Vol. 168

WASHINGTON, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 2022

No. 158

Senate

The Senate met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. LEAHY).

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Eternal God, who saves us, we praise the greatness of Your power. Continue to be with those who must deal with the consequences of Hurricane Ian.

Continue also to bless our Senators. Keep them on the path of humility so that they will seek to serve others. Keep them on the path of forgiveness so that they will give others the same kind of mercy they so frequently receive from You. Keep them on the path of courage so that they will choose the challenging and narrow way that leads to life.

Lord, bless us all, as we strive to walk with an integrity that will honor You.

We pray in Your loving Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The President pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Morning business is closed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The majority leader is recognized.

HURRICANE IAN

Mr. SCHUMER. Madam President, this morning, the thoughts of everyone in the Senate are with the people of Florida, who are in the midst of one of the worst storms ever to hit the State, as Hurricane Ian made landfall yesterday.

Ian made landfall as a category 4 hurricane, with wind speeds reaching 150 miles an hour and storm surges reaching reported heights of 18 feet. About 2 million people are now without power, and communities that dot the coastline are seeing 3 to 4 feet of flooding.

Thankfully, Ian was downgraded to a tropical storm this morning, but the damage has already been severe, and the road to recovery will be long.

I will continue to monitor the situation in Florida over the coming days, and the Senate stands ready to help Floridians with whatever they need to stay safe and rebuild their communities.

I want to thank all the first responders, National Guardsmen, and local officials, volunteers, and every single person who placed themselves in harm's way to keep their communities safe.

H.R. 6833

Madam President, now on CR funding, with a little more good-faith negotiation between Democrats and Republicans, I am hopeful that today is the day we will finish passing a continuing resolution to fund the government until mid-December. Government funding is set to run out Friday at midnight, roughly 40 hours from now, and there is no reason at all for us to get anywhere near that deadline.

Over the past 24 hours, both sides have continued holding fruitful negotiations to reach the finish line. We have some more work to do, a little more, but we are close—close enough that I hope we can finish up today, but both sides need to keep working together for that to happen.

I urge both sides to keep going because this CR is filled with many good things that both sides can support, like $12 billion in emergency aid for Ukraine, to help Ukrainians with more weapons, intelligence gathering, and aid to keep the government afloat at a time of war. Seven months since the conflict began, it is crystal clear that American assistance has gone a long way to helping the Ukrainian people resist Putin's evil, vicious aggression. But the fight is far from over, and we must—we must—continue helping the brave, valiant Ukrainian people.

The CR also includes items like emergency aid to help communities across the country hammered by natural disasters, including flooding in States like Kentucky, Louisiana, Alabama, and Texas, as well as disasters in Alaska, Puerto Rico, and New Mexico, which suffered—New Mexico suffered its worst wildfires in the State's history earlier this year.

Through the CR, we will also reauthorize FDA user fees for another 5 years, which is vital if we want to avoid any slowdown in the review of new lifesaving drugs and medical devices that millions and millions of people rely on. Reauthorizing these user fees will also prevent thousands of hard-working FDA employees from being furloughed, many of whom are crucial for this lifesaving review process. Finally, by passing a CR, we will help millions of families afford their heating and utility bills over the winter by investing $1 billion in the LIHEAP program.

I want to recognize Senator JACK REED and Senator MAGGIE HASSAN for making sure we included this funding in the CR, because thanks to their efforts many families will have a break this winter by lowering their utility bills.

In short, there is every reason in the world for both sides to get to yes on finalizing the CR before the end of today. Democrats will continue working with our Republican colleagues in good faith to find a path to the finish line.

I want to thank our terrific chair of the Appropriations Committee, Senator LEAHY, as well as Ranking Member SHELBY, for all of their hard work on the CR. I hope this is the last CR of Chairman LEAHY's illustrious career, because we are all hopeful that the omnibus will be the last funding bill we will do later this year.

I also want to thank all my colleagues on the committee who have worked day and night to avoid a shutdown, as well as their dedicated staffs. And I want to commend Senator SHELBY, who has worked with Senator LEAHY in a very cooperative way.

The last thing the American people need right now is a pointless government shutdown. I am optimistic that we are on track to avoid one, well before the funding deadline. I thank all my colleagues for their good work and cooperation, and I encourage them to keep going so that we can finish the work later today.

NOMINATION OF ARIANNA J. FREEMAN

Madam President, on another matter, the Senate will return to the consideration of another brilliant nominee to serve on the Federal Bench, Arianna Freeman, nominated to serve as circuit court judge for the Third Circuit.

Ms. Freeman is not only eminently qualified, but she is historic. She would be the first-ever Black woman to sit on the Third Circuit, joining in the proud company of many Biden nominees who are helping to make the bench a more accurate reflection of our country. That is something all of us are proud of.

A graduate of Swarthmore and Yale, Ms. Freeman would join the bench after working with the Federal Community Defender Office for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. She has dedicated her career to making sure all people, regardless of wealth or status, have equal representation before the law. I am confident that her perspective will be an asset to the Third Circuit, and I look forward to her confirmation later this morning.

SENATE ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Madam President, on our accomplishments in this Congress, finally, as Americans are set to go to the polls in little over a month, it is time to summarize the things that this Democratic majority has done in the past 2 years and make clear the options that face the American people in this election.

When Democrats assumed the majority in 2021, I promised the Senate would address the challenges our country faces, head on and without delay, not with timid solutions but with boldness and courage. Twenty months later, because of Democratic leadership, we have lifted our country out of crisis. We have a lot of work left to do, but let's take a look at some of the major accomplishments that passed through the Senate under this majority.

In the wake of the tragedies in Uvalde, Buffalo, and so many other shootings, we promised the time had come to break the grip of the NRA. So we passed the first gun safety bill America has seen in 30 years.

In the wake of high costs, dwindling tech jobs, and an emboldened Chinese Communist Party, we passed the CHIPS and Science Act to boost high-end manufacturing here in America, to turbocharge America's semiconductor industry, and to secure the largest down payment in scientific research in decades.

After years of veterans waiting around for help to treat their cancers, lung diseases, and other ailments caused by toxic exposure, often from burn pits, we passed the PACT Act and secured the largest expansion of veterans' health benefits in ages.

And, finally, in the face of high energy costs and soaring healthcare costs, as well as the ravages of climate change, Democrats passed a groundbreaking Inflation Reduction Act, which will lower people's energy bills, make prescription drugs more affordable, cap insulin costs for seniors on Medicare, and create millions of clean jobs for years to come through the largest green investments in American history—the largest green investments in American history. It will reduce the amount of carbon that goes into the atmosphere by 40 percent by 2030, a huge accomplishment that will make the lives of every American now and in the future better. Passing the Inflation Reduction Act, along with ratifying the Kigali Amendment last week, is the strongest one-two punch against climate change any Congress has ever taken.

I am very proud of my caucus for sticking together. With 50 votes, it ain't easy. And this is only what we have gotten done since June.

To save our country from the worst of COVID, we passed the American Rescue Plan to put shots in people's arms and checks in people's pockets. We passed the first infrastructure law in years to fix our roads, our bridges, our highways; to expand broadband to poor and rural communities; and to protect our kids from the dangers of lead piping.

We reformed our Postal Service after decades of neglect. We reinstated VAWA, the Violence Against Women Act, to protect women from abuse, after years of inaction. We took a stand on Asian hate crimes and declared lynching a Federal hate crime after a century of delay. We also unanimously ended forced arbitration for sexual harassment in the workplace. And we confirmed the first Black woman ever to sit on the Supreme Court of the United States when we confirmed Ketanji Brown Jackson.

Now, these are just some of the accomplishments of the Democratic majority. None have been easy in the longest 50-50 Senate ever, but I am confident that America will be a better nation because of all the things we have done in the last 2 years.

And the fight—the fight—will keep going. With every fiber of our being, Democrats will never back away from protecting a woman's fundamental right to choose. MAGA Republicans, meanwhile, pushing national abortion bans, prosecutions of women and doctors, and bans with no exceptions for rape or incest, show the contrast between the parties—one moving forward and one looking backward and following the MAGA dictates to the far, far right.

Democrats will also lower costs and build ladders to help people get into the middle class and give people the means to prosper in the middle class once they get there.

Republicans, meanwhile, have already made it clear whose corner they are in—the rich, the executive class, the megacorporations. Without missing a beat, Republicans gladly cut taxes for billionaires and for big business, while openly calling for Social Security and Medicare to go on the chopping block year after year. And for good measure, while Democrats want to keep taxes low for working and middle-class Americans, some on the other side have openly called for raising taxes—raising taxes—on working families.

So the contrast here is not hard to grasp. The choices between the parties run deep; the consequences to our country, enormous. We have many challenges left to overcome as a nation, but the choice is now between the party that will build on all the progress we have made or one that will undo everything we have worked to accomplish, between a party that will protect our freedoms and a party that will conspire to take them away, between a party that believes America is at its best when we invest in all people or a party that will only look after the ultrarich.

Remember, their major accomplishment when they had the majority was tax cuts for the very wealthy. I am confident that Americans will know which party is fighting in their corner.

I want to thank all my colleagues for their excellent work over the past 2 years, and I look forward to building on all that work we have accomplished to set America on a path to prosperity in the 21st century.

ORDER OF BUSINESS

Madam President, for the information of the Senate, we expect to vote on the confirmation of the Freeman nomination to be United States Circuit Judge for the Third Circuit, upon reconsideration, at 11:30 a.m. today. Additional votes are expected this afternoon.

I yield the floor.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Republican leader is recognized.

HURRICANE IAN

Mr. MCCONNELL. Madam President, the whole country continues our vigil for the people of Florida, who are hunkered down through Hurricane Ian.

The storm's landfall yesterday brought surging seas and sustained winds over 150 miles an hour, and 2.5 million Florida families and businesses are reportedly without power. Evacuation orders have been in place for more than 2 million residents of the gulf coast.

The extent of the damage has barely even begun to come into focus. Fortunately, the coordinated State and local response, led by Governor DeSantis and supported by Federal Agencies, is ongoing.

Yesterday, our two colleagues from Florida led the State's entire congressional delegation in asking President Biden to issue a major disaster declaration and unlock further aid. I understand the President agreed this morning.

The Senate will stand ready to provide further assistance if needed. The government funding legislation before us will make sure the Disaster Relief Fund is refilled.

Most immediately, Floridians remain at the forefront of the nation's prayers.

THE ECONOMY

Madam President, now, on a completely different matter, families across America have felt the brunt of this all-Democratic government's failed energy policies. When gas prices were skyrocketing, the Biden administration insisted up and down they had no control over them. When the prices started to level off, the same politicians asked for a round of applause—funny how that works.

Here is what working families in Kentucky know: that a gallon of gas costs a full dollar more than when President Biden took office. American families and small businesses know their electricity bills skyrocketed this spring and this summer, and they know that heating costs on Democrats' watch this fall and winter may well be catastrophic.

Just like our overall 13.2 percent inflation since January 2021 is directly—directly—traceable to Democrats' reckless spending, a lot of our energy prices are traceable to Democrats' shortsighted policies. Democrats have spent 20 years saying we shouldn't explore for American energy, that our abundant fossil fuel resources should actually stay in the ground.

Just in the last 2 years, Democrats overwhelmingly voted two separate items to let the Biden EPA ban fracking. One analysis showed that the kind of fracking ban Democrats want will quadruple household energy bills.

Democrats supported President Biden's de facto bans on both offshore and onshore oil and gas leasing. They backed President Biden's decision to cancel the Keystone XL Pipeline. I guess it is better to import Middle Eastern crude than safely transport oil from Canada.

They voted for reckless tax hikes, including a natural gas tax that will directly drive up families' heating costs.

And this week marks the 6-month anniversary of when President Biden began his reckless draining of our Strategic Petroleum Reserve in a desperate attempt to buy up his poll numbers. President Biden has already released more than 200 million barrels from the Reserve into the international market, more than all the other Presidents in our history combined. A few days ago, he promised to release an additional 10 million barrels in November.

Our country established the Strategic Petroleum Reserve as a lifeline for national security crises. Until now, Presidents had only ever tapped it for armed conflicts or natural disasters. Now Democrats are emptying out our emergency reserves in a desperate attempt to save their political skins. Reckless and cynical does not even begin to cover it.

Now the Reserve sits at its lowest point since 1984. If our country were cut off from oil imports tomorrow, we would have less than 2 months' supply.

And, remember, 2 years ago, in the early COVID crisis, when markets were temporarily crashing and oil was selling for bargain-basement prices like we have never seen, Republicans tried to refill the Strategic Petroleum Reserve to the top when the prices were low. It would have been a win for economic stability, a win for national security, and a huge win for taxpayers. Oil actually was on a clearance sale, and we could have filled the Reserve right up to the top.

Oh, but Senate Democrats blocked it and bragged about blocking it. Leader SCHUMER boasted in writing that he had blocked a "bailout for Big Oil"—a bailout for Big Oil, typical tired, old liberal rhetoric. But what our Democrat colleagues blocked was an unbelievably good deal for the American people. Now they are draining the Reserve they wouldn't let us refill, and when they do need to refill it, you had better believe taxpayers won't be paying March 2020 prices. I can tell you that.

Shortsighted, ineffective, and bad economics—that is Democrats' energy policy in microcosm. Working Americans pay the price every single day.

CRIME

Now, Madam President, on another matter, runaway inflation isn't the only crisis keeping American families up at night. The last 2 years have seen law and order deteriorate all across our country. Public safety has eroded, violent crimes like murders and carjackings are breaking records, and our southern border has turned into a turnstile.

We have seen the violence and chaos firsthand in Kentucky, especially in my hometown of Louisville, but we aren't alone. This is a nationwide phenomenon on Democrats' watch.

Philadelphia just saw their 1,000th carjacking this year. It is not even October yet. Carjackings in Philly have quadrupled just since 2019.

In Phoenix, AZ, the first half of this year saw homicides jump up more than 25 percent compared to 2021. One woman whose brother and cousin were both shot and killed a few weeks ago said:

It's like the community has [actually] become accustomed to it.

In 2021, Denver recorded more murders than they had seen in a single year since 1981, and the pace was 23 percent higher still in the first half of 2022.

Nationwide, robberies and thefts in big cities shot up 20 percent in the first half of this year.

So it turns out that, when an entire political party builds its brand around undermining the police, going easy on repeat offenders, and putting criminals' interests ahead of innocent families', bad things happen.

Bad things also happen when the same political party decides to stand down on border security: over 2 million illegal immigrants apprehended by the CBP this fiscal year alone, not even counting all of the people who evaded capture; an avalanche—an avalanche—of illegal drugs coming into our land.

These are massive concerns among the American people—concerns that our Senate Democratic majority has intentionally spent all year doing nothing whatsoever to address.

H.R. 6833

Madam President, on one final matter, when the Senate votes today to fund the government, we will also approve further emergency aid for Ukraine.

The Ukrainians have made remarkable progress in pushing back Russia's unhinged aggression, but the fight is far from over. They need more of the cutting-edge weapons that are helping them turn the tide.

Assisting Ukraine is not some feel-good, symbolic gesture; it is literally an investment in our own national security and that of our allies. Blunting Putin's offensive in Ukraine will diminish his capacity to threaten other targets throughout the free world. It will also help deter other authoritarian regimes like China.

Nobody is saying America should stand alone. Some of our European allies, especially on NATO's eastern flank, have been incredibly generous, digging deep into their inventories and welcoming hundreds of thousands of refugees, but others can and must do more.

The Senate's consistent support for Ukraine at reasonable levels plays a critical part in nudging our allies to step up. Ukraine needs more tanks, more fighting vehicles, longer range rockets, artillery, and air defense systems; more HIMARS, more drones, and preparatory training in Western fighter aircraft. And they need these things as soon as possible.

Yesterday, the Biden administration announced another tranche of assistance, but the HIMARS rocket systems included in that announcement won't arrive in Ukraine for years—years.

If the administration cannot move faster, it will be an indictment of their persistent unwillingness to invest in our own military stockpiles and our own defense industrial base.

Now that Congress is providing more funding, the Biden administration must move more swiftly—more swiftly—to deliver it to the Ukrainian forces on the frontlines soon. Now is not the time for hesitating, hand-wringing, or self-detering from the administration. It is not true strength and resolve that provoke the bully; it is delay and weakness.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Indiana.

REMEMBERING MARK SOUDER

Mr. YOUNG. Madam President, I want to take a moment this morning to recognize a friend and fellow Hoosier, Mark Souder, who passed away earlier this week after a battle with cancer.

Mark represented, as so many Hoosiers know, northeastern Indiana in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1995 to 2010. He served eight terms. Before being elected to Congress, he spent years working as a staffer for Indiana Senator Dan Coats.

Anyone—anyone—who met Mark was struck by his intellect, his innate grasp of policy details, and perhaps most importantly, his passion for service, for serving Hoosiers in particular. You see, Mark loved northeast Indiana. He loved his constituents. He loved the land, its people, and its unique traditions. He was a strong advocate for Hoosier veterans in particular and for our national parks during his service in Congress.

He was also a man of many talents and interests. Baseball was one of them. In fact, he wrote about the game's history and connections to our own State. Recently, Mark collaborated on a book about the history of television in Fort Wayne.

More personally, I always appreciated Mark's kindness and support as I began my congressional career, and I know Mark provided similar assistance and encouragement to others.

I offer my deepest condolences to the Souder family and to all of Mark's friends and loved ones as they mourn his loss.

CHIPS AND SCIENCE ACT

Madam President, "Time and momentum are on our side"—so said Xi Jinping to his colleagues in the Chinese Communist Party last year.

True, there have been some recent setbacks to China's grand plan—corruption probes, billions of wasted government dollars—but make no mistake, these are minor distractions. You see, the CCP is as determined as ever to supplant the United States as the world's leader, militarily and economically, in order to win the 21st century. Xi and his government will subsidize any industry, spend any amount of money, take any means—even propping up manufacturing with slave labor—to bend the market to its ambitions and force America to its knees.

The CCP is confident that America is too dysfunctional and that the American people are too divided to arrest its momentum. Well, today, I am pleased to report that the CCP has made a serious miscalculation. Allow me to explain.

You see, earlier this month, I was in West Lafayette, on the campus of Purdue University. Indiana's Governor, Eric Holcomb, and Purdue's president, Mitch Daniels, were, of course, there. We were joined by U.S. Secretary of Commerce Gina Raimondo and U.S. Secretary of State Antony Blinken. Our group saw up close the amazing work that Purdue is doing across its technology ecosystem. We met and spoke with many talented students and professors. We had a productive discussion about ways to bolster our national security and economic competitiveness. Not coincidentally, we did this in a hall named for Neil Armstrong and, not coincidentally, because our conversation focused on the CHIPS and Science Act.

This is legislation I and others in the Senate worked on for years and of which I am proud was finally signed into law in August. The CHIPS and Science Act will unleash the same enterprising American spirit that sent Neil Armstrong to the Moon aboard Apollo 11—the same spirit Beijing believes is a relic of the 20th century. This type of bipartisan economic and national security win only comes along once in a generation.

Enacting the CHIPS and Science Act sent a strong message to the world that when it comes to meeting China's challenge, here in the United States, there is cross-party consensus and a seriousness of purpose.

A thriving domestic chip industry is going to prevent future supply chain stoppages and protect our military readiness. You see, right now, Taiwan produces 90 percent of all advanced semiconductor chips, and the threat of a communist China takeover of Taiwan is real.

Meanwhile, the Chinese Government is heavily subsidizing its national security innovation base and the development of mission-critical technologies. In fact, the CCP has invested $14 trillion—$14 trillion—in the technologies that will shape our modern economy and decide the winners of future wars, technologies like quantum computing, robotics, and artificial intelligence, and technologies like hypersonics.

They have also set a strategy of dominating the global production of semiconductors. If China produces more and more of the world's supply of semiconductors, America's economy and our national security could be at the mercy of the CCP, especially in the event of another pandemic or war.

This is all part of Beijing's bet to beat America, but the CHIPS and Science Act helps America counter that bet. You see, there is a happy coincidence here. What benefits our national security also benefits our economic security, especially across the industrial Midwest, where we pride ourselves on making things—things like microchips.

Just weeks after the CHIPS and Science Act became law, its benefits began to reverberate across the heartland economy. We have already seen numerous, major economic announcements that are directly tied to this bill becoming law. In fact, a corridor of the semiconductor industry will run through the State of Indiana.

Thanks to the CHIPS and Science Act, SkyWater Technology is moving forward with its plans to partner with Purdue to build a $1.8 billion facility in West Lafayette, which will manufacture semiconductor chips and create an estimated 750 direct jobs, and there is more to come.

Further, the CHIPS and Science Act provides $2 billion for the Department of Defense to make semiconductors. The Naval Surface Warfare Center, Crane Division, in southern Indiana, with its expertise in chips manufacturing, is expected to play a significant role in this effort, in turn creating economic opportunities across the southern part of our State.

The regional tech hubs authorized by the CHIPS and Science Act will launch innovative companies, help revive American manufacturing, and lay the foundation for new, good-paying jobs to jump-start our local communities.

For too long, our coastal States have been the near-exclusive hotbeds of venture capital investments and launching pads for tech startups. Only a handful of American cities account for nearly 90 percent of job growth when it comes to advanced sectors like tech, computer manufacturing, biotech, and telecom. But the CHIPS and Science Act plants the seed corns to ensure that opportunity for investors, entrepreneurs, and researchers spreads across the industrial Midwest and other areas around the country.

It will broaden and deepen our start-up and tech economy. As a result, everyone will win, and our national defense will be safeguarded.

Our position as a leader in the development of feature technologies will be secure. Our ability to win the contests ahead, economically and, God forbid, militarily, will also be secured. And there will be numerous residual benefits to this law in the years to come, such as American labor providing the manpower needed to construct new fabs and facilities here in the United States.

In closing, let me reiterate that the CHIPS and Science Act will be a boost to our domestic economy, but it is not just about our economy. It will strengthen our national defense by allowing us to have the most sophisticated weapons systems and by ensuring their critical components are made in the U.S.A.

But it is not just about national defense either. You see, this is about deciding which values are going to animate these technologies in the future: The values on display from a Communist Party when it cracks down on protesters in the streets of Hong Kong? The values that enslave millions of Uighurs and Xinjiang, or threaten Taiwan?

The world's autocrats are attempting to exert their influence across the globe. They argue that the American system, with our pesky system of checks and balances, our very ideal of government of the people, by the people, for the people—they argue that can't work in the 21st century. But the signing of the CHIPS and Science Act proved them wrong.

When it comes to out-innovating China in authoring a second American century, I am confident that, in the days ahead, both time and momentum will be on America's side.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. YOUNG. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT AGREEMENT—H.R. 8982

Mr. YOUNG. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that should the Senate receive from the House of Representatives a bill, the text of which is identical to H.R. 8982, as introduced in the House and which is at the desk, the Senate proceed to its immediate consideration, the bill be considered read a third time, and the Senate vote on passage without further intervening action or debate, and the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. YOUNG. Madam President, H.R. 8982 is another important fix to the ongoing infant formula shortage. When the Formula Act passed in July, it left out "infant formula base powder." This bill will ensure trade barriers are lifted as we continue to address this crisis.

I thank my colleagues Senator LEE and Senator BRAUN for their efforts on this.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Republican whip.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Mr. THUNE. Madam President, yesterday I came down to the floor to talk about where we are after nearly 2 years of Democrat control of Congress and the White House.

We are, as I noted, in the midst of an inflation crisis with no end in sight. Our economy is weakening. Our energy security is diminished. Violent crime has increased, and we are dealing with record waves of illegal immigration and a serious security situation at our southern border. That is where we are.

The question is, How did we get here? The answer lies with Democrats' priorities.

The Democratic Party has moved sharply leftward over the past few years. Democrats, of course, have always been on the left side of the political spectrum. But over the past few years, what was once far-left ideology has become the Democrat mainstream. And Democrats swept into office determined to enact a far-left, Big Government agenda. It didn't matter to them that their majorities in the House and Senate were extremely narrow or that President Biden had been elected largely because he was considered to be a moderate.

Democrats had a grip on power, however tenuous, and they were determined to use it to enact their most cherished, far-left fantasies.

They started off with their $1.9 trillion American Rescue Plan Act, filled with unnecessary spending and payoffs to Democrat interest groups. They were warned their legislation ran the risk of overheating the economy and setting off inflation. But they ignored the warnings and dumped a lot of unnecessary government money into the economy, and the economy overheated as a result. Inflation quickly began climbing and then climbing some more.

Now, at this point, it might have seemed prudent to pull back on all those spending plans. After all, if one massive spending bill had kicked off inflation, how much worse would another, even more massive spending bill make the situation?

But Democrats were just getting started. The ink was barely dry on the so-called American Rescue Plan before Democrats were outlining plans for a new spending spree, one that would dwarf their initial spending spree and install some of the Democrats' most cherished Big Government priorities.

And even as inflation climbed and climbed again, Democrats kept pushing ahead. Even as Democrat economists warned that the American Rescue Plan had kick-started inflation, they kept pushing forward with plans for a $5 trillion spending spree, their so-called Build Back Better plan—$5 trillion.

To put that number in perspective, the entire Federal budget in 2019 was $4.4 trillion, the entire Federal budget. Yet Democrats were pushing forward with a $5 trillion spending plan on top of a $1.9 trillion spending bill earlier in the year.

Fortunately, for the American people, the Democrats' $5 trillion spending plan was foiled last December, but that didn't stop them for long.

Even as inflation reached 40-year highs, Democrats kept pushing for more spending, and they managed to jam through another partisan tax-and-spending spree in August.

We have now had 6 straight months—6 straight months—with inflation above 8 percent. The last time inflation was this bad, I wasn't even married yet. Now I have grandkids. But Democrats just don't seem to care. They are committed to their tax-and-spending agenda, regardless of the consequences for the American economy.

Their August tax-and-spending spree will hurt both wages and economic growth at a time when economic growth is weakening and Americans are experiencing a de facto pay cut due to inflation.

And just days after signing this tax-and-spending legislation into law, President Biden announced—if you can believe this—a massive student loan giveaway, which would cost more than $1 trillion and will, to quote the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget, "meaningfully boost inflation"—meaningfully boost inflation.

Yet again, Democrats' Big Government, big-spending agenda trumps the economic reality facing the American people.

No matter how bad the economy gets, Democrats are determined to enact their Big Government vision. And I suspect the reason the Democrats and the President have spent nearly 2 years ignoring the raging crisis at our southern border is similar. After all, if Democrats and the President acknowledge that there is a crisis, people might think that they should actually start solving the crisis.

They might, in fact, think that a raging security crisis deserves to be a priority—more of a priority than, say, Democrats' plans for electric postal vehicles or monitoring gaps in tree canopy coverage. In addition, of course, acknowledging that there is a border crisis might offend some Democrat interest groups, and that might imperil Democrats' fierce determination to stay in power and enact their Big Government agenda.

Madam President, I mentioned Democrats' fierce determination to stay in power, and it is fierce, so fierce that the Democrats manufactured a voting crisis and almost succeeded in gutting the Senate's rules in an attempt to force through Federal legislation that would give their party an advantage in future elections. And it clearly doesn't matter to them that their claims of voter suppression were pretty clearly refuted by excellent election turnout mere months later. Democrats are still talking about forcing through a Federal takeover of elections to address a nonexistent crisis and give their party a leg up in future elections.

Madam President, I guess it is not necessarily surprising that Democrats' growing commitment to the biggest kind of Big Government has been matched by a growing determination to secure their party's grip on power with government action, if necessary. As government power grows, I suppose the governing party starts to think its power should grow with it. It would explain Democrats' commitment to abolishing protections for the rights of the minority party in the Senate and the Americans that it represents and the commitment expressed by a number of Democrats to packing the Supreme Court, expanding it—expanding the Supreme Court with Democrat Justices until they can be sure they will get the outcomes that they want.

Leading Democrats have been openly crowing about their plans to abolish the filibuster if they manage to gain a sufficient majority in the Senate and then force through a variety of far-left, Big Government legislation—from a government takeover of childcare to that voting bill that they think will give them a leg up in elections to some of the most extreme abortion legislation, literally, in the world.

Clearly, a raging border crisis, an inflation crisis, a weakening economy, and growing energy insecurity mean little to Democrats. Their focus, if they keep their majority, is not on solving these very real problems facing Americans; it is on growing and expanding government and implementing their far-left, Big Government, big-spending visions.

(Mr. SCHATZ assumed the Chair.)

Mr. President, Democrats' Big Government vision is clearly not a vision I share, and despite Democrats' clear belief that their narrow majority gave them a mandate for a far-left remake of our government, I suspect the American people are not looking for that. Democrats may think months and months and months of high inflation are a small price to pay for implementing their Big Government visions, but I suspect the American people disagree.

I also think the American people would like to see the party in power focused on solving problems like violent crime and the crisis at our southern border, not spending their time considering how to consolidate their hold on power or force through extreme or partisan policies. And despite Democrats' clear belief that Washington should be making decisions about most aspects of Americans' lives, I suspect most Americans are not interested in having Washington dictate their choices, whether that is the choices they make about their childcare or about their children's education.

Democrats' devotion to their Big Government, big-spending agenda has left the American people worse off economically, and it has left our country in a more dangerous position, from violent crime in our communities to the security crisis that we see on a daily basis unfolding at our southern border.

I think the American people know with painful certainty that we can't afford another 2 years like the last 2, and for the sake of our country, I hope we won't have to see what 2 more years of Democrat power would bring.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. PAUL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

FDA MODERNIZATION ACT 2.0

Mr. PAUL. Mr. President, I rise today to talk about a bill that would lift a mandate in the law dating back to the Great Depression. This mandate is that drugs have to be tested on animals before clinical trials in humans.

