated $1 billion worth of military weapons and related technologies each year. That figure doubled by 1997. In 1999 the two governments increased the military assistance package for a second time. There is now a five-year program (1999-2004) annually delivering $20 billion worth of technology transfers.

Perhaps of even greater concern is that, according to the Washington Project on Nuclear Arms Control, the United States approved $70 billion in "strategically sensitive" exports to China during the 1990s. These exports included equipment that can be used to design nuclear weapons, build nuclear... weapons components, improve missile designs, and build missile components. And it is important to remember China’s primary objective in acquiring these and other military technologies, to be able to defeat our long-standing, democratically aligned Taiwan in a conflict quickly enough to prevent American military intervention.

Last September, the Senate passed S. 149, the Export Administration Act of 2001. S. 149 was approved despite serious concerns of some, including myself, that the process’s controls are ineffective in stopping the export of militarily sensitive technologies to countries, like China, that pose a potential military threat to the United States or to U.S. interests abroad. S. 149, if enacted into law, would allow China to import even more sensitive technology than it has in the past. It would decontrol a number of dual-use technologies, including items used to make nuclear weapons and long-range missiles.

I urge my colleagues to take a moment to read the Far Eastern Economic Review article, and to consider the impact on China’s military capabilities of foreign technology purchases and, more importantly, the potential long-term ramifications of further weakening the U.S. export control process.

I ask unanimous consent that the article be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the article was so printed in the Record, as follows:

CHINA—ARMS

(By David Lague in Hong Kong)

Buying Some Major Muscle: The People’s Liberation Army is shopping for foreign arms at a military technology conference with a vengeance: Costing tens of billions of dollars a year, this drive will change the face of its forces at war and is unsettling some foreign governments.

In the field of frustration and broken dreams that for many foreign firms is the China market, arms dealers and suppliers of technology to be built into military firepower have discovered their El Dorado.

International arms-trade monitors estimate that China is now the world’s biggest arms importer as it steps up a drive to reequip the People’s Liberation Army so that, if necessary, it has the strength to recover Taiwan by force and can deter intervention by the United States in a cross-strait conflict.

From supersonic fighters and missiles to computer-aided-design software the PLA and its associated industrial agencies are filling order books across the world.

“In my view, practically every area of PLA modernization is affected by the acquisition, utilization absorption or development of foreign technology,” says PLA watcher Richard Fisher of the Jamestown Foundation in Washington.

The International Peace Research Institute in its 2001 yearbook noted that China had become the world’s biggest importer of arms in 2000, mainly through deliveries of combat control systems from Russia. These imports were valued at close to $3 billion, more than twice any other buyer’s tally. In the secretive world of the international arms trade, the true value of Chinese offshore orders is difficult to uncover. Defence experts estimate up to half of Russia’s $4 billion a year sale to China. When combined with imports of so-called dual-use technology—equipment and know-how with military as well as civilian applications—many analysts expect the total to be much higher.

To pay for what Fisher described as its international military “spending spree,” the PLA is expected to spend at least $17 billion this year. Beijing isn’t shy about its growing power. Earlier British technology sales proved a boost to the PLA. In 1996, Racal Corp., now part of the French Thales Group, sold up to 24 mariner long-range radars to be fitted on PLA Navy Y–8 aircraft. Britain at the time justified the sale by saying it would help Beijing against rampant smuggling. Since then, an specialist press has reported that these aircraft are used to assist Chinese missile warships locate distant targets.

Other sales are aimed at civil use but seem to offer clear military advantages. Surrey Satellite Technology, perhaps the world’s leading micro-satellite maker, has played a major role developing China’s infant micro-satellite industry with technology transferred to China through a joint venture with Beijing’s elite Qinghua University. Specialists have warned that this type of technology is vitally important for the Chinese military to mount combined air and sea operations in the South China Sea.

Company spokeswoman Audrey Nice rejects any link between Surrey’s technology and the Chinese military. “There are no defence applications whatsoever.” However, she is unable to rule out Chinese military access to data from satellites launched as part of the venture collaboration. “The satellite is owned by Qinghua University,” says Nice, adding that any questions should be directed to the university.

To reduce its dependence on foreign suppliers, China is investing heavily in research and development to build a military industrial base of its own. The PLA’s new defence budget now focuses on production of powerful new Russian warships and submarines alongside locally built ships fitted with U.S. and Ukrainian engines and Italian torpedoes. French companies have supplier air-warfare missiles, tactical command-and-control systems, and helicopters.

On land, the PLA will field modern Russian tanks and artillery. Many armoured vehicles will be protected with advanced Israeli-designed armour cladding. Older Chinese tanks have Israeli gun and gunnights systems.

Overhead, satellites built with British and German help will keep watch on the battlefield, fix positions for ground forces and deliver data to ships at sea. Meanwhile China’s nuclear deterrent will be mounted on launches improved with advanced technology. Monterey Solutions in the Taiwan Strait.

Beijing isn’t shy about its growing power. When one of the PLA navy’s latest class of warship, the sleek 6,000-tonne guided-missile destroyer Shenzen, begins operations in November after visiting Europe, it was touted as an example of how China was capable of building world-class warships. The new vessel may be equipped with most Western counterparts. But by regional standards, the Shenzhen’s Ukrainian gas turbines, French Crotale air-defense missiles, Russian YJ-2 anti-ship missiles and two Russian Ka-28 anti-submarine-warfare helicopters make it formidable vessel.

While the arms merchants pile in, there are clear signs of unease in some foreign capitals about the scale of China’s arms-buying bonanza and its potential to regional stability. For the U.S. and regional governments, the main concern is that short-term corporate greed is overpowering Western fears of arming a potential enemy of the future to the teeth.

Reflecting such official unease, New York-based satellite-maker Loral Space & Communications agreed this month with the U.S. Justice Department this month to pay a record $14 million fine to settle charges that it may have illegally given satellite know-how to Beijing.

Hughes Electronics of California is also expected to settle with Washington over its role in similar technology leaks.

A U.S. Congressional committee in 1999 accused both companies of helping overcome serious shortcomings in Chinese rocket launching technology, as the PLA’s series of failed satellite launches in the mid-1990s. Since then, China launched more than 30 satellites without a hitch. There are strong suspicions that the PLA’s nuclear missiles carried on the same launchers and aimed at the U.S. are now more reliable because of a surge from U.S. firms.

