PROFESSIONAL BOXING AMENDMENTS ACT OF 2009

MARCH 4, 2010.—Ordered to be printed

Mr. ROCKEFELLER, from the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, submitted the following

REPORT

[To accompany S. 38]

The Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, to which was referred the bill (S. 38) to establish a United States Boxing Commission to administer the Act, and for other purposes, having considered the same, reports favorably thereon without amendment and recommends that the bill do pass.

PURPOSE OF THE BILL

S. 38 would amend the Professional Boxing Safety Act of 1996 (15 U.S.C. 6301 et seq.), as amended by the Muhammad Ali Boxing Reform Act of 2000 (P.L. 106-210), to strengthen existing Federal boxing laws by standardizing certain health and safety requirements, establishing a centralized medical registry to be used by local boxing commissions to protect boxers, reducing arbitrary practices of sanctioning organizations, and providing uniformity in ranking criteria and contractual guidelines. The bill would also establish a Federal entity, the United States Boxing Commission (USBC), to promulgate minimum uniform standards for professional boxing and enforce Federal boxing laws. The purpose of the USBC would not be to micro-manage boxing by interfering with the daily operations of local boxing commissions. Instead, the USBC would work in consultation with local commissions, and only exercise its authority should reasonable grounds exist for intervention.¹

¹ See Senator John S. McCain, “A Fighting Chance for Professional Boxing,” 15 STANFORD LAW AND POLICY REVIEW 7-34 (2004). The article details the history of the sport of boxing, and explains the bases for the efforts of Senator McCain and the actions of the Senate Commerce Committee in reforming the sport.

BACKGROUND AND NEEDS

Professional boxing is the only major sport in the United States that does not have a strong, centralized association or league to establish and enforce uniform rules and practices. There is no widely-established union of boxers, no collective body of promoters or managers, and no consistent level of State regulation among State athletic commissions. This vacuum of effective public or private oversight has contributed to decades of scandals, controversies, and unethical practices in professional boxing.

The professional boxing industry is regulated on a State-by-State basis, which results in varying degrees of oversight, depending on the will and resources of each State's athletic commission or boxing regulatory office. Due to the lack of uniform business practices or ethical standards, the sport of boxing has suffered from the physical and financial exploitation of its athletes.

To truly understand professional boxing, one must grasp the reality that the boxing industry in the United States is bifurcated. There is the premier side of the sport, comprised of well-known boxers and promoters who share in purses that can reach levels above tens of millions of dollars. The premier side, however, has little in common with the vast majority of professional boxing events that are held in States and on tribal lands across the country. Most boxing matches feature unknown journeymen and women who apply their trade for small crowds in exchange for nominal purse amounts. Most of these athletes come from economically disadvantaged backgrounds, and often boxing is the only way that they know to make a living.

But these athletes are too often exploited physically and financially by chosen representatives who do not share their best interests, and often fall victim to the misconduct of promoters, sanctioning organizations, and others. Specific examples of business misconduct in boxing include: promoters deducting large percentages of a boxer's purse for their own use; promoters coercing boxers into signing long-term, onerous contracts as a condition for competing; promoters forcing boxers to hire an associate or relative of the promoter; and illegitimate ratings systems wherein sanctioning organizations rank boxers and award "championship titles" based upon with whom boxers are connected rather than their athletic merit. Under the current system, business relationships between promoters and sanctioning organizations take precedence over the abilities of fighters.

Federal and State Boxing Law

In 1996, the Professional Boxing Safety Act (PBSA) was signed into law. The Act was a bipartisan measure that sought to establish a minimum level of health and safety requirements to protect the welfare of the athletes who sustain the sport of professional boxing. Prior to the Act, while many States had boxing laws on the books, others did not require any public oversight of boxing. The absence of enforced regulations resulted in fraudulent bouts, the exploitation of boxers, and a lack of adequate medical services at many events. The PBSA was enacted to help address these problems. Among other things, the PBSA requires State athletic commissions to oversee all professional boxing events; prohibits medically-suspended fighters from participating; assures that States are aware that a fighter may be suspended in another State; requires adequate medical services to be available at ringside; and requires all boxers to be given an identification card issued by their State commission. Also included in the PBSA was a conflict of interest provision that prohibits State commissioners from receiving compensation from business interests in the industry.

In 1998, Congress sought further reform of the professional boxing industry. The Senate passed a bipartisan measure, the Muhammad Ali Boxing Reform Act of 2000 (Muhammad Ali Act), but the House did not act on the bill. The legislation was reintroduced during the 106th Congress, approved by the House and Senate, and signed into law in May 2000. The Muhammad Ali Act protects the rights and welfare of professional boxers by preventing exploitive, oppressive, and unethical business practices; assists State boxing commissions to provide more effective public oversight of the sport; and promotes honorable competition to enhance the overall integrity of the boxing industry.

