BACKGROUND

PURPOSE OF THE BILL

This bill makes appropriations for the military functions of the Department of Defense for the period October 1, 2005, through September 30, 2006. Functional areas include the pay, allowances, and support of military personnel, operation and maintenance of the forces, procurement of equipment and systems, and research, development, test and evaluation. Appropriations for foreign military assistance, military construction, family housing, nuclear weapons programs, and civil defense are provided in other bills.

HEARINGS

The Appropriations Subcommittee on Defense began hearings on March 2, 2005, and concluded them on May 18, 2005, after 10 separate sessions. The subcommittee heard testimony from representatives of the Department of Defense, other Federal agencies, representatives of organizations, and the public.

SUMMARY OF THE BILL

The Committee recommendation of $440,216,117,000 includes $390,216,117,000 in non-contingency spending to develop, maintain, and equip the military forces of the United States and $50,000,000 in spending for contingency operations related to the Global War on Terror. The funding for contingency operations is made available pursuant to section 402 of H. Con. Res. 95 (109th Congress), the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2006.

The fiscal year 2006 budget request for activities funded in the Department of Defense Appropriations bill totals $397,214,410,000 in new budget authority. The request includes $244,600,000 in mandatory spending.

In fiscal year 2005, the Congress appropriated $494,000,570,000 for activities funded in this bill. This amount includes $391,155,312,000 in non-emergency appropriations and $102,845,258,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations.

Excluding supplemental appropriations, the Committee recommendation in this bill is $937,195,000 below the amount provided in fiscal year 2005 and $6,998,293,000 below the amount requested for fiscal year 2006.

HOUSE ALLOWANCE

Titles I, II, and VI of the Committee recommendation contains some items funded by the House of Representatives in a different bill, H.R. 2528. The Committee believes that it is appropriate to fund these items in this bill, H.R. 2863. For ease of comparison, the Committee report sets forth in Titles I, II, and VI a “House allowance” as if these items had been contained in the House passed bill. These items were contained in H.R. 2528, as passed by the House, but are not contained in the Committee recommendation to the Senate on that bill. The following is a summary of the “House allowance” displayed in the Committee’s recommendation for Titles I, II, and VI:

TITLE I
MILITARY PERSONNEL

Funds appropriated under this title provide the resources required for basic pay, retired pay accrual, employers' contribution for Social Security taxes, basic allowance for subsistence, special and incentive pays, permanent change of station travel, and other personnel costs for uniformed members of the Armed Forces.

The President's fiscal year 2006 budget requests a total of $98,235,263,000 for military personnel appropriations. This request funds an Active component end strength of 1,367,500 and a Reserve component end strength of 848,500.

SUMMARY OF COMMITTEE ACTION

The Committee recommends military personnel appropriations totaling $95,680,837,000 for fiscal year 2006. This is $2,554,426,000 below the budget estimate.

The Committee recommends funding an Active component end strength of 1,410,500 for fiscal year 2006, an increase of 43,000 above the budget estimate. The Committee recommends funding a Reserve component end strength of 848,500 for fiscal year 2006, the same as the budget estimate.

Committee recommended military personnel appropriations for fiscal year 2006 are summarized below:

MILITARY PERSONNEL OVERVIEW

The Committee notes that the fiscal year 2006 budget estimate of $98,235,263,000 for military personnel is $6,576,295,000 below last year's request, but this year's estimate does not include $10,707,483,000 to support the defense health accrual for military retirees. Consequently, the net effect is that the fiscal year 2006 budget estimate reflects an increase of $4,131,188,000 or 4.4 percent over last year, and provides funding for pay, allowances, enlistment and re-enlistment bonuses, subsistence, and other personnel costs. With past efforts to improve pay and benefits, along with the Global War on Terror and the Defense Department's efforts to recruit and retain a quality force, funding for personnel is a high priority and shares a growing portion of total defense spending.

Active Component End Strength.—The Committee supports the President's budget request for a decrease of 13,200 to Navy Active component end strength and for a decrease of 2,300 to Air Force Active component end strength. Additionally, the Committee supports the additional end strength for the Army and Marine Corps as recommended in S. 1042, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006. For the Army, the authorized Active component end strength equals 522,400, an increase of 20,000 over fiscal year 2005; and for the Marine Corps, the authorized Active component end strength equals 178,000.

Reserve and Guard End Strength.—End strength requested in the President's budget for the Army Guard and Reserve, Marine Corps Reserve, and Air National Guard remain unchanged for fiscal year 2006, and the Committee supports these amounts. The Committee also supports the requested decrease of 10,300 to Navy Reserve end strength and the decrease of 2,100 to Air Force Reserve end strength. The budget requests an increase in Active Guard and Reserve [AGR] positions in the Army and Air National Guard by 51 and 34, respectively, and the Committee supports the request. These positions will support the new mission for Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, and Explosive [CBRNE] teams, as recommended in S. 1042, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006.

Pay Raise.—The Committee supports the President's budget request for an across-the-board pay raise of 3.1 percent.

Reduced Out-of-Pocket Housing Costs.—The Committee supports the required increase in Basic Allowance for Housing [BAH] funding to sustain last year's Defense Department initiative to eliminate out-of-pocket housing costs for military members.

Recruiting and Retention.—The Committee notes the recruiting and retention challenges faced by the Services, especially the Army and Marine Corps. The environment is particularly challenging given the Global War on Terror, the improving economy, and the higher end strength authorizations for the Army and Marine Corps. The Committee supports the budget request for recruiting and retention programs and provides an additional $622,500,000 in Title IX to further support these activities. The Committee compliments the Services for the solid retention results to date, as has been discussed in hearing testimony and published reports from the department.

Air Force End Strength.—The Committee notes that the Air Force has reached its authorized end strength, having been over strength by more than 17,000 personnel at the beginning of fiscal year 2005. Through significantly reducing enlisted accessions from 34,000 in fiscal year 2004 to less than 19,000 during fiscal year 2005, the Air Force began meeting end strength in May 2005. The Committee commends the Air Force for meeting its commitment to return to end strength before the end of the fiscal year, but also notes with concern that the Air Force now faces a situation with fewer enlisted personnel and more than the desired amount of officers given the size of the force and its missions. The Air Force will likely enter fiscal year 2006 with considerably more officer and considerably fewer enlisted strength than budgeted, which will place budgetary pressure on the “Military Personnel, Air Force” and other appropriations. Thus, the Committee urges the Air Force to submit a budget for fiscal year 2007 that aligns actual strengths with valid requirements and funding.

UNEXPENDED BALANCES

As part of an annual budget review, the Government Accountability Office [GAO] identifies prior year unobligated and unexpended funds in the military personnel appropriations. Conducted over the past several years, this review continues to show a trend of under-spending in the military personnel appropriations. As a result, the GAO believes that the fiscal year 2006 budget estimate is overstated. The Committee therefore recommends a reduction of $2,036,000,000 to the budget estimate, distributed as follows:

(In thousands of dollars)

Account	Committee recommendation
Military Personnel, Army .....	- 301,100
Military Personnel, Navy .....	- 256,000
Military Personnel, Marine Corps .....	- 130,000
Military Personnel, Air Force .....	- 590,100
Reserve Personnel, Army .....	- 140,200
Reserve Personnel, Navy .....	- 112,400
Reserve Personnel, Marine Corps .....	- 23,000
Reserve Personnel, Air Force .....	- 47,100
National Guard Personnel, Army .....	- 271,400
National Guard Personnel, Air Force .....	- 165,600
Total Adjustments .....	- 2,036,000

RESERVES COST AVOIDANCE

In its analysis of the budget estimate for military personnel appropriations, the Government Accountability Office has found, through comparing updated monthly strength data to the monthly strength data provided in the fiscal year 2006 budget estimate, that not as many reservists are projected to be available for training in fiscal year 2006. Thus, the GAO concludes that less funding is required for training in fiscal year 2006. The Committee therefore recommends a reduction of $420,600,000 to the budget estimate.

Army Civilian Intern Program.—The Committee supports the Army's efforts to expand the Army Civilian Intern Program, but believes the proposed increase of $51,696,000 is unexecutable in fiscal year 2006. Therefore, the Committee recommends a reduction of $32,000,000 to the budget request. The Committee also encourages the Army to give special consideration to expanding the Civilian Intern program in the financial management career field.

Industrial Mobilization Capacity.—The Committee recognizes the critical importance of the Industrial Mobilization Capacity program for offsetting costs to maintain wartime capabilities at Department of Defense depots, arsenals, and ammunition plants. The Committee recommends an additional $8,000,000 for this program at Rock Island Arsenal. The amount provided is in addition to $8,962,000 currently budgeted for Industrial Mobilization Capacity at Rock Island Arsenal. The Committee understands the requirement for Industrial Mobilization Capacity funding may decline during fiscal year 2006 due to increased workloads attributable to ongoing contingency operations. The Committee directs that any Industrial Mobilization Capacity funding designated for Rock Island Arsenal that is not required for its intended purpose be used for other activities or projects which will create efficiencies or improve operations and work conditions at the arsenal.

Unit Training.—The Committee recognizes the many challenges facing the Army as it converts its combat units from a division based structure to a brigade based force. Among those challenges is the need to develop and implement a comprehensive training strategy that optimizes the use of available resources and training tools, and provides combat ready forces to combatant commanders. The Committee believes that the maximum use of homestation training should be an integral part of the Army’s strategy. The use of homestation training can reduce the cost of transporting equipment to Combat Training Centers while maximizing the time available for units to conduct exercises and prepare equipment before deploying in support of contingency operations. The Committee encourages the Army to conduct a comprehensive evaluation of available training facilities as it transitions to a brigade based force and to give full consideration to the capabilities available at homestation training ranges.

Unmanned Aerial Vehicle Education.—The Committee is aware the Air Force has recognized that the University of North Dakota's Aerospace Studies program offers unique opportunities to focus on UAV efforts for the Air Force and other Services. The Committee has allocated $1,000,000 for the Air Force to assist UND in establishing a Center of Excellence for Defense UAV Education to support the Air Force UAV Battle Lab and the Joint UAV Center of Excellence with training, professional development and research in fields such as flight training, air traffic control, and systems management.

