WASHINGTON, DC, November 22, 2022.

I hereby appoint the Honorable JAMIE RASKIN to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NANCY PELOSI,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Margaret Grun Kibben, offered the following prayer:

Generous Lord, all good and perfect gifts come from You. It is You who set the boundaries of the land and sea; and by Your hand summer and winter, spring and fall were created.

In this season of harvest and thanksgiving, we are reminded that You have promised Your kindness to us, the gift of rain from Heaven, the abundance of crops in their due season, and the provision of enough food for this day. Our hearts are filled with joy as we reap the bounty of these Your gracious gifts.

Hear also our prayers of intercession for those who cannot see evidence of Your favor, those who suffer the damaging effects of disastrous weather or economic drought, destroying any hope they had for a prosperous yield. We pray for those whose tables are bereft of food or fellowship, chairs left empty because of financial need or family tragedy.

God, may our gratitude give us cause to show grace to those who find few things to be thankful for. May Your good gifts compel us to find opportunity to share with those in need. May others glean from Your harvest and discover the seeds of hope You offer us all.

In Your sovereign name we pray.

Amen.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

COMMEMORATING THE 125TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE CORNER DRUG COMPANY

HON. JOHN GARAMENDI
OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, November 22, 2022

Mr. GARAMENDI. Madam Speaker, I rise today along with my colleague Representative Mike THOMPSON (D–CA), to recognize Woodland’s Corner Drug Company and celebrate Corner Drug’s 125th anniversary. Corner Drug Company is a historic staple of the Woodland community—an independent, family-owned and operated pharmacy, promoting the health of the community with honesty and compassion.

The corner of Woodland’s 1st and Main Street has been home to the drug store since 1897 when Wallace Pond converted the building into the original Corner Drug Store. The pharmacy changed hands five more times by 1934 when it became the first Walgreens franchise in all of California and was officially incorporated as the Corner Drug Company.

By 1979, Karl Hanke took sole ownership of Corner Drug Company, laying the foundations for Corner Drug’s family-owned status, which spans three generations to date. Hanke initially worked at Corner Drug as a delivery boy in high school, before enlisting in the Army Air Corps in 1943. A graduate of the University of California Davis and the University of California San Francisco’s Pharmacy School, Hanke became part-owner in 1959 and sold his business to his daughter, Lisa Shelley, in 1999, after four decades serving the community.

Lisa Shelley and her husband, Ed began management in the corner store’s 102nd year. Their daughter, Sara, followed in her mother’s footsteps, graduating from the University of the Pacific School of Pharmacy and stepping behind the pharmacy counter in 2008. Becoming co-owners in 2020, Lisa, Sara, and her husband Erik Daniels have continued Corner Drug’s community-friendly spirit, introducing live music events and hosting neighborhood gatherings.

Corner Drug Company is more than a business; it is a Woodland landmark that unites the community around rich history, vibrant cultural events, and the Shelley family’s incredible 63 years of service. We are proud to recognize the remarkable 125th anniversary of Woodland’s Corner Drug store. We congratulate the Shelley family and all who contributed to the store’s decades of success on this incredible achievement.

HONORING THE LIFE OF PASTOR JULES EARL SMITH

HON. JASON CROW
OF COLORADO

Tuesday, November 22, 2022

Mr. CROW. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of Jules Earl Smith, beloved grandfather, father, husband, son, brother, and community servant, who passed away on Monday, October 17, 2022, after a year-long battle with Acute Myeloid Leukemia and Non-Hodgkin’s Lymphoma.

Born on April 9, 1947 in New Orleans, Louisiana, Jules began his religious journey at a young age. Holding church services for his younger siblings in the living room—pretending they were his congregation—Jules was destined for a life behind the pulpit.

Jules had a love of learning from a young age. He tutored his classmates and friends, and taught his father how to read the Bible. He spent his childhood accompanying his parents and siblings to multiple churches where he discovered his love for music and church administration. When he began his faith journey, he called upon the leadership and clerical skills that were instilled in him from those days attending church with his family.