Unfortunately, both the PBSA (as amended by the Muhammad Ali Act) and State laws have not been adequately enforced by Federal and State law enforcement officials. The primary reasons for this lack of enforcement have been either a lack of resources in Federal and State budgets or simply a lack of interest.

The U.S. General Accounting Office, now the U.S. Government Accountability Office, (GAO) confirmed the inconsistency of State and Federal enforcement in its July 2003 report on professional boxing regulation, in which it concluded that, because professional boxing is regulated predominantly on a State-by-State basis, there is a varying degree of oversight depending on the resources and priorities of each State or tribal commission.² The report also indicated that the lack of consistency in compliance with Federal boxing law among State and tribal commissions “does not provide adequate assurance that professional boxers are receiving the minimum protections established in Federal law.”³ In sum, State and tribal commissions are not upholding minimum contractual and safety standards to provide boxers with adequate protection in their workplace, the ring.⁴

The report also concluded that Federal action under the PBSA, as amended by the Ali Act, has been “limited,” and, per the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), that “there were no records of cases brought by the U.S. Attorneys’ offices under the Federal boxing legislation during fiscal years 1996 through 2002 and . . . no referrals from law enforcement agencies were made.”⁵ The explanation provided the DOJ when questioned about the lack of prosecutions under Federal boxing law is that violations of these laws are misdemeanors, which do not receive significant resources from the DOJ.⁶

SUMMARY OF PROVISIONS

S. 38 would amend the PBSA to: (1) establish and maintain a confidential (except for the use by boxing commissions) medical registry that would contain comprehensive medical records and medical suspension information for every licensed professional boxer, (2) make uniform certain “safety standards” for all boxing commissions, including a requirement that emergency medical personnel and an ambulance be continually present at all professional boxing matches, (3) require testing for infectious diseases (e.g., hepatitis), (4) require promoters to post some form of security (e.g., performance bond, cashiers check, etc.) prior to a match with the appropriate boxing commission to ensure payment of purse monies to boxers who participate and are contractually entitled to receive it, (5) make several changes to definitions, including the term “boxing commission” to include tribal organizations, (6) authorize tribal organizations to establish boxing commissions as long as a certain level of safety standards and other requirements are established, (7) mandate that sanctioning organizations adopt and follow ratings guidelines/criteria, (8) require that judges and referees be assigned for each match by the appropriate boxing commission without interference from sanctioning organizations, (9) require a newly-created regulatory entity, in consultation with the Association of Boxing Commissions (ABC), to develop guidelines for minimal contractual provisions that should be included in all bout agreements and boxer/manager contracts, and (10) require more stringent financial disclosures (within a specified period) by promoters and sanctioning organizations.

S. 38 also would create the USBC, a Federal entity located within the Department of Commerce, to promulgate minimum uniform standards for professional boxing and enforce Federal boxing laws. The USBC would be comprised of three members, each of whom would be required to be a U.S. citizen with extensive experience in professional boxing activities or a field directly related to professional sports. Each member would be required to have outstanding character and integrity, and selected without regard to political affiliation. At least one member would be a former local boxing member, and, if practicable, one member would be a physician. Members would be precluded from any dealings in the boxing industry, and not more than two members would be from the same political party or reside in the same geographical region (split by the Mississippi River). The USBC would be authorized to employ an executive director to implement the policies of the USBC, a general counsel, and any additional staff as needed to carry out the Commission’s statutory mandate.

The USBC’s primary functions would be to protect the health, safety, and general interests of boxers. The USBC, among other things, would oversee and administer Federal boxing laws, and work with those who participate in professional boxing to improve the sport. The USBC would promulgate minimum uniform standards for boxing (in consultation with the ABC and sanctioning organizations). The USBC would also ensure, through the U.S. Attorney General and the chief law enforcement officer of a State, that Federal and State boxing laws are vigorously, effectively and fairly enforced. The USBC would require all boxers to be licensed every 4 years, as is currently required under the Federal identification system, but would also require all promoters, managers, and sanctioning organizations to be licensed by the USBC every 2 years. The USBC would be authorized to charge reasonable fees for licensing and all fees and fines collected by the USBC would be deposited in a revolving fund to be used to offset the USBC's appropriation. After notice and opportunity for a hearing, the USBC would be permitted to suspend or revoke any license issued under the PBSA if it finds that action is necessary to protect the health or safety of a boxer, or there are reasonable grounds to believe that a USBC standard is not being met or another unlawful act has occurred. The USBC also would be granted authority to conduct investigations, subpoena, administer oaths and affirmations, require the production of information, and seek injunctions to further the purposes of the PBSA.

