The House met at 9 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. Brown of Maryland).

DESIGNATION OF THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE
The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC, October 18, 2022.
I hereby appoint the Honorable Anthony G. Brown to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NANCY PELOSI,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PRAYER
The Chaplain, the Reverend Margaret Grun Kibben, offered the following prayer:

Holy God, following the spate of mass shootings this weekend, we add Harri-sonburg, Virginia; Atlanta, Georgia; Denver, Colorado; and Raleigh, North Carolina, to our ever-growing, though sadly incomplete, prayer list. We pray today for all communities grieving too many violent deaths and tragic injuries inflicted upon unsuspecting men, women, and children, most of whom were just going about the business and pleasure of their day.

Hear our prayers as we seek to make sense of the senselessness of these events.

Tend to our grief as we look for consolation in the wake of the inconsolability that attend these crimes.

Grant us a way forward as we search for answers while consumed by countless unanswerable questions.

God, is it true, as St. Augustine as-sured, that You permit such evil so as to transform it to a greater good?

Give us, then, eyes to see, ears to hear, and hearts to believe in this unbelievable promise You offer.

Then give us wills to live into the possibility of this impossible hope and to be the visible agents of Your invisible grace.

Holy God, we lay our finite lives to the infinite mercy found in Your name. Amen.

THE JOURNAL
The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to section 5 of House Resolution 1396, the Journal of the last day’s proceedings is approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The SPEAKER pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CLERK OF THE HOUSE
The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Clerk of the House of Representatives:

EXTENSIONS OF REMARKS

HONORING THE 2022 WOMEN OF THE YEAR

HON. JOHN GARAMENDI OF CALIFORNIA IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Mr. GARAMENDI. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the 2022 Women of the Year. The honorees represent some of the most outstanding and dedicated women in California’s 3rd Congressional District. Nominated by their peers, these women are recognized for the integral and crucial roles they play in improving the lives of everyone in their communities. This year marks the 102nd anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which guaranteed and protected women’s constitutional right to vote. In securing the right to vote, suffragists broke through a seemingly impenetrable barrier to women’s full and equal citizenship in our country, signaling a new era of equality. Yet, even today, women still face significant barriers to their rights and liberties from pay discrimination to criminalizing women’s reproductive rights. I take heart that each of this year’s honorees will be a vital part of the work left to be done to realize women’s full equality and rights.

The 2022 Women of the Year are:

Yvonne Perkins is being honored as one of California’s 3rd Congressional District’s Women of the Year. Yvonne is a devoted leader who has been a key part of the Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation. She has played an integral role in embodying the nation’s mission by caring for families and her community, strengthening their culture, and promoting self-governance and economic independence for future generations. Yvonne currently sits on the Tribal Council for the Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation as well as the Community Fund and several other Tribal committees. While working in these roles, she has played an important part in assisting the Yolo Food Bank fund their Yolo Grown program, Holiday Food Events, and was integral to the Tribe’s $2.5 million donation to the Capital Campaign which helped fund the construction of a new food bank facility. Her work with the Community Fund maintains partnerships with over 400 diverse organizations throughout the county, State, and country. Yvonne works to continue a philanthropic legacy that has granted more than $38 million in funding to support programs and initiatives dedicated to assisting communities in need. Every role she has taken, she has always been a strong advocate for organizations serving the needs of the people throughout Yolo County. Yvonne is a vital member of the community whose leadership and service to others is an inspiration to all who meet her.

Laura Proctor is the Coordinator for Solano County’s Project Linus Chapter, and her passion and hard work have turned this small, but dedicated group into a full-scale operation. A lifelong crocheter, she has always enjoyed making blankets, but Project Linus became a place where she could put her hobby to work for an important cause. Under her leadership, the Solano County chapter of Project Linus achieves its mission to “provide love, a sense of security, warmth, and comfort to children who are seriously ill, traumatized, or otherwise in need” through the gifts of new handmade blankets made by local volunteers. “blanketeers.” After taking the helm in 2011, she set up chapter meetings, collected all the blankets made by the local volunteers, and distributed them throughout Solano County to any organizations that would have contact with children who might be in need. Since the organization’s inception, over 30,000 blankets have been lovingly made by hand, donated, and distributed to children throughout Solano County. Following the LNU Lightning Complex fire that devastated Vacaville in 2020, Laura reached out to individual families and provided personalized blankets. While Project Linus couldn’t rebuild their homes, Laura knew it could provide warm comfort during troubling times. Laura has worked tirelessly with her team of blanket weavers to ensure that as many children in need could find comfort and beyond receive that comfort. Laura’s commitment and compassion are inspiring to all who know her.

Tonya Racasner is the Supervisory Public Affairs Specialist at the 60th Air Mobility Command at Travis Air Force Base. She guides operations for the media division, including media operations, command information, and community engagement for Air Mobility Command’s largest mobility wing. Tonya manages a 16-member communications team, directly supervising six civilian employees, and was instrumental in the team earning 16 higher headquarters awards as well as 14 Wing Staff Agency accolades. She also serves as an advisor to the Commander, senior staff, and external leaders. Tonya is the backbone of critical wing civic leader engagements with the communities surrounding Travis Air Force Base. She has actively coordinated more than three dozen meetings between base and local leaders, fostering stakeholder support for military spousal license reciprocity as well as KC–46 Pegasus operations. She has led four congressional delegate visits through which she has given presentations to Air Force leaders on the lives of those around her. Her in-depth knowledge and work ethic displayed throughout her career is reflected in her everyday life, making her an inspiration to all who know her.

Lisa Rowland Brasher is the President and Chief Executive Officer of the Jelly Belly Candy Company, a fifth-generation candy maker, and the first female to hold both titles. Lisa exemplifies Solano County’s fortitude and resilience. Her in-depth knowledge and work ethic displayed throughout her career is reflected in her everyday life, making her an exceptional leader and role model to others. In 2018, Lisa was inducted into the Candy Hall of Fame, a prestigious honor in the candy manufacturing world. In her acceptance speech, Lisa stated, “I am coming to realize that my passions and motivations are my strengths. That it’s not about filling my dad’s shoes, but rather about planting my feet right alongside them and adding my own unique leadership to our family history.” This comment truly represents Lisa’s courage, commitment to her family’s legacy, and determination to make her mark on her family’s company.

Dr. Rachel Russo is a Major in the United States Air Force, serving as an Active Duty trauma surgeon at the UC Davis Medical Center while stationed at Travis Air Force Base. Since her graduation from UC Davis in 2007 upon completing medical school in 2011, she has become a recognized national leader in trauma surgery, earning recognitions such as the American College of Surgeons Committee on Trauma’s top Military Future Trauma Leader and the ELS National Foundation Alumni of the Year. Driven by the experiences of military trauma surgeons serving in Operations Iraqi Freedom and Enduring Freedom, Dr. Russo has spent the last eight years conducting surgical research with the military to develop new methods of saving lives on the battlefield and here at home. Dr. Russo and her colleagues at Travis AFB developed the Partial REBOA technique which works to keep patients suffering from internal bleeding alive until they reach a surgeon. In 2017, she adapted its use for obstetric patients who first in the United States began to use it to save a mother and her unborn child. Her approach has been called revolutionary and is now used around the world. Dr. Russo now works with other hospitals to establish programs using this method to stop fatal bleeding in pregnant women.

Dr. Russo also spent years producing ''A Note of Elegance,''' the individual’s efforts over the years can be felt in Winters’ vibrant music scene, where she has organized annual holiday tree-lighting events, and many other cherished musical traditions in her community. Lynne is also a member of the Guerilla Gardeners, a group that volunteers their time to beautify public spaces. She can also always be found helping out at the many festivals enjoyed in Winters and leads by example, encouraging others to join in serving their community. She is known to all her peers as someone who will never hesitate to lend a helping hand. Her dedication to the betterment of her community and generous spirit are an inspiration to all who meet her.

Dr. Aimee Sisson’s outstanding work is visible to all who live, work, attend school, and visit Yolo County. In the fall of 2020, Aimee became the Yolo County Health Officer and guided her county through one of the most challenging times in modern history. As COVID–19 therapeutics, antivirals, and vaccines became available, Dr. Sisson worked to prioritize and protect the most vulnerable, while disseminating truthful and accurate information. Always putting the goal of saving lives in the forefront of her mind, she continued to lead the COVID response teams appreciated that she always made time for staff and their priorities. She attended daily meetings with staff working in key areas such as vaccinations and school safety to provide guidance and clarity, as well as to gauge how staff managed high levels of stress. In a time of great division in the country, State, and even locally, Aimee continually bridged that divide, both at the individual level, as well as with partner agencies. Her leadership, care, and compassion have never wavered as Yolo County continues to recover from the pandemic. She also serves as part of a leadership team within the Yolo County Health and Human Services Agency, working to support staff in recovering from three challenging years of pandemic response. In this role, Aimee looks for innovations that will have a measurable impact on healing staff and improving the work environment of HHSA. She is a leader in her workplace and a trusted authority throughout Yolo County. No single person has had a greater impact on the COVID–19 pandemic response in Yolo County than Dr. Aimee Sisson.