This law was created back in the thirties—but I think makes no sense today—when the only methods we had back then were animal trials or human trials. But as the cofounder of a leading bioconvergence startup wrote in "Forbes" last December:

[T]his legislation was passed 20 years before the first modern blood tests, 40 years before [the] modern computers and 60 years before the human genome was mapped. Now, we have all these tools and so many more to evaluate and ensure the safety of cosmetics and drug candidates before they reach human trials.

The problem is, the law never caught up to the science. The law perversely requires drug developers to test on animals, which often means killing them after the test is over, even when non-animal methods would work better. Passing this bill will put a stop to the needless suffering and death of millions of animals in labs across the country.

An emeritus neurology professor at Mayo Clinic, David Wiebers, wrote earlier this month in the Kansas City Star that the—

[D]ifferences in genetics and physiology among species can change the way a drug is metabolized in the body. As a result, the predictive value of using animals for toxicity testing is far from optimal. The intent of the 1938 requirement for animal models was to keep toxic drugs from harming patients.

A noble quest.

Yet, statistics show that these animal tests are flawed and misclassify many toxic compounds as safe.

This partly explains why over 90 percent of drugs found to be safe in animal testing end up failing in human clinical trials. But animal tests can be more than twice as expensive—sometimes up to 30 times more expensive—as nonanimal alternatives. This is despite the fact that it takes over a decade to bring a new drug to market and costs about a billion dollars.

You would think that if you are making that kind of investment, you would be getting something for your money. But not when the government gets in the way of progress.

It is often said that the definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over again and expecting a different result. We have mandated animal testing for the last 84 years, and it meant slower approval for promising drugs and cures.

The time has come for the law to finally catch up with the science. I am glad the Senate has acted, and I hope the House of Representatives will now move quickly to pass this measure into law.

This law will allow the option of not doing animal testing. It is not that it will forbid and prevent any animal testing; it simply will allow the option of bringing drugs to market without sacrificing animals if we don't need to.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of S. 5002, which is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report the bill by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (S. 5002) to allow for alternatives to animal testing for purposes of drug and biological product applications.

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the bill.

Mr. PAUL. I ask unanimous consent that the bill be considered read a third time and passed and that the motion to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The bill (S. 5002) was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, was read the third time, and passed, as follows:

S. 5002

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

EXECUTIVE SESSION

EXECUTIVE CALENDAR

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I move to proceed to the motion to reconsider the vote on the confirmation by which Executive Calendar No. 1043, the nomination of Arianna J. Freeman, of Pennsylvania, to be United States Circuit Judge for the Third Circuit, was not confirmed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion to proceed to the motion to reconsider.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion having been agreed to, the Senate proceeds to executive session and the clerk will report the nomination.

The legislative clerk read the nomination of Arianna J. Freeman, of Pennsylvania, to be United States Circuit Judge for the Third Circuit.

NOMINATION OF ARIANNA J. FREEMAN

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, the Senate will soon vote to confirm another outstanding nominee to the Federal bench: Arianna Freeman, nominated to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals.

Ms. Freeman is an accomplished appellate attorney and a ground-breaking pick for the Third Circuit. Her perspective, experience, and legal acumen will greatly benefit the court. And once confirmed, she will be the first Black woman to serve on the Third Circuit.

After earning her B.A. with honors from Swarthmore College and her J.D. from Yale Law School, Ms. Freeman clerked for three judges on the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, based in Philadelphia.

In 2009, following her clerkships, Ms. Freeman joined the Federal Community Defender's Office for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, an office she has served with distinction. As a Federal public defender, Ms. Freeman has dedicated her career to representing indigent criminal defendants seeking to vindicate their constitutional rights—to due process, effective assistance of counsel, and other constitutional guarantees.

Unfortunately, some of my Republican colleagues have suggested that Ms. Freeman's public defense work disqualifies her from judicial service.

In reality, Ms. Freeman has undertaken this work in support of the Constitution and the rule of law. Her zealous advocacy has helped to ensure that the protections of the Fifth and Sixth Amendments are made real for criminal defendants. Throughout her career, she has advanced the cause of equal justice under law.

Ms. Freeman received a unanimous rating of “well qualified” from the American Bar Association.

She has the strong support of Senator CASEY, as well as many leaders in the Pennsylvania legal community. This includes four former Federal prosecutors who sent a letter to the Judiciary Committee writing, “We are impressed by Arianna's diligence, intelligence, dedication, and integrity. It is because of her ethics and compassion, grounded in sensibility, that we are confident she will provide sound and measured opinions, while approaching each case without bias and with respect for the rule of law.”

I will support Ms. Freeman's confirmation, and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which Executive Calendar No. 1043 was not confirmed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion to reconsider.

The motion was agreed to.

VOTE ON FREEMAN NOMINATION

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is, Will the Senate advise and consent to the Freeman nomination, upon reconsideration?

Mr. SCHUMER. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. THUNE. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from Utah (Mr. LEE), the Senator from Ohio (Mr. PORTMAN), and the Senator from Florida (Mr. RUBIO).

Further, if present and voting the Senator from Utah (Mr. LEE) would have voted “nay.”

The result was announced—yeas 50, nays 47, as follows:

NOMINATION OF REBECCA E. JONES GASTON

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I am on the floor this afternoon with a request to confirm a highly qualified nominee with bipartisan support, whose nomination has stalled for 210 days since it was approved by the Finance Committee.

My understanding is there may be an objection to a unanimous consent request that I would like to offer, and, hopefully, any Senate Republican who seeks to object will come to me. And I hope, whatever concern they have—if, in fact, it is the case—that we can work it out and this very, very qualified individual can serve as Commissioner on Children, Youth, and Families within the Department of Health and Human Services.

I am talking about Rebecca Jones Gaston. And my view is that this Agency is a hugely underappreciated part of our government. Its whole mission is to help vulnerable kids and families stay safe and get ahead in life. It is challenging work, and that means you have got to have strong leadership in place.

One of the big recent jobs for this Agency has been implementation of the Family First Prevention Services Act. Our colleague, the late Orrin Hatch, and I worked on this for years because we wanted to transform the child welfare system, and that is an undertaking now underway because Chairman Hatch went to members on the other side of the aisle and reached out. And we built a coalition for this hugely consequential bill.

Before the bill, there was essentially a set of two choices, neither perfect, for kids looking at the prospects of families and foster homes. You could keep a child with a family in a situation that was not exactly ideal. You would have problems with alcohol. You would have problems with drugs. There were just problems at home. If you didn't keep the child there, you would send them off to a foster care facility. Well, there are some good foster care homes, but we know that there are some that are not exactly up to par.

What Chairman Hatch and I did, with bipartisan support in the Finance Committee, is devise a third path, and that is what Ms. Gaston would be working on at this Agency that does so much good for kids. We essentially said this third path meant that there could be support at home for the parents who were dealing with alcohol challenges or drug dependency or something of that nature. You could also have an older individual, a grandparent, come in and assist.

But the point was, we came up with a third, far healthier path. It was a landmark. Marian Wright Edelman, who has done so much work for young people, so much effort, said that it was a monumental achievement. And, in fact, it was, and that is why we want Rebecca Jones Gaston there to implement it.

And what the status quo was before that legislation was families, essentially, breaking apart. And so the bill is called Families First because it keeps families together—keep them together whenever you can come up with a strategy to make it safe for the child. It could be with mental health care for Mom and Dad. As I said, maybe a grandparent steps in to take care of the grandkids. Lots more flexibility.

Mr. President, as former Governor, you and I have talked about that flexibility in human services. That is what Chairman Hatch and I worked on, and it is how we got it passed into law.

Now, obviously, you then have to go forward to implement it. That means you have to work with State and local agencies, the administration, the Congress. Everybody wants to get this right.

Rebecca Jones Gaston is an ideal nominee to lead the effort. She has experience in Oregon. She has also been a highly successful advocate for young people as Oregon's child welfare director within the State's Department of Human Services.

She had a similar post—I hope everybody hears this who is watching it—under a Republican Governor in the State of Maryland. So this is a person who can work well with both sides.

She brings 25 years of experience in dealing with families and kids. Her qualifications for this job are undeniable. And I think it is fair to say members on the Finance Committee are looking forward to working with her.

I previously sought to pass this nomination by unanimous consent earlier in the summer. There was one Senate objection. I believe that issue has been resolved.

This nomination has waited long enough. We have a very good person, bipartisan support. There is lots of work to do.

And I would just close by way of saying, I heard one Senator might be objecting. That Senator has lifted their objection. And now I hear some kind of report that someone else is objecting. And my hope is the Senator with the objection will contact me so we can address the concern, clear the nomination before we leave, which, I think, we are all very hopeful will be the case.

At this point, I want it understood that I am going to ask unanimous consent later in this session, and I hope there will be no objection.

With that, I yield the floor.

TRIBUTE TO MIKE EVANS

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I have come to the floor this afternoon to speak about Mike Evans, the Finance Committee's chief counsel, who is retiring at the end of this week. This is going to bring to a close 27 years of extraordinary Senate service and almost 9 years on the Finance Committee staff.

It is not an atomic secret that I am very, very much involved in basketball with my children and still dreaming about how it didn't work out to play in the NBA. But to just paraphrase one thought with respect to the way this place works in terms of actually getting results the way Mike Evans did on the IRA—a hugely important bill, where the major pieces came from the Finance Committee, where we had extraordinary work done by the president of the Senate—if you speak in the parlance of basketball, Mike Evans will long be remembered as one of the all-stars—the NBA all-stars, so to speak—in Senate service.

He has, without any doubt, for millions of people in Oregon and across the country, caused them to have a better life because of his work in the Senate. And to just tick off a few of the reasons why I feel that way, let me just give a bit of history.

In early 2014, I had a brief tenure as chairman of the Finance Committee. And to the Senate's great fortune, Mike agreed to return to be the Senate Finance Committee's chief counsel. His experience goes back to days when he did good work for Chairman Baucus.

And the reality is, since then, you name a big legislative accomplishment in the areas of healthcare, tax policy, support for working families, Mike has been right at the heart of it. A few examples: Not long after Mike's return, the Senate passed the largest set of tax cuts for working families in many years.

There was the 2015 trade debate that was all about what I call getting trade done right: strong enforcement, serious protections for workers in the environment, more sunlight in our trade policy than ever before.

Many members had said we had never approached trade in that way. With Mike's good work, there were colleagues on our side of the aisle who said this is the first trade bill we are voting for.

Starting in 2017, there was a shift in our work as Finance Committee Democrats focused on protecting vulnerable Americans from the Trump administration's policies that singled out the vulnerable. We stopped the effort to repeal the Affordable Care Act and destroy Medicaid in its tracks. We showed the American people that the Trump tax law was not a middle-class tax cut. Above all, it disproportionately favored billionaires and corporations. And we saw that all through the Trump years.

Mike was absolutely crucial developing a strong, innovative, progressive agenda for the next time Democrats led the committee. When the pandemic hit, the committee stepped up and sprung into action. We came up with historic legislation to support workers and small businesses to prevent an economic collapse.

More recently, with the good work, particularly done by Senator BROWN and Senator BENNET, Senator CASEY, Senator BOOKER—my colleagues—the Finance Committee led the effort to pass the largest reduction in child poverty ever to come from one bill.

The President of the Senate knows we worked for a full decade—a full decade—to pass the largest clean energy bill in U.S. history, a major step in the fight against climate change.

It does not happen, it simply does not happen without the gentleman sitting next to me, Mike Evans.

Medicare is going to start delivering a big dose of price relief for prescription drugs. So seniors are going to benefit. In fact, Mike Evans always told me: Let's make sure you can get help to people soon. That means in literally a couple of days, on October 1, because of Mike's good work, we are going to start seeing penalties for price gouging by big pharmaceutical companies. They are going to have to write out checks to Medicare for the amount over inflation. Mike Evans led the fight on those issues, right at the center of our major accomplishments.

In the column of ongoing priorities, we said: Something is not right. If nurses and firefighters in Maine or Mississippi or any other State pay taxes with every paycheck, billionaires can pay what they want, when they want to. And we have been saying we want everybody to be successful. My goodness, that is what America is about. But we also want everybody to pay their fair share.

And I am really pleased that the President has been talking about a billionaire minimum income tax. We have been coming together all in the name of fairness. And Mike looks specifically at how to do that and address the parliamentary and legal concerns.

I would be on the floor until break-fast time tomorrow—and I see our friend from Mississippi has something that is important to him—and I just want to close with one last point.

You know, I think if you walked into a coffee shop in Maine or Oregon or Mississippi and you said: "Well, let me talk to you a little bit about reconciliation," people would be a little baffled with you, but maybe they would say, I hope the couples can work it out, or something; and haven't thought of this reconciliation too much.

Well, we know here in the Senate reconciliation is a briar patch of tricky rules and procedures; get something wrong, and all the work you have done to come up with a good policy goes by the boards.

So you have to comply with the Byrd rule, which is something resembling English, and Mike, of course, speaks this unique tongue of the whole Byrd rule world. It means scrubbing your legislation for Byrd rule violations, writing tomes of legal memoranda. Then you have to go before the Senate Parliamentarian to make sure your bill stands up to scrutiny.

I see the Parliamentarian right there, and as she knows, we are very appreciative of her professionalism. Mike and I, I think, would be the first to say you don't win all the calls. That is kind of the way it works, but the Parliamentarian has always been professional. And somehow I think Mike Evans and the Parliamentarian, wherever they are going to be in the years ahead, they are going to be battling around the ideas of what it takes to move legislation forward in the Senate.

This is as much a compliment to Mike and the Parliamentarian as to say this is, for all its flaws, part of what you have to do to get issues addressed and do it fairly. Nobody in this country is more experienced on this floor than Mike Evans.

If you want to think about remembering Mike as I will, opposing counsels sort of weep when Mike Evans walks through the door because they know that with that full stack of binders and materials, he is ready. If I can go back to my basketball roots, when you are dealing with Mike Evans, you better come to play because he is ready every single time out.

Typically, these arguments are handled by brilliant staff before the Parliamentarian. On one occasion, I gathered, a Senator kind of strutted into the room and challenged Mike to a debate. I am not sure how it ended, but Mike is pretty much undefeated against colleagues on the other side who actually have election certificates.

In all seriousness, the many hours of work he has put into these Byrd rule arguments—work that I know feels like a real slog—it is part of making life better for people, and we appreciate Mike doing it.

Last point I want to make is about Mike's character. He has a great sense of humor. He is wonderful to be around. He is kind. He is a mentor to younger staff. He is the only person I know who can pepper Shakespeare quotes and Springsteen lyrics into the same discussion of dense economic policy.

Some people get lost around here in the jargon of what happens up here. Mike is about helping the real people get ahead in life, particularly somebody who doesn't have power and clout and somebody who just deserves a fair shake. He has never lost sight of that. It is his loadstar. We are so thankful for his years of service.

Last announcement, just to wrap up. I think Mike feels, and I do, too, if you are going to step into big shoes—and these are NBA-style shoes, they are big—we are really thrilled that Tiffany Smith will be the new Finance Committee chief counsel starting next week. She is a 15-year veteran of the Finance Committee. She has been our chief tax counsel since 2016. She leads the best and most effective tax team there is. She has been in the trenches with Mike for years, and I think she is going to reflect very well on the Finance Committee and the Senate. She has a huge record of accomplishments as well. You will see those talents in action soon. She is going to hit the ground running.

I just say, as I see my friend from Mississippi here, if any colleagues on the other side of the aisle think they are going to get a break in reconciliation debates when Mike retires, they have another thing coming with Tiffany Smith. She is somebody who is going to be able to fill his shoes very well.

Mike can now get on to the season passes that apparently he wants to the Folger; he can go tour with the Boss; and he can catch all the Red Sox and Celtics games he wants. But I have said this before, staff can leave our office, but they don't get to leave our special family.

With enduring thanks to Mike Evans, enduring thanks to the good work he has done that has made lives better in this country, Mike, big thanks. Godspeed.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Mississippi.

MISSISSIPPI NATIONAL GUARD RECOGNITION DAY

Mr. WICKER. Mr. President, I rise this afternoon to call attention to the Mississippi National Guard on the eve of the 60th anniversary of their largest ever deployment.

We have been fortunate since before Mississippi actually became a State to have a strong National Guard dating back actually to 1798. The Mississippi National Guardsmen have served honorably in armed conflicts, including the War of 1812, both World Wars, the Korean war, and the Global War on Terror. They have also been the backbone of disaster relief, responding to hurricane, floods, and tornadoes.

But what I want to talk about today is what they did to keep the peace at a time of civil unrest 60 years ago tomorrow, September 30, 1962. Many of us remember this. No doubt, the Presiding Officer remembers this. On September 30, 1962, a riot erupted at the University of Mississippi, my alma mater, as James Meredith arrived on campus. James Meredith would become the first African-American student to gain admission at Ole Miss.

James Meredith is being recognized in Mississippi this week, as he rightly should be. My wife Gayle attended a very impressive event last night on the campus of the University of Mississippi at our beautiful Gertrude Ford Center with Mr. Meredith present. We are glad he is still with us, and he was rightly recognized.

Today, for the first time, we have an opportunity to finally recognize those young Mississippians and young Americans who were called up by President Kennedy and maintained the peace and did their duty. The soldiers arrived in Oxford on September 30. They came from small towns and rural communities across Mississippi, and like Mr. Meredith, some of them are still with us.

As we mark the 60th anniversary of that Ole Miss riot, it is right that today we honor the citizen soldiers who stood in harm's way to answer the call of the President to protect life and property. It was clear even before the violence erupted that many agitators—a vast number of them from out of State—were going to cause trouble.

There was a retired general in Texas named Edwin Walker. He issued a radio call from Texas suggesting that 10,000 people from across the region descend on the Ole Miss campus. In response, our Mississippi National Guard prepared for the worst. They responded to President Kennedy's call in the great tradition of our military dating back to the time of George Washington. The civilian leadership gave an order, and our military saluted and did their duty.

As night fell, the crowds grew increasingly violent, and the need for reinforcements became dire. At the command of Mississippi Brigadier General Charles Billingslea, the National Guard dispatched two battle groups from the 155th Infantry Regiment and one group from the 108th Armored Cavalry Regiment, a total of 3,086 men out of Laurel, Amory, and Tupelo, MS.

These young soldiers immediately met resistance as they arrived on campus. Rioters actually assaulted General Billingslea, along with his deputy, General John Corley, and his aide, Captain Harold Lyon, and set their vehicle on fire. These three soldiers managed to escape by crawling 200 yards to the Lyceum building, our administration building, while under gunfire. Hours later, additional troops were called in from Pontotoc, Water Valley, to quell rioters who surrounded the Lyceum. By morning, some 25,000 servicemembers had arrived to restore order.

Tragically, there were two fatalities during this 15-hour riot, but there could have been a lot more. Dozens more were wounded, including 40 of the soldiers. As a precaution, the National Guard troops were kept in place for several weeks. And by the end of their deployment, more than 30,000 soldiers had been mobilized. These citizen soldiers did their duty, and following the orders of their Commander in Chief, they prevented a crisis from becoming much worse.

This riot was an ugly chapter in our history, but it was one of the Mississippi National Guard's finest hours.

As the decades have proceeded, and we recognized the other people who were involved, this is the first time that the Senate will have had an opportunity to recognize the young Americans who came and restored order.

My colleague Senator CINDY HYDE-SMITH and I have joined to introduce a resolution honoring the Mississippi National Guard for their heroic actions and designating tomorrow, September 30, 2022, as Mississippi National Guard Recognition Day.

The following day in Mississippi, the University of Mississippi has designated it as "James Meredith Recognition Day."

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to the consideration of S. Res. 809, which is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the resolution by title.

The legislative clerk read as follows: A resolution (S. Res. 809) designating September 30, 2022, as "Mississippi National Guard Recognition Day".

There being no objection, the Senate proceeded to consider the resolution.

Mr. WICKER. Mr. President, at this time, I ask unanimous consent that the resolution be agreed to, the preamble be agreed to, and the motions to reconsider be considered made and laid upon the table with no intervening action or debate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The resolution (S. Res. 809) was agreed to.

The preamble was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Indiana.

Mr. BRAUN. I ask unanimous consent that I, Senator LEAHY, and Senator SCHUMER be permitted to complete our remarks prior to the scheduled vote.

AMENDMENT NO. 5765 TO AMENDMENT NUMBERED 5745

Mr. BRAUN. Mr. President, I call up my amendment No. 5765 and ask that it be reported by number.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendment by number.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Indiana [Mr. BRAUN] proposes an amendment numbered 5765 to amendment No. 5745.

The amendment is as follows:
(Purpose: To amend chapter 2 of title 1, United States Code, to create requirements for calling an Article V Convention, and for other purposes)

At the end, add the following:

DIVISION H—CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION OF THE UNITED STATES

SEC. 101. DEFINITION.

In this division:

(1) ARCHIVIST.—The term "Archivist" means the Archivist of the United States.

(2) ARTICLE V CONVENTION.—The term "Article V Convention" means a convention as described in Article V of the Constitution of the United States that is called by Congress and organized by the Archivist on the application of the legislatures of $\frac{3}{4}$ of the several States for proposing amendments that shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of the Constitution of the United States when ratified by the legislatures of $\frac{3}{4}$ of the several States, or by conventions in $\frac{3}{4}$ thereof, as one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by Congress.

SEC. 102. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) Article V of the Constitution of the United States requires that "The Congress . . . on the Application of the Legislatures of two thirds of the several States, shall call a Convention for proposing Amendments" to the Constitution of the United States.

(2) Since the first application approved by a State for an Article V Convention in 1788, 42 States in total have submitted applications.

(3) The Constitution of the United States states that an Article V Convention shall be called upon the active application of $\frac{3}{4}$ of the States. Such application occurs when a State, through its legislature, approves a petition for an Article V Convention. The threshold of applications from $\frac{3}{4}$ of the States to require an Article V Convention has been met several times, as—

(A) in 1979, there were 39 active applications;

(B) in 1983, there were 40 active applications; and

(C) not less than 34 States have filed active applications as recently as 2021.

(4) Alexander Hamilton in The Federalist No. 85 stated that "The Congress 'shall call a convention'. Nothing in this particular is left to the discretion of that body".

(5) Beginning in 1979, the Federal Government failed in its constitutional duty to count applications and organize an Article V Convention. Since that time, the debt of the United States has increased to more than $30,000,000,000,000 from $830,000,000,000.

(6) The unanimous opinion of the United States Supreme Court in Chiafalo v. Washington, 140 S. Ct. 2316, 2328 (2020) stated, "electors . . . have no ground for reversing the vote of millions of its citizens. That direction accords with the Constitution—as well as with the trust of the Nation that here, We the People rule."

SEC. 3. DUTIES OF ARCHIVIST RELATING TO STATE APPLICATIONS FOR CALLING FOR CONVENTIONS OF STATES FOR PROPOSING CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

(a) DUTIES DESCRIBED.—Chapter 2 of title 1, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 106b the following:

"§ 106c. Duties relating to State applications calling for Article V Conventions

"(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

"(1) ARCHIVIST.—The term 'Archivist' means the Archivist of the United States.

"(2) ARTICLE V CONVENTION.—The term 'Article V Convention' means a convention as described in Article V of the Constitution of the United States that is called by Congress and organized by the Archivist on the application of the legislatures of $\frac{3}{4}$ of the several States for proposing amendments that shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of the Constitution of the United States when ratified by the legislatures of $\frac{3}{4}$ of the several States, or by conventions in $\frac{3}{4}$ thereof, as one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by Congress.

"(b) CERTIFICATION AND NOTIFICATION.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 30 days after receiving an application of a State calling for an Article V Convention, the Archivist shall authenticate, count, and publish, on a publicly available website, such applications, together with any resolution of any State to rescind any such previous application submitted by that State.

“(2) EXISTING APPLICATIONS.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this section, the Archivist shall authenticate, count, and publish all applications of a State calling for an Article V Convention received before the date of enactment of this section.

“(c) CERTIFICATION AND NOTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS.—Upon receipt and authentication by the Archivist under subsection (b) of applications calling for an Article V Convention of the legislatures of $\frac{1}{3}$ of the several States which have not been rescinded, the Archivist shall publish in the Federal Register a certification that $\frac{1}{3}$ of the several States have called for the Article V Convention, together with a list of the States submitting applications calling for the Article V Convention.”.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT.—The table of sections for chapter 2 of title 1, United States Code, is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 106b the following:

“106c. Duties relating to State applications calling for Article V Conventions.”.

Mr. BRAUN. Mr. President, my home State of Indiana is America's heartland. I have traveled to every county, listened to businesses, schools, churches. I think that is where we need to get our cue in terms of what needs to be done. Farmers, as well, are in the middle of something they never faced before—probably the toughest job and business out there. It has never been tougher.

The American people are strong and resilient, but they are represented by a government here that is not necessarily the same. Sometimes they get scoffed at, but they live within their household budgets. State and local governments have guardrails. But, naturally, they do it anyway because they know you can't borrow money from future generations and spend it today—bad business plan.

For this reason, I think the U.S. Congress is broken because we have kept shoving this issue down the road. We haven't done a budget that we adhered to in nearly 20 years. The last time we did it, we were most ingenious about how to unravel it—roughly 10 years ago.

When they look at our capital, they see a twisted knot of lobbyists, corporate interests, and a mountain of debt that just gets higher and higher.

We now spend over a trillion dollars more each year than we take in, and, recently, that has gone up to $1.5 trillion. To normalize that just does not make sense. We are here twiddling our thumbs while our kids' and grandkids' future goes up in smoke. Every American family is paying for our failures here.

Congress, as a whole, and particularly this body, seem to have no interest in turning this big ship away from the rocks. In the past year, I have brought to the floor four chances to do something. I offered a complete Federal budget that would match our spending and our revenues that are historical in nature. Only 34 Senators voted for it. It would have preserved Social Security, Medicare, and defense, just bringing it in line with what is sustainable.

I offered an amendment that if we fail to get our budget and appropriations bills done on time, by the deadline, which is like in a few days for this year, we don't get paid until we do so. Forty-seven Senators voted for it—close, but still not there.

I offered an amendment to cut pet projects through earmarks from our huge spending bill. It only got 35 votes. And we were doing that for almost 10 years, and now we have actually backslid into that bad behavior.

I offered an amendment to require a balanced budget, like so many States have—they live in fiscal sanity—47 votes, short again.

The Framers of our Constitution saw this coming. They had to raise revenue, especially back then, to do whatever they wanted to do. There were also checks and balances.

Congress isn't just balanced by the Supreme Court and the President, but also by the States. Article V of our Constitution gives the States the power to pick up the slack when Congress refuses to act, where it doesn't exercise discipline, good behavior, what all of us expect.

I believe the House and the Senate desperately need two things: term limits—the Founders never imagined people would come here and like that better than what they did before. Washington and Jefferson hurried back to their farms and their businesses. That is not the case anymore.

If we keep doing it the way we are, we are going to get increasingly, increasingly deeper in the hole. With term limits, we get a class of political entrepreneurs here who have actually done something in the real world, before they think they can run the biggest business in the world and deliver such poor results.

If two-thirds of the States petition to call a constitutional convention, we could take power away from the DC establishment and put it back in the hands of the American people. You are not going to believe how close that has come and how close it is currently. But the swamp, I think, knows it. That is why each time the right number of petitions have been filed, Congress refused to call the convention.

The last time was as recently as last year. Today, 32 States have active applications for the convention. We need 34. It was actually at the level or above until a few States rescinded that.

This plan is extremely popular because it makes sense. It puts political will and backbone into this place that we don't normally have. And a recent poll by Trafalgar found that 65 percent of likely voters agree with that. If you take either term limits or balanced budgets by themselves, it gets up close to 85 or 90 percent, and, in this poll, 81 percent of Republicans, 63 percent of Independents—who I think elect the swing State Senators and the President; so we ought to be really paying attention to them—and 50 percent of Democrats.

There is no Federal Government body managing this process. It is too easy for Congress to ignore what the States have done.

My amendment would be very, very simple. It would direct the Archivist, who has all of these petitions somewhere in a drawer, to publish them as they come in so all of us can see what the people are thinking.

We have conveniently just overlooked it or ignored it. It adds what we should all be for: transparency, having people be able to see what is going on here, and especially for something like this.

America is the most powerful country in history because we are founded on the rock of the Constitution. So simple and direct, it can all be right in here. We need to pay more attention to it.

The Framers were also wise to have a tool for the people and the States when Congress refuses to act on things so critical. Considering how broken and dysfunctional this place is currently and the dire threats we face from our debt and inflation crisis, you would think now, more than any other time in our country's history, that this would be at the forefront and we would at least give it to the States to weigh in and not hide it in a drawer somewhere.

When each one of us swore in as Senator, we didn't swear our allegiance to our political party. We did it to the Constitution. We didn't promise to support the Washington establishment. We did it to the people, to the Constitution.

It is in support of the American people and in defense of the Constitution that I come here to the floor today. It is not going to be litigated on the floor today, but I can tell you, for the time that I am here, I am not going to let the American public forget it.

And we have another critical date in the middle of December, 2½ months away, and I think that will be a place where it will even be more important, and I am going to try to make the case in the meantime that we at least don't keep in a drawer, hidden away somewhere, what the American people want.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont.

H.R. 6833

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, before I begin, I wanted to acknowledge that this morning, countless Floridians woke up to a world turned upside down in the wake of Hurricane Ian. Hundreds of thousands in Puerto Rico remain without power more than 10 days after the storm that ravaged the island.

I want them to know that Vermonters will stand by your side as you rebuild your communities and your lives, and so will Republicans and Democrats in this Chamber.