At the same time as the probes into Hughes and Loral, Washington forced Israel to cancel a $1.25 billion sale of up to five Russian-built aircraft equipped with Israeli-made Phalcon early warning radar to the PLA. Such aircraft would be crucial in coordinating large-scale operations over the Taiwan Strait.

Anxious to keep its good relations as an arms supplier with Beijing, Tel Aviv is now negotiating to pay compensation to China for breaking the deal. Diplomats say that discussions between both sides earlier this month in Beijing also covered what other hardware may be supplied by Israel.

But regardless of international pressure on sellers, tension across the Taiwan Strait is likely to prolong the feast for arms makers. As China’s power grows, so does Taiwan’s demand for yet more weapons to ensure parity. The Bush administration last year agreed to sell Taiwan a $7.5 billion package of advanced weaponry.

The Bush administration last year agreed to supply Taipei with its biggest arms package in decades, including a group of up to eight submarines that alone will cost more than $4 billion.

Watching the arms race, some analysts are questioning the wisdom of China buying hardware from such a range of suppliers. For a start, the logistical and technical support needed to maintain so many different weapons systems is a major challenge. And it takes more than just advanced hardware to be a military power. Training, military doctrine and the integration of weapons and sensors are essential. There is also the danger that in trying to keep pace with Western firepower, China might overextend itself financially—as the Soviet Union did.

Nevertheless, analysts such as Tsai in Taipei believe that the sheer pace of its spending is allowing China to close the military gap with the U.S. and the rest of the West. The worst fast enough to pose a real security threat for Taiwan. “It is unnecessary for China to catch up with the West in all fields,” he says. “They just need enough to deter the U.S. from becoming involved in the Taiwan Strait.”

FORMER WISCONSIN GOVERNOR
JOHN REYNOLDS

Mr. FEINGOLD. Mr. President, one of Wisconsin’s great progressives died a few days ago. Former Wisconsin Governor John Reynolds passed away on January 6. He was 80.

The son of an Attorney General, John Reynolds served as Wisconsin’s Attorney General. He was the State’s Governor from 1963 to 1965, and was appointed by President Johnson to serve as a Federal Judge in Wisconsin’s Eastern District where he served as Chief Judge from 1971 until 1986.

But as impressive as it is, that resume does not do him justice. In memorializing John Reynolds, the Wisconsin State Journal wrote that his true legacy was his support of the rule of law and equal rights under the U.S. Constitution. Indeed, he may be remembered best as a civil rights advocate. His most famous decision as a judge was his 1976 order that Milwaukee schools be desegregated.

As columnist John Nichols wrote of him, “John Reynolds never surrendered the Progressive vision that the political and economic rights of individuals must be protected against encroachments by corporate and political elites bent on self-service.”

In 1963, as a sitting Governor, John Reynolds supported civil rights demonstrations that made unyielding demands on the American people. When the Trust Fund mismanagement was hopeful that this accounting situation was at least remedied. Unfortunately, this has not been the case. In 1996, I was appointed by Chairman Young to the Congressional Task Force on Trust Fund Management, to review and study the management and reconciliation of funds administered by the Department of the Interior’s Office of Trust Fund Management. Those meetings were informative but far from productive as three years and many millions of dollars later, this problem still persists.

My concern remains, where are we now, and what does the Department have to accomplish from the creation of another bureau? Far too much time and resources have been exhausted attempting to remedy this deplorable situation, which affects far too many of South Dakota’s poorest people.

NATIVE AMERICAN TRUST FUNDS

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today to express my deep concern for the outlook of the trust fund management system. I have requested on numerous occasions that the Department of the Interior consult with tribes on this issue. I understand this is difficult, given the scope and expanse of the approximately 360 Tribes in the United States, but it must be done in a far more meaningful manner than has been the case up until now.

Tribes feel that the Department of the Interior has presented a plan, and are simply going through the motions of “consultation.” The very idea of consultation is not to formulate a plan and then impose it upon the interested parties and have them accept or reject it. It is to work with the interested parties and formulate a plan together. This is the essence of consultation between the Federal Government and Indian Country; it is at the heart of true government-to-government relationship.

The present and future challenge the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Office of Special Trustee face are a high priority for the 107th Congress. As a member of both the Senate Indian Affairs Committee, as well as, the Appropriations Committee, I look forward to working on efforts to improve the quality of services provided by the Department and to all the Tribes of South Dakota and across the country.

The issue of Trust Fund mismanagement is one of the most urgent problems that we face with in Indian Country. It is a problem that exists in all the circumstances we find in Indian Country, and especially in South Dakota, I do not think there is any more complex, more difficult and more shocking than these circumstances we have surrounding trust fund mismanagement.

This problem has persisted literally for generations, and continues today. Administrations of both political parties have been inadequate in the response, and the result from the creation and the resource provided by Congresses over past decades has also been badly inadequate. The Federal Government, by law, is to be the trustee for Native American people. When the Trust Fund Management Act of 1975 has passed, I was hopeful that this accounting situation would at last be remedied. Unfortunately, this has not been the case.

Mr. Feingold, I am hopeful that this accounting situation would at last be remedied. Unfortunately, this has not been the case.
On January 21, 2002, The Sioux Falls Argus Leader published an editorial entitled “TrSioux Capabe of Managing Own Trust Funds.” I commend this editorial to my colleagues. It urges Secretary Norton and the Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs, Neal McCaleb, in the strongest possible terms, to consult with tribes.

The Federal Government is fond of saying that it will operate “government to government” with Indian tribes, but then too often it consults after the fact in an insulting manner. It is time to give tribes greater responsibility over their assets and their budgets.

It is imperative that we remedy this situation. More years will go by and more opportunities to correct this great injustice will be passed unless Congress and the administration at last give resolution of this trust fund crisis the attention and the resources it deserves.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that The Sioux Falls Argus Leader editorial be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the editorial was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

TRIBES CAPABLE OF MANAGING OWN TRUST FUNDS—GOVERNMENT NEEDS COOPERATION

By the Editorial Staff

At a meeting in Albuquerque, N.M., tribes vigorously opposed a plan by the Department of Interior and Bureau of Indian Affairs to create a new agency to manage Indian trusts.