Dr. Arika Spencer-Brown is an exceptional leader who has over twenty-five years of experience in teaching and education administration at the early education, primary, secondary, and college levels. She holds an undergraduate degree in Child Development from Sacramento State University, a Master of Business Administration from the University of Phoenix, and a Doctor of Education in Organizational Leadership from Brandman University. She has a profound understanding of equitable educational practices and fosters positive community partnerships in her work to increase educational opportunities for young people. As the Director of College and Career Pathways, her passion for helping people access to higher education and career pathway partnerships. She was instrumental in assisting to facilitate healing racial conversations in the wake of the murders of George Floyd, Ahmaud Arbery, and Breonna Taylor. She brought the perspective of her lived experience as a woman of color and her expertise in issues of diversity, equity, and inclusion to these conversations that helped countless women advocate for positive change around the country. Arika has also been a proud alumna of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority for 29 years and currently works with the Vallejo Alumnae Chapter to serve the community through social action and education. She also serves on the Site Council for Angelo Rodriguez High School where she assists in developing plans for student achievement and monitors budgetary concerns. Her outstanding career accomplishments and dedication to serving her community make her an inspiration to all who know her.

Mary Statts is a skilled leader in the field of diversity and inclusion. She currently serves as the Global Chief Inclusion and Health Equity Officer at Real Chemistry where she is a member of the company’s Executive Leadership Committee. Prior to her work with Mary was the Chief Inclusion & Health Equity Officer at Stanford Health Care. While serving at Stanford Health Care, she curated the Inclusive Leadership Workshop designed to develop executives capable of leading and growing inclusive communities. Through this work, Mary’s leadership, care, and compassion have never wavered as Yolo County continues to recover from the pandemic. She also served as part of a leadership team within the Yolo County Health and Human Services Agency, working to support staff in recovering from three challenging years of pandemic response. In this role, Aimee looks for innovations that will have a measurable impact on healing staff and improving the work environment of HHSA. She is a leader in her workplace and a trusted authority throughout Yolo County. No single person has had a greater impact on the COVID–19 pandemic response in Yolo County than Dr. Aimee Sisson.

Dr. Arika Spencer-Brown is an exceptional leader who has over twenty-five years of experience in teaching and education administration at the early education, primary, secondary, and college levels. She holds an undergraduate degree in Child Development from Sacramento State University, a Master of Business Administration from the University of Phoenix, and a Doctor of Education in Organizational Leadership from Brandman University. She has a profound understanding of equitable educational practices and fosters positive community partnerships in her work to increase educational opportunities for young people. As the Director of always finds a way to address it. She is often sought out by community leaders for her input on civic matters impacting people throughout Yuba City and surrounding areas. She is also a well-known local artist who uses her art to reflect the cultural diversity of Yuba City. She is a compassionate and dedicated community servant always finding ways to help those in need.

I congratulate each of them and commend them for their work. I am inspired by them and firmly believe when women succeed, America succeeds!

IN RECOGNITION OF KIMBERLY-CLARK’S 150TH ANNIVERSARY

HON. MIKE GALLAGHER OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Mr. GALLAGHER. Madam Speaker, today I rise to recognize the 150th anniversary of Kimberly-Clark, a manufacturing and multinational corporation founded in 1872.

Founded in Neenah, Wisconsin, by John Kimberly, Havilah Babcock, Charles Clark, and Franklin Shattuck, the company’s first business was to manufacture paper mills. Over the years, the company became known for its innovation and expansion, and proved to be a top competitor in the industry. In the 1950s, with booming success Kimberly-Clark expanded internationally, opening countless operations across the globe. All throughout this period of expansion, the company continued to operate by the founders’ core values of quality, service, and fair dealing. I commend Kimberly Clark’s revolutionary manufacturing capabilities and their continued dedication to their work.

For the past 150 years, Kimberly-Clark has understood the basic needs of people by producing essential personal care products. Kimberly-Clark’s emphasis on innovation has evolved into one of the most successful stories of product development. Kimberly-Clark’s creative passion has led to the invention of five of their eight major consumer product categories: facial tissues, paper towels, toilet paper on a roll, feminine hygiene pads and disposable training pants. Kimberly-Clark is now a global consumer products manufacturer whose brands include Kleenex, Cottonelle, Depend, Kotex, Huggies, and Pull-Ups. Led by CEO John Flexon, Kimberly-Clark employs more than 45,000 people and has net sales exceeding $19 billion annually. While Kimberly-Clark now does business in 175 countries, it still has a substantial amount of its manufacturing in Wisconsin and has been an incredible community partner in the local area. Kimberly-Clark has donated tens of millions of dollars over the decades to local non-profits, as well as volunteer hours and countless product donations to help make life better for those in need. Again, congratulations to Kimberly Clark on 150 years of success.

This year marks the 102nd anniversary of the Women’s Right to Vote, secured by the women’s suffrage movement and the passage of the 19th Amendment. Since the passage of the 19th Amendment, women have continued to break barriers and set the standard for how women can fully engage in American life. It is a testament to the strong women of our state and country that they will continue to influence and change the world. Today, I am honored to recognize the hard work and accomplishments of these women and all women who strive to improve the quality of life for themselves and others.

HONORING THE 2022 WOMEN OF THE YEAR

HON. JOHN GARAMENDI
OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Mr. GARAMENDI. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the 2022 Women of the Year. The honorees represent some of the most outstanding individuals in California’s 3rd Congressional District. Nominated by their peers, these women are recognized for the integral and crucial roles they play in improving the lives of everyone in their communities. This year marks the 102nd anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which guaranteed and protected women’s constitutional right to vote. In securing the right to vote, suffragists broke through a seemingly impenetrable barrier to women’s full and equal citizenship in our country, signaling a new era of equality. Yet, even today, women still face significant barriers to their rights and liberties from pay discrimination to criminalizing women’s reproductive rights. I take heart that each of this year’s honorees will be a vital part of the work left to be done to realize women’s full equality and rights.

The 2022 Women of the Year are: Jamie Elliott has been a strong advocate for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. During the time she worked with the City of Davis Parks and Recreation Department, she initiated a key program to provide social and recreational activities for youth and adults, now known as Adaptive Recreation. She has served as a volunteer coach for the non-profit Team Davis and the Special Olympics. Team Davis has conducted several other recreational and educational activities for children and adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities throughout Yolo County. Jamie serves as a personal caregiver for a number of adults with disabilities who do not have family nearby, ensuring they are engaged in Adaptive Recreation, Team Davis, and other community events. She is known by her peers for her fierce advocacy and compassionate leadership which has touched the lives of countless individuals.

Lieutenant Colonel May Euavijitearoon serves her country in the United States Air Force with distinction. She currently serves as the 60th Maintenance Squadron Commander at Travis Air Force Base, California, where she supervises over 500 civilian personnel and the maintenance of over $9.2 billion worth of aircraft and equipment critical to the mission at Travis. Under her command, the unit’s achievements include the Air Mobility Command’s selection as the Additive Manufacturing Center of Excellence, the fourth consecutive Maintenance Effectiveness Award, and the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. In addition to her squadron’s accolades, May earned the 60th Air Mobility Wing’s Field Grade Officer of the Year in 2019, took command in 2020, and won the wing’s Lance P. Sijan USAF Leadership Award in 2021. In addition to her exemplary leadership of the 60th Maintenance Squadron, May has done important work to improve diversity, inclusion, and representation within the Air Force and throughout our community. She was the featured speaker at Beale Air Force Base’s 2017 Asia-Pacific Heritage Month Event, served as the only Asian woman sitting on an aviation discussion panel at the Oakland Aviation Museum’s Asia-Pacific Heritage Month event in 2019. And in 2021, the Society of Asian Scientists and Engineers Professional invited her to speak about her degree, Air Force career, and her experience as a minority woman in STEM and the military. May immigrated to the United States from Thailand when she was ten years old, and despite English being her third language, always excelled in school. She earned an AFROTC scholarship to Texas A&M University where she graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Engineering and went on to earn her MBA from Wilmington University during her first duty station. May is an outstanding leader who has devoted herself to serving her country and is an inspiration to all who know her.

