COMMITTEE STATEMENT AND VIEWS

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 2347, the Federal Advisory Committee Act Amendments of 2015, would amend the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA) to improve the transparency and accountability of federal advisory committees. The bill would ensure advisory committee members are selected without regard to political affiliation, require agencies to give those interested the opportunity to suggest potential members, and require members serving as individual experts to fully disclose conflicts of interests and apply the law to subcommittees and committees created by contract. It would also require each agency head to make information about advisory committees available on the agency's website.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The Federal Advisory Committee Act, enacted on October 6, 1972, formalized the process for establishing, operating, overseeing, and terminating federal advisory committees.¹ The legislation followed the then-House Committee on Government Operations' evaluation of the use of advisory committees by the federal government.² FACA ensures federal advisory committees are transparent and accessible. These committees provide advice, hold meetings, and produce records to federal government agencies. FACA ensures all committee meetings are objective, records are available to the public, and membership is balanced in viewpoints and functions.

Federal advisory committees provide a mechanism for government officials to gain knowledge from federal and non-federal experts on policy matters. FACA was enacted in response to concerns that federal advisory committees were becoming increasingly common but had little oversight or accountability.³ FACA formalized a governance process for these advisory bodies and established the Committee Management Secretariat within the General Services Administration (GSA) to monitor compliance with the new law. The intent of FACA was to make federal advisory committees more accountable, transparent, balanced, and independent from the influence of special interests.⁴

In 2004, the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO) concluded that additional government-wide guidance could help ensure federal advisory committee members are independent and balanced in terms of viewpoints.⁵ In testimony before the then-Subcommittee on Information Policy, Census, and National Archives, Robin M. Nazzaro, Director of Natural Resources and Environment at GAO, recommended the Subcommittee consider amendments to FACA to: (1) help prevent inappropriate use of representative appointments; (2) better ensure the independence of committee members by clarifying the nature of advice to be provided by members of advisory committees; and (3) require that all committee members, not just special government employees, be provided ethics training.⁶ In addition, GAO suggested the Subcommittee incorporate into FACA the substance of its 2004 recommendations to provide greater assurance that committees are perceived as being independent and balanced in terms of viewpoints.⁷

In FY2014, the federal government had more than 1,050 active advisory committees at a cost of $340 million to the taxpayer.⁸ The Administrative Conference of the United States, in its 2011 recommendation, stated that numerous private groups have argued the 1972 Act “does not adequately promote transparency or preserve a role for the public to participate in the work of committees.”⁹ Federal advisory committee meetings are open, closed, or partially closed.¹⁰ The number of open meetings has been in steady decline, going from 1,933 in FY2012 (27.6 percent of total meetings) to 1,647 in FY2014 (23.0 percent of total meetings).¹¹ At the same time, the number of closed meetings increased from 4,641 in FY2012 (66.3 percent of total meetings) to 5,091 in FY2014 (71.1 percent of total meetings).¹²

Accordingly, H.R. 2347 includes a number of provisions to help further the independence of advisory committees by requiring members to be selected without regard to political affiliation and by ensuring the advice and recommendations of committees is free from agency interference. The bill would improve the transparency of advisory committees by requiring agency heads to obtain conflict of interest disclosures from committee members serving as individual experts and by closing the loophole that allows subcommittees to operate outside of the requirements of FACA. H.R. 2347 would improve the accountability of advisory committees by clarifying that committees established by contractors must comply with FACA and that individuals who regularly attend and participate in committee meetings as if they are members are considered members even if they are not allowed to vote. The bill would also require GAO to review and to report on agency compliance with FACA.

SECTION-BY-SECTION

Section 1. Short title; table of contents

Designates the short title of the bill as the “Federal Advisory Committee Act Amendments of 2015.”

Section 2. Ensuring independent advice and expertise

Requires appointments to advisory committees be made without regard to political affiliation or political activity, unless required by federal statute.

Requires agencies publish a request for comments regarding potential committee members in the Federal Register and provide opportunity to submit comments online. Agency heads must consider submitted comments before appointing members.

Designates non-federal employee committee members as: (1) a “special Government employee” if appointed to provide expert advice, or (2) a “representative” if appointed to represent views of an entity or entities outside the federal government. Prohibits agencies from designating committee members as representatives to avoid federal ethics rules.

Requires an agency ethics official to review designations of advisory committee members.

Requires agencies to explain the difference between designations, including differences in ethics requirements, and notify each member of their own designation. Committee members must sign a confirmation of receipt of information.

