(c) EFFECT OF LACK OF PAYMENT YIELD.—

(1) ESTABLISHMENT BY SECRETARY.—If no payment yield is otherwise established for a farm for which a covered commodity is planted and eligible to receive price loss coverage payments, the Secretary shall establish an appropriate payment yield for the covered commodity on the farm under paragraph (2).

(2) USE OF SIMILARLY SITUATED FARMS.—To establish an appropriate payment yield for a covered commodity on a farm as required by paragraph (1), the Secretary shall take into consideration the farm program payment yields applicable to that covered commodity for similarly situated farms. (1) ELECTION TO UPDATE.—At the sole discretion of the owner of a farm, the owner of a farm shall have a 1-time opportunity to update the payment yields on a covered commodity-by-covered commodity basis that would otherwise be used in calculating any price loss coverage payment for covered commodities on the farm.

(3) METHOD OF UPDATING YIELDS.—If the owner of a farm elects to update yields under this subsection, the payment yield for a covered commodity on the farm, for the purpose of calculating price loss coverage payments only, shall be equal to 90 percent of the average of the yield per planted acre for the crop of the covered commodity on the farm for the 2008 through 2012 crop years, as determined by the Secretary, excluding any crop year in which the acreage planted to the crop of the covered commodity was zero.

(4) USE OF COUNTY AVERAGE YIELD.—If the yield per planted acre for a crop of the covered commodity for a farm for any of the 2008 through 2012 crop years was less than 75 percent of the average of the 2008 through 2012 county yield for that commodity, the Secretary shall assign a yield for that crop year equal to 75 percent of the average of the 2008 through 2012 county yield for the purposes of determining the average yield under paragraph (3).

(5) EFFECT OF LACK OF PAYMENT YIELD.—

(A) ESTABLISHMENT BY SECRETARY.—For purposes of this subsection, if no payment yield is otherwise established for a covered commodity on a farm, the Secretary shall establish an appropriate updated payment yield for the covered commodity on the farm under subparagraph (B).

(B) USE OF SIMILARLY SITUATED FARMS.—To establish an appropriate payment yield for a covered commodity on a farm as required by subparagraph (A), the Secretary shall take into consideration the farm program payment yields applicable to that covered commodity for similarly situated farms. The use of such data in an appeal, by the Secretary or by the producer, shall not be subject to any other provision of law.

“(E) include provisions requiring that upon the violation of a term or condition of the contract at any time the producer has control of the land—

“(i) if the Secretary determines that the violation warrants termination of the contract—

“(I) the producer shall forfeit all rights to receive payments under the contract; and

“(II) the producer shall refund all or a portion of the payments received by the producer under the contract, including any interest on the payments, as determined by the Secretary; or

“(ii) if the Secretary determines that the violation does not warrant termination of the contract, the producer shall refund or accept adjustments to the payments provided to the producer, as the Secretary determines to be appropriate;

“(F) include provisions in accordance with paragraphs (3) and (4) of this section; and “(G) include any additional provisions the Secretary determines are necessary to carry out the program.

“(A) IN GENERAL.—At the time of application, a producer shall have control of the eligible land to be enrolled in the program. Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a change in the interest of a producer in eligible land covered by a contract under the program shall result in the termination of the contract with regard to that land.

“(B) TRANSFER OF DUTIES AND RIGHTS.—Subparagraph (A) shall not apply if—

“(i) within a reasonable period of time (as determined by the Secretary) after the date of the change in the interest in eligible land covered by a contract under the program, the transferee of the land provides written notice to the Secretary that all duties and rights under

“(B) require repayment, in whole or in part, of payments received and assess liquidated damages.

“(e) CONTRACT RENEWAL.—At the end of the initial 5-year contract period, the Secretary may allow the producer to renew the contract for 1 additional 5-year period if the producer—

“(1) demonstrates compliance with the terms of the initial contract;

(b) AGRICULTURAL PRODUCT DEFINED.—In this section, the term “agricultural product” has the meaning given such term in section 207 of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (7 U.S.C. 1626).

SEC. 12315. INCREASED PROTECTION FOR AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS IN THE MISSOURI RIVER BASIN.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

- (1) Record runoff occurred in the Missouri River basin during 2011 as a result of historic rainfall over portions of the upper basin coupled with heavy plains and mountain snowpack.
- (2) Runoff above Sioux City, Iowa, during the 5-month period of March through July totaled an estimated 48.4 million acre-feet (referred to in this section as “MAF”). This runoff volume was more than 20 percent greater than the design storm for the Missouri River Mainstem Reservoir System (referred to in this section as the “System”), which was based on the 1881 runoff of 40.0 MAF during the same 5-month period.
- (3) During the 2011 runoff season, nearly 61 million acre-feet of water entered the Missouri River system, far surpassing the previous record of 49 MAF in runoff that was set during the flood of 1997.
- (4) Given the incredible amount of water entering the System, the summer months were spent working to evacuate as much water from the System as possible, ultimately leading to record high water releases from Gavins Point Dam of 160,000 cubic feet per second, a rate that more than doubled the previous release record of 70,000 cubic feet per second set in 1997.

(5) For nearly four months, those extremely high releases from Gavins Point were maintained, resulting in severe and sustained flooding, with much of western Iowa and eastern Nebraska as well as portions of South Dakota, Kansas, and Missouri inundated by a flooding river three to five feet deep, up to 11 miles wide, and flowing at a rate of 4 to 11 miles per hour.

(6) Thousands of homes and businesses were damaged or destroyed and hundreds of millions of dollars in damage was done to roads and other public infrastructure.

(7) In addition to the homes, businesses, and infrastructure impacted by the flooding, hundreds of thousands of acres of cropland were affected.

(8) The Department of Agriculture has estimated that 400,000 to 500,000 acres of some of the most productive crop land in the world was flooded in 2011.

(9) Local Farm Services Agency representatives have estimated that $82,100,000 was lost in 2011 alone due to damaged or lost crops and unplanted acres.

(10) Not only did the flooding eliminate the 2011 crop, but it is highly unlikely that many farmers will be able to put that land back into production at any point in the near future.

(11) Producers will have to contend with large piles of sand, silt, and other debris that have been deposited in their fields, meaning the impact of the 2011 flood will be felt in the agricultural communities up and down the Missouri River for many years to come.

(12) Currently, the amount of storage capacity in the System that is set aside for flood control is based upon the vacated space required to control the 1881 flood, because prior to the 2011 flood, the 1881 flood was seen as the “high water mark”.

(13) Given the historic flooding that took place in 2011, it is clear that that year’s flooding now represents a new “high water mark”, surpassing the flooding of even the 1881 flood.

(14) It is important that the flood control related functions of the System management be adjusted to reflect the reality of the 2011 flood as the new “worst case scenario” for flooding along the Missouri River.

(15) System management may begin to be adjusted to account for the 2011 flood through a recalculation of the amount of storage space within the System that is allocated to flood control, using the model not of the 1881 flood, but of the greatest flood experienced—the flood of 2011.

(16) As a result of the flooding in 2011, many States received disaster declarations from the Department of Agriculture to help farmers and producers recover from the damage done by the high water.

(17) Though helpful, even the assistance provided by the Department of Agriculture will not provide many in the agriculture community with the resources to put their land back into production any time soon.

(18) Without the protection that will come from a fundamental change in the System’s flood control storage allocations, farmers, producers, and other agricultural interests who may be in a position to restart their operations will find it difficult to justify doing so, given the fact that they will not be protected from similar flooding in the future.

(b) UPDATED MANAGEMENT OF THE MISSOURI RIVER TO PROTECT AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS.—In order to strengthen the agricultural economy, revitalize the rural communities, and conserve the natural resources of the Missouri River basin, the Congress directs that the Secretary of Agriculture take action to promote immediate increased flood protection to farmers, producers, and other agricultural interests in the Missouri River basin by working within its jurisdiction to support efforts—

(1) to recalculate the amount of space within the System that is allocated to flood control storage using the 2011 flood as the model; and

(2) to increase the Missouri River’s channel capacity between the reservoirs and below Gavins Point.

SEC. 12316. INCREASED PROTECTION FOR AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS IN THE BLACK DIRT REGION.

In order to strengthen the agricultural economy, revitalize the rural communities, and conserve the natural resources of the Black Dirt region, the Congress directs that the Secretary of Agriculture take action to promote immediate increased flood protection to farmers, producers, and other agricultural interests around the Wallkill River and in the Black Dirt region.

- Cotton is ineligible for PLC and RLC and instead is offered an area-based crop insurance product to resolve the World Trade Organization (WTO) dispute with Brazil.
- Reauthorizes nonrecourse loans for loan commodities for the 2014 to 2018 crops years at loan rates established in current law. Adjustments are made to the cotton marketing loan rate to resolve the WTO dispute with Brazil.
- Eliminates the separate farm and non-farm adjusted gross income limits. Individuals with a 3-year average adjusted gross income greater than $950,000 are ineligible for commodity and conservation program benefits.
- Individuals and entities may only receive up to a combined total of $125,000 from both PLC and RLC payments.
- Reauthorizes the sugar policy established in current law.
- Reauthorizes and improves the Livestock Indemnity Program, the Livestock Forage Disaster Program, Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honey Bees and Farm-Raised Fish, and the Tree Assistance Program.

- Establishes a voluntary risk management safety net for producers; the Dairy Producer Margin Protection and Dairy Market Stabilization Programs.
- Dairy producers have the option to sign up for basic margin protection, developed to aid in better risk management practices when milk prices and feed prices converge.
- Producers signing up for the margin protection program would be subject to the Dairy Market Stabilization Program.
- Among the risk management tools authorized are a new program that will provide a basic level of protection for up to 80 percent of production history when margins fall below $4.00 for a consecutive two month period.
- Repeals Dairy Product Price Support Program, the Milk Income Loss Contract Program, the Dairy Export Incentive Program, and the Federal Milk Marketing Order Review Commission.
- Extends Dairy Forward Pricing Program, Dairy Indemnity Program, and Dairy Promotion and Research Program.

Title II—Conservation

- Provides farmers, ranchers, foresters and landowners with voluntary, incentive-based financial and technical assistance for conservation practices.
- Consolidates 23 programs into 13, while increasing flexibility and program efficiency.
- Amends the Conservation Reserve Program to improve and focus acres on the most environmentally sensitive lands. Enrollment is incrementally scaled back to 24 million acres by 2017. Flexibility for haying and grazing is included, in addition to two million acres reserved for grassland contracts. While transitioning acres, expiring contracts are given priority consideration for working lands and grasslands contracts and Conservation Stewardship Program contracts. The Transition Incentives Program (TIP) will continue.
- The Conservation Stewardship Program allows for producers to adopt new conservation practices while maintaining and protecting existing improvements made on natural resources. Enrollment is 8.695 million acres per year.
- Reauthorizes and amends the Environmental Quality Incentives Program to include functions of the past Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP), providing similar wildlife incentives. Also, EQIP provides cost share incentives to producers to meet or avoid the need for national, state, or local regulation. The Conservation Innovation Grant (CIG) subprogram will continue.
- Reauthorizes the Voluntary Public Access and Habitat Incentive Program.
- Establishes the Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCPP) by the consolidation of four programs, including all of their major functions in order to leverage program dollars to increase effectiveness. RCPP allows for USDA and outside partners to work directly with producers to address natural resource concerns. This is a competitive program that USDA will select based on the merit of the targeted regions application. The Secretary may designate Critical Conservation Areas that are under significant regulatory pressure.

- Creates the Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (ACEP) in order to consolidate all easement programs to increase flexibility for the administration. ACEP allows for different lands to be enrolled into working grassland or farmland aspect or the wetland easement portion to enhance water quality and wildlife habitat.

PURPOSE AND NEED

The Federal Agriculture Reform and Risk Management Act (FARRM) is the product of nearly three years of deliberations, including 46 House hearings and audits, a joint deficit reduction proposal developed between leaders of the House and Senate Committees on Agriculture, and, ultimately, Committee consideration and passage on an overwhelming and bipartisan basis. As measured by the length of the Committee's consideration and by the depth of its evaluation, having fully examined the purpose and effectiveness of each and every authority under the jurisdiction of the Committee, FARRM is the product of extensive analysis and research.

Once enacted into law, the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) estimates that FARRM will yield taxpayers nearly $40 billion in deficit reduction. FARRM proposes to achieve these substantial budget savings through significant reform. FARRM repeals or consolidates more than 100 programs, saves $20.5 billion from SNAP by curbing abuse, eliminates Direct Payments and reforms commodity policy at a savings of more than $14 billion, saves another $6.9 billion by consolidating 23 conservation programs into 13, and brings about long overdue regulatory relief for farmers and ranchers. The Committee believes that if all committees of Congress and all functions of government underwent the review, reform, and reductions that this Committee has imposed upon policies under its jurisdiction, the United States would be well on its way to a smaller government and a balanced budget.

Title I—Commodities

For its share, Title I sustains a 36.1 percent reduction. These savings are accomplished through a complete reform of U.S. farm policy, repealing all of current policy under Title I relative to row crops, except for the marketing loan which is maintained with an adjustment to the cotton loan in order to address a World Trade Organization (WTO) dispute. In lieu of current policy, producers are given a choice between two less expensive risk management options under Title I as well as some additional tools to manage risk that producers may purchase under Federal Crop Insurance.

Upon FARRM's passage, Title I and Federal Crop Insurance will have been cut by more than $30 billion over the past seven years. This reduction in funding stands in contrast to the rising costs of other functions of the U.S. government. Additionally, foreign subsidies and tariffs are trending sharply upward according to two independent reports issued during the Committee's development of FARRM, which serve as prescient reminders of both the appropriateness of and need for U.S. farm policy.

The resilience and strength of the U.S. farm sector over much of the past decade, its contribution to two economic recoveries and millions of on and off-farm jobs, and its positive contribution to the nation's balance of trade have been acknowledged by both proponents and opponents of U.S. farm policy, but for purposes of advancing very different objectives. Relatively strong crop prices and production experienced over the past ten years have been viewed by opponents as obviating the need for much or even all of farm policy, while proponents have pointed to the current policy's evident success in creating a positive business environment at low cost to the taxpayer—only a small fraction of 1 percent of the Federal budget. Ultimately, Mother Nature weighed in on the dispute in 2012, imposing a widespread and severe drought that still grips much of the country. This serves as a reminder of the unique risks farmers and ranchers face that necessitate effective U.S. farm policy.

Robust prices for at least some crops, in part brought on by the drought, will undoubtedly serve as a straw man for those who might still contend that the significant savings and reforms achieved by FARRM are insufficient, that the deficit and growing national debt demand even more. Those without the benefit of history may find this argument compelling. However, the nation's experience with the past three farm bills leads to a different conclusion. While the 1996 farm bill was predicated on forecasts of high prices that ultimately plunged, resulting in billions of dollars in additional costs, the 2002 and 2008 farm bills were predicated on, or at least designed to deal with, dramatic price declines that ultimately never materialized, yielding substantially lower costs to taxpayers. Prudent policy and honest budgeting, informed by these experiences, directed the Committee to couple the fiscal successes of the previous two farm bills with the market-orientation and regulatory relief of the 1996 law in order to accomplish significant savings and reform.

It is in the context of these overarching objectives that the Committee took into consideration the substantive policy priorities of all those impacted by a farm bill, including the nation's farmers and ranchers. Relative to the farm safety net, despite what seemed at times to be a cacophony of views, several key themes constantly emerged.

The first and most widely shared theme is that Congress should do no harm to Federal Crop Insurance. The cuts made in the 2008 farm bill, the cuts made unilaterally by the Administration just two years later in its renegotiation of the Standard Reinsurance Agreement (SRA), and dramatic policy changes elsewhere in the administration of crop insurance, raised the alarm that 32 years of progress in making crop insurance the cornerstone of U.S. farm policy it is today could be jeopardized. One of the most significant challenges the Committee faced was honoring producer priority to protect crop insurance while also satisfying the wishes of some producers who wanted a revenue-based program offered under Title I, goals which are, to some extent, at cross purposes due to interaction.

The second and third themes—producer choice and price protection respectively—are also widely held, though there are earnest differences as to approach. From hearings held in all regions of the country, it was evident that producers were uncomfortable with Washington creating a one-size-fits-all approach to Title I. It would be a mistake, however, to interpret the concern on the part of these producers as being interested in a choice simply for the sake of being allowed to make one. Even among producer groups and producers who expressed a common preference for revenue-based support under the commodity title, differences were sufficient to produce two alternate options that farmers could choose from under the Senate farm bill.

However, it is price protection that is at the heart of producers' interest in choice. For producers of some crops, limited variances in yield from year to year greatly diminished the value of a farm policy based on revenue because their peril was not revenue but rather price. Although frequently mischaracterized as a regional divide separating northern and southern producers and crops, omission of a price-based alternative to revenue-based programs would disenfranchise producers of every crop from every region who contended that the farm bill's primary purpose is to address long-term price declines.

In regard to cotton policy, the Committee weighed the options carefully in light of ongoing efforts to resolve the WTO dispute with Brazil. As the report to the 2008 farm bill chronicles, very substantial changes have been made to U.S. cotton policy to address the WTO complaint, including in the 2006 budget reconciliation and the 2008 farm bill. These reforms to U.S. cotton policy have occurred alongside major changes in cotton prices, reductions in U.S. cotton acreage and increases in Brazil cotton acreage, as well as increases in Brazilian support for its producers since the time the Brazil cotton case was initiated. The fundamental change in U.S. cotton policy included in the House farm bill eliminates any objectionable remnant of that policy.

In relation to rules of eligibility, as part of overall reform efforts, the Committee reluctantly imposes a lower adjusted gross income (AGI) means test that is uniform to all income sources for the commodity programs in Title I and for Title II conservation programs. AGI rules were sharply lowered four years ago in the 2008 farm bill and changed again just last year as part of the annual appropriations process. However, the Committee does maintain reasonable payment limitations and rules that allow producers to share the risks of farming with family members and do so without confronting new obstacles and added layers of bureaucratic red tape.

Finally, the Committee considered and rejected proposed changes to U.S. sugar policy that would have reverted the policy to 1985. The world sugar market is heavily distorted by foreign subsidies and tariffs. In fact, quite often, the world cost of production actually exceeds the world price. For example, Brazil subsidizes its sugar production to the tune of $2 to $3 billion per year and the government of Mexico owns 1/5th of its sugar industry and subsidizes the rest. This kind of protection and subsidization of foreign sugar is worldwide. U.S. sugar policy is an essential response to this distortion, especially now given a 55 percent drop in U.S. sugar prices. U.S. sugar policy has operated at zero cost to taxpayers for a decade, and U.S. consumers pay lower prices for sugar than counterparts in Mexico and Canada. In fact, the U.S. sugar price is lower than the current world price and is consistently well below the developed country average and the global average. Meanwhile, buyers of sugar continue to report strong earnings, production, and expansion in the U.S. U.S. sugar policy allows highly efficient U.S. producers to remain competitive on a lopsided global playing field while providing safe, low-cost sugar to consumers.

Supplemental Agricultural Disaster Assistance Programs

The Committee reported bill reauthorizes and improves existing disaster assistance for livestock producers when their livestock die due to severe weather, disease, or other acts of nature. It also continues assistance for natural disasters that destroy forage used for grazing, and impacts honey bees, farm fish, orchard trees, and nursery trees. The Livestock Indemnity Program, the Livestock Forage Disaster Program, Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honey Bees, and Farm-Raised fish, and the Tree Assistance Program are established and proven programs in the livestock and the orchard and nursery tree sectors.

Rapidly rising input costs, volatile export markets, natural disasters, and other unpredictable factors present production risks to animal agriculture. The drought of 2011 and 2012, which has persisted in 2013, is an example of an unpredictable event with the potential to upset business models and adversely affect producers and consumers. Many crops have access to insurance products that help them manage this production risk. The Committee applauds the efforts of the animal agriculture community to explore such products as evidenced by a number of reports called for in this legislation, including swine catastrophic disease loss, poultry business interruption, and poultry catastrophic disease loss insurance.

Unless and until additional insurance products can be developed and adopted by the livestock sector, these programs will be a vital tool to help manage production risks and protect animal agriculture, and ultimately consumers, from the consequences of natural disasters.

In the case of orchardists and nursery tree growers who produce trees, bushes and vines for commercial purposes, the Tree Assistance Program helps them replant trees, bushes and vines destroyed by natural disasters.

Dairy Margin Protection Program

The failure of existing dairy programs to address the challenges faced by dairy farmers in recent years led the Committee to reconsider the best means for managing price volatility and producer risk in the dairy sector.

Current dairy programs focus on price support. While milk prices were mostly stable when these supports were first enacted, annual fluctuations in farm milk prices are now routine, with milk prices regularly moving between lows and record or near-record highs over the past decade. In 2009, the dairy industry suffered dramatic losses, as dairy prices fell sharply from record highs in 2007–2008 at a time when feed costs were rising substantially above long-run averages.

While milk price is an important factor for the financial success of dairy producers, another significant factor is the cost of dairy feed, which accounts for about three-quarters of a dairy farm's operating costs or about one-half of total costs.

In light of these considerations, focus has shifted to a safety net that is centered on a "milk margin." The margin is the amount available to pay all other costs once the feed bill is paid and can be calculated by subtracting a national feed cost from the national farm milk price.

The dairy margin protection program is designed to address both catastrophic conditions, which can result in the severe loss of equity for dairy farmers, such as those witnessed in 2009, as well as long periods of low margins, such as those experienced in 2002.

For producers who elect to participate, basic catastrophic coverage will be provided at no cost. According to testimony from Food and Agricultural Policy Research Institute (FAPRI) dairy economist, Dr. Scott Brown, to the House Agriculture Committee's Subcommittee on Livestock, Dairy, and Poultry, "Although base program coverage comes at no cost to producers, the probability of receiving a large payment from the base program is small."

Participating producers who exercise their option to buy supplemental margin protection coverage will be able to access a specific level and amount of risk management protection that is tailored to their farms' risk management needs. By offering a lower premium on supplemental coverage for the first 4 million pounds of production, the Committee has incentivized producers of all sizes to utilize this risk management tool on at least a portion of their production.

Dairy Market Stabilization Program

Voluntary participation in the margin protection program requires producers to be subject to the dairy market stabilization program. According to testimony from the National Milk Producers Federation to the House Agriculture Committee's Subcommittee on Livestock, Dairy, and Poultry, "The purpose of the program is to make what occurs naturally in the marketplace occur sooner and faster and reducing price volatility . . . It also reduces that cost of the margin program resulting in savings compared to current dairy programs . . . The simple fact of the matter is that dairy farmers and the cooperatives they own bear the burden of balancing the supply of milk with processor demand for that milk."

In order to address the concern about the effect a supply management program may have on the U.S. dairy industry growing export potential, the program incorporates a series of qualifiers that would prevent any reduction in domestic supply of milk if the U.S. and world prices misaligned.