During Nancy Federle’s 23-year teaching career she worked with students at all levels, starting at the St. Catherine of Siena School and moving on to Solano Community College. She was a passionate teacher of art and history to elementary, middle school, and college students. For six years, she has been an active part of the Solano County Chapter of the Climate Reality Project, focusing on local changes to benefit the environment. Nancy also values civic engagement, serving as the Secretary for the Solano County Democratic Club and the Solano County Action Team where she is an integral part of every event. During Women’s History Month, she worked on the social media campaign for the Vacaville People’s Forum, “31 Inspiring Women of Vacaville,” and volunteered her time with the Solano County League of Women Voters. Nancy is known by all who see her at work for the unparalleled generosity, joy, and collegial spirit she brings to everything she does. She is a role model for outstanding career achievement and civic engagement who inspires all who know her.

Cynthia Fontaine is a committed supporter of nonprofits throughout her community working in the fields of civil and human rights, conservation, healthcare, literacy, and the arts. She served for 10 years on the Yuba-Sutter Arts Council where she obtained and managed NEA grants for The Big Read. She also created the library’s first-ever project and taught art classes in her community. She served as President of the Packard Library, raising funds and helping to organize programs benefitting community members. Cynthia has worked on addressing food insecurity issues by organizing drumming and establishing a program called “A Simple Gesture” in Yuba and Sutter Counties. In addition, she staged and publicized Socktober, collecting socks benefitting unhoused persons. Cynthia also worked with Bridges for Housing, a nonprofit that helps place families in permanent housing through small business and commercial investments. Cynthia is a founding member of Marysville 2020 and a member of the Bounce Back Marysville Steering Committee. Professionally, she has served as a board member for the Association of Travel Marketing Executives, the Society of American Travel Writers, the California Travel Association, the North American Airlines PR Association, and the Vassar Alumnae/i council. Cynthia’s impact can be seen in every facet of her community through her professional and volunteer work.

Christina Forrest has been a fierce advocate for her community’s common goals and priorities in the effort which was developed to identify the community’s common goal and priorities in the effort of the Delta Community Design Study group. She is deeply committed to the community’s common goal and priorities in the effort of the Delta Community Design Study group. She is an asset both to her club and the larger community. Tonya Haddix is an active member of the Rio Linda Lions Club, she has actively recruited new members and taken on the role of chair of the club in addition to helping small businesses meet the requirements established by the government to ensure their success.

Sandra Gonzalez currently sits on the board of the Fairfield Community Services Foundation where she has been instrumental in putting on important community events benefitting the underprivileged. One notable event is the annual backpack giveaway that ensures students have the tools they need to successfully begin the school year. The annual Christmas toy giveaway is another way she demonstrates her passion to serve, providing gifts to children as well as in Natomas for the families who benefit. Sandra has also served on the board of the Solano Hispanic Chamber of Commerce for many years where she has played an important role in serving local businesses. She is currently the Secretary of the chamber, making community impact by helping small businesses meet the requirements established by the government to ensure their success.

Tonya Haddix is an active member of the Rio Linda community and a natural leader who generously volunteers her time with a variety of organizations. As a vital member of the Rio Linda Lions Club, she has actively recruited new members and taken on the role of chair for numerous annual fundraising events benefiting her community. Most recently, she played an integral role in Natomas Cares’ efforts benefitting the global organization, Rise Against Hunger, where she helped package 46,000 food boxes for needy families around the world. Tonya has contributed hundreds of hours to the Rio Linda Lions Club where her positive enthusiasm, and positivity make her an asset both to her club and the larger community. She is an exceptional leader whose generosity, humility, and contagious smile make her a trusted friend and beloved community member.

Cathy Hersh and her husband Doug are fifth-generation farmers who are proud stewards of the land that their forefathers farmed during the Gold Rush era. Cathy is a leader and strong advocate for sustainable farming practices, and you will often find her leading a tour of the orchards, educating the community, or helping to run the harvest on their family farm. She is deeply committed to the community, having served as an active member of the Delta Community Design Study group which was developed to identify the community’s common goals and priorities in the effort of the Delta Community Design Study group. Cathy has been referred to as the Delta “legacy communities.” Her dedication and compassion have enabled her to become a driving force behind the positive changes taking place in her community and her work will have a lasting impact for years to come. Her outstanding career accomplishments and dedication to the betterment of her community are deserved of this recognition.

Alma Hernandez was raised in Suisun City and has dedicated her life to giving back to her community. She has supported community initiatives that included mentoring troubled youth, raising money for music programs in schools, fundraising for the Boys and Girls Club, and raising breast cancer awareness. Seeing a need for additional support for Latina women across Solano County, she founded a non-profit organization, Latinas de Solano, where she serves as Executive Director. She is the past President and active member of the Solano Hispanic Chamber of Commerce where she is committed to strengthening local businesses. Alma also belongs to a variety of city committees, foundation boards, county-based business organizations, and youth and young adult mentorship programs. She was elected to the Suisun City Council where she currently serves as Mayor Pro-Tem, advancing on behalf of those she represents. She is an outstanding public servant and a valued member of her community.

Sherry Jasara is an unsung heroine in her community who exemplifies inspirational civic engagement through her unique work, philanthropy, and volunteerism. Sherry enlisted in the United States Navy during the Vietnam Era where she became a Hospital Corpsman Second Class. After receiving an Honorable Discharge, she worked as a healthcare professional and became a Registered Nurse, before retiring in the Trilogy community of Rio Vista. She is an artist, a mother, a breast cancer survivor, and a proud member of the LGBTQ+ community. Sherry is also an active member of numerous clubs in her community, including the Trilogy Tennis, Pickleball, and Dog Clubs. She is also a strong advocate for veterans. She is kind and comforting to anyone in need, riding her bike all over town delivering her beautiful hand-drawn watercolor cards to help bring cheer to people experiencing hardship. She provides comfort in whatever way it is needed, reading or singing to others, holding their hand, providing companionship, medical advice, or a listening ear. She makes everyone feel as if she is their guardian angel. She is dedicated to supporting and bringing together those who may feel isolated and providing them with the opportunity and inspiration to live healthy and fulfilling lives. Sherry’s positivity and generous spirit have touched the lives of countless people in need.

Amy Kahn has dedicated herself to helping patients with Multiple Sclerosis to receive the care they need and achieve a higher standard of living. Amy is a specialty healthcare consultant, working in the pharmacy division of one of the Nation’s largest healthcare companies providing critical medications for the treatment of MS. In just over three years at her current position, she has been promoted to a Pharmacy Benefits Manager, served on the Special Advisory Board, and won the highest President’s Club recognition for her work. She chose to further her professional development... through the UC Davis Annex Human Resources Certification Program and shows tremendous commitment to the patients in her work. She goes above and beyond to help any patient in need, from helping the under-insured to secure new sources of funding for medications to assisting patients with mobility and transportation challenges and in gating their insurance benefits. Amy also serves on the Northern California Multiple Sclerosis Society Board of Trustees and the Dinner of Champions Committee, which raises over half a million dollars each year for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. This year, Amy was chosen to represent Northern California as a Delegate to the 2022 National Multiple Sclerosis Society Annual Leadership Conference and continues to be an active volunteer at local MS events, such as Waves to Wine Bike MS and Climb MS. Amy has served as the corporate Team Captain for the MS Walks in Sacramento, Reno, and Folsom where she helped raise funds and foster morale.

Kathie Kalafatis is the Founder and CEO of Clean Air Solutions Inc., a company that designs and installs clean rooms for the fabrication and manufacturing of scientific and medical equipment. Kathie is one of a handful of women in this industry and has earned recognition with the Institute of Environmental Sciences and Technology for “her contribution to the evolution of modular cleanrooms.” Kathie has lived in Fairfield for over 20 years where she and her husband raised two children. In addition to her successful company, she has authored three children’s books, the first of which is a tribute to her children. Her books offer a message of hope and perseverance, and she is often invited to do public readings for children throughout her community. Kathie is also an advocate for women’s rights, often attending rallies and sharing her passion through her paintings which depict the strength of women in the face of oppression. Seeing the need for women to come together in support of one another, Kathie created the “OWLS” Group (Offering Women Love and Support), a monthly gathering of women sharing experiences of support and comradery. Kathie’s kindness, wisdom, and positivity make her an inspiration to others, and she has a talent for motivating others to join her in serving her community.

Carol Kalamaras spent her career of over 30 years as a librarian and classroom teacher. When she retired from teaching, she became active with the California Retired Teachers Association, serving for over 12 years on the board, and several as co-president. Through her advocacy with California RTA, she works on many issues but has a keen focus on Social Security reform. Her main target for legislative change is the Windfall Elimination Provision and Government Pension Offset which currently harm teachers and widows throughout California and other states. Carol frequently travels to Washington, DC, to meet with her colleagues and advocate on this issue. She is also passionate about equal pay for women, drawing attention to the many women who pause or delay their careers to care for their children and end up diminishing their retirement benefits. This has affected countless women in education and other industries, and Carol continues to fight for Social Security reform that would help fill that gap. Through her volunteer work, she also manages the California Retired Teachers Association’s scholarship programs providing funds to students in teaching credential programs. She also continues her work as a substitute teacher in the Fairfield-Suisun School District where she continues to have a positive impact on students’ lives. Carol acts as a mentor to those who need it most and gives tirelessly to her community.