The USBC would maintain a unified national computerized registry for collecting, storing, and retrieving information related to professional boxing. The USBC would be required to consult with local boxing commissions before establishing any regulation or standard under the PBSA. The USBC would be required to submit to Congress an annual report containing a detailed description of its activities, including, within 12 months of enactment, the results of a USBC study to determine the appropriate definition of the term "promoter."

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

For more than a decade, the Senate Commerce Committee has taken action to address the problems that plague the sport of professional boxing. As mentioned, the Committee developed two Federal boxing laws that have been enacted, the PBSA and the Muhammad Ali Act. While these laws have had a positive impact on professional boxing, the sport remains beset by a variety of problems, some beyond the scope of State and local regulation.

On May 22, 2002, Senator McCain introduced the Professional Boxing Amendments Act in an effort to enhance existing boxing law and create a Federal regulatory entity—the U.S. Boxing Administration—to oversee the interstate aspects of the sport. The Commerce Committee reported the bill unanimously on October 17, 2002, but no further action was taken on the measure. Senator McCain reintroduced a nearly identical bill in the 108th Congress, S. 275, which again was reported by the Committee unanimously to the Senate. This time the bill passed the Senate unanimously on March 31, 2004, but the House of Representatives did not act on the bill.

In the 109th Congress, Senators McCain, Stevens and Dorgan reintroduced the measure as S. 148, which was reported by the Committee and passed by the Senate, unanimously. House Energy and Commerce Committee Chairman Barton offered a boxing bill similar to title II of S. 148 (the title to create the U.S. Boxing Commission). On the House floor, the bill passed by voice vote, but failed in a recorded vote.

In the 110th Congress, S. 84 was unanimously reported out of the Commerce Committee, but the full Senate did not take action on the measure.

This bill (S. 38) as ordered reported by the Commerce Committee was introduced by Senator McCain on January 6, 2009, and co-sponsored by Senator Dorgan. The bill is identical to measures that were reported by the Commerce Committee the previous three Congresses and passed the Senate in both the 108th and 109th Congresses.

ESTIMATED COSTS

In accordance with paragraph 11(a) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate and section 403 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the Committee provides the following cost estimate, prepared by the Congressional Budget Office:

JUNE 10, 2009.

Hon. JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER IV,
Chairman, Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for S. 38, the Professional Boxing Amendments Act of 2009.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Susan Willie.

Sincerely,

DOUGLAS W. ELMENDORF.

Enclosure.

S. 38—Professional Boxing Amendments Act of 2009

Summary: S. 38 would establish the United States Boxing Commission (USBC) within the Department of Commerce (DOC). The commission would protect the safety and interests of boxers and would govern the business of professional boxing by regulating boxing contracts, licensing and registering boxing participants, and issuing guidelines for rating boxers.

Assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts, CBO estimates that implementing S. 38 would cost $7 million in 2010 and $34 million over the 2010–2014 period.

S. 38 also would make violations of certain provisions of the Professional Boxing Safety Act of 1996 federal crimes. CBO estimates that this provision would not have a significant effect on direct spending or revenues.

S. 38 would impose intergovernmental and private-sector mandates, as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA), on the state and tribal boxing commissions and the boxing industry. Based on information from industry sources, CBO estimates that the aggregate cost of complying with the mandates would fall below the annual thresholds established in UMRA ($69 million for intergovernmental mandates and $139 million for private-sector mandates in 2009, adjusted annually for inflation).

Estimated cost to the Federal Government: The estimated budgetary impact of S. 38 is shown in the following table. The costs of this legislation fall within budget function 370 (commerce and housing credit).

	By fiscal year, in millions of dollars—
	2010	2011	2012	2013	2014	2010–2014
CHANGES IN SPENDING SUBJECT TO APPROPRIATION ¹
Estimated Authorization Level	8	8	7	6	6	35
Estimated Outlays	7	8	7	6	6	34

¹ S. 38 also could increase direct spending and revenues, but CBO estimates that any such changes would not be significant.

Basis of estimate: For this estimate, CBO assumes that the bill will be enacted before the start of fiscal year 2010 and that the necessary amounts will be appropriated at the beginning of each year.

Spending subject to appropriation

S. 38 would authorize the appropriation of whatever amounts are necessary to establish a boxing commission to regulate professional boxing. Based on information from the DOC, CBO estimates that implementing S. 38 would cost $7 million in 2010 and $34 million over the 2010–2014 period, assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts.

Currently, tribal and state boxing commissions act as governing bodies—issuing licenses, ensuring boxing safety, and monitoring boxing contracts and fights within their jurisdictions. S. 38 would create the USBC, a separate federal entity to govern the sport of boxing with national, minimal standards and requirements for the business of professional boxing. The USBC would not replace state or tribal entities or the activities they undertake; however, the bill would specify minimum safety standards and licensing requirements that those entities must maintain.