According to testimony from FAPRI dairy economist, Dr. Scott Brown, to the House Agriculture Committee's Subcommittee on Livestock, Dairy, and Poultry, when the stabilization program operates, it lasts a very short period of time because of the world price triggers. Dr. Brown's analysis used a stochastic model to draw 500 alternatives for the conditioning variables in determining the dairy baseline, which incorporate historical distributions of the conditioning factors to make certain any historical correlation in these conditioning factors is included. None of the 500 potential outcomes show long-term multi-year operation of the program.

Repeal of Dairy Product Price Support Program

The Dairy Product Price Support Program was created in 1949 as a means to help provide government support for farm-level milk prices through government purchases of dairy products. During most of its lifespan, the program targeted a set milk price, and later established pricing targets for federal purchases of key products, such as cheese, butter, and nonfat milk powder, that would help support that milk price. In the 2008 Farm Bill, the program was altered to support specific product price levels.

Many in the dairy industry have advocated for the repeal of this program for several reasons. First, it supports dairy farmers all around the world, including America's competitors. The current program helps balance world supplies by encouraging the periodic global surplus of milk products to be purchased by U.S. taxpayers. As a result, dairy farmers in other countries, particularly the Oceania region, enjoy as much price protection from the program as our own U.S. farmers.

Secondly, the program has reduced total demand for U.S. dairy products by diverting some of the U.S. milk products into government warehouses, rather than to commercial buyers. It creates a dynamic where it is more difficult for the U.S. to be a consistent supplier of many products, since sometimes the domestic industry has products to export, and at other times, it is easier for the domestic industry to just sell its product to the government.

Thirdly, the program disincentivizes product innovation by creating a government market for products that the marketplace doesn't want. For example, because the government purchases nonfat dry milk, too much of this is produced instead of protein-standardized skim milk powder, as well as specialty milk proteins, such as milk protein concentrates, which are in demand both domestically and internationally.

Also, USDA only buys products of certain size and packaging specifications. Once purchased, nonfat dry milk powder returning back to the market from government storage also presents challenges, dampening the recovery of prices.

Finally, the program seeks to achieve price levels are no longer relevant to farmers, as the price support levels have been considerably less than the cost of production for many years. As demonstrated by the dairy crisis of 2009, this program was not an effective safety net.

Repeal of Milk Income Loss Contract Program

The Milk Income Loss Contract (MILC) program is a price-based safety net, which is ineffective for today's dairy producers.

Since the inception of MILC, large dairy farm operators have expressed concern that the payment limit has negatively affected their income. For larger farm operations, their annual production is well above the limit, and any in excess of that receives no risk protection. Limiting the level of protection to a maximum of 2.985 million pounds of milk a year provides a safety net for less than 30 percent of the total milk produced in the U.S.

Despite the feed cost adjuster that was added in the 2008 farm bill, MILC does not adequately offset high feed costs. If milk prices are at average levels and feed costs are high, farmers can suffer substantial losses and still not receive any assistance from MILC. The feed cost adjustment program does not go into effect until the standard feed ration reaches $147 per ton, and it also only covers about 30 percent of the feed price increase above this level.

The inadequacy of MILC as a safety net was most evident through most of 2008, when high feed costs overwhelmed average milk prices and put most farmers into a deep hole without the help of any MILC payments.

Repeal of Dairy Export Incentive Program

The Dairy Export Incentive Program (DEIP) has generally been used in concert with the dairy price support program. As such, it has only been made available in a very limited way after the price support program has begun purchasing and storing dairy products.

Instead of expanding world markets for U.S. dairy products which requires a long-term commitment to serving those markets, the U.S. government has only used DEIP either in response to heavy European subsidization of dairy exports or as an alternative to storing products under the price support program. The program generates a baseline cost without providing any consistent, meaningful return to the U.S. dairy sector.

Extension of Dairy Forward Pricing Program

The ability for producers and processors to manage price risk is limited under the Federal Milk Marketing Order system. By extending the dairy forward pricing program, producers and processors will be able to continue to make use of forward contracting to manage price risk, without the practice being found a violation of the requirements of marketing orders. The program is strictly voluntary and will only apply to Classes II, III and IV milk.

Extension of Dairy Indemnity Program

The Dairy Indemnity Program provides payments to dairy producers who have been directed by a public regulatory agency to remove their milk from the commercial market because it has been contaminated by pesticides, toxic substances, and/or chemical residues. Because such events can be devastating to the financial well-being of producers through no fault of their own, the Committee proposes to extend the program's authorization through FY 2018.

Extension of Dairy Promotion and Research Program

The Dairy Production Stabilization Act of 1983 authorized a national producer program for dairy product promotion, research, and education to increase human consumption of milk and dairy products and reduce milk surpluses. Under the program, promotion and research is conducted to strengthen the dairy industry's position in the marketplace and to maintain and expand domestic and foreign markets and uses for fluid milk products and dairy products produced in the United States.

Federal Milk Marketing Order Review

The 2008 farm bill revised the federal milk marketing order amendment procedures in order to streamline and expedite the amendment process. As there continues to be interest in marketing order reform, stakeholders are encouraged to make use of this administrative process, which allows for petition of the Secretary at any time and a hearing process whereby producers and processors can provide input. The House Agriculture Committee continues to provide oversight of this process and refrain from any substantive legislative changes to the order system until stakeholders have exhausted their administrative remedies.

Title II—Conservation

The conservation title authorizes cost-share and technical assistance for farmers, ranchers, foresters, and landowners through voluntary, incentive-based conservation programs. Through these programs, producers protect and restore water quality and quantity, air quality, wildlife habitat and address regulatory requirements while providing a safe, abundant, and affordable food supply. The conservation programs have grown in size and significance in recent farm bills.

The Food Security Act of 1985 authorized several conservation measures intended to address concerns about the impact of agricultural production on soil erosion and wetland loss. The 1996 Farm Bill took the groundbreaking step of consolidating previously discretionary funded programs into one new program funded with mandatory money from the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC). The program created, the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP), is one of the most successful and popular programs among farmers and ranchers.

During consideration of the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002, budget circumstances allowed for the expansion of conservation programs with the addition of $17.5 billion to the conservation baseline for the life of the 2002 Bill and the out-year baseline as well. The Conservation Security Program was created.

Despite budget pressures, the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 increased conservation spending by nearly $4.5 billion during the life of the bill and created new targeted conservation programs such as the Chesapeake Bay Program, the Cooperative Conservation Partnership Initiative (CCPI), and the Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP). However, the Wetland Reserve Program (WRP), the Grassland Reserve Program (GRP), the Small Watershed Rehabilitation Program, and the Voluntary Public Access and Habitat Incentive Program remained without adequate baselines given the demand and interest in these programs.

The Committee recognizes that these programs serve as a foundation for improved conservation efforts. The Committee's priority to assist farmers and ranchers in addressing environmental regulations and conservation needs has not changed. The Committee reported bill maintains the core functions and goals of the conservation title while eliminating or combining 23 duplicative and overlapping programs into 13 programs to allow for streamlined delivery, while also providing over $6 billion in savings below baseline funding.

Conservation Reserve Program (CRP)

The Committee strongly supports the Conservation Reserve Program as one of the main pillars of cost-effective conservation available to farmers and ranchers. However, through the hearing process, the Committee recognized that market pressures are moving land into production. Maximum enrollment of CRP is incrementally stepped down to 24 million acres allowing enrollment to focus on the most environmentally sensitive lands. Additionally, the Committee reported bill further addresses this issue by directing the Secretary to conduct a onetime early out of land that is not considered environmentally sensitive.

The reported bill directs the Secretary to reserve two million acres under CRP for working grassland contracts to capture land that was previously eligible under GRP. The reported bill further directs USDA to provide landowners with added flexibility to better manage their enrolled acres with managed activities such as haying and grazing or in the cases of drought or other emergencies.

To ensure that environmental benefits are maintained, the reported bill gives expiring CRP acres priority consideration for working grassland contracts and the Conservation Stewardship Program, as well as the ability to enter into contracts under working land programs before the CRP contract expires. Beginning farmers or ranchers will continue to be eligible for greater access to productive land with the continuation of the Transition Incentives Program (TIP).

The Committee is concerned that USDA has not been fully utilizing CRP technical assistance authorities and funding enacted by the 2008 Farm Bill for agency infrastructure, including outreach, training, and other technical services. The Committee expects USDA to better utilize this authority for internal support and to support outreach and partnership with non-governmental organizations and other qualified entities to ensure that producers and landowners are fully aware of their options under the program.

The Committee directs the Secretary of Agriculture to, within one year of enactment, report to Congress on the quality of land currently enrolled in CRP based on the land capability classification system, the erodibility index, other eligible lands criteria, and natural resource benefits. The report should include justification for using the prescribed environmental benefits index threshold for any acres enrolled into the program after enactment. The Secretary shall complete such a report five years thereafter and include the same information on land quality and decisions to enroll types of acres based on the environmental benefits index. If the decision is made to use a different environmental benefits index threshold or methodology for making decisions to enroll program contracts, reasons for the decision should be included in the report.

Additionally the Committee directs the Secretary of Agriculture, within two years of enactment, to complete a comprehensive economic impact study that specifically evaluates the impact the CRP has had on rural communities. The report should include the average county rental rates and rental rates paid for CRP land.

We also encourage the agency to continue to make their staff available to attend meetings of agricultural producers at the local, State and national level to educate and inform producers of the programs available to meet natural resource needs on their operations.

While the Committee agreed to an overall reduction in the maximum acres that could be enrolled in CRP, this should not serve as an indicator of declining or reduced support for CRP. The Committee intends for CRP to be implemented at authorized levels, and for the program to continue as one of USDA's key conservation programs. Because there are widespread concerns that CRP rental rates are below prevailing local market levels, USDA shall update rental rates annually and use incentive payments for continuous CRP practices to make the program competitive with other programs and more economically viable for producers.

Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP)

The Conservation Stewardship Program encourages producers to adopt new conservation measures while maintaining current practices to protect natural resources. The Committee encourages the Secretary to place emphasis on adopting new practices; with new contracts addressing at least one additional priority resource concern and renewing contracts that address at least two priority resource concerns.

The Committee intends for the supplemental payment to encourage producers to adopt new, additional beneficial crop rotations that provide significant conservation benefits. The payments are to be available to producers across the country and should not be limited to a particular crop, cropping system, or region of the country. In the Southeast, peanuts are an example of a crop that responds well to increased rotation lengths, which help peanut producers, conserve water, more effectively control disease, and reduce inputs to control disease and increase productivity. Alfalfa is another important rotation crop in many parts of the country and plays a role in adding value to a producer's operation as well as providing natural resource benefits. The Committee recognizes sorghum's very significant contributions to resource conservation as a water-conserving crop and expects the Secretary to include sorghum in any supplemental payments for resource conserving crop rotations made available under the CSP, in addition to maximizing sorghum's role in achieving the purposes of the Regional Conservation Partnership Program and the Environmental Quality Incentives Program.

The Committee believes conservation programs as implemented by USDA should recognize the use of innovative technology such as enhanced efficiency fertilizers. Enhanced efficiency fertilizers, which reduce nitrate losses to the environment, help protect water quality, and reduce greenhouse gas emissions, include slow- and controlled-release fertilizers (absorbed, coated, occluded or reacted) and stabilized nitrogen fertilizers (nitrification inhibitors and nitrogen stabilizers) and are recognized by NRCS' 590 National Nutrient Standard and by State regulators of fertilizers.

Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP)

The Environmental Quality Incentives Program provides cost share incentives to producers to meet or avoid the need for national, state, or local regulation. Under the Committee reported bill, EQIP will provide additional incentives for wildlife by consolidating the functions of the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP) and requiring 5% of the program funding to go towards wildlife habitat incentives.

The Committee addresses the concerns heard in hearings and field hearings regarding beginning farmers by maintaining set-asides for beginning farmers or ranchers and socially disadvantaged producers while including a priority for veteran farmers. Producers under these set-asides would also be eligible to have up to 50% of upfront project costs covered in advance. The Committee recognizes the broad responsibilities of the EQIP program and the great work that it does in promoting environmental stewardship among livestock and poultry farmers around the country and maintains that 60% of allocation go towards these producers. Within six months of enactment, the Committee requests from USDA a report on funds spent over the duration of the last Farm Bill and on whether NRCS has met its statutory obligations.

Additionally, the Committee encourages NRCS to evaluate its education program and make sure that it is providing all potential users within each state an opportunity to become educated about the EQIP program and how each farmer can incorporate EQIP into their farm stewardship management plans. The Committee is concerned that not all producers may be fully aware of all of the services, practices, components, and other information needed to participate fully in farm bill conservation programs. The Committee expects that State Natural Resources Conservation Service offices shall post, in a readily accessible and understandable form, the practices available that may be applicable to various livestock species and crops. These postings shall also include the cost-share levels available and the duration of the contract for a particular practice. The Committee also requests a breakdown of livestock and poultry operation practices available by state, and what practices were funded in each state to be included in the report.

We also encourage the agency to continue to make their staff available to attend meetings of agricultural producers at the local, State and national level to educate and inform producers of the programs available to meet natural resource and energy efficiency needs on their operations.

The program maintains the Conservation Innovation Grant (CIG) subprogram to promote new and innovative conservation practices. The reported bill directs the secretary to report to the Committee every two years on project funding and results of projects authorized under CIG. The Committee intends for increased transparency over innovative conservation projects and monitoring that these innovative conservation practices are later incorporated into common conservation practices.

The Committee reported bill does not reauthorize the Air Quality Initiative; however, the Committee intends for EQIP to continue to provide financial assistance to producers operating in nonattainment areas to make air quality improvements, including reducing emissions from mobile or stationary sources, to help them comply with Federal air quality standards and associated requirements or regulations.

Agriculture Conservation Easement Program (ACEP)

The Committee reported bill addresses duplication and funding issues identified with FRPP, WRP, and GRP by consolidating their functions into one easement program for streamlined and flexible administration. ACEP consolidates all easement programs into one umbrella program with two legs: (1) Agriculture Land Easements (ALE) to protect grasslands or farmland from non-agriculture development and (2) Wetlands Easements to restore, maintain, and protect wetlands.

The reported bill establishes that the federal match of ALE will not exceed 50% of the eligible land's fair market value. However, the Committee recognizes that historically the purchase of grasslands easements have occurred with a higher federal match. The reported bill gives the Secretary the authority to pay up to 75% of the fair market value to address the purchase of grassland easements.

The Committee directs the Secretary, at a national level, to reserve 40% of allocations for agriculture land easements until 2017 and 50% in 2018. The Committee intends that states will have the flexibility to allocate funding as appropriate to address the eligible lands in their region.

The Committee recognizes the Department's commitment to administering conservation programs efficiently, and looks forward to working with the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) to implement the reforms included in this legislation. Specifically, the Committee urges the Department to encourage innovative practices at the state level relating to impervious surface requirements within the Agriculture Lands Easement programs. Currently, NRCS upholds a 2% limitation on impervious surfaces. The Committee urges the Department to clarify waiver requirements and improve coordination with state NRCS offices. The Department should incorporate State as well as cooperating entities' input in implementing impervious surface waivers.

In establishing evaluation and ranking criteria for ALE, the Committee expects NRCS to work with eligible entities to insure a balanced use of both national and state ranking criteria based on the current Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program regulation. The Committee intends that the program, consistent with its purpose to limit nonagricultural use of the land, emphasize protection of farmland that is in, and will remain in, active agricultural use, especially in areas with higher than average rates of farmland conversion to development. Agricultural use includes cropland, pasture, woodlands, and related lands used to produce agricultural related products.

The Committee expects that NRCS administer the ALE program and allocate funding to address the multiple purposes of the program established in Section 1265 with no single purpose dominating the allocation of program funds to states. Recognizing that states differ in terms of their needs and priorities, the Committee expects that state conservationists may allocate resources within the state to best address the program needs for their state.

The reported bill retains a certification process for eligible entities. This certification process is intended to streamline program administration by eliminating duplicative and unnecessary NRCS administrative reviews and procedures for eligible entities that meet the requirements laid out in the statute. The certification process is also intended to provide deference to established state and local programs, recognizing that different jurisdictions and types of agricultural activities require diversity in program administration and practice, and allowing these states and local programs to use their own easement terms and conditions that are consistent with state law and with the agricultural conditions in their areas. The Committee does not believe the certification process implemented by NRCS in 2013 has met the intent of the Committee in this regard and strongly encourages NRCS to manage the certification process in a manner that respects state authority, terms and conditions, and minimizes federal interference.

Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCPP)

The Committee understands that a targeted approach to conservation practices can achieve a greater conservation benefit. The Committee is also cognizant of specific regions of the country that are under significant regulatory pressure or have serious concerns regarding specific natural resources. The Committee reported bill creates the Regional Conservation Partnership Program by consolidating four programs into one targeted initiative that leverages USDA funding and resources by partnering with private organizations to address natural resource concerns.

The Committee eliminates the Agricultural Water Enhancement (AWE) Program, the Chesapeake Bay Watershed Program, the Cooperative Conservation Partnership Initiatives (CCPI) Program, and the Great Lakes Basin Program. However, the functions of each of these programs are still necessary and the Committee intends for the Secretary to capture their functions in the implementation of the RCPP. Eligible conservation practices implemented currently through these programs should be continued under the new consolidated program.

Targeted conservation initiatives will be developed on the local level and selected by USDA through a competitive, merit based application process. All resource concerns should hold equal weighting. The Committee encourages the Secretary to distribute funding equitably across the nation and to not ignore different natural resource concerns that may be unique to each region.

It should be noted there are regions of the country such as the Southeastern United States that have ample surface water or groundwater availability. In many cases, it can be demonstrated that the use of surface water or groundwater for increased irrigation on farms, regardless of prior irrigation history, in these regions can be accomplished in a manner that is both environmentally and ecologically sound while allowing producers to be more productive and efficient. Additionally, the House Agriculture Committee understands the importance of conservation practices used to preserve groundwater through projects intended to take irrigation pressures off multi-state aquifers. The Secretary is encouraged to use his authority to adjust the discretionary rules of the covered programs to reflect these findings in carrying out this section.

The Committee strongly encourages the Secretary to only choose partners who have a successful history of working with agriculture producers.

Additionally, USDA may designate Critical Conservation Areas to target conservation programs in regions under significant regulatory pressure. The Committee reported bill has set allocation levels for the state and national levels in addition to the Critical Conservation areas to help address priorities.

Funding and administration

Section 2607 of the Committee reported bill combines language on improved administrative efficiency and streamlining from individual programs and places it here to apply to all conservation programs. It expands and clarifies requirements for developing a streamlined conservation application process. It clarifies that any payment received under this title is in addition to and does not affect total payments that an owner or operator is otherwise eligible to receive. The Committee encourages the Secretary to significantly increase the use of computer-based conservation practice planning tools that incorporate Light Detection and Ranging elevation data to modernize and simplify conservation planning, improve efficiency of technical assistance, and improve service to private landowners.

Title III—Trade

Humanitarian assistance and agricultural development programs

The United States provides nearly half of all food aid around the world through emergency humanitarian responses and non-emergency, agricultural development programs. The Committee reported bill modifies the general authorities in Title II of the Food for Peace Act to place a greater emphasis on projects which focus on building resiliency in the recipient population where food shortfalls and droughts are common.

The Committee reported bill adjusts the maximum allowable level of cash assistance for administrative and programmatic costs in Title II of the Food for Peace Act to ensure that scarce cash resources are made available only for costs and expenses which cannot be readily funded through the monetization process in the first period of a new project. The Committee expects USAID to closely evaluate its program guidance and approval process to ensure that direct and indirect program costs are clearly defined and to ensure that administrative costs in the programs are minimized.

In May 2011 the Government Accountability Office (GAO) completed a report which cites deficiencies in the nutrition and quality controls of U.S. food aid commodities. Included in that report are recommendations that USAID review food aid packaging, track food aid quality throughout the supply chain, and ensure that available food aid commodities meet the nutritional needs of recipients. The Committee notes that USAID has sufficient and specific authority to address the recommendations made by GAO, and expects USAID to build strong public-private partnerships with food manufacturers and other stakeholders to more quickly address the deficiencies highlighted in the May 2011 report using currently available studies on food aid quality and nutrition. The Committee reported bill reauthorizes funding at a lower level for these activities to encourage USAID to focus on deploying food aid products already developed under this authority, rather than pursuing additional studies at the expense of implementing current knowledge.

The Committee reported bill directs USDA and USAID to establish a formal mechanism by which new products will be approved through both agencies in a timely manner. In the view of the Committee, USDA and USAID are not coordinating sufficiently and should quickly modify the interagency process to ensure new food aid commodities are made available to appropriately target recipient populations. In support of efforts to provide appropriate commodities to vulnerable populations, authority is extended for shelf-stable, prepackaged foods and micronutrient fortification of food aid commodities.

The Committee notes that while USAID places significant burdens for success of programs upon implementing partners and other stakeholders, feedback from these groups through the Food Aid Consultative Group (FACG) is not adequately incorporated into program guidelines. The Committee reported bill instructs USAID to give sufficient notice of changes to the FACG before new guidance is finalized, and requires new guidance to be promulgated in a timely manner after any changes to the Food for Peace Act.

Authority is extended for the Famine Early Warning System Network to provide advance information to more quickly and effectively respond to an emerging crisis. However, the Committee is disappointed in efforts by USAID to complete implementation of new information technology systems authorized in previous legislation. No additional funding is provided for new information technology systems, and the Committee fully expects USAID to complete development and management of those systems without additional Food for Peace resources.

Funding is continued for additional monitoring and evaluation of programs at a level which reflects resources available for Food for Peace programs. The Committee reported bill also requires that USAID report on the monitoring and evaluation activities actually conducted. In 2009 the GAO concluded that monitoring of programs was inconsistent and that program management was not modified to reflect information gained from the monitoring and evaluation conducted by or for USAID. Through provisions in the Committee reported bill, the Committee expects USAID to make significant improvements in program guidance based on the monitoring and evaluation conducted.

In June 2011 GAO reported on inefficiencies and adverse impacts of monetization. The Committee agrees that both USDA and USAID should have consistent policies governing both agencies' monetization activities. The Committee reported bill requires that USAID consider the benefits of monetization when considering a proposal under Food for Peace. The Committee notes existing requirements for USDA and USAID to approve only those sales which will not disrupt the usual marketing and processing of commodities in the recipient country, and clarifies that commodities should be sold at a fair market value.

Recognizing the necessity of responding quickly to humanitarian emergencies, authority is increased for the prepositioning of food aid commodities which allows USAID to increase the number of prepositioning sites, as appropriate.

The Committee reported bill reduces the authorized level of funding for the Food for Peace Act while extending sufficient authority to provide funding above the ten-year average appropriation. The Committee recognizes the importance of non-emergency agricultural development programs to create resilient communities in vulnerable populations, and extends minimum levels of funding to support development activities.

