PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 119th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 171 WASHINGTON, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 2025 No. 143

Senate

The Senate met at 3 p.m. and was called to order by the President pro tempore (Mr. GRASSLEY).

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

God of new beginnings, the author and sustainer of our faith, thank You for this fresh start as we strive again to do the work of freedom.

Bless our lawmakers to seek to do Your will, empowering them with greater knowledge and discernment so that they may approve the things that are excellent. Lord, give them a productivity that comes from the power of Your Spirit, using them to do Your work on Earth. Show them Your greatness and Your mighty hand during this season of wars, violence, and polarization.

You are our rock, our fortress, and our deliverer. We will trust in Your strength and preserve this land we live in so that we will be instruments of Your peace. We pray in Your invincible name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The President pro tempore led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BANKS). Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION

NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2026—Motion to Proceed

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will resume consideration of the motion to proceed to S. 2296, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

Motion to proceed to Calendar No. 115, S. 2296, a bill to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2026 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

TRIBUTE TO JONI ERNST

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, one minute to honor my colleague JONI ERNST. She announced today that she will not seek another term in the U.S. Senate. It has been a wonderful opportunity serving with her and serving Iowans since 2015.

As the Senate's first female combat veteran and Iowa's first woman elected to Congress, she broke barriers at every turn and accomplished what she set out to do by coming to the U.S. Senate, in her words:

Make 'em squeal.

After a long career in the Iowa National Guard as well as elected office, JONI has served our country and State with pride and with distinction.

Barbara and I wish her well and know that whatever she chooses to do in her next chapter, they will be lucky to have this outstanding leader on the team. I will miss serving with JONI but know she will enjoy having more time to cherish her favorite role as a mother and grandmother.

TRIBUTE TO EDUCATORS

Mr. President, now on another subject, across Iowa and America, students and teachers are back in the classroom. As we look ahead to a new academic year, I would like to commend the dedicated educators, administrators, and support staff who make a difference in the lives of students each and every day. Teachers make a lasting impact on their students from one school year to the next and even decades after their students leave the classroom.

Like so many families across my home State, I am proud to have teachers in my own family tree. I am the son of a schoolteacher. My mother taught in one-room rural schools for nearly a half century, 49 years to be exact. My sister Lois was lauded for her work ethic and being a respected mentor to her peers. She taught business and computer classes to three generations of students.

Today, I would like to sing the praises of my daughter-in-law Diane Grassley. She is married to my son Robin who operates our fourth-generation family farm in New Hartford, IA, with their son Patrick Grassley. At the start of this school year, Diane marks 25 years of service in the Dike-New Hartford Community School District where she works as a teacher associate. Barbara and I congratulate Diane on this remarkable milestone, and we are proud to say that the apple doesn't fall far from the tree because both of Diane's daughters followed in their mother's footsteps. Dana teaches math at Union Middle School in Dysart, IA, and Carrie is a school counselor at the Dike Elementary School.

Congratulations, Diane, on your decades of service and unwavering commitment to educating the next generation in the Dike-New Hartford Community School District.

As a proud father-in-law and a graduate of New Hartford High School, I say: #rollblue to the Wolverines. Have a great year.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

NOMINATIONS

Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, it has been a very busy year here in the U.S. Senate. From confirming President Trump's nominees to repealing burdensome Biden administration regulations, to passing the One Big Beautiful Bill, to preventing a massive tax hike on hard-working Americans, Republicans have been hard at work delivering on the mandate we received from the American people.

The Senate has taken, so far, 499 votes this year, more than in any Congress at this point in the last 35-plus years. In fact, we have taken more votes in 2025 already in 8 months than the Senate has taken in a full 12 months for most—all but 2—of the past 36 years.

But we have a lot more work to do, and we are going to get it done. That starts this week with consideration of the National Defense Authorization Act, one of the most important pieces of legislation that we consider every year.

That will be followed by continued appropriations work so we can get the government funded by the September 30 deadline. We have already done some good work on appropriations. In fact, for the first time in years, we went into August having passed 3 of the 12 appropriations bills. The last time that happened—a single appropriations bill passed before the August break—was 2018.

But needless to say, there is a lot more to do. And I hope that our Democrat colleagues will resist the calls from within for a shutdown and work with us to fund the government.

Along with the National Defense Authorization Act and funding the government, we have another important task to accomplish in the coming weeks and that is making major headway on confirming more of President Trump's nominees. Thanks to a lot of hours here in the Senate to overcome Democrat obstruction, we went into August having confirmed 135 of the President's civilian nominees, more than had been confirmed by this point in his first term. But there are a lot more nominees to go.

I am here to tell my Democrat colleagues that their historic obstruction cannot continue. When voters elect a President, that comes with certain expectations, one of which is that a President will be able to fill up his or her administration with his or her nominees. And, historically, the Senate has reflected that by confirming most of a President's civilian nominees by unanimous consent or voice vote, which means without obstruction and blocking. President George H. W. Bush had 98 percent of his civilian nominees confirmed by unanimous consent or voice vote here in the Senate, and so did President Clinton. President George W. Bush and President Obama both had 90 percent of their civilian nominees confirmed by unanimous consent or voice vote. But things changed during the first Trump administration. Democrats started obstructing nominees who had previously been confirmed without a drawn-out process.

But even so, both President Trump and his first administration and President Biden had more than half of their civilian nominees confirmed by unanimous consent or voice vote without a long, drawn-out process.

Well, fast forward to 2025. As of today, September 2, President Trump has not had a single one—single one—of his civilian nominees confirmed by unanimous consent or voice vote, not a single one. By this point in his administration, President Biden had 76—76—confirmed without dragging it out and delaying and blocking and obstructing. When I say that President Trump's nominees have faced a historic level of obstruction, I am not being political or hyperbolic. I am doing nothing more than stating the bare facts. Between the calendar and committees, we currently have nominees pending for a total of 302 civilian positions. And 95 percent of those positions—95 percent—were confirmed by voice vote at least once during the previous three incoming administrations. Yet Democrats seem unwilling to expedite consideration for a single one.

This cannot continue. The American people elected President Trump. And like any President, he deserves to be able to fill up his administration. In fact, we owe the voters nothing less. That doesn't mean rubberstamping every nominee, but it does mean an end to the ridiculous—and I mean ridiculous—delays on every nomination, including on nominations the Democrats ended up supporting in significant numbers. I say that, ''supporting in significant numbers,'' because let's be clear here, the Democrat leader might like people to think Democrats are holding up all these nominees because they are, in his words, ''historically bad,'' but, in fact, at least some Democrats have ultimately voted in favor of many of these nominations. Mr. President, 61 out of the 135 civilian nominees confirmed received at least one Democrat vote on the final confirmation, and fully half of the civilian nominees currently on the calendar were reported out of committee with bipartisan support. Democrats aren't holding up nominations to minor administration positions out of principled opposition; they are holding them up because they don't like President Trump. That is not a good reason.

Democrats' obstruction is not only preventing voters from getting the administration they elected, it is also slowing down the essential business of the U.S. Senate. Over August, my colleagues and I discussed various ways of addressing this problem and expediting confirmations. There are a lot of options on the table, none of which, I might add, would be necessary if the Senate Democrats treated this President the way that Republican and Democrat Senates have treated Republican and Democrat Presidents for all of American history. In fact, you have to go back a long way in the annals of history to find a time—in fact, moving back as far as the Hoover administration—as far back as I think we can find records and data, to find a President who didn't have at least one of his nominees confirmed here in the Senate by voice vote or unanimous consent at this point in their administration.

In fact, the majority of Presidential confirmations were conducted on a bipartisan basis for a long time here in the Senate, and there is no reason we couldn't go back to that right now. All it takes is a little behavioral change and a willingness to acknowledge President Trump won an election. The American people voted for him, and they expect him to be able to populate his administration with the people that he wants to serve in many of these positions.

But if Democrats continue to obstruct, if they continue to drag out the confirmation of every single one of the nominations of the duly elected President, if they continue to slow the Senate's business to such a drastic degree, then we are going to have to take steps to get this process back on a reasonable footing.

This is not sustainable. You can't run a government this way. It has never been done before ever—ever—in history. This is not a sustainable business model. In one way or the other, it is going to have to get fixed.

The Democrats can play ball the way every Democrat and Republican Senate has, going back as far as we can find in the annals of history, or things are going to have to change around here. It is as simple as that. The ball, I would say, Mr. President, is in the Democrat's court.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SCHUMER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

TRUMP ADMINISTRATION

Mr. SCHUMER. Well, Mr. President, today, we are starting an important work period in the Senate. Every work period is important but this one especially so because this month, Congress needs to step up and fix all of the disasters that Donald Trump has created since he became President.

Donald Trump has been President for 225 days, and each one has been worse than the last. Every time Trump creates a new crisis, each new controversy, each new lie, every time he sends armed troops to U.S. cities, each new attack on the courts, on the rule of law, on the Constitution is a disgrace—a disgrace—to the Presidency. That is what Donald Trump's Presidency has been—a disgrace, a failure, an exercise in pathetic leadership.

I just spent a month traveling from one corner of New York to the other, talking to families, businesspeople—Democrats, Republicans, Independents—and the trend is clear: American families are poorer because of President Trump, American businesses are less optimistic because of President Trump, and American communities are less safe because of President Trump. America is more isolated, less respected, and wields less influence over world affairs because of President Trump. The picture of Modi and Putin and Xi standing there together as allies—it was Donald Trump who ended up making that happen.

A recent survey showed that the United States is now the only country—we are the only country—among 184 that shows a drop in international visitors. People don't want to come to America anymore because Donald Trump has so tarnished what our country is all about and what has made our country so great. And it is not just about reputation; it is going to cost our economy billions that come from tourism and kill jobs.

It will freeze entire communities. I was just in Niagara Falls, in the Finger Lakes. Twenty to twenty-five percent of our tourists each summer are usually Canadian but not this year. Canadians don't want to come here. And they are angry. The people—not just the government but the people are angry about what Trump is saying about their country and saying about them. When folks as friendly as the Canadian people suddenly don't want to have anything to do with America, that is when you know that Donald Trump is like a disease to America's greatness.

It is incumbent upon Republicans in Congress to join us to fix these disasters through the appropriations process, through commonsense legislation.

The question still is, Will Senate Republicans keep bowing to Donald Trump and enabling his lies every step of the way? When will they have the guts to stand up to him? Because they know he is lying because that is what Donald Trump is. Donald Trump is a liar through and through. It has been his MO his whole life. I have seen that in New York. He has lied to the American people, lied about the economy, about fixing inflation, about peace in Europe and the Middle East. He lied about Epstein and the Epstein files. He lied about elections. He lied about Social Security and Medicaid. One lie—one lie—after another and another.

Let's start with the economy and Donald Trump's tariffs. Donald Trump said his tariffs would bring liberation to America. This has turned out to be one big, fat lie. Companies are losing revenue, shedding jobs, and raising costs.

Just look at companies—great American companies—like John Deere and Caterpillar. They are strong; they are solid; they have always been a rock of America. But last month, they reported losses in the hundreds of millions and layoffs in the hundreds. Why? Donald Trump did it—nothing to do with farm conditions; the tariffs did it. Look at retailers like Target and Walmart, not to mention every grocery store chain in America. They are all raising prices. Hormel? They are raising the price of pork and beef. J.M. Smucker, which owns Folgers and Dunkin' Donuts and other coffee brands, said prices for its products will keep going up. Why? Trump's tariffs, plain and simple—no ands, ifs, or buts.

But, of course, Donald Trump will lie to the American people about his failures. As we have said, that has been his MO all along. Here is what he said on Monday. He said on Monday—he tweeted—that prices are way down in the United States, with virtually no inflation. Every single person in America knows that is a lie. Anyone who buys anything knows it is a lie. Every one of the 77 million Americans who voted for Trump knows he is lying. They know it when they go to the supermarket or try to buy something. They see higher prices at the grocery store, when paying their electric bills, and higher prices when buying school supplies. Yet the MAGA bots and FOX News propagandists, who always seem to want to cover up for Donald Trump, will pretend he is right just so they can keep on sucking up to him. It is pathological. It is delusional. It is more lies.

Nowhere is the Trump psychosis more evident than in gas prices. Listen to this: President Trump claims that gas prices are under $2 when every single American driver knows that is a lie. Maybe for the MAGA extremists, this is the point, unfortunately. Maybe this is their idea of success. Maybe MAGA radicals are perfectly fine having Americans pay more for produce, for meat, for gas so long as masked agents can arrest Uber drivers right off our streets, so long as billionaires get their tax cuts, so long as Medicaid recipients lose their coverage and Social Security gets privatized. Maybe that is MAGA's idea of a golden age, but for the rest of America, this is chaos.

When Donald Trump is not running America's economy into the ground, he has been busy incinerating America's reputation on the world stage. He is rolling out the red carpet for Vladimir Putin. He brags about stopping wars that still rage on. He has failed to stop the humanitarian crisis in Gaza, failed to end the war, and failed to bring the hostages held by Hamas home.

He creates problems so he can pretend to solve them. That is what he does. He creates a problem, he creates a real mess, and then he says ''Oh, I have solved it,'' when nothing like that has ever happened in so many areas.

The only foreign policy accomplishment Donald Trump has under his belt is bringing India, China, and Russia closer together thanks to his unbelievable, stupid tariffs and his lack of understanding of how diplomacy works and how to get along with people in countries.

Listen to this: He is even obsessed, for some strange reason, with winning the Nobel prize, and he has even phoned foreign leaders, asking them to recommend him for the award. Have we ever had a President so pathetic? so pathetic?

Frankly, does this sound like someone who is firing on all cylinders? I think we know the answer to that. Everyone listening today knows the answer to that deep down in their hearts, including my colleagues on the other side of the aisle even if they won't dare say it aloud. They are afraid of him. They know he threatens them and brandishes everything over them.

Egos are often part of the territory in politics, but I have never seen a bully in the Oval Office with such a nakedly fragile ego. Earlier today, I got to see that ego in all its ugly glory while I was driving to the Capitol. In driving past the Department of Labor, I got to see, as many others have, the massive banners that have Donald Trump's face airbrushed on them. A number of these banners are going up all across Washington. For generations, Americans have looked at these kinds of images and laughed at them, snickered at them, because they are such obvious signs of deep insecurity.

Lenin, Stalin, Mao, Putin, Kim Jong Un, and other bullies throughout history have depended on these images because they were desperate to seem powerful and important and untouchable. Yet here we are in 2025 America, and we have an insecure bully in the Oval Office who orders his sycophantic Cabinet Secretaries to grovel to him at Cabinet meetings. Have you ever watched one of these meetings? It is embarrassing. Who can suck up more to Donald Trump, as he beams, even though what they are saying has very little truth?

How about adorning the faces of buildings in our city with his picture? It is laughable that Donald Trump says he wants to make Washington more beautiful; yet, at the same time, he plasters his face all over our buildings, these beautiful buildings that have been built for so long and have stood for so much to so many.

Do you know what else is even more pathetic about this President? Pulling a power grab in red States and trying to redraw maps. And why is he doing it? Because he knows the American people reject his agenda. He knows that the American people are ready to punish his party at the ballot box because his proposals are so harmful to people. No President—no President—who thinks he can win by virtue of his ideas alone would feel like he must rig the rules and pick his own voters instead of the other way around—the voters picking him. Yet that is what Donald Trump is doing right now—pushing Republicans in Texas and in other red States across the country to gerrymander their way into power, to rig the game because they can't win the game fair and square.

I ask again: Have we ever had a President so pathetic, so pathological as Donald Trump?

Finally, no discussion of Donald Trump's incompetence and lies would be complete without talking about healthcare.