Christine Katzenmeyer is a tireless community servant who has exhibited great commitment and dedication to the Dixon Unified School District. Her continuous service has been unmatched, supported by teachers and administrators alike. Over the years, Christine has served on numerous site councils and district-wide advisory committees where she works to ensure her community’s schools are the best they can be. For 14 years, she has been a consistent participant in the district Destination Imagination program, working with individuals and groups on an annual basis to help students discover their potential. Christine has also worked diligently to support the Dixon High School Water Polo Team by organizing fundraisers for the team as well as annual scholarships given to Dixon High School students. Her current work as a Solano County COVID liaison with both Dixon and Vacaville schools helps ensure our students receive the best school experience possible during a difficult time. Her service to the Dixon community has had an impact on countless students and families.

I congratulate each of them and commend them for their work. I am inspired by them and firmly believe when women succeed, America succeeds!

REMEMBERING THE LIFE AND IMPACT OF RICHARD CALMA

HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor and remember the incredible life and legacy of Richard A. “Rich” Calma. Rich dedicated his life to serving the Plattsburgh community and honoring American history.

Rich Calma began working at the Advocacy and Resource Center in Plattsburgh, New York in October of 2000. Rich carried out the mission of the Advocacy and Resource Center by providing job coaching to people with developmental and intellectual disabilities. He dedicated his life to this incredible service agency and worked towards supporting all individuals to ensure that everyone was able to fully participate and be accepted in all aspects of life. Rich started his career at the Advocacy and Resource Center as an employment specialist with the Workforce Network, Supported Employment Program. He worked his way up from being a relief job coach to the position of a full time employment specialist. For over twenty-one years, Rich was a beloved employee of the Advocacy and Resource Center, while he dedicated his life to serving the Plattsburgh community and a very small town.

In addition to working at the Advocacy and Resource Center, Rich prioritized celebrating, remembering, and honoring America’s military history. Rich actively participated in the annual Battle of Plattsburgh events to ensure the North Country’s role in American history continued to be remembered. He also spent a lot of time volunteering at the Air Force Museum and Marine recruitment center.

Rich is a glowing example of the devotion to community service that defines the North Country. He dedicated his life to the service of everyone who had the pleasure of knowing him. On behalf of New York’s 21st Congressional District, it is my honor to remember and celebrate the life of Rich Calma.

REMEMBERING THE LIFE OF MRS. BARBARA ELLEN PALAZZOLO MARULLO

HON. TROY A. CARTER OF LOUISIANA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Mr. CARTER of Louisiana. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of Mrs. Barbara Ellen Palazzolo Marullo.

Mrs. Marullo peacefully passed away October 3, 2022, surrounded by her loving family. She was born the third of four children on April 17, 1941, in Queens, New York to Emma and Joe Palazzolo. Four years later, her family moved back to her father’s hometown of New Orleans where they remained the rest of their lives. Barbara was a devout Catholic and believed in the blessing of family. As a young girl she would often spend long moments before the Blessed Mother, praying for her family before going to sleep. Her faith remained strong until her death and was a hallmark of her character and personality. But it wasn’t just faith which defined Barbara, she was a talented singer. In her senior year at John McDonogh High School in the Mid-City neighborhood of New Orleans, Barbara wrote and performed the class song for the graduation ceremony. So talented was she, that upon graduation, Barbara was offered a music scholarship to Southeastern University in Hammond, Louisiana, but turned it down opting to work and start a family. Though that didn’t quell her desire to continue singing. And anyone who knew Barbara, knew faith, family and music defined her, and through the years she juggled all of them.

She met her first husband, Jack, in high school, and a couple of years later they married and started a family. Together they had three children, Jay, Gina and Nicolle. During this time Barbara continued singing and working with local bands as the lead singer at local music venues and clubs throughout New Orleans.

As time progressed, thoughts and feelings changed and Barbara moved on from her first marriage, and eventually met and married her second husband A.P. Marullo who brought two children of his own from a previous marriage, Joey and Anna. With their blended family in place, Barbara and A.P. had two more children together, Jude and Anthony. Through her life Barbara remained committed to her family and God, but music was never far from her heart. She continued singing in and around New Orleans, cut few records and even performed live in London, UK. Barbara participated in the local segments of the Jerry Lewis MDA Labor Day Telethon. As time passed, Barbara moved away from performing for entertainment, and combined her love of music, and her devotion to her faith, and began singing in church.

Barbara sang regularly at her parish church, St. Peter, in Covington, Louisiana, as a cantor and choir member. She also made friends with the choir directors at the Catholic churches in Gulf Breeze and Pensacola Beach, Florida, and spent many hours each year during her frequent visits to the beach. Barbara remained independent and active up until her time in the hospital before her passing and will be most remembered for her God-given natural beauty, lovely singing voice, and her passion and love she had for her family and God.

Barbara was preceded in death by her mother Emma Palazzolo (Campione); her father Joseph Palazzolo; her brother Jerome Palazzolo, and her sister Joyce Chiusano (Palazzolo), and is survived by her husband Anthony P. (AP) Marullo, Jr., her former husband Jack W. Gallé Sr.; her five children, Jack (Jay) W. Gallé, Jr., Gina Bergeron (Gallé), Nicole Politi (Gallé), Jude D. Marullo, and A.P. (Anthony) Marullo, III; and her two step-children, Joey C. Marullo and Anna M. Marullo. Barbara is also survived by four adult grandchildren, Brittany A. Polit, Gabrielle A. Bergeron, Edward C. Bergeron III, and Private Second-Class Timothy J. King; nine grandchildren, Elizabeth, Mia, Rocco, Eli, Enzo, Ily, Cohen, Gage, and Mila; and two step-grandchildren, Kai and Elsa. Barbara is also survived by her sister, Cynthia Hern (Palazzolo). May the Lord cradle His child Barbara; may she rest in peace.

So many people’s lives have been enriched because of the love and passion she expressed in touching them along the way. While the grieving process never truly ends, I pray that the day will come when her memory brings a smile to their face before it brings a tear to their eyes. There are no words to describe how much she was loved, and how greatly she will be missed.

RECOGNIZING THE GROUNDBREAKING CEREMONY OF THE NEW MONROE COUNTY EMERGENCY OPERATIONS CENTER

HON. CARLOS A. GIMENEZ OF FLORIDA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Mr. GIMENEZ. Madam Speaker, I rise today to celebrate today’s groundbreaking of the new Monroe County Emergency Operations Center (EOC). This center, which combines several existing emergency organizations in one 28,321-square-foot space, will greatly assist county officials in the Florida Keys to prepare for future natural disasters in our resilient community.

Monroe County’s EOC previously occupied the top floor of the Marathon Government Center. In 2017, Hurricane Irma forced EOC staff to evacuate the center just one day before it made landfall 30 miles west of Marathon, due to its lack of protections for Category 3 and above hurricanes.

The new EOC’s features include a 20-foot first floor elevation, Category 5 hurricane-hardened walls, self-sustaining drinking water for up to 72 hours, and emergency power and communications systems. In addition, the location, at the west end of Marathon International Airport, is highly strategic. If Overseas Highway becomes unusable, the EOC will be able to quickly facilitate the dispersal of aid coming in through the airfield. This critical infrastructure will improve the county’s emergency response capacity and ensures Monroe County will have the necessary tools to maintain resili-cy and preparedness when natural disasters impact our coast. I am proud that the state and federal governments assisted the county in securing $30.2 million of the necessary funding for this project.

South Florida’s residents face extreme weather every year, and improving hurricane resiliency is paramount. This long-overdue facility—Monroe County’s first dedicated emergency operations center—will act as the crucial hub for all future emergency responses.

As a lifelong first responder who served as Fire Chief of the City of Miami Fire Department during Hurricane Andrew and Mayor of Miami-Dade County for nine years, I know firsthand how important a rapid and effective disaster response is to the individual communities. The individuals and agencies who worked hard to make this center a reality, and I look forward to the speedy completion of the project.

HONORING THE 2022 WOMEN OF THE YEAR

HON. JOHN GARAMENDI OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Mr. GARAMENDI. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the 2022 Women of the Year. The honorees represent some of the most outstanding and dedicated women in California’s 3rd Congressional District. Nominated by their peers, these women are recognized for the in-

TEGRAL AND CRUCIAL ROLES THEY PLAY IN IMPROVING THE LIVES OF EVERYONE IN THEIR COMMUNITIES.