Now, the continuing resolution we are about to consider contains $18.8 billion for the FEMA Disaster Relief Fund, which would bring available resources in the fund to approximately $35 billion to respond to these and other disasters.

We likely are not going to know the extent of the damage for several days. Every time you watch the news you hear of more damage. But I remind my colleagues that we are the United States of America, and I am ready to work with my colleagues to respond with what is needed.

I do not care whether a State is represented by Democrats or Republicans. You are part of the United States of America, and as chairman of the Appropriations Committee, I will work with you during the months ahead to get the funds you need.

Now, that said, I am glad we have reached an agreement to fund the Federal Government through December 16, and I want to thank my good friend Vice Chairman SHELBY for working on this. But I especially want to thank Leaders Schumer and McConnell for their work and cooperation in reaching this point. They both understand the need to go forward.

I am glad that we were able to secure $1 billion to bolster LIHEAP ahead of the winter heating season. My home State of Vermont will receive an infusion of $5.7 million from this funding. Now, that is going to go a long way to help families pay their bills when they are faced with rising fuel costs and plummeting temperatures. It helps them not to have to make the decision “do I eat or heat.”

The bill also includes $12.35 billion in emergency assistance for Ukraine, $2.5 billion to support recovery efforts for the Hermit's Peak-Calf Canyon fire in New Mexico; $2 billion in community development block grants to help communities recovering from major disasters in 2021 and 2022.

I am disappointed that some of my Republican colleagues blocked additional funding to combat COVID-19 or monkeypox. I will continue to work with Republicans and Democrats to secure these necessary resources in the omnibus.

And, finally, I want to be clear. This is only a temporary measure. As the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, I am committed to completing the work of the committee before the end of this Congress.

Running on autopilot after December with rising inflation would be irresponsible. It would leave priorities of both Republicans and Democrats underfunded and underresourced. The Federal Government funds programs that the American people rely on. We should do the job that the American people sent all of us—all 100 of us—here to do.

I want to thank Vice Chairman SHELBY's staff. As I said earlier, I thank the majority leader and the Republican leader for their help and cooperation in bringing this together. I also want to thank my staff, Charles Kieffer, Chanda Betourney—there are too many names to mention, but these are people who worked through recesses, weekends, long hours, long nights. I get to go home by midevening. They stay there most of the night to get it done.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD all of the names of our staff at the end of my speech.

The continuing resolution is a strong bill, and it is a bipartisan bill. I urge my colleagues to accept it.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Mr. LEAHY. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The majority leader.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, in a few moments we will vote on the continuing resolution to fund the government through mid-December.

This legislation avoids a very bad thing, shutting down the government, and does a lot of good things: money for the people of Ukraine, funding for communities reeling from natural disasters, aid to families with their heating bills—just to name a few. I am very thankful to all the Senators, particularly Chairman LEAHY and Ranking Member SHELBY, who made this possible.

This is commonsense, bipartisan legislation, following many other bipartisan bills that we have done in this session, and I am glad that we came to a timely conclusion and didn't go right up to the brink and risk a shutdown. Millions and millions of people can breathe easy knowing that we have done this in a timely way and the money to continue the government will be there.

Of particular importance is the money to Ukraine. These people have struggled so valiantly. Make no mistake about it. American weaponry and help have helped them turn the tide of the war. We cannot stop now, and we are not going to.

The heat program is so important. Winter is coming upon us. The program is running out of money. While we probably will get more money in the omnibus in December, between now and Christmas, there are going to be a lot of cold days, and people are going to need that heat money.

The money for natural disasters—in my judgment, as a result of climate change, we have many more disasters, so we need more help, and this will go to many States and many parts of the country.

So I want to thank, again, Senator LEAHY. I want to thank Senator SHELBY. I want to thank the members of the Appropriations Committee. I want to thank all the staff—mine and others—who worked so long and hard to get this done.

I ask for the yeas and nays.

The Senator from Alabama.

NATIONAL COMPUTER FORENSICS INSTITUTE

Mr. TUBERVILLE. Madam President, over the last few decades, large parts of our daily lives—like work, education, and even personal finance—moved online. The emergence of computers, the internet, and mobile devices have created a more interconnected world more than ever. But this being connected can also be used by bad actors.

The entire world of information is at our fingertips, but also, so is cyber crime. Because of this, those charged with keeping us safe have the increasingly difficult task of not only protecting us from the rising physical crime scene in our communities across the country but also from cyber crime that is impossible to see and much harder to detect.

Law enforcement officials in Alabama, my State, recognized the problem early on. In 2006—before we all had smart phones in our pockets—the Alabama Office of Prosecution Services and the Alabama District Attorneys Association saw the need for a more coordinated effort to train law enforcement officers, prosecutors, and judges in digital evidence.

They saw how the digital landscape was and still is constantly evolving and how those in law enforcement needed to keep up. But they also recognized how traditionally the largest departments with the biggest budgets were the only ones who could afford the training necessary to help their officers fight cyber and electronic crime.

So they outlined a plan to bring the training to more of our law enforcement officials and formed a unique and important partnership with the United States Secret Service to create a center for forensics education for State and law enforcement officials.

Thanks to their innovative thinking, the National Computer Forensics Institute—also known as NCFI—opened in 2008, under the roof provided by the city of Hoover, AL.

The Institute had somewhat modest beginnings—a $4 million budget and only 264 students. But thanks to continued support from Congress here on the Hill, the Computer Forensics Institute now taps into a $13 million annual budget to train more than 4,000 students from across the country every year.

To date, more than 19,000 State and local officers, prosecutors, and judges representing all 50 States have been trained at this institute right in the heart of Alabama. Local and State officials come from all over the country to train in Alabama and then take their newly acquired expertise back to their communities all over.

Graduates have reported utilizing their training in more than 578,000 digital forensic exams. It is clear this model is working. NCFI graduates are applying their skills to protect their communities all across the country.

The National Computer Forensics Institute focuses on teaching officials how to investigate cyber and electronic crime, always accounting—always accounting—for emerging technologies and difficult digital capabilities. But they also teach officials how to conduct forensic examinations of computers and mobile devices—a critical component of almost every violent crime investigation. Thus, the Institute gives officers and officials the tools they need to protect Americans from both cyber crime and violent crime every day.

The pandemic and our related shift to more virtual work and schooling sent cyber crime through the roof, and it continues to rise every day. In fact, according to McAfee, a computer security software company, the financial losses due to cyber crime ballooned to almost $1 trillion in 2020, and this number could hit $10.5 trillion by 2025 according to digital research group Cybersecurity Ventures.

But, as we know all too well, the risk isn't just financial; cyber criminals can hack pipelines and other key infrastructure systems that are crucial to our daily lives and that pertain to our national security.

Officials trained at the NCFI are a part of our frontline defense against these attacks. The frontline—our local police officers, district attorneys, and State officials—knows the people they serve best. I want those protecting my home and my State trained to identify and combat the latest threats, and I am sure you do as well.

In 2019, when cyber criminals threatened the people of Oldsmar, FL, by attempting to poison the city's water supply, graduates from the NCFI utilized their training to secure the city's infrastructure and compile valuable evidence to keep citizens safe.

In the fall of 2021, a week and a half before schools were to open in Louisiana, leaders were forced to declare a state of emergency due to ransomware attacks on dozens of parish school districts throughout the State. Thankfully, because of their time spent in Hoover, AL, Louisiana State Police investigators, trained and equipped at the National Computer Forensics Institute, responded to the attack. The investigators dismantled the malware and assisted in rebuilding 54 school networks. All schools within the State started on time, and no ransom was paid.

Earlier this year, after a madman terrorized shoppers at a grocery store in Buffalo, NY, NCFI-trained graduates were able to act quickly and support the police in their response. They used what they learned to conduct a forensic exam of a GoPro camera and a cell phone used by the shooter. That crucial video evidence is currently being used in the prosecution to ensure justice and to protect the victims and their families.

All Americans deserve to feel safe in their communities, and they deserve to feel safe online while working, learning, banking—whatever they need to do with electronic devices.

Brave men and women in law enforcement across the country are willing and able to protect Americans from all crime, including cyber crime, but they need the tools and resources to continue to do so effectively.

While some in Congress and the current administration have worked to shrink the size and strength of our law enforcement, I am unapologetic in my support for the men and women in blue. We must continue to provide the specialized resources that all of them need to do their jobs.

That is why I joined a group of colleagues from both sides of the aisle to introduce the National Computer Forensics Institute Reauthorization Act. This legislation, which passed the Senate by unanimous consent this week, would build on the work started in 2017 to strategically combat modern crime and set the National Computer Forensics Institute up for continued success. It also builds on that success by expanding the program's reach beyond just State and local officials to Federal law enforcement employees. As we know, those defending our national security at the national level should also have access to the latest digital and cyber crime training.

The National Computer Forensics Institute is an excellent example of a State's ingenuity and foresight—a group of individuals identifying a gap that needed to be filled and providing a service with national benefits. The success of the institute represents the impact State leaders and Congress can have on the entire country when we work together to support innovative and pragmatic solutions to our biggest problems. Alabama is proud of the National Computer Forensics Institute, and we are proud to provide cutting-edge training to many of America's brave law enforcement officials.

As Americans across the country face a rise in both violence and cyber crime, I applaud my colleagues for joining me to ensure our first responders have the necessary expertise and training by reauthorizing the National Computer Forensics Institute.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. CARPER. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TRIBUTE TO GREG DOTSON

Mr. CARPER. Madam President, I am delighted to rise today to salute a member of my committee staff who has made literally invaluable contributions to not just the Congress but to our Nation and not just for a couple of months or years but for literally decades.

Greg Dotson, the chief counsel for the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works, which I am privileged to chair, will be retiring on September 30 following a distinguished career in service to this country of ours. On this occasion, I want to take note of his remarkable legacy and extraordinary service to the people of America.

As many of my colleagues will attest, true leaders in this body and true leaders elsewhere are only as good as the team that works for them. Like I say, I hire people smarter than me, and that is one of the reasons I think I have had some success. But good leaders are always looking for the best people they can find.

For many of us who are elected officials in this body and others, those teams of staff members too often toil in the background and are rarely recognized publicly for their service.

While all the members of the Environment and Public Works Committee staff that I am privileged to lead are wonderful public servants, there are sometimes rare individuals who stand out as having made an extraordinary impact on the American people and on this country as a whole. Greg Dotson is one of those exceptional people. He has emerged as an invaluable leader in the effort to address the urgent threat of climate change and has dedicated his life to that vital calling.

Greg first joined this mission as a staffer to Congressman Henry Waxman in 1996. Greg followed Congressman Waxman to the House Oversight Committee and, later, the House Energy and Commerce Committee, which Henry led.

During his nearly 20 years in the House, Greg Dotson helped lead a team that produced the American Clean Energy and Security Act of 2009, a landmark, comprehensive climate change and energy bill that passed the House of Representatives in June of 2009.

He has worked on a number of major legislative achievements, including the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009; the Energy Independence and Security Act of 2007; the Energy Policy Act of 2005; the Safe Drinking Water Act Amendments of 1996, and many, many more. Greg also spearheaded vital congressional oversight and investigative efforts with environmental significance, including high-profile inquiries into political interference with climate science, the BP Deepwater Horizon disaster, and the energy market abuses of Enron.

After his illustrious service in the House of Representatives, Greg went on to share his wisdom and passion with young people who are eager to follow in his footsteps and protect our planet. In 2017, he became a professor in environmental policy at the University of Oregon's Environmental and Natural Resources Law Center, a role which has enabled him to take the lessons of his congressional service and use them to help inform the next generation of legal scholars and environmentalists.

It was from there that he came to the Environment and Public Works Committee in early 2021, when I was becoming chairman of the committee. When we began a new Congress that year with a new Senate majority and a new President who was committed to action on addressing climate change and our Nation's infrastructure needs, while creating lots of jobs, we knew that EPW needed a seasoned, thoughtful counsel who could help guide our committee through this historic time. Greg was just the man for the job.

As chief counsel, he played an invaluable role in helping negotiate and craft the transformational bipartisan infrastructure law enacted last year, working to find common ground with our Republican colleagues and including remarkably strong climate investments in our infrastructure legislation. He also led the charge on efforts to boost electric vehicle infrastructure, clean up our air and our water, and protect communities who are facing the worst consequences of our climate crisis.

In addition, Greg played a leading role in efforts to boost the clean energy revolution for our automotive industry. He worked with me to lay out a vision for how the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency could adopt standards to reduce greenhouse gas emissions in the automotive industry and eliminate tailpipe pollution from new cars by 2035.

The letter we ultimately sent to EPA Administrator Michael Regan was met with applause from both auto manufacturers and environmental groups alike. And as someone who has been here a few years, that doesn't happen every day.

A few months after we unveiled our proposal, the Biden administration followed up by announcing a new plan that adopted our recommendations for how to reduce greenhouse gas emissions from cars, from trucks, while embracing zero-emission vehicles.

And by calling for half of the new vehicles sold in the United States to be zero-emission vehicles by the year 2030 and adopting a multipollutant approach—as we recommended—our Nation will reap major health benefits for millions of Americans while accelerating market trends to the clean cars of the future.

This was Greg's vision, and it will remain his legacy for years and years to come. And just a few weeks ago, Greg was here on the Senate floor with Mary Frances Repko, myself, and others on our team, our colleagues as well—on the floor for the crowning achievement of his decades of government service on climate crisis: the Inflation Reduction Act. Greg's countless hours of work were on that landmark bill and were critical to making possible the largest investment in climate in our Nation's history.

Let me just say that again, the Inflation Reduction Act. Greg's countless hours of work were on that landmark bill, and they were critical to making possible the largest investment—the largest investment—in climate in our Nation's history.

He didn't stop there either, going on to work tirelessly on the methane emissions reduction program—methane is many, many times more harmful than carbon dioxide with respect to climate—an initiative that will have significant impact in our efforts to combat the threat of climate change and safeguard our planet for future generations.

Throughout all of his dedicated service to our Nation and the environment, Greg has been just as committed to his family. All of us here in the Senate and, indeed, our Nation as a whole are grateful to his wife Janine and to their two children, Dahlia and Bryce. I believe they are today in Oregon, at their home in Oregon. We want to thank them, the three of them, for generously sharing with us the time and extraordinary talents of their husband and their father.

And when he wasn't here in Washington, DC, working tirelessly to make history and improve the lives of the American people, Greg was at home in an equally important role as husband and dad. Those are maybe the two most important roles that all of us can hope for ourselves, and we also hope that he can now begin to devote even more time to them in the days ahead.

Greg's public service follows his own family legacy. His father was a Navy man, like my own dad and many of my uncles. That dedication to the greater good, to the betterment of society, which ran through his family, is a beautiful family legacy that Greg continues today.

I am deeply grateful—I am deeply grateful—for his sage counsel and know that he will continue to make this world a better place as he returns to teach at the University of Oregon.

And so, in closing, I say to Greg something that we like to say in the Navy when people do extraordinary things with their lives. We say: Bravo Zulu, Bravo Zulu. So, Greg, to you and your family, Bravo Zulu.

Thank you, my friend. I bid you fair winds and following seas as you prepare to set off on the next set of adventures that lie ahead. And I know that many Members of Congress, along with their staffs, both past and present, join me in this salute.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. LUJÁN). The clerk will call the roll.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT AGREEMENT—H.R. 7900

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that upon the conclusion of morning business on Tuesday, October 11, the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of Calendar No. 467, H.R. 7900.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SCHUMER. Now, Mr. President, for the information of all Senators, the next rollcall vote will be on Tuesday, November 14, at 5:30 p.m.

While we have accomplished a great deal so far, more than any Congress in recent memory—and we all should be proud of what we have accomplished—we still have much to do and many important bills to consider. Proceeding to the NDAA will save us valuable time, enabling us to get more done. But Members should be prepared for an extremely—underline “extremely”—busy agenda in the last 2 months of this Congress.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, when I made the announcement for the information of Senators, I said we will return—the next vote, rollcall vote, will be on November 14 at 5:30 p.m. That is correct, but that is a Monday, not a Tuesday.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

AMENDING THE HARMONIZED TARIFF SCHEDULE OF THE UNITED STATES TO SUSPEND TEMPORARILY RATES OF DUTY ON IMPORTS OF CERTAIN INFANT FORMULA BASE POWDER USED IN THE MANUFACTURING OF INFANT FORMULA IN THE UNITED STATES

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, as if in legislative session, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate execute the order with respect to H.R. 8982.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Under the previous order, H.R. 8982, having been received from the House and the text of the bill being identical to the text of the introduced bill, the bill is considered read a third time.

The bill was ordered to a third reading and was read the third time.

The bill having been read the third time, the question is, Shall the bill pass?

The bill (H.R. 8982) was passed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the motion to reconsider is considered made and laid upon the table.

TRIBUTE TO JACQLYN SCHNEIDER

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to my longtime staff member Jacqlyn Schneider.

After more than 11 years by my side in the Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry Committee, Jacqlyn is starting a new chapter in her professional career. I have absolutely no doubt that she will excel in everything that she does because that is the kind of person Jacqlyn is.

In 2011, when I first became chairwoman of the Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry Committee, Jacqlyn joined my team as a senior professional staff member, and I was so lucky that she did.

She had been working for a Congressman from California, but she was from Michigan, and so it was great to get this Michigan native working for our State again. And it was great to have a fellow redhead on the Agriculture Committee. She quickly became a crucial part of my team.

One of the first things you learn about Jacqlyn is that she is tough. You definitely don't want her to be on the opposite side of the negotiating table from you, and I am really lucky she was on my side of the table.

I will challenge you to find anyone who better understands agricultural issues, the breadth of agricultural issues, but, in particular, nutrition.

Jacqlyn is a relentless advocate—a relentless advocate—for nutrition policies that benefit children, seniors, families. She played a huge role in our passing the 2014 Farm Bill and the 2018 Farm Bill, which has, frankly, led to many successes now, even in implementing those provisions that President Biden has done. Many of those we celebrated yesterday at a White House conference on hunger, nutrition, and health.

She is not just technically knowledgeable, she is also unflappable and politically savvy. America's ag producers and American families have benefited enormously from her dedication and her hard work.

Some of the fondest memories I have of Jacqlyn are from our 2014 trip to Africa. It was women members of the Agriculture Committee and a number of other women Senators—the first, and I think maybe to this day, the only all-women Senators codel that has been done in the U.S. Senate.

Over the course of 10 days, we visited five countries on two continents. Many of our stops were in very rural areas, where we met with women farmers. It was very inspiring.

The codel focused on food security, global hunger, empowering women and girls, as well as agricultural trade. Given her deep knowledge of and passion for these issues, Jacqlyn was an amazing resource for our Senate delegation.

Jacqlyn, thank you so much for your dedication and years of hard work on behalf of American agriculture and American families, and—I have to say—particularly on behalf of Michigan. I am going to miss you as part of the team, and I wish you incredible success and happiness in your new venture.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate proceed to legislative session and be in a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

REMEMBERING JOHN ROWE

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I want to take a moment to remember a visionary business and civic leader who passed away on Saturday. John Rowe once said “there are two ways to become a CEO: Succeed your boss—or find a company that’s in a lot of trouble.”

John—never afraid of a challenge—took the harder of those two routes. He came to Chicago in 1998, arriving as CEO of Unicom Corporation, owner of Commonwealth Edison. Com Ed was in sorry shape back then. Things got so bad that the city was considering a move to buy its own electrical system. Over the next 14 years, John transformed Unicom into Exelon, the largest electric parent company America.

He was a Republican who believed in the science behind climate change and staked his company’s future on his belief that money could be made through “clean, reliable and affordable energy.” He was among the first CEOs in the industry to focus on climate change, first testifying before Congress on the potential effects of carbon emissions in 1992. Under his leadership, Exelon became the first utility to join the U.S. Climate Action Partnership, a group of businesses advocating for Federal legislation that required significant reductions of greenhouse gas emissions.

He believed that truly successful leaders should be active beyond their businesses. So he invested his time and personal wealth back into the community. Along with his wife Jeanne and their son Bill, he established the Rowe Family Charitable Trust. He and Jeanne also cofounded two public charter schools in Chicago—and visited them frequently. He worked with universities, especially the University of Wisconsin, his alma mater, and supported museums, including the Chicago History Museum and the Illinois Holocaust Museum.

I especially admired John for his strong support of Dreamers and immigrants. He was conservative, but he was mystified by the opposition of many of his fellow conservatives to creating a pathway to citizenship for immigrants. “When did it become conservative to say people can’t work and can’t pay taxes?” he asked.

He cofounded the American Business Immigration Council, a coalition of business leaders supporting comprehensive immigration reform. He said that creating a pathway to citizenship for immigrants who want to work and contribute to this country: “economically important, politically smart, and morally right.”

When he mentored young immigrants, he found it difficult to explain why they should go to college in a country where they will not be able to work legally. So he supported the Dream Act. He also supported DACA, the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program that has granted work permits and protection from deportation to more than 800,000 immigrants brought to the U.S. as children.

In a speech he gave shortly after he stepped down as Exelon’s CEO in 2012, John said there are just a few attributes of successful leadership, among them were an unflagging commitment to continuous learning, an ability to act despite uncertainty, and “leading somewhere worth going.”

From helping to show the way to a future of cleaner American energy, to fixing our immigration system so that it supports our economy and honors our heritage, John Rowe spent his life leading. He was a visionary leader, and I am proud to have called him a friend.

Loretta and I send our deepest condolences to John's wife Jeanne, their son Bill, and to the countless people whose lives he made better. He will be missed.

REMEMBERING JOHN B. GAINES

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, the Kentucky Journalism Hall of Fame recently announced its 42nd class of inductees, adding eight new members to a list of distinguished journalists, including Pulitzer Prize winners and broadcasters who have become household names. John B. Gaines, the former publisher of the Bowling Green Daily News, was one of this year's posthumous additions. Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring John's induction into the Hall of Fame and remembering the deep mark he left on Kentucky print journalism.

John and I met through his role on the Bowling Green Daily News editorial board, where he helped craft opinion pieces that shaped the political outlook of generations of Kentuckians. During my earliest runs for statewide office, I knew how important it was for me to meet with John and his team of writers. Luckily, John and I tended to agree on most issues and became fast friends.

John was a member of the Gaines family, one of Bowling Green's most prominent and, until this year, the owners of the Daily News for five generations. He understood the deep importance of his family to Bowling Green's civic life, leveraging his role at the Daily News to bring public attention to critical local issues and fostering homegrown journalistic talent as President of the Kentucky Press Association. He was also a fierce advocate for government transparency and helped open the halls of Kentucky government more widely to reporters and, by extension, to everyday Kentuckians.

To honor John Gaines' induction into the Journalism Hall of Fame, his son Pipes Gaines delivered remarks at a reception in Lexington, KY. Pipes remembered his father's "love of facts" and his pursuit of them "without fear or favor." I remember John's love for facts, as well, and his earnest belief that unvarnished, unbiased coverage of political issues would always illuminate Kentucky's government better than slanted reporting.

I thank John and the entire Gaines family for their stewardship of one of the Commonwealth's finest newspapers and for their service to their Bowling Green readers. Even more than a decade after John's passing, his legacy continues to reverberate around the Commonwealth.

The Bowling Green Daily News paid tribute to John Gaines' induction into the Kentucky Journalism Hall of Fame in a recent article. I ask unanimous consent that the article be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Bowling Green Daily News, September 25, 2022]

"THE LATE JOHN B. GAINES, 7 OTHERS INDUCTED INTO JOURNALISM HALL OF FAME"

John B. Gaines, longtime publisher of the Bowling Green Daily News, was posthumously inducted into the Kentucky Journalism hall of fame Thursday evening in Lexington.

At a reception honoring the eight inductees of the 42nd Hall of Fame class, Pipes Gaines spoke of his father's commitment to journalism, specifically of the Daily News' duty to the community it served. "One characteristic which I believe made him an outstanding journalist was his love of facts—printed facts in particular," Gaines said. "He expected the newsroom to pursue the facts and report them accurately without fear or favor. This kind of journalism was not always popular with people or groups with power and influence."

Along with the late John B. Gaines, the Hall of Fame Class of 2022 includes J. Scott Applewhite of The Associated Press, Jerry Brewer of The Washington Post, the late Melissa Forsythe of WHAS-TV, the late Bill Mardis of the Somerset Commonwealth Journal, Mark Maynard of Kentucky Today, writing coach and retired editor Stuart Warner and Deborah Yetter of The Courier-Journal.

The reception was held in the Gatton Student Center's Grand Ballroom on the University of Kentucky campus. The Kentucky Journalism Hall of Fame, founded by the UK Journalism Alumni Association in 1981, honors journalists who are Kentucky natives or have spent a significant portion of their careers working for Kentucky news media organizations.

The late John B. Gaines, who died in 2007 at age 92, spent six decades at the helm of the Daily News. He was influential in the community, writing editorials in support of a countywide library tax, creation of an airport and the banning of prohibition in Bowling Green in 1958. It was later repealed in 1960.

The elder Gaines was "extremely passionate about transparency in government and a local champion of open meetings and open records," according to his son.

John B. Gaines was active in Kentucky journalism through his leadership as a board member and later president of the Kentucky Press Association. He served two terms on the board of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, which merged with the Inland Press Association in 2019, to create a new association—America's Newspapers.

He also supported young, aspiring reporters through a scholarship fund for journalists at Western Kentucky University and was instrumental in establishing the Gaines Family Lecture Series that highlights speakers that have achieved distinction in journalism.

The professionalism and integrity of John B. Gaines was also appreciated by one of Bowling Green's longest-serving politicians.

In an earlier story about John B. Gaines published in the Daily News written by Don Sergeant, Jody Richards, who spent 43 years representing the Bowling Green area in the Kentucky General Assembly, called John B. Gaines "an excellent newspaperman and tremendous businessman."

"The thing I remember about him is that he fought hard for freedom of the press and the people's right to know," said Richards, a former journalism instructor at Western Kentucky University. "That's an issue that people always have to fight for."

TRIBUTE TO DAVE "BUZZ" BAKER

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, the Kentucky Broadcasters Association, the Commonwealth's premier representative for our State's public and commercial radio and television stations, recently announced their 2022 Hall of Fame inductees. My good friend Dave "Buzz" Baker, WKYT's sports anchor, is one of those honored this year and joined the ranks of some of Kentucky's finest broadcast journalists. Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring Dave for his service to our State and congratulating him on achieving this high honor.

Dave came to Kentucky in 1978 to attend school at Georgetown College and, after joining WKYT after graduating, has since called the Bluegrass State home. He must have realized quickly that, for a career in sports journalism, few places offer such enthusiastic fans or such riveting rivalries. As a Lexington sports reporter, he reserved special focus for the University of Kentucky Wildcats, tracking UK athletics through their highs and lows over four decades of first-rate journalism.

During his time at WKYT, Dave has had the opportunity to report from five Final Four Championships and three National Championships, following UK all across the country to keep fans updated. In March 2008, he found himself on the sidelines of the SEC Men's Basketball Tournament when a tornado hit the Georgia Dome, certainly one of his more harrowing experiences on the job. His broadcasting extends beyond basketball, from UK football, to professional wrestling, including interviews with Randy Savage and Hulk Hogan. He has had quite the memorable career.

Today, as WKYT's sports anchor, he broadcasts to Lexington's sports-hungry audiences twice every weekday. He also hosts UK Sports Networks' "Countdown to Tip-Off Show" on the school's radio network and his own "Sports Buzz" podcast. In short, he is one of the most recognizable faces and voices of UK sports. His four-decade legacy at WKYT is so legendary that he earned a proclamation earlier this year from Lexington's mayor on his 40th anniversary with the station, naming that day Dave “Buzz” Baker Day in the city.

I also applaud Dave’s work outside the television station. Using the trust and affection he has earned from his viewers, he has worked with Kentucky State government leaders to help promote safe, responsible behavior at the Commonwealth’s high schools and colleges.

I thank Dave for his strong reporting on Kentucky athletics and join all of his viewers and listeners in congratulating him on his most recent honor from the Kentucky Broadcasters Association.

TRIBUTE TO C.B. EMBRY

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, my good friend C.B. Embry has worn many hats during his long career in public life: as an elected official for more than 50 years in positions including mayor, county judge-executive, State representative, and State senator; as the proprietor of several businesses in and around Ohio County; as a journalist, published author, and teacher; as a volunteer, political organizer, church leader, and family man. C.B. recently submitted his resignation from the Kentucky State Senate, marking the end of his long career in government. Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring C.B. and thanking him for his lifelong service to Kentucky.

C.B. found a passion for public service at a young age, entering journalism and teaching right after graduating from Western Kentucky University. His love for his home State and his hometown propelled him into elected office quickly, and, in 1970, he became the youngest ever mayor of Beaver Dam in Ohio County. His strong leadership and steadfast conservative credentials soon attracted national attention, and, in 1975, he was named the Outstanding Young Republican in the Nation by future President George H. W. Bush.

He and I entered into Republican politics at similar times, back when much of Kentucky was still blue. As young conservatives, we quickly bonded over our shared love of the Commonwealth and our similar work to help flip the State into the Republican column. Over the decades, our collaboration has only grown, and, because of the work of organizers like C.B., Kentuckians across our State have embraced conservative values.

Not long after C.B. entered the public eye, Ohio County residents recognized his expansive leadership potential, electing him county judge-executive in 1982. In 2002, he was elected to serve as State representative and, in 2014, became State senator. In all, he has been elected to public office a dozen times, proof of the trust and admiration he earned from his neighbors and constituents. He has also worked with various Kentucky Governors, Federal agencies, and statewide organizations to champion policies that improve Kentuckians’ lives.