Wendover Air Force Base Auxiliary Field, Nevada.—The Committee urges the Air Force to proceed expeditiously with the Environmental Clearances required to implement section 2843 of Public Law 107–314, the National Defense Authorization Act, 2003, the Wendover Air Force Base Auxiliary Field transfer to the City of West Wendover, Nevada and Tooele County, Utah.

B–52H Self Protection System.—The Committee is aware that the Air Force is addressing a possible shortfall in spare parts to support the B–52H ALQ–155 Self Protection System and that current sustainment funding may be insufficient to meet the requirement. Therefore, the Committee directs the Air Force to provide a report by December 30, 2005 which explains the Air Force plan to sustain the B–52H ALQ–155 Self Protection System, addresses spares requirements, parts obsolescence, and overall readiness of this critical B–52H subsystem.

IDEA International.—The Committee recommends $5,000,000 for IDEA International, Inc. which serves military home-schooling families throughout the Pacific. The Committee recognizes that there was a break in the existing contract, but urges the Department of Defense Dependent Schools to continue with this contractual vehicle to ensure that this program continues without interruption.

Corrosion Control.—The Committee commends the Department for establishing the Office of Corrosion Policy and Oversight within the Office of the Secretary of Defense, but remains concerned that the Department has not adequately funded corrosion prevention programs. Therefore, the Committee recommends an additional $6,000,000 for corrosion control programs administered by the Services, and encourages the Department to identify additional resources during the year of execution that can be used for Department-wide oversight, coordination, and policy initiatives.

Task Management.—Within the Department there are tasks, business processes and collaboration activities that require tracking and management. The Committee is concerned that the Department utilizes different methods of tracking and managing this information. Many individual Commands, Agencies, and Services are modernizing their systems using commercial, off the shelf, collaborative tasking software that allows DOD organizations to leverage technologies they already own. The Committee recognizes the benefits of using an electronic tasking software application that is simple to use, provides collaborative capabilities, is easy to administer, web-enabled, and can be integrated with existing software applications. The Committee directs the Secretary of Defense to investigate available options to modernize and synchronize task management systems across the Department and to provide a report to the congressional defense committees by May 1, 2006.

Legacy Resource Management Program.—The Committee commends the Department of Defense for requesting funds to continue the Legacy Resource Management Program. From within these funds, the Committee encourages the Department to continue naval archaeology programs in the Lake Champlain Basin.

Information Operations.—The Committee is aware that the Air and Army National Guard Information Operations programs have given the National Guard an entirely new capability to fight along with active duty forces. The program trains and supports Guard and active duty units capable of protecting critical infrastructure and conducting information operations. The Committee understands that this mission is still emerging within the entire military and encourages the National Guard Bureau to identify funding within existing resources to continue these important Air and Army National Guard programs during fiscal year 2006.

House allowance .....	20,000,000
Committee recommendation .....

The Committee recommends no appropriation. This is $20,000,000 below the budget estimate.

The Committee is disappointed that the Department did not submit budget justification materials for the Overseas Contingency Operations Transfer Fund and Contingency Operations as required by section 8116 of Public Law 108-287, the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2005. Without the appropriate justification materials, the Committee was unable to evaluate the need for the transfer fund and therefore provided no appropriation.

Committee recommendation .....	271,921,000

The Committee recommends an appropriation of $271,921,000. This is $50,000,000 above the budget estimate.

The Committee is disappointed that the budget estimate for cleanup of Formerly Used Defense Sites [FUDS] is below the amount authorized and appropriated in fiscal year 2005. The Committee notes that more than 2,100 Formerly Used Defense Sites have been identified but still require remediation action. The estimated cost to complete remediation at FUDS sites is more than $17,000,000,000. In light of the substantial clean-up challenges that remain, the Committee recommends $50,000,000 above the budget estimate.

TITLE III
PROCUREMENT

Funds appropriated under this title provide the resources required to purchase military equipment and hardware, including aircraft, helicopters, ships, missiles, combat vehicles, ammunition, weapons, electronic sensors and communications equipment, and other procurement items.

The President's fiscal year 2006 budget requests a total of $76,635,410,000 for procurement appropriations.

The Committee recommends procurement appropriations totaling $75,817,187,000 for fiscal year 2006. This is $818,223,000 below the budget estimate.

Committee recommended procurement appropriations for fiscal year 2006 are summarized below:

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATIONS

The Committee has displayed recommended adjustments in tables presented under each appropriation account.

These adjustments reflect the following Committee actions: elimination of funds requested for programs which are lower priority, duplicative, or not supported by firm requirements in out year development or procurement appropriations; deletion of excess funds based on program delays or slow execution; addition of funds to reflect congressional priorities and to rectify shortfalls in the budget estimate; and implementation of recommendations in S. 1042, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006.

The Committee directs that the funding increases outlined in these tables shall be provided only for the specific purposes indicated in the table.

PROCUREMENT OVERVIEW

Advanced Precision Kill Weapon System [APKWS].—The primary objective of the APKWS program is to design, manufacture, and test a cost effective laser guided rocket utilizing the existing propulsion system and warheads of the legacy Hydra 70 rocket system. The Committee has supported this program since inception and was disappointed to learn of the Army's decision to curtail development efforts in February 2005. The Committee was further disappointed to learn the Army now plans to recompute the program and has issued a request for information with essentially identical technical requirements as the curtailed APKWS program.

While the Army cites cost, schedule and performance issues for APKWS program curtailment, the Committee notes the program was on plan to enter production in fiscal year 2006, was on a path to meet the specified cost objective by 2009, and conducted a successful flight test in January 2005 that incorporated all the corrective measures derived from earlier flights. It is unclear why the Army would embark on a new program and delay fielding of this capability to our warfighters, by a minimum of 2 years, when cost, schedule, and performance does not support the rationale for program curtailment. Therefore, the Committee directs the Government Accountability Office to conduct a review of the program, acquisition management and its requirements and to report findings to the congressional defense committees no later than March 15, 2006.

Due to the decisions to curtail development efforts and recompute the program, the Army has extended the research and development phase of the program by approximately 2 years and delayed initial production until fiscal year 2008. As a result of these delays, the following funding adjustments are included in the Committee's recommendation:

[In thousands of dollars]

	Amount
Total .....	- 4,300
Grand Total .....	- 55,189

Body Armor.—The Committee believes it would be a serious mistake and a threat to our national security to allow American armed forces to become dependent on foreign suppliers for the technology or manufacturing of personal armoring systems that have already saved many lives in Iraq. Therefore, the Committee encourages the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics to ensure that armor plates or other vital finished components acquired by the Department of Defense be manufactured by American owned companies.

Joint Common Missile [JCM].—The fiscal year 2006 budget request proposes terminating the JCM program, which is developing the next generation air-to-ground missile for the Department of the Army and Department of the Navy. The missile would be carried by rotary and fixed-wing platforms as well as selected ground platforms. The Committee notes that JCM is the only air-to-ground missile in development with potential to fulfill critical capability requirements during the Joint Capabilities Integration and Development System [JCIDS] process. Therefore, the Committee encourages the Secretary of Defense to reevaluate the cancellation of the JCM program. In addition, the Committee directs the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees no later than December 30, 2005, that explains how the Department of Defense will mitigate the capability gaps identified in the JCIDS analysis and provides a cost comparison analysis of continuing the JCM program versus JCM termination and continued procurement of legacy air-to-ground missiles to fulfill mission requirements.

Littoral Combat Ship [LCS].—The Committee remains supportive of the LCS program and the unique warfighting capabilities these small modular combatants promise to provide. However, the Committee is concerned about the lingering instability of program requirements and thus costs. Since program inception, the total number of LCSs reportedly required to attain an effective warfighting capability has fluctuated significantly. Such fluctuations create concern that LCS is being used as a mechanism to artificially inflate the total number of ships in an already unstable shipbuilding program. The Committee remains focused on the warfighting prowess each ship and submarine provides the fleet rather than on the total number of vessels in the Navy's inventory. The Committee views the LCS as a supplement to naval warfighting rather than a replacement for major combatants. In terms of program costs, the Committee understands that both hull and mission module performance specifications and thus projected costs for the LCS program are dramatically increasing. The Committee reminds the Navy that the appeal of the LCS is its relative simplicity of design and "low cost".

C-130J/KC-130.—The President’s budget requests $98,983,000 in procurement funds for the Air Force C-130J program and $1,092,743,000 to procure 12 Marine Corps KC-130 aircraft. In addition, the budget proposes termination of the program after fiscal year 2006. Since submission of the President’s budget, the Secretary of Defense has notified the Congress of his intent to reverse this termination decision. The Committee is pleased that the Secretary has chosen to reverse this decision and recommends a more appropriate and executable distribution of the requested funding. The Committee recommends $447,296,000 for procurement of six KC-130s and $71,000 for advance procurement for an additional six aircraft in fiscal year 2007. In addition, the Committee recommends $516,600,000 for procurement of seven C-130J aircraft and advance procurement funds for nine aircraft in fiscal year 2007.

Army Aviation.—The advent of Army modularity and the termination of the Comanche program in fiscal year 2005 presented the Army with a considerable challenge in how to both modernize and restructure the overall aviation force during a time of war. Since being presented with this challenge, definite progress has been made in defining force structure requirements and establishing aviation modernization plans to meet those requirements. The Army is currently endeavoring to properly validate requirements, establish programs of record and develop technologies that promise the capabilities necessary to operate successfully in a wartime environment. However, due to the amount of time required to effectively establish sound aviation acquisition programs, the Army has had to make imperfect decisions about the redistribution of resources from the Comanche program.

One example is the Armed Reconnaissance Helicopter [ARH] program. The President's budget requests $70,000,000 for procurement of ARH aircraft. However, based on the unanticipated need to integrate additional capabilities into an "off-the-shelf" helicopter and the ongoing refining of cost estimates, the Army has requested and the Committee recommends transferring the $70,000,000 requested to the "Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Army" appropriation. The President's budget also requests $108,000,000 to procure 33 Light Utility Helicopters [LUH]. However, the overall program is still awaiting approval of an official acquisition strategy and a positive Milestone C decision. Therefore, based on overall program immaturity and underexecution of resources previously provided, the Committee recommends reducing the budget request by $45,000,000. The Committee understands that the Army is likely to require additional budgetary and programmatic changes necessary to achieve its aviation modernization goals and encourages the Secretary of the Army to keep the Committee informed of its plans.

