[Including cost estimate of the Congressional Budget Office]

The Committee on Natural Resources, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 5005) to direct the Secretary of the Interior to conduct a special resource study to determine the suitability and feasibility of establishing the birthplace of James Weldon Johnson in Jacksonville, Florida, as a unit of the National Park System, having considered the same, report favorably thereon without amendment and recommend that the bill do pass.

PURPOSE OF THE BILL

The purpose of H.R. 5005 is to direct the Secretary of the Interior to conduct a special resource study to determine the suitability and feasibility of establishing the birthplace of James Weldon Johnson in Jacksonville, Florida, as a unit of the National Park System.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

James Weldon Johnson was born in 1871 in the LaVilla neighborhood at 120 Lee Street in Jacksonville, Florida. The birth home no longer exists and there are no structures on the property. However, the lot was designated by the City of Jacksonville as “Lift Ev'ry Voice and Sing Park” in June 2015.

James Weldon Johnson was accomplished in several fields: a renowned statesman, educator, songwriter, author, lawyer, and civil rights activist. He served as the principal at Stanton Grade School in Jacksonville, and in 1898, became the first African American admitted to the Florida Bar.\(^3\)

After moving to New York City at the turn of the century, he found success writing songs for Broadway shows with his brother. In addition, Johnson wrote poetry and fiction, and published anthologies contributing to the Harlem Renaissance. He wrote the song "Lift Ev'ry Voice and Sing," which is often referred to as the "Black National Anthem."\(^4\)

Beginning in 1916, he worked for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in various roles, ultimately serving as Executive Secretary. He expanded the organization in the Southern States and campaigned against lynching and segregation.\(^5\)

Johnson served as the U.S. consul in Venezuela and Nicaragua under President Roosevelt. He was the first African American professor at New York University, where he taught courses in literature and culture. He also taught at Fisk University in Nashville, Tennessee.\(^6\)

Johnson's New York City residence (187 West 135th Street), which he occupied from 1925 until his death in 1938, was declared a National Historic Landmark in 1976, and is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.\(^7\)

H.R. 5005 directs the Secretary of the Interior to conduct a special resource study of James Weldon Johnson's birthplace in Jacksonville, Florida, to determine the national significance of the site and its suitability for inclusion as a unit of the National Park System.

H.R. 5005—A bill to direct the Secretary of the Interior to conduct a special resource study to determine the suitability and feasibility of establishing the birthplace of James Weldon Johnson in Jacksonville, Florida, as a unit of the National Park System.

H.R. 5005 would direct the National Park Service to study the suitability and feasibility of establishing the birthplace of James Weldon Johnson in Jacksonville, Florida, as a unit of the National Park System.

Based on the costs of similar studies, CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 5005 would cost less than $500,000; such spending would be subject to the availability of appropriated funds.

Enacting H.R. 5005 would not affect direct spending or revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply.

CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 5005 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2029.

H.R. 5005 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Janani Shankaran.
