COMMITTEE STATEMENT AND VIEWS

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

The Senior Executive Service (SES) was designed to ensure accountability for honest, economical, and efficient government.<sup>1</sup> H.R. 6016 provides agencies with an additional tool to hold SES employees accountable for their actions. The legislation allows an SES employee to be fired for misappropriation of funds and gives agencies discretion to place SES employees on unpaid leave, while maintaining existing due process rights. The legislation responds to the Committee’s review of the planning and execution of the General Services Administration’s (GSA) 2010 Western Regional Conference, including GSA’s response to employee misconduct. The bill represents an important step in ensuring senior leaders are held to a high standard, especially when their conduct is flagrant.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

In April 2012, the Committee held a hearing concerning the excessive, wasteful, and in some cases impermissible spending that occurred during the preparation for and implementation of GSA’s

2010 Western Regional Conference.<sup>2</sup> The GSA spent more than $820,000 on a conference originally budgeted at $250,000. The GSA had no triggers or controls in place to stop the flagrant spending.

GSA employees, including Mr. Jeff Neely, Regional Commissioner, Public Buildings Service Pacific Rim Region, failed to follow GSA policy and Federal procurement law.

In May 2011, GSA Inspector General Brian Miller personally briefed then-GSA Administrator Martha Johnson and then-Senior Counselor to the Administrator Steve Leeds on an investigation into the Western Regional Conference.<sup>3</sup> The Office of Inspector General (OIG) subsequently presented GSA leadership with the final management deficiency report concerning the conference on February 17, 2012.<sup>4</sup> The agency typically has 30 days to review and respond. In this case, GSA requested an additional 30 days. Despite having 60 days to consider taking action from receipt of the final management deficiency report, then-Administrator Johnson took no action.

The Washington Post broke the news of then-Administrator Johnson's resignation on April 2, 2012, the same day the OIG released the report.<sup>5</sup> On April 20, 2012, GSA provided notice of its intent to terminate Mr. Jeff Neely for misconduct. Mr. Neely was placed on paid administrative leave. Rather than attempting to contest the charges, Mr. Neely retired.<sup>6</sup>

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

The Civil Service Reform Act of 1978 established the Senior Executive Service and clarified the grounds for taking action against SES employees whose conduct was unacceptable.<sup>7</sup>

SECTION-BY-SECTION

Section 1. Short title

The short title of the bill is the "Government Employee Accountability Act."

Section 2. Administrative leave for Senior Executive Service employees

Section 2 establishes a new subchapter within chapter 75 of title 5. The new subchapter provides the head of an agency authority to use administrative leave when disciplining a member of the Senior Executive Service (SES). For purposes of the new subchapter, administrative leave is defined as an authorized absence from duty for a period not to exceed 90 days, for disciplinary reasons. The administrative leave options available to agencies under the new subchapter VI are in addition to agencies' existing authority to grant employees excused absences and place them on administrative leave for reasons determined to be in the government's interest.

Under regulations prescribed by the Office of Personnel Management, the head of an agency may place an SES employee on administrative leave, with pay, for misappropriation of funds, misconduct, neglect of duty, or malfeasance. SES employees whose misconduct is determined to be serious or flagrant may be placed on administrative leave without pay.

Not later than 5 business days after the end of the two-week period of administrative leave, the agency head must review the investigation into the employee's conduct and describe the review to the House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform and Senate Committee on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs.

At the end of the period of administrative leave, the agency must: (1) remove the employee; (2) suspend the employee without pay; or (3) restore the employee to duty. The agency head has discretion to place the employee on one additional period of administrative leave.

Employees retain their existing due process rights afforded to them under chapter 75, including the right to appeal to the Merit Systems Protection Board.

An agency head may use an Inspector General report that states an SES employee has committed a crime as the basis for removing or suspending the employee without pay. An agency head may also determine the conduct is serious or flagrant. In these instances, the employee is not entitled to 30 days' advance notice of administrative leave.

Section 3. Suspension of Senior Executive Service employees

Section 3 allows for an SES employee to be terminated or suspended without pay for more than 14 days for misappropriation of funds. An agency head may use an Inspector General report that states a Senior Executive Service employee has committed a crime as the basis for removing or suspending the employee without pay. In this instance, the employee is not entitled to 30 days' advance notice of the proposed termination or suspension without pay. The agency head may also elect to waive the advance notice requirement if he determines the conduct to be serious or flagrant.

EXPLANATION OF AMENDMENTS

Mr. Kelly offered a substitute amendment to make clear an agency could waive the advance notice requirement when placing a Senior Executive Service on unpaid leave or taking an adverse action against a Senior Executive Service employee if the conduct was serious or flagrant. In addition, the substitute amendment made a number of technical changes to the bill. The amendment was agreed to by voice vote.