The same thing happened at a meeting in Minneapolis.

And again in Oklahoma City.

And most recently in Rapid City.

Each time, the reason was the same. Plans to create the new Bureau of Indian Trust Asset Management were developed by the Interior Department and BIA, without consulting a single tribe.

“Decisions for Indian people should be made by Indian people. Let us do it,” said Tom Ranfranz, Flandreau Santee tribal chairman. “We’re good people. We know how to do it. Let us do it.”

If there’s one main problem with white-Native American relations during the years we’ve been a nation, it’s just this. Whites always think they know what’s best for Indians.

Guess what, it’s not always true. Literally billions of dollars are at stake in whatever is decided. The trust fund is built up from money—about $500 million a year—taken from grazing, ag revenue, mining, oil production, logging and right-of-way easements.

The BIA has managed the fund and doled out money to tribes and individuals.

We should “manage” in a loose sort of way. The BIA can’t account for at least $2.4 billion supposed to have been collected and handed out since 1972. Maybe the money is there and maybe it isn’t. No one knows.

That has led to an ongoing lawsuit against the Department of Interior, and each time the parties are in court, revelations of mismanagement seem to get more bizarre. Most recently, it was determined that the computer system used for the trust fund was so horrible just about anybody could hack into it—despite billions of dollars in studies and recommendations on how to fix the problems.

A judge shut down the system entirely, delaying payments to thousands of people around the county.

Now, the government officials who created the mess are telling the tribes how to solve the problem. Part of it is to put former BIA Director Ross Swimmer in charge of the new agency.

This is the same Swimmer who destroyed a Cherokee Nation corporation by making bad loans to corporation members.

Tribal officials are howling about the appointment of someone good reason.

They’ve suggested, instead, a task force of tribal representatives from around the country to come up with a better way of doing things. There are good disagreements about how that would work, but it is clearly the right solution.

Interior Secretary Gale Norton and BIA Director Neal McCaleb seem to have good intentions. It appears they want to undo this long-standing mess and replace the current operation with something that works. For that, we praise them.

But whatever they do will never work unless it’s done in consultation with the tribes. To even try to do otherwise is ludicrous. If they think they can do this without the tribes, they’re deluding themselves.

ORDERS FOR RECESS, JOINT SESSION, ADJOURNMENT, UNTIL MONDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 2002

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate stand in recess until this evening at 8:30 p.m.; further, that at 8:40 p.m. the Senate proceed to the House Chamber for the joint session, and that, following the joint session the Senate adjourn under the provisions of S. Con. Res. 95 unless the hour of 11 p.m., Monday, February 4, that immediately following the prayer and the pledge, the Journal of proceedings be approved to date, the completed remarks be read and agreed upon, and a roll-call vote be taken.

We resume consideration of H.R. 622.

TRIBUTE TO JAMES RAYMOND TOULOUSE

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to James Raymond Toulouse who passed away on January 24, 2002. My heartfelt sympathies go out to his family and friends.

James was born in Albuquerque, NM, in 1919, and graduated from Albuquerque High School in 1936. He also graduated from the University of New Mexico in 1940 and received a law degree in 1949 from Georgetown Law School.

Prior to entering law school, James served during WW II as a Specialist A Second Class in the United States Navy. His education and dedication to his country served him well during his successful law career.

Since 1949, James actively practiced law often representing cases involving civil rights. His work did not go unnoticed. For his work on behalf of the Albuquerque Chapter of the NAACP in 1985, James received their “Keeping the Dream Alive Award.” In 1986, the New Mexico Bar honored him with the Courageous Advocacy Award. In addition, Rodney Barker in his 1992 book, “The Broken Circle,” wrote an account of James' representation of Navajo rights.

New Mexico has lost an invaluable native who advocated for the rights of others. I want to take this opportunity to salute the lifetime achievements of James Raymond Toulouse. I join with his family and friends in mourning his loss.

TRIBUTE TO ROBERT K. KRICK

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, today I honor Mr. Robert K. Krick on his recent retirement from the National Park Service and for his distinguished career as a Civil War historian and preservationist. Mr. Krick joined the National Park Service in 1966, working both at Fort McHenry National Monument and Fort Necessity National Battlefield. In 1972, he became the Chief Historian at Fredericksburg & Spotsylvania National Military Park. It is a position he held for twenty-nine years until his retirement last month.

During his tenure at Fredericksburg & Spotsylvania National Military Park—an area which comprises four battlefields and over 20,000 acres of park acreage grew from under 3000 to over 8000 today. Nearly half of all the historians at Civil War battlefield parks learned their trade under Bob Krick. His contributions to the preservation of history and the Civil War are numerous. Bob's tireless efforts to expand and improve the National Park Service will continue to be appreciated by the millions of individuals who visit these historic areas each year.

Although preservation of Civil War battlefields was a large part of Bob's career, he found the time to become a distinguished author and scholar. He has written 12 books, including "Stone-wall Jackson at Cedar Mountain," and "Conquering the Valley: Stonewall Jackson at Cross Keys and Port Republic," as well as countless articles and book reviews. His works will undoubtedly influence future generations.

More than a decade ago I began touring various battlefields with Bob and several other Civil War historians. We relived Jackson's battles of the 1862 campaign and retraced the Union campaign of 1864. With Bob by my side, I was able to visualize the 1862 battles and could feel Jackson's presence. I came away from the trip with the strong feeling that it was my responsibility as a U.S. Senator to help preserve this part of our national heritage. Since that time I have been dedicated to preserving our Nation's most cherished and sacred lands. As a first step, I introduced legislation that directed the Park Service to undertake a study of Civil War sites. Congress responded by passing legislation, in 1991, that created a national Civil War Sites Advisory Commission. Composed of distinguished leaders, supported by a staff of National Park Service experts, the commission for two years studied the remaining Civil War battlefields. The 1993 report presented a plan of action for protecting what remained of the Civil War Battlefields. Since 1993, I have helped to secure $19 million in Federal funds to preserve these priceless links to America's past.