United States Boxing Commission. S. 38 would establish the USBC within DOC, headed by a three-person panel and supported by additional staff as necessary to fulfill the requirements of the bill. The USBC would monitor compliance with provisions of the bill that would establish minimum safety standards for matches and would require disclosure of certain medical information. The commission also would issue regulations to establish criteria that sanctioning agencies must use to rate boxers and provisions that must be included in contracts between boxers and managers. Finally, the commission would review contracts for boxing matches and approve certain types of matches before they occur.

CBO estimates that the USBC would employ about 30 people to write regulations, oversee boxing matches, and establish and maintain certain registries. We estimate that hiring and compensating those employees would cost $4 million in 2010 and $20 million over the 2010–2014 period. In addition, we estimate that startup and administrative costs of the commission would total $1 million in 2010 and $4 million over the 2010–2014 period.

Licensing and Registration. S. 38 would require the USBC to license boxers, managers, and promoters every two to four years. CBO assumes that license fees would be similar to those currently charged by state boxing commissions. The bill would require the USBC to maintain a registry with the names of boxers, managers, promoters, boxing judges, and referees. Based on spending for similar registries, CBO estimates that the cost of developing the boxing registry would be about $3 million over the 2010–2014 period. We estimate that the licensing fees (considered offsetting collections) would offset the cost of maintaining the registry by about fiscal year 2013.

Medical Registry. S. 38 also would establish a medical registry that would contain information about the health of each boxer, including medical records and incidents of medical suspensions. CBO estimates that developing and maintaining a medical registry would cost about $2 million in 2010 and about $7 million over the 2010–2014 period.

Direct spending and revenues

S. 38 would place new reporting and administrative requirements on the boxing industry, including state boxing commissions, boxing promoters, sanctioning organizations, and broadcasters. Violations of these new requirements could be prosecuted as criminal acts, for which criminal fines would be assessed. Under current law, collections of such fines are recorded in the budget as revenues, deposited in the Crime Victims’ Fund, and later spent. CBO expects that any additional receipts and spending that result from violations of the new requirements would not be significant.

Intergovernmental and private-sector impact: S. 38 contains intergovernmental and private-sector mandates, as defined in UMRA, because it would require the state and tribal boxing commissions and the boxing industry to comply with health and safety standards, reporting requirements, and any subpoenas issued by the USBC. The bill also would require the boxing industry to obtain licenses and abide by certain contracting and rating standards. Based on information from industry sources, CBO estimates that the aggregate cost of complying with the mandates would fall below the annual thresholds established in UMRA ($69 million for intergovernmental mandates and $139 million for private-sector mandates in 2009, adjusted annually for inflation).

Mandates that apply to both public and private entities

Health and Safety Standards. The bill would require boxing commissions and the boxing industry to meet additional health and safety standards. It would require boxers to pass medical exams, require commissions to make health and safety disclosures to boxers when they are registered, and expand safety requirements for boxing matches. Information from the Department of Labor and representatives of the boxing industry indicates that state and tribal boxing commissions already regulate boxing matches using standards similar to those required in the bill, and a majority of the boxing industry must already comply with those requirements. CBO therefore expects that any costs associated with additional health and safety measures would be small relative to the annual thresholds.

Reporting Requirements. The bill would require state and tribal boxing commissions, promoters, broadcasters, judges, referees, and sanctioning organizations to report certain information about boxing matches to the USBC. Such disclosures would include information about boxing registries, fees assessed, and other financial information related to boxing matches. Based on information from industry sources, CBO estimates that the cost of reporting such information would be minimal.

Subpoena Authority. The bill would require entities in the public and private sector, if subpoenaed, to attend and provide testimony, evidence, or materials related to any investigations the USBC may conduct. Such a requirement would be an intergovernmental and private-sector mandate as defined by UMRA. CBO expects that the commission would exercise its subpoena power sparingly and that the costs to comply with a subpoena would not be significant.

Mandates that apply to private entities only

S. 38 would also impose mandates that only affect the boxing industry. Those mandates include licensing requirements, contract standards, and rating guidelines. Based on information from the Department of Labor and representatives of the boxing industry, CBO estimates that the cost to comply with those mandates would be small relative to the annual threshold for private-sector mandates.

Licensing Requirements. The bill would require boxers, managers, promoters, referees, judges, and sanctioning organizations to be licensed by the USBC. According to representatives of the boxing industry, license fees would most likely cost the industry less than $1 million per year.