Now, what is Donald Trump's signature domestic accomplishment? Tell me. What is it? He would say it is, undoubtedly, the so-called Big Beautiful Bill, but Americans are learning—every day, more and more Americans learn that it is nothing more than a big betrayal—a big betrayal—the biggest cuts to healthcare and food assistance and good-paying jobs in American history.

Donald Trump's signature feat in office is throwing people off Medicaid—can you imagine?—to make life better for those at the very, very top. He is destroying the ACA marketplace and sending costs skyrocketing for millions of Americans. They are going to learn about this as early as next month. And who are we kidding? We know that Medicare is next. We all know his Treasury Secretary gloated that they found a way to hurt Medicare in the so-called Big Beautiful Bill.

I was in New York last month, and I spoke with countless New York doctors and hospital managers and nurses and parents and patients who are frustrated and worried that hospitals will close, that costs will go up, that people who need coverage won't be able to get it—the mom who has a daughter with cancer and can no longer get help and watches that child suffer, and the mom suffers too.

Thanks to Donald Trump and Senate Republicans, healthcare costs are going to increase for every American in the country, and it is not just—you know, you say: Well, I am not on Medicaid. I am not on Medicare and the ACA.

Even people with private insurance will see their costs go up and go up significantly. Rural Americans will see their hospitals close. It is happening already in States like Nebraska and Maine. And this isn't theoretical; it is real.

Meanwhile, while all this devastation is going on, we have an HHS Secretary—instead of looking out for the healthcare of the American people, he is firing thousands of Federal workers, he is canceling medical research, and he is promoting cod liver oil supplements to treat diseases like measles. This is crackpot nonsense.

My Senate colleagues know that what R.F.K., Jr., is doing is dangerous. The damage R.F.K., Jr., is causing right now will be felt for generations, and so many of our kids and grandkids will suffer. More of our kids will die from preventable diseases. The damage will be long-lasting. Donald Trump should fire R.F.K., Jr., immediately. Republicans should come out of hiding and demand Trump fire R.F.K. too. They see the damage. They read the insane things he says day after day after day after day. They know the immense harm R.F.K. poses to our kids the longer he stays in place.

Every second that R.F.K. is running our healthcare system is a healthcare crisis of its own, and he cannot be allowed to continue to lead this Agency.

So, in conclusion, the challenges I have mentioned today are just a few that plague America. They are a result of Donald Trump's pathetic leadership and his incessant lies.

I lay all of this at the feet of my Republican colleagues. They could stop it. I ask my Republican colleagues: Will you join us in making things right, in putting a stop to Donald Trump's madness, in protecting our kids, in lowering costs, in setting America back on the right track, and making our neighborhoods safe, or will you keep bowing down before the throne of Donald Trump?

We ask you not to turn your back on the vision of our Founders, not to let America slide down the road to autocracy—and that is an expensive autocracy for that matter—where Americans pay more and more for rent, electricity, groceries, and things like that. Senate Republicans can't pretend they are helpless against Donald Trump. The majority in this Chamber—the majority—could very easily undo what he does. They have the power to rein in his worst impulses. Republicans just need to make the decision for themselves to act, to stand up, to put the needs of people back home ahead of Donald Trump's narcissistic wishes.

We have an opportunity this month—this month—to start setting things right by advancing commonsense legislation to protect our healthcare, to hold the line against Trump's abuses, and to reverse the immense, harmful Medicaid cuts that Trump and Republicans pushed in the summer.

Will Senate Republicans continue to kowtow to a leader they know is dragging the country down, they know is a pathological liar, or will they—as the Founding Fathers intended—stand up to him? Will they help us fight America's slide into authoritarianism? Will they help us give the American people some hope in the future and prevent their costs from continuing to rise? This month—this month—will tell us in which direction they choose.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Democratic whip.

NOMINATIONS

Mr. DURBIN. Mr. President, I listened carefully to my friend JOHN THUNE, the Republican leader. We have known one another and served together for many years. We have worked on issues together, and I think we will continue to, but we disagree on many political things. I respect him, and I hope he respects me.

He made a plea to the Senate that we have more voice votes, more unanimous consent requests for nominations. He went through the history of this Chamber. And, certainly, it bears repeating, and it is certainly true, that in the past there were many more voice votes than there are today.

What is the difference between a record vote and a voice vote? Time. Time is so precious here. We only meet for a few days each week and a few hours each day. We need more time if there are more rollcall votes. It takes up anywhere from 20 minutes to 2 hours to complete a vote. A voice vote, of course, is instantaneous.

So the Republican leader, Mr. THUNE, is asking for more and more voice votes. And he recounts the history in this Chamber to make his case. There is one chapter that he failed to admit and failed to concede; that is, what happened in the last year of the Biden administration.

I was then chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and I am a member of that committee to this day. One of the most important responsibilities of a President is to fill the 90-plus U.S. attorney spots all across the United States that represent the Department of Justice. These are men and women who are on the firing line in the enforcement of law, and it is critical that these appointments be confirmed as quickly as possible.

Under the administration of President Donald Trump in his first term, all 90-plus U.S. attorneys were approved by voice vote, all of them. There was one that became controversial and was later reconsidered and removed. But all of the 90-plus U.S. attorneys in Trump's first term, voice vote.

What happened when Joe Biden defeated Donald Trump—and he did defeat him—and became President of the United States and tried to do the same thing to fill up the spots of U.S. attorneys? We were doing quite well following the precedent that had been around for years under leaders of both parties, following the precedent of President Trump's first term. We were doing quite well until one Senator objected. In the Senate, that can stop the train.

That Senator was JD VANCE of Ohio. He came to the floor and made it clear that he would no longer allow us to have unanimous consent to move to a voice vote on U.S. attorneys. The vacancies and positions for a U.S. attorney had to be filled by a record vote—just what Senator THUNE is objecting to these days. He insisted—JD VANCE of Ohio, U.S. Senator, insisted that no voice votes for U.S. attorneys from that point forward would take place.

I went to the floor on six or seven different occasions begging him to reconsider that position, saying to him: A day may come when your party, the Republican Party, has a President who wants to fill U.S. attorney slots by a voice vote and we will have the JD VANCE precedent that says you can't do it.

He didn't care. He wouldn't budge. He stuck to that position. As a consequence, almost 30 U.S. attorneys under President Joe Biden were not approved.

So I say to Leader THUNE, be honest about the analysis of this situation. If we are going to do something by way of reform, I would like to be at the table—particularly when it applies to U.S. attorneys and judges—but we should do this in a fashion that is fair to both political parties.

I might also say that though the U.S. attorneys are virtually subject to a blue slip, it means that some of them will receive the approval of Democrats. We have that case right now. I can point to States, specific States, where Democratic attorneys have given blue slip approval of U.S. attorney nominees. That, to me, is an important factor that should be brought into this conversation.

I might also say that from the Republican side, if they will sit down and be fair with us in terms of Democratic appointments, we need to be fair back to them. That, I think, would mean turning our back on the JD VANCE precedent that we have been living under ever since. So I hope we can do something positive for the good of the Senate.

TRUMP ADMINISTRATION

Mr. President, back home in Illinois, there is one item of news when it comes to Washington, DC: When or if Donald Trump is going to send in the troops.

In June, President Trump deployed the military against American citizens when he sent National Guard troops and 700 Active-Duty marines to Los Angeles in an attempt to crush protests against his administration's cruel immigration raids.

Last month, the President took the unwarranted step of federalizing Washington, DC's police force and sending thousands of National Guardsmen to patrol our Nation's Capital.

For months now, President Trump has been looking for any excuse to send National Guard troops and Active-Duty Forces into American communities. And over the past few weeks, he has boasted ''Chicago will be'' next.

Let me be clear: This would be yet another dangerous, illegal, and unconstitutional abuse of power by President Donald Trump. The President claims his actions are meant to drive down crime and restore order, but all they have done is created a political spectacle, a political theater.

He ignores the reality that violent crime is down in the District of Columbia and in Chicago. And he ignores the fact that under our Constitution, the part to maintain law and order belongs to the States. That doesn't matter to Donald Trump. The only thing that matters to him are the optics, continuing to push the limits of our Constitution and the rule of law as he abuses his office.

Using the military to ''occupy'' an American city in the absence of an emergency politicizes the institution, erodes civilian control of the Armed Forces, and places unnecessary burdens on the servicemembers, families, and employers.

There are also troubling reports that Federal law enforcement officers could operate out of Naval Station Great Lakes, where the Navy trains thousands of new recruits a year.

We are so proud of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. Every single member of the U.S. Navy on the enlisted side goes through basic training in our State in the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. My brother who was a volunteer serving in the Navy in the Korean war went through that training in his day. It is a magnificent facility, and over the time I have served in Congress in the House and the Senate, it has been my honor to make sure that it is the very best training center in the world.

Supporting law enforcement is not the core mission of the U.S. Navy or the National Guard, and it distracts our troops from preparing to respond to real threats from our adversaries around the world.

We were just notified recently that there have been secret plans underway for a long period of time. The Pentagon has been developing plans for military deployment for weeks. The plans reportedly include several options, including mobilizing thousands of National Guard troops this month to restore law and order, so to speak, in areas where they are cracking down on crime, homelessness, and undocumented immigration. But in most instances—legal and constitutional instances—the use of federalized troops or the use of Federal troops requires the approval and consent of the Governor of the State. That is not the case, certainly, in Illinois. It also takes a financial toll on our readiness.

We are going to start to consider the National Defense Authorization Act this evening here in the U.S. Senate. It is an important bill—one of the most important—and it has the history of always being passed every single year. And I hope we can maintain that kind of commitment.

But that bill is passed in a popular and bipartisan basis because it does something that is critical. It authorizes the funding for the troops that defend our Nation. We worked long and hard on it.

I am not a member of the committee, but I know they spend hours of debate on each and every provision of the bill, and then it comes to the floor and is subject, many times, to amendments on the floor. It takes a week or sometimes 2 or more to get it done, but it is that important.

Why do we spend so much time? To make sure that our military has the money that they need to keep America safe—our first responsibility. And now we have this prospect that even if we pass this bill, that some other Agencies in this government, for some other political reason—in this case, massive deportation—are going to be using the Department of Defense funds.

I offered an amendment in the Appropriations Committee where I serve that said if any other Agency of government takes money away from the Department of Defense for another purpose, it has to be reimbursed. If we are going to stand by our men and women in uniform and make sure that they are adequately financed, we cannot allow these raids that are being considered by the Trump administration.

For example, the cost of Donald Trump's deployment of troops to Los Angeles was estimated at $134 million, and some experts calculate the mission in the District of Columbia costs the Department of Defense and taxpayers $1 million a day—$1 million a day.

While the National Guard is meant to serve American communities in true emergencies, like pandemics and natural disasters, what is it doing in DC at the President's request? Patrolling neighborhoods for political theater: picking up trash and spreading mulch. Give me a break. These men and women who are being trained to defend our country are being used by this President for political purposes in the District of Columbia.

In Chicago, crime rates may be unacceptably high—and I don't doubt that in some categories—but they have been on a steady decline for years, and we are already pursuing successful community-based strategies to deter crime. We are reaching out to the most vulnerable members of our communities directly and personally, working with trusted and trained leaders who understand the impact that trauma can have on communities.

We can work together, but it doesn't mean that Donald Trump shoves it down our throats. We want to cooperate with him. We have programs that he failed to fund in this budget cycle that we believe are critical for the maintenance of the diminishment of criminal experiences. This is being accomplished through the Community Based Violence Intervention and Prevention Initiative, which represents a historic Federal investment in programs designed to help prevent and reduce violent crime.

But these programs have been cut by the Trump administration. The initiative supports evidence-based violence intervention and prevention programs based on partnerships. It combats crime by collecting data, identifying trends, developing strategies, and sharing these practices.

Ask professional law enforcement and they will tell you in virtually every conversation on the subject that you can't arrest your way out of a crime wave; you have got to analyze the basic causes of crime and what to do about it. Of course, dangerous people should be arrested and should pay the price for their wrongdoing, but a strategy that reduces violent crime over any long period of time takes more than that.

Replacing these efforts with troops not trained for urban policing risks alienating residents, destabilizing neighborhoods, and harming the National Guard's reputation. And I can tell you, over the years, I have come to be a big fan of the National Guard. They are there when we need them. We shouldn't overuse them. We shouldn't abuse them. We shouldn't put them in jobs they are not trained for. That is exactly what the Trump administration is doing in the District of Columbia and threatening to do in Illinois.

Incidentally, there is one common fact that belies any objectivity in this effort. You would think if the President were setting out to eliminate crime across America, he could find many examples in red States and blue States, States that supported him and States that didn't. All he has found are in the areas that were voting for Joseph Biden in the election of 2020, and those States are the State of California, the State of Illinois, the District of Columbia, and now he is threatening to move into Maryland.

So if he is going after crime, why is he ignoring the States of Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, or Texas? Why? Because they voted for him for President. He doesn't see crime in those States. And there is just as much, if not more, as there is in the State of Illinois. Yet he focuses his attention only on blue States. All of these States that I have mentioned have high violent crime rates. President Trump doesn't target them because they are led by Republican officials. That is it. It is a political decision.

Trump's power grab sets a precedent that any President could invoke to deploy troops anywhere without an actual emergency. He was called to task by a judge in California on that just this week, and I am sure that will be contested. He is reinforcing a pattern of targeting large cities with significant Black and Latino populations, undermining trust between law enforcement and the community.

The Founders of this Nation understood that an unchecked power to turn the military on the American people themselves poses a grave threat to democracy and individual liberty. Trump's decision to deploy the military in American cities is more fitting for an authoritarian regime than the democracy that our Nation's Founding Fathers fought for.

These tactics are all smoke and mirrors to distract from the real issues facing us. Trump is hoping the American people will forget about his so-called ''Big Beautiful'' budget that rips away healthcare and food aid for millions across America—all to give tax breaks to the wealthiest—or forget how his reckless tariff policies are increasing the costs on everyday goods and essentials that working people rely on, or forget about the Epstein coverup being orchestrated by this White House.

Well, America won't forget, and we will continue to hold Donald Trump's feet to the fire where it counts. As the ranking member of the Senate Judiciary and a Senator from the State of Illinois, I will not sit idly by while this President tramples over the Constitution. I will use every tool at my disposal to protect our constitutional system of checks and balances and individual liberties that define us as Americans—from Los Angeles, to Chicago, to the District of Columbia, and everywhere in between. We will continue to put pressure on this administration to explain to the American people why we would waste millions of dollars appropriated for the defense of this country on a political stunt by this President that applies only to blue States that went for Joe Biden in the 2020 election.

The bottom line is the American people want to be safe in their homes and in their neighborhoods and safe as a Nation. This strategy by Donald Trump is not going to achieve that goal.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise to discuss the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2026.

The Armed Services Committee approved this bill in July by a wide bipartisan vote of 26 to 1. I appreciated the opportunity to work with Senator WICKER and commend him for his leadership in this regard and also my colleagues on the committee who worked to produce this bill that we are now considering on the floor.

But before I turn to the details of the bill, I must take a moment to address the ongoing deployment of National Guard troops here in the capital and across the country. Over the past several months, President Trump has drastically escalated his use of the military for political purposes, first in Los Angeles—in fact, a judge, today, found that it violated the Posse Comitatus Act with his actions—and now in Washington and very likely soon in other major cities. The President has abused his power as Commander in Chief to order thousands of military servicemembers to conduct law enforcement in American cities. This is antithetical to the core principles of our country. Our military is there to fight our wars. Police officers, under local jurisdiction, are there to enforce the laws. And then there are Federal laws that can be enforced by Federal authorities, not military personnel.

I have always been a proponent of strong law enforcement and safety in our communities. That is why I supported the COPS and Byrne-JAG Programs, among others. But using military forces to police American citizens blurs the vital line between civilian law enforcement and the armed forces, and it damages public trust. Public trust in the military is hard-won and easily lost. And I fear the President is causing severe harm to that relationship.