This year marks the 102nd anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which guaranteed and protetected women’s right to vote. In 1919, women were granted the right to vote, but in 1920, the right was not secured to women’s full and equal citizenship in our country, signaling a new era of equality. Yet, even today, women still face significant barriers to their rights and liberties from pay dis-CRIMINATION TO CATEGORIZING WOMEN’S REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS. I TAKE HEART THAT EACH OF THIS YEAR’S HONOREES WILL BE A VITAL PART OF THE WORK LEFT TO BE DONE TO REALIZE WOMEN’S FULL EQUALITY AND RIGHTS.

The 2022 Women of the Year are:

1. Tracy Lahr: A dedicated and passionate teacher who has touched the lives of countless students. Several of her students took the time to write letters nominating her as a Woman of the Year, describing her as loving, thoughtful, kind, supportive, uplifting, encouraging, and so much more. Their stories de-

Scribe a woman who goes above and beyond the call of duty to make a positive impact in the lives of everyone in their communities.

2. Emily Lo: A dedicated first responder who has spent 31 years as a firefighter, excelling in a career that has not always welcomed women. She immigrated to the United States with her family in 1981 and became a firefighter in 1984.

The new EOC’s features include a 20-foot first floor elevation, Category 5 hurricane-hardened walls, self-sustaining drinking water for up to 72 hours, and emergency power and communications systems. In addition, the location, at the west end of Marathon International Airport, is highly strategic. If Overseas Highway becomes unusable, the EOC will be able to quickly facilitate the dispersal of aid coming in through the airfield. This critical infrastructure will improve the county’s emergency response capacity and ensures Monroe County will have the necessary tools to maintain resili-cy and preparedness when natural disasters impact our coast. I am proud that the state and federal governments assisted the county in securing $30.2 million of the necessary funding for this project.

a minority woman working in a field dominated by men. Throughout her decades-long fire service career, she has been an active member of her union, Davis Firefighters Local 3494, serving as its Treasurer. She also serves as Co-Chair and Commissioner to the California Joint Apprenticeship Committee’s Commission to recruit women for the fire service, helping to mentor and encourage young female firefighters. She also volunteers every year during the Davis Firefighter’s “Fill-the-Boot” Thanksgiving Basket program and gives her time working with a local nonprofit organization supporting breast cancer survivors. Through her unselfish service, integrity, strength, and humility, she is an inspiration to all who know her.

Olga Martin Steele is a strong and selfless leader. She is a member of Soroptimist International of Clear Lake where she has served twice as president, bringing new ideas and energy to the group as they serve women in need. She has also served on the Board of Directors as Public Relations Officer and has authored and spoken on non-profit organizations, events, and the club’s purpose. Olga is a founding member of the Lake County Silver Foundation which was formed to help close funding gaps for senior programs facing budget shortfalls. She has served as the foundation’s secretary since 2017 working to successfully fund programs throughout Lake County Community Radio. Olga is also a member of the all-volunteer Lake County Community Radio 98.1 FM to support freedom of speech platform and community radio where she is currently serving her 3rd term as President of the Board of Directors, overseeing the group’s growth and development, and policy making. Beyond this Olga also serves as a radio programmer of “Voices of Lake County” where she hosts and produces a list of weekly public affairs and public interest stories. Olga is a dedicated community servant who brings skilled leadership to all she does.

Christa McClure is a dedicated community servant who works tirelessly to improve the lives of people throughout her community. She is currently the Acting Executive Director of Tri-County Respite Service, a non-profit where she oversees a staff of more than 100 respite care workers and administrative staff. Tri-County Respite Care Service is a non-profit organization serving Yuba, Sutter, Colusa, Nevada, and Placer counties. Under her leadership, the organization provides critical support to caregivers of families with special needs and works to improve the lives of disabled individuals through increased self-reliance. Christa has also worked in non-profit housing and assisted in the development and implementation of various healthcare systems in Montana and Colorado which were created under the Affordable Care Act. Since 2019, Christa has served in many capacities on the Casa De Esperanza Board of Directors where she has generously donated her time to ensure the health of this important organization. Christa has dedicated years to working with others to improve her community through advocacy, philanthropy, and public service work. She is also a loving wife, mother of 8 children, and grandmother of 5 grandsons, and is a wonderful role model to all who know her.

Dr. Frances McCallough is a lifelong educational professional committed to community enrichment and supporting literacy and learning in Solano County. Frances founded the Solano County Commission for Women and Girls to improve the economic status, health and social welfare, and overall quality of life for women and girls in Solano County. She is involved with the National Council of Negro Women, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the National Women’s Suffrage Association, and the National Association of Women Judges. Frances is also a member of the Solano Community College Educational Foundation, and a member of the Solano County Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, where she is founding and coordinating a youth academy for Solano County. Frances is most well known for her work in the SOLANO County Library Foundation where she is a member of the Board of Directors. In her retirement, Frances has been an active and dedicated community servant, helping with the founding of childcare services, founding the Friends of the Library, organizing a civic and social club for African Americans, organizing an annual Black History Program, and leading a Food Bank to feed countless county residents. Her civic involvement and volunteer work have been honored many times over the years. She has been named Grand Marshal of the City of Fairfield’s July Independence Day Parade, Wednesday Club Volunteer of the Month, Tri-City NAACP Medal of Freedom recipient, Honorary Commander at Travis Air Force Base, Special Ambassador for California Assemblymember Jim Frazier, Solano County’s Woman of the Year, and Woman of the Year for Delta Sigma Theta Sorority’s Solano Valley Chapter. Frances treats volunteer work as her civic duty and serves her community with generosity and humility.

Danette Mitchell is an Opinion Columnist for The Vacaville Reporter and a fierce advocate on a variety of important social issues. She is passionate about elevating Black voices throughout Solano County, ensuring their perspective is heard and represented. Danette has faithfully served as the Tri-City NAACP Communications, Press, and Publicity Committee Chair since 2017 when she monitors local and national media for issues and concerns impacting the Black Community. In that role she works to counteract derogatory and erroneous statements in local news media where they could impact minority groups, issuing press releases and statements on behalf of the Tri-City NAACP. Danette also serves as an advocate for missing and exploited African Americans. She has partnered with other Solano County residents, hosting a Human Trafficking Awareness event in Vallejo, a city that reports the highest incidence of human trafficking in Solano County. In 2021, Danette interviewed the national Black and Missing Foundation founders featured in the “Black and Missing” documentary series hosting the Tri-City NAACP. Danette also served as the planning committee co-chair and member for Vacaville’s Inaugural Black History Celebration and subsequent Annual Black History Celebration. Danette is an important voice in our community helping to lift others up and celebrate an important community that does not always receive adequate representation.

Jessica Moser is a tremendous leader that touches many lives of those throughout our district and beyond. Jessica works as a Maternal Coordinator for Vertex Aerospace, an invigorating group that designs and builds equipment in support of the KC–JOA Extender aerial refueling tanker at Travis Air Force Base. Beyond her work, Jessica was the President of the Travis Spouse’s Club and is the Lead Key Spouse for the 660 Aircraft Maintenance Squadron at Travis AFB. As President of the Travis Spouse’s Club, she was able to network with base personnel, their dependents, and the local community to help care for all personnel and families assigned to Team Travis. She has mentored more than 146 dependents, 85 families, and were dealing with deployment overseas. Jessica captured the logistics for Operation Homefront, Operation Proud Farewell, Operation Cookie Drop, the Cost of Courage Foundation, Wreaths Across America, a Holiday Meals military food drive, and a JOCTUF uniform drive. Jessica also brought her leadership to a global effort when she led an AF “Polo” campaign, her team coordinated four fundraisers that generated $24 thousand, securing 65 million vaccines, and directly contributing to the goal of worldwide eradication of polio. Jessica was also pivotal in supporting deployed members across the Department of Defense during the Afghanistan Non-combatant Evacuation Operation. She rallied the community and sponsors to help build care packages, easing the stress of service members during the largest rescue in history. Jessica is an active volunteer with a variety of national and local non-profits bringing resources to military families. Her volunteer efforts focus on families and her commitment to service before self have been recognized before when she was named the Air Force Nominee for the Department of Defense Fisher Distinguished Civilian Humanitarian Award.

Amy Nore is an inspirational leader in her community who exemplifies what it means to be a servant leader throughout every aspect of her life. In her role as Community Engagement & Emergency Response Administrator for the Yuba County Office of Education, Amy is the face of the Yuba County Office of Education. She actively participates in every community event in both Yuba and Sutter counties, not only representing the Office of Education, but also volunteering her time alongside her husband, children, and her children’s families. One of the most difficult roles she has taken on was helping to lead the Yuba County Office of Education through the unprecedented and turbulent times of the COVID–19 pandemic, but she led with bravery and grace. Amy is also involved in many community organizations, such as the Yuba Sutter Task Force, Blue Zones, Yuba Sutter Food Bank, SAYLove, Marysville Art Club, Yuba Sutter Colusa United Way, Yuba Sutter Chamber of Commerce, and South Yuba County Rotary. Amy is an active leader in her community, generously giving her time to countless events and organizations.