Contract Standards and Rating Guidelines. The bill also would require the boxing industry to include standard clauses in contracts and to adopt rating guidelines for boxers. The bill would require that each bout agreement, boxer-manager contract, and promotional agreement contain standard provisions developed by the commission and that each agreement be filed with the USBC. In addition, sanctioning organizations would be required to adopt guidelines to be established by the USBC for the rating of professional boxers. Because the industry now complies with similar requirements under state regulations, the incremental costs to comply with the mandates would likely be small.

Estimate prepared by: Federal costs: Susan Willie; Impact on state, local, and tribal governments: Elizabeth Cove Delisle; Impact on the private sector: Jacob Kuipers.

Estimate approved by: Theresa Gullo, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

REGULATORY IMPACT STATEMENT

In accordance with paragraph 11(b) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee provides the following evaluation of the regulatory impact of the legislation, as reported:

NUMBER OF PERSONS COVERED

The legislation would apply to professional boxers, local boxing commissions, boxing promoters, boxing managers, boxing judges and referees, ringside physicians, boxing registries, sanctioning organizations, as well as premium or other cable or satellite program service providers, casinos, hotels, resorts, and other commercial establishments that may act as promoters. The legislation would not apply to amateur boxing.

ECONOMIC IMPACT

The economic impact of this legislation would be minimal.

PRIVACY

The impact on the personal privacy of the persons covered by this legislation is expected to be minimal. The USBC, in establishing and maintaining a medical registry for all licensed professional boxers, is expected to take appropriate action to ensure the confidentiality of such records.

PAPERWORK

The impact on paperwork is difficult to determine prior to the formation of the USBC. Local boxing commissions may be required by the USBC to perform minimal processing of licensing and boxing data.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 1. Short title; table of contents.

Section 1 would provide that this Act may be cited as the Professional Boxing Amendments Act of 2009. This section would also provide a table of contents for this Act.

Section 2. Amendment of Professional Boxing Safety Act of 1996.

Section 2 would provide that all references to amendments to, or repeal of, certain sections, are to be considered to be made to a section or other provision of the PBSA (15 U.S.C. 6301 et seq.).

Section 3. Definitions.

Subsection (a) would amend section 2 of the PBSA by providing several changes to definitions. Most notable, the term “boxing commission” would be revised to include entities authorized under tribal law to regulate professional boxing. Only State commissions are considered “boxing commissions” under current law. In addition, the terms “bout agreement” and “promotional agreement” would be modified to provide a distinction between them.

Subsection (b) would amend section 21 of the PBSA with respect to professional boxing matches conducted on Indian lands. This provision would provide authority to a tribal organization to establish a boxing commission to regulate professional boxing held on tribal land. Should a tribal organization establish a boxing commission, the standards adopted by the tribal organization should be at least as restrictive as the requirements of the State in which the tribal organization is located, or the guidelines established by the United States Boxing Commission (USBC).

Section 4. Purpose.

Section 4 would amend section 3(2) of the PBSA by striking “State” in “State boxing commissions” to allow tribal organizations to be included as boxing commissions.

Section 5. United States Boxing Commission approval, or ABC or commission sanction, required for matches.

Section 5 would amend section 4 of the PBSA to provide that no person may arrange, promote, organize, produce, or fight in a professional boxing match in the United States without approval by the USBC and held in a State or by a tribal commission that regulates professional boxing matches in accordance with standards established by the USBC. Approval by the USBC is presumed unless the USBC has been informed of a violation of the PBSA and has notified the supervising boxing commission that it does not approve, the match is advertised as a championship match, the match is scheduled for 10 rounds or more, or a boxer in the match has suffered 10 consecutive defeats or has been knocked out five consecutive times. This section would authorize the USBC to delegate its approval authority to a local commission.

Section 6. Safety standards.

Section 6 would amend section 5 of the PBSA to require that the physical examination currently required by the PBSA include testing for infectious diseases in accordance with standards established by the USBC. This section also would require that an ambulance and medical personnel with appropriate resuscitation equipment be continuously present on the site of professional boxing matches. Current law requires either an ambulance or medical personnel with appropriate resuscitation equipment to be on site.

Section 7. Registration.

Section 7 would amend section 6 of the PBSA to require that State and tribal boxing commissions provide professional boxers with a health and safety disclosure when issuing a boxer a Federal identification card currently required under the PBSA. This disclosure is a "Sense of the Congress" in the PBSA. This section also would require that boxing commissions furnish to the USBC a copy of each professional boxer's registration, as well as the registrations of boxing promoters, managers, and sanctioning organizations.

Section 8. Review.

Section 8 would amend section 7 of the PBSA to clarify the appeal procedure should a boxing commission impose a summary suspension on a professional boxer. Current law creates an inference that, not only must a boxing commission establish appeal procedures regarding the suspension of a boxer, but it must also establish procedures to enable a boxer to have a second hearing regarding the revocation of the suspension. This section would clarify the intent of the current law and require that a boxing commission establish procedures to provide a hearing in the event a boxer seeks to contest the imposition of a summary suspension.