Jules’ service was not confined to church—he was also an activist and Civil Rights leader in Baton Rouge. He dedicated his time to teaching older Black citizens how to read and sign their names. Notably, he taught them to memorize the preamble to the Constitution—pushing them to believe that We The People meant all people—in order to fight back against the racist “Grandfather Clause” as well as discriminatory literacy laws that prevented Black people from voting.

In 1969, Jules graduated from Southern University and A&M College in Baton Rouge with a degree in Business Economics. He went on to excel in the field of sales and eventually became the Regional Vice President at Western Union Telegraph Company in New York City. He was the first African American to travel and train others in the field of telecommunications. While in New York City, he found a new church home in the Bronx where he served as a Sunday School teacher, choir director, parish pianist, church clerk, and eventually Chair of the Deacons.

In 1976, Jules preached his first sermon, and just five years later in 1981, he was ordained and Jules became Pastor Smith. He and his family moved to Denver, Colorado in 1982, and in 1986 he became the Pastor of a tiny church on the corner of Dayton and Florida in Colorado’s very own Sixth Congressional District. He led a diverse congregation at Rising Star Missionary Baptist Church for over 36 years and founded the Rising Star Christian Academy for preschool to fifth graders.

It is incredibly difficult to encapsulate all that was Pastor Smith’s life. I have no doubt he impacted tens of thousands of lives through his sermons and Bible studies. He was passionate about his faith, and guided many throughout the years. Even though Pastor Smith is gone, his legacy lives on through the lives he touched, and his spirit will be felt in the halls of his parish and in the hearts of the people he served for many years to come. It is an honor to recognize the incredible life Pastor Smith led, and to his family: “The God of love and peace shall be with you.”

RECOGNIZING CLAIRE NADER’S BOOK, YOU ARE YOUR OWN BEST TEACHER

HON. JOHN B. LARSON
OF CONNECTICUT

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, November 22, 2022

Mr. LARSON of Connecticut. Madam Speaker, I rise today to include in the Record the following review of Claire Nader’s book, “You Are Your Own Best Teacher,” written by Dorothea V. Dicecco for the Republican-American.

CLAIRE NADER CELEBRATES, ENCOURAGES TWEENS STEPPING FORWARD

(By Dorothea V. Dicecco)

As I began to read Claire Nader’s new book, “You Are Your Own Best Teacher,” I found it so engaging that I was unable to put it down. This surprised me, as the introduction stressed that it was a book aimed at “tweens”—children between 9 and 12. Indeed she does focus on young people but as I became involved with its subject matter, it became clear that she also meant to appeal to readers of all ages.

There is no doubt that she succeeded.

Praise for the book is provided in its opening pages from 13 prominent Americans, each of whom expresses the reasons for their enthusiasm. Among them are Jonathan Kozol, author of “Death at an Early Age” and “Savage Inequalities: Children in American Schools”; Amy Goodman, host of the “Democracy Now!” TV and radio news program; and Katrina Vanden Heuval, publisher and former editor of The Nation.

Nader was fortunate to live with parents who knew how to stimulate their children’s curiosity, imagination and intellect—the three characteristics she features on the cover of her book. She was aware that her peers had minds of their own, and like her, were influenced by their family as well as their experiences with friends and classmates. Her book acknowledges that differences in income, family situation, safe neighborhoods and health influence young lives; but they do not diminish tweens’ innate curiosity, imagination and intellect.

A graduate of Smith College, Nader holds a Ph.D. from Columbia University in public law and government. As an author and political scientist, she has filled her life with interactions with adults and young people, and she has observed the similarities and differences between the age groups.

In this book, she points out that in schools, the curriculum has become less connected to the reality of life. As budgets are... cut, many offerings such as sports, art, music, literature, health, science, history and politics are reduced or eliminated.

The growing impact of media has reached tweens who now, like adults, are a focus of the corporate world. Through their cell phones and computers, tweens are treated as a product, bombarded with tempting ads on how to improve their looks. Junk-foods and sugary drinks are promoted as a dominant source of nutrition; at the same time causing childhood obesity, diabetes and heart disease—all while raising corporate profits.

