PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Patrick J. Conroy, offered the following prayer: Gracious God, we give You thanks for giving us another day.

In this Chamber, where the people's House gathers, we pause to offer You gratitude for the gift of this good land on which we live and for this great Nation which You have inspired in developing over so many years. Continue to inspire the American people: that through the difficulties of these days we might keep liberty and justice alive in our Nation and in the world.

Give to us and to all people a vivid sense of Your presence; that we may learn to understand each other, to respect each other, to work with each other, to live with each other, and to do good to each other. So shall we make our Nation great in goodness and good in its greatness.

May all that is done this day be for Your greater honor and glory. Amen.

SENATE—Tuesday, March 13, 2012

The Senate met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Honorable CHRISTOPHER A. COONS, a Senator from the State of Delaware.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Dr. Barry C. Black, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Gracious and merciful God, we praise You that none of Your purposes can be thwarted. You have been our refuge from one generation to another.

Continue to guide our lawmakers along right paths. May they find fullness of joy in Your presence and pleasure forevermore at Your right hand. Today, equip them with what they need to do Your will, working in them that which is pleasing in Your sight. Help them to live today with a sense of accountability to You, understanding that their thoughts, words, and actions are open to Your review.

We pray in Your merciful Name. Amen.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Honorable CHRISTOPHER A. COONS led the Pledge of Allegiance, as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

APPOINTMENT OF ACTING PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will please read a communication to the Senate from the President pro tempore (Mr. INOUE).

The legislative clerk read the following letter:

U.S. SENATE,
PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE,
Washington, DC, March 13, 2012.

To the Senate:

Under the provisions of rule 1, paragraph 3, of the Standing Rules of the Senate, I hereby appoint the Honorable CHRISTOPHER A. COONS, a Senator from the State of Delaware, to perform the duties of the Chair.

DANIEL K. INOUE,
President pro tempore.

Mr. COONS thereupon assumed the chair as Acting President pro tempore.

RECOGNITION OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader is recognized.

SCHEDULE

Mr. REID. Mr. President, following leader remarks, the Senate will be in a period of morning business for 1 hour, with the majority controlling the first half and the Republicans controlling the final half. Following morning business, the Senate will resume consideration of S. 1813, the surface transportation act. There will be two rollcall votes in relation to the DeMint and Bingaman amendments at noon. The Senate will recess until 2:15 p.m. to allow for the weekly caucus meetings. At 2:15 p.m. there could be as many as 20 rollcall votes this afternoon to complete action on the Transportation bill.

MEASURES PLACED ON THE CALENDAR—H.R. 3606 AND S. 2186

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I am told there are two bills at the desk due for a second reading.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will read the bills by title for a second time.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 3606) to increase American job creation and economic growth by improving access to the public capital markets for emerging growth companies.

A bill (S. 2186) to amend the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 to prohibit the Attorney General from administering or enforcing certain accessibility regulations relating to pools at public accommodations or provided by public entities.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I object to further proceedings regarding these two bills.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The objection is heard. The bills will be placed on the calendar.

SURFACE TRANSPORTATION ACT

Mr. REID. Mr. President, today we resume consideration of the most important piece of jobs legislation we have had here in a long time; that is, the highway bill. But it is more than a highway bill, it is a surface transportation bill that deals with all aspects of helping our failing bridges, and there are 70,000 of those. Twenty percent of our highways are in nonsafe conditions. We have problems with our mass transportation system, rails, and other such things, so we have to move forward.

Building this Nation's infrastructure with this legislation alone will save or create 2.8 million jobs. This is an effort to build a world-class transportation system that was started during the Presidency of Dwight Eisenhower. Every President since then has recognized the need to go forward with the vision General Eisenhower had. We must renew that commitment. The Presidents in recent years have gone out of their way to do that. President Reagan gave a number of speeches about how important it was that we begin to renew the commitment we should have to infrastructure in this country. President Clinton did the same.

The legislation is very important, and a commitment to the renewal of a vision of General Eisenhower is the essence of this bipartisan bill. It has the endorsement of one of the most conservative Members of the Senate and one of the most liberal Members of the Senate. I was disappointed that it took as long as it did to get where we are, but we are here. We invoked cloture quite a long time ago, and it has taken more than a month to come within sight of the completion of this bill. I am pleased that we are on track to dispense with the remaining amendments and vote on final passage during today's business.

I am hopeful the House will act immediately to pass this bipartisan compromise rather than pursue what we have all read about—an extreme, ideological bill they were considering last month. It failed every test, including the test of their own caucus. The Republican caucus said: No, we cannot do this.

The highway bill is important to the Democratic Members and Republican Members of the House, as it is to Democratic and Republican Members of the Senate. I would hope the Speaker understands it is not good for this country to have a situation where he tries to pass everything with a majority of the majority. What that means is the Republicans have a majority in the House—and I served in the House, and that is not how things were done with Bob Michel, who was the Republican leader at the time, Tip O'Neill, who was the Democratic leader at the time, and Jim Wright thereafter. Bob Michel worked with both of them to get legislation done. What they tried to do was get to the magic number of 218—that is the majority in the House—and they got those votes from Democrats and Republicans. So I hope my friend the Speaker won't just try to get this surface transportation bill done with Republicans. Let the Democrats voice their opinion as to what should happen. That is the way we should do it. Passing a bipartisan transportation bill the President can sign would be a victory for both parties and our country.

The Senate's pressing business doesn't end with completion of this bill. We have a small business jobs bill that was passed overwhelmingly by the House and is supported by President Obama. Last night I had a conversation on the floor publicly with the Republican whip, Senator KYL of Arizona, and we talked about the need to get this done. We are going to move forward on this expeditiously. There are always bumps in the road. I hope there will be very few bumps in the road.

I have not had an opportunity to talk to my friend the Republican leader, but I was told this morning that the ranking member of the Banking Committee, my friend from Alabama, Senator SHELBY, has indicated he wants to make some improvements in the bill we received from the House. I suggest he work with Senator JOHNSON. If they can do something on a bipartisan basis and do it quickly, I will be happy to take a look at it, but we need to move forward. I think you kind of get the message when there are about 390 votes for a bill and 20 against it, so I think we have to move forward.

The one thing I am going to do is have a perfecting amendment prepared that will allow us to move forward on reauthorizing the Ex-Im Bank. I hope we can do that. It is something that is broadly supported, and the business community thinks it is extremely important. As I mentioned last night, Mr. McNerney, the head of Boeing, said it is a tremendously important bill for the airline industry, which is so important to the economy of our country. It is not only important to the airline industry, it is important to other segments of our industrial base. It is an important piece of legislation, and I hope we can add that to the small business jobs bill. If we can't, I understand, but it would be a shame to miss the opportunity to do that.

We are interested in this IPO bill that has been supported by the House and the President of the United States. I am convinced it will spur small business growth. It will not create the jobs we have on the highway bill, but it is good for job growth. It will bring more capital into the business world, and we have needed that for several years now. It would streamline the way companies sell stock. I look forward to working with my friend the Republican leader to finalize a path forward on this bipartisan legislation.

In the coming days, the Senate must also consider postal reform legislation, reauthorization of the Violence Against Women Act, cybersecurity, and additional measures to create jobs and improve our economy. The only thing preventing the Senate from moving quickly to tackle these items, including the bipartisan small business jobs bill, is what we have had this whole Congress: obstructionism by my friends the Republicans. They have forced the Senate to wait weeks on unrelated amendments to this bill, this bipartisan surface transportation bill. I hope they are not going to hold up progress on the small business jobs bill. I am confident they will not. I really hope that is the case.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. REID. Mr. President, yesterday I filed cloture on 17 consensus judicial nominations. I have worked with the Republicans for months to find a way forward for a timely confirmation for many of these nominees, including some who have been waiting for up-or-down votes since October. Yesterday I had a visual aid—and I will show it during the caucus today—to show what happened in the Clinton years, the Bush years, and the Obama years. It is so clear what has happened. And it really doesn't fully represent what happened because in the Clinton years we had dozens and dozens of nominees who were what we called pocket-vetoed—they just wouldn't hold hearings on them. But with the length of time the judges were reported out of committee—Clinton, a few days; Bush, a few days; and, of course, now we are talking about many months with the Obama nominations—that is not fair. They should all be entitled to an up-or-down vote, especially when they came out of the committee so overwhelmingly, with rare exception. There is no reason we should eat up even 1 day of precious time the Senate has to pass these commonsense measures when we can do it so quickly.

President Obama's judicial nominees have waited five or six times longer than President Bush's nominations for confirmation, and that time has increased and is not going down. The Senate once confirmed 18 of President Bush's nominations in a single day. There is no justification for obstruction on matters that ought to be routine. There is too much to do. The Senate simply doesn't have the luxury to waste any more time.

RECOGNITION OF THE MINORITY LEADER

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Republican leader is recognized.

HOUSE PASSED JOBS BILL

Mr. McCONNELL. Mr. President, later today the Senate is likely to finish the highway bill, and once we do—I listened carefully to the majority leader's remarks—once we finish the highway bill, we ought to immediately turn to the bipartisan jobs bill that passed the House last Thursday. The vote was 390 to 23. Let me say that again. The vote in the House was 390 to 23. The President also indicated that he would sign the House bill. So it strikes me that with the jobs emergency we have in this country with 8.3 percent unemployment—many more millions of Americans having given up trying to get in the workforce—the thing to do is to pocket this broad bipartisan bill and try to create jobs immediately.

I heard my friend the majority leader indicate that he wants to have a different version of it, to kind of recraft it. All that will do is slow down the process and make it more difficult to get this important jobs legislation to the President's desk rapidly. So I hope the majority leader will reconsider whether we need to kind of reinvent the wheel here. This is already a broadly supported bipartisan bill that the President has said he will sign as soon as we send it to him. I don't know why in the Senate we would want to make something that ought to be pretty simple extraordinarily complicated.

The Democratic-controlled Senate turns to something contentious instead of doing something that almost all of us agree on—certainly in the House—and the President agrees on that would focus on jobs and actually do some good. The American people think we have spent a lot of time spinning our wheels around here. Rather than trying to sort of manufacture gridlock and create the illusion of conflict where none should exist, why don't we demonstrate that we can actually get something done together? In a moment when millions of Americans are looking for work and millions more are struggling with the high price of gas, we have the opportunity to really do something together right now. As soon as we finish this highway bill, we can take up this jobs bill and send a small but important signal to job creators and innovators that we want to help make it easier for them to hire.

Later today we will have another chance to move forward on the Keystone Pipeline. Despite the President's continued stubborn opposition to it, we will have another vote offered by Senator PAT ROBERTS.

The House-passed jobs bill isn't just important for what it does but for what it also represents. It is a rare and welcomed signal that lawmakers in Washington still value the risk-takers and the entrepreneurs who have always been so vital to our Nation's greatness. After 3 years of policies that undermine free enterprise through the picking of winners and losers, this legislation sends an entirely different signal. It is a welcome step back in the right direction.

By clearing away redtape, it should encourage the kind of entrepreneurship that not only leads to new pockets of industry and the jobs that come with them but which also helps people fulfill their dreams—and without adding to the deficit. This bill doesn't add anything to the Federal deficit.

This is precisely what we should be doing right here in Washington. It is the message we should send. We don't need fewer Apples or Microsofts or Facebooks; we need more of them. We need them for the value they add to our lives, the edge they give us in the world economy, the jobs they provide to hundreds of thousands of American workers, and for the satisfaction they bring to those who help turn them from an idea into a reality.

So let's send this important signal that we still believe in opportunity, we still believe in innovation, and that when a common good is in sight—when we can see a common good right before us—we can still work together to actually achieve it.

This is so crucial that I want to renew what my colleague JON KYL did last night, which is to offer a unanimous consent request—I have told the majority leader I am going to do this—to turn to this important piece of bipartisan legislation, passed overwhelmingly in the House and supported by the President of the United States, immediately after we finish the highway bill.

Let me say again, there is no purpose served by manufacturing controversy here in the Senate—manufacturing controversy when none should exist. We have an important piece of jobs legislation passed overwhelmingly in the House, supported by the President. The highway bill will clear here later this afternoon or tomorrow. I think most Senators would rather be working on that which the American people believe would actually help create jobs than to see the Senate embroiled in another controversy which I fear my good friend the majority leader is seeking to precipitate as soon as the highway bill is concluded.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUEST—H.R. 3606

I ask unanimous consent, notwithstanding any other rule of the Senate, that immediately following the disposition of the pending transportation bill, the Senate proceed to the consideration of H.R. 3606, a bill received from the House, which would increase American job creation and economic growth by improving access to public capital markets for emerging growth companies; I further ask unanimous consent that the bill remain the pending business to the exclusion of all other business until disposed of.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. REID. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, I know when people talk, they are always afraid people aren't listening. Maybe my friend the Republican leader's intention was diverted from my presentation this morning.

There is nothing to fight about. I just said we are going to move to this bill as quickly as we can. I said I have heard that the ranking member of the Banking Committee wants to take a look at this. I encourage him to do so and to talk to Senator JOHNSON. I said we are going to have an opportunity to vote on a perfecting amendment—something I thought everyone wanted; Republicans want it, Democrats want it, the business community wants it, the workers of this country need it—to reauthorize the Ex-Im Bank which goes out of business at the end of May. That will slow this bill up maybe a half an hour—one-half hour.

I have said many times, if we are going to have a fight, make it over something worthwhile. There is nothing to fight about here. We are going to move to this as quickly as we can. We know that under the rules of the Senate, we have to vote on 17 judges who have been held up, one of those back to October of last year. So I would be happy to get rid of all of those judges, to have them approved, and move to this bill. We are going to move this bill as quickly as possible.

My friend the Republican leader spoke volumes when he said this is a small but important bill. We realize that. Those are his words. This is an IPO bill dealing with initial public offerings. We have heard for months and months that small businesses can't find capital to do the things they need to do. This bill is a step in that direction. I support it. My caucus will support it. So I tell everyone within the sound of my voice: We are going to move to this bill as quickly as we can. I object.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection is heard.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, not to continue the debate interminably, but it is a question of priorities. We can agree that we ought to pass this jobs bill. Certainly if it were called up, it would be open for amendment and the majority leader could offer the Ex-Im Bank amendment if he chose, and other Senators could as well. But it is a question of priorities: Do we want to have a big fight in the Senate over procedure—and we have had some procedural differences which I will address not right now but later—relating to the confirmation of judges, which is the responsibility of the Senate under the Constitution of the United States, or do we want to turn immediately to a jobs bill that we overwhelmingly agree to, as the majority leader has conceded in his remarks?

It is a question of priorities. Do we want to have the Senate in a big fight over procedure after we finish the highway bill or do we want to turn to an overwhelmingly bipartisan jobs bill supported by the President and passed by the House? It is a question of priorities. What do we want to do next for the American people?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I am stunned by a controversy over nothing. Under the rules of the Senate, we filed cloture, because there has been stalling and obstruction on the lives of 17 people. I didn't file on the appellate judges, only trial judges. Each one of these men and women's lives has been brought to a standstill. They have the opportunity of a lifetime to be able to become a Federal trial court judge. They shouldn't have to wait until October. I say to my friend: We can approve these judges in 1 minute. Let's do that. It is not fair to say the lives of these 17 men and women are unimportant and put it over until some later time.

We have no problem with the IPO bill we got from the House. How could we? It got 390 votes in the House. The President of the United States supports it. We support it. We want to get this done and we will do it as quickly as we can. It may not be 10 minutes from now or 24 hours from now, but we are going to move to it as quickly as we can, and we can move to it very quickly. As soon as we finish this highway bill, we could move to those judges, get that issue disposed of, and then move to this. It might take an hour after the highway bill, but that is about all.

Mr. LEAHY. Will the Senator yield to me on that point?

Mr. REID. I would be happy to yield.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, when we talk about what the American people want, I am sure the majority leader—and I ask him this as a question—is aware that there are 160 million Americans who are in judicial districts where there are vacancies, because even though they have gone through the Senate Judiciary Committee, the majority leader has been blocked from bringing them to the floor, so that 160 million Americans were denied a chance for justice, denied a chance to go to court? I ask the leader, was that also one of the considerations he had on moving forward with these judges?

Mr. REID. I say to the chairman of the Judiciary Committee—and I mentioned this yesterday at some length and I believe the Presiding Officer was here when I did that—more than half of the people in America today are living in areas where there has been declared a judicial emergency. Nevada is one of them. We have courts where these judges are overwhelmed with work. I said yesterday I don't want these judges to act as if they were night court judges dealing with traffic cases. As I said yesterday, these judges deal with what we used to refer to when I practiced law as: "What are you trying to do, make a Federal case out of it?" They said that because there is no finer law dispensing anyplace in the world than in our Federal court system. And we can't do that when these men and women are overwhelmed with work.

The circuit court level is one thing. It is too bad they are overwhelmed with work. But on the trial court level, they are dealing with everyday problems that people have, including accidents, antitrust cases, businesses having gone bankrupt, and all the other things the Federal court has jurisdiction over.

My friend is absolutely right. We should not only be concerned about the 17 people who have been selected by the President of the United States to be a judge after having gotten a signoff from the Republican Senator in their State. I should have talked not only about them individually but what they represent, and that is trying to do something about the emergencies that exist for more than half of Americans.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Republican leader.

Mr. MCCONNELL. Mr. President, I think that colloquy underscores my point. My friends on the other side are concerned that the jobs of 17 individuals may be delayed for a few months. I doubt if any of them is unemployed at the moment. It is highly unlikely that any of these individuals will not be confirmed in an orderly process as we have been engaged in this year.

The issue is a question of priorities. What is more important, getting these 17 individuals into a job a little bit quicker than the majority has experienced so far or turning to a measure overwhelmingly supported by Republicans and Democrats in the House and supported by the President of the United States and that might create, in the very near future, hundreds of thousands of jobs? So it is a question of priorities. That is why I say this is a manufactured dispute.

I will have much more to say, in great detail, about the judges issue. But for the moment, the point is this, quite simply: What are our priorities? Do we want to pass an overwhelmingly bipartisan jobs bill the President supports as soon as possible—certainly open for any amendment the majority leader might seek to offer—or do we want to create a controversy over judges who are almost never denied confirmation when we have been confirming judges all along?

I don't know that there is much point to continuing this discussion any longer this morning. I will have a lot more to say about how we ended up in a situation where the majority leader is seeking to manufacture a crisis that shouldn't—a conflict or a crisis that doesn't exist.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader.

Mr. REID. Here is my idea. I have a great idea. My friend the Republican leader said these judges are all going to be approved anyway, so I have an idea. Let's go to this IPO bill immediately after we finish the highway bill, with the agreement that we will dispose of these judges immediately after that. That sounds good to me. I am happy to do that. How about that? Before my friend leaves, how about a deal on that? As soon as we finish this highway bill, we will move to the IPO bill, and as soon as we finish that and get it out of the Senate, we will then have up-or-down votes on those 17 judges. This does not include an agreement on the appellate judges. We will deal with those at a subsequent time. How about that?

Mr. MCCONNELL. I am sorry.

Mr. REID. I will say again to my friend, I would hope that what we could do is when we finish the highway bill, go to the IPO bill, and then as soon as we finish that have an up-or-down vote on these judges. I would be happy to work in any reasonable fashion.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Republican leader.

Mr. MCCONNELL. We have been discussing—this is not the best time for the debate on the judges, but the point is this: We have been processing judges. It is highly unlikely any of these district judges are not going to be confirmed. We have done a number of them this year. We have done seven this year. District judges are almost never defeated.

This is a very transparent attempt to try to slam-dunk the minority and make them look as though they are obstructing things they aren't obstructing. We object to that. We don't think that meets the standard of civility that should be expected in the Senate. So any effort to make the minority look bad or to slam-dunk them that is sort of manufactured, as this is, is going to, of course, be greeted with resistance. It could be that that is precisely what my friend the majority leader has in mind, to try to make the Senate look as though it is embroiled in controversy where no controversy exists.

So my suggestion is why don't we do first things first. First things first. And it strikes me that an overwhelming bipartisan jobs bill clearing the House would be something the American people would applaud. It is supported by the President. Why don't we take that up? The majority leader or any of us can offer any amendments we think are appropriate and move it toward passage, because that is the kind of thing people expect of us.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The majority leader.

Mr. REID. It is obvious that the jobs bill has nothing to do with the holding up of these judges as has been articulated by my friend. It is a question of stalling things, as has happened all this Congress. As indicated, more than half the American people are in areas where there are judicial emergencies. It is important we get this dispensation of justice done, and do it quickly.

The controversy on the IPO bill does not exist. There is not any. I would suggest to my friend, though, we have very many things left to do. The postal service; we do not want it to go broke. We have the Violence Against Women Act we need to get done. We have all these judges, of course. We have cybersecurity. So if we move—and I am going to move quickly—to this IPO bill, I cannot imagine why we would need any amendments.

I indicated that out of my right as majority leader, I can offer a perfecting amendment, and that would be to find out if the body feels strongly about what they have said publicly: that the Ex-Im Bank should be part of the bill. That would hold the bill up for one vote, about 15 minutes.

But in addition to that, we are not going to have a knockdown, drag-out on the IPO. If everybody loves the House bill so much, that is what we will vote on.

You have heard the expression: fill the tree. We will fill the tree and go to the IPO bill. If everybody loves it so much, we should get it to the President's desk as fast as we can.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Vermont.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I listened with interest to the colloquy between my two friends, the distinguished majority and minority leaders. It is almost—and I think the American people see it as almost—a kabuki dance because the fact is, the majority leader is right to seek votes on these district court nominees. He seeks to secure Senate votes for 17 highly qualified Federal district court nominations favorably reported by the Judiciary Committee. They are being blocked by Senate Republicans.

I wish we could find a way to stop these damaging filibusters. They are totally unprecedented. It is greatly damaging the most respected court system in the world: our Federal court system. That means Americans are not getting the justice without delay they are entitled to. We must work together to ensure that the Federal courts have the judges they need to provide justice for all Americans without needless delay.

Federal district court judges are the trial court judges who hear cases from litigants across the country and preside over Federal criminal trials, applying the law to facts and helping settle legal disputes. They handle the vast majority of the caseload of the Federal courts and are critical to making sure our Federal courts remain available to provide a fair hearing for all Americans. Nominations to fill these critical positions, whether made by a Democratic or Republican President, have always been considered with deference to the home state Senators who know the nominees and their states best, and have always been confirmed quickly with that support.

I have been here 37 years, with Republican Presidents, Democratic Presidents, Republican majorities, Democratic majorities. Never in those 37 years have we seen district court nominees blocked for months as we have seen since President Obama was elected.

These kinds of consensus nominees are normally taken up within a few days or a week after being nominated and voted out of our Judiciary Committee, whether nominated by a Democratic or a Republican President. It was certainly the approach taken by Senate Democrats when President Bush sent us consensus nominees. As a result, we were able to reduce vacancies in the Presidential election years of 2004 and 2008 to the lowest levels in decades. That was also how we confirmed 205 of President Bush's judicial nominees in his first term.