Objective Individual Combat Weapon [OICW] Increment I.—OICW Increment I is a modular family of weapons conceived to replace the Army's Vietnam-era individual small arms. The Army has temporarily suspended the current competition for OICW I to allow for the incorporation of joint requirements. This temporary suspension will lead to a slip in the acquisition schedule and delay OICW Increment I procurement by at least 1 year. Therefore, the Committee provides no funds to procure OICW Increment I in fiscal year 2006. Additionally, the Committee directs the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Acquisition, Logistics and Technology to submit to the congressional defense committees not later than December 30, 2005 a report in writing detailing the program's requirements, acquisition strategy and schedule, as well as the Army's strategy for replacing its existing small arms inventory with OICW Increment I, to include quantities to be procured, as well as the expected costs of the total program.

Furthermore, the Committee directs the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Acquisition, Logistics and Technology to submit to the congressional defense committees a written update to such report subsequent to, but not later than 90 days after, the program's review by the Joint Requirement Oversight Council.

Life Cycle Management Commands [LCMC].—The Committee supports the goal of the Army's LCMC pilot program to establish integrated business enterprises to better support the warfighter. Currently, there is a geographically separated but successful and strategically important life cycle management plan for ammunition management. The Committee understands that the Army will submit a report to the Office of the Secretary of Defense [OSD] detailing its implementation of LCMC programs by December 2005. Accordingly, the Committee directs OSD to submit a report to the Committee providing its assessment of the value of the LCMC construct by February 1, 2006.

Shelter Standardization.—The Committee notes that there are no current regulations for the standardization of tents and general purpose shelters within the Department of Defense. The Committee understands that the Department of the Army procures shelter systems based upon an articulated need developed with doctrine commands, and therefore has not developed a standard requirement service-wide for a general purpose shelter. It is also noted that defining such a requirement and creating a standard system of shelters is a challenge that falls upon the individual Services that is either centrally managed as a developmental program or through a procurement entity such as the Defense Logistics Agency. The most common challenge with shelter standardization is the varied requirements of each of the Services. Therefore, in an effort to achieve commonality and specific standards within the Department of Defense, the Committee directs the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics to report to the congressional defense committees, no later than March 1, 2006, on the feasibility of shelter standardization throughout the Department of Defense.

Aircraft Spares and Repair Parts.—The Committee recommends $1,028,036,000 for spares and repair parts for Navy and Marine Corps aircraft, this is $61,200,000 below the budget request. The Committee finds the Navy’s request for spares incongruent with the production schedules of the MH-60R and the V-22 programs. The Committee further recommends a reduction to the KC-130 request. This reduction reflects the Committee’s transfer of six aircraft to the Air Force C-130J program as discussed in the “Procurement Overview” section of this report.

KC-130.—See “Procurement Overview” section of this report.

MK 54 Mod 0 Lightweight Torpedo.—The MK 54 Mod 0 Lightweight Torpedo is a modular upgrade to the Navy's Lightweight torpedo inventory. The Committee understands that the Navy is working to reduce unit costs through Lean Six Sigma value analysis, asset exchange and other means. The Committee expects these cost reduction measures to yield savings of up to 23 percent, and adjusts the budget request accordingly.

Shipbuilding Financial Flexibility.—The Committee remains gravely concerned about the overall health and stability of Navy shipbuilding. Fleet inventory and capability requirements remain unstable as do program performance and costs.

Of primary concern are soaring cost overruns. The Committee finds unanticipated cost overruns to be the root cause of much of the instability in the program. Until budget estimates become more realistic, requirements stabilize and penalties for exorbitant cost overruns are exercised, ship construction costs are unlikely to improve. The Committee is aware that the new Chief of Naval Operations [CNO] is actively reviewing shipbuilding programs and is considering several options for controlling long-term costs. In an effort to assist the Navy in the short-term, the Committee recommends providing the Navy financial management authorities that have previously been denied.

For fiscal year 2006, the Committee recommends providing the Navy additional reprogramming authority. This authority allows the Navy, through above threshold reprogramming procedures, to increase funding for programs experiencing unforeseen shortfalls. The Committee understands that in fiscal year 2005 after exhausting the $100,000,000 of the transfer authority the Congress provided, the Navy sought to use dollars specifically appropriated for outfitting and post delivery to address funding shortfalls. The Committee is concerned about this change in Navy policy as it will only further obscure actual program costs. The new reprogramming authority is provided only with the understanding that this change will not be implemented in the future.

The additional reprogramming authority essentially provides the Navy a reactive mechanism or approach to cost management. The Committee believes the situation requires more proactive program, budgetary and contract management and encourages the Department of Defense to consider whether using advance appropriations in future budgets will improve the shipbuilding program.

SSN ERO Program.—The Committee remains concerned about the instability in the Navy’s SSN Submarine Refueling Overhaul program. The Navy continues to request advance procurement funding for submarine refuelings that never appear in the budget. In fact, the Committee understands that due to budgetary constraints the refuelings planned for fiscal year 2007 and 2008 are no longer planned. The Committee is sensitive to budgetary constraints, but does not agree with decommissioning ships that could be refueled, upgraded and returned to operations for approximately $250,000,000. Due to the continued instability in the program, the Committee recommends denying the budget request for advance procurement for SSN refuelings.

DDG-51 Class Destroyers.—The DDG-51 Class represents one of the Nation’s most successful shipbuilding programs. Since program inception in 1985, the Nation has purchased 62 DDG-51s. Fiscal year 2005 represented the final year of procurement for the Class as the Navy moves toward the future capability DD(X). The fiscal year 2006 President’s budget requests $225,427,000 for DDG-51 for what the Navy describes as “program completion requirements and shutdown costs.” These funds are requested for a mix of Class and ship specific plan, basic construction, ordnance, certification, and inspection costs. Such costs are traditionally included in the budget request for each ship. However, when signing the multiyear contract for the construction of the final DDGs of the Class, the Department decided to change its policy and budget for these costs after the last ship was appropriated. The Committee finds this decision troubling. First, budgeting for such costs after procurement of the last vessel obscures the actual cost to procure each ship and overstates savings attributable to the multiyear contract authority under which these ships were purchased. The Congress approved the Navy’s request for multiyear procurement authority in fiscal year 2002 assuming a level of savings to the taxpayer that are now not being realized. Most disconcerting about this change in policy and resultant budget request is the Navy’s assertion that if these costs are not funded, the Navy will not be able to meet its contractual obligations and the Chief of Naval Operations will not be able to accept delivery of these ships. The Committee is alarmed that the Navy would knowingly sign a multibillion dollar contract for ships that would be both non-operational and undeliverable unless additional dollars, outside the contract, were provided. The Committee directs the Secretary of the Navy to provide a detailed report of all the costs required to complete each of the remaining 11 ships and a rationale for such a contractual arrangement by December 1, 2005. Until sufficient explanation is provided, the Committee recommends only providing funds for plans and those costs directly attributable to ships scheduled to deliver in the near-term. As such the Committee recommends reducing the budget request by $195,654,000.

Ship Insulation.—The Committee understands that the insulation material currently under consideration for use in future ships has not been fully evaluated for safety. The Committee believes that any new material should be at least as safe as those materials currently in use and recommends that insulating materials that do not meet the weight, smoke generation, toxicity and other safety criteria should not be used in ship construction.

Warm Water Operations.—The Committee recognizes the Navy's requirement for SSN/SSBN chill water plant capacity during warm water operations. However, the Committee is concerned with the program's excessive cost growth and encourages the Navy to revisit its proposed solution in favor of a more cost-effective approach.

SSBN SHIPALT.—The Navy initiated its SHIPALT Program of Record in fiscal year 2004. However, during the Committee's fiscal year 2006 budget review, the Navy cancelled its Program of Record and embarked on an alternate course of action, rendering obsolete the need for "Other Procurement, Navy" funding in fiscal year 2006. The Committee directs the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Research, Development and Acquisition to submit prior to the obligation of any funds provided in this Act, to the congressional defense committees in writing the justification for a revised SSBN SHIPALT strategy, to include a comprehensive acquisition strategy, a detailed breakdown of items to be procured by fiscal year and associated costs, an installation plan, and total program costs, including maintenance and sustainment costs. Additionally, the Committee seeks clarification of the role of other agencies in the revised program. The Committee will revisit its support of the new program subsequent to the receipt of such report.

Cruiser Modernization.—Congress appropriated no funds in fiscal year 2005 for the Cruiser Modernization program, in part due to the Navy’s insistence on modernizing its newest assets prior to modernizing the legacy Baseline II vessels. The Committee is pleased that the Navy has restructured the Cruiser Modernization program and will upgrade the Baseline II vessels first. However, the Committee is concerned that the Navy has included in its fiscal year 2006 budget request funds to upgrade a Baseline III vessel before completing upgrades to all Baseline II vessels. As expressed in Senate Report 108–284 accompanying S. 2559, the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2005 and in Senate Report 108–87 accompanying S. 1382, the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 2004, the Committee believes that the Navy should upgrade its legacy fleet before upgrading the more modern vessels. Therefore, the Committee denies the funds requested for the Baseline III upgrade.

The Committee remains interested in the Navy’s progress in modernizing its cruisers, and directs the Program Manager to report regularly to the Committee on the execution of the program in fiscal year 2006.

Pacific Missile Range Facility [PMRF] Equipment.—The Committee directs that $5,000,000 of the funding included for the Pacific Missile Range Facility support the modernization of the Barking Sands Underwater Range [BSURE] only if the Department of Defense includes additional funding for the BSURE upgrades in its fiscal year 2007 budget request.

C-17.—Air Force leadership has indicated a requirement for at least 42 additional aircraft beyond the 180 in the President’s budget. The Committee reaffirms its commitment to the C-17 cargo aircraft and as such, recommends providing the Department multiyear contract authority to facilitate the most efficient fulfillment of C-17 requirements.

C-17 Maintenance Training Systems [MTS].—The Committee includes $28,000,000 for C-17 MTS for Hickam and Elmendorf Air Force Bases. The Committee is aware that the Air Force has $10,000,000 remaining from fiscal year 2005 funding for C-17 MTS and directs the Air Force to apply those funds in addition to the $28,000,000 to purchase two additional C-17 MTS in fiscal year 2006.

C-130J.—See “Procurement Overview” section of this report.

