

Hammel Elementary School for working tirelessly on the Quilts of Caring ("tapiz de carino"). These handmade quilts, which they painstakingly pieced together, symbolize their commitment to remembering America's fallen heroes of Sept. 11, 2001. This project became a reality during the past six months because of the hardworking efforts of the entire community of Hammel Elementary—students, parents, teachers and neighborhood friends who all joined together to create nine beautiful quilts.

Hammel Elementary School's administrator, psychiatric social worker, school psychologist and parents united their volunteer efforts to assist the students in creating the nine quilts that have been sent to my district and Washington offices, the Pentagon, New York Police Department, the Fire Department of New York, East Los Angeles Sheriff's Station, Los Angeles County Fire Department and the White House. It gives me great pride to present such a fine multi-cultural message of love, faith, unity and support that is depicted in each quilt.

It is evident that the children from Hammel Elementary share a common vision for a healthier and more peaceful future, and I am proud that they have not surrendered to hateful messages of violence or vengeance.

I commend the students and surrounding community members of Hammel Elementary and thank them for portraying such wonderful act of kindness and patriotism that serve as a positive reflection of humanity for the entire nation.

GARY BOGNER: INTERNATIONAL
AMBASSADOR OF BOW HUNTING

HON. JAMES A. BARCIA

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, March 13, 2002

Mr. BARCIA. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor my good friend and fellow bow hunter, Gary Bogner, as he prepares for his new role as President of Safari Club International and the Safari Club International Foundation. Gary and I share a love of big game hunting and I have enormous respect and admiration for him as a hunter and as a leader in wildlife conservation.

A native of Muskegon, Michigan, Gary traces his passion for the outdoors to his youth when he first began hunting small game and whitetail deer. The son of a Michigan Conservation Officer, Gary quickly developed a zeal for wildlife conservation and hunting, especially bow hunting. By age 17, he owned an archery shop and was producing arrows for local archers. Today, after more than 45 years devoted to archery and bow hunting, Gary is known as the "International Ambassador of Bow Hunting."

An avid sportsman, Gary's hunting skills and achievements are legendary throughout the world. He has hunted five continents and has harvested over 60 different big game species with his bow. He was the first bow hunter to hunt the former Soviet Union and take a Russian Kamchalka brown bear, Russian Saiga antelope, Chukotka moose, Sika stag and a Marco Polo Argali sheep. He holds an astounding number of hunting records. Gary has taken over 25 African species of big game animals and his white rhino currently ranks as the top one ever taken with a bow. In North America, he has more than 29 big game species to his credit, including his Safari Club International top-ranked polar bear. Gary is only the fifth bow-hunter to successfully complete the North American Super Slam, harvesting all 28 North American big game animals with a bow and arrow. He also is currently the only bow hunter to have taken a Marco Polo sheep with a bow and arrow.

In 1995, Gary earned the Safari Club International World Bow Hunters Hall-of-Honor Award for exhibiting the highest degree of integrity, success in the field and lifetime contribution to the past and future growth of bow hunting and archery. He deeply believes, as do I, that wildlife is a renewable resource and that hunting plays an important role in its management. Gary credits his wife, Nanette; sons, Gary Jr. and Chris; and, daughter, Kimberly, with allowing him to pursue and achieve his dreams.

Mr. Speaker, I ask my colleagues to join me in applauding Gary Bogner for his many contributions. I am confident he will continue to shoot straight and true on behalf of hunters, archers and wildlife conservationists throughout the world.