For those who want to understand where the partisanship is, here is a little bit of history. For 31 months of the first 48 months of President Bush's first term, Republicans controlled the Senate, and for 17 months, Democrats controlled the Senate. To show that we wanted to set aside partisanship, in our 17 months that we were in control, Senate Democrats helped confirm 100 of President Bush's nominees. In the 31 months Republicans were in charge, they did 105, which was slightly more nominees. But the fact is, we actually moved a lot faster on President Bush's nominees than the Republicans did.

I was chairman of the committee, and I tried to do that to get us away from what we had seen where Republicans had pocket-filibustered 60 of President Clinton's nominees. I wanted to get back to where we took politics out of the Federal courts.

But we have seen now a complete reversal of this. Senate Republicans have ensured that nominees who in the past would have been confirmed promptly by the Senate are now blocked for months. An unprecedented number of President Obama's highly qualified men and women to district courts has been targeted for opposition and obstruction while extreme outside groups tar their records and reputations with invented controversies. It is unprecedented and it hurts our system of justice in this country.

Two weeks ago, at a meeting of the Senate Judiciary Committee, the Senator from Utah conceded that a "new standard" is being applied to President Obama's nominations. He was saying out loud what has been apparent from the start of President Obama's term—that Republican Senators have applied a different and unfair standard to President Obama's judicial nominees.

I was here with President Ford, President Carter, President Reagan, President George H.W. Bush, President Clinton, President George W. Bush, and now President Obama. I can attest that Republicans have set a different standard for President Obama than has been applied to any of the other Presidents I have known since I have been here. I have to ask myself, what is so different about this President that he is treated to a different, tougher standard than any of the Presidents before him? I just ask. President Obama's district court nominees have been forced to wait more than four times as long to be confirmed by the Senate as President Bush's district court nominees at this point in his first term, taking an average of 93 days after being voted on by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

When I hear Republican Senators claim there is no obstruction and there is no reason for the majority leader to push for votes on these nominations, I wonder if they have looked at our recent history.

I spoke of President Bush's first term. Mr. President, 57 of his district court nominations were confirmed within 1 week of being favorably reported by the Judiciary Committee—1 week. In stark contrast to those 57, only 2 of President Obama's district court nominations have been confirmed within 1 week of being reported—less than one twenty fifth the number of President Bush's. More than half of the nominations for which the leader has now filed cloture have been pending since last year—many months, not days. This must be the new standard the Senator from Utah has said Senate Republicans are using for President Obama's nominations—a different standard than all the Presidents before him. I will at least praise the Senator from Utah for his honesty.

Indeed, 10 of the nominations on which the Majority Leader has been required to file cloture in order to end the Republican filibuster and get a vote have been awaiting a vote since last year. Nine of them had the support of every Republican as well as every Democratic Senator serving on the Judiciary Committee. They all should have been considered and confirmed last year.

I understand and share the Majority Leader's frustration. He has been unable to obtain the usual cooperation from the minority to schedule debates and votes on these widely supported, consensus nominees. I regret that the Majority Leader has been forced to take this action but the millions of Americans seeking justice in their courts should not be forced to wait any longer.

To understand how unusual and wrongheaded this is, consider the following: Republicans are opposing judicial nominees they support. They are stalling Senate action for weeks and months on judicial nominees who they do not oppose and who they vote to confirm once their filibuster can be ended and the vote scheduled. That is what happened after a four-month filibuster when the Senate finally voted on the nomination of Judge Barbara Keenan. That is what happened when after a five-month filibuster, the Senate finally voted on the nomination of Judge Denny Chin. Once the Republican filibusters were ended, they were confirmed unanimously. That is what happened after an eleven-month delay before confirmation of Judge Albert Diaz of North Carolina. That is what happened after seven-month delays before confirmations of Judge Kimberly Mueller of California, Judge Catherine Eagles of North Carolina, Judge John Gibney, Jr. of Virginia, and Judge Ray Lohier of New York. That is what happened after six-month delays before the confirmations of Judge James Bredar and Judge Ellen Hollander of Maryland; Judge Susan Nelson of Minnesota, Judge Scott Matheson of Utah and Judge James Wynn, Jr. of North Carolina. That is what happened after five-month delays before confirmations of Judge Nannette Brown of Louisiana, Judge Nancy Torresen of Maine, Judge William Kuntz of New York, and Judge Henry Floyd of South Carolina. This is what happened after four-month delays before the confirmations of Judge Edmond Chang of Illinois, Judge Leslie Kobayashi of Hawaii, Judge Denise Casper of Massachusetts, Judge Carlton Reeves of Mississippi, Judge John Ross of Missouri, Judge Timothy Cain of South Carolina, Judge Marina Marmolejo of Texas, Judge Beverly Martin of Georgia, Judge Joseph Greenaway of New Jersey, Judge Mary Murguia of Arizona, and Judge Chris Droney of Connecticut.

So, too, I expect the district court nominee to fill a judicial emergency vacancy in Utah, supported by Senator HATCH, will not be controversial once the vote takes place. The district court nominees to fill judicial emergency vacancies in Texas, supported by Senator HUTCHISON and Senator CORNYN, should easily be confirmed. The nominees to judicial emergency vacancies in Illinois supported by Senator KIRK, should not be controversial. The district court nominee in Louisiana supported by Senator VITTER, should not be controversial. The district court nominee in Missouri supported by Senator BLUNT, should not be controversial. The district court nominee in Arkansas supported by Senator BOOZMAN, should not be controversial. The district court nominee in Massachusetts supported by Senator BROWN, should not be controversial. The district court nominee in South Carolina supported by Senator GRAHAM, should not be controversial. The district court nominee in Ohio supported by Senator PORTMAN, should not be controversial.

Senate Democrats never applied this standard to President Bush's district court nominees, whether we were in the majority or the minority. During his eight years in office, President Bush saw only five of his district court nominees have any opposition on the floor and that opposition had to do with doubts about those nominees' suitability to be Federal judges. After only three years, 19 of President Obama's district court nominees have already received opposition. Even though President Obama has worked with Republican and Democratic home state Senators to identify highly-qualified, consensus nominees, his district court nominees have already received more than five times as many "no" votes in three years as President Bush's district court nominees did in his eight years over his two terms. This is further proof of the Republicans' new standard.

I find that reprehensible. It means President Obama's nominees are being treated differently than any Presidents, Democratic or Republican, before him. It is no accident that 1 out of every 10 Federal judgeships remains vacant in the fourth year of President Obama's first term. It is not happenstance that judicial vacancies are nearly double what they were at this point in President Bush's first term. The extended crisis in judicial vacancies is the result of deliberate obstruction and delays by Senate Republicans.

A few years after Republican Senators insisted that filibusters of President Bush's judicial nominees were unconstitutional, they reversed course and filibustered President Obama's very first judicial nomination, that of Judge David Hamilton of Indiana, a widely-respected 15-year veteran of the Federal bench who had the support of the most senior and longest-serving Republican in the Senate, Senator LUGAR. The Senate rejected that filibuster and Judge Hamilton was confirmed, but the pattern of partisan obstruction of President Obama's judicial nominees was set from the very start.

That is wrong—that is wrong—and that is turning your back on a majority of Americans who voted for President Obama in the last election, Americans from all across the country, of all backgrounds, of all races, of all religions—to turn your back on them by saying: You may have elected him, but we are going to hold him to a different standard. It is wrong.

At the end of each of the last two years, the Senate Republican leadership continued this obstruction by ignoring long-established precedent and refusing to agree to schedule votes on dozens of consensus judicial nominees before the December recess. Last year it took us until June to confirm nominees who should have been confirmed in 2010. This year we have had to end two more of the nine Republican filibusters of President Obama's judicial nominations to confirm nominees who should have been confirmed the year before and fully a dozen judicial nominees from last year remain to be considered. And here we are in the middle of March, having to fight to hold votes on 10 district court nominees who should have been confirmed last year.

This obstruction is purposeful and it is damaging. The people who bear the brunt of this Republican obstruction are the American people. The result of the Senate Republicans' obstruction is that the ability of our Federal courts to provide justice to Americans around the country is compromised. Millions of Americans, who are in overburdened districts and circuits, experience unnecessary delays in having their cases resolved. Nearly one hundred and sixty million Americans live in districts or circuits that have a judicial vacancy that could be filled today if Senate Republicans would just agree to vote on the nominations now pending on the Senate calendar. It is wrong to delay votes on qualified, consensus judicial nominees.

Our courts need qualified Federal judges, not vacancies, if they are to reduce the excessive wait times that burden litigants seeking their day in court. It is unacceptable for hard-working Americans who turn to their courts for justice to suffer unnecessary delays. When an injured plaintiff sues to help cover the cost of his or her medical expenses, that plaintiff should not have to wait three years before a judge hears the case. When two small business owners disagree over a contract, they should not have to wait years for a court to resolve their dispute.

When Senate Democrats opposed some of President Bush's most ideological nominees, we did so openly, saying why we opposed them. At the same time, we continued to move consensus nominees quickly so they could begin serving the American people. That is what I did as Chairman for 17 months during the first two years of the Bush administration and how we were able to lower judicial vacancies by confirming 100 of his circuit and district court nominees. That is how we reduced vacancies in the presidential election years of 2004 and 2008 to the lowest levels in decades, half of what they are now. That is how we had already confirmed 172 of President Bush's circuit and district nominees by this point in his first term, as compared to only 131 of President Obama's and being 40 confirmations and nine months behind the pace we set then. We did so because we put the needs of the American people before partisanship and obstruction.

We had another discussion of these matters in the Senate Judiciary Committee two weeks ago. Senator COBURN said that this is "exactly what makes Americans sick of what we are doing." I agree. I have been saying for some time that this needless obstruction is what has driven approval ratings of Congress down to single digits. The Senator from Oklahoma observed that it would behoove us all to get back to the days when these lower court judicial nominations were not areas of partisan conflict. I agree. I have tried to do my part in that regard by treating Republican Senators fairly and protecting their rights. President Obama has done his part by consulting with Republican home state Senators and selecting moderate, well-qualified nominees. It is time for Senate Republicans to do their part and not abuse their rights under our Senate rules and procedures. It is time for them to end the partisan stalling. It is time for Senate Republicans to agree to schedule votes on these long-delayed and much-needed judges.

Once we have overcome these unprecedented filibusters of President Obama's district court nominations, I hope that it will not take more delays and more cloture petitions to end the filibusters against the five outstanding nominees by President Obama to fill vacancies on our Federal circuit courts. Two delayed from last year are outstanding women: Stephanie Dawn Thacker of West Virginia, nominated to the Fourth Circuit, and Judge Jacqueline Nguyen of California, nominated to fill one of the many judicial emergency vacancies on the Ninth Circuit. Ms. Thacker, an experienced litigator and prosecutor, has the strong support of her home state Senators, Senators ROCKEFELLER and MANCHIN. Judge Nguyen, whose family fled to the United States in 1975 after the fall of South Vietnam, was confirmed unanimously to the district court in 2009 and would become the first Asian Pacific American woman to serve on a U.S. Court of Appeals. Last week, The Sacramento Bee ran an editorial about Judge Nguyen's nomination that noted that "for those of us in the real world particularly those seeking justice in the federal courts—it would be far, far better if these qualified jurists could get to work." I will ask unanimous consent that the article be printed in the RECORD. Both Ms. Thacker and Judge Nguyen were reported unanimously by the Judiciary Committee last year and both should be considered and confirmed by the Senate without additional damaging delays.

I hope Republicans and Democrats can join together to put an end to this damaging pattern of obstruction and filibusters. It hurts our Federal courts. It is a disrespect to the President of the United States. It goes way beyond partisanship. But it is wrong, and it demeans this great body we are all privileged to serve in. This is the sort of thing I never thought I would see in the Senate of the United States. I say that based on 37 years of experience with Senators I have admired and have publicly stated I have admired in both parties. This is wrong. Let's go back and let the Senate be the conscience of the Nation, not a body that reflects some of the worst instincts of our Nation.

I ask unanimous consent that the article to which I refereed be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Sacramento Bee, Mar. 6, 2012]

JUSTICE DELAYED AS JUDGE NOMINEES WAIT

Republicans in the U.S. Senate are once again using President Barack Obama's judicial nominations as pawns in their political chess match.

There's even loose talk of putting off votes as long as possible, in hopes that Obama loses in November and the seats can be filled by a Republican president.

That's absurd.

There are too many vacancies on federal courts in California and other states, where there aren't enough judges to handle the caseloads. Too often, justice delayed really is justice denied.

Democratic leader Harry Reid of Nevada is apparently so fed up that he's willing to go to war to get confirmation votes on the Senate floor, Politico reports.

Good for him. The Republicans deserve to be called out on their obstructionism—and their hypocrisy, since they often complain about how slow the federal courts are.

The focus is on 14 qualified nominees who won bipartisan support in the Senate Judiciary Committee, including two from California who were unanimously approved but have been on hold for months.

One is Jacqueline Nguyen of Los Angeles, who was nominated by Obama last September for the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and endorsed by the judiciary panel on Dec. 1. The first Vietnamese-American woman to serve as a federal judge, she was 10 when her family fled Vietnam at the end of the war. They started as refugees in Camp Pendleton and made their own version of the American Dream.

The second is Michael Fitzgerald, who was nominated last July for a judgeship in the Central District of California and received committee approval on Nov. 3. A Los Angeles attorney and former federal prosecutor, he would become the first openly gay federal judge in the state and the fourth nationwide.

Both those courts are in an official "judicial emergency" because cases are so backed up.

There are two more recent nominations for 9th Circuit seats that have gone through the Judiciary Committee. Paul Watford, a Los Angeles attorney and former prosecutor, was approved on a 10-6 vote on Feb. 2. Andrew Hurwitz, an Arizona Supreme Court justice, was approved on a 13-5 vote Thursday.

The San Francisco-based 9th Circuit is a particular target for Republicans, who like to rail against what they call its liberal, activist bent. Their delaying tactics succeeded in forcing Goodwin Liu, a highly regarded UC Berkeley law professor who grew up in Sacramento, to withdraw his nomination last July. (Gov. Jerry Brown then nominated him to the California Supreme Court, where Liu now serves.)

It must be said that there are also political advantages for Obama if the delays continue. It would give him more ammunition to campaign against a "do-nothing Congress." Given the ways of Washington, that may be the most likely scenario.

But for those of us in the real world—particularly those seeking justice in the federal courts—it would be far, far better if these qualified jurists could get to work.

Mr. LEAHY. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Will the Senator suspend?

Mr. LEAHY. Yes.

RESERVATION OF LEADER TIME

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, the leadership time is reserved.

MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will now be a period of morning business for 1 hour, with Senators permitted to speak therein for up to 10 minutes each, with the time equally divided and controlled between the two leaders or their designees, with the majority controlling the first half and the Republicans controlling the final half.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, unless the Senator from California seeks recognition—

Mrs. BOXER. I do.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, I yield for the Senator from California.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from California.

SURFACE TRANSPORTATION ACT

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I thought I could give Senators and those who may be following this very elongated debate on the highway bill an update as to where we are. We have a managers' package we are hoping to approve momentarily. It is a bipartisan package. We continue to work across the aisle. Under the consent, we want to move forward with that. We had, I believe, a holdup yesterday. We are working to find out why. But we are very hopeful that will move forward. Then we have a series of votes on amendments, beginning at about noon. So at 11:30 or so, we will be back on the bill.

I want to say to my friends on the other side of the aisle and to my friends on this side of the aisle that we are making great progress. This is a jobs bill. This is a major jobs bill. This is the biggest jobs bill.

They passed an IPO bill over there in the House. ERIC CANTOR is saying it is a jobs bill. I do not know how many jobs it will create. It is an investor bill. It is good; I am for it. But it does not come anywhere close to the bill we are working on today. Because on March 31, if we do not act on this transportation bill, everything will come to a screeching halt, if I might use that analogy. Because there will not be a gas tax anymore going into the Federal highway trust fund, there will not be any funds going from the Federal Government to the various planning organizations in all of our States and communities.

All of us know that since the days of President Eisenhower we have had a national system for roads, bridges, highways, and so on. So we have a lot of work to do here. I want to say, we are very close to the day when everything will stop. So I think we are making great progress.

I know the majority leader and the minority leader talked about finishing this bill today. That means a lot of cooperation because we have to get through about 20 amendments plus a managers' package. I think we can do it. I know we can do it.

Then, frankly, we can actually go home and tell our people we voted on a huge jobs bill. How huge? We are going to protect 1.8 million jobs, and a lot of construction jobs. I have often told people that the unemployment rate among construction workers is way higher than the general population. Our unemployment rate is about 8.3 percent. We have a 15-, 16-, 17-percent unemployment rate among construction workers.

And God bless this President. He has worked so hard on making sure we have set the table for job growth. We have had terrific job growth, but even with those 200,000-plus jobs created last month, construction jobs actually went down.

So we are looking at an industry that is in a great deal of trouble. It is because of the housing market. It is still not stabilized. Until we solve our housing crisis—and, again, the administration and the Congress are trying to do everything to allow people to stay in their homes so we don't keep having defaults, houses on the market, short sales, and all the rest. Once that is behind us, we will see a whole new day for construction. But that day isn't here.

It would be a dereliction of our duty if we fail to pass this bill because we will save 1.8 million jobs. That is how many people are working as a result of our ongoing transportation action. We have to save that. Then because of some very good work done in my home State, particularly in Los Angeles, we have come up with a new way to create an additional 1 million jobs by leveraging a program called the TIFIA Program, transportation infrastructure financing. It means as our State and our local areas pass, say, a sales tax to build transit or roads or highways, we, the Federal Government, can front that money at virtually zero risk and leverage these funds threefold.

In this bill we would be protecting 1.8 million jobs and creating up to 1 million new jobs because of the TIFIA Program. I want to say this bill is a bipartisan effort—hugely bipartisan.

I just talked to Senator INHOFE late last evening. We talked about the fact that we don't want to have it held up anymore. We want to move it through, and we are going to move it through. We are very pleased.

Anyone who follows politics knows Senator INHOFE is one of the most conservative Members of the Senate, and I am one of the most liberal Members of the Senate. We are both very proud of who we are and comfortable with who we are. We know when it comes to some things we don't see eye to eye. There will be many more opportunities to see how we disagree on issues, such as clean air, clean water, safe drinking water, superfund, climate change, and all that. But we are on the highway bill. We hope this will become a template for us in the Senate and the House to find a sweet spot where we can work together. We are right there. A little bit more work and we know we have done our jobs. It could come today—I hope it will come today—but it will come late today because there are many amendments to get through.

I want to make my last comment about what is happening in the House. The House passed an IPO bill, initial public offering. I support that approach. I think it would be a great way to get more capital into the hands of businesses and enable them to hire people. It is a good bill. We are going to work on it. But the House has done nothing about the Transportation bill. Speaker BOEHNER has tried. He has had many efforts to bring people to the table. But the trouble is he has only brought to the table one political party. We have to work together. Senator INHOFE and I could never have gotten this bill to where it is if we stood in our corners and concentrated on the areas where we had disagreement. There were plenty of those, but we set those aside.

I say to the Members of the House, there is a secret to success, which is taking your hand and reaching it across the aisle and finding common ground with your colleagues. If you lose a bunch of Republicans and Democrats, you still have enough to get a bill through.

Our bill, though not perfect, does what we have to do. We protect 1.8 million jobs, mostly in construction. We create up to 1 million jobs. We took a bill that had 90 different programs and brought it down to 30 programs. We have a managers' package of very bipartisan issues that we have resolved.

I will probably be back on the floor within an hour to debate the two amendments that will be pending, the Bingaman amendment and the DeMint amendment. I will speak out on those amendments.

I thank the occupant of the chair for his support. He has been a real good friend and has helped us move this bill forward. I know this bill is important to his home State of Delaware, as it is important to Tennessee and to California. I have a list of jobs by State that we would lose if we fail to act. That is the bad news. The good news is we are going to act. I will be back in short order.

I yield the floor.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Tennessee is recognized.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, is it appropriate for me to speak as in morning business for a few minutes?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. President, I listened with great interest to the Senator from California. I thank her for her hard work on the Transportation bill and her work with Senator INHOFE. I listened especially to her comments that it would be good for us to work well together. It reminds me of our new Speaker of the House of Representatives in Tennessee, Beth Harwell. She does a pretty good job, and she often reminds her colleagues in the Tennessee Legislature that the first lesson they all learned in kindergarten is to work well together. That is a good lesson for us as well.

I will take 4 or 5 minutes to simply talk about a development I think interferes with that. I came to the Senate floor with a group of Republicans and Democrats not long ago. We praised the majority leader, Senator REID, and the Republican leader, Senator MCCONNELL, for their working together to try to bring the appropriations bills to the floor. We said we are going to work together to help them do that because a majority leader cannot lead if we don't follow. We complimented them for the work on the Transportation bill, which hasn't been easy, but we are having a lot of votes today. We will offer our ideas and make votes.

It was disappointing to me yesterday to see the majority leader announce that he had filed 17 cloture motions on district judges. I am here simply as one Senator to say respectfully to the majority leader that I hope he will reconsider and not do that. That is an unprecedented action. It has never happened like that before. In the history of the Senate, before 2011, a majority leader had filed cloture motions on district judges only three times.

What has happened with district judges in the history of the Senate? They come up, get a vote, and there has never been a successful filibuster of a district judge because of a cloture vote. Let me emphasize that. There has never been a successful attempt to deny an up-or-down vote to a district judge by opposing cloture in the history of the Senate.

That was proven again last year with a judge from Rhode Island, Judge McConnell, who many believed should not be a judge. There were enough Republicans who did not take the opportunity to deny an up-or-down vote that he was confirmed even though many on this side didn't think he ought to be a judge. So we don't have a problem with filibustering district judges, and we have never had one with filibusters of district judges, at least given the present composition of the Senate.

What is the issue? Senator REID, the majority leader, said quite properly in his remarks yesterday that we have important work to do. We have a jobs bill coming from the House, a Postal Service that is in debt, and we have cybersecurity—we are having long briefings on that because of the threat.

The leaders are working to bring the appropriations bills to the floor. We have only done that twice since 2000—all 12 of them. So this is a little disagreement we have between the majority leader and the Republican leader on the scheduling of votes on district judges. It is not a high constitutional matter. It is not even a high principle. It is not even a big disagreement. It is a little one. What has always happened is in the back and forth of scheduling, and they work it out. They have been working it out.