Doreen Osumi is a compassionate and dedicated leader in the public school system. She currently serves as the Yuba City Unified School District Superintendent where her work and mentorship have impacted countless individuals in the field of education. Her leadership has not only benefited every student in the district but has played an important role in mentoring the next generation of public educators. Taking leadership of a community beset by wildfires, unsafe air quality, floods, and the global COVID–19 pandemic, Doreen has risen to meet the moment. She has helped her community cope with the environmental challenge and compensate for the difficulties of learning during the COVID–19 pandemic all the while expressing her passion for public education.

Doriss Panduro is an outstanding leader and public servant in the Solano County community. A lifelong resident of Fairfield, she has become involved with a wide variety of community-based organizations, nonprofits, and grassroots advocacy groups to give back and be of service to the city that raised her. Doriss is a board member of APAPA Solano County Chapter and board member and past president of the Solano Hispanic Chamber of Commerce. Doriss has served in various public relations roles where she has connected individuals to resources locally and at the state level. She has also worked for three State legislators in the district and State capital serving her community. She has been a huge advocate for small businesses and the Hispanic community throughout Solano County. This depth and breadth of experience have contributed to her success as a Fairfield City Councilwoman where she has had the opportunity to touch the lives of everyone in the City of Fairfield.

Courtney Payne is a compassionate community advocate who demonstrates selflessness in all that she does. She is a licensed counselor and focuses on helping people navigate Medicare and other healthcare options as well as creating, building, and protecting their retirement. Through her work, she has become a phenomenal advocate for seniors throughout her community. Prior to working in the field of psychology, helping children on the autism spectrum. Motivated by her experiences as a single parent and the needs she saw in others, she began her passion project, Threads to Thrive, an organization that provides business attire to men and women who cannot otherwise afford professional attire needed for interviews and new employment. This assistance helps remove a barrier to employment and improves confidence for many community members. Courtney also gives her time volunteering with a wide variety of other community organizations and nonprofits where she is known for her hard work and generosity.

Darelyn Pazdel is a dedicated and passionate role model to everyone in her community. She is the current Director of Workforce Inclusion, Community Integration, and Transportation for PRIDE industries, an organization that works to create employment for people with disabilities. Darelyn is a fierce advocate for people of all abilities, consistently demonstrating her belief that all people have talent, and that everyone has the ability to contribute. They can reach their full potential. Darelyn has also been a part of the Fairfield Suisun Chamber of Commerce for over a decade where she currently serves as Chair of the Board of Directors. Along with the ‘amazing work that she does in her profession and capacity, she is an advocate for her community and gives back in any way she can. Darelyn is known as both a champion for small businesses as well as a strong advocate for individuals with disabilities in our community.

I congratulate each of them and commend them for their work. I am inspired by them and firmly believe when women succeed, America succeeds!

APPLAUSE FOR THOSE INVOLVED IN THE PRESERVATION OF KETTLE CREEK BATTLEFIELD

HON. JODY B. HICE

OF GEORGIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Mr. HICE of Georgia. Madam Speaker, I rise today to celebrate the preservation of the American Revolutionary War battlefield site at Kettle Creek and to thank all of those individuals involved in this effort over the years.

Throughout my time in Congress, I have been a strong advocate for preserving America’s historic battlefields. I have supported numerous battlefield conservation efforts and have pushed for the preservation of the Kettle Creek Battlefield.

During the 115th Congress, I introduced H.R. 6108, the Preserving America’s Battlefields Act, to reauthorize the Battlefield Land Acquisition Grants Program to ensure the successful preservation of the Revolutionary War, War of 1812, and Civil War battlefields.

During the 116th Congress, I introduced H.R. 306, the Kettle Creek Battlefield Survey Act. The legislation would help evaluate the significance of the Kettle Creek battlefield site and determine its suitability as a designated unit of the National Park System.

America’s preserved battlefields stand as magnificent memorials to our Nation’s history and the courage of those individuals who gave the “last full measure of devotion” to our country. People who visit these historical sites cannot help but walk away with a greater appreciation of the sacrifices necessary to secure the freedoms we enjoy today.

Congress has made significant strides in preserving the history of America. Unfortunately, too many of our Nation’s founding moments, including many Revolutionary War battlefields, are slowly disappearing with the passage of time. As these places fade away, Americans become unaware that many of our Nation’s defining moments occurred right in their own backyards.

Kettle Creek Battlefield will not be forgotten thanks to the dedication and hard work of so many organizations and individuals.

Located in Wilkes County, Georgia, the Battle of Kettle Creek occurred on February 14, 1779. It was a significant victory for the Patriot forces during the Southern Campaign of the American Revolutionary War.

Led by Colonel Andrew Pickens, Patriot forces made a surprise attack on a large British and Tory militia marching toward Augusta. This timely and unexpected foray by the Patriot forces nearly two to one, the ensuing four-hour bloody battle resulted in significant casualties for the Tory forces. With the Tory forces fleeing the battlefield, a Patriot victory was won. This valiant effort by Colonel Pickens and his men stopped any hope of a British advance into the backcountry frontier of Georgia.

One of the notable stories from the battle I’d like to share is about an individual named Austin Dabney. Despite being a slave, Mr. Dabney was a private in the Patriot militia and served with honor and distinction until he was wounded at the Battle of Kettle Creek.

And though crippled, after the battle, he returned to servitude. Mr. Dabney’s actions that day were not forgotten. In fact, after the war in 1786, an official act of the Georgia State Legislature emancipated Mr. Dabney and granted him 50 acres of land and an annual pension. This short statement of Mr. Dabney only scratches the surface of his incredible story. And yet it’s something that we need never forget.

Efforts to preserve the sacred site of the Kettle Creek Battlefield date back nearly one hundred years. Many individuals and organizations, including U.S. Senator Richard Russell and the Daughters of the American Revolution, have tried to ensure that this hallowed ground and its priceless stories are not lost to time. Thankfully, a few individuals persevered.

Following a momentous visit by the National Park Service Acting Director Dan Smith, the Secretary of the U.S. Department of the Interior, David Bernhardt, finally designated the Kettle Creek Battlefield as an affiliated site of the National Park Service on January 14, 2021.

With this designation, the National Park Service recognized the national significance of the Kettle Creek victory and committed to preserving this vital part of history for future generations.

This recognition is an enormous win for those who have spent years working towards this goal. I want to extend a special ‘thank you’ to a few individuals and organizations who went above and beyond the call of duty and helped make this day happen.

First, I want to thank the community leaders of Wilkes County, including the Board of Commissioners, for their years of hard work that made it possible for Kettle Creek Battlefield to receive the recognition it deserves.

I also want to thank former University of Georgia football coach (GO DAWGS!) and Civil War historian Vince Dooley and the American Battlefield Trust for acquiring 180 acres of the battlefield to transform these hallowed grounds into an educational, historic destination.

Finally, I want to offer the most significant gesture of appreciation to Dr. Joe Harris and the Kettle Creek Battlefield Association. The incredible efforts of Dr. Harris and the KCB to preserve the battlefield's stories should be an inspirational example of what tireless dedication and selfless public service will achieve.

These individuals and countless others from across the community, region, the State of Georgia, and beyond have made it possible to ensure future generations will know and appreciate this important part of Georgian and American history.

I hope that one day my colleagues in this chamber and their constituents will visit the storied grounds of what Colonel Pickens described as the most significant victory of the Southern Campaign and a place where a young African American Patriot earned his freedom 86 years prior to the end of slavery, for I firmly believe they are more than significant enough to preserve for future generations.

I am proud to have been a part of the effort to preserve the history of Kettle Creek. It is an honor to celebrate this achievement, and I give my heartfelt appreciation to those individuals that made this moment possible.
Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the 2022 Women of the Year. The honorees represent some of the most outstanding and dedicated women in California's 3rd Congressional District. Nominated by their peers, these women are recognized for the integral and crucial roles they play in improving the lives of communities across the state.

The 2022 Women of the Year are:

Claire Arano is a passionate advocate for the communities she serves. As a Rotarian, she has dedicated herself to helping those in need. Pursuing her dream, she completed her college education and became an accomplished grant writer while developing programs for California Tribes and rural communities. Annie secured a position with the Office of Rural Health Policy as a Rural Fellow where she was recognized by UCLA as a national Healthcare Leader. Upon receiving her master's in clinical psychology from UCSF, she became an advocate for integrating western medical models with traditional healing practices.