These deployments threaten the very freedoms our servicemembers swear to protect, and I urge my Republican colleagues to join us in calling for them to end immediately, this use of military personnel to enforce the civil laws of the United States.

To that end, the fiscal year 2026 NDAA establishes important congressional oversight of Defense Support of Civil Authorities. The bill reinstates mandatory training for all servicemembers on the rules of engagement, domestic operations, ethics, and the code of conduct to prevent escalation during deployments on American soil—legal deployments—under both title 10 and title 32. It requires personnel deployed alongside law enforcement to wear clear service identification on their uniforms and ensures military lawyers remain fully qualified and in good standing.

The bill also mandates reviews of military costs incurred supporting the Department of Homeland Security, reporting on the use of military facilities for migrant detention, and transparency when military aircraft and resources are diverted for immigration enforcement. We are accumulating a multi-multimillion-dollar bill in the Department of Defense for functions that are the responsibility of the Department of Homeland Security. That is not smart spending. That is not a wise investment in our military.

Together, the provisions I described provide greater assurances that when our troops are deployed domestically and legally, their role is tightly defined, accountable, and consistent with American values.

More broadly, this is a defense bill that is laser-focused on the threats we face. It addresses a broad range of pressing issues from strategic competition with China and Russia to countering defense from Iran, North Korea, and violent extremists.

The bill authorizes important investments in key technology like artificial intelligence, unmanned systems, and hypersonics, and makes real progress toward modernizing our ships, aircraft, and combat vehicles.

Most importantly, this NDAA delivers key wins for servicemembers and their families. It authorizes a 3.8-percent pay raise for our troops and provides important new resources, such as improved housing and barracks, additional childcare assistance benefits, and expanded programs to address traumatic brain injuries. It also strengthens education support for military children and requires more transparency in how pay and housing allowances are calculated.

Our greatest asset in this country are the men and women of our Armed Forces. They deserve and they have earned these benefits. Bringing into the military qualified Americans from all ranks and all sections and all regions, both genders, is critical to the success of our military forces.

Additionally, this bill reaffirms America's role on the world stage. It extends and expands the Ukraine Security Assistance Initiative and commits the Department of Defense to continue providing military and intelligence support to Ukraine.

It also strengthens our alliances in Asia by fully funding the Pacific Deterrence Initiative and providing new authority for U.S. military cooperation with Taiwan. The bill would help modernize our partnership with Japan and the Philippines and ensure our defense industrial base works hand in hand with our allies to counter shared threats. Importantly, the bill will also prohibit any reckless reductions in our force posture in Europe and the Indo-Pacific.

Building upon progress directed by Congress the past several years, this year's bill further improves defense acquisition processes by enabling the Department to rapidly invest in and field cutting-edge commercial technologies. By improving defense small business programs and partnerships with high-tech companies, this legislation will help meet the defense, industrial, and civilian needs of the United States.

Similarly, to compete successfully abroad, our military services and combat commanders must have the resources they need. This legislation broadly supports the procurement of naval vessels, combat aircraft, armored vehicles, weapon systems, and munitions requested in the President's defense budget for fiscal year 2026.

The bill provides additional funding for the procurement of Virginia- and Columbia-class submarines, which are critical to power projection and deterrence around the world. Importantly, this NDAA also provides greater predictability and stability in our naval acquisition programs and improves the U.S. shipbuilding infrastructure through modernization efforts.

And as we navigate the threats of nuclear escalation from Russia and increasing capabilities from China, this Defense bill strengthens our deterrence strategy by helping to modernize the U.S. nuclear triad. It makes progress in ensuring the safety, security, and reliability of our nuclear stockpile, our delivery systems, and our infrastructure, increasing capacity in theater and homeland missile defense and strengthening nonproliferation programs.

There are many more provisions in this bill that will help equip the Department and our warfighters with the tools they need to succeed. I look forward to discussing them throughout this process on the floor.

Let me conclude by, once again, thanking Senator WICKER and my colleagues for working, thoughtfully, on a bipartisan basis to develop this important piece of legislation. I look forward to a very thoughtful debate on the issues that face our national defense and our Department of Defense.

I yield the floor.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. WICKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION ACT

Mr. WICKER. Mr. President, the Senate is about to take up this year's National Defense Authorization Act. My colleagues and I on the Senate Armed Services Committee have worked hard to bring this bill to the floor for consideration by all of our fellow Senators, and we bring it to our colleagues with a resounding committee action.

In our committee markup, we voted in a landslide—26 yeses and only 1 nay—to advance the bill—a nearly unanimous endorsement of this legislation. My colleagues and I have spent the past 7 months listening to the Nation's top military officials. These officials from command stations all over the world have detailed the dangerous threat environment facing the United States. This NDAA is a direct response to their testimony. In our overwhelmingly positive committee vote, we send a clear message: We agree with the testimony of our military officials. Both Republicans and Democrats agree that we are not where we need to be on national defense. This bill helps close that gap.

The committee's fiscal year 2026 NDAA is focused on two things: rebuild and reform. Again, by a vote of 26 to 1, we adopted a bill with a $924.7 billion top line—an increase that recognizes the urgent need to rebuild our military. We also adopted numerous reforms to the Pentagon's antiquated business processes captured in my FoRGED Act—the most significant acquisition reform proposal in decades.

This NDAA will help rebuild the U.S. military so that our servicemembers are better equipped for the threats of the 21st century. This bill makes investments in cutting-edge technology, such as artificial intelligence, cyber defenses, drone production, and the means to defend ourselves against drones. We authorized a 3.8-percent pay raise for servicemembers, and we expanded programs to continue President Trump's successful military recruitment surge. This NDAA supports the DOD's role in border security and rolls back statutory requirements for diversity, equity, and inclusion programs at the Pentagon.

Throughout, we sought to give the President the tools needed to keep the homeland safe. This NDAA helps equip the United States to counter the Chinese Communist Party. The committee included authorizations to replenish munitions used earlier this year against Iran, to accelerate shipbuilding, and to support the Golden Dome initiative and many other important initiatives.

This National Defense Authorization Act would bring the Pentagon's acquisition process into the modern day. As one example, in just a single provision of this bill, we repeal 86 outdated or unnecessary acquisition policies. Actions like that help turn the page on an outdated system as we look to the future.

This bill streamlines decision-making processes at the Pentagon and brings more competition to the procurement process. The committee recognizes that America is full of innovators who are developing exactly the kinds of technologies that dominate the battlefields of the 21st century. We have produced an NDAA that taps into that talent.

Our deliberations resulted in an overwhelming vote count. Perhaps one reason for such a consensus was that our drafting process was collaborative and involved. The bill contains 985 items that were driven by Members of this body. Of that, 78 items were Member requests for military construction. Another 136 items came from Senators requesting budget increases for procurement operations and maintenance and research and development, and 771 items were policy ideas directly responding to Member requests. In total, those 985 items totaled 60 more than last year and are a sign of a strong, bipartisan consensus that we need to move quickly to modernize our Armed Forces. As those statistics bear out, this is a highly Member-driven bill.

Our committee markup was characterized by that same collaborative spirit. We conducted 49 votes on amendments, working from 9:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., only 10 hours—perhaps a record—and I am certain it was an efficient and effective process.

As I look at that 26-to-1 committee vote—have I emphasized that enough, a 26-yes, 1-no committee vote?—I want to thank my colleagues on the committee.

My dear friend, the ranking member, JACK REED of Rhode Island, has already spoken. He deserves credit. He and his colleagues contributed thoughtful and decisive ideas to this bill, and our staffs worked closely throughout the process.

As I prepare to conclude, may I stress that a regular order process will always yield the best results. I regret that, last summer, the NDAA was not given full consideration on the Senate floor. This is our opportunity to correct that. I am confident that Leader Thune will want to do things differently this week and next. We need an open amendment process undertaken in the light of day. My fellow Senators have already filed hundreds of amendments. The American people deserve to see how their elected officials are voting on important national security matters.

It has not been that long since we have had an open amendment process with multiple managers' packages and dozens of votes. As recently as 2023, we considered 900 amendments during floor debate, and we adopted 121 of them—the most amendments adopted to the Senate NDAA in years. We can do it again, and I ask my colleagues to join us in showing this great body by working as the Founders intended.

In an increasingly dangerous world, this is our moment to provide a strong national defense. My colleagues on the Armed Services Committee stand fully behind this bill. We are eager to begin working with the rest of our colleagues in the Senate as we consider this year's National Defense Authorization Act on the floor. Let's have a resounding ''yes'' vote in just a few minutes, and then let's get to work.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Mississippi.

Mr. WICKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the previously scheduled rollcall vote commence immediately.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

CLOTURE MOTION

Pursuant to rule XXII, the Chair lays before the Senate the pending cloture motion, which the clerk will state.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

CLOTURE MOTION

We, the undersigned Senators, in accordance with the provisions of rule XXII of the Standing Rules of the Senate, do hereby move to bring to a close debate on the motion to proceed to Calendar No. 115, S. 2296, a bill to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2026 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. By unanimous consent, the mandatory quorum call under rule XXII has been waived.

The question is, Is it the sense of the Senate that debate on the motion to proceed to S. 2296, a bill to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2026 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe military personnel strengths for such fiscal year, and for other purposes, shall be brought to a close?

REMEMBERING FRANK T. CAPRIO

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise today with my colleague Senator WHITEHOUSE to pay tribute to a legendary Rhode Islander, Judge Frank T. Caprio, whose limitless compassion while serving as the chief judge of the Municipal Court of Providence made him a beloved figure not only in Rhode Island but around the world.

Judge Caprio's illustrious career was marked by a special dedication to serving others, and it spanned nearly 40 years with the Providence Municipal Court, where he established a reputation for his empathy in the application of justice.

Judge Caprio passed away on August 20, 2025, at the age of 88 after a long and courageous battle with pancreatic cancer. In his signature optimistic and heartwarming way, Judge Caprio did not let his diagnosis dampen his good spirits, and he continued to spread his warmth to the many fans he earned through the Emmy-nominated television show ''Caught in Providence.''

This show, ''Caught in Providence,'' was a worldwide phenomenon. It was picked up virtually all across the globe, which made him an international celebrity, not just a local Rhode Island personality. Through national syndication and social media, the ''Nicest Judge in the World'' scored legions of admirers.

Following his example, we want to take a moment to honor his legacy, which will undoubtedly continue to live on through the many lives he touched in the courtroom and throughout the world.

Let me be very, very clear. Frank Caprio was a great man. His greatness came from two fundamental principles: He never forgot where he came from and who he came from.

As a son of an immigrant father and a Providence native mother, Judge Caprio grew up in the Italian neighborhood of Federal Hill in Providence, just down the street from the courthouse where he presided.

He learned from his father to work hard and to help others wherever possible. He spoke often of shining shoes to make a little extra cash as well as his father's apt advice to always put himself in the other person's shoes, to understand who people are and what brought them to where they are today.

His message as a judge was never about punishment. He saw people first and sought fairness in justice. He was committed not just to enforcing the law but to doing justice. In word and deed, Judge Caprio exemplified his father's advice.

Speaking with CBS News after his diagnosis—again demonstrating his unyielding humility—Judge Caprio said:

> I'm just a small-town municipal court judge, just trying to do good. That's how I am. . . . [I try] to take into consideration the circumstances surrounding the people before me. And remember what my dad told me . . . when someone appears before you, put yourself in their shoes . . . imagine it's you before them. How do you want to be treated?

As much as he tried to play down his contributions, Judge Caprio was much more than ''a small-town municipal court judge''; he was the premier example of noble public service and the embodiment of the ideal form of justice, one that focuses less on punishment and judgment and more on overcoming our mistakes, seeking forgiveness, and forging a stronger community.

Before his time on the court, his dedication to service was apparent. He was a teacher, a member of the Rhode Island Army National Guard, and a local elected official. Judge Caprio was also a dedicated lawyer, an accomplished restauranteur, and a business owner.

He also treasured the wisdom his parents shared and valued the opportunities that education brought him. He wanted to see others share in that success, so he worked to create scholarships and served for a decade as chairman of the Rhode Island Board of Governors for Higher Education.

Judge Caprio's compassion and generosity inspired the best in others. After seeing his kindness online and on TV, viewers from around the world sent in unsolicited donations to support Judge Caprio's mission—so many donations, in fact, they inspired the establishment of a fund known as the Filomena Fund, which was named after Judge Caprio's beloved mother. The fund celebrates the generosity of his mother—a trait so clearly inherited by Judge Caprio. Even after Judge Caprio's retirement, the Filomena Fund continues to support charitable work in and around his beloved neighborhood of Federal Hill.

His support for philanthropic causes, and the scholarships he established to support those seeking to make a difference in their community, further exemplified Judge Caprio's work to lift up those around him.

A true believer in the power of empathy, Judge Caprio used his wit, wisdom, and grace to make the world a better place.

He often said:

> Kindness is the one gift that costs nothing but means everything.

A humble and benevolent man of integrity, Judge Caprio was bestowed with the Mother Teresa Award for Social Justice in 2023.

Judge Caprio was a mentor to generations of Rhode Island leaders. I always enjoyed catching up with him over a cup of coffee. We spoke of current events, the state of our Nation, and about our families. I valued his wisdom, optimism, and sensibility, and I will remember him fondly for his generous spirit, his personal example of leadership and, indeed, his many, many kindnesses to me.

Along with Senator WHITEHOUSE, I want to express our deepest condolences to Judge Caprio's beloved wife of more than 60 years, Joyce. I also want to extend my condolences to Judge Caprio's entire family—Frank, David, Marissa, John, and Paul, his children, along with his seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, who filled him with enormous joy.

Know that your husband, father, grandfather, and great-grandfather is a shining example of a great man and a cherished public servant. Through you, his love and empathy will live on.

And now I yield to my colleague Senator WHITEHOUSE to continue this tribute to this truly good and decent man whose life has brought honor to every Rhode Islander.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. WHITEHOUSE. Mr. President, I thank Senator REED, and I am very cognizant of the honor of having the chance to reflect on Judge Frank Caprio, who was indeed, as Senator REED has said, a Rhode Island legend.

Judge Caprio was Rhode Island through and through. He was born on Federal Hill, an iconic Italian-American neighborhood in Providence. He started helping his milkman father about age 10. A lot of the apartments there were three-decker tenements. Somebody had to run the milk bottles up to that third floor. An energetic 10-year-old was just the one to do it.

He went on to study in Providence's public schools and, to earn money, served as a dishwasher and a shoeshiner while he was a student.

He graduated and went on to Providence College, the first in his family of dozens of cousins to attend college. And, of course, he graduated. And then he went back to teach at Hope High School to give back to the Providence school system that had lifted him up and taught him so well.

He also served in Rhode Island's Army National Guard for years.

Eventually, he became a lawyer. It wasn't easy. He had to work. So he had to take night classes up in Boston, and Providence to Boston for night classes is a considerable effort.

He became a Providence city councilman, and, ultimately, he became chief judge of the Providence Municipal Court, chief judge for 38 years. It was there where the man found his mission, and the mission found its man and that was, while presiding over literally thousands of cases, to become an exemplar of what is right and what is decent when somebody is coming before you having a very bad day.

He heard cases related to unpaid parking tickets and traffic violations, and he listened to everyone who came before him.

His authenticity quickly captured the hearts and minds of Rhode Islanders. His TV show from the courtroom, ''Caught in Providence,'' first became a treasure of Rhode Island Public Access TV, but then it exploded. Judge Caprio and his court officer and straight man Ziggy Quinn turned the tedium of traffic court into a beloved and enduring human spectacle, and people from around the world tuned in. People told Judge Caprio their stories of personal hardship, and he listened. Whenever he could, he gave the benefit of the doubt and offered advice and encouragement, delivered in that signature Federal Hill voice.