Predator B [MQ-9].—The Predator B is the Air Force’s long-loitering “hunter-killer” remotely operated aircraft. This aircraft has greater payload, an improved sensor suite, and increased speed and altitude capabilities over the Predator A aircraft that is currently being used in Operation Iraqi Freedom [OIF]. The Committee understands that Predator B aircraft are operational and in the Air Force inventory, but have not been deployed to OIF. The Air Force’s explanation for what the Committee considers excessive deployment delays has been insufficient. Therefore, the Committee directs the Secretary of the Air Force in conjunction with the Joint Staff to provide the Committee a detailed written report on the deployment status of the MQ-9 in Iraq and the weaponization plan for the aircraft by December 15, 2005.

C-37.—To alleviate the increasing demand for Operational Support Aircraft [OSA] within the Department and to ensure that Combatant Commanders have the requisite assets to execute their assigned missions, the Committee recommends $45,000,000 for an additional C-37. The Committee directs that the Department of Defense maintain the current allocation of OSA assets to support Combatant Commanders and that the Committee be notified at least 30 days prior to any alteration of such assignments.

C-29.—The Committee notes that the Department has not provided funding to replace the aging C-29 aircraft currently used by the Air Force for the Combat Flight Inspection Mission. The C-29 aircraft cannot meet range and payload requirements currently faced in Iraq, Afghanistan, Central Asia, and Southeast Asia. The Committee understands that an agreement between the Air Force and the Federal Aviation Administration [FAA] called for the FAA to provide funding for four new Challenger 604 aircraft, the Air Force to provide funding for one and for a sixth to be procured jointly. The Committee also understands that the FAA has funded the acquisition of the first replacement 604 aircraft and that according to the terms of the agreement, the Air Force is responsible for the acquisition of the second aircraft. The Committee encourages the Department to fulfill its obligations regarding the Challenger 604 aircraft.

Joint Air-to-Surface-Standoff Missile [JASSM].—The Joint Air-to-Surface-Standoff Missile is designed to engage hard and soft targets at long range. After the JASSM failed repeatedly in flight tests last year, the Air Force conducted significant reliability enhancement efforts to improve the missile's performance. However, despite these efforts, the missile has failed at least two flight tests since resumption of testing began in March 2005. Moreover, this year's flight tests have uncovered several new failure modes in the missile, the root causes of which have not yet been identified. In addition to the persistent uncertainty surrounding the missile's reliability, these new failure modes are of grave concern to the Committee.

The Committee opposes the procurement of new missiles when previously produced missiles display significant design and production quality problems. Additionally, the fact that the Air Force plans to procure a JASSM Extended Range missile—which has high design commonality with the JASSM—as early as fiscal year 2007, elevates the criticality of solving these fundamental problems so as not to exacerbate them in future buys. Therefore, the Committee expressly denies the Air Force's request to procure any JASSMs or JASSM components for new missiles in fiscal year 2006 and accordingly reduces the procurement budget request by $50,000,000. Furthermore, the Committee directs the Air Force to revisit the missile quality and reliability problems in conjunction with the contractor and sub-contractors and provides sufficient resources solely for this purpose. The Committee furthermore directs the Air Force to present to the congressional defense committees in writing a revised JASSM strategy to include a flight test schedule that will increase missile reliability and performance. The Committee will revisit its support for the program subsequent to the receipt of such strategy.

Evolved Expandable Launch Vehicle [EELV].—The Committee is concerned that the current “Buy-3” contract may restrict competition in the out years if a means is not available for companies to compete for launch services. Thus, the Committee directs that launch services contracts provide an annual opportunity for companies to present their qualifications and compete for launch services. The Committee supports contracting procedures that facilitate competition, assure access to space, and that lead to “best value” procurements. Concerning space launch infrastructure, the Committee understands the business case to maintain the EELV infrastructure and supports the “Buy-3” contracting procedure to award launch capabilities contracts on a bi-annual basis.

Combat Survivor Evader Locator [CSEL].—The Committee is concerned about repeated delays and the seemingly disjointed plan for the procurement of survival radios. The Committee directs the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition, Technology and Logistics, in coordination with the Air Force as the lead program office, to report back to the congressional defense committees no later than December 30, 2005 on the Department's current and planned research and development effort and the future procurement strategy of survival radios.

Advanced SEAL Delivery System [ASDS].—The Committee recommends support for the President's budget request of $84,044,000 in procurement funds for the ASDS. In accordance with recommendations in S. 1042, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006, the Committee directs that none of the funds provided for advance procurement of a second ASDS may be obligated or expended until 15 days after a successful Milestone C decision and a revised Cost Analysis and Improvement Group cost estimate are provided to the Committee.

Military Mail.—The Committee recommends the authorized increase of $10,200,000 to the chemical-biological defense program to begin the procurement and fielding of agent detection and sampling equipment to screen military mail.

NATIONAL GUARD AND RESERVE EQUIPMENT

Appropriations, 2005 .....	$350,000,000
Budget estimate, 2006 .....
House allowance .....
Committee recommendation .....	422,000,000

The Committee recommends an appropriation of $422,000,000. This is $422,000,000 above the budget estimate.

The appropriation includes direction for each Reserve and National Guard component commander to submit to the congressional defense committees a detailed assessment of that component's modernization priorities.

The Committee maintains that the Reserve and National Guard component commanders should exercise control of funds provided for their modernization in this account. The separate submission of these assessments, directly from the Reserve component commanders and the National Guard Directors to the committees will ensure that Reserve and National Guard priorities are addressed in the allocation of this appropriation.

TITLE IV

RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST AND EVALUATION

Funds appropriated under this title provide the resources required to conduct a program of research, development, test and evaluation, including research in basic science, applied research, advanced technology development, demonstration and validation, engineering and manufacturing development, and operational systems development.

The President's fiscal year 2006 budget requests a total of $69,356,040,000 for research, development, test and evaluation appropriations.

SUMMARY OF COMMITTEE ACTION

The Committee recommends research, development, test and evaluation appropriations totaling $70,407,582,000 for fiscal year 2006. This is $1,051,542,000 above the budget estimate.

Committee recommended research, development, test and evaluation appropriations for fiscal year 2006 are summarized below:

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATIONS

The Committee has displayed recommended adjustments in tables presented under each appropriation account.

These adjustments reflect the following Committee actions: elimination of funds requested for programs which are lower priority, duplicative, or not supported by firm requirements in out year development or procurement appropriations; deletion of excess funds based on program delays or slow execution; addition of funds to reflect congressional priorities and to rectify shortfalls in the budget estimate; and implementation of recommendations in S. 1042, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006.

The Committee directs that the funding increases outlined in these tables shall be provided only for the specific purposes indicated in the table.

RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST AND EVALUATION OVERVIEW

Joint Tactical Radio System [JTRS].—The Committee understands and supports the value that the JTRS radio system will add to the battlefield in support of military operations. However, the Army’s Cluster 1 program faces significant technical challenges. These challenges could impact the program efforts in the Navy and Air Force. Further, the Committee notes that significant quantities of new, very capable radios are being procured by the Department of Defense to fight the Global War on Terror. Although the new radios do not offer the “router” type capabilities of the JTRS, they do provide superior communications in support of enhanced command and control and situational awareness than preceding capabilities. The procurement of these interim radios should help to relieve some of the pressure on the JTRS schedule. Further, the Committee supports the ongoing review of the Joint Tactical Radio programs by the Program Executive Office. The Committee encourages the Defense Department to thoroughly review the full program in light of the interim radios as well as challenges faced by the ongoing Service efforts to include architecture development, software and hardware development and waveform development. The Committee requests that a report of the Defense Department’s assessment and a revised program plan be provided to the congressional defense committees not later than December 30, 2005. The Committee recommends the following reductions to the JTRS program and recommends the remaining funding support waveform development and other risk reduction priorities.

Joint Strike Fighter [JSF].—The Committee commends the JSF program for their efforts to implement design changes needed to reduce aircraft weight and for working to restructure the program to accommodate changes in the aircraft’s design. The Committee, however, is concerned that continuing program uncertainties make it difficult to estimate the resources needed for the program. For example, the program is still redesigning the three JSF variants and is examining the need for changes in the software development and flight test programs to make them more executable. Until the re-design efforts are complete, the Committee is not committed to significant increases in program funding for system development.

As a result, the Committee recommendation includes the following adjustments:

Optical Combat Identification System [OCIDS].—Last year, Congress provided the Army an additional $5,000,000 to support a laser-based concept holding great promise for countering the continuing problem of fratricide. The fiscal year 2005 funding will support a demonstration of the capability in an Advanced Concept Technology Demonstration [ACTD]. The laser-based OCIDS meets or exceeds the current combat identification system performance specifications and provides for interoperability between vehicles, aircraft, and dismounted soldiers. The Committee remains highly interested in rapidly demonstrating and producing a system to counter the killing or injury of friendly forces that continues to plague American and coalition forces and recommends an additional $2,000,000 for this program. Given the urgency of equipping soldiers and Marines in the field with an affordable interoperable system on an expedited basis, the Secretaries of the Army and the Navy are directed to monitor the scheduled ACTD and to report the results to the congressional defense committees no later than December 15, 2005. The report shall include plans for future OCIDS funding with consideration of requesting funds in the next supplemental budget request prepared for submission to Congress.

Transportable Controlled Detonation Chamber for Destruction of Chemical Agents and Weapons.—To the extent the Department of Army decides to accelerate the final certification of the transportable Controlled Detonation Chamber technology, the Committee urges the Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Army for Environment, Safety and Occupational Health to perform a portion of the final development and operation testing for this technology at Camp Sibert in Alabama. This technology has unique capabilities for supplementing existing destruction technologies at sites where buried chemical weapons are found.

Telemedicine and Surgical Innovation Research.—Robotic telesurgery has been recognized as a technology that holds great promise to improve access to and quality of medical care delivered to the warfighter. The Committee, therefore, includes $2,000,000 to initiate advanced telesurgery research for improved medical simulation and training for military personnel.

Future Combat System [FCS].—The fiscal year 2006 budget submission for the Army's FCS program totals $3,404,770,000. The submission includes $3,065,629,000 for Armored System Modernization, $231,554,000 for the Non-Line of Sight Launch System and $107,587,000 for the Non-Line of Sight Cannon. The FCS program is the largest acquisition program in Army history and is designed to provide a new generation of 18 manned and unmanned ground vehicles, sensors, and munitions linked by an advanced information network.