In this book, Claire Nader raises us above this dark side of reality and concludes that tweens have not succumbed to it as we might have believed. On the contrary, she provides the reader with positive news and optimism derived from her experience as an advocate for numerous causes at the local, national and international level. Tweens are never afraid to ask questions.

Written simply, and often with humor, the book reveals why she admires tweens. She presents a large range of subjects that inspire them to become active, and through self-education, bring about change. Among them are how they pressed their parents to stop smoking, or wear seatbelts, once they learned about the billions of lives saved. Others attended town meetings and vigorously expressed their opinions on social topics that negatively affected their lives locally and nationally.

One group of fifth-graders influenced their town to clean up a dump that was near their school. Others who were attending a rundown school in a poor neighborhood successfully agitated for a new school building. Planting a community garden was a meaningful experience. To add impact to a specific presentation, Nader often colors her talk with stories like this one, from an ancient Chinese proverb: “To know and not to act is not to know.”

Rarely discussed in the media are the effects some tweens suffer as the result of their IQ and other standardized tests given in schools. Many accept the fact that a poor performance suggests less success in future educational opportunities and jobs. Nader writes, “I am so glad that standardized multiple-choice questions do not measure the most important talents for success in life. They cannot test your judgement, experience, wisdom, imagination, idealism, diligence, stamina, and resilience.” This frank discussion provides tweens and their parents with a new look at themselves.

She clarifies myths about famous people in history and gives us a surprising and entertaining look at the dictionary as a door to meaning, understanding and enchantment. With a sense of wit, she promotes natural foods for healthy bodies and provides an understanding of economic security. She believes that tweens are too young to be active consumers. “As a matter of fact, back her writings that if given the opportunity, tweens would be more than happy to join in the conversations.

One parent who read the book wished it were available when her children were young so they could read it and learn together. Others say that this book should be in every library and school, so teachers can use it as a reference and read it to kids. And, of course, kids should read it.

Using a unique approach, Nader has moved beyond stimulating the curiosity, imagination and intellect of tweens. Her book is a testament to reach the minds of all readers who will benefit from her insight and understanding.

HONORING LARRY SUFFREDIN FOR A LIFETIME OF SERVICE

HON. JANICE D. SCHAOKWSKY
OF ILLINOIS

Tuesday, November 22, 2022

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor the many accomplishments of Cook County Commissioner Larry Suffredin. Larry Suffredin is a lot of things: he is a beloved elected official. An attorney. A United States Air Force veteran. A devoted husband, father, and grandfather. Commissioner Suffredin is the quintessential statesman, and I am proud to be able to call him a dear friend and neighbor.

Larry Suffredin has deep roots in our state and our community. Born in Evergreen Park, Illinois, he is the oldest of eight children, the son of a Chicago Police Officer, and a graduate of Loyola University Chicago. Larry has a long history of service. While in law school at Georgetown University in Washington D.C., he joined the United States Department of Justice, and then went on to serve as an officer in the United States Air Force in the early 1970’s. Upon being discharged from the armed forces, Larry worked as an Assistant Public Defender before moving on to other pursuits. Larry saw a lot of success as a lawyer. Practicing law for almost fifty years, he is a partner at Shesky & Frischel and has had the opportunity to argue cases before the Illinois Appellate Court, the United States Court of Appeals, and the United States Supreme Court.

In 2002, Larry Suffredin was elected to serve as a member of the Cook County Board of Commissioners representing the 13th District. During his tenure, Larry’s depth of knowledge and compassion made him an effective and passionate defender of Cook County residents and a mentor to many. Even in retirement, I am certain many will continue to seek his counsel.

Larry has a long list of accomplishments from his time spent as a Cook County Commissioner. A longtime advocate for gun safety reform, he helped pass Cook County’s Assault Weapons Ban. He saved the old County Hospital from demolition and created the successful Independent Defender and Hospital Board, and was a leader in raising the miminum wage. Larry played a key role in establishing Cook County’s Office of the Independent Inspector General and created an Eviction and Mortgage Foreclosures Court protocol to protect people’s homes.

As a Forest Preserve Commissioner, he has a whole other list! He established the New Century Conservation Council and worked hard to expand the Forest Preserve’s land restoration initiatives and their use of trained volunteers. Larry was a driving force behind successful efforts to require children to wear bike helmets as they made use of this amazing local resource.