In the first 2 years of the Obama administration, he nominated 78 district judges, and 76 of those were confirmed—76 of 78 nominated in the first 2 years. He withdrew two. Last year, 61 more district judges were confirmed. What about 2012? The President has made a few nominations, but they haven't been considered yet by the Judiciary Committee. We do have 17 district court judgeships reported by the Judiciary Committee. They could be brought up by the majority leader. He has the right to do that. But of those 17, 6 of them have been reported by the Judiciary Committee for less than 30 days. They just got here. That leaves 11. How long have they been there? They came in October, November, and December of last year. Normally, they would have been included in the year-end clearing.

Everybody knows what happened. The year-end clearing was thrown off track because the President threatened to make controversial recess appointments. Ultimately, the President decided to violate the Reid rule, which used pro-forma sessions every three days to break the Senate's recesses and block recess appointments. That was invented by the majority leader, Senator REID. President Bush didn't like it, but he respected it. President Obama violated it, and it blew up the year-end clearing of a number of nominees, including district judges.

We have some district judges waiting to be confirmed, but we don't have many. We have a history of confirming 76 out of 78 nominated during the first 2 years of this President, and last year, confirming 61. This year, of the 17 the majority leader filed the cloture motions on, 6 of them just got here. So that leaves 11. What do we do about that?

The right thing to do is that the majority leader and the Republican leader should listen to what the Senator from California just said, listen to the Speaker of the House from Tennessee; that is, work well together rather than escalating this into a highly principled, big disagreement, and retire to one of their offices and sit down quietly, take a timeout and work this out. That is the way it has always been done.

We are only talking about 11 judges. They have not been around that long—less than 5 months. We all know why they were delayed a little bit. The President can take just as much responsibility as anybody. In testimony this week, the Attorney General acknowledged the issue of the recess appointments made on January 4 is a serious constitutional issue that needs to be decided by the courts. While that is being done, we have not tried to stop the action of the Senate, even though we regard it as a great offense to the checks and balances and the separation of powers.

I respectfully suggest it is not a good time for the majority leader to take a small disagreement and escalate it into a big one, jeopardizing our ability to deal with big issues on jobs, cybersecurity, the Postal Service, and others. It would not reflect well on the 23 candidates running for the Democratic Senate seats this year or on the 11 Republicans running for Senate seats this year, and it would not reflect well on the President.

The American people want to see us get results. Why should we give them one more reason to suspect that just because we can't agree on little issues, we are unable to agree on the big issues? I know the job of the majority leader is a tough job, and there is a good deal of back and forth every day. The majority leader has been on both sides of this issue. I suspect if he and the Republican leader were to sit down and look over the actual numbers and realize it is just 11 judges—we confirmed 2 last week—they could schedule the others and we could spend our time, starting tomorrow, not picking a fight with one another on the small disagreements, but on jobs, debt, the Postal Service, cybersecurity, and the big issues the American people would like us to deal with.

I ask unanimous consent that some documentation about the progress of district judge nominations of the 111th and 112th Congress be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. MANCHIN). Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that I be permitted to speak for up to 10 minutes as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

NAT GAS ACT

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I have come to the floor to talk about an amendment I will offer later today—the NAT GAS Act.

What if I were to tell the Chair there was a transportation fuel that is over $1.50 cheaper than gasoline and roughly $2 cheaper than diesel? What if I were to tell the Chair this fuel is also cleaner and has fewer smog-causing pollutants than diesel and, if wisely used, could reduce the cases of asthma and lung cancer?

What if I were to tell the Chair this fuel is abundant right here in America, so much so that we may soon become one of the world's largest exporters of this fuel? I think I might hear him say:

Sign me up. What is the name of this wonderful fuel? The name of this fuel is natural gas.

We can see in this chart that as gasoline prices are already skyrocketing toward $4 per gallon, the price of compressed natural gas is barely above $2 equivalent. Natural gas prices used to follow oil prices, but now they are on their own stable, inexpensive price levels. The same holds true for liquefied natural gas. As we can see, gas prices here, liquefied natural gas down here. Diesel prices now exceed $4, and LNG is still hovering around a $2 equivalent

Why aren't we all driving around in natural gas vehicles, paying a little over $2 per gallon equivalent? The reason this inexpensive fuel is not widely used is because there are not many natural gas vehicles in the United States, and there are also very few places to refuel. Currently, there are nearly 14 million natural gas vehicles in the world but only about 117,000 in the United States. The car and truck manufacturers want to see that the natural gas utilities will invest in refueling infrastructure, and the natural gas utilities want to see more natural gas vehicles on the road. It is a classic chicken-or-the-egg problem.

What both the manufacturers and the utilities need to see is a strong stance by the Federal Government to jump-start this market.

The NAT GAS Act will do that by jump-starting the industry and, in 10 years, add over 700,000 natural gas vehicles to our roads and help incentivize the installation of refueling stations around the Nation. In addition, it is estimated the bill will displace over 20 billion gallons of petroleum fuel and create over 1 million direct and indirect jobs.

I know what some of my colleagues are thinking: Isn't this just another handout to energy companies? The answer to that question is a resounding no. This legislation is fully paid for with a small fee on natural gas used as a vehicle fuel. As I mentioned earlier, natural gas is over $1.50 cheaper than gasoline or diesel. This amendment would use some of those savings to help overcome the market barriers for natural gas vehicles and supporting infrastructure. The fee starts at 2.5 cents per gallon equivalent in 2014 and grows to be 12.5 cents in 2020 and 2021. In 2022, the fee is eliminated. In this way, we can still keep natural gas less expensive than other fuel options, while investing in infrastructure to help grow the market, make natural gas vehicles cheaper, and put the industry on a path to flourish on its own.

While the legislation itself is designed to provide a temporary boost, it is important to note that the natural gas supplies we are sitting on are enormous. North America's natural gas resource discoveries have more than doubled over the past 4 years, meaning that at the current rate of consumption, this resource could supply current consumption for over 100 years. If we do not use our natural gas here in America, it will be exported abroad, benefiting consumers in other countries, while American families will continue to pay higher prices at the pump. Already, one U.S. facility has received a permit to export natural gas and four more are following suit. We can use that natural gas in the United States to displace oil. We are sending trillions of dollars abroad to countries that are despotic and wish us ill or we can export it so other countries can gain the benefits. I say we use it here.

The NAT GAS Act will also increase our Nation's energy independence and make us less dependent on regimes that do not have America's interests at heart. This is especially important at a time when Iran is attempting to develop a nuclear weapon and is threatening to block oil supplies. Natural gas is not the only solution, but it can be an important part of a solution that will allow us to ignore future OPEC threats because we have alternatives to oil. But until we get to that point, we need to do all we can to supplant oil.

It is also important to note that natural gas vehicles are an important way to improve air quality. According to the EPA, natural gas as a vehicle fuel has very low emissions of ozone-forming hydrocarbons, toxins, and carbon monoxide. By producing less of these harmful emissions, natural gas vehicles can reduce smog in our cities and lower incidents of asthma and lung cancer. These health benefits are one reason why Los Angeles County has made almost its entire fleet of 2,200 buses run on compressed natural gas.

Let me talk about one issue some are concerned about. While natural gas vehicles can have important environmental and health benefits, we must also keep in mind that natural gas is still a fossil fuel and there are serious risks that need to be weighed when it is extracted. For that reason, I think we need to do better to regulate a practice called fracking. I also believe these risks mean that certain environmentally sensitive areas remain off-limits for fracking, and I will continue to work with my colleagues, such as Senator CASEY, to better formulate Federal rules to protect our drinking water from possible contamination. At the same time, we should not kid ourselves. This amendment will not cause natural gas vehicles to be the main driver of natural gas demand, and fracking is used to extract oil as well. So voting against this amendment will not reduce the amount of fracking.

We cannot let this opportunity to use this cheaper fuel to increase our energy security, improve our air quality, and relieve the pain at the pump slip by. It is time to put in place the temporary, fully paid for incentives of the NAT

GAS Act to allow the natural gas vehicle industry to flourish. Remember, if one votes against this amendment, they cannot go home and tell their constituents that they have done everything they can to reduce gas prices.

I hope our colleagues will join us when the time comes to offer the amendment on the floor and to support it.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TOLLING FEDERAL HIGHWAYS

Mrs. HUTCHISON. Mr. President, I want to speak for a moment about an important issue that is going to be addressed on the highway bill. I have an amendment that would basically say you cannot toll a Federal highway unless it is for the production of another free lane. This is an effort to curb a State from tolling every lane of a highway that has been built with Federal dollars by Federal taxpayers.

When President Eisenhower established the National Highway System, it was on behalf of national security that he made this monumental policy decision which has taken us years, tens of years to complete. It has had the added advantage of commerce—having a National Highway System where all of our States are connected with good quality Federal highways has been a huge boon for our country. That has been funded through highway user fees. The gasoline tax that everyone pays at the pump in our country has funded our Federal highway system.

However, the Federal highway system has now been completed. For a State to come in and toll every lane of an existing Federal highway is not only disingenuous, but it breaks faith with the Federal taxpayers who, for over 50 years, have paid into the highway trust fund so we would have a Federal highway system for all Americans and for the commerce among our States for them to use. Now, we have three States that have been approved by the Department of Transportation to do exactly what I wish to prohibit—toll lanes of an existing Federal highway. That would prohibit the free use of that whole highway that has been built with Federal dollars. My amendment would keep us from going beyond the three. The amendment is two. I would extend it to three because there are three that the Department of Transportation has approved, but I want to stop this practice from going further. It is wrong for the Federal Government to allow it, it is wrong for the States to ask for it. Instead, we need to allow the opposite, the opt-out ability for a State to say we want to spend our highway dollars on our priorities. That is what we ought to be doing.

I do not disagree with tolls that are going to create a new free lane. That would keep the faith with the people. It would expand the system and the people would be paying to expand the system. That can be done in an effective and, frankly, a responsible way. On the issue of allowing States to opt-out—Senator PORTMAN has put in an amendment that I would support, except that he goes a little bit too far. Senator PORTMAN and Senator COBURN have amendments that would allow an opt-out from the whole Federal highway fund, which includes transit. I think that goes too far.

I have a bill that would allow the opt-out of States that would be able to spend their highway funds the way they believe their priorities are set, but the 20 percent of the highway trust fund that goes for transit I think should be kept for the urban areas that need that kind of bus transportation, as well as intra-city and commuter rail. I think we ought to be able to keep that at the Federal level to determine what are the worthy grants. That is what the highway trust fund now does.

The Portman amendment would take that away and put it into the State highway department. That sounds good on the surface, but highway departments have, in general—certainly I can speak from the experience of my State—not focused on or prioritized mass transit. This is one of the reasons why our cities in Texas are clogged—and in Houston and Dallas and San Antonio and Austin it is getting worse.

I wish to see those cities be assured that transit funding would go forward as it is envisioned or I would be happy to amend my bill to say the 20 percent of transit funding could be opted out but it would have to go for transit funding in the States and the States could then set the priorities. But transit should not be shortchanged by the highway departments that have not prioritized mass transit.

I think we need to work a little more. I could not support the Portman amendment the way it is written, but I want to gather the people who believe that we should have an opt-out of our highway funds and get a stronger mass—which I think Senator COBURN and Senator PORTMAN would do, if they would take the transit out of their amendment.

I think we have some work to do. I wish to support the Portman amendment but not in the form it is at present. I hope down the road other States will want to be able to opt out as well. But for now, I hope we will be able to stop the tolling of our Federal highways as a first step to keep faith with the American taxpayers who, for 50 years, have built the Federal highway system and deserve to be able to drive to any State on a Federal highway without being shut out by States that decide to put a toll on it for their own purposes. These are Federal highways built with Federal tax dollars and they should be open to every taxpayer in America to use those freeways for commerce. I hope my amendment will be considered.

I yield the floor and suggest the absence of a quorum.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

CONCLUSION OF MORNING BUSINESS

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Morning business is now closed.

Blunt/Casey amendment No. 1540, to modify the section relating to off-system bridges.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I know Senator BINGAMAN is here, so I will ask a quick unanimous consent that the time until noon be equally divided between the two leaders or their designees, that there be 2 minutes equally divided prior to each vote, and all votes after the first vote following the recess be 10-minute votes.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mrs. BOXER. I yield the floor.

AMENDMENT 1759

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I believe the second amendment that we will be voting on here right after lunch or right after noon is the amendment that Senator DURBIN and I are proposing related to privatized toll roads. When a State privatizes an existing toll road, it shifts to a private company all responsibility for operations and maintenance in exchange for a cash payment, essentially. Under existing law, privatized toll roads are still included in the calculation of how much each State receives in Federal highway funds.

In my view, it does not make good sense for a State to be credited with Federal highway funding needed to maintain that road once it has been shifted out of the public sphere to a private entity and the private entity has taken on the legal responsibility to operate and maintain the road. The amendment would simply remove these privatized toll roads from consideration when we allocate highway funds.

The amendment is very narrow. It applies only when a State sells off an existing toll road. It does not apply at all to any new construction. When I say it sells off an existing toll road, I mean that it enters into a lease—in most cases a lease of 75 years or more—with a private entity to operate a toll road and collect the tolls and maintain the road.

The amendment has the support of the American Automobile Association and the American Trucking Association. I think it is good legislation. It also has the support of the Owner-Operators Independent Drivers Association and American Highway Users Alliance. This is a modest change in the law governing the allocation of Federal funds for highways, but I think it is a commonsense proposal that should be supported by the Members of the Senate.

I hope very much we can adopt this amendment when it comes to a vote.

As I say, it is not the first amendment that we are going to consider for this bill; it is the second of the two votes prior to the recess for the weekly caucuses.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to call up the amendment I have just been speaking about, amendment No. 1759, and ask that the clerk report the amendment by number.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Mexico [Mr. BINGAMAN] proposes an amendment numbered 1759.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To remove privatized highways from consideration in apportioning highway funding among States)

On page 51, between lines 16 and 17, insert the following:

“(C) FURTHER ADJUSTMENT FOR PRIVATIZED HIGHWAYS.—

“(i) DEFINITION OF PRIVATIZED HIGHWAY.—In this subparagraph:

“(I) IN GENERAL.—The term ‘privatized highway’ means a highway that was formerly a publically operated toll road that is subject to an agreement giving a private entity—

“(aa) control over the operation of the highway; and “(bb) ownership over the toll revenues collected from the operation of the highway.

“(II) EXCLUSION.—The term ‘privatized highway’ does not include any highway or toll road that was originally—

“(aa) financed and constructed using private funds; and “(bb) operated by a private entity.

“(ii) ADJUSTMENT.—After making the adjustments to the apportionment of a State under subparagraphs (A) and (B), the Secretary shall further adjust the amount to be apportioned to the State by reducing the apportionment by an amount equal to the product obtained by multiplying—

“(I) the amount to be apportioned to the State, as so adjusted under those subparagraphs; and “(II) the percentage described in clause (iii).

“(iii) PERCENTAGE.—The percentage referred to in clause (ii) is the percentage equal to the sum obtained by adding—

“(I) the product obtained by multiplying—

“(aa) ½; and

“(bb) the proportion that—

“(AA) the total number of lane miles on privatized highway lanes on National Highway System routes in a State; bears to “(BB) the total number of all lane miles on National Highway System routes in the State; and

“(II) the product obtained by multiplying—

“(aa) ½; and

“(AA) the total number of vehicle miles traveled on privatized highway lanes on National Highway System routes in the State; bears to “(BB) the total number of vehicle miles traveled on all lanes on National Highway System routes in the State.

“(iv) REAPPORTIONMENT.—An amount withheld from apportionment to a State under clause (ii) shall be reapportioned among all other States based on the proportions calculated under subparagraph (A).

Mr. DURBIN. The Senate will vote today on the Bingaman-Durbin amendment to the Transportation bill. This amendment will help protect taxpayers when local governments sell or lease public roads and bridges.

The Federal Government provides States and local governments billions of dollars to build, maintain, and improve transportation projects across the country. Federal funding has helped build and maintain roads when local and State governments couldn't afford construction or upkeep on their own. Federal taxpayers have picked up the tab for millions of transportation projects across the country.

The Senate Transportation bill provides States with an average of $40 billion per year to help them upgrade their roads and bridges. These Federal investments have created thousands of jobs and helped our economy. But the temptation to cash in on these projects is great, particularly as States and cities are looking under every rock to find new sources of revenue. Some local governments and States are interested in selling or leasing their highways.

Private hedge funds, banks and investment groups offer States and local governments large, lump sum payments in exchange for the complete control of critical transportation assets. Local governments receive massive, upfront payments to help them fund other local priorities. The private financiers get complete control of a highway for decades—sometimes for as long as 99 years. Sometimes those private entities are able to provide responsible upkeep of the asset over the long run. But too often, the services are reduced, prices go up, and maintenance isn't all it should be. The Federal taxpayer is left holding the bag.

Privatization deals like this set up a turn-key operation where the Federal taxpayer pays for critical infrastructure improvements, only to have local governments turn around and sell or lease this infrastructure for a one-time payment they keep themselves. All levels of governments are facing serious budget shortfalls. The Federal Government shouldn't incentivize local and State governments to make rash, short-term decisions that lease transportation projects for generations just to solve temporary budget shortfalls.

The Bingaman-Durbin amendment will ensure taxpayers are not paying States twice for highways that are sold or leased to private operators. Highway funding has historically been distributed through complex formulas that include the number of lane miles of major roads in each State and the amount of traffic on those roads.

The FHWA formulas are meant to help States pay for the maintenance and upkeep of those roads. However, when States sell or lease their highways, they are paid massive lump sums in exchange for transferring responsibility for maintenance to the private operators. But the road miles and traffic counts on the privatized highway still contribute to each State's formula funding.

The current highway formulas do not take into account how many roads are privatized in each State so the Federal Government continues to pay States for maintaining roads they have handed off to private operators. It doesn't make sense for States to be credited with and given Federal highway funding for privatized toll roads, which it no longer operates or maintains. The private operators of leased roads also get a generous tax benefit from depreciating the road as an asset.

The CBO has found this depreciation reduces Federal revenues and has a negative impact on our deficit. These deals set up a double whammy for the taxpayer—the private operator gets generous tax benefits and the State continues to receive Federal funding for roads they no longer maintain. Taxpayers are literally paying for privatized roads twice by subsidizing tax breaks for private operators who buy public roads and continuing to pay the States for upkeep on roads they are no longer responsible for.

The Bingaman-Durbin amendment will end this practice by removing factors associated with privatized roads from the formulas used to calculate a State's annual highway funding amount. Three States, including Illinois, have privatized some of their highways in exchange for a lump sum payment. In 2006, the city of Chicago leased the 7.8 mile Chicago Skyway for 99 years in exchange for a lump sum payment of $1.8 billion.

The private operator has since raised the tolls on the Skyway and has taken over sole responsibility for maintenance of the roadway. However, those 7.8 miles are still included in the formula calculations that add to a State's share of Federal highway funds. Illinois continues to receive roughly $1.2 million each year because the Chicago Skyway is still included in the Federal highway formulas. Motorists are also paying more to use the road. Under public control, the tolls for the skyway decreased by about 25 percent when adjusted for inflation between 1989 and 2004. But Chicago Skyway tolls have risen 60 percent since the road was privatized in 2005.

The Bingaman-Durbin amendment will stop paying States to maintain roads they have been paid to no longer maintain. The amendment will take those funds and distribute them to other States to help pay for the maintenance of public roads and bridges across the country.

In 2006, I requested a GAO study of highway public-private partnerships along with Senator INHOFE and Representative PETER DEFAZIO. The GAO study found “there is no ‘free’ money in public-private partnerships, and it is likely that tolls on a privately operated highway will increase to a greater extent than they would on a publicly operated toll road.” The GAO called for Congress to require more upfront analysis of these privatization deals to ensure they protect the public interest.

I introduced legislation earlier this year that would provide for a rigorous examination of privatization deals of all transportation assets—highways, airports, bridges and mass transit systems. The Protecting Taxpayers in Transportation Asset Transfers Act would ensure the Federal taxpayer has a seat at the table when State and local governments sell publicly owned transportation assets.

This amendment does not go far enough to protect the public interest in transportation privatization deals, but it does take away an unnecessary incentive for States and local governments to sell publicly funded roads and highways. This amendment will not stop States from privatizing roads, but it will stop the Federal taxpayer from paying twice for privatized roads.

The amendment is supported by AAA, the American Trucking Association, the American Highway Users Alliance, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, UPS, and the U.S. Public Interest Research Group. CBO has indicated the amendment does not score and will not increase the deficit in anyway.

Mr. BINGAMAN. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

AMENDMENT 1756

Mr. DEMINT. Mr. President, thank you for the opportunity to talk about the amendment that we call the Transportation Empowerment Act. This is actually legislation that has been worked on for over 10 years. Our ranking member, Senator INHOFE, helped to develop this legislation, and it is essentially the same as when he introduced it 10 years ago. He pointed out that he had long believed that the best decisions are those made at the local level. Unfortunately, many of the transportation choices made by cities and States are governed by Federal rules and regulations.

This bill returns to the States the responsibility and resources to make their own transportation decisions—those were Senator INHOFE's words. I think we all know, as a Nation, that we are not going to solve our spending and debt problems unless we are willing to begin to move some public services from Washington back to the States where they can be done more effectively and less expensively, and one of those public services is transportation.

I would point out that the Transportation Department at the Federal level was formed almost 60 years ago to build our Interstate Highway System and this system is essentially complete. The States maintain most of the interstate highways now with some Federal support. The problem we have now is that 18 cents out of every gallon of gasoline comes to Washington and a majority of States get back less than they send.

We have what I think could be called an infrastructure crisis in America. Roads and bridges are decaying everywhere and we are behind on our maintenance in the building of new roads, so it is obvious that what we are doing is not working. Instead of solving the problems with real reforms, the underlying bill is adding to what we are spending above the trust fund—above the 18 cents—without any real reforms to make the system work better. So I think I can conclude that the current Federal transportation finance system is broken.

Since 2007, rather than evaluate true infrastructure priorities and attempt to live within our means by eliminating special interest programs, Congress has bailed out the highway trust fund to the tune of $35 billion. With the pending reauthorization, the trust fund will require a bailout of another $13 billion.

At the end of this big-spending 2-year reauthorization, Congress will be back at the drawing board scrambling for additional budgetary gimmicks and offsets to keep this charade from imploding. If this were a traditional 6-year highway bill, at this rate of runaway spending it would require a bailout of $39 billion from the general fund.

There is a better way. It is time to get the Washington bureaucracy and costly regulations out of the way and empower States to be the primary decisionmakers for their own local and State infrastructure. My amendment allows for States to keep their gas taxes and set their own priorities while avoiding an additional layer of Washington bureaucracy.

We should devolve the Federal highway program from Washington to the States. We can dramatically cut the Federal gas tax to a few pennies, which would be enough to fund the limited number of highway programs that serve a clear national purpose. In turn, States could adjust their own gas taxes to make their own construction and repair decisions without costly rules such as Davis-Bacon regulations and without having to funnel the money through Washington's wasteful bureaucracy and some self-serving politicians.