Sometimes there were tears of relief. Sometimes there was laughter. Some of those moments went viral online, racking up more than a billion views. People were attracted to Judge Caprio because he did not fake authenticity. He was the real deal.

The show became nationally syndicated in 2018. And when that syndication deal was announced, Judge Caprio called it ''a dream.'' It was wonderful that he could have his dream come true in his lifetime.

So the world got to witness Judge Caprio's compassion. The empathetic judge from Rhode Island became an ambassador for our capital city and for our State and for his solid, old-school values. He did it his way. And we all got to enjoy it.

At the end, stricken with pancreatic cancer, he was still giving back and still being compassionate. At the last PurpleStride pancreatic cancer walk that he attended, he and I sat next to each other for 15 minutes chatting and catching up. He was, by then, quite the celebrity. He could have hustled in and hustled back out, gone to do other things. No. He wanted to just hang out with people and be there and make sure that the entire proceedings went off well. He did not treat himself as a star, but he was one.

Judge Caprio's son David said that the Judge's parting advice to him was this:

Take care of each other. Keep the family close. And help people if you can.

That sums it up nicely.

I offer my condolences to his wife Joyce of more than 60 years and to their five children: David, who also served in government in Rhode Island; Marissa; Frank, who also served in government in Rhode Island, was our treasurer; Paul; and John. Quite a family. It has lost its patriarch. Our hearts are with them.

I yield the floor.

Mr. REED. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The senior assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Ms. LUMMIS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MORNING BUSINESS

Ms. LUMMIS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senate be in a period of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TRIBUTE TO DANIEL J. HOUSTON

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, on this very day, an outstanding civic and business leader in my home State and our capital city of Des Moines, will conclude an impressive 41-year career with the Principal Financial Group. Today, Dan Houston will step down as chair of the Principal Board of Directors.

As many Iowans do throughout their careers, Dan rose through the company ranks by climbing the corporate ladder with hard work, grit, and sacrifice. He showed exemplary leadership skills and thrived in a competitive environment to build a culture of opportunity and servant leadership at Principal Financial Group.

During my first term in the U.S. Senate, Dan joined Principal in 1984 as part of the sales team after graduating from Iowa State University. Through the years, he took on key leadership roles, including president, CCO, and CEO. For the past decade, Dan served as the driving force to steer Principal through extraordinary times. At the helm, Dan navigated one of the largest acquisitions in company history, a global pandemic, and a new enterprise strategy, just to name a few.

A principled leader, Dan cultivated a successful climate by planting the seeds of success for team members on every rung of the ladder. With charisma and generosity, he inspired the company's rank-and-file and management teams to manage assets, innovate, and build tools to help people achieve retirement security.

In addition to an impressive professional career in global finance and asset management, Dan shared his visionary leadership skills to give back to the greater Des Moines area, including Principal's philanthropic contributions to United Way, the annual Principal Charity Classic, and of course, the scenic Principal Riverwalk that transformed downtown Des Moines with a series of parks and public-use areas along the banks of the Des Moines River.

When I served as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, I was glad to lead Iowa's congressional delegation to help support this infrastructure project that links the east and west sides of our State capital in the heart of downtown Des Moines. Thanks to a public-private alliance and gifts from the Principal Foundation, generations of Iowans and outdoor enthusiasts can enjoy its landscaped public spaces, world class public art, pedestrian bridges, and pathways that connect downtown with 300 miles of central Iowa trails.

Although Dan is hanging up his CEO hat, Iowans will continue to reap the benefit from the bounty that his servant leadership brings to the community. I have no doubt Dan and his wife Joanie will throw their civic stewardship into high gear to support causes closest to their hearts—including Joanie's work with hospice and ChildServe—and Dan's contributions to the ICON Water Trails, Legacy Woods, the Principal Charity Classic, Iowa State University's Ivy College of Business, and Future Ready Iowa Alliance, among others.

Barbara and I wish Dan and Joanie many years of happiness in retirement. Dan spent his entire professional career helping people reach retirement security. Now, it is time for you to enjoy the fruits of your labor. May this next chapter bring even more quality family time with your children and grandchildren. Congratulations, Dan, you have left the Principal Group, and your adopted hometown of Des Moines, even better than you found it.

ARMS SALES NOTIFICATION

In keeping with the committee's intention to see that relevant information is still available to the full Senate, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the notifications that have been received. If the cover letter references a classified annex, then such an annex is available to all Senators in the office of the Foreign Relations Committee, room SD–423.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

POLICY JUSTIFICATION

Australia—Javelin Lightweight Command Launch Unit

The Government of Australia has requested to buy one hundred sixty-one (161) Lightweight Command Launch Units (LwCLU) that will be added to a previously implemented case whose value was under the congressional notification threshold. The original Foreign Military Sales (FMS) case, valued at $6.3 million ($0 in Major Defense Equipment (MDE)), included Javelin Life Cycle Support (LCS) and U.S. Government and contractor technical assistance. This notification is for one hundred sixty-one (161) Lightweight Command Launch Units (LwCLU). The following non-MDE items will also be included: Javelin LwCLU Basic Skills Trainer; missile simulation rounds and battery coolant unit; electronic technical manual and operator manuals; life cycle support; physical security inspection; spare parts; System Integration and Check Out; U.S. Government and contractor technical assistance, engineering, logistics, and personnel services; tool kits; training; and other related elements of logistics and program support. The estimated total cost is $97.3 million.

This proposed sale will support the foreign policy and national security objectives of the United States. Australia is one of our most important allies in the Western Pacific. The strategic location of this political and economic power contributes significantly to ensuring peace and economic stability in the Western Pacific. It is vital to the U.S. national interest to assist our ally in developing and maintaining a strong and ready self-defense capability.

The proposed sale will enhance Australia's capability to meet current and future threats by improving its advanced surface-fired munitions capabilities and increasing its capability to deter adversaries. This enhanced capability will protect Australia and local allied land forces and will significantly improve Australia's contribution to coalition anti-armor capability. Australia will have no difficulty absorbing these articles and services into its armed forces.

The proposed sale of this equipment and support will not alter the basic military balance in the region.

The principal contractors will be the Javelin Joint Venture between RTX Corporation, located in Arlington, VA; and Lockheed Martin, located in Orlando, FL. At this time, the U.S. Government is not aware of any offset agreement proposed in connection with this potential sale. Any offset agreement will be defined in negotiations between the purchaser and the contractor.

Implementation of this proposed sale will not require the assignment of any additional U.S. Government or contractor representatives to Australia.

There will be no adverse impact on U.S. defense readiness as a result of this proposed sale.

TRANSMITTAL NO. 25–41

Notice of Proposed Issuance of Letter of Offer Pursuant to Section 36(b)(1) of the Arms Export Control Act

Annex Item No. vii

(vii) Sensitivity of Technology:

1. The Javelin Weapon System is a medium-range, man portable, shoulder-launched, fire and forget anti-tank system. It may also be mounted on a variety of platforms including vehicles, aircraft, and watercraft. The system weighs ~43.5 pounds and has a maximum range in excess of 4,500 meters. The system is lethal against tanks and other systems with conventional and reactive armors. The system possesses a secondary capability against bunkers.

2. Javelin's key technical feature is the use of fire and forget technology which allows the gunner to fire and immediately relocate or take cover. Additional special features are the top attack and direct fire modes, an advanced tandem warhead and imaging infrared seeker, target lock-on before launch, and soft launch from enclosures or covered fighting positions. The Javelin missile also has a minimum smoke motor thus decreasing its likelihood of being detected on the battlefield.

3. The Javelin Weapon System is comprised of two major tactical components, a reusable Lightweight Command Launch Unit (LwCLU) and a round contained in a disposable launch tube assembly. The LwCLU incorporates an integrated day-night sight that provides target engagement capability in adverse weather and countermeasure environments. The LwCLU may also be used in a stand-alone mode for battlefield surveillance and target detection. The LwCLU's thermal sight is a 3rd generation forward-looking infrared sensor. To facilitate initial loading and subsequent updating of software, all onboard missile software is uploaded via the LwCLU after mating and prior to launch.

4. The missile is autonomously guided to the target using an imaging infrared seeker and adaptive correlation tracking algorithms. This allows the gunner to take cover or reload and engage another target after firing a missile. The missile has an advanced tandem warhead and can be used in either the top attack or direct fire modes (for target undercover). An onboard flight computer guides the missile to the selected target.

5. The highest level of classification of defense articles, components, and services included in this potential sale is SECRET.

6. If a technologically advanced adversary obtains knowledge of the specific hardware and software elements, the information could be used to develop countermeasures or equivalent systems that might reduce system effectiveness or be used in the development of a system with similar or advanced capabilities.

7. A determination has been made that Australia can provide the same degree of protection for the sensitive technology being released as the U.S. Government. This sale is necessary in furtherance of the U.S. foreign policy and national security objectives outlined in the Policy Justification.

8. All defense articles and services listed in this transmittal have been authorized for release and export to the Government of Australia.

(vii) Sensitivity of Technology:

1. The M142 High Mobility Artillery Rocket System (HIMARS) is a C–130 transportable wheeled launcher mounted on a 5-ton family of medium tactical vehicles truck chassis. HIMARS is the modern Army-fielded version of the Multiple Launch Rocket System (MLRS) M270 launcher and can fire all the MLRS family of munitions (FOM), including Guided Multiple Launch Rocket System (GMLRS) variants and the Army Tactical Missile System (ATACMS). Utilizing the MLRS FOM, the HIMARS can engage targets between 15 and 300 kilometers with global positioning system (GPS) aided precision accuracy.

TRANSMITTAL NO. 25–40

Notice of Proposed Issuance of Letter of Offer Pursuant to Section 36(b)(1) of the Arms Export Control Act

Annex Item No. vii

(vii) Sensitivity of Technology:

1. The Joint Light Tactical Vehicle (JLTV) is a light tactical vehicle designed to replace the U.S. military's aging High Mobility Multipurpose Wheeled Vehicle fleet. It was designed to close the existing gap in payload, performance, and protection with our adversaries during multidomain operations. It is an optimal choice for a spectrum of light tactical vehicle missions anywhere in the world. All JLTV mission variants include a strong balance of protection, maneuverability, speed, reliability, and combat service support capability that far surpasses any similar vehicle in its weight class today.

2. The JLTV is designed to be a system of systems. The JLTV uses a modular design that allows it to integrate with various materiel and equipment used by U.S. forces in tactical operations.

3. The A–Kit armor is installed into the base vehicle during JLTV production and provides both opaque and transparent armor solutions to provide a 360-degree azimuthal (i.e. all around) protection that includes an elevated fire level of protection from a spectrum of kinetic energy and small arms fire threats. The JLTV also has other survivability enhancements, notably automatic fire extinguishing protection and structural rollover protection of 150 percent of the vehicle's Gross Vehicle Weight Rating.

4. The Common Remote Operated Weapon Station (CROWS) is an externally mounted weapon mounting and control system that allows the gunner to remain inside the vehicle's protected armor while firing a variety of crew-served weapons. The CROWS provides remote day and night sighting and ballistic control capacity, enabling first-burst engagement of targets at maximum effective weapon range while on the move.

5. The Mounted Assured Position, Navigation, and Timing (PNT) System Generation II (MAPS GEN II) is a platform mounted, ruggedized tactical PNT system that gives military forces the ability to move, shoot, and communicate, and provides situational awareness in space-based GPS-limited or -denied environments. The system features anti-jamming and anti-spoofing protection, and a sensor fusion processor utilizing PNT sources. The MAPS GEN II contains Controlled Unclassified Information (CUI) and, in some cases, information classified up to SECRET.

6. The TRX Dismounted Assured PNT System (DAPS) is a highly accurate technology designed to provide robust PNT capabilities in GPS-degraded or denied environments. This system is M–Code compliant and integrates advanced anti-jamming and anti-spoofing technologies, ensuring operational effectiveness in contested environments. Given its militarygrade applications, the TRX–DAPS GEN II incorporates proprietary algorithms, classified signal processing techniques, and secure communication protocols that are critical to national security. The system's ability to maintain precise navigation in electronic warfare scenarios makes it a key asset for defensive operations.

7. The Tactical Network Rover 2e (TNR2e) is a Type 1 cryptographic radio certified by the National Security Agency (NSA) for securing classified and sensitive communications. As a Type 1 system, it incorporates highly encrypted algorithms and security measures designed to protect national security information from sophisticated cyber threats and adversaries. Due to its sensitive nature, the system is subject to strict handling, usage, and export control regulations to ensure its integrity and prevent unauthorized access.

8. The AN/PRC–148F is a multiband, multimode handheld radio designed for secure military and government communications. As a Type 1 cryptographic device certified by the NSA, it supports the transmission of classified information when properly keyed. The radio features wideband and narrowband operation, frequency hopping, and embedded encryption, ensuring secure and reliable voice and data communications in a contested environment. The total estimated program cost is $346 million.

This proposed sale will support the foreign policy goals and national security objectives of the United States by improving the security of a strategic partner in Sub-Saharan Africa.

There will be no adverse impact on U.S. defense readiness as a result of this proposed sale.

TRANSMITTAL NO. 21–47

Notice of Proposed Issuance of Letter of Offer Pursuant to Section 36(b)(1) of the Arms Export Control Act Annex Item No. vii

(vii) Sensitivity of Technology:

1. The Advance Precision Kill Weapon System II (APKWS II) all-up-round (AUR) is an air-to-ground weapon that consists of an APKWS II guidance section (GS), legacy 2.75-inch MK66 mod 4 rocket motor, and legacy MK152, MK282, or MK435/436 warhead and fuze. After launch, the GS activates, and the seeker detects laser energy reflected from a target designated with a remote or autonomous laser. The control system then guides the rocket to the target. APKWS II increases stowed kills by providing precise engagements at standoff ranges with sufficient accuracy for a high single-shot probability of hit against soft and lightly armored targets, thereby minimizing collateral damage. The APKWS II is capable of day and night operation and performance in many adverse environments.

2. GBU–12/58 Paveway II (PW–II) 500 lb (GBU–12) and 250 lb (GBU–58) munitions are maneuverable, free-fall, laser-guided bombs (LGBs) that guide to reflected laser energy from the desired target. Employment of the LGB is the same as a normal general purpose (GP) warhead, except the semi-active guidance corrects for employment errors inherent in any delivery system. Laser designation for the weapon can be provided by a variety of laser target markers or designators from the air or ground. The Paveway system consists of a computer control group (CCG), a warhead-specific air foil group (AFG) that attaches to the nose and tail respectively of the MK–81 and MK–82 GP bombs, and a fuze. The weapon is primarily used for precision bombing against non-hardened targets.

a. The MAU–169 or the MAU–209 are the CCG for the GBU–12 and GBU–58

b. The MXU–650 is the AFG for the 500-pound GBU–12.

c. MXU–1006/B is the AFG for the 250-pound GBU–58.

3. The FMU–152 and –139 joint programmable fuzes are multi-delay sensors compatible with general purpose kits, tail kits, high-explosive bombs, and reduced collateral damage weapons which provide all arming and detonation event functions combined in a single fuze system.

4. The highest level of classification of defense articles, components, and services included in this potential sale is SECRET.

5. If a technologically advanced adversary were to obtain knowledge of the specific hardware 4 and software elements, the information could be used to develop countermeasures that might reduce weapon system effectiveness or be used in the development of a system with similar or advanced capabilities.

6. A determination has been made that Nigeria can provide substantially the same degree of protection for the sensitive technology being released as the U.S. Government. This sale is necessary in furtherance of the U.S. foreign policy and national security objectives outlined in the Policy Justification.