These are only a sampling of Commissioner Suffredin’s successful efforts over the last twenty years. However, these accomplishments will have impacts on residents for many decades ahead. His leadership has made Cook County a better place for those who live here.

On behalf of the residents of the 9th Congressional District of Illinois, I thank Larry for so many years of dedicated and effective leadership on behalf of our community. I know his family—Gloria, Tom, Elizabeth, and their families—are excited to spend more time with him in the years ahead. I hope that he continues to answer my calls when I am the one calling for his counsel, and I wish him nothing but the very best moving forward.

COMMEMORATING THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE HAWAII WING OF THE CIVIL AIR PATROL

HON. ED CASE
OF HAWAII

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, November 22, 2022

Mr. CASE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to commemorate the 75th Anniversary of the Hawaii Wing of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP). Founded in 1947, the Hawaii Wing of CAP works to support the mission of its national organization in my home state. What began as a volunteer organization to mobilize civilian aviation resources for national defense following World War II has evolved into a premier public service organization that carries out emergency service missions when and where needed.

The Hawaii Wing of the CAP, as well as the CAP wings in Alaska, Guam and Puerto Rico, only came to be because of the determination of the late Sarah Park of Hawaii. She was an avid pilot and took her first solo flight at age 16 shortly after the end of World War II. The same year she took her first solo flight, she began working to convince CAP’s National Headquarters to change its rules so that Hawaii and the other territories at that time could create their own CAP wings.

Due to her persistence, in 1947 the Hawaii Wing began its operations. It initially served as an additional resource for national defense and sought to protect Hawaiian territory by conducting observation flights around the islands. The Wing’s first Commander was Lieutenant Colonel Ben Dillingham II, who received a Bronze Star for meritorious service in World War II.
Since its inception, the Hawaii Wing has performed critical public safety missions for the State of Hawaii. As early as 1957, the Hawaii Wing became part of the Hawaii Emergency Services Tsunami Warning Program for Kauai Island, and to this day, CAP aircraft are the only state resources for issuing tsunami warnings. In places where there are no existing sirens or the sirens are inoperable. Additionally, working both in the air and on the ground, the over 600 members of the Hawaii Wing perform emergency services for the Hawaii Federal Emergency Management Agency and augment search and rescue services throughout the state.

A major part of the Wing’s community outreach is providing aerospace education to Hawaii’s youth and inspiring them to pursue careers in aerospace; aviation; and other science, technology, engineering and mathematics-related fields. The Wing’s cadet programs also provide flight experience to students, which can spur lifelong interest in aviation or encourage the pursuit of a career in related fields. Along with these invaluable educational experiences, the Hawaii Wing instills values of leadership and character in their recruits which will help cadets in all aspects of their life and help them give back to their communities.

Please join me in extending a mahalo to the Hawaii Wing of the Civil Air Patrol for its service in our skies and in our communities and a hearty congratulations on its 75 years of service to the people of Hawaii.

Mr. Burke has joined the Revolving Door Project, a project of the nonprofit Center for Economic and Policy Research, as a Research Assistant. I and all the members of Team Garamendi wish him all the best in his new position. During his tenure on my staff, Mr. Burke approached his work with an upbeat and innovative outlook to think outside the box, and flexibility to solve challenges as they arise without complaint. These same qualities will serve him well in his future endeavors.

While we will miss him, we all look forward to what Mr. Burke will do next. He will remain a deeply valued member of Team Garamendi, always.

CELEBRATING DR. DIETER MARTIN GRUEN’S 100TH BIRTHDAY

HON. SEAN CASTEN
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, November 22, 2022

Mr. CASTEN. Madam Speaker, I rise today to celebrate a friend and scientific luminary, Dr. Dieter Martin Gruen, on his 100th birthday. Dr. Gruen has led a distinguished career, and it is my honor to commend him for his service and contributions to the scientific community, as well as record my continued support for his nomination for the Presidential Medal of Freedom.