This year marks the 102nd anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which guaranteed and protected women's constitutional right to vote. In securing the right to vote, suffragists broke through a seemingly impenetrable barrier to women's full and equal citizenship in our country, signaling a new era of equality. Yet, even today, women still face significant barriers to their rights and liberties from pay discrimination to criminalizing women’s reproductive rights. I take heart that each of this year’s honorees will be a vital part of the fight to be done to reduce women's full equality and rights.

first as a journalist and then as Editor of the Vacaville Reporter, serving the northern Solano Community from 1984–2009. During her tenure, she focused on every facet of the community, reporting on schools, health, government, and social events as well as working to balance the budget. With the help of her newspapers, she was able to improve the public and telling the stories of regular people living regular lives. She is now the editor of Wellspring, a free health education publication that is delivered to 70,000 Solano residents. Diane has also had direct involvement with a host of public initiatives, including publicizing free immunization clinics through news releases, contributing health columns to local publications, and as a founding member of the Solano Public Information Network, was instrumental in educating the public on the pandemic’s progression. As a community advocate, Diane has been a tireless volunteer for Soroptimist International of Vacaville and has served on multiple committees promoting their accomplishments. She served on the Solano County Library Advisory Council and sits on the Board of Directors of the Vacaville Chamber of Commerce, serving on the Travis Regional Armed Forces Committee. Diane always finds a way to balance her work life, community service, and her role as a wife and mother. She has a heart for public service and advocacy and is a tremendous asset to her community.

Camille Benner is an exceptional leader and advocate for Yuba and Sutter Counties. Camille volunteers for SayLove, a group that mobilizes people and resources to promote positive change and partnerships within the community. She is also a member of LEADership, where she works on fundraising to establish clothes closets in elementary schools and raise money for the local Shady Creek Foundation to send kids to camp. She is extremely engaged in her community and is always willing to lend a helping hand from MCing events to helping organize fundraisers around town. Camille currently works for Habitat for Humanity where her giving spirit and the endless energy she puts into projects serve as an inspiration to both her colleagues and the Yuba-Sutter region. Camille has an amazingly positive attitude, but she also does not shy away from discussing life’s struggles, and by sharing her own stories and success in overcoming adversity, her authenticity and resilience inspire others to do the same. Camille treats everyone she meets with compassion and creates lasting connections with those she helps. Camille is the proud mother of three sons who have learned to share her same passion and dedication for community service. Barbara Bukley is an active member of the Dixon community and a positive impact that has not been felt by many. Barbara has been an integral member of the Soroptimist International of Dixon for 31 years. She is a woman who works tirelessly behind the scenes to make everything run smoothly and successfully. She can be found contacting and channelling within the community, setting or cleaning up events, and personally selling more than half of the Soroptimist tickets herself. She is known throughout her community for her endless generosity, for years she has provided a Christmas tree lighting every holiday season in the Dixon area for the entire community. When the Dixon Soroptimists had exhausted their emergency budget in helping a community member pay rent while they cared for their terminally ill child, Barbara stepped in to assist the woman with an additional three months of rent. When fires ravaged her county, she stepped up and donated bottled water to assist the firefighters and displaced families. All of these generous contributions were made behind the scenes and with little fanfare. Barbara has been married for over 40 years with her late husband Bob. All who know Barbara can attest to how much she loves her town and cares about helping others. There are countless women whose lives have been changed as a direct result of Barbara’s generosity. Her service to others and her community is a shining example to everyone she meets.

Dr. Debapriya Chakraborty is a dedicated public servant who puts her expertise to work creating sustainable and equitable public policy in her community. Since earning her Ph.D. in Economics from UC Irvine, Debapriya has led the policy team at the Plug-In Hybrid & Electric Vehicle Research Center at UC Davis. Her research focuses on policy issues related to electric vehicles, charging behavior, charge management, and the effects of transportation electrification policy on the energy market. Debapriya has an invaluable skill for bringing together aspects of her research into actionable outcomes for policymakers. Through her passion and expertise, she has been leading the fight against climate change and working to make California sustainable, affordable, and easily available to everyone. Inspired by her upbringing in a large Indian city with extensive transportation challenges, she strives to ensure that all communities have equitable access to electric vehicles. Debapriya also serves as a commissioner of the Davis Bicycling, Transportation, and Street Safety Commission and has advised the Davis City Council on transportation policy, road safety, and transportation infrastructure maintenance. Debapriya is also an active member of the Women’s Transportation Seminar International, where she has been mentoring students on closing the gender workforce gap and promoting career opportunities for early-career professionals interested in pursuing a career in transportation. She has a passion for creating equity and sustainability through public policy and is committed to finding a solution to one of the world’s most critical challenges. Sally Christie has a demonstrated passion and commitment to preserving the culture, history, and agricultural lands of the rich Delta community she lives in. Sally is on the advisory committee of the Delta Education Vineyard, an educational readiness program that works to cultivate the next generation of community leaders and agricultural professionals and secure the legacy of the Sacramento Delta for future generations. In her role in her community, Sally is also a member of the Walnut Grove Community Church where she is known as a spiritual leader with a passion for providing parishioners with leadership in the areas of stewardship, worship, and mission outreach. Sally is known throughout the Delta region for her generosity and caring nature. The work she has done educating future leaders will leave a lasting legacy, preserving and enhancing the spirit of this Delta community.

Rose Conroy spent her career as a firefighter and has served as a role model for women beginning their careers as first responders and public servants. Rose first joined the Davis Fire Department in 1979, rising through the ranks to become Fire Chief in 1994. At the time of her appointment, Rose became the first woman to lead a professional municipal fire department in the State of California. She led the Davis Fire Department for the next 16 years, maintaining the highest levels of service and innovation. Her contributions included introducing new technologies, developing new partnerships with other public institutions, and improving the customer service relationship with community members.

Anne Davis has given her time volunteering for countless organizations in Yolo County and has worked tirelessly to improve the quality of life for those in her community and beyond. As an original member of the Board of Directors for Dinner on Main, Anne was instrumental in organizing the very first Fall Dinner, which continues to take place each year, highlighting the beauty, heritage, and agriculture of Yolo County. Additionally, Anne volunteers for the chamber of commerce where she’s served as a judge for the Holiday Parade and professional development committee member and installed the Woodland Downtown Group. As an integral member of the community, she also participated in the Woodland Redistricting Advisory group. Anne has worked tirelessly to bring community events to Woodland that en-gage families, helping organize the Big Day of Giving which benefited a local girls’ fast pitch softball team, working with her church and the Woodland Public Library to provide books to children, and arranging to have blankets dis-tributed during the church’s Monday food pro-gram. Anne’s selflessness is an inspiration to many within her community. She is a positive role model for children and adults alike, demon-strating what it means to be a generous, caring, and passionate member of the commu-nity.

Erin Donley Marineau is a passionate leader in our community having served five years as the Executive Director of Tree Davis. A de-voted environmentalist, Erin has dedicated herself to growing Yolo County’s urban forest and supporting the community. She largely ac-complished her successes by engaging local volunteers, partnering with local municipalities, and securing the funding necessary to grow the urban forest throughout Yolo County. Dur-ing her five years, Erin and her team of volun-teers planted thousands of trees and logged in tens of thousands of hours of work. Some of her many accomplishments include spear-heading the development of California’s first climate-ready landscape tree planting effort. This effort included identifying and adopting a palette of climate-resilient species of trees. To help expand the adoption’s longevity, Erin col-laborated with leadership to develop a new Climate-Ready Urban Forestry Education Pro-gram for high school students throughout Yolo County that would promote healthier and better-suited plants that could withstand the changing climate. When Erin found out this new program created a supply issue, she ne-gotiated with horticultural nurseries throughout multiple western states to help ensure a steady supply of appropriate species and quantities for the coming planting season. Her knowledge, enthusiasm, and passion for the environment have made a lasting impact that will be felt in Yolo County and communities across the western United States for many years.

Debbie Egidio is the president and CEO of the Vacaville Chamber of Commerce and serves as chairman of the chamber’s Edu-ca-tional Foundation. Her leadership has been responsible for developing and enhancing the success of the 450 businesses in Vacaville while attracting new business to the region. Debbie is also co-founder of DTS Egidio, a local marketing and public relations firm. Be-fore starting her company, Debbie worked as Marketing Director at Triad Communities where she provided marketing and public outreach for several projects, including the La-goon project and the rehabilitation of the historic Empress Theatre in downtown Val-lejo, a $3 million redevelopment project that partnered Triad, the City of Vallejo, and the Vallejo Community Arts Foundation. Debbie is a graduate of UC Davis with a Bachelor of Science in Agricultural and Man-agerial Economics and has put her expertise to use in many community and industry organiza-tions throughout her career. Her outstanding career accomplishments and dedication to serving her community are an inspiration to aspiring leaders.

I congratulate each of them and commend them for their work. I am inspired by them and firmly believe when women succeed, America succeeds.

HONORING DR. NALO JOHNSON AS IOWAN OF THE WEEK

HON. CYNTHIA AXNE
OF IOWA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Mrs. AXNE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Dr. Nalo Johnson as Iowan of the Week. Dr. Nalo Johnson is a public health ex-pert who works with community-based organi-zations, public and private entities, and every-day Iowans to improve health outcomes for all Iowans.