7. All defense articles and services listed in this transmittal have been authorized for release and export to the Government of Nigeria.

Annex Item No. vii

(vii) Sensitivity of Technology:

1. The AIM–9X Sidewinder Block II and Block II+ (Plus) missiles represent a substantial increase in missile acquisition and kinematics performance over the AIM–9M and replace the AIM–9X Block I missile configuration. Annex Item No. vii

(vii) Sensitivity of Technology:

1. The Extended Range Attack Munition (ERAM) is a 500-pound class air-launched, subsonic, precision-guided, turbojet powered, conventional, air-to-ground munition used to defeat targets in adverse weather from a standoff range of approximately 250 nautical miles. It uses Global Positioning System/Inertial Navigation System (GPS/INS) guidance with a unitary warhead for maximum lethality against armored and soft stationary targets.

2. The Embedded GPS/INS (EGI) with Selective Availability Anti-Spoofing Module (SAASM), Y–Code, or M–Code receiver when available, and Precise Positioning Service is a self-contained navigation system. SAASM, Y–Code, or M–Code enables the GPS receiver access to an encrypted P signal, providing protection against active spoofing attacks.

3. The highest level of classification of defense articles, components, and services included in this potential sale is SECRET.

4. If a technologically advanced adversary were to obtain knowledge of the specific hardware and software elements, the information could be used to develop countermeasures that might reduce system effectiveness or be used in the development of a system with similar or advanced capabilities.

5. A determination has been made that Ukraine can provide substantially the same degree of protection for the sensitive technology being released as the U.S. Government. This sale is necessary in furtherance of the U.S. foreign policy and national security objectives outlined in the Policy Justification.

6. All defense articles and services listed in this transmittal have been authorized for release and export to the Government of Ukraine.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD a letter containing the legal opinion of the Government Accountability Office, No. B–337330, titled U.S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management-Applicability of the Congressional Review Act to 2024 Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program Record of Decision, dated August 25, 2025.

The letter provides notification that the U.S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management 2024 Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program Record of Decision is a rule subject to the Congressional Review Act, 5 U.S.C. Sec. 801 et seq.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

DECISION

Matter of: U.S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management—Applicability of the Congressional Review Act to 2024 Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program Record of Decision.

File: B–337330.

Date: August 25, 2025.

DIGEST

In December 2024, the U.S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management (BLM) issued the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program Record of Decision (2024 ROD). The 2024 ROD adopts a framework for managing the Oil and Gas Leasing Program in Alaska's 1.5-million-acre Coastal Plain, pursuant to the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act.

The Congressional Review Act (CRA) requires that before a rule can take effect, an agency must submit the rule to both the House of Representatives and the Senate, as well as the Comptroller General. CRA adopts the definition of ''rule'' under the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) but excludes certain categories of rules from coverage. We conclude that the 2024 ROD meets the APA definition of a rule, and no CRA exception applies. Therefore, the 2024 ROD is subject to CRA's submission requirements.

DECISION

In December 2024, the U.S. Department of the Interior (Interior), Bureau of Land Management (BLM) released a record of decision entitled, Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program Record of Decision (2024 ROD). We received a request for a decision as to whether the 2024 ROD is a rule for the purposes of the Congressional Review Act (CRA). As discussed below, we conclude that the 2024 ROD is a rule subject to CRA's submission requirements.

Our practice when rendering decisions is to contact the relevant agencies to obtain factual information and their legal views on the subject of the request. Accordingly, we reached out to Interior on April 14, 2025. Interior did not provide a response with its legal views regarding its compliance with CRA, but has provided additional factual information.

BACKGROUND

Alaska Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program

The Alaska ''Coastal Plain'' is a 1,563,500-acre area within the 19.3-million-acre Arctic National Wildlife Refuge on Alaska's North Slope. Section 20001 of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), required the Secretary of the Interior to ''establish and administer a competitive oil and gas program for the leasing, development, production, and transportation of oil and gas in and from the Coastal Plain.'' TCJA required that the Secretary conduct at least two oil and gas lease sales within 10 years of the Act's passage: an initial sale not later than four years after enactment, and a second lease sale not later than seven years after enactment. TCJA instructed the Secretary to offer not fewer than 400,000 acres area-wide in each lease sale, which were to be located in the areas with the highest potential for the discovery of hydrocarbons. Furthermore, TCJA required the Secretary to authorize ''up to 2,000 surface acres of [f]ederal land on the Coastal Plain to be covered by production and support facilities (including airstrips and any area covered by gravel berms or piers for support of pipelines) during the term of the leases under the oil and gas program.'' The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) manages the lands in the Coastal Plain, while BLM manages the Oil and Gas Leasing Program.

2020 ROD

To implement the provisions of TCJA, BLM issued the August 2020 Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program Record of Decision (2020 ROD), which determined ''where and under what terms and conditions'' leasing would occur under the program. To inform its decision, BLM prepared the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program Environmental Impact Statement (2019 EIS), in accordance with the requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), 42 U.S.C. §§ 4321–4347.

The 2020 ROD adopted a plan from the 2019 EIS that made approximately 1,563,500 acres, or the entire Coastal Plain program area, available for oil and gas leasing, as well as for potential future exploration, development, and transportation. On December 7, 2020, BLM published a notice of the first oil and gas lease sale in the Federal Register, for which it would be accepting bids pursuant to the 2020 ROD. The first sale was completed, and a total of nine tracts were leased to three lessees.

On January 20, 2021, President Biden signed Executive Order No. 13990, which called for a temporary moratorium on federal activities relating to the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program, citing legal deficiencies underlying the program, including with respect to the 2019 EIS. The Executive Order stated that the Secretary of the Interior was to review the program and conduct a new environmental analysis. Subsequently, on June 1, 2021, the Secretary of the Interior issued Secretary's Order No. 3401, which announced that in light of identified legal deficiencies in the 2019 EIS and 2020 ROD, Interior would be conducting a new environmental impact analysis relating to the program. While the new environmental impact assessment was pending, the Secretary directed that all Interior activities related to the program be temporarily halted.

Interior sent notices to the three lessees from the first oil and gas lease sale, suspending operation of the leases while the new environmental impact assessment was conducted. Two leases were subsequently cancelled and rescinded at the request of two of the lessees, and the remaining seven leases held by the third lessee were cancelled by Interior due to ''pre-leasing legal deficiencies.'' At the time of the 2024 ROD, BLM noted that there were no leased tracts within the program area.

2024 ROD and Supplemental Environmental Impact Statement (SEIS)

On August 4, 2021, BLM published a notice in the Federal Register of its intent to prepare the 2024 SEIS to address the deficiencies identified in Secretary's Order No. 3401 with respect to the environmental impact of the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program. In conjunction with the USFWS and after a public comment period, BLM released the final 2024 SEIS on November 6, 2024. On December 9, 2024, BLM released the final 2024 ROD, which adopted one of the alternatives analyzed in the 2024 SEIS. The 2024 ROD ''determines which lands to make available for leasing under the Coastal Plain program and the terms and conditions (i.e., lease stipulations and required operating procedures) to be applied to leases and authorizations for specific oil and gas activities.''

The selected management plan, Alternative D2, makes available for oil and gas leasing the required minimum 400,000 acres of land with the highest potential for hydrocarbons, as prescribed by TCJA, and makes the remaining 1,163,500 acres in the Coastal Plain unavailable for leasing or exploration. Of the 400,000 acres made available for leasing, 58 percent was to be subject to ''no surface occupancy'' stipulations, 21 percent was to be subject to controlled surface use stipulations, 0.78 percent was to be subject to timing limitations, and approximately 20 percent was to be subject to standard lease terms and conditions. Alternative D2 further authorized 995 acres for surface development, in accordance with the limitation in TCJA capping surface development at 2,000 acres. The 2024 ROD adopts the management plan BLM identified as ''the best combination of management options to meet the purpose of and need for the Coastal Plain [O]il and [G]as [L]easing [P]rogram in consideration of the statutory requirements and management concerns identified through the Leasing SEIS process.''

In addition to determining what lands are available under the Oil and Gas Leasing Program, the 2024 ROD also prescribes the terms and conditions of oil and gas activities in the program area through lease stipulations and required operating procedures (ROPs). The stipulations generally require lessees to take particular actions in designated parts of the Coastal Plain to minimize effects of the program on wildlife and the environment and prescribes procedures and standards to evaluate compliance. For example, lease stipulations identify the goals of protecting ''the water quality, quantity, and diversity of fish and wildlife habitats and populations associated with springs and aufeis across the Coastal Plain'' and minimizing ''disruption to polar bear denning habitat and disturbance to bears using near shore areas.'' Similarly, the ROPs identify a variety of objectives and required actions taken to achieve them, such as reducing air quality impacts, ensuring that permitted activities do not create human health risks by contaminating subsistence foods, and protecting grizzly bear, polar bear, and seal denning and birthing locations.

Finally, the 2024 ROD was signed by the Acting Deputy Secretary of Interior and states that it is a final agency action. The 2024 ROD notes that future on-the-ground actions associated with exploration for or development of oil and gas resources in the program area will require further NEPA analysis based on specific proposals and would be addressed in separate decisions.

Recent Actions Regarding the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program

After issuance of the 2024 ROD, the statutorily mandated second lease sale for the Coastal Plain was held and no bids were received by the deadline, January 6, 2025.

On January 20, 2025, President Trump signed Executive Order No. 14153, entitled, Unleashing Alaska's Extraordinary Resource Potential. In the Executive Order, the President directed the Secretary of the Interior to, among other things, withdraw Secretary's Order No. 3401, rescind the cancellation of leases within the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, and initiate additional leasing through the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program. The Executive Order also states that the Secretary shall rescind the 2024 SEIS, place a moratorium on any activities and privileges granted under the 2024 ROD, and reinstate the 2019 EIS and 2020 ROD.

To implement the Executive Order, the Secretary of the Interior issued Secretary's Order No. 3422, revoking Secretary's Order No. 3401 and requiring the Assistant Secretaries of the Department of the Interior to submit an action plan describing the steps necessary to effectuate the provisions of the Executive Order relating to the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program.

On July 4, 2025, the One Big Beautiful Bill Act (OBBBA) was enacted. Section 50104 of OBBBA states that in addition to the oil and gas lease sales required by TCJA, the Secretary is also required to conduct not fewer than four additional lease sales under the program within 10 years of enactment of OBBBA. Such section further specifies that in conducting these lease sales, the Secretary shall offer the same terms and conditions as contained in the 2020 ROD. In a response to GAO, Interior stated that it is currently taking action to comply with the directives in the OBBBA.

The Congressional Review Act

CRA, enacted in 1996 to strengthen congressional oversight of agency rulemaking, requires federal agencies to submit a report on each new rule to both houses of Congress and to the Comptroller General for review before a rule can take effect. The report must contain a copy of the rule, ''a concise general statement relating to the rule,'' and the rule's proposed effective date. CRA allows Congress to review and disapprove of federal agency rules for a period of 60 days using special procedures. If a resolution of disapproval is enacted, then the new rule has no force or effect.

CRA adopts the definition of a rule under the Administrative Procedure Act (APA), which states that a rule is ''the whole or a part of an agency statement of general or particular applicability and future effect designed to implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy or describing the organization, procedure, or practice requirements of an agency.'' However, CRA excludes three categories of rules from coverage: (1) rules of particular applicability; (2) rules relating to agency management or personnel; and (3) rules of agency organization, procedure, or practice that do not substantially affect the rights or obligations of non-agency parties.

Interior did not submit a CRA report to Congress or the Comptroller General on the 2024 ROD.

DISCUSSION

To determine whether the 2024 ROD is a rule subject to review under CRA, we first address whether it meets the APA definition of a rule. As explained below, we conclude that it does. We then consider whether the 2024 ROD falls within any CRA exceptions. We conclude that it does not. Therefore, the 2024 ROD is a rule subject to review under CRA.

The 2024 ROD is a Rule Under APA

Applying APA's definition of ''rule,'' the 2024 ROD meets all of the required elements. First, the 2024 ROD is an agency statement as it was issued by BLM, a federal agency.

Second, the 2024 ROD is of future effect as it is to be used to guide future oil and gas leasing activities in the Coastal Plain program area. The 2024 ROD designates the land to be subject to future lease sales under the program, as well as the lease stipulations and ROPs that will apply to future leases and authorizations for specific oil and gas activities in the program area. While the 2024 ROD notes that it does not authorize ''specific on-the-ground oil and gas exploration or development activities,'' decisions made with respect to those future activities will be governed by the decisions made in the 2024 ROD. Therefore, the 2024 ROD has future effect.

Finally, the 2024 ROD implements, interprets, or prescribes law or policy. The 2024 ROD implements and prescribes policy by defining a new area for oil and gas leasing under the program—reducing the available land from 1,563,500 acres, as outlined in the 2020 ROD, to 400,000 acres. The 2024 ROD also addresses the use of the program area, identifying stipulations and ROPs to be applied to leases and authorizations for specific oil and gas activities in the program area. We have previously determined that where an agency action goes beyond mere restatement of existing policy, it satisfies this element of the definition. While some lease stipulations and ROPs have not significantly changed from the 2020 ROD to the 2024 ROD, others have been amended to include additional requirements, or have been newly added altogether. For example, the 2024 ROD includes Lease Stipulation 12, which focuses on the effects of oil and gas activities on ice-rich soils and yedoma deposits. This lease stipulation is not found in the 2020 ROD. These changes to the program area and limitations on program activities implement and prescribe policy.

Our conclusion here is consistent with our previous decisions finding that similar land use programs and resource management plans (RMPs) implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy. For instance, in B–238859, Oct. 23, 2017, we found that an amendment to the Forest Service's Tongass Land and Resource Management Plan (Tongass Amendment) implemented law by establishing new criteria for the sale of timber to non-agency parties, including by directing the areas of the forest in which timber harvest may occur. We explained that with the Tongass Amendment, the Forest Service set forth its policy for timber sales and thus implemented its statutory responsibility under the National Forest Management Act of 1976.

Similarly in B–329065, Nov. 15, 2017, we concluded that four RMPs issued by BLM prescribed policy by establishing available uses for the areas that each RMP covered. We noted that each RMP implemented provisions of FLPMA and other applicable statutory and regulatory provisions. The same can be said of the 2024 ROD at issue here. The 2024 ROD implements the requirements of the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program laid out in TCJA by designating the statutorily required minimum 400,000 acres with the highest potential for hydrocarbons available for future lease sale. The 2024 ROD itself states that it ''continues implementation of the Congressional directive to the Secretary in [TCJA] to establish and administer a competitive oil and gas program.'' The 2024 ROD also prescribes policy by authorizing or foreclosing specific activities or land use within the program area and by establishing the boundaries of the area available for oil and gas activities. As such, the 2024 ROD meets the third element of APA's definition of ''rule.'' Having satisfied all the required elements, the 2024 ROD meets the APA definition of a rule.

CRA Exceptions

We must next determine whether any of CRA's three exceptions apply. CRA provides for three types of rules that are not subject to its requirements: (1) rules of particular applicability; (2) rules relating to agency management or personnel; and (3) rules of agency organization, procedure, or practice that do not substantially affect the rights or obligations of non-agency parties.

(1) Rule of Particular Applicability

Consistent with our previous decisions, the 2024 ROD is a rule of general applicability, rather than particular applicability. In B–238859, Oct. 23, 2017, the Forest Service proffered that its Tongass Amendment was a rule of particular applicability because it applied to a single national forest. We disagreed, noting that the Tongass Amendment governed all natural resource management activities in the forest, all projects approved to take place, and all persons or entities using the forest. As such, it was a rule of general applicability.