Although much has been done in the last decade to preserve battlefields, there is a lot to do as our nation's history is still being demolished and bulldozed at an alarming pace. Bob will continue to be a preservation leader as a Board member of the Richmond Battlefields Association. I look forward to working with and calling upon Bob for advice in the future.

COMMEMORATING THE LIFE OF THOMAS J. CLEAR, JR.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise today to join the people of Albuquerque, NM, in mourning the loss of Thomas J. Clear, Jr. He helped to establish a better way of life for his family and the people of New Mexico. He was a friend to all.

Respected throughout the State, Thomas was known for his friendship and dedication to the things that he loved, his family and friends. He first came to the attention of the student body of the University of New Mexico where Thomas dedicated his studies to education, but also where he met the love of his life and future wife of 50 years, Iris. After he completed law school, Thomas and Iris again returned to New Mexico in order to begin what would be a long and dedicated legal career serving the people of New Mexico.

Friends say that Thomas was able to serve New Mexicans so well because he truly cared about their best interests, and he served to protect those interests. He will be remembered for more than just his legal and adversarial roles by the people of New Mexico, he will be known for the love and friendship he shared with all of those who he came in contact with.

Thomas died last week surrounded by family and friends, much the same way as he spent his life. He was devoted to the interests of his family and the people of New Mexico. Mr. President, I share the grief of the friends and family of Thomas and my heartfelt condolences go out to them.

THE RETIREMENT OF ELEANOR TOWNS

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to a dedicated and distinguished public servant. Eleanor Towns, Regional Forester for the United States Forest Service's Southwestern Region, is retiring at the end of this month. Eleanor "Elli" Towns will conclude more than two decades of outstanding achievement with the Forest Service.

For the past four years, Ellie has served as the Regional Forester in New Mexico. In this position, she served as one of nine regional foresters in the agency and assumed leadership of 11 National Forests and 4 National Grasslands comprising more than 20 million acres of National Forest System lands in Arizona and New Mexico. Prior to this, Ellie was the Director of Lands for the Forest Service in Washington, D.C. She was also the Director of Lands for the Bureau of Land Management for the Rocky Mountain Region, headquartered in Denver, CO. She joined the Forest Service in 1978 and worked in a number of progressively responsible positions. She came to New Mexico to work for the Bureau of Land Management. Ellie holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois, a master's degree from the University of New Mexico, and a juris doctor degree from the University of Denver's Co. Law School.

I am pleased and gratified that my work in the Senate has allowed me to get to know Ellie. We worked together in preserving the Valles Caldera National Preserve and in securing additional funding for hazardous fuels projects to reduce fire threats to communities adjacent to national forests. She also testified before the Energy and Natural Resources Committee several times and I can honestly say that she was one of the best witnesses the Forest Service has ever sent up here.

Ellie's dedication and enthusiasm have provided the Forest Service with effective, professional management and direction. During her tenure, she has been successful in building strong relationships with many Forest Service partners and customers. In so doing, Ellie has garnered the respect, admiration and trust of her employees as well as all of those who have worked with her. She also promoted a collaborative stewardship in caring for the land and serving the people who own them. We will miss her, and I know that the Forest Service will miss her even more.

The Forest Service and the nation owe Ellie Towns a great deal of gratitude for her fine work at the Forest Service. I wish her the best in all of her future endeavors.

HONORING THE PROMOTION OF COLONEL EDWARD RICE TO BRIGADIER GENERAL

Mr. JOHNSON. Mr. President, I rise today to congratulate the commander of Ellsworth Air Force Base's 28th Bomber Wing on his promotion to brigadier general.

On February 1, 2002, Colonel Edward A. Rice, Jr., will pin on his first star, and I cannot think of a member of the Air Force more deserving of this promotion. I have known Colonel rice since May 2000, when he took command of the 28th Bomber Wing at Ellsworth, in my home state of South Dakota. Ellsworth is home to one of the Air Force's two B-1B wings, with 26 aircraft and more than 3,500 military and civilian employees. Colonel Rice joined a distinguished line of commanders of the wing, and has become the fifth consecutive commander to be promoted to brigadier general.
Colonel Rice has recently returned from Diego Garcia, where he was the commander of the 28th Air Expeditionary Wing, overseeing the entire B-1B operation for the ongoing war against terror, Operation Enduring Freedom. In addition to coordinating bombing missions from the command center on the ground, Colonel Rice added to his more than 3,600 hours of air time in combat aircraft by flying bombing missions against Taliban and al-Qaeda controlled strongholds in Afghanistan. I applaud the efforts of Colonel Rice and all of the men and women in Operation Enduring Freedom. Since joining Congress in 1987 I have appreciated the professionalism, hard work, and excellence of Ellsworth's commanders and personnel. Colonel Rice has added to that tradition, and under his leadership the effectiveness of the B-1B, especially in recent operations in Afghanistan, has proven again why that aircraft is the backbone of our Nation's bomber fleet.

Colonel Rice graduated from the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado, in 1978, and went to flight school to become a B-1B pilot. He also has experience flying aircraft that include the B-1 and the B-2 Stealth bomber.

Throughout his distinguished career, Colonel Rice has held a variety of significant operational positions including commander of the 34th Bomb Squadron at Castle Air Force Base, CA; deputy commander of the 509th Operations Group, at Whiteman Air Force Base in MO; and commander of the 552nd Operations Group, at tinker Air Force Base, OK.

Colonel Rice served as a White House fellow from 1990–1991. The program selects midcareer professionals for a variety of positions, usually from outside of their normal field of expertise. Colonel Rice worked in the office of the Secretary of Health and Human Services.

In 1994 and 1995, Colonel Rice served on a blue-ribbon government panel examining the military’s structure in the post-Cold War era. Colonel Rice moved to the West Wing of the White House in 1997, when he was named deputy executive secretary to the National Security Council. He served in the White House until he was assigned to Ellsworth for his first command of a combat bomb wing.

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Colonel Rice, his wife Teresa, and their children, on this well-deserved promotion.

MESSAGES FROM THE PRESIDENT

Messages from the President of the United States were communicated to the Senate by Ms. Evans, one of his secretaries.

EXECUTIVE MESSAGES REFERRED

As in executive session the Presiding Officer laid before the Senate messages from the President of the United States submitting sundry nominations which were referred to the appropriate committees. (The nominations received today are printed at the end of the Senate proceedings.)