While growing up in Des Moines, she learned firsthand how collaboration was key to addressing issues facing her community, and that lesson drives her work to this day.

She got her start in public health while earn-ing her Ph.D. in American Studies from the University of Minnesota, where she focused on learning about the economic, social, and environmental barriers to health. At the same time, her husband attended dental school and shared literature on public health issues that furthered her interest in the topic. After she concluded the program, she knew that her life’s mission was to break down those bar-riers and create healthier communities.

She later joined the Division Director of Health Promotion and Chronic Disease Pre-vention at the Iowa Department of Public Health. There, she worked on the Title V Community-Based Doula Project for African American Families. This project included a col-laborative team of Black maternal health ex-perts that had 3 goals—to improve maternal health outcomes and decrease the disparity between Black mothers and white mothers, diversify the prenatal workforce by having doula and lactation certifications, and advocate for a systems change to use the program’s data for health insurance reimbursement—including Medicaid—for using doula services. The project is now concluding its first year of work.

She now serves as the President and CEO of the Mid-Iowa Health Foundation, where she partners with leading organizations and stake-holders to view public health challenges through an equity lens and tackle those same challenges in a culturally-competent and effec-tive manner.

Dr. Nalo Johnson says that one of the best parts of her job is building relationships with local leaders, funding partners, and public health systems to bring everyone to the table to address the unique needs of communities and is excited about the new resources available to do just that in her new role.

She is grateful for the support of her fam-ily—her husband and two children—for always being supportive and proud of the work she does.

Dr. Nalo Johnson is a stellar example of someone who fights for ALL Iowans, regardless of race, gender, or socioeconomic status. Her work is critical to the well-being of Iowans, and I am so proud to honor Dr. Nalo Johnson as the Iowan of the Week.

HONORING BOB KOVACHICK FOR HIS TREMENDOUS IMPACT ON THE CAPITAL REGION

HON. ELISE M. STEFANIK
OF NEW YORK
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Ms. STEFANIK. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor Bob Kovachick for his remark-able career and well-deserved retirement from WNYT. Over his illustrious fifty-year career, Bob had a tremendous impact on all those who watched his meteorology reports across the Capital Region.

In 1971, Bob graduated from Lyndon State College in Vermont where he received his de-gree in meteorology. He then launched his ca-reer at the Universal Weather Service in White Plains. After his time in White Plains, he went on to gain valuable experience at WTEN in Al-bany and WTAE in Pittsburgh.

In 1988, Bob joined WNYT’s First Warning weather team as the chief meteorologist for NewsChannel 13. This was the beginning of a long and rewarding relationship between Bob, WNYT, and the Capital Region. Over the years, Bob has become a familiar face and voice in the homes of many. His weather re-port on the nightly news have helped to keep families informed, prepared, and safe for de-cades.

In addition to serving as WNYT’s chief me-teorologist, Bob frequently spoke with various organizations on the intricacies of meteor-ology. Bob prioritized educating and inspiring young students and would spend many days visiting schools in the Capital Region to dis-cuss meteorology. Due to Bob’s dedication to producing high quality reports, he received the American Meteorological Society Seal of Ap-proval in Television Weathercasting. He is also a professional member of both the Amer-i-can Meteorological Society and National Weather Association.

Bob is a shining light in the field of meteor-ology and serves as an inspiration to others in his field. He will be sorely missed on NewsChannel 13 broadcasts. On behalf of New York’s 21st District, I am honored to con-gratulate Bob for his monumental career at WNYT and thank him for making a lasting im-pact on the Capital Region.

HONORING THE 2022 WOMEN OF THE YEAR

HON. JOHN GARAMENDI
OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, October 18, 2022

Mr. GARAMENDI. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the 2022 Women of the Year. The honorees represent some of the most out-standing and dedicated women in California’s 3rd Congressional District. Nominated by their peers, these women are recognized for the in-tegral and crucial roles they play in improving the lives of everyone in their communities. This year marks the 102nd anniversary of the 19th Amendment, which guaranteed and pro-tected women’s constitutional right to vote. In securing the right to vote, suffragists broke through a seemingly impenetrable barrier to women’s full and equal citizenship in our country, signaling a new era of equality. Yet, even still today, women still face significant barriers to their rights and liberties from pay discrimination to criminalizing women’s reproductive rights. I take heart that each of this year’s honorees will be a vital part of the work left to be done to realize women’s full equality and rights.

The 2022 Women of the Year are:

Robin Tully is an accomplished businesswoman and dedicated community leader. She is the President and Owner of the Tully Consulting Group, where she brings her civil engineering expertise to bear throughout Northern California. Robin offers valuable knowledge of storm water hydrology, LEED sustainable site design, and environmental protection planning. Robin also serves as the Chair of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. Her involvement in the community stretches wide, from hosting holiday food drives for Dixon Family Services to participating in Toys for Tots and providing an annual STEM scholarship. Robin is an advocate and supporter of youth extracurricular activities for the community, sponsoring multiple Dixon sporting teams and the Special Olympics event, and is herself a black belt in Karate. Robin is known throughout her community for her outstanding career accomplishments and dedication to serving the people of Dixon.

Linda Van Loben Sels is a lifelong resident of the Sacramento River Delta community of Walnut Grove, a place filled with history, cultural richness, and diversity. She is a passionate and dedicated member of the community who serves on several boards, demonstrating an extraordinary commitment to preserving the essence of life on the Delta. Following in her mother’s footsteps, Linda serves on the Board of Directors: for the Sacramento River Delta Historical Society, working to educate the public on the importance of the Sacramento River Delta’s history. Linda also serves as Treasurer of the North Delta Conservancy, an organization dedicated to conserving, sustaining, and enhancing the cultural, agricultural, recreational, wildlife, and natural habitat resources of the region. She is a member of the Walnut Grove Community Church where she is known as a person of spiritual character, honest reputation, and sound judgment, and serves as a Deacon, providing leadership in areas of stewardship and mission outreach. Linda is known throughout the Delta region for the positive impacts she’s made, and Walnut Grove wouldn’t be the cherished community it is today without the contributions of her and her family.

Chief Wampler entered the Air Force in 1993 and now serves as the Senior Enlisted Leader at David Grant Medical Center on Travis Airforce Base. She has served on bases across the country and South Korea and deployed in support of Joint Task Force Bravo, Operation New Dawn, and contingency operations in response to Hurricane Maria. In her current position, she is the principal advisor to the commander on all matters impacting the more than 2,500 personnel assigned to David Grant Medical Center. She provides operational guidance to the squadrons delivering medical care and services to over 500,000 active-duty members, retirees, veterans, and their families. Her work is critical to ensuring David Grant provides safe and reliable care to 60th Air Mobility Wing personnel and their families. During the COVID–19 Omicron surge, her operational direction was critical to combating the crisis. She also played a pivotal role in coordinating Travis AFB’s participation in the FEMA COVID–19 response, supporting seven hospitals in California and across the nation, treating hundreds of patients, and contributing to the national pandemic response. An exceptional leader, Chief Wampler strives to inspire others through mentorship and advocacy. She fosters a climate of empowerment through knowledge by hosting leadership discussions, providing guidance to enlisted leaders on mission concerns and career development opportunities, serving as a guest speaker for the First Tenn Airmen’s course, and leading the Senior Enlisted Leaders’ Panel at the Non-Commissioned Officer Professional Enhancement Seminar. Chief Wampler serves her country with honor and distinction, and her major awards and decorations include the Meritorious Service Medal, the Air Force Commendation Medal, and the Joint Service Achievement Medal.

Kelly Zimmerman is a community advocate who goes above and beyond what is asked of her. In 2019, Kelly introduced and facilitated the newly chartered Soroptimist International of South Yuba whose mission is to transform the lives and status of women and girls through education, empowerment, and enabling opportunities. Kelly also facilitates several drives for the Hope Program, which engages businesses to provide pajamas, socks, and shoes to families in need throughout Yuba County. She also uses her exceptional community organizing skills to bring about popular events such as the renaissance foundation, school fundraisers, the annual shred event, and many more. She also designs and runs the community calendar and puts together an annual Women in Real Estate event, bringing together over 100 women for a day of inspiration, awards, and relationship-building. This past year, when Kelly became aware of a community member whose home had a collapsing roof and unlivable conditions, she rallied people together to help their neighbor get back in good health and moved into a new apartment with furnishings donated by the community. This is just one example of the way Kelly combines her compassion and drive to bring about positive outcomes. Kelly continuously demonstrates an outstanding commitment to empowering women and serving those in need.

I congratulate each of them and commend them for their work. I am inspired by them and firmly believe when women succeed, America succeeds.
