PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

The purpose of H.R. 1351 is to amend title 49, United States Code, to direct the Administrator of the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) to make certain improvements in managing TSA’s employee misconduct, and for other purposes.

H.R. 1351 is intended to better ensure consistency in the way TSA airport managers administer agency actions in response to employee misconduct and better position TSA to identify causes behind persistent employee misconduct. Specifically, H.R. 1351 requires the TSA Administrator to designate a senior official to oversee unannounced inspections at airports of agency actions taken to address employee misconduct to be completed at all airports within 5 fiscal years. The bill also requires the Administrator to designate a separate official to review the inspection results to identify causes of any variances or trends in the way actions are taken in response to TSA misconduct and to develop corrective actions to address such variances. H.R. 1351 also requires TSA to provide inspection results to the Department’s Chief Human Capital Officer to review the results, identify trends, and make recommendations on ways to improve TSA employee misconduct. Finally, the bill requires the TSA Administrator to provide inspection results and any corrective actions to certain Congressional committees.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

In July 2016, the Majority staff of the Subcommittee on Oversight and Management Efficiency and the Subcommittee on Transportation Security released their findings from a joint investigation into TSA’s efforts to address employee misconduct in a report entitled “Misconduct at TSA Threatens the Security of the Flying Public.” In particular, the staff found that, according to TSA data, employee misconduct has grown over time-by almost 29 percent from Fiscal Year 2013 to 2015. Moreover, the report detailed that most disciplinary and non-disciplinary penalties are given by lower level managers at airport checkpoints with potentially very little oversight by the airport's Federal Security Director (FSD), much less by headquarters.

In order to ensure that TSA effectively delegates authority to the local level, TSA needs mechanisms to ensure that employees are adhering to guidance. If these are not implemented, TSA will likely be unable to ensure that misconduct declines over time. Although TSA has issued guidance related to employee conduct and expects that all employees review and adhere to it, it does not have mechanisms in place to ensure that the policy is implemented at the local level. H.R. 1351 seeks to establish a random inspection mechanism to ensure that local managers are administering discipline in a consistent and fair way.

HEARINGS

No hearings were specifically held on H.R. 1351. However, the Committee held an oversight hearing on TSA employee misconduct during the 114th Congress. On July 7, 2016, the Oversight and Management Efficiency Subcommittee and the Transportation Security Subcommittee held a joint hearing entitled "How Pervasive is Misconduct at TSA: Examining Findings from a Joint Subcommittee Investigation." The Subcommittees received testimony from Dr. Huban Gowadia, Deputy Administrator, Transportation Security Administration, U.S. Department of Homeland Security; and Mr. Andrew Oosterbaan, Assistant Inspector General for Investigations, Office of Inspector General, U.S. Department of Homeland Security.

COMMITTEE CONSIDERATION

The Committee met on May 3, 2017, to consider H.R. 1351, and ordered the measure to be reported to the House with a favorable recommendation, as amended, by voice vote. The Committee took the following actions:

COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT FINDINGS

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(1) of Rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee has held oversight hearings and made findings that are reflected in this report.

NEW BUDGET AUTHORITY, ENTITLEMENT AUTHORITY, AND TAX EXPENDITURES

In compliance with clause 3(c)(2) of Rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee finds that H.R. 1351, the Strengthening Oversight of TSA Employee Misconduct Act, would result in no new or increased budget authority, entitlement authority, or tax expenditures or revenues.

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE ESTIMATE

The Committee adopts as its own the cost estimate prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office pursuant to section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, July 14, 2017.

Hon. MICHAEL MCCAUL,
*Chairman, Committee on Homeland Security,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.*

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for H.R. 1351, the Strengthening Oversight of TSA Employee Misconduct Act.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Megan Carroll.

Sincerely,

MARK P. HADLEY
(For Keith Hall, Director).

Enclosure.

H.R. 1351—Strengthening Oversight of TSA Employee Misconduct Act

H.R. 1351 would require the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) to complete, by September 30, 2023, unannounced inspections at all airports of actions taken by TSA managers to address employee misconduct. The bill would specify procedures for TSA to follow in reporting the results of such inspections to both the Congress and the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and would authorize TSA to implement any personnel-related recommendations that DHS makes after reviewing such results.