COMMITTEE CONSIDERATION

On June 27, 2012, the Committee met in open session and ordered reported favorably the bill, H.R. 6016, as amended, by roll call vote, a quorum being present.

ROLL CALL VOTES

There were no roll call votes during consideration of H.R. 6016.

APPLICATION OF LAW TO THE LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

Section 102(b)(3) of Public Law 104–1 requires a description of the application of this bill to the legislative branch where the bill relates to the terms and conditions of employment or access to public services and accommodations. This bill provides agencies with an additional tool to hold SES employees accountable for their actions. Legislative branch employees and their families, to the extent that they are otherwise eligible for the benefits provided by this legislation, have equal access to its benefits.

COMMITTEE ESTIMATE

Clause 3(d)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives requires an estimate and a comparison by the Committee of the costs that would be incurred in carrying out H.R.6016. However, clause 3(d)(3)(B) of that rule provides that this requirement does not apply when the Committee has included in its report a timely submitted cost estimate of the bill prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office under section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act.

BUDGET AUTHORITY AND CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE COST ESTIMATE

With respect to the requirements of clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 308(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 and with respect to requirements of clause (3)(c)(3) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the Committee has received the following cost estimate for H.R. 6016 from the Director of Congressional Budget Office:

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, September 14, 2012.

Hon. DARRELL ISSA,
Chairman, Committee on Oversight and Government Reform, House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for H.R. 6016, the Government Employee Accountability Act.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Santiago Vallinas.

Sincerely,

DOUGLAS W. ELMENDORF.

Enclosure.

H.R. 6016—Government Employee Accountability Act

CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 6016 would not have a significant impact on federal spending. Enacting the bill could affect revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures apply. However, CBO estimates that any effects would be insignificant for each year.

H.R. 6016 would allow agencies to place Senior Executive Service (SES) employees on unpaid administrative leave for up to 180 days if they are accused of misappropriation of funds, misconduct, neglect of duty, or malfeasance. Currently, investigations of such offenses generally require agencies to initially place employees on paid leave, but later those employees may be suspended indefinitely without pay. Since administrative leave for misconduct is not tracked separately it is difficult to quantify the number of instances that it has occurred, but according to the Office of Personnel Management and other federal agencies, it is very uncommon. CBO assumes that citations for such misconduct will continue to be uncommon and therefore only a few SES employees would be subject to unpaid leave over the 2013–2022 period.

Implementing this bill would lead to lower discretionary spending for salaries and expenses for those placed on unpaid administrative leave, but CBO estimates that such reductions would be small. Because affected employees would not receive a salary for a period of time, they also would not make scheduled retirement contributions, resulting in a reduction in revenues. CBO estimates that those reductions would not be significant.

H.R. 6016 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Santiago Vallinas. The estimate was approved by Theresa Gullo, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

MINORITY VIEWS

The purposes of H.R. 6016—to prevent the misappropriation of taxpayer dollars by Senior Executive Service employees and hold them accountable for such misconduct—are commendable. However, current law (Subchapter V of Chapter 75 of Title 5 of the United States Code) already provides authority for agencies to take disciplinary action against Senior Executives who misappropriate funds. In addition, although some of the bill’s deficiencies were addressed prior to the Committee’s consideration, other issues remain unaddressed. For example:

- It is unclear how “serious or flagrant” conduct would be defined and how such conduct differs from “misconduct, neglect of duty or malfeasance” as set forth in current law.
- It is unclear how “misappropriation of funds” differs from “misconduct or malfeasance” as set forth in current law.
- It is unclear how administrative leave without pay, as redefined by the bill, differs from suspension, which is an available remedy under current law.
- It is unclear why the bill appears to eliminate agency authority to use administrative leave for non-disciplinary reasons, which is a necessary management tool.
- It is unclear why the bill appears to force agency heads to decide whether to remove, suspend, or reinstate employees even if investigations have not yet been completed, which could interfere with ongoing investigations, jeopardize the due process rights of employees, and risk overturning disciplinary actions on appeal.
- It is unclear whether the bill provides sufficient due process rights for employees, especially in cases in which conduct is serious or flagrant or when there is reasonable cause to believe that an employee has committed a crime.
- It is unclear under the bill whether an Inspector General’s report would be the sole basis for agencies to determine that employees may have engaged in criminal conduct.

The Majority has acknowledged some of the problems in the bill, and we appreciate their commitment to work with the Minority to craft an appropriate solution.

Any misuse of taxpayer funds is unacceptable, and Congress should help agencies hold federal employees accountable for waste, fraud, and abuse. However, the bad actions of a few individuals should not be allowed to undermine the reputation of our nation’s dedicated federal employees. These honest and hardworking men and women devote their lives to serving the public, and the vast majority of federal workers are excellent stewards of the public trust.

ELIJAH E. CUMMINGS.