My amendment would free States from the wasteful and corrupt Davis-Bacon Act, which needlessly focuses or forces the government to pay labor union wages for construction projects. Davis-Bacon harms workers who choose not to join unions, and it raised the costs to taxpayers last year by nearly $11 billion.

Our Nation's fiscal situation is perilous, with a $15 trillion debt set to double to $30 trillion in the next decade. Bipartisan compromises on spending like this bill got us into this mess and we will never get out of it if we don't embrace bold commonsense reforms.

I urge my colleagues to support my amendment and empower the States by giving them the flexibility they need to maintain their infrastructures.

If I could take a second to summarize, I know some Members have stepped into this legislation that has been under development for many years. It is one that has been talked about by the States, with over half of our States what we consider donor States. If we were able to not only remove the Federal bureaucracy but also the regulations that force States to spend money in ways they don't like, the overwhelming majority of States would have a lot more money to spend on roads and bridges than they do now.

We are not talking about cutting spending on transportation. What we are talking about is actually increasing it by moving this service back to the States where it can be guided with a lot more on-the-ground knowledge of what needs to be done, without all of the political maneuvering in Washington to send money to one State versus another. This is a way to maintain our Federal priority with a small part of the gas tax and allow the States to basically keep the rest of the gas tax to serve their own needs.

If we cannot do this, I don't see any way that we are going to be able to deal with our national debt. If we can recognize there is an obvious service here that can be done better and less expensively and quicker at the State and local level and we can move that bureaucracy out of Washington, we can make the highway trust fund solvent.

If we can't do something that makes this much common sense and saves the taxpayers money and actually delivers a better service, it is difficult for me to understand how we are ever going to deal with the huge debt and spending problem we have now in Washington.

I reserve the remainder of my time.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator's time has expired.

The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I have a parliamentary inquiry: Did Senator DEMINT use his 1 minute he had before the vote?

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. That is correct.

Mrs. BOXER. I ask to have an additional 15 seconds, since he went over by that much.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will be 1 minute of debate in opposition prior to a vote in relation to amendment No. 1756 offered by the Senator from South Carolina.

Mrs. BOXER. I am asking for that. Fine.

I think this is so critical. The DeMint amendment is the end of the Federal highway and transportation system. It is a system that has been in place since Republican President Dwight Eisenhower told us how critical it was. He said in the 1950s: The Transportation bill's impact on the American economy—the jobs it would produce in manufacturing, construction, the rural areas it would open—are beyond calculation.

Ronald Reagan said: It has enabled our commerce to thrive, our country to grow, and our people to roam freely.

Senator DEMINT is taking on two icons in the Republican Party, President Eisenhower and President Reagan.

Today, the National Association of Manufacturers said they oppose this amendment. They oppose it. It would reduce future revenues, they said.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said they are against it, and without this Transportation bill there is no guarantee that States would prioritize transportation investments that support national interests.

The American Road and Transportation Builders Association said they are against this amendment, and it would force your State to raise its own taxes or force cuts elsewhere to offset massive cuts in Federal highway and transit investments.

I respect my friend, but this is a disaster if it were to pass. I urge a "no" vote.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 1756.

Mrs. BOXER. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there a sufficient second? There appears to be a sufficient second.

AMENDMENT NO. 1759

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the previous order, there will now be 2 minutes of debate equally divided prior to a vote in relation to amendment No. 1759 offered by the Senator from New Mexico, Mr. BINGAMAN.

The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. BINGAMAN. When any of our States privatize an existing toll road, it, of course, shifts the responsibility to operate and maintain that toll road to a private entity and gets a cash payment in return.

Under existing law, these privatized toll roads continue to be included in the calculation for receipt of Federal highway funds. I do not think that makes any sense. This is a common-sense amendment to correct that. This amendment simply ensures that privatized toll roads are removed from consideration when we allocate Federal highway funds.

As I say, I think it makes a lot of sense and should apply equally to all States. I urge support for the Bingaman-Durbin amendment.

The ACTING PRESIDENT pro tempore. Who yields time in opposition?

The Senator from Oklahoma.

Mr. COBURN. Mr. President, what this amendment does is it ultimately eliminates a State's right to leverage its assets over an amortization schedule that would allow it to expand its highway system. What we are doing is we are taking money we have taken from the States, sending it up here, and saying: If you have an asset in your State—unless you are building a brand new road—you cannot use that asset to leverage your capital to build more roads in your State. It is against the 10th amendment. It is morally wrong to take away a State's right to enhance its capital assets.

I urge a "no" vote.

MOVING AHEAD FOR PROGRESS IN THE 21st CENTURY—Continued

AMENDMENT NO. 1826, AS MODIFIED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kansas.

Mr. ROBERTS. Mr. President, I would like to ask support for my amendment that would approve the Keystone XL Pipeline. It would expand oil and gas exploration on Federal lands and would extend certain tax provisions that are utilized by a number of individuals and businesses throughout the country.

The base of my amendment includes most but not all of the expired energy tax incentives addressed in the amendment that will be offered by my friends on the other side of the aisle. But there is a clear difference in that my amendment addresses the supply side of the equation and avoids extending some of the costly energy provisions that were created under the failed American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009; i.e., the stimulus.

While I support many of the tax provisions included in the Democrats' counterproposal, the majority amendment fails to address the No. 1 issue facing Americans of every walk of life, from farmers to manufacturers, to teachers, which is the rising cost of gasoline. My amendment does just that, and it implements the important first steps toward increasing domestic supplies of conventional energy that our country will rely on for decades to come.

My amendment would cut redtape, open more Federal land for oil and gas exploration and drilling; it would approve the Keystone XL Pipeline, while also extending renewable tax provisions that benefit domestic energy production, businesses, and individuals alike. It also restores expired individual and business tax relief provisions.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. ROBERTS. I ask unanimous consent for 1 additional minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. ROBERTS. It also restores expired individual and business tax relief provisions and, most of all, it promotes economic growth.

Lastly, my amendment does all this without adding to the deficit, which, considering our more than $15 trillion debt, is something our future generations certainly can appreciate.

I thank my colleagues if they would support this very commonsense, progrowth amendment.

Mr. BENNET. Mr. President, I have come to the floor to discuss the Roberts side-by-side amendment. I support several provisions in Senator ROBERTS' amendment, but, crucially, others miss the mark.

One provision that gives me particular concern relates to the development of oil shale resources in the Rocky Mountain West. I believe we need to take a more cautious approach to oil shale development.

This type of energy development could have enormous implications for Colorado's scarce water supplies and our farming and ranching heritage.

That is why, over the years, a great diversity of voices—from the Rocky Mountain Farmers Union to the Grand Junction Daily Sentinel Editorial Board—have raised concerns over plans to accelerate oil shale development on public land. Yet this amendment would do exactly that.

Mr. President, there are other provisions in the Roberts amendment that are certainly worthy of support. I hope to work with the Senator from Kansas as we continue the discussion about where to make wise investments in our Tax Code and elsewhere.

Ms. CANTWELL. Mr. President, I wish to raise my concerns about the Roberts amendment.

This amendment is a disappointing attempt to play politics with what should be a bipartisan issue: extending the State and local sales tax deduction and other key tax policies. We need to move forward on a serious bipartisan proposal to extend the State sales tax deduction. It is a matter of tax fairness for Washington residents.

But we cannot afford to threaten Washington's coastal economy by opening the West Coast and the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge for drilling.

Therefore, I will not support the Roberts Amendment and I look forward to serious legislation to extend the State sales tax deduction.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, I rise to oppose the Roberts amendment No. 1826.

My friend from Kansas and I work together in the Agriculture Committee, and I appreciate the great bipartisan work we have been able to do. But I stand to strongly oppose this amendment. I believe that when it comes to energy, we should do it all. We need more domestic production of wind, solar, electric vehicles, advanced batteries. We absolutely need to stop our addiction to foreign oil and create jobs here in America at the same time.

Unfortunately, that is not what this amendment does. It includes the Hoeven language that we defeated earlier last week. We shouldn't be building a pipeline from Canada to China. If we build a pipeline, we should use the oil to lower gas prices for American families. It also includes dangerous requirements for drilling in the Arctic and in offshore locations without any safeguards. Worst of all, it ends tax cuts for wind and clean energy manufacturing at a time when families are paying so much at the pump. It doesn't make sense to raise taxes on the businesses that are trying to reduce our dependence on foreign oil, and it pays for all these changes by adding redtape to working families when they file their taxes, adding more burdens to middle-class families.

I urge my colleagues to vote no.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Maryland.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent for 1 additional minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the Senator from Maryland is recognized.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. President, let me concur in everything Senator STABENOW said in opposition to this amendment.

There are many reasons to oppose it, but let me add one additional reason, in that it violates the agreement we reached on the debt ceiling on the budget caps for this year and does it on the backs of our Federal workers. Once again, the Republicans are coming forward with another attack on the Federal workforce. Enough is enough. Every amendment, they are picking on the Federal workforce.

I urge my colleagues to defeat this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to amendment No. 1826, as modified.

-------	------

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order requiring 60 votes for the adoption of this amendment, the amendment is rejected.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I rise to explain the reasons I voted for Roberts amendment No. 1826.

First, the amendment would increase America's energy supply by approving the Keystone XL pipeline, opening lands in the Outer Continental Shelf and the Alaska National Wildlife Refuge for drilling, and implementing a commercial leasing program for oil shale.

The amendment would also extend a number of important temporary tax provisions that expired at the end of 2011. Significantly, it would not extend a number of provisions that are unsound policy or no longer necessary.

However, the amendment did extend some provisions that I believe should be ended because they are unwarranted subsidies that distort markets. These include tax credits for energy-efficient homes, alternative fuel vehicle refueling property, biodiesel, energy-efficient appliances, and alternative fuels.

While I supported the Roberts amendment, I do not want this vote to be interpreted as support for each and every provision that was included. I hope that as the tax extenders package continues to be considered by Congress, a number of unnecessary and harmful provisions will be eliminated. Ideally, Congress will consider comprehensive tax reform that lowers rates, eliminates special subsidies, and makes sound tax policy permanent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan.

AMENDMENT NO. 1812, AS MODIFIED

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to call up amendment No. 1812, as modified, and ask that the clerk report the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report the amendment.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Michigan [Ms. STABENOW] proposes an amendment numbered 1812, as modified.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To prevent a tax increase on American businesses and to provide certainty to job creators by extending certain expiring tax credits relating to energy)

At the end of division D, insert the following:

SEC. . . . EXTENSION OF CREDIT FOR ENERGY-EFFICIENT EXISTING HOMES.

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, I urge my colleagues to support this amendment to stop the tax increase on American businesses that are creating clean-energy jobs. Especially now when gas prices are going up and families are struggling more than ever to fill the tank, we shouldn't be raising taxes on innovators and job creators who are helping to lower America's energy bills. My amendment extends 19 different tax cuts for innovative businesses that account for 2.7 million jobs.

Let me also say that the oil industry has benefited from special tax benefits for almost 100 years. The cost of this is not offset, it is part of the Tax Code. Yet the tax cuts that will create American jobs to get us off foreign oil have been extended only a year at a time, and they have been subject to different budget rules. This makes no sense.

If we want to see “Made in America” again, I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time in opposition?

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. FRANKEN). Under the previous order requiring 60 votes for the adoption of this amendment, the amendment is not agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 1589

There will now be 2 minutes of debate equally divided prior to a vote in relation to amendment No. 1589, offered by the Senator from South Carolina Mr. DEMINT.

Mr. DEMINT. Mr. President, we have all complained about the big corporations that don't pay any taxes, only to find that many times that is because we offer some tax subsidy that allows them to get out of taxes. We have complained about subsidies for Big Oil, Big Natural Gas. We have given subsidies to companies that go out of business because we are trying to pick winners and losers. Temporary tax policy for whatever we are trying to do does not work.

This amendment eliminates the tax subsidies, the loopholes we talk about not just for Big Oil but for all of the energy tax credits. Folks, if we let the market work, we are going to have wind, we are going to have solar, but we are going to have it in a way that does not waste the money of hard-working taxpayers.

So I encourage my colleagues' support. I know a lot of my colleagues have new subsidies they are proposing, but it is no way to run a free market economy, to try to run it from this room. Let's get rid of subsidies, lower the corporate tax rate, and let our country work.

I reserve the remainder of my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Montana.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, this amendment does two things. First, it increases taxes on business men and women trying to provide some alternative energy for this country. It increases taxes on those men and women.

Second, it eases out revenue by increasing taxes on individuals and uses it to lower the corporate tax rate. That is one of the main things this does.

Third, it repeals credits and deductions on one section of our energy industry—the renewables, the alternatives—but it doesn't for conventional oil and gas.

So, No. 1, this raises taxes on individuals and uses it to lower the corporate rate; and, No. 2, it is unbalanced because it reduces credits and deductions in the alternative area but not on the conventional energy area. It is unbalanced and wrong. I urge my colleagues to vote against this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time has expired.

The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

-------	------

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order requiring 60 votes for the adoption of this amendment, the amendment is rejected.

The Senator from New Jersey.

AMENDMENT NO. 1782

(Purpose: To amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to modify certain tax credits relating to energy, and for other purposes)

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask to set aside the pending amendment and offer Menendez-Burr amendment No. 1782, which is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Jersey [Mr. MENENDEZ], for himself, Mr. BURR, and Mr. REID, proposes an amendment numbered 1782.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The amendment is printed in the RECORD of Monday, March 5, 2012, under "Text of Amendments.")

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, gas prices are skyrocketing. Meanwhile, natural gas is $1.50 cheaper than gasoline. We have a 100-plus-year supply of natural gas we can draw from. The only thing that is in our way is we have so few natural gas vehicles and refueling stations on the road.

The NAT GAS Act gives manufacturers and utilities the assurance that the Federal Government will help jumpstart this market, adding over 700,000 natural gas vehicles to our roads and displacing over 20 billion gallons of petroleum fuel, mostly from our bus and truck fleets. It does all this while being paid for by a surcharge on the users who will benefit from the amendment.

We know there are some industries that have concern. Instead of exporting natural gas, which we are about to do in this country, let's use it in America so we can give our drivers an option. I urge my colleagues to vote for this bipartisan amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. BURR. Mr. President, I would like to be recognized.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Carolina.

Mr. BURR. Mr. President, let me say to my colleagues, what this simply does is to take something that is happening naturally—a transition from diesel, in most cases, over to natural gas—and it accelerates it. It gives it a 5-hour energy drink. We should take this opportunity to accelerate it as fast as we can. It is paid for, as Senator MENENDEZ said.

This is essential if we want natural gas prices to stay down—increase demand. If not, we are going to shut in wells, we are going to find ways to sell it offshore.

If we want to keep historically low natural gas prices, then let's increase demand so production increases and we can take advantage of all these finds we have all over the United States of America.

Mr. CORNYN. Mr. President, today I come to the floor to express concerns about the Menendez/Burr amendment, to include the NAT GAS Act in the transportation bill.

This legislation would provide tax credits to promote natural gas vehicles and refueling infrastructure by imposing a user fee on natural gas fuel used as vehicle fuel. Although the tax credits are detailed in the legislation, it is less certain whether the imposition of a new tax applied to Liquefied Natural Gas (LNG) and Compressed Natural Gas (CNG) used for transportation will cover the costs of the subsidies.

Instead of providing more directives from Washington to the marketplace, Congress should be concerned with the overall access to energy, and the President should work to alleviate the pain caused by his policies which raise energy prices. Companies and consumers can make their own choices about what fuel to use, and what kind of car to drive. We should be out of the game of favoring one choice over another, and ensure that fuel supplies are not unnecessarily restricted.

Consumer choice should be the driver of technology in the marketplace, not securing favor in Washington. In fact today consumers can evaluate a myriad of vehicles that fit their needs, from hybrids to traditional gasoline-powered vehicles. In addition, the high cost of gasoline and lower cost of natural gas has already led General Motors and Chrysler/Dodge to announce plans to build natural gas fueled pickup trucks.

While the market is already seeing some transition toward natural gas vehicles, President Obama's policies to limit supplies of fossil fuels could cause economic pain for natural gas users in the future. President Obama's support of duplicative, unnecessary regulations at the federal level, raising taxes on producers, and restricting access to federal lands by keeping them off-limits or by slow-walking permits, will result in raising natural gas prices by reducing supply.

Unfortunately, the Obama administration continues to enact policies that harm oil and natural gas production. Consider the rising cost of gasoline and the Obama administration's failure to take concrete actions to alleviate the pain Americans are feeling at the pump. The average U.S. price of a gallon of regular gasoline has more than doubled since the week of his inauguration in January 2009, from $1.84 to $3.82.

I have great pride for my home state of Texas, and the countless producers and operators who have made Texas the leading U.S. producer of oil and natural gas, and we know that America has only just begun to tap its vast resources. Unfortunately, the Obama administration's proposed offshore oil and natural gas leasing plan for 2012 to 2017 eliminates 50 percent of lease sales provided for in the previous plan, and imposes a moratorium on developing energy from 14 billion barrels of oil and 55 trillion cubic feet of natural gas in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Expanding access to federal onshore and offshore lands, and eliminating permit delays for leases, could help reduce prices and strengthen our energy security while creating jobs and boosting tax revenues. The moratorium on exploration in the Gulf of Mexico, and persistent delays for permits in shallow and deep water leases, could result in a 19 percent decrease in production in 2012 compared to 2010, according to the Energy Information Administration.

At the same time the President highlights our Nation's vast natural gas resources, his administration through the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is considering burdensome new regulations on which would make securing that fuel much more difficult. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce reports that the EPA alone "is moving forward with 31 major economic rules and 172 major policy rules" that affect our energy supply. The Chamber rightly calls this "an unprecedented level of regulatory action."

Given the Administration's track record with gasoline prices, it is easy to see a similar direction for natural gas prices in the future—particularly as the EPA continues to propose devastating regulations that lead to the retirement of coal-fired electricity generation and ensure greater demand for natural gas in power generation. American energy producers are also deeply worried about the EPA's proposed greenhouse gas regulations, which will serve as an energy tax on all consumers.

I know there are natural gas producers and transit authorities in my State who favor this legislation, however, instead of directing demand for a product, I believe we should concern ourselves with ensuring ample supplies of the fuels we need. We should promote access to our Nation's natural gas, and discourage duplicative regulations, and stay out of the business of manipulating demand for its use and leave that to the marketplace.

Mr. BENNET. Mr. President, I rise to express my support for the Menendez-Burr amendment, No. 1782, dealing with natural gas vehicles. We have an opportunity today to reduce our dependence on foreign oil by diversifying our vehicle fleet to run on a fuel that is not made from crude oil.

The Menendez-Burr amendment—which I cosponsor—would make smart investments designed to spur greater production of vehicles that run on natural gas. Advances in technology have unlocked new reserves of natural gas in this country. And we ought to be using this resource—which burns cleaner than any other fossil fuel—to power a greater share of our economy.

Natural gas is a domestic resource that we now have in relative abundance. Its development has driven economic growth in Colorado and across the Nation. Passage of the Menendez-Burr amendment would create even more economic opportunities by building and retrofitting vehicles to run on natural gas.

To be sure, natural gas alone is not going to solve our problems. We need to focus on continued increases in vehicle efficiency. We have recently made great strides in that arena.

We also need to be sure we are developing natural gas in an environmentally responsible way. Colorado has been a leader on this point—with the strongest rules in the Nation—in ensuring that natural gas development protects communities and drinking water. Nationally more needs to be done to protect those living adjacent to development. I think all States should look to our rules in Colorado as a national model.

In short, this amendment will diversify our vehicle fleet, drive continued economic growth in the energy sector, and clean up our air—all while reducing our dependence on foreign oil. I urge my colleagues to support the Menendez-Burr amendment when it comes for a vote later today.

I thank the Presiding Officer.

Mr. MENENDEZ. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order requiring 60 votes for the adoption of the amendment, the amendment is rejected.

AMENDMENT NO. 1517

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is now 2 minutes of debate equally divided, prior to a vote in relation to amendment No. 1517, offered by the Senator from Indiana Mr. COATS.

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, this amendment is very simple. It is a matter of equity and fairness.

The reality is that a majority of States, such as Indiana, my State, and many others do not receive their fair share of the distribution of highway funds. This bill unfairly rewards a minority of States that have collected earmarks in the past that go to establishing the historical benchmark from which the distributions are made. This amendment creates a new system by which everyone is treated equally and treated fairly.

A system of winners and losers is not the way we should go forward with distributing funds that are paid by our taxpayers for the building of roads and bridges. So let's address the current inequity in this bill and give each State its rightful share. I ask my colleagues for their support.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, this is a killer amendment. Our committee voted 18 to 0 on a bipartisan bill that set out the formulas in a very fair way. What did we do? We didn't want to jolt the States in the middle of a tough economic time, so we kept that funding in place. Again, the distribution is very fair.

In contrast, we have a lot of drafting problems with my friend's amendment. The Department of Transportation says it doesn't even specify that the gas taxes will not be factored in as Federal gas taxes. It just has a flaw in it. It is also very biased because traditionally we have always distributed these funds to States based on numerous factors, need-based factors: lane miles in a State, the cost to repair or replace deficient bridges, the vehicle miles traveled.

So I would say to my friend, I appreciate the spirit with which he offers this amendment. I understand the spirit it is one that he can be proud of.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mrs. BOXER. But this, in fact, at the end of the day, ruins the bill, and I urge a "no" vote.

NOT VOTING—2

The amendment (No. 1517) was rejected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mrs. SHAHEEN). The Senator from Ohio.

AMENDMENT NO. 1819

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent to set aside the pending amendment and call up amendment No. 1819.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The clerk will report the amendment.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Ohio [Mr. BROWN], for himself and Mr. MERKLEY, proposes an amendment numbered 1819.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There will now be 2 minutes of debate equally divided prior to a vote in relation to amendment No. 1819 offered by the Senator from Ohio, Mr. BROWN.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Madam President, our amendment requires DOT to report annually on waivers, including analysis of taxpayer dollars that are spent on foreign materials and infrastructure. It closes a loophole that currently exists that allows the project to be split into several pieces, thus evading “Buy American” requirements.

The San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge is the most outrageous example of that. The $6 billion project was divided into 20 separate construction contracts, resulting in a Chinese-owned company building a 520-foot steel tower and 28 steel bridge decks. That was not what this was meant to do.

It is modeled on language House Republicans passed. It is consistent with our international trade obligations.

I yield the remainder of my time to Senator MERKLEY, a cosponsor.

Mr. MERKLEY. Madam President, transportation projects financed by American taxpayers should, to the maximum extent possible, be built using American materials and American workers. But all too often loopholes have crept in that have resulted in American transportation projects paid for with American taxpayer money being built by Chinese firms with Chinese workers and Chinese steel. It is wrong. Please support this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Who yields time in opposition?

Mr. REID. I yield back.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time is yielded back.