REPORT ON THE STATE OF THE UNION MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT—PM 63

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, together with an accompanying report; which was ordered to lie on the table.

To the Congress of the United States:
Mr. Speaker, Vice President CHENEY, Members of Congress, distinguished guests, and fellow citizens:

As we gather tonight, our Nation is at war, our economy is in recession, and the civilized world faces unprecedented dangers. Yet the state of our Union has never been stronger.

We last met in an hour of shock and suffering. In four short months, our Nation has committed the task of our generation to rebuild New York and the Pentagon; rallied a great coalition; captured, arrested, and rid the world of thousands of terrorists; destroyed Afghanistan’s terrorist training camps; saved a people from starvation; and freed a country from brutal oppression.

The American flag flies again over our embassy in Kabul. Terrorists who once occupied Afghanistan now occupy cells at Guantanamo Bay. And terrorist leaders who urged followers to sacrifice their lives are running for their own.

America and Afghanistan are now allies against terror . . . we will be partners in rebuilding that country . . .

The time we met in this chamber, the mothers and daughters of Afghanistan were captives in their own homes, forbidden from working or going to school. Today women are free, and are part of Afghanistan’s new government, and we welcome the new Minister of Women’s Affairs, Doctor Sima Samar.

Our progress is a tribute to the spirit of the Afghan people, to the resolve of our coalition, and to the might of the United States military. When I called our troops into action, I did so with complete confidence in their courage and skill—and tonight, thanks to your support, against our enemies.

The men and women of our armed forces have delivered a message now clear to every enemy of the United States: Even seven thousand miles away, across oceans and continents, on mountaintops and in caves—you will not escape this Nation.

For many Americans, these four months have brought sorrow, and pain that will never completely go away. Every day a retired firefighter returns to Ground Zero, to feel closer to his two sons who died there. At a memorial in New York, a little boy left his football with a note for his lost father: “Dear Daddy, Please take this to Heaven. I don’t want to play football until I play with you today.”

Last month, at the grave of her husband, Micheal, a CIA officer and Marine who died in Mazar-e-Sharif, Shannon Spann said these words of farewell: “Semper Fi, my love.” Shannon is with us tonight.

Shannon, I assure you and all who have lost a loved one that our cause is just, and our country will never forget the debt we owe Micheal and all who gave their lives for freedom.

Our cause is just, and it continues. Our discoveries in Afghanistan confirmed our worst fears, and show us the true scope of the task ahead. We have seen the depth of our enemies’ hatred in videos where they laugh about the loss of innocent life, and the strength of their hatred is equaled by the madness of the destruction they design. We have found diagrams of American nuclear power plants and public water facilities, detailed instructions for making chemical weapons; surveillance maps of American cities, and thorough descriptions of landmarks in America and throughout the world.

What we have found in Afghanistan confirms that—far from ending there—our war against terror is only beginning. Most of the 19 men who hijacked planes on September 11th were trained in Afghanistan’s camps—and so were tens of thousands of others. Thousands of dangerous killers, schooled in the methods of murder, often supported by outlaw regimes, are now spread throughout the world like ticking time bombs—set to go off without warning.

Thanks to the work of our law enforcement officials and coalition partners, hundreds of terrorists have been arrested. Yet tens of thousands of trained terrorists are still at large. These enemies view the entire world as a battlefield, and we must pursue them wherever they are. So long as training camps operate, so long as nations harbor terrorists, freedom is at risk—and America and our allies must not, and will not, allow it.

Our Nation will continue to be steadfast, and patient, and persistent in the pursuit of two great objectives. First, we will shut down terrorist camps, disrupt terrorist plans, and bring terrorists to justice. Second, we must prevent the terrorists and regimes who seek chemical, biological, or nuclear weapons from threatening the United States and the world.

Our military has put the terrorist training camps of Afghanistan out of business, yet camps still exist in at least a dozen countries. A terrorist underworld—including groups like Hamas, Hezbollah, Islamic Jihad, and Talib-i-Mohammed—operates in remote jungles and deserts, and hides in the centers of large cities.

January 29, 2002
While the most visible military action is in Afghanistan, America is acting elsewhere. We now have troops in the Philippines helping to train that country’s armed forces to go after terrorist cells that have executed an American, and will hold the bastions. Our soldiers working with the Bhutanese government, seized terrorists who were plotting to bomb our embassy. Our navy is patrolling the coast of Africa to block the shipment of weapons and the establishment of terrorist camps in Somalia.

My hope is that all nations will heed our call, and eliminate the terrorist parasites who threaten their countries, and our own. Many nations are acting forcefully. Pakistan is now cracking down on terror, and I admire the leadership of President Musharraf. But some governments will be timid in the face of terror. And make no mistake: If they do not act, America will.

Our second goal is to prevent regimes that sponsor these weapons from spreading to America or our friends and allies with weapons of mass destruction.

Some of these regimes have been pretty quiet since September 11th. But we know their true nature. North Korea continues to arm themselves with nuclear weapons and weapons of mass destruction, while starving its citizens. Iran aggressively pursues these weapons and exports terror, while an unelected few repress the Iranian people’s hope for freedom.

Iraq continues to flaunt its hostility toward America and to support terror. The Iraqi regime has plotted to develop anthrax, and nerve gas, and nuclear weapons for over a decade. This is a regime that has already used poison gas to murder thousands of its own citizens—leaving the bodies of mothers huddled over their dead children. This is a regime that agreed to international inspections—then kicked out the inspectors. This is a regime that has something to hide from the civilized world.

States like these, and their terrorist allies, constitute an axis of evil, armed with the world’s most destructive weapons, the best equipment, and the best training—and they also deserve another pay raise. My budget includes the largest increase in defense spending in two decades, because while the price of freedom and security is high, it is never too high—whatever it costs to defend our country, we will pay it.

The next priority of my budget is to do everything possible to protect our citizens and strengthen our Nation’s security. I oppose funding this dangerous regime, and I support extending with funds for the war, our troops anywhere in the world quickly and safely. Our men and women will have the best equipment, and the best training—and they also deserve another pay raise.

