PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

On July 10, 2018, Representative Gottheimer introduced H.R. 6323, the “National Senior Investor Initiative Act of 2018”. As modified by an amendment in the nature of a substitute, H.R. 6323 creates an interdivisional task force at the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”)—composed of staff from the Division of Enforcement, Office of Compliance, Inspections and Examinations, and the Office of Investor Education and Advocacy—to examine and identify challenges facing senior investors (the “Task Force”). Every two years, in consultation with other SEC offices, State securities and law enforcement authorities, State insurance regulators, and Federal agencies, the Task Force is to report to Congress and recommend any regulatory or statutory changes that it believes are necessary. Further, within one year of enactment, the U.S. Government Accountability Office (“GAO”) shall study and report on the economic costs of the financial exploitation of senior citizens.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The goal of H.R. 6323 is to help the SEC ensure it continues to identify and correct financial challenges facing senior investors. The SEC recently has focused attention on these issues through the Retail Strategy Task Force established under Chairman Jay Clayton’s leadership and the white paper on elder financial exploitation issued by the Office of the Investor Advocate in July 2018. H.R. 6323 will provide a statutory framework to ensure that the various SEC offices continue to work together to address these issues.

According to a 2015 report, older Americans lose approximately $36.5 billion each year to financial scams and abuse. These numbers are increasing as technology makes it easier for scammers to target older Americans. For example, in New York, the state reported that in twelve months seniors lost as much as $1.5 billion from misappropriation of funds. Further, a 2016 survey from the Investor Protection Trust found that almost 1-in-5 seniors, approximately 7 million Americans, have reported being victims of exploitation. Even more troubling is that the majority of financial exploitation against seniors goes unreported. According to the National Adult Protective Services Association, only one in 44 cases of financial abuse may be reported.

On May the President signed into law the “Economic Growth, Regulatory Relief and Consumer Protection Act” (P.L. 115–174) (EGRRCPA). Section 303 of the law, entitled “Immunity from suit for disclosure of financial exploitation of senior citizens”, or more commonly known as the Senior Safe Act provides immunity to depository institutions, credit unions, investment advisers, broker-dealers, insurance companies, insurance agency, or transfer agents, and their employees from civil or administrative liability, as long as employees at these specified institutions receive training in how to identify and report predatory activity and reports are made “in good faith” and “with reasonable care.” Current bank privacy laws make it difficult for these entities to report any potentially fraudulent activity. Maine’s SeniorSafe program served as the basis for the Senior Safe Act and Section 303 of the EGRRCPA. Sadly, financial exploitation of seniors often is committed by those closest to seniors, such as friends, neighbors, family members, caregivers, or other trusted individuals. Maine designed its program to train financial professionals to detect and report senior financial abuse.

At a time when the population of senior investors is increasing rapidly, H.R. 6323 will help to ensure that the SEC can marshal its resources across the agency to identify and work to reduce financial abuse against senior investors. The legislation empowers the SEC Chairman to appoint a director of the Task Force, who can be a current SEC employee, and to ensure the Task Force is operated in coordination with other offices and initiatives to reduce bureaucratic redundancies. The Task Force will report to Congress every two years on key observations, best practices, and areas for improvement identified throughout its work. Additionally, the GAO will conduct a study on the economic costs of the financial exploitation of elder investors—which will provide much needed recent data on financial exploitation; and the Task Force must consider this report in connection with its own first report to Congress.

HEARINGS

The Committee on Financial Services held no hearings examining matters relating to H.R. 6323.

COMMITTEE CONSIDERATION

The Committee on Financial Services met in open session on July 11, 2018, and ordered H.R. 6323 to be reported favorably to the House, as amended, by voice vote.

COMMITTEE VOTES

Clause 3(b) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives requires the Committee to list the record votes on the motion to report legislation and amendments thereto. The sole vote was a motion by Chairman Hensarling to report the bill favorably to the House as amended. The motion was agreed to by voice vote, a quorum being present.

COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT FINDINGS

PERFORMANCE GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(4) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee states that H.R. 6323 will help the SEC to eliminate the increasing number of financial exploitation cases against senior citizens by creating an interdivisional task force at the SEC to examine and identify challenges facing senior investors and will help Congress and the public, through a report by the GAO, to better understand the economic costs of the exploitation of seniors.