In his past 8 years in the State senate, C.B. earned recognition as a senior legislator and statesman. His work was expansive in scope, covering issues ranging from agriculture and energy policy to police safety and military affairs. Perhaps his proudest achievement was leading the passage of a so-called “Right to Try” bill that allows medical patients facing debilitating illnesses to try experimental treatments when all other options have been exhausted. State governments all around the country have mimicked his work and passed similar pieces of legislation.

More than anything, C.B. has always prioritized his family, celebrating his 60th anniversary with his wife Wanda this past August. As the father of three, grandfather of four, and great-grandfather of two, he has passed on his legacy of public service and integrity to a blossoming family. In business, church service, and government leadership, his priority has always been to give other Kentuckians the opportunity to build the same success he found in every aspect of his life and career.

When C.B. retired from the State senate, he was the oldest serving member of the body and received recognition from all his colleagues as one of Kentucky’s premier senior statesmen. Congratulations and gratitude poured in from all over the Commonwealth, thanking C.B. for his decades of service to our State. I am proud to add my voice to that chorus of Kentuckians and give my deepest appreciation for his lifelong work on behalf of all citizens of the Commonwealth.

TRIBUTE TO CHUCK MRAZ

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, for more than 30 years, Chuck Mraz served communities in Eastern Kentucky as the “Voice of the Eagles” for Morehead State University athletics at Morehead State Public Radio. During his long career, from which he retired 4 years ago, he earned accolades from around the Commonwealth and region. This year, he received another distinction and was one of several broadcast journalists inducted into the Kentucky Broadcasters Association Hall of Fame. Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in honoring Chuck for his service and congratulating him on achieving this high honor.

Chuck knew he wanted to be a sportscaster from the beginning of his career, noting in an interview that sports had always been a part of his life since he could pick up a bat and a ball. When he joined Morehead State Public Radio in 1986, he relished the opportunity to give commentary during Morehead State games. Even as his role at the radio station expanded, he stayed on as the voice of Eagles athletics and continues to serve as the play-by-play voice of Morehead State football and men’s basketball in his retirement.

I had the opportunity to join Chuck’s program a number of times over the years, enjoying our conversations that ranged from the important policy issues facing Kentuckians to our shared passion for Kentucky sports. His dedication to his career required many early mornings and late nights, but he never wavered from his love for Morehead State sports, staying dedicated to his beloved Eagles throughout his career.

Chuck’s most recent recognition from the Kentucky Broadcasters Association is just one more award in a long list of honors he has received from local, State, and regional press associations. That includes more than 40 Kentucky Associated Press awards, the Eastern Kentucky Leadership Conference Award for Media and Technology, and the Ohio Valley Conference Media Award. Upon his retirement, Chuck also earned tributes and accolades from around Kentucky and the country.

I thank Chuck for his long career with Morehead State and congratulate him on his well-deserved induction into the Kentucky Broadcasters Association Hall of Fame. To all Kentuckians and Morehead State fans, he will always be the “Voice of the Eagles.”

Morehead State paid tribute to Chuck Mraz in a recent article. I ask unanimous consent that the article be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From Morehead State University, Aug. 11, 2022]

“VOICE OF THE EAGLES CHUCK MRAZ SET TO BE INDUCTED INTO KBA HALL OF FAME”

Longtime Morehead State Public Radio news director, and voice of Morehead State football and men’s basketball Chuck Mraz has been chosen by The Kentucky Broadcaster’s Association as a 2022 recipient of the Kentucky Mic award.

The Kentucky Mic is presented to individuals who have made outstanding personal contributions to the broadcasting profession in Kentucky. Since this award is considered to be the highest given by the KBA, recipients are immediately inducted into the KBA Hall of Fame.

Mraz is a 1978 graduate of Southern Illinois University-Carbondale, where he was a reporter with WSIU-FM, WSIU-TV, WIDB Radio, and did two years play by play and color for SIU football and men’s basketball.

Between 1978 to 1986, he held various on air and sales positions at WKRS (Waukegan, Illinois), WHCO (Sparta, Illinois), WKZN (Zion, Illinois) and WXAN (Ava, Illinois).

In 1986, Mraz joined the Morehead State Public Radio news and sports team, spending 23 years as assistant news director and news director and 17 years as host of “The Front Page” talk show. Before retiring from WMKY in 2018, he had trained more than 600 news student interns.

Although he has retired from full time broadcast duties, he remains the play by play voice of MSU football and men’s basketball, a seat he has filled for 35 years. Since 2014, he has been a big part of the KHSAA Girls’ “Sweet 16” radio network.

Prior to receiving the KBA Kentucky Mic Award, he received more than 40 other broadcast awards including “Best Sportscast”,

"Best Newscast" "Best Radio Anchor", and "Best Play by Play" from the Associated Press, the 2016 East Kentucky Leadership Foundation's Media and Technology award and the 2016-17 Ohio Valley Conference Media Award.

In addition to Mraz, the 2022 KBA Hall of Fame class includes WKYT-TV sports anchor Dave Baker and WAVE-TV meteorologist Dave Belski. All of the 2022 Legacy Awards recipients will be celebrated during "An Evening of Broadcast Excellence", Monday September 26th at the KBA's Annual Conference in Owensboro.

20TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ENACTMENT OF THE TIBETAN POLICY ACT OF 2002

Mrs. FEINSTEIN. Mr. President, I rise today to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the enactment of the Tibetan Policy Act, which I was pleased to introduce in the Senate in May 2001, along with 20 bipartisan cosponsors. This critical legislation solidified Congress' commitment to the Tibetan people, and it makes me so proud to know that it continues to shape U.S. policy toward Tibet today.

From its enactment, this law set the foundation for U.S. policy toward Tibet, with the primary goal of preserving the Tibetan way of life. The Tibetan Policy Act makes it official U.S. policy to preserve the Tibetan language, religious freedom, and cultural expression and to press for improved respect for human rights.

The act also addresses the importance of economic development, education, and healthcare for the preservation and prosperity of the Tibetan people. This includes addressing the humanitarian needs of Tibetan refugees and diaspora communities and promoting activities to protect the environment and sustainably manage the water and other natural resources of the Tibetan plateau, which has become even more important now as we deal with extreme heat, flooding, and drought as a result of climate change.

To achieve these objectives, we established in statute the position of Special Coordinator for Tibetan Issues at the State Department, whose primary role is to coordinate U.S. Government policies, programs, and projects concerning Tibet. These include U.S. Government assistance for nongovernmental organizations to work in Tibetan communities in China and programs to support human rights and democracy in Tibet, among others.

The Special Coordinator's central objective, however, is to promote dialogue between the Chinese Government and Tibet's exiled spiritual leader, the Dalai Lama, and his representatives. This is very important to me as I have always believed in the importance of dialogue to improve mutual understanding and respect, especially with those with whom you have the deepest disagreements. It was important to me as mayor of San Francisco, when we developed the first "sister city" relationship with Shanghai in 1980, and it remains important to me today as a U.S. Senator.

However, to my disappointment, dialogue between the Chinese Government and the Dalai Lama's representatives have stalled since 2010. I have encouraged this and prior administrations at every opportunity to open and exercise channels of communication with China, and I likewise call upon the Chinese Government to engage in dialogue with the Dalai Lama, who is unquestionably the cultural and spiritual leader of the Tibetan people.

The Tibetan people remain close to my heart, as they are for so many in California and as they were for my late husband, Richard Blum, who introduced me to Tibet and felt so passionately about advancing the human rights of Tibetans and preserving their unique heritage.

I am proud of what we accomplished with this legislation, but there is more work to be done. It is imperative for those of us in Congress to continue vigorously supporting the aspirations of the Tibetan people, to safeguard their identity and culture, and to advocate for the importance of dialogue to improve their relations with the Chinese Government. I urge my colleagues to join me in doing so.

NATIONAL HISPANIC HERITAGE MONTH

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, as we celebrate National Hispanic Heritage Month, we join together to acknowledge and express our appreciation for Hispanic communities across America and their innumerable gifts to our diverse Nation. Hispanic individuals have been critical in making this country a more inclusive and pluralistic union. In Maryland, Hispanics are the second-largest minority group, comprising more than 12 percent of our population, according to the 2020 Census. Hispanics in every corner of our State continue to engage in and strengthen our economy, educational and cultural institutions, and government.

National Hispanic Heritage Month, first established in 1968, recognizes these achievements while encouraging the pursuit of new ones. This year, we particularly recognize the sacrifices made by Hispanic educators, essential workers, and healthcare professionals during the height of the COVID-19 pandemic. We also honor those Hispanic veterans who have served in the U.S. Armed Forces and honorably protected the values and ideals that we hold so dear.

While acknowledging Hispanic contributions to American history, culture, and identity, we also pledge to combat xenophobia and ignorance in all its manifestations. We support Hispanics as they seek fair access to equitable healthcare, affordable education and housing, and equal representation and in the private and public sectors. We also renew our commitment to pursuing comprehensive immigration reform and to protecting immigrant populations who call this Nation their home, including Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals—DACA—and Temporary Protected Status—TPS—recipients. As Americans, we all share a responsibility to treat one another with respect, decency, and compassion. Moreover, as we approach the 2022 midterm elections, we must recognize the need to address the disproportionate targeting of Hispanic voters with election-related disinformation.

During the remainder of National Hispanic Heritage Month and throughout the year, let us renew our commitments to a diverse society and mark the unique contributions Hispanics have made in every area of American life, culture, and history. Let us continually celebrate these achievements with appreciation and joy.

EMERGENCY NURSES WEEK

Mr. MERKLEY. Mr. President, on behalf of myself and Mr. WICKER, I rise today to celebrate Emergency Nurses Week and all of the nurses throughout the country and around the world working day in and day out on the front lines to care for those in need.

More than 2 years ago now, the unprecedented COVID-19 pandemic turned our emergency rooms into battle zones against the virus virtually overnight, and our nurses fought that battle every single day. They fought it when they were understaffed and didn't have personal protective equipment. They fought it through a rise in violence in their workplaces. They fought it as tireless advocates for their patients, even while risking their own health and the well-being of their own families. And they fought it through exhaustion and burnout. These challenges came on top of an already existing shortage of trained and qualified nurses, a raging opioid epidemic, and a mental health crisis—and now a fentanyl crisis and the monkeypox outbreak.

Our nurses are heroes, and throughout the week of October 9, we will join together to honor and celebrate their heroic work. They deserve all the respect, admiration, and support of a grateful nation—not just for 1 week, but indeed, every day of the year.

HONORING PRIVATE FIRST CLASS MELVIN J. LITTLE BEAR

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, earlier this week, more than 71 years after he was killed in the Korean war, U.S. Army Private First Class Melvin J. Little Bear was returned home to McLaughlin, SD.

In 1951, Private First Class Little Bear, a native of Standing Rock, was a member of A Battery, 15th Field Artillery Battalion, 2nd Infantry Division. On February 13, 1951, he was reported missing in action after his unit was attacked by Chinese communist forces, at which point his unit conducted a 2-day fighting withdrawal from Changbong-ni, South Korea, to Wonju. He was captured and held as a prisoner of war at POW Camp Number 1 in North Korea, where POW reports show he died in captivity later that summer.

In 1954, Private First Class Little Bear's unidentified remains were returned to U.N. command under Operation GLORY. However, because investigators were unable to identify to whom they belonged, his remains were buried at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific in Honolulu, HI, in 1956.

Through the dedication and preservation of the Defense POW/MIA Accounting Agency, the remains of Private First Class Little Bear were finally identified on July 13, 2022, through DNA matching. Seventy-one years after being captured and killed, his remains have finally been returned to his family in McLaughlin, SD, where he will be laid to rest in eternal peace at All Nations Veteran's Cemetery on September 30, 2022.

I consider it an honor to pay tribute to Private First Class Melvin J. Little Bear. May his family and his Oyate find comfort in knowing that his remains will soon be laid to rest and the legacy of his service and sacrifice to our Nation will live on.

375TH ANNIVERSARY OF KITTERY, MAINE

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I rise today to commemorate the 375th anniversary of the incorporation of Kittery, ME. The oldest town in Maine has a history that is as fascinating as it is long. It is a history that exemplifies the determination, resiliency, and courage of my State and our Nation.

For thousands of years the rich fishing grounds where the Piscataqua River meets the sea sustained the Native American tribes. The first European settlers, drawn by the abundant natural resources, arrived in 1623, just 3 years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth. Built on a foundation of forestry and fishing, the growing community was incorporated in 1647. With a protected natural harbor and ample supplies of lumber, Kittery soon became a key Colonial center for seafaring trade and shipbuilding.

Kittery's maritime heritage is inextricably linked to our Nation's independence and its ongoing defense of freedom. During the American Revolution, warships for the fledgling U.S. Navy were built at Kittery, including the Ranger, commanded by John Paul Jones. Kittery is the birthplace of General William Whipple, a ship's captain who was the only Maine native to have signed the Declaration of Independence and was later a hero of the Battle of Saratoga. Kittery also is the hometown of Captain Jeremiah O'Brien, who led American forces to victory at the Battle of the Margarett at Maine's Machias Bay in 1775, the first naval battle of the American Revolution.

The Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, our Nation's oldest continuously operating Navy yard, was established in Kittery in 1800. Its first commander was Commodore Isaac Hull, who achieved fame as captain of the USS Constitution—Old Ironsides—in the War of 1812.

The Portsmouth Naval Shipyard rebuilt Old Ironsides during the Civil War and constructed the USS Kearsarge, celebrated for its role in clearing the seas of Confederate raiders. During World War I, the shipyard took on the new task of constructing submarines, in addition to the overhaul and repair of surface vessels. Over the course of World War II, more than 70 submarines were constructed there, with a record four submarines launched on 1 day. Today, the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, considered the gold standard of our public shipyards, continues its tradition of excellence by maintaining, modernizing, and refueling the Navy's submarine fleet.

The people of Kittery cherish their history and work to preserve its treasures. Some of the earliest homes in New England are found there, lovingly restored and maintained. The First Congregational Church, built in 1730, is the oldest church building in continuous use in Maine. Two historic seaside forts now offer hiking trails, parkland, a museum, and spectacular ocean views.

As the gateway to Maine from New Hampshire and points south, Kittery has much to offer visitors and residents alike. From extensive shopping, excellent restaurants, and a vibrant arts scene to a wealth of outdoor recreation opportunities, there is something for everyone. The wide range of events held during this landmark anniversary year demonstrates the civic pride found throughout the community.

For 375 years, Kittery has grown and prospered for the future while honoring its past. The story of Kittery is an important part of America's story, written by committed citizens working together. I congratulate the people of Kittery for their accomplishments and wish them all the best in the years to come.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

BICENTENNIAL OF MONTGOMERY COUNTY

• Mr. BRAUN. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize the 200th anniversary of the founding of Montgomery County, IN, and the unique contributions that the Montgomery County community has made to the United States.

This December, Montgomery County celebrates the bicentennial of its foundation. Montgomery County is a place one could characterize as quintessentially "Indiana:" the mellow bends of Sugar Creek crossed with covered bridges; the buzzing hometown feel of Crawfordsville; and the ambitious energy of Wabash college—all hallmarks of Indiana that make my State such a wonderful place to live. Over two centuries, this county has steadily grown from a handful of log cabins into a historic community, contributing greatly to American history and culture.

Consider, for instance, Lew Wallace, a highly accomplished citizen who spent much of his life in Crawfordsville. Wallace left his career as a lawyer to fight for the Union in the Civil War, rising to the rank of general. Later, he served as Governor of the territory of New Mexico. After completing his service to the United States and returning to Crawfordsville, Wallace published his highly acclaimed and influential novel, "Ben-Hur: A Tale of the Christ." It soon became the best-selling novel of the 19th century and is still adapted for stage and film today.

Now, I could not commemorate Montgomery County without mentioning its important role in the story of Indiana's favorite sport, basketball. Indeed, according to many historical sources, Montgomery County served as the launch pad for the sport of basketball in Indiana. The first Indiana High School Athletic Association basketball championship was won by Crawfordsville High School in 1911, and the following eight Indiana high school basketball champions were located within thirty miles of Montgomery County. Piggy Lambert, one highly influential basketball coach from Purdue University, played basketball at Crawfordsville High School and Wabash College. Even scenes from the legendary movie "Hoosiers" were filmed in New Richmond, cementing Indiana's relationship with basketball in American culture.

Finally, I want to address Wabash College, my alma mater. The time that I spent at Wabash College impressed upon me the qualities that make Montgomery County not only special, but representative of Indiana. Founded in 1832, on what was then our Nation's western frontier, Wabash College has produced thousands of influential graduates across many fields. As president of the student body at Wabash College, I had plenty of experience to prepare me for my careers in business and public service.

In closing, I am delighted to honor Montgomery County, and I want to congratulate the communities of Montgomery County for 200 years of meaningful contributions to American history and culture. Thank you.●

REMEMBERING MYLAN HAWKINS

• Ms. CORTEZ MASTO. Mr. President, today I recognize Mylan Barin Hawkins, who passed away on August 26, 2022. Mylan devoted her life to serving others and made invaluable contributions to the State of Nevada. She was a dedicated political and social activist who fought to advance women's rights and advocated for healthcare for women and children.

Mylan was born in Chicago, IL, and attended the University of Chicago. Mylan was involved in Chicago Ward Boss politics before moving to Florida, where she founded Project Survival after giving birth to a premature son. Project Survival helped build a neonatal center at the University of Miami Jackson Memorial Hospital. Mylan was driven by her passion to work on women's and children's healthcare. She served on nonprofits and advocacy campaigns wherever she went. She helped raise funds for the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia and for the Sloan Kettering Memorial Hospital in New York.

In 1976, Mylan settled in Reno, NV, and immediately set to work to advance women's rights in the State. Mylan joined the National Organization for Women in their mission to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment. Along the way, Mylan helped pass ground-breaking legislation and ballot initiatives in the State. Mylan also co-founded the Nevada and California Diabetes Association, an organization focused on providing local services including camps, teen, family and adult support programs, and emergency medical information and referral services.

In the late 1980s, Mylan and her colleagues realized the dangers ahead for reproductive freedom. They worked tirelessly to draft a State ballot referendum protecting Nevada women's reproductive rights, which passed in 1990. Mylan continued to advocate for women's rights and was in her late 70s when she launched the 2016 Women's March in Reno, gathering thousands of supporters. Mylan also helped found Northern Nevada Marches Forward, an inclusive volunteer led nonprofit with a mission to support, spotlight, and uplift the voices and power of diverse people and communities to create transformative social change.

Mylan's tenacity and courage are a testament to the grit and spirit of Nevada women, and her legacy lives on in the countless women and activists she has inspired and mentored across the State. Her service and dedication to her country, community, and her family will not be forgotten.●

RECOGNIZING THE NEVADA TAXPAYERS ASSOCIATION

• Ms. CORTEZ MASTO. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize the 100th anniversary of the Nevada Taxpayers Association.

In 1922, Nevadans started the organization that would become the Nevada Taxpayers Association, NTA. From its first office located in the Reno National Bank Building, the small organization has continued to work on behalf of Nevada taxpayers. It is now one of the oldest governmental research and advocacy associations, not only in Nevada but in the United States.

Today, the NTA is a renowned tax policy and analysis organization, providing valuable service to the citizens of the Silver State. NTA advocates on behalf of Nevada's working families for policies that promote efficiency, accountability and common sense. NTA ensures State and local lawmakers have the data and expert analysis to craft fair tax policy, including by providing the public with "Tax Facts," a digest of tax history dating back nearly 50 years.

NTA had the foresight to advocate with the Nevada Legislature to establish a rainy day fund to insulate the State budget from dramatic swings that sometimes resulted in tough choices and devastating cuts to critical services such as education and healthcare. There are many examples of NTA raising difficult issues that required legislators across the aisle to work together. From helping establish the Nevada Gaming Law in the 1930s, to developing a "computers for schools program" for Nevada's public school system, the association has played an active role in fiscal policy analysis and research that has strengthened our State for the benefit of every Nevadan.

Congratulations to the Nevada Taxpayers Association on its 100th anniversary and for supporting good government in Nevada. I look forward to its continued success.●

RECOGNIZING BORICUACTIVATED

● Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, democracy is a precious concept, serving as the foundation of our freedoms, which we must not take for granted. Democracy's success is dependent on the active participation of our communities—people of all different backgrounds and beliefs.

I am proud to recognize an organization that inspires members of our diverse communities to take an active role in our democratic process, BoricuActivatEd.

Five years ago, BoricuActivatEd was created amid a crisis: the aftermath of Hurricanes Irma and Maria's destruction of Puerto Rico. In a matter of days, the island was on the brink of total disaster, and the former administration that held the keys to alleviating the suffering dragged their heels and closed their eyes.

Like many within the Puerto Rican diaspora that watched the U.S. Government's response in disbelief, a group of former congressional staffers—led by Jennice Fuentes—knew action had to be taken and mobilized. Much remains to be done as Puerto Rico continues to rebuild and recover, especially now after Hurricane Fiona, but it is undeniable that BoricuActivatEd has had an outsized impact in bringing attention to the island's crisis.

BoricuActivatEd operates on the idea that each individual should decide and advocate on the issues that resonate most with them. And that is the ingenuity of this organization, keeping true to its commitment to promoting participatory democracy.

BoricuActivatEd gives individuals across the country the tools they need to stand up and speak out, teaching them the value of civic engagement and the techniques needed to succeed.

They believe that it is never too early to teach people no matter who they are or where they were born that they, too, can play a role in shaping our country. I am especially proud that, when BoricuActivatEd introduced a school-based curriculum on participatory democracy, they chose the students of Camden, NJ, as their first student participants.

It is undeniable that learning best practices in civic engagement is valuable to people of all ages and backgrounds. But we, as the elected representatives of the United States, stand to gain as we navigate our roles as public servants, guided by the priorities of our civically engaged constituents.

I extend my congratulations to BoricuActivatEd for 5 impactful years, showing us that their success is a success for our Nation, and I cannot wait to see all they accomplish in the years ahead.●

RECOGNIZING UNICO NATIONAL

● Mr. MURPHY. Mr. President, I rise today to honor the 100th anniversary of UNICO National, founded in Waterbury, CT, by Dr. Anthony P. Vastola and 15 other proud Italian-Americans. UNICO began as a small service organization, helping people in the greater Waterbury area gain access to higher education through scholarships, promoting Italian heritage, and contributing to charities throughout the State.

In the century since its inception, UNICO has grown into the largest Italian-American service organization in the United States. UNICO started as a way to combat anti-Italian prejudice and discrimination, showing non-Italian Americans that their culture was founded in philanthropy, civic engagement, and charity. As our Nation's Italian-American population grew, so, too, did the membership of UNICO and its spirit of generosity.

While UNICO was founded in Connecticut, its reach stretches far past our State's borders. When an earthquake ravaged parts of Italy, UNICO members raised thousands of dollars to build shelters for those affected. After the attacks on September 11, 2001, UNICO once again rose to the occasion by supporting victims' relief funds and restaurants around Ground Zero. By funding research to help find cures for diseases like Cooley's anemia and cancer and giving to institutions like the University of Connecticut and Seton Hall University, UNICO ensures that future generation will also benefit from its members' selflessness. The endowed chairs of modern Italian history and Italian studies at these schools, help teach students about Italian heritage, and work to advance UNICO's mission of eliminating discrimination.

The impact this organization has had on communities is immeasurable. For 100 years, UNICO has been a model of service towards others. I am proud and grateful for its work and its deep roots in Waterbury. I can't wait to see what more the members of UNICO accomplish as they continue their pursuit to make our world a better place.●

TRIBUTE TO JAIME JARRÍN

● Mr. PADILLA. Mr. President, I submit the following statement to the record in recognition of the lifelong career of Jaime Jarrin, the voice of the Los Angeles Dodgers en español for over half a century.

A native of Ecuador, Jaime moved to Los Angeles in 1955 at the age of 19 and worked as a news and sports director for KWKW, a Spanish language radio station that is now the Spanish radio home for the Los Angeles Dodgers. Soon after, in 1959, Jarrin called his first Dodger game, launching what would become an over six-decade career with the Dodgers that would make him the longest tenured announcer in Major League Baseball, second only to the legendary Vin Scully, and earning him the respect of generations of Angelenos whose fandom will forever be measured by Jarrin's play-by-play and home run calls, "Se va, se va, se va, y despídala con un beso. Se fue de cuadrangular!"

Among his long list of accomplishments from a lifetime in baseball, some of his most impressive include his streak of nearly 4,000 consecutive games called between 1962–84—spanning 22 seasons without missing a single game. And they include any number of games he has called that read like headlines straight from baseball's history books: he has called three perfect games—Sandy Koufax in 1965, Tom Browning in 1988, and Dennis Martinez in 1991—as well as 22 no-hitters, 30 World Series, and 30 All-Star Games.

In 1998, he was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, NY, as the recipient of the Ford C. Frick Award for "major contributions to baseball," becoming only the second Spanish-language announcer to achieve the honor.

And during "Fernandomania," the young Dodger pitcher Fernando Valenzuela's rise to become the first and only player to win both the Cy Young and Rookie of the Year awards in one season, Jarrin was there side-by-side, introducing Valenzuela to Los Angeles and to the world. "Fernandomania" also helped introduce Jarrin to an English-speaking audience—not only in Los Angeles, but across the country—helping bridge communities through a shared love of the game.

Through years of hard work, dedication, and passion for the game he loves, Jarrin will have gone on to call games for 64 years in the booth after he retires at the end of this season. Five of those years were alongside his son, Jorge Jarrin, forming the first father-son duo to broadcast baseball on MLB Spanish-language radio. Jaime truly brought Dodger stadium to life inside the homes of Californians each and every night. He has become a legend in his own right, and the entire baseball community will miss his voice once he retires this year.

Outside of baseball, it was clear that Jaime was listening to the community that supported him. With the love and support of his late wife Blanca Jarrin—who is survived by Jaime's sons Jorge and Mauricio, three sisters, and three grandchildren—they launched the Jaime and Blanca Jarrin Foundation committed to serving and supporting educational and athletic programs in the Los Angeles area.

On behalf of the greater Los Angeles metropolitan area and the worldwide baseball community that listened to Jaime's voice for decades: thank you Jaime, "y gracias," for your lifetime service to the Dodgers and to the beautiful game of "beisbol."●

RECOGNIZING TODD CASE TRUCKING

• Mr. PAUL. Mr. President, as ranking member of the Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship, each week I recognize an outstanding Kentucky small business that exemplifies the American entrepreneurial spirit. This week, it is my privilege to recognize Todd Case Trucking of Louisa, KY, as the Senate Small Business of the Week.

Todd Case, owner of Todd Case Trucking, is the classic definition of a self-made man. Though he now owns a fleet of around 30 trucks, in addition to other business ventures, his trucking business bares his own name in reflection of how the company began: a time when Todd Case served as his own boss and was the company's sole employee. He got his start in the trucking business earlier than most when he bought his first truck at 17. That was back in the early 1980s when, like many men in the region, Mr. Case was working for the owner of a coal mine. Mr. Case had already saved up several hundred dollars from his work cutting weeds when he overheard the owner of the mine talk about his plans to sell the truck he had been using to haul coal. When Mr. Case first approached his employer about buying the truck, the owner of the mine said no, insisting that Mr. Case instead attend college. With great ingenuity Mr. Case replied that buying the truck would allow him to attend college, as it would give him a means to not only pay for his tuition but give him some income to subsidize on while in school. Won over by his entrepreneurial argument, the owner agreed to sell his truck to Mr. Case and accepted his down payment of $1,800.

Shortly thereafter, Mr. Case found himself attending the University of Kentucky, driving the rig on Tuesday and Thursday nights while he pursued his degree in accounting and finance. Throughout his college career, Mr. Case was no spendthrift, saving what money he could from his trucking work while putting himself through college. By his sophomore year, Mr. Case had saved enough money to convince a local bank to lend him the funds he needed to buy a second truck. This acquisition which took place during his sophomore year proved to be the first step on a long and industrious path of growth in his business.

Today, Mr. Case's fleet of trucks services Kentucky, West Virginia, and Virginia, bringing much-needed goods to the tri-State area. Moreover, Todd Case Trucking plays a vital role in the local economy as Kentucky, once famous for its burgeoning coal industry, now looks towards other economic opportunities to employ the citizens of the Commonwealth. Mr. Case, originally hailing from Pikeville, understands the need to provide Kentuckians with more diverse work opportunities, and that is why his Louisa-based business employs all its drivers exclusively from the Bluegrass State.

Though Mr. Case has since expanded his business portfolio by owning several other businesses in addition to his venture in the trucking industry, he maintains a watchful eye over Todd Case Trucking. Always keeping his community in mind, Todd Case Trucking partners with the local chapter of Masons to host an annual event called "Fishing For Kids." This fishing competition welcomes children of all ages and provides close to 300 toys to all participants, many of those toys being bicycles and fishing rods. As an active member of the local chapter of the Masons, Mr. Case also lends a generous hand to all the local high school football and baseball teams when they are in need of additional funding. Moreover, Mr. Case currently sits on the board of trustees of University of Kentucky, and he works to ensure all students have the same bountiful opportunities that his alma mater provided him.

Todd Case Trucking bares a similar history to many other businesses in Kentucky and the Appalachia region; when the bounty provided by coal came and went, this business grew out of the remains and blossomed into a successful venture and fountain of opportunity for the local community. Mr. Case has long had a determined nature and knack for ingenuity, which is why he first became an entrepreneur as a high school student. In the decades since, Mr. Case has grown into a successful businessman and a great steward of his community. Congratulations to Todd Case and the entire team at Todd Case Trucking. I look forward to seeing your continued growth and success in Kentucky.●

By Mr. DURBIN (for himself, Mr. COONS, Mr. BOOKER, Mr. LEAHY, Mr. SCHATZ, Mr. MURPHY, and Ms. WARREN):

S. 5038. A bill to reform the use of solitary confinement and other forms of restrictive housing in the Bureau of Prisons, and for other purposes; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, last month, Attorney General Garland made one of his most important decisions yet as head of the Justice Department: He appointed a new Director to the Federal Bureau of Prisons.