I propose a sustained strategy of homeland security, focused on four key areas: bioterrorism, emergency response, airport and border security, and counter-terrorism. We will develop vaccines to fight anthrax and other deadly diseases. We will increase funding to help states and communities train and equip our heroic police and firefighters.

As perils grow closer and closer, The United States of America will not permit the world’s most dangerous regimes to threaten us with the world’s most destructive weapons. Our war on terror is well begun, but it is only begun. This campaign may not be finished on our watch—yet it must be and it will be waged on our watch.

We cannot stop short. If we stopped now—leaving terror camps intact and terrorist states unchecked—our sense of security would be false and temporary.

History has called America and our allies to action, and it is both our responsibility and our privilege to fight freedom’s fight.

Our first priority must always be the security of our Nation, and that will be reflected in the budget I send to Congress. My budget supports three great goals for America: We will win this war, we will protect our homeland, and we will revitalize our economy.

We believe that this effort is both prudent and possible if we set aside posturing and partisanship. This budget will aim to

We will work closely with our coalition to deny terrorists and their state sponsors the materials, technology, and expertise to make and deliver weapons of mass destruction. We will develop and deploy effective missile defenses to protect America and our allies from sudden attack. And all nations should know: America will do what is necessary to ensure our Nation’s security.

We will be deliberate, yet time is not on our side. I will not wait on events, while dangers gather. I will not stand by, as peril draws closer and closer. The United States of America will not permit the world’s most dangerous regimes to threaten us with the world’s most destructive weapons.

Our war on terror is well begun, but it is only begun. This campaign may not be finished on our watch—yet it must be and it will be waged on our watch.

In September 11th brought out the best in America, and the best in this Congress, and I join the American people in applauding your unity and resolve. Now Americans deserve to have this same spirit directed toward addressing problems here at home. I am a proud member of my party—yet as we act to win the war, protect our people, and create jobs in America, we must act first and foremost as Republicans, not as Democrats, or as Americans. I could be wrong, but I don’t think I am.

As we work to fight this war, we have spent more than a billion dollars a month—over 30 million dollars a day—and we must be prepared for future operations. Afghanistan proved that expensive precision weapons defeat the enemy and spare innocent lives, and we need more of them. We need to replace aging aircraft and make our military more agile to put our troops anywhere in the world quickly and safely. Our men and women have improved by training, and the best training—and they also deserve another pay raise. My budget includes the largest increase in defense spending in two decades, because while the price of freedom and security is high, it is never too high—whatever it costs to defend our country, we will pay it.

launch a major recruiting drive with a great goal for America: a quality teacher in every classroom.

Good jobs also depend on reliable and affordable energy. This Congress must act to encourage conservation, promote technology, build infrastructure, and it must act to increase energy production at home so America is less dependent on foreign oil.

Good jobs depend on expanded trade. Selling into new markets creates new jobs, so I urge Congress to finally approve Trade Promotion Authority. On these two key issues, trade and energy, the House of Representatives has acted to create jobs—and I urge the Senate to pass this legislation.

Good jobs depend on sound tax policy. Last year, some in this hall thought my tax relief plan was too small—and some thought it was too big. But when those checks arrived in the mail, most Americans thought tax relief was just about right. Congress listened and responded by cutting the top rate, doubling the child credit, and ending the death tax. For the sake of long-term growth and to help Americans plan for the future, let’s make these tax cuts permanent.

That’s why this year, the way to create jobs, is to grow the economy by encouraging investment in factories and equipment, and by speeding up tax relief so people have more money to spend. For the sake of American workers, let’s pass a stimulus package.

Good jobs must be the aim of welfare reform. As we re-authorize these important reforms, we must always remember the goal is to reduce dependency on government and offer every American the dignity of a job.

Americans know economic security can vanish in an instant without health security. I ask Congress to join me this year to enact a Patients’ Bill of Rights. I want employers and workers to have clear rights and responsibilities to help buy health coverage, to approve an historic increase in spending for veterans’ health, and to give seniors a sound and modern Medicare system that includes coverage for prescription drugs.

A good job should lead to security in retirement. I ask Congress to enact new safeguards for 401(k) and pension plans, because employees who have worked hard and saved all their lives should not have to risk losing everything if their company fails. Through stricter accounting standards and tougher disclosure requirements, corporate America must be made more accountable to employees and shareholders and held to the highest standards of conduct.

Retirement security also depends upon keeping the commitments of Social Security—and we will. We must make Social Security financially stable and allow personal retirement accounts for younger workers who choose them.

Members, you and I will work together in the months ahead on other issues: productive farm policy; a cleaner environment; broader home ownership, especially among minorities; and ways to encourage the good work of charities and faith-based groups. I ask you to join me on these important domestic issues in the same spirit of cooperation and consensus that was applied to our war against terrorism.

During these last few months, I have been humbled and privileged to see the true character of this country in a time of testing. Our enemies believed America was self-centered, materialistic, that we would splinter in fear and selfishness. They were as wrong as they are evil.

The American people have responded magnificently, with courage and compassion, strength and resolve. As I have met the heroes, hugged the families, and looked into the tired faces of rescuers, I have stood in awe of the American people.

And I hope you will join me in expressing thanks to one American for the strength, and calm, and comfort she brings to our Nation in crisis: our First Lady, Laura Bush.

None of us would ever wish the evil that was done on September 11th, yet after that attack, it was clear if our entire country looked into a mirror, and saw our better selves. We were reminded that we are citizens, with obligations to each other, to our country, and to history. We began to think less of the goods we can accumulate, and more about the good we can do.

For too long our culture has said, “If it feels good, do it.” Now America is embracing a new ethic and a new creed: “Let’s roll.” In the sacrifice of soldiers, the fierce brotherhood of firefighters, and the bravery and generosity of ordinary citizens, we have glimpsed what a new culture of responsibility could look like. We want to be a Nation that serves goals larger than self. We have Americans, who have never known peace, and we must not let this moment pass.

My call tonight is for every American to commit at least two years—four thousand hours over the rest of your lifetime—to the service of your neighbors and your Nation.

Many are already serving and I thank you. If you aren’t sure how to help, I’ve got a good place to start. To sustain and extend the best that has emerged in America, I invite you to join the Freedom Corps. The Freedom Corps will focus on three areas of need: responding in case of crisis at home, rebuilding our communities, and extending American compassion around the world.