Section 9. Reporting.

Section 9 would amend section 8 of the PBSA by requiring that supervising boxing commissions report the results of a professional boxing match to the USBC within 2 business days. Under current law, supervising boxing commissions must report results to each boxer registry not later than 48 business hours.

Section 10. Contract requirements.

Section 10 would amend section 9 of the PBSA.

Subsection (a) would authorize the USBC, in consultation with the ABC, to develop minimum contractual provisions to be included in all bout agreements, boxer-manager contracts, and promotional agreements. Boxing commissions would be required to ensure that the minimum provisions are included in such agreements or contracts.

Subsection (b) would require managers or promoters to submit a copy of each boxer-manager contract and each promotional agreement between the manager or promoter and the boxer to the USBC. This subsection also would prohibit a boxing commission from approving a professional boxing match unless a copy of the bout agreement related to the match is filed with and approved by the Commission.

Subsection (c) would prohibit a boxing commission from approving a professional boxing match unless the promoter of that match posts a surety bond, cashier's check, letter of credit, cash, or other security acceptable to the boxing commission. This is intended to ensure that the boxer is paid at the conclusion of each match.

Section 11. Coercive contracts.

This section would amend section 10 of the PBSA to establish minimum guidelines for bout agreements, boxer-manager contracts, and promotional agreements.

Section 12. Sanctioning organizations.

This section would amend section 11 of the PBSA.

Subsection (a) would require within 1 year after the date of enactment that the USBC develop guidelines for written criteria for rating professional boxers based on their athletic merits. Within 90 days of the promulgation of the guidelines, each sanctioning organization would be required to adopt the guidelines and follow them.

Subsection (b) would require sanctioning organizations, when making ratings changes, to post, within 7 days and for a period of not less than 30 days, a copy of the new ratings on its Internet website or homepage with an explanation of the change posted for a period not less than 30 days, provide a copy of the rating change and an explanation to the boxer and the USBC, provide the boxer an opportunity to appeal the ratings change, and apply the ratings guidelines required under subsection (a) of this section.

Subsection (c) would require sanctioning organizations that receive inquiries from boxers challenging ratings decisions to provide to the boxer, within 7 days, a written explanation of the sanctioning organizations rating criteria, its rating of the boxer, and its rationale or basis for its rating, and submit a copy of its explanation to the ABC and the USBC.

Section 13. Required disclosures by sanctioning organizations.

Section 13 would amend section 12 of the PBSA, which bars a sanctioning organization from receiving compensation from a boxing match until it provides the supervising boxing commission with a statement of fees assessed to the fighter or received for the fight. This section would be modified to require sanctioning organizations to provide, within 7 days after a professional boxing match of 10 rounds or more, a statement of all fees that a sanctioning organization “has assessed, or will assess” to any boxer in the match, a written statement of fees that a sanctioning organization “has received, or will receive” from all sources affiliated with a boxing event, and any other information that the supervising boxing commission may require.

Section 14. Required disclosures by promoters and broadcasters.

Section 14 would amend section 13 of the PBSA, which bars a promoter from receiving compensation from a boxing match until it provides the supervising boxing commission with certain financial information regarding the match. This section would require promoters to provide to the supervising boxing commission, within 7 days after a professional boxing match of 10 rounds or more, that same financial information. This section also would require promoters to make similar financial disclosures to each boxer in the match within 7 days after a professional boxing match of 10 rounds or more, including what the promoter has paid, or agreed to pay, to any other person in connection with the match.

This section also would require a broadcaster that owns television broadcast rights to a professional boxing match of 10 rounds or more to provide to the USBC within 7 days subsequent to the match a statement of any fee owed to a promoter in connection with the match, a copy of any contract the broadcaster has with a boxer in the match, and a list identifying sources of income received from the broadcast of the match. This section would require that the information disclosed by the broadcaster would be held as confidential by the USBC or local commission.

Section 15. Judges and referees.

Section 15 would amend section 16 of the PBSA.

Subsection (a) would require that no person may arrange, promote, organize, produce, or fight in a professional match unless the referees and judges participating in the match have been “selected” by the supervising boxing commission. Current law requires that all referees and judges participating in the match are “certified and approved” by the supervising boxing commission.

Subsection (b) would require, in addition to subsection (a), that no person may arrange, promote, organize, produce, or fight in a professional match advertised to the public as a championship match or in a match scheduled for 10 rounds or more unless the referees and judges participating in the match have been licensed by the USBC.

