The purpose of H.R. 6287 is to provide competitive grants for the operation, security, and maintenance of certain memorials to victims of the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The National 9/11 Memorial located in New York City commemorates the attacks of September 11, 2001. The Memorial is the principal tribute of remembrance and honor to the nearly 3,000 people killed in the terror attacks at the World Trade Center site as well as the six people killed in the World Trade Center bombing in February 1993.1 The 9/11 Memorial plaza opened on September 11, 2011, the 10th anniversary of the attacks. Since 2011, more than 37 million people have visited the plaza.2 The Memorial plaza is located on the western side of the former World Trade Center complex. The Memorial’s twin reflecting pools, each nearly an acre in size, sit within the footprints where the Twin Towers once stood. The names of every person who died in the 2001 and 1993 attacks are inscribed into bronze panels edging the Memorial pools. Entrance to the Memorial plaza is free and open to the public year-round.

The National 9/11 Pentagon Memorial is located at the Pentagon in Virginia, across the Potomac River from Washington, D.C. This 2-acre Memorial commemorates the 184 lives lost in the attack on the Pentagon—which on American Flight 77 and those in the Pentagon itself. Each person is represented by a cantilevered bench located over a small reflecting pool of water. The benches are inscribed with the victim’s name, age and location at the time of the attack and are arranged by the age of the victim. Visitation to the site is projected to reach 3.5 million visitors annually, and a non-profit group is raising funds for a visitor education center. Entrance to the Memorial is free and open 365 days a year.

The third memorial to 9/11 victims is found near Shanksville, Pennsylvania, the Flight 93 National Memorial. There the 40 brave passengers and crew who perished on United Airlines Flight 93 while thwarting a likely attack on the Nation’s capital are memorialized at the Memorial Plaza, a white marble Wall of Names, a visitor center and the Flight Pathway Walkway and Overlook. On September 9, 2018, the Tower of Voices, containing 40 individual wind chimes (one for each victim), was dedicated at the site. The Memorial is operated by the National Park Service with the support of several non-profit support groups, including the Friends of Flight 93. Even with a more remote location that the other two memorials, visitation at the site is growing, with a half million visitors in 2016. The Flight 93 National Memorial is open year round and admission is free.

H.R. 6287, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to award grants, through a competitive process, to tax-exempt, nonprofit organizations for the operation and maintenance of memorials located within the United States established to commemorate the events of, and honor the victims of, the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center, the Pentagon, and United Airlines Flight 93 on September 11, 2001, at the site of the attacks.

H.R. 6287—9/11 Memorial Act

Summary: H.R. 6287 would authorize the appropriation of $25 million a year through 2023 for the Department of the Interior (DOI) to award grants to non-profit organizations for the operation and maintenance of certain memorials to victims of the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001. CBO estimates that implementing the bill would cost $100 million over the 2019–2023 period, assuming appropriation of the authorized amounts.

Enacting the bill would not affect direct spending or revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures do not apply.

CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 6287 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2029.

H.R. 6287 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA).

Estimated cost to the Federal Government: The estimated budgetary effect of H.R. 6287 is shown in the following table. The costs of the legislation fall within budget function 300 (natural resources and environment).

Basis of estimate: For this estimate, CBO assumes that the legislation will be enacted in 2019 and that the authorized amounts will be appropriated each year.

H.R. 6287 would direct DOI to award grants to non-profit organizations whose missions focus on the operation and preservation of memorials that commemorate the events of and honor the victims of the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, at the sites of the attacks. The bill would authorize the appropriation of $25 million annually over the 2019–2023 period for those purposes.

CBO estimates that a limited number of non-profit organizations would be eligible to receive grants. Based on the costs to operate the covered memorials in recent years, CBO estimates that implementing H.R. 6287 would cost $20 million annually and $100 million over the 2019–2023 period. That amount includes costs for DOI to manage the grant applications and awards.

Pay-As-You-Go considerations: None.

Increase in long-term direct spending and deficits: CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 6287 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2029.

Mandates: H.R. 6287 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA.

Estimate reviewed by: Kim P. Cawley, Chief, Natural and Physical Resources Cost Estimates Unit; H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.