The Committee remains very supportive of the FCS program and commends the Department of the Army in its effort to restructure the business aspects of the FCS program. The restructuring includes enhancing government oversight by transitioning the contract from an Other Transaction Agreement [OTA] to a Federal Acquisition Regulation-based contract and revising the contract fee structure. The Committee believes the increased scrutiny and accountability achieved by this restructuring are vital to continued success of a program of this size and complexity.

The Committee, however, is concerned with the amount of program overhead and management reserve included in the FCS budget. Of note, the budget request includes over $100,000,000 for the purpose of program withholds and "other" taxes contrary to normal budget practices, including funds in anticipation of congressional reductions. As a result, the Committee recommends a total of $3,304,770,000 for the FCS program in fiscal year 2005, a reduction of $100,000,000 from the requested amount.

Consistent with prior fiscal years, the Committee directs that each project within the Armored Systems Modernization line be designated as a special interest item subject to prior approval reprogramming procedures.

Landmine Alternatives.—The Committee supports the non-self-destruct landmine alternative and the Intelligent Munitions System. The intent in initiating these programs was to develop technologies to replace anti-personnel landmines that cannot distinguish between an innocent civilian and an enemy combatant. For this reason, the Committee believes it is essential that these systems be designed to utilize a man-in-the-loop, discriminating capability. The Committee, however, is extremely concerned about a proposed optional feature that could enable such systems to be activated indiscriminately by the victim. The Committee, therefore, directs the Secretary of the Army to conduct a review of the potential indiscriminate effects of such a feature, and to submit a report to the congressional defense committees detailing the findings of this review prior to any full rate production decision for these systems. The report shall also detail plans for carrying out these programs.

Remote Weapons Station—Protector [RWS-P].—The Committee is aware of the success of the RWS-P as part of the Army Stryker Program. RWS-P has been battle proven in Iraq and has consistently exceeded reliability requirements. The Army and Special Operations Command [SOCOM] are pursuing the inclusion of the RWS-P system on other ground mounted vehicles such as the HMMWV. The Committee supports this initiative and encourages the accelerated fielding of the RWS-P in order to provide this capability to the operating forces.

Construction of Navy Research Vessels.—The budget request includes $4,000,000 in the “Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy” appropriation for design of the next generation of ocean research vessels for the University National Ocean Laboratory [UNOLS] fleet. The academic research community uses UNOLS vessels to conduct experiments and research for the Navy. The Committee is concerned with Navy plans to use basic research funds from the “Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Navy” appropriation to fund the construction of academic research vessels in fiscal year 2007. While these vessels provide the Navy with a key research tool, such diversion of research funds would adversely affect the goals of the basic research funding activity.

The Committee recommendation includes the $4,000,000, as requested, for design of the new research vessel in fiscal year 2006. The Committee, however, directs the Navy to request the planned $25,000,000 in fiscal year 2007 for ship construction in the “Shipbuilding and Conversion, Navy” appropriation. The Committee expects the Navy will continue to use this account to provide for the recapitalization of the UNOLS fleet in the Future Years Defense Plan.

Photonics Prototyping Facility.—Due to financial constraints, the Committee is no longer able to provide funding for the photonics prototyping facility. If the Navy is unable to continue support for the facility with its internal resources, the Committee directs the Navy to provide all the equipment purchased with government funding to a local institution of higher education or to a local Navy entity that can best utilize the equipment.

E-2C Advanced Hawkeye Technologies.—The Committee recognizes that the APS-145 Transmitter Retrofit Program provides an opportunity to increase the readiness levels of the E-2C aircraft and extend its useful service life. The Committee encourages the Navy to include funding for this program as part of its annual budget. In addition, the Committee recognizes that the technology used in the retrofit transmitter is in development and could provide significant improvements to the technologies employed in the baseline transmitter for the E-2C Advanced Hawkeye. The Committee encourages the Navy to compare the technologies of an evolved APS-145 to those of the baseline transmitter in terms of cost, weight, volume, spectral compliance, and reliability.

Next Generation Networking Electronic Medical Record Project.—The Committee recognizes the challenges the Department of Navy faces as it prepares to transition its paper based records system within the Composite Health Care System to an electronic based records system. Some of these challenges involve the migration and storage of medical data, and also access to and timely delivery of this critical data. Therefore, the Committee provides an additional $1,000,000 for an information technology pilot project that utilizes layer seven routing in a combined manner; using integrated host routing, object routing and multipath routing technologies to optimize data transport across IP based networks. This National Naval Medical Center pilot project will focus on technologies that measure and dynamically manage end-to-end client-to-server latencies, increase network reliability, migrate content on demand, and optimize client operations so least loaded servers services sites and paths are always selected, servers and network resources are more efficiently utilized, and end-to-end failures are preemptively avoided.

Joint Direct Attack Munition [JDAM] Laser Capability.—The Committee understands that Combatant Commanders in OEF/OIF have requested the addition of a laser capability to existing JDAM weapon kits. This change could provide improved JDAM operational flexibility and time sensitive target capability. Therefore, the Committee encourages the Department to consider laser JDAM testing to provide these increased capabilities to the warfighter.

Space Research and Development Programs.—The U.S. Air Force is responsible for the development, fabrication, launch, control, and management of very complex satellite systems that are vital to national defense and security of the Nation. The service has a proud and rich history of successful satellite development and fielding that have had profound improvements in the military capabilities of the United States. Further, industry, the Federally Funded Research and Development Centers, and the many system engineering firms that support space programs are partners with the Air Force in the successful fielding of these systems. Unfortunately, fewer systems can be shown to be successful in cost, schedule, and performance criteria; and more systems are experiencing significant technical and cost challenges which impact schedule and performance expectations. Schedule delays increase the risk of gaps in strategic capabilities and cost overruns take needed funding from other key systems such as new fighter aircraft, combat vehicles, and combatant ships. The 2003 Defense Science Board [DSB] task force (“Young Report”) and 1-year follow-up report document a series of fundamental shortcomings with space acquisition that have received wide recognition and support. Thus, the Committee strongly encourages the Air Force to continue the implementation of needed changes in space acquisition that will lead to the fielding of satellite systems noted for being on time, on budget and capable of providing needed capability to the Nation. The Committee directs the Air Force to provide its plan to improve space acquisition and re-establish the proud legacy of successful satellite development and fielding not later than January 31, 2006.

Maui Space Surveillance System [MSSS]/AMOS.—The Committee recommends an increase of $25,000,000 over the President’s budget request for sustainment and investment in new technologies and initiatives, and research and development activities at MSSS. The Committee is concerned that the Air Force will apply taxes to MSSS programs at excessive rates for lab overhead, and directs the Air Force to base its overhead charges only on the amount requested. None of the increases provided here shall be subject to Air Force taxes or withholds. Furthermore, research funds should be allocated by Air Force officials on-site to local programs that offer the greatest potential return and merit.

Transformational SATCOM [TSAT].—The Committee supports the Defense Department’s concept for global high-speed communications, and recognizes the value of TSAT to world-wide military operations. However, the Committee is concerned about the state of technical maturity for the key subsystems. Although progress is being made, certain key subsystems are now not expected to reach adequate maturity, Technology Readiness Level [TRL] 6, until late fiscal year 2006. These include the processor-router and the laser communications capabilities. Thus, the Committee is concerned about the system's readiness for System Design Review scheduled for 3rd Quarter, fiscal year 2006. Given these technical concerns along with the constrained funding environment and priority to support the on-going Global War on Terror, the Committee is not able to support a significant increase to the TSAT program, and recommends a program reduction of $250,000,000.

In addition, the Committee directs the Department of Defense to conduct a review to (1) determine whether a fourth Advanced Extremely High Frequency [AEHF] satellite will be required, (2) whether additional AEHF satellites beyond four, will be required if TSAT continues to be delayed, and (3) whether it is feasible, taking into consideration cost, risk, contract requirements, and other factors, to insert advanced capabilities for an enhanced AEHF satellite. Given the Defense Department's stated acquisition policy to evolve capabilities into systems, the Committee encourages the Department to pursue this policy with AEHF, if the study findings support this approach.

Therefore, of the remaining $585,769,000 for TSAT, the Committee directs that $150,000,000 be restricted pending the Department of Defense's decision to build a fourth AEHF satellite. In the event the Department determines a fourth AEHF is required, the $150,000,000 shall be available for advance procurement and research and development activities in support of the fourth AEHF. In the event the Defense Department determines a fourth AEHF is not required, the $150,000,000 shall be available to support expanded system development and maturation of the key TSAT technologies.

Space Radar.—The Committee supports a space radar capability. Such a satellite system could offer significantly improved strategic, operational, and tactical level intelligence information in support of national requirements and military operations. The Committee also commends the Department for its emphasis this fiscal year on system engineering and technology risk reduction. However, the Space Radar program is in need of a clear acquisition plan, to include defining the proposed system and an affordable and credible life cycle cost projection. The Committee recognizes the difficulty in projecting costs at this point in the program's development schedule, but the current projections based on a large constellation are very high and bring into question the program's affordability. Thus, the Committee is not prepared to support significant increases to the program and therefore recommends a reduction of $125,839,000 to the program. The resulting program of $100,000,000 still provides for expanded efforts to support continued concept development and technology maturation.

Space Based Infrared System [SBIRS].—In recognition of the recent Nunn-McCurdy breach and the requirement for the Department of Defense to review other alternatives, prepare a new program baseline with a new cost estimate, and to implement any needed management changes, the Committee does not agree the program is prepared for a 27 percent increase in funding. Therefore, the Committee recommends a program reduction of $100,000,000.

Joint Unmanned Combat Air Systems [J-UCAS].—The Committee is concerned over fluctuations in the J-UCAS program, to include changes in its concept of operations, Service ownership, and incompatibility of Navy and Air Force requirements. The Committee recommends a reduction of $200,000,000 and directs the Department of Defense to conduct an independent study to objectively review the J-UCAS program, its costs and requirements; and assess whether other unmanned aerial vehicle programs are able to meet the requirement at an overall savings to the U.S. Government. The review and assessment should be provided to the congressional defense committees not later than February 15, 2006.