The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 1819) was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 1540

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There will now be 2 minutes of debate equally divided on amendment No. 1540, offered by the Senator from Missouri, Mr. BLUNT.

The Senator from Missouri is recognized.

Mr. BLUNT. Madam President, this amendment would continue the current practice in which 15 percent of the bridge money that goes to States goes to local governments. If you have talked to a county commissioner anywhere in the country about the highway bill, my guess is they mentioned continuing the current policy on sharing some of this bridge money with local governments. It doesn't increase the amount of money; what it does is continue current policy. I think every county commissioner in America would be relieved if they were going to continue to maintain their bridges.

I urge a “yes” vote on this amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who will yields time in opposition?

Mrs. BOXER. We yield back.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time is yielded back.

The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 1540) was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 1814, AS MODIFIED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. MERKLEY. Madam President, I ask to call up the Merkley-Toomey amendment, as modified, that is at the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. MERKLEY], for himself, Mr. TOOMEY, and Mr. BLUNT, proposes an amendment numbered 1814, as modified.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To provide exemptions from requirements for certain farm vehicles)

At the end of subtitle E of title I of division A, add the following:

SEC. —. EXEMPTIONS FROM REQUIREMENTS FOR CERTAIN FARM VEHICLES.

(a) FEDERAL REQUIREMENTS.—A covered farm vehicle, including the individual operating that vehicle, shall be exempt from the following:

(1) Any requirement relating to commercial driver's licenses established under chapter 313 of title 49, United States Code.

(2) Any requirement relating to medical certificates established under—

(A) subchapter III of chapter 311 of title 49, United States Code; or

(B) chapter 313 of title 49, United States Code.

(3) Any requirement relating to hours of service established under—

(A) subchapter III of chapter 311 of title 49, United States Code; or

(B) chapter 315 of title 49, United States Code.

(4) Any requirement relating to vehicle inspection, repair, and maintenance established under—

(A) subchapter III of chapter 311 of title 49, United States Code; or

(B) chapter 315 of title 49, United States Code.

(b) STATE REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Federal transportation funding to a State may not be terminated, limited, or otherwise interfered with as a result of the State exempting a covered farm vehicle, including the individual operating that vehicle, from any State requirement relating to the operation of that vehicle.

(2) EXCEPTION.—Paragraph (1) does not apply with respect to a covered farm vehicle transporting hazardous materials that require a placard.

(3) STATE REQUIREMENTS.—Notwithstanding section (a) or any other provision of law, a State may enact and enforce safety requirements related to covered farm vehicles.

(c) COVERED FARM VEHICLE DEFINED.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In this section, the term “covered farm vehicle” means a motor vehicle (including an articulated motor vehicle)—

(A) that—

(i) is traveling in the State in which the vehicle is registered or another State;

(ii) is operated by—

(I) a farm owner or operator;

(II) a ranch owner or operator; or

(III) an employee or family member of an individual specified in subclause (I) or (II);

(iii) is transporting to or from a farm or ranch—

(I) agricultural commodities;

(II) livestock; or

(III) machinery or supplies;

(iv) except as provided in paragraph (2), is not used in the operations of a for-hire motor carrier; and

(v) is equipped with a special license plate or other designation by the State in which the vehicle is registered to allow for identification of the vehicle as a farm vehicle by law enforcement personnel; and

(B) that has a gross vehicle weight rating or gross vehicle weight, whichever is greater, that is—

(i) 26,001 pounds or less; or

(ii) greater than 26,001 pounds and traveling within the State or within 150 air miles of the farm or ranch with respect to which the vehicle is being operated.

(2) INCLUSION.—In this section, the term “covered farm vehicle” includes a motor vehicle that meets the requirements of paragraph (1) (other than paragraph (1)(A)(iv)) and is—

(A) operated pursuant to a crop share farm lease agreement;

(B) owned by a tenant with respect to that agreement; and

(C) transporting the landlord's portion of the crops under that agreement.

(d) SAFETY STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a study of the exemption required by section (a) as follows—

(1) Data and analysis of covered farm vehicles shall include:

(A) the number of vehicles that are operated subject to each of the regulatory exemptions permitted under section (a);

(B) the number of drivers that operate covered farm vehicles subject to each of the regulatory exemptions permitted under section (a);

(C) the number of crashes involving covered farm vehicles;

(D) the number of occupants and non-occupants injured in crashes involving covered farm vehicles;

(E) the number of fatalities of occupants and non-occupants killed in crashes involving farm vehicles;

(F) crash investigations and accident reconstruction investigations of all fatalities in crashes involving covered farm vehicles;

(G) overall operating mileage of covered farm vehicles;

(H) numbers of covered farm vehicles that operate in neighboring states; and

(I) any other data the Secretary deems necessary to analyze and include.

(2) A listing of state regulations issued and maintained in each state that are identical to the federal regulations that are subject to exemption in section (a).

(3) The Secretary shall report the findings of the study to the appropriate committees of the Congress not later than 18 months after enactment of MAP-21.

Mr. MERKLEY. Madam President, I first defer to my colleague across the aisle to speak to the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There will now be 2 minutes of debate equally divided prior to a vote on amendment No. 1814, offered by the Senator from Oregon.

Mr. BLUNT. I thank the Senator for yielding. I am pleased to join him on this amendment. This would allow family farmers to use their vehicles within 150 miles of their farm without having to have a commercial driver's license. It is a requirement that wouldn't make sense for those businesses. I urge its passage.

I yield to Mr. TOOMEY.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Pennsylvania.

Mr. TOOMEY. I thank the Senator from Missouri and the Senator from Oregon for working together on this amendment.

Under current regulations, the States are essentially required to adopt rules that would force a family farmer who is driving a tractor across the street to follow the same kinds of rules and regulations that a cross-country long-haul truckdriver has to comply with in terms of hours of service and regulations and logbooks. It is a solution in search of a problem. It is costly. It is unnecessary.

I urge adoption of the amendment, and I yield back to the Senator from Oregon.

Mr. MERKLEY. I ask unanimous consent for an additional 30 seconds.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. MERKLEY. Madam President, I ask for an additional 30 seconds.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. MERKLEY. Madam President, this is simple common sense, that you can drive across your State, but if the place you drop off your food is across the border, you have to put it into an interstate truck to go 1 mile down the road. That makes no sense for farmers, it makes no sense for safety.

This is a sort of commonsense solution along borders, allowing farmers to get their food from the farm to the depot, be that an airplane depot, or put it on a barge, put it on a ship, be that put it in an interstate truck. It is common sense. Let's do it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there any time to be used in opposition?

If not, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 1814, as modified) was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 1617

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent to call up amendment No. 1617, the Klobuchar-Roberts Agriculture Hours of Service amendment and ask the clerk to report the amendment by number.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Minnesota [Ms. KLOBUCHAR], for herself and Mr. ROBERTS, proposes an amendment numbered 1617.

The amendment is as follows:

(Purpose: To amend the Motor Carrier Safety Improvement Act of 1999 to provide clarification regarding the applicability of exemptions relating to the transportation of agricultural commodities and farm supplies, and for other purposes)

In section 32101, add at the end the following:

(d) TRANSPORTATION OF AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES AND FARM SUPPLIES.—Section 229(a)(1) of the Motor Carrier Safety Improvement Act of 1999 (49 U.S.C. 31136 note) is amended to read as follows:

“(1) TRANSPORTATION OF AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES AND FARM SUPPLIES.—Regulations prescribed by the Secretary under sections 31136 and 31502 regarding maximum driving and on-duty time for drivers used by motor carriers shall not apply during planting and harvest periods, as determined by each State, to—

“(A) drivers transporting agricultural commodities in the State from the source of the agricultural commodities to a location within a 100 air-mile radius from the source;

“(B) drivers transporting farm supplies for agricultural purposes in the State from a wholesale or retail distribution point of the farm supplies to a farm or other location where the farm supplies are intended to be used within a 100 air-mile radius from the distribution point; or

“(C) drivers transporting farm supplies for agricultural purposes in the State from a wholesale distribution point of the farm supplies to a retail distribution point of the farm supplies within a 100 air-mile radius from the wholesale distribution point.”

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There will now be 2 minutes of debate equally divided.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR. Madam President, the Klobuchar-Roberts amendment would clarify the way the Federal Motor Carriers Safety Administration currently implements and enforces an exemption to hours of service rules as they apply to the agriculture industry during spring planting and fall harvesting. Our amendment reinforces existing law and brings the exemption back to the way it was implemented from 1995 to 2009.

This is a commonsense change with broad support. It has the backing of the American Trucking Association as well as 50 agricultural organizations which includes the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Farmers Union.

I thank Senator ROBERTS for his leadership on this important issue, as well as Senators NELSON, MCCASKILL, JOHANNIS, and LUGAR for their strong support and cosponsorship.

I ask my colleagues to vote for this amendment.

Mr. ROBERTS. Madam President, I would like to associate myself with the comments made by my colleague from Minnesota and urge my colleagues to vote in favor of Amendment No. 1617, the Klobuchar, Roberts, Ben Nelson, McCaskill, Johannis, and Lugar amendment to clarify Hours of Service—HOS—exemption for Ag transportation.

The Motor Carrier Safety Improvement Act expressly states:

Regulations prescribed by the Secretary regarding maximum driving and on-duty time for drivers used by motor carriers shall not apply during planting and harvest periods, as determined by each State, to drivers transporting agricultural commodities or farm supplies for agricultural purposes in a State if such transportation is limited to an area within a 100 air mile radius from the source of the commodities or the distribution point for the farm supplies.

We believe this statute alone, not to mention clear Congressional intent demonstrated in previous sessions, clearly allows the transportation of all farm supplies from any distribution point to a local farm retailer or to the ultimate consumer—in other words, from source to retail, source to farm, and retail to farm.

Unfortunately, in 2009 the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration—FMCSA—began to misinterpret both the statute and Congressional intent.

Currently, FMCSA only allows for the transportation of a single farm supply—anhydrous ammonia—from any distribution point to a local farm retailer or to the ultimate consumer. While anhydrous ammonia is perhaps the most widely used farm supply to be transported under the AghOS regulations, many other critical farm supplies have been excluded because of the agency's interpretation. This severely hinders the flexibility our farmers need during planting and harvesting seasons.

FMCSA, through several waivers granted over the past two years, has recognized the need for an exemption to their motor carrier regulations.

Therefore, our amendment will reinforce what we believe is existing law by clarifying that a driver transporting farm supplies from source to retail, source to farm, and retail to farm is included in the Ag Hours of Service exemption.

This amendment is a commonsense approach to simply clarify what is already existing law and will provide our Nation's farmers with the flexibility they need to feed an ever-growing Nation and world.

I yield the floor and, again, strongly encourage my friends to vote in favor of this commonsense amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there debate in opposition?

If not, the question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 1617) was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 1736

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is now 2 minutes of debate equally divided prior to a vote on amendment No. 1736, offered by the Senator from Ohio, Mr. PORTMAN.

Mr. PORTMAN. Madam President, I urge my colleagues to support this amendment. This is similar to an amendment we voted on earlier today. This is simply a State opt-out, giving States the discretion to be able to opt out should they choose to. The highway trust fund has been bailed out three times from the general fund to the tune of about $35 billion. This would enable us to put more money directly into roads and bridges. The highway trust fund spent about $78 billion on projects not related to that over the period 2004 to 2008.

Again, I encourage my colleagues to support this opportunity for us to get back on a fiscally sustainable path, eliminate waste, allow the States the flexibility they need to maintain our roads and bridges back home.

I urge my colleagues to support it.

I yield my time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Madam President, could we have order?

First, thank you to all colleagues for your amazing cooperation. I hope we vote this down because we already did vote down a similar amendment.

This is another amendment that would devolve the Federal Aid Highway Program back to the States. In closing, let me quote from the American Road and Transportation Builders. This is what they say:

Allowing States to opt out of the Federal highway program ignores the role of the U.S. highway network in supporting the national economy and the reliance of each State's economy on the ability to ship products efficiently across borders.

This is not good for our economy. I urge a "no" vote.

Mr. HARKIN. Will the Senator yield for a minute?

Mrs. BOXER. Sure.

Mr. HARKIN. I am also told this would exempt States from having to meet their obligation under the Americans With Disabilities Act to provide equal access to people with disabilities.

Mrs. BOXER. This would essentially devolve the whole program, go against what Dwight Eisenhower had in mind when he started the National Highway System.

I urge a "no" vote.

I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio has 14 seconds. Does he wish to use them?

Mr. PORTMAN. This is simply an opt-out, it is not a mandate. It gives the States the discretion to do it. The States would be required to support the highway system. It is a different vote from the previous amendment.

I urge my colleagues to support this commonsense approach to make sure we get more money into our roads and bridges.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

Mrs. BOXER. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant bill clerk called the roll.

Mr. KYL. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from Illinois (Mr. KIRK) and the Senator from Utah (Mr. HATCH).

Further, if present and voting, the Senator from Utah (Mr. HATCH) would have voted "yea."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

AMENDMENT NO. 1785, AS MODIFIED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There is now 2 minutes of debate, equally divided, prior to a vote in relation to amendment No. 1785, as modified, offered by the Senator from Tennessee, Mr. CORKER.

The Senator from Tennessee.

Mr. CORKER. Madam President, the whole Nation watched last August as our Nation almost shut down over a debt ceiling vote and a very good law was put in place. Senator REID has called it stronger than any budget resolution we have ever had. We agreed during that vote that what we would do is raise the debt ceiling but lower discretionary caps over the next 10 years in order to lower the deficit. We had language regarding a budget resolution. Unfortunately, last week we overrode that, but the fact is this bill violates the Budget Control Act we put in place just last August, 7 months ago. For this bill to be truly budget neutral, as was outlined in the spirit of this bill as it was—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. CORKER. We have to offset discretionary spending by $11 billion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Hawaii.

Mr. INOUE. Madam President, this amendment would lower the non-defense discretionary cap established by the Budget Control Act by $11 billion to offset transfers from the general fund necessary to replenish the highway trust fund. This amendment is in clear violation of the Budget Control Act we just agreed to 6 months ago. In the simplest terms, the amendment would impose a 2-percent cut to non-defense discretionary spending in order to pay for a shortfall in mandatory spending. I would suggest if you want an offset for mandatory spending, find a mandatory offset.

However, the pending amendment deals with matters within the Budget Committee's jurisdiction; therefore, I raise a point of order that the pending amendment violates section 306 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Tennessee.

Mr. CORKER. This is the amendment, as modified; is that correct?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

The amendment (No. 1785), as modified, is as follows:

At the end of division D, add the following:

SEC. ____ DISCRETIONARY SPENDING CAP ADJUSTMENT FOR FISCAL YEAR 2013.

Paragraph (2)(A)(ii) of section 251A of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 (2 U.S.C. 901a) is amended by striking "$501,000,000,000" and inserting "$490,000,000,000".

Mr. CORKER. Madam President, pursuant to section 904 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 and 4G3 of the Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010, I move to waive all applicable sections of those acts and applicable budget resolutions for purposes of my amendment and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The question is on agreeing to the motion.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant bill clerk called the roll.

Mr. KYL. The following Senators are necessarily absent: the Senator from Utah (Mr. HATCH) and the Senator from Illinois (Mr. KIRK).

Further, if present and voting, the Senator from Utah (Mr. HATCH) would have voted "yea."

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CASEY). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

The yeas and nays resulted—yeas 40, nays 58, as follows:

NOT VOTING—2

Hatch Kirk

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On this vote, the yeas are 40, the nays are 58. Three-fifths of the Senators duly chosen and sworn not having voted in the affirmative, the motion is rejected. The point of order is sustained and the amendment fails.

Who yields time?

The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Shaheen amendment No. 1678 be considered following Paul amendment No. 1556.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 1742

There is now 2 minutes of debate equally divided prior to a vote in relation to amendment No. 1742, offered by the Senator from Ohio, Mr. PORTMAN.

The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. PORTMAN. Mr. President, this amendment is about States being able to control what happens at their rest areas. It is a very important amendment. It is supported by a number of different groups: the National Governors Association, the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials, Citizens Against Government Waste, a lot of private sector entities, as well as other organizations.

It goes to a mandate that was put in place back in 1956 that is a typical one-size-fits-all Federal mandate—unfunded—that does not allow States the flexibility to decide what they do at their rest areas. This amendment would lift that mandate from 1956. Incidentally, 26 of us represent States that already allow some commercial activity at rest areas because those rest areas were grandfathered in before the 1956 mandate.

It makes a lot of sense, and it will save States hundreds of millions of dollars a year. It takes that money and provides for the needs of the State in the transportation areas, including putting more money into roads and bridges.

This amendment does not direct or mandate States to do anything. They do not have to commercialize a single rest area. They do not have to change the way they are doing anything, but they would have the opportunity to do so. It gives States the much needed flexibility they want.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time in opposition?

The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I hope we will oppose this amendment. It is very controversial. It is opposed by a very broad and diverse group of business and labor organizations.

It would overturn a 60-year prohibition on allowing commercial services at interstate rest areas. The ban was enacted because Congress recognized the importance of supporting businesses and commercial activity along interstates. That decision has resulted in the development of 97,000 businesses that employ over 2 million Americans who provide services to travelers on our Nation's highways.

This amendment would allow commercial activities at existing interstate rest areas, which would lead to devastating losses to those businesses that are located near interstate interchanges.

So I urge my colleagues to oppose this amendment and support the small businesses that exist across our country near highway exits. So I urge a "no" vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

Mr. PORTMAN. I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There appears to be a sufficient second.

AMENDMENT NO. 1830

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I send a managers' package to the desk which has been approved by both managers and both leaders. Under the provisions of the previous order, I ask unanimous consent that it be agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

(The amendment is printed in today's RECORD under "Text of Amendments.")

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I understand that Senator SHAHEEN no longer intends to offer her amendment, so we can strike that from the list.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, the Republican leader and I have had discussions this afternoon, but I think it is fair to say he and I both believe we should finish this bill tomorrow. There is a very important event tonight—it may not mean much to anyone outside the Senate family, but it is to us, being able to recognize SUSAN COLLINS on a very special occasion in her life—and we are going to leave here so people who want to go to that event can do so.

We will come in tomorrow, and we will have about three or four votes to complete. We are having some other conversations, Senator McCONNELL and I, about other matters, and we will discuss that later. There will be no more votes tonight.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. For the information of the Senate, the managers' package just agreed to is amendment No. 1830, offered by Senator BOXER.

The Senator from California.

Mrs. BOXER. Mr. President, I just wanted to go on record tonight as saying we have made just incredible progress on this bill, and I look forward to tomorrow, where we will complete work on it. I think we are showing bipartisan spirit here and bipartisan cooperation. It is important to note that 2.8 million jobs hang in the balance.

So we will see everyone tomorrow. I feel very good we are going to pass our bill, and with that I suggest the absence of a quorum—I withdraw that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana.

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I want to talk about judicial nominations. I come to the floor many days to talk about judicial nominations. Most of my remarks at those times as well as this time are to respond to some of the claims made by my colleagues from the other side of the aisle. If you listened to some of my colleagues over the last couple of days, you would think the sky is falling on the issue of judicial nominees. They act as if the Senate is treating President Obama's judicial nominees differently than nominees have been treated in the past. This is simply not true.

A fair and impartial look at the numbers tells a far different story. The fact of the matter is that President Obama's nominees are being treated just as well, and in many cases much more fairly, than the Democrats treated President Bush's nominees. I want to take a few minutes to set the record straight.

Let me start by taking a brief look at 17 cloture motions that the majority has filed. Seven of those nominees were reported out of the Judiciary Committee within the last month and three of them were reported just last week. That is without precedent. To our knowledge the majority, Republican or Democrat, has never filed cloture on district court nominees within a month of them being reported out of the Judiciary Committee. That accounts for 7 of the 17.

What about the other 10 nominees? What our colleagues fail to mention is that they could have gotten a majority of those nominees confirmed at the end of the last session, just before recessing at Christmastime. Our side cleared quite a few nominees and we offered to confirm them as a package the end of last session. However, the President refused to offer assurances that he would not bypass the Senate and make so-called recess appointments.

I made a mistake when I said when the Senate adjourned just prior to Christmas, or recessed just prior to the session. We did neither. We stayed in session during the period of time from December 18 until January 24. In other words, the President was not in a position to make recess appointments because we were not in recess.

And of course, the President does not have the power, under our Constitution, to determine whether or not the Senate is in session. Only the Senate can make a determination of when we adjourn. The President of the United States cannot do that. But he presumed that he could and he went ahead and made what he called "recess appointments." So he shredded the Constitution once again.

In regard to what we are talking about here, it was the President who chose not to confirm those nominees at the end of last session because he refused to give us assurances that he would not make recess appointments. The bottom line is this, if the President believes we should have confirmed more nominees last fall, he should look to his own administration for that explanation.

That is the background of the 17 cloture motions before the Senate. Let me comment on something I read in one of our daily newspapers that covers the Congress. A famous reporter said, in the second paragraph of a report I read today, that the Republicans are filibustering nominations. I told the writer of that article that you can't filibuster anything that is not before the Senate and these nominees were not before the Senate until the leader of the majority filed these cloture motions.

Wouldn't you think, if you believed you needed to stop debate, that you would at least let debate start in the first place? But no. The game that is played around here is that, in order to build up the numbers, you claim the minority is filibustering, when in fact they are not filibustering.

I wish to take a step back and address some of the claims I've heard from the other side. I cannot believe some of the comments I am hearing, so I believe it is important to set the record straight. First of all, everyone around here understands that it takes a tremendous amount of time and resources for the Senate to consider Supreme Court nominees. For that reason, when a Supreme Court nomination is pending before the Senate, the Judiciary Committee considers little else. During President Obama's first 3 years in office, the Senate considered not one but two nominations to the Supreme Court. Those nominations occupied the Judiciary Committee for approximately 6 months. The last time the Senate handled two Supreme Court nominations was during President George W. Bush's second term. During President Bush's entire second term we confirmed only 120 lower court nominees. Under President Obama, as you can see from the chart we have here, we have already confirmed 129 lower court nominees. I think that is a pretty explicit picture of how the other side's arguments do not hold water.

For repetitive purposes, but to drive a point home, we have confirmed 129 of President Obama's judicial nominees in just over 3 years. That is more than were confirmed under George W. Bush's entire second term of 4 years. Again, the comparison between President Obama's first 3 years to President George W. Bush's second term of 4 years is the appropriate comparison. These were the only two time periods in recent memory when the Senate handled two Supreme Court nominations during such a short period of time—obviously consuming a great deal of time of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Even if you compared the number of President Obama's nominees confirmed to President Bush's first term, it is clear that President Obama has fared very well. More specifically, even though the Senate did not consider any Supreme Court nomination during President Bush's first term, we have confirmed approximately the same number of President Obama's lower court nominees as we did President Bush's, relative to the nominations President Obama has made.

