I. SUMMARY AND BACKGROUND

A. PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

The bill H.R. 6314, as reported by the Committee on Ways and Means, expands eligibility and access to Health Savings Accounts (HSAs) by allowing plans categorized as catastrophic and bronze in the individual and small group markets to qualify for HSA contributions.

B. BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Individuals and families who enroll in a high-deductible health plan (HDHP) that meet certain requirements, including a minimum deductible and a maximum amount of out-of-pocket exposure, are able to make contributions to an HSA. The law prohibits coverage of any benefit that is not preventative below the deductible. These accounts allow for pre-tax contributions, tax-free investment earnings, and tax-free distributions for future qualified medical expenses.

The Affordable Care Act’s (ACA) catastrophic plans are required to provide coverage for at least three primary care visits below the deductible but no other benefits until the consumer has incurred cost-sharing expenses equal to Obamacare’s annual limit. Though consumers enrolled in catastrophic plans face significant deductibles and cost-sharing, the coverage of three doctor visits automatically disqualifies their plan from HSA eligibility.

In addition, bronze plans, which have an actuarial value of 60 percent, often times have out-of-pocket limits that exceed what is allowed for plans to be HSA-eligible. The average deductible of a bronze plan in 2018 is around $6,000.

C. LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

Background

H.R. 6314 was introduced on July 6, 2018, and was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Committee action

The Committee on Ways and Means marked up H.R. 6314, the “Health Savings Act of 2018,” on July 12, 2018, and ordered the bill, as amended, favorably reported (with a quorum being present).

Committee hearings

The policy issues associated with Health Savings Accounts (HSAs) and need for legislative response were discussed at the following Ways and Means hearings during the 114th and 115th Congress:

- Full Committee Hearing on the Tax Treatment of Health Care (April 14, 2016)
- Subcommittee on Health Member Day Hearing on Tax-Related Proposals to Improve Health Care (May 17, 2016)
- Subcommittee on Health Hearing on Rising Health Insurance Premiums Under the Affordable Care Act (July 12, 2016)
- Subcommittee on Health Hearing on Lowering Costs and Expanding Access to Health Care through Consumer-Directed Health Plans (June 6, 2018)

II. EXPLANATION OF THE BILL

A. ALLOWANCE OF BRONZE AND CATASTROPHIC PLANS IN CONNECTION WITH HEALTH SAVINGS ACCOUNTS

PRESENT LAW

Health savings accounts

An individual may establish a health savings account (“HSA”) only if the individual is covered under a plan that meets the requirements for a high deductible health plan, as described below. In general, HSAs provide tax-favored treatment for current medical expenses as well as the ability to save on a tax-favored basis for future medical expenses. In general, an HSA is a tax-exempt trust or custodial account created exclusively to pay for the qualified medical expenses of the account holder and his or her spouse and dependents.

Within limits,¹ contributions to an HSA made by or on behalf of an eligible individual are deductible by the individual. Contributions to an HSA are excludible from income and employment taxes if made by the employer. Earnings in HSAs are not taxable. Distributions from an HSA for qualified medical expenses are not includible in gross income. Distributions from an HSA that are not used for qualified medical expenses are includible in gross income and are subject to an additional tax of 20 percent. The 20-percent additional tax does not apply if the distribution is made after death or disability, or after the individual attains the age of Medicare eligibility (age 65).

¹For 2018, the basic limit on annual contributions that can be made to an HSA is $3,450 in the case of self-only coverage and $6,900 in the case of family coverage. (The 2018 limitation for family coverage was revised by the IRS to permit taxpayers to disregard the $6,850 limitation under the modified inflation adjustment of Pub. L. No. 115–97. Rev. Rul. 2018–27, 2018–20 I.R.B. 591, May 14, 2018.) The basic annual contributions limits are increased by $1,000 for individuals who have attained age 55 by the end of the taxable year (referred to as “catch-up” contributions).

High deductible health plans

A high deductible health plan is a health plan that has a minimum annual deductible of $1,350 (for 2018) for self-only coverage and twice this amount for family coverage, and for which the sum of the annual deductible and other annual out-of-pocket expenses (other than premiums) for covered benefits does not exceed $6,650 (for 2018) for self-only coverage and twice this amount for family coverage.² These dollar thresholds are subject to inflation adjustment, based on chained CPI.³

An individual who is covered under a high deductible health plan is eligible to establish an HSA, provided that while such individual is covered under the high deductible health plan, the individual is not covered under any health plan that (1) is not a high deductible health plan and (2) provides coverage for any benefit (subject to certain exceptions) covered under the high deductible health plan.⁴

Various types of coverage are disregarded for this purpose, including coverage of any benefit provided by permitted insurance, coverage (whether through insurance or otherwise) for accidents, disability, dental care, vision care, or long-term care, as well as certain limited coverage through health flexible savings accounts.⁵ Permitted insurance means insurance under which substantially all of the coverage provided relates to liabilities incurred under workers' compensation laws, tort liabilities, liabilities relating to ownership or use of property, or such other similar liabilities as specified by the Secretary under regulations. Permitted insurance also means insurance for a specified disease or illness, and insurance paying a fixed amount per day (or other period) of hospitalization.⁶

Plans in the Health Benefit Exchanges⁷ are defined by reference to various metal categories including bronze plans.⁸ Catastrophic plans⁹ have low monthly premiums and very high deductibles and are only available to individuals under 30 or individuals of any age with a hardship exemption. Currently catastrophic and bronze plans as defined under the PPACA are not treated as high deductible health plans.