Now, why is that a big deal? Because for years, the Bureau of Prisons—which is charged with care of more than 140,000 adults in custody—has been plagued by corruption, chronic mismanagement, and misconduct reaching all the way to the top of the Agency. Under the former Director—Michael Carvajal—the Bureau of Prisons turned a blind eye to numerous allegations of sexual abuse, criminal conduct, and even torture and murder. Time and again, former Director Carvajal refused to hold his own employees accountable, and he repeatedly failed to implement much-needed reforms to our Federal prison system. These failures not only jeopardized the lives of adults being held in Federal custody—but also the lives of the nearly 35,000 Americans who work in BOP facilities every day.

Fortunately, as of last month, the Bureau finally has a chance at a fresh start. Earlier today, the Judiciary Committee welcomed the Bureau's newly appointed Director, Colette Peters, who testified about her vision for America's Federal prison system. And based on her testimony, I am hopeful that her leadership will mark a critical turning point for the Bureau of Prisons. Director Peters shares my belief that the top priority for the Bureau can be summed up in one word: reform.

She is a reform-minded leader who is committed to clearing out the bureaucratic rot that has festered for far too long. And unlike her predecessor, Director Peters has not spent her career climbing the rungs within the Bureau's bureaucracy. She has been putting in the work of building a better justice system in her home State of Oregon.

Over the past decade, Director Peters served as the head of Oregon's Department of Corrections. In this role, she pioneered a new model for the State's correctional system—one that, I hope, she will bring to the Bureau of Prisons—she calls it “The Oregon Way.” The Oregon Way is centered around “prioritizing employee health and well-being by normalizing the correctional environment and, in turn, improving the outcomes for incarcerated people.”

Director Peters was inspired to develop this model after she traveled to Norway, where she visited six of the country's prisons. She saw for herself how a rehabilitation-focused prison system can help prepare incarcerated people for successful reentry into society—and ultimately reduce recidivism rates.

And as director of Oregon's Department of Corrections, she implemented some promising reforms to the State's prisons, like dismantling death row and rearranging housing areas to prevent correctional officers from spending long shifts alone.

Director Peters' vision for a rehabilitative, humane correctional system is exactly what the Bureau of Prisons needs at this moment. But let's also be clear: The grave, systemic problems within the Agency won't end with the appointment of a new Director.

This challenge is far too complex for any one person to solve—no matter how noble their intentions may be. And as chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee, I give the American people my word: We will be watching the Bureau like a hawk. Our oversight role has never been more important.

That is why yesterday—in anticipation of her appearance before the Judiciary Committee—Representative DAVID TRONE and I led a number of our colleagues in sending Director Peters a letter.

In it, we urged her to take immediate action in reducing the use of restrictive housing, also known as solitary confinement. It should be one of the first steps she takes as Director. Appallingly, the Bureau of Prisons has made a habit of throwing prisoners into solitary confinement, an almost medieval practice that should be, in the words of the Justice Department, “used rarely, applied fairly, and subjected to reasonable constraints.”

But former Director Carvajal repeatedly ignored that recommendation, and right now, on any given day, more than 10,000 people within BOP—nearly 8 percent of the entire Federal prison population—are being held in some form of solitary confinement. That is inhumane—and unconscionable.

Ten years ago, I chaired the first-ever congressional hearing on solitary confinement. One of the witnesses was an exonerated formerly incarcerated person named Anthony Graves. He was wrongfully convicted for a murder he did not commit. During his time in prison, Mr. Graves—an innocent man—spent 16 years in solitary confinement. Imagine that: being held in isolation, in a cage the fraction of the size of this Senate floor, for 16 years.

Mr. Graves told the members of the committee, “Solitary confinement does one thing, it breaks a man's will to live. . . . I have been free for almost two years and I still cry at night, because no one out here can relate to what I have gone through.” “I battle with feelings of loneliness. I've tried therapy but it didn't work.”

I know that Director Peters understands that solitary confinement can cause severe mental anguish for adults in custody. As director of the Oregon Department of Corrections, she made important progress in reducing the use of restrictive housing in facilities across the State. I trust that she will work to do the same at BOP.

After that 2012 hearing, the Obama administration took some encouraging steps to reform and reduce the use of restricted housing in the Federal prison system. Unfortunately, under the Trump administration, that progress stalled, and the rate of individuals in solitary confinement steadily increased. The Biden administration has committed to addressing this, and Director Peters made clear today that it will be one of her priorities.

But it is also the responsibility of lawmakers in Congress to improve our Nation's laws regarding the use of solitary confinement and ensure that a change in administrations will never again lead to an increase in this harmful practice.

Today, I am reintroducing a piece of legislation—with my friend and fellow committee member CHRIS COONS—that does just that: the Solitary Confinement Reform Act. We first introduced this bill back in 2016, and we have reintroduced it in every Congress since. That is how important it is. It will require the Bureau of Prisons to limit the use of solitary to the briefest terms—under the least restrictive conditions possible. And it will improve access to mental health care services for individuals who have been held in solitary.

As we turn a new page at the Bureau of Prisons with Director Peters, I can think of no better way to begin reforming the agency than by passing the Solitary Confinement Reform Act. Let's finally build a justice system that actually rehabilitates adults in custody and prepares them for successful re-entry into society.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 5038

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

“(ii) to a duration of not more than 30 consecutive days, and not more than 40 days in a 60-day period, unless a multidisciplinary staff committee, in consultation with the disciplinary hearing officer who presided over the inmate's disciplinary hearing, determines that the significant and serious disciplinary infraction of which the inmate was found guilty is of such an egregious and violent nature that a longer sanction is appropriate and approves a longer sanction, which—

“(I) may be not more than 60 days in a special housing unit if the inmate has never before been found guilty of a similar significant and serious disciplinary infraction; or

“(II) may be not more than 90 days in a special housing unit if the inmate has previously been found guilty of a similar significant and serious disciplinary infraction;

By Mr. PADILLA (for himself, Mr. DURBIN, Mr. BOOKER, Mr. SANDERS, Ms. WARREN, Mr. MARKEY, Mr. BLUMENTHAL, Mr. BROWN, and Mrs. FEINSTEIN):

S. 5055. A bill to provide benefits for noncitizen members of the Armed Forces, and for other purposes; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. PADILLA. Mr. President, I rise to introduce the Veteran Service Recognition Act of 2022.

This legislation would ensure that noncitizen service members have access to the information and resources they need to apply for citizenship in the United States and avoid deportation from the country they have promised to protect and fight for.

The Veteran Service Recognition Act of 2022 would implement important changes to ensure that servicemembers as well as their spouses and children are not removed from the United States after leaving the military because they were never provided support and resources to help them adjust their status.

Specifically, this bill would require the Department of Homeland Security and the Department of Defense to create a program to help ensure that servicemembers and their families have a pathway to naturalization. The program would also include training for JAG officers and recruiter training on the naturalization process for servicemembers.

The bill would also create a Military Family Immigration Advisory Committee that would provide recommendations to DHS on whether a noncitizen who has served in the military or their family members should be granted a stay of removal, deferred action, parole, or be removed from the country.

Finally, the bill would require DHS to establish a program that allows removed veterans and their family members to be admitted back into the United States as lawful permanent residents and directs DOJ to reopen their removal cases.

Our noncitizen servicemembers have risked their lives in service to our country. For over a century, the United States has recognized the contributions that noncitizens make in the military. They deserve a clear path to citizenship for themselves and their spouses and children.

Over the past several years, programs to help facilitate these processes have diminished, and this lack of support from Federal Agencies has made it more difficult for noncitizen servicemembers to become U.S. citizens. Veterans who are unable to naturalize are at risk of deportation if they commit certain crimes and are forced to leave the country they promised to defend. Many believe that they are citizens already due to their service and are shocked to learn years later that they are not.

It is imperative that we work to protect our noncitizen veterans from deportation and that we bring back those veterans who were removed from the United States. These veterans have shown nothing but loyalty to the United States, and they deserve to stay here, receive their benefits, and live fulfilling lives alongside their family members.

By Mr. REED:

S. 5064. A bill to ensure that children in schools have a right to read, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, literacy opens the door for lifelong opportunity and economic success. But in the aftermath of the COVID-19 pandemic, we have a lot of work to do to help kids catch up. The National Assessment of Education Progress results show the terrible toll the pandemic has taken on students' literacy skills. Reading scores for 9-year-olds, dropped by five points, the steepest decline since 1990. We need urgent action to ensure that all children have the means and the right to read. That is why I am pleased to join Congressman RAÚL GRIJALVA in introducing the Right to Read Act.

The Right to Read Act will require States and school districts to have policies protecting the right to read, which includes access to evidence-based reading instruction, access to effective school libraries, access to developmentally and linguistically appropriate materials, reading materials at home, family literacy support, and the freedom to choose reading materials.

The Right to Read Act will ensure that low-income, minority children, English learners, and students with disabilities are not disproportionately enrolled in schools that lack effective school libraries. This is a matter of equity. Data shows that school libraries make a big difference in giving kids the skills and inspiration to become proficient and enthusiastic readers. Students who utilize school libraries have 73 percent higher literacy rates than students who do not, and the positive impact of effective school libraries is highest for marginalized groups, including students experiencing poverty, students of color, and students with disabilities. But not every student has access to library services. The U.S. Department of Education reports that 2.5 million students are enrolled in districts where there are no school libraries. An estimated 1 out of 10 schools in America does not have a school library, and 30 percent of U.S. public schools do not have full time librarians. Students experiencing the highest levels of poverty are 30 percent more likely to attend a school without a school library. And while school libraries are most effective when they offer resources that resonate, engage, and empower students and that align with their first amendment rights, 32 States have enacted bans on books that disproportionately limit access to titles with LGBTQ+ characters and characters of color.

The Right to Read Act will address the disparities in access to school library resources. It supports the development of effective school libraries, including the recruitment, retention, and professional development of State-certified school librarians. It will also increase the Federal investment in literacy by reauthorizing Comprehensive Literacy State Development Grants at $500 million and the Innovative Approaches to Literacy program at $100 million, targeting critical literacy resources in high need communities. Critically, the bill protects access to quality reading materials and provides the resources needed to create a foundation for learning and student success.

In developing this legislation, Congressman GRIJALVA and I worked closely with the library community, including the American Library Association and the American Association of School Librarians. These are the experts in helping kids become lifelong readers and learners. I appreciate their insight and assistance on this bill, and I urge my colleagues to join us in cosponsoring this legislation to ensure that all students have a right to read.

By Mr. REED (for himself, Ms. WARREN, and Mr. DURBIN):

S. 5065. A bill to provide for institutional risk-sharing in the Federal student loan programs; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, we all recognize that a postsecondary education is often the key to a family-sustaining, middle-class job. We also know that an educated workforce is essential to a modern, productive economy. However, our system that relies on student loan debt to finance that education is broken. At the end of fiscal year 2021, over 43 million Americans owed more than $1.6 trillion in Federal student loan debt.

The pandemic has forced a long-overdue reckoning with the cost of student loan debt to our society. But the warning signs have been clear for some time. A National Center of Education Statistics Report found that students who graduated in 2016 still owed 78 percent of the amount they borrowed. Black graduates owed more than they had originally borrowed. Thirty-four percent of graduates reported negative net worth. As student loan debt has grown, young adults have put off buying homes or cars, starting a family, saving for retirement, or launching new businesses. They have literally mortgaged their economic future.

In response to the pandemic, Congress and two administrations took unprecedented steps to ease the burden of student loan debt. While those steps provided urgently needed relief to current borrowers, we need to take steps now to reform the student loan system so future graduates are not saddled with crushing debt. Part of the answer is requiring institutions of higher education to have a greater stake in the outcomes for student loan borrowers.

While institutions are largely shielded when student borrowers can't repay their loans, students who fall into default face catastrophic consequences with little opportunity for relief. Only in rare instances can the debt be discharged in bankruptcy, and the Federal Government has the power to withhold tax refunds, garnish wages, and even garnish Social Security benefits to collect defaulted student loans.

We have seen the costs to students and taxpayers when institutions are not held accountable. The Department of Education has forgiven over $13 billion in student loans for students cheated by their colleges since 2021 alone. Just recently, Stratford University announced it would be shutting its doors leaving thousands of students in the lurch.

We cannot wait until an institution is catastrophically failing its students before taking action. Institutions need greater financial incentives to act before default rates rise. Simply put, we cannot tackle the student loan debt crisis without States and institutions stepping up and taking greater responsibility for college costs and student borrowing.

That is why I am pleased to reintroduce the Protect Student Borrowers Act with Senators Warren and Durbin. Our legislation seeks to ensure that institutions have more "skin in the game" when it comes to student loan debt. The bill will create stronger market incentives for colleges and universities to provide better and more affordable education to students, which should in turn help put the brakes on rising student loan defaults.

The Protect Student Borrowers Act would hold colleges and universities accountable for high student loan defaults by requiring them to repay a percentage of defaulted loans. Only institutions that have one-third or more of their students borrow or have a repayment rate after 3 years below 50 percent would be included in the bill's risk-sharing requirements based on their cohort default rate. Risk-sharing requirements would kick in when the default rate exceeds five percent. As the institution's default rate rises, so too will the institution's risk-share payment.

The Protect Student Borrowers Act also provides incentives for institutions to take proactive steps to ease student loan debt burdens and reduce default rates. Colleges and universities can reduce or eliminate their payments if they implement a comprehensive student loan management plan. The Secretary may waive or reduce the payments for institutions whose mission is to serve low-income and minority students, such as community colleges, historically Black institutions, or Hispanic-serving institutions, if they are making progress in their student loan management plans.

The risk-sharing payments would be invested in helping struggling borrowers, preventing future default and delinquency, and providing additional grant aid to students receiving Pell grants at institutions that enroll a high percentage of Pell grant recipients and have low default rates.

With the stakes so high for students and taxpayers, it is only fair that institutions bear some of the risk in the student loan program.

We need to tackle student loan debt and college affordability from multiple angles. All stakeholders in the system must do their part. With the Protect Student Borrowers Act, we are providing the incentives and resources for institutions to take more responsibility to address college affordability, reduce student loan debt, and improve student outcomes. I urge my colleagues to cosponsor this bill and look forward to working with them to include it and other key reforms in the upcoming reauthorization of the Higher Education Act.

SENATE RESOLUTION 809—DESIGNATING SEPTEMBER 30, 2022, AS “MISSISSIPPI NATIONAL GUARD RECOGNITION DAY”

Mr. WICKER (for himself and Mrs. HYDE-SMITH) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. RES. 809

Whereas, since its inception in 1798, the Mississippi National Guard has served the Magnolia State and the United States;

Whereas the Mississippi National Guard has responded to national and State emergencies;

Whereas, on September 30, 1962, anticipating violence as a result of the admission of James Meredith, the first Black student in the history of the University of Mississippi, President John F. Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara activated the entire Mississippi National Guard to provide riot control during the desegregation of the University of Mississippi;

Whereas Major General William P. Wilson immediately ordered 14,400 officers and enlisted men of the Mississippi National Guard to report to their armories and await orders from their Commander, Brigadier General Charles Billingslea;

Whereas 2 battle groups and 1 armored cavalry regiment, comprised of 3,086 men, reported to Oxford, Mississippi, on September 30, 1962, under the command of General Billingslea;

Whereas the 1st Battle Group, 155th Infantry Regiment, headquartered in Laurel, Mississippi, and commanded by Colonel Marion D. Odell, was comprised of Guardsmen from Brookhaven, Tylertown, Natchez, Meadville, McComb, Magnolia, and Gloster, Mississippi;

Whereas the 2d Battle Group, 155th Infantry Regiment, headquartered in Amory, Mississippi, and commanded by Colonel Robert L. Gray, was comprised of Guardsmen from Corinth, Kosciusko, Louisville, Iuka, Aberdeen, and Starkville, Mississippi;

Whereas the 108th Armored Cavalry Regiment, headquartered in Tupelo, Mississippi, and commanded by Colonel James G. Martin, was comprised of Guardsmen from Belmont, Booneville, Fulton, Okolona, Baldwyn, Nettleton, Ripley, Oxford, New Albany, Pontotoc, Holly Springs, Water Valley, Senatobia, Marks, Sardis, Batesville, Hernando, and Tunica, Mississippi;

Whereas, on the night of September 30, 1962, a violent mob, including some individuals from out of State, formed on the campus of the University of Mississippi, forcing reporters and United States Marshals to shelter inside the Lyceum building on the campus of the University of Mississippi;

Whereas that same mob attacked General Billingslea, his deputy, General John Corley, and his aide, Captain Harold Lyon, while they were in their car, setting it ablaze and forcing the 3 men to escape by crawling 200 yards to the Lyceum building, all while under gunfire;

Whereas, at 10 o'clock in the evening of September 30, 1962, Troop G of Pontotoc, Mississippi, and Howitzer Battery 2nd Reconnaissance Squadron of Water Valley, Mississippi, 108th Armored Cavalry, were ordered to move immediately to the campus of the University of Mississippi to quell the rioters surrounding the Lyceum building;

Whereas, at approximately 3 o'clock in the morning of October 1, 1962, the 1st and 3rd Reconnaissance Squadrons, 108th Armored Cavalry, were ordered to the Lyceum building to clear the campus of rioters;

Whereas, by the morning of October 1, 1962, the rioters on the campus of the University of Mississippi had been subdued, but not before resulting in the death of Ray Gunter and Paul Guihard;

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates September 30, 2022, as “Mississippi National Guard Recognition Day”; and

(2) recognizes the heroic efforts of the Mississippi National Guard 60 years ago to maintain peace in Oxford, Mississippi, during the largest deployment of troops to a single disturbance in the history of the Mississippi National Guard.

Mrs. SHAHEEN (for herself, Mr. CORNYN, Ms. HASSAN, and Mr. PETERS) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

Whereas police officers are indispensable members of the community who put their lives on the line to protect others;

Whereas promoting strong relationships founded in trust and mutual respect between law enforcement officers and the communities they serve helps ensure the safe and effective execution of the law;

Whereas relationships developed through community policing help protect both law enforcement officers and civilians;

Whereas law enforcement officers and communities that work together to address public safety concerns can create lasting solutions to difficult challenges;

Whereas community policing has helped produce reductions in both violent and property crime;

Whereas events in recent years have sparked a nationwide call to improve the interactions between law enforcement officers and the communities they serve, particularly communities of color;

Whereas community policing facilitates peaceful dialogue, capable of fostering understanding and trust, between law enforcement officers and civilians;

Whereas community policing informs the public about the challenges that law enforcement officers face in executing their duties and provides law enforcement officers insight into the concerns of community members;

Whereas a long-term commitment to community policing is necessary to eliminate the underlying causes of crime;

Whereas the advancement of community policing should be supported to ensure that State and local law enforcement agencies have necessary resources; and

Whereas community policing has been recognized as an important tool for improving the relationship between law enforcement officers and the communities they serve: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) designates the week of October 2, 2022, through October 8, 2022, as “National Community Policing Week”; and

(2) supports community policing and encourages the people of the United States, law enforcement agencies, and elected officials to identify ways in which communities can improve public safety, strengthen relationships, and build trust.

SENATE RESOLUTION 811—DESIGNATING THE WEEK OF OCTOBER 2, 2022, THROUGH OCTOBER 8, 2022, AS “RELIGIOUS EDUCATION WEEK” TO CELEBRATE RELIGIOUS EDUCATION IN THE UNITED STATES

Mr. GRAHAM (for himself, Mr. BARASSO, Mrs. BLACKBURN, Mrs. CAPITO, Mr. CASSIDY, Mr. CRAMER, Mr. DAINES, Mr. HAGERTY, Mr. HAWLEY, Mrs. HYDE-SMITH, Mr. INHOFE, Mr. LANKFORD, Mr. RUBIO, Mr. SCOTT of Florida, Mr. SCOTT of South Carolina, Mr. WICKER, and Mr. YOUNG) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

S. RES 811

Whereas the free exercise of religion is an inherent, fundamental, and inalienable right protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States;

Whereas the United States has long recognized that the free exercise of religion is important to the intellectual, ethical, moral, and civic development of individuals in the United States, as evidenced by the Founders of the United States, such as—

(1) Benjamin Franklin, who believed religion to be “uniquely capable of educating a citizenry for democracy”; and

(2) George Washington, who said in his farewell address “Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports.”;

Whereas religious education is useful for self-development, because it asks students to consider and respond to questions concerning the meaning and purpose of life, engages students in questions about morality and justice, and enables students to identify their values;

Whereas studies like the one published by the International Journal of Mental Health Systems in 2019 have shown that religious education can be “instrumental to improving adolescent mental health” by helping children learn how to make decisions based on morals, promoting less risky choices, and encouraging connectedness within a community, which can enhance self-esteem and well-being;

Whereas religious education fosters respect for other religious groups and individuals generally by acknowledging a source for human dignity and worth;

Whereas the Supreme Court of the United States found in Pierce v. Society of Sisters, 268 U.S. 510 (1925), that the State does not have power “to standardize its children by forcing them to accept instruction from public teachers only. The child is not the mere creature of the state; those who nurture him and direct his destiny have the right, coupled with the high duty, to recognize and prepare him for additional obligations.”;

Whereas religious instruction can come from a variety of sources, including sectarian schools and released time programs;

Whereas, according to the National Center for Education Statistics, in 2015, 4,350,000 children in the United States attended sectarian elementary and secondary schools where those children received religious education; and

Whereas the Supreme Court of the United States held in Zorach v. Clauson, 343 U.S. 306 (1952), that State statutes providing for the release of public school students from school to attend religious classes are constitutional, and, as a result, an estimated 540,000 public school students in the United States take advantage of released time programs each year: Now, therefore, be it

(1) affirms the importance of religious education in the civic and moral development of the people of the United States;

(2) celebrates the schools and organizations that are engaged in religious instruction of the children of the United States to aid those children in intellectual, ethical, moral, and civic development;

(3) calls on each of the 50 States, each territory, and the District of Columbia to accommodate individuals who wish to be released from public school attendance to attend religious classes; and

(4) designates the week of October 2, 2022, through October 8, 2022, as “Religious Education Week”.

SENATE RESOLUTION 812—CALLING ON CONGRESS, SCHOOLS, AND STATE AND LOCAL EDUCATIONAL AGENCIES TO RECOGNIZE THE SIGNIFICANT EDUCATIONAL IMPLICATIONS OF DYSLLEXIA THAT MUST BE ADDRESSED, AND DESIGNATING OCTOBER 2022 AS “NATIONAL DYSLLEXIA AWARENESS MONTH”

Mr. CASSIDY (for himself, Mr. KING, Ms. WARREN, Mr. GRAHAM, Mr. MURPHY, Mrs. CAPITO, Mr. BOOZMAN, and Mr. HICKENLOOPER) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

S. RES. 812

Whereas dyslexia is—

(2) most commonly caused by a difficulty in phonological processing (the appreciation of the individual sounds of spoken language), which affects the ability of an individual to speak, read, spell, and, often, the ability to learn a second language;

Whereas the First Step Act of 2018 (Public Law 115-391; 132 Stat. 5194 et seq.) included a definition of dyslexia as part of the requirement of the Act to screen inmates for dyslexia upon intake in Federal prisons;

Whereas the definition of dyslexia in section 3635 of title 18, United States Code, as added by section 101(a) of the First Step Act of 2018, is the first and only definition of dyslexia in a Federal statute;

Whereas dyslexia is the most common learning disability and affects 80 to 90 percent of all individuals with a learning disability;

Whereas dyslexia is persistent and highly prevalent, affecting as many as 1 out of every 5 individuals;

Whereas dyslexia is a paradox, in that an individual with dyslexia may have both—

(1) weaknesses in decoding that result in difficulties with accurate or fluent word recognition; and

(2) strengths in higher-level cognitive functions, such as reasoning, critical thinking, concept formation, and problem solving;

Whereas great progress has been made in understanding dyslexia on a scientific level, including the epidemiology and cognitive and neurobiological bases of dyslexia;

Whereas the achievement gap between typical readers and dyslexic readers occurs as early as first grade; and

Whereas early screening for, and early diagnosis of, dyslexia are critical for ensuring that individuals with dyslexia receive focused, evidence-based intervention that leads to fluent reading, the promotion of self-awareness and self-empowerment, and the provision of necessary accommodations that ensure success in school and in life: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

(1) calls on Congress, schools, and State and local educational agencies to recognize that dyslexia has significant educational implications that must be addressed; and

(2) designates October 2022 as “National Dyslexia Awareness Month”.

SENATE RESOLUTION 813—EXPRESSING THE SUPPORT OF THE SENATE FOR THE DESIGNATION OF “PUBLIC RADIO MUSIC DAY” AND DEEP APPRECIATION FOR THE ROLE OF PUBLIC RADIO MUSIC STATIONS IN SERVING LISTENERS, MUSICIANS, AND HUNDREDS OF COMMUNITIES IN THE UNITED STATES

Mr. COONS (for himself and Mr. BLUNT) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation:

Whereas more than 27,000,000 listeners in the United States tune in weekly to local noncommercial radio stations to discover, learn about, and enjoy music selections, artists, and genres that are, in many cases, available only on public radio;

Whereas approximately 697 public radio music stations serve rural and urban communities in all 50 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and Guam;

Whereas local public radio music stations celebrate a broad collection of sounds and styles, including jazz, blues, classical, Americana, urban alternative, folk, roots, bluegrass, and other regional and eclectic genres;

Whereas 96 percent of over-the-air broadcasts of classical music in the United States comes from local public radio stations;

SENATE RESOLUTION 816—DESIGNATING SEPTEMBER 4, 2022, AS “NATIONAL POLYCYSTIC KIDNEY DISEASE AWARENESS DAY”, AND RAISING AWARENESS AND UNDERSTANDING OF POLYCYSTIC KIDNEY DISEASE

Mr. BLUNT (for himself and Mr. CARDIN) submitted the following resolution; which was considered and agreed to:

S. RES. 816

Whereas designating September 4, 2022, as “National Polycystic Kidney Disease Awareness Day” will raise public awareness and understanding of polycystic kidney disease, one of the most prevalent genetic kidney disorders;

Whereas autosomal dominant polycystic kidney disease (ADPKD) is the more common type of polycystic kidney disease and affects approximately 200,000 to 600,000 people in the United States and an estimated 12,400,000 people worldwide;

Whereas autosomal recessive polycystic kidney disease (ARPKD) is a rare form of polycystic kidney disease that occurs in 1 in 20,000 live births in the United States;

Whereas National Polycystic Kidney Disease Awareness Day will help to foster an understanding of the impact polycystic kidney disease has on individuals and their families;

Whereas polycystic kidney disease is a progressive, genetic disorder of the kidneys that causes damage to the kidneys and the cardiovascular, endocrine, hepatic, and gastrointestinal organ systems;

Whereas, though polycystic kidney disease equally affects individuals of all ages, races, ethnicities, and sexes, gaps in kidney treatment and care disproportionately affect racial and ethnic minorities, especially Black and Hispanic populations;

Whereas Black and Hispanic patients with ADPKD reach kidney failure earlier and are less likely to receive a kidney transplant compared with non-Hispanic White patients;

Whereas, of the individuals diagnosed with ADPKD, approximately 10 percent have no family history of the disease, with the disease developing as a spontaneous mutation;

Whereas there are very few treatments and no cure for polycystic kidney disease, which is 1 of the 4 leading causes of kidney failure in the United States;

Whereas almost 50 percent of individuals with ADPKD develop end-stage kidney disease by age 60;

Whereas friends, loved ones, spouses, and caregivers of individuals with polycystic kidney disease can assist with the challenges created by polycystic kidney disease, including by helping such individuals maintain a healthy lifestyle and make regular visits to their health care providers;

Whereas the severity of the symptoms of polycystic kidney disease and limited public awareness of the disease may cause individuals to forego regular visits to their physicians or avoid following the health recommendations of their doctors, which experts suggest could help prevent further complications should kidney failure occur;

Whereas individuals who have chronic, life-threatening diseases like polycystic kidney disease may experience depression;

Whereas the PKD Foundation and its more than 35,000 patient and family advocates around the United States are dedicated to—

(1) conducting research to find treatments and a cure for polycystic kidney disease;

(2) fostering public awareness and understanding of polycystic kidney disease;

SENATE RESOLUTION 819—AFFIRMING THE COMMITMENT OF THE SENATE TO PROTECT AND EXPAND THE SOCIAL SECURITY AND SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME PROGRAMS

Mr. BROWN (for himself, Mr. WYDEN, Mr. CASEY, Mr. SCHUMER, Mrs. MURRAY, Ms. BALDWIN, Mr. CARDIN, Mr. MENENDEZ, Mr. WHITEHOUSE, Ms. WARREN, Mr. PADILLA, Mr. BLUMENTHAL, Ms. STABENOW, Mr. MARKEY, Mr. BOOKER, Ms. HIRONO, Ms. DUCKWORTH, Mrs. FEINSTEIN, Mr. VAN HOLLEN, Mr. SANDERS, Ms. CORTEZ MASTO, Mr. MURPHY, Mr. REED, Mr. SCHATZ, Ms. HASSAN, Mr. KELLY, Mrs. SHAHEEN, Ms. SMITH, Mr. KAINE, Mr. HEINRICH, Mr. LUJÁN, Mr. WARNOCK, Ms. KLOBUCHAR, Mr. LEAHY, Ms. ROSEN, Mr. PETERS, Mr. MERKLEY, and Mr. BENNET) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Finance:

Whereas Social Security has served as a cornerstone of economic security for millions of individuals in the United States since the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 301 et seq.) was signed into law by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt in 1935, when he declared, "It is, in short, a law that will take care of human needs and at the same time provide the United States an economic structure of vastly greater soundness";

Whereas the Social Security system of the United States ensures basic retirement security and financial stability, provides disability insurance that helps keep disabled workers and their families afloat in case of work-limiting disability, and ensures continued support of survivors;

Whereas, with the establishment of the Supplemental Security Income program, signed into law by President Richard M. Nixon in 1972, Congress built upon the bedrock protections included in the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 301 et seq.), assuring "that elderly, blind, and disabled people would no longer subsist on below-poverty incomes" and disabled and older workers, whose health prevents them from attaining the work history needed for protection under Social Security, are able to maintain basic dignity;

Whereas Social Security is an earned benefit that workers in the United States pay into with each paycheck, providing a guaranteed level of financial stability in retirement that cannot be assured with private pensions or personal assets alone;

Whereas proposals to fundamentally weaken the funding or guaranteed benefits of Social Security include—

- (1) shifting Social Security to a discretionary program;
- (2) raising the retirement age;
- (3) privatizing the Trust Funds; and
- (4) eventually ending the Social Security program altogether;

Whereas data from the Bureau of the Census indicates that—

- (1) without Social Security benefits more than 20,000,000 more individuals in the United States would live in poverty; and
- (2) approximately 1 in 4 individuals aged 65 and older in the United States have little to no income aside from Social Security; and

Whereas more than 70,000,000 seniors, people with disabilities, their dependents, and the dependents of deceased workers rely on Social Security and Supplemental Security Income to meet basic needs and live in dignity: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate, in recognition of the long history of the Social Security system of the United States assuring basic financial security for millions of workers and families—

- (1) celebrates the economic stability Social Security has provided for generations of families in the United States;

- (2) affirms that Social Security is a solemn promise to the people of the United States that should be upheld for generations to come; and

- (3) believes Social Security and Supplemental Security Income should continue to be mandatory spending, so as not to jeopardize the certainty and the financial security that the people of the United States have come to expect.