NEW BUDGET AUTHORITY, ENTITLEMENT AUTHORITY, AND TAX EXPENDITURES

In compliance with clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee adopts as its own the estimate of new budget authority, entitlement authority, or tax expenditures or revenues contained in the cost estimate prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office pursuant to section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

Securities and Exchange Commission Legislation

On July 11, the House Committee on Financial Services ordered eight bills to be reported related to the rules, regulations, and operations of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). The bills are:

- H.R. 3555, the Exchange Regulatory Improvement Act, would require the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) to issue regulations regarding its definition of what constitutes a facility used by a national securities exchange;
- H.R. 6177, the Developing and Empowering our Aspiring Leaders Act of 2018, would direct the SEC to conduct a rulemaking to expand what types of asset acquisitions are considered qualifying investments for a venture capital fund;

- H.R. 6319, the Expanding Investment in Small Business Act, would require the SEC to conduct a study on the limitation on the amount of outstanding securities a closed-end fund may hold from a single issuer and still be classified as diversified;

- H.R. 6320, the Promoting Transparent Standards for Corporate Insiders Act, would require the SEC to conduct a study of various proposals to change agency rules regarding the use of written trading plans by certain securities traders;

- H.R. 6321, the Investment Adviser Regulatory Flexibility Improvement Act, would require the SEC to revise the definitions of a small business and small organization applicable for assessing the effect of the agency's rulemakings under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 on those entities;

- H.R. 6322, the Enhancing Multi-Class Share Disclosures Act, would direct the SEC to issue a rule requiring securities issuers with multi-class stock structures to make disclosures regarding the voting power of certain individuals;

- H.R. 6323, the National Senior Investor Initiative Act of 2018, would direct the SEC to establish a taskforce to identify challenges that senior investors face and to report on its findings every two years; and

- H.R. 6324, the Middle Market IPO Underwriting Cost Act, would direct the SEC to study the costs associated with small and medium-sized companies undertaking an initial public offering and to report on its findings.

Using information from the SEC regarding the costs of similar activities, CBO estimates that implementing seven of those bills—H.R. 3555, H.R. 6177, H.R. 6319, H.R. 6320, H.R. 6321, H.R. 6322, and H.R. 6324—would each have a gross cost of about $1 million for the agency to conduct the required studies and rulemakings and to issue reports. CBO estimates that implementing the eighth bill—H.R. 6323—would have a gross cost of $7 million over the 2019–2023 period for the SEC to establish and carry out the functions of the taskforce established under the bill.

However, the SEC is authorized to collect fees sufficient to offset its annual appropriation; therefore, CBO estimates that the net effect on discretionary spending of implementing each of those bills would be negligible, assuming appropriation actions consistent with that authority. H.R. 6323 also would require the Government Accountability Office (GAO) to conduct a study on the economic costs of the financial exploitation of senior citizens and CBO estimates that implementing that section would cost GAO less than $500,000; such spending would be subject to the availability of appropriated funds.

None of the bills would affect direct spending or revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply for any of the eight bills.

None of the bills would increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2029, CBO estimates.

None of the bills contain intergovernmental mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandate Reform Act (UMRA) and would not affect the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments. All of them would require the SEC to take actions that could raise the agency's administrative costs and the fees it collects to offset those costs. If the SEC increased fees, it would increase the cost of an existing mandate on private entities required to pay those fees. CBO estimates that none of the bills would increase fees in an amount that would exceed the annual threshold for private-sector mandates established in UMRA ($160 million in 2018, adjusted annually for inflation).

The CBO staff contacts for this estimate are Stephen Rabent (for federal costs) and Rachel Austin (for mandates). The estimate was reviewed by H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

DUPLICATION OF FEDERAL PROGRAMS

In compliance with clause 3(c)(5) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee states that no provision of the bill establishes or reauthorizes: (1) a program of the Federal Government known to be duplicative of another Federal program; (2) a program included in any report from the Government Accountability Office to Congress pursuant to section 21 of Public Law 111-139; or (3) a program related to a program identified in the most recent Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance, published pursuant to the Federal Program Information Act (Pub.