REASONS FOR CHANGE

The Committee believes connecting consumers to their health care dollars through consumer-directed health plans, including high deductible health plans, reduces health care costs. The Committee further believes that HSAs are an important tool used in conjunction with high deductible health plans to permit consumers to set aside funds and provide such consumers the choice on how to spend those funds to pay for medical care.

However, in the individual and small group markets, certain bronze plans and all catastrophic plans have design features that render enrollees ineligible to contribute to an HSA despite having to face high levels of out-of-pocket costs. The Committee is adding catastrophic and bronze plans to the definition of high deductible health plans to allow these plans to qualify for HSA contributions.

The Committee believes that treating catastrophic and bronze health plans (as defined under PPACA) as high deductible health plans and permitting individuals who are participating in such plans to be eligible to contribute to health savings accounts will further drive consumer choice, allow these individuals to save for health care costs on a pre-tax basis, and result in further health cost containment.

EXPLANATION OF PROVISION

Under the provision, the term high deductible health plan shall include bronze and catastrophic plans¹⁰ but the special rules for network plans (with respect to the annual out-of-pocket limitation and annual deductible) and the safe harbor for the absence of a preventive care deductible (that would otherwise apply to high deductible health plans) will not apply.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The provision applies to months beginning after December 31, 2018, in taxable years ending after that date.

² Estimate provided by the staff of the Joint Committee on Taxation and the Congressional Budget Office.

Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the following statement is made by the Joint Committee on Taxation with respect to the provisions of the bill amending the Internal Revenue Code of 1986: The gross budgetary effect (before incorporating macroeconomic effects) in any fiscal year is less than 0.25 percent of the current projected gross domestic product of the United States for that fiscal year; therefore, the bill is not “major legislation” for purposes of requiring that the estimate include the budgetary effects of changes in economic output, employment, capital stock and other macroeconomic variables.

B. STATEMENT REGARDING NEW BUDGET AUTHORITY AND TAX EXPENDITURES BUDGET AUTHORITY

In compliance with clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee states that the bill involves no new or increased budget authority. The Committee further states that the revenue-reducing tax provision involves no new tax expenditure.

C. COST ESTIMATE PREPARED BY THE CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE

In compliance with clause 3(d) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the following statement is made concerning the effects on the budget of the bill, H.R. 6138, as reported. As of the filing of this report, the Committee had not received an estimate prepared by the Congressional Budget Office (CBO).

V. OTHER MATTERS TO BE DISCUSSED UNDER THE RULES OF THE HOUSE

A. COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee advises that the findings and recommendations of the Committee, based on oversight activities under clause 2(b)(1) of rule X of the Rules of the House of Representatives, are incorporated into the description portions of this report.

B. STATEMENT OF GENERAL PERFORMANCE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

With respect to clause 3(c)(4) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee advises that the bill contains no measure that authorizes funding, so no statement of general performance goals and objectives for which any measure authorizes funding is required.

C. INFORMATION RELATING TO UNFUNDED MANDATES

This information is provided in accordance with section 423 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Pub. L. No. 104-4).

The Committee has determined that the bill does not contain Federal mandates on the private sector. The Committee has determined that the bill does not impose a Federal intergovernmental mandate on State, local, or tribal governments.

D. APPLICABILITY OF HOUSE RULE XXI 5(b)

Rule XXI 5(b) of the Rules of the House of Representatives provides, in part, that “A bill or joint resolution, amendment, or conference report carrying a Federal income tax rate increase may not be considered as passed or agreed to unless so determined by a vote of not less than three-fifths of the Members voting, a quorum being present.” The Committee has carefully reviewed the bill and states that the bill does not involve any Federal income tax rate increases within the meaning of the rule.

E. TAX COMPLEXITY ANALYSIS

Section 4022(b) of the Internal Revenue Service Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 (“IRS Reform Act”) requires the staff of the Joint Committee on Taxation (in consultation with the Internal Revenue Service and the Treasury Department) to provide a tax complexity analysis. The complexity analysis is required for all legislation reported by the Senate Committee on Finance, the House Committee on Ways and Means, or any committee of conference if the legislation includes a provision that directly or indirectly amends the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and has widespread applicability to individuals or small businesses.

Pursuant to clause 3(h)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the staff of the Joint Committee on Taxation has determined that a complexity analysis is not required under section 4022(b) of the IRS Reform Act because the bill contains no provisions that amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and that have “widespread applicability” to individuals or small businesses, within the meaning of the rule.