The 2024 ROD is likewise not a rule of particular applicability. The 2024 ROD, like the Tongass Amendment, only applies to one defined program area: the Coastal Plain. However, the 2024 ROD governs all oil and gas activities in the program area and will govern all leases and permits for the Oil and Gas Leasing Program. While we have previously explained that specific actions taken with respect to individual leases under the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program may constitute rules of particular applicability, the decisions made in the 2024 ROD apply to the program as a whole and do not make specific determinations based on the facts or circumstances of any individual lessee. The 2024 ROD describes the bounds of the project area, the environmental priorities of the agency in administering the program, and the terms and conditions to be applied to all leases and authorizations under the program through lease stipulations and ROPs. Therefore, the 2024 ROD is a rule of general applicability, rather than particular applicability.

(2) Rule of Agency Management or Personnel

The 2024 ROD is not a rule of agency management or personnel. We have previously held that rules that fall into this category relate to purely internal matters. Because the 2024 ROD is concerned with the administration of the Coastal Plain Oil and Gas Leasing Program, including the authorization and limitation of activities taking place in the program area, rather than management of BLM itself or its personnel, it does not meet CRA's second exception.

(3) Rule of Agency Organization, Procedure, or Practice with No Substantial Effect on Non-Agency Parties

Lastly, the 2024 ROD is not a rule of agency organization, procedure, or practice that does not substantially affect the rights or obligations of non-agency parties. We have previously explained that this exception was modeled on the APA exception to notice-and-comment rulemaking requirements for ''rules of agency organization, procedure, or practice.'' The purpose of the APA exception is to ensure ''that agencies retain latitude in organizing their internal operations,'' so long as such rules do not have a substantial impact on non-agency parties.

Following this interpretation in the CRA context, we have only applied CRA's third exception to rules that primarily focus on the internal operations of an agency. For instance, in B–329926, Sept. 10, 2018, we found that updates to a Social Security Administration (SSA) hearings manual governing SSA adjudicators' use of information from the internet qualified as a rule of agency organization, procedure, or practice. There, the manual outlined procedures for SSA employees to follow in processing and adjudicating benefits claims. Because the manual was directed to and binding only on SSA officials without imposing new burdens on claimants, we concluded that the manual met CRA's third exception.

In contrast, rules that are directed at and primarily concerned with the behavior of non-agency parties do not fall within this category. Thus, in B–274505, Sept. 16, 1996, we declined to apply CRA's third exception to a Forest Service memorandum on the Emergency Salvage Timber Sale Program, because it was not limited to the Forest Service's methods of operations. Instead, the memorandum established the standards by which program determinations would be made, thus directly affecting the area for and number of timber sales that would result in contracts. Similarly, in B–238859, Oct. 23, 2017, we declined to apply CRA's third exception to the Tongass Amendment, because it was directed at land and resource use by non-agency parties.

Here, the 2024 ROD does entail some changes to agency procedure. For example, the 2024 ROD establishes the terms under which BLM would conduct future lease sales. The 2024 ROD also notes that in order to administer the program, BLM shall coordinate with USFWS, appropriate federal, state, and North Slope Borough agencies, tribal governments, and others. These elements of the 2024 ROD may be considered to have a purely internal effect on BLM. However, like the Forest Service memorandum in B–274505, Sept. 16, 1996 and the Tongass Amendment in B–238859, Oct. 23, 2017, the 2024 ROD is not limited to changes in internal agency operations. The 2024 ROD circumscribes the behavior of non-agency parties that choose to participate in the program, including by limiting the areas of the Coastal Plain available for oil and gas activities and by imposing terms and conditions on those activities through lease stipulations and ROPs. These elements of the 2024 ROD are primarily focused on non-agency parties rather than BLM's internal operations.

We must also consider whether the 2024 ROD substantially affects the rights and obligations of non-agency parties. When analyzing this prong of the exception, we have previously stated that ''the critical question is whether the agency action alters the rights or interests of the regulated entities.'' Along similar lines, courts have determined that ''[a]n agency rule that modifies substantive rights and interests can only be nominally procedural, and the exemption for such rules of agency procedure cannot apply.''

In previous decisions, we have consistently concluded that where an RMP designates use by non-agency parties in the areas it governs, it has a substantial effect. For instance, in B–275178, July 3, 1997, we reached this conclusion by noting that the Forest Service's RMP provided a ''management prescription'' giving general direction on what may occur within an area allocated to a particular land use designation. Similarly, in B–329065, Nov. 15, 2017, we concluded that four BLM RMPs had a substantial effect on non-agency parties where the plans limited the use of public land and prescribed where mining and off-highway vehicles were permitted in the areas they governed.

Consistent with this caselaw, the 2024 ROD has a substantial effect on non-agency parties. Its purpose is to ''continue[ ] implementation of the Congressional directive to the Secretary in [TCJA] to establish and administer a competitive oil and gas program for the leasing, development, production, and transportation of oil and gas in and from the Coastal Plain area of the Arctic Refuge.'' It does this by establishing the scope of the program area and by outlining the lease stipulations and ROPs to be imposed on future use of the land. The 2024 ROD reduces the area available for the program from 1,563,500 acres to 400,000 acres, foreclosing non-agency parties from new oil and gas leasing in those areas and thereby altering their substantive rights and obligations.

Although the 2024 ROD would only affect non-agency parties that voluntarily choose to bid for and enter into leases for the program, rather than the public at large, we have previously concluded that rules establishing requirements for voluntary programs may still substantially affect non-agency parties that choose to participate. Accordingly, the 2024 ROD fails to meet CRA's third exception.

CONCLUSION

The 2024 ROD is a rule for purposes of CRA because it meets the definition of a rule under APA and no CRA exception applies. Therefore, the 2024 ROD is subject to CRA's requirement that it be submitted to Congress and the Comptroller General before it can take effect.

EDDA EMMANUELLI PEREZ,
General Counsel.

RECOGNIZING GREATEST GENERATION WEEK AND 80TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE END OF WWII

Mr. PETERS. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize Greatest Generation Week and the 80th anniversary of the end of World War II. I am honored to have the opportunity to speak about this truly significant milestone marking the end to one of the most tumultuous and tragic global events in history. It was the resilience and patriotism of millions of Americans, both soldier and citizen, that shaped a generation and the future of this Nation. On the 80th anniversary of the end of World War II, we pay tribute to our fellow Americans, and the ''greatest generation,'' that united under the banner of our flag to fight tyranny and injustice.

On September 2, 1945, U.S. Army General Douglas MacArthur accepted the formal surrender of Japan aboard the USS Missouri. For those of the ''greatest generation,'' this date represents the culmination of 1,226 days of arduous and demanding sacrifice. During World War II, over 16 million Americans served in uniform. In fields and factories, American workers produced the materials for victory in quantities previously unimagined. Michigan became an arsenal for democracy as our assembly lines became the frontlines of an unprecedented war effort. Untold others sacrificed at home by rationing, purchasing war bonds, or contributing to the war effort in countless small ways.

As we commemorate the 80th anniversary of the end of that costly war, we wish to express our deep gratitude to those remaining members of the ''greatest generation'' who willingly bore such burdens for our freedom. As we honor the living among us, we must also remember the dead. Over 400,000 Americans made the ultimate sacrifice during World War II, and of these, the remains of over 70,000 have never been located. To this day, the bodies of over 2,400 Michiganders remain unrecovered in distant battlegrounds and beneath the waves.

It is my great honor to extend my gratitude to the servicemembers and civilians that have sacrificed for our country. I ask all my colleagues to join me in recognition of Greatest Generation Week and commemoration of the 80th anniversary of the end of World War II.

RECOGNIZING THE 200TH ANNIVERSARY OF HUDSON, MAINE

Ms. COLLINS. Mr. President, I rise today to wish the town of Hudson, ME, a very happy 200th birthday. The people of Hudson are proud of their hometown and the generations of hard-working and caring people who have made it such a wonderful place to live, work, and raise families.

Hudson's incorporation in 1825 was but one milestone on a long journey of progress. For thousands of years, the region, with its pristine waters and vast forests, was the hunting grounds of the Penobscot Tribe. Early settlers began arriving around 1800 and turned those resources into busy lumber mills, followed by a furniture factory and cooper shops.

The wealth produced by the land, and by hard work and determination, was invested in a church and several schools to create a true community. In 1824, the settlement became a plantation—a pre-incorporation designation unique to Maine—called Jackson, in honor of the hero of the War of 1812 who would later become our Nation's seventh President. In 1825, the plantation was fully incorporated as Kirkland, after an early settler. Finally, in 1855, the name was changed to Hudson, recognizing the Massachusetts hometown of many residents.

During the Civil War, Maine contributed a higher percentage of its population to abolishing slavery and preserving our Union than any other State, and Hudson played a significant role in contributing soldiers and supporting the war effort. Today, the Veterans Memorial Park stands as an inspiring tribute to all the men and women of Hudson who have defended our freedom throughout history.

Little Pushaw Pond, Pushaw Lake, and the lovely connecting stream running through fields and forest give Hudson a refreshing rural feel. At the same time, the nearby city of Bangor and the flagship University of Maine campus at Orono offer the arts and entertainment activities that make life in Hudson truly the best of both worlds.

The energy that so many have devoted to this year's exciting bicentennial celebration is but one example of the spirit that has guided Hudson from its founding to today. Thanks to those who came before, Hudson, ME, has a wonderful past. Thanks to those who are there today, it has a bright future.

ADDITONAL STATEMENTS

RECOGNIZING THE 100TH ANNUAL BETHLEHEM FAIR

● Mr. BLUMENTHAL. Mr. President, I rise today to celebrate the 100th annual Bethlehem Fair and recognize the steadfast stewardship of the Bethlehem Fair Society.

Connecticut is known for its many fall fairs, a symbol of the State's strong agrarian roots. While recognized today for our exemplary manufacturing industry, agriculture remains an important, vital part of our economy. Every year, I attend many of these fairs—including the Bethlehem Fair—to meet with the people of Connecticut and demonstrate my deep appreciation for our farmers and crafters.

The Bethlehem Fair was founded in 1924 by Paul L. Johnson and has grown to be a truly remarkable institution in the local community and indeed all of Connecticut. Located at the historic Bethlehem Fair Grounds, the fair has anything and everything a fairgoer could want.

The fair has all the offerings of a classic farmer's market, from stands of local fruits, vegetables, and other agricultural products to exhibits of livestock that include beef and dairy cattle, poultry, goats and sheep, and even rabbits and cavies. The fair also has a packed schedule of events and competitions, including amusement rides, an antique tractor pull, competitions such as the Lumberjack Contest and the ''Ag-Olympics,'' and other entertainment such as art and photography shows, live music, and a vintage museum.

Notably, the fair places a great importance on providing an educational experience. Youth from across the area flock to the fair to learn about farming and agriculture as both an occupation and a tradition and consider the future of farming. Building on this, the fair sponsors the Bethlehem Fair Scholarship Foundation, which each year awards over $20,000 in scholarships to graduates who plan to major in agribusiness or home economics. Scholarships are awarded to students who have made outstanding contributions to their community, including through academic achievement, participation in school and community activities, and volunteering at the Bethlehem Fair.

The Bethlehem Fair is an exceptional community-building event. It gives local businesses the opportunity for sponsorship and to market their products. It connects the people of Connecticut and gives them a place to share experiences and learn from each other. And it uniquely promotes a spirit of altruism and giving back.

The Bethlehem Fair continues to be a landmark event in Connecticut, and I have no doubt that it will remain that way for many years to come. I hope my colleagues will join me in honoring the 100th annual Bethlehem Fair and the hard work for the Bethlehem Fair Society.●

TRIBUTE TO JAY AND SUSAN WOOD

● Mr. DAINES. Mr. President, today I have the distinct honor of recognizing Jay and Susan Wood of Powell County as Montanans of the Month. Jay and Susan have made it their mission to ensure Montana's veterans never go hungry and have delivered more than 44,000 pounds of food to veterans across 16 Montana counties in 2025 so far. In May alone, they distributed 5,400 pounds to southwest Montana vets, their biggest month on record, surpassing the previous month by 1,400 pounds.

The Woods have created a community with the Southwest Montana Veterans Food Pantry where veterans can feel a part of a family. Additionally, they have built an extraordinary network of food pantries, nonprofit organizations, supermarkets, specialty businesses, and countless other groups across the State that work together to identify and support veterans in need.

Their work is a worthwhile mission, and Jay and Susan are an inspiration to us all to give back to our communities. Their selfless efforts deserve recognition and serve as a powerful reminder to cherish our freedoms and thank those who have fought to defend our country.

Jay and Susan, thank you for your tireless dedication. Your compassion and service to Montana's veterans make our State proud. May God continue to bless your efforts and all the men and women you serve.●

RECOGNIZING DUTCHMAN'S STORE

● Ms. ERNST. Mr. President, as chair of the Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship, each week I recognize an outstanding Iowa small business that exemplifies the American entrepreneurial spirit. This week, it is my privilege to recognize Dutchman's Store of Cantril, IA, as the Senate Small Business of the Week.

In November 1985, Clair and Virginia Zimmerman founded Dutchman's Store. The Zimmermans, who previously operated a small store under the name Jordan's Country Market in Mount Sterling, purchased an old storefront on Main Street in Cantril and relocated the business there. At that time, they renamed it Dutchman's Store, a reference to their Pennsylvania Dutch heritage and the German dialect spoken by their family, originally from Lancaster County, PA. The store's mission was to provide the local rural community with essential goods at affordable prices.

The story of the business began a few years earlier during the farm crisis when Clair was forced to sell his cows and his family's land went back to the bank. At the encouragement of his father, Clair purchased a one-stall garage and opened Jordan's Country Market, where he and Virginia began selling groceries, fabric, and shoes to farmers and other rural families.

The business remained under Clair and Virginia's leadership until 2010, when their sons Wilmer and Kevin joined in ownership. A few years later, their younger son Kenneth also joined the business. As demand grew, Dutchman's Store expanded three times within downtown Cantril, and in September of 2024, Dutchman's Store opened a new 50,000-square-foot retail facility in Cantril. Currently, the store offers a wide selection of products to support rural living and is organized into distinct departments, including sewing supplies, clothing, gift items, groceries, and ready-to-eat food. It also includes Dutchman's Cafe, a recent addition to the business serving sandwiches, pizza, baked goods, and a daily lunch buffet.

Dutchman's Store has gradually expanded creating an iconic retail destination surrounded by fields on the edge of Cantril. Locals across southeast Iowa simply refer to the store as ''Cantril,'' proving how closely it is tied to the town's identity. Inside the new building, original signage from the former location has been preserved. Customers often recognize and appreciate the homage paid to the history and years of goods and services provided to Iowa families. As a member of the Villages of Van Buren County, Dutchman's plays a critical role in sustaining the region's economy, which relies heavily on tourism. Clair will frequently walk the parking lot on busy weekends to look at license plates from all across the United States. The business, he says, has grown beyond anything he ever imagined.

Over the decades, Dutchman's Store steadily expanded into a store offering everything from ''soup to hay.'' I commend Dutchman's Store for nearly 40 years of service to southeast Iowa and for its continued contributions to rural commerce, tourism, and community life. I would like to congratulate the Zimmerman family and their entire team, and I look forward to their continued success.●

RECOGNIZING HALL ROBERTS' SON

● Ms. ERNST. Mr. President, as chair of the Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship, each week I recognize an outstanding Iowa small business that exemplifies the American entrepreneurial spirit. This week, it is my privilege to recognize Hall Roberts' Son of Postville, IA, as the Senate Small Business of the Week.

Hall Roberts' Son has a long and distinguished history beginning in 1864 when it was founded by Hall Roberts, Sr., who created a family-owned general mercantile company to sell products such as coal, animal pelts, and steel. Today, Hall Roberts' Son is a wholesale distributor of agricultural products serving hundreds of customers in Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Illinois. The business was passed down through three generations of the Roberts family and is currently owned by Chris Hoffert who serves as president. The company has 13 shareholders, including some of the founder's nieces, and employs 35 people.