Throughout his exceptional career, Dr. Gruen has made significant contributions to new energy technologies. Dr. Gruen has worked to enhance American technology development as a former Manhattan Project Scientist and Argonne National Laboratory Distinguished Fellow. Though he officially retired from Argonne in 2012, Dr. Gruen has never stopped working and now devotes his life to fighting climate change and advancing solar energy. Dr. Gruen is a humble embodiment of a dedicated American and scientist.

Born in 1922, Dr. Gruen is an internationally esteemed German-American chemist, inventor, and innovator who immigrated to the United States from Nazi Germany in 1936. Throughout his career, Dr. Gruen has been driven by his curiosity and commitment to science—allowing him to make critical contributions to nuclear fission and fusion, solar energy, energy storage, and conservation. Specifically, Dr. Gruen has made several key technological advancements such as the nuclear submarine reactor cooling design and purification of uranium used to end World War II in the Pacific theater.

Through this work and countless other selfless endeavors, Dr. Gruen has been recognized by the international scientific community with numerous awards—including from Argonne National Laboratory, Northwestern University, and the Patent Law Association of Chicago—for his pioneering research in chemistry, physics, along with the emerging fields of materials and nanoscience. Dr. Gruen has been granted over 60 U.S. patents for his work in alternative energy and discoveries in interdisciplinary subjects.

Dr. Gruen’s story is that of many immigrants to America. He left behind a place of persecution, discrimination, and lack of opportunity for a brighter future. Like so many others who arrived on our shores and helped build our nation through their courageous spirit, collaborative character, unyielding dedication, and personal sacrifice, Dr. Gruen’s courage and tenacity serves as an inspiration for us all.

I’ve had the great pleasure to learn from Dr. Gruen and his unique life journey and stories—from his work on the Manhattan Project, to the ins and outs of nuclear fusion technology, to innovations that make solar energy competitive with fossil fuel energy. Dr. Gruen, through his 100 years and dedicated service to the advancement of science and society, inspires my own optimism in our ability to tackle the toughest issues facing society today.

In April 2021, it was my great honor to support Dr. Gruen’s nomination for the highest civic award in this country, the Presidential Medal of Freedom, alongside my colleagues Representatives Bill Foster, French Hill, Jerry McNerney, and Cheri Bustos. For all of the reasons mentioned here and many more, I cannot think of a more deserving citizen for this award.

I wish Dr. Gruen the happiest of 100th birthdays. I thank him for all his decades of service and remarkable contributions to science which have positioned the United States as a leader and world power in national defense, technology and innovation.

HONORING TERESA ZILK
OF IOWA
IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Tuesday, November 22, 2022

Mrs. AXNE. Madam Speaker, I rise today to ask the House of Representatives to join me in honoring Teresa Zilk, community advocate and founder of “Stories to Tell My Daughter,” as Iowan of the Week.

“Stories to Tell My Daughter (STMD),” a series of live storytelling events that center the voices and experiences of Black women and other women of color in our communities, is a direct shot to the heart calling a platform for women to share the trials and triumphs of their lives on stage in front of an audience, she believed the experience would facilitate a particularly powerful and cathartic moment of healing for everyone involved. It was an admirable goal, especially during a time when the country is navigating collectively traumatic circumstances, and one that has come to fruition each time the events take place.

After years of careful thought and planning, STMD officially launched in Des Moines in March of 2018. At the time Teresa and her family were navigating their own challenges, and she found that channeling her energy and focus into an uplifting project with so much potential was a boon to her wellbeing. She knew storytelling was important and wanted to share the concept with the community, but wasn’t sure if people were going to show up for the first event. To her surprise, the performance sold out and had standing room only, so she moved to a larger venue at her alma mater, Grand View University, the following year. The event has continued to grow and draw in a diverse audience. She now hosts two events each year during which women discuss everything from the birth of their children, leaving abusive relationships and situations, starting
It is my pleasure to recognize Teresa Zilk and move forward in a healthier mental space. Standing, heal from challenging circumstances, worthy of high praise. She's helping our communities in all the work we do. As the pandemic has created even more challenges for Americans to have their basic needs met, Teresa knows how important it is to prioritize mental health as we continue to address challenges like housing, food insecurity, affordable healthcare, and education. All of these circumstances impact overall mental health for Iowans.