In other words, although fewer lower court nominees have been confirmed under President Obama, the President made approximately 20 percent fewer judicial nominations during his first 3 years than President Bush did during his first term of 4 years. I think it is pretty simple, isn't it? You cannot complain that we have not confirmed enough judges, if they have not been sent up here in the first place.

As a practical matter, if the President believes he has not gotten enough confirmations, then he should look no farther than the pace at which he has been making nominations. Maybe he should have spent less time on the 100 or so fundraisers he has been holding all over the country recently and more time making judicial nominations. Or, at least he should have his political party in the Senate give us a little leniency, and quit complaining about nominations not being approved. The fact of the matter is this: If a backlog exists, then it is clear that it originates with the President. The Senate cannot confirm anybody the President has not sent up here in the first place.

If you need even more evidence that the President has been slow to send judicial nominees to the Senate, all you need to do is examine the current vacancies. My colleagues have been on the floor talking about the so-called vacancy crisis. What my colleagues fail to mention is that the White House has not even made nominations for over half of the vacancies. To be specific, of the 83 current vacancies, the White House has not submitted nominations for 44 of those vacancies. Once again, the Senate cannot confirm anybody who is not sent up here. How can my friends on the other side of the aisle complain about a vacancy crisis when the President has not sent up a nominee for over half of the vacancies?

As a result, it is clear if there is a vacancy crisis, once again the problem rests with the White House. If the President believes there are too many vacancies in the Federal courts, he should look no further than his own administration for an answer.

What about the other side's claim that nominees are waiting longer to get confirmed than they have in the past? Once again, this is not true. The average time from nomination to confirmation of judges during the Obama administration is nearly identical to what it was under President Bush. During President Bush's Presidency, it took on average approximately 211 days for judicial nominees to be confirmed. You can see from the chart that, during the first 3 years of President Obama's Presidency, it has taken 218 days for his judicial nominees to be confirmed. I am sure this will be news to many of my colleagues. If you had listened to the other side you would think that we have somehow broken new ground. We have not, obviously. We are treating President Obama's nominees virtually the same as President Bush's nominees.

It is not our primary concern to worry about whether one President is being treated differently than the other. We just proceed with our work. But the numbers you see here are the result of our work. And the fact of the matter is that the numbers are not much different than for other Presidents. To suggest we are treating President Obama's nominees a whole lot differently is intellectually dishonest. The fact of the matter is that the Senate has been working its will and regularly processing the President's judicial nominees in much the same way it has in the past.

Given that the President's nominees have received such fair treatment, why would the majority leader then choose to take the unprecedented step of filing 17 cloture motions on district court nominees? Why would the majority leader choose to manufacture controversy that does not exist—because there is no doubt in my caucus, even if there are a few votes against some of these nominees, there is very little doubt that most if not all of these 17 nominees are going to be approved by the Senate. These votes are a stunt. They are a smokescreen. They are designed to accomplish two goals. First, as even Democrats concede, the President cannot run for reelection on his own record so these votes are designed to help the President's reelection strategy by somehow portraying Republicans as obstructionists. But how can you obstruct when there are 83 vacancies, and the White House has failed to nominate someone for over half of those slots? How can you be considered as obstructionist when these judges will be approved just as we have already approved seven?

Second, the other side simply does not want to talk about the extremely important things and very real problems facing this Nation. Look at any poll, go to any town meeting, and what people in this country and my State of Iowa are concerned about is the economy and jobs. With 8.3 percent unemployment, why wouldn't they be expecting us to work on jobs? There is a small business tax bill that passed the other body. How come we are not taking that up? It is ready to take up. It would probably pass here without much dissent.

Why aren't we taking up a budget this year? It has been 4 years without taking up a budget. This is budget week for most years in the Senate. We are spending more time on deciding judicial nominees who are not going to be filibustered to stop a filibuster that doesn't even exist when we ought to be taking up and spending about the same amount of time on a budget, but no budget for 1,040-some days.

The American people are sitting at home listening to the debate. They want to know how we are going to get the unemployment rate down. They are not concerned about whether the Senate will confirm one of the President's district court nominees this week rather than next week. They are not concerned about this debate we are going to have over the next couple of days. They want to know what we are doing to help their father, mother, brother, and sister get back into the workforce. Given the millions of Americans who remain out of work, why aren't we considering and debating the jobs bill the House just passed?

Why aren't we tackling the energy crisis? With $4 gas in this country, we ought to be talking about drilling here and drilling now. We ought to be talking about building a pipeline. We ought to be talking about, how can we stop sending $833 million every day overseas to buy oil? We ought to be talking about extending the energy tax extenders that have sunset as of December 23.

Unlike the so-called vacancy crisis, the energy crisis is not manufactured. It is real. The rising cost of gasoline matters to millions and millions of Americans. If they are fortunate enough to have a job in this economy, millions of Americans are trying to figure out how they can afford to get to work with the rising cost of gasoline. Rather than spend time working on the energy crisis, which is all too real for millions of Americans, we are spending time on this manufactured controversy of somehow a vacancy crisis, somehow a filibuster against judges. And not one of these judges has had one speech given on the floor of this Senate against them, and probably won't.

What is even worse, this is the week we are supposed to be debating a budget, but you'd need a high-powered microscope to find any budget the majority has put together. The majority has failed to produce a budget, so they manufactured a so-called crisis on nominations to throw up a smoke-screen to hide their failure.

I will have more to say on this subject when we move forward on this debate, but for now I conclude that a fair and impartial examination of how the Senate has treated President Obama's nominees reveals that, contrary to what you hear from the other side, the President's nominees are being treated more fairly. Rather than waste time on the so-called crisis that everyone realizes is entirely manufactured, we should be focusing on those issues that matter deeply to the American people. And according to what I hear at my town meetings, what I hear and read in the papers about what polls show, what candidates for Presidents are talking about—even the President of the United States—is about jobs, about the economy, and tackling our energy crisis.

I urge my colleagues to reject these cloture petitions that have no legitimacy for existing in the first place so we can get back to the business of the American people—the economy and jobs.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. President, are we in morning business?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate is not in morning business.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business for up to 10 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. President, I wish to thank my colleagues today for supporting an amendment by voice vote showing overwhelming support to the Transportation bill that improves "Buy American" provisions by making the waiver process more transparent, giving U.S. manufacturers fair and clear notice when a waiver is sought. It tells the Department of Transportation to report annually on waivers, analyzing what taxpayer dollars are spent on foreign materials and infrastructure projects. While some Members of the Senate may oppose it, it passed in a voice vote, so, in some sense, unanimous almost. But while some Members may oppose it, I hardly ever met anybody in the American public who thinks taxpayer dollars should not go for any infrastructure projects. That is the way you want to do it, and this legislation will move us closer to it. The San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge was the most outrageous example, where much of that steel was made in China when U.S. steelworkers weren't all back at work the way they should be.

I thank Senator BOXER and Senator DURBIN. I thank Senator GRAHAM from South Carolina and Senator MERKLEY for their help on this legislation.

Today President Obama signed into law a trade enforcement measure that last week passed this Chamber by unanimous consent. It is bipartisan legislation—which I cosponsored with Senators BAUCUS and THUNE, primarily—which gives the Commerce Department authority to impose what are called countervailing duties on imports from countries that are nonmarket economies, and that means countries with sort of command-and-control economies, such as the People's Republic of China.

Last year the Federal appeals court issued a ruling that hamstringing our Nation's ability to fight back against illegal Chinese trade practices. Here is why Congress passing this bill is so important. We know China doesn't play by the rules, from direct export subsidies, to currency manipulation, to providing below-market loans to exporters. China does things our country doesn't and many other countries don't. It gives its exporters an unfair advantage.

American industries fight back by petitioning the Commerce Department to investigate these subsidies. Sixteen Ohio companies have petitioned for this relief, including steel pipe companies in Youngstown, paper companies in Miamisburg, aluminum companies in Sidney, and tire manufacturers in Bryan, which is in northwest Ohio near the Indiana-Michigan border. These are good companies. They are not looking for handouts or an unfair edge; they want a level playing field. This legislation does this. When countries such as China don't play by the rules, they suffer. This helps to fix that.

Also today, President Obama announced that his administration would pursue a case at the World Trade Organization against China's hoarding of rare earth materials. Rare earth hoarding is one of the many illegal trade practices China employs to tilt the playing field in its favor. U.S. Manufacturers rely—as they do around the world—on rare earth materials for the production of a number of products, including wind turbines and electronics.

China currently accounts for 97 percent of the world's materials. They impose quotas and heavy tariffs on their export, putting American manufacturers at a severe disadvantage. This almost forces companies to go to China to do the manufacturing because of subsidies the Chinese give to themselves, their own companies, and because of the tariffs they can extract from these companies for export, these raw-material makers for export, our companies are at a severe disadvantage.

Today the administration said that enough is enough. One Ohio CEO told me when I visited his company in northeast Ohio:

As an Ohio-based manufacturing company with roughly 80 percent of our sales outside of the United States, GrafTech has a keen interest in protecting our ability to compete aggressively in the global marketplace. Obtaining key raw materials at a reasonable cost is critical to our mission.

They are not asking for handouts; they are not asking for subsidies; they are just asking others to quit cheating.

Senator PORTMAN and I have repeatedly urged the Obama administration to take this case. Senator PORTMAN, who was a former Bush Trade Representative, who almost always is on the other side of major trade issues from where I am—we came together on this, as we have on other trade issues that matter for our country.

In 2001 the United States had an $83 billion trade deficit with China. Ten years later, last year, there was a $295 billion trade deficit with China. President Bush once said that $1 billion in trade surplus or trade deficit translates to 13,000 jobs. So if our trade deficit grew from $83 billion to $295 billion just with that one country, think of what it does to manufacturing in Springfield and Akron and Cleveland and what it means to a State such as Colorado, what it means to any States that make things in this country. Jobs are at stake, and addressing our trade imbalance with China is essential. To do that, we must make China play fair with the United States.

Not too long ago, the Senate passed the largest bipartisan jobs bill. In 2011 we passed my legislation on currency. The bill would curtail China's ability to illegally manipulate its currency so they could flood our markets with cheap goods, undermining our workers and making it much more difficult for our companies to sell there. After years of China gaining the benefits of WTL membership without adhering to the rules, it is time for the House of Representatives to again pass—as they did when Speaker PELOSI was Speaker—they passed it with an overwhelmingly bipartisan vote. It is time for Speaker BOEHNER to bring up that legislation so we can vote for it. It will mean more companies around my State and around the country will be able to manufacture, will be able to be competitive, will be able to export, will be able to play in the global economy in a fair and balanced way.

Mr. KYL. Mr. President, I rise today in opposition to the Baucus amendment No. 1825. Although I wholeheartedly support full funding for the Payment in Lieu of Taxes, PILT, Program, I have to oppose this amendment because it also includes a reauthorization for what is known as the Secure Rural Schools, SES Program. The SES Program was created in 2000 as a 5-year temporary funding measure to assist rural communities suffering from the loss of timber sale revenue caused by policies that decimated the timber industry in the 1990s. Because it has operated for more than a decade, communities have now come to rely on it, turning it into a “would-be” entitlement program. Though, the program expired last year, and, as painful as it is, we must let it sunset for good. The Federal Government can ill afford to continue to forever finance what was supposed to be a short-term safety net.

I support extending full funding of PILT payments. These payments to local governments help offset losses in property taxes due to nontaxable Federal lands within their boundaries. I recognize that the inability of local governments to collect property taxes on federally owned land can create a negative financial impact, particularly in States like mine that are dominated by Federal land. In Arizona, more than 85 percent of the State is under Federal control. PILT payments are one of the ways the Federal Government can fulfill its role of being a good neighbor to local communities. Had this amendment been limited to full funding for PILT, I would have voted in favor of the amendment.

Ms. KLOBUCHAR. Mr. President, I rise today to speak on the Keystone XL Pipeline project.

I support moving forward with the Keystone Pipeline. TransCanada needs to resubmit an application with a route that resolves Nebraska’s local concerns before we make the decision to approve this project. The company has said they will submit the application soon. I have voted to expedite the approval process, and once the new application that resolves the Nebraska issues is submitted, the approval should be granted.

UNITED STATES RECOGNITION OF CROATIA

Mr. BEGICH. Mr. President, thank you for giving me the opportunity to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the recognition of Croatia by the United States. On April 7, 1992, the United States recognized the Republic of Croatia, setting the stage for our two nations to build lasting U.S. Republic of Croatia bilateral relations.

Today, we remember all of the people who are responsible for creating a democratic and free Croatian state and celebrate the enormous achievements since independence.

Twenty years ago, the people of Croatia had the willpower and endurance to fight for a democratic nation. Filled with the hopes and dreams of a prosperous, new sovereign state, the struggle was not an easy one. Independence never comes easily. Each country can attest in their own history to the enormous sacrifices and the period of unstable, unclear direction their nation was headed. However, we must not forget those who persisted with their self-determination dreams. We can now look back with immense pride in the founding of a country that has accomplished so much in so little time.

After years of war and occupation, Croatia has made remarkable political progress since the end of the war more than 15 years ago. Croatia is a welcomed member of NATO and will soon become the 28th member of the European Union, EU. At the end of 2011, Croatia completed the negotiation process of EU accession, another milestone accomplished. Both of these landmarks came with enormous challenge, and I salute your achievement. There will be challenges on the road to this new future as there have been in the past, but I am confident Croatia will face and overcome them.

Croatia is in a position to play a positive and leading role in assisting countries in the region in their efforts at Euro-Atlantic integration. With the ambitious goal in mind of implementing objectives, which are in line with the highest standards of good governance and partnership, I am optimistic Croatia will lend her expertise to her neighbors. Joining the EU and NATO, with their shared values of democracy, human rights, and rule of law, is perhaps the best way to ensure security and prosperity in the region.

I use this opportunity to state how proud I am of my heritage. As the only Member of the Senate of Croatian descent, I am deeply honored to commemorate and celebrate the remarkable successes of Croatia. I am equally grateful to be witnessing such a pivotal moment in the many advances of our two nations and to highlight the extraordinary cooperation between the United States and Croatia. Our relationship is one to be admired.

Fifteen years ago, Croatia was a security consumer, with United Nations peacekeeping troops deployed throughout the country. It is now a security provider, with 481 troops deployed across the globe, including in Kosovo, the Golan Heights, Afghanistan, Western Sahara, India-Pakistan, Haiti, Lebanon, East Timor, and in counterpiracy operations in the Gulf of Aden. They even had staff officers assigned to NATO operations in Libya, a major accomplishment as we have seen history unfold in Libya just this past year. Croatia contributed to our efforts, and together, we have accomplished much.

Croatia’s troop commitment in Afghanistan—350 is one of the highest per capita contributions in the International Security and Assistance Force there. Croatia has taken the lead in establishing a military police training center in Afghanistan, to which other members in the region also contribute trainers. This cooperation alone, in far away Afghanistan, involving countries that not long ago were embroiled in a vicious war, brings a certain stability to the region of the former Yugoslavia and creates a unique opportunity. In our joint efforts to combat global terrorism, the United States and Croatia have important tasks left ahead.

We are continuously working with Croatia today to create a great, lasting partnership. Cooperating with our southeastern ally has proved to be positive, with enormous payoffs for both countries. Together, our nations continue to work on all issues, including security, trade, business, development, and diplomacy.

I want to reiterate my highest commemoration of Croatia’s accomplishments in recent years of our history and express my sincerest appreciation for Croatia’s determination in achieving the highest standard of diplomacy with our Nation. It is my hope to see even more increase in our exchanges, dialog, and joint bipartisan efforts between our two countries, with many more opportunities for cooperation in the future.

RECOGNIZING THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE GIRL SCOUTS OF THE USA

Mr. LEVIN. A century ago, Juliette Gordon Low proclaimed, “I’ve got something for the girls of Savannah, and all of America, and all the world, and we’re going to start it tonight!” This was the phone call to her cousin that started it all. Ms. Low believed in the power and spirit of young women and was determined to make a difference. And Ms. Low’s dream of creating an organization to develop young woman for pursuits out of the house began with a simple call.

A century later in Congress and across our Nation we celebrate this wonderful organization that has built a significant and undeniable legacy of empowerment. The Girl Scouts of the USA is one of the largest educational organizations for girls in the world and seeks to foster self-reliance and resourcefulness through outdoors activities and volunteerism. The leadership skills and sense of civic awareness nurtured through an array of Girl Scouting activities has touched many lives, helping to mold strong, confident women.

I am a proud cosponsor of S. Res. 310 that designates 2012 as the “Year of the Girl” and congratulates the Girl Scouts of the USA on its 100th anniversary. In addition, I supported legislation authorizing the minting of a commemorative silver dollar coin in 2013 recognizing this centennial celebration. These honors are richly deserved and a fitting tribute to the Girl Scouts. In Michigan, where more than 53,000 active Girl Scouts reside, there are a number of celebrations planned.

Since its inception, more than 50 million women have taken part in Girl Scout activities. These young women have made a difference in the lives of others and in communities across the nation. From a group of 18 in 1912 to an organization of 3.7 million today, the Girl Scouts has consistently sought to shape the lives of young women through fun and diverse scouting activities. The Girls Scouts of the USA has stayed true to its mission to “build girls of courage, confidence, and character, who make the world a better place.” And we don’t have to look very far to see results. Impressively, near 60 percent of women in the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives are former Girl Scouts. Indeed, successful women from all walks of life can surely point to their Girl Scout experience as a valuable part of their formative years.

As we celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Girl Scouts of the USA, I am delighted to offer my sincerest gratitude for the difference the Girl Scouts has made in the lives of young women. From their humble beginnings in Savannah, GA, to the impressive service organization we honor today, the Girl Scouts has had a positive impact on our nation. I look forward to the next 100 years of this remarkable organization and its members.

RECOGNIZING ARKANSAS CHILDREN’S HOSPITAL

• Mr. BOOZMAN. Mr. President, in 1912, the Arkansas Children’s Home Society provided a safe haven for orphaned, neglected and abused children and opened the door to what is known today as the Arkansas Children’s Hospital.

Children’s welfare has always been the focus but over the decades, its approach evolved. What first started as an orphanage transformed into a hospital with the mission to help children most in need.

The facility has grown and thrived. The vision of the early hospital administrators has been realized and the dreams continue to get even bigger.

Today the Arkansas Children’s Hospital is a destination for children from all over the country to receive the best medical care available. Just as important, it is a place that Arkansas children can go, in State and close to home, for treatment for their illnesses.

This is a state of the art facility that is using the newest technology and developing cutting edge treatments and cures for diseases affecting children. The scientists and doctors are advancing the world of medicine to help children lead a healthy and happy life.

Arkansas Children’s Hospital consistently ranks as one of the leading employers in Arkansas. It is the only pediatric Level I trauma center in the State, and it is the sixth largest in the United States. Thousands of Americans have experienced the renowned care offered by the staff and facilities at ACH—many owe their lives to these world-class doctors and nurses that work here.

This hospital is something the people of Arkansas can be proud of, both its history and its vision for the future. I wish to congratulate Dr. Jonathan Bates, president and CEO, as well as the administration, physicians, residents, and support staff on the 100th anniversary of Arkansas Children’s Hospital and I hope for its continued success for another 100 years.●

REMEMBERING CASEY RIBICOFF

• Mr. LIEBERMAN. Mr. President, last year we were all saddened to learn of the passing of Casey Ribicoff, a remarkable woman and the wife of former Connecticut Senator Abe Ribicoff. In honor of Mrs. Ribicoff, I would like to have printed in the RECORD the moving tributes that were given at her funeral by some of those who knew her best.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

SENATOR CHRIS DODD—CASEY RIBICOFF EULOGY

(Tuesday, Sept. 20, 2011)

Thirteen years ago, I stood in this same spot to say goodbye and pay tribute to my friend and political mentor, Senator Abe Ribicoff.

Peter, I am deeply honored that you asked me to share some brief comments this morning to celebrate the life of one of the smartest, most generous, elegant, funny, and downright fascinating people any of us ever met—Abe’s beloved partner, Casey.

I first met Casey Ribicoff in 1974, during my first run for Congress in Connecticut.

Senator Abe Ribicoff was himself up for reelection that year and he invited me to campaign with him in New London. I was excited. The former Judge, Congressman, Governor, Cabinet Member, and Senator, was a larger-than-life figure in Connecticut, and had been an influential force in American politics for the previous 30 years.

My parents, who were deceased by 1974, had been friends and colleagues of Abe Ribicoff’s for many, many years, and I had been in his presence on numerous occasions.

Now, there were many appropriate adjectives to describe the Senator—able, thoughtful, perceptive, conscientious, courageous, and eloquent, to name a few. Funny, fun-loving, joyous—how shall I say this—were not exactly the words that jumped out to you when you thought of the Senator. Abe Ribicoff was a very serious guy.

So, on that fall day in 1974 when I first met Casey, right away, I knew this woman was different—a vibrant, vital force in any room. But on that day in 1974, something else was different—Abe Ribicoff was different. Different than I had ever seen him before. On that day, so many years ago, it was wonderful to see the effect this striking vivacious woman had on Abe Ribicoff.

I remember how much he laughed that day. In all the years I had known him, I had never seen Abe Ribicoff have as much fun as he was having with his lively Casey. What a difference she made in his life.

That year, 1974, Abe Ribicoff was running for what he and Casey knew would be his last term in the United States Senate. I would wager that those last six years were among the most enjoyable in their lives together. Casey and Abe traveled widely, while deepening friendships with people Casey brought into Abe’s life and people with whom Abe had developed a strong relationship in his public life.

When that last term was up in 1980, Abe was so gracious to give the nominating speech for me to succeed him in the United States Senate.

Standing there with Casey, in the Bushnell Auditorium in Hartford, Connecticut, listening to Abe’s speech, I felt her warm hand reach down to hold mine. Without uttering a word, Casey instinctively knew how much I missed my own parents on that very special day.

Now, as touching and sensitive as Casey was, she also had a glorious sense of humor.

Several weeks after that nominating convention, I was with the Senator and Casey. I remember the Senator saying to me, “Chris, I’ll do anything I can to help you win election to the Senate.”

Excitedly, I replied, “Well, Senator, Monday morning at 6 am, I’m shaking hands at the Greenwich railroad station—would you care to join me greeting commuters?”

To which Casey, in a nanosecond, interjected, “If Abe was willing to do that, young man, he would have run again himself.” Abe roared with laughter. More than thirty years later, I still start smiling when I recall that moment.

And, by the way, having just recently retired from electoral politics, I now fully understand her comment.

But that was Casey: warm, funny and feisty.

After Abe retired, as so many of you gathered here this morning will recall, he and Casey lived in Manhattan and their cherished retreat in Cornwall Bridge, where they enjoyed so many wonderful friends and times.

But they weren't strangers to Washington either. Abe and Casey would come down every now and then—not to lobby, but to see old friends.