Based on an analysis of information from TSA, CBO estimates that inspecting all airports where TSA currently operates within the timeframe specified by the bill would require about five additional staff. Including increased administrative costs and travel expenses, CBO estimates that meeting the bill's inspection requirements would increase TSA's costs by $1 million annually and $5 million over the 2018–2022 period; that spending would be subject to the availability of appropriated funds. (That amount does not include any additional costs that the agency might incur to implement DHS-recommended changes to policies for addressing employee misconduct pursuant to reports of inspections carried out under the bill.)

Enacting H.R. 1351 would not affect direct spending or revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply. CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 1351 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2028.

H.R. 1351 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would not affect the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Megan Carroll. The estimate was approved by H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

STATEMENT OF GENERAL PERFORMANCE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(4) of Rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, H.R. 1351 contains the following general performance goals and objectives, including outcome related goals and objectives authorized.

The purpose of H.R. 1351 is to direct the Administrator of the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) to make certain improvements in managing TSA's employee misconduct, and for other purposes.

DUPLICATIVE FEDERAL PROGRAMS

Pursuant to clause 3(c) of Rule XIII, the Committee finds that H.R. 1351 does not contain any provision that establishes or reauthorizes a program known to be duplicative of another Federal program.

CONGRESSIONAL EARMARKS, LIMITED TAX BENEFITS, AND LIMITED TARIFF BENEFITS

In compliance with Rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives, this bill, as reported, contains no congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as defined in clause 9(e), 9(f), or 9(g) of the Rule XXI.

PREEMPTION CLARIFICATION

In compliance with section 423 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, requiring the report of any Committee on a bill or joint resolution to include a statement on the extent to which the bill or joint resolution is intended to preempt State, local, or Tribal law, the Committee finds that H.R. 1351 does not preempt any State, local, or Tribal law.

DISCLOSURE OF DIRECTED RULE MAKINGS

The Committee estimates that H.R. 1351 would require no directed rule makings.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE STATEMENT

No advisory committees within the meaning of section 5(b) of the Federal Advisory Committee Act were created by this legislation.

APPLICABILITY TO LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

The Committee finds that the legislation does not relate to the terms and conditions of employment or access to public services or accommodations within the meaning of section 102(b)(3) of the Congressional Accountability Act.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1. Short Title.

This section provides that this bill may be cited as the “Strengthening Oversight of TSA Employee Misconduct Act”.

Sec. 2. TSA Misconduct Inspection Plan.

Section 2 requires the TSA Administrator to, within 60 days of enactment, designate a senior official to oversee unannounced inspections at airports of agency actions taken to address employee misconduct, including managers removing employees from service, if necessary. That official must certify to the Administrator on a bi-annual basis thereafter until Fiscal Year 2023 that the unannounced inspections were completed across a sufficient number of airports to ensure that all airports are inspected by the specified time period.

Section 2 also requires the Administrator to designate a separate official to review the inspection results to identify causes of any variances or trends in the way actions are taken in response to TSA misconduct and to develop corrective actions to address such variances. The Administrator is also required to ensure that the official conducting the unannounced inspections implements any recommendations made to address variances in the way actions are taken. The Administrator may determine, as appropriate, whether inspections may be consolidated with activities by other offices and such inspections should be coordinated with other relevant TSA offices. The Committee intends for the Administrator to safeguard against any unnecessary duplication in carrying out these inspections.

Additionally, Section 2 provides that the Administrator may extend date for completing the unannounced inspections by not more than one additional fiscal year, if warranted by exigent circumstances. Section 2 also requires TSA to provide inspection results biannually to the Department’s Chief Human Capital Officer to ensure that TSA addresses employee misconduct. The Department’s Chief Human Capital Officer may review the results, identify trends, and make recommendations on ways to improve TSA employee misconduct. Although the Administrator shall coordinate with the DHS Chief Human Capital Officer and implement recommendations, the Chief Human Capital Officer should consult with the Administrator on such recommendations and consider the cost and operational impacts of any such recommendations. The Committee intends for any recommendations made by the Chief Human Capital Officer to help the Administrator address employee misconduct.