Encourages agencies to develop strategies to increase the pool of potential committee members in order to reduce the number of members requiring conflict of interest waivers.

Provides the GSA authority to promulgate regulations to implement the Act.

Prohibits agencies from interfering with free participation and deliberation by committee members. In reports submitted to the agency, committees must include a description of the process used to formulate recommendations or conclusions.

Prohibits an employee of the agency to which the committee reports from serving as Chair, unless a statute or agency head authorizes such an employee serve as Chair.

Section 3. Preventing efforts to circumvent the Federal Advisory Committee Act and public disclosure Clarifies that participants who regularly attend and participate in committee meetings as if they were a member are considered committee members, even if not allowed to vote.

Requires subcommittees of advisory committees comply with FACA, but they would not need to file a separate charter if they report to a parent committee.

Clarifies that advisory committees established under contract, other transactional authority, or otherwise at the request or direction of an agency or the President are subject to FACA.

Clarifies that advisory committees that include members appointed as special Government employees are subject to the requirements of FACA.

Section 4. Increasing transparency of advisory committees

Requires agencies to make publicly available for each advisory committee: the charter; the member selection process; a list of members, including designations as representatives or special Government employees; any conflict of interest; committee processes; and detailed meeting minutes. The information must be made available on the agency's as well as GSA's website.

Enhances the disclosure requirements for advisory committee charters.

Section 5. Managing federal advisory committees

Requires a senior official to be appointed as the agency's Advisory Committee Management Officer to be responsible for managing the agency's advisory committee process.

Section 6. Comptroller General review and reports

Requires GAO to report to Congress on agency compliance with FACA, including whether agencies are appropriately appointing advisory committee members as either special Government employees or representatives.

Section 7. Application of Federal Advisory Committee Act to Trade Advisory Committees

Updates exemptions for advisory committees in the Trade Act of 1974.

Section 8. Definitions

Adopts the definition of "special Government employee" from 18 U.S.C. 202(a), which provides that such person is retained, designated, appointed, or employed to perform, with or without compensation, temporary duties for no more than 130 days a year.

Section 9. Technical and conforming amendments

Makes technical amendments to section 7(d)(1) of FACA.

However, clause 3(d)(2)(B) of that rule provides that this requirement does not apply when the Committee has included in its report a timely submitted cost estimate of the bill prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office under section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

BUDGET AUTHORITY AND CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE COST ESTIMATE

With respect to the requirements of clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 308(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 and with respect to requirements of clause (3)(c)(3) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the Committee has received the following cost estimate for this bill from the Director of Congressional Budget Office:

H.R. 2347—Federal Advisory Committee Act Amendments of 2015

Summary: H.R. 2347 would amend the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA), which governs the operation of most federal advisory committees, to require agencies to disclose additional information about committee activities to the public. It also would expand the act to cover additional federal committees and would require the Government Accountability Office (GAO) to submit reports to the Congress concerning the appointment of advisory committee members. More than 1,000 advisory committees provide advice and guidance to federal agencies on many subjects ranging from organ donation to the operations of the Department of Homeland Security. Those committees, which may also be called commissions, councils, or task forces, have been created to collect a variety of viewpoints on specific policy issues. They can provide advice or make recommendations to federal agencies.

CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 2347 would cost $70 million over the 2016–2020 period, assuming appropriation of the necessary amounts. Enacting the bill could affect direct spending by agencies not funded through annual appropriations; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures apply. CBO estimates, however, that any net increase in spending by those agencies would be negligible. Enacting the bill would not affect revenues.

CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 2347 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits by more than $5 billion in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2026.

H.R. 2347 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA) and would not affect the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments.

Estimated cost to the Federal Government: The estimated budgetary impact of H.R. 2347 is shown in the following table. The costs of this legislation fall primarily within budget function 800 (general government) but would affect all budget functions that include funding for federal advisory committees.

	By fiscal year, in millions of dollars—
	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020	2016–2020
CHANGES IN SPENDING SUBJECT TO APPROPRIATION
Estimated Authorization Level	15	15	15	15	15	75
Estimated Outlays	10	15	15	15	15	70

Basis of estimate: For this estimate, CBO assumes that H.R. 2347 will be enacted early in fiscal year 2016, that the necessary funds will be provided each year, and that spending will follow historical patterns for similar activities.

FACA governs the activities of federal advisory committees. Those committees provide independent advice and recommendations to the federal government. According to the General Services Administration (GSA), there are approximately 1,000 advisory committees with about 70,000 members that provide advice and recommendations to about 50 departments and agencies. GSA estimates that the total cost to manage those advisory committees during fiscal year 2014 was $334 million.

