Mr. BARRASSO, from the Committee on Environment and Public Works, submitted the following

R E P O R T

[To accompany S. 2827]

[Including cost estimate of the Congressional Budget Office]

The Committee on Environment and Public Works, to which was referred the bill (S. 2827) to amend the Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall Foundation Act, having considered the same, reports favorably thereon with an amendment in the nature of a substitute and recommends that the bill, as amended, do pass.

GENERAL STATEMENT AND BACKGROUND

The Morris K. Udall Scholarship and Excellence in National Environmental Policy Act of 1992 was signed into law by President Bush on March 19, 1992. The Act established the Morris K. Udall Scholarship and Excellence in National Environmental Policy Foundation (Udall Foundation), so named to honor the career and public service of Morris K. Udall. The Udall Foundation was established for several purposes, including: (1) to award scholarships and fellowships to outstanding students intending to pursue careers in the environment, and internships to outstanding Native Americans and Alaska Native college students intending to pursue careers in health care and tribal public policy; (2) to provide for a panel of experts to meet annually to discuss contemporary environmental issues; and (3) to establish a program for environmental policy research and a program for environmental conflict resolution.

Although originally tasked with establishing a program for environmental dispute resolution, the Udall Foundation lacked the funding and explicit direction to enable it to operate a program that could provide conflict-resolution services. Thus, in 1998, Congress passed the Environmental Policy and Conflict Resolution Act of 1997 to create the United States Institute for Environmental Conflict Resolution (Institute) as part of the Foundation. The Institute provides mediation and related services to help resolve environmental, natural resources, and public lands conflicts that involve the federal government.

On November 4, 2009, President Barack Obama signed into law the Morris K. Udall Scholarship and Excellence in National Environmental Policy Amendments Act of 2009. The Act enhanced the Udall Foundation, and (to honor Stewart L. Udall) officially renamed it the Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall Foundation, the name the Foundation bears today.

Senator John McCain was a steadfast advocate for the Udall Foundation, and instrumental to the legislative creation and expansion of the Foundation and its programs. He was a cosponsor of the Foundation’s enabling legislation in 1992 and the amendments enacted in 2009. Moreover, he introduced the 1997 legislation creating the Institute.

S. 2827, a bill to amend the Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall Foundation Act, authorizes appropriations of $4,000,000 annually through fiscal year 2024 for the Environmental Dispute Resolution Fund to provide funding for the Institute. The legislation also increases the Trust Fund allocation limit for administrative expenses to help support mission activities, makes several changes to the existing statutory language to clarify the authority of the Udall Foundation, and eliminates inconsistencies in language and authority, among other objectives.

A substitute amendment was proposed and accepted during Committee consideration of S. 2827. The substitute amendment modified the name of the Institute to the “John S. McCain III United States Institute for Environmental Conflict Resolution” to honor Senator McCain’s legacy and contributions to the Udall Foundation. In addition, in the underlying legislation, S. 2827, a change was proposed to increase the amount of allowable administrative costs. The substitute amendment modified this proposed increase of administrative costs from the existing statutory ceiling of 15 percent to 17.5 percent, instead of the 20 percent proposed to be authorized to cover such costs in S. 2827 as introduced.

OBJECTIVES OF THE LEGISLATION

The bill authorizes appropriations of $4,000,000 annually through fiscal year 2024 for the Environmental Dispute Resolution Fund to provide funding for the Institute, renamed the Institute the “John S. McCain III United States Institute for Environmental Conflict Resolution” to honor Senator McCain’s legacy and contributions to the Udall Foundation, increases the Trust Fund allocation limit for administrative expenses to help support mission activities, and makes several changes to the existing statutory language to clarify the authority of the Udall Foundation, among other objectives.

Enclosure.

S. 2827—A bill to amend the Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall Foundation Act

Summary: S. 2827 would amend the Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall Foundation Act and reauthorize the appropriation of funds for the Environmental Dispute Resolution Fund and the Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall Trust Fund. CBO estimates that implementing the bill would cost $30 million over the 2019–2023 period and an additional $15 million over the subsequent five years. That spending would be subject to appropriation of the estimated amounts.

The trust fund invests its balances in Treasury obligations, and the interest from those investments is available without further appropriation to support the fund’s activities. Enacting S. 2827 would increase the amounts available for investment and thus increase the interest the trust fund earns and spends. CBO estimates that direct spending would total $2 million over the 2019–2028 period; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures apply. The bill would not affect revenues.