Section 2 also requires the TSA Administrator to make inspection results and any corrective actions available to the Committees on Homeland Security, and Appropriations of the House of Rep-representatives; the Committees on Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs, Commerce, Science, and Transportation, and Appropriations of the Senate; and, as appropriate, Department personnel. Section 2 includes definitions of actions and unannounced inspections to help TSA implement the bill's provisions. Finally, section 2 prohibits any additional funds from being authorized to carry out these provisions.

DISSENTING VIEWS

On behalf of Committee Democrats, I submit these dissenting views with respect to H.R. 1351, the “Strengthening Oversight of TSA Employee Misconduct Act,” a bill premised on unsubstantiated claims of wide-scale misconduct within the transportation security officer (TSO) workforce that, if enacted, could result in limited Transportation Security Administration (TSA) auditing resources being diverted from investigating security-related concerns.

The TSO workforce has been effective at protecting the flying public since federalization of their duties following the terrible events of 9/11. The TSO workforce is the face of TSA and are the DHS employees the public is most likely to encounter. In 2016, the TSO workforce screened more than 2 million passengers per day (738 million in total).¹ The men and women that serve on TSA’s frontlines stopped over 3,000 firearms from being brought on planes in carry-on bags in 2016.²

There is no evidence to support the premise of H.R. 1351—that the TSO workforce is more likely to engage in misconduct than other federal workers and, thus, specific legislation requiring heightened scrutiny for this workforce is unwarranted. It is important to keep in mind that amongst government agencies, TSA consistently ranks near the bottom for best places to work, ranking 303 out of 305 in 2016.³ With their notoriously low workforce morale, a bill such as H.R. 1351 that singles out the agency, risks further demoralizing TSOs and creating an atmosphere of fear and mistrust.

Beyond insulting the TSO workforce, H.R. 1351, as drafted, has fundamental flaws that, according to TSA, sow confusion about what the agency would actually be mandated to do. Specifically, in advance of the Full Committee’s consideration of this measure, TSA communicated to the Committee that it is unsure of whether it would be expected to divert its limited inspection resources away from its risk-based review of security operations and administrative matters, including personnel matters, to conduct unannounced audits of documentation on how misconduct is managed at each airport in the United States.

Further, to carry out an effective audit, TSA indicated that there needs to be coordination with the leadership within an audited airport to ensure that needed documents are available for review. TSA told the Committee, informally, that the unannounced audit regime is a recipe for waste since, under TSA’s “hub and spoke model” documents are centrally housed at certain airports. Furthermore, the bill fails to recognize that each incident of misconduct is unique by nature and requires a detailed analysis in order to make informed decisions. Identifying the number of instances of misconduct does not identify causation. Simply collecting paperwork from airports across the country cannot paint an accurate picture of all incidents and is a misguided approach to oversight.

Further, as drafted, it is unclear which entities and persons would be responsible for carrying out the mandated inspections. H.R. 1351 offers no guidance on which office within TSA would be responsible for the unannounced inspections. It only states that a "senior official" would be responsible.

TSA's Audits and Inspections Division has an inspection program that utilizes a risk-based approach to focus on higher impact operational and administrative areas. The Committee was told by TSA that if the Audits and Inspections Division is tasked with performing the new unannounced inspection regime, it could result in approximately 20% of their project work, from the date of passage through the subsequent 5 years, needing to be abandoned until the requirements of the bill are met.

This bill is unnecessary as there are already extensive procedures in place at TSA to handle misconduct. For almost 16 years, TSA has maintained its own disciplinary procedures and already has several senior officials, including the Chief Human Capital Officer and the Director of Employee Relations, whose duties include tracking disciplinary actions. Moreover, TSA's Office of Professional Responsibility Appellate Review Board tracks and oversees disciplinary actions. Additionally, Congress already has the authority to request information on TSA disciplinary actions, and TSA has provided such information repeatedly.

H.R. 1351 is vague, confusing for TSA, wasteful, and could result in limited homeland security resources being improperly diverted. Most importantly, it lacks a well-reasoned rationale and is based on false notions about the degree to which there are discipline issues within the TSO workforce. The men and women of TSA should be supported by Congress, not put down, as they endeavor every day, often in stressful and understaffed environments, to ensure that the American flying public is secure.

For all these reasons, on behalf of Committee Democrats, I strongly dissent against H.R. 1351 and urge my colleagues in the House of Representatives to stand with the over 44,000 TSOs nationwide and reject H.R. 1351.