F. CONGRESSIONAL EARMARKS, LIMITED TAX BENEFITS, AND LIMITED TARIFF BENEFITS

With respect to clause 9 of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee has carefully reviewed the provisions of the bill and states that the provisions of the bill do not contain any congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits within the meaning of the rule.

G. DUPLICATION OF FEDERAL PROGRAMS

In compliance with Sec. 3(c)(5) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee states that no provision of the bill establishes or reauthorizes: (1) a program of the Federal Government known to be duplicative of another Federal program, (2) a program included in any report from the Government Accountability Office to Congress pursuant to section 21 of Public Law 111–139, or (3) a program related to a program identified in the most recent Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, published pursuant to section 6104 of title 31, United States Code.

H. DISCLOSURE OF DIRECTED RULE MAKINGS

In compliance with Sec. 3(i) of H. Res. 5 (115th Congress), the following statement is made concerning directed rule makings: The Committee advises that the bill requires no directed rule makings within the meaning of such section.

VI. CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

B. CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW PROPOSED BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e)(1)(B) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law proposed by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new matter is printed in italic, existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL, AS REPORTED

DISSENTING VIEWS

H.R. 6314 Health Saving Act of 2018

H.R. 6314 (Burgess, R-TX) defines bronze and catastrophic Affordable Care Act (ACA)-compliant plans as high-deductible health plans (HDHPs) for the purposes of health savings account (HSA) eligibility.

H.R. 6314 does not undo Republican sabotage, premium hikes, and benefit cuts they have caused over the past 18 months. This bill was one in a series of 11 bills marked up that Republicans claim will help lower health care costs for consumers. This legislation does not undo the disruption and sabotage the Republicans have continued to inflict on the American health care system. Instead of focusing on expansion of HSAs and HDHPs, Democrats encourage the Committee to redirect its attention to legislation that could actually ensure that uninsured, low-income, and vulnerable people have real access to care. For example H.R. 5155, sponsored by Reps. Pallone, Neal, and Scott would protect people with pre-existing conditions, help lower premiums for Americans, and improve affordability of health coverage.

HDHPs and HSAs do not promote healthy behavior. It is widely acknowledged that HSAs and HDHPs lead consumers to delay care. They do not encourage individuals to make better health care decisions, as Republicans' "skin in the game" talking points assert. Decades of research show that exposure to high out-of-pocket costs leads consumers to delay or forgo both necessary and unnecessary care. Delaying care and increasing costs run counter to Democratic policy goals of better coordinated, high-value affordable care for the American family. This legislation demonstrates why HDHPs in their current format do not allow consumers to see value in their health insurance.

According to the American Hospital Association, "Hospitals and health systems report that increased enrollment in HDHPs over the past several years has reduced access to care and subjected patients to costs they cannot afford. In addition, patients enrolled in HDHPs appear to delay care until they have reached their deductible or are in an emergency situation, which could lead to poorer health outcomes."

HSAs mostly benefit high-income taxpayers while doing little to help moderate-income families or the uninsured. High-income people can best afford to save for health care expenses and are therefore the most likely to contribute to HSAs. Higher income filers are much more likely to establish HSAs than lower income filers—70 percent of HSA contributions come from households with incomes over $100,000, according to the Joint Commission on Taxation (JCT)—and they are also likelier to max out their contributions. Additionally, high-income people receive the biggest tax benefit for each dollar contributed to an HSA, because the value of a tax deduction rises with an individual's tax bracket. More than 44 percent of Americans can't afford a $400 emergency. For these families, it is unlikely that they have excess income to devote to a tax-preferred account.

With specific respect to this legislation, over 85 percent of individuals enrolled in an ACA marketplace plan receive tax credits to help with the cost of health insurance premiums. The average financial assistance is $371, bringing the average cost to the consumer to about $100 per month. Put another way, the vast majority of individuals enrolled need help affording coverage much less have the ability to save in a tax-preferred account.

Legislation busts the deficit to benefit the wealthy while putting Medicare, Social Security, and Medicaid at risk. Altogether, the 11 marked up in committee would add another $92 billion in unoffset tax cuts to the deficit. Republican attempts to expand HSAs (and encourage more enrollment in plans with high deductibles, covering very few up-front health costs) are a continuation of their platform of shifting families into health plans that provide fewer health benefits and higher out-of-pocket costs—while providing greater tax benefits for higher-income individuals and corporate-special interests.

JCT estimates the cost of this bill to be $137 million over 10 years. With this bill Republicans are adding more tax cuts and increasing the deficit. Republicans are using the deficit, which they keep making larger with cuts for the wealthy, to justify the deep cuts they plan to make to Medicare and Medicaid. Republicans already are proposing to cut Medicare and Medicaid by nearly a trillion dollars to try to pay for the tax cuts they've already enacted. This bill will only increase Republicans' call for further cuts to these critical programs.