Prior to the introduction of the bill, report required by section 3206 of P.L. 110–246 was submitted to Congress. The report revealed inconsistent and inconclusive findings with regard to the expediency and reliability of local purchases of commodities. The Committee acknowledges the report's findings that purchasing emergency food aid locally took an average of nearly two months, and in most cases the commodities purchased were more expensive than those purchased in the U.S. The Committee also recognizes that more than $300 million in local purchases of commodities is routinely carried out under authorities contained in other legislation, and therefore authorities for local and regional food aid purchases were not extended.

The Committee reported bill increases authority for the John Ogonowski and Doug Bereuter Farmer-to-Farmer Program contained in the Food for Peace Act to extend the program which mobilizes U.S. volunteers from the agricultural industry, universities, and non-profit organizations to assist their counterparts in developing and emerging economies.

Trade programs

The U.S. agricultural industry is highly dependent on exports, with nearly a third of all cash receipts generated from international markets. The Committee reported bill ensures that U.S. producers are able to capitalize on these opportunities by making strategic investments in programs designed to address foreign barriers to U.S. exports. Increased margins for U.S. farm output translates to greater capital flows back to rural America, supporting farms and their rural communities.

The Market Access Program is reauthorized to provide assistance on a cost-share basis, targeting small businesses, farmer cooperatives, and non-profit trade organizations. Private contributions are estimated at 60 percent of total annual spending on trade promotion and market development, further increasing the effectiveness of promotional activities.

Additional programs which are reauthorized include the Foreign Market Development Program to address trade barriers that affect an entire industry, Technical Assistance for Specialty Crops to address non-tariff trade barriers for specialty crop exports, and the Emerging Markets Program to promote generic U.S. exports in emerging economies.

The Committee reported bill also reauthorizes the GSM–102 program while preserving USDA's authority to manage usage of the program to meet certain administrative goals, including the ability to adjust tenor and fees associated with guarantees made available under the program.

The Committee recognizes that exports are vitally important to the U.S. economy. Given the need to spur economic growth and job creation the Committee reported bill amends the Department of Agriculture Reorganization Act of 1994 to provide for the establishment of an Under Secretary of Agriculture for Foreign Agricultural Services. The agricultural sector has been and continues to be a major contributor to the nation's overall level of exports and is one of only a few sectors of the economy that traditionally has had a positive net trade balance. However, U.S. agricultural exports face increased barriers overseas.

The Committee addresses the need to counter tariff and non-tariff trade barriers for U.S. agricultural exports by providing a full time, singular focus on trade and foreign agricultural. The Committee expects this new focus to allow more effective coordination and to provide a single point of contact for resolving internal and external trade and foreign agricultural affairs issues through a high level of representation for agricultural trade issues within the Executive Branch and with Congress, stakeholders, foreign governments, and international bodies. The Committee does not intend for this provision to create the need for additional personnel or appropriations for USDA.

Title IV—Nutrition

Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)

The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), formerly known as the food stamp program, has seen unprecedented growth over the past ten years and today accounts for almost 80 percent of the Committee's mandatory spending. Consequently, the Committee agreed to make reforms in SNAP that resulted in a reduction of more than $20 billion over ten years, which is a two percent reduction to the program. While the Congressional Budget Office has projected that the reforms contained herein will save the taxpayers more than $20 billion over ten years, the Committee believes that it is important to focus on the long term enhancements these reforms make to uphold the integrity of the SNAP program.

The Committee views these changes as part of its ongoing responsibility to ensure that SNAP is of the highest integrity. The provisions passed by the Committee will close program loopholes; reduce waste, fraud and abuse; and ensure that the program continues to serve those who are in need of food assistance according to the rule of law. It is the Committee's clear intent that families who lawfully qualify for assistance under SNAP law are not prevented from receiving their benefits. The changes made to SNAP in the 2008 farm bill remain fully intact and will continue to benefit SNAP participants.

The Committee agrees that SNAP provides important support for many Americans and these reported provisions further protect the program. In order to ensure the integrity of this program, the Committee will continue to refine SNAP to better target valuable benefits to serve those in need, while making a reasonable reduction in the deficit.

Making common sense reforms and closing program loopholes

The FARRM Act makes common sense reforms to SNAP eligibility. Since passage of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, states have had the option of using “categorical eligibility,” or automatic eligibility, to streamline SNAP administration for those receiving benefits from other low-income assistance programs. These other programs are Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), Supplemental Security Income (SSI), or other state general assistance programs. TANF assistance can be in the form of cash or non-cash benefits (i.e. informational brochures, or access to an informational 800-number). When states implement “broad-based” categorical eligibility, they may permit households to use the asset and gross income test of the alternate assistance program. As of May 2013, 43 jurisdictions (40 States, the District of Columbia, Guam, and the U.S. Virgin Islands) have implemented broad-based categorical eligibility. These jurisdictions generally make all households with incomes below a state-determined income threshold eligible for SNAP.

The bill would restrict categorical eligibility to only those households receiving cash assistance from SSI, TANF, or a state-run general assistance program, saving taxpayers $11.5 billion over ten years. This would disqualify those merely receiving a TANF-funded brochure, a referral to an “800” number telephone hotline, as well as other non-cash assistance. It is estimated that 3.8 percent of the 47.6 million people currently enrolled in SNAP would be affected by this provision. Those who no longer have categorical eligibility status under the amended provision would have the opportunity to be reviewed for SNAP eligibility independent of their status as a TANF beneficiary. And those who receive cash assistance from SSI, TANF, or a state-run general assistance program will still be categorically eligible for SNAP.

Next, the FARRM Act closes a loophole in SNAP regarding how Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) payments interact with SNAP benefit calculation. Current law allows low-income households receiving any amount of LIHEAP assistance, even a nominal payment, to automatically qualify for the SNAP Standard Utility Allowance (SUA). In the last several years, recipients in approximately 16 states and the District of Columbia have qualified for the SNAP SUA under this provision.

Under current law, if a participant received $1 in LIHEAP, they can automatically deduct the SUA from their income. Therefore, their net income was reduced, and they subsequently received a higher amount in SNAP benefits. Under the Committee’s reported bill, a household must receive a minimum LIHEAP payment of $20 per year to qualify for the SUA deduction, thus saving the taxpayers $8.7 billion over ten years. The revised provision will not affect any household receiving traditional LIHEAP assistance or any household that can demonstrate an out-of-pocket utility cost.

The Committee also eliminated state performance bonuses, saving $480 million over ten years. States are responsible for administering the SNAP program and are legally bound to process applications in a timely manner, ensure households receive the accurate amount of SNAP benefits, and make certain the program is administered in the most effective and efficient manner. In this economic climate the Committee believes it is very difficult to justify awarding states bonuses for practices that should be the daily operating procedure.

Cracking down on waste, fraud and abuse

The FARRM Act makes significant strides to crack down on waste, fraud and abuse within SNAP. The Committee was concerned by press reports of two lottery winners, both receiving more than $1 million in winnings, who were also found to have been receiving SNAP assistance. The bill includes a provision that would put an end to millionaire lottery winners receiving SNAP, and will prevent them from receiving any benefits. The Committee is aware that the Secretary must define the terms “substantial lottery or gambling winnings” in order to carry out this provision. The Committee intends for the Secretary to establish a reasonable threshold for such winnings that balances the need to maintain strong program integrity, the ability of states to administer the provision, and the burden on SNAP households.

Furthermore, the legislation requires that state SNAP Employment and Training (E&T) programs be limited to assisting only those college students enrolled in specific career and technical education courses or basic adult education, remedial, and literacy courses. The Committee was alarmed to learn that some states were taking great liberty in administering their SNAP E&T programs; therefore, the Committee took steps to ensure only those college students meeting the specified criteria could be served by a state’s SNAP E&T program. To further improve the accountability of the SNAP E&T program, the bill demands outcomes by requiring states to report on how their programs are assisting SNAP participants in gaining skills, training, and work, or experience that leads to employment.

The Committee recognizes the need for better data and outcomes from current employment and training programs. The FARRM Act requires USDA to conduct a pilot project to identify best practices for employment and training programs to raise the number of work registrants who obtain unsubsidized employment and decrease the number of individuals depending on public assistance.

The legislation also reduces fraud at retail stores by requiring a more rigorous standard for stores to become eligible to process SNAP benefits. Retailers will be required to stock more foods like fruits and vegetables, with the Committee’s expectation that retailers can meet this requirement by providing products that are fresh, frozen or canned. Retailers will be required to pay 100 percent of the costs for acquiring and implementing EBT point-of-sale equipment. By including this provision, the Committee is targeting fraud within the program, and does not intend for credit card companies, banks, or others to impose any additional fees in regard to the acceptance of SNAP EBT benefits. The bill terminates the use of manual vouchers except in such circumstances as a disaster or EBT system failure. Manual vouchers can serve as a quick-response in emergency situations, and the Committee expects vouchers to be used in the event of a disaster when power is unavailable for an extended period of time.

Having placed new requirements on retailers, the Committee is concerned by the unpredictable and growing variation in the timeline for retailer application approvals. To help FNS do more with less and help the agency achieve greater efficiency, the Committee directs the agency to utilize existing authorities to consider provisional licensing while permanent authorization or reauthorization is under review.

The Committee expects provisional licensing to be used provided that the retail food store or wholesale food concern in question demonstrates prior adherence to all program rules including the new conditions mandated by this act. Moreover, such licensing should be considered only when a store can establish that safeguards required by the Secretary to ensure program integrity have been put in place, and will continue, during the term of the provisional license.

Additionally, the Committee expects the Secretary to work with retailers and relevant stakeholders in developing regulations to implement a unique terminal identification system. Credit card associations are considering implementation of this practice across the entire retail industry in the near future, and it is imperative that the Secretary work with SNAP-approved retailers to ensure there are no additional costs or burdens that are duplicative or inconsistent with common commercial practices.

The Committee recognizes that current SNAP EBT transactions running on the QUEST network do so efficiently and at little to no cost to the retailer. The Committee encourages USDA to continue to work with the states to ensure that all retailers maintain the ability to use the QUEST network and do so without being assessed new or added fees for its use.

Recognizing that issuance of SNAP benefits to all participants on the same date within a month creates many challenges both for suppliers and retailers, the Committee directs the Secretary to begin working with states to stagger the monthly issuance of SNAP benefits across an entire month for new beneficiaries. To prevent disruption, the Committee does not expect states to make immediate changes for current beneficiaries nor does the Committee suggest a change in current policy to allow for more than once-per-month issuance of benefits. The Committee encourages the Secretary to work with all stakeholders, particularly those within states that are in the process of staggering SNAP benefits, to ensure distribution is of the greatest benefit to the economy at the least cost.

The FARRM Act recognizes the need to increase the Secretary's oversight of those states and territories choosing to operate a Restaurant Meals Program strictly for the purpose of serving homeless, elderly and disabled participants. Currently, states and territories have the option of running this program without seeking approval from the Department, which has raised the Committee's concern over proper use and implementation of this authority. The bill requires those states and territories to submit their request as part of their state plan and gain approval from the Department before implementing a Restaurant Meals Program. The plan must demonstrate a need for such a program along with effective control measures. If states and territories are found not operating the program in a proper manner or do not provide sufficient justification for establishing a program, it is the Committee's expectation that the Secretary will suspend or not approve such programs.

The Committee is concerned about the use of funds to advertise and promote the use of SNAP through the use of national outreach funds. Recent news articles have described SNAP advertisements airing on the radio and television as well as information on the Department's website encouraging the enrollment of participants by suggesting that community outreach partners "throw a great party."

The Committee is ensuring that Federal funds may not be used for the recruitment of SNAP recipients. This prohibition on recruitment is not intended to result in the withholding of basic program information including rights, program rules, client responsibilities and benefits through outreach activities.

The Committee has been made aware of the reports of "bottle dumping" for cash. The language is intended to prevent SNAP beneficiaries from purchasing items that require a substantial bottle deposit and returning the bottle for a cash refund of the deposit.

The bill also expands upon the bipartisan work begun by the Committee on Ways and Means Human Resources Subcommittee to allow data both within and across key federal assistance programs to operate more efficiently. These standardization activities promote transparency, flexibility, and consistency so data can be shared across the various information technology platforms established by federal and state agencies, increasing administrative efficiency and reducing improper payments. This provision is not intended to provide additional authority to standardize data but to drive the process to occur across multiple federal agencies.

As identity theft and manipulation based fraud is on the rise in the United States, the Committee directs the Secretary to carefully analyze the possibility of identity theft and manipulation-based fraud on SNAP participants and to ensure that the Secretary is taking necessary steps to protect program beneficiaries' personally identifiable information against unauthorized disclosure.

The bill includes a provision that allows SNAP benefits to be used for the purchase of community-supported agriculture (CSA) shares. The Committee is aware that the Secretary currently permits CSA businesses to participate in SNAP. Farmers organized as a CSA can participate in a manner similar to farmers' markets; SNAP recipients use SNAP benefits and receive eligible food items from the CSA at the time product is delivered (i.e., at the point-of-sale). Non-profit CSAs are permitted to accept SNAP benefit payment up to 14 days in advance of product delivery. The Committee expects that the Secretary will administer this provision in accordance with current practice and procedures for authorized community-supported agriculture businesses.

Additional nutrition programs

Food banks have been successful in effectively utilizing federal commodities and securing private sector donations in order to feed hungry Americans. However, local food banks have been struggling to provide enough food to needy families in the current economic climate. Recognizing the challenges food banks are facing, the FARRM Act provides an additional $20 million per year for The Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP).

Furthermore, it is the intent of the Committee that the Secretary purchase and deliver emergency foods so as to maximize the continuity of food product flow to emergency feeding organizations throughout the year to better enable them to meet the need for assistance in local communities, particularly in times of high demand. To meet this objective, the Committee strongly encourages the Secretary to review potential bonus and surplus removal purchases on a real-time basis and adjust the timing of mandatory food purchases and deliveries to address periods when bonus and specialty crop deliveries are expected to be low. Having a more balanced delivery of both mandatory and bonus food purchases will enable emergency feeding organizations to better serve those in need. The Committee also intends for the Secretary to consider the cost of regulatory changes on the operation of emergency feeding operations in order to prevent such regulatory changes from adversely affecting the services provided by the emergency feeding organizations. The Committee encourages the Secretary to work with emergency feeding organizations to address these concerns.

The FARRM Act makes changes to the Commodity Supplemental Food Program (CSFP) that will transition this program into serving only the elderly while allowing the small percentage of women and children currently enrolled in the program to continue to receive services until they have exceeded the age of eligibility. The Committee intends that individuals participating in CSFP on the day immediately prior to the effective date of this provision shall remain eligible until such time as an individual is no longer eligible for the program in any age or category. For example, a participating infant on effective date may remain in the program as he or she ages into subsequent age/categories, if otherwise eligible. Women and children will all continue to be served by the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC), which is more suited to their dietary needs.

The Committee agreed to increase funding for Community Food Projects by an additional $10 million per fiscal year, with half of this increased funding being designated to projects that help communities provide incentives for low-income individuals to purchase fruits and vegetables. The Committee recognizes that there has been tremendous growth in the purchase of locally grown fruits and vegetables. Rather than duplicate programs, the Committee increased funding for an existing program that is flexible and has been successful in helping communities address the food and nutritional needs of its citizens.

The FARRM Act also removes the word “fresh” from the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program. The purpose of the program is to encourage the increased consumption of fruits and vegetables in a variety of forms in elementary schools with a high number of low-income students. This change will allow elementary schools participating in this program to maximize their funding by having the option of purchasing fresh, frozen, canned, and dried fruits and vegetables. Fruits and vegetables in all forms, as emphasized by the 2010 Dietary Guidelines for Americans, provide a variety of micro-nutrients and fiber that are important to maintaining overall health. The Committee recognizes the challenges schools face in the storage and preparation of fresh foods, and to accommodate those needs, the bill provides schools with greater flexibility while still serving school children with a variety of nutritious produce. The Committee expects the Secretary to inform states and schools of this change to the program through notification.

The Committee believes that all participants in federally funded nutrition assistance programs deserve access to safe, nutritious and convenient food. The 2010 Dietary Guidelines for Americans recognized that Americans' consumption of fruits, vegetables, and fiber is below target. These guidelines recommended promoting greater consumption of fruits, vegetables and beans, in all forms—canned, dried, fresh, and frozen—in order to help Americans meet dietary goals and increase their intake of essential shortfall vitamins and nutrients, such as fiber, potassium, iron, folate and magnesium. The Committee encourages the Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service to recognize the benefits provided by all forms of fruits, vegetables and beans in nutrition assistance programs, and educate program participants that all forms of these foods can help them meet the Dietary Guidelines for Americans.

The bill includes a pilot program within the Department of Defense (DOD) Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Program. This pilot would allow up to five states to use their DOD Fresh funding allocation to source local produce. The Committee expects states that are selected to participate in this pilot to use this funding solely for the procurement of local fresh fruits and vegetables for school children. The Committee also intends for the pilots to be carefully evaluated in order to help inform future national policy.

Title V—Credit

The House Agriculture Committee understands that access to credit is crucial to America's economy as a whole, but more importantly to the health and success of family farms, ranches, and the entire agricultural sector. To that end, the FARRM Act provides greater flexibility to the Farm Service Agency (FSA) in facilitating credit programs.

Under current law, FSA provides Farm Ownership Loans to owners of farms. However, when a family forms a separate entity for transition or liability reasons, Farm Ownership Loans are no longer available to them. By adding "other legal entities" to the list of eligible borrowers, the Committee reported bill enables FSA to assist qualified operating entities with Farm Ownership Loans even when the entity does not own real estate or is a member of the operating entity thus providing flexibility and greater participation to the program.

The Committee reported bill provides clarification and flexibility to the Secretary to adjust experience requirements to avoid excluding those who are qualified, but may not be able to meet the current 3-year farming or ranching experience requirement, thus enabling more young or beginning farmers and ranchers to participate in the program.

The Committee reported bill increases the Conservation Loan guarantee amount from 75 to 90 percent (a percentage similar to other loan programs), encouraging a larger participation rate for beginning farmers and ranchers, while continuing to protect priority for beginning and socially disadvantaged farmers and ranchers.

In an effort to provide greater participation for beginning farmers and ranchers and increased flexibility to FSA, the Committee reported bill increases the maximum loan value for the Down Payment Loan Program from 45 percent of $500,000 to 45 percent of $667,000.

Throughout last summer's audit hearings the Committee found several areas in which FSA could streamline certain administrative mandates. As a result, the Committee repealed the Mineral Rights Appraisals requirement for real estate loans. Moving forward, this change should reduce costs for both the borrower and FSA as third party appraisals could be used in some cases instead of FSA having to obtain a new appraisal that specifically includes the mineral value.

Under the current statute, delinquent youth loan borrowers are subject to provisions of the Debt Collection Improvement Act. This can result in undue hardship, as a youth loan recipient could be rendered ineligible for student loans and grants, which may prevent them from obtaining higher education. The Committee reported bill directs the Secretary, on a case-by-case basis, to waive the personal liability and cancel any remaining debt in situations in which failure was beyond the youth's control (i.e. project failure due to disease or natural disaster).

The Committee reported bill directs the Secretary to establish a microloan program to better serve young, beginning, veteran and urban farmers and ranchers.

The Committee reported bill directs FSA to prioritize joint financing agreements and Down Payment Loans within the Direct Farm Ownership Loan program in order to maximize the number of borrowers served for a given level of appropriations.

Under current law, beginning farmer ownership loans are limited to applicants who do not own real estate in excess of 30 percent of the median farm size in the county. In some counties however, the median size is so small that an applicant cannot qualify if they own any real estate. To that end, the Committee reported bill reconciles the median farm size limitation by replacing "median" with "average". In almost every county, the average is greater than the median farm size. This allows more otherwise qualified applicants to receive beginning farmer ownership loans.

Most FSA loans are available to all agriculture producers, no matter if they reside in rural, suburban, or urban areas. However, FSA Youth Operating Loans are currently only available to youth (ages 10–20) who live in rural areas (areas with 50,000 or less residents). The Committee reported bill removes the "rural residents" requirement allowing all youth the opportunity to receive a Youth Operating Loan similar to all other FSA loans, while continuing to require that youth borrowers would need to be under the supervision of an organization, such as 4-H, FFA or Boys/Girls Clubs.

The Committee reported bill makes changes to the loan program for purchasers of highly fractionated tribal land to ensure that the program meets the needs of tribal members.

Title VI—Rural Development

The Committee reported bill addresses fiscal constraints by reducing authorizations for appropriations by more than $1.5 billion over five years. Based on discussions with stakeholders, and in conjunction with the reduced number of programs, the Committee expects this action will ensure scarce funds are concentrated in the most effective programs.

In testimony before the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Rural Development, Research, Biotechnology and Foreign Agriculture the Government Accountability Office (GAO) responded to several critical issues in programs operated by USDA. Among these was the impact that funding set-asides have on the fragmentation of rural development programs, and the overlap or duplication across programs. Additional testimony by witnesses representing counties, municipalities, and non-profit rural development organizations cited both the confusing number of programs and the burden of applying for assistance as a major impediment to accessing rural development funding at USDA. The Committee agrees with a number of the GAO's conclusions and concerns of municipal organizations. The Committee reported bill addresses these concerns by eliminating thirteen programs, requiring the Secretary to collect information on the success of loans and grants over time, and requiring the Secretary to create simplified applications.

GAO also highlighted a need for measuring the effectiveness of rural development programs. The Committee passed bill addresses this need by requiring the Secretary to collect data regarding economic activity created through the loans and grants provided to rural communities. The Committee expects these efforts will create a harmonized baseline of information for effective use by USDA and Congress. It is the intent of the Committee that this collected information be integrated with program changes and rulemaking.

In testimony reviewing rural development programs in advance of formulating the Committee reported bill, stakeholders spoke to the importance of regional collaboration to create effective outcomes. The Committee recognizes that the Secretary can coordinate the efforts of USDA with other Federal agencies, and expects the Secretary to ensure rural development funds are carefully targeted for the greatest impact possible. The Committee reported bill also addresses regional collaboration through the reauthorization of the Delta Regional Authority and the Northern Great Plains Regional Authority.

Testimony presented to review broadband programs clearly indicated a need for transparency through the application process for incumbent providers to respond appropriately to applications for new funding in their service territory. The Committee reported bill addresses this need by authorizing the Secretary to establish a process by which incumbent providers may submit comments.

The Committee recognizes the importance of "Main Street" businesses to rural communities, and that the recent economic downturn has reduced the affordability of credit in rural areas, putting considerable strain on these small businesses. The Committee reported bill addresses this issue through changes to the Business & Industry (B&I) Loan Program intended to ensure working capital is an eligible use of funds. The Committee reported bill also provides flexibility for the Secretary to consider accounts receivable for the purposes of collateral to allow lenders to help meet the capital needs of small businesses in rural areas. The Committee encourages USDA to examine additional ways to guarantee lending to small brick-and-mortar, community-owned businesses, such as an increased loan guarantee percentage for smaller loans, a streamlined process for making B&I loans of less than $250,000, and making operating lines of credit eligible as a program use. Additionally, the Committee encourages USDA to better coordinate with the Small Business Administration on outreach related to the B&I loan guarantee program to rural lenders.