Small Diameter Bomb.—The Committee notes that the Air Force prepared its budget estimate prior to the decision to compete rather than sole-source Increment II of the Small Diameter Bomb. A delay in contract award is expected in order to provide adequate time for review, contract negotiation and contract award of the Increment II program. Therefore, the Committee recommends a reduction of $23,550,000.

Combat Rescue and Recovery.—The Committee recognizes the importance of beginning the process of replacing the Air Force fleet of Combat Search and Rescue helicopters due to the failing readiness and operational limitations of the current fleet of helicopters. In recognition of the need to expedite procurement, the Committee transfers $75,000,000 to the “Aircraft Procurement, Air Force” appropriation and retains $20,000,000 for minimal essential research and development activities for Air Force unique requirements. The Committee believes that a search and rescue capability is needed by the field sooner rather than later and thus directs the Air Force to proceed to a commercial-off-the-shelf solution in accordance with Federal regulations.

Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency [DARPA].—The Committee recommends $2,923,252,000 for DARPA, this is $160,500,000 below the budget request. The Committee's recommended reductions, outlined specifically in the tables accompanying this section, were based on program execution status, budgetary constraints, and in particular, an assessment of potential value to the warfighter. The Committee is concerned that many of the technologies DARPA is pursuing will have marginal impact on the Department's overall warfighting capability and urges DARPA to focus solely on those programs that promise the greatest benefit to the warfighter in the future.

Spartan.—The Committee is aware that the Spartan unmanned surface vehicle offers Navy battle force commanders unique capabilities to deal with asymmetric threats while keeping sailors away from danger. The Committee encourages the Advanced Concept Technology Development office to work with the Navy and small businesses that have experience in developing and manufacturing reinforced composites for small commercial vessels to determine the feasibility of using reinforced composites to reduce the cost and weight of the Spartan unmanned surface vehicle.

Quick Reaction Special Projects.—The Committee provides $110,717,000 for the Office of the Secretary of Defense [OSD] Quick Reaction Special Projects, Rapid Reaction and Technology Transition programs. These programs provide the OSD funding necessary to rapidly develop emerging wartime and force protection needs. The Committee has previously expressed concern about providing funding for programs that do not delineate specific requirements or program plans. In order to achieve an appropriate balance between fulfilling the Department's need for flexibility and the Committee's fiscal oversight responsibilities, the Committee recommends approval of the President's budget request but directs that no funds may be obligated or expended until 5 days after the congressional defense committees have been notified in writing of the planned projects and their respective schedule and funding requirements.

MISSILE DEFENSE PROGRAMS

The Committee recommends a total of $7,947,833,000 for the Missile Defense Agency. While this is a substantial amount of funding, the Committee notes that it is nearly $1,000,000,000 below the fiscal year 2005 appropriation, due to the Administration's reduction of $1,000,000,000 in its budget request for missile defense. Given the likelihood that fiscal year 2005 marked the high water mark for missile defense funding, it is imperative that diminishing missile defense resources are well-focused on its priorities. In particular, the Missile Defense Agency must do everything possible to maximize the capabilities of the systems in which heavy investments have been made over so many years, such as the ground-based missile defense system, the Aegis ballistic missile defense system, and the airborne laser programs.

To ensure that these and other missile defense programs receive appropriate attention, the Committee directs that the Missile Defense Agency split its program elements, as shown in the table above, into smaller, more-focused programs. This will enable the Congress to have more oversight and visibility into these important programs and ensure that large sums of money are not being realigned internally and diverted to other activities.

The Committee is pleased to note the progress of the ballistic missile defense system integration, which has already been demonstrated in a significant way with the integration of the ground-based missile defense systems, the Aegis system, and the radar and command and control programs for the defense of the United States. The Committee recognizes this unheralded success and recommends that it serve as the foundation for the ballistic missile defense system.

Aegis Ballistic Missile Defense [BMD].—The Committee commends the Aegis Ballistic Missile Defense program and its leadership for its successes to date. Despite these achievements, the program was reduced in the fiscal year 2006 budget request. In order to ensure the continued success of the Aegis program, the Committee recommends an additional $75,000,000 for the Aegis BMD program in order to accelerate production of the Standard Missile-3 and to make improvements to the system. These funds shall be used to accelerate the Aegis BMD Signal Processor, to purchase additional test equipment in order to accelerate SM-3 missile production, to fund long-lead material for 15 additional missiles, to accelerate implementation of the engage-on-remote and launch-on-remote upgrades, and to accelerate integration of the two-color seeker for the SM-3 kill vehicle.

Airborne Laser.—The Committee notes the Missile Defense Agency's designation of the Airborne Laser program as its primary boost-phase program. This designation is consistent with the steady progress made on this program in the last 18 months. The Committee is encouraged by these developments and recommends an additional $10,000,000 for this important program.

High Altitude Airship.—The Committee directs the Missile Defense Agency to transfer the High Altitude Airship program to the "Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Army" appropriation (line 154A). The Committee is aware that the program was recently restructured due primarily to weight gain in the fabric and, based on its schedule growth, is no longer part of the Advanced Concept Technology Demonstration program. The Committee believes that the Missile Defense Agency is no longer the appropriate steward of the program and that MDA should be focused on its immediate mission of testing and fielding an interim missile defense capability. In addition, the Committee considers moving the program to the Army will enhance the Army's tactical communications and intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance capabilities.

Asymmetric Threat.—The Committee is aware of a potential "asymmetric threat" to the United States where terrorists of nation-states would move short-range missiles closer to the United States on sea-based platforms. Accordingly, the Director of the Defense Intelligence Agency shall provide a report to the congressional defense committees not later than February 1, 2006, which examines this threat and assesses its validity. The Director of the Missile Defense Agency shall provide a report not later than May 1, 2006, that provides a recommendation for the nearest-term, lowest-cost solution to the threat described in the intelligence report.

Ballistic Missile Defense System Interceptor Program Element.—The Ballistic Missile Defense System [BMDS] Interceptor program element consists of the NFIRE program and the KEI program. Because these programs have no related program elements, the Committee recommends the realignment of the NFIRE program to the Ballistic Missile Defense Technology Program Element. This accounts for $13,706,000 of the reduction to the BMDS Interceptor PE. The Committee directs the Missile Defense Agency [MDA] to complete development and mission integration of the deployable NFIRE Kill Vehicle [KV]. The Committee urges the Agency to collect near-field data for critical missile defense interceptor risk reduction with the Kill Vehicle.

Along with the other congressional defense committees, this Committee has expressed repeated concerns about the rationale for the KEI program since its inception. In a decreasing budgetary environment, funding for this future developmental program serves only to crowd out much needed funding for the Missile Defense Agency's near-term priorities, not just for the remainder of the Future Year Defense Plan [FYDP], but also in the years beyond the current FYDP. The Missile Defense Agency assigned most of its fiscal year 2006 budget reductions to the KEI program, which effectively designated it as its lowest priority program. The Committee believes diminishing resources not only on the near-term fielding of maturing missile defense systems, but also on their spiral development—most particularly for the Aegis and Ground-Based Midcourse programs—to be of significantly higher priority. Accordingly, the Committee recommends a reduction of $111,000,000 to this program and directs the Missile Defense Agency to focus only on a technology demonstration program.

Ground-based Midcourse Defense [GMD].—The GMD program demonstrated mixed results in the last year. According to the MDA-chartered Independent Review Team [IRT], “The Missile Defense Agency, the Joint Program Office, the Military Services, and U.S. industry have overcome enormous programmatic and technical obstacles in a remarkably short period of time . . . The system’s complexity and deployment challenges make this achievement comparable to the Manhattan Project to develop an atomic bomb, and the Minuteman and Polaris ballistic missile system deployments.” At the same time, however, successive flight test failures following four of five successful intercepts make evident the need for increased focus on quality control and reliability processes.

The Committee believes the GMD program is fundamentally sound but in need of more rigor in its engineering and test processes. Accordingly, because of the increasingly significant threat which continues to drive the need for this program, $200,000,000 is added to the budget request to maintain the production schedule for Ground-Based Interceptors [GBI] and for such additional ground and flight test assets and associated testing as may be necessary for the program.

The Committee understands that the Missile Defense Agency is considering breaking apart the GMD program. The Committee disagrees emphatically; GMD is a fully integrated defensive weapon system with multiple real time fire control loops. Fragmenting the fire control loop seriously jeopardizes the functionality of the weapon system and should not be undertaken until such time as it is fully developed, spiral upgraded and in a final stable configuration. Therefore, the Committee directs that the GMD program be continued as a single fully integrated defensive system, with responsibility, authority, and accountability for all aspects of the program—to include but not be limited to the GBI, sensors (to include, as examples, the Sea-based X-band, or SBX, and Upgraded Early Warning Radars, or UEWR), fire control, and all related activities, at least until such time as GMD and its components have been completely developed through the spiral process, its full capability defined, and the program ready to be transferred to the Department of the Army.

It is particularly troubling that the MDA is taking steps which, if continued, will sub-optimize the capability of and investment in the GMD element of the ballistic missile defense system. Contrary to repeated Defense Department statements on spiral development and block upgrades for the missile defense program, MDA at best plans only marginal improvements to the capability of the GMD program’s Ground-based Interceptor. The Committee notes, in particular, the statement in a January 28, 2005 briefing by the MDA Director to the Deputy Secretary of Defense that MDA would “not pursue major booster or kill vehicle upgrades” for the GBI. After many years of investment in this midcourse interceptor, MDA has now essentially decided that the first generation GBI will also be its last generation GBI. This approach would fail to capitalize on the years of previous investment and technology development in a decreasing budgetary environment.

The Committee is extremely concerned that MDA’s approach to the GBI is symptomatic of a broader lack of focus on the administration’s stated missile defense priorities and therefore directs that not later than December 1, 2005, the MDA Director shall provide to the congressional defense committees his plan for the spiral development of the GMD system. This report will include the spiral development plan for the current GBI, consisting of the EKV and its boosters, and the rest of the GMD integrated defensive system. The plan must clearly explain how we are leveraging our national investment in GMD and achieving both near-term war fighter capability improvements as well as a robust longer-term plan and vision for upgrading GMD.

Ground-Based Interceptor Launch Facility.—The Committee encourages the Missile Defense Agency to designate the Ground-Based Interceptor Launch Facility at Vandenberg Air Force Base, California, as the Ronald W. Reagan Ground-Based Interceptor Launch Facility.