Due to this company's exceptional customer service, Hall Roberts' Son has received numerous awards spanning several decades. Hall Roberts, who founded the Hall Roberts Community Pool in 1972, was awarded the Service to Youth Award in the same year. The pool has been renovated three times since its opening and continues to serve as a refreshing gathering spot in Postville.

In 1995, the business was chosen as the grand marshal for the Postville Homecoming Parade. Most recently, Hall Roberts' Son was recognized with the Cloy Kuhse Positive Impact Award in 2023. The owners are pillars of the community and work to support Iowa charities and events such as the Big Four Fair, Helping Services of Northeast Iowa, the Childcare Center, and Dollars for Scholars.

At its core, Hall Roberts' Son emphasizes quality distribution service while giving back to the community. Over the years, the business has adapted to the ever-changing agriculture industry, distributing products quickly and effectively to customers all across Iowa and the United States. This year, Hall Roberts' Son looks forward to celebrating its 160th anniversary. I want to congratulate the entire Hall Roberts' Son team for their hard work and dedication to providing exceptional products and services. I look forward to seeing their continued growth and success.●

RECOGNIZING MARCUS LUMBER

● Ms. ERNST. Mr. President, as chair of the Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship, each week I recognize an outstanding Iowa small business that exemplifies the American entrepreneurial spirit. This week, it is my privilege to honor Marcus Lumber of Marcus, IA, as the Senate Small Business of the Week.

Founded in 1920, Marcus Lumber traces its roots to Roger T. Leavitt and his family's purchase of the Thomas Patton Lumber Company. The business passed from Roger to his two sons John and Roger E., who expanded the business into plumbing and heating services as the company shifted away from coal sales. By the 1970s and 1980s, the family's third generation—Bob, Jim, and Tom—joined the company, further growing its pole barn division and modernizing operations. Today, the business is continued by the fourth generation, including Clay, Grant, Kent, and Hunter, who have added a full-service electrical division.

The Leavitt family prides itself on being a small business rooted in Iowa. Their resilience and commitment have carried them through the decades. In 2004, a devastating fire destroyed their store and delivery fleet. With true Iowa grit and determination, the Leavitt family rebuilt with a modern 18,000-square-foot facility. They later added a large showroom in 2017, which allows customers to explore products and visualize their projects. The company has continued to grow and employs nearly 60 team members today. It also has a new location in Storm Lake and a satellite location in Sioux City.

Throughout the years, Marcus Lumber and the Leavitt family have remained involved in the community, actively participating in organizations such as the Cherokee Chamber of Commerce and the Cherokee Area Economic Development Corporation. Their industry leadership and local impact have been recognized with numerous awards. In 2017, Marcus Lumber was named Business of the Year by the Cherokee Area Economic Development Corporation. The company also received the Showplace Cabinetry President's Club Award in 2019, 2023, and 2024, placing them among the top Showplace Cabinet dealers nationwide. In 2020, Jim Leavitt earned the Tri-State Lumberman's Association Lifetime Achievement Award, and in 2023, Clay and Grant Leavitt were named to the LBM Journal 40 Under 40 list. Equally important to Marcus Lumber is giving back to the community, and it regularly supports local projects with generous donations.

For more than a century, Marcus Lumber has been a trusted partner to homeowners, contractors, and other small businesses across Cherokee County. Their story is a testament to the resilience, innovation, and community spirit that define Iowa's small businesses. I congratulate the Leavitt family and the Marcus Lumber team on their remarkable contributions and look forward to their continued success.●

RECOGNIZING ORANGE CITY FAMILY ANIMAL CARE

● Ms. ERNST. Mr. President, as chair of the Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship, each week I recognize an outstanding Iowa small business that exemplifies the American entrepreneurial spirit. This week, it is my privilege to recognize Orange City Family Animal Care of Orange City, IA, as the Senate Small Business of the Week.

In 1984, Dr. Dave Bomgaars established the Orange City Veterinary Clinic with the goal of providing exemplary veterinary services for the animals of northwest Iowa. Over the years, Dr. Bomgaars expanded the practice by adding more veterinarians and partners. In 2014, Dr. Laura Vander Stelt joined the practice as a companion animal veterinarian. Companion animal veterinarians primarily care for cats, dogs, and small animals typically owned by families and individuals. The team continued to grow with the addition of a technician and receptionist to care for and greet the animals and their owners. In 2018, Pipestone Veterinary Services bought the practice and renamed it the Orange City Family Animal Care. In 2023, Dr. Vander Stelt purchased Orange City Family Animal Care to broaden the scope and services available. Under her leadership, the business has thrived, growing to 10 employees and prompting the construction of a larger facility in downtown Orange City.

In addition to providing exceptional veterinary care, Orange City Family Animal Care is deeply engaged in community service. The clinic contributes to local schools and sports booster organizations and educates children on responsible pet care. When a puppy tragically perished in a fire in nearby Alton, the clinic donated pet oxygen masks to two local fire departments, so they are prepared for future pet emergencies.

Orange City Family Animal Care's commitment to excellence has earned well-deserved recognition. In 2023, the Northwest Iowa Review named Dr. Vander Stelt the runner-up for both People's Choice Awards Best of Northwest Veterinarian and People's Choice Awards Best of Northwest Veterinarian Clinic. This year, the clinic's newest veterinarian Dr. Hoogland was recognized by the Northwest Iowa Review on its 20 under 40 list and has also been nominated for the People's Choice Awards Best of Northwest Veterinarian.

I commend Dr. Vander Stelt and her entire team for their entrepreneurial drive, remarkable growth, and generosity to the community. The care they provide for companion animals in northwest Iowa leaves a lasting impact on the Orange City community. I look forward to following their continued growth and success in the years to come.●

RECOGNIZING ARTISAN LABS

Mr. President, as a member and former chairman of the Senate Committee on Small Business and Entrepreneurship, each month I recognize and celebrate the American entrepreneurial spirit by highlighting the success of a small business in my home State of Idaho. Today, I am proud to honor Artisan Labs of Hansen, ID, as the Idaho Small Business of the Month for August 2025.

Artisan Labs' state-of-the-art research, development, and production facility became fully operational in 2021. Now in their 5th year, Artisan Labs has plans for a 40,000-square-foot facility expansion that will support their continued growth and industry-leading formulation services.

Artisan Labs' story is rooted in innovation, community, and empowerment. The company is committed to supporting STEM within the Magic Valley community and throughout Idaho. They host student groups, participate in career fairs, and partner with local youth development programs. A core aspect of Artisan Labs' mission is giving back to the Hansen community, which has welcomed them with open arms. By fostering educational opportunities in rural areas, Artisan Labs aims to inspire the next generation of entrepreneurs and support the southern Idaho economy.

Congratulations to Artisan Labs and its team on being recognized as the Idaho Small Business of the Month for August 2025. Your dedication to excellence make Idaho proud, and I look forward to your continued growth and success.●

Subtitle H—Export Controls for Advanced Artificial Intelligence Chips

SEC. 6081. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the ''Guaranteeing Access and Innovation for National Artificial Intelligence Act of 2025'' or the ''GAIN AI Act of 2025''.

SEC. 6082. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) artificial intelligence is a transformative technology and United States policy should ensure that United States persons, including small businesses, startups, and universities, are in the best position to innovate and harness the potential of artificial intelligence;

(2) the demand for advanced artificial intelligence chips far exceeds the supply, and United States persons are forced to wait many months, if not longer, to acquire the latest chips;

(3) at the same time, United States chip developers are selling advanced artificial intelligence chips to entities in countries that are subject to a United States arms embargo or countries that have a close relationship with such countries, so that United States persons are unable to acquire such chips;

(4) the production of such chips for sale to entities in countries described in paragraph (3) is taking up production capacity that would otherwise be used to fabricate chips for United States persons; and

(5) it should be the policy of the United States and the Department of Commerce—

(A) to deny licenses for the export of the most powerful artificial intelligence chips, including such chips with a total processing power of 4,800 or above; and

(B) to restrict the export of less advanced artificial intelligence chips to foreign entities in countries of concern so long as United States entities are waiting and unable to acquire those same chips.

SEC. 6083. PROHIBITION ON PRIORITIZING COUNTRIES OF CONCERN OVER UNITED STATES PERSONS FOR EXPORTS OF ADVANCED INTEGRATED CIRCUITS.

''(b) CERTIFICATION OF PRIORITY FOR UNITED STATES CUSTOMERS FOR CERTAIN ADVANCED INTEGRATED CIRCUITS.—

''(1) CERTIFICATION REQUIREMENT.—The Under Secretary shall require a person submitting an application for a license to export, reexport, or in-country transfer an advanced integrated circuit or a product containing such a circuit to or in a country subject to a comprehensive United States arms embargo or a country of concern to certify in the application that—

''(A) United States persons had a right-of-first-refusal for the circuit or product, which means the person submitting the application—

''(i) upon reaching the decision to enter into a transaction for the sale of such a circuit or product to a person in a country subject to a comprehensive United States arms embargo or a country of concern, provided, in a manner accessible to United States persons, a notice of—

''(B) the person submitting the application—

''(i) has no current backlog of requests from United States persons for the circuit or product or a comparable circuit or product;

''(ii) cannot foresee the export, reexport, or in-country transfer of the circuit or product resulting in such a backlog or a reduction in the capacity of production lines for the production of the circuit or product for United States persons; and

''(iii) is not providing advantageous pricing or terms for the circuit or product to foreign persons that the person is not providing to United States persons.

''(2) DENIAL OF APPLICATIONS WITHOUT CERTIFICATION.—If a certification described in paragraph (1) is not submitted with an application for a license described in that paragraph, the Under Secretary shall deny the application.

''(3) IMPLEMENTATION.—Not later than 90 days after the date of the enactment of this section, the Under Secretary shall prescribe regulations providing guidance for complying with the certification requirement under paragraph (1), which shall include—

''(A) a description of the acceptable formats for the notice required by paragraph (1)(A)(i);

''(B) establishment of a portal that allows—

''(ii) United States persons to view those details and submit requests to purchase such circuits or products pursuant to paragraph (1)(A)(ii);

''(C) procedures for handling multiple requests for an intended sale of such a circuit or product, which shall allow for combining requests for lesser quantities of the circuit or product to match the full quantity offered for sale;

''(D) recordkeeping requirements;

''(E) penalties for misrepresentation and concealment of material facts; and

''(F) metrics and procedures by which to determine whether—

''(i) the export, reexport, or in-country transfer of a circuit or product would create—

''(I) a backlog of requests described in paragraph (1)(B)(i); or

''(II) a reduction in capacity described in paragraph (1)(B)(ii); and

''(ii) the person selling the circuit or product is providing advantageous pricing or terms described in paragraph (1)(B)(iii) to foreign persons.

(b) FINDINGS.—According to multiple sources, including the 2024 annual report to Congress, titled ''Military and Security Developments Involving the People's Republic of China'' and known informally as the ''China Military Power Report''—

(1) the PRC is seeking to expand its overseas logistics and basing infrastructure to allow the PLA to project and sustain military power at greater distances;

(2) a global PLA logistics network could give the PRC increased capabilities to surveil or disrupt United States military operations;

(3) in August 2017, the PRC officially opened the first overseas PLA military base near the commercial port of Doraleh in Djibouti;

(4) in 2019, the PRC also attempted to acquire strategically important port infrastructure at Subic Bay in the Philippines, but was stopped by the Governments of the United States, the Philippines, and Japan, and by private investors;

(5) in April 2025, officials from the PRC and Cambodia officially inaugurated the China-Cambodia Ream Naval Base Joint Support and Training Center and celebrated the expansion of port facilities at Ream Naval Base, some of which appear to have been reserved for the use of PRC ships that have been continuously stationed at Ream Naval Base since December 2023; and

(6) in addition to the base in Djibouti and the PRC's access to the port at the Ream Naval Base in Cambodia, the PRC is likely pursuing access to additional military facilities to support naval, air, and ground forces projection in many countries.

(c) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—While the executive branch has undertaken case-by-case efforts to forestall the establishment of new PRC permanent military presence in several countries, it is the sense of Congress that future efforts to counter the PRC's global basing intentions must—

(5) appropriately prioritize the subject of the PRC's global basing intentions within the context of the overall United States strategic competition with the PRC;

(6) consider how the PRC uses commercial and scientific cooperation as a guise for establishing access for the PLA and other PRC security forces in foreign countries;

(7) factor in the potential contributions of key allies and partners to help respond to the PRC's pursuit of global basing, many of which—

(A) have historic ties and influence in many of the geographic areas the PRC is targeting for potential future bases; and

(B) rely on the same basic intelligence picture to form our baseline understanding of the PRC's global intentions;

(8) establish and ensure sufficient resourcing for enduring organizational structures and security and foreign assistance and cooperation efforts to effectively address the issue of PRC global basing intentions; and

Subtitle F—Treatment of Taiwan at International Financial Institutions

SEC. 6251. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the ''Taiwan Non-Discrimination Act of 2025''.

SEC. 6252. FINDINGS.

Congress finds as follows:

(1) As enshrined in its Articles of Agreement, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) is devoted to promoting international monetary cooperation, facilitating the expansion and balanced growth of international trade, encouraging exchange stability, and avoiding competitive exchange depreciation.

(2) Taiwan is the 21st largest economy in the world and the 10th largest goods trading partner of the United States.

(3) Although Taiwan is not an IMF member, it is a member of the World Trade Organization, the Asian Development Bank, and the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation forum.

(4) According to the January 2020 Report on Macroeconomic and Foreign Exchange Policies of Major Trading Partners of the United States, published by the Department of the Treasury, Taiwan held $471,900,000,000 in foreign exchange reserves, more than major economies such as India, South Korea, and Brazil.

(5) According to section 4(d) of the Taiwan Relations Act (Public Law 96–8), enacted on April 10, 1979, ''Nothing in this Act may be construed as a basis for supporting the exclusion or expulsion of Taiwan from continued membership in any international financial institution or any other international organization.''.

(6) Taiwan held membership in the IMF for 9 years following the recognition of the People's Republic of China (PRC) by the United Nations, and 16 Taiwan staff members at the Fund were allowed to continue their employment after the PRC was seated at the IMF in 1980. As James M. Boughton has noted in his Silent Revolution: The International Monetary Fund 1979–1989, even as the PRC was seated, the United States Executive Director to the IMF, Sam Y. Cross, expressed support on behalf of the United States Government for ''some kind of association between Taiwan and the Fund''.

(7) On September 27, 1994, in testimony before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations regarding the 1994 Taiwan Policy Review, then-Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs Winston Lord stated: ''Recognizing Taiwan's important role in transnational issues, we will support its membership in organizations where statehood is not a prerequisite, and we will support opportunities for Taiwan's voice to be heard in organizations where its membership is not possible.''.

(8) The Congress has repeatedly reaffirmed support for this policy, including in Public Laws 107–10, 107–158, 108–28, 108–235, 113–17, and 114–139, and the unanimous House and Senate passage of the Taiwan Allies International Protection and Enhancement Initiative (TAIPEI) Act of 2019.

(9) In its fact sheet, entitled ''U.S. Relations with Taiwan'', published on August 31, 2018, the Department of State asserts: ''The United States supports Taiwan's membership in international organizations that do not require statehood as a condition of membership and encourages Taiwan's meaningful participation in international organizations where its membership is not possible.''.

(10) According to the Articles of Agreement of the IMF, ''membership shall be open to other countries'', subject to conditions prescribed by the Board of Governors of the IMF.