One purpose of the USA Freedom Corps will be homeland security. America needs retired doctors and nurses who can be mobilized in major emergencies, volunteers to help police and fire departments, transportation and utility workers well-trained in spotting danger.

Our country also needs citizens working to rebuild our communities. We need mentors to love children, especially children whose parents are in prison, and we need more talented teachers in troubled schools. USA Freedom Corps will expand and improve the good efforts of AmeriCorps and Senior Corps to recruit more than 200,000 new volunteers.

We must also encourage citizens to extend the compassion of our country to every part of the world. So we will renew the promise of the Peace Corps, double its volunteers over the next five years, and ask it to join a new effort to encourage democratic development, and education and opportunity in the Islamic world.

This time of adversity offers a unique moment of opportunity—a moment we must seize to change our culture. Through the gathering momentum of millions of acts of service and decency and kindness, I know: We can overcome evil with greater good.

And we have a great opportunity during this time of war to lead the world toward the values that will bring lasting peace. All fathers, in all societies, want their children to be educated and live free from poverty and violence. No one on earth yearn to be oppressed, or aspire to servitude, or eagerly await the midnight knock of the secret police.

If anyone doubts this, let them look to Afghanistan, where the Islamic “street” greeted the fall of tyranny with song and celebration. Let the skeptics look to Islam’s own rich history—with its commitment to learning, and tolerance, and progress.

America will lead by defending liberty and justice because they are right and true and unchanging for all people everywhere. No nation owns these aspirations, and no nation is exempt from them. We have no intention of imposing our culture—but America will always stand firm for the non-negotiable demands of human dignity: the rule of law, limits on the power of the state, protection for women, private property, free speech, equal justice, and religious tolerance.

America will take the side of brave men and women who advocate these values around the world—including the Islamic world—because we have a greater objective than eliminating threats and containing resentment. We seek a just and peaceful world beyond the war on terror.

In this moment of opportunity, a country of common bonds and common purpose, America is working with Russia, China, and India in ways we never have before to achieve peace and prosperity. In every region, free markets and free trade and free societies are proving their power to lift lives. Together with friends and allies across Europe to Asia, from Africa to Latin America, we will demonstrate that the forces of terror cannot stop the momentum of freedom.

The last time I spoke here, I expressed the hope that life would return to normal. In some ways it has. In others, it never will. Those of us who have lived through these challenging times have been changed by them. We’ve come to know truths that we will never question: Evil is real, and it must be opposed. Beyond all differences of race or creed, we are one country, mourning together and facing danger together. Deep in the American character, there is honor, and it is stronger than cynicism. Many will discover again that even in tragedy—especially in tragedy—God is near.

In a single instant, we realized that this will be a decisive decade in the history of liberty—that we have been called to play a unique role in human events. Rarely has the world faced a choice more clear or consequential.

Our enemies send other people’s children on missions of suicide and murder. They embrace tyranny and death as a cause and a creed. We stand for a different choice—made long ago, on the day of our founding. We affirm it again today, in the name of the United States of America.

George Bush.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. Rockefeller (by request):

S. 1905. A bill to amend title 38, United States Code, to enhance veterans' programs and the ability of the Department of Veterans Affairs to administer them; to the Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

Mr. Rockefeller. Mr. President, today I introduce legislation requested by the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, as a courtesy to the Secretary and the Department of Veterans Affairs, VA. Except in unusual circumstances, it is my practice to introduce legislation requested by the Administration so that such measures will be available for review and consideration.

This “by-request” bill would, among other things, include care for newborn children of women veterans provided by a contract provider among those medical services VA is allowed to provide, authorize VA to provide dental care to former Prisoners of War, POW, and change the definition of “minority veterans” to conform to the new Race and Ethnic Standards used in Federal statistical reporting and in the 2000 U.S. Census. I give unanimous consent that the text of the bill and Secretary Principle’s transmittal letter that accompanied the draft legislation be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

The Secretary of Veterans Affairs,

Hon. Richard B. Cheney,
President of the Senate,

Dear Mr. President: I am transmitting a draft bill to enhance a number of veterans’ programs and our ability to manage them. Details regarding the context and justification of the bill’s 10 provisions are provided in the enclosed section-by-section analysis. If enacted, this proposal would:

Sec. 101—authorize VA to provide medical care for newborn children of enrolled women veterans.

Sec. 102—authorize VA to provide outpatient dental care to more former prisoners of war;

Sec. 103—establish pay comparability for the Director of the Nursing Service with other VA executives;

Sec. 104—prohibit provision of presidential memorial certificates, burial flags, and headstones and markers on behalf of individuals who have committed capital crimes;

Sec. 105—clarify procedures relating to the prohibition against allowing individuals who had committed capital crimes to be interred or memorialized in national veterans’ cemeteries;

Sec. 106—clarify current law regarding the date on which the 120-day period for appeal of a Board of Veterans’ Appeals decision to the U.S. Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims begins to run;

Sec. 107—conform the VA 5-percent limitation on non-career SES members to the Government-wide 10-percent limitation;

Sec. 108—the requirement that at least two-thirds of VA deputy assistant secretaries must have served continuously for 5 years in the Federal civil service immediately prior to their appointments;

Sec. 109—authorize the Department of Defense to purchase medical items and services through VA’s Revolving Supply Fund; and

Sec. 110—conform the current-law definition of minority veterans to the new Race & Ethnic Standards used in Federal statistical reporting and in the 2000 U.S. Census.

I request that this bill be promptly considered and enacted.

Advise has been received from the Office of Management and Budget that, from the standpoint of the Administration’s program, there is no objection to enactment of this draft bill.

Sincerely yours,

ANTHONY J. PRICIPAL.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS AND JUSTIFICATION

SECTION 101—CARE FOR NEWBORN CHILDREN OF VETERANS

Section 101 would amend the definition of medical services that VA may provide to veterans to include care provided by a contract provider to newborn children of women veterans. To receive this benefit, a veteran must be enrolled in the VA health care system. VA would contract for this care until the mother is discharged from the hospital after delivery of the child or for 14 days after the birth of the child, whichever period is shorter, and only if VA contracted for delivery of the child. After childbirth, some veterans may need this limited benefit to give them time to apply for medical assistance. Offering this care would also be consistent with the normal pregnancy and delivery coverage to the community.