The Committee notes that there are over $3 billion in pending applications for water and wastewater projects throughout rural America. Reauthorization of water infrastructure programs is a vital component to rural economic development. Access to water systems promotes the health of rural communities and attracts businesses to invest in communities which are well supported by critical infrastructure. To address the current backlog, the Committee passed bill directs USDA to maximize the use of guarantees through private or cooperative lenders for projects for larger communities. The Committee expects these provisions to leverage available funds to serve more communities than might otherwise be served solely through direct loans.

The Committee recognizes the contributions that rural community and technical colleges make in the development of a well-trained workforce in rural communities. These institutions serve over 3.5 million students, and train sixty-percent of first responders and allied health care providers in rural communities. The Committee expects the Secretary to work closely with the rural community and technical colleges to create a coordinated strategy which would guide the investments USDA already makes through rural development programs. Noting that a number of programs have varying eligibility criteria and purposes, the Committee expects the Secretary to look across the entire suite of rural development programs when creating a coordinated strategy to help deploy the most appropriate resources for each of the needs identified in consultation with representatives from the rural community and technical colleges. These investments should continue to utilize appropriate authorities under both the Rural Electrification Act and the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act, including investments in technology and facilities, to better serve rural students.

Title VII—Research, Extension, and Related Matters

Option to be included as a non-land-grant college of agriculture

The Committee does not take a position on how an institution should be designated, but has provided the Hispanic Serving Agricultural Colleges and Universities, as well as institutions eligible to receive funding under the McIntire-Stennis Cooperative Forestry Research Program with the option to choose whether to be designated as such or to opt out of their designation for purposes of access to program funding eligibility. The Committee recognizes that for institutions with degree programs in the agricultural sciences that may automatically qualify as a Hispanic Serving Institution or a McIntire-Stennis Cooperative Forestry Research institution, they should not be precluded from being able to opt out of those programs in favor of qualifying as a Non-Land-Grant College of Agriculture.

National Agricultural Research, Extension, Education, and Economics Advisory Board

The National Agricultural Research, Education, Extension, and Economics Advisory Board (NAREEEAB) was created in 1996. The NAREEEAB replaced an existing user's advisory board and consolidated the functions of numerous other boards, task forces and counsels. This advisory board has since served as the principal advisory mechanism to the Secretary, Under Secretary, agency administrators and the Congress on all aspects of the Research, Education and Economics (REE) mission area.

In creating the NAREEEAB, the Congress intended for this board to recommend policies, identify short and long term national priorities for REE programs, and to evaluate program results and effectiveness among other assigned duties. The Congress has since added multiple duties and consultative functions to the Board's mandate. In doing so, the Committee is aware that the work load and learning curve of the volunteer members is high. It has become apparent to the Committee that it can take several years for new board members to become comfortable not only with the diverse subject matter under review, but likewise the law and administrative functions they are required to evaluate. While the statute defines the length of a Board members' individual term, the Congress has never included nor intended for board members to be subject to a limit on the number of terms they can serve. Unfortunately, the Committee has become aware that USDA has instituted an arbitrary term limit policy on Board members that inhibits the individual members and the overall Board's effectiveness. The Committee strongly encourages the Secretary to reverse this policy.

Among the duties of the Board previously assigned was the responsibility to review and make recommendations on procedures for merit review of competitive grant proposals. The Committee has become aware that the USDA initially requested comments of the NAREEEAB following enactment of the merit review requirement in 1998 but has never revisited the question. The Committee is concerned that the USDA has misunderstood the legal mandate for merit review and has included clarification that for purposes of this review, merit is to be equated with the relevancy of the research or extension project to the community it is meant to serve. The Committee envisions that the process of evaluating a grant application would start with scientific peer review, and those applications deemed to be of sufficient scientific quality would then be reviewed and awarded on the basis of merit and relevancy. The Committee has further required that the NAREEEAB consult with industry stakeholders in developing their guidance and that the USDA consult on an ongoing basis with the NAREEEAB to ensure that these reviews are functioning as intended.

The Committee recognizes the interest in growing agricultural commodities in less traditional production areas. As such, the Committee encourages the Secretary in consultation with the NAREEEAB, in both the intramural research carried out by the Agricultural Research Service and in the competitive grants programs carried out through AFRI and other authorities, to carry out and fund research into the unique situations facing producers in urban areas. These unique situations may include reclaiming land previously used for industrial purposes or neglected residential areas, and addressing needs such as the remediation of soils to make them capable of producing agricultural commodities for human consumption.

Veterinary services grant program

Our veterinary workforce is responsible for ensuring that the food we eat is safe, but they are facing a critical shortage in the public, private, industrial and academic sectors, and the problem is growing. Our Nation's large-animal vets are truly on the front lines of food safety, public health, animal health and national security. The demand for large-animal veterinarians is increasing, and lack of these specialists in many areas of the country will continue to put our agricultural economy and the safety of our food supply at risk.

Since the fall of 2000, the Committee on Agriculture has worked on ways of resolving the serious veterinary shortage problem confronting many rural communities. With the passage of the National Veterinary Medical Service Act in December of 2003, a program was finally authorized to incentivize large animal veterinarians to practice in communities that USDA designated as veterinarian shortage areas. With this program in place, large animal veterinarians are able to apply on a competitive basis for educational loan repayment assistance in exchange for their commitment to practice in shortage areas.

To the extent that the loan program is successful, it's important to consider that this was just the first step. While this assistance will be very helpful in attracting veterinarians to these communities, the gaps remain in veterinarian recruitment, attracting and training technical support staff, and simply meeting the long-term costs of operating veterinarian practices in these communities.

The Veterinarian Services Investment Act is meant to address these secondary needs and is designed to complement the loan repayment program to help large animal veterinarians become established in these rural communities.

This bill recognizes and addresses a real problem in rural America. This legislation will authorize grants to address workforce shortages based on the needs of underserved areas. For example, grants could be used to recruit veterinarians and veterinary technicians in shortage areas and communities. It could add veterinarians to expand and establish practices in high-need areas. It could establish mobile portable clinics and televet services and establish education programs, including continuing education, distance education, and factor recruitment in veterinary science.

Grants and fellowships for food and agriculture sciences education

The Norman E. Borlaug International Agricultural Science and Technology Fellowship Program (Borlaug Fellowship Program) helps developing countries strengthen agricultural practices by providing scientific training and collaborative research opportunities to visiting researchers, policymakers, and university faculty. The Borlaug Fellowship Program has provided over 500 fellowships for agricultural professional from 64 developing countries worldwide. Currently, Fellowships can run from six to twelve weeks depending on research topic and funding availability. The Committee is concerned that the length of the fellowships currently offered may be too brief in term in some instances to provide real training and research opportunities. The Committee understands that a brief short term fellowship is an effective method to provide certain specific training and research opportunities. However, the Committee would urge the Secretary to modify the implementation of the program to also provide longer term training and collaborative research opportunities to address those instances where a long term fellowship would allow greater in depth training and research.

Extension research

The Cooperative Extension System is a nationwide, non-formal educational network. Each state, territory, and the District of Columbia has an office at its land-grant universities and a network of local or regional offices which are staffed by experts who provide practical, research-based education to agricultural producers, small business owners, youth, consumers, and others in rural and urban communities. The Committee encourages the Secretary to ensure that Cooperative Extension is effectively utilized to deliver the educational component of USDA programs. The Secretary is also encouraged to engage in discussions with other federal departments and agencies to consider ways to use the Cooperative Extension to deliver education for other federal programs as practicable.

In addition, the Committee recognizes the unique knowledge and information that the Cooperative Extension System experts provide to various groups regarding farm and food systems. As mentioned, this education and information is disseminated through a network of local or regional offices and when the Secretary utilizes the Cooperative Extension to deliver the educational component of the various programs at the Department, to the extent practicable, the Rural Development mission area programs should be included.

During the creation of the Reservation Extension Agent Program, the Committee required the Secretary to consult with Native American farmers and ranchers in establishing Extension programs on Indian reservations and tribal jurisdictions. The Committee understands that changes in the operation of grant programs have impacted this consultation, and the Committee expects that the Secretary would find ways to continue the dialogue on the operation of these Extension programs with the populations that they are serving.

Also, the Committee remains concerned about the agency's operation of FRTEP as if it were a 3(d) program. The Reservation Extension Agent Program was not authorized under Section 3(d) of the Smith-Lever Act. While this may have made administration of grants easier for the agency, it has led to confusion and unintended consequences. The Committee encourages the agency to follow congressional intent when implementing programs, old and new.

Auditing, reporting, bookkeeping, and administrative requirements

The Committee is concerned about the increasing use of assessments, fees, and higher indirect costs rates imposed on its university partners by the Agricultural Research Service (ARS). These university partners play a major role in achieving ARS research priorities and objectives. In a time of scarce budgetary resources, ARS must ensure limited research dollars are maximized and administrative costs are reduced to the fullest extent possible. In recent years, ARS has imposed a variety of administrative assessments on its university partners, effectively reducing funds intended for important research projects. The Committee expects ARS to operate within historical administrative cost parameters, namely by imposing a total indirect cost rate not exceeding four percent. All administrative assessments, fees, dues, or charges, of any type, must be included within this overall administrative cost cap. ARS must administer its programs more efficiently to ensure valuable research funds are maximized so it may continue to maintain a robust agricultural research enterprise. The Committee encourages ARS to continue university research partnerships to ensure our nation's premier educational and clinical institutions play a major role in achieving ARS and congressional research objectives.

Aquaculture assistance programs

The Committee is aware of budgetary constraints throughout the department; nevertheless, the Committee questions the priority setting process on how funds are allocated with regard to aquaculture. In particular, the Committee is aware of the continuing threat of predators to aquaculture operations and encourages the Secretary to continue to fund these important livestock protection programs.

Matching funds requirement

The use of matching funds has proven to be an effective tool in leveraging limited Federal resources with commitments from those benefitting from agricultural research and extension. Unfortunately, the application of these policies by the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) has been arbitrary and inconsistent.

Efforts by the Committee to develop a comprehensive policy on research and extension matching funds originated during the development of the 2008 farm bill. At the time, it was noted that as research programs have been authorized or modified, the incorporation of matching requirements was done in a subjective manner. An effort was initiated during the 2008 farm bill conference to harmonize the matching requirements, but due to the complexity of the task and time constraints, the effort was dropped with the understanding that the Committees and USDA would undertake a stakeholder process designed to provide recommendations in advance of the 2012 farm bill. Unfortunately that process never materialized after the 2008 bill.

The House Agriculture Committee maintained an interest in engaging stakeholders in a discussion about how to harmonize these policies to improve consistency and transparency in their application. Several requests were made for suggestions on how best to approach this issue and the consensus seemed to be that the Committee should propose a discussion draft. The language included in the 2012 Committee legislation was the result of technical assistance received by the USDA and was meant to begin this discussion.

As part of the discussion that commenced following release of the 2012 farm bill draft, several comments were received and a consensus was formed regarding an effort to utilize matching fund policies to leverage Federal investment, while at the same time reducing the administrative and accounting burden on USDA and grant recipients.

The resulting policy recognizes the value of matching funds, but likewise takes into account the long-standing Federal investment in research, extension and teaching capacity and infrastructure programs (as defined in §251(f)(1)(C) of the Department of Agriculture Reorganization Act of 1994). Whereas the 2012 draft bill allowed for capacity and infrastructure program funds to be utilized in meeting the matching requirement for competitive research and extension grants, the resulting accounting burden was deemed to be counterproductive. Under the current draft, eligibility to receive capacity and infrastructure program funds is deemed to be sufficient to authorize a blanket exemption from competitive grant matching requirements. Likewise, any individual grant awarded to multiple recipients would be exempt from matching requirements if at least one of the recipients is eligible to receive capacity and infrastructure program funds from USDA.

Repeal of National Agricultural Weather Information System

The Committee is aware that advanced weather forecasts using Tropospheric Airborne Meteorological Data Reporting (TAMDAR) systems have been used by the Federal Aviation Administration, the U.S. Weather Service, and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration for over seven years. The Committee supports advanced forecasting employing TAMDAR in that it enhances U.S. and allied meteorological forecasting systems, thus providing improved reliability and situational awareness, which is particularly useful in agricultural forecasts. The Committee therefore encourages continued use of this system by the Department of Agriculture.

High-priority research and extension initiatives

The Committee recognizes that it is in the economic interest of agricultural producers and American consumers to ensure a healthy, sustainable population of native and managed pollinators, including managed honey bees. Pollinators are essential to the productions of an estimated one third of the human diet and to the reproduction of at least 80 percent of flowering plants. Insect-pollinated agricultural commodities result in significant income for agricultural producers and account for about $20 billion in U.S. agricultural output yearly.

The Committee remains concerned about the decline in the health and viability of managed honey bees due in part to a loss of appropriate habitat. As a result, the reported bill continues to include a priority for creating pollinator habitat utilizing the Title II conservation programs. This Committee remains committed to pollinator protection activities, including the granting of priority treatment to conservation program applicants who commit to providing pollinator habitat. The Committee expects the Secretary to continue to utilize conservation programs to create, restore and enhance native and managed pollinator habitat quantity and quality, and it specifically encourages the Secretary to ensure that conservation programs are resulting in sufficient high-quality pollinator habitat for managed honey bees—habitat that includes common alfalfa and sweet clover varieties utilized effectively in prior conservation programs.

This section of the reported bill also continues the authorization for research on pollinator protection, and adds a consideration for honey bee health disorders and best management practices related to colony collapse disorder to the annual report that the Secretary is required to submit to Congress. The Committee also continues its recognition of the need to assist honey bee producers who suffer from disasters in the commodity title with the funding provided for the emergency assistance program that includes honey bees. Additionally, the Committee is aware that specialty crop producers groups are working collaboratively with institutions of higher learning on research and education activities. The Committee applauds these actions and encourages the Secretary to support their efforts.

Centers of excellence

With limited resources to invest in critical programs, the Committee has considered multiple options by which Federal funds can be leveraged to improve overall program effectiveness. With the recognition that multiple institutions and organizations participate in projects of similar interest, the Committee has sought to incentivize the formation of formal partnerships and other organizational structures as Centers of Excellence. The Committee reported bill directs that such centers that meet established criteria be granted priority in receipt of competitive research and extension grants.

The Committee would recommend USDA to promulgate regulations implementing section 1673 in accordance with appropriate regulatory procedures in order to allow interested stakeholders to gain a firm understanding of USDA's implementation of the provision.

Specialty crop research initiative

The Committee is aware of concerns that the required merit review process under the Specialty Crop Research Initiative and other competitive grants programs is not functioning as intended. Congress established the merit review requirement to ensure that grant applications that are of sufficient scientific quality as determined through a process of peer review shall then be evaluated and final awards be made based on the merit and relevancy of the grant request with respect to the constituency being served. In carrying out the merit and relevancy review process under the Specialty Crop Research Initiative, the Committee expects that the review and ranking for impact to be conducted by a panel of specialty crop industry representatives for the specific specialty crop. The Committee further encourages the Secretary to prioritize competitive grants to address imminent threats which may impact the future of specialty crop production in this country.

Competitive, Special, and facilities Research Grant Act

The Agriculture and Food Research Initiative (AFRI) is the premier competitive research and extension grants program within the USDA. The AFRI program was established in 2008 as a successor program to the National Research Initiative Competitive Grants Program and the Initiative for Future Agriculture and Food Systems. The statutory priorities for the AFRI program are purposefully broad. In developing these priorities, the Congress was aware that as science evolves, a balance needed to be achieved between the need for flexibility to respond to new and emerging threats and opportunities, and the need for transparency and accountability in the expenditure of taxpayer funds.

Concerns are periodically raised regarding the annual allocations among the various statutory programmatic priorities and sub priorities. The Committee was aware of these qualitative concerns but lacked quantitative information on which to base any policy modifications. As a continuation of the programmatic audit carried out by the Committee in preparation for developing the FARRM Act, the Committee requested USDA provide a listing of recent awards under the AFRI program sorted according to the corresponding statutory priorities and sub priorities. USDA initially responded to the Committee that it had no means by which to track grants in relationship to the statutory authority upon which they are awarded. The Committee ultimately received a partial response to the oversight request after a delay of more than 3 months, but only days prior to consideration of the FARRM Act in 2012. That data revealed a dramatic shift in awards funding away from traditional areas of production agriculture. For instance, awards for research in plant systems dropped from 38.7% of available funds in fiscal year 2007, the final full year under the predecessor programs, to 18.4% in 2011. Awards for research in animal systems fell from 22.4% to 9.4% over the same time period.

Following receipt of a final report in February 2013, the Committee remained concerned that the allocation of research and extension awards under the AFRI program was inconsistent with our national priorities. As a result of the analysis, commitments were made by senior leadership of the National Institutes of Food and Agriculture (NIFA) to address these concerns. Efforts undertaken by the Director of NIFA to incorporate enhancements in the fiscal year 2014 budget submission, while still lacking in certain respects demonstrate the seriousness to which these commitments are being upheld.

While the Committee is encouraged by the progress that is being made, there remains a desire to codify the transparency and accountability measures contained within this budget submission language (section 7513).

The Committee recognizes the importance of basic animal health research to support the farmed cervidae industry, and as such, supports research focusing on the development of viable strategies for the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of infectious, parasitic and toxic diseases of farmed deer and the mapping of the deer genome.

The Committee recognizes the growing importance of and need for comprehensive and practical scientific and economic assessments of agricultural practices and technologies intended to improve agriculture's water quality and quantity performance. This is particularly the case as states work with producers on high priority or high profile water quality challenges. Such scientific and economic assessments are needed for the major crop producing regions of the country, taking into account soils, climate, crops grown, and the technologies and agricultural practices in use. The goal of such assessments should be to develop information and continue to build on the tools already in place. The assessments should continue to develop new and innovative approaches to help producers and policy makers in states understand what is affordable, achievable and sustainable for producers. The assessment can then be used to consider how different water quality policy choices relate to other important societal objectives involving agriculture. The Committee encourages the Secretary to initiate a multi-year effort to help the states and USDA continue to develop this base of science and knowledge through the funding of proposals from qualified institutions capable of supporting interdisciplinary teams of researchers and experts to carry out such efforts.

The Committee recognizes the success of the Conservation Effects Assessment Project (CEAP) and the cross collaborative approach between multiple agencies at USDA, and strongly encourages USDA to continue and expand on those efforts. The Committee does not intend for this provision to be a replacement for or duplication of CEAP, but rather as a source of sound, complementary economic and technical information that could be used in conjunction with CEAP to create more accurate assessments of the effects of prospective conservation measures on agricultural land.

The Committee recognizes that maintaining and enhancing wild rice, a uniquely American specialty crop, depends on continued use of traditional breeding methods, along with the application of new genetic tools to make conventional breeding more efficient. Genetic analysis of shattering, disease resistance, reduced plant height, and other traits require not only development of new genetic markers for wild rice, but also new methods for gathering accurate phenotypic information on the plants. The use of these improved genetic resources in the future depends on their continued availability through reliable seed storage methods. Some research has been done on maintaining viability of stored seeds, but these need to be translated into reliable and useful methods at the local level to ensure breeding progress.

The Committee would hope that the Secretary would consider the following research objectives regarding wild rice genetic resources: preserving and enhancing wild rice breeding lines for testing and release as future varieties; developing phenotyping methods and genotypic markers for various traits; using genotypic and phenotypic information to identify superior genetic resources for breeding and to develop more efficient breeding methods; evaluating and maintaining the genetic distinctiveness of wild rice breeding lines and populations; and developing improved methods for short- and medium-term storage of wild rice breeding lines and populations.

Renewable Resources Extension Act of 1978

The National Association of University Forest Resources Programs (NAUFRP), (formerly the National Association of Professional Forestry Schools and Colleges) represents 69 of our nation's universities and their respective scientists, educators and extension specialists. NAUFRP's purpose is to advance the health, productivity, and sustainability of America's forests by providing university-based natural resource education, research, science, extension and international programs. The Committee would encourage USDA to engage in discussions with NAUFRP to ensure that their proposals for resource management are appropriately addressed.

Budget submission and funding

The Committee is aware of the need for the statutory priorities for the various agricultural research, education and extension programs to be written with sufficient flexibility so that the Administrators of the USDA research agencies can respond quickly and efficiently to emerging problems and opportunities. The Committee is equally cognizant of the need for taxpayer funds to be used in a transparent and accountable manner.

Recent changes that have occurred in Congressional appropriations procedures have empowered USDA bureaucrats to direct spending seemingly without regard to statutory priorities. Coupling the extraordinary spending discretion granted to the agencies with a lack of transparency relating to the priority setting process exposes these critical programs to allegations of waste, fraud and abuse.

As a follow up to a series of programmatic audits conducted by the Committee, a request was submitted for the Department to provide a listing of grants awarded by the USDA under one principal competitive grants program to be sorted according to the statutory priorities for which the funding was appropriated. The Department was unable to provide this information for more than 3 months due to what was at the time a lack of ability by the Department to track program funding according to the authorized priorities.

A review of the data ultimately provided by the Department demonstrated a significant reduction in funding provided for research related to core production agricultural programs. Follow up discussions with senior leadership of the National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA) resulted in several commitments to address underlying funding concerns as well as to enhance the information available in future budget submissions.

In order to increase the ability of Congress to oversee funding allocations, the Committee reported bill seeks to codify the commitments that have been made by NIFA leadership in order to provide transparency and accountability with regard to the research, extension and education budget. It is the intent of the Committee that USDA provide increasingly detailed spending plans to Congress in advance of the development of annual appropriations measures so that the legislature and interested constituencies can weigh the merits of these allocations against evolving priorities, and as a representative body the Congress can approve or disapprove of the proposed allocations. The Committee believes that receipt of the information requested in this section will be beneficial to the long-term goal of expanding resources available for agricultural research, extension and education.

The Committee is aware that the ARS is shifting its funding priorities from core work in areas impacting crop protection and livestock production to environmental stewardship. The Committee is concerned that this action is short-sighted, especially in light of the fact that many plant disease issues may be magnified under varying weather conditions, and this is especially the case in the work on fusarium head blight in wheat and barley.

Sun grant program

The Committee reported bill directs the Secretary to utilize and leverage the investment, resources and capacities of the current regional Sun Grant Program Centers and Sub-center to continue their leadership and management of the regional Sun Grant competitive grants program.

Title VIII—Forestry

The Committee believes that healthy national, state, and private forests should be a high priority for the Department. Healthy forests are an important component of helping sustain fire-resistant communities and promoting economic health across rural America. The Committee reported bill reflects the priorities of the Committee by providing the Forest Service the tools necessary to improve forest management on a federal, state, and local level.