CBO estimates that enacting S. 2827 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits by more than $5 billion in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2029.

S. 2827 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA).

Estimated cost to the Federal Government: The estimated budgetary effects of S. 2827 are shown in the following table. The costs of the legislation fall within budget functions 300 (natural resources and the environment) and 500 (education, training, employment, and social services).
By fiscal year, in millions of dollars—

Basis of estimate: The Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall Foundation is an independent agency of the executive branch. The foundation’s activities are funded by appropriations to the Environmental Dispute Resolution Fund (EDRF) and the Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall Trust Fund. Although the underlying authorizations for those programs have expired, the Congress has continued to appropriate funds for them.

For this estimate, CBO assumes the bill will be enacted near the end of 2018 and that the necessary funds will be appropriated each year. Estimated outlays are based on historical spending patterns.

Spending subject to appropriation

CBO estimates that S. 2827 would authorize the appropriation of $30 million over the 2019–2023 period and an additional $15 million over the subsequent five years. Implementing the bill’s provisions would cost $45 million over the 2019–2028 period, CBO estimates.

Environmental Dispute Resolution Fund. Appropriations for the EDRF are used to support the annual operations of the U.S. Institute for Environmental Conflict Resolution. From 2019 through 2024, S. 2827 would authorize the annual appropriation of $3 million to pay operating costs and $1 million to pay for services to support federal and nonfederal entities in environmental conflict resolution proceedings involving federal agencies. CBO estimates that implementing those provisions would cost $18 million over the 2019–2023 period. The Congress appropriated $3 million for the EDRF for 2019.

Trust Fund. Appropriations to the trust fund are invested in Treasury obligations, with some of the appropriated funds transferred during the year to support the Native Nations Institute for Leadership, Management, and Policy. The rest of the appropriation remains in the fund and the annual interest credited to the fund is available to support various scholarship and fellowship programs.

S. 2827 would not specifically amend the period for which appropriations to the trust fund are authorized. However, the bill would amend other parts of the law that authorizes those activities. As a result, CBO’s estimate is based on the expectation that the Congress intends those activities to continue and thus that S. 2827 would permanently authorize the appropriation of such sums as may be necessary.

The Congress appropriated $2 million to the trust fund to invest in Treasury obligations for fiscal year 2018. Assuming appropriation of a similar amount for 2019, and increasing that amount for expected inflation in future years, CBO estimates that the bill would authorize the appropriation of $10 million over the 2019–2023 period and that outlays would total the same amount over that period.

Direct spending

CBO estimates that enacting S. 2827 would increase direct spending by $2 million over the 2019–2028 period.

Environmental Dispute Resolution Fund. Appropriations for the EDRF would be used to support the annual operations of the U.S. Institute for Environmental Conflict Resolution. As part of its oper-
The institute provides services to and receives payments from federal and nonfederal entities, which are treated as reductions in direct spending. The institute can then spend those payments on additional activities without further appropriation. However, CBO expects that those payments are likely to be spent shortly after they are collected, so enacting S. 2827 would result in a negligible net effect on direct spending by the EDRF.

Trust Fund. The bill would authorize additional appropriations, which the trust fund would invest in Treasury obligations. The interest earned would be used for the trust fund’s activities. Those outlays are classified as direct spending because the fund can spend the interest without further appropriation.

CBO estimates that enacting S. 2827 would authorize the appropriation of $21 million over the 2019–2028 period for the trust fund to invest in Treasury obligations. Based on CBO’s projections of interest rates, the trust fund would earn, and subsequently spend, an additional $2 million over the 2019–2028 period.

Pay-As-You-Go considerations: The Statutory Pay-As-You-Go Act of 2010 establishes budget-reporting and enforcement procedures for legislation affecting direct spending or revenues. CBO estimates that enacting S. 2827 would increase direct spending by an insignificant amount in each fiscal year from 2019 to 2028 and by $2 million over the 2019–2028 period, as shown in the table at the top of page 2.

Increase in long-term direct spending and deficits: CBO estimates that enacting S. 2827 would not increase net direct spending or on-budget deficits by more than $5 billion in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2029.

Mandates: S. 2827 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in UMRA.