Subsection (c) would prohibit sanctioning organizations from influencing, directly or indirectly, the selection of judges and referees, but would allow the organizations to provide a list of judges or referees that the sanctioning organization deems qualified.

Subsection (d) would permit a boxing commission to assign judges and referees who reside outside a commission’s jurisdiction.

Subsection (e) would require that a judge or referee provide to a supervising boxing commission a statement of all consideration, including reimbursement for expenses, that the judge or referee has received, or will receive, from any source for participation in the match. This statement also would be provided to the USBC if the match is scheduled for 10 rounds or more.

Section 16. Medical registry.

Section 16 would create a new section 14 in the PBSA.

Subsection (a) would require that the USBC establish and maintain, or certify a third party to establish and maintain, a medical registry to contain the comprehensive medical records and medical denials or suspensions for every licensed boxer in the United States.

Subsection (b) would direct the USBC to determine the nature of the medical records to be forwarded to the USBC and the time within which they are to be submitted to the registry.

Subsection (c) would require the USBC to establish confidentiality standards for the disclosure of personally-identifiable information to boxing commissions to ensure that the information is used for the intended purpose, which is to protect the health and safety of professional boxers, and that it is not publicly disclosed.

Section 17. Conflicts of interest.

Section 17 would amend section 17(a) of the PBSA by including officers and employees of the USBC in the current list of persons who may not hold office, contract with, or receive any compensation from, any person who sanctions, arranges, or promotes professional boxing matches or who otherwise has a financial interest in an active boxer currently registered with a boxer registry. This section also would preclude a boxer from owning or controlling an entity that promotes the boxer's bouts in certain instances.

Section 18. Enforcement.

Section 18 would amend section 18 of the PBSA. Under the PBSA, the United States Attorney General has the authority to bring a civil action in the appropriate district court to prevent or punish a violation of the PBSA. This section would expand that authority to include criminal actions. This section also would make officers and employees of the USBC subject to civil or criminal action for violation of the PBSA. This section would allow the chief law enforcement officer of a State to bring an action if that officer has reason to believe that a person "has engaged in, or is engaging" in conduct that violates the PBSA. Current law only allows the chief law enforcement officer of a State to act while the violator is engaging in, but not after, the unlawful conduct.

Section 19. Repeal of deadwood.

Section 19 would repeal section 20 of the PBSA, which required the Secretary of Labor to conduct a study on the feasibility and cost of a national pension system for professional boxers and report the results to Congress. Section 20 of the PBSA also required the Secretary of Health and Human Services "to conduct a study to develop recommendations for health, safety, and equipment standards for boxers and for professional boxing matches." The expiration of these deadlines makes this language no longer necessary in the PBSA.

Section 20. Recognition of tribal law.

Section 20 would amend section 22 of the PBSA by allowing tribal organizations, not just States, to adopt or enforce supplemental or more stringent laws or regulations not inconsistent with the PBSA, or criminal, civil, or administrative fines for violations of such laws or regulations.

Section 21. Establishment of United States Boxing Commission.

Subsection (a) would amend the PBSA by adding a new title II establishing the USBC, as follows:

Section 201. Purpose.

This section would state that the purpose of the USBC is to protect the health, safety, and welfare of boxers and to ensure fairness in the sport of professional boxing.

Section 202. Establishment of United States Boxing Commission.

Subsection (a) would establish the USBC as a commission within the Department of Commerce.

Subsection (b) would provide that the USBC would consist of three members appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Each member would be required to be a U.S. citizen with extensive experience in professional boxing activities or a field directly related to professional sports. Each member would be required to have outstanding character and integrity, and selected without regard to political affiliation. At least one member would be a former local boxing member, and, if practicable, one member would be a physician. Members would be precluded from any dealings in the boxing industry, and not more than two members would be from the same political party or reside in the same geographical region (split by the Mississippi River). Members would serve three-year terms, with the possibility of reappointment.

Subsection (b) would require the USBC to employ an executive director to perform the administrative functions of the Commission. In addition, the Commission would be required to hire a general counsel and any additional staff as needed to carry out the functions of the Commission.

Section 203. Functions.

Subsection (a) would provide the primary functions of the USBC.

Subsection (b) lists the specific functions of the USBC.

Subsection (c) would provide that the USBC may not promote boxing events or rank professional boxers, or provide technical assistance to, or authorize the use of the name of the USBC by, boxing commissions that do not comply with the requirements of the USBC.

Subsection (d) would provide that the USBC shall have the exclusive right to the name "United States Boxing Commission." This subsection also provides that any person who uses the name, USBC, without permission is subject to a civil action by the Commission under the Trademark Act of 1946.

Section 204. Licensing and registration of boxing personnel.