Abe never once walked onto the Senate floor after he retired in 1980.

Instead, he and Casey would have lunch in the Senate dining room, where a stream of his former colleagues, Democrats and Republicans, would gather to reminisce, and spend time.

Casey Ribicoff was as loyal and supportive a friend as you could ever have. And if you were her friend, as so many of you were, everything about your life was "the best." Every new job you got was "the best." Every accomplishment you achieved was "the best." There is nothing quite like having such an enthusiastic friend.

Now, I don't want to say that Casey was a gossip. So I'll just say that Casey Ribicoff liked to know what was going on—never in a cruel way, but always with a sense of fun and curiosity.

She knew someone in every room, and always found a moment to sidle up and say, in that low, melodious voice of hers, "Soooooo?"

For those few here who may not have known Casey, let me translate that word: "tell me everything that's going on."

For those of us who have faith in life beyond this one, I can easily imagine her deeply engaged in conversation, not just with the bright lights of her own time, but with the great personalities of centuries past. I keep imagining Casey and Oscar Wilde getting along famously.

I called Casey a week or two before she passed away. I wanted to speak with her in my new capacity as chairman of the Motion Picture Association of America to get some advice.

I had this idea. With this year being the 100th anniversary of Ronald Reagan's birth, there were political tributes to his life and career, but it struck me that more than half of the President's adult life was spent in the movie business, at Warner Brothers—and the Motion Picture business might want to recognize the President's years in the movies.

I wanted to write Mrs. Reagan to see how she'd feel about such an event to be held at the Motion Picture Association offices in Washington. But I was smart enough to call Casey first.

I knew that Casey and Nancy Reagan had developed a great friendship due to the fact that both of their husbands had suffered from Alzheimer's. I knew that if Casey thought that such an event honoring President Reagan was a good idea, she would share that with Mrs. Reagan.

And Casey, in that unforgettable voice, immediately and enthusiastically said, "I'll talk to Nancy." And she did. On November 14th, we are going to have an evening of recognition for President Reagan, and how I wish that Casey Ribicoff were going to be there.

Allow me to conclude these remarks on this note: it is a common refrain these days that we don't have enough leaders like Abe Ribicoff in Washington. I think part of the reason for that is that we don't have enough people like Casey Ribicoff in Washington these days either.

Our politics has lost a lot of its civility, because our political community has lost so much of its humanity. Casey Ribicoff had an abundance of both.

She brought intelligence, laughter, warmth and enthusiasm, not just to Abe's life, but to his and her world. And she did it with a natural grace and timeless elegance.

To her sister June and nephew, son Peter, her daughter-in-law, Angela, and her grandchildren—my former Senate Page Andrew, Jake, and Jessica—I offer my deepest condolences and my deepest appreciation for the many gifts Casey Ribicoff gave to so many others in her life.

REMARKS BY PETER MATHES

Every son likes to think of his mother as special . . . but in my case, as you all know, it's absolutely true. She was one of a kind, and as everyone has said, trying to capture who she was and what she meant to us is simply impossible.

But if you were lucky enough to have known her . . . to be someone that she loved, you know just how special that was and how it can never be replaced.

You all know she had a strong sense of what was right . . . and what was wrong. She seemed to always do just the right thing and she had a perfect sense of style that defined her life. . . . You can only imagine how stress free it was to be her son!

I've heard some of you say that she could be "tough" on you if she thought you were doing something she thought was wrong . . . really? Welcome to MY world!

But she was only tough on the ones she loved, and her love for me was unconditional . . . but she was always clear about what she thought . . . from the color of a tie to what I should do in any situation. She had strong opinions . . . and the most annoying thing of all, and something that I would probably never admit to her, was that she was usually right!

But It was this sense of ethics . . . integrity, character and honesty that she instilled in me from an early age that I am most grateful for.

As many of you know, my mother was a great listener . . . she had the ability to understand and simplify everything.

How many times did you tell her a long, complex story only to hear her say: "listen, the bottom line is . . ."? And in two sentences she was able to cut to the heart of the matter.

As I look out at all of you I see friends from every part of her life. From Chicago to Miami Beach . . . Connecticut, Washington and New York.

The fact that you have been in each other's lives for so long is a testament to the kind of person she was . . . In order to have friends like this, you have to know how to be a friend . . . and no one knew that more than Mom.

She was loyal and devoted, and seemed to have an endless capacity to love . . . and she cherished each friendship. . . .

One of the great gifts that I received from my mother is each one of you sitting here today . . . You became her family you became my family . . . you became our family.

There was a recent piece in the Sunday Times about how the word "authentic" is suddenly back in fashion. As I read it, I thought about my mother and how, perhaps, this is the word that actually best describes her.

But perhaps the biggest miracle that happened for my mother, and for me, was when Abe came into our lives.

They had a love for each other that is rarely seen, and my mother kept the memory of Abe and that love alive until the day she died.

She never traveled without a photo of her Abe on the nightstand . . . in fact she continued to celebrate their anniversary even after he died.

And this year was no different. Even though she was so sick she told us all about the day they married and we celebrated together with a bottle of champagne just as they always did.

Abe was the love of her life and a second father to me . . . And of all the things I learned from them, nothing was more important than how they loved each other and how they cherished and protected that love.

She showed me that when you are with the right person it brings out the best in you, which is why she was so happy when I married Angela. She saw in us that rare love that she'd found with Abe and she talked about how this is the greatest gift of all.

I'll never forget when I first told my mother about Angela. Of course one of the first questions she asked was: "What does she do?" I told her she was the head of ABC Daytime, so she immediately hung up on me and hit speed dial for Barbara Walters to check her out.

Barbara simply said: "Yes, I do know her. She's my boss." So you know how happy THAT made her. Over the years she and Angela were more like mother and daughter . . . in fact I tell everyone that Angela became the daughter and I became the son-in-law she always wanted! But the truth is seeing how much they loved each other was a gift to me.

Like you, when I think of my mother I think of her spirit and how she lived life to the fullest. . . .

The very first thing she said to the doctor when she was diagnosed was: "I've had almost 90 great years. . . . NO ONE has had a better life than I". . . . She was in control of her life from the very beginning until the very end.

I've always been impressed with the way she lived her life, but nothing was more impressive than watching the way she chose to leave it.

Never once did she feel sorry for herself or question "why me". She took the news as part of life . . . she couldn't fix it so she simply dealt with it and moved on.

She spoke or emailed with many of you until the end, but in the last months and especially in the last weeks, Angela and I got to see this unbelievable strength of character first hand.

She never complained . . . she wanted her life to be as normal as possible. She continued to read 3 or 4 newspapers a day and still had strong opinions on what was happening in the world and what was happening in the world of fashion!

Angela and I were with her in her final hours. . . . Each tightly holding her hand, telling her how loved and how special she was until she took her last breath. It was an indescribable gift for each of us.

My mother was the first person I saw when I came into this world and I was the last person she saw when she left it.

And have no doubt . . . she was Casey until the very end!

She still looked beautiful and was as intellectually curious as ever. . . .

And of course, she still wanted to hear the gossip from all of you!

We gave her an iPad for Mother's Day and in many ways it became her life line. She was emailing and reading on it until the end. . . . But . . . her confessed addiction on it was playing solitaire!

In fact, when I opened her iPad after she'd gone, the first screen that popped up was the score from her last game of solitaire. She'd had a high score . . . and it read: "YOU WON! Congratulations you aced the game!"

And that you did Mom . . . you aced the game of life and made us all better because of it. I miss you and I love you.

REMARKS OF ANGELA MATHES

First of all Jessye, I have to say thank you. I remember when Casey spoke with Rabbi Sobel and told him that she thought it would be "Divine" if you were to sing "a little Duke Ellington" . . . and I have to say that you took divine to a whole new level!

Chris, Barbara . . . I can't tell you what it feels like listening to you talk about Casey.

And now, what it feels like standing here and seeing how many people have come to celebrate my mother-in-law's incredible life . . . Thinking of how many lives she's touched.

But as many of her close friends will understand, the first thing I thought of was calling her to tell her what she missed . . .

Although I'm sure, as usual, she already knows all about it!

And if there's anyone here who doubts that she still has that power, I'd like to remind you that she's been sending small signs that prove you're wrong: like the earthquake in New York the day after she died . . . and the hurricane 3 days after her burial!

As I was preparing for this tribute, I struggled trying to find the words that best describe Casey . . . I had the same problems I do when I try to describe her to people she's never met.

One problem is trying to use ordinary words to describe an extraordinary person.

Although for me, the biggest problem is that the first word anyone hears is: "mother-in-law". . . . And it immediately sends a chill down their spine. . . .

It's like hearing the words: "teenage daughter" . . .

Honestly, you can't imagine wanting to spend a lot of time with either one of them!

But as many of you know, that wasn't the case with us . . . Casey and I were very close . . . We spoke 3 or 4 times a day for years.

I never felt like a "daughter-in-law" . . . Peter and I were just "the kids", and as I used to tell her: "you can't get any better than that."

We often talked about our mothers. About how much we loved them and how much we missed them . . . and I remember asking her one day to tell me what her mom was like.

She just smiled and said: "she was DEE-lish!" . . .

That when she walked into a room, everything seemed to change . . . she made everyone in the room smile.

And I told Casey that THAT was actually the perfect description of HER! Because it wasn't only about who she was, but it was more about how knowing her enhanced YOUR life!

She was generous with her love to a lot of people, but with me, she was generous in every way. And over the years she's given me many very special gifts. . . .

Most of them came with a story, of how Abe had found it for her, and now she wanted to share it with me.

She told me just how he gave her the gift . . . where she wore it . . . why she loved it. Each thing represented part of her life's story and for me it was a remarkable experience!

But of course, this was Casey. . . . So each thing also came with a set of explicit "suggestions": "I always wear these 2 things together . . . of course, YOU can choose to wear it anyway you wish, it's up to you, but they do look best together."

Now for those of you who don't speak "Casey", let me assure you, that it was NEVER EVER "up to me"!

She taught me more, about the things in life I thought I already knew all about, like the importance of friendship, loyalty, and discretion. . . .

And she also taught me some very important things that I never knew, like: Never wear a watch to a formal affair; always wear your pins high not low; and never put moisturizer on your nose . . . it clogs the pores.

Over the past 10 years, and especially over the last 5 months, she shared a lot of stories with Peter and me. . . .

She said that over her many years, she "collected" a lot of things, but what she treasured most was her collection of wonderful friends.

You know how much she loved you . . . you were her family, and I know that she'd be angry with me if I didn't remind you of that.

But you also need to know that the way you supported her, and supported Peter and me over these last difficult months, has meant more to us than we will ever be able to tell you.

I'm sure that everyone here has some GREAT Casey stories . . . and so you can imagine how hard it was to narrow it down to just one or two.

She was beautiful on the inside and the outside . . . had that great sense of humor, was so smart, so confident . . . she didn't suffer fools, and you can only imagine that, coming from an Italian Mother, how in awe I was at something I'd never experienced before: someone with no-guilt and no regrets!

Casey taught by example.

She showed us all how to live, and in the end, she showed us how to leave this world with that same grace, dignity, sense of humor and style.

And make no mistake . . . she NEVER stopped living life on her terms.

One minute she was telling Rabbi Sobel exactly what she wanted done at her memorial service . . . dictating her death notice to Peter, and the next, she and I were in Akris buying a few little jackets for her to wear in the summer!

One day about a month or so after she was diagnosed, she called me at home about 9:00 in the morning to tell me she had an idea . . . she was thinking of selling a few things on eBay . . . eBay?!

She was 89 years old with lung cancer . . . ONLY Casey!

But Casey told Peter and me 2 things to remember for this memorial:

First: try to hold it together.

And second: keep it short. Two things, might I mention, she knew would be impossible for me to do!

She'd say: "it's called: get real!"

So, for her, I'll try my best to "get real" and tell her what's on my mind:

My Dear Casey,

Thank you . . . thank you for taking me into your life, and into your heart. . . .

For always listening and giving me the best advice in difficult times, and being there to make the good times even better. . . .

For confiding in me, and sharing with me all the wonderful moments of your life.

And for encouraging me, and showing me how to enjoy every moment of mine.

I love you.

And I will think of you, and miss you every day for the rest of my life.

Peter and I will always be your "kids" . . . and we will keep you alive in our hearts forever.

REMARKS OF BARBARA WALTERS

I am Barbara Walters and I am here to represent all of you, her dear friends. She was something else, wasn't she? All the things most people strive to be, she just was. Can't you see her? Elegant. Smart. (She took computer lessons at 80). Fun. Stunning: Black hair, red lips, big smile. Mmm, maybe too thin, but that was part of her look . . . Tom Brokaw described her as "a great dame."

She was the most loving mother to son, Peter and Angela, the daughter-in-law whom she considered to be her daughter. And grandmother to Andrew whom she called the perfect grandson and also so proud of Angela's daughter, Jessica. And then there was Abe . . . the love of her life.

On her tombstone Casey has asked to have engraved, "She was his wife." Of her own life she said, "I loved every bit of it." When Abe was alive, he and Casey were probably the most popular and delightful couple in New York. Casey herself was very active. She was on the board of the Kennedy Center and PBS/WNET. She entertained, enjoyed the theatre-dinner parties and people. She was a great friend to women. How I miss our morning phone calls. She brightened my day and she would love to have heard about this morning. And who came—and who didn't come!

But I want to talk now not of Casey's manner of living but of her manner of death. It was last March when on one of our frequent phone calls I asked routinely, "What's new"? And Casey answered, "I'm pregnant." At age 88, that was a good trick. I laughed and said, "name the baby after me, please." Then she went on, in the same tone, "No I have lung cancer." For a second, I thought she was still kidding. But then, I realized, she wasn't. Said so matter of factly, "I have lung cancer." I couldn't believe it. There were no tears in her voice. No "why me? Just that . . . I have lung cancer." It had not been diagnosed until recently. It was inoperable. She was not going to have any treatment.

"Just please" she said, "continue to call. Send the emails. Let me know what's going on with all the pals." And pals she had. She was the best friend when you were well and a tireless miracle worker when you were not. Doctor's appointments . . . she was there for you. She went with Bill Blass for his every doctor's appointment. She was counselor, friend and comfort to Jerry Zipkin, Glenn Birnbaum and Nick Dunn. Thanksgiving: she took a table every year for all the single guys who might be alone. The dinners became tradition. She was their Auntie Mame. Now those four words, "I have lung cancer."

Peter and Angela began to come in from California almost every week. They wanted to share as many of Casey's good days, as well as the bad that were to come. At first, she could go out a bit . . . maybe to lunch. Then she might allow a friend to pop over. That soon got to be too much for her. But the phone calls were fine . . . she took them all . . . until they also became too much. Exhaustion took over.

Still the emails back and forth continued . . . Less than a week before she died, she was answering emails. "How are you?" she would ask. "How was the party?" "What do you think of Michele Bachmann?" From March to her death on August I never once heard her sob. I never once heard her complain. Or question her fate. When her son, asked in a moment of intimacy, if she was afraid, she said "no" and repeated what a wonderful life she'd had. Peter and Angela were with her until the end. Thank heaven, she was never in pain. As she lay in bed, looking frail but beautiful, Peter held one of her hands, Angela the other. She knew they were with her.

I am telling you all this because Casey not only taught us how to live. She taught us how to die.

After her death, they found a secret stash of cigarettes. Those damn cigarettes.

Oh my darling Casey, there isn't one of us in this sacred room whose life you haven't touched, not one who didn't love you. How could we not?●

TRIBUTE TO NORA WALSH HUSSEY

● Mr. THUNE. Mr. President, today I would like to take this opportunity to honor Nora Walsh Hussey of Sturgis, SD.

Nora has spent countless hours serving her community through a variety of organizations and activities. Nora has been an active participant in Promoting Educational Opportunities, PEO, an organization where women celebrate advancement through achievements in educational opportunities. She has also spent a significant amount of time volunteering as a Court Appointed Special Advocate, CASA, which supports abused and neglected children. While Nora spends the majority of her time volunteering for various organizations in the community, she also enjoys participating in bridge clubs, golfing, and cruising.

Nora's achievements are not limited to her work on behalf of South Dakotans. In 1981, Nora was confirmed by the U.S. Senate to become the first non-Coloradan to supervise the Denver Mint. While supervising the mint, Nora was acknowledged by many employees for her exemplary service.

I want to join Nora's family and friends in recognizing her more than 50 years of community service and celebrating her 97th birthday on March 26, 2012. I extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to Nora for all she has done for her fellow South Dakotans and wish her continued success in years to come.●

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. HARKIN (for himself, Mr. GRASSLEY, and Mr. LEAHY):

S. 2189. A bill to amend the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 and other laws to clarify appropriate standards for Federal antidiscrimination and antiretaliation claims, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions.

Mr. HARKIN: Mr. President, today I join with my senior colleague from Iowa, Senator GRASSLEY, and with the distinguished chair of the Judiciary Committee, Senator LEAHY, in introducing the Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act.

The need for this legislation was vividly demonstrated by the experience of an Iowan—Jack Gross. Mr. Gross gave the prime of his life, a quarter century of loyal service, to one company. Despite Mr. Gross's stellar work record, the company brazenly demoted him and other employees over the age of 50 and gave his job to a younger employee.

Expressly to prevent this kind of discrimination, over 40 years ago Congress passed the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, ADEA. Modeled from and using the same language as Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964—which prohibits employment discrimination on the basis of race, sex, national origin and religion—the ADEA makes it unlawful to discriminate on the basis of age.

When Mr. Gross sought to enforce his rights under this law, a jury of Iowans heard the facts and found that his employer discriminated against him because of his age. That jury awarded him almost $47,000 in lost compensation.

The case was ultimately appealed to the Supreme Court. In June 2009, in Gross v. FBL Financial, Inc., five justices effectively rewrote the law and ruled against Mr. Gross. In doing so, the Court made it harder for those with legitimate age discrimination claims to prevail under the ADEA. In fact, on remand, despite the fact Mr. Gross had established that age discrimination was a factor in his demotion, he lost his retrial.

For decades, the law was clear. In 1989, in Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins, the Court ruled that if a plaintiff seeking relief under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act demonstrated that discrimination was a “motivating” or “substantial” factor behind the employer's action, the burden shifted to the employer to show it would have taken the same action regardless of the plaintiff's membership in a protected class. As part of the Civil Rights Act of 1991, Congress codified the “motivating factor” standard with respect to Title VII discrimination claims.

Since the ADEA uses the same language as Title VII, was modeled from it, and had been interpreted consistent with the Civil Rights Act, courts rightly and consistently held that, like a plaintiff claiming discrimination on the basis of race, sex, religion and national origin, a victim bringing suit under the ADEA need only show that membership in a protected class was a “motivating factor” in an employer's action. If an employee showed that age was one factor in an employment decision, the burden was on the employer to show it had acted for a legitimate reason other than age.

In Gross, the Court, addressing a question on which it did not grant certiorari, tore up this decades' old standard. In its place, the Court imposed a standard that makes it prohibitively difficult for a victim to prove age discrimination. According to the Court, a plaintiff bears the full burden of proving that age was not only a “motivating” factor but the “but for” factor, or decisive factor. And, unfortunately, lower courts have applied Gross to other civil rights claims, including cases arising under the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Rehabilitation Act and retaliation cases under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The extremely high burden Gross imposes radically undermines workers' ability to hold employers accountable. Bear in mind, unlawful discrimination is often difficult to detect. Obviously, those who discriminate do not often admit they are acting for discriminatory reasons. Employers rarely post signs saying, for example, “older workers need not apply.” To the contrary, they go out of their way to conceal their true intent. And, only the employer is in a position to know his own mind and offer an explanation of why a decision that involves discrimination or retaliation was actually motivated by legitimate reasons. By putting the entire burden on the worker to demonstrate the absence or insignificance of other factors, the Court in effect has freed employers to discriminate or retaliate.

Unfortunately, as Mr. Gross and his colleagues know all too well, age discrimination does indeed occur. Countless thousands of American workers who are not yet ready to voluntarily retire find themselves jobless or passed over for promotions because of age discrimination. Older workers often face stereotypes: That they are not as productive as younger workers; that they cannot learn new skills; that they somehow have a lesser need for income to provide for their families.

Indeed, according to an AARP study, 60 percent of older workers have reported that they or someone they know has faced age discrimination in the workplace. According to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, in fiscal year 2011, over 23,000 age discrimination claims were filed, a more than 20 percent increase from just four years ago. And, given the stereotypes that older workers face, it is no surprise that on average they remain unemployed for more than twice as long as all unemployed workers.

The Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act reiterates the principle that Congress established when it passed the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act—when making employment decisions it is illegal for race, sex, national origin, religion, age or disability to be a factor.

The bill repudiates the Supreme Court's Gross v. FBL Financial decision and will restore the law to what it was for decades. It makes clear that when an employee shows discrimination was a “motivating factor” behind a decision, the burden is properly on the employer to show the same decision would have been made regardless of discrimination or retaliation. And, like the Civil Rights Act of 1991 with respect to discrimination cases under Title VII, if the employer meets that burden, the employer remains liable, but remedies are limited.

This is a common sense, bipartisan bill. In fact, the Civil Rights Act of 1991, key provisions of which served as a model for this legislation, passed the Senate on a bipartisan basis 93-5. Further, we are introducing this bill only after countless hours of consultation with civil rights stakeholders and representatives of the business community. Moreover, this bill addresses many of the concerns that were raised about an earlier version of the bill at a hearing held before the Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee in March 2010.

In fact, I want to comment on two changes from that earlier version of this bill introduced in the last Congress. Since October 2009, when Senator LEAHY and I first introduced the Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act, we have had the benefit of nearly two and a half years of lower court application of the Gross decision.

The 2009 bill would have expressly amended the ADEA to make clear that the analytical framework set out in McDonnell Douglas v. Green applied to that statute. Even though, before Gross, every Court of Appeals had held that McDonnell Douglas had applied to age claims, this clarification was meant to address a footnote in Gross in which the Court arguably questioned the applicability of McDonnell Douglas to the ADEA. Since the bill was first introduced, however, every lower court that has examined the issue has continued to apply McDonnell Douglas to the ADEA. As a result, because McDonnell Douglas applies to the ADEA already, we deem it unnecessary to amend the statute.

Second, the initial bill expressly amended only the ADEA. Since Gross, however, lower courts have applied the Court's reasoning in that decision to other statutes. Because the most notable application has been to the ADA, Rehabilitation Act and Title VII retaliation claims, those statutes are expressly amended here too.

Finally, in Gross, the Court defended the Court's departure from well-established law by noting that it "cannot ignore Congress' decision to amend Title VII's relevant provisions but not make similar changes to the ADEA." In other words, the Court found that because Congress, in the Civil Rights Act of 1991, codified the "motivating factor" framework for Title VII, but not for the ADEA, Congress somehow must have intended Price Waterhouse not to apply to any statute but Title VII.