(11) In the IMF publication ''Membership and Nonmembership in the International Monetary Fund: A Study in International Law and Organization'', Joseph Gold, the then-General Counsel and Director of the Legal Department of the IMF, elaborated on the differences between the terms ''countries'' and ''states'', noting that ''the word 'country' may have been adopted because of the absence of agreement on the definition of a 'state''' and, with respect to the use of ''countries'' and applications for IMF membership, ''the absence of any adjective in the Articles emphasizes the breadth of the discretion that the Fund may exercise in admitting countries to membership''. According to Mr. Gold, ''the desire to give the Fund flexibility in dealing with applications may explain not only the absence of any adjective that qualifies 'countries' but also the choice of that word itself''.

(12) In his IMF study, Mr. Gold further observes, ''in the practice of the Fund the concepts of independence and sovereignty have been avoided on the whole as a mode of expressing a criterion for membership in the Fund''. He continues, ''Although the Fund usually takes into account the recognition or nonrecognition of an entity as a state, there are no rules or even informal understandings on the extent to which an applicant must have been recognized by members or other international organizations before the Fund will regard it as eligible for membership.''. In fact, when considering an application for membership where the status of an applicant may not be resolved, Mr. Gold writes ''there have been occasions on which the Fund has made a finding before decisions had been taken by the United Nations or by most members or by members with a majority of the total voting power.'' Mr. Gold concludes, ''the Fund makes its own findings on whether an applicant is a 'country', and makes them solely for its own purposes.''.

(13) Although not a member state of the United Nations, the Republic of Kosovo is a member of both the IMF and the World Bank, having joined both organizations on June 29, 2009.

(14) On October 26, 2021, Secretary of State Antony Blinken issued a statement in support of Taiwan's ''robust, meaningful participation'' in the United Nations system, which includes the IMF, the World Bank, and other specialized United Nations agencies. Secretary of State Blinken noted, ''As the international community faces an unprecedented number of complex and global issues, it is critical for all stakeholders to help address these problems. This includes the 24 million people who live in Taiwan. Taiwan's meaningful participation in the UN system is not a political issue, but a pragmatic one.''. He continued, ''Taiwan's exclusion undermines the important work of the UN and its related bodies, all of which stand to benefit greatly from its contributions.''.

(15) In October 2024, Taiwan announced it would seek IMF membership, with the Taipei Economic and Cultural Representative Office in the United States stating, ''Taiwan's membership at the IMF would help boost financial resilience.''.

SEC. 6253. SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.

It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) the size, significance, and connectedness of the Taiwanese economy highlight the importance of greater participation by Taiwan in the International Monetary Fund, given the purposes of the Fund articulated in its Articles of Agreement; and

(2) the experience of Taiwan in developing a vibrant and advanced economy under democratic governance and the rule of law should inform the work of the international financial institutions, including through increased participation by Taiwan in the institutions.

SEC. 6254. SUPPORT FOR TAIWAN ADMISSION TO THE IMF.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The United States Governor of the International Monetary Fund (in this section referred to as the ''Fund'') shall use the voice and vote of the United States to vigorously support—

(1) the admission of Taiwan as a member of the Fund, to the extent that admission is sought by Taiwan;

(2) participation by Taiwan in regular surveillance activities of the Fund with respect to the economic and financial policies of Taiwan, consistent with Article IV consultation procedures of the Fund;

(3) employment opportunities for Taiwan nationals, without regard to any consideration that, in the determination of the United States Governor, does not generally restrict the employment of nationals of member countries of the Fund; and

(4) the ability of Taiwan to receive appropriate technical assistance and training by the Fund.

(b) UNITED STATES POLICY.—It is the policy of the United States not to discourage or otherwise deter Taiwan from seeking admission as a member of the Fund.

(c) WAIVER.—The Secretary of the Treasury may waive any requirement of subsection (a) for up to 1 year at a time on reporting to Congress that providing the waiver will substantially promote the objective of securing the meaningful participation of Taiwan at each international financial institution (as defined in section 1701(c)(2) of the International Financial Institutions Act).

(d) SUNSET.—This section shall have no force or effect on the earlier of—

(1) the date of approval by the Board of Governors of the Fund for the admission of Taiwan as a member of the Fund; or

(2) the date that is 10 years after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 6255. TESTIMONY REQUIREMENT.

In each of the next 7 years in which the Secretary of the Treasury is required by section 1705(b) of the International Financial Institutions Act to present testimony, the Secretary shall include in the testimony a description of the efforts of the United States to support the greatest participation practicable by Taiwan at each international financial institution (as defined in section 1701(c)(2) of such Act).

Subtitle H—International Nuclear Energy Financing Act of 2025

SEC. 1091. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the ''International Nuclear Energy Financing Act of 2025''.

SEC. 1092. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) Nuclear power is an emissions-free energy source that produces approximately 30 percent of the world's low-carbon electricity. In 2021, 33 countries operated nuclear power plants.

(2) The People's Republic of China and the Russian Federation have sought to export nuclear reactors to Europe, Eurasia, Latin America, Africa, and South Asia. According to a 2017 study by Columbia University's Center on Global Energy Policy, Chinese and Russian nuclear reactors are associated with higher safety risk than Western nuclear reactors. In addition, financial and operational support for nuclear power can extend over decades, allowing Beijing and Moscow to secure long-term influence in both advanced and developing economies.

(3) As of the date of the enactment of this Act, the Russian Federation is building 21 reactors outside its borders, while the People's Republic of China is assembling more than one-third of reactors under construction globally. According to research published in Nature Energy in February 2023, when the Russian Federation launched its invasion of Ukraine in 2022, Russian state-owned nuclear operator Rosatom ''boasted as many as 73 different projects in 29 countries. The projects were at very different stages of development from power plants in operation; through construction of reactors ongoing, contracted, ordered or planned; to involvement in tenders, invitations to partnerships or officially published proposals. On top of that, Russian companies have bilateral agreements or memoranda of understanding (MoUs) with 13 countries for services or general joint development of nuclear energy.''.

(4) In its report titled, ''International Status and Prospects for Nuclear Power 2021'', the International Atomic Energy Agency wrote, ''A total of 28 countries have expressed interest in nuclear power and are considering, planning or actively working to include it into their energy mix. Another 24 Member States participate in the Agency's nuclear infrastructure related activities or are involved in energy planning projects through the technical cooperation programme. Ten to twelve embarking Member States plan to operate NPPs [nuclear power plants] by 2030–2035, representing a potential increase of nearly 30% in the number of operating countries. Several embarking countries have also expressed interest in SMRs [small modular reactors] technology, in particular Estonia, Ghana, Jordan, Kenya, Poland, Saudi Arabia and Sudan, as well as expanding countries such as South Africa.''.

(5) On December 2, 2023, the United States, alongside more than 20 other countries, pledged to triple nuclear energy capacity by 2050 and support the financing of nuclear energy through the World Bank and regional development banks, so as to ''encourage the inclusion of nuclear energy in their organizations' energy lending policies as needed, and to actively support nuclear power when they have such a mandate''.

Subtitle F—Defending International Security by Restricting Unacceptable Partnerships and Tactics

SEC. 1271. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the ''Defending International Security by Restricting Unacceptable Partnerships and Tactics Act'' or ''DISRUPT Act''.

SEC. 1272. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The People's Republic of China, the Russian Federation, the Islamic Republic of Iran, and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea are each considered—

(A) a foreign adversary (as defined in section 825(d) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2024 (Public Law 118–31; 137 Stat. 322; 46 U.S.C. 50309 note));

(B) a country of risk (as defined in section 6432(a) of the Servicemember Quality of Life Improvement and National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2025 (Public Law 118–159; 138 Stat. 2488; 42 U.S.C. 7144b note)) for purposes of assessing counterintelligence risks posed by certain visitors to National Laboratories;

(C) a foreign country of concern (as defined in section 10612(a) of the Research and Development, Competition, and Innovation Act (Public Law 117–167; 136 Stat. 1635; 42 U.S.C. 19221 note));

(D) a covered foreign country (as defined in section 164 of the Servicemember Quality of Life Improvement and National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2025 (Public Law 118–159; 138 Stat. 1818; 10 U.S.C. 4651 note prec.)) for purposes of a prohibition on operation, procurement, and contracting relating to foreign-made light detection and ranging technology; and

(E) a covered foreign country (as defined in section 1622 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2022 (Public Law 117–81; 135 Stat. 2086; 10 U.S.C. 421 note prec.)) for purposes of a strategy and plan to implement certain defense intelligence reforms.

(2) According to the 2025 Intelligence Community Annual Threat Assessment, the United States faces an increasingly contested and dangerous global landscape as the four adversaries named in paragraph (1) deepen cooperation in a manner that—

(A) reinforces threats posed by each such adversary individually; and

(B) poses new challenges to the strength and power of the United States globally.

(3) Much of the cooperation referred to in paragraph (2) is occurring bilaterally, as the People's Republic of China, the Russian Federation, the Islamic Republic of Iran, and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea strengthen diplomatic, economic, and military ties in accordance with bilateral agreements, which include—

(A) the Treaty on Friendship, Cooperation and Mutual Assistance between China and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, signed at Beijing July 11, 1961;

(B) the Joint Statement on Comprehensive Strategic Partnership between the Islamic Republic of Iran and the People's Republic of China, issued on March 27, 2021;

(C) the Joint Statement of the Russian Federation and the People's Republic of China on International Relations Entering a New Era and Global Sustainable Development, issued on February 4, 2022;

(D) the Treaty on Comprehensive Strategic Partnership between the Russian Federation and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, signed at Pyongyang June 18, 2024;

(E) the Iranian-Russian Treaty on Comprehensive Strategic Partnership, signed at Moscow January 17, 2025; and

(F) traditional relations of friendship and cooperation between the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

(4) The most concerning forms of such cooperation with respect to the interests of the United States occur bilaterally in the realm of defense cooperation. Examples include the following:

(A) TRANSFER AND SHARING OF WEAPONS AND MUNITIONS.—Since 2022, the Islamic Republic of Iran has supplied the Russian Federation with drones and ballistic missiles, and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea has provided artillery ammunition and ballistic missiles. Likewise, the Russian Federation has agreed to provide the Islamic Republic of Iran with Su–35 fighter jets and air defense assistance.

(B) TRANSFER AND SHARING OF DUAL-USE TECHNOLOGIES AND CAPABILITIES.—Dual-use goods supplied by the People's Republic of China have enabled the Russian Federation to continue defense production in the face of wide-ranging sanctions and export controls intended to prevent the Russian Federation from accessing the necessary components to fuel its defense industry. In turn, reporting indicates that the Russian Federation has provided technical expertise on satellite technology to the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and is working closely with the People's Republic of China on air defense and submarine technology.

(C) JOINT MILITARY ACTIVITIES AND EXERCISES.—The military forces of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea are actively participating in the Russian Federation's invasion of Ukraine, and joint military exercises between the People's Republic of China and the Russian Federation are expanding in scope, scale, and geographic reach, including in close proximity to territory of the United States.

(D) COORDINATION.—Coordination on disinformation and cyber operations, including coordinated messaging aimed at denigrating and isolating the United States internationally.

(5) Adversaries of the United States are also cooperating in a manner that may circumvent United States and multilateral economic tools. Examples include the following:

(A) The continued purchase by the People's Republic of China of oil from the Islamic Republic of Iran despite sanctions imposed by the Treasury of the United States on oil from the Islamic Republic of Iran.

(B) The veto by the Russian Federation of, and abstention by the People's Republic of China in a vote on, a United Nations Security Council resolution relating to monitoring United Nations Security Council-levied sanctions on the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.

(6) Adversaries of the United States are cooperating multilaterally in international institutions such as the United Nations and through expanded multilateral groupings, such as the Brazil-Russia-India-China-South Africa group (commonly known as ''BRICS''), to isolate and erode the influence of the United States.

(7) Such increased cooperation and alignment among the People's Republic of China, the Russian Federation, the Islamic Republic of Iran, and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, to an unprecedented extent, poses a significant threat to United States interests and national security.

(8) Such increasing alignment—

(A) allows each such adversary to modernize its military more quickly than previously anticipated;

(B) enables unforeseen breakthroughs in capabilities through the sharing among such adversaries of critical military technologies, which could erode the technological edge of the United States Armed Forces;

(C) presents increasing challenges to strategies of isolation or containment against such individual adversaries, since the People's Republic of China, the Russian Federation, the Islamic Republic of Iran, and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea now provide critical lifelines to each other;

(D) threatens the effectiveness of United States economic tools, as such adversaries cooperate to evade United States sanctions and export controls and seek to establish alternative payment mechanisms that do not require transactions in United States dollars; and

(E) increases the chances of United States conflict or tensions with any one of such adversaries drawing in another, thereby posing a greater risk that the United States will have to contend with simultaneous threats from such adversaries in one or more theaters.

SEC. 1273. STATEMENT OF POLICY.

It is the policy of the United States—

(1) to disrupt or frustrate the most dangerous aspects of cooperation between and among the People's Republic of China, the Russian Federation, the Islamic Republic of Iran, and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, including by using the threat of sanctions and export controls, bringing such cooperation to light, and sharing information with United States allies and partners who may—

(A) share the concerns and objectives of the United States; and

(B) have influence over such adversaries;

(2) to constrain such grouping from expanding its footprint or capabilities across the world; and

(3) to prepare for the increasing likelihood that the United States could face simultaneous challenges or conflict with multiple such adversaries in multiple theaters, including by bolstering deterrence across all priority theaters.

SEC. 1274. TASK FORCES AND REPORTS.

(a) TASK FORCES ON ADVERSARY ALIGNMENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 60 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Secretary of Commerce shall each—

(A) establish a task force on adversary alignment; and

(B) designate a point of contact on adversary alignment, who shall serve as the head of the task force for the applicable department, office, or agency.

Subtitle F—Time to Choose Act of 2025

SEC. 891. SHORT TITLE.

This subtitle may be cited as the ''Time to Choose Act of 2025''.

SEC. 892. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Department of Defense and other agencies in the United States Government regularly award contracts to firms that are simultaneously providing consulting services to foreign governments and proxies or affiliates thereof.

(2) The provision of such consulting services to covered foreign entities may support efforts by certain foreign governments to generate economic and military power that they can then use to undermine the economic and national security of the American people.

(3) It is a conflict of interest for consulting firms to simultaneously aid in the efforts of certain foreign governments to undermine the economic and national security of the United States while they are simultaneously contracting with Federal agencies responsible for protecting and defending the United States from foreign threats.

(4) Firms should be prevented from engaging in such a conflict of interest and should instead be required to choose between aiding the efforts of certain foreign governments or helping the United States Government to support and defend its citizens.

SEC. 893. PROHIBITION ON FEDERAL CONTRACTING WITH ENTITIES THAT ARE SIMULTANEOUSLY AIDING IN THE EFFORTS OF COVERED FOREIGN ENTITIES.

(a) IN GENERAL.—In order to end conflicts of interest in Federal contracting among consulting firms that simultaneously contract with the United States Government and covered foreign entities, the Federal Acquisition Regulatory Council shall, not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, amend the Federal Acquisition Regulation—

(1) to require any entity that makes an offer or quotation to provide consulting services to an executive agency, including services described in the North American Industry Classification System's Industry Group code 5416, prior to entering into a Federal contract, to certify that neither it nor any of its subsidiaries or affiliates hold a consulting contract with one or more covered foreign entities; and

(2) to prohibit Federal contracts for consulting services from being awarded to an entity that provides consulting services, including services described under the North American Industry Classification System's Industry Group code 5416 if the entity or any of its subsidiaries or affiliates are determined, based on the self-certification required under paragraph (1), to be a contractor of, or are otherwise providing consulting services to, a covered foreign entity.

(b) WAIVER.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to the limitations in paragraph (2), the head of an executive agency may waive the conflict of interest restrictions under this section on a case-by-case basis if—