Additionally, Teresa has always been a strong advocate in the field of mental health. She worked as a community counselor for the American Red Cross early in her career and found it aligned with her skills and interests. She wanted to work in a field where she could make the most impact. Teresa has since worked in many different roles at various community support agencies and with many families throughout the years. She firmly believes mental health is and should be a top priority in all the work we do. As the pandemic has created even more challenges for Americans to have their basic needs met, Teresa knows how important it is to prioritize mental health as we continue to address challenges like housing, food insecurity, affordable healthcare, and education. All of these circumstances impact overall mental health for Iowans.

Teresa is a current graduate student at Drake University in the counseling program where she hopes to further her work in the mental health field. She looks forward to becoming a clinician and practitioner in our state, where the need for such professionals is great, and to helping Iowans lead healthier lives.

Teresa’s work is inspiring, admirable, and worthy of high praise. She’s helping our communities foster more empathy and understanding, heal from challenging circumstances, and move forward in a healthier mental space. It is my pleasure to recognize Teresa Zilk as Iowan of the Week.

Mr. MOORE of Alabama. Madam Speaker, today, I rise to recognize the life and legacy of Richard Pearl Fleming, who sadly passed away on Friday, September 30, 2022, at the age of 94. Mr. Fleming was loved by many in his hometown of Enterprise and it’s said, “he never met a stranger and loved everyone he met.” Richard made friends no matter where he went or who he met, and he was an irreplaceable pillar of his community.

Richard and his wife Ruth owned and operated Fleming Ford Tractor, which was formerly known as Metcalf Tractor. Richard and Ruth, or Papa Richard and Mama Ruth, as they were known by friends and family, gave back to their community whenever they had a chance.

A devout man of faith and member of the First Baptist Church of Enterprise community, Richard spread love and joy to all those around. He was also known as “The Candy Man” because of the “thousands of pounds” of candy he would give to the children and families in his community.

The children would find him on every church occasion and Richard would give out candy to everyone. Richard was entertaining, kind, loving, and humorous. Never would a visitor leave empty handed from Richard, whether it was candy, a watermelon, or even a bag of tomatoes.

Richard Pearl Fleming dedicated his life to bringing joy to his friends, family, and everybody else around him. He was a loving son, husband, father, brother, and grandfather. He is survived by his three children, six grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren, brother Sam, and many nieces and nephews.

Richard Pearl Fleming was a joyous and loved citizen of Alabama’s Second Congressional District that left lifelong impressions on many people. He will be deeply missed by many friends, family members, and all those he made smile.

HON. JASON CROW II

Tuesday, November 22, 2022

Mr. CROW. Madam Speaker, I rise today to honor and congratulate Jimmy Day II for being recognized as the 2023 Colorado Teacher of the Year. Mr. Day has served as an educator for over a decade—inspiring, developing, and cultivating the musical talent that lies within his students.

Mr. Day joined East Middle School in Aurora, Colorado in 2017, where he serves as the Instrumental Music Teacher and Band Director. In addition to providing students with exceptional instruction in Instrumental Music, Mr. Day also leads the school’s band program. The Colorado Department of Education credits Mr. Day for rebuilding and transforming three band programs during his career and transforming them into award-winning programs. As a result of his dedication to bettering the music program, his ability to connect with his students, and his effective teaching style, Mr. Day was previously recommended to participate in the Public Education & Business Coalition and the Aurora Public School Mentoring Community of Practice.

It is clear to anyone who knows Mr. Day, that though his knowledge and passion for music are extensive, the love he has for sharing that knowledge with his students is what makes him an exemplary teacher. Mr. Day's students describe him as a teacher exuding passion who always pushes them to try their best—wanting them to harness the potential he already knows lies within them. Mr. Day is known for helping his music students achieve success not only in music, but in developing the life skills they will carry with them long after they leave his classroom.

Teachers have a tremendous impact on the lives of our children and Mr. Day represents the best of what our teachers can be. I commend Mr. Day for his tireless dedication to his students, and congratulate him for receiving this recognition. It is an honor to recognize him and his achievements.