Tulane Missile Defense.—The Committee directs the Missile Defense Agency to continue the Tulane Missile Defense project at the fiscal year 2005 enacted level.

Man-Portable Air Defense Systems [MANPADS] Defense Program.—The Department requested $13,349,000 to develop a ground-based, networked electro-optical sensor grid combined with directed energy, counter MANPAD technologies to protect both military and commercial aviation from MANPADS. The Committee understands that there are also commercial off-the-shelf, ground-based systems currently available that could create a dome of protection against MANPADS around an airport. Therefore, the Committee directs the Secretary of Defense to review both the current and potential future technologies available to address this threat and provide the Committee an assessment of the most cost effective plan to meet operational requirements in an expeditious manner. This report should evaluate the different technologies and concepts available to meet this threat and should be provided to the congressional defense committees not later than December 1, 2005.

Defense Integrated Military Human Resources System [DIMHRS].—The Committee is aware that accelerating funding for the DIMHRS program may significantly and more quickly improve support to the joint staff and unified combatant commanders to provide a single, fully integrated personnel and pay management system for our Service personnel. Therefore, the Committee has provided an additional $25,000,000 for this purpose. Further, the Committee finds the co-location of the DIMHRS joint program manager, the program office and the development staff at the SPAWAR Information Technology Center an efficient arrangement.

Spartan Unmanned Surface Vehicle.—The Committee is aware that the Spartan unmanned surface vehicle offers Navy battle force commanders unique capabilities to deal with asymmetric threats while keeping sailors away from danger. The Committee urges the Department of Defense ACTD office to work with the Navy and a small business that has a proven record in developing and manufacturing reinforced composites for small commercial vessels to determine the feasibility of using reinforced composites to reduce the cost and weight of the Spartan unmanned surface vehicle.

Appropriations, 2005 .....	$1,174,210,000
Budget estimate, 2006 .....	1,471,340,000
House allowance .....	1,154,340,000
Committee recommendation .....	1,154,940,000

The Committee recommends an appropriation of $1,154,940,000. This is $316,400,000 below the budget estimate.

NATIONAL DEFENSE SEALIFT FUND

Appropriations, 2005 .....	$1,204,626,000
Budget estimate, 2006 .....	1,648,504,000
House allowance .....	1,599,459,000
Committee recommendation .....	579,954,000

The Committee recommends an appropriation of $579,954,000. This is $1,068,550,000 below the budget estimate.

T-AKE.—The Committee is once again concerned about the status of construction of the T-AKE Class ships. The Navy continues to request funding ahead of need for a ship program that is experiencing significant construction delays and is executing poorly. The President's budget requests funds for the ninth ship of the Class when construction has yet to commence on the five previously appropriated ships. Further, the Committee understands that the program is experiencing cost growth on all T-AKEs, including those that are not yet under construction. Therefore, the Committee recommends withholding funding for an additional T-AKE until both the cost and construction schedule have stabilized.

Maritime Prepositioning Ship [MPS] Leases.—The President's budget requests $749,797,000 for the buyout of 13 MPS leases. The Navy justifies its budget request by claiming that buying out these vessels will potentially save the Government money. The Committee questions this assertion for two reasons. First, the useful life of these ships has not been well-defined and second, the actual cost to procure the vessels is currently unknown. The Navy reports that recent arbitration proceedings on the first two ships affirmed Navy estimates; however, the Committee notes that negotiations remain outstanding on 11 additional vessels. As such, the Committee finds the Navy's current cost savings estimates and thus its budget request imprecise. The Committee believes however, that potential exists for the Government to realize savings from the procurement of these vessels and recommends $127,000,000 in funding to procure three of the 13 vessels, consistent with recommendations contained in S. 1042, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006.

TITLE VI
OTHER DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS
DEFENSE HEALTH PROGRAM

Appropriations, 2005 .....	$18,171,436,000
Budget estimate, 2006 .....	19,791,612,000
House allowance .....	19,983,912,000
Committee recommendation .....	20,237,962,000

The Committee recommends an appropriation of $20,237,962,000. This is $446,350,000 above the budget estimate.

The Committee remains concerned by the Department's efforts to fund shortfalls in the contractor provided private sector care account from direct care funding for military treatment facilities [MTFs]. The Committee believes that such actions will adversely impact the ability of the MTFs to provide quality health care to military beneficiaries. Therefore, the Committee recommends that not more than $10,157,427,000 may be available for contractor provided medical services within TRICARE, and directs the Department to follow established prior approval reprogramming procedures before transferring funds from the direct care account to the private sector account. This language should not be interpreted by the Department as limiting the amount of funds that may be transferred to the direct care system from other budget activities within the Defense Health Program.

HealthForces.—The committee directs $5,000,000 be made available to the Air Force Surgeon General for the continued transfer of ICDB/HealthForces government developed software in support of medically underserved, rural health clinics and group practices.

Blast Injury Prevention, Mitigation, and Treatment Initiative.—The Military Health System has witnessed an increase in the number of traumatic brain and head injuries suffered by servicemembers fighting in support of the Global War on Terror [GWOT]. These incidents have defined the growing requirement for both research and treatment for blast injuries. Therefore, the Committee recommends $18,000,000 for the improvement of clinical evaluation, acute diagnosis, and treatment of blast injuries, especially in the area of traumatic brain injury, and directs $10,000,000 of this amount for the increased specialized treatment capacity of traumatic brain injury for military personnel who have suffered such injuries that are recently returning from deployment.

The Committee has a long history of involvement in this area. In 1991, Congress created the Defense and Veterans Head Injury Program [DVHIP] to enable the Department of Defense to take the lead in tracking, evaluating, and treating head injuries. Therefore, in addition to the $7,000,000 included for DVHIP in the President's Budget for fiscal year 2006, the Committee expects DVHIP to play a substantial role in the use of the $18,000,000 the Committee has designated for the Blast Injury Prevention, Mitigation, and Treatment Initiative. In addition, the Committee is concerned over the past management of DVHIP funds, and therefore directs that management of DVHIP funds be transferred from the Uniformed Services University of the Health Science [USUHS] to the Army Medical Research and Materiel Command [AMRMC] at Fort Detrick. The Committee directs the Department to administer this change beginning in fiscal year 2006 and to continue for future years. The Committee also expects that the Department will continue to expand funding for this valuable program in future years.

Clinical Coupling Software.—The Committee is pleased that the Department continues to deploy its electronic medical record [CHCSII] with embedded clinical decision support tools, which couple patient data with medical knowledge. The Committee is aware that the value of such tools will be enhanced in the coming months as service members will gain the capability to submit thorough and problem-specific medical information to their records via Tricare Online. The Committee provides $4,000,000 to sustain this important but partially unfunded requirement for fiscal year 2006, and expects that such tools will be fully funded in ongoing CHCSII sustainment costs in the President's budget request for fiscal year 2007.

Procurement

The following table details the adjustments recommended by the Committee:

[In thousands of dollars]

Item	Committee recommendation
Hyperbaric Oxygenation Chamber .....	2,000
Total adjustments .....	2,000

Hyperbaric Oxygenation Chamber.—The Committee is increasingly concerned with the number of casualties returning to the United States for treatment from wounds received in Iraq and Afghanistan. Wounded servicemembers are returning from combat with severe burns and extremity injuries that require grafts, or in many cases, amputation. The Committee is aware of the successful use of hyperbaric treatment in leading civilian hospitals and understands that the U.S. Air Force Brooks Medical Center has validated the benefits of hyperbaric treatment for severe injuries. Hyperbaric treatment exposes the body to high concentrations of oxygen that reduces swelling, improves healing, helps fight infections, and can reduce the severity of amputations resulting from injuries common to those inflicted to troops serving in Iraq and Afghanistan. The Committee therefore provides $2,000,000 for procurement, installation and use of two monoplace hyperbaric chambers each for Walter Reed Army Medical Center and National Naval Medical Center Bethesda.

Research, Development, Test and Evaluation

The following table details the adjustments recommended by the Committee:

[In thousands of dollars]

[In thousands of dollars]

Item	Committee recommendation
Total adjustments .....	346,400

Peer Reviewed Medical Research Program.—The Committee has provided $50,000,000 for a Peer Reviewed Medical Research Program. The Committee directs the Secretary of Defense, in conjunction with the service Surgeons General, to select medical research projects of clear scientific merit and direct relevance to military health.

Such projects could include: advanced proteomics, alcoholism research, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, autoimmune diseases, childhood asthma, chronic pain and fatigue research, diabetes research, Duchenne's disease research, fibromyalgia, kidney cancer research, lupus research, molecular switching vaccines, osteoporosis and related bone diseases, Paget's Disease, post traumatic stress disorders, polycystic kidney disease, pulmonary hypertension, scleroderma, social work research, the cancer institute for the University of Tennessee, tuberous sclerosis complex, and blood related cancers such as leukemia, lymphoma, and multiple myeloma.

Alcoholism Research.—The Committee remains concerned about excessive alcohol consumption among military members. Alcoholism is a significant factor in suicide and accidental deaths, as well as lost productivity and health problems. Research holds the promise of developing more effective prevention programs and new and better methods for the treatment of alcoholism. For example, the development of effective drug therapies for alcoholism requires an improved understanding of how alcohol changes brain function to produce craving, loss of control, tolerance, and the alcohol withdrawal syndrome.

ADDITIONAL ITEMS OF INTEREST

Military Health System Base Realignment and Closure Impacts.—The Committee is pleased that the Department of Defense has established the Military Health System [MHS] Office of Transformation to analyze, assess and establish milestones for achieving the Base Realignment and Closure [BRAC] recommendations. The Committee hopes that this office will be able to implement a strategy in carrying out its objectives without interruption to the unique health care services that are provided to military personnel and their beneficiaries. The Committee therefore encourages the Secretary of Defense and the MHS Office of Transformation to consider the inclusion of the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences to work in a Joint-Service atmosphere.

Humanitarian Missions for the U.S.S. Comfort and U.S.S. Mercy.—The Committee understands the need for humanitarian assistance abroad in times of crisis, and recognizes that hospital ships such as the U.S.S. Comfort and the U.S.S. Mercy can provide a substantial capability when deployed in support of these missions. The Committee is aware of the interest of the Navy to develop a concept of operations for the deployment of these two hospital ships in humanitarian and disaster relief missions. The Committee encourages the Chief of Naval Operations to continue this development and also encourages the Navy to look at the use of other ship platforms that can be deployed for humanitarian and disaster relief missions abroad. Further, the Committee encourages the Chief of Naval Operations to consider the use of volunteer organizations, such as Project Hope, to assist with humanitarian missions and the relief of natural disasters.