Forest Service decision making process

The Committee reported bill includes language that clarifies that the Forest Service does not need to engage in a notice, comment, and appeal process for routine actions. This language came as a result of a federal court decision in March 2012 that the agency must engage in this process for noncontroversial actions such as planting trees after wildfire, trail maintenance, or one-time events such as races. The Committee believes this is a burdensome requirement for the Forest Service when no other federal agency is required to engage in a similar process. The Committee is also concerned that this requirement will have an adverse impact on rural economies by virtue of restricting the number of revenue-generating activities that may occur on National Forest lands.

Stewardship contracting

The Committee provided the Forest Service with a four-year extension of authority to conduct Stewardship contracting. This approach to land management has proved effective nationwide since it was first authorized in 1999 and extended in 2003. Stewardship Contracting allows the Forest Service to conduct important forest restoration work by allowing the value of wood removed to help offset the cost of needed restoration treatments, like forest thinning, introduction of prescribed fire, and habitat improvements for a variety of species. It is important to note that Stewardship Contracting is not intended to replace the existing timber sale contract. Where there are robust wood markets, the Forest Service can frequently achieve its forest restoration and habitat goals simply by offering carefully designed timber sales. The Committee asks the Chief to work with purchasers of Forest Service timber to address concerns they have raised about methods of selecting the winning bidders on Stewardship contracts, and to provide feedback to losing bidders to help increase their understanding of the process to become more effective in the future. The Committee asks the Chief to include liability limitations for operations fires in all types of Stewardship Contracts and Stewardship Agreements. These liability limitations should be substantially similar to the protections in existing timber sale contracts. Additionally, the Committee allows the Forest Service to use the authority available under Stewardship Contracting to manage by prescription. This gives the agency more flexibility to manage forest conditions by targeting a specific goal for forest health.

Pine bark beetle

The outbreak of the pine bark beetle afflicting states across the nation is a great concern to the Committee. To date, an estimated 41 million acres have been affected, creating potentially hazardous fuel loads in several western states. The Committee reported bill includes provisions to provide the Forest Service with increased flexibility to address this issue and work with partners to mitigate the potential damage. The Committee wishes to clarify that the Secretary has the authority to designate critical areas at any point beyond the initial 60-day deadline specified in Sec. 8302. In reviewing the threat maps for designation of possible critical areas, the Secretary has the authority to treat those areas that are not immediately threatened by a disease outbreak in order to reduce the threat of future outbreak.

Forest Inventory and Analysis

The Forest Inventory and Analysis (FIA) program is the nation's only comprehensive forest inventory system for assessing the health and sustainability of the nation's forests across all ownerships. FIA provides essential data related to forest species composition, forest growth rates, and forest health data and is the baseline inventory estimate used in the State-wide Assessments and Strategies for Forest Resources. The program provides unbiased information that has immediate utility to foresters, landowners and many other users by serving as the basis for monitoring trends in wildlife habitat, wildfire risk, insect and disease threats, predicting spread of invasive species and for responding to contemporary forest issues such as estimating sustainable woody biomass supplies for renewable energy production, forest carbon inventories, and determining the timber supply available to support local mills and local jobs.

The Committee recognizes the critical importance of the FIA program and directs the Forest Service to place increased emphasis within the agency's Research and Development program to implement the strategic plan called for in Sec. 8401.

Forest Service retired employees

The Committee is concerned about the increasing number of retired Forest Service employees in recent years. Section 8402 included language to allow the Forest Service to hire retired employees under the Agriculture Conservation Experienced Services (ACES) program. The Forest Service will continue to see a large number of retirements in the coming years. Allowing the Forest Service to participate in the ACES program allows the agency to retain the institutional knowledge acquired through the years by these senior employees.

Forest health conditions

The Committee reported bill includes provisions for three reports to be completed by the Secretary. One report will focus on the condition of roads within the National Forest System. A second report will direct the Secretary to study the needs of sawmills within 100 miles of the boundary a National Forest. The third study will direct the Forest Products Laboratory to demonstrate the benefits of wood as a green building material. The Committee believes these reports with help in promoting healthier forests by understanding the needs of private sawmill owners, understanding existing infrastructure in the National Forest System, and creating markets by promoting the use of wood as a green building material.

Pautre fire response

The Committee has heard concerns about the Forest Service's response to the Pautre Forest fire in South Dakota during the spring of 2013. The damage was caused by a controlled burn that spread beyond its intended boundaries and affected approximately 10,800 acres near the Grand River Grazing District. The Committee directs the Forest Service to assist affected landowners in any way legally possible through the recovery process, including the rebuilding of fences and any assistance with the TORT process. Additionally, the Forest Service should review its prescribed burn policies and consult with these landowners before any future burns.

Title IX—Energy

The Committee continued the efforts of the 2002 and 2008 Farm Bills in drafting the energy title of the Committee reported bill. The Committee recognized rural America's important role in contributing to America's energy needs. The Committee focus in drafting the energy title was to continue to facilitate the establishment of new types of renewable energy feedstocks across rural America and to assist agriculture producers and rural small business to become more energy efficient.

With the exception of the Flexible Feedstock program, the programs under the energy title did not have a budget baseline beyond the expiration of the 2008 Farm Bill. Given the difficult budgetary decisions already affecting the drafting of a new bill, the Committee did not include mandatory funding for programs in the energy title. The Committee chose to keep the framework for renewable energy in place by reauthorizing several programs with discretionary funding and modifications to the underlying statutory authority. Despite the lack of mandatory funding, the Committee expects to see significant progress in the development of advanced biofuel feedstocks over the course of the Farm Bill.

BioPreferred program

The Biobased Market Program is intended to stimulate the production of new biobased products and energize emerging markets. The Committee reported bill amends the definition of a biobased product in order to clarify that forest products are included in the Biopreferred label program. USDA, in its rulemaking process, should ensure that mature markets for biobased products, including products made from forestry and cotton materials, are not put at a competitive disadvantage, particularly in comparison to products that may be imported into the United States. The Committee expects the Secretary to carefully implement this section.

Rural Energy for America Program

The Committee reported bill amends the definition of a “renewable energy system” to clarify what is eligible for financial assistance under the Renewable Energy for America Program (REAP). The Department announced an initiative in October 2010 to assist in the installation of 10,000 blender pumps over a five year period. The intent of the program has been to promote energy efficiency and the production of renewable energy, rather than energy delivery. Therefore, blender pumps or other mechanisms to dispense fuel on a retail level are not a use of the program consistent with this purpose.

The Committee reported bill also streamlines the application process for REAP to create a three-tiered application process. The Committee believes that due to the wide range of projects funded under the program, those producers seeking smaller amounts of assistance should not be required to submit the same volume of information as those seeking larger amounts.

Biomass Research and Development Initiative

The purpose of the Biomass Research and Development Initiative (BRDI) is to promote research and development regarding the production of biofuels and biobased products. The Committee encourages the Department to prioritize and focus investment in projects which use pre-commercialization processes and methods to advance product development. The Committee is aware of numerous advanced manufacturing facilities around the country that can play an active part in the development phase of biofuels and biobased products and urges the Secretary to encourage their involvement in BRDI projects.

Biomass Crop Assistance Program

The Biomass Crop Assistance Program was reauthorized with modifications. The program as written in the 2008 Farm Bill was not implemented in a manner consistent with the Committee’s vision. Initial estimates of the program projected spending of $70 million on the program over the course of the Farm Bill. However, approximately $924 million has been spent on the program through the end of FY 11. After issuance of the final rule in October 2010, the Committee believes the program is now being run in a manner consistent with Congressional intent. To ensure that the purpose of the program continued to be carried out, the Committee removed the authorization of payments for the collection, harvesting, storage, and transportation of eligible materials to a biomass conversion facility. The Committee intends that the purpose should be on the establishment of new crops, rather than funding existing crops.

Title X

Horticulture

Specialty crops—fruits, vegetables, tree nuts, and nursery plants—account for almost half of the domestic crop value in the United States.

The Committee believes that the specialty crop industry can be best served through Federal and State efforts that help producers increase their respective competitive positions through marketing, promotion, plant pest and disease pressures, and research programs. The FARRM Act builds upon the popular and successful programs established in the 2008 Farm Bill with this notion in mind. Expanding export markets and increasing access to locally produced products is a priority in the FARRM Act.

Specialty Crop Block Grant Program

The bill makes several changes to the Specialty Crop Block Grant program, which has been successful in enhancing the competitiveness of specialty crops by promoting increased consumption of fruits, vegetables, and nuts, fostering local and regional economic development, and enhancing research on specialty crops. The FARRM Act increases funding for the Specialty Crop Block Grant program by $250,000,000 over ten years. The Committee also adjusts the grant allocation formula in a manner that balances the value of specialty crops with the number of acres devoted to specialty crop production within states. The Committee directs both USDA and the states to limit the administrative funds at 3 and 8 percent respectively to capitalize on the funds available to growers.

The Committee recognizes the difficulty in coordinating and funding multi-state projects within the block grant program, and the Committee expects the USDA to issue guidance and work with states in making grants available for such projects. These multi-state projects may include food safety, research, plant pest and disease, and crop specific projects. These projects have the ability to link growers across state lines and promote much needed collaborative research. In the Secretary's guidance, effective multi-state collaborative research should not limit needed equipment and facilities if it is found they are essential to research advancements.

Plant pest and disease

To ensure the continued availability of funding for the important work of the National Clean Plant Network, the Committee has combined this program with the Pest and Disease program and increased baseline funding for both. The Committee adopted an amendment that sets a funding floor of $5 million per year to the National Clean Plant Networks but further encourages the Secretary to provide from within the overall allocation under this section additional funds if deemed necessary. These funds may be provided to the Network without regard to the process for distributing funds to address the other provisions of Section 420 of the Plant Protection Act. The Committee recognizes that Disease Management and Disaster Prevention Programs as previously authorized in the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 includes imminent pressing and persistent threats from pests and disease, such as Citrus Greening, to agriculture production.

The Committee recognizes the importance of the Federal government, specifically the USDA, developing and maintaining the highest technological capability of identifying plant pests and invasive species. Further, the Committee believes that the advanced technological capabilities acquired through development of plant pest and disease detection technologies should facilitate the development of a coordinated, interagency response plan for the federal government to effectively mitigate plant pests and disease. The Committee encourages USDA to take the appropriate steps to facilitate information and technology sharing with other appropriate agencies of the Federal government involved in managing invasive pests such as Department of the Interior, Environmental Protection Agency, U.S. Coast Guard and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Farmers' markets

The Committee recognizes the growing interest among producers and consumers to provide and purchase locally-grown agricultural products. The FARRM Act expands the Farmers Market Promotion Program to include food system infrastructure and increases funding for competitive grants to expand farmers' markets and other direct-to-consumer market opportunities.

Olive oil marketing order

The Committee has taken steps to permit the establishment of a marketing order for domestically produced olive oil. Should this marketing order be established, the Committee expects USDA, in conjunction with the U.S. Trade Representative's office, to ensure the marketing order is implemented in a manner that will not cause undue trade disruption.

Honey standard of identity

The Committee is concerned with the Food and Drug Administration's denial of the honey industry's 2006 citizen's petition calling for a federal standard of identity for honey. Consequently, the Committee directs USDA to submit a report to the Commissioner of the FDA on the importance of establishing such a standard. The Committee recognizes that inconsistent standards can cause confusion in the market place and legal challenges. The Committee instructs the USDA to take into consideration the honey industry's petition filed with the Food and Drug Administration.

Modification, Cancellation, or Suspension on Basis of a Biological Opinion

Pesticide biological opinions

The Committee has been made aware of the dramatically different views on approaches to assessing and managing potential risks to fish, wildlife and plant species between the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Fish and Wildlife Service and National Marine Fisheries Service (collectively, the Services). Consequently, these agencies disagree on fundamental legal and science policy matters related to their respective obligations under the Endangered Species Act (ESA) and the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA). These scientific disagreements, along with inability to develop a sound and workable process for consultation under ESA, threaten public health, agricultural productivity, and global competitiveness with no commensurate benefit to threatened and endangered species.

FIFRA requires EPA to evaluate unreasonable risk of harm to human health or the environment (including fish, wildlife and “non-target” plants) before granting pesticide registrations or amendments to existing pesticide registrations.

FIFRA requires applicants for pesticide registration actions (registrants) to submit to EPA a robust set of scientific data to ensure the protection of the environment. EPA also considers other available data and has the authority to require additional data from pesticide registrants to ensure decisions are scientifically sound. EPA’s Office of Pesticide Programs is uniquely staffed to critically evaluate the voluminous available data on the potential pesticide effects.

ESA provides for an additional level of scrutiny by requiring federal agencies, such as EPA, to consult with the Services on “agency actions” (such as a pesticide registration) that could impact threatened or endangered species or their critical habitats. As part of the consultation process, the Services issue a “biological opinion” which may recommend additional modifications or restrictions to “agency actions.”

In the last decade, EPA has been sued to compel consultations with the Services for hundreds of products throughout the nation, and has agreed to do so. These lawsuits are “procedural” in nature citing a lack of “consultation” with the Services and rarely attack EPA’s underlying analysis of the science-based record. Most importantly, however, such lawsuits divert precious government resources from actually protecting endangered species. Several of the lawsuits filed have resulted in Court-ordered “interim” restrictions on the use of critical pesticides.

The EPA has made significant efforts to meet obligations under FIFRA and ESA, while the Services have produced biological opinions that many observers find grossly flawed, ignore pertinent data, and rely on outdated and irrelevant studies. Therefore, the seven consultations conducted since 2002 have not been fully implemented. As a result, EPA has not found the Service’s recommendations sufficiently based on sound science to compel registrants to adopt them.

This inability to resolve fundamental scientific issues at the heart of a consultation involving pesticides led the EPA Administrator and the Secretaries of the United States Department of Agriculture, Department of Interior and Department of Commerce to ask the National Research Council (NRC) of the National Academy of Sciences (NAS) to provide guidance on some minor scientific issues. This action, however, does not stop the litigation, nor will it impede courts from unilaterally imposing unwarranted pesticide restrictions. In a joint oversight hearing held on May 4, 2011, between the Committees on Agriculture and Natural Resources, it became clear to many of the Committees' respective Members that the requested NRC study was incomplete and lacking in the scope necessary to critically review existing biological opinions in their entirety.

Response for why legislation is needed

Committee Members have therefore raised numerous concerns with the failure of the NRC study contract to include unbiased scientific peer review of the Services' biological opinions as well as an analysis of the technological and economic feasibility of the proposed "Reasonable and Prudent Measures" or "Reasonable and Prudent Alternatives".

The Committee continues to stress the importance that the relevant federal agencies contract with the NRC to study and report on the concerns raised by interested parties during the hearing, the Committee continues to strongly assert that the following scientific questions must be included in a NRC study to properly examine the numerous issues raised by the Services' biological opinions to date. Questions that the Committee has asked the agency to include in a NRC contract include:

- The NAS recently provided guidance on evaluation of data quality for EPA Integrated Risk Information System (IRIS) evaluations. What criteria should the EPA and the Services be using in evaluating data for acceptability and relative quality in regulatory decision-making? How should decisions on data acceptability be documented?
- A well defined weight-of-evidence framework would provide some structure and transparency to the objective assessment of information relied upon for regulatory decision-making. Is there a recommended framework for a "weight-of-evidence" approach for evaluation of all relevant available data and how should that framework be applied?
- Were apparent incongruities or inconsistencies in available data appropriately addressed and clearly described in the Services' biological opinions? Were the implications of the inconsistencies considered in describing the uncertainty in the assessment?
- Were the rationales used to support jeopardy or adverse modification determinations well-grounded in empirical observations? Have the Services clearly articulated the limitations and uncertainties associated with the effects determinations?
- When worst-case assumptions are made, how should they be documented to make the level of conservatism apparent, consistent with Presidential memoranda?

- Should uncertainty factors be reduced or eliminated as more recent empirical data are made available? If so, have the Services adopted this principle in their effects determinations conducted to date?

- Were the assumptions used to fill data gaps supported by empirical data, reasonable and clearly articulated?

- Were the specific assumptions and inferences used to support jeopardy and adverse modification determinations plausible? That is, did the Services include an assessment of the a priori likelihood that critical assumptions and inferences would prove true if tested?

- Where in the assessment process should the Services involve the expertise of other federal and state Agencies, as well as non-federal entities such as growers and other stakeholders, in the risk assessment process?

- The problem formulation includes a description of the different stressors that are influential on species survival. How are considerations of key stressors for endangered and threatened species and the relative significance of their known or potential impacts incorporated into a jeopardy finding as part of the Biological Opinion?

- How should consideration of key stressors inform the Reasonable and Prudent Measures (RPMs) or Reasonable and Prudent Alternatives (RPAs) suggested at the end of the consultation process? For example, if habitat loss is identified as the predominant factor impacting a species in question, how will measures to lessen impact include consideration of mitigation options that increase or improve habitat?

- How should the Services consider the human health implications of the impact of proposed mitigation measures on mosquito population control efforts?

The Committee is likewise concerned that the scope of work of any subsequent NRC study must cover direct and indirect economic impacts. Therefore, it is imperative that any review of these biological opinions be comprehensive in nature, and address the following issues pertaining to economic feasibility, consistent with 50 C.F.R. §402.02 before moving forward with implementation of any pending or future biological opinions related to FIFRA registered products.

- What factors should the Services consider to make the determination that proposals are “consistent with the intended purpose of the action considered in these biological opinions?”

- What factors should the Services consider to make the determination that proposals are “technologically feasible”?

- What factors should the Services consider to make the determination that the proposals are “economically feasible”?

- Can you recommend an appropriate framework for conducting a benefit-cost analysis (BCA) for determining and documenting economic and technical feasibility?

- In addition to a BCA, a cost-effectiveness analysis (CEA) can provide a rigorous way to identify and evaluate options that achieve the most effective use of the resources available. Can you recommend an appropriate framework for conducting a CEA to evaluate a range of possible alternatives under consideration?

- For both BCAs and CEAs how should the Services document and analyze important uncertainties associated with proposed RPA's? Furthermore, to what extent is it recommended that the Services provide a sensitivity analysis to reveal whether, and to what extent, the results of the analysis are sensitive to plausible changes in the main assumptions and inputs?

- To what extent is it recommended that the Services identify and consider important ancillary benefits and countervailing risks related to proposed RPA's? (For example, potential reduction in habitat resulting from changes in land management practices in response to proposed restrictions.)

Taken together, these questions represent a reasonable basis on which to achieve scientific consensus. The Committee urges the EPA, USDA and Services' to take such action as is necessary to request to the NRC to ensure that their work, once completed will be thorough and defensible.

Use and Discharges of Authorized Pesticides

The Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act

The Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act ("FIFRA") is a regulatory statute that governs the sale and use of pesticides in the United States through the registration and labeling of such products. Its objective is to protect human health and the environment from unreasonable adverse effects of pesticides, taking into account the costs and benefits of various product uses. Pesticides regulated under FIFRA include insecticides, herbicides, fungicides, rodenticides, and other designated substances. The Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") reviews scientific data submitted by chemical manufacturers on toxicity and behavior in the environment to evaluate risks and exposure associated with a product's use.

FIFRA prohibits the sale of any pesticide unless it is registered and labeled indicating approved uses and restrictions. It is a violation of Federal law to use such a chemical in a manner that is inconsistent with the label instructions. If a registration is granted, EPA makes a finding that the chemical "when used in accordance with widespread and commonly recognized practice it will not generally cause unreasonable adverse effects on the environment." (7 U.S.C. 136a(c)(5)(D).) EPA then specifies the approved uses and conditions of use of the pesticide, and this is required to be explained on the product label.

The Clean Water Act

The objective of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (commonly known as the "Clean Water Act" or the "CWA") is to restore and maintain the chemical, physical, and biological integrity of the nation's waters. The primary mechanism for achieving this objective is the CWA's prohibition on the discharge of any pollutant without a National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System ("NPDES") permit. EPA has the authority to regulate the discharge of pollutants either through general permits or through individual permits. NPDES permits specify limits on what pollutants may be discharged from point sources and in what amounts. Under the CWA, 47 states and territories have been authorized to implement NPDES permits and enforce permits. EPA manages the Clean Water Act program in the remaining states and territories.

NPDES permits are the basic regulatory tool of the CWA. EPA or an authorized state may issue compliance orders, or file civil suits against those who violate the terms of a permit. In addition, in the absence of Federal or state action, individuals may bring a citizen suit in United States district court against those who violate the terms of an NPDES permit, or against those who discharge without a valid permit.

Litigation

In over 30 years of administering the CWA, EPA had never required an NPDES permit for the application of a pesticide, when the pesticide is applied in a manner consistent with FIFRA and its regulations. While the CWA contains a provision granting citizen suits against those who violate permit conditions or those who discharge without an NPDES permit, FIFRA has no citizen suit provision. As a result, beginning in the late 1990s, a series of citizen lawsuits were filed by parties, contending that an NPDES permit is necessary when applying a FIFRA-regulated product over, into, or near waterbodies. These cases generated several Court of Appeals decisions that created confusion and concern among pesticide users regarding the applicability of the CWA with regard to pesticide use.

As the litigation continued, concern and confusion grew among farmers, forest landowners, and public health officials, prompting EPA to issue interim, and later final, interpretive guidance in August 2003 and January 2005, and then to undertake a rulemaking to clarify and formalize the Agency's interpretation of the CWA as it applied to pesticide use. The EPA rule was finalized in November 2006 (71 Fed. Reg. 68483 (Nov. 27, 2006)), and was the culmination of a three year participatory rulemaking process that began with the interim interpretive statement in 2003 and involved two rounds of public comment.

The 2006 EPA rule codified EPA's long-standing interpretation that the application of chemical and biological pesticides for their intended purpose and in compliance with pesticide label restrictions is not a discharge of a "pollutant" under the CWA, and therefore, that an NPDES permit is not required. The rule clearly defined specific circumstances in which the use of pesticides in accordance with all relevant requirements under FIFRA is not a CWA "discharge of a pollutant," explaining in detail the rationale for the Agency's interpretation.

When the rule was finalized, environmental groups, as well as farm and pesticide industry groups, filed petitions for review of the rule in several Federal Circuit Courts of Appeal. The petitions were consolidated in the Sixth Circuit. The Sixth Circuit ultimately vacated the rule on January 7, 2009 in National Cotton Council v. EPA (553 F.3d 927; hereinafter, National Cotton Council), concluding that the final rule was not a reasonable interpretation of the CWA's permitting requirements. The court rejected EPA's contention that, when pesticides are applied over, into, or near waterbodies to control pests, they are not considered pollutants as long as they comply with FIFRA, and held that NPDES permits are required for all pesticide applications that may leave a residue in water.