Because of the Court's reasoning, I want to emphasize that this bill in no way questions the motivating factor framework for other anti-discrimination and anti-retaliation statutes that are not expressly covered by the legislation. As the bill's findings make clear, not only does this bill repudiate the Gross decision itself, but it expressly repudiates the reasoning underlying the decision, including the argument that Congress's failure to amend any statute other than Title VII means that Congress intended to disallow mixed motive claims under other statutes. It would be an error for a court to apply similar reasoning following passage of this bill to other statutes. The fact that other statutes are not expressly amended does not mean that Congress endorses Gross's application to any other statute.

In conclusion, this bill is very straightforward. It reiterates what Congress said 40 years ago when it passed the ADEA—when making employment decisions it is illegal for age to be a factor. A person should not be judged arbitrarily because he or she was born in a certain year or earlier when he or she still has the ability to contribute as much, or more, as the next person. This bill will help ensure that all our citizens will have an equal opportunity, commensurate with their abilities, for productive employment.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the text of the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2189

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) In enacting the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (referred to in this section as the "ADEA"), Congress intended to eliminate workplace discrimination against individuals 40 and older based on age.

(2) In enacting the Civil Rights Act of 1991, Congress reaffirmed its understanding that unlawful discrimination is often difficult to detect and prove because discriminators do not usually admit their discrimination and often try to conceal their true motives.

(3) Congress intended that courts would interpret Federal statutes, such as the ADEA, that are similar in their text or purpose to title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, in ways that were consistent with the ways in which courts had interpreted similar provisions in that title VII. The Supreme Court's decision in Gross v. FBL Financial Services, Inc., 129 S. Ct. 2343 (2009), departed from this intent and circumvented well-established precedents.

(4) Congress disagrees with the Supreme Court's interpretation, in Gross, of the ADEA and with the reasoning underlying the decision, specifically language in which the Supreme Court—

(A) interpreted Congress' failure to amend any statute other than title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 in enacting section 107 of the Civil Rights Act of 1991 (adding section 703(m) of the Civil Rights Act of 1964), to mean that Congress intended to disallow mixed motive claims under other statutes;

(B) declined to apply the Supreme Court's ruling in Price Waterhouse v. Hopkins, 490 U.S. 228 (1989), a part of which was subsequently approved by Congress, and enacted into law by section 107 of the Civil Rights Act of 1991, as section 703(m) of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which provides that an unlawful employment practice is established when a protected characteristic was a motivating factor for any employment practice, even though other factors also motivated the practice;

(C) interpreted causation language and standards, including the words "because of" that are similar in their text or purpose to title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, in a manner that departed from established precedent;

(D) held that mixed motive claims were unavailable under the ADEA; and

(E) indicated that other established causation standards and methods of proof, including the use of any type or form of admissible circumstantial or direct evidence as recognized in Desert Palace Inc. v. Costa, 539 U.S. 90 (2003), or the availability of the analytical framework set out in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green, 411 U.S. 792 (1973), might not apply to the ADEA.

(5) Lower courts have applied Gross to a wide range of Federal statutes, such as the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12101 et seq.).

(6) The Gross decision has significantly narrowed the scope of protections intended to be afforded by the ADEA.

(7) Congress must restore and reaffirm established causation standards and methods of proof to ensure victims of unlawful discrimination and retaliation are able to enforce their rights.

(b) PURPOSES.—The purposes of this Act include—

(1) to restore the availability of mixed motive claims and to reject the requirements the Supreme Court enunciated in Gross v. FBL Financial Services, Inc., 129 S. Ct. 2343 (2009), that a complaining party always bears the burden of proving that a protected characteristic or protected activity was the "but for" cause of an unlawful employment practice;

(2) to reject the Supreme Court's reasoning in Gross that Congress' failure to amend any statute other than title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, in enacting section 107 of the Civil Rights Act of 1991, suggests that Congress intended to disallow mixed motive claims under other statutes; and

(3) to establish that under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (29 U.S.C. 621 et seq.), title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C. 2000e et seq.), the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (42 U.S.C. 12101 et seq.), and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. 701 et seq.), complaining parties—

(A) may rely on any type or form of admissible evidence to establish their claims;

(B) are not required to demonstrate that the protected characteristic or activity was the sole cause of the employment practice; and

(C) may demonstrate an unlawful practice through any available method of proof, including the analytical framework set out in McDonnell Douglas Corp. v. Green, 411 U.S. 792 (1973).

SEC. 3. STANDARDS OF PROOF.

(a) AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT OF 1967.—

This Act, and the amendments made by this Act, shall apply to all claims pending on or after the date of enactment of this Act.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, today, I am pleased to join Senators HARKIN and GRASSLEY in introducing the Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act. This bipartisan bill seeks to restore crucial worker protections that have been cast aside by a narrow, 5-4 Supreme Court decision. The bill also reaffirms the contributions made by older Americans in the workforce and ensures that employees will be evaluated based on their performance and not by arbitrary criteria such as age.

Congress has long worked to enact civil rights laws to eliminate discrimination in the workplace. In 1967, Congress passed the Age Discrimination and Employment Act, ADEA, with the intent to extend protections against workplace discrimination to older workers. We strengthened these protections in the Civil Rights Act of 1991, which passed in the Senate 93 to five. These statutes established a clear legal standard and Congressional intent: an employer’s decision to fire or demote an employee may not be motivated in whole or in part by the employee’s age.

However, the 2009 Supreme Court decision in Gross v. FBL unilaterally erased that clear legal standard. A slim 5-4 majority threw out a jury verdict in favor of Jack Gross, a 32-year employee of a major financial company, who sued under the ADEA. The jury had concluded that age was a motivating factor in the company’s decision to demote Gross and reassign his duties to a younger, significantly less qualified worker. But a divisive Supreme Court ignored its own precedent and congressional intent.

Five justices decided that workers like Mr. Gross must now prove that age was the only motivating factor in a demotion or termination. The Court also required workers to essentially introduce a “smoking gun” in order to prove discrimination. By imposing such high standards, the Court sided with big business and made it easier for employers to discriminate on the basis of age with impunity so long as they could cloak it with another reason. As Mr. Gross stated during a Judiciary Committee hearing that I held shortly after this controversial decision was handed down, “I feel like my case has been hijacked by the high court for the sole purpose of rewriting both the letter and the spirit of the ADEA.”

The Supreme Court’s divisive holding has created much uncertainty in our civil rights laws and it is incumbent on Congress to clarify our intent and the statutory protections that all hard-working Americans deserve. The Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act restores the original intent of the ADEA and three other Federal anti-discrimination statutes. It makes clear that employers cannot get away with age discrimination by simply coming up with a reason to terminate an employee that sounds less controversial. The bill re-establishes Congress’ intent that age discrimination is unlawful even if it is only part of the reason to demote a worker. Under the bill, a worker would also be able to introduce any relevant admissible form of evidence to show discrimination, whether the evidence is direct or circumstantial.

To avoid future misreading of congressional intent, I encourage Federal courts to take particular note of the carefully negotiated “Findings and Purposes” section in this bipartisan bill. The bill unequivocally rejects the Supreme Court’s reasoning in Gross not only in age discrimination cases but in all cases where courts have applied this case as binding precedent. In other words, Gross is not the proper legal standard for anti-discrimination statutes, whether or not a particular statute is directly amended by this bill.

I commend Senator HARKIN for his efforts over the past three years to negotiate a bipartisan bill to restore the civil rights protections that all Americans deserve in the workplace. I also thank Senator GRASSLEY, the Ranking Member of the Judiciary Committee, for his commitment to this issue. I urge my fellow Senators to join this bipartisan effort and show their commitment to ending age discrimination in the workplace. In these difficult economic times, hardworking Americans deserve our help. We must not allow a thin majority of the Supreme Court to eliminate the protections that Congress has enacted for them.

Whereas the Chicago Summit presents an opportunity to show to the world the Heartland of the United States—the site of the first elevated railway, the first skyscraper in the world, the busiest futures exchange in the world, and the starting point for historic Route 66;

Whereas the thousands of visitors to the Chicago Summit will have the opportunity to enjoy the hospitality of the city of Chicago, the 77 distinct neighborhoods in Chicago, and the State of Illinois; and “(a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (c), for purposes of this Act, the Commission may accept transfers of funds from other Federal agencies.

“(b) TRANSFERS.—Any Federal agency authorized to carry out an activity that is within the authority of the Commission may transfer to the Commission any appropriated funds for the activity.

“(c) TREATMENT.—Any funds transferred to the Commission under this subsection—

“(1) shall remain available until expended; and

“(2) may, to the extent necessary to carry out this Act, be transferred to, and merged with, the amounts made available by appropriations Acts for the Commission by the Federal Cochairperson.”.

SEC. 15 . UPDATED CORROSION CONTROL AND PREVENTION REPORT.

Not later than 30 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit to Congress an updated report on the costs and benefits of the prevention and control of corrosion on the surface transportation infrastructure of the United States.

SEC. 15 . HARBOR MAINTENANCE TRUST FUND.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1) there are 926 coastal, Great Lakes, and inland harbors maintained by the Corps of Engineers;

(2) according to the Bureau of Transportation Statistics—

(A) in 2009, the ports and waterways of the United States handled more than 2,200,000,000 short tons of imports, exports, and domestic shipments; and

(B) in 2010, United States ports were responsible for more than $1,400,000,000,000 in waterborne imports and exports;

(3) according to the Congressional Research Service, full channel dimensions are, on average, available approximately ⅓ of the time at the 59 harbors of the United States with the highest use rates;

(4) insufficient maintenance dredging of the navigation channels of the United States results in inefficient water transportation and causes harmful economic consequences;

(5) in 1986, Congress created the Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund to provide funds for the operation and maintenance of the navigation channels of the United States;

(6) in fiscal year 2012, the Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund is expected to grow from $6,280,000,000 to $7,011,000,000, an increase of approximately 13 percent;

(7) despite the growth of the Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund, expenditures from the Fund have not equaled revenues, and the Fund is not being fully used for the intended purpose of the Fund; and

(8) inadequate investment in dredging needs is restricting access to the ports of the United States for domestic shipping, imports, and exports and therefore threatening the economic competitiveness of the United States.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that—

(1) the Administration should request full use of the Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund for operating and maintaining the navigation channels of the United States;

(2) the amounts in the Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund should be fully expended to operate and maintain the navigation channels of the United States; and

(3) Congress should ensure that other programs, projects, and activities of the Civil Works Program of the Corps of Engineers, especially those programs, projects, and activities relating to inland navigation and flood control, are not adversely impacted.

SEC. 15 . ENRICHMENT TECHNOLOGY AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY.

(a) In addition to any other transfer authority, the Secretary may transfer, not earlier than thirty days after certification to the Committees on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Senate that such transfer is needed for national security reasons, and after Congressional notification and approval of the Committees on Appropriations of the House of Representatives and the Senate, up to $150,000,000 made available in prior Appropriations Acts to further the development and demonstration of national security-related enrichment technologies. No amounts may be transferred under this section from amounts that were designated by the Congress as an emergency requirement pursuant to the Concurrent Resolution on the Budget or the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

(b) The Secretary shall provide, directly or indirectly, Federal funds, resources, or other benefit for the research, development, or deployment of domestic enrichment technology under this section—

(1) using merit selection procedures; and

(2) only if the Secretary shall execute an agreement with the recipient (or any affiliate, successor, or assignee) of such funds, resources, or other benefit (hereinafter referred to as the “recipient”), which shall require, at a minimum—

(A) the achievement of specific technical criteria by the recipient by specific dates no later than June 30, 2014;

(B) that the recipient shall—

(i) immediately upon execution of the agreement, grant to the United States for use by or on behalf of the United States, through the Secretary, a royalty-free, non-exclusive license in all enrichment-related intellectual property and associated technical data owned, licensed or otherwise controlled by the recipient as of the date of enactment of this Act, or thereafter developed or acquired to meet the requirements of the agreement;

(ii) amend any existing agreement between the Secretary and the recipient to permit the Secretary to practice or permit third parties on behalf of the Secretary to practice intellectual property and associated technical data related to the award of funds, resources, or other benefit royalty-free for government purposes, including completing or operating enrichment technologies and using them for national defense purposes, such as providing nuclear material to operate commercial nuclear power reactors for tritium production; and

(iii) as soon as practicable, deliver to the Secretary all technical information and other documentation in its possession or control necessary to permit the Secretary to use and practice all intellectual property related to domestic enrichment technologies; and

(C) any other condition or restriction the Secretary determines is necessary to protect the interests of the United States.

(c) If the Secretary determines that a recipient has not achieved the technical criteria under the agreement pursuant to subsection (b), either by the dates specified in the original agreement or by June 30, 2014, whichever is earlier, the recipient shall, as soon as practicable, surrender custody, possession and control, or return, as appropriate, any real or personal property owned or leased by the recipient, to the Secretary in connection with the deployment of enrichment technology, along with all capital improvements, equipment, fixtures, appurtenances, and other improvements thereto, and any further obligation by the Secretary under any such lease shall terminate.

(d)(1) The limitations in this section shall apply to funds made available in this Act, prior Appropriations Acts, and any future Appropriations Acts.

(2) This section shall not apply with regard to the issuance of any loan guarantee pursuant to section 1703 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (42 U.S.C. 16513).

(e) For purpose of this section, the term "Secretary" shall mean the Secretary of the Department of Energy.

OF IOWA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 13, 2012

TRAUMATIC BRAIN INJURY AWARENESS MONTH—HONORING SERGEANT FIRST CLASS VICTOR MEDINA

HON. SILVESTRE REYES

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 13, 2012

Mr. REYES. Mr. Speaker, as our nation recognizes Traumatic Brain Injury Awareness Month, I rise to honor Sergeant First Class Victor Medina who was wounded in Iraq by an Improvised Explosive Device. Victor and his wife Roxana Delgado continue to work selflessly to provide encouragement and support for his fellow Wounded Warriors, even as they deal with the effects of Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI).

SFC Victor Medina was wounded in the summer of 2009 by an explosive formed projectile while in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. The blast left SFC Medina with TBI, and he spent nearly two months receiving care at the Department of Defense's Landstuhl Regional Medical Center in Germany before returning home to El Paso, Texas.

After 16 months of rehabilitation, SFC Medina still copes with lingering side effects. He continues to have problems with vision, hearing, balance, headaches, and speech; however, regardless of his symptoms SFC Medina believes that 'with or without injury we are all responsible for our actions and our future. Life is about decisions, and you can choose to stand up and make the best out of your life.' SFC Medina did just that. He chose not to be a victim; he chose to be a warrior. Since then, SFC Medina has been empowering and motivating others struggling with TBI to set their sights on a brighter future.

SFC Medina along with his wife, Roxana Delgado, created a blog during his recovery to provide insight on the effects of TBI. The couple has written about their struggles and triumphs in dealing with the issue, and their blog eventually morphed into a Web site, www.tbiwarrior.com. The blog raises awareness and understanding of TBI and serves to empower survivors and caregivers through education and advocacy while providing resources to heal with hope.

Each year approximately 1.7 million Americans experience TBI, and an estimated 3.2 million Americans are living with severe, long-term disabilities caused by it. TBI has been named the signature injury for troops wounded in Afghanistan and Iraq with an estimated 360,000 brain-injured men and women returning home from the battlefield.

As we commemorate National Traumatic Brain Injury Month, it is my great honor to share Victor and Roxana's story for inclusion in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD and to recognize their outstanding contributions to the Traumatic Brain Injury warrior community in El Paso, in the State of Texas, and throughout our nation.

Brave service members like SFC Medina answer the call of duty and make tremendous sacrifices for our country. As a combat veteran myself, I salute all of our courageous men and women in the Armed Forces and the families who support them. For SFC Medina and other TBI warriors, TBI is not the end; it can be a new beginning.

COMMEMORATION OF TAIWAN'S "2-28 MASSACRE"

HON. ROBERT E. ANDREWS

OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 13, 2012

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to observe the 65th commemoration of Taiwan's "2-28 Massacre." The massacre was an anti-government uprising in Taiwan that began on February 28, 1947 and was violently suppressed by General Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist Kuomintang (KMT) government during the following weeks. Estimates of the number of deaths vary from ten thousand to thirty thousand.

In the fall of 1945, 50 years of Japanese occupation of Taiwan ended after Japan had lost World War II. In October of that year, the United Nations handed administrative control of Taiwan to the KMT-administered Republic of China, ROC. Sixteen months of KMT administration on Taiwan led to the widespread impression among the people of Taiwan that the party was plagued by nepotism, corruption, and economic failure.

Tensions increased between the Taiwanese people and the ROC administration. The flashpoint came on February 28, 1947 when in Taipei a dispute between a female cigarette vendor and an officer of the Government's Office of Monopoly triggered civil disorder and open rebellion by the native Taiwanese against KMT repression.

During the following weeks, Chiang's government sent troops from China to Taiwan. The Chinese soldiers started to round up and execute a whole generation of a Taiwanese elite of lawyers, doctors, students, professors etc. . .

It is estimated that up to 30,000 people lost their lives during the turmoil. During the following four decades, the Chinese Nationalists continued to rule Taiwan with an iron fist under a Martial Law that would not be lifted until 1987.

Mr. Speaker, the Massacre had far reaching implications. Over the next half century, the Taiwanese democracy movement that grew out of the event helped pave the way for Taiwan's momentous transformation from a dictatorship under the Chinese Nationalists to a thriving and pluralistic democracy.

In some ways, the 2-28 massacre was Taiwan's "Boston Massacre" for both events functioned as the cradle of a move by both peoples to full democracy and helped galvanize the strive to independence.

Mr. Speaker, I have said it before: "Freedom is not negotiable." May the lessons learned from the 2-28 Massacre continue to inspire the people of Taiwan in their struggle for freedom, full independence, international participation, and for the continued enhancement of the mutual relationship between Taiwan and the United States.

I urge my colleagues to join me in commemorating this sad but important historical event.

WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

HON. SILVESTRE REYES

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 13, 2012

Mr. REYES. Mr. Speaker, in honor of Women's History Month, I rise today to recognize women leaders and their many contributions to our community.

Recently, we celebrated the significant advancement in girls' participation in sports as we commemorated the 25th annual National Girls and Women in Sports Day and the 40th anniversary of Title IX. Today, I want to recognize the incredible accomplishments of the University of Texas at El Paso's (UTEP) women's basketball team for winning the 2012 Conference USA Championship, and the 2012 Conference USA Regular Season Title for the second time in the past five years. These talented young women serve as positive role models for the El Paso community.

● This "bullet" symbol identifies statements or insertions which are not spoken by a Member of the Senate on the floor.

Matter set in this typeface indicates words inserted or appended, rather than spoken, by a Member of the House on the floor.

I want to congratulate Keitha Adams for being named Conference USA Coach of the Year. This is the second time Coach Adams has been honored with this title, and her leadership helped the UTEP program win two Conference USA regular season titles in the last five years. I also want to congratulate Gloria Brown for winning Conference USA Sixth Player of the Year for a second-consecutive season, and El Paso's own Kayla Thornton, an Irvin High School graduate, was recognized as an All-Conference USA performer.

These remarkable women not only strengthen themselves, their families and the El Paso community, but they serve as an inspiration to encourage schools and the El Paso community to increase opportunities for girls and women in sports.

El Paso, Texas, has a rich history and is home to strong and passionate women who have played critical roles in making higher education a reality, promoting our small businesses, serving El Paso as public servants, safeguarding our community, and ensuring access to health care for children, families and seniors.

Leaders like Dr. Diana Natalicio of the University of Texas at El Paso; Cindy Ramos-Davidson of the El Paso Hispanic Chamber of Commerce; Belen Robles, the first female president of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC); Dr. Blanca Enriquez, life-long educator and Associate Executive Director for Head Start; Rosa Guerrero, a pioneer educator, artist, renowned dancer, and humanitarian; and Suzie Azar, El Paso's first and only woman Mayor. These remarkable women, and many others, have made history in the border region, and we are blessed that they call El Paso home.

Mr. Speaker, while women have achieved great success, we recognize women still face many challenges and there is still much work to be done. This month, I reaffirm my commitment to policies and initiatives that support more and better opportunities for women and girls.

HONORING GIRL SCOUTS IN AMERICA

HON. REID J. RIBBLE

OF WISCONSIN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 13, 2012

Mr. RIBBLE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the efforts of Girl Scout Ambassador Mara Scherer. Ms. Scherer has been a Girl Scout for 12 years, and recently unveiled her exhibit at the New London Public Museum celebrating the 100th Anniversary of the Girl Scouts in America. This exhibit represents her Gold Award project, the highest award a Girl Scout can attain.

Mr. Speaker, I also ask you to join me in celebrating the life of Juliette Gordon Low, the visionary founder of Girl Scouts in America. She established the first troop on March 12, 1912, in Savannah, Georgia. For the last century, Girl Scouts in America has had a positive impact on young girls throughout the country by teaching them values, life-skills and giving them opportunities to improve their communities.

I commend Ms. Scherer for this project, and I congratulate the Girl Scouts in America on their 100th anniversary for keeping their promise to serve God and country, to help their neighbors and to keep the Girl Scout Law.

A TRIBUTE TO RIC JURGENS

HON. TOM LATHAM

OF IOWA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, March 13, 2012

Mr. LATHAM. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the retirement of Hy-Vee Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Ric Jurgens, and to express my appreciation for his years of service to his company and to the people of Iowa.

For Ric, successfully assuming the head responsibilities of one of the Midwest's largest grocery companies was no accident. He has been a dedicated employee of Hy-Vee for 42 years. His career with Hy-Vee began as a part-time employee, stocking shelves in Ames, while pursuing his degree at Iowa State University. Upon graduation, Mr. Jurgens was offered his first full-time position in the company and has been climbing the ranks ever since. Most notably, in 2001, Mr. Jurgens became Hy-Vee's third president in company history; two years later Ric would be elected as Hy-Vee's CEO and by 2006 he had been elected as Chairman of the Board.

Mr. Jurgens' successful tenure is one that will never be forgotten by the Hy-Vee family. Under Ric, Hy-Vee enjoyed record sales to the tune of a staggering 7.3 billion dollars for 2011 from 235 stores across eight states. Ric has overseen Hy-Vee's transformation from a respectable grocery store chain to an industry-leading powerhouse that still prides itself on staying true to its foundation—the employees. Above all, the employee owned Hy-Vee will always be about rewarding hard work, even providing the unique opportunity for a part-time employee to someday hold the company's highest office.

Mr. Speaker, throughout his entire professional career, Ric has never wavered in his commitment to providing excellent service and quality products to the people of Iowa and the Midwest. While Hy-Vee will surely miss Mr. Jurgens' expertise, he leaves his company, which is stronger than ever, in good hands. I ask the House to join me in congratulating Mr. Jurgens on a job well done, and I wish Ric and his wife Carol a long, happy and healthy retirement.