Health Professions Loan Repayment Program.—The Committee is very pleased with the impact that loan repayment has had on recruitment and retention across the spectrum of health professions. Dentists, nurses, pharmacists, psychologists and optometrists have all indicated that greater targeting of funds for loan repayment has enhanced recruitment as well as retention efforts. The Committee strongly encourages the Department to continue to utilize programs for loan repayment that are separate from the Health Professions Scholarship and the Financial Assistance Programs.

Integrated Pharmacy Programs.—The Committee commends the efforts to date of the Tripler Army Medical Center and the Spark M. Matsunaga VA Medical Center to integrate their pharmacy services. Such programs have considerable potential to enhance both patient safety and beneficiary satisfaction. The Committee recommends that the bi-directional pharmacy interface is shared with other military medical treatment facilities who participate in sharing agreements with the VA.

Bi-Directional Health Information Exchange.—The Committee recognizes that electronic medical records reduce potential medical errors and provide critical continuity of care among various health care providers treating a single patient. The Committee is pleased with the Department's plan to begin demonstration projects exploring bi-directional access to electronic health information on DOD and VA shared patients.

Nurse Officers-to-Nurse Faculty.—The Committee recognizes that the current nursing shortage is having an effect on the quality and efficacy of the entire health care system. The Committee cites the February 2004 U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics Report on Employment Projections, reflecting job growth and the need to replace registered nurses who have left the industry, at more than 1,100,000 from 2002 to 2012. In an effort to combat the nursing faculty shortage and educate the new nursing workforce, the Committee recommends the creation of a Nurse Officers-to-Educators Program, modeled after the successful Troops-to-Teachers Program at the Department of Defense. The program will place qualified nurse military veterans into educator positions in accredited schools of nursing.

Post-Doctoral Education.—The Committee continues to be supportive of post-doctoral training in health psychology and applauds the successes and merits of the progress being made at Tripler Army Medical Center [TAMC]. The Committee encourages the Department of Defense to consolidate post-doctoral training efforts for psychologists in those military medical centers where independent departments of psychology exist and to lengthen it to a 2-year program, where appropriate. The Committee urges the Navy and Air Force to consider placement of psychologists at TAMC as part of a joint post-doctoral training initiative.

Graduate Professional Education.—The Committee continues its strong support of equitable distribution of Department of Defense funds for graduate professional education to all health professions, including nursing.

Nurse Accession Bonus.—The Committee commends the Department for increasing the nurse accession bonus to $15,000 to be used as a recruiting incentive. The Committee urges the Department to monitor financial incentives and trends in the Department of Veterans Affairs [VA] and civilian organizations to ensure accession bonuses remain competitive during the worsening national shortage of registered nurses. The Committee directs the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs to provide a report to the congressional defense committees comparing accession bonuses, salaries and other benefits offered by DOD and VA and their effect on recruitment and retention rates by March 1, 2006.

Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists.—The Committee reiterates its strong support of the current scope of practice of military Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists [CRNAs] to practice as licensed independent providers of anesthesia care.

Pediatric Emergency Medical Services.—The Committee expresses its strong support for pediatric-specific EMS training and equipment related to hospital preparedness. Children have unique presentations of disease and responses to injuries. The Committee urges the Secretary of Defense to ensure that Military Treatment Facilities [MTFs] maintain these initiatives in recognition of the unique emergency medical needs of children. The Committee directs the Surgeons General of the Army, Navy, and Air Force to provide a report to the congressional defense committees outlining the extent to which specific pediatric emergency medical training and equipment are available throughout MTFs by March 1, 2006.

Behavioral Research in the Military Service Laboratories.—The Committee recognizes that psychological scientists address a broad range of important issues and problems vital to our national security through the military research laboratories. Given the increasingly complex demands on our military personnel, psychological research on leadership, decision-making under stress, cognitive readiness, training, and human-technology interactions have become even more mission-critical. The Committee strongly encourages the service laboratories to reverse cuts made to their behavioral research programs.

Chief of the Nurse Corps.—The Committee is pleased that the Secretaries of the Army, the Air Force and the Navy have implemented Major General and Rear Admiral positions for nurses in their respective services. However, the Committee requests the Secretary of the Navy to review the policy for implementation of Public Law 107-314, the National Defense Authorization Act, 2003, which requires the Chiefs of each service's Nurse Corps to hold the rank of Major General or Rear Admiral and to provide a report on the status of implementation.

Triple Helix Partnership.—The Committee commends the Telemedicine and Advanced Technology Research Center [TATRC] for its creative use of Triple Helix partnerships (academia-government-industry) to accelerate the prototyping of advanced medical technologies, and encourages TATRC to conduct a 2-year pilot to validate leveraging of Triple Helix partnerships to support the advanced medical technology needs of the anticipated Joint Medical Command. The Committee directs the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs to submit a report to the congressional defense committees not later than March 1, 2006, on a plan to implement such a pilot program.

Tobacco Use Cessation.—Tobacco use costs the Defense Department hundreds of millions of dollars every year in medical cost and lost productivity. While the Department has established ambitious goals to decrease the use of tobacco products, it has not aggressively pursued suggested pilot programs and not yet incorporated smoking cessation in TRICARE Prime benefits even though such preventative care saves money. The Committee urges the Department to expedite availability of tobacco use prevention and cessation programs to all personnel.

Battlefield Head Injury Diagnosis.—The Committee recognizes that head injury and the ability to evaluate and treat patients with head trauma is a leading concern in modern combat warfare. The lack of availability of sophisticated diagnostic equipment at remote locations often leads to the costly evacuation of casualties to higher echelons of care for diagnosis. Additionally, the Committee recognizes it is often difficult to determine at the field hospital level when a patient with a minor head injury can be safely returned to duty. The Committee is impressed with the use of the ImpACT Head Injury Diagnostic tool currently used extensively by athletic trainers to evaluate head injuries. The Committee urges the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Health Affairs to explore the use of this tool as a means for rapid evaluation and triage of combat-related head trauma.

Advanced Wound Management.—Various military medical centers have been utilizing advanced wound management products such as nanocrystalline silver dressings, human fibroblast-derived tissue substitutes, and high-velocity hydrosurgery systems. These products have proven to be effective in treating military personnel in the field. The Committee encourages the Department of Defense to evaluate these products for wider use at military treatment facilities and in medical units.

Post Traumatic Stress Disorder.—The Committee recognizes the Army Behavioral Health Technology Office, located at Madigan Army Medical Center has been charged with developing, integrating and evaluating new and emerging technologies for the Army. The Committee is supportive of the work being done to evaluate the efficacy of various approaches to improving the capability of the military and civilian health care systems to provide early diagnosis and treatment of Post Traumatic Stress Disorder [PTSD] and other mental health conditions. Therefore, the Committee encourages the Department to develop an Internet-based diagnosis and treatment capability, utilizing Internet-based automated tools, to assist military members and their families with early diagnosis and treatment of PTSD and other mental health conditions.

The Committee notes this is a one-time exception to assist the Department of Defense to re-start the critical work that must be accomplished at these two sites in order for the nation to comply with the Chemical Weapons Convention [CWC] Treaty. The Committee directs the Defense Department to request the appropriate authorizations and appropriations in order to continue and complete the Blue Grass and Pueblo sites, and that these requirements be reflected in its fiscal year 2007 budget submission to include the outyears. Further, the Committee expects the Department of Defense to manage the Chemical Demilitarization program safely (to include environmental safety), effectively, securely, and in compliance with the CWC Treaty.

OVERVIEW

COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATION

The Committee recommends $50,000,000,000 for contingency operations related to the Global War on Terror to fund the first 6 months of military operations in fiscal year 2006. This funding will ensure that resources, equipment, and supplies are available for our servicemembers without interruption, and will enable the Department to avoid absorbing incremental operational costs from within baseline programs that are critical to future readiness and home-station activities. The estimates outlined in the Committee's recommendations are based on recent execution data and detailed discussions with the military services and operational commanders. The amounts appropriated or otherwise made available in this title by program and subactivity group are designated as making appropriations for contingency operations related to the Global War on Terror pursuant to section 402 of H. Con. Res. 95 (109th Congress), the concurrent resolution on the budget for fiscal year 2006.

REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

The Committee recommends a provision codifying the comprehensive reporting requirement for Measuring Stability and Security in Iraq as originally required in House Report 109-72 accompanying Public Law 109-13, the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense, the Global War on Terror, and Tsunami

Relief Act, 2005. The Committee also directs the Secretary of Defense to continue to provide quarterly reports to the congressional defense committees which include a detailed accounting of obligations and expenditures of appropriations provided in this title by program and subactivity group and a list of the equipment procured using funds provided in this title.

MILITARY PERSONNEL

The Committee recommends a total of $6,206,600,000 for the active duty, Reserve, and Guard military personnel accounts. Of the amount provided, the Committee provides $5,264,000,000 for incremental wartime costs of pays and allowances for active duty and Reserve personnel deployed in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom. The remaining $942,600,000 supports the Services' recruiting and retention programs; the enhanced levels for the Death Gratuity and Servicemembers Group Life Insurance program, and other wartime authorities authorized in Public Law 109-13, the Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for Defense, the Global War on Terror, and Tsunami Relief Act, 2005 and recommended in S. 1042, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2006.

COMPLIANCE WITH PARAGRAPH 7, RULE XVI OF THE STANDING RULES OF THE SENATE

Paragraph 7 of rule XVI requires that Committee reports on general appropriations bills identify each Committee amendment to the House bill “which proposes an item of appropriation which is not made to carry out the provisions of an existing law, a treaty stipulation, or an act or resolution previously passed by the Senate during that session.”

None of the funds appropriated in this bill are authorized. At the point when the Committee reports this measure, the Congress has not completed action on S. 1042, the Fiscal Year 2006 Defense Authorization Act. As a consequence, the Committee has acted in good faith in its attempt to comply fully with requirements stipulated under paragraph 7, rule XVI.

The Committee anticipates that Congress will authorize the amounts appropriated in this act.