Subsection (a) would require that boxers, managers, promoters, and sanctioning organizations be licensed by the USBC to participate in a professional boxing match. The USBC shall establish procedures and fees for applying for, granting, and issuing licenses. Licenses issued by the USBC are for 4-year terms for professional boxers and 2-year terms for any other person. The USBC may issue licenses through boxing commissions.

Subsection (b) would authorize the USBC to prescribe and charge reasonable licensing fees. In setting fees, this subsection cautions that, to the maximum extent possible, the USBC should ensure that club boxing is not adversely affected, sanctioning organizations and promoters pay the largest portion of the fees, and boxers pay as small a portion as possible. The USBC may collect fees through boxing commissions.

Section 205. National registry of boxing personnel.

Subsection (a) would require the USBC to establish (or certify a third party to establish) a national registry of boxing personnel. This registry is to include relevant information about boxers, as well as information on promoters, matchmakers, managers, trainers, cut men, referees, judges, physicians, and any other professional boxing personnel deemed appropriate by the USBC.

Section 206. Consultation requirements.

This section would require the USBC to consult with the ABC before prescribing any regulation or establishing any standard, and not less than once each year regarding matters related to professional boxing.

Section 207. Misconduct.

Subsection (a) would authorize the USBC, after notice and opportunity for a hearing, to suspend or revoke any license issued under this title if the USBC finds that such action is necessary to protect health and safety or is otherwise in the public interest; there are reasonable grounds to believe that a USBC standard is not being met or that certain criminal acts have occurred; or the licensee has violated a provision of the PBSA. The USBC would determine the period of suspension. In the case of a revocation of the license of a boxer, the revocation would be for a period of not less than one year.

Subsection (b) would authorize the USBC to conduct investigations and seek injunctions to further the purposes of the PBSA. This subsection also would authorize the USBC to subpoena, administer oaths and affirmations, and require the production of information.

Subsection (c) would authorize the USBC to intervene or file an amicus brief on behalf of the public interest in any civil action relating to professional boxing filed in a United States district court.

Subsection (d) would require that hearings conducted by the USBC be public and may be held before any officer of the USBC or before a boxing commission that is a member of the ABC.

Section 208. Noninterference with local boxing commissions.

Subsection (a) would provide that nothing in this title shall prohibit any boxing commission from exercising its powers, duties, or functions with respect to the regulation or supervision of professional boxing to the extent such exercises is not inconsistent with this title.

Subsection (b) would provide that nothing in this title prohibits any boxing commission from enforcing local standards or requirements that exceed those promulgated by the USBC.

Section 209. Assistance from other agencies.

This section would authorize the USBC to request that any employee of an entity be detailed to the USBC on a reimbursable or non-reimbursable basis with the employees' consent.

Section 210. Reports.

Subsection (a) would require the USBC to submit an annual report to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation and the House of Representatives Committee on Energy and Commerce. The report shall include a detailed discussion of the activities of the USBC and an overview of the licensing and enforcement activities of boxing commissions.

Subsection (b) would require the USBC to publish and publicize an annual report regarding the progress made by the Commission to reform professional boxing at the Federal and State levels, including on Indian lands, and comment on continuing concerns of the USBC.

Subsection (c) would require that the first annual report be submitted not later than 2 years after the effective date of this title.

Section 211. Initial implementation.

Subsection (a) would provide that the licensing requirements of this title do not apply to boxers, judges or referees, or any other activity in relation to professional boxing, if the person is licensed by a boxing commission to perform that activity as of the effective date of this title.

Subsection (b) would provide that the exemption in subsection (a) expires on the earlier of the date on which the license expires, or the date that is 2 years after the date of enactment of this legislation.

Section 212. Authorization of appropriations.

Subsection (a) would authorize to be appropriated for the USBC for each fiscal year such sums as may be necessary to perform its functions for that fiscal year.

Subsection (b) would provide that any fee collected under this title be credited as offsetting collections to the account that finances the USBC.

Section 21(b) of the bill would provide several conforming amendments.

Section 22. Study and report on definition of promoter.

This section would create a new section of the PBSA to require the USBC to conduct a study of how the term “promoter” should be defined for the purposes of the PBSA and report back to the House and Senate committees of jurisdiction within 12 months of the enactment of this legislation.

Section 23. Effective date.

This section would create a new section of the PBSA to provide that the amendments made by this legislation would take effect on the date of enactment of this legislation, except for the provisions creating the USBC, which will take effect one year after the date of enactment of this legislation.

(B) A coercive provision described in this subparagraph is a contract provision that grants any rights between a boxer and a promoter, or between promoters with respect to a boxer, if the boxer is required to grant such rights, or a boxer's promoter is required to grant such rights with respect to a boxer to another promoter, as a condition precedent to the boxer's participation in a professional boxing match against another boxer who is under contract to the promoter.