EPA estimated that the ruling would affect approximately 365,000 pesticide applicators that perform some 5.6 million pesticide applications annually. The court's decision, which would apply nationally, was to be effective seven days after the deadline for rehearing expired or seven days after a denial of any petition for rehearing. Parties had until April 9, 2009 to seek rehearing.

On April 9, 2009, the government chose not to seek rehearing in the National Cotton Council case. The government instead filed a motion to stay issuance of the court's mandate for two years to provide EPA time to develop an entirely new NPDES permitting process to cover pesticide use. As part of this, EPA needed to propose and issue a final NPDES general permit for pesticide applications, for states to develop permits, and for EPA to provide outreach and education to the regulated community. Industry groups filed a petition seeking en banc review, asking the full Sixth Circuit to reconsider the decision from the three-judge panel.

On June 8, 2009, the Sixth Circuit granted EPA a two-year stay of the court's mandate, in response to their earlier request. The Sixth Circuit denied the industry groups' petition for rehearing in August 2009. The court-ordered deadline for EPA to promulgate a new permitting process for pesticides under the Clean Water Act was April 9, 2011. On March 3, 2011, EPA filed another request for an extension with the court. On March 28, 2011, the Sixth Circuit granted an extension through October 31, 2011. The Court's extension only temporarily postponed the need for an NPDES permit for pesticide use, and did not obviate the need for this legislation.

Two petitions were filed with the U.S. Supreme Court in December 2009 by representatives of the agriculture community and the pesticide industry, requesting that the U.S. Supreme Court review the National Cotton Council case. A number of parties, including numerous Members of Congress, filed amicus briefs with the U.S. Supreme Court, in support of or opposition to the petitions. On February 22, 2010, the U.S. Supreme Court denied the petitioners' request without comment.

EPA development of a new permitting process to cover pesticide use

EPA continued to move ahead and developed a new NPDES permitting process to cover pesticide use, and on October 31, 2011, EPA issued a final NPDES Pesticide General Permit for point source discharges from the application of pesticides to waters of the United States. The permit covers four pesticide uses: (1) mosquito and other flying insect pest control; (2) aquatic weed and algae control; (3) aquatic nuisance animal control; and (4) forest canopy pest control. It does not cover terrestrial applications to control pests on agricultural crops or forest floors, and does not cover activities exempt from permitting under the CWA (irrigation return flow, agricultural stormwater runoff) and discharges that will require coverage under an individual permit, such as discharges of pesticides to waterbodies that are considered impaired under CWA Sec. 303(d) for that discharged pesticide. This general permit provides coverage for discharges in the states where EPA is the NPDES permitting authority. In the remaining states, the states are authorized to develop and issue the NPDES pesticide permits.

Implications

The Committee has received testimony and other information on the implications of the Sixth Circuit's holding in the National Cotton Council case, and the new permitting process that EPA has had to develop under the CWA as a result of that holding, on state and local agencies, mosquito control districts, water districts, pesticide applicators, agriculture, forest managers, and other stakeholders. On February 16, 2011, the Subcommittee on Water Resources and Environment of the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure held a joint hearing with the Nutrition and Horticulture Subcommittee of the House Committee on Agriculture to consider means for reducing the regulatory burdens posed by the case, National Cotton Council v. EPA (6th Cir. 2009), and to consider related draft legislation.

Despite being limited to four categories of pesticide uses, EPA's new general permit for covered pesticides stands to be the single greatest expansion of the permitting process in the history of the NPDES program. EPA has estimated that it can expect approximately 5.6 million covered pesticide applications per year by approximately 365,000 applicators—virtually doubling the number of entities currently subject to NPDES permitting. (U.S. EPA, Fact Sheet for 2010 Public Notice of: Draft National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) Pesticides General Permit (PGP) for Discharges from the Application of Pesticides to or over, including near Waters of the U.S., at 14, available at http://www.epa.gov/npdes/pubs/proposed_pgp_fs.pdf.)

With this unprecedented expansion comes real and tangible burdens for EPA and the states that will have to issue the permits, those whose livelihoods depend on the use of pesticides, and even everyday citizens going about their daily lives.

EPA has said that they will be able to conform the current process to meet the Sixth Circuit's mandate. Even so, much of the responsibility of developing and issuing general permits falls on the states. Forty-five states (and the Virgin Islands) are now facing increased financial and administrative burdens in order to comply with the new permitting process. In a time when too many states are being forced to make difficult budgetary cuts, the nation cannot afford to impose more financial burdens.

The expanded permitting process also imposes enormous burdens on pesticide users who encompass a wide range of individuals from state agencies, city and county municipalities, mosquito control districts, water districts, pesticide applicators, farmers, ranchers, forest managers, scientists and others. The new and duplicative permitting process is increasing both the administrative difficulty and costs for pesticide applicators to come into compliance with the law. Compliance no longer means simply following instructions on a pesticide label. Instead, applicators have to navigate a complex process of identifying the relevant permit, filing with the regulatory authority a valid notice of intent to comply with the permit and having a familiarity with all of the permit's conditions and restrictions. Along with increased administrative burdens comes an increased monetary burden. Estimates are that the cost associated with the EPA permit scheme to small businesses could be as high as $50,000 per business, annually.

In addition to the costs of coming into compliance, pesticide users are subject to an increased risk of litigation and exorbitant fines. Applicators not in compliance face fines of up to $37,500 per day per violation, not including attorney's fees. Given the fact that a large number of applicators have never been subject to NPDES and its permitting process, even a good faith effort to be in compliance could fall short. Moreover, the CWA allows for private actions against individuals who may or may not have committed a violation. Thus, while EPA may exercise its judgment and refrain from prosecuting certain applicators, they remain vulnerable to citizen suits. Unless Congress acts, hundreds of thousands of farmers, foresters, and public health pesticide users will remain under the constant threat of lawsuits, now that the Sixth Circuit's April 9, 2011 deadline has passed.

It is not only pesticide regulators and applicators who are being affected by the new permitting requirements. Rather, the Sixth Circuit's decision is affecting everyday citizens, who rely on the benefits provided by pesticides and their responsible application. Pesticide use is an essential part of agriculture. Imposing a burdensome and duplicative permitting process on our nation's farmers threatens their ability to continue to provide the country with a safe and reliable food supply. Many family farmers and small applicators lack the resources to ensure compliance with a cumbersome and detailed permit scheme. Moreover, for those farmers who are able to comply, delays that are inherent in permitting schemes are ill-suited for prompt pest control actions necessary in agriculture. Failure to apply a pesticide soon after a pest is first detected could result in recurring and greater pest damage in subsequent years if a prolific insect were to become established in plant hosts. The Secretary of Agriculture, Hon. Thomas J. Vilsack, has said that a permitting system under the CWA for pesticide use "is ill-suited to the demands of agricultural production." (Letter, Hon. Thomas J. Vilsack, Secretary of Agriculture, to Hon. Lisa P. Jackson, Administrator, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Subject: The National Cotton Council of America, et al., v. United States Environmental Protection Agency (Mar. 6, 2009)).

Forest landowners also stand to suffer under the new permit scheme. EPA's permit scheme stands to result in a reduction in the use of forest pest control as a forest management tool, resulting in the acceleration of tree mortality and general decline in overall forest health. It also is erecting barriers for the control of pests, such as Gypsy Moth and Forest Tent Caterpillar. This may result in a higher incidence of preventable tree kills and defoliated landscapes.

The Committee also recognizes the importance of the aerial application of pest control tools. These tools are useful not only to ensure overall food safety and food security, but also to promote public health through improved mosquito control techniques. The ARS Aerial Application Technology Program conducts innovative research making aerial applications more efficient, effective, and precise. This program has yielded more effective public health control programs, as well as increased efficiencies and greater crop production. Research for aerial application serves the public interest as a vital tool for the future.

Finally, the Sixth Circuit's holding could have significant implications for public health. The National Centers for Disease Control officially recognizes the following as a partial list of mosquito-borne diseases—Eastern Equine Encephalitis, Japanese Encephalitis, La Crosse Encephalitis, St. Louis Encephalitis, West Nile Virus, Western Equine Encephalitis, Dengue Fever, Malaria, Rift Valley Fever, and Yellow Fever. (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, http://www.cdc.gov/ncidod/diseases/list_mosquitoborne.htm.)

EPA's permit program poses the possibility of critical delays in emergency responses to insect and disease outbreaks and stands to divert resources from controlling environmental pests to litigation and administrative burdens.

Development of legislation in response to the Sixth Circuit decision

As a result of concerns raised by Federal, state, local, and private stakeholders regarding the interrelationship between FIFRA and the CWA and the concerns posed by the new and duplicative permitting process under the CWA, the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure and House Committee on Agriculture sought technical assistance from EPA to draft very narrow legislation targeted only at addressing the Sixth Circuit's holding in National Cotton Council and return the state of pesticide regulation to the status quo—before the courts got involved. The Provisions of Section 10017 are based on the technical assistance that EPA provided to the Committees, and is intended to be consistent with EPA's final rule from November 2006. The bill amends FIFRA and the CWA to eliminate the requirement of an NPDES permit for applications of pesticides authorized for sale, distribution, or use under FIFRA.

Seed Not Pesticide or Device for Purposes of Importation

For the purposes of this amendment, the term “seed” or “treated seed” shall include, but not be limited to, seed or other propagative material that has been treated with or otherwise contains a pesticide.

Title XI—Crop Insurance

Over the course of the past 20 years, the United States has gone from insuring 83 million acres to 282 million acres, a 240 percent increase. Over that same period, the value of production protected by crop insurance has risen from roughly $11.3 billion in 1992 to $117 billion in 2012. Vast improvements in crop insurance over the past 20 years have resulted in growers taking up this tool as the cornerstone of their risk management strategy. With crop insurance, farmers have “skin” in the game, paying in a record $4.5 billion in crop insurance premiums in 2011.

Since 2008, Federal Crop Insurance has been cut by roughly $17 billion through Farm Bill legislation, renegotiation of the Standard Reinsurance Agreement, and the re-rating process. Through several audit, field, and Washington-based hearings in preparation for writing the farm bill—along with countless meetings with farmers and farm groups—the resounding message the Committee heard was that we should do no harm to crop insurance.

The Committee heeded the message of not harming crop insurance and has used the opportunity to make several improvements, building on the tool that has become the cornerstone of the risk management framework for our nation’s farmers.

Information sharing

The Committee recognizes that the information producers provide to agents is dispositive in providing coverage given it is offered on private paper and approved insurance providers (AIPs) share risk. However, the Committee also recognizes that agents work to ensure farmer customer compliance with Commodity Title requirements in order to maintain their eligibility under Title I. Thus, ensuring timely receipt of information by agents and AIPs from the Farm Service Agency (FSA) is important. Receipt of timely information by agents and AIPs has the complementary effect of helping to avoid errors in both crop insurance and the Commodity Title. The Committee expects the Department of Agriculture to ensure that FSA shares information with agents and AIPs in a timely manner to enable agents to check this information against that which they received directly from producers in order to ensure effective crop insurance coverage, eligibility under Title I, and to reduce reporting errors, generally.

Publication of information on violations of prohibition on premium adjustments

The Committee has consistently sought to enjoin rebating under federal crop insurance. The Committee remains concerned about inadequate enforcement, as well as overly broad interpretations of the very limited exceptions that have been statutorily granted. The Committee expects the Department to enhance enforcement efforts, give the narrowest possible application to any exception granted, and to publish violations as required by this section in order to provide clear guidance on what is permissible under the statute. That being said, finite enforcement resources and judgment require the Department to focus on activities that are serious and plain violations rather than discovering “rebates” in long-standing business practices that have, heretofore, existed in harmony alongside anti-rebating rules without a detrimental effect on crop insurance.

Supplemental Coverage Option

The Committee recognizes that budget conditions have greatly limited the resources available under Title I of the Farm Bill and that this requires the Department to use authorities granted under the Federal Crop Insurance Act to help fill at least a part of the void. The Supplemental Coverage Option (SCO), which statutorily requires that producers be allowed to supplement individual yield or revenue policies with area-based yield or revenue policies on the same acreage, is an essential part of this effort and, as such, must be made available for the 2014 crop year for all producers in all counties seeking such coverage. The Committee also expects that producers of hybrid seed, including but not limited to hybrid seed corn, hybrid popcorn seed, hybrid sweet corn seed, hybrid sorghum seed, and hybrid rice seed, may supplement their coverage with either a revenue or yield SCO coverage option, at the producer's election.

The Committee understands that the Department has cited limited data as a possible reason to delay availability in certain counties and for certain crops. However, the Committee observes that this section and section 11008 of this Act greatly enhances the Department's capacity to gather and use the necessary data for timely implementation for the 2014 crop year. The Committee particularly expects that SCO will also be implemented for the 2014 crop year for crops that have a history of low participation and coverage levels under crop insurance, including rice and peanuts in all counties where these crops are produced. The Committee encourages the Department to work to ensure that price discovery issues do not impede availability of SCO to any producer, including producers of medium grain rice. The Committee would observe that the Farm Bill clearly specifies in statute the level of administrative and operating expense to be provided relative to SCO and that this amount falls outside of and is therefore not subject to any administratively imposed cap on such expenses.

The Committee would note that the Federal Crop Insurance Act is a broad grant of statutory authority which already authorizes SCO even without the express grant now provided under this section. The Committee is concerned that specific legislation is frequently required to address producer needs that could and should be met under the general grant of authority and urges the Department to exercise its authority to meet producer needs under this general grant rather than wait for Congress to require it. This is both in the interest of producers and to ensure that the broad, organic statute does not become a patchwork of specific requirements where the Department had to be prodded.

The Committee also expects that the Department will approve margin coverage in time for the 2014 crop year and specifically grants legal authority to offer such coverage under the Act.

The Committee would note in this instance as well as in the case of SCO that such legal authority already exists without the express approval of margin coverage under this section. Moreover, the Committee is concerned that the Department is applying the limitations imposed under the Federal Crop Insurance Act, generally, on the development of new policies under section 508(h) of the Federal Crop Insurance Act when the Act expressly instructs the Department not to do so. Section 508(h)(2) specifically excuses section 508(h) submissions from limitations generally applicable under the statute, yet the Department has applied these limitations nevertheless. The Committee expects the Department to give meaning to the statutory instruction that "a policy or other material submitted to the Board under this subsection may be prepared without regard to the limitations contained in this subtitle" without the need for a statutory restatement. The Committee expects that a producer may purchase additional coverage, margin coverage, and SCO on the same acreage since margin coverage is meant to be a supplement to additional coverage.

Repeal of performance-based discount

The Committee notes that any number of discounts or rebates have been tested in previous years and have failed. Amendments to the statute made in this Act and previous Acts have largely eliminated the authority for discounts and rebates and the inequities on produces and increased burdens on delivery that these schemes tend to generate. For this reason, the Committee expects the Department to avoid any expansion of the reach of activities operating under any authorities that remain.

Permanent enterprise unit subsidy

The Committee would observe that the Department has the authority to carry out the enhanced premium support of Enterprise Units without the express authority the Committee now grants in this section. The Committee expects the Department to continue to carry out the enhanced premium support of Enterprise Units in a manner that makes such an election at least as cost-effective to producers as it was prior to enactment of this legislation.

Enterprise units for irrigated and non-irrigated crops

The Committee restates that authority already exists to achieve this important goal for producers and expects the Department to implement this section in time for the 2014 crop year as required by this amendment to the statute.

Data collection

The authority granted under this section is to ensure, among other things, that SCO and the Stacked Income Protection Plan for Upland Cotton (STAX) are offered in all counties for the 2014 crop year. The Committee would observe that the Department has noted that STAX may be available to a majority of cotton farmers depending on the timeliness of the Farm Bill's enactment into law. Yet, a policy is not effective unless it is certain to be there for all farmers when it is first implemented.

Adjustment in actual production history to establish insurance yields

The Committee intends to reduce the double deductible producers face due to actual deductibles and those unintended deductibles created by artificially low Actual Production Histories (APHs). The Committee urges an aggressive effort to address this problem through the use of the authorities under this section and other authorities, including through a greatly expanded use of personal T-Yields and other effective approaches.

Submission and approval of pilot programs and other policies

For the same reason, the Committee elected not to make changes to the private submission process established under section 508(h) of the Federal Crop Insurance Act in order to foster the greatest possible flexibility in the development of policies that will effectively serve producers. The Committee expects that a revenue policy for peanut producers as well as margin coverage for rice producers will be made available to producers in time for the 2014 crop year. The Committee further expects the Department to approve the separating of enterprise units by risk rating so that such enterprise unit coverage is available in time for the 2014 crop year.

Equitable relief for specialty crop producers

The Committee recognizes that specialty crop contracts were especially and unfairly impacted by the Standard Reinsurance Agreement (SRA) and provides $41 million for each of the 2011 through 2015 reinsurance years in order to mitigate the adverse impacts. With respect to future reinsurance years to which this section applies, the Committee intends that the additional amounts provided to approved insurance providers be paid to agents at the same time as amounts paid pursuant to the “soft cap” on administrative and operating expenses.

The Committee further intends that the disbursements made under this section be paid without regard to the conditions imposed on the payment of administrative and operating expense amounts above the “soft cap.” Finally, the Committee expects the Department to ensure that amounts made available with respect to previous or current reinsurance years are disbursed by approved insurance providers to agents in a manner consistent with payments made in those years under the “soft cap.”

The Committee underscores that the provision of this equitable relief does not in any way provide statutory assent to the administrative imposition of limits on administrative and operating expenses or compensation to agents under the SRA.

Budget limitations on renegotiation of the standard reinsurance agreement

The Committee expects the Department to negotiate budget neutral Standard Reinsurance Agreements. To the extent that there are any savings from such an agreement, such savings must be used to increase premium assistance to producers, enhance administrative and operating expense reimbursement to ensure effective delivery, or fund pilot programs. The Committee notes the extraordinary cuts made in the last SRA, much through administratively imposed restrictions on administrative and operating expense reimbursement and on agent compensation although authority for such restrictions is not to be found in statute. While the statute is broad, it expressly states administrative and operating expense reimbursement rates, and had never before been construed to authorize government intervention into private contracts between approved insurance providers and agents.

The Committee recognizes the covenants not to sue over these provisions, imposed on approved insurance providers who are privy to a contract with the federal government and on agents who are not privy to contract, as an acknowledgement by the Department of these issues. The Committee expects that the Department will consult the committees of jurisdiction more closely in future negotiations of the SRA, correct the overreaches of the 2011 SRA, avoid further cuts to administrative and operating expense reimbursements which already exceed the Department’s own estimates by about $2 billion, and consult with agent representatives in such negotiations given the impact the SRA now has on agents both in terms of finances and workload. The Committee also recognizes that agents are the eyes and ears of crop insurance on the ground and encourages the Department to involve agents in the promulgation of rules, regulations, and policies of crop insurance in order to preempt program vulnerabilities before they occur.

Crop production on native sod

The Committee considered this issue carefully and opted to confine the section's reach to the Prairie Pothole National Priority Area. The section contains prescriptive requirements and also broader authority to effectuate its purpose. The Committee expects the Department to exercise any discretion it may have in carrying out this section in a manner that is balanced and not overly onerous on producers.

Coverage levels by practice

The Committee expects the Department to allow producers to elect different coverage levels between irrigated and non-irrigated practices on the same crop beginning with the 2015 crop year as provided for in this section. However, the Committee encourages the Department to implement this section earlier if practicable.

Beginning farmer and rancher provisions

The Committee expects the Department to carry out this section in a manner that imposes minimal burden on beginning farmers and ranchers, producers, approved insurance providers, and agents.

Stacked income protection plan for producers of upland cotton (STAX)

In order to address a World Trade Organization (WTO) dispute, at the behest of the U.S. cotton sector, U.S. cotton policy is fundamentally altered under the provisions of this Act, sharply limiting cotton producer support under the commodity title to the marketing loan. There is no price protection for cotton producers in the event of low prices over multiple years except the marketing assistance loan which is also subject to substantial reduction under this legislation. The Committee expects such coverage to be offered to all cotton producers in all counties in time for the 2014 crop year. The section would provide the bulwark of risk management for cotton producers through crop insurance and so this section's implementation in 2014 is essential. Provisions in this section and section 11008 enable the Department to implement this policy for cotton producers in a timely manner.

Peanut revenue crop insurance

The Committee expects the peanut revenue policy required under this section to be made available in time for the 2014 crop year. With substantially declining support under the commodity title, producers are expected to assume greater responsibility in managing price and production risks on the farm. In order to achieve this, all producers of all crops in all regions need access to risk management tools that they can purchase that are cost-effective on their operations.

Authority to correct errors

The Committee views the sharing of information required under section 11001 and the authority to correct errors as key components to ensuring that producers have effective coverage in place at the time of a loss and to protecting program integrity. The Committee expects the Department to implement this section in a manner that does not eliminate any authorities or practices preexisting the 2013 reinsurance year that permit the correction of errors but rather as additive authority.

The Committee relied heavily upon the Department for its drafting and policy expertise in crafting this section, the spirit of which is intended by the Committee to allow the correction of unintentional errors to the maximum extent practicable. Neither program nor producer is served if coming forward with unintentional errors is punished as it may chill attempts at correction while leaving the producer without coverage if and when the error is discovered.

Implementation

The Committee expects the Department to work closely with the FSA, the RMA, approved insurance providers, and agent and producer representatives in developing any acreage report streamlining initiative project to ensure that the best interests of the producer are served.

Research and development priorities

The Committee expects the Department to make the development of policies that increase the participation of underserved commodities a priority, particularly policies serving sweet sorghum, biomass sorghum, rice, peanuts, sugarcane, alfalfa, and specialty crops. The section lifts the prohibition on RMA engaging directly in research and development at the agency's request. The Committee cautions the agency not to allow this authority to in any way undermine the timely consideration and approval of private sector submissions. The Committee notes that the agency's direct research and development authority was taken away in the Agricultural Risk Protection Act because Congress and producers believed that the agency's focus on research and development activities came at the expense of the policy priorities of the private sector. The Committee expects the agency to ensure that its research and development mission compliments rather than competes with private sector initiative.

Additional research and development contracting requirements

The Committee expects the Department to develop effective margin coverage for catfish producers as well as policies that effectively serve energy-dedicated biomass sorghum and sweet sorghum, as is required under this Act. The Committee also requires studies on swine and poultry catastrophic disease programs and food safety insurance and research and development on whole farm diversified risk management insurance and poultry business interruption insurance.

Program compliance partnerships

The Committee expanded the Risk Management Agency's (RMA's) ability to enter into partnerships with public and private entities in order to develop new tools, technologies, methods, and strategies for improving crop insurance program compliance. The Committee on Agriculture recognizes the potential benefits to RMA through the use of technologies such as Geographic Information Systems (GIS), unmanned aerial sensors, and imagery analysis capabilities to accurately and economically determine field losses that are used as the basis for crop insurance payments.