SENATE RESOLUTION 820—HONORING THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE RESERVE OFFICERS ASSOCIATION, NOW KNOWN AS THE RESERVE ORGANIZATION OF AMERICA

Mr. BLUNT (for himself and Mr. PETERS) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

S. RES. 820

Whereas the Reserve Officers Association was founded on October 2, 1922, by the General of the Armies John J. "Black Jack" Pershing and other veterans at the Willard Hotel in Washington, D.C.;

Whereas the founders of the Reserve Officers Association, who were veterans of World War I, believed that the United States was vulnerable to returning to the state of unreadiness that preceded World War I and that they needed to prevent the same level of unreadiness in future conflicts;

Whereas the Reserve Officers Association was chartered by President Harry S. Truman, one of the early members of the Reserve Officers Association, in the Act entitled "An Act to Incorporate the Reserve Officers Association of the United States", approved June 30, 1950 (64 Stat. 312, chapter 431);

Whereas the congressional charter established the Reserve Officers Association, now known as the Reserve Organization of America, "to support a military policy for the United States that will provide adequate national security";

Whereas the Reserve Organization of America is the only all ranks, all services, military service organization for the Reserve and National Guard, also known as the Reserve components, in the United States;

Whereas, in 2022, the Reserve Organization of America celebrates 100 years of serving the servicemembers and veterans of the uniformed services and the Reserve components, their families, and reserve employers; and

Whereas the Reserve Organization of America was instrumental in the adoption of the Reserve Forces Bill of Rights and Vitalization Act (Public Law 90-168; 81 Stat. 521), which, among other measures, established the Selected Reserve in each service, provided adequate fiscal and equipment support for the Selected Reserve, and established assistant secretaries for reserve affairs and designated a general or flag officer responsible for reserve affairs for each armed force: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

- (1) recognizes that the Reserve Organization of America is a respected advocate for national security and readiness;

- (2) honors the vital role the Reserve Organization of America has played throughout the organization's 100 years of service in strengthening the strategic and operational role of the Reserve components of the United States military; and

- (3) supports the Reserve Organization of America's focus on the readiness of the Reserve components and the care of those who serve in the Reserve and National Guard, their families, and veterans of the Reserve components.

SENATE RESOLUTION 821—CONDEMNING THE ARREST OF CARDINAL ZEN IN HONG KONG, AND REAFFIRMING THE COMMITMENT OF THE SENATE TO SUPPORTING DEMOCRACY, AUTONOMY, RELIGIOUS FREEDOM, AND HUMAN RIGHTS IN HONG KONG

Mr. CRAMER (for himself, Mr. KING, Mr. RISCH, and Mr. PADILLA) submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Whereas, in May 2022, Hong Kong authorities arrested Cardinal Zen, a 90-year-old bishop emeritus of Hong Kong and outspoken critic of China's ruling Communist Party, on spurious charges, accusing him and four others of violating China's national security by "colluding with foreign forces," as well as for allegedly failing to register a fund established to assist people arrested in the mass anti-government protests that began in 2019;

Whereas China imposed a so-called "national security law" in 2020, effectively crushing Hong Kong's opposition movement, overhauling its electoral system to provide Beijing with even more control, silencing free media, and crippling its once-vibrant civil society;

Whereas hundreds of protestors, activists, and former opposition lawmakers have been arrested since the "national security law" came into force;

Whereas Hong Kong is devolving into an increasingly repressive society where no one resisting government tyranny is safe, including religious leaders and communities;

Whereas, in 2022, the United Kingdom announced that two of its Supreme Court judges would no longer sit on Hong Kong's top court, as the threat to civil liberties and lack of judicial independence had made their role untenable;

Whereas Cardinal Zen and five prominent pro-democracy campaigners have pleaded not guilty in court in Hong Kong for failing to properly register a humanitarian fund they established to help people arrested in anti-government protests in 2019; and

Whereas the story of Cardinal Zen is only one of many such instances of religious persecution and infringement on democratic freedom in China and around the world: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate—

- (1) condemns the arrest of Cardinal Zen by the Hong Kong authorities at the behest of the Chinese Communist Party;

- (2) calls for all charges to be immediately dropped against Cardinal Zen;

- (3) reaffirms religious freedom as a fundamental right; and

- (4) urges the Chinese and Hong Kong authorities to cease targeting Hong Kong's civil society actors and to immediately release and drop all charges against all political prisoners who have been unjustly detained and charged.

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That, in the enrollment of H.R. 6833, the Clerk of the House of Representatives shall amend the title so as to read: "Making continuing appropriations for fiscal year 2023, and for other purposes.".

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 46—COMMEMORATING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FEDERAL WATER POLLUTION CONTROL ACT AMENDMENTS OF 1972, COMMONLY KNOWN AS THE "CLEAN WATER ACT"

Mr. CARPER (for himself, Mr. BLUMENTHAL, Mr. CARDIN, Mr. MARKEY, Mr. MERKLEY, Mr. PADILLA, Mr. WHITEHOUSE, Mr. KAINE, Mr. VAN HOLLEN, Mr. KING, and Mr. PETERS) submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Environment and Public Works:

S. CON. RES. 46

Whereas the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 (Public Law 92-500; 86 Stat. 816), including the amendments made by that Act (collectively commonly known and referred to in this preamble as the "Clean Water Act"), is one of the most important environmental laws in the United States and the Nation's principal safeguard against pollution, degradation, and destruction of surface waters, including streams, rivers, wetlands, and lakes;

Whereas the Clean Water Act has made progress towards the objective of the legislation to "restore and maintain the chemical, physical, and biological integrity of the Nation's waters" by—

- (1) significantly reducing water pollution;
- (2) substantially improving the quality of tens of thousands of waterbodies; and
- (3) dramatically reducing the rate of wetlands loss;

Whereas, despite the improvements brought about by the Clean Water Act, failure to fully achieve the intended goals of the Clean Water Act are due to—

- (1) changes to interpretation of the Clean Water Act, which has weakened protections for our waters;
- (2) lack of adequate and equitable investments in clean water infrastructure and funding to implement and enforce the Clean Water Act; and
- (3) weak and inequitable enforcement and implementation of critical provisions of the Clean Water Act; and

Whereas, as the United States embarks on the next 50 years of the Clean Water Act, Congress envisions a law that—

- (1) expands access to clean water for every community by—

(A) protecting waters with cultural, historical, spiritual, and religious significance;

(B) ensuring that rivers, streams, and other waterbodies are fishable and swimmable and serve as safe and reliable sources of recreation, drinking water, and subsistence;

(C) restoring and safeguarding waterways and wetlands that provide vital fish and wildlife habitat and protect communities from floods and droughts; and

(D) making healthy shorelines, waterfronts, and water-related recreation available and welcoming to all;

(2) prioritizes affordable clean water investments in Black, Indigenous, People of Color, low-wealth, and other communities that have been most harmed by pollution;

(3) incentivizes natural infrastructure and nature-based solutions;

(4) builds climate resiliency and mitigation of climate impacts into our water infrastructure;

(5) supports robust, transparent, and meaningful community engagement and community-led solutions and decisionmaking, including meaningfully incorporating the perspectives and solutions of Tribal communities;

(6) ensures affordable clean water services for all;

(7) protects and restores ecosystems by—

(A) eliminating harmful algal blooms, algal toxins in drinking water supplies, and "dead zones" by reducing inputs of nitrogen and phosphorus from the most significant sources;

(B) preventing destruction and degradation of remaining wetlands and restoring and protecting wetlands across the country;

(C) restoring all waters, especially the most polluted waterways and waterways in the communities most impacted by pollution;

(D) incorporating climate change science and modeling and indigenous knowledge into planning and restoration efforts;

(E) improving water quality, healthy river flows, and groundwater recharge;

(F) removing outdated infrastructure that is adversely impacting the health of waters; and

(G) supporting significant protected areas and free-flowing riverine systems, including components of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System, units of the National Park System, National Forests, units of the Wildlife Refuge System, and components of the National Wilderness Preservation System;

(8) promotes an inclusive, transparent, and equitable approach to policy development, based on best available science, by—

(A) proactively protecting human health and the environment from discharges of harmful pollutants, including new, emerging, and toxic contaminants;

(B) basing decisions on the most credible climate projections;

(C) accepting community-sourced and peer-reviewed science as a source of data for decisionmaking related to the Clean Water Act;

(D) ensuring that all decisions comply with the full suite of applicable laws;

(E) ensuring that States are consistent and timely in implementation of the Clean Water Act; and

(F) increasing the reach and accuracy of water quality monitoring and assessment by providing funding to States, agencies, and other organizations conducting such activities; and

(9) holds polluters accountable by including stronger enforcement measures, including—

(A) prioritizing prosecutions of violations of the Clean Water Act that have affected Black, Indigenous, People of Color, low-wealth, and other communities that have been most harmed by pollution;

(B) ensuring that Federal and State agencies carefully, clearly, and equitably apply the requirements of the Clean Water Act;

(C) providing the resources needed to ensure that Federal and State agencies have the capacity to effectively implement and enforce the Clean Water Act; and

(D) protecting our cleanest and most outstanding waters through classification of Outstanding National Resources Waters: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That Congress—

(1) commemorates the 50th anniversary of the enactment of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 (Public Law 92-500; 86 Stat. 816), including the amendments made by that Act (collectively commonly known and referred to in this resolution as the "Clean Water Act");

(2) recognizes the historic achievements in improving water quality that have been made during the 50 years of implementation of the Clean Water Act; and

(3) recognizes and seeks to address the shortcomings of the Clean Water Act in restoring and maintaining the chemical, physical, and biological integrity of the Nation's waters, including by—

(A) expanding access to clean water for every community;

(B) recognizing that a robust Clean Water Act is critical for the protection of human and environmental health, for the promotion of healthy and robust economies, and for maintaining a healthy quality of life;

(C) increasing clean water infrastructure investments in communities throughout the Nation and targeting increased and affordable investments in communities most at risk of continued pollution;

(D) addressing climate resiliency and mitigation of climate impacts on clean water infrastructure;

(E) promoting an inclusive, transparent, and equitable approach to Clean Water Act policy development, based on the best available science;

(F) holding polluters accountable; and

(G) ensuring the protection and restoration of rivers, streams, lakes, wetlands, and natural ecosystems.

Mr. CARPER. Mr. President, today I am pleased to introduce, along with the Senator from Maryland, Mr. CARDIN; the Senator from Connecticut, Mr. BLUMENTHAL; the Senator from Massachusetts, Mr. MARKEY; the Senator from Oregon, Mr. MERKLEY; the Senator from California, Mr. PADILLA; and the Senator from Rhode Island, Mr. WHITEHOUSE, a resolution to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Clean Water Act.

The Clean Water Act, which was signed into law on October 18, 1972, is one of the most important environmental laws in the United States and our Nation's principal safeguard against pollution and the degradation of our Nation's water bodies. Five decades of Clean Water Act implementation has improved our Nation's waterways, wetlands, and water infrastructure, all while protecting public health and aquatic ecosystems. This resolution recognizes the historic achievements in improving water quality that have been made over the past 50 years.

Perhaps the most memorable example of improved water quality is Ohio's Cuyahoga River. In 1969, the river was so polluted that it actually caught fire. It is a memory I will never forget. Now, because of the Clean Water Act, the Cuyahoga River has been cleaned up and is home to over 60 species of fish.

Americans now have a law that seeks to protect them from industrial pollution in our rivers and streams or the indiscriminate destruction of our wetlands. Despite this progress, there have been various challenges and changes to the implementation of the law. Currently, there is a case before the Supreme Court, which seeks to once again allow polluters to dump their waste into upstream waters without consequence. I can think of no better way to commemorate one of our greatest environmental achievements than to fight back against this assault on clean water.

While we have come a long way since enacting the Clean Water Act 50 years ago, we must do more—not less—to deliver on the promise of clean water in our country.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 47—COMMENDING THE BRAVERY, COURAGE, AND RESOLVE OF THE WOMEN AND MEN OF IRAN DEMONSTRATING IN MORE THAN 80 CITIES AND RISKING THEIR SAFETY TO SPEAK OUT AGAINST THE IRANIAN REGIME'S HUMAN RIGHTS ABUSES

Mr. MENENDEZ (for himself, Mrs. BLACKBURN, Mr. CASEY, Mr. CASSIDY, Ms. ROSEN, Mr. CRUZ, and Mr. CRAMER) submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Whereas, on September 16, 2022, 22-year-old Mahsa Amini passed away in the custody of Iranian “morality police” following a 3-day coma due to wounds, including bone fracture, hemorrhage, and cerebral edema consistent with severe beating, inflicted by the police for purportedly wearing a hijab improperly;

Whereas, on September 17, Iranians gathered in the streets of Tehran to protest the killing of Mahsa Amini;

Whereas demonstrations have since spread to more than 80 cities and 20 universities in Iran, where women are removing or burning hijabs, cutting their hair, and dancing in front of Iranian security forces, joined by their fellow Iranian citizens;

Whereas Iranian security forces have responded to such demonstrations with violence and detentions, including detentions of journalists and activists for covering the protests;

Whereas the security forces have killed a reported 76 protestors, including at least 4 children; however, the number of injuries and deaths is likely higher but unobtainable due to internet blackouts;

Whereas at least 1,200 Iranians have been arrested across Iran according to official sources, and many thousands more have been detained according to independent reports;

Whereas videos, images, and demonstrations have spread to social media platforms and are an important way for the voices of the Iranian people to be heard;

Whereas internet monitoring groups have reported that the Iranian regime has—

(1) caused near-total disruption of internet connectivity in parts of Iran and partial disruptions in city centers; and

(2) blocked WhatsApp, Twitter, Telegram, Facebook, Instagram, and video games with chat functions;

Whereas common protest chants include—

(1) “Women, life, and freedom!”;

(2) “Iranians die but will not be suppressed!”; and

(3) “Death to the dictator Ayatollah Ali Khamenei!”;

Whereas the Iranian regime has a long history of structural and legal discrimination against women, including barriers for women seeking justice against domestic violence and criminal prohibitions against women singing or showing hair in public and studying certain technical subjects;

Whereas the Iranian regime approved of “depriving one social right or more” for any woman who posts an unveiled picture of herself on social media, and, in August 2022, approved of enforcing mandatory hijab laws through facial recognition;

Whereas, through misogynistic criminal statutes, the Iranian regime for decades has detained and engaged in the ongoing persecution of women, including—

(1) Saba Kord Afshari, who was sentenced to 15 years in prison for posting videos to social media without a hijab and transferred into Ward 6 of the notorious Qarchak Women's Prison, identified by the Secretary of the Treasury for gross violations of human rights;

(2) Raheleh Ahmadi, mother of Afshari, who was sentenced to 2 years in prison for advocacy on behalf of Afshari;

(3) Yasaman Aryani, her mother Monireh Arabshahi, and Mojgan Keshavarz, who were sentenced to between 16 and 23 years in prison for posting a video for International Women's Day in 2019, during which they walked without headscarves through a metro train in Tehran, handing flowers to female passengers;

(4) human rights attorney Nasrin Sotoudeh, who was sentenced in 2019 to 38 years in prison and 148 lashes for providing legal defense services to women charged with not wearing a hijab;

(5) Narges Mohammadi, a prominent rights advocate, who—

(A) was arrested in November 2019 on the second anniversary of countrywide protests and is currently serving a 2-year sentence in prison; and

(B) previously, had been sentenced to 10 years in prison in May 2015 for “establishing an illegal group”, “assembly and collusion to act against national security”, and “propaganda against the state”;

(6) former Vice President for Women and Family Affairs Shahindokht Molaverdi, who was charged with encouraging “corruption, prostitution, and sexual deviance”, a common charge against women refusing mandatory hijab laws, and sentenced in December 2020 to 30 months in prison for defending the right of women to attend sporting events and criticizing the practice of child marriage;

(7) six women who were sentenced by the Culture and Media Court of Tehran in July 2022 to each serve 1 year in prison for the offense of singing songs in public;

(8) Niloufar Hamed, one of the first Iranian journalists to report on Mahsa Amini's death, who was arrested on September 22, 2022, and is being held in solitary confinement; and

(9) countless other women; and

Whereas peaceful protests in Iran over the last year have focused on grievances that include—

(1) mismanagement of the economy and national resources;

(2) prioritization of funding for terror groups and pariah regimes over social services for the people of Iran; and

(3) widespread political corruption: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That Congress—

(1) commends the bravery, courage, and resolve of the women and men of Iran who are—

(A) participating in the current protests to defend their fundamental human rights; and

(B) risking their safety to speak out against the human rights abuses committed by the Iranian regime;

(2) condemns—

(A) the brutal beating and death of Mahsa Amini; and

(B) the violent suppression by the Iranian regime of women and men participating in the current demonstrations, including children, and calls for transparent accountability for all killings of protesters by Iranian security forces;

(3) supports internet freedom programs that circumvent the regime, including the Open Technology Fund, which provides support for VPNs and other alternatives that can be used to bypass attempts by authoritarian governments to censor internet access during times of protest, and commends private entities willing to provide programs to circumvent such censorship;

(4) encourages continued efforts by the Biden Administration to respond to the protests, including the recent sanctioning of the Iranian morality police, and further encourages the Biden Administration—

(A) to immediately impose, under existing authorities, additional human rights sanctions on officials and entities responsible for the repression of the current protests;

(B) to prioritize efforts to expand unrestricted internet access in Iran, consistent with existing law; and

(C) to work to develop a strategy to prevent the Iranian regime from obtaining and exploiting facial recognition data and software for the use of mass surveillance and enforcement of mandatory hijab; and

(5) encourages the private sector, following the recent clarification by the Biden Administration of sanctions exemptions on communications technology, to work with the Biden Administration to ensure protestors and activists have access to tools needed to circumvent government surveillance and repression; and

(6) welcomes the efforts of the international community to support protestors in Iran, and calls on the international community—

(A) to publicly condemn violence by the Iranian regime against peaceful protestors;

(B) to speak out against violations by the regime of fundamental human rights, including the freedom of expression, assembly, and redress of grievances of the Iranian people; and

(C) impose human rights sanctions on officials and entities that are responsible for the repression of current protests and involved in violating the human rights of the Iranian people.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 48—RECOGNIZING THE SIGNIFICANCE OF EQUAL PAY AND THE DISPARITY IN WAGES PAID TO MEN AS COMPARED TO WAGES PAID TO BLACK WOMEN

Mr. WARNOCK submitted the following concurrent resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions:

S. CON. RES. 48

Whereas September 21, 2022, is Black Women's Equal Pay Day, which marks the number of days into 2022 that Black women must work in order to earn the same amount, since January 1, 2021, that White, non-Hispanic men were paid in 2021;

Whereas section 6(d) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U.S.C. 206(d)) prohibits discrimination in compensation for equal work on the basis of sex;

Whereas title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C. 2000e et seq.) prohibits discrimination in compensation because of race, color, religion, national origin, or sex;

Whereas despite the passage of the Equal Pay Act of 1963 (Public Law 88-38; 77 Stat. 56) 5 decades ago, which requires that men and women in the same workplace be given equal pay for equal work, data from the Bureau of the Census shows that Black women working full-time, year-round, are paid 58 cents for every dollar paid to White, non-Hispanic men;

Whereas if the current trends continue, on average, Black women will have to wait 100 years to achieve equal pay;

Whereas the median annual pay for a Black woman in the United States working full-time, year-round, is $41,098, which means that, on average, Black women lose nearly $964,400 in potential earnings to the wage gap during the course of a 40-year career;

Whereas lost wages mean Black women have less money to support themselves and their families, save and invest for the future, and spend on goods and services, causing businesses and the economy to suffer as a result;

Whereas the median earnings of Black women are less than the median earnings of men at every level of academic achievement;

Whereas, in the United States, more than 80 percent of Black mothers are key breadwinners or co-breadwinners for their families, but Black mothers working full time are paid only 52 percent as much as fathers;

Whereas the lack of access to affordable, quality childcare, paid family and medical leave, paid sick leave, and other family-friendly workplace policies contributes to the wage gap by forcing many Black women to choose between their paycheck or job and getting quality care for themselves or their family members;

Whereas if the wage gap were eliminated, on average, a Black woman working full time would have enough money for approximately 2.5 additional years of tuition and fees for a 4-year public university, the full cost of tuition and fees for a 2-year community college, more than 16 additional months of premiums for employer-based health insurance, 153 weeks of food for her family, 15 additional months of mortgage and utilities payments, 22 more months of rent, nearly 20 additional years of birth control, or enough money to pay off student loan debt in just over 1 year;

Whereas 25 to 85 percent of women have been sexually harassed at the workplace, and research has found that only about 1 in 10 women who experience harassment, formally report incidents for reasons including lack of access to the complaints processes and fear of retaliation;

Whereas workplace harassment forces many women to leave their occupation or industry;

Whereas targets of harassment were 6.5 times as likely as nontargets to change jobs or pass up opportunities for advancement, contributing to the gender wage gap;

Whereas Black women were the most likely of all racial and ethnic groups to have filed a sexual harassment charge;

Whereas nearly ⅓ of workers paid the minimum wage or less are women, and there is an overrepresentation of women of color in low-wage and tipped occupations;

Whereas more than 62 percent of women working in the private sector reported that they were either discouraged or prohibited from discussing wage and salary information, which can hide pay discrimination and prevent remedies;

Whereas the pay disparity Black women face is part of a wider set of disparities Black women encounter in home ownership, unemployment, poverty, access to childcare, and the ability to accumulate wealth;

Whereas the gender wage gap for Black women has only narrowed by 3 cents in the last 3 decades;

Whereas true pay equity requires a multifaceted strategy that addresses the gendered and racial injustices that Black women face daily;

Whereas the pandemic has disproportionately economically impacted Black women; and

Whereas many national organizations have designated September 21, 2022, as Black Women's Equal Pay Day to represent the additional time that Black women must work to compensate for the lower wages paid to Black women last year: Now, therefore, be it

(1) recognizes the disparity in wages paid to Black women and its impact on women, families, and the United States; and

(2) reaffirms its support for ensuring equal pay for equal work and narrowing the gender wage gap.

SEC. 5. SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING WOMEN WHO SERVED AS CADET NURSES DURING WORLD WAR II.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) In June of 1943, Congress enacted the Bolton Act, establishing the United States Cadet Nurse Corps as a uniformed service of the Public Health Administration. Through the Corps, women received free, expedited nursing education in exchange for “service in essential nursing for the duration of the war”.

(2) During World War II, the United States faced a severe shortage of qualified nurses, threatening the ability of the United States to meet domestic and military medical needs.

(3) In total, 124,065 women graduated from training under the Cadet Nurse program, going on to serve in military hospitals, Veterans Administration hospitals, Marine hospitals, private hospitals, public health agencies, and public hospitals until the program ended in 1948.

(4) In 1944, the Federal Security Agency identified “national recognition for rendering a vital war service” as a privilege of service in the Corps.

(6) The Cadet Nurse Corps has been credited with preventing the collapse of the domestic nursing workforce.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that women who served in the Cadet Nurse Corps honorably stepped up for their country during its time of need in World War II, significantly contributing to the war effort and the safety and security of the United States.

(c) EXPRESSION OF GRATITUDE.—Congress hereby expresses deep gratitude for the women who answered the call to duty and served in the Cadet Nurses Corp.

At the end of subtitle G of title V, add the following:

SEC. 589. RESCISSION OF MEDALS OF HONOR AWARDED FOR ACTS AT WOUNDED KNEE CREEK ON DECEMBER 29, 1890.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the “Remove the Stain Act”.

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Medal of Honor is the highest military award of the United States.

(2) Congress found that to earn the Medal of Honor “the deed of the person . . . must be so outstanding that it clearly distinguishes his gallantry beyond the call of duty from lesser forms of bravery”.

(3) The actions of Medal of Honor recipients inspire bravery in those currently serving in the Armed Forces and those who will come to serve in the future.

(4) Those listed on the Medal of Honor Roll have come to exemplify the best traits of members of the Armed Forces, a long and proud lineage of those who went beyond the call of service to the United States of America.

(5) To date the Medal of Honor has been awarded only 3,522 times, including only 145 times for the Korean War, 126 times in World War I, 23 times during the Global War on Terror, and 20 times for the massacre at Wounded Knee.

(6) The Medal of Honor is awarded in the name of Congress.

(7) As found in Senate Concurring Resolution 153 of the 101st Congress, on December 29, 1890 the 7th Cavalry of the United States engaged a tribal community “resulting in the tragic death and injury of approximately 350–375 Indian men, women, and children” led by Lakota Chief Spotted Elk of the Miniconjou band at “Cankpe’ Opi Wakpa” or “Wounded Knee Creek”.

(8) This engagement became known as the “Wounded Knee Massacre”, and took place between unarmed Native Americans and soldiers, heavily armed with standard issue army rifles as well as four “Hotchkiss guns” with five 37 mm barrels capable of firing 43 rounds per minute.

(9) Nearly two-thirds of the Native Americans killed during the Massacre were unarmed women and children who were participating in a ceremony to restore their traditional homelands prior to the arrival of European settlers.

(10) Poor tactical emplacement of the soldiers meant that most of the casualties suffered by the United States troops were inflicted by friendly fire.

(11) On January 1st, 1891, Major General Nelson A. Miles, Commander of the Division of Missouri, telegraphed Major General John M. Schofield, Commander-in-Chief of the Army notifying him that “[I]t is stated that the disposition of four hundred soldiers and four pieces of artillery was fatally defective and large number of soldiers were killed and wounded by the fire from their own ranks and a very large number of women and children were killed in addition to the Indian men”.

(12) The United States awarded 20 Medals of Honor to soldiers of the U.S. 7th Cavalry following their participation in the Wounded Knee Massacre.

(13) In 2001, the Cheyenne River Sioux Tribe, a member Tribe of the Great Sioux Nation, upon information provided by Lakota elders and by veterans, passed Tribal Council Resolution No. 132-01, requesting that the Federal Government revoke the Medals of Honor from the soldiers of the United States Army, 7th Cavalry issued following the massacre of unarmed men, women, children, and elderly of the Great Sioux Nation on December 29, 1890, on Tribal Lands near Wounded Knee Creek.

(14) The National Congress of American Indians requested in a 2007 Resolution that the Congress “renounce the issuance of said medals, and/or to proclaim that the medals are null and void, given the atrocities committed upon unarmed men, women, children and elderly of the Great Sioux Nation”.

(15) General Miles contemporaneously stated that a “[w]holesale massacre occurred and I have never heard of a more brutal, cold-blooded massacre than that at Wounded Knee”.

(16) Allowing any Medal of Honor, the United States highest and most prestigious military decoration, to recognize a member of the Armed Forces for distinguished service for participating in the massacre of hundreds of unarmed Native Americans is a disservice to the integrity of the United States and its citizens, and impinges on the integrity of the award and those who have earned the Medal since.

(c) RESCISSION OF MEDALS OF HONOR AWARDED FOR ACTS AT WOUNDED KNEE CREEK ON DECEMBER 29, 1890.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Each Medal of Honor awarded for acts at Wounded Knee Creek, Lakota Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, South Dakota, on December 29, 1890, is rescinded.

(2) MEDAL OF HONOR ROLL.—The Secretary concerned shall remove the name of each individual awarded a Medal of Honor for acts described in paragraph (1) from the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Coast Guard Medal of Honor Roll maintained under section 1134a of title 10, United States Code.

(3) RETURN OF MEDAL NOT REQUIRED.—No person may be required to return to the Federal Government a Medal of Honor rescinded under paragraph (1).