The discretionary-cost estimate for enactment of this proposal is as follows:

SECTION 102—OUTPATIENT DENTAL CARE FOR ALL FORMER PRISONERS OF WAR

Section 102 would authorize VA to provide outpatient dental care to former prisoners of war ("POW’s") regardless of the length of their detention or internment. Currently, the law only permits VA to provide such care to the former POW’s who were detained or interned for 90 days or more. This provision is needed to ensure that former POW’s receive all needed care for conditions that may be attributable to their service. There would be insignificant costs resulting from enactment of this proposal.

SECTION 103—PAY COMPAREABILITY FOR DIRECTOR, NURSING SERVICE

This section of the draft bill would exempt the position of the Director of Nursing Service, VA's chief nurse executive, from the nurse-pay restriction that applies to the behavior of VA executives. The current pay-rate disparity is unjustified.

There are no significant costs associated with this proposal.

SECTION 104—LIMITATION ON PROVISION OF CERTAIN BENEFITS

Section 104 of the draft bill would amend sections 112, 2301, and 2306 of title 38, United States Code, to correct a technical defect in the prohibition against the interment or memorialization in a cemetery operated by the National Cemetery Administration (or in Arlington National Cemetery) of certain persons who do not apply for Federal or state capital crimes. Under Section 2411(a), the Secretary of Veterans Affairs (or the Secretary of the Army, with respect to Arlington National Cemetery) may not inter or memorialize in such a cemetery:

1. A person who has been convicted of a Federal capital crime for which the person was sentenced to death or life imprisonment without parole; or
2. A person who has committed a heinous crime.

There is no cost associated with this proposal.

SECTION 105—APPEAL RULINGS OF THE BOARD OF VETERANS' APPEALS

Section 105 of the draft bill would amend section 7309(a)(5) to exempt the position of the Director of Nursing Service, VA's chief nurse executive, from the nurse-pay restriction that applies to the behavior of VA executives. The current pay-rate disparity is unjustified.

There are no significant costs associated with this proposal.

SECTION 106—CLARIFICATION OF THE PERIOD FOR APPEALING RULINGS OF THE BOARD OF VETERANS' APPEALS

Section 106 of the draft bill would clarify an ambiguity created by past legislation.
Section 726(a)(1) of title 38, United States Code, provides that, to obtain review by the United States Court of Appeals for Veterans Claims (Court) of a final Board of Veterans' Appeals (Board) decision, a person affected by the decision must file a notice of appeal with the Court within 120 days after the date on which notice of the decision is mailed or sent. Under its amendment by the Veterans' Benefits Improvements Act of 1996, Pub. L. No. 104-275, 110 Stat. 3344, Section 7104(e) required the Board to mail a copy of the decision to the claimant and the claimant's authorized representative, if any. The Court had consistently construed those requirements as requiring that if a claimant is represented, the accomplishment of both mailings to begin the 120-day appeal period. See Pania v. Brown, 10 Vet. App. 265, 267 (1997).

As amended by Section 509 of Pub. L. No. 104-275, 110 Stat. at 3344, Section 7104(e) now requires the Board to promptly mail a copy of its written decision to the claimant and, if the claimant has an authorized representative, to mail a copy of its written decision to the authorized representative or send a copy of its written decision to the authorized representative by any means reasonably likely to provide the representative with the decision and copies of any evidence or other documents contained in the record on appeal. Thus, under Section 7104(e) as amended, the Board must still notify a claimant's representative, if any, but such notice may be made by mail or any other means reasonably likely to provide the representative with the decision and copies of any evidence or other documents contained in the record on appeal.

The amendment to former Section 7104(e) was so amended, no corresponding change was made to Section 7266(a)(1)'s reference to "mailing" pursuant to Section 7104(e)." See Dippel v. West, 12 Vet. App. 466, 470 (1999) (noting that Congress did not change Section 7266(a) and that Section 7104(e) as amended by the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, Pub. L. No. 99-177, 99 Stat. 1041, did not change Section 7266(a)(1)'s reference to "mail pursuant to Section 7104(e)"), does not cover a decision sent pursuant to Section 7104(e)(2)(B).

The amendment to former Section 7104(e) without a corresponding change to Section 7266(a)(1) has created an ambiguity. It is not clear when the 120-day appeal period prescribed by Section 7266(a)(1) begins if a claimant is represented and the Board mails copies of its decision to the claimant and the claimant's representative, but mails them on different dates, which Section 7266(a)(1) does not specify whether the appeal period in that situation begins on the date of mailing to the claimant, on the date of mailing to the representative, on the date of the earlier of the two mailings, or on the date of the later of both mailings.

The draft bill would clarify that matter. Section 211 of the bill would amend Section 7266(a)(1) to require, for initiation of Court review of a final Board decision, that a notice of appeal be filed within 120 days after a copy of the decision, pursuant to Section 7104(e), is mailed or sent to the claimant's representative or, if the claimant is not represented, the Board mails a copy of its decision to the claimant, at any time after the date of the earlier of the two mailings, or on the date of the later of both mailings.

The draft bill would clarify that matter. The amendment to former Section 7104(e) without a corresponding change to Section 7266(a)(1) has created an ambiguity. It is not clear when the 120-day appeal period prescribed by Section 7266(a)(1) begins if a claimant is represented and the Board mails copies of its decision to the claimant and the claimant's representative, but mails them on different dates, which Section 7266(a)(1) does not specify whether the appeal period in that situation begins on the date of mailing to the claimant, on the date of mailing to the representative, on the date of the earlier of the two mailings, or on the date of the later of both mailings.

The draft bill would clarify that matter. Section 211 of the bill would amend Section 7266(a)(1) to require, for initiation of Court review of a final Board decision, that a notice of appeal be filed within 120 days after a copy of the decision, pursuant to Section 7104(e), is mailed or sent to the claimant's representative or, if the claimant is not represented, the Board mails a copy of its decision to the claimant, at any time after the date of the earlier of the two mailings, or on the date of the later of both mailings.