Pilot programs

The Committee expects this provision to further remove unnecessary impediments to the initiation of pilot programs designed to test the effectiveness of risk management tools for producers.

Risk management

The Committee recognizes that the profitability and financial viability of agricultural producers depends on their ability to make sound economic and financial decisions while managing and mitigating significant risks in a frequently changing policy environment. The Committee expects USDA to focus on risk management, risk mitigation, financial benchmarking and farm management, with a particular emphasis on producer-focused risk management education. Moving towards risk-based agricultural policy requires efforts that enable the deployment of strategies and practices that help farmers manage and mitigate their risks; especially with changing technologies and policies that demand timely modification and adaptation on the farm.

Title XII—Miscellaneous

GIPSA

The Committee addresses regulations prompted by Section 11006 of the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008, which were proposed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture on June 22, 2010 and titled "Implementation of Regulations Required Under Title XI, of the Food, Conservation and Energy Act of 2008". On July 20, 2010, the Livestock, Dairy & Poultry Subcommittee of the House Committee on Agriculture conducted a hearing on Farm Bill programs under its jurisdiction administered by USDA. During the hearing a broad array of concerns were expressed by Members of the Committee. Members asserted that the proposed rule went far beyond the scope of the Farm Bill, lacked a sound economic analysis necessary to judge both the need and utility of the proposed rule and may have been the result of a flawed rulemaking process.

On October 1, 2010, 115 Members of the House wrote the Secretary of Agriculture requesting a cost-benefit analysis that has yet to be conducted. On April 6, April 13, and May 4, 2011 the Livestock, Dairy & Poultry Subcommittee conducted hearings on the beef, pork, and poultry sectors respectively. During these hearings, representatives from the beef, poultry and pork sectors testified about the challenges facing their communities, including the proposed GIPSA regulation. On May 18, 2011, 147 Members wrote the Secretary requesting him to withdraw the rule and repropose with an economic analysis.

The FY 2012 Agriculture Appropriations, H.R. 2112, signed by the President on November 18, 2011, contained language barring USDA work on major portions of the proposed rule. The Continuing Appropriations Resolution for 2013, signed by the President on September 9, 2012, contained language barring USDA action on these same components of the proposed rule and repealing three items on which the Administration had completed rulemaking. Also, H.R. 933, the Consolidated and Further Continuing Appropriations Act of 2013, signed by the President on March 26, 2013, contained similar language.

The Committee asserts that the Packers and Stockyards Act has an important role to play in our livestock markets. That said, the Committee continues to express its concerns with actions taken thus far to implement the 2008 amendments. The Committee action seeks to codify language similar to that adopted three previous times, as detailed above, except that the Committee reported bill would prohibit the Secretary from issuing similar regulations or adopting similar policies in the future.

Country of origin labeling economic analysis

On June 29, 2010 the World Trade Organization finalized the ruling on Canadian and Mexican challenges to the United States' mandatory country of origin law with respect to beef and pork. The decision was adverse to elements of mandatory country of origin labeling. On March 12, 2013, the U.S. Department of Agriculture proposed a rule to address that issue. The Committee expects the Secretary will act through the Office of the Chief Economist to conduct an economic analysis of this rule with respect to beef, pork, and chicken regarding the impact on consumers, producers, and packers in the United States. The Committee does not intend this provision to presuppose that rulemaking.

Noninsured crop assistance program (NAP)

The Committee is concerned that the improvements to NAP not impede the development of crop insurance policies for crops served by NAP. The Committee affirms the goal of developing effective crop insurance policies for all producers, crops, and regions so that producers meaningfully pay for the risk management coverage on their operations. Reliance on NAP should be a last resort.

The Committee recognizes the need for NAP to provide financial assistance to producers of non-insured crops, such as fern fronds, when low yields, loss of inventory, or prevented planting occurs due to natural disasters. With respect to NAP coverage, the Committee expects the inventory values of fern fronds to be counted separately from rooted fern plants. The Committee also expects NAP coverage for sweet sorghum and biomass sorghum.

SECTION-BY-SECTION

Sec. 1. Short Title; Table of Contents

Sec. 2. Definition of Secretary of Agriculture

TITLE I—COMMODITIES

SUBTITLE A—REPEALS AND REFORMS

Sec. 1101. Repeal of Direct Payments

Section 1101 repeals direct payments effective with the 2014 crop year.

Sec. 1102. Repeal of Counter-Cyclical Payments

Section 1102 repeals the counter-cyclical payments effective with the 2014 crop year.

Sec. 1103. Repeal of Average Crop Revenue Election Program

Section 1103 repeals the Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE) program effective with the 2014 crop year.

Sec. 1104. Definitions

Section 1104 contains majority and all common definitions for the Title.

Sec. 1105. Base Acres

Section 1105 continues the Secretary's authority to provide for adjustments to base acres for covered commodities and cotton when a CRP contract is terminated, acres are released from the CRP or when the Secretary designates additional oilseeds in the same manner as current law.

Sec. 1106. Payment Yields

Section 1106(a) continues the Secretary's authority to establish payment yields for each farm for any designated oilseed that does not have a payment yield.

Section 1106(b) continues the method of determining the payment yield for designated oilseeds in the same manner as current law.

Section 1106(c) authorizes the Secretary to establish a payment yield if no payment yield is otherwise established for a covered commodity using the program payment yields of similarly situated farms.

Section 1106(d) In time for the 2014 crop year, the owner of the farm can update the payment yields of each covered commodity once.

Sec. 1107. Farm Risk Management Election

Section 1107(a) authorizes the Secretary to make Price Loss Coverage or Revenue Loss Coverage payments to eligible producers.

Section 1107(b) makes producers eligible for a price loss coverage payment for covered commodities for the 2014–2018 crop years when the effective price for a covered commodity is less than the reference price for the covered commodities. The effective price is the higher of the national average market price for a covered commodity for the first 5 months of the marketing year (the midseason price) and the national average marketing loan rate established in subtitle B. The reference prices are set in 1104(16). If a payment is required, the payment will be the difference between the reference price and the effective price multiplied by the payment yield (defined in 1104(12)) and the payment acres (defined in 1104(11)). The Secretary shall make price loss coverage payments on October 1, or as soon as practicable thereafter, after the applicable marketing year for the covered commodity.

Section 1107(c) offers an alternative to price loss coverage. A farmer can make a one-time, irrevocable election on a crop by crop, farm by farm basis to receive revenue loss coverage. Farmers will receive revenue loss coverage payments for the 2014–2018 crop years when the actual county revenue for a covered commodity in a crop year is less than the county revenue loss trigger for the covered commodity.

The actual farm revenue is the product of multiplying the actual county yield for each planted acre of the covered commodity and the higher of the first 5 months of the marketing year (the midseason price) or the national average marketing loan rate established in subtitle B. The county revenue loss coverage trigger for a covered commodity is 85 percent of the benchmark county revenue.

The benchmark county revenue is the average historical county yield of a covered commodity in a county for the most recent 5 years, excluding the highest and the lowest, subject to the average national marketing year price. In calculating the benchmark county revenue the Secretary shall use the higher of the historical county yield or 70 percent of the historical county transitional yield. For price the Secretary shall use the higher of the national marketing year average price or the reference price (set in 1104(16)).

The payment rate is the difference between the county revenue loss coverage trigger for the covered commodity and the actual county revenue for the crop year for the covered commodity or 10 percent of the benchmark county revenue for the crop year for the covered commodity.

If payments are required the payment amount is the determined by multiplying the payment rate and the payment acres of the covered commodity on the farm. Payments are to be made on October 1 or as soon as practicable thereafter, after the applicable marketing year for the covered commodity.

Sec. 1108. Producer Agreements

Section 1108 states that before a producer of a covered commodity can receive a payment under section 1107 he or she must comply with sod buster provisions in subtitle B of title XII of the 1985 act, and the swampbuster provisions of subtitle C of the title XII of the 1985 act, keep the land in agriculture or conserving use, and effectively control noxious weeds.

If a producer sells or otherwise transfers his farm to someone else, the new owner or operator must assume all of the compliance obligations or the right to either the price loss coverage payment or the revenue loss coverage payment is terminated.

The producer is still required to submit to the Secretary acreage reports. Accidental errors in the reports will not result in loss of payment.

The Secretary shall provide adequate safeguards to protect the interest of tenants and sharecroppers and for sharing the payments among the producers on a farm on a fair and equitable basis.

Sec. 1109. Period of Effectiveness

Section 1109 sets 2014–2018 as the period of effectiveness for this subtitle.

Section 1301 reauthorizes the sugar program through the 2018 crop year in the same manner as current law.

SUBTITLE D—DAIRY

PART I—DAIRY PRODUCER MARGIN PROTECTION AND DAIRY MARKET STABILIZATION PROGRAMS

Sec. 1401. Definitions

Section 1401 defines the terms used in the Dairy Producer Margin Protection and Dairy Market Stabilization Programs, including that a “participating dairy producer” is a dairy producer that registers for the dairy producer margin protection program, and, as a result of the registration, also participates in the dairy market stabilization program.

Sec. 1402. Calculation of Average Feed Cost and Actual Dairy Producer Margins

Section 1402 establishes that the average feed cost be calculated each month using the price of corn, the price of soybean meal in central Illinois, and the price of alfalfa hay, as reported by the Secretary.

For use in the margin protection program, directs the Secretary to calculate the actual dairy producer margin for each consecutive 2 month period by subtracting the average feed cost from the all-milk price for that period.

For use in the stabilization program, directs the Secretary to calculate the actual dairy producer margin for each preceding month by subtracting the average feed cost from the all-milk price for that period.

SUBPART A—DAIRY PRODUCER MARGIN PROTECTION PROGRAM

Sec. 1411. Establishment of Dairy Producer Margin Protection Program

Section 1411 directs the Secretary to establish a dairy producer margin protection program by providing basic margin protection payments when margins are less than a $4 threshold level, and providing supplemental margin protection up to an $8 margin if purchased by the producer.

Sec. 1412. Participation of Dairy Producers in Margin Protection Program

Section 1412 establishes that all dairy producers in the United States are eligible to participate in and sign-up for the margin protection program to receive basic margin protection, and, if the producer so chooses, to purchase supplemental margin protection.

Sec. 1413. Production History of Participating Dairy Producers

Section 1413 establishes the production history of producers.

Sec. 1414. Basic Margin Protection

Section 1414 establishes a basic margin protection program under which participating dairy producers receive a basic margin protection payment when the average actual dairy producer margin falls below $4.00 for a consecutive two-month period.

Sec. 1415. Supplemental Margin Protection

Section 1415 establishes that a dairy producer may purchase supplemental margin protection on a yearly basis to protect a higher level of income than under the basic margin program.

Sec. 1416. Effect of Failure to Pay Administrative Fees and Premiums

Section 1416 mandates that a dairy producer, who elects to participate in the basic or supplemental margin protection programs and fails to pay the required administrative fees or premiums, may not receive basic or supplemental margin protection payments and remains legally obligated to pay such fees or premiums.

SUBPART B—DAIRY MARKET STABILIZATION PROGRAM

Sec. 1431. Establishment of Dairy Market Stabilization Program

Section 1431 establishes a dairy market stabilization program which is triggered when the actual dairy producer margin has been $6 or less per hundredweight of milk for the immediately preceding 2 months or $4 or less for the immediately preceding month. If the stabilization program is triggered, the Secretary will order reduced payments for the participating producer that exceeds the applicable percentage of the producer's stabilization base.

Sec. 1432. Threshold for Implementation and Reduction in Dairy Producer Payments

Section 1432 requires the Secretary to announce that the stabilization program is in effect and payment reductions are required.

Sec. 1433. Producer Milk Marketing Information

Section 1433 requires the Secretary to establish a process to collect the necessary information while the stabilization program is in effect.

Sec. 1434. Calculation and Collection of Reduced Dairy Producer Payments

Section 1434 requires handlers to reduce payments to participating dairy producers during any month in which payment reductions are in effect.

Sec. 1435. Remitting Monies to the Secretary and Use of Monies

Section 1435 requires handlers to remit to the Secretary an amount equal to reduced producer payments.

Sec. 1436. Suspension of Reduced Payment Requirement

Section 1436 lists the thresholds at which the Secretary will suspend the stabilization program.

Sec. 1437. Enforcement

Section 1437 makes it unlawful for any person subject to the stabilization program to not provide or to delay the reporting of accurate information and remittance of funds to the Secretary.

Sec. 1438. Audit Requirements

Section 1438 is the audit requirements for the stabilization program.

SUBPART C—COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

Sec. 1451. Use of Commodity Credit Corporation

Section 1451 requires the Secretary to use the funds and facilities of the CCC to carry out the program.

SUBPART D—INITIATION AND DURATION

Sec. 1461. Rulemaking

SUBTITLE E—SUPPLEMENTAL AGRICULTURAL DISASTER ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS

Sec. 1501. Supplemental Agricultural Disaster Assistance

In general, section 1501 authorizes the continuation of certain Supplemental Agricultural Disaster Assistance programs, previously codified in subtitle B of the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as a standalone provision within the bill.

Section 1501(a) is the definitions section.

Section 1501(b) authorizes the Livestock Indemnity Payments (LIP) for fiscal years 2012 through 2018. The subsection authorizes the Secretary to use such sums as necessary of the funds of the Commodity Credit Corporation to be used to make livestock indemnity payments to eligible producers for livestock losses in the excess of normal mortality due to adverse weather or attacks by federally reintroduced animals, such as wolves or avian predators. It maintains the 75% of the market value rate for indemnity.

Section 1501(c) authorizes the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (ELFP) for fiscal years 2012 through 2018. The subsection authorizes the Secretary to use such sums as necessary from the Commodity Credit Corporation to provide compensation to eligible livestock producers for livestock losses due to grazing losses caused by drought or fire. Coverage includes native or improved pastureland with permanent vegetative cover, or land that has crops that are specifically planted for the purpose of grazing livestock. However, an eligible livestock producer may not receive assistance for land used for haying or grazing under the Conservation Reserve Program. The language maintains the payment rate for losses caused by drought for 1 month at equal to the lesser of 60 percent of the lesser of the monthly feed cost for all covered livestock owned or leased by the eligible producer, or the monthly feed cost calculated by using the normal carrying capacity of the eligible grazing land of the eligible livestock producer. Fire losses continue to be limited to fires that have occurred on federally managed land. The section maintains the payment rate for losses due to fire at equal to 50 percent of the monthly feed costs for the total number of livestock covered by the Federal lease of the eligible livestock producer. The language eliminates the minimum risk management purchase requirement.

Section 1501(d) authorizes the Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honey Bees, and Farm-Raised Fish (ELAP) for fiscal years 2012 through 2018. The subsection authorizes the Secretary to use $20,000,000 of the funds of the Commodity Credit Corporation to provide emergency relief for producers to aid in the reduction of loss due to disease and adverse weather. The language clarifies that that loss due to disease includes losses from cattle tick fever. The subsection maintains the provision that the funds shall remain available until expended.

Section 1501(e) authorizes the Tree Assistance Program (TAP) for fiscal years 2012 through 2018. The Secretary is authorized to use such sums as are necessary of the funds of the Commodity Credit Corporation to provide assistance to orchardists and nursery growers for losses of trees due to natural disaster. The language provides a reimbursement rate of 65% of the cost of replanting trees for losses in excess of 15% mortality. The language increases the payment cap under TAP to $125,000 per crop year. It further maintains the 500 acre limit on total number of acres planted in tress or tree seedlings for which a person or legal entity shall be entitled to receive payments under this subsection.

Section 1501(f) includes the payment limitation for the entire section. The language increases the payment cap for total amount of disaster assistance payments, excluding TAP payments, to $125,000 received, either directly or indirectly, by a person or legal entity. It further maintains the application of direct attribution provisions to this section.

TITLE II—CONSERVATION

SUBTITLE A—CONSERVATION RESERVE PROGRAM

Sec. 2001. Extension and Enrollment Requirements of Conservation Reserve Program

Section 2001(a) extends the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) through fiscal year 2018.

Section 2001(b) amends the definition of eligible land by updating the date for cropping history under highly erodible lands; by removing marginal pasture land converted to wetland or established as wildlife habitat prior to 1999; by adding grasslands as eligible lands; by including filterstrips and riparian buffers devoted to trees, shrubs, and grasses as cropland that would otherwise be ineligible; and by amending the requirement for buffers and filterstrips associated with the remainder of a field enrolled in CRP.

Section 2001(c) amends the requirement for certain lands to be considered planted to an agricultural commodity for the purposes of determining eligibility to land that was devoted to a conserving use during the crop year; and eliminates the inclusion of land enrolled in the water bank program.

Section 2001(d) reduces the acreage cap for fiscal years 2014–2018:

FY2014—27,500,000 acres
 FY2015—26,000,000 acres
 FY2016—25,000,000 acres
 FY2017—24,000,000 acres
 FY2018—24,000,000 acres

It further adds a provision for enrollment of 2,000,000 acres of grasslands and authorizes the Secretary to give priority to expiring CRP contracts to be enrolled under the grasslands cap.

Section 2001(e) eliminates the five-year extension option for hardwood trees as well as the additional one-year extension for contracts which expired during the 2002 calendar year. Owners and operators of land with hardwoods, windbreaks, or wildlife corridors may specify the duration of the contract within the 10–15 year limitation.

Section 2001(f) eliminates the specified conservation priority area watersheds and leaves the ability to designate a priority area—including non-watershed areas—to the discretion of the Secretary. It further eliminates the ability for a State agency to apply for withdrawal from a designation

Sec. 2002. Farmable Wetland Program

Section 2002 extends the Farmable Wetlands Program through fiscal year 2017, decreases the program cap from 1,000,000 to 750,000 acres and makes several changes that are clarifying in nature. The program has been further amended so it is no longer a pilot program.

Sec. 2003. Duties of Owners and Operators

Section 2003(a) amends the limitation on harvesting, grazing and commercial use of forage by moving it from the section establishing the duties of owners and operators to the section enumerating the duties of the Secretary.

Section 2003(b) amends the conservation plan requirements by eliminating the option for the plan to provide for permanent retirement of existing base history.

Section 2003(c) eliminates the umbrella rental rate reduction for certain authorized uses of the land. Similar rental rate language appears in the section enumerating the duties of the Secretary.

Sec. 2004. Duties of the Secretary

Section 2004 requires the Secretary to allow for certain harvesting, grazing and commercial use of forage in exchange for a reduction in the rental rate at not less than 25 percent, except for in the case of drought or other emergency created by natural disaster, where the activity may occur without any reduction in the rental rate. The section provides for the incidental use of buffers adjacent to agricultural lands. The section adds a new subsection (c) that requires the Secretary to permit certain haying and grazing practices on grasslands specifically. It adds provisions for individuals with expiring contracts to initiate conservation and land improvement practices in the final year of the contract with a commensurate reduction in rental value. Re-enrollment of these lands is prohibited for at least five years.

Sec. 2005. Payments

Section 2005(a) is a technical conforming amendment in response to the elimination of section 1235A.

Section 2005(b) adds “other eligible land” to the annual rental payment language. Subsection (b) further adds the determination for payments to owners or operators of grasslands at 75 percent of the grazing value of the land under contract.

Section 2005(c) amends the payment schedule section to eliminate in-kind commodity payments through Commodity Credit Corporation stocks.

Section 2005(d) is a technical conforming amendment in response to the elimination of in-kind commodity payments.

Sec. 2006. Contract Requirements

Sec. 2007. Conversion of Land Subject to Contract to Other Conserving Uses

Section 2007 repeals Section 1235A of the Food Security Act of 1985, Conservation of Land Subject to Contract to other Conserving Uses which is no longer applicable for contracts in place prior to November 28, 1990.

SUBTITLE B—CONSERVATION STEWARDSHIP PROGRAM

Sec. 2101. Conservation Stewardship Program

Section 2101 revises the Conservation Stewardship Program.

Definitions: The section includes a definition of “agricultural operation”, strikes the definition of “conservation measurement tool” to conform with other amendments, redefines “priority resource concern”, and it revises the definition of “eligible land”.

Establishment and purposes: The section authorizes the program through 2018. It limits the excluded land by allowing for CRP land to be enrolled in the final year of the contract. The section increases emphasis on new conservation. It also eliminates the requirement that not more than 10 percent of the acres enrolled be non-industrial private forest land. The section allows enrollment of lands that are under agricultural land easements option of the ACE Program.

Stewardship contracting: The section requires participants, at the time of the contract offer, to be meeting the stewardship threshold of at least two priority resource concerns with at least one additional priority resource concern by the end of the contract. It establishes a priority consideration for land with expiring CRP contracts. The section also eliminates the conservation measurement tool. It adds the requirement for the producer, in order to renew a contract for an additional year, to meet the stewardship threshold of at least two additional priority resource concerns or exceed the threshold of at least two existing priority resource concerns by the end of the contract period. It eliminates the on-farm research and demonstration, or pilot testing provisions.

Duties of the Secretary: The section replaces the conservation measurement tool with a science-based stewardship threshold. It includes an acreage enrollment limitation of 8,695,000 acres for each fiscal year and a national average rate of $18 per acre, which shall include costs of assistance.

SUBTITLE C—ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY INCENTIVES PROGRAM

Section 2223 amends the term of an EQIP contract to a period not to exceed 10 years, eliminating the minimum requirement. The increased payments to certain producers section is amended to include veteran farmers or ranchers. The section increases the amount allowed for an advanced payment to 50 percent and includes a new requirement that funds provided in advance but not expended during the required 90-day period be returned. It maintains the 60 percent allocation for livestock production and creates a new 5 percent allocation for practices benefiting wildlife habitat. The section adds a new subsection in order to include wildlife habitat restoration, improvement, and development activities under EQIP.

Sec. 2203. Evaluation of Applications

Section 2203 amends the evaluation of application process section for the purpose of a conforming amendment.

SUBTITLE D—AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION EASEMENT PROGRAM

Sec. 2301. Agricultural Conservation Easement Program

Section 2301 establishes a new Agricultural Conservation Easement (ACE) Program consolidating the Wetland Reserve Program, the Grassland Reserve Program, and the Farmland Protection Program. The purposes of the program include restoring, protecting, and enhancing wetlands; protecting the agricultural use and conservation values on agricultural lands; and protecting grazing uses and related conservation values on agricultural lands. The program has two distinct branches under the umbrella easement program—agricultural land easements and wetland easements.

The program includes definitions for “agricultural land easement”, “wetland easement”, “eligible entity”, and “eligible land”.

Under the Agricultural Land Easements, the Secretary facilitates and provides funds to eligible entities to purchase conservation easements in agricultural land and grasslands. The easements shall be permanent easements, or easements for the maximum duration allowed under applicable State law. The scope of the Federal share shall not exceed 50 percent of the fair market value of the land using the USPAP, an area-wide market analysis survey, or another industry approved method. There is an exemption for grasslands of special environmental significance, by which the Secretary may provide up to 75 percent of the fair market value.