(4) NO DENIAL OF BENEFITS.—This section shall not be construed to deny any individual any benefit from the Federal Government.

SA 6047. Ms. WARREN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed to amendment SA 5499 submitted by Mr. REED (for himself and Mr. INHOFE) and intended to be proposed to the bill H.R. 7900, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2023 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the appropriate place in title V, insert the following:

The favored characteristics shall be weighed for purposes of such monetary value such that meeting certain characteristics, or meeting more than one such characteristic, increases the monetary value. Such favored characteristics of an antimicrobial drug shall include—

“(A) treating infections and patients on the list under paragraph (1);

“(d) ANNUAL ANTIMICROBIAL DRUG SPONSOR REVENUE LIMITATIONS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Pursuant to a contract entered into under this section, during the term of such a contract, the annual net revenue from sales of the applicable antimicrobial drug for beneficiaries or enrollees in Federal health care programs shall be subtracted from the annual payment installments determined in the subscription contract. The Secretary shall coordinate with the relevant agencies of the Federal Government to carry out this subsection in a manner that ensures minimal disruption to how a health care provider currently acquires applicable antimicrobial drugs.

“(2) REGULATIONS.—To carry out this subsection, the Secretary shall promulgate regulations to identify the Federal health care programs applicable under this section and to establish the methodology and data collection requirements necessary to determine the amount to be subtracted from any contract. Any methodology established for the collection of data and calculation of the amount to be subtracted from any contract shall take into account any legally mandated or voluntary discounts and rebates provided by the manufacturer of the applicable antimicrobial drug to the government programs that pay for such drugs subject to a contract agreement entered into pursuant to subsection (c)(2).

SEC. 1239. DESIGNATION OF THE RUSSIA FEDERATION AS A STATE SPONSOR OF TERRORISM.

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) United States law authorizes the designation of countries that have repeatedly provided support for acts of international terrorism as state sponsors of terrorism.

(2) Cuba, the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, Iran, and Syria have been designated as state sponsors of terrorism.

(3) At the direction of President Vladimir Putin, the Government of the Russian Federation has promoted, and continues to promote, acts of international terrorism against political opponents and nation states.

(4) Under the orders of President Putin, the Government of the Russian Federation engaged in a campaign of terror that utilized brutal force to target its civilians during the Second Chechen War.

(5) Actions by the Government of the Russian Federation against civilian centers, such as Grozny (the capital of Chechnya), left countless innocent men, women, and children dead or wounded.

(6) Since 2014, the Government of the Russian Federation—

(A) has supported separatists engaging in acts of violence against Ukrainian civilians in the Donbas region; and

(B) has detained United States citizens as hostages.

(7) The Government of the Russian Federation provides material support to Syria, a nation currently designated as a state sponsor of terrorism.

(8) According to the Congressional Research Service, the Russian Federation spreads terror throughout the world through private military networks of mercenaries, such as the Wagner Group, in an effort to “project power cheaply and deniably”.

(9) The Wagner Group collaborates with the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation to support the foreign policy objectives of the Russian Federation.

(10) The Department of the Treasury—

(A) has identified the Wagner Group as “a designated Russian Ministry of Defense proxy force”; and

(B) has stated that “Wagner’s activities in other countries, including Ukraine, Syria, Sudan, and Libya, have generated insecurity and incited violence against innocent civilians”.

(11) In February 2022, more than 400 Russian mercenaries from the Wagner Group were dispatched to Kyiv with orders from the Kremlin to assassinate President Volodymyr Zelenskyy and members of the Government of Ukraine.

(12) On March 1, 2022, Jason Blazakis, former Director of the Counterterrorism Finance and Designations Office, Bureau of Counterterrorism, Department of State, wrote in reference to white supremacist groups that “Russia provides sanctuary to a U.S.-designated terrorist group, the Russian Imperial Movement, which operates with impunity in Russian territory.”

(13) On March 17, 2022, President Volodymyr Zelensky called for the world to acknowledge the Russian Federation as a terrorist state.

(14) The Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine has appealed to Congress to encourage the Department of State to recognize the Russian Federation as a state sponsor of terrorism, noting that “the Russian Federation has for years supported and financed terrorist regimes and terrorist organizations, including being the main supplier of weapons to the Assad regime in Syria and supporting terrorists in the Middle East and Latin America, organizing acts of international terrorism, including the poisoning of the Skripal family in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, the downing of a civilian Malaysian airliner and other acts of terrorism”.

(15) On May 24, 2022, Ukrainian prosecutors accused 2 Wagner Group mercenaries of committing war crimes against civilians near Kyiv.

(16) On July 18, 2022, the United Kingdom’s Ministry of Defence confirmed that the Wagner Group plays a central role in recent fighting in Ukraine, including Russia’s capture of Popasna and Lysyschansk.

(17) The United States has a range of tools available to hold the Russian Federation accountable, reduce its war machine, and isolate it economically and diplomatically, including by designating it as a state sponsor of terrorism and imposing corresponding sanctions.

(C) DESIGNATION OF THE RUSSIAN FEDERATION AS A STATE SPONSOR OF TERRORISM.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act, the Russian Federation shall be deemed to have repeatedly provided support for acts of international terrorism and shall be designated as a state sponsor of terrorism pursuant to—

(2) TECHNICAL AND CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 1605A(h)(6) of title 28, United States Code, is amended—

(A) by inserting “Congress or” before “the Secretary of State”; and

(d) WAIVER.—The President may remove the designation required under subsection (c)(1) on the date that is 30 days after the date on which the President certifies to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives, the majority leader and minority leader of the Senate, and the Speaker, majority leader, and minority leader of the House of Representatives that—

TITLE _____—FAIR ACCESS TO BANKING

SEC. ____01. SHORT TITLE.

SEC. ____ 02. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) article I of the Constitution of the United States guarantees the people of the United States the right to enact public policy through the free and fair election of representatives and through the actions of State legislatures and Congress;

(2) banks rightly objected to the Operation Choke Point initiative through which certain government agencies pressured banks to cut off access to financial services to lawful sectors of the economy;

(3) banks are now, however, increasingly employing subjective, category-based evaluations to deny certain persons access to financial services in response to pressure from advocates from across the political spectrum whose policy objectives are served when banks deny certain customers access to financial services;

(4) the privatization of the discriminatory practices underlying Operation Choke Point by banks represents as great a threat to the national economy, national security, and the soundness of banking and financial markets in the United States as Operation Choke Point itself;

(5) banks are supported by the United States taxpayers and enjoy significant privileges in the financial system of the United States and should not be permitted to act as de facto regulators or unelected legislators by withholding financial services to otherwise credit worthy businesses based on subjective political reasons, bias or prejudices;

(6) banks are not well-equipped to balance risks unrelated to financial exposures and the operations required to deliver financial services;

(7) the United States taxpayers came to the aid for large banks during the great recession of 2008 because they were deemed too important to the national economy to be permitted to fail;

(8) when a bank predicates the access to financial services of a person on factors or information (such as the lawful products a customer manufactures or sells or the services the customer provides) other than quantitative, impartial risk-based standards, the bank has failed to act consistent with basic principles of sound risk management and failed to provide fair access to financial services;

(9) banks have a responsibility to make decisions about whether to provide a person with financial services on the basis of impartial criteria free from prejudice or favoritism;

(10) while fair access to financial services does not obligate a bank to offer any particular financial service to the public, or to operate in any particular geographic area, or to provide a service the bank offers to any particular person, it is necessary that—

(A) the financial services a bank chooses to offer in the geographic areas in which the bank operates be made available to all customers based on the quantitative, impartial risk-based standards of the bank, and not based on whether the customer is in a particular category of customers;

(B) banks assess the risks posed by individual customers on a case-by-case basis, rather than category-based assessment; and

(C) banks implement controls to manage relationships commensurate with these risks associated with each customer, not a strategy of total avoidance of particular industries or categories of customers;

(11) banks are free to provide or deny financial services to any individual customer, but first, the banks must rely on empirical data that are evaluated consistent with the established, impartial risk-management standards of the bank; and

(12) anything less is not prudent risk management and may result in unsafe or unsound practices, denial of fair access to financial services, cancelling, or eliminating certain businesses in society, and have a deleterious effect on national security and the national economy.

SEC. ____ 03. PURPOSE.

The purposes of this title are to—

(1) ensure fair access to financial services and fair treatment of customers by financial service providers, including national and state banks, Federal savings associations and State and Federal credit unions;

(2) ensure banks conduct themselves in a safe and sound manner, comply with laws and regulations, treat their customers fairly, and provide fair access to financial services;

(3) protect against banks being able to impede otherwise lawful commerce and thereby achieve certain public policy goals;

(4) ensure that persons involved in politically unpopular businesses but that are lawful under Federal law receive fair access to financial services under the law; and

(5) ensure banks operate in a safe and sound manner by making judgments and decisions about whether to provide a customer with financial services on an impartial, individualized risk-based analysis using empirical data evaluated under quantifiable standards.

SA 6083. At the end of subtitle F of title XII, add the following:

SEC. 1276. REVIEW OF LOAN SURCHARGE POLICY OF INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds as follows:

(1) The International Monetary Fund (in this section referred to as the “IMF”) imposes a surcharge, in addition to standard interest and service fees, of 200 basis points on outstanding credit provided through its General Resources Account that exceeds 187.5 percent of the IMF country quota, and an additional 100 basis points if that credit has been outstanding for over 36 or 51 months, depending on the facility.

(2) According to the IMF, “These level and time-based surcharges are intended to help mitigate credit risk by providing members with incentives to limit their demand for Fund assistance and encourage timely repurchases while at the same time generating income for the Fund to accumulate precautionary balances.”

(3) According to a 2021 report by the European Network on Debt and Development, surcharges increase the average cost of borrowing from the IMF by over 64 percent for surcharged countries. Surcharges increased Ukraine’s borrowing costs on its IMF lending program by nearly 27 percent, Jordan’s by 72 percent, and Egypt’s by over 104 percent.

(4) As a result of the invasion by the Russian Federation, the World Bank predicts that Ukraine will experience an economic contraction of 45 percent in 2022. Yet Ukraine is expected to pay the IMF an estimated $483,000,000 in surcharges from 2021 through 2027.

(5) The Ukraine Comprehensive Debt Payment Relief Act of 2022 (H.R. 7081), which requires the Department of Treasury to make efforts to secure debt relief for Ukraine, was passed by the House of Representatives on May 11, 2022, with overwhelming bipartisan support, by a vote of 362 Yeas to 56 Nays.

(6) As a result of the war in Ukraine and other factors, the World Bank predicted that global growth rates will slow to 2.9 percent in 2022, down nearly half from 2021. External public debt of developing economies is at record levels, and the World Bank, the IMF, and the United Nations have all warned of coming defaults and a potential global debt crisis. As food and energy prices rise, the World Food Program has estimated that 750,000 people are at immediate risk of starvation or death, and 323,000,000 people may experience acute food insecurity before the end of the year.

(7) Since 2020, the number of countries paying surcharges to the IMF has increased from 9 to 16. A December 2021 IMF policy paper notes that under the IMF’s model-based World Economic Outlook scenario “the number of surcharge-paying members would increase to 38 in FY 2024 and FY 2025” and that under the Fund’s “adverse scenario, the number of surcharge-paying members and the amount of surcharge income would increase even more sharply”.

(8) An April 2022 brief from the United Nations Global Crisis Response Group on Food, Energy and Finance on the impacts of the war in Ukraine on developing countries called for the immediate suspension of surcharge payments for a minimum of 2 years, because “[s]urcharges do not make sense during a global crisis since the need for more financing does not stem from national conditions but from the global economy shock”.

(b) REVIEW OF SURCHARGE POLICY AT THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND.—The Secretary of the Treasury shall instruct the United States Executive Director at the International Monetary Fund to use the voice and vote of the United States to—

(1) initiate an immediate review by the IMF of the surcharge policy of the IMF to be completed, and its results and underlying data published, within 365 days; and

(c) COMPONENTS OF THE REVIEW OF SURCHARGE POLICY.—The review referred to in subsection (b) should include the following:

(1) A borrower-by-borrower analysis of surcharges in terms of cost and as a percentage of national spending on debt service on IMF loans, food security, and health for the 5-year period beginning at the start of the COVID-19 pandemic.

(2) Evaluation of the policy’s direct impact on—

(A) disincentivizing large and prolonged reliance on IMF credit;

(B) mitigating the credit risks taken by the IMF;

(C) improving borrower balance of payments and debt sustainability, particularly during periods of contraction, unrest, and pandemic;

(D) promoting fiscally responsible policy reforms;

(E) disincentivizing borrowers from seeking opaque and potentially predatory bilateral loans; and

(F) improving the ability of borrowers to repay private creditors and access the private credit market.

(3) Recommendations for—

(A) identifying alternative sources of funding for the IMF’s precautionary balances that prioritize stable funding sources and equitable burden-sharing among IMF members; and

(B) determining whether the IMF should maintain, reform, temporarily suspend, or eliminate the use of surcharges.

(d) CONSULTATIONS.—The review referred to in subsection (b) must incorporate extensive consultation with relevant experts, particularly those from countries that are currently paying or have recently paid surcharges. Those experts should include government officials responsible for overseeing economic development, social services, and defense, United Nations officials, economic research institutes, academics, and civil society organizations.

SA 6084. Mr. PETERS submitted an amendment intended to be proposed to amendment SA 5499 submitted by Mr. REED (for himself and Mr. INHOFE) and intended to be proposed to the bill H.R. 7900, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2023 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of subtitle F of title XII, add the following:

SEC. 1276. SENSE OF CONGRESS ON THREAT POSED BY ACTIVITIES OF TRANSNATIONAL CRIMINAL ORGANIZATIONS.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Trade-based money laundering is among the most widely used and least understood forms of money laundering, disguising proceeds of crime by moving value through international trade transactions in an attempt to legitimize illicit origins of money or products.

(2) The transnational nature and complexity of trade-based money laundering make detection and investigation exceedingly difficult.

(3) Drug trafficking organizations, terrorist organizations, and other transnational criminal organizations have succeeded at trade-based money laundering despite the best efforts of United States law enforcement.

(4) Trade-based money laundering includes other offenses such as tax evasion, disruption of markets, profit loss for businesses, and corruption of government officials, and constitutes a persistent threat to the economy and security of the United States.

(5) Trade-based money laundering can result in the decreased collection of customs duties as a result of the undervaluation of imports and fraudulent cargo manifests.

(6) Trade-based money laundering can decrease tax revenue collected as a result of the sale of underpriced goods in the marketplace.

(7) Trade-based money laundering is one mechanism by which counterfeiters infiltrate supply chains, threatening the quality and safety of consumer, industrial, and military products.

(8) Drug trafficking organizations collaborate with Chinese criminal networks to launder profits from drug trafficking through Chinese messaging applications.

(9) On March 16, 2021, the Commander of the United States Southern Command, Admiral Faller, testified to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate that transnational criminal organizations “market in drugs and people and guns and illegal mining, and one of the prime sources that underwrites their efforts is Chinese money-laundering”.

(10) The deaths and violence associated with drug traffickers, the financing of terrorist organizations and other violent non-state actors, and the adulteration of supply chains with counterfeit goods showcase the danger trade-based money laundering poses to the United States.

(11) Trade-based money laundering undermines national security and the rule of law in countries where it takes place.

(12) Illicit profits for transnational criminal organizations and other criminal organizations can lead to instability globally.

(13) The United States is facing a drug use and overdose epidemic, as well as an increase in consumption of synthetic drugs, such as methamphetamine and fentanyl, which is often enabled by Chinese money laundering organizations operating in coordination with drug-trafficking organizations and transnational criminal organizations in the Western Hemisphere that use trade-based money laundering to disguise the proceeds of drug trafficking.

(14) The presence of drug traffickers in the United States and their intrinsic connection to international threat networks, as well as the use of licit trade to further their motives, is a national security concern.

(15) Drug-trafficking organizations frequently use the trade-based money laundering scheme known as the “Black Market Peso Exchange” to move their ill-gotten gains out of the United States and into Central and South America.

(16) United States ports and U.S. Customs and Border Protection do not have the capacity to properly examine the 60,000,000 shipping containers that pass through United States ports annually, with only 2 to 5 percent of that cargo actively inspected.

(17) Trade-based money laundering can only be combated effectively if the intelligence community, law enforcement agencies, the Department of State, the Department of Defense, the Department of the Treasury, the Department of Homeland Security, the Department of Justice, and the private sector work together.

(18) Drug-trafficking organizations, terrorist organizations, and other transnational criminal organizations disguise the proceeds of their illegal activities behind sophisticated mechanisms that operate seamlessly between licit and illicit trade and financial transactions, making it almost impossible to address without international cooperation.

(19) Whereas the United States has established Trade Transparency Units with 18 partner countries, including with major drug-producing and transit countries, to facilitate the increased exchange of import-export data to combat trade-based money laundering.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the activities of transnational criminal organizations and their networks, and the means by which such organizations and networks move and launder their ill-gotten gains, such as through the use of illicit economies, illicit trade, and trade-based money laundering, pose a threat to the national interests and national security of the United States and allies and partners of the United States around the world;

(2) in addition to considering the countering of illicit economies, illicit trade, and trade-based money laundering as a national priority and committing to detect, address, and prevent such activities, the President should—

(A) continue to assess, in the periodic national risk assessments on money laundering, terrorist financing, and proliferation financing conducted by the Department of the Treasury, the ongoing risks of trade-based money laundering;

(B) finalize the assessment described in the Explanatory Statement accompanying the Financial Services and General Government Appropriations Act, 2020 (division C of the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2020 (Public Law 116-93)), which directs the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network of the Department of the Treasury to thoroughly assess the risk that trade-based money laundering and other forms of illicit finance pose to national security;

(C) work expeditiously to develop, finalize, and execute a strategy, as described in section 6506 of the Anti-Money Laundering Act of 2020 (title LXV of division F of Public Law 116-283; 134 Stat. 4631), drawing on the multiple instruments of United States national power available, to counter—

(i) the activities of transnational criminal organizations, including illicit trade and trade-based money laundering; and

(ii) the illicit economies such organizations operate in;

(D) coordinate with international partners to implement that strategy, exhorting those partners to strengthen their approaches to combating transnational criminal organizations; and

(E) review that strategy on a biennial basis and improve it as needed in order to most effectively address illicit economies, illicit trade, and trade-based money laundering by exploring the use of emerging technologies and other new avenues for interrupting and putting an end to those activities; and

(3) the Trade Transparency Unit program of the Department of Homeland Security should take steps to strengthen its work, including in countries that the Department of State has identified as major money laundering jurisdictions under section 489 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2291h).

“(a) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

“(1) there are challenges associated with some adoptions (including the child’s mental health needs and the difficulties many families face in accessing support services) and some families may seek out an unregulated transfer of physical custody of an adoptive child without any formal supervision by child welfare agencies or courts;

“(2) some adopted children experience trauma, and the disruption and placement in another home due to such a transfer may contribute to additional trauma and instability for such children;

“(3) unregulated custody transfer may not include certain safety measures that are required as part of formal adoption proceedings, such as required child welfare or criminal background checks or clearances;

“(4) child welfare agencies and courts may be unaware of the placement of children through unregulated custody transfers and, as a result, may not conduct assessments on children’s safety and well-being in such subsequent placements;

“(5) the lack of such assessments may result in the placement of children in homes in which the children may be exposed to unsafe environments;

“(6) the caregivers with whom a child is placed through an unregulated custody transfer may have no legal responsibility with respect to such child and may not have complete records, including the child’s birth, medical, or other records, with respect to such child;

“(7) a child adopted through intercountry adoption may be at risk of not acquiring United States citizenship if an unregulated custody transfer occurs before the adoptive parents complete all necessary steps to finalize the adoption of such child; and

“(b) DEFINITION.—For the purpose of this section, the term ‘unregulated custody transfer’ means the abandonment of a child, by the child’s parent or legal guardian, or a person or entity acting on behalf, and with the consent, of such parent or guardian—

“(B) a friend of the family who is an adult and with whom the child is familiar; or

“(C) a member of the federally recognized Indian Tribe of which the child is also a member;

“(2) with the intent of severing the relationship between the child and the parent or guardian of such child; and

“(A) reasonably ensuring the safety of the child and permanency of the placement of the child, including by conducting an official home study, background check, and supervision; and

“(B) transferring the legal rights and responsibilities of parenthood or guardianship under applicable Federal and State law to a person described in subparagraph (A), (B), or (C) of paragraph (1).

“(c) TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE AND PUBLIC AWARENESS.—The Secretary, in coordination with the heads of other relevant Federal agencies—

“(1) shall improve public awareness related to preventing adoption disruption and dissolution, including preventing unregulated custody transfers of adopted children; and

“(2) in carrying out paragraph (1), shall update Federal resources, including internet websites, to provide—

“(A) employees of State, local, and Tribal agencies that provide child welfare services with educational materials related to preventing, identifying, and responding to unregulated custody transfers; and

“(B) prospective adoptive families with information on pre-adoption education and post-adoption services from State, local, and private resources to promote child permanency.

“(d) REPORT TO CONGRESS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of the CAPTA Reauthorization Act of 2022, the Secretary, in consultation with the Secretary of State, shall prepare and submit to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions and the Committee on Finance of the Senate, and the Committee on Education and Labor and the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives, a report on unregulated custody transfers of children, including of adopted children.

“(2) ELEMENTS.—The report required under paragraph (1) shall include—

transfers, including the use of social media and the internet;

“(B) information on the effects of unregulated custody transfer on children, including the effects of the lack of assessment of a child’s safety and well-being by social services agencies and courts due to such unregulated custody transfer;

“(C) data on the prevalence of unregulated custody transfers within each State and across all States;

“(D) recommended policies for preventing, identifying, and responding to unregulated custody transfers, including of adopted children, that include—

“(i) suggested changes or updates to Federal and State law to address unregulated custody transfers;

SEC. 1214. SECURING ALLIES FOOD IN EMERGENCIES.

(a) SHORT TITLES.—This section may be cited as the “Securing Allies Food in Emergencies Act” or the “SAFE Act”.

(b) STATEMENT OF POLICY.—It is the policy of the United States to respond to the looming global food crisis precipitated by the Russian Federation’s brutal, illegal invasion of Ukraine beginning in February 2022, which threatens to destabilize key partners and allies and push millions of people into hunger and poverty, particularly in areas of Africa and the Middle East that are already experiencing emergency levels of food insecurity, by taking immediate action to improve the timeliness and expand the reach of United States international food assistance.

(c) STRATEGY TO AVERT A GLOBAL FOOD CRISIS.—

(1) STRATEGY REQUIREMENT.—Not later than 30 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Administrator of the United States Agency for International Development, acting in the capacity of the President’s Special Coordinator for International Disaster Assistance pursuant to section 493 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2292b), shall develop and submit a strategy to the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate and Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives for averting a catastrophic global food security crisis, particularly in areas of Africa and the Middle East that are already experiencing emergency levels of food insecurity, which has been driven by sharp increases in global prices for staple agricultural commodities, agricultural inputs (including fertilizer), and associated energy costs.

(2) CONSIDERATIONS.—In developing the strategy required under paragraph (1), the Administrator shall consider and incorporate an analysis of—

(A) the impact of the Russian Federation’s brutal, illegal war in Ukraine on the cost and availability of staple agricultural commodities and inputs, including fertilizer—

(i) globally;

(ii) in countries that rely upon commercial imports of such commodities and inputs from Ukraine or Russia; and

(iii) in countries that are supported through the United Nations World Food Programme, which heavily relies upon purchases of wheat and pulses from Ukraine and has recently reported a price increase of more than $23,000,000 per month for its wheat purchases;

(B) the correlation between rising food costs and social unrest in areas of strategic importance to the United States, including countries and regions that experienced food riots during the 2007 to 2008 global food price crisis;

(C) the underlying drivers of food insecurity in areas experiencing emergency levels of hunger, including current barriers to food security development programs and humanitarian assistance;

(D) existing United States foreign assistance authorities, programs, and resources that could help avert a catastrophic global food crisis;

(E) recommendations to enhance the efficiency, improve the timeliness, and expand the reach of United States international food assistance programs and resources referred to in subparagraph (D);

(F) opportunities to bolster coordination, catalyze and leverage actions by other donors and through multilateral development banks;

(G) opportunities to better synchronize assistance through well-coordinated development and humanitarian assistance programs within the United States Agency for International Development and alongside other donors;

(H) opportunities to improve supply chain and shipping logistics efficiencies in close collaboration with the private sector;

(I) opportunities for increased cooperation with the Department of State to strengthen diplomatic efforts to resolve global conflicts and overcome barriers to access for life-saving assistance;

(J) opportunities to support continued agricultural production in Ukraine, and the extent to which food produced in Ukraine can be used to meet humanitarian needs locally, regionally, or in countries historically reliant upon imports from Ukraine or Russia; and

(K) opportunities to support and leverage agricultural production in countries and regions currently supported by United States international agricultural development programs, including programs authorized under the Global Food Security Act of 2016 (22 U.S.C. 9301 et seq.), in a manner that—

(i) fills critical gaps in the global supply of emergency food aid commodities;

(ii) enables purchases from small holder farmers by the United Nations World Food Programme;

(iii) enhances resilience to food price shocks;

(iv) promotes self-reliance; and

(v) opens opportunities for United States agricultural trade and investment.

(d) EMERGENCY AUTHORITIES TO EXPAND THE TIMELINESS AND REACH OF UNITED STATES INTERNATIONAL FOOD ASSISTANCE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Administrator of the United States Agency for International Development is authorized to procure life-saving food aid commodities, including commodities available locally and regionally, for the provision of emergency food assistance to the most vulnerable populations in countries and areas experiencing acute food insecurity that has been exacerbated by rising food prices, particularly in countries and areas historically dependent upon imports of wheat and other staple commodities from Ukraine and Russia.

(2) PRIORITIZATION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In responding to crises in which emergency food aid commodities are unavailable locally or regionally, or in which the provision of locally or regionally procured agricultural commodities would be unsafe, impractical, or inappropriate, the Administrator should prioritize procurements of United States agricultural commodities, including when exercising authorities under section 491 of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2292).

(B) LOCAL OR REGIONAL PROCUREMENTS.—In making local or regional procurements of food aid commodities pursuant to paragraph (1), the Administrator, to the extent practicable and appropriate, should prioritize procurements from areas supported through the international agricultural development programs authorized under the Global Food Security Act of 2016 (22 U.S.C. 9301 et seq.) and from Ukraine, for the purpose of promoting economic stability, resilience to price shocks, and early recovery from such shocks in such areas.

(3) DO NO HARM.—In making local or regional procurements of food aid commodities pursuant to paragraph (1), the Administrator shall first conduct market assessments to ensure that such procurements—

(A) will not displace United States agricultural trade and investment; and

(B) will not cause or exacerbate shortages, or otherwise harm local markets, for such commodities within the countries of origin.

(4) EMERGENCY EXCEPTIONS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—Commodities procured pursuant to paragraph (2) shall be excluded from calculations of gross tonnage for purposes of determining compliance with section 55305(b) of title 46, United States Code.

(B) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 55305(b) of title 46, United States Code, is amended by striking “shall” and inserting “should”.

(5) EXCLUSION.—The authority under paragraph (1) shall not apply to procurements from the Russian Federation, the People’s Republic of China, or any country subject to sanctions under—

(A) section 620A of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 (22 U.S.C. 2371);

(B) section 40 of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2780); or

(C) section 1754(c) of the Export Control Reform Act of 2018 (50 U.S.C. 4813(c)).

Subtitle G—Sanctions in Response to Military Invasion of Taiwan

SEC. 1281. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “Sanctions Targeting Aggressors of Neighboring Democracies with Taiwan Act of 2022” or the “STAND with Taiwan Act of 2022”.

SEC. 1282. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

- (1) Taiwan is a free and prosperous democracy of nearly 24,000,000 people, an important contributor to peace and stability around the world, and continues to embody and promote democratic values, freedom, and human rights in Asia.
- (2) The policy of the United States toward Taiwan is guided by the Taiwan Relations Act (22 U.S.C. 3301 et seq.), the United States–People’s Republic of China joint communiqués concluded in 1972, 1978, and 1982, and the Six Assurances that President Ronald Reagan communicated to Taiwan in 1982.
- (3) Under section 2 of the Taiwan Relations Act (22 U.S.C. 3301), it is the policy of the United States—
 - (A) “to preserve and promote extensive, close, and friendly commercial, cultural, and other relations between the people of the United States and the people on Taiwan, as well as the people on the China mainland and all other peoples of the Western Pacific area”;
 - (B) “to declare that peace and stability in the area are in the political, security, and economic interests of the United States, and are matters of international concern”;
 - (C) “to make clear that the United States decision to establish diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China rests upon the expectation that the future of Taiwan will be determined by peaceful means";

(D) "to consider any effort to determine the future of Taiwan by other than peaceful means, including by boycotts or embargoes, a threat to the peace and security of the Western Pacific area and of grave concern to the United States";

(E) "to provide Taiwan with arms of a defensive character"; and

(F) "to maintain the capacity of the United States to resist any resort to force or other forms of coercion that would jeopardize the security, or the social or economic system, of the people on Taiwan".

(4) Since the election of President Tsai Ing-wen as President of Taiwan in 2016, the Chinese Communist Party has employed a variety of coercive military and nonmilitary tactics short of armed conflict in its efforts to exert existential pressure on Taiwan, including through diplomatic isolation, restricting tourism, cyberattacks, spreading disinformation, and controlling the ability of Taiwan to purchase COVID-19 vaccines from other countries.