Under FACA, GSA maintains management guidelines for committees and advises committees on implementing those guidelines. The Office of Government Ethics is responsible for developing regulations and guidance for advisory committee members who serve as special government employees and must meet certain requirements pertaining to conflicts of interest. In addition, FACA requires that the advice provided by the committees be objective and publicly available. Meetings of advisory committees are generally open to the public, with certain specified exceptions. Notice of such meetings must be published in advance; all papers, records, and minutes of meetings must be made available for public inspection, and such information is subject to disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act.

According to GSA and other agencies, H.R. 2347 would impose more-stringent ethics requirements on all advisory committee members. Agencies would have to make more information about such committees available to the public, make establishing a committee and selecting members more transparent, and extend FACA regulations to cover additional advisory committees. Under the bill, GAO would be required to produce two reports over the next five years. Based on the current cost of administering advisory committees and preparing reports, CBO estimates that implementing the bill would increase federal costs by about $15 million a year or less than $1 million per major agency.

Pay-as-You-Go considerations: The Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010 establishes budget-reporting and enforcement procedures for legislation affecting direct spending or revenues. H.R. 2347 could affect direct spending by agencies not funded through annual appropriations. CBO estimates, however, that any net increase in spending by those agencies would not be significant. Enacting the bill would not affect revenues.

Increase in long term direct spending and deficits: CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 2347 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2026.

Intergovernmental and private-sector impact: H.R. 2347 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA and would not affect the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments.

Estimate prepared by: Federal Costs: Matthew Pickford; Impact on state, local, and tribal governments: Jon Sperl; Impact on the Private Sector: Paige Piper/Bach.

Estimate approved by: H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

(b) ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR TRADE POLICY AND NEGOTIATIONS.—

(1) The President shall establish an Advisory Committee for Trade Policy and Negotiations to provide overall policy advice on matters referred to in subsection (a). tiating objectives, or bargaining positions with respect to matters referred to in subsection (a) of this section, and that meetings may be called of such special task forces, plenary meetings of chairmen, or other such groups made up of members of the committees established under subsections (b) and (c) of this section; and

(B) notwithstanding subsection (a)(2) of section 14 of the Federal Advisory Committee Act, any committee established under subsection (b) or (c) may, in the discretion of the President or the President's designee, terminate not later than the expiration of the 4-year period beginning on the date of its establishment.

(g) TRADE SECRETS AND CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION.—

consultation with the relevant advisory committees established under subsection (c). Such rules shall define the categories of information which require restricted or confidential handling by such committee considering the extent to which public disclosure of such information can reasonably be expected to prejudice the development of trade policy, priorities, or United States negotiating objectives. Such rules shall, to the maximum extent feasible, permit meaningful consultations by advisory committee members with persons affected by matters referred to in subsection (a).

Such consultation shall include the provision of information to each advisory committee as to—

- (1) significant issues and developments; and
- (2) overall negotiating objectives and positions of the United States and other parties; with respect to matters referred to in subsection (a). The United States Trade Representative shall not be bound by the advice or recommendations of such advisory committees, but shall inform the advisory committees of significant departures from such advice or recommendations made. In addition, in the course of consultations with the Congress under this title, information on the advice and information provided by advisory committees shall be made available to congressional advisers.

(j) PRIVATE ORGANIZATIONS OR GROUPS.—In addition to any advisory committee established under this section, the President shall provide adequate, timely and continuing opportunity for the submission on an informal basis (and, if such information is submitted under the provisions of subsection (g), on a confidential basis) by private organizations or groups, representing government, labor, industry, agriculture, small business, service industries, consumer interests, and others, of statistics, data and other trade information, as well as policy recommendations, pertinent to any matter referred to in subsection (a).

(k) SCOPE OF PARTICIPATION BY MEMBERS OF ADVISORY COMMITTEES.—Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to authorize or permit any individual to participate directly in any negotiation of any matters referred to in subsection (a). To the maximum extent practicable, the members of the committees established under subsections (b) and (c), and other appropriate parties, shall be informed and consulted before and during any such negotiations. They may be designated as advisors to a negotiating delegation, and may be permitted to participate in international meetings to the extent the head of the United States delegation deems appropriate. However, they may not speak or negotiate for the United States.

(l) ADVISORY COMMITTEES ESTABLISHED BY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.—The provisions of title XVIII of the Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 (7 U.S.C. 2281 et seq.) shall not apply to any advisory committee established under subsection (c).