The Agricultural Land Easement Program establishes a process under which an eligible entity may be certified by the Secretary, though non-certified entities may still participate. Agreements between the Secretary and an eligible entity shall be at least three, but no more than five years unless the eligible entity is certified, in which case the term shall be a minimum of five years.

Under the Wetlands Easements, the Secretary enrolls wetlands through the use of 30-year easements; permanent easements; easements for the maximum duration allowed under State law; or for Indian tribes only, 30-year contracts. The Secretary shall not acquire easements on land that has been established to trees in CRP, or farmed wetlands or converted wetlands where the conversion was not commenced prior to December 23, 1985. The program establishes a priority based on the value of the wetland easement for protecting and enhancing habitat for migratory birds and other wildlife.

Compensation for permanent easements shall be in an amount necessary to encourage enrollment in the program based on the lowest of the fair market value, the amount corresponding to a geographical cap, or the offer made by the landowner. In the case of a 30-year wetland easement, compensation shall be not less than 50 percent, but not more than 75 percent, of the compensation that would be paid for a permanent wetland easement.

The Wetlands Easement Program further authorizes the Secretary to provide financial assistance to owners to carry out the establishment of conservation measures and practices to protect wetland functions and values including maintenance. In the case of restoration on permanent wetland easements, the Secretary shall pay at least 70 percent, but not more than 100 percent, of the costs. In the case of a 30-year wetland easement, the Secretary shall pay at least 50 percent, but not more than 75 percent of the costs. The entire ACE Program includes a priority for certain lands currently enrolled in CRP with a contract set to expire within 1 year.

Of the funds made available under the program, at least 40 percent are reserved for agricultural land easements for fiscal years 2014 through 2017 and at least 50 percent for agricultural land easements in fiscal year 2018.

SUBTITLE E—REGIONAL CONSERVATION PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

Sec. 2401. Regional Conservation Partnership Program

Section 2401 establishes a Regional Conservation Partnership Program by combining program purposes of the Agricultural Water Enhancement (AWEP) Program, the Chesapeake Bay Watershed Program, the Cooperative Conservation Partnership Initiatives (CCPI) Program, and the Great Lakes Basin Program. The new Regional Program works through the existing programs—Agricultural Conservation Easement Program (ACEP), Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP), and the Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP)—in order to further conservation, restoration and sustainable use of soil, water, air, wildlife and related natural resources on a regional or watershed scale while encouraging eligible partners to cooperate with producers in meeting or avoiding the need for natural resource regulatory requirements related to agricultural production and implement projects that will affect operations on a local, regional, State, or multi-State basis.

The program includes definitions for “covered programs”, “eligible activities”, “eligible land” and “eligible partner”.

Under the program, the Secretary may enter into short term contracts with eligible partners, who are selected through a competitive process. A partnership agreement may not exceed five years, but may be extended one time for up to 12 months if necessary to meet the objectives of the program. Through the contracts, partners will assist producers with installing and maintaining conservation activities through existing programs. An eligible partner shall provide a significant portion of the overall costs of the scope of the project. The program includes several priorities for applications, including the ability to assist producers in meeting or avoiding regulatory requirements.

The Secretary may also enter into contracts directly with producers who are in an established project area. The Secretary shall make payments directly to the producer in an amount determined by the Secretary to be necessary to achieve the purposes of the program. The language includes a waiver from the adjusted gross income requirement.

The program includes a section for critical conservation areas under which the Secretary can administer the program as well as very limited flood prevention and erosion control projects. When implementing projects under the critical conservation areas, the Secretary may use additional authorities under the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act.

The funding for the program consists of mandatory funds out of the Commodity Credit Corporation of $100,000,000 for each fiscal year, as well as a 6 percent reservation of funds out of the conservation programs mentioned above. Out of all of the funds, 25 percent is allocated to the State conservationist, 50 percent is allocated to the Secretary on a national competitive basis, and 25 percent is allocated for the critical conservation areas.

COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT FINDINGS

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee on Agriculture's oversight findings and recommendations are reflected in the body of this report.

BUDGET ACT COMPLIANCE (SECTIONS 308, 402, AND 423)

The provisions of clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 308(a)(1) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 (relating to estimates of new budget authority, new spending authority, new credit authority, or increased or decreased revenues or tax expenditures) are not considered applicable. The estimate and comparison required to be prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office under clause 3(c)(3) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and sections 402 and 423 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 submitted to the Committee prior to the filing of this report are as follows:

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, May 23, 2013

Hon. FRANK D. LUCAS,
Chairman, Committee on Agriculture, House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: CBO has prepared a cost estimate for H.R. 1947, the Agriculture Reform and Risk Management Act of 2013, as ordered reported by the House Committee on Agriculture on May 15, 2013.

ESTIMATED BUDGETARY EFFECTS

CBO estimates that direct spending stemming from the program authorizations in H.R. 1947 would total $940 billion over the 2014–2023 period. That 10-year total reflects the bill's authorization of expiring programs through 2018 and an extension of those authorizations through 2023, consistent with the rules governing baseline projections that are specified in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985.

Relative to spending projected under CBO's May 2013 baseline, CBO estimates that enacting the bill would reduce direct spending by $33.3 billion over the 2014–2023 period. The estimated budgetary effects of H.R. 1947 are summarized in Table 1. CBO estimates that sections 10008 and 10015 of the bill would increase revenues by $64 million over the 2014–2023 period. Further details of the changes in direct spending and revenues are displayed in Table 2.

Assuming appropriation of the specified and necessary amounts, CBO also estimates that implementing the bill would result in discretionary spending of $27.4 billion over the 2014–2018 period and $33.4 billion over the 2014–2023 period. Further details of that estimate for discretionary spending are displayed in Table 3.

INTERGOVERNMENTAL MANDATES

The bill would impose an intergovernmental mandate, as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA), by preempting state laws that regulate the production and manufacture of agricultural products offered for sale in interstate commerce if those laws impose standards or conditions that are in addition to the standards and conditions imposed by federal law or the laws of the producing or manufacturing state. Many states have laws regulating the production and manufacture of agricultural products that are different than the laws of other states.

By limiting a state's ability to regulate agricultural products sold under its jurisdiction, the bill would preempt state authority. However, because the preemption would impose no duty on state governments that would result in additional spending, the threshold established by UMRA for costs of intergovernmental mandates ($75 million in 2013, adjusted annually for inflation) would not be exceeded.

PRIVATE-SECTOR MANDATES

The bill also would impose private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA. The aggregate cost of those mandates could exceed the annual threshold established in UMRA for private-sector mandates ($150 million in 2013, adjusted annually for inflation), depending on the extent of regulations that might be implemented by the Department of Agriculture. Specifically:

- The bill would impose mandates on dairy handlers that purchase milk from dairy producers participating in the Dairy Market Stabilization Program (DMSP). Under the DMSP, certain handlers would be required to report information to the Department of Agriculture under some circumstances. According to information from industry sources, the cost for handlers to collect and report information under the DMSP could amount to $100 million or more annually, depending on regulations to be issued by the department.
- The bill would require imports of olive oil to meet the same standards as olive oil produced in the United States if a marketing order for olive oil is established. Imports would have to be inspected to ensure compliance with the standards of such a marketing order. Because 15,000 to 20,000 lots of olive oil are imported annually, the costs of those inspections could amount to tens of millions of dollars per year, if a marketing order is established.
- The bill would expand the list of commodities eligible for federal research and promotion programs, which are funded through industry assessments. If approved by the Department of Agriculture and approved by industry referendum, members of the industry would be required to pay an assessment. Based on information from industries seeking to establish a federal research and promotion program, CBO estimates that the assessments would amount to tens of millions of dollars annually.

PREVIOUS CBO COST ESTIMATE

On May 13, 2013, CBO transmitted a cost estimate for draft legislation entitled the Agriculture Reform and Risk Management Act of 2013, as posted on the website of the House Committee on Agriculture on May 10, 2013. CBO's estimate for the direct spending provisions of H.R. 1947 is similar to those in the earlier draft legislation. Enacting H.R. 1947 would lead to a small increase in revenues; the earlier version of the legislation would have had no impact on revenues.

On May 17, 2013, CBO transmitted a cost estimate for S. 954, the Agriculture Reform, Food, and Jobs Act of 2013, as reported by the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry on May 9, 2013. CBO estimates that enacting S. 954 would reduce direct spending by $17.8 billion and increase revenues by $54 million over the 2014–2023 period, relative to CBO's May 2013 baseline.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO CONSIDERATIONS

The Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010 establishes budget-reporting and enforcement procedures for legislation affecting direct spending or revenues. Enacting H.R. 1947 would affect direct spending and revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures apply. The net change in outlays and revenues that are subject to those pay-as-you-go procedures are shown in Table 4.

If you need further details on this estimate, we would be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contacts for federal costs are Kathleen FitzGerald, Emily Stern, Dan Hoople, David Hull, and Jim Langley. The CBO staff contact for intergovernmental mandates is J'neil L. Blanco. The CBO staff contact for private-sector mandates is Amy Petz.

Sincerely,

ROBERT A. SUNSHINE
(For Douglas W. Elmendorf, Director).

Enclosures.

Dear Mr. Chairman:

I write concerning H.R. 1947, the Federal Agriculture Reform and Risk Management Act of 2013, as ordered reported by the Committee on Agriculture. There are certain provisions in the legislation that fall within the Rule X jurisdiction of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure.

In order to expedite this legislation for floor consideration, the Committee will not assert a jurisdictional claim over this bill by seeking a sequential referral. However, this is conditional on our mutual understanding and agreement that doing so does not in any way alter or diminish the jurisdiction of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure with respect to the appointment of conferees or to any future jurisdictional claim over the subject matters contained in the bill or similar legislation. I request you urge the Speaker to name members of the Committee to any conference committee named to consider such provisions.

Please place a copy of this letter and your response acknowledging our jurisdictional interest into the committee report on H.R. 1947 and into the Congressional Record during consideration of the measure on the House floor.

Dear Mr. Chairman:

I am writing to confirm our mutual understanding with respect to the consideration of H.R. 1947, the Federal Agriculture Reform and Risk Management Act of 2013. Thank you for consulting with the Committee on Education and the Workforce with regard to H.R. 1947. I respectfully request your support for the appointment of outside conferees from the Committee on Education and the Workforce should this bill or a similar bill be considered in a conference with the Senate. I also request that you include our exchange of letters on this matter in the Committee Report on H.R. 1947 and in the Congressional Record during consideration of this bill on the House floor. I understand that there are provisions contained within the bill that are within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Natural Resources. I would appreciate your support in bringing this legislation before the House of Representatives in an expeditious manner and would ask that the Committee on Natural Resources forego further action on the bill.

The Committee on Agriculture understands that by foregoing further consideration of H.R. 1947 at this time, the Committee on Natural Resources does not waive any jurisdictional claim over the subject matter contained within. Further, should a conference on the bill become necessary, I would support your right that the Committee on Natural Resources be represented on the conference committee.

If this letter reflects a mutual understanding between our committees, I would appreciate your written response and would be pleased to include a copy of our exchange of letters in the bill report filed by the Committee on Agriculture, as well as in the Congressional Record during floor consideration.

Thank you for your courtesy in this matter and I look forward to continued cooperation between our respective committees.

Dear Mr. Chairman:

Thank you for your letter regarding H.R. 1947, the Federal Agricultural Reform and Risk Management Act of 2013. I recognize and appreciate your desire to bring this legislation before the House of Representatives in an expeditious manner, and accordingly, the Committee will forego further action on the bill. I believe our Committee's jurisdiction is triggered by the overlapping of various wetlands, fish, forestry and tribal issues.

The Committee on Natural Resources takes this action with our mutual understanding that by foregoing consideration of H.R. 1947 at this time, we do not waive any jurisdiction over the subject matter contained in this or similar legislation. Further, I request your support for the appointment of conferees from the Committee on Natural Resources during any House-Senate conference convened on this or related legislation.

Finally, I would ask that a copy of our exchange of letters on this matter be included in the Committee on Agriculture bill report on H.R. 1947.

Dear Chairman Lucas:

I am writing to you concerning the jurisdictional interest of the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology in H.R. 1947, the Federal Agriculture Reform and Risk Management Act of 2013. The bill contains several provisions which are within the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology's jurisdiction.

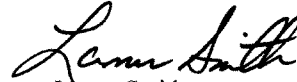

The Committee on Science, Space, and Technology acknowledges the importance of H.R. 1947 and the desire to bring this legislation before the House of Representatives in an expeditious manner. Therefore, while we have a valid jurisdictional claim over the bill, I agree not to request a sequential referral. This, of course, being conditional on our mutual understanding that nothing in this legislation or my decision to forgo a sequential referral waives, reduces, or otherwise affects the jurisdiction of the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology.

Additionally, the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology expressly reserves its authority to seek the appointment of conferees during any House-Senate conference that may be convened on this, or any similar legislation. I ask for your commitment to support any request by the Committee for conferees on H.R. 1947 as well as any similar or related legislation.

I ask that a copy of this letter and your response be included in the report on H.R. 1947 and also be placed in the Congressional Record during consideration of the bill on the House floor.

I look forward to working with you as we move this important measure through the legislative process.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Chairman:

I am writing concerning H.R. 1947, the "Federal Agriculture Reform and Risk Management Act of 2013," which your Committee reported on May 16, 2013.

H.R. 1947 contains provisions within the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform's Rule X jurisdiction. As a result of your having consulted with the Committee and in order to expedite this bill for floor consideration, the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform will forego action on the bill. This is being done on the basis of our mutual understanding that doing so will in no way diminish or alter the jurisdiction of the Committee on Oversight and Government Reform with respect to the appointment of conferees, or to any future jurisdictional claim over the subject matters contained in the bill or similar legislation.

I would appreciate your response to this letter confirming this understanding, and would request that you include a copy of this letter and your response in the Committee Report and in the Congressional Record during the floor consideration of this bill. Thank you in advance for your cooperation.

DISSENTING VIEWS

Title IV of H.R. 1947, the Federal Agriculture Reform and Risk Management Act (FARRM), represents poor policy and will result in less food for the most vulnerable people in the United States. Known as the Nutrition Title, the programs that make up Title IV are the safety net programs that provide food for the more than 47 million people that have difficulty feeding themselves and their families. The largest program in the Nutrition Title is the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP), formerly known as Food Stamps.

There are over 50 million hungry people living in this country who have trouble affording an adequate diet, including 17 million children. Clearly, the need for this anti-hunger safety-net has never been greater and attempts to cut these programs are misguided and harmful.

SNAP is one of our most effective and efficient federal programs. The error rate for the SNAP program was 3.80% in 2011, the lowest in the history of the program. Yet H.R. 1947 cuts $20.5 billion from SNAP. Over 90 percent of SNAP funding goes directly to benefits to allow households to purchase food, and the low error rates ensure that very little money is lost on fraud or abuse. This means that these cuts would directly impact SNAP beneficiaries. These cuts are detrimental, unnecessary and cruel, and we oppose them.

Supporters of these cuts claim that they do not affect benefits, that they are merely closing loopholes. But the facts show that these cuts will result in less food for hungry Americans.

This bill cuts four different SNAP provisions—broad-based Categorical Eligibility, the connection between the SNAP Standard Utility Allowance (SUA) and the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), the State Performance Fund, and the SNAP Nutrition Education Program.

Categorical Eligibility (CAT-EL) is a paperwork simplification process that allows states to treat poor people the same for purposes of determining eligibility in our safety net programs. Specifically, CAT-EL allows low-income individuals or families who are already deemed eligible to receive a benefit from a program funded by the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program, to be made automatically eligible for SNAP. This means that TANF recipients do not have to go through a separate SNAP eligibility determination process. However, this does not mean that everyone enrolled in SNAP via CAT-EL actually receives a SNAP benefit. Under this program, people do not get one dollar of SNAP that they do not qualify for; instead they are simply enrolled in the program. They still must apply through the standard application process and provide evidence of their income to calculate their benefit levels, which are determined through the same process used for all

SNAP recipients. If their incomes are very high, they will still not qualify for any SNAP benefits.

CAT-EL saves critical time and money for the over 40 states that currently participate in it, because people who are already eligible for similarly-administered benefits do not have to provide this information again for SNAP and states do not have to waste valuable worker hours processing paperwork for people who are already eligible based on their incomes. CAT-EL came about because of specific concerns states had about administrative procedures. Prior to the 2002 Farm Bill, states expressed concerns about the administrative burdens of administering TANF and SNAP to similar populations. USDA and the states worked together to allow states more options for administrative flexibility, including CAT-EL. H.R. 1947 includes significant cuts to CAT-EL. Specifically, H.R. 1947 prevents states from using broad-based CAT-EL, a policy change that will result in almost 2 million people being cut from SNAP entirely.

The current connection between the SNAP Standard Utility Allowance and LIHEAP allows states to use a simplified process for determining benefit levels for SNAP recipients. When calculating the income that a household has available for food, SNAP provides deductions for certain essential household expenses. One of the most important deductions, the shelter deduction, is available to households that expend more than half of their disposable income on housing and utility expenses. States can simplify the shelter deduction by establishing Standard Utility Allowances (SUAs) that reflect typical low-income households' utility bills in the state, rather than requiring every household to provide copies of their monthly utility bills and requiring caseworkers to try to calculate each household's average month utility costs. Households that can demonstrate they have out-of-pocket utility costs for heating and cooling costs are assigned an SUA that reflects those costs, in lieu of calculating each household's utility expenses.

Federal law has long considered a household's receipt of assistance from the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) a sound test of whether the household incurs utility expenses and hence qualifies for the SUA. LIHEAP is targeted to low-income households that cannot afford to pay their home energy bills. For decades, SNAP households that receive LIHEAP have been eligible for the SUA, based on LIHEAP's determination that the household has home energy bills that it needs assistance in meeting. Recently, some states have provided a nominal LIHEAP benefit of $1 to $5 to SNAP households in order to qualify those households for an SUA and the larger SNAP shelter deduction that results.

Utilizing SUA the way states currently do simply streamlines a difficult and burdensome process. The connection between the two programs reduces unnecessary paperwork for states and helps poor households claim a deduction. Without this connection, families would have to provide copies of all their utility bills, caseworkers would have to sift through them, and the entire effort would be more complicated and burdensome for states and families alike. The Standard Utility Allowance provisions in H.R. 1947 will cause 850,000 households to see their SNAP benefits cut by an average of $90 a month.

The State Performance Fund was created as a results-base program to reward states that reduce their incidents of fraud, waste and abuse and increase participation in SNAP. H.R. 1947 eliminates the State Performance Fund, ending a program that has resulted in fewer errors and more low-income eligible people being enrolled in SNAP.

In addition to these three cuts to SNAP program enrollment and benefits, the Nutrition title reduces funding for nutrition education by $26 million. There is a valid concern about obesity and the impact that low-nutrient food has in America today. Less nutritious food is often cheaper, and many communities—urban, suburban and rural—have limited access to retailers that provide a variety of nutritious foods at affordable prices. In these communities, nutrition education teaches families how to purchase and prepare nutritious meals with limited funds and limited food choices. This kind of information can have serious impacts on individual health and on health care costs and cutting programs like this is a classic example of pennywise and pound foolish.

As our nation continues to battle the obesity epidemic and associated chronic conditions, this education becomes even more important. Obesity rates are significantly higher in low-income communities. We know that a healthy diet can reduce the risk of heart disease, heart attack, stroke, diabetes, osteoporosis, and some forms of cancer. The truth is that the money spent on nutrition education today can prevent future costs associated with obesity that totaled an estimated $147 billion in 2008. Research shows that consumers will modify food choices in response to information linking diet and health. The cuts to Nutrition Education in H.R. 1947 are short-sighted and ignore the cost savings achieved by improving health outcomes.

It is important to note that the cuts in these programs do not just impact SNAP. The SNAP cuts included in H.R. 1947 will cause 210,000 low-income children to be cut out of the free school lunch program. That's because many children whose families rely on SNAP are automatically enrolled in the School Meal Programs because they are already receiving SNAP. By changing the benefit structure the way H.R. 1947 does, 210,000 children will lose access to free school meals even though H.R. 1947 does not address the federal school meal programs directly. Whether intended or not, and contrary to the claims of some, these cuts will make hunger worse and will result in fewer calories being consumed by children in food insecure households.

In order to prevent these devastating cuts, we sponsored and voted for the McGovern (MA), Courtney (CT), Negrete McLeod (CA), Lujan Grisham (NM), David Scott (GA), Vela (TX), Fudge (OH), Vargas (CA), Gallego (TX), Nolan (MN), Kuster (NH), Enyart (IL), and DelBene (WA) amendment that would have repealed the $20.5 billion in cuts to SNAP included in H.R. 1947. Unfortunately, this amendment was defeated 17 to 27.

Opponents of SNAP talk about a "culture of dependency," as if getting on SNAP is a lifelong goal for some. Yet 83% of families on SNAP are making less than $24,000 a year for a family of four. The average SNAP benefit is less than $1.50 per meal per day, an amount that will go down by an average of $25 for a family of four in November 2013 even without the cuts included in H.R. 1947. And the SNAP benefit does not provide one hundred percent of the food necessary to feed a hungry family in a month. In fact, the benefit is designed to be a supplement to the monthly income that a family earns. For many, SNAP is a last resort for those who have no place else to turn. To call it a “culture of dependency” implies that people are poor by choice and enjoy needing this help.

It is foolhardy and wrong to assume that the not-for-profit safety net will be able to provide the same amount of food to those who are cut from the federal safety-net because of the cuts included in H.R. 1947. Food banks and charities, including many faith-based institutions, are the first line of defense against hunger and simply cannot keep up with current demand. These cuts come on top of cuts to other critical low-income programs like Head Start, Meals on Wheels, and low-income housing as a result of sequestration.

Finally, it is important to note that the Agriculture Committee did not hold any hearings on the federal anti-hunger safety-net programs. Not one hearing was held on the effectiveness and efficiency of SNAP. Not one hearing was held on whether or not food banks, food pantries and other non-profits could handle the increased need created by these cuts. A serious effort to make improvements in SNAP, to ensure that every hungry person who needs help gets help, would have started with legislative hearings. The reality is that those who voted against our amendment to restore the SNAP cuts are more interested in cutting benefits than ensuring that hungry people have access to the food they desperately need.

Millions of Americans—after spending down most of their savings, selling cars, and making other serious cuts to their own budgets—put their pride aside and accept SNAP as a way to feed their families. Yet the answer to those struggling families today, the response to the call of hunger as laid out in H.R. 1947, is to continue the outrageous practice of preying on the poor.

These cuts are immoral. They are hurtful. And they are exactly the wrong answer for people who struggle with hunger. H.R. 1947 continues the 113th Congress' practice of picking winners and losers based on income. Unfortunately, these policies will result in more hunger in America and will cause real harm to the men, women, seniors, and children who rely on SNAP to put food on their tables.