(5) Since 2021, there has been a notable increase in military provocations by the People's Liberation Army against Taiwan, including increased flights of military aircraft within Taiwan's air defense identification zone, incursions over the midline separating the People's Republic of China from Taiwan, holding military exercises in the vicinity of Taiwan's controlled waters, and performing live-fire exercises in the South China Sea.

(6) In August 2022, the People's Republic of China held unprecedented live-fire military exercises and a simulated blockade involving hundreds of military aircraft, dozens of warships, and launches of short-range ballistic missiles over the territory of Taiwan.

(7) The midline separating the People's Republic of China from Taiwan has been effectively erased, increasing the prospects for incidental contact between forces of the People's Republic of China and Taiwan as well as shortening reaction times related to provocations by the People's Republic of China.

(8) On August 10, 2022, the Taiwan Affairs Office of the State Council of the People's Republic of China released a white paper entitled "The Taiwan Question and China's Reunification in the New Era" that reiterated the long-standing position of the Government of the People's Republic of China not to renounce the use of force to bring about unification with Taiwan and to "always be ready to respond with the use of force . . . to interference by external forces or radical action by separatist elements".

(9) In March 2021, then Commander of the United States Indo-Pacific Command Admiral Philip Davidson testified that the threat of a military invasion of Taiwan by the People's Liberation Army "is manifest during this decade, in fact in the next six years".

(10) In March 2021, then Commander of the United States Pacific Fleet Admiral John Aquilino testified that the threat of a military invasion by the People's Liberation Army of Taiwan is "much closer to us than most think" and could materialize well before 2035.

(11) On February 24, 2022, the Armed Forces of the Russian Federation initiated an unprovoked and unjustified invasion of Ukraine, resulting in at least 14,000 civilian casualties, including more than 5,000 deaths.

(12) The Russian Federation invasion has destabilized global markets and supply chains, from energy to food, contributing to high inflation and recession in the United States and deep cuts to global gross domestic product.

(13) With the assistance of the United States and European allies, Ukrainian forces have successfully repelled the Russian Federation invasion and recaptured significant portions of territory taken by the Russian Federation in the initial stages of the invasion.

(14) In addition to military power, economic and financial instruments of United States power and their potential use can have an important deterrent effect on the actions of other countries.

SEC. 1283. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) it is in the interests of the United States to maintain a free and open Indo-Pacific region, with peace and stability in the Taiwan Strait as a critical component;

(2) efforts by the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Chinese Communist Party to unilaterally determine the future of Taiwan through non-peaceful means, including threats and the direct use of force, military coercion, economic boycotts or embargoes, and efforts to internationally isolate or annex Taiwan—

(A) directly undermine the spirit, intent, and purpose of the Taiwan Relations Act (22 U.S.C. 3301 et seq.);

(B) undermine peace and stability in the Taiwan Strait;

(C) limit a free and open Indo-Pacific region; and

(D) are of grave concern to the Government of the United States;

(3) the initiation of a military invasion of Taiwan by the People's Liberation Army would—

(A) constitute a threat to the peace and security of the Western Pacific Area and threaten the peace stability of the entire globe; and

(B) undermine the core political, security, and economic interests of the United States at home and abroad; and

(4) as an important deterrent measure against a military invasion of Taiwan, the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Chinese Communist Party must understand that initiating such an invasion will result in catastrophic economic and financial consequences for the People's Republic of China.

SEC. 1284. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

The policy of the Government of the United States on Taiwan is guided by the Taiwan Relations Act (22 U.S.C. 3301 et seq.), the United States-People's Republic of China joint communiqués concluded in 1972, 1978, and 1982, and the Six Assurances that President Ronald Reagan communicated to Taiwan in 1982, but in the event of the initiation of a military invasion of Taiwan by the People's Liberation Army, it is the policy of the United States—

(1) to use and deploy all economic, commercial, and financial instruments and levers of power, including—

(A) the imposition of sanctions with respect to leadership of the Chinese Communist Party, key officials of the Government of the People's Republic of China, and financial institutions and other entities affiliated with the Chinese Communist Party or the Government of the People's Republic of China;

(B) prohibiting the listing or trading of the securities of Chinese entities on United States securities exchanges;

(C) prohibiting investments by United States financial institutions in economic sectors of the People's Republic of China; and

(D) prohibiting the importation of certain goods mined, produced, or manufactured in the People's Republic of China into the United States; and

(2) to work in close coordination with allies and partners of the United States to encourage those allies and partners to undertake similar economic, commercial, and financial actions against the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Chinese Communist Party.

SEC. —. EQUAL ENFORCEMENT OF EXPENDING ONLY AUTHORIZED APPROPRIATIONS UNDER CONTINUING RESOLUTIONS.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) The national security of the United States suffers greatly from continuing appropriation Acts due to the inability of the Department of Defense to execute new starts or production increases under the standardized language of continuing resolutions.

(2) No other executive branch agency receives similar treatment under the standardized language of continuing resolutions.

which funding is provided under a continuing resolution for a fiscal year over the past 15 years.

(4) Experimentation with alternative methods of increasing pressure for negotiations could result in more efficient and effective outcomes for national security and the taxpayers of the United States.

(b) EQUAL ENFORCEMENT.—No amounts made available under an appropriation Act providing continuing funding for a fiscal year shall be made available to any department, agency, corporation, or other organization unit of the Federal Government for production of items, procurement of materials, construction of facilities, research and development, execution of contracts, or any other use of funds not specifically provided for in the annual appropriation Act for the preceding fiscal year.

Subtitle G—Masih Alinejad HUNT Act of 2022
SEC. 1281. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the “Masih Alinejad Harassment and Unlawful Targeting Act of 2022” or the “Masih Alinejad HUNT Act of 2022”.

SEC. 1282. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran surveils, harasses, terrorizes, tortures, abducts, and murders individuals who peacefully defend human rights and freedoms in Iran, and innocent entities and individuals considered by the Government of Iran to be enemies of that regime, including United States citizens on United States soil, and takes foreign nationals hostage, including in the following instances:

(1) In 2021, Iranian intelligence agents were indicted for plotting to kidnap United States citizen, women’s rights activist, and journalist Masih Alinejad, from her home in New York City, in retaliation for exercising her rights under the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. Iranian agents allegedly spent at least approximately half a million dollars to capture the outspoken critic of the authoritarianism of the Government of Iran, and studied evacuating her by military-style speedboats to Venezuela before rendition to Iran.

(2) Prior to the New York kidnapping plot, Ms. Alinejad’s family in Iran was instructed by authorities to lure Ms. Alinejad to Turkey. In an attempt to intimidate her into silence, the Government of Iran arrested 3 of Ms. Alinejad’s family members in 2019, and sentenced her brother to 8 years in prison for refusing to denounce her.

(3) According to Federal prosecutors, the same Iranian intelligence network that allegedly plotted to kidnap Ms. Alinejad is also targeting critics of the Government of Iran who live in Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United Arab Emirates.

(4) In 2021, an Iranian diplomat was convicted in Belgium of attempting to carry out a 2018 bombing of a dissident rally in France.

(5) In 2021, a Danish high court found a Norwegian citizen of Iranian descent guilty of illegal espionage and complicity in a failed plot to kill an Iranian Arab dissident figure in Denmark.

(6) In 2021, the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) appealed to the United Nations to protect BBC Persian employees in London who suffer regular harassment and threats of kidnapping by Iranian government agents.

(7) In 2021, 15 militants allegedly working on behalf of the Government of Iran were arrested in Ethiopia for plotting to attack citizens of Israel, the United States, and the United Arab Emirates, according to United States officials.

(8) In 2020, Iranian agents allegedly kidnapped United States resident and Iranian-German journalist Jamshid Sharmahd, while he was traveling to India through Dubai. Iranian authorities announced they had seized Mr. Sharmahd in “a complex operation”, and paraded him blindfolded on state television. Mr. Sharmahd is arbitrarily detained in Iran, allegedly facing the death penalty. In 2009, Mr. Sharmahd was the target of an alleged Iran-directed assassination plot in Glendora, California.

(9) In 2020, the Government of Turkey released counterterrorism files exposing how Iranian authorities allegedly collaborated with drug gangs to kidnap Habib Chabi, an Iranian-Swedish activist for Iran’s Arab minority. In 2020, the Government of Iran allegedly lured Mr. Chabi to Istanbul through a female agent posing as a potential lover. Mr. Chabi was then allegedly kidnapped from Istanbul, and smuggled into Iran where he faces execution, following a sham trial.

(10) In 2020, a United States-Iranian citizen and an Iranian resident of California pleaded guilty to charges of acting as illegal agents of the Government of Iran by surveilling Jewish student facilities, including the Hillel Center and Rohr Chabad Center at the University of Chicago, in addition to surveilling and collecting identifying information about United States citizens and nationals who are critical of the Iranian regime.

(11) In 2019, 2 Iranian intelligence officers at the Iranian consulate in Turkey allegedly orchestrated the assassination of Iranian dissident journalist Masoud Molavi Vardanjani, who was shot while walking with a friend in Istanbul. Unbeknownst to Mr. Molavi, his “friend” was in fact an undercover Iranian agent and the leader of the killing squad, according to a Turkish police report.

(12) In 2019, around 1,500 people were allegedly killed amid a less than 2 week crackdown by security forces on anti-government protests across Iran, including at least an alleged 23 children and 400 women.

At the end of subtitle B of title XXXI, add the following:

SEC. 3118. PROHIBITION ON USE OF FUNDS FOR RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT, PRODUCTION, OR DEPLOYMENT OF NUCLEAR-ARMED SEA-LAUNCHED CRUISE MISSILE AND ASSOCIATED WARHEAD.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The United States nuclear arsenal comprises approximately 3,800 nuclear warheads in the active stockpile and a force structure of long-range and short-range delivery systems, including—

(A) land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles;

(B) submarine-launched ballistic missiles that can deliver both low-yield and higher-yield nuclear warheads;

(C) long-range strategic bomber aircraft capable of carrying nuclear-armed air-launched cruise missile and nuclear gravity bombs; and

(2) In 2010, the United States retired the nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missile, or the TLAM-N, after concluding in the 2010 Nuclear Posture Review that the capability “serve[d] a redundant purpose in the U.S. nuclear stockpile”.

(3) Ten years later, in 2020, the United States initiated studies into a new nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missile and associated warhead, after concluding in the 2018 Nuclear Posture Review that the weapon system would provide a “non-strategic regional presence” and “an assured response capability”.

(4) The United States possesses an array of nuclear weapons systems, including both air-and sea-based capabilities, that provide an effective regional deterrent presence, making the nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missile a redundant, unnecessary capability.

(5) Deploying nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missiles on attack submarines or surface ships risks detracting from the core military missions of such submarines and ships, such as tracking enemy submarines, protecting United States carrier groups, and conducting conventional strikes on priority land targets.

(6) Stationing nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missiles on such submarines or ships also risks complicating port visits and joint operations with some allies and partners of the United States, which in turn would reduce the operational effectiveness of such submarines and ships and the deterrent value of deployed nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missiles.

(7) A January 2019 analysis of the Congressional Budget Office estimated that the projected costs of the nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missile program from 2019 to 2028 would total $9,000,000,000, adding additional costs and resource requirements to the United States nuclear modernization program and increasing pressure on the Navy budget as the Navy plans for increases in shipbuilding while funding the Columbia-class submarine program.

(8) The cost of the nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missile program will be larger, as the estimate of the Congressional Budget Office did not account for costs related to integrating nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missiles on attack submarines or surface ships, nuclear weapons-specific training for Navy personnel, or storage and security for nuclear warheads.

(b) PROHIBITION ON USE OF FUNDS.—None of the funds authorized to be appropriated or otherwise made available for fiscal year 2023 or any fiscal year thereafter for the Department of Defense or the Department of Energy may be obligated or expended for the research and development, production, or deployment of the nuclear-armed sea-launched cruise missile and its associated nuclear warhead.

Mr. VAN HOLLEN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed to amendment SA 5499 submitted by Mr. REED (for himself and Mr. INHOFE) and intended to be proposed to the bill H.R. 7900, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2023 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the appropriate place, insert the following:

“(c) CONSTRUCTION OF AUTHORITY.—Any nomination for cadets made by a Senator pursuant to this section is in addition to any nomination for cadets otherwise authorized the Senator under section 51302 of this title or any other provision of law.”

SEC. 1254. NORTH KOREAN HUMAN RIGHTS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the “North Korean Human Rights Reauthorization Act of 2022”.

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The North Korean Human Rights Act of 2004 (Public Law 108-333; 22 U.S.C. 7801 et seq.) and subsequent reauthorizations of such Act were the product of broad, bipartisan consensus regarding the promotion of human rights, documentation of human rights violations, transparency in the delivery of humanitarian assistance, and the importance of refugee protection.

(2) The human rights and humanitarian conditions within North Korea remain deplorable and have been intentionally perpetuated against the people of North Korea through policies endorsed and implemented by Kim Jong-un and the Workers' Party of Korea.

(3) According to a 2014 report released by the United Nations Human Rights Council's Commission of Inquiry on Human Rights in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, between 80,000 and 120,000 children, women, and men were being held in political prison camps in North Korea, where they were subjected to deliberate starvation, forced labor, executions, torture, rape, forced abortion, and infanticide.

(4) North Korea continues to hold a number of South Koreans and Japanese abducted after the signing of the Agreement Concerning a Military Armistice in Korea, signed at Panmunjom July 27, 1953 (commonly referred to as the “Korean War Armistice Agreement”) and refuses to acknowledge the abduction of more than 100,000 South Koreans during the Korean War in violation of the Geneva Convention.

(5) Human rights violations in North Korea, which include forced starvation, sexual violence against women and children, restrictions on freedom of movement, arbitrary detention, torture, executions, and enforced disappearances, amount to crimes against humanity according to the United Nations Commission of Inquiry on Human Rights in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

(6) The effects of the COVID-19 pandemic and North Korea's strict lockdown of its borders and crackdowns on informal market activities and small entrepreneurship have drastically increased food insecurity for its people and given rise to famine conditions in parts of the country.

(7) North Korea's COVID-19 border lockdown measures also include shoot-to-kill orders that have resulted in the killing of—

(A) North Koreans attempting to cross the border; and

(B) at least 1 South Korean citizen in September 2020.

(8) The Chinese Communist Party and the Government of the People's Republic of China are aiding and abetting in crimes against humanity by forcibly repatriating North Korean refugees to North Korea where they are sent to prison camps, harshly interrogated, and tortured or executed.

(9) The forcible repatriation of North Korean refugees violates the People's Republic of China's freely undertaken obligation to uphold the principle of non-refoulement, under the Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees, done at Geneva July 28, 1951 (and made applicable by the Protocol Relating to the Status of Refugees, done at New York January 31, 1967 (19 UST 6223)).

(10) North Korea continues to bar freedom of religion and persecute religious minorities, especially Christians. Eyewitnesses report that Christians in North Korea have been tortured, forcibly detained, and even executed for possessing a Bible or professing Christianity.

(11) United States and international broadcasting operations into North Korea—

(A) serve as a critical source of outside news and information for the North Korean people; and

(12) The position of Special Envoy on North Korean Human Rights Issues has been vacant since January 2017, even though the President is required to appoint a Senate-confirmed Special Envoy to fill this position in accordance with section 107 of the North Korean Human Rights Act of 2004 (22 U.S.C. 7817).

(c) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) promoting information access in North Korea continues to be a successful method of countering North Korean propaganda;

(2) the United States Government should continue to support efforts described in paragraph (1), including by enacting and implementing the Otto Warmbier North Korean Censorship and Surveillance Act of 2021, which was introduced by Senator Portman on June 17, 2021;

(3) because refugees among North Koreans fleeing into China face severe punishments upon their forcible return, the United States should urge the Government of the People's Republic of China—

(A) to immediately halt its forcible repatriation of North Koreans;

(B) to allow the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (referred to in this section as “UNHCR”) unimpeded access to North Koreans within China to determine whether they are refugees and require assistance;

(C) to fulfill its obligations under the Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees, done at Geneva July 28, 1951 (and made applicable by the Protocol Relating to the Status of Refugees, done at New York January 31, 1967 (19 UST 6223) and the Agreement on the upgrading of the UNHCR Mission in the People's Republic of China to UNHCR branch office in the People's Republic of China, done at Geneva December 1, 1995;

(D) to address the concerns of the United Nations Committee Against Torture by incorporating into domestic legislation the principle of non-refoulement; and

(E) to recognize the legal status of North Korean women who marry or have children with Chinese citizens and ensure that all such mothers and children are granted resident status and access to education and other public services in accordance with Chinese law and international standards;

(4) the United States Government should continue to promote the effective and transparent delivery and distribution of any humanitarian aid provided in North Korea to ensure that such aid reaches its intended recipients to the point of consumption or utilization by cooperating closely with the Government of the Republic of Korea and international and nongovernmental organizations;

(5) the Department of State should continue to take steps to increase public awareness about the risks and dangers of travel by United States citizens to North Korea, including by continuing its policy of blocking United States passports from being used to travel to North Korea without a special validation from the Department of State;

(6) the United Nations, which has a significant role to play in promoting and improving human rights in North Korea, should press for access for the United Nations Special Rapporteur and the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights on the situation of human rights in North Korea;

(7) the Special Envoy for North Korean Human Rights Issues should be appointed without delay—

(A) to properly promote and coordinate North Korean human rights and humanitarian issues; and

(B) to participate in policy planning and implementation with respect to refugee issues;

(8) the United States should urge North Korea to repeal the Reactionary Thought and Culture Denunciation Law and other draconian laws, regulations, and decrees that manifestly violate the freedom of opinion and expression and the freedom of thought, conscience, and religion;

(9) the United States should urge North Korea to ensure that any restrictions on addressing the COVID-19 pandemic are necessary, proportionate, nondiscriminatory, time-bound, transparent, and allow international staff to operate inside the North Korea to provide international assistance based on independent needs assessments;

(10) the United States should expand the Rewards for Justice program to be open to North Korean officials who can provide evidence of crimes against humanity being committed by North Korean officials;

(11) the United States should continue to seek cooperation from all foreign governments—

(A) to allow the UNHCR access to process North Korean refugees overseas for resettlement; and

(B) to allow United States officials access to process refugees for possible resettlement in the United States; and

(12) the Secretary of State, through diplomacy by senior officials, including United States ambassadors to Asia-Pacific countries, and in close cooperation with South Korea, should make every effort to promote the protection of North Korean refugees, escapees, and defectors.

(g) SUPPORT FOR NORTH KOREAN REFUGEES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of State and the Secretary of Homeland Security should collaborate with faith-based and Korean-American organizations to resettle North Korean participants in the United States Refugee Admissions Program in areas with existing Korean-American communities to mitigate trauma and mental health considerations of refugees, as appropriate.

(i) REPORT ON HUMANITARIAN EXEMPTIONS TO SANCTIONS IMPOSED WITH RESPECT TO NORTH KOREA.—

(1) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(A) the continued pursuit by the North Korean regime of weapons of mass destruction (including nuclear, chemical, and biological weapons), in addition to its ballistic missile program, along with the regime's gross violations of human rights, have led the international community to impose sanctions with respect to North Korea, including sanctions imposed by the United Nations Security Council;

At the end of title XII, add the following:

Subtitle G—Taiwan Relations Reinforcement Act of 2022

SEC. 1281. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the “Taiwan Relations Reinforcement Act of 2022”.

SEC. 1282. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Taiwan Relations Act of 1979 (Public Law 96-8) and the Six Assurances, first articulated by President Ronald Reagan in 1982, are both cornerstones of United States relations with Taiwan, formally known as the Republic of China (ROC).

(2) The People's Republic of China (PRC) and Taiwan have been ruled without interruption by separate governments since 1949, and Taiwan has not been subjected to rule by the PRC at any point since the PRC was first established in 1949.

(3) The so-called “One China Policy” of the United States Government is not the same as the “One China principle” espoused by the People's Republic of China.

(4) Threats and actions by the Government of the People's Republic of China to unilaterally determine Taiwan's future through non-peaceful means, including the direct use of force, military coercion, economic boycotts or embargoes, and efforts to internationally isolate or annex Taiwan, would undermine stability in the Taiwan Strait and are of grave concern to the United States Government.

(5) The Chinese Communist Party's (CCP) global influence operations and efforts to exert sharp power have sought to diplomatically undermine the legitimacy of the democratically elected Government of Taiwan, intimidate the people of Taiwan, and force Taiwan's diplomatic partners to abandon it.

(6) The force modernization program and military buildup of the CCP-controlled People's Liberation Army poses a serious challenge to the balance of power in the Indo-Pacific region, including the Taiwan Strait, and to United States national security interests as a Pacific power.

(7) Cultural and educational exchanges between the United States and Taiwan are a key component of building and strengthening bilateral people-to-people ties and provide important, high-quality learning opportunities for students interested in politics, history, language, and culture.

(8) Taiwan is an important trading partner for the United States, representing the 10th largest market for United States exports in 2019.

(9) April 10, 2020, marked the 41st anniversary of the Taiwan Relations Act of 1979 (Public Law 96-8).

SEC. 1283. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the United States Government should strengthen cooperation with the military of Taiwan under the framework of the Taiwan Relations Act (Public Law 96-8) and the Six Assurances with consideration of the ongoing military buildup in China and the imbalance in the security environment in the Taiwan Strait;

(2) the United States Government should urge Taiwan to increase its own investments in military capabilities that support implementation of its asymmetric defense strategy;

(3) the United States Government should promote dignity and respect for its Taiwanese counterparts, who represent more than 23,000,000 citizens, by using the full range of diplomatic and financial tools available to promote Taiwan's inclusion and meaningful participation in international organizations as well as in bilateral and multilateral security summits, military exercises, and economic dialogues and forums; and

(4) in order to deepen economic ties and advance the interests of the United States, the United States Government should prioritize the negotiation of a free trade agreement with Taiwan that provides high levels of labor rights and environmental protection as soon as possible.

SEC. 1284. A TWENTY-FIRST CENTURY PARTNERSHIP WITH TAIWAN.

(c) PARTNERING WITH TECRO.—State and local school districts and educational institutions such as public universities shall partner with the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office (TECRO) in the United States to establish programs to promote an increase in educational and cultural exchanges.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report on China's efforts at the United Nations and other international bodies to block Taiwan's meaningful participation and inclusion and recommend appropriate responses to be taken by the United States.

SEC. 1288. INVITATION OF TAIWANESE COUNTERPARTS TO HIGH-LEVEL BILATERAL AND MULTILATERAL FORUMS AND EXERCISES.

(a) STATEMENT OF POLICY.—It is the policy of the United States to invite Taiwanese counterparts to participate in high-level bilateral and multilateral summits, military exercises, and economic dialogues and forums.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the United States Government should invite Taiwan to regional dialogues on issues of mutual concern;

(2) the United States Government and Taiwanese counterparts should resume meetings under the United States-Taiwan Trade and Investment Framework Agreement and reach a bilateral free trade agreement;

(3) the United States Government should invite Taiwan to participate in bilateral and multilateral military training exercises; and

(4) the United States Government and Taiwanese counterparts should engage in a regular and routine strategic bilateral dialogue on arms sales in accordance with Foreign Military Sales mechanisms, and the United States Government should support export licenses for direct commercial sales supporting Taiwan's indigenous defensive capabilities.

SEC. 1289. REPORT ON TAIWAN TRAVEL ACT.

(a) LIST OF HIGH-LEVEL VISITS.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and annually thereafter, the Secretary of State shall, in accordance with the Taiwan Travel Act (Public Law 115-135), submit to the appropriate congressional committees a list of high-level officials from the United States Government that have traveled to Taiwan and a list of high-level officials of Taiwan that have entered the United States.

(b) ANNUAL REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and annually thereafter, the Secretary of State shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a report on implementation of the Taiwan Travel Act.

SEC. 1290. PROHIBITIONS AGAINST UNDERMINING UNITED STATES POLICY REGARDING TAIWAN.

(a) FINDING.—Congress finds that the efforts by the Government of the People's Republic of China (PRC) and the Chinese Communist Party to compel private United States businesses, corporations, and nongovernmental entities to use PRC-mandated language to describe the relationship between Taiwan and China are an intolerable attempt to enforce political censorship globally and should be considered an attack on the fundamental underpinnings of all democratic and free societies, including the constitutionally protected right to freedom of speech.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that the United States Government, in coordination with United States businesses and nongovernmental entities, should formulate a code of conduct for interacting with the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Chinese Communist Party and affiliated entities, the aim of which is—

(1) to counter PRC sharp power operations, which threaten free speech, academic freedom, and the normal operations of United States businesses and nongovernmental entities; and

(2) to counter PRC efforts to censor the way the world refers to issues deemed sensitive to the Government of the People's Republic of China and Chinese Communist Party leaders, including issues related to Taiwan, Tibet, the Tiananmen Square Massacre, and the mass internment of Uyghurs and other Turkic Muslims, among many other issues.

(c) PROHIBITION ON RECOGNITION OF PRC CLAIMS TO SOVEREIGNTY OVER TAIWAN.—

(1) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(A) issues related to the sovereignty of Taiwan are for the people of Taiwan to decide through the democratic process they have established;

(B) the dispute between the People's Republic of China and Taiwan must be resolved peacefully and with the assent of the people of Taiwan;

(C) the primary obstacle to peaceful resolution is the authoritarian nature of the PRC political system under one-party rule of the Chinese Communist Party, which is fundamentally incompatible with Taiwan's democracy; and

(D) any attempt to coerce the people of Taiwan to accept a political arrangement that would subject them to direct or indirect rule by the PRC, including a "one country, two systems" framework, would constitute a grave challenge to United States security interests in the region.

(2) STATEMENT OF POLICY.—It is the policy of the United States to oppose any attempt by the PRC authorities to unilaterally impose a timetable or deadline for unification on Taiwan.

(3) PROHIBITION ON RECOGNITION OF PRC CLAIMS WITHOUT ASSENT OF PEOPLE OF TAIWAN.—No department or agency of the United States Government may formally or informally recognize PRC claims to sovereignty over Taiwan without the assent of the people of Taiwan, as expressed directly through the democratic process.

(4) TREATMENT OF TAIWAN GOVERNMENT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Department of State and other United States Government agencies shall treat the democratically elected government of Taiwan as the legitimate representative of the people of Taiwan and end the outdated practice of referring to the government in Taiwan as the "authorities". Notwithstanding the continued supporting role of the American Institute in Taiwan in carrying out United States foreign policy and protecting United States interests in Taiwan, the United States Government shall not place any restrictions on the ability of officials of the Department of State and other United States Government agencies from interacting directly and routinely with counterparts in the Taiwan government.

(B) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as entailing restoration of diplomatic relations with the Republic of China, which were terminated on January 1, 1979, or altering the United States Government's position on Taiwan's international status.

(d) STRATEGY TO PROTECT UNITED STATES BUSINESSES AND NONGOVERNMENTAL ENTITIES FROM COERCION.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Commerce, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the heads of other relevant Federal agencies, shall submit an unclassified report, with a classified annex if necessary, to protect United States businesses and nongovernmental entities from sharp power operations, including coercion and threats that lead to censorship or self-censorship, or which compel compliance with political or foreign policy positions of the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Chinese Communist Party. The strategy shall include the following elements:

(1) Information on efforts by the Government of the People's Republic of China to censor the websites of United States airlines, hotels, and other businesses regarding the relationship between Taiwan and the People's Republic of China.

(2) Information on efforts by the Government of the People's Republic of China to target United States nongovernmental entities through sharp power operations intended to weaken support for Taiwan.

(3) Information on United States Government efforts to counter the threats posed by Chinese state-sponsored propaganda and disinformation, including information on best practices, current successes, and existing barriers to responding to this threat.

(4) Details of any actions undertaken to create a code of conduct pursuant to subsection (b) and a timetable for implementation.

SEC. 1291. STRATEGY TO RESPOND TO SHARP POWER OPERATIONS TARGETING TAIWAN.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State shall develop and implement a strategy to respond to sharp power operations and the united front campaign supported by the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Chinese Communist Party that are directed toward persons or entities in Taiwan.

(b) ELEMENTS.—The strategy required under subsection (a) shall include the following elements:

(1) Development of a response to PRC propaganda and disinformation campaigns and cyber-intrusions targeting Taiwan, including—

(A) assistance in building the capacity of the Taiwan government and private-sector entities to document and expose propaganda and disinformation supported by the Government of the People's Republic of China, the Chinese Communist Party, or affiliated entities;

(B) assistance to enhance the Taiwan government's ability to develop a whole-of-government strategy to respond to sharp power operations, including election interference; and

(C) media training for Taiwan officials and other Taiwan entities targeted by disinformation campaigns.

(2) Development of a response to political influence operations that includes an assessment of the extent of influence exerted by the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Chinese Communist Party in Taiwan on local political parties, financial institutions, media organizations, and other entities.

(3) Support for exchanges and other technical assistance to strengthen the Taiwan legal system's ability to respond to sharp power operations.

(4) Establishment of a coordinated partnership, through the Global Cooperation and Training Framework, with like-minded governments to share data and best practices with the Government of Taiwan on ways to address sharp power operations supported by the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Chinese Communist Party.

SEC. 1292. REPORT ON DETERRENCE IN THE TAIWAN STRAIT.

Not later than 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, and annually thereafter, the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees a joint report that assesses the military posture of Taiwan and the United States as it specifically pertains to the deterrence of military conflict and conflict readiness in the Taiwan Strait. In light of the changing military balance in the Taiwan Strait, the report should include analysis of whether current Taiwan and United States policies sufficiently deter efforts to determine the future of Taiwan by other than peaceful means.

(B) to foster attitudes, behavior, decisions, or outcomes in Taiwan and elsewhere that support the interests of the Government of the People's Republic of China or the Chinese Communist Party.
